"LADIES and gentlemen," began the man as the sightseeing bus lumbered across Key Bridge, "on your right may be seen the home of Francis Scott Key, illustrious author of 'The Star-Spangled Banner,' after which it is named this bridge."

Necks were craned, and the passengers were rewarded with the view of a drab building which proclaimed itself to be the quarters of a hardware store. Inquiring glances were directed at the guide, but that worthy plunged into a glowing description of Arlington cemetery. Francis Scott Key and the house he lived in were left behind.

History has been impressed upon every street in the older part of Washington and it is the city of forgotten memories. Many historic landmarks have been swept away.

Such is the fate which has befallen the Francis Scott Key house in Georgetown, now remodeled into a store building.

Shortly after 1800, Francis Scott Key moved into the Georgetown house which was his home for thirty years. It was from this house that Key started to rescue William Beanes from death at the hands of the British, and by so doing witnessed the bombardment of Fort M'Henry, which inspired him to write "The Star-Spangled Banner."

When in 1833 the Chesapeake canal was dug directly through the center of his terraced flower garden stretching to the Potomac river, Key abandoned the Georgetown home.

Soon the thoroughfare lost its name and also its residential character. In time it became the main street of Georgetown, lined by unpretentious store buildings.

In this evolution the old house suffered vicissitudes mostly unrecorded. About 1907 the owners decided the place must yield to the demands of trade. To save the dwelling, a memorial association, whose ranks included Admirals Dewey and Schley, was formed. Only $25,000 was needed to rescue the house, but the money, for some reason, was not forthcoming. In 1912 the house was largely torn down, although its shell was used in the erection of two small stores.—Washington Herald.

CONGRESS appropriated $12,000 for the construction of the shrine in which are housed the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution. Of this amount, $7,452.37 was spent. The shrine was dedicated February 23, 1924. It was designed by Francis H. Bacon of Boston and New York. "The background is of grayish black York fossil marble," says the Library of Congress. An upright frame or case with gold-plated bronze doors contains the Declaration. Below and in front of the upright case is a much larger one in the form of a desk with claw feet. It contains the five sheets of the Constitution. In front of this case is a small carved stool, both cases and stool being executed in Asbury pink Tennessee marble quarried near Knoxville, Tenn. Two sheets of plate glass with specially prepared gelatin films between the two plates protect the documents.

READY for the FOURTH

Obsession

ANDY couldn't have told when he first began to be worried about Nora. It might have begun that Fourth of July when so many cars went whizzing by. A lot of them stopped. It is true, and bought cold buttermilk and apple pie from Nora. She had to keep going across the road to the spring to get more buttermilk.

He said to her, "For Heaven's sake, Nora, will you look before you start back? They come down the hill so fast; that last one had to put on his brakes with you in the way."

Nora laughed at him. She said, "Why must you fuss when we are doing so well? Must you always have something to worry about? I'm not a child. Of course I look before I cross the road."

But she didn't. He could swear she didn't. He spent a rainy afternoon laboriously lettering a sign to put at the top of the hill. It said, "DANGER! Steep Hill Ahead. Sharp Curve." But do you think the fools paid any attention to it? They must think he put the sign there for fun, because he didn't have anything better to do.

He spoke of moving the station across the road to the lawn in front of the house, even though the cars couldn't see it from the top of the hill. But Nora wouldn't let him.

He tried to get Nora to stay over at the house and let him manage the stand as well as the pumps.

"But what are you going to do when they begin to pile up on you?" she demanded. "You can't pump gas and hand out buttermilk, too. I don't see what's got into you."

He said, "To heck with them. If they can't wait, they can go on away." She looked at him helplessly. "I don't understand you. You used to be sensible. Are you still worrying about me crossing the road?"

He denied that. "It's just that you ought to be in the house; you have enough work to do there." And he pretended to be disgruntled with the cooking she did in the evening. "You can't make pies so late at night. No wonder they aren't any good."

In August it got terribly hot and the cars came thicker and faster than ever. All night long you heard the roar of them and all day the swish, swish they made against the air. The sound of the cars drowned out the song of the locusts and sent the little wild things scurrying madly into the bush. But nearly every morning he found a small, furry body on the road, lying stiff and still and staring at him with bright, dead eyes. He shuddered thinking of her lying like that looking at him with her brown eyes. And he was short with her and irritable with the customers.

But the bright, white heat of August gave way to the golden glow of September without anything happening to Nora. And he began to think he had been very foolish. After all, he thought, it isn't as if I weren't here to watch over her. He began kidding her again, as he used to do and she was happy once more, convinced that he liked the country and they could go on living here, just the two of them, laughing and kidding and working together.

And so Labor Day came. It was worse than Fourth of July. He got up at six in the morning and by noon he had gassed up more than fifty cars. Business had never been so good before.

