

Discover Huge Reserves of Carbon Dioxide Gas

Made Available by Completion of Boulder Dam.

San Francisco.—Huge reserves of carbon dioxide gas exist under the torrid Salton sea basin of southern California, it is reported to the American Chemical society, at its ninetieth meeting here.

Thirty-five billion cubic feet of the gas are already stored and will yield nearly a million tons of "dry ice," it is estimated following extensive surveys by Dwight C. Roberts, California geologist. This estimate, it is pointed out, excludes additions by future natural chemical production.

Wide use of dry ice, or solidified carbon dioxide, in household refrigeration, air conditioning, railway refrigeration, and dairy technic is predicted. Retail house-to-house service is foreseen by Thomas B. Slate, pioneer construction engineer in this field, who is now engaged in developing the Mullet Island area of the Salton sea basin.

Flood Threat Removed.

The Salton gas emerges from wells drilled at locations starting at 200 feet below sea level. The threat of inundation to this sink by the rampaging Colorado river has been forever removed by the completion of Boulder dam, it is declared. These gas wells would have been the first to be flooded in the event of the disaster feared so long by the desert dwellers.

The Salton gas runs from 99.1 to 99.96 per cent carbon dioxide, with none of the unsavory hydrogen sulfide, according to Prof. G. Ross Robertson of the University of California, Los Angeles. The small residue is harmless inert gas, probably air. Mr. Slate estimates a maximum production of one thousand tons of dry ice per day in his one desert location, some 40 or 50 wells being required to serve the plants proposed to take care of this business.

"Two wells now in service deliver gas at 230 pounds pressure, which means that only half the power is required in contrast to eastern plants using artificially generated gas," Professor Robertson says. "As a result, a cost not over $10 per ton, including manufacturing, administration and sales, f. o. b. plant, is estimated.

"Not the slightest recession of gas pressure, or suggestion in any way of exhaustion, has been noted since this extremely pure gas was discovered three years ago at the east end of the sea, near Niland. Experience in Mexico has shown that carbon dioxide wells may run at full blast for years without diminution, all of which suggests renewed supplies by chemical action deep below the surface.

"The extreme purity of the California gas permits low cost operation and promises to make possible the entry of the product into commercial situations hitherto considered impracticable. The refrigerating efficiency of the dry ice in actual practical applications runs 5 and even 10 to 1 over common water ice, depending upon the kind of refrigeration. In addition the service rendered in stopping bacterial growth adds large value to the use of the dry product.

Remarkable Purity.

"The high purity is remarkable in view of the general probability that the Salton product, like most natural carbon dioxide, is made by the action of oxidized sulphur on natural mineral carbonates such as limestone. Some sort of natural purification must have been carried out deep beneath the surface of the earth, just how no chemist ventures a guess.

"Luckily, the Salton carbon dioxide is located just at the back door of the Imperial and Coachella valleys, California's great outdoor hothouse for winter fruits and vegetables, and on the transcontinental line of the Southern Pacific over which vast tonnages of fruits are shipped eastward throughout the year. All of these vegetable products must be iced, or better yet precooled, and solid carbon dioxide is eminently adapted for the purpose.

"The introduction of a substantial percentage of carbon dioxide gas into

Child Drops Cigars and Takes Up Beer

West Paterson, N. J.—Charles (Mickey) Norman, four years old, who used to astound residents of this community by toddling along the street with a giant cheroot gripped in his teeth, has reformed. He no longer smokes.

But, his family proudly announced today, Mickey loves beer and "can sit up and drink it like a man." He hasn't had whiskey yet, but may get it later.

His grandmother confided that letters from all over the nation criticizing Mickey's addiction to tobacco caused them to deprive him of cigars and cigarettes.

a freight car, loaded with fruit, during the course of pre-cooling with dry ice, creates a sluggish blanket of heavy gas air mixture which does not circulate readily and does not conduct the outdoor heat into the load readily. The refrigerating efficiency is thus high."

Development of markets for carbon dioxide refrigeration, it is pointed out, would open up fresh fields for industry, as new equipment for railroads and new refrigerator designs for households would be required.

Takes No Time to Make Cotton Frock

PATTERN 2315

Make it in percale for a morning frock! Make it in novelty cotton, shantung or pique for a sports frock! And then make it again in silk crepe for an afternoon frock!

