Iosco County Chapter Of Red Cross To Hold Drive November 23-28

Mrs. John LeClair, chairman of the Red Cross Roll Call in this county, announced yesterday that Iosco County Chapter would hold its annual drive between November 23 and November 28.

The following message was sent to the people of Michigan by Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald:

"Conformable to a practice which the American people for many years have observed, the period from November 11th to the 28th, inclusive, will be especially devoted to the furtherance of the Annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross.

"No official importunity should be required to procure prompt and adequate response to the purposes of this occasion. Grateful remembrance of the past accomplishments should suffice.

"Wherever and whenever war, pestilence, or disaster of any kind, have inflicted unusual suffering upon our people, the American Red Cross, throughout the long period of its existence, has been the first in the field as an angel of mercy.

"During the past five years, marked by unprecedented destitution and suffering, this great and capable humanitarian organization has been an outstanding means through which millions of our unfortunate fellow citizens have been supplied with food and clothing.

"The exigencies of the present, moreover, demonstrate that the need for adequate support for the American Red Cross, and the continuance of its ministrations, was never greater than now.

"Wherefore, as Governor of the State of Michigan, I urge that every adult citizen respond as liberally as income will permit to this noble cause."

Byron S. Groesbeck Is Given Promotion In Forest Service

Byron S. Groesbeck, supervisor of the Wayne National Forest Purchase Unit, with headquarters at Columbus, will assume the duty of Assistant Chief of the Division of Lands of the Regional office on November 15, announced E. W. Tinker today.

Mr. Groesbeck, who has been forest supervisor for the Wayne Unit since February 11, 1935, has been with the Forest Service since May 11, 1920. He first served as ranger on the White River National Forest in the West, and came to this region in 1930, where he served successively as forest ranger at the Huron National Forest here, assistant supervisor in the Upper Peninsula until his recent promotion. "The land purchase program in the North Central region," stated Mr. Tinker, "has as a whole been progressing very satisfactorily.

"The North Central region has practically doubled in size in the past year, and we are trying to consummate the land purchases in the new National Forest areas as soon as possible. With the 19,150,000 acres of National Forest land to be found in areas varying in size from three-quarters of a million to four million acres in each of the eight states of this region, a large force of four-hundred supervisors and approximately 80 rangers are being used to speed up the land acquisition program as rapidly as possible."

W. P. A. PROGRAM FOR IOSCO NEARING PEAK

The W. P. A. program for Iosco county is now nearing its peak. To date several projects located in the various parts of the county have been started, namely, the Oscoda river road, county drains, county rock crusher, East Tawas athletic field, and the Tawas City sewer extension.

The W. P. A. program is based upon the theory that it is to employ all able bodied persons who are on the relief rolls in May of 1935. The local relief agency has certified all of those persons. However, before these people can be assigned to work they must register with the United States Re-employment Service.

Every Thursday from 1:00 p. m. to 4:00 p. m. any person who so wishes may register at the City Hall in Tawas City. After the relief agency has certified a relief worker, it is then up to the United States Re-employment Service to assign these persons to work.

New Seating Arrangement At Family Nearly Complete

The new seating arrangement at the Family Theatre, East Tawas, is nearly completed. Mr. Berube has installed velour upholstered spring seats for the comfort of his patrons, and the placing of the seats is so arranged that everyone will have a clear view of the screen, undisturbed by those sitting directly in front of him.

The Family Theatre invites you to come and try the new seats and see a good show.

WILBER BOY IS VICTIM IN GUN ACCIDENT

William Christian Taken To Hospital; In Serious Condition

William Christian, 18 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Christian of Wilber township, is at Samaritan hospital, Bay City, in a serious condition the result of a gunshot wound. The accident occurred Sunday while he was hunting with friends a short distance from his home.

Although hunting with five companions it is said that the boy claims he does not know who shot him. First aid was given by Dr. John W. Weed of East Tawas but he had already suffered a considerable loss of blood. He was hurried to Samaritan hospital, Bay City, where it was found that his condition would not allow an operation until the next day.

The full charge had hit the right shoulder at the base of the neck. The boy was treated Monday and the shot and a large amount of wadding were removed from the wound. The boy may suffer a permanent disability of the arm owing to injuries to the nerve centers, it is said. In addition to the flesh wound and loss of blood, the spinal process was injured by the charge of shot.

Mrs. Fred Halberstadt

Mrs. Fred Halberstadt, age 64 years, died Sunday evening at her home at East Tawas after an illness of ten years. She had been a resident of East Tawas for 35 years.

Leah Diebel was born July 17, 1871, in Bruce county, Ontario. She was united in marriage to Fred Halberstadt 44 years ago. To this union four children were born. She is survived by the husband, one daughter, Mrs. Laura Smith of Mason, two sons, Fred Halberstadt of Hamilton, Ontario, and George Halberstadt of Detroit, four brothers and seven sisters.

The funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from the East Tawas Methodist Episcopal church. Rev. W. A. Gregory officiated. Interment was in the Greenwood cemetery.

Those from out of the city who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Smith of Mason; Mr. and Mrs. George Halberstadt and children of Detroit; Fred Halberstadt of Waterloo, Ontario; Mrs. John Foell of Waterloo, Ontario; Mrs. Robert Brown of Gorrie, Ontario; and Miss A. Diebel and Edward Diebel of Mildmay, Ontario.

Former German Officer To Tell Thrilling War Stories At East Tawas

An event of outstanding importance will take place Sunday night, November 17th, at the Community Building in East Tawas when Count Alfred Van Niezychowski, formerly a German naval officer, now an American citizen, tells for the first time one of the most thrilling stories of the war, previous to the entry of the United States in the World War, the 251 day voyage of the mystery ship, "Kronprinz Wilhelm."

This gigantic German passenger liner was the terror of the Atlantic Ocean. For nearly seven months she avoided the entire Allied fleet, sank fourteen ships without losing the lives of any passengers, and finally with only twenty-five tons of coal in her bunkers she ran the Allied blockade and slipped into the navy yard at Norfolk, Virginia.

It is a thrilling story about the manner in which this German vessel became a raider. On August 3, 1914, as on raw, gusty, drizzly and unpleasant night as one may see, the "Kronprinz Wilhelm" weighed anchor and the great adventure began. No lights showed as she left the New York harbor and sped off into the Atlantic. Once out of sight of land, the work of camouflage the ship began, and shortly after the German cruiser, "Karlruhe" was met and the commander of the "Kronprinz Wilhelm" during her voyage came aboard. Then the real adventure began.

Continually avoiding the Allied warships, the "Kronprinz Wilhelm" succeeded in striking fourteen vessels, capturing thousands of tons of contraband material and without the loss of a single life. Count Niezychowski, second in command of the "Kronprinz Wilhelm," brings to light for the first time the highlights of the cruise of the phantom ship. A Polish count serving in the German navy, he was in a difficult position at the outbreak of the war. The story of his adventures is one of the most interesting which has yet been presented on the lecture.

Would Have Voters Settle Fair Grounds Sale Controversy

At a meeting of the Iosco County Agricultural Society held Friday afternoon it was voted that the proposed sale of the fair grounds to the Federal government should be confirmed by the people of the county at the next spring election before the right to hold fairs on the grounds be given up by the society. This right was retained by the society when the grounds were deeded to the county. A proposal to lease the grounds for two years to the government was OK'ed by the society.

POTATO SHOW IS BEING HELD AT DETROIT

Exhibits Are On Display At Department Stores This Week

Michigan potatoes dressed in their finest garments are meeting all the best people in Detroit during the Michigan quality potato show being held November 11 to 16, according to the farm crops department at Michigan State College.

The potatoes are making public appearances in the great department store windows and in the lobbies of many hotels. They are also featured on the menus of popular restaurants, and hotel chefs are serving them in ways that tempt the most exacting gourmand.

Twenty Michigan counties sent competitive exhibits which are shown in the C. A. Finsterwald store. These exhibits are representative samples of the kind of potatoes that are on sale by growers in the counties from which they came. A display of the different market grades and varieties of potatoes is shown at the same place.

The College farm crops department, some time ago, sent to Detroit hotels bushel samples of Katahdin potatoes and asked for a cooking test to find how this variety compared with the best potatoes which could be bought from other states. Reports on this test are very encouraging. Russet Rurals and Green Mountains can satisfactorily meet the same test.

Detroit buys more than 5,000,000 bushels of potatoes each year and the Michigan crop is normally not much over 20,000,000 bushels. If Michigan growers will meet the consumers' demand for high class quality, they have at their doors one of the best markets in the nation.

Mrs. Mary Brandal

Mrs. Mary Brandal was born at Varney, Ontario, November 20, 1875, and passed away at the home of her son, James, in Flint Tuesday, November 5.

Mrs. Brandal's early life was spent in Ontario, moving to Pinconning at the age of 12 with her parents. In her early twenties she came to Hale and a few years later was united in marriage to Cashus Brandal. Her married life was spent at Hale and on their farm near that place.

The deceased had been in failing health for several years past. One week prior to her death she had gone to Flint to visit her children. She was taken ill a few days later with a severe attack of heart trouble and complications and could not rally. Her children and husband were summoned and early Tuesday morning, November 5, she passed quietly away. She leaves to mourn her death her husband; three daughters, Mrs. C. L. Cox of Battle Creek, Mrs. Lee Fleming and Mrs. A. Alender of Flint; two sons, James, of Flint, and John, of Hale; other relatives and a host of friends.

