A. STEINHURST PASSES AWAY EARLY SUNDAY

Was Engaged In Business Here For More Than 55 Years

Adolph Steinhurst, who had been actively engaged in business in this city for more than 55 years, died suddenly early Sunday morning. He had been in good health and had worked in his harness shop the previous day.

Adolph Steinhurst was born January 7, 1857, in Pommern province, Germany. He came to the United States as a young man, locating at Tawas City where he was employed in the lumber mills. Within a short time he built a shop and started to work at his trade of harness maker. This shop he continued to operate until his death. Many sets of harness made years ago by Mr. Steinhurst are still in use, bearing evidence of the excellent workmanship. The deceased was held in high esteem by his many friends.

On December 1, 1887, Mr. Steinhurst was married to Laurantine Grahl at Tawas City. To this union twelve children were born, Charles, Portland, Oregon; Henry, deceased; Arthur, Detroit; Leo, Elizabeth, N. J.; George, Detroit; Adeline (Mrs. A. S. McCloy), Detroit; Lornetta (Mrs. K. J. Von Smuda), Newark, N. J.; Julius, Plymouth; Alfred, deceased; Ernest, Tawas City; Irving, Detroit; and Rosalie (Mrs. F. D. Burns), Chicago. Mrs. Steinhurst preceded him in death seven years ago.

The funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from Emanuel Lutheran church. Rev. W. C. Voss officiated. Interment was in the Emanuel Lutheran cemetery.

Those from out of the city who were in attendance at the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Steinhurst of Detroit; Leo Steinhurst of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. A. S. McCloy of Detroit; Mrs. K. J. Von Smuda of Newark, N. J.; Julius Steinhurst of Plymouth; Mr. and Mrs. Irving Steinhurst of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Burns of Chicago, and Mrs. Ed. Bailey of Wyandotte.

Twentieth Century Club

The Christmas party of the Twentieth Century Club was held at the club rooms on Saturday, December 14, with over thirty present. The girls who assisted in the Red Cross drive were guests of the club.

The club voted to fill baskets again this year and all donations are to be left with Mrs. Burley Wilson by Monday, as the baskets will be packed that evening.

The following program was enjoyed by all: Roll Call—Bible Verse; Christ in Art—Mrs. Bright; Two Poems—Mrs. Olive Davison; singing by members.

A Christmas tree, decorated with lights and trimmings, was surrounded with gifts for everyone.

A social hour was enjoyed. The social committee served small cakes, cookies and tea at an attractively arranged long table.

School Notes

High School

Among your New Year's resolutions, let one be a resolve to attend P. T. A. and begin with the January meeting.

The members of the Sophomore class in English are preparing a dramatization of a party at the Red House, taken from Eliot's Silas Marner.

In the declamatory contest last Friday Lucille DePotty, Emma Sawyer and Frieda Ross were chosen to compete for honors in the local contest. We are very grateful to Mrs. Britting, Miss Worden and Mr. Campbell, who kindly assisted us as judges.

School closes Friday for a holiday vacation of two weeks.

The botany class has completed the study of the "Irish" potato. The next plant for study will be the bacterium, which is the smallest of known plants.

The students of the American history class are considering the history class as considering the history of Andrew Jackson. They have learned that it was during that administration as president that the "spoils" system began. This system is now regarded by authorities as one of the greatest defects in American government.

Dr. Keteck of Health District No. 2 examined the teeth of 132 grade pupils Tuesday afternoon. He found the teeth of 50 children all right and the teeth of 82 in need of attention. Dr. Keteck informed us that the seventh and eighth grade room had the best record as only eleven of the 32 children present had need of dental service.

Christmas was observed by the high school Friday afternoon "in the good old fashioned way," having the tree and all. The general committee consisted of Betty Holland, Norma

The East Tawas Community Building was filled to capacity Sunday evening for the festival of sacred song sponsored by the Iosco Council of Religious Education.

More than 250 children formed a massed choir and both their appearance and singing were very effective. This choir was directed by Mrs. Nyda Campbell Leslie with Miss Helmie Huhtala as accompanist.

Vocal solos by Mrs. Leslie, Rev. C. E. Edinger, and Norman Salsbery were well received. Everyone enjoyed the selections by the Oscoda high school band, also the glee clubs from Tawas City, East Tawas and Oscoda.

"The committee wishes to sincerely thank everyone who helped to make this festival such a splendid success," Mrs. Helen Shattuck, superintendent of the children's division, Iosco Council of Religious Education, said yesterday. "We are especially indebted to A. W. Colby, A. A. Bigelow and Simon Goupil for building the enlarged platform, the lumber for which was loaned by C. E. Tanner, and delivered by Jas. Leslie's truck.