He breathed a sigh of relief when by noon she had sold all her buttermilk. She wanted to stay and pump gas while he fixed flats, but he told her roughly to get on over to the house and stay there.

So she went back to the house, walking slowly across the road because she was hurt and mad at him. He held his breath until she was across, then he went on pumping gas. He was so happy he was singing to himself, "There's an old spinning wheel in the parlor..."

He got so tired at the end of the day that he thought he'd drop. In another 15 minutes, he promised himself, he would close the gasoline station and go home. What a profound satisfaction it was that summer was over, Nora was safe, and he had made enough money to keep them comfortably through the winter.

When the fifteen minutes were up, he locked the pumps and the door of the little station. Waving away two cars that were slowing up, he waited for them to pass, then taking his lantern, started across the road.

When she saw the lantern she would put on the steam. Bless her, she was probably watching at the window now. He would be very tender and gentle with her tonight. He would try to make her see how he had felt all summer, because of the way she would run across the road without looking. That was why he had been so sharp with her. Because he loved her.

He noticed how thin and worn the macadam was on the road. They would have to be putting in a cement road soon with all that travel...

He didn't hear the roar of the big truck until it was almost upon him. He looked up just in time to see the driver jump for his hand brake. He jumped too, but not quite far enough. And then he felt a fearful blow and knew that he was down even before he saw the wheels, big, flat, rubber-tired, looming up over him, as he had seen them in the advertisements... as you might see them an instant before they had you.

Appeals to Those of Mature Figure

Capes? Everybody loves them—they've descended upon fashion like April showers. All sorts of capes. In this charming dress the cape influence is minimized, but it is used to advantage. Joining in front like a raglan sleeve, and cut in one with the yoke in back, these cape sleeves give grace and proper proportioning to the mature figure. A small bow, adroitly placed, adds a winsome touch at the bodice. You'll find the cut of the skirt excellent, too. It's a grand dress to make up in a flower print or a solid shear, or in voile or lawn for the heat waves to come. The capes may contrast.

Pattern 9342 may be ordered only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 24, 28, 32, 36, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 requires 3 3/4 yards 39 inch fabric.

SEND FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Complete, diagrammed sew chart included.

Send your order to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West Eighteenth Street, New York.

JUST PALS

"Jackson and Williams had a terrible row last night at the club," said Wilson.

His companion looked surprised. "That's strange," he said. "I thought those two were inseparable." "They were," said Wilson; "it took six of us to drag them apart."

Too True

She—I don't think that women have always been vain. You know, women were made before mirrors.

He—Yes, and they've been before them most of the time since.

Small Help

"Is Von Scribbler's wife of much help to him in his writings?" "Not much. She gets mad and leaves him occasionally, but never stays away for over a week!"

Worse Than That

Son—Dad, is "politics" plural? Dad—No; there isn't anything in the world more singular than politics.

Recreational News

Wednesday afternoon thirty-two joined the nature study hike from Sand Lake, going to the beaver dam on the East Branch of the Au Gres river. Here everyone enjoyed inspecting the work of the beaver. Before returning everyone enjoyed a treat of candy sent by Ray Kendall, who operates a grocery store at Sand Lake. Next week's hike will be east of Sand Lake to the old mill.

Miss Josephine Gates, district supervisor, was a caller at Sand Lake Thursday evening making plans for the construction of a concrete tennis court.

Another new feature added to the recreation program at Sand Lake for the summer months will be Sunday night chapel, held at the Y. M. C. A. Woodland Chapel, June 30th. This service will take place at 8:00 o'clock p. m. L. C. Humes, pastor of the Kawkawlin Community church, has been invited to conduct the first services. Everyone is invited to come to Sand Lake Sunday evening and attend these wonderful services conducted in the Great Out-of-Doors.

Plan to spend the Fourth of July at Sand Lake where recreational activities will be planned for the boys and girls during the afternoon and evening. Complete plans for the day's activities have not been fully arranged, but it is promised that there will be plenty of fun in store for those who attend.

Friday evening the Woodland Theater Guild held their first entertainment at the Sand Lake hall. Over fifty persons were in attendance. Mrs. Louis Besanon had charge of the community singing. A novelty tap dance was given by Rosemary Hickey and Katie May Moss. Beth Russell, Carol Russell and Lucile Besanon sang a novelty song. Following this a balloon blowing contest was held in which the women took part. Mrs. Warren Driver winning first place and Mrs. Helen Russell second. The high point of the evening was a boxing bout between Leonard Besanon of Sand Lake and Curtis Johnston of Whittemore. The fight ended with a decision making Curtis the junior weight champion. The next Woodland Theater night will be held Friday evening, July 5.

