TAWAS DOWNS GLADWIN TEAM IN 11 INNINGS

Local Squad Hard Pressed But Comes Through For 7-6 Victory

Gladwin put up a hard struggle at the athletic field here Sunday before going down to defeat at the hands of Tawas, 7-6. The contest went eleven innings and was interesting and exciting from start to finish. Many sparkling plays were made in the field by both teams.

Indications pointed to a wild and woolly affair when, in the first frame, Gladwin scored three runs and the Tawas boys came through with four. Ruthel's infield hit, Uruski's single and Anchor's infield hit filled the bases for Gladwin, and after Dull forced Ruthel at home Ballmar singled to score Uruski and Anchor. Dull crossed the plate when Anderson elected to play for Adams at first, after scooping up his slow grounder, to account for the visitors' third run of the inning. Roach was safe on an error to start the locals' half of the same frame. Mark singled and stole second base. Cunningham grounded to short and was safe on a fielder's choice when Anchor tried unsuccessfully to throw out Roach at the plate. Cunningham stole second and scored behind Mark when Anderson singled. Anderson stole second, advanced to third on Laidlaw's sacrifice and scored on M. Lixey's infield out. Davis grounded out to end the rally.

Gladwin went into the lead in the third frame when singles by Ballmar and Adams, Schulling's double and singles by Frye and Hammon netted the visitors three runs and made the score 4-1 in their favor. Tawas cut down this lead by one run in the fourth when Boudier singled and stole second and Quick doubled to send him across the plate. The locals knotted the count in the fifth. Cunningham singled, went to second on Anderson's sacrifice, and advanced another base on Laidlaw's single. Laidlaw stole second and M. Lixey walked to fill the sacks. Davis fanned for the second out. Boudier was hit by a pitched ball, forcing Cunningham across with the tying run. Quick then grounded out, short to first, to retire the side.

The two teams battled on even terms for five more innings, neither scoring during that time. Then came the eleventh, and final frame. Gladwin went down without tallying. Quick, who had been hitting the ball hard all afternoon, led off in the locals' half with a two-bagger to left. Moeller, sent in to bat for Roach, dropped a Texas league double between the second baseman and right fielder but Quick, unable to

Williamson--Preston
Miss Mable Julia Williamson, daughter of Mrs. Louise Williamson of Flint, and John Martin Preston, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Preston of this city, were quietly married Sunday afternoon, July 21, at 4 p. m. The ceremony took place on the lawn at the H. M. Preston home in this city with Rev. McKinny of Evansville, Ind., cousin of the bride, officiating. The bridal couple were attended by Miss Lucille Williamson and Elmer Preston. The wedding march was played by Edward Martin.

The bride was gowned in a white lace dress and carried a bouquet of tea roses, sweet peas and baby's breath. The bridesmaid was attired in flowered chiffon and carried a bouquet of pink roses.
A reception and dinner for forty guests was held at the Hotel Isoco after the ceremony, with guests present from Detroit, Battle Creek, Flint, Alabaster and Evansville, Ind. The bridal couple left on a week's motor trip through northern Michigan. They will make their home in Flint, where both are employed by the Flint Journal.

Public Address System Installed At Tawasville

A public address system has recently been installed at Tawasville. The set-up is especially advantageous on amateur night each Thursday, when participants present their acts over the system.
The first amateur night performance took place Thursday evening of this week, and from all indications this weekly event will be a popular affair. The first and second place winners of the first four weeks will compete on the fifth Thursday for a grand prize.

Jack Mark Wins Local Tennis Tournament

The Tawas division of the Detroit News novice tennis tournament ended yesterday when Jack Mark won from Robin Gregory by a score of 6-2, 6-3 in the finals.

The tournament is the first in this vicinity, other than those for strictly high school students, and started two weeks ago with thirty-two tennis players from the two towns entering the first round. All but two of the matches were played on the Tawas City cement court and the recent rains prevented the tournament from being run off as fast as was expected. Much good tennis was displayed and many of the matches that show one-sided scores were actually much more evenly played than the scores indicate, long duce games being common. There were comparatively few defaults.

In the semi-finals on Wednesday, Jack Mark won from George Staudacher and Robin Gregory won from Nathan Barkman by identical scores, 6-4, 6-2. Both sets were hard fought.

The interest shown in the tournament will no doubt prompt further tournaments this season, and it is predicted that the 1936 entry list for the trip to Detroit will at least double the 1935 enrollment. Jack Mark and Robin Gregory, both finalists in the local tournament, will play in Detroit at Waterworks Park on August 3rd.

The complete tournament score follows:

First Round—Geo. Staudacher defeated John Brugger, 6-1, 6-1; Arnold McLean defeated Jack Coyle, 8-6, 6-2; Thomas Metcalf defeated Harold Staudacher, 6-3, 6-4; Ed. Klenow defeated N. Haight, 6-0, 6-0; William Murray defeated John King, 6-4, 6-4; Stewart Roach defeated Mark Sedgeman, 6-4, 7-5; Vernon Davis defeated Bill Roach, 6-4, 6-0; Jack Mark defeated Edward Martin, 6-0, 6-0; Robin Gregory defeated H. Cholger, 6-2, 3-1; Charles Edinger defeated Robert Mark, 6-3, 7-5; George Laidlaw defeated J. F. Mark, 6-4, 6-4; Bill Musolf defeated Phil Mark, 6-2, 6-0; Nathan Barkman defeated Earl Davis, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3; Russell Klenow defeated Charles Bennington, 6-1, 7-5; James Berzhinski defeated Richard King, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4; George Bergevin defeated Herman Bird, 6-2, 6-2.

Second Round—G. Staudacher defeated A. McLean, 6-3, 6-3; Thomas Metcalf defeated E. Klenow, 7-5, 5-7, 6-2; Jack Mark defeated V. Davis, 6-0, 6-0; R. Gregory defeated Charles Edinger, 6-3, 6-1; G. Laidlaw defeated W. Musolf, 6-0, 6-4; S. Roach defaulted to W. Murray; R. Klenow defaulted to N. Barkman; G. Bergevin defaulted to J. Berzhinski.

Quarter-Finals—G. Staudacher defeated T. Metcalf, 6-2, 6-4; Jack Mark defeated W. Murray, 6-0, 6-1; R. Gregory defeated G. Laidlaw, 6-1, 6-4; N. Barkman defeated J. Berzhinski, 6-2, 6-2.

Semi-Finals—Jack Mark defeated G. Staudacher, 6-4, 6-2; R. Gregory defeated N. Barkman, 6-4, 6-2.
Final—Jack Mark defeated Robin Gregory, 6-2, 6-3.

FERA WORK PROJECTS END YESTERDAY

Only Few Projects Affected By Termination Of Relief Program

Iosco county is one of the 49 Michigan counties in which FERA work projects ended Thursday, and by August 22 the order will extend to the remaining counties of the state. Nearby counties included in the order which went into effect yesterday are: Alpena, Ogemaw, Gladwin and Montmorency.

It is thought that loss of employment through discontinuance of FERA work relief will soon be remedied by the new Work Progress Administration programs. Applications are being made for several WPA projects in Iosco county.

Only a few projects in Iosco county were affected by the termination of the FERA work relief program. A large portion of the projects had been completed. The following were completed during the past few days: The Tawas City sewerage disposal plant, pumping station and sanitary system projects.

The East Tawas sewerage disposal plant, pumping station and improvements to sanitary system.

HUGO T. SWANSON TO HEAD SCHOOL IN UPPER PENINSULA Was Superintendent At East Tawas For Six Years

Hugo T. Swanson, for the past six years superintendent of the East Tawas public school system, leaves August 1st to accept the fine position as superintendent of schools at Norway, Michigan.