This pattern will make a charming frock for nearly any summer daytime occasion. Its lines are particularly good—for the "not-too-slim" figure. Moreover, it can be run up before the clock moves round. Note both versions of the flattering collar. Pleated sleeves, a kick pleat, and cleverly placed fullness all contribute to the charm. Two or three frocks of this pattern will prove classics in your wardrobe.

Pattern 2315 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 takes 4 3/4 yards 36 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

SEND FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to the Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth Street, New York City.

Egyptologists Find Home of Boy Moses

Ruins of Palace of the Pharaohs Unearthed.

London.—Ruins of the palace of Rameses, where Moses spent most of his early life with the daughter of Pharaoh, who found him in the rushes, have been discovered by Egyptologists.

Machpelah, the cave in which Sarah, the wife of Abraham was buried, has also been located.

The first discovery was made by E. H. Winlock of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York.

"El Kantara," it was announced here, "which has just been located by excavators, is, in all probability, the city of Rameses, one of the two treasure cities built by the Pharaohs after the death of Joseph, the son of Jacob, when the Israelites were held in bondage. Winlock says:

"A study of the decorated tiles in the palace ruins, which have been uncovered, gives ample reason to believe that they came from the walls in which, traditionally, the scenes of Moses' early life were enacted."

News of the second discovery is given in a cable from Rev. W. F. Bade, director of the Tell-en-Nasbeh Expedition of the Pacific School of Religion. He said:

"When the cave was revealed in the necropolis of the ancient city of Mizpah, seven miles north of Jerusalem, evidence of at least 60 burials was found.

"Many of the remains are of women. Some of the bones may be those of Sarah, bronze bracelets being found on the forearms and ankles.

"We found decorated toggle pins of bronze, six inches in length, that had long since relinquished their hold on the vanished garments which they had once adorned.

"The cave had been the burial place of thousands before the Israelites of Mizpah settled there, for under the deposits around the entrance were found fragments of Early Bronze Age pottery."

Mailbox's Use Disputed by a Mouse and a Woman

Washington.—Miss Frances Lundquist, of Brookfield, Conn., wrote her Uncle Sam an urgent note concerning the mutual disturbance of herself and a long-eared field mouse.

"Dear Uncle," wrote Frances, "What shall I do about it? A field mouse with long ears and big eyes has made a nest in my mail box and every time I lift the top I disturb him and he disturbs me—and how! I had to leave this postcard on top."

The Post Office department said it would refer Miss Lundquist's appeal to the rural mails service, which is expert in solving field mouse and allied problems.

First to Play Juliet

In the first Shakespearean production it was the custom to use boy actors for feminine roles. The part of Romeo was played by Burbage and an unidentified boy played Juliet in the earliest performances. Between the time of Burbage's death and the Restoration there are no records of Romeo and Juliet on the stage. From 1642 to 1660 parliament prohibited public stage plays. After the lifting of this prohibition, Sir William D'Avenant received from the king exclusive stage rights for the play. His original Juliet was Mary Saunderson, afterward Mrs. Thomas Betterton, who is apparently the first woman ever to have played the part of Juliet.

Little Lights on LIVING

THE SUN-LIT TOPAZ

ONCE when leaving France, I received as a gift a charming little necklace of silver and lapis lazuli. With the gift came to me the story of the maker of the necklace. A little Frenchman who owned a tiny shop in the Latin quarter of old Paris always informed his patrons, I am told, that he made his jewelry with gold, silver and love.

One day an American lady asked to see the most beautiful thing in the shop. Without hesitation he brought from a high shelf a tiny box, and showed his visitor a necklace containing a marvelous topaz, which he had bought after the war from a noble French family. "I wish I could buy it," the lady said. To her surprise he responded, "I am so happy that you cannot. Though I need money badly, I need its beauty more. Always when I am tired and disheartened," he said, "I hang my topaz in the window, the sunlight comes through it on my work bench, then can I make things more beautiful."

If that would sing in all hearts each day—"to make things more beautiful," what a different world we could make of this old planet. Wars would cease. Hearts of selfish greed would change and share with their neighbors. We can make more beautiful the lives of those we meet each day, can glorify our work in office or home, no matter how humble it may be, can radiate from happy hearts the joy of living to even casual passers-by.