"The public school teachers of the county were very cooperative as were also the ministers and church leaders. Parents kindly encouraged the attendance of the children and provided transportation. News Review of Current Events the World Over

President's Defense of AAA and Canadian Treaty—Italy Offered Peace Plan at Ethiopia's Expense—Naval Conference Seems Hopeless.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

WHILE the United States Supreme court was hearing oral arguments in the Hoosac Mills case in which the constitutionality of the whole Agricultural Adjustment act...

farmers and as many others as could get into the theater and adjoining wings supplied with loud speakers.

Necessarily Mr. Roosevelt defended the new Canadian trade treaty because only two days before that pact had been bitterly attacked by his late trade adviser, George N. Peek.

"If the calamity howlers should happen to be right, you have every assurance that Canada and the United States will join in correcting inequalities, but I do not believe for a single moment that the calamity howlers are right.

"We export more agricultural products to Canada than we have imported from her.

"Her shall continue to do so, for the very simple reason that the United States, with its larger area of agricultural land, its more varied climate and its vastly greater population, produces far more of most agricultural products, including animal products, vegetables and fruit, than does Canada.

"In the case of the few reductions that have been made, quota limitations are set on the amount that may be brought in at the lower rates."

In his analysis of the Canadian agreement, Peek showed that 84 per cent of the tariff concessions which the New Dealers granted to Canada were on agricultural and forestry products.

After completing his speech and eating luncheon with a lot of local notables, the President went to South Bend, Ind., where he received an honorary degree from Notre Dame university and delivered another address.

BEFORE the American Farm Bureau federation closed its convention in Chicago, it adopted a resolution endorsing reciprocal trade treaties.

Another of the 17 resolutions adopted at the meeting concerned "federal fiscal policies."

The federation also approved a resolution urging itself to defend the Agricultural Adjustment administration act.

JOHN H. HOEPEL, congressman from California, and his son, Charles, were found guilty by a jury in the District of Columbia Supreme court of conspiring to sell an appointment to West Point for $1,000.

BRUNO HAUPTMANN, convicted of kidnapping and murdering the Lindbergh baby, lost almost his last chance of escaping the electric chair when the Supreme court refused to review his case.

CONSUMERS who buy potatoes in regular retail establishments are not liable to a fine as high as $1,000 if the spuds are grown and marketed in violation of the potato control act.

ITALY is being punished for starting the war against Ethiopia, and will be well paid for stopping it. That in a nutshell is the status at this writing.

already declared by the League of Nations to be a victim of Italian rapacity, would be still further victimized with the consent of the two great powers that dominate the league.

Dispatches from Dessye, Ethiopia, said the emperor rejected the Franco-British plan, asserting:

"The Ethiopian government cites its previous declarations, notably that of October 8, to show that Ethiopia never wished and does not wish war. But today we are bound to defend our soil, which Italy has violated.

"Ethiopia agreed at the meeting of the Paris conference and the meeting of the League of Nations committee of five to all concessions comparable to its dignity, to avoid Italian aggression, but that aggression has been committed. We cannot submit to force which we never provoked, because that would be rewarding violence."

Since Mussolini showed a disposition to consider the proposals, the oil embargo was postponed to permit negotiations. If he rejects the plan the embargo would go into effect later and supposedly the war in Africa would continue at least until the rainy season next spring.

PROBABLY with slight hope of accomplishing anything worth while, representatives of the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan met in London and opened the international naval conference.

Admiral Nagano

Norman H. Davis offered President Roosevelt's suggestion of a 20 per cent reduction in existing naval treaty tonnage, or, failing that, a continuance of present fleet limitations.

Then arose Admiral Osami Nagano, chief of the Japanese delegation, and told the conference that Japan demanded parity with Great Britain and the United States instead of the existing 5-5-3 ratio and requested a "just and fair agreement on disarmament."

The pessimistic feeling that prevailed was attributed to the Japanese demand for parity, the rivalry in the Mediterranean between France and Italy, the war in Ethiopia and its sanctions developments and recent occurrences in north China.

THE United States and Great Britain, in the conference at Washington, agreed upon a plan that is expected to result in regular air mail and passenger transportation across the Atlantic by the summer of 1937.

The northern route is more practicable than the southern route because of the shorter distance, but is less practicable in winter because flights would be undertaken under less favorable conditions.

Under the agreement experimental flights will begin next summer. When regular service is inaugurated, according to the agreement, four round trips will be made each week.