This recognition of Mr. Swanson's ability as a school manager is a fine tribute to one who has done so much for the East Tawas school. During Mr. Swanson's time in East Tawas the public school system saw its highest development. He introduced an efficient cost accounting system, cooperated closely with the board, and placed the school on a sound financial basis. Under Mr. Swanson a new department of home arts was established, the chemical laboratory was remodeled and furnished with the most modern equipment. The entire school building was remodeled and newly furnished to the point where the school ranks high as a complete educational unit. Mr. Swanson, through his fine relations with the University of Michigan, the Michigan State College, and the Department of Public Instruction, created and maintained a fine spirit of cooperation between these institutions and the local school. Through the landscape department of Michigan State College he secured and completed a landscape plan for the school grounds. He secured many fine speakers from many parts of the state. School athletics were maintained on a strictly sportsman-like basis and with the fine cooperation of Coaches Hogan and Youngs athletics have risen to a high standard. Four athletic trophies and three debating trophies have been awarded.

Tawas Protest Of Twining Ball Game Is Not Allowed

Tawas' protest of its game with Twining Sunday, July 7, was not allowed by the league directors at a meeting held in Standish Monday evening. Manager Laidlaw of the Tawas team had made his protest on the grounds that a runner was called out at home plate when the Twining catcher dropped the ball while tagging him, and also that the Twining catcher continued to play after being ordered out of the game.

In the case of the dropped ball W. Johnson, Twining umpire who made the decision, stated that the ball had been held "momentarily" although it escaped the catcher while the runner was being tagged and rolled a few feet away, and called the runner out. The directors would not refute the decision, stating that it was a matter of umpire's judgment and could not be overthrown by them. Tawas, however, claimed that it was not a matter of judgment but a misinterpretation of the rules, and this it was. Rule 49, Section 9, states that a ball must be held firmly after touching the runner, and cannot be dropped or juggled. Furthermore, since there was a question as to whether Tawas could legally protest on that ground, Rule 56 states that a team may appeal an umpire's decision which is in violation of the rules or any section thereof.

In the case where the catcher remained in the game after being ordered out by the base umpire, Chas. Moeller, the directors would not uphold his judgment. They claimed he did not act according to the rules in evicting the player.

The Tawas delegation at the meeting put up a lone, although unsuccessful, argument in an effort to get its protest through, especially on the point of the dropped ball. The local players believe that upholding the decision in this case may have a tendency to encourage poor umpiring throughout the league. The protest will have to be dropped, however, as the directors incorporated a clause in their motion prohibiting any further appeal of this particular game.

Two other protests were disposed of the same evening. The Bertley protest of its game with AuGres July 4 was allowed to the extent that the game may be replayed providing so doing might cause a difference in the two teams' standings. Gladwin's protest of Sunday's 11-inning game with Tawas was not allowed because the directors felt they could not overthrow an umpire's decision.

State Farm Bureau Praises Work Of Rep. Holbeck

Honorable Fred C. Holbeck, East Tawas, Michigan, Dear Representative Holbeck: The officers and members of the Michigan State Farm Bureau deeply appreciate the fine service you rendered to farmers as well as the entire state during the legislative session just closed.

Your efforts to secure an income tax and other tax reforms needed by agriculture were outstanding, and there were many other ways by which you demonstrated day by day your desire to help the farming industry.

Your record, as reported to us by Mr. Newton, is one of which you may well be proud, and I am sure it will be favorably remembered by farmers everywhere.

Sincerely yours,
C. L. Brody,
Executive Secretary.

'SAUK' AND 'E' WIN WEEK END SAILING RACES

Six Boats Participated In Point Races Saturday and Sunday

Hubert Smith's 'Sauk' won the second point race held on Tawas bay, leading the 'Gamble' sailed by J. H. Nisbet in second place. The 'E' skippered by John MacNaughton was third. She was trailed by the 'Arab' sailed by Clare Dessenbury. The 'Dale' and 'Sero' did not finish.
A steady south breeze prevailed at the start of the race. The 'Gamble' was first over the line. She was followed by the 'E', 'Sauk', 'Dale', 'Arab' and 'Sero'. The 'E' worked through the 'Gamble's' lee while the 'Sauk' passed her to windward. Other positions were maintained on the run to the Tawas Beach buoy.

The 'Sauk', the 'E' and the 'Sero' elected to take a long stretch southward on the beat to the can. The 'Arab', 'Dale' and 'Gamble' took the shore course trying to avoid heavy seas. The 'Sauk' turned the can buoy first, followed by the 'E', 'Gamble', 'Dale', 'Arab' and 'Sero'. A severe squall was sighted off East Tawas. Balloons were out of the question. The 'Sauk' rounded the Tawas City buoy and took a shore stretch to beat against the wind which had changed to the north. The 'E' preferred to sail out in the bay. The 'Gamble' took the shore course for the beat. Again the wind shifted slightly. The 'Sauk' finished first. The 'Gamble' got the second gun. The 'E' was third and the 'Arab' fourth.

Sunday's Race
The third point race was won by the new Pouliot class boat, 'E', sailed by John MacNaughton. The boats were off to a nice start (Turn to No. 4, Back Page)

The comedy role of Banks, manager of the Shelton Hotel, will be played by Henry Kane, while his slightly befuddled secretary, Egbert Twist, will be Arland Bigelow. Their attempts to manage the Shelton Hotel will prove a revelation to hotel owners, and a source of endless laughter for the audience. Alice Richards and Dick Marshall, the young people with an interest in the hotel, and incidentally, in each other, will be played by Clara Bolen and Fred Wilson. Billy and Billie, the bell hop and the maid, who are victims of Banks' system of never paying any of his help, are Walter Green and Elsie Ahonen. Other characters will appear as follows: Mrs. Sylvester, the sweet and slightly gossipy old lady, Mrs. J. N. Dilworth; Mr. Weldon, who schemes to get the

New Deal Badly Hurt by Ruling That AAA Processing Taxes Are Unconstitutional—Democratic Senators Score Schall of Minnesota.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© Western Newspaper Union.

TWO to one against the New Deal was the week's score in Federal court decisions. The administration suffered severely. The Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati first held unconstitutional the condemnation of land by the PWA for slum clearance. Then the Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston dealt the AAA a terrific blow by declaring unconstitutional the processing and flour taxes. The one favorable decision was by the Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans and was that the sale of cheap electric power by the Tennessee Valley authority was constitutional.

Harold Ickes, who is PWA administrator, said the slum clearance work would be carried on, though necessarily in modified form. But Chester Davis, AAA administrator, openly admitted that "the end of the processing taxes would mean the end of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in all its important aspects." He would not confess that he believed for a minute the Supreme court would confirm the ruling of the court at Boston. He asserted he had expected that decision to be adverse, saying: "That section around Boston is a hotbed of resistance to the processing taxes. Why, it's right up there among all those cotton manufacturers." This was most extraordinary comment from a high government official, but the Appeals court in Boston has not yet cited Davis for contempt.

Most well informed and unbiased persons have never believed the processing taxes would stand up under court test. The Guffey coal bill has some similar features, so that those who debate it should read these paragraphs in the Boston decision:

"The power of congress to regulate interstate commerce does not authorize it to do so by taxing products either of agriculture or industry before they enter interstate commerce, or otherwise to control their production merely because their production may indirectly affect interstate commerce."

"The issue is not, as the government contended, whether congress can appropriate funds for any purpose deemed by congress in furtherance of the 'general welfare,' but whether congress has any power to control or regulate matters left to the state and lay a special tax for that purpose."

Several hundred suits to enjoin collection of the processing taxes have been filed in Federal courts by processors. If they pay the taxes and the act is held unconstitutional by the Supreme court, they will not be able to recover, under a provision of the pending amendments prohibiting recovery suits against the government.

DROPPING all their rebellious indignation, the Democrats of the house did everything the administration wished in considering the social security bill as altered by the senate. The conferees had settled all differences after two weeks of hard work, but one of the amendments they accepted was that permitting private pension systems to function under the measure. The majority members of the house were informed that President Roosevelt was opposed to this, so they refused to accept it. The senate would not permit the elimination of the amendment, so back to conference went the bill.

THOMAS D. SCHALL, the blind senator from Minnesota, has been one of the sharpest tongued critics of the administration in the senate. Recently he described President Roosevelt as a "megalomaniac," and, though the word was subsequently eliminated from the Record, the Democratic senators were decidedly miffed. So a little later Senators Robinson, Black and Bone found opportunity to tell Schall what they think of him and to demand that he conform to the rules of "decency."