Where the President Does His Dirt Farming

PRESIDENT Roosevelt is in a way a real dirt farmer. He spent his childhood, as did his father and his grandfather, on the 1,000 acre farm at Hyde Park, N. Y., and still maintains it, obtaining therefrom all the green stuff and dairy products that his family uses and selling the considerable surplus. This recently taken photograph shows a part of the truck farm. The superintendent of the Hyde Park farm is William Plog, who has been in the employ of the Roosevelts for many years.

SPRING DISHES

WITH the delicious rhubarb, fresh from the garden, one has the best of spring tonics. Cut it into half-inch lengths without peeling and put to bake in a baking dish with sugar to sweeten. Remove from the oven when tender and serve either hot or cold.

Rhubarb Vanity.
Wash and cut the rhubarb without peeling into half-inch pieces, place in a baking dish, adding one cupful of sugar to a pound of rhubarb. Cook covered, over low heat until the juices flow, then uncover and cook until thick. By adding the sugar after the rhubarb is nearly done it will save constant watching. Cool and fold in two well beaten egg whites and three-fourths of a cupful of freshly shredded coconut. Chill before serving with a thin custard, using the yolks of the eggs and one cupful of milk and sugar to sweeten.

Rhubarb Betty.
Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter and add two cupfuls of bread crumbs, mix with one cupful of sugar, one-fourth teaspoonful each of cinnamon and nutmeg, the grated rind of an orange and one cupful of fresh grated coconut or one package of coconut. Place the mixture in layers with three cupfuls of rhubarb, using the juice of the orange sprinkled over the fruit. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake 45 minutes closely covered. Uncover and brown. Serve plain or with a hard sauce or a foamy egg sauce.

FEW HERDS SEEN ON OLD TRAILS

"Longhorns" Shouldered Out by Woolly Flocks.

The western trail herds have not passed, but today they are sheep and not cattle, with numbers driven regularly exceeding the count of the most famous trails.

It's a faux pas, of course, to mention sheep and cattle in one breath (to a cattleman), but the former still are featured in big drives—in fact the business of sheep driving has grown, while cattle are moved by rail.

Cattle lose weight when driven cross country. Cows are valuable not by the hoof, but by the beefsteak, with thick steaks bringing more money. The money crop of sheep is their wool, which can't be walked away.

So today some 300,000 complaining "woolies" are taking the long trek from southern pastures in and about the Salt river valley to northern Arizona, where they will wait out the summer at high altitudes whose ranges are not withered by the desert sun.

The business of trail driving has become a big industry. The government sets aside regular strips for sheep to follow as they go north and as they return south. Some make a round trip of 400 miles. Trails followed are as old as the industry. They are picked originally because of advantages of feed and water, and once set by custom, received governmental sanction. Home-steading or scrip purchase of land in the sheep "strips" is forbidden. The oldest of them recently blossomed out with a shiny new suspension bridge, which sheep weekly cross to avoid wetness and possible quicksand of the Salt river below.

Following the drives demands alertness and sacrifice of herders.

Mountain lions are not a myth, but are plentiful in parts of the sheep range. Wild dog packs are a menace in the Salt river valley, and may kill scores in a night's bloody orgy. Coyotes are present everywhere, vigilant to take stragglers.

BUSTER BEAR IS HUNGRY

BUSTER BEAR was hungry. There wasn't any doubt about that. Danny Meadow Mouse, watching from his hiding place under a little pile of brown leaves in the Green Forest, didn't have to be told that. He had only to watch Buster raking over the leaves on the ground, sniffing among them as he did so, to know that Buster was hungry. What he was hunting for Danny didn't know, but he did know that if a hungry Bear should find a fat Meadow Mouse, well, in about two winks that Bear would be a little less hungry. Knowing that didn't make Danny feel any more comfortable. No, siree, it didn't.

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear me! What- ever did I leave the Green Meadows for?" Danny asked himself over and over as one little chill chased another little chill all over him. "If I ever get back there I'll never, never, go so far away from home again. I never will, I never will," he repeated over and over to himself.

All the time he sat perfectly still. He wouldn't have breathed if he could have helped it, but of course he had to do that. And all the time he kept his bright little eyes fixed on the great black form of Buster Bear as Buster wandered this way and that way in the moonlight sifting down through the tree tops. Perhaps he would have felt a wee bit easier had he known what it was Buster was looking for among the brown leaves. Buster was hunting for beechnuts, of which he is very fond.

But Danny didn't know this. You see, Danny knew very little about Buster Bear. "He's looking for mice. That's what he's looking for. He must have found out from Billy Mink or some one that I am over here, and he's looking for me," thought Danny, and the little chills chased each other all over him faster than ever. You see, he was so frightened that he didn't stop to really think.