Funeral services were held in the Hale Baptist church on Thursday afternoon, Rev. Frank Metcalf of Tawas City officiating. She was an attendant of the Baptist church and a member of the Home department of the Sunday school. The beautiful floral offerings and large gatherings of friends at the last rites testified to the esteem in which she was held. The remains were laid to rest in the Plainfield township cemetery.

Gets Heavy Sentence For Illegal Possession Of Deer

Jeff Sesler of Baldwin township, plead guilty when taken before Justice W. C. Davidson Wednesday by Conservation Officer A. G. Leitz on a charge of killing a deer and having venison in his possession out of season. He was sentenced to serve 45 days in the House of Correction or pay a fine of $100.00 and costs. He chose to serve the 45 days.

Joan Crawford In Year's Screen Hit

Starring Joan Crawford and directed by W. S. Van Dyke—this combination is enough to make any picture a success. In the case of "I Live My Life," the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production coming to the Family Theatre, East Tawas, next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, November 17-18-19, the combination coupled with a powerful story, is made an outstanding production.

Joan Crawford has never appeared more glamorous nor been more beautifully photographed. Her delineation of the gay, careless, heart-free character is the work of a fine actress.

Brian Aherne is her leading man and equally stimulating is the supporting cast. Frank Morgan is up to his old humorous tricks as the bumbling, soft-hearted father. Aline McMahon brings dignity to her role of a woman sadly in love.

You'll be sorry if you miss it.

Various State and City Elections Give Cheer to Both Parties—Greece Votes for Restoration of King George II.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© Western Newspaper Union.

REPUBLICANS shouted loudly that the victory of their party in the New York state election was a terrific blow to the New Deal and a repudiation of President Roosevelt. The Democrats declared it was no such thing. James A. Farley, who is both a national and state chairman of the Democrats, gave them their cue when he declared recapture of control of the legislature by the G. O. P. was "normal" and that the Democratic vote for assembly candidates taken as a whole exceeded the Republican vote by more than half a million, which was something of an exaggeration.

J. A. Farley

The Republicans gained nine additional seats in the assembly, giving them 52 to 68 held by the Democrats. Only two senate seats were involved in the contest, both to fill vacancies. One of them went to a Republican and the other to a Democrat, leaving the setup of the upper legislature body unchanged.

In 45 cities of the state, the Republicans elected 33 mayors, including Roland B. Marvin of Syracuse, possible nominee for governor next year. The President saw Hyde Park go Republican and Farley failed to hold his own district in Rockland county.

The Democratic organization in New York came through strongly and menaces the prospect of a re-election for Mayor LaGuardia, observers hold. The Fusion forces, which turned Tammany out two years ago, crumbled.

In Philadelphia S. Davis Wilson, Republican, was elected mayor but the vote was close enough for the Democrats to call it a virtual victory for the New Deal. Cleveland, Columbus and 25 out of 42 other cities and towns in Ohio chose Republican mayors, and so did a number of municipalities in Massachusetts. Connecticut Socialists re-elected Jasper McLevy mayor of Bridgeport and Democratic mayors were returned in Hartford and New Haven. Republicans gained control of the New Jersey legislature, but Hudson county, including Jersey City, went Democratic by a record vote.

Results in the spectacular election in Kentucky gave the New Dealers a real reason for rejoicing, for A. B. Chandler, known as "Happy," the Democratic candidate for governor who had the support of the national administration, handily defeated Judge King Swope, the Republican nominee. This despite the fact that Democratic Governor Lagoon had declared himself against Chandler and threw his support to Swope. The referendum on repeal of the state prohibition amendment gave the repealists a good majority.

In Virginia and Mississippi all the Democratic nominees were elected, which was to be expected.

"GROSSLY arbitrary, unreasonable and capricious," was the way Federal Judge William C. Coleman of Baltimore described the public utility holding act, and he held the law unconstitutional in its entirety. In a long decision, the judge declared that the act's "invalid provisions" were "so multifarious and so intimately and repeatedly interwoven throughout the act as to render them incapable of separation from such parts of the act, if any, as otherwise might be valid."

Judge Coleman instructed trustees for the American States Public Service company, plaintiffs in the litigation on the act, to treat the law as "invalid and of no effect."

The Securities and Exchange commission announced in Washington, however, that enforcement of the act will continue, despite the ruling.

GEORGE of Greece is once more king. The plebiscite resulted in his recall by a huge majority, and before long the monarch will be back on the throne he abdicated 12 years ago. The vote in favor of the restoration was almost unanimous, even in Crete, the birthplace of the republican leader Venizelos who is now in exile and under sentence of death.

As the results of the balloting came in, Premier George Kondylis appeared on a balcony of a government building and announced: "As of tomorrow, King George II will be king of the Hellenes. There will be no political parties. They have been broken up by the people themselves and a new epoch of reconstruction will start."

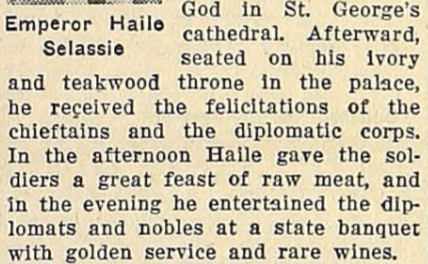

MACKENZIE KING, the new prime minister of Canada, was in Washington negotiating with President Roosevelt a reciprocal trade agreement between the United States and the Dominion. Completion of such a treaty was one of the planks of King's recent election platform.

States than any other country, and America, in turn, is Canada's best customer. Last year America exported goods worth $302,000,000 to Canada and imported goods worth $231,000,000. These totals compare with 1929 totals of $948,000,000 and $503,000,000 respectively.

CHINA has suddenly abandoned the metallic silver currency standard, adopted a managed paper currency and otherwise reformed its monetary system. The four-point program was announced in Shanghai by Finance Minister H. H. Kung just after Vice President Garner and his party of congressmen had left the city for Manila.

The American party was entertained by high Chinese officials, including Kung. But, despite much oratory of the hands across the sea character, no hint was given of China's contemplated action. However, all English language newspapers in Shanghai carried long interviews with Senator William H. King of Utah and Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, both of whom practically told China that it "was not any of her business what America did about silver," and predicted the continuance of United States purchases until the price of silver has reached $1.29 an ounce.

WHILE the invading Italians were pushing further and further into his realm, Emperor Haile Selassie I of Ethiopia celebrated the fifth anniversary of his coronation, and he did it in fine style, too. Escorted by a throng of feudal chiefs in barbaric attire, the king of kings and his queen passed through the streets of Addis Ababa amid wildly cheering thousands, and gave thanks to God in St. George's cathedral. Afterward, seated on his ivory and teakwood throne in the palace, he received the felicitations of the chieftains and the diplomatic corps. In the afternoon Haile gave the soldiers a great feast of raw meat, and in the evening he entertained the diplomats and nobles at a state banquet with golden service and rare wines.

Emperor Haile Selassie

The emperor holds that the big oil concession negotiated for American interests by F. M. Rickett, the English promoter, still holds good although the Americans relinquished it at the suggestion of Secretary Hull. "This concession," said Haile, "is an integral part of our national economic program. We purposely granted it to a neutral country like the United States in order to avoid political complications and international jealousies. It is unfortunate that war must delay its fulfillment. Through the benefits accruing to this concession we hope to raise the social level of people and provide them with honorable remunerative employment."

THE League of Nations set November 18 as the day on which the economic sanctions against Italy should be put into effect, and later decided that coal, iron and oil should be included in the embargo. The league appointed Premier Laval of France and Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign minister, to carry on peace negotiations with Italy. Sir Samuel still insisted any peace must be within the framework of the League.

The Italian armies on the northern front pushed further into Ethiopia, following the tanks and with bombing planes active overhead, and one column entered the city of Hauenzi on the way to Makale. The invaders met with no resistance of consequence. The government at Addis Ababa announced that Italian planes had killed 30 women, 15 children and 100 cows with bombs and machine gun fire at Gorahe.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has accepted an invitation from Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, to appear before that organization in Chicago on December 9 and deliver an address. Mr. Roosevelt will arrive in Chicago at nine o'clock that morning, make his speech, and start back to Washington three hours later.

The President's promised trip to Indiana to take part in the dedication of a memorial to George Rogers Clark at Vincennes has been postponed until June of next year, when he will also visit the Texas centennial exposition in Dallas.

ADMINISTRATOR HARRY L. HOPKINS issued an order barring from work relief jobs all persons not on the dole as of November 1. He said, however, that despite this order 10 per cent non-relief labor could be employed on any project, and more in specific cases. The $330,000,000 public works non-federal program and the $100,000,000 low cost housing program have been exempted entirely from the relief labor requirement because of a shortage of skilled construction workmen on relief.

BILLY SUNDAY, the spectacular evangelist whose fiery eloquence led many thousands to "hit the saw-dust trail" to the altar and seek salvation, died of heart disease at the home of his brother-in-law in Chicago. His wife, known all over the land as "Ma," was with him at the end and said Billy died as he had always wished, suddenly. Mr. Sunday, who was almost seventy-three years of age, was a professional ball player in his youth. He was converted in 1886 and in 1903 was ordained a Presbyterian minister.

One of America's leading scientists, Henry Fairfield Osborn, died in New York at the age of seventy-three years. He was eminent in many branches of science and was sometimes called "the successor to Darwin and Huxley." For years he was the president of the American Museum of Natural History.