The argument started when Schall had read by a clerk an editorial from a Texas editor, and an address of his own—all critical of the administration. Robinson protested. He asserted "when one whose moral obligations are so great as are those of the senator from Minnesota, it becomes necessary for some one to object." He added Schall "cannot shield himself behind an unfortunate affliction."

The Schall speech said President Roosevelt was imitating Mussolini, and that Ben Cohen, an administration aid and bill drafter, had "assumed the legislative functions usurped by the Executive."

Robinson called Schall the "misrepresentative from Minnesota" and expressed the opinion the senator had "employed" some one to write his speeches.

"It is small business and only could be done by a man of small mentality," said the Arkansas senator.

Replying, Schall said, "If the people knew what was behind this government they would not stand for it a minute."

SENDING floods of telegrams to senators or representatives for or against pending legislation will not be so effective in the future, as a result of the disclosures before the senate lobby investigators. They heard evidence to the effect that large numbers of telegrams against the utilities bill were sent from Warren, Pa., by an employee of the Associated Gas and Electric system, that the messages were signed with names taken from a city directory and that the originals were destroyed at Warren.

The senate committee, evidently planning a nation-wide inquiry, asked the Western Union Telegraph company to prohibit the destruction of any messages transmitted during the last year, and officials of the company promised to co-operate.

TWENTY months of apparently futile moves to revitalize the commercial relations between the United States and Russia, and then suddenly Washington announces that the two nations had concluded a one-year trade agreement under which the Soviet Republics agreed to increase their American imports by 150 per cent. In return for purchase of $30,000,000 worth of American goods Russia is to be granted wide tariff concessions by the United States.

Russia will buy railroad equipment, machinery for making new automobile models and other products of heavy industry. In addition the Soviets will buy cotton. The railroad equipment is needed badly for modernization of a weak transportation system.

In return Russia expects to sell sausage casings, certain grades of iron ore, manganese, furs and dairy products in large quantities to the United States.

The pact, concluded by the exchange of notes between Ambassador Bullitt in Moscow and Maxim Litvinov, commissar for foreign affairs, provides for no further loans to Russia and makes no mention of the more than $700,000,000 in debts contracted by former Russian governments. It is in line with Secretary Hull's policy of trade agreements. For these two reasons especially it is attacked by many Republicans and not a few Democrats in congress. Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada was one of the angriest of these gentlemen. He declared Secretary Hull was a "prize diplomatic dupe" and announced that he would demand an immediate modification of the reciprocal tariff act to rescind powers under which Hull is negotiating such treaties. Key Pittman, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, also is earnestly opposed to Hull's trade program.

SENATOR J. HAMILTON LEWIS of Illinois, a member of the foreign relations committee, long has urged that Great Britain be persuaded to cede to the United States her island possessions in the Caribbean sea in payment of her war debt. The other day he was moved to bring the subject up again and delivered an interesting speech in the senate. This time he based his proposal upon the "peace offer" of England to cede a portion of her territory in Somaliland to Ethiopia, which in turn would cede certain territory to Italy with a view of averting the impending war between those countries.

The senator also suggested that England surrender all rights she claims to privileges of constructing a Nicaraguan canal, recalling, as a precedent, that England compelled France to yield all claims to territory adjacent to the Suez canal.

The British Islands in the West Indies, the senator said, are both useful as defense and necessary as protection for the United States. They "could be seized in time of war between nations fighting among themselves to possess the Caribbean and Southern seas. They could be used as the backyard of the United States from which supplies could be stored to be used in assault on America."

CHARLES TAUSSIG, who had served the administration for two years without official title or position, has been appointed chairman of the advisory committee of the National Youth Administration. In announcing the creation of the NYA the President allocated to it $50,000,000 of work-relief funds.

EMPEROR HAILE SELASSIE appeared before the Ethiopian parliament and made an impassioned appeal to his countrymen to fight Italy to the death, declaring he had prepared himself to die in the contest if need be.

"Ethiopia knows how to fight to preserve its independence and its sovereignty," he said.

"Soldiers! Follow the example of your warrior ancestors. Soldiers! Traders! Peasants! Young and old, men and women: Unite to face the invader! Your sovereign will be among you and will not hesitate to give his blood for the independence of his country."

Though the League of Nations council was scheduled to meet for consideration of the Italo-Ethiopian quarrel between July 25 and August 2, there were indications that the European nations were about ready to abandon Ethiopia to its fate and that if "The Lion of Judah" doesn't give in completely, Mussolini will be permitted to have his way with him. That probably will mean a long guerrilla warfare the details of which will not be pleasant reading.

Newspapers of northern Italy intimated that Premier Mussolini might abandon his projected war with Ethiopia if he could find a way of backing out without losing face. But the Roman public was quite sure the duke's aggressive policy would be unimpaird. This opinion was strengthened by the sending of more troops to East Africa.

Secretary of State Hull entered the picture again with a rather mild statement expressing America's abhorrence of war and confidence in the Kellogg pact. The Italians didn't like this at all.

SENATOR HUEY LONG has the political fate of his chief opponent, Mayor T. Semmes Walmesley of New Orleans, in the palm of his hand. But he is forcing the people of the city to put the mayor out. A majority of Walmesley's followers, tired of the conflict, formally deserted him when the commission council adopted a resolution endorsing recent statements of two commissioners calling for the city to make peace with Long. The mayor, standing almost alone, declined to yield. He told the council he "would not deal with men who have been called 'crooks and thieves' by every member of the commission council."

In a caucus preceding the council session, 13 of Walmesley's 17 ward leaders voted for his resignation "for the good of the city." The mayor told them he was "going to stick from h-1 to breakfast."

WHEN Chinese rivers overflow they do the thing in a big way. The Han, which joins the Yangtze near Hankow, broke through the dikes and rushed through the densely populated land, drowning about 10,000 men, women and children.

UNOFFICIALLY and informally, the general opinion seems to be that the Wagner labor disputes act is unconstitutional and will be so declared by the United States Supreme court when that tribunal is called on for a decision. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, urges labor leaders to pay no attention to claims that the law is invalid.

"Leading legal authorities of the nation are of the opinion that the act is Constitutional in every respect," he wrote, but added in a letter that he expects a court test and that the American Federation of Labor will get "the best legal talent."

Even if the Wagner law is knocked out by the Supreme court, the administration believes it has a plan that will avert at least 90 per cent of the usual number of strikes, walk-outs, lock-outs and other disorders. It is being launched in Toledo, Ohio, and has been called the "Toledo plan" because it was conceived by Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady when he was trying to settle a dispute in that Ohio city.

It has no sectional characteristics; carries no federal compulsion, and rests solely upon the willingness of workers and employers in every city that adopts the plan, to abandon the harsh economic weapons of old and substitute peaceful discussion for violence.

Here again Green throws a monkey-wrench into the machinery. He says the A. F. of L. will not co-operate in promoting the McGrady plan because it provides that the mediation panels would include on the labor side representatives of company unions and of independent and rival unions. Under Green's leadership the policy of the A. F. of L. evidently is all for the federation, or nothing for anyone.

WITH the approval of the house labor committee a new bill intended to replace the NRA was brought forward in congress, but its chances of passage at this session were small. It would create a federal commission to obtain a federal license, an industry would be compelled to:

Work employees not more than 30 hours a week, provide wages adequate for "a decent and comfortable standard of living," accept collective bargaining, outlaw dealings with parties to "yellow dog" contracts and ban workers under sixteen years of age and convict or forced labor.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

DANNY IS GLAD HIS TAIL IS SHORT

MANY, many times, Danny Meadow Mouse had envied his cousins, Whitefoot the Woodmouse, Nimble Heels the Jumping Mouse, and Nibbler the House Mouse, because of their long tails. It used to seem to him that Old Mother Nature had been very unfair in giving him such a homely, short, stubby tail. If there was any one thing he would have had if he could, it would have been a long tail. The truth is, Danny used to be ashamed of that short tail.

But he isn't any more. No, sir, Danny Meadow Mouse wouldn't have that tail of his any different now if he could. He has learned one of life's great lessons, which is that those things which sometimes seem the least to be desired are the greatest blessings. He learned it that night when he played hide and seek with Buster Bear, deep in the Green Forest.