JOHN H. HOEPEL, congressman from California, and his son, Charles, were found guilty by a jury in the District of Columbia Supreme court of conspiring to sell an appointment to West Point for $1,000.

GEORGE L. BERRY, industrial coordinator, found great difficulty in mustering his proposed industrial council, in which many great industrial groups had refused to participate.

JOHN J. LEWIS, president of the United Mine Workers and head of the "rebel" committee on industrial organization that is seeking to gain control of the American Federation of Labor, invited President William Green of the federation to resign and accept chairmanship of the committee.

A MINISTRATION officials state that President Roosevelt will ask the new congress for a $100,000,000 appropriation as the initial fund to launch the federal social security program going into effect January 1.

POLITICIANS, especially Republicans were greatly interested in a meeting in Washington between former Vice President Charles Curtis and Senator Borah, and its possible implications.

A SCHOOL

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

I WOULD have a school A place for labor, Yet I would always have Play for its neighbor: Touch this thing with romance, And that with glamour, The world needs dreamers, too, As well as heroes, And Shellys something do, As well as Neros.

I would have a school A place for dreaming, Not only teach the true But teach the seeming: The world needs dreamers, too, As well as heroes, And Shellys something do, As well as Neros.

I would have a school A place for winning More than a little lore— But the beginning Of many books to read, And much endeavor, A school a thing to lead The mind forever.

TRY THIS TRICK

ACROBATIC MATCH BOX

AN EMPTY match box is the apparatus required for this surprising trick. The magician exhibits the box; then places it upon the palm of his left hand. It lies there until he says the magic word.

Here is the secret: In placing the box on his left palm, the magician sets it upside down. Moreover, he pushes out the drawer a trifle forward. In closing the drawer, he pinches a bit of flesh at the base of the fingers. The simple process of stretching the fingers or loosening them causes the match box to rise and fall.

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

WINTER ENTERTAINING

FOR the average housewife elaborate entertaining is not to be thought of, not only because of the expense but because of the amount of labor involved.

With good thick sweetened and flavored whipped cream are most attractive and universally well liked. Serve them on a lace paper-covered plate in twos or threes; when accompanied by a cup of hot cocoa, what could be more dainty for a light afternoon refreshment?

There are so many food accessories now which add to the enjoyment of serving simple foods. The frying basket for potato nests—they are so simple to make, using a fine shredder in the form of a flat grater, making the fresh potato in such fine shoestring that the basket when cooked even looks like a nest.

Small cookies and cakes are always popular, make them unusual, either by filling them with some soft rich filling of fruit or custard, or sweetened and flavored whipped cream.

EMPIRE STATE

Shirt Factory in Troy, N. Y.

Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

NEW YORK conjures up a vision of a great metropolis, a great state where the forested Adirondacks rise above vast agricultural lands, where the Hudson river flows placidly from the north woods to the sea, and where the Niagara river spills a portion of its waters and lures hundreds of thousands of tourists annually.

But few laymen are aware of the state's economic and industrial features.

Nearly one-fifth of all the life insurance in force in America, both ordinary and industrial, is held in New York. Approximately half the nation's imports, measured alike by tonnage and value, enter the United States through the custom house at the mouth of the Hudson, and more than half of our total export tonnage clears through that port. One-seventh of all the net retail sales in the United States were made in New York in a recent year—$7,000,000,000 out of $49,000,000,000.

The Empire state's role in the manufacturing realm is a particularly interesting one. There are some 16 industries in which its products constitute more than one-half of the total output of the entire country and about 30 others in which its share of the nation's production is more than a third.

With the gradual growth of manufacturing west of the Alleghenies, there has long been a falling off in New York state's relative standing in many industries; but as there has been a recession of rank in the making of these wares, there has been a corresponding expansion in the fabrication of clothing. This expansion has been so notable that it has more than made up for all the losses in other fields and enables New York still to stand out as the leading industrial state of the Union, with about one-seventh of all the nation's manufactured wares to its credit.

Leads All In Clothing.

There are only seven states in the Union whose total output of manufactures of every kind surpasses clothing alone in the Empire state. These seven states are Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and California.

In 1929 New York-made clothing at factory prices was valued at approximately $2,700,000,000. It included three-fourths of the nation's production of women's apparel and nearly one-half of the country's clothes for men.

The Dutch practically began their colony on the strength of the fur trade, and the latest census shows that New York is still active in marketing furs, accounting for $228,000,000 worth of manufactured fur goods out of a total of $277,000,000 for the whole United States.

Practically all of the industries in which New York holds this sort of leadership are of the lighter kind. The scepter for the heavier industries has largely passed into the hands of other communities.