Early one morning sometime ago I was walking up the beautiful elm-bordered walk on the university campus. The day was glorious. There was still that intouchable freshness in air, trees and grass that only spring mornings have. It made one's spirit dance. I met a professor with his accustomed cane and brief case going to meet his eight o'clock class. One look at his frowning unhappy face, with mouth drooped and self-centered downward look, and my spirit halted, surprised that here was one, while walking under God's vaulted elms, constantly looking down. "No topaz in the window of his soul," thought I. A few steps further I met a freshman girl, whom I knew was having a hard financial struggle, working long hours after school, but, oh, what a "morning face" she had, radiant and lovely!

When the sunlight comes through the topaz of happiness, it will illumine not only our lives, but others as the sun-lit topaz made radiant the tired heart of the little old shopkeeper of Paris. Then can we make life more beautiful!

COMING LEISURE

NOT long ago a young graduate of two years declared that now her college days were over, life held little for her, as she did not need to work, and she was tired of play. "I am bored with society in particular and with life in general," she added with a sigh.

Here she was, talented, with a wealth of leisure time on her hands and had made of it only an idling time, instead of a growing time. "One's leisure is time to invest," I told her, "it is not time to spend. Time spent is gone, time invested is saved." Leisure is not "unoccupied time"—the dictionary notwithstanding! What an irretrievable mistake for countless generations to have been brought up on.

Too long have we been training our children to think and plan their lives in terms of dollars rather than time investment. Money spent can always be re-earned. Time spent can never be returned. Time should be budgeted like money now is budgeted. Children should be taught to expect the largest possible dividends from each day of 24 hours. They should anticipate education from their study time; skill from their play or leisure time; health from their sleeping time.

Parents lose an opportunity for giving their children an early life lesson on successful living when they fail to keep on training them in their play time, as we hear so often "run away and play." Play time in childhood becomes leisure in adulthood.

Leisure in America is coming; leisure that in the past has been a gift to the rich only will soon be part of an average man's day. In order to spread the work of the world to more heads and hands, some folk will be forced to work less hours so that others may work at all, for everyone who has to live ought to have a chance to work. Work is a blessed privilege, so is leisure. Only the man who appreciates work can fully appreciate leisure, and I am beginning to think, can appreciate life to its fullest.

The true test of an educated person is that he can enjoy himself when alone and not have to pay another to amuse him. Life holds no boredom for the man who can recreate his soul in his leisure time. Life's enrichments come to us not through the use of our money, but through the use of our time. Since the American goal has been riches rather than enrichment, what are we going to do with this coming leisure?

Housewife's Idea Box

Relief for a Burn
If you or one of the youngsters gets a light burn and you have no efficient remedy at hand, try this: Scrape a raw potato and make a poultice of it. This usually gives immediate relief. If not, continue applying the potato poultices. As soon as one gets hot and dry, replace it with a fresh one.

Wiping Out of Beaver
Deplored by Foresters
It is now an accepted belief of rangers and other forest authorities that beavers help to prevent forest fires, says John P. Dinney in Our Dumb Animals. Whenever logging companies move into a virgin forest they employ hunters to clear the streams of these busy animals. Their numerous dams regulate the flow of waters in the region, with the result that the surrounding lands retain sufficient moisture to check the easy outbreak of fires. With the extirpation of the beavers and their dams the waterways gradually dry up. The deadwood and brush, left by the logging company when it moves on, become dry as tinder, easily ignited.

A case in point is that of a virgin territory in northern Saskatchewan. With the appearance of the mill company the beavers disappeared. A million feet of lumber were sent out of the region every 24 hours. Due to the absence of dams the streams dried up; so did the deadwood. A fire broke out, destroying the mill and much of the remaining forests. In contrast is an adjacent heavily wooded area, where the beaver still holds forth. It is green; the streams are well stocked with fish, the forests with woodland creatures.

Hudson River Port Holds Celebration

Once Second in Importance to New York City.

Washington.—Hudson, N. Y., once a famous whaling base and second port in the state, recently celebrated its sesquicentennial.

"Despite a long sea-going tradition, the city of Hudson is no seaport," says the National Geographic society. "It lies 120 miles inland, between the Catskills and the Berkshires, on the east shore of the Hudson river. The site was chosen by an adventurous group of Quakers from Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard, who sailed their ships up the river in 1783, bringing families, supplies, and even portable houses with them. Two years later their settlement was incorporated as a city, the third city in the Empire state, preceded only by Albany and New York.