Buster Bear is a very clever fellow. There are few who use their wits as

"Never Never Again," Thought Danny, "Will I Envy Anyone a Long Tail."

Buster uses his. It didn't take him long to realize that never in the world would he be able to catch Danny Meadow Mouse by simply chasing him round and round the trunk of that tree. As soon as he did realize it he stopped and sat up to think. Now, while that tree was big, it wasn't so big that Buster couldn't reach quite half way round it, for Buster has a long reach. An idea came to him and his little eyes snapped and he grinned wickedly. "I'll give that Mouse a surprise," thought he.

So Buster stole softly close up to the tree on the other side of which poor little Danny Meadow Mouse crouched, wondering what would happen next. Very softly and carefully Buster reached around the tree with one big paw and brought it down swiftly. It came down right on the very tip end of Danny's little short tail. Had that tail been an inch longer,

QUESTION BOX

by ED WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am a boy twelve years old, and am in the ninth grade in school. In my English lesson for next week I must write an essay in which I have to use three words, meaning the direct opposite to the following three words: "Misery," "Sorrow," and "Woe." I know the opposite to "misery" is "happiness," and I know the opposite to "sorrow" is "Joy," but the other word sticks me. Will you please tell me the opposite to "woe"?

DICK SHONARY.
Answer: I am surprised, a boy of your age, doesn't know that the opposite to "woe" is "giddy-dap."

Dear Mr. Wynn:
Would you be kind enough to tell me the best way to remove paint?
Yours truly,
I. STAINESAY.
Answer: Sit on it.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
Will you kindly settle a dispute for us? In our town there is a strike on the trolley car line and the cars are being run by incompetent men, with the result there have been several accidents. What we want to know is this: "In case of an accident, what is the first duty of the conductor and the motorman?"
Truly yours,
VIOLET RAYS.
Answer: In case of an accident the first duty of the conductor and the motorman is to blame it on each other.

Dear Mr. Wynn:
After a wedding ceremony the minister generally says: "I now pronounce you 'one.'" My mother always says that she and papa are "ten." How does she make that out?
Truly yours,
SUE PERFLUOUS.
Answer: Your mother probably figures that she is "one" and your father it "nothing."

Dear Mr. Wynn:
I am a boy nine years old and my then, in the midst of his fright, he was thankful to Old Mother Nature for having given him that short tail. Its shortness was all that had saved his life and he knew it.

"Never, never again," thought Danny, "will I envy anyone a long tail. Cousin Whitefoot's tail may be handsomer than mine, but if Cousin Whitefoot had been in my place he would be right in Buster Bear's stomach this very minute, and it would have been all because of his long tail."

Then Danny began to look about him hurriedly in the hope of finding a hiding place, for Buster Bear had seen where Danny had gone and was coming to try that same trick over again.

PICNIC MEALS

OPEN-AIR meals are in order now until the snow flies. These picnic meals may be of the simplest, but be sure that there is plenty of whatever it is, for there is nothing that encourages appetite like a good long walk or ride in the fresh air.

The perfect picnic always supposes a fire, where things can be heated or cooked, and there are few Scouts or Campfire girls who cannot prepare one in a short time. The building of a fireplace to roast the potatoes or corn and boil the water for the frankfurters is an accomplishment that most of the youth of today take as a matter of course.

If the fire is to be made on the beach, a trench is dug to make a fire-box. Then the true sportsman will see that every bit of debris and all embers are burned and buried before leaving the campfire.

threading the slices on green twigs, or cook steak in a camp frying pan or on a piece of sheet iron. A few trips will give one a good idea of the things needed and the collection will last for a long time, with care.

One may eat and digest very hearty foods when out of doors. Fried potatoes, broiled wienewurst or frankfurters cooked in boiling water are so good in bread and butter sandwiches with a slice of mild onion. Eggs scrambled make a nice dish. To roast sweet potatoes one must use the following directions carefully: Wash the potatoes carefully and wrap them in green leaves or wet brown paper, then bury them in hot ashes and cover with coals and burning wood. In 40 minutes try them with a sharp stick. As soon as they are soft remove from the wrappings and eat with plenty of butter while piping hot. This same method is used for Irish potatoes.

Cape Cod Again Echoes to Ring of Town Crier's Bell

Provincetown Revives Custom of Puritan Days.

Washington.—Provincetown, Mass., down on the tip of salty Cape Cod, once again echoes to the ring of the town crier's bell. The board of trade has revived a custom, dating from early Puritan days, that had lapsed with the demise of the last crier a few years ago.

"Town criers have long served the place of newspapers in many of the remote settlements of the world," says the National Geographic society at Washington, D. C. "Should a villager wish to advertise the loss of a pig, the need of farm help, or the sale of fish, this bell-ringing hawk is consulted and hired. Should he wish to hear the latest news, however raucously announced, of current domestic or foreign events, he joins the audience with in earshot of the booming-voiced town crier."

"Sunday, after church services, is an ideal time for the crier in one European village. In a communication to the National Geographic society, Margery Rae describes the methods of the town crier in Mezokovesd, a village not far from Budapest, Hungary. Two gendarmes took their places on opposite sides of the large square in front of the church and began to beat a vigorous tattoo on their drums. From the church the people gathered in two crowds about these officials, who drew forth important-looking documents and began their reading.

News and Want Ads.

"It is an education and a revelation to hear the news of Mezokovesd," the writer continues. "A cow was lost on Tuesday. If anyone has found her, let him report to the town headquarters. There was a long list of farms to rent and sell; plows to rent, servants to hire. The usual monthly wage of the servants is seldom more than a dollar added to certain supplies and their needed clothing. It is sufficient, no doubt; their wants are few. Any national news of importance is told; new laws are read. It is an amusingly terse, clear effort."

"Mannerisms of the stage are part of the crier's stock in trade. He imparts dignity to his calling by various methods—standing immobile with hands thrust deep into his pockets, awaiting silence among his hearers. A frown of importance may cross his forehead; an impatient gesture is achieved by placing his hands on his hips as he surveys the audience that is quite at his mercy. Not until he is entirely satisfied that the assemblage is sufficiently impressed with his high office does he begin to deliver his message. Herbert Corey also describes a crier who announced the presentation of a motion picture in the Spanish town of Puigcerda:

"He registered emotion. His voice soared until it reached an oratorical climax, and then dropped to low and thrilling tones as he dwelt upon the pathos of the marvelous film. We who waited fairly hung on his words. There is an art in town crying."

Gathers an Audience.

"Nearby, at Seo de Urgel, the Spanish diocese town of the tiny state of Andorra atop the Pyrenees, the town crier gathers an audience by blowing on his trumpet. 'Watermelons for sale at the first house south of the church,' shouts the crier, in a small mountain village on the Island of Sardinia. He attracts a quaintly garbed crowd by blowing a shrill blast on a brass horn.

"Among thousands of Englishwomen who carried on while their menfolk followed the colors in the World war, one took her father's place as the town crier of Theford. Robin Hood's bay, on the bold headlands of Yorkshire, has its town crier even today.

"Walter Smith, who preceded the newly appointed crier of Provincetown, insisted on a three-pound bell. It was,

Breeds Millions of Stingless Bees

Cape May Court House, N. J.—Well, there's a difference in bees. You take an ordinary bee and you're liable to get stung.

But take one of Henry Brown's 45,000,000 educated variety and, unless you're somebody a bee just naturally doesn't like, you'll be perfectly safe.

Brown, a former Russian sailor, has the 45,000,000 stingless bees in his apiary at Burleigh, near here. It's taken 12 years of cross-breeding to produce them, he said, from Italian and Cyprian parents.

They only sting, Brown declared, when squeezed in the hand or otherwise provoked.

he maintained, an irreducible minimum for a proper job. Several ringers had gone before him, all of whom swung authoritative-sounding bells. Smith complained that his feet were ruined when the boardwalks of the town were replaced by cement.

"But Provincetown now boasts a new town crier, and what with the development of modern news-gathering agencies, high-speed presses, and split-second deliveries, he may well be the only surviving representative of his picturesque calling in America."

Now How About Soundproof Celery?