Specialization in industry applies to communities as well as to wares. Rome calls itself the copper city, and makes about one-tenth of the nation's output of copperware. Gloversville is preeminent in the manufacture of gloves, and turns out more of them than any other community in the country. Rochester is the optical and photographic equipment capital of the nation, producing more than a third of the optical goods of the United States and most of its photographic supplies.

Sometimes those who are not New Yorkers have been inclined to complain that the Empire state seems to get more than its fair share of benefits, particularly more than its share of the country's income. Especially are they inclined to think this true of the metropolis itself.

When thus they complain, perhaps it is because they lose sight of the other side of the ledger—the measure of how much New York produces for the country.

Pays Huge Sums in Taxes.

If you were told that every great irrigation project of every state in the West, from Yuma and Yakima to Shoshone, has been built from funds supplied to the federal government by the state of New York and is maintained by funds from her citizens, you would be astonished.

Likewise, if you were told that every dollar of all the federal-aid money the government has spent so unstintedly in helping all the states to develop their highway systems comes from New York, you would be amazed. But wait! As the old showboat captain of radio fame exclaims, "That is only the beginning." For when Uncle Sam sat down to reckon up what the state of New York did to help him pay for the running of his government in 1932, he discovered that she supplied him with income taxes and internal revenue receipts reaching the grand total of $744,000,000. He next found that if New York had paid her taxes on a per capita basis, her share of the national excise would have called for only $269,000,000. When he deducted this amount from the $744,000,000 actually paid in, he found that New York had given him $475,000,000 more than would have been required under a per capita quota.

That $475,000,000 certainly proved a godsend to Uncle Sam in meeting his ever-intensifying problem of financing the operations of an increasingly exacting household. He found that with it he could pay for each and every one of the following items in his budget: every dollar voted to every state for federal aid, whether to roads, National Guard, forest protection, or agricultural experimentation; the entire expenses of the legislative branch of the government, including the Library of Congress; the entire cost of the judicial branch, including all federal courts and prisons; the cost of the independent offices and bureaus, from the Smithsonian institution and the National museum to the Interstate commerce, the federal trade, and the civil service commission; the cost of the Department of the Interior, including the general land office, the bureau of reclamation, the geological survey, the bureau of Indian affairs, the office of education, etc.; the whole outlay for the Department of Labor; the cost of the Department of Justice; and the expenditures required in the scientific bureaus of the Department of Commerce, from the bureau of standards and the coast and geodetic survey to the bureau of fisheries, the patent office, and bureau of mines.

In other words, all that Uncle Sam gives the states in federal aid, as well as all that he spends to maintain two of the three branches of the government and three departments of the third branch, plus all that he spends for scientific research in a fourth department, plus the maintenance of the independent offices, can be met out of New York's added quota of taxation.

Abounds in Dairy Farms.

The traveler roundabout the state of New York readily discovers that much of the attractiveness of its rural scene is due to the marks of careful tillage upon the face of its fertile acres.

With a population that is five parts urban and one part rural, there is a vast demand for milk—New York city itself must reach out 300 miles for its supply. Dairy farms therefore abound everywhere. And they call not only for grasslands, but also for cornfields and general crops, with the resultant mosaics of color, alike in the Hudson valley, the St. Lawrence region, and the Mohawk country.

In 1929 the state produced 800,000,000 gallons of milk, enough to fill a vat ten feet deep and four and one-half wide, extending from the southern end of Manhattan to the eastern end of Lake Erie via Albany.

The vineyards, the orchards of small fruits, and the truck gardens that flourish on the slopes that environ the inland lakes, because the warming waters of the latter cut short the frosts of the springtime and hold back those of the fall, add as much to the beauty of the area as they add to the prosperity of the region.

The Empire state is wedded to its inland waterways. Through its canal system as a whole it is possible to send ships of 10-foot draft and 300-foot length from New York city into Lake Champlain, to Duluth by way of Buffalo or Welland, or to Watkins and Ithaca by way of Seneca and Cayuga lakes.

Remembering that it was Clinton's 4-foot ditch across the state that laid the foundation of her greatness, and at the same time brought vast benefits to sister states as well as to herself, New York boldly undertook in 1905 to build the Barge canal between the Hudson and the Niagara, with offshoots to Rochester, Oswego, and the Finger lakes. It was opened in 1918. The total cost of this important waterway project to date amounts to nearly $200,000,000.

With the opening of the Barge canal, Buffalo has seen herself soaring back into first place as the milling center of America, having passed both the Minneapolis-St. Paul and Kansas City districts.

Will Efficiency in Killing Bring About Peace on Earth?

Famed Publicists, Thinkers Answer Much-Mooted Question.