"Sturdy vessels from Hudson shipyards pushed their bows through distant seas. Rich cargoes of sperm oil and whalebone from the South Pacific; seal oil, furs, and hides from the Falkland islands and Antarctic waters; rum, molasses, and sugar from the West Indies, were unloaded at the city docks. Thrifty farming communities for miles around brought their produce to Hudson warehouses. At one time an average of 15 ships a day cleared the harbor.

Steam Succeeds Sail.

"By the middle of the last century whaling and sealing had declined, steam was succeeding sail, and freight cars were carrying Hudson valley produce to New York markets. Hudson's industries still are profitable though perhaps less romantic. They include the manufacture of cement, ice tools, ginger ale, power presses, and knitted goods.

"At the little village of Kinderhook,

WHO IS MY NEIGHBOR?

by LEONARD A. BARRETT

The dictionary gives two distinctly different definitions for the word neighbor. "One who dwells near another." "One who lives on friendly terms with another." These definitions suggest divergent philosophies of life. It is clearly evident that the answer to the question, who is my neighbor? cannot be given in terms of geographical limitations. The man who lives next door may or may not be my neighbor. The mere fact that his house is next to mine does not necessarily make him my neighbor. I may not even know his name and nothing about his family. He may be a complete stranger just as much as though he lived in a foreign land. The answer to the question cannot be made in terms of social or racial distinctions.

Paying for Parking

Oklahoma City, Okla., is the first city in America to charge its citizens a fee for parking on the streets. The photograph shows one of the new parking meters which are being installed as rapidly as possible in the downtown section. They are placed at 20-foot intervals along the curb and a motorist upon parking drops 5 cents in the meter which entitles him to park for the length of time designated upon the meter. This time varies in different zones. The meters are actuated by clockwork mechanism.

gether they understand one another. Much of the confusion and difficulty today is due to misunderstanding. In a recent biography of Herbert Hoover reference is made to his frequent use of the transatlantic telephone. The writer remarks—aside that if the telephone could have been used instead of communicating with foreign powers by means of written messages, the last great war would not have occurred.

This answer to the question suggests one way out of our social and economic ills. Our difficulty today is that we lack confidence. We are not willing to trust one another. One nation is suspicious of another. They are not on "friendly terms." They are not neighbors. Until they become such we can have no hope for international peace, compacts and courts notwithstanding. Labor disputes are settled on a basis of mutual understanding, so should it be with all disagreements whether between individuals, communities or nations. Long ago Walter Scott wrote "The race of mankind would perish did they cease to aid each other."

No party or individual can live happily or successfully alone. What occurs in Europe vitally affects America. What happens to my neighbor affects me. Who is my neighbor? The one with whom there is a mutual understanding provocative of peace and good will.

The Household

By Lydia Le Baron Walker

KEEPING cool in these hot days is not an easy thing to accomplish either by adults who have work to do, or by children engrossed in their play, which is active a good part of the time. There are certain things that aid in fulfilling the need, and at the same time are so simple that they can be done by anyone. And there are other ways which can be followed when one's tasks are adaptable, or after they have been finished. For instance, keeping in the shade out of doors where the air is circulating is not feasible all the time, but it is a pleasant method when work is through, or when tasks can be done under such circumstances. Shelling peas, stringing beans, and preparing some foods can be done under these comfortable conditions. Sitting in a room where light is well shaded, and the atmosphere is as cool as possible permits sewing to be done in the best environment available. Occasional cooling baths are wonderfully refreshing also and may be sufficiently invigorating to speed work up afterwards.

Apart from these ways, there are little things which lower the effects of the hot temperature. Dousing the face in cold water is reviving, and as it takes but a few moments, it interferes not at all, or but slightly, with work that must be done. Most persons find wetting the wrists with cold water or the back of the neck and under the ears lessens the heat appreciably. Which method is most effective depends upon the person. Some persons find nothing quite so reviving as cold water under and around the ears while others prefer it on the wrists or neck.