SOVIET Russia celebrated the eighteenth anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution with a tremendous display of its armed strength in Moscow. Infantry, cavalry, tanks and all the other army services marched for hours past the tomb of Lenin, where stood Joseph H. Stalin and other leaders to review the long parade.

Voroshiloff, commissar for war and navy, declared in the order of the day that the Soviet army was ready to protect the frontiers of "our sacred land" at any moment. He warned the world that danger of a new general war hung over mankind.

The executive committee of the Communist Internationale published an appeal to workers of all countries to join hands to force an end to Italy's war in Ethiopia, protect the Chinese people from invasion, ward off danger of war in Europe and bring about a downfall of Fascism.

WHEN the nations get together in London in December for the next naval conference it is not likely they will be able to agree on much in the way of limitation of naval armament. But there is a good prospect that Italy will there demand the neutralization of the straits of Gibraltar, which would be extremely distasteful and perhaps embarrassing to Great Britain. Diplomats are certain the British would refuse to make the concession.

It was reported in Paris that the Duce would ask that the straits be put in the same status as the Suez canal, and would offer to scrap two 35,000 ton battleships now under construction as an evidence of his good faith. Britain hopes France will support her attitude concerning this demand and in return may agree to take a larger percentage of exports from French Morocco to strengthen France's position in that colony. French naval experts said that, while neutralization of the straits would guarantee free passage for France for all time, yet "it would be better to have a strong British hold on Gibraltar" in case France got in a war with Germany and was faced with the prospect of German submarines entering the Mediterranean to ravage her commerce and stop transport of troops from north African possessions.

AFTER a conference with agricultural specialists and representatives of farmers, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace announced that a two year program for corn and hog producers had been determined upon, the main features of which are:

1. Prevention of an excessive production of corn in 1936 and 1937.
  2. Allowance of an increase in next year's pig crop that would be at least as great as it is estimated would take place were no adjustment program in effect.
  3. Prevention of an excessive increase in the 1937 pig crop.
- The new contract will require that an area at least equal to the number of acres withdrawn from production of corn be added to the usual area of the farm devoted to soil-improving and erosion-preventing uses. This requirement was a part of the 1934 corn-hog contract but was relaxed when the drought came.

MEDALS were awarded by the Carnegie hero fund commission to 47 men and children of the United States and Canada, or to their relatives in 11 cases. Most of the awards are for rescues of persons from drowning.

Two silver medals were awarded and 45 bronze. The silver ones went to James C. Martin, fifty-one-year-old Joplin (Mo.) laborer and Christine Stewart, thirty-five, of Brookline, Mass. Martin went into a sewage pit trying to save a fellow worker. Both drowned. Miss Stewart leaped into the sea near Bar Harbor, Me., in an attempt to save Emily McDougall, thirty-one. Rescuers pulled them out 40 minutes later. Miss McDougall died. Cash awards totaling $7,000 for educational purposes accompanied the medals in 14 cases, the commission announced. In 22 other cases, a total of $17,250 was granted for purchase of homes or "other worthy purposes."

GERMANY has no designs on western Europe, but she does intend to promote her expansion in the Baltic states, and hopes later to divide the Ukraine with Poland. That is the substance of assertions made by Pertinax and Genevieve Tabouis, two of the leading political writers of the Paris press. They say Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, minister of finance, revealed these plans to Jean Tannery, president of the Bank of France, and Montagu Norman, president of the Bank of England. Schacht, the writers say, exhorted the two financiers to act with Germany "in the financial field" to end the Italo-Ethiopian conflict as soon as possible.

HERE is a sketch of the buildings of the huge national research center for the Department of Agriculture at Berwyn Heights, Maryland, on which work has been started. Nine thousand acres of land will go into the immense "Nature and Farm Study" which is planned to be the largest of its kind in the world. One thousand of the acres will be used in an experimental low-cost housing project.

THE THREE WATCHERS

WHEN Paddy the Beaver slapped the water with his broad tail, making a noise like a pistol shot, Lightfoot the Deer understood that this was meant as a warning of danger. He was on his feet instantly with eyes, ears and noses seeking the cause of Paddy's warning. After a moment or two Lightfoot stole softly up to the top of a little ridge some distance back from Paddy's pond, but from the top of which he could see the whole of the pond. There he hid among some close-growing young hemlock trees. It wasn't long before he saw a hunter with a terrible gun come down to the shore of the pond.

Paddy Watched the Hunter.

There was a deer anywhere around this pond he probably is on his way now. I'll have a look around and see if there are any signs."

So the hunter kept on to the edge of Paddy's pond and then began to walk around it, studying the ground as he walked. Presently he found the footprints of Lightfoot in the mud where Lightfoot had gone down to the pond to drink.

"I thought as much," muttered the hunter. "Those tracks were made last night. That deer probably was lying down somewhere near here, and I might have got a shot but for that pesky beaver. I'll just look the land over and then I think I'll wait here a while. If that deer isn't too badly scared he may come back."

So the hunter went all around the pond, looking into all likely hiding places. He found where Lightfoot had been lying, and he knew that in all probability Lightfoot had been there when Paddy gave the danger signal. "It's no use for me to try to follow him," thought the hunter. "It is too dry for me to track him. He may not be so badly scared after all. I'll just find a good place and wait."

So the hunter found an old log behind some small hemlock trees and there sat down. He could see all around Paddy's pond. He sat perfectly still. He was a clever hunter, and he knew that so long as he did not move he was not likely to be noticed by any sharp eyes that might come that way. What he didn't know was that Lightfoot had been watching him all the time, and was even then standing where he could see him. And another thing he didn't know was that Paddy the Beaver had come out of his house and, swimming under water, had reached a hiding place on the opposite shore, from which he too had seen the hunter sit down on the log.

So the hunter watched for Lightfoot and Lightfoot and Paddy watched the hunter.

ONE PATH TO CHARM THAT IS EASY TO ACHIEVE

I HAVE been reading an article about how dancing improves posture and carriage.

It is advised that we start in early childhood the training that brings about good posture and a graceful carriage. We are told of the rhythms which many schools are now teaching in the kindergarten, how proper breathing helps, the importance of good physical condition and always that paramount matter of example—

QUESTION BOX

by ED WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn: I am president of a debating society, and on next Saturday we are to debate the following subject, "Who Do the Silliest Things, Men or Women?" It would help us considerably if you would tell me the silliest thing you ever saw a man do. Will you tell me?

Yours truly,
OPHELIA SORESPOT.

Answer: The silliest thing I ever saw a man do was one day in the post office. I saw this man wait around for two hours and the minute he saw the postal clerk turn his back, he pushed four letters into the box, without stamps, thinking he was saving the postage.

Dear Mr. Wynn: A friend of mine was invited to a party at a young lady's apartment, and he went. During the evening he told the young lady, quite frankly, that he did not like her apartment. The young lady had my friend arrested and he was charged with assault. How did the judge figure out an assault charge?

Yours truly,
Y. SHOODHE.

Answer: The judge probably figured as long as your friend had said nasty things about the young lady's apartment he was guilty of "knocking her flat."

Dear Mr. Wynn: I go with a crowd of boys and girls and once a week we meet and those who can sing do so, while others just tell jokes and stories. I tell jokes. There is one girl in the crowd who doesn't like me and every time I tell a joke she always says: "That joke is 40 years old." How can I cure her?

Truly yours,
JOE KING.
Answer: The next time you tell a letting the children see good posture and graceful walking so that they will imitate it.

As I read this it came to me that not enough has been said about the carriage of our women. We hear a good deal about our bad voices, how unfavorably they compare with the voices of women of other countries, how important is a good speaking voice in a woman. But of a woman's walk, which is no less important than her voice in the impression she creates, in any hope she may cherish for that elusive quality of charm—it seems that far too little notice is taken, or expressed.

If we observe the walk of the average woman from the viewpoint of grace and charm, we must be struck with horror; so few women except those who are in some way athletic walk in a way which is satisfying to the eye. So few women have that stride from the hip that means freedom and poise in walking; so few have animation in their walk, so few, so very few, have rhythm.

No woman can have poise with a mincing little hop of a walk. No

A PUFF and a squeak, and it's plain to see, My daughter is having company! They all pile out of a Model "T"!

It's covered with paint of a lurid hue— Red and yellow and purple, too, And the windshield is strange to the adult view!

But the fifteen-year-olds who all say it's "hot" Are gay as if pulled in a chariot By six white steeds on a movie lot!

It wheezes and makes a peculiar noise That is drowned by the laughter of the boys Who call for the girls in this weirdest of toys!

And I laugh, as I think I would rather be Eddie and Jack with that Model "T" Than the wealthiest magnate of history!

Fringe Comes Back

Black silk fringe forms the hieroglyphic effect of the skirt and emphasizes the reversed shawl line of the bodice in the dress of black silk crepe. Large clips of brilliants are fastened at each side of the neck.

woman can have charm who waddles from side to side, no woman can have beauty who seems to be dragging one foot after another.

And this is one thing, this matter of a woman's walk, which anyone can learn without a teacher, which has no mysterious technique, and requires absolutely no expense. Any woman can walk well by just thinking about it! You can see the difference between a fine beautiful walk and a bad walk. And any child has sufficient imitative faculty to reproduce the good one.

Some of the paths toward charm are straight and narrow and difficult of attainment. But there is one path to charm which is accessible to all of us who have normal physical build. The attainment of good carriage, of a graceful walk, is comparatively easy—and cheap. You need only think, when you are standing or walking, of how you are standing or walking, think about it until the carriage improved by your own sensitiveness has become natural!