Will nations ever abandon war? Will efficiency in killing hasten its end? Is peace on earth possible? These questions were put to famous publicists and thinkers by Cosmopolitan Magazine.

Among those who give their opinions are: Oswald Spengler, Arthur Brisbane, Havelock Ellis, Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt, and Amelia Earhart Putnam. Preparedness was advocated by some, a better understanding between nations, and taking of profits out of war by others.

Havelock Ellis says: "I have no doubt whatever that a permanent world peace is possible and will be achieved when the will to it exists. There is no war among the animals nearest to man and no evidence of its existence in early man's history. It is a phase of human development which may once have been beneficial in aiding social discipline and co-operation but today, in the opinion of the majority of people, it has become useless and mischievous. Even when successful, it fails to achieve the security for which it is chiefly waged."

Arthur Brisbane says: "World peace will come when some nation or group of nations becomes powerful and civilized enough to put an end to war, if necessary, as Cardinal Richelieu put an end to dueling by executing a few that fought duels. . . . Efficiency in killing will hasten its end. 'Elimination of inferior races' may continue for a while after 'civilized' nations cease killing their 'equals' with the consent and approval of the 'equals.'"

Oswald Spengler says: "If there were to take place in Asia today a great uprising against the white race, countless white people would join in it because they are tired of the peaceful life. Pacifism will remain an ideal, war a fact, and if the white peoples are determined to lead no more, the colored races will, and they will become the rulers of the world."

Amelia Earhart Putnam says: "I believe war can be outlawed, but not until mere living offers a substitute for the beguiling pageantry of the military; nor until mental attitudes change through such basic economic adjustments as rational control of population and of the production and distribution of life necessities."

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt: "Permanent world peace is a possibility; a probability only if the world as a whole determines that self-preservation demands organization for peace instead of war. We cannot expect to make any treaties which will not need change. We must find a basis on which representatives of the people may meet and calmly consider changes occurring throughout the world, and the needs arising therefrom. It is obvious that populations will change and economic conditions vary. If we realize that the ultimate good of all is more advantageous than the temporary good that may accrue to one nation or to one individual, we will be able to meet questions that arise and adjust them in a sane and reasonable manner."

A Dressy Frock Fitting Budget

"As easy as pie" to fit between two graceful raglan sleeves, a wedge-shaped yoke is a distinguishing feature of this rather dressy, yet inexpensive afternoon frock. You'll find it hard to decide which sleeve treatment is the more charming, the one that tapers to a snugly buttoned cuff, or the one which stops just short of the wrist. Don't forget to note the very new, gored skirt with its subtle flare. If it's a dressy dress you want, black satin is ideal; but if you're out for color, choose a richly hued novelty synthetic.

Pattern 9545 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 39 inch fabric and 3/4 yard contrasting. Complete diagrammed sew chart included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., 232 West Eighteenth St., New York, N. Y.

GEORGE OLMSTEAD

George Olmstead passed away at West Branch and was brought to Hale and funeral services held in the Baptist church on Friday, December 13th. Rev. Petleys officiated. Mr. Olmstead with his family lived in Hale and conducted a blacksmith and repair shop nearly 20 years ago. After disposing of his business he bought a farm near Sage Lake, Ogemaw county, where he has since resided. He has been suffering from a complication of diseases for some time and his death was not unexpected. He was born in Sanilac county in May, 1865, making him over 70 years of age at the time of his death. He leaves to mourn his loss, his wife, Mrs. Ellen Olmstead of Hale, three daughters, three sons, one sister, nephews, nieces and many friends. Interment was in Plainfield cemetery where he was laid to rest beside a son, Charles, who died in infancy.

The local Grange met on Tuesday evening for the regular monthly session. The evening's program featured a Christmas party, grab bag, and supper.

Mrs. Ellen Olmstead, who was visiting for three weeks with her son and daughter, was called home by the death of her husband, George Olmstead. She was accompanied by her son, Roy, and grandson of Detroit.

The Plainfield township schools will close Friday for a ten-day vacation during the holidays. A Christmas program will be given Friday afternoon with all of the children participating.

Mrs. Nellie Jennings was called to Lansing last week by the death of a relative.

Miss Harper will leave Saturday to spend the Christmas vacation at her home in Charlevoix.

Economic Changes Affect Trade of Chinese Port

Demand for Products in Foreign Markets Drop Off.

Washington.—The treaty port of Swatow, in southeast China, came to the world's attention recently as the scene of serious Chinese-Japanese disputes over customs duties on rice, Chinese ships entering the port had to pass down a receiving line of Japanese warships, and Chinese troops dug miles of trenches near the city as Japanese marines threatened to land.