Dr. Lloyd C. Shanklin, president of the United Brotherhood of Vegetarians, holds his odorless onion to the nose of Dr. Irene Austin, who doesn't mind at all. His method of cross breeding takes the sulphur out of the onion. In the onion it's the sulphur that smells. In you, it's the onion.

Man's Size Increases for Last Century

People of Today Average Two Inches Taller, Says Expert.

Minneapolis.—Mankind has been increasing in size in the last century and as a result the men and women of today are two inches taller than those of 100 years ago, Dr. Edith Boyd of the Minnesota university department of anatomy reported to anthropologists at one of the closing sessions of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

There was an apparent slowing off, however, she said, and perhaps in the next hundred years human beings would recede to their average stature of 100 years ago.

Doctor Boyd's discussion was based on research by Dr. C. M. Jackson of the University of Minnesota, Professor Bowles of Harvard and by her own work in association with Dean R. E. Scammon of the medical science faculty at Minnesota.

Research, she declared, had disclosed that the growth increase and decrease moved in cycles through succeeding generations.

"Professor Bowles has demonstrated that the Harvard student on an average is two inches taller than his grandfather," Doctor Boyd said. "That means a span of about 100 years."

"The same results have been found by investigation in women's colleges."

We find the same relative situation among army recruits and college students in England, Germany, Sweden. We find the same for Minnesota as demonstrated by Doctor Jackson. That growth has been true for about one hundred years. Now there seems to be a slowing off."

Nation's Sweet Tooth Is Making Remarkable Gain

Washington.—Figures of the food-stuffs division of the Department of Commerce show a striking gain for the nation's sweet tooth in 1934. Sales of candy and competitive chocolate products during the year totaled 1,299,103,140 pounds, valued at $183,783,081, compared with a total of 1,166,776,455 pounds, valued at $162,275,060, in 1933. The sales in 1934 averaged more than ten pounds per capita.

Sales by manufacturers increased in both volume and value for the first time in a number of years. The volume increase of 1934 over 1933 was 11.3 per cent and the value increase 15.1 per cent. The 345 manufacturers on whose reports the figures are based represent between 75 and 80 per cent of the total manufacturing volume in the country.

Chocolate-covered bars were first-ranking in value among the several types of confectionery and competitive chocolate products shown in the department's report; sales totaled $36,791,526 in 1934, compared with $36,310,991 in 1933.

Sales of penny goods, the type of confectionery commonly sold over the counter to children, during 1934 totaled 247,244,516 pounds, valued at $27,974,390, compared with 206,228,472 pounds, valued at $22,817,435, in 1933.

Hot Baths Cure Bite of Black Widow Spider

Washington.—Hot baths will offset effects of the bite of the black widow spider about which there is more or less panic in some parts of the country, it having been reported as deadly to human beings, says a statement from the American Nature association. Though commonly referred to as insects spiders belong in the class arachnids. They all have eight legs when adults; insects have only six.

W. J. Baerg of the University of Arkansas, who had a hard time getting a widow spider to bite him, recites his experience for the American Nature association. He says:

"Taking a general view of my experiences with the black widow, it may be said that although somewhat unpleasant, it had more than enough adventure in it to make up for this feature. It was possible to get a reliable record of the symptoms caused by the poison, and to determine accurately that the bite of the creature may have decidedly painful effects on man. It has not, so far as I know, ever caused death, and only under the greatest provocation can it be made to attack humans."

All day long, despite a pouring rain, the shores of West lake here were lined with people making their live offerings. The authorities estimate that 2,600 pounds of water snails, 1,500 pounds of live fish and 1,300 pounds of eels and turtles were turned loose in West lake during the day.

The government sold the company 1,500,000 acres, and the company recruited settlers and sold to them. In the winter of 1787-88 the first party set out from the east and arrived April 7, 1788, at the spot chosen for a town, at the junction of the Muskingum and Ohio rivers.

-in Michigan

The vacation you are planning is almost sure to include, as one of its attractive features, the flash of sunlight on water—a swimming pool, a stream that invites your rod and line, a lake for sailing or motor-boating.

For pleasures of this kind, no part of the globe is more bountifully equipped than your native State of Michigan. Here are some of the finest fishing streams in America; here are lakes of unsurpassed variety—five thousand lakes of every shape and size.

You can set up your camp on a pine-shaded bank and swim in a lake no larger than a private pool. Or you can weigh anchor in one like an inland sea, letting your sail or outboard motor carry you away from the workaday world—out into a vast expanse of flashing silver and running white-caps.

In addition to water-sports, Michigan provides almost everything the pleasure-bent vacationist can desire: Hundreds of miles of highways that increase the joys of touring by automobile; varied scenery; invigorating climate; an endless choice of golf courses.

Spend your own vacation in Michigan. Urge its excellent advantages upon your vacationing friends in neighboring states. By doing so you will increase the pleasure of their holiday. In addition, you will help to promote the popularity and prosperity of your native State.

It is for the purpose of doing our share in this promotion that this series of advertisements is being published by the Michigan Bell Telephone Company, a Michigan organization that prospers only as the citizens of Michigan prosper.

SUCH IS LIFE—A Bitter Moment

By Charles Sughroe

Joys and Duties of Holiday Time

Child Needs Adjustment to Home During Period of Vacation.

Now that vacation days are here, children feel a marvelous freedom from restraint, and from tasks. It is a period of readjustment, just as much as is the beginning of school in the fall. It is well for parents to appreciate this, for by so doing they will spare themselves and their offspring some difficult moments.

Many young children will be inclined to rely upon mother to direct their time by suggesting games, or little helpful tasks made attractive through the idea of relieving her of work. The rest will strain at the leash of any restraint, believing that as school was their expected and peculiar occupation, that vacation means all play and no work. They will be irked by requests to do minor jobs, quite within their ability, or to run errands, however few, or, perhaps, even to have pleasant suggestions about recreational diversions.

It requires careful thought on the part of a mother to prevent the children from leaning on her too much, in the first instance, and from becoming a bit too aloof, in the second. It is well for the mother to have it definitely understood that she expects to be told when any one of the children goes out, and where the place is. Many adults believe it is a wise precaution to leave such word at home, since sometimes it is desirable or necessary to get in touch with them, and some one in the house should know their whereabouts.

It is well, also, to expect children to be home promptly for meals—which then should be served promptly. If the children find themselves unexpectedly invited to meals with their friends, then the telephone should be used to inform the home of their plans—and in younger children permission should be asked for and granted, if possible, or refused if necessary. Mothers' plans may have to be adjusted to suit such changes, or perhaps children have forgotten other engagements and can then be reminded of them.

Children can learn, in tender years, that the home is a circle made of different units, and while each unit has the right to individual freedom of wide latitude there remains the ties of the family, which should be respected. There must be co-operation, and vacation days can foster this, however old or young the members.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained. Then you may suffer nagging back-ache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, swollen limbs; feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay! Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

Glassmaker Expert in Middle Age Art

Turns Out Church Windows in Medieval Style.

Bethayres, Pa.—The atmosphere of a medieval workshop pervades the studio of Lawrence B. Saint, famous American stained-glass artist, who is at work on windows for the Protestant Episcopal cathedral at Washington.

Saint has been at work on these windows for six and one-half years. He was one of the artists on the designing and construction of windows for the Swedeborgian cathedral at Bryn Athyn, near here.

It took Saint and his associates working in their respective departments of the studio on Second street pike, Bethayres, 11 years to complete that particular task.

Spends Life at Art.

Since he was seventeen, more than thirty years ago, Saint has been working and experimenting with glass. During the last seventeen years he has created only ecclesiastical glass.

The glass worker not only designs and constructs the panels, which later become windows, but also makes all his own glass, following closely formulae used by ancient glassmakers.

He has had several pieces of ancient glass analyzed and from the findings has been able to approximate the texture and colorings of the ancient glassmakers. Although this has involved tremendous research and experimentation, the results have been very gratifying.

Saint does not attempt to copy existing windows, but seeks to recapture the beauty of color and the enduring qualities of the Middle-age glassmakers.

Seeks More Lifelike Figures.

He contends that many of the figures in Eleventh and Twelfth century windows are very unreal and impossible in posture and proportion. "I am trying to design more lifelike figures," he says.