"GIB" and MALTA

A Street in Valetta.

Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

GIBRALTAR, western gateway to the Mediterranean, and Malta, the mid-Mediterranean sentinel, both British-owned, have been brought into the news spotlight because of the Italo-Ethiopian political situation.

The fortified rock of Gibraltar, long the symbol of strength, rears its lofty summit above the north bank of the 14-mile-wide Strait of Gibraltar. It is known to every school child; yet there is, at its base, a city named for the rock, that is, perhaps, known to but few.

Gibraltar is a British city if the traveler confines his observations to British soldiers who are everywhere, British "Bobbies" who appear as if they had just emerged from a London police station, British flags that top the masts of municipal and government buildings, and British warships and commercial vessels that outnumber all others anchored in the harbor.

But a glance at the street crowds and the city's buildings reveals a strange mixture. Most Gibraltar buildings are Spanish in design. Its narrow streets are crowded with bustling throngs from many parts of the world. Scotchmen in kilts brush past turbaned Moors from the other side of the strait; Spaniards from Madrid, Malaga, and Cadiz mingle with sturdy Greeks; ruddy-skinned Hindus and Egyptians jostle Levantine Jews in gaberdeens; and dusky Senegal negroes rub elbows with Chinese from Canton. And weaving in and out of the human mass are hundreds of foreign seamen from boats that come to Gibraltar for fuel, trade, and repairs.

Town Climbs the Rock.
The town begins at the shore of the broad bay and rises 250 feet up the north side of the rock. Long flights of steps lead to the upper portion of the town, making wheeled traffic impossible on many streets. The Mediterranean, or south side of the rock, is almost a sheer cliff. Fishermen have built, however, small villages in the few recesses which are reached by narrow paths.

Between Spain and the British territory is a narrow strip of land called the neutral zone where travelers get the best land view of the rock. The giant mass of stone was one of the Pillars of Hercules of ancient times.

The rock's highest point is more than twice the height of the Washington monument or about 100 feet higher than the world's tallest building. Since the Moors first occupied Gibraltar centuries ago, its face has frequently undergone "treatment." A fortified castle dating back to Moorish occupation still stands in one of its recesses, sharply contrasting with the more modern British ramparts. Tunnels have been bored, paths dynamited and in places its rough "countenance" has been given an application of cement upon which rainwater is caught and drained into reservoirs of the town. In natural caves in the rock live the famous Gibraltar monkeys, probably the only monkeys in Europe that were not brought there by men in modern times. The animals are protected by law and are fed by the British army.

The city took its name from the rock, which was called Mount Abyla or Apes Hill in ancient times. It was once owned by the Phoenicians and fell, in turn, to the Carthaginians, Romans and Visigoths.

In the Eighth century the Moorish chief, Tarik-Ibn-Zeyad, landed on the rock and called it Gibe'l-Tarik or Mountain of Tarik, of which "Gibraltar" is a corruption.

The Moors had held Gibraltar for six centuries when in 1309 the Spanish seized it, but 24 years later the Moslems regained possession. It became Spanish territory again in 1462. The British have held the rock since 1704 when they defeated a combined Spanish and French fleet. Since, the British have had frequent wars over Gibraltar's possession. One Spanish siege lasted four years (1779-1783).

Malta a Strong Base.

For more than a century Malta has sheltered powerful British warships guarding sea lanes to Mediterranean ports, and, in more recent years, to India, Australia, and the Far East via the Suez canal. Now it is a strong aerial base as well.

Malta deserves attention, however, for other than military or strategic reasons. On the little island an ancient race still lives and speaks an otherwise extinct tongue. Recently Great Britain suspended Malta's constitution to combat a movement to turn Malta to the Italian language in preference to English or the islanders' own unique speech.

Planted by fate at a strategic point on one of the world's great marine highways, this drab piece of land, less than a hundred square miles in area, has been called to fill an important role in the history of the world.

Malta and its satellite islands were once linked to Africa and Europe by a land bridge. With the sinking of this link, the islands were left standing like sentinels between the eastern and western basins of the Mediterranean, 58 miles from Sicily and 180 miles from Africa, near the narrowest part of the sea.

Now Malta guards the direct route from Gibraltar to Great Britain's eastern empire. Perfect harbors make it an ideal naval base. Lately it has become a hub of commercial, as well as military air traffic in the region. Besides the main island, the group comprises Gozo, Comino, the Islet of Cominotto, and Filfla, a rock used by the British for naval target practice. Malta has been called the stepchild, as well as the "stepping stone," of the Mediterranean. Since the dawn of its recorded history, many nationalities have ruled it, beginning with the Phoenicians, and running a range which includes Greeks, Carthaginians, Romans, Arabs, Normans, French, and British.

Maltese a Race Alone.

But though always under a foreign flag, the Maltese retained their racial identity. Handsome, good-humored, and sturdy, they are believed to be remnants of the great Mediterranean race which peopled the shores of this storied sea long before the rise of Greece and Rome.

Their present speech is derived from the language of the Phoenicians, whose ships more than 3,000 years ago floated in Malta's harbors as do the British men-of-war today. Among the upper classes and the younger generation it is being replaced by English and Italian.

Weaving a pattern of mystery over the island are deep parallel lines in the solid rock, believed to be the tracks of ancient cart wheels. Some plunge beneath an arm of the sea and reappear on the other side—testimony to the comings and goings of a people who dwell here before the land assumed its present shape. Neolithic temples also have been found.

Christianity was brought to Malta in 58 A. D. by a castaway on its shores—the Apostle Paul. Fifteen centuries later this island, thrust out toward the East and Africa, won the name of "the shield of Christendom" when the valiant Knights of Malta beat back the Turkish hordes. In memory of the victory the grand master founded Valetta, a city "built by gentlemen for gentlemen."

The knights, their power declining, eventually were expelled by Napoleon Bonaparte, who entered the harbor in 1798 on his way to Egypt. A revolt against the French garrison, combined with the assistance of the British fleet under Lord Nelson, resulted in surrender of the islands in September, 1800, and since that time they have been under British rule.

Murder Is Done by Tick of Clock

One Dies Every 42 Minutes As Blade of Death Sweeps Nation.

America's murders are on a 24-hour schedule. The minute hand of the nation's crime clock is a blade of death, slicing off another human life every 42 minutes, adding the figure 35 each day to our ever mounting homicide rate.

For despite G-men, radio scout cars and lie detectors, the quaint American custom of large scale killing has become deep rooted, especially in the South.

As against the 13 northern American cities having no deaths from homicide last year, 12 of the 13 with the highest homicide rate were south of the Mason-Dixon line. The one exception, East St. Louis, is northern only geographically, its people being predominantly southern.

Murder will out, statistically, each July as experts complete a survey over the preceding year's homicide records. The current report shows that approximately 35 people are killed each day by their fellow men.

It shows Lansing to be one of the 13 cities without homicide in 1934, and Grand Rapids to be one of the 10 cities with the lowest homicide records.

Center of all-around plain and fancy killing, however, is Macon, Ga., which received the all-American rating of 66.7 on a 1934 rating of 36 homicides among 54,150 people, or an average of three killings a month. Proportionately, nearly seven times as many persons in Macon are done to death by shooting, stabbing, choking or poisoning than the average for the country at large.

It's not much safer in Memphis, either, where a rate of 56.5 per 100,000 leads Atlanta with 52.3; Birmingham with 50.2; Jacksonville, 49.6; Montgomery, 49.2; Nashville, 48.0; Petersburg, Va., 47.3; Augusta, Ga., 45.7; Lexington, Ky., 42.1; Savannah, 40.8; Mobile, 37.9; Little Rock, 37.0; East St. Louis, 33.5, and Charleston, 31.7.

But by way of outstanding contrast, consider Brockton, Cambridge, Gloucester, Haverhill, Holyoke and Quincy, Mass., as well as East Orange and Lakewood and Hoboken, N. J.; Newport, R. I.; Lincoln, Neb., and Lansing, which had no killings at all.

Statistics based on 169 representative cities show that Grand Rapids follows with the low rate of 0.6 on its homicides, tying Jersey City and preceding Providence with 0.8; New Bedford, 0.9; Somerville, 0.9; Lowell 1.0; Lynn, 1.0; Waterbury, 1.0; Altoona 1.1, and Berkeley, 1.1.

For the five largest American cities, Chicago retains its preeminence in homicides, producing a rate of 14.2 per 100,000 in 1933 and 13.3 in 1934.

Philadelphia follows with 1.8, Detroit with 1.8, Los Angeles with 1.4 and New York with 1.3.—Detroit Free Press.

Man Slays Wife by Gun; Court Imposes $10 Fine

Called upon to pronounce on the case of a man who killed his wife because he had discovered that she was unfaithful, an Assize court jury sitting at Lille has returned a thoroughly French verdict. It found him not guilty of murder, but guilty of carrying arms illegally.

Charles Simmoneau, an accountant, was the accused man. Suspecting his conjugal misfortune, he had engaged a detective to follow his wife's movements. Informed one day that she was in a certain hotel, he waited near until she left and then followed and shot her. She died in three months. In court Simmoneau said that he deeply regretted his act, and also expressed his grief at not having been allowed to go to his wife's bedside to beg her forgiveness. Acquitted of the murder charge, he was fined $10.