"Although Swatow is one of China's most important ports, circumstances seem to have conspired in recent years to reduce its usually brisk trade," says the National Geographic society. "Lessened demand for its products in foreign markets, especially in Siam and the Straits Settlements, have caused a diminution of the city's exports; and heavy local taxation, together with boycotts, has affected its imports."

"Swatow residents have learned to economize by using Chinese-made matches and hosiery instead of foreign ones, artificial woolen yarn instead of the genuine, locally-distilled oil instead of imported kerosene, cheap dried and salted fish in place of the more expensive sharks' fins and cuttle-fish."

Destitute Coolies Return.

"A large part of Swatow's former purchasing power was due to money sent home by immigrant coolies working in Siam, in the Straits Settlements, and in the tin mines of Netherland India. At present this source of wealth is falling as hundreds of coolies, destitute and unable to find work elsewhere, are pouring back into Swatow."

"An added burden to Swatow's commercial difficulties is the frequent presence of bandits in agricultural regions of the hinterland. Parts of the Kwangtung province, for which Swatow is an important distribution center, are harried by them."

"Europeans made a poor first-impession on Swatow. Early European traders kidnaped so many coolies from there to be laborers in other countries that Chinese hatred of foreigners raged in the port. Even for several years after the treaty of 1858, which made Swatow a treaty port, foreigners were not welcome in the city. This feeling has largely been changed and today Chinese, European, and American homes and offices are side by side."

"Not only has the port had troubles commercially, but it has even had difficulties geographically. Situated on low alluvial plains at the mouth of the Han river, it had occasionally been flooded by inadequately controlled tributary streams. After a survey in 1921, dikes were built which give the city better protection."

"Calamities which Swatow anticipates annually are typhoons, which frequently rage between August and October. Situated at the southern end of the strait between the China coast and Taiwan, and less protected from the sea than many other Chinese ports, Swatow is at full mercy of the typhoons. As soon as a typhoon approaches within 100 miles of the city two guns are fired from its signal station every five minutes night and day. In August, 1922, an unusually severe typhoon and tidal wave greatly damaged the port's shipping and property.

But Climate Is O. K.
"One thing, however, Swatow does not have to worry about is its climate. It is ranked as the healthiest port in China by some authorities. Cholera is noticeably absent. During the hot summer season, the heat is alleviated by cool sea breezes, while the winters are bracing. The city had an insufficient water supply until 1914, when a modern water system was installed."

"Swatow originated as a small fishing village. Its name probably was derived from swa, (a wicker basket for catching fish) and tow, (head). Today, a large percentage of the people in and near the port engage in fishing. They catch flying fish, sea breams and other varieties, and many of the fish peddlers carry their wares in baskets on their heads."

"Swatow's population was about 178,036 in 1931. Most of the city's resi-

Earliest Bible Mss. Found in Rubbish

London.—What was described officially as the oldest manuscript of any part of the Bible in any language was found in an old collection of papyrus in the Ryland library at Manchester.

It consists of part of the Greek manuscript of the Gospel of St. John, written 200 years before the Codex Sinaiticus. The document was lost for centuries in a rubbish heap of Egyptian material in the library.

"It probably was written before the ink of the original dried in the early part of the Second century," said Dr. Henry Guppy, librarian, "or even in the last part of the First century. Hitherto scholars thought St. John's Gospel was one of the last written."

dents are Chinese merchants, farmers or fishermen, but there are also several hundred foreigners engaged in trade. These are mostly Japanese, English, German, American, French and Portuguese.

"The city's modern improvements include waterworks, a new telephone system, electric lights, a sugar refinery, and mills for expressing oil from peanuts."

Model of a Memorial to Mark Twain

Walter Russell, well known sculptor of New York, pictured with a model of the center portion of his Mark Twain memorial which is to be erected in Hannibal, Mo., the boyhood home of the creator of "Tom Sawyer" and "Huck Finn." The actual memorial itself will be 60 feet long and will contain 28 figures, all more than life size.

Man Works 34 Years as Maker of Paddles

Student Styles Change, Says Missouri Veteran.

Columbia, Mo.—Wayne Allen is recognized as official paddle maker of the University of Missouri. He has been at it 32 years along with desultory work at piano tinkering.

In 1928 Allen advertised: "Allen's paddles have made lasting impressions on Mizzou freshmen for the last 25 years."

During that time Allen estimated he has made thousands of paddles.

"I've made paddles out of every kind of wood that grows," he says. "Rosewood was the favorite in prosperous times. Some fraternities favored mahogany, but seasoned oak is the favorite now."