Sometimes Buster would go off to one side until Danny couldn't see him among the trees, and he would begin to hope. But if he couldn't see Buster he could hear Buster's great claws raking and raking over the leaves, and it seemed to him the most awful sound he ever had heard. Then Buster would come back in his direction and the little chills would make Danny shake so that his teeth chattered. Danny Meadow Mouse was frightened. Yes, indeed, Danny Meadow Mouse was very much frightened.

At last, Buster Bear, having raked over all the leaves all about, looked straight at the little pile under which

The Kitchen Table

By ANNE CAMPBELL

SHE sits with heavy heart, and watchful eyes— An angel banished from her Paradise. The sale proceeds . . . Her treasures one by one. Are purchased for a song by kindly neighbors. She sees the couch go, where her oldest son Lay till released from earth's purposeful labors. There is a chair, a chest of drawers. . . . Unable To buy, she longs most for the kitchen table.

For it was at the kitchen table she Was blessed most by her home's tranquility; Here she has bent, and rolled the flaky crust For pies, and stirred up cakes and cookies . . . Here Many a hasty luncheon has been thrust Down eager throats . . . Speech, intimate and dear, Took place around this table made of pine, So homely was its use—but half divine!

For finer treasure cannot stir her thought As this does . . . All the furniture she bought Long, long ago is carried from the door. She does not grieve for it. . . . Her dreams remain Around a kitchen table, where once more The children gather, doing sums again . . . And she, engrossed in happy memory, Smiles at her husband o'er a cup of tea.

QUESTION BOX
by ED. WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:
My father gave me a new gun for my birthday. I want to use it right away as my vacation starts next week. I am thinking of going to the woods in Pennsylvania. Is the hunting good there?
Sincerely,
IKE N. SHOOT.

Answer: It sure is. In fact, it is better than the finding, but not as good as the voting.
© Associated Newspapers, WNU Service.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am the father of a girl nineteen years of age. I do not permit her to stay out at night, but allow her to have her boy friends at home. There is one boy who comes to see her every night. For two months my gas bills have been very large, but this month the bill is very small. The same boy comes to see my daughter, so how do you account for the difference in bills?
Sincerely,
SIM PILLTON.

Answer: There're engaged now.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
This afternoon, as I was looking out my back window, I saw an old hen of mine eating a lot of tacks. What did she do that for and what shall I do about it?
Yours truly,
CHICK N. FEED.

Answer: Don't do anything about it; just watch her, maybe she is going to lay a carpet.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am a boy eighteen years of age and my ambition is to be a detective.

TIRES MAY LOOK ALIKE ON THE OUTSIDE ON THE INSIDE THEY ARE DIFFERENT

HEAT on the inside created by friction is the main cause of blowouts. Firestone Tires are different on the inside—they are built with the patented extra process of Gum-Dipping that soaks every cord and insulates every strand with pure liquid rubber, preventing internal friction and heat. No other make of tire is Gum-Dipped. Firestone performance records again emphasize the undisputed evidence that Firestone Tires are not only blowout-proof, but give greatest protection against skidding. There are three questions and answers that will solve the problem of what tires to buy:

QUESTION 1—"Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"
ANSWER—Recent tests by a leading University show that Firestone High Speed Non-Skid Tires stop a car 15% quicker than any other of the leading makes. For eight consecutive years Firestone Tires have been on the winning car in the dangerous Pike's Peak Race where a skid means death. This is undisputed evidence that Firestone gives car owners greatest protection against skidding.

QUESTION 2—"Are they blowout-proof?"
ANSWER—Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have the most amazing records for being blowout-proof of any tires ever built. In the gruelling 500-Mile Race at Indianapolis, May 30th, every one of the 33 cars was equipped with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. Not one of the 33 drivers had any tire trouble of any kind.

Ab Jenkins drove his 5,000 pound car on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires over the hot salt beds of Utah, 3,000 miles at 127.2 miles per hour, with temperatures as high as 120°, without tire trouble of any kind. These are most amazing proofs of blowout protection ever known.

QUESTION 3—"Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"
ANSWER—Firestone High Speed Tires not only give you more than 50% longer wear, but also lowest cost per mile due to the tough, wear-resisting tread built with higher shoulders and a wider, flatter contour. This rugged tread is held securely to the Gum-Dipped cord body by Firestone's patented construction of two extra layers of cords under the tread, a special construction feature not used in any other tire. Unequalled mileage records by thousands of car owners add undisputed evidence of longer wear and greater economy of Firestone High Speed Tires

You Always Get Better Quality at No Higher Price when You Buy a Firestone Tire with the Firestone Name and Guarantee

1 University tests show Firestone tires stop cars 15 to 25% quicker.

2 Gum-Dipped cords give greater blowout protection. Gum-Dipping is not used in other tires.

3 Wider, flatter tread gives more than 50% longer non-skid wear.