To Bake a Meringue Properly

Meringues are usually spoiled in the baking even when they are properly prepared. The meringue should bake slowly. Too hot an oven scours the outside and leaves the rest uncooked. The entire meringue should dry out first and then brown. Bake it in an oven of 300 degrees Fahrenheit for from 15 to 30 minutes.

For Construction of Test Wells and Developed Well
Tawas City, Michigan
PWA Docket Michigan 8264

Sealed proposals for the construction of test wells and one final developed well at Tawas City, Michigan, will be received by Tawas City until 7:00 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, November 19, 1935.

Proposals shall be addressed to the City Clerk, Tawas City, Michigan, and endorsed "Proposal for Well Construction—Tawas City, Michigan."

Each proposal shall be accompanied by a certified check for Two Hundred ($200.00) Dollars, drawn payable to Tawas City, Michigan, as security for acceptance of the contract and as explained in the instructions to bidders.

The contract will cover the drilling of one, and possibly three 4-inch test wells each approximately 125 feet deep and one 10-inch final developed well, the placing of casings and screen, collection of samples, development of the permanent well, and test pumping.

This is a non-renewal PWA project to be financed by funds from a loan and grant to be obtained from the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works and shall be subject to all PWA regulations and no contract will be awarded until all bids have been examined and passed upon by the State Director of the PWA all in accordance with such regulations and requirements.

The award of the contract shall be conditioned upon funds being made available for such construction and Tawas City shall have the right, should it be deemed necessary, to hold any or all bids for a period of 60 days from the date of the opening thereof prior to rejection or award.

Tawas City reserves the right to waive any informality in any bid, to reject any or all bids, or accept any bid which is considered most favorable to the City.

Attention is called to the fact that not less than the minimum wage rates approved by the State Director of PWA must be paid on this project.

Proposal forms, plans, specifications, and all necessary bidding regulations prepared in book form may be secured at the office of The Francis Engineering Company, 303-304 Eddy Building, Saginaw, Michigan, consulting engineers for the City, upon application accompanied by a postal money order for Six ($6.00) Dollars made payable to The Francis Engineering Company, none of which will be returned.

TOADS WERE NOT BEARS

An Arizona ranger naturalist, whose ingenuity led him to employ slrup to attract ants as food for horned toads in an exhibit at Petrified Forest National monument, was obliged to give individual baths to his specimens, for his pains. The horned toads' appetites were restored by the tempting delicacy, as the ranger had planned, but he figured without the Arizona sun and its effects on the slrup. In a short time he found his exhibit held fast in the blue-like solution. A warm water bath, and a well-sanded receptacle where they might remove the slrup by burrowing into the dirt, restored the toads to normal condition.

Don't Guess But Know

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuralgia and neuritis. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this—and see that you get what you want.

SYNOPSIS

As Alan Garth, prospector, is preparing to leave for his mining claim in the Far North, a plane lands at the airways emergency station. In it are Burton Ramill, millionaire mining magnate; his daughter, Lillith; and Vivian Huxby, pilot and mining engineer. Believing him to be only an ignorant prospector, the men offer to make an air trip to Garth's claim, although they refer to his samples of platinum-bearing ore as nearly "worthless." Lillith Ramill, product of the jazz age, plainly shows her contempt for Garth. Through Garth's guidance the plane soon reaches the claim site. Huxby and Ramill, after making several tests, assure Garth his claim is nearly worthless, but to "encourage" young prospectors they are willing to take a chance in investing a small amount.

No more was needed to confirm Garth's suspicions. He glided across the glade and ran on through the woods like a startled caribou. The thick growth of spruces screened him from the view of anyone up on the open tundra.

He vaulted upon the wing of the monoplane and ran along it to jump into the cockpit. In a moment he had hold of Huxby's tool-kit. He went at the engine like a skilled airplane mechanic.

When, after a few moments of quick work, he replaced the tool-kit and ran back out the wing, there was a small metal object inside his buckskin shirt. He jumped off and slipped away to an alder thicket, a short distance along the lake bank.

Less than three minutes later, he heard a heavy puffing and wheezing and the snap of dry branches. Then the three staggered into sight. Mr. Ramill was purple from exertion. His mouth gaped wide with his gasps for breath. Neither his daughter nor Huxby was winded. But both were flushed from the exertion of supporting the portly millionaire.

The girl's expression was one of disgust and anger. She stopped several feet short of the plane.

"Oh, d—n! Why the rush? We're out of sight now. I'm going to take a rest."

Her father was beyond words. As she let go of his arm he slumped down with a suddenness that almost pulled Huxby over on top of him. The mining engineer peered back through the spruces, and around at the thicket where Garth lay in wait.

"Just one more go, darling," he appealed. "The fellow must know how to handle his rifle. If he comes in sight of the plane before we get out of range—Please, sweetheart! Remember it means millions to us—millions! I'll give you that emerald necklace we saw at Tiffany's."

"You certainly will! And Dad will do more. I'm to have a third in this mine that you say is worth so much. Is that clear?"

"Yes, darling; take hold," Huxby urged. "We both agree."

She waved him towards the plane. "Fetch a flask. We'll never get him aboard without a bracer."

Huxby ran to vault up on the wing. The girl had pointed out the obvious fact. Her father was in a state of collapse from overexertion. He could not move until revived, and he was too heavy for them to lift bodily.

The engineer swung into the cabin and hastened back ashore with a flask of whisky. During his short absence Mr. Ramill had ceased to gasp. He could draw deeper breaths. Two or three swallows of whisky tautened his flabby muscles. Helped by his daughter and Huxby, he struggled to his feet and staggered out along the rock shelf to the plane.

The wing end stood neck-high above the ledge. While Mr. Ramill took another bracer of whisky, Huxby boosted the girl up on the front edge. She grasped hold of her father's collar. Huxby gripped his thick legs below the knees and heaved. Mr. Ramill's hands were on the wing edge. He pulled with all his whisky-borrowed strength. His corpulent midbody rose above the edge of the wing.

Huxby gave a last upward heave. It enabled the girl to drag her father over on the convex surface. Huxby vaulted after to help her lift the prone millionaire to his feet. They started to lead him along the wing top to the fuselage of the plane.

Behind the backs of the three, Garth stepped clear from the alders and came forward, silent as a stalking lynx. Midway between the head of the plane and the spruce to which it was tied, he stopped and lowered his rifle, butt down, to lean on the muzzle.

"Hullo," he sang out. "What's happened? Mr. Ramill ill?"

At the first word, Huxby tensed and glanced over his shoulder. He let go of Ramill. After a moment, he jerked around and thrust out his automatic pistol towards Garth.

"Swing up that rifle, butt end forward," he ordered.

"Why, what d'you mean?" Garth questioned, his mouth half agape.

"I mean business," Huxby answered. "Hold up the butt—up above your head; then come forward and lay the rifle on the wing."

Garth rounded his mouth still more.

"My word, man, you must be stark mad. I've no thought of shooting you."

"I'm taking no chances. Put that rifle on the wing, or I'll fill you full of lead."

"Mad—mad as a March hare," muttered Garth. "Don't shoot."

He lifted the rifle overhead, butt forward, as ordered, and advanced, still gaping. He came within a step of the wing edge and paused. The girl was gazing at him with open contempt. He had been such an easy dupe. Her father looked grave, yet made no move to interpose when Huxby leveled the pistol and took deliberate aim.

CHAPTER III

Outbluffed.

A man of iron nerve might have risked death from the leveled automatic of the mining engineer by taking a sudden dive under the wing of the monoplane. Once in cover, anyone quick with a rifle would have had an even chance against the holder of the pistol.

Garth made no such daring break. He obeyed the order to lay his rifle on the wing top.

"There you are," he said. "That should clear your head of your crazy notion I'm dangerous."

Huxby met this with a cold smile. "You're right in part, you poor fish. It would be crazy to fancy you're at all dangerous. I'm the one who has the gun, and I'm ready to use it. For the pistol."

"Don't Shoot!"

Her father spoke in her ear. None too graciously, she took the offered arm of her fiancé. Side by side, the three came out to the end of the wing. Mr. Ramill handed the pistol to Huxby, and knelt, ready to slide over the front edge. The girl jumped down lightly, without waiting for assistance. Huxby handed her the rifle, laid the pistol on the wing edge, and grasped Mr. Ramill's hands.

As the portly millionaire slid over, off the wing, Garth let go of the rope end and sprang forward. The loop whipped from around the spruce trunk. He grasped the slackened line and flipped it out into the swift rush of the milky stream.

The head of the released plane at once started to swing offshore. Huxby grabbed his pistol and leaped down to grasp the wing edge. He shouted for the others to catch hold. But the unexpected bump of the edge against their heads had made both father and daughter crouch down.

Huxby stepped back to brace himself for a shove against the rotary out-thrust of the wing. His rear foot went over the round of the water-polished ledge. The wing thrust him on outwards. Before he could let go, both of his feet were off the ledge top. He slid down with a splash into the swirling water.

The engineer plunged upstream three of four steps to a split in the glassy-faced ledge. He clawed up the crevice and sprang to his feet on the rock shelf, drenched to the armpits by the milky water. But his right hand still grasped his automatic pistol.

Once more Garth seemed to have acted the part of a fool. For a few moments Miss Ramill and her father had crouched motionless, dumfounded by the letting loose of the monoplane and its shove of Huxby off the ledge.

Garth stood like an unconcerned on-looker. While the engineer was still struggling up out of the stream bed, Mr. Ramill took the rifle from his daughter and aimed it at Garth.