Some of Saint's remarkable colors have been the result of pure accident. On a trip to Europe Saint procured a small piece of glass which he had ground up and analyzed. Under the microscope he found the various layers of color. Finally he hit upon one of the secrets of the rich red glass modern until then had been able to duplicate.

Following a formula the resultant glass was green, with only a few pale streaks of red. He laid it on the tray of a paint-firing kiln. Some one inadvertently turned on the heat. When the piece of glass was discovered, to Saint's surprise, it had turned a rich, ruby red!

Science Standardizes Cooing Birds' Sex Life

Minneapolis.—A University of Iowa zoologist reported that after years of experiments the love life of birds has been put on a year-around basis.

Emil Witschi told the American Association for the Advancement of Science it always has been a mystery why birds exhibited sex emotion only during the mating season.

Now, he said, they can be made to bill and coo for month on month.

It's done by injecting gonadotropic hormones, or serums obtained from pregnant horses and sheep.

Female sparrows, Witschi also said, are likely to lay four or five eggs and then quit. If the eggs are removed as she lays them, however, she will go on laying up to fifty or more.

First hunting license required—New York, 1864.

First non-resident license required—New Jersey, 1864.

First state to ban market hunting—Arkansas, 1875.

At the outbreak of the Revolutionary war 12 of the 13 colonies had laws banning certain methods of hunting.

ECONOMIC CONTROL by LEONARD A. BARRETT

A strong prejudice exists in many minds against economic control. Any form of control means power which may be directed into constructive as well as destructive channels. The electric current passing along the wire may be used either to warm and light our homes or for the purpose of self-destruction. Economic power therefore in itself is neither good nor evil. Its use determines its ultimate value.

Economic power means congestion of wealth which in turn means accumulation of profits which again means activity in some industry beneficial to humanity; otherwise the public would not have purchased that particular commodity. Whether labor was exploited

The Household

By Lydia Le Baron Walker

There are some little courtesies in telephone conversations which are appreciated decidedly by those who are called up. For instance the friend who calls up does a kindly thing when she discovers first of all whether the time is opportune. It is an easy matter to say:

"Is this a convenient time. Am I interrupting you in your work? If I am, won't you give me a ring when you are free, or I can call you again later on?"

Then the person called up can say frankly whether the time is well-chosen or not. She can do it graciously and another time can be set.

"Thank you so much for asking me this, as I am in the midst of something important. If I may I will call you back. If you are not going to be at home in about half an hour, call me whenever you can later in the day. I shall be home."

Unless it is interrupting the person disadvantageously, it is friendly to take the call when received, even though you may have to say, "I have just a few moments, and shall be delighted to talk with you even though it may not be for very long."

Party Line Courtesies

It is a courtesy to others on a party line to make all calls reasonably short. Also when there are indications that the wire is wanted, it is graceful to say:

"I think some one wishes to use this line, so I am going to say good-bye now." To this may be added, "I still have some things I want to talk over with you, so I'll call back later," or, "Will you call me back when you have time?" It is also a courtesy to say then, if you are going to be out, when you will be at home to receive the call.

One thing, frequently forgotten when making a long call, though wires are individual and not party lines, is that some one may want to call you or the person at the other end of the wire. It may be something delightful you, or the other person, will miss out on, if you cannot be reached at the very time. Or it may be a call from some one who is in town, and will not be able to talk with you soon again. Also it may be some important business matter that one of you should know about immediately and cannot be reached. So long conversations over the telephone are not advisable.

Make Decisions Quickly

Making decisions is one of the things every person has to do. Some persons make them very quickly, seemingly without even giving matters their due consideration. Yet this does not mean that they have poor judgment. It may be that pressure of business or affairs has trained them to decide quickly. When a person has scores of decisions to make daily, as so many heads of business concerns do, they cannot ponder long over any one. When major decisions are to be made, they concentrate on them, and what appears to be a quick decision may be but the result of quiet thinking for some time.

The person who figuratively hems and haws over each trifling decision is laying up trouble for herself. No one's judgment is perfect, and sometimes mistakes will occur even after much mental worry before coming to the settled opinion. A quick decision may prove just as satisfactory. To permit oneself to weigh each trivial decision as if it were a mighty problem, weakens one's powers of decision.

Parents are well advised when they encourage their little folk to decide things for themselves. For example, let a child decide what frock it will wear among those which are suitable. It may be that the color is the only difference between two, set out for the child's choice. The spending of the first penny or two—a week's allowance, is as momentous to a child as the expenditure of many dollars a week, when judgment has matured. The habit of making decisions is being nurtured all along the way from childhood to maturity, when it begins early.

When a child feels a decision has been wrong, he may worry, and wish he could reverse it. It is at such times that parents can help the child to realize that he is learning to discriminate, and that his judgment is growing. Encourage the child to decide quickly, and then feel it is through.

Discover Mummified Body of Man in Mammoth Cave

Mammoth Cave, Ky.—The mummified body of a man, perhaps one thousand years old, found in the Mammoth cave here, was the object of intense interest among noted archeologists.

Grover Campbell and Lyman Cutliff, cave guides, discovered the body on a 30-foot ledge of the cave. The man had been caught on the ledge by the fall of a four-ton rock. Marks of an implement near the base of where the rock had been indicated the man had been digging under it when it became dislodged.

Near the body was found a torch made from reeds bound with grasses. It still was sticking nearly upright in the sand. Among the crude implements found was a dagger-shaped limestone rock believed to be a weapon.

Taking Amusement to the Eskimos

Setting out from Seattle, this little 24-footer, the Happy-Go-Lucky, pointed for Alaska where, in innumerable inlets and coves she will provide amusement for the Eskimos, but primarily for the fishermen, trappers, hunters, cannery and prospectors of the Far North. Capt. Gordon Clements and Mate J. R. Dobbs are carrying a complete equipment of motion picture apparatus and thousands of feet of film. Something new in the show-boat line.

SYNOPSIS

Following his father's bitter criticism of his life, and the withdrawal of financial assistance, Hal Treland, only son of a wealthy banker, finds himself practically without funds but with the promise of a situation in San Francisco, which he must reach, from New York, within a definite time limit. He takes passage with a cross-country auto party on a "share expense" basis. With five other members of the party, an attractive girl, Barry Trafford; middle-aged Giles Kerrigan; Sister Anastasia, a nun; and an individual whom he instinctively dislikes, Martin Crack, he starts his journey. Barry's reticence annoys him. To Kerrigan he takes at once, but he is unable to shake off a feeling of uneasiness. He distrusts Crack, although finding his intimacy with Kerrigan ripening, and he makes a little progress with Barry. Through a misunderstanding, at a stopping place, Hal is directed to Barry's room, instead of his own. Propinquity seems to soften Barry's unfriendliness, and they exchange kisses.

CHAPTER V—Continued

Crack gave an uncomfortable laugh as he got out, and a faint blush deepened his old-fashioned youthfulness. "I guess that pup don't like me so very well," he said. He smiled shyly at Hal, as if half-hoping for some other explanation from him; but then his eyes drifted lazily away again, undisappointed.

The morning lay hot and long over the flat croplands of Indiana and Illinois. As Rasputin sang along the road past farm and field and farm, through brief brick towns, noon-drowsy and unbusted, the land kept the character of things it knew, the assurance of things it remembered. Hal's sense of these quickened sometimes to Kerrigan's remark and implication, sometimes to untried appreciations of his own—not so much forgotten as never before found.

Rasputin ran like an aristocrat, granting an aristocrat the privilege of metallic song in the gearbox and a disinclination to compete with low-price upstarts at a change of traffic light. And before Mrs. Pulsipher could come to the fidgeting preliminaries of lunch-hunger, they were crossing the Illinois river into Peoria.

Barry saw the sign on a cafeteria in a side street, "Air Cooled and Conditioned." And there was a chorus of grateful exclamation and a struggling into jackets as the almost-chilled draft swept up the stairway. Down in the bright bustle of the cafeteria itself, Sister Anastasia suddenly sneezed, then looked at Barry with a pretty expression halfway between amusement and apology. Barry's hand went to her arm, her clear face lighted with quick, humorous sympathy. Kerrigan took the dead cigarette from his lips and, with an air of awkward courtliness upon his bulk, said to her, "We'll all catch the Russian grippe in here, Sister, allow me to take you somewhere else."