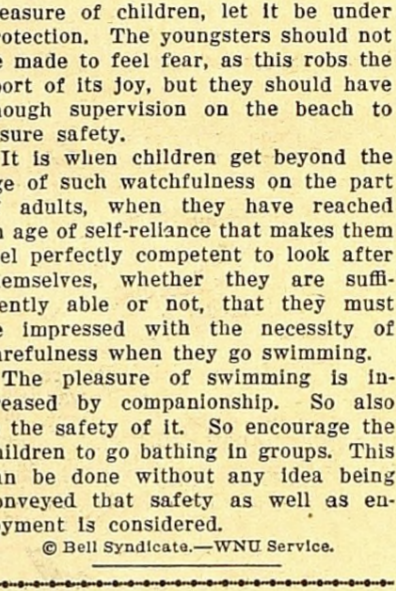

Inactivity Not Enough
Inactivity keeps the blood from circulating vigorously and is a great aid to keeping cool. If, during this period, however, the person keeps the mind working all the time with the thought of how hot he or she is, the inactivity does not prove the help desired. One should let the mind dwell on pleasant things, not disturbing ones, since pleasant thoughts keep the mind placid, while the other ferments it.

There is no use combating the fact that the mental attitude influences the hot or cool physical feeling. Persons are said to be in a heated argument, or a white heat of rage, or cool as a cucumber, etc., and the terms are not figurative but literal. So keep a good rein on the thoughts and see that they follow your guidance into refreshing lines of reflection, if you would keep cool.

Children on the Beach
In summer the desire of little folk to dabble in the water can be permitted to the good of their health when they are at the seashore. It is seldom that they will venture too far into the ocean, for the rim of the sea satisfies very little children. However, some older person has to be on guard lest the youngsters stumble and fall.

So while dabbling in the brink of the water on seashore, lake, or river, is recommended both for health and pleasure of children, let it be under protection. The youngsters should not be made to feel fear, as this robs the sport of its joy, but they should have enough supervision on the beach to insure safety.

It is when children get beyond the age of such watchfulness on the part of adults, when they have reached an age of self-reliance that makes them feel perfectly competent to look after themselves, whether they are sufficiently able or not, that they must be impressed with the necessity of carefulness when they go swimming. The pleasure of swimming is increased by companionship. So also is the safety of it. So encourage the children to go bathing in groups. This can be done without any idea being conveyed that safety as well as enjoyment is considered.

Beautiful Formal Gown

Intricate cutting and expert handling of the gleaming and mat surfaces of shell pink crepe satin combine to make a formal gown of rare beauty. The knotted effect at the back of the waist accentuates the graceful lines of the skirt.

Preparation of Wood
Close-grained woods, such as cherry, birch, white wood or maple, require an undercoat, or primer, to fill the pores of the wood before applying the final finish. This prevents the final coats from sinking in and disappearing in spots.

was tough in the pinches, getting out of several close calls without damage. LaBarge, Pinny hurler, allowed the locals only eight hits but his backing was too shaky, four serious errors being committed by his mates.

Quick grabbed the batting honors for the locals, getting a double and two singles in five trips to the plate. Libka was the only other Tawas player to get more than one hit. Peters, with three out of four, and B. Good, with two out of four, were the big hitters for Pinconning.

Next Sunday the West Branch boys come to the local athletic field to tangle with the Tawas club. After a poor start the West Branch team has been steadily climbing the ladder and promises to give Tawas a real battle. Let's go out and give the local boys a hand to help them win this important game.

Use Tails as Weapons

Some animals swing a wicked tail. Whales are famous for this and so are certain large lizards. The octopus has the prize weapons of all in his eight arms, each equipped with a double row of suckers.

Liberality Towards the Weak

The growing liberalty towards the weak, in social life, corresponds to that respect for the minority, in political life, which is the essence of freedom.

Women's Blood Preferred

Women blood donors are preferred in hospitals in Canada because their blood clots more easily than that of men. This is considered a vital aspect in the transfusion of blood.

Sex and Memory

There is no detectable difference in memory abilities between men and women or boys and girls, psychologists at the University of California report.

Musical Ability Elusive

According to tests made on school children in Germany, musical ability does not depend upon general ability nor upon the surroundings of a child.

Fighting Fish of Siam

The fighting fish of Siam, only about 3 inches long, will attack any fish on sight. Contests are held with these fish.

Some Glass Tough

Some glass is tough. In lenses cooled quickly the strains are controlled and even when dropped on a concrete floor do not break.

Burial of Lafayette

When Lafayette died in France his grave was filled with American earth and his body wrapped in the Stars and Stripes.