"Take your time, Vivian," he called. "I have him covered."

"Hu-wait," panted Huxby. "Leave him to me."

He stood dripping till he caught his breath. A flirt of the pistol barrel made sure it was free from water. He took a step closer to Garth, his eyes cold, his lips tightened in a bitter smile.

"Another clever trick, Jack—and your last. I'll be generous and give you half a minute for your prayers."

Garth eyed him gravely. "That is indeed generous. Shall I reciprocate by praying that you and Miss Ramill do not suffer too long from the tortures of flies and starvation? Mr. Ramill may possibly be able to get over the pass, though I doubt it. In any event, the first muskig will stop him. You and Miss Ramill probably will last for two or three weeks longer."

Huxby glared. "You tricky devil! Clever, aren't you? Here is where you last less than a minute."

"Yes?" Garth smiled. "I might suggest to Mr. Ramill that he reflect upon the inadvisability of murder in Canada. The Northwest Police always get their man. If he is unaware of the fact, I might appeal to the womanly gentleness of Miss Ramill."

"Go ahead," Huxby sneered. "You're welcome to try."

"Why bother them needlessly?" Garth came back at him. "My dear engineer pilot made a hasty examination of the magnet. He sprang out on the wing, in a cold fury.

"The d—d sneak has crippled the motor. Give me the pistol."

Mr. Ramill held up a restraining hand. "One moment, Vivian.—Now, Garth, what have you done?"

Garth smiled. "Merely removed one of the breaker points, Mr. Ramill. It's platinum, you know, and that's what we're bargaining over. The point is quite safe here, inside my shirt."

"Shoot him," said Huxby. "We're not going to be done by a fool trick like this. Shoot the idiot. Go on, chief. He's only a lousy woods bum. It's a matter of a million at the least."

The older man leveled the pistol. "Garth, you heard him. You've played a silly trick. We have the drop on you. If you value your life, bring that stolen breaker point here, and be quick about it."

"How about the line, sir?" Garth inquired. "If I let go, the plane will be swept out into the lake."

"Tie it again."

"What if I'd rather not?"

For the second time Miss Ramill chimed in on the talk: "It would be just too bad for you, woody boy. Dad is a better shot even than Vivian."

"A better shot and a no less cool thinker," Garth replied. "How can I hold this rope if I'm shot? Those falls and the rapids below—Hold on there, Huxby! Not so fast. You can come ashore; but Miss Ramill and her father will come with you. There'll be no rush to catch the line until all three of you are off the wing."

Mr. Ramill started with Huxby out along the wing. His daughter did not move.

"If you fancy I'll leave the plane, you can guess again."

Her father spoke in her ear. None too graciously, she took the offered arm of her fiancé. Side by side, the three came out to the end of the wing. Mr. Ramill handed the pistol to Huxby, and knelt, ready to slide over the front edge. The girl jumped down lightly, without waiting for assistance. "Go ahead," Huxby sneered. "You're welcome to try."

"Why bother them needlessly?" Garth came back at him. "My dear man, you are no rash fool. Had you been other than what you are, do you suppose I would have walked up so innocently and let you get the drop on me?"

The coolness of tone and look that went with the question compelled Huxby's consideration. His eyes narrowed. "Out with it."

"You see I have you sized up right," Garth replied. "You're neither a hot-head nor a fool. All your moves are based upon cold-blooded calculation. In this case, you'll calculate these factors: If you kill me, you will most certainly starve to death, unless you first sink in the slime of muskig bog. The only other alternative is for you to stay here and freeze at the first onset of winter. Platinum is of no more use to a dead man than is gold."

The mining engineer stood silent. Garth went on:

"We are speaking of what concerns you most. So I'll not mention the no less certain death of your partner and the lady to whom you are engaged. The other side of my argument is that, if I am not murdered, I can guide you back to the Mackenzie. What if you then had another chance to steal my claim? Wouldn't that be a big inducement?"

"Lower your pistol, Vivian," Ramill ordered. "Garth has us outplayed. He holds the ace. Look at the plane. It's heading straight down the lake towards the falls. There's no chance for it, unless the wind veers."

Garth nodded. "This breeze will keep on blowing down off the glacier until the first autumn blizzard. It's a shame, sir, to crack up so fine a plane. But you would have it."

"I!"

"You and Huxby. You may be a financial pirate, Mr. Ramill; that's not saying you're a hypocrite. You'll not lie that I'm responsible for this mess. I gave you a chance to share my claim. In return, you've done your best to bilk me out of it all. This is the result."

The big "pirate" looked him in the eye.

"I offered you cash down. You refused. Said you wanted to play out the game. So far, you've taken most of the tricks. That monoplane cost me forty thousand dollars. You see it heading for a total loss. Let it go. The question now is the next play—Vivian, what do you suggest?"

Huxby regretfully eyed his pistol. "It's a damn fact we can't kill the slick devil. We'll tie his hands, and start him guiding us out of this heli-hole at once."

Garth smiled. "What! still up in the air? Better come down to earth and face the other facts also. For the same reason you can't kill me, you can't make me guide you. I knew exactly what I was doing when I turned the plane adrift. I knew I was putting you all in a hole out of which none of you can hope to escape without my help. If I die, every one of you will die. I've faced death many times. I am not afraid to meet it. None of you dare chance starvation or freezing. I do not need you, but you must have my help, or perish. Though you now have the guns, I am master of the situation. All three of you will do whatever I consider necessary to get you out alive."

"When do we start?" Huxby demanded to know.

Garth looked at Mr. Ramill. "It's a guess. May be two weeks. More probably three."

Miss Ramill flared, outraged. "What! Hang around this disgusting hole a single day? We'll start this instant."

Duns by Post Forbidden by the U. S. Government

Despite all that has been said on the subject of dunning by postal card, says Pathfinder Magazine, there still exists some confusion on this matter. Section 471 of the United States postal laws and regulations says in part: "Any postal card upon which any delineations, epithets, terms, or language of an indecent, lewd, lascivious, obscene, libelous, scurrilous, defamatory, or threatening character, or calculated by the terms or manner of style of display and obviously intended to reflect injuriously upon the character or conduct of another, is unmailable."

The Post Office department has ruled that this "threatening" provision covers cards which threaten bringing of suits or legal action in the event accounts or debts, etc., are not paid. However, this does not include notices of fraternal and other organizations of dues, assessments, etc., even though they call attention to the fact that failure to remit will result in suspension or other action. Neither does it include notices of when accounts will be due nor a respectful request for settlement of current accounts. But in any case such payments must not appear to be referred to as past due.

Who Are You?

The Romance of Your Name

By RUBY HASKINS ELLIS

A Lincoln?

THIS is a place name taken from the town of Lincoln, in Lincolnshire, England. The name is derived from the word lin, found in Gaelic, Welsh and Cornish-British, which means a pool, pond or lake, and coln, which signifies a ridge or neck of land, so called from the situation. The town of Lincoln was located on the top and side of a steep hill. So evidently the name came from the association of the two places, "the hill by the lake."

This was the beginning of the name, but the family is found later to have been seated for many generations in the town of Hingham, County Norfolk, England. It is from the Norfolkshire Lincolns that the American Lincolns trace descent.

Thomas Lincoln came to America from Hingham, England, in 1633, and was followed in 1637 by his brother Samuel. They settled in Hingham, Mass., named for the town in their mother country. Samuel married Martha—and among their ten children was Samuel, through whom come the governors of Massachusetts, Levi Lincoln, father and son, and Enoch Lincoln, who became the governor of Maine.

The fourth son of Samuel was Mordcaai, who married Sarah Jones. They located in Scituate, Mass., and among their five children were Mordcaai, Jr., and Abraham, who moved to Monmouth county, New Jersey. Their son, John, located in Virginia, where he married Moore. They had four sons and several daughters. Among the sons was Abraham, who married Mary Shipley, of North Carolina. His son, Thomas Lincoln, was the father of Abraham Lincoln, sixteenth President of the United States. Abraham Lincoln's grandfather removed to Mercer county, Kentucky, in 1782, entered a tract of 400 acres of land on the south side of Licking creek, where he built a log cabin near what is now the city of Louisville.

Benjamin Lincoln, of Massachusetts, made a brilliant career for himself during the Revolution. At the outbreak of the war he was lieutenant and colonel of militia.

There were many other Lincolns who served in the American Revolution. Most of them were from the family stronghold, Hingham, Mass. Among them were Amos, who assisted in throwing tea overboard in the famous "Boston Tea Party," and, in addition to this, saw seven years' service; Beza (b. 1756), Ezekiel (b. 1759), Royal (b. 1754), Joshua (b. 1757), James (b. 1731). From Norton, Mass., Elkanah (b. 1747); from Taunton, Caleb (b. 1757); Rufus (b. 1761), Nathaniel (b. 1744), Loe (b. 1762); from Rehoboth, Stephen Lincoln (b. 1751).

There were Lincolns in Pennsylvania also; Mibel Lincoln served at Fort Pitt under Capt. John Brady.

There are Lincolns in every part of this country today, and many of them trace their lineage to one or another of the early settlers mentioned in this brief sketch.

A Howard?

THE name of Howard is of Saxon origin and is one of the most ancient of all surnames. There was one Howard, or Hereward, who was living in England in the reign of King Edward, 957-973.