"Oh no—thank you," said Sister Anastasia, her eyes grateful and still amused, her diction trying carefully to elude the accent that touched it.

It was an enchanting voice—in its gentleness of grace and inner assurance that still, as Barry had said, kept you from using the word humble. Hal smiled in pleasure as he watched her. And since Barry would not meet his eyes—not actually avoiding them but seeming to know of no use in meeting them—he had double welcome for an impulsive tenderness, brought his tray of lunch to the empty place beside the nun.

She spoke only when she was spoken to; but the restrained ease of what she said, the smooth, quiet cadence she gave to each sentence made it delightful to go on prompting her. They talked of nothing much that Hal remembered clearly; how long she had been in America, the pleasures and imperfections of crossing the ocean, the view from the Empire State building, the world eminence of American cities in degree of summer heat. And then Hal had an innocent, urgent desire to see her blush—a little, once, to see what she might have been like as a young girl with a first beau. And he said:

"Have you heard, Sister, that California is a place where the fruit has no flavor, the flowers no scent, and the ladies no charm?"

"No," she said, looking at him in guileless interest. "I've never heard that. Is it true?"

"I don't know surely, because I've never been there," said Hal, without concealing his pleasure in her. "I've tasted oranges from there which were sweet; and I've been told that their orange blossoms at least have the scent they do in other places. As for the last part of the saying, I know it will not be true when you and Miss Trafford get to California."

Sister Anastasia glanced quickly away; but then he saw she was looking toward the other end of the table where Barry sat, her head turned from them, intent upon whatever Kerrigan was telling her. The nun turned to him again, a contained, soft smiling in her look.

"It is a long time since I've heard anything like that," she said in tranquil simplicity. She looked down at her plate, and Hal's pleasure leapt for the faint running-up of warmth under her cool, immaculate cheeks. Then she said, very softly, "Miss Trafford is beautiful—inside, too."

Hal was two places behind Barry in the line at the cashier's window. A spectacular woman, past her twenties, leaned beside it, waiting until the cashier should be free again. She wanted a spotlight to tone down the heavy mascara on her eyelashes, the bold make-up of her lips, the revealing tightness of her bright dress. She watched Barry steadily, unwary of being caught; her resentful eyes moved from detail to detail, rapidly calculating the composition of each effect; her petulant mouth, loosely at rest, indicated neither approval nor envy. Hal was watching the woman's whole, unconscious interest when Barry paid her check.

Barry looked down at Doctor Calligari, flicked his leash to start him up, then raised her deliberate glance to the woman's face and smiled. Hal could see Barry's profile, clear and candid, as she spoke her low, friendly "Hullo." The woman's sullen eyes cheered quickly and artless smiles came at once beside her efficient smile. As if she recognized Barry, she said, "Hello, cuteness."

"Hot out," said Barry.

"Hot is right," said the woman. "Keep out the sun."

"Will," said Barry, a quiet sort of thanks in her smiling; and her easy, long-legged walk took her toward the door, the woman's look following her in contented approval.

Now why did she do that? Hal asked himself in uninvited, consciously unreasonable irritation.

He caught up with her outside the door to the street that seemed baked, not only by the sun but by a fanatic furnace just under the pavement, too.

"Going to walk the Doctor, or sit in the car?" he said.

"Walk," said Barry, hardly looking at him.

With a single, mirthless laugh at the beginning, he said, "D'you rather I sat in the car till you're finished?"

She looked at him as if she hadn't quite caught his meaning. "Come if you like," she said.

They walked toward the principal street and turned into it—without speaking. Then the restive need to clear something up, to purge something out of his gathered dissatisfaction, took sudden charge of his tongue and he said, "Barry, I want to talk to you." And the pointlessness of that was apparent to him even before he'd finished.

"All right," she said inconsequently. "What about?"

"Not on the main street of Peoria at two o'clock in the afternoon," he said.

"Why not?"

"You know—don't you well why not?"

Barry looked at him unsympathetically but without anger, and her low, steady voice said, "In the first place, I wouldn't've asked if I knew why not, and in the second place, throwing d—ns around doesn't help me understand you."

"Oh h—l," said Hal, more in vague disgust with himself than anything else.

"That's not necessary, either," she said.

"Barry, what's the matter?"

"Not a darn thing—with me," she said.

"Oh," he said; and they walked for another ten paces or so of silence. Then, as an accusation, he said to her, "You didn't know that woman—that woman you spoke to down there. Why did you speak to her?"

Barry waited an instant before she said, still not turning to him, "Because I liked her looks; because some day I may have to put up with what she has to put up with, and I hope people speak to me without thinking they're smart, or wanting something."

"Barry!" said Hal, in the quick authority he would have used for the dog.

"You asked me," said Barry. Her eyes and brows disclaimed responsibility for his reaction. "I supposed you wanted me to tell you."

"Barry," said Hal with forced restraint, "tell me something else. Is last night gone clean out of your head? Did it mean nothing to you after I'd left"—and he added with not wholly convincing bitterness—"like an idiot."

She looked round at him, the clean, long arches of her eyebrows raised. Then, not as a question but ironically, to be sure that's what he'd said, she repeated, "Like an idiot."

He watched her without speaking, almost wishing her eyes would at least do him the small honor of anger or defiance, not stay in their cool, remote composure that had nothing, one way or the other, to do with him. Then, just as some change began somewhere deep in her blue look, she turned her head and seemed to walk a little faster, as if she saw where she had to go.

Hal looked ahead too and said, with dissatisfied assurance, "I didn't mean 'like an idiot' and you know it."

He thought it was because her ankle had started to turn that her shoulder came lightly against him. But then her hand caught his, brought it halfway up, and pressed the back of it briefly against her jacket, over her head, before she gave it back to him. And still she looked straight before her—a grave look, at nothing that was in the street ahead.

In the calm knowledge that flashed into abrupt, reckless command of his spirit, that then indeed became his spirit, his whole living conviction, he stopped her walking with his hand at her elbow. She let her body half turn to his hold of her, but not her head. That didn't matter; she would turn her face to him in another sure, plain moment. "Barry," he said, "I love you. You know that, too."

She glanced down at Doctor Calligari, as if she were trying to think of something that would show how sorry she was for him. And when slowly she faced Hal at last, her eyes were soft with grieving helplessness.

"I didn't make you say that," she said quietly. "I didn't want you to. Dear God! why did you have to say that?"

"Because I meant it," he told her, strength from extravagant stores running up to help him pierce most deeply with the bright rapier of his knowledge. "Because I'm too full of it to wait one more second of loneliness to tell you in every, sharp, desperate way there is that I love you, Barry—love you, love you. Barry—oh, blast Peoria and all its sunlight!"

When he broke off, she looked down at his mouth, then back into his eyes, her look wondering, incredulous, young in its bafflement before something not to be understood at once, mature in its certainty that all the pain was yet to be counted.

"Darling," she said softly, just to say it under his watching. Then, more strongly: "Darling, I can't love you. I mustn't. That's true, true—even if I'd—I'd give my eyes not to have it. I'll tell you why—truly; and you'll see. But I have to wait till I know how to tell you. I promise, my dearest, I shall know. But I mustn't love you. You mustn't love me." She looked at him as if she had known him very well and he were now suddenly going to leave her.

Then quickly her eyes left his and she turned around, drawing at Doc's leash. "We must go back, Hal," she said hurriedly. "Please, we've got to."

THREE REASONS

They were on the heat-shimmered road again by three, a hundred miles from the Mississippi crossing. There was a current of gaiety which carried off even the standard post-luncheon torpor, as if the atmosphere of the car were infected by the profligate, exulting buoyancy under Hal's own heart.

For Hal could dismiss the conviction of grief in Barry's eyes for his joy in the small marvels of their passage in the street; the quick touching of her shoulder to his arm; the pressure of her living side against the back of his caught hand; the near-husky enchantment in her calling him darling. What could she have behind her blue eyes to stand against his invincibility? Some fragile shadow of an obstacle—the fact that he was Frederick Ireland's son, or the beckoning of Hollywood; trifles which he could shatter when he had his time to speak, out of the strength which she herself had unleashed to surge up under the single necessity left in the world.