"I have made them out of ebony." Styles in paddles change, Allen declares. Some years students want heavy two-handed ones. Other years they require shorter, lighter blades.

He has to be something of a draftsman. The engineers send the paddle maker specifications drawn like architect's plans for a building.

"Engineers' paddles must weigh just so much and must be just exactly so many sixteenth-of-an-inch thick."

Agriculture students want them tough and strong. One of Allen's masterpieces was an explosive paddle which concealed a percussion cap. When the wood was brought in forcible contact with luckless freshmen the resulting blast was—very amusing.

He now is attempting to devise a set of paddles which will emit pleasant tones when in use.

Allen's paddles for women are popular. They are made of soft wood and are considerably wider than the male type.

And he not only makes the disciplinary woods but also—for a sum—constructs form-fitting paddle protectors for luckless frosh. The paddle-proof, made-to-measure armor is made of piano felt.

Freak Laws Unrepealed on British Statute Books

London.—A recent freak court case at Hastings caused lawyers to search the statute books and remind Britons that curious laws remain unrepealed and could send anyone to jail.

Still illegal in Britain are: Smoking a cigarette in the street. Sunday radio broadcasting.

Christmas dinner of more than three courses.

Making a mince pie, "an abominable and idolatrous thing."

Playing billiards on Sunday.

It is possible, according to the old laws, for anyone to be jailed for inducing another person to drink more liquor than would be good for him.

Silent System Favored by Wisconsin Convicts

Waupun, Wis.—Convicts "favor" the so-called silent system practiced at the Wisconsin State penitentiary, Warden Oscar Lee says. He credits the no-talking rule for the absence of fights.

"Men who have served terms in prisons where discipline is lax frequently tell me they are glad we do not permit conversation at Waupun," Lee told visitors who expressed surprise when they heard no talking as they toured the institution.

"Most of the trouble among convicts results from conversation. An argument develops. Names are called. There is a fight. Punishment follows."

Waupun inmates may speak only in the presence of a guard unless they are pupils or teachers in the schools conducted for illiterates or are giving or receiving instruction in the operation of the various prison industries.

During the daily recreation periods, two-men teams pitch horseshoes for an hour without uttering a word.

CARNEGIE PIPER

To take part in the American celebration of the centenary of the birth of Andrew Carnegie, Hugh Grant, official piper at Skibo castle, Scotch home of the Carnegie family, came over and showed us how the pipes should be played. He is seen here being greeted, as he landed from the Anchor liner Caledonia, by Roswell Miller, son-in-law of the late iron master.

TOOTS reigned supreme in the Martin household. Except at Christmas time. Then Toots was ordered from his favorite corners, and expressed his displeasure by a switch of his tail.

Toots was a big black persian, with long silky fur and wide yellow eyes. It was pleasant under the kitchen stove, where delicious odors of suet and fowl mingled in the warm air. "Get out of here, ye beast," shouted Cook, who was not quite herself during the holidays. "Sure I can't step but what you're underfoot."

Toots arched his back and withdrew to the parlor. "Never lose your temper," was his attitude. "Never sputter and scratch; express your displeasure in dignity and disdain."

Beside the fireplace were a stool and pillow which were peculiarly his own. Onto these Toots leaped, and curled up for a snooze. "Oh, no, Toots, darling," said Betty. "The tree's going there." And Toots was picked up under one arm, and his stool shoved off to a cold corner. "You must look Christmasy, too," Betty cried gayly, and twined a red ribbon about his neck, and tied a bow. Toots squirmed indignantly.

"See, Mother? Why, Toots, don't tear it off! That's our Christmas outfit." The badge of merriment dangled just beyond his reach. Disgusted, Toots crawled under the sofa.

Now was his chance. Did he dare attack? The tree, gaudy with bells and tinsel, seemed to mock him.

Cautiously, Toots jumped up on the sofa, sniffed at an extended bough. A slight breeze stirred, and a golden bird in the branches quivered. Toots crouched and sprang.

The tree went down with a swish, and was ablaze in a moment. Toots was surprised and terrified. He clawed at the door, and howled to heaven.

His noise brought the family, and the blaze was soon put out, but not before considerable damage had been done. The tree was a heap of smoldering blackened limbs, and the wall above was badly burned.

"Look," said Bett. "It peels right off." And then she cried out, for a secret crypt had been uncovered, and the hoarded coins of some old tenant were brought to light.

Such excitement as the treasure chest was emptied! Toots sniffed it all inquisitively.

"Toots, darling," cried Betty, "you're a hero!" and squeezed him impulsively. "Just think, if we hadn't heard him crying, we might have been burned out of house and home! And Toots, you shall have a Christmas present."