Sir John Howard was the grandfather of Sir Robert Howard, who made the name of Howard illustrious by his marriage to Lady Margaret Mowbray whose line of descent was claimed from King Edward I, and through him to Philip le Hardi, one time King of France.

The founder of the Howard family in America was Matthew Howard, who came to this country in 1640, and settled near Annapolis, Md.

Eavesdropping on the

"Monticello Party Line"

"The Monticello Party Line" is a radio program recently begun on a series of middle-western and southern radio stations. The radio listener is asked to imagine that he is eavesdropping on the party line of Monticello—and in this way he daily hears all the activity, the gossip, the fun, and the occasional trouble, that marks life in Monticello.

All the people in this program are thoroughly natural, everyday folks. The setting is that of a real town—Monticello, Illinois—the home-town of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, the product that sponsors this new and different radio show. "The Monticello Party Line" is broadcast every week-day except Saturday.—Adv.

Move 90-Year-Old Trees

In the old days trees used to stay put—at least until they felt the sting of an ax. With the aid of modern tree-moving machinery, however, tree men now move and transplant 60 and 70-foot trees like so many pots of crocuses. In other words, if you want a ninety-year-old tree in your front yard, you don't need to wait for a sapling to grow up. You can have a veteran elm moved in tomorrow. The mover is used to maneuver specimens weighing up to 30 tons or more. It's all steel and it's all electric welded. The smaller mover carries loads up to around ten tons.—Scientific American.

WHAT? NO WHEY? YOU HEARD ME CORNED BEEF AND CABBAGE? LITTLE MISS MUFFET SITS ON A TUFFET... AND SAYS 'I WANT NO WHEY!' I'VE GOT MY TUMS IF SOUR STOMACH COMES... I'LL EAT MY FILL TODAY!

"YOU NEVER KNOW WHEN" SO... CARRY... TUMS

PEOPLE everywhere are surprising their friends by eating foods they have long avoided by carrying a roll of Tums right in their pocket. Millions have learned this quick, safe way to eliminate heartburn, sour stomach, gas, acid indigestion in this pleasant way. Tums represent a real scientific advancement. They contain no harsh alkalies. Instead a remarkable antacid that never does more than neutralize stomach acid. No danger of over-alkalizing the stomach or blood. The custom of carrying a roll of Tums in your pocket will save many a day for you. They're so economical—only 10c a roll—

Napoleon's Funeral Is Depicted by Eyewitness

St. Helena Rites Described in Letter to Mother.

London.—Among the 1,600 British troops who assisted at the burial of Napoleon at St. Helena, May 9, 1821, was Lieut. Duncan Darroch, of the Twentieth Foot. The day after the ceremony he wrote his mother an account of it. Napoleon had died May 5, and his body remained in its island tomb until 1840, when, by direction of King Louis Philippe, it was conveyed to Paris and placed in a magnificent sarcophagus under the dome of the Hotel des Invalides.

Lieutenant Darroch's letter has been published for the first time in The Sunday Times, of London. The Sir Hudson mentioned in the letter, which is reprinted here, was Sir Hudson Lowe, who had been governor of St. Helena since 1816, shortly after Napoleon was interned there. The letter read:

"We yesterday interred the remains of Napoleon Bonaparte with military honors. The funeral I will describe as best I can.

"In the first place, you must understand the figure of the ground near Longwood. The island (generally speaking) is composed of high and narrow diverging ridges of hills running, or rather diverging from Diana's Peak toward the coast, where they terminate abruptly in tremendous precipices; the valleys between these are very deep.

Chosen by Napoleon.

"Longwood is situated on one of these ridges, and the place Nap chose for his body to lie in was in the valley between that and James' valley, where the town is, and which, from its circular form, is called (at least, near the head of it) the Devil's Punch Bowl, the part near the sea is called Rupert's valley.

"The troops, of which there were about 1,600, were formed from Longwood Guard house on the bank above the road in succession, by seniority—Twentieth Marines, Sixty-sixth St. Helena Artillery Regiment and Volunteers; on the left eleven guns of the Royal artillery as the firing party. We were in open order, resting on our arms reversed. Bands playing the dirge.

"After a little while the procession appeared through the gate. First came the priest and Henry Bertrand, carrying the censer, after these, Doctor Arnott and the French doctor, next the undertakers, and then the body.

"The body of his own carriage had been taken off, and something like an open hearse put in its place. He was drawn by four of his own horses with postillions in his imperial livery. There was a plain mahogany coffin, and instead of a pall his cloak was thrown over it. On the top was a large book with his sword lying on it.

"Napoleon Bertrand and the head valet walked one on each side of the hearse; six of our grenadiers, without arms, marched on each side.

French Wear Black.

"After the body came the lead horse, beautifully caparisoned; on either side rode Counts Bertrand and Montholon; after them, a small carriage with the countess and two of her children in it. (All the French were in black). The naval and staff military officers followed, and as soon as the whole had passed the left of the rear, we rounded arms and followed.

"The troops did not go down into the valley, but formed in the road immediately over the grave, in the same order, resting on our arms while the ceremony went on.

"I must now describe the grave or tomb that was prepared for him. The spot that he chose is in the highest extremity of a small garden belonging to a Mr. Torbett; it is completely overhung for a space of about thirty square yards or more with five or six weeping willows, and a little on one side was a spring of the best water in the island, and which he used every day to send for.

"This runs down the valley; there is no stream perceptible; near the grave the moisture is just sufficient to keep the turf completely green and the place cool—here the grave was dug. Interior capacity was 12 feet deep, 8 feet long and 6 feet wide, surrounded by a wall about 3 feet thick all the way down and plastered with Roman cement to about 2 feet from the bottom and resting on blocks of stone. The stone coffin was constructed like a large stone box with the lid open and the lid resting on one of its edges."

Golden Phantoms

FASCINATING TALES OF LOST MINES

By Edith L. Watson

THE LOST CITY

IN 1879, near where the town of Aspen, Colo., now stands, a stranger staggered into a ranch house, ill, tired, and crazed from privation.

When he had recovered sufficiently to tell his story, he spoke about the ruins of an old city in Utah, near which were an old fort and a rich mine of gold and silver. The mine, he said, appeared to have been worked centuries before his discovery of the place. He had 20 pounds of ore to back up his story, which he had managed to keep throughout his journey over the broken country.

As soon as he had regained enough health to allow him to travel, the stranger set out again with his load of ore, saying that he intended taking it to Leadville to sell. He expected to devote the proceeds to furnishing a modest outfit, when he would return to his find and work it. But he disappeared from all knowledge when he left the ranch, and was never seen again.

A party was gathered at Meeker to go into the Ute reservation where this mine was supposed to be, and it started out on the trail of the golden phantom. The party was headed by an old prospector who knew something of the country, and this man, as they neared the place where the mine was said to be, decided to go on ahead to scout out the lay of the land. He was gone for some time, and when he returned he had with him two sacks of ore which were from 70 per cent to 80 per cent pure silver and also contained some gold. He came with bad news, however, for the Utes were not feeling hospitable, and the prospector would not lead the party any farther lest they should all be killed.

Later on, this same prospector met a cowboy who claimed to have considerable influence over the Utes. He was persuaded to join this man in a hunt for the lost city treasure, but first he made a map of the country and left it with friends, as he felt uncertain whether he would live to return.

Time went on, and no word came from the prospector or the cowboy. They seemed to have disappeared as completely as had the stranger who started for Leadville with his ore. At last the prospector's friends, who had been keeping his map, decided to go in search for him.

They followed the trail into a desolate country where no human seemed ever to have lived. At last they met an old Ute who appeared to be friendly, and told him that they were hunting for the two men. The Indian understood them, and led them on to the foot of a cliff. Here they found the body of the prospector, who had been shot and thrown off of the height, but no horse nor pack was to be seen. Several miles farther on the old Ute showed them the body of the cowboy, who had also been shot to death, and his outfit stolen.

The two men were buried where they fell. In 1904 the location of those graves was still known, but the site of the mine had never been found. Whether it was an old Spanish working or whether the Indians had taken out the ore was never known. In fact, outside of the knowledge that the place is somewhere near the head of the Grand Canyon, there are no further data to be found regarding this lost mine.

BEHIND THE WALL

IN 1906 two men named Murphy and Thomas came into a little town in Sonora, Mexico. They had some ore which they took to the local assayer, an American, for a report. It assayed $60,000 to the ton.

The newcomers said that they had been prospecting up in the mountains to the west, and one day their burros got away. It was while they were hunting the animals that they found a wall of masonry which aroused their curiosity. It seemed very old, and yet was well preserved. Its discoverers thought that there might be something valuable behind such a wall, and accordingly they broke through to investigate.

Crawling into the hole they had made, they found themselves in the mouth of a tunnel. There were peculiar jadeite statuettes and other evidence of ancient tribes in the long-hidden place, but what these men wanted was gold, and it was with a vast thrill of joy that they found, at the end of some 150 feet, a two foot vein of the yellow metal in the breast of the tunnel.

The assayer heard their story with great interest. Then he proposed that the partners let him in on their mine. It was Yaqui country, and three men would be stronger than two. Then, his greater knowledge of ores and minerals would also serve them well. He was able to convince Murphy and Thomas that they needed him as a third partner, and they agreed to take him back with them.

Two days later they started for the mine. On the way, the Yaquis ambushed the trio, and the two prospectors were killed. The assayer escaped, but he had not found out where to search for the ancient wall, and its location remains a secret down to this day.