The time was coming—today, as swiftly as the hard road under Rasputin's wheels. Excitement filled him, pushed newly in each moment to escape his chest; and there was room for no more than a flash of shame at the niggardliness of his spirit that had gubbed with his being most valiantly in love, for the first—good G—d, yes, the first real time in his life.

The little bridge-sign announcing Kickapoo creek, made him chuckle with pleasure; and when he glanced at Kerrigan, he put no restraint on his affectionate comfort in being here beside him.

"Hey, my frand," said Kerrigan, bending gravely toward him, "where did you go in Peoria?"

"Why, Colonel?" said Hal, grinning. "You look as though you'd slipped on a million dollars' worth of eternal verities and found your initials stamped on all of 'em."

"Little place around the corner I found on my way home from the Klondike," said Hal. "Run by an ex-aided-camp to the czar whose life I saved at Port Arthur. Napoleon brandy from original casks at a nickel a goblet. I've no secrets from you, Munchausen."

100 PER CENT

NOT long ago I visited a friend, the personnel director of a large eastern firm. Her observation was keen. The interest of my visit centered around her summation of the 100 per cent business woman. Would you change these figures if you were hiring a young person of character in your business?

Mental Adequacy .....15% Initiative .....12%
Health .....15% Cooperation .....10%
Personality .....15% Industry .....10%
Appearance .....15% Punctuality .....10%

My job resembles a physician's, she said laughingly, "one look at the patient tells more than several reference letters." During her first interview she glimpses the individual's attitude toward life by what she calls "four success signals." They are:

- What is the poise of the head?
- Does she look as well going as coming?
- Does she use or abuse the king's English?
- Has she personality plus?

Posture was her first signal. Few people realize how self-revealing posture is. The set of one's head on the shoulders bespeaks one's degree of ambition, or lack of it. A straight front look reflects one's self-confidence. Too much self-confidence, however, is as bad as none, for that approaches conceit.

Appearance was second. Well-groomed does not imply expensively groomed. It implies, however, neatness, care in detail and cleanliness. Those who are careful, clever, and chic are "sartorially smarter" than some others who count figures into four columns for their year's wardrobe. More self-respect can be bought for 25 cents in a shoe shop, where heels are straightened, than any place in the wide world. This makes one look as well going as coming. Earrings and rouge can never reach as far in this matter of toilet, as a healthy well-kept skin.

The third was an unusually high hurdle—mental adequacy. My friend almost despairs at the linguistic paucity prevalent today, even among our college graduates. The English language and the "American language" are farther apart than the ocean wide.

The fourth and last X-ray test was the most subtle. "I have several ways of proving the innate refinement of my visitor," she said, "this I call personality plus. Absolute indifference to my telephone conversations brings her score one. I watch her emotional reactions and self-control when she discusses with me her hobbies, how she spends her leisure time, or the qualities she likes best in her new friends."

These four success signals recall what Emerson said: "What you do speaks so loudly I cannot hear what you say!"

WORLD DEBT TO BOTH AMERICAS

Important Foods That Are of Western Origin.

Talking about what the people eat and where it came from, the Charleston News and Courier says that much of the world's menu is American. Quoting from the acting curator of botany, for the Field Museum or Natural History, B. E. Dahlgren, the newspaper tells that while many of the standard food stuffs were discovered on the western hemisphere they are now raised and used everywhere on earth. For instance, it is remarked that the Irish potato originated in South America, and was introduced in Europe more than 100 years after the discovery of America. Doctor Dahlgren says that "the tomato, known as the 'Peruvian apple' as far back as the sixteenth century, a native plant of South America, was first introduced into Europe as an ornamental plant and only in recent years has been grown in many parts of the world as an important food. Corn, kidney and lima beans, pumpkins, squash, cranberries and peanuts were all originally American, but are today cultivated the world over. Plants of medicinal and narcotic value which are included among the New world contributions include quinine, cocaine and tobacco."

According to this authority, Concord and Catawba grapes are development of the wild fox grape found in the New world by early Colonial settlers. "And another essentially American fruit is the pineapple, which is popularly associated with the Hawaiian islands, but originated in northern South America, notably Brazil." The News and Courier declares that these and many other fruits, first contributed to the tables of the world by America, are now successfully grown in many parts of the world and their American origin is forgotten. And it is to wonder how the people of Europe got along without some of the things which they adopted after Columbus had made his trip to the other side of the globe.

But America had need of things that were not originally growing here. It is shown by the article from the Charleston newspaper that this continent had to import coffee—and later found it admirably adapted to the climate and conditions existing in South and Central America. Wheat and other small grains were brought here—in Bible times wheat was called corn, and what we now designate as corn, was first known as Indian corn or maize. It is claimed that corn was introduced in Europe by Columbus, in the sixteenth century, brought from America—but some records indicate that it was known in Asia and Africa before that time.

THE NEW FIRESTONE GROUND GRIP TIRE WILL ENABLE YOU TO USE YOUR CAR, TRUCK AND TRACTOR IN ALL KINDS OF WEATHER

The body of this tire is built with patented Gum-Dipped Cords, giving it extra strength and greater flexing ability without creating heat, the greatest enemy of tire life.

The extra-heavy super traction tread on this tire is scientifically designed to prevent the bumpiness on smooth roads that is so objectionable in other tires designed for traction in soft ground. This heavy self-cleaning tread, required to withstand unusual pulling traction and strains, is securely locked to the cord body by Firestone's patented construction of two extra Gum-Dipped cord layers under the tread.

These new and unusually effective Firestone super traction tires enable you to operate your tractors, trucks and passenger cars for all kinds of farm work and over ground and roads that could not be traveled with ordinary tires, even equipped with chains.

tell whether or not the ball would be caught, could only go to third on the hit. Both Mark and Cunningham, over-anxious to bring in that one run which meant victory, struck out. Anderson, who had already done a fine job in clean-up position, was next up and promptly singled through short, scoring Quick with the winning tally.

It was a splendid victory for M. Lixey, star of the locals' mound corps, and a hard loss for Adams, Gladwin ace. Both turned in mighty fine performances. Adams allowed 12 hits, struck out 10, and issued one base on balls, while Lixey yielded 15 safe blows, granted one pass, and slipped the third strike by 11 men. Anderson and Mark gave exceptionally fine performances in the field at shortstop and second base, respectively, and Cunningham brought the fans to their feet a couple times with spectacular catches after long runs. Anchor was the outstanding fielder for the visitors.

Next Sunday the local team will play at Augres.

on the free run to the Tawas Beach buoy. The 'Dale' lead and was trailed by the 'E,' 'Gamble,' 'Saulk,' 'Arab' and the 'Sero.' The run to the can buoy was a beat to be accompanied by a light south breeze accompanied by a heavy rolling sea. The two new boats, the 'E' and the 'Saulk,' lost very little time in going into the lead on this run. The 'Saulk' rounded first, followed by the 'E,' 'Dale,' 'Arab,' 'Sero' and 'Gamble.'

Sailors used balloons, spinnakers, or what have you for the free run to Tawas City. John North, sailing the 'Sero,' introduced several new combinations that were studied with interest. The boats maintained positions on the leg. The 'Saulk' rounded first, followed closely by the 'E.'

The 'Saulk' experienced some trouble with her balloon and MacNaughton sent the 'E' into the lead. He never relinquished. The 'E' got her first winning gun on Tawas Bay. The 'Saulk' was a very close second. The 'Dale' was third and the 'Arab' fourth. The 'Sero' was fifth by seven seconds but her corrected time placed her sixth while the 'Gamble' took two points with a fifth.

A system of points for scoring for the twelve summer races has been adopted. With six boats in the race the winner gets six points, the second boat five, the third four, etc.

The standing in points for the three summer point races follows:
1st, 'Saulk' . . . 17
2nd, 'E' . . . 14
3rd, 'Gamble' . . . 12
4th, 'Dale' . . . 7
5th, 'Arab' . . . 7