Your Best Flare Forward in Simple, All-Occasion Frock

There's many a "flare" in the fashion sky this fall, and no smart skirt will dare sally forth without at least one. This charming all-occasion frock has flares both back and front, thus assuring its wearer plenty of style interest. The drop-shoulder yoke points twice in front, once in back to the bodice and puffed sleeves which gather round it. Utterly charming, the tiny round collar which tops the yoke's diagonal closing, and don't you love the young way the sleeves puff about the elbow? There are novelty crepes with plenty of surface interest from which to choose—or if you're out to be very practical, select a sheer wool.

Pattern 2397 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 3 3/4 yards 39 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to the Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., 243 West Seventeenth St., New York City.

Washington Cathedral

The Washington cathedral, at Mount St. Alban, is being built slowly through the years as contributions come in from all corners of the world. Recently a large sum was presented to the architects and builders, which will permit them to add to the south walls of the transept. More than $10,000,000 already have been spent on this inspiring edifice, which rises 400 feet above the Potomac on the Mount St. Alban site. The bishop's garden is a special feature of the grounds.

I'M SOLD

It always works

Just do what hospitals do, and the doctors insist on. Use a good liquid laxative, and aid Nature to restore clocklike regularity without strain or ill effect.

A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the real secret of relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has become. It gives the right kind of help, and right amount of help. Taking a little less each time, gives the bowels a chance to act of their own accord, until they are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin contains senna and cascara—both natural laxatives that form no habit. The action is gentle, but sure. It will relieve any sluggishness or bilious condition due to constipation without upset.

Lovely Skin! Reward of constant care

With Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. Let these gentle emollients be your beauty aids. At night bathe freely with hot water and Cuticura Soap. If any signs of pimples, blotches, red, rough skin appear, anoint with Cuticura Ointment. Daily care will help to keep the skin clear and attractive.

Cuticura Soap 25c. Ointment 25c and 50c.

Dice Furnish Clue to Life Centuries Ago

They Prove Trade Flourished, Says Scientist.

Philadelphia.—Terra cotta dice used in gambling operations at Tepe Gawra nearly 50 centuries ago furnish evidence that international commerce flourished to a hitherto unsuspected degree in ancient Mesopotamia, according to Dr. E. A. Speiser, University of Pennsylvania archeologist.

Describing in a new volume the excavations at Tepe Gawra, Professor Speiser points out that although all numbers from one to six appear on the dice, the sum of the numbers on opposite sides does not total seven. Thus, he says, they are like dice found at Mohenjo-Daro, an archeological site in India, and indicate the existence of commercial relations between the two cities.

The dice are among objects found in the first eight levels of the ancient mound at Tepe Gawra by an expedition under Professor Speiser's leadership. He cites also a toy four-wheeled wagon of terra cotta, figurines representing the Mother Goddess and other finds of pottery, stone and copper as evidence of a widespread international commerce there.

The toy wagon, drawn by an animal of terra cotta, belongs to a type unknown in Mesopotamia in that period but it closely resembles models of hooded chariots found above and beyond the distant Caucasus and the Caspian sea and constitutes tangible proof of trade with those regions, Doctor Speiser contends.

Other Tepe Gawra finds, it is stated, have affiliations with cities in various parts of the ancient East, including Cyprus, Susa in Persia, and Ur of the Chaldees, Kish and Uruk in Babylonia.

Doctor Speiser first investigated the ancient mound at Tepe Gawra in northeastern Mesopotamia in 1927 when he was field director of an archeological expedition sponsored by the University museum of the University of Pennsylvania and the American Schools of Oriental Research.

Doctor Speiser returned to the university in 1932 to resume his work as professor of semitics, and Charles Bache became field director of the joint expedition.

During the season of 1934-35 the expedition led by Mr. Bache uncovered the oldest city in the world on Level 12 at Tepe Gawra.

Police Are Told Whisky Will Counteract Poison

Kansas City.—Members of the homicide squad exchanged pleased grins and visioned future orders commanding them to add whisky, or some other alcoholic beverage, to their usual equipment, following a session at a recent police school here.

They were advised by a city laboratory head that such might be a handy addition.

"Whisky, gin, or any other alcoholic beverage," he told them, "is the best possible chaser for any poison containing carbolic acid."

U. S. Halts Special Coins After Texas Complains

Washington.—The New Deal decided that it would discontinue issuing truck coins for special events.

The mint coined 10,000 extra-special half dollars and sold them at face value to the (El Paso, Texas) museum committee, which resold them at $2 each to the public as pocket pieces commemorating the Spanish trail across the southern states.

Then the complaints began to arrive. Most of them concerned the cadaverous engraving of a cow's skull on the face of the coin. The writers said they didn't think these bones were a fit substitute for the Goddess of Liberty.

Numismatists complained even more. They tried to pay $2 for coins worth 50 cents, but couldn't get them for less than $3, from speculators, after the original 10,000 had been sold.

The mint laid the responsibility on congress.

It would seem that at this time when certain organizations are securing followers to pledge themselves not to take up arms for the nation under any circumstances, and sending this semi-treasonable literature into practically every locality in the country, that the talk given by Rev. Ross was altogether fitting and proper for present young citizens. It should also be noted that the Supreme Court during the last few years upheld the refusal of an inferior court to grant citizenship to an alien who refused to promise to bear arms for the United States if called upon.

High School

The 1935 Seal Sale of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association opens on Thanksgiving. The only income of this organization is obtained from the proceeds of this campaign. The sale will again be conducted by the pupils of the school. The seals sell at one cent each, and are designed to place upon each individual's outgoing mail between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

The Board of Education recently purchased a complete set of American history maps upon a tripod. These maps were much needed, as the old set which had been in the schools for many years had become obsolete and in bad condition. A few years ago the Board of Education regularly voted the sum of $12,000 to be raised by local taxation. This year, if the taxes are all collected, the approximate sum of $2,360 will be raised from this source.

Fifth and Sixth Grades

Phil Mark has been absent due to the whooping cough. We hope he will be able to be back soon.

Stephen Maxwell has moved to Alpena. Betty Ferguson has returned from Chicago.

Lyle Hughes, Betty Nelson, Ruth Giddings and Billy Musolf had the best fifth grade geography notebooks.

We are working on our Thanksgiving Day program.

Charlotte Hughes, Hazel Moran, Robert Rollin and Herbert Ziehl wrote "A" papers Monday on problems in divisions of decimals.

Third and Fourth Grades

Leland Britting entered the fourth grade Thursday.

We enjoyed the health play the fifth graders gave in our room last Friday.

The third graders memorized the poem, "Thanksgiving Day."

Evelyn Colby won our spelling contest Friday afternoon.

We are getting ready for our Thanksgiving program.

R. C. CAMPAIGNS TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS

Program Inaugurated in Local Chapters to Cut Down Farm and Home Accidents

The American Red Cross has launched a nation-wide campaign to eliminate hazards in the home and on the farm that now take an annual toll of nearly 35,000 lives, according to a recent statement by James L. Fieser, vice chairman in charge of domestic operations.

"Every Red Cross chapter is being asked to play a part in this campaign," Mr. Fieser said. "Hazards in the various communities will be pointed out. The children in our schools throughout the country will be given a list of the home hazards and asked to enroll parents or relatives in the fight against them."

Nearly five million men, women, and children were temporarily disabled in the homes of America last year by accidents, officials of the National Safety Council have revealed. Most of the accidents in which persons were killed and injured could have been prevented, according to this safety agency, this fact alone largely motivating the Red Cross drive for accident elimination.

Active cooperation of social, civic, educational, veterans', and other groups has been secured. Red Cross inspection forms or home check lists will be distributed to homes where there are no children with the help of these organizations.

Due to inaccessibility and lack of compensation coverage, little or no pioneering has been done in the field of farm safety, the Red Cross states. However, more people were accidentally killed in agricultural pursuits last year than in any other occupation, making the need for safety education and farm home inspection apparent.

Other agencies now active in the accident-prevention field point to the fact that, because of its nearly 13,000 chapters and branches, the Red Cross has a unique opportunity to successfully promote a project of this nature.

Home accidents injure many more than do automobile accidents; they kill nearly as many, claiming an average of about 80 lives daily. In terms of dollars and cents, for the practical minded, home accidents cost more than $1,000 per minute.

Accidents of all types are Public Enemy No. 4. Only three diseases cause as many deaths each year, heart disease, cancer, and cerebral hemorrhage.

"The home is not the place of safety it is commonly supposed to be," said Mr. Fieser in commenting on the new Red Cross service to the community. "The Red Cross, as a part of its chartered obligation to prevent death and alleviate suffering, is conducting this humanitarian program to cut down the mounting toll of avoidable personal injury and death in the homes of the country."

The annual Red Cross roll call, running from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, is one of the means of backing such a campaign. All citizens of the United States are offered the opportunity to join and assist in the work of the organization.

Growth of Fishes

The growth of fishes probably decelerates with age, but under favorable circumstances it never stops. If fish growth were shown on a graph, the weight curve would show a steady upward line, but the length curve would ascend rapidly at first, then almost straighten out. That is because as the fish grows large, the corresponding increase in girth tends to make the weight increase rather constant. Detroit Free Press

Panics Favor Autumn

It seems that most panics occur in the autumn. Black Friday, one of the worst in September, 1869, and the panic of '73 started in September. The 1907 panic was in the autumn. An exception was the beginning of the 1920-21 depression, which broke in April. The panic of 1929 began in October.