The parlor was locked up, and Toots' stool and cushion moved to the kitchen underneath the table. Cook was basting the turkey. A plate of goodies was offered him, but Toots only sniffed. He was tired. He found his place under the table and clawed the pillow into shape. He twisted and scratched. He licked his fur into place. He settled down.

At peace with the world, Toots lay on his very own pillow and slept. From under one paw dangled a piece of red ribbon.

Mother's Christmas Story
By Alice B. Palmer

T WAS Christmas eve and the children had gathered about the snow white Christmas tree, a glimmering mass of iridescent lights and icicles, to listen to that long-promised story of the Prince and Princess.

"Once upon a time," began Mother, "there was a tall handsome prince who loved a beautiful princess. They were to be married on Christmas eve—another Christmas eve, long ago."

"The gorgeous castle on the hillside was ablaze with Christmas lights. The Yule log was burning and crackling delightfully and the huge Christmas tree was sparkling gaily. But there were candles, tiny colored candles, children, instead of electric lights. They were lovely! Everything was most beautiful!"

"Oh, Mother," whispered little Rosebud, "I wish I was in that castle right now, looking at all the pretty things." "Hurry up, Mother! Then what?" interrupted Danny, impatiently. "What happened next?"

"Well, the prince and princess were married and then they all sat down to the wedding feast. Let me see," mused Mother, "they were all there—all of them, my dears. Right in the center of the table stood the most wonderful wedding cake you ever saw—a gold cake frosted with silver, and because it was Christmas the whole top was decorated with lovely little bells. You see, nothing was too good for the prince and princess, for every one loved them and wanted them to be happy, and they were happy—so happy, children."

"Well, then, did they live happy forever and ever, Mother?" Rosebud wanted to know. "Why, of course they did," shouted Danny, indignantly. "Did you ever hear of a prince and princess who did not?"

"Only a story," pondered Mother. "Would that I, too, could be made to believe that 'twas only a story." "The prince!" wildly shouted the children, as a tall man stood in the doorway. They felt sure they had found the real prince as they clamored for explanation.

"The Prince!" shouted the children. A Tall Man in the Doorway.

"Oh, look, Mother!" cried Rosebud. "Look what the prince brought—toys and dolls and everything—and a gold cake trimmed with silver with bells on it, too, just like the one in the story."

"Oh, boy!" shouted Danny. "This is the best Christmas we ever had. Isn't it, Mother?"

Mother whispered, "Yes, dear," and then rushed into the outstretched arms of her loving husband, the really true prince who was waiting with a great big Christmas kiss. "And they all lived happily forever after," whispered Mother, through tears of happiness.

FASCINATING TALES OF LOST MINES
By Editha L. Watson

THE LOST FIND

THE Funeral range of mountains, east of Death Valley, conceals a lost mine known as the Find. A man named Smith was its discoverer, and he went to New York with the first of his new wealth, spent it lavishly, and at the end of two months died of apoplexy.

He left a map, a fairly accurate one, showing the eastern part of Death Valley, and in the northernmost range of mountains a canyon had been drawn in detail. Near the head of this canyon a red cross marked the Find.

Basing their itineraries on this map, many people tried to reach the mine, but with no success. Then a "location notice," written peculiarly and apparently designed to give clues only to those who knew which were real and which false directions, was unearthed from beneath a location monument where the copper camp of Greenwater stands. The notice read as follows:

"Notice is hereby given that we, the men that wrote this notice, is over the age of twenty-one and are citizens of the United States, Cuba, and the Philippines; we do this day locate one gold mine. Known as the Bryfogle, and more particularly described as follows:

"Commencing at this big monument of stone on a cold rainy night and running 35 hours with Indians after him, come to a big canyon that leads up to the north with two big rocks on one side of the mouth of the canyon, the one on the right round and smooth, and the one on the left rough and rugged. These rocks stand 20 feet high. Follow up this canyon about five hours on burros or one and one-half hours on horseback you will come to the fork of the canyon. Take the left hand one and ride hard for two hours and you will come to an old stone corral. Go to the right of this about 9,000 feet and you will come to a small gulch leading up to the right. Go up this about one-fourth of a mile you will come to a small water hole. Sometimes its a dry hole. If it's a water hole when you get there, water your animals, fill your canteen and then go on until the gulch forks again, then take the right hand one until it forks, then lead up the left one just a little ways and you will discover the find we have been unable to locate. The canyon is yet, and we take this means of locating the big find. The map of the above described property will be furnished to anyone on application to the undersigned. Located this first day of January, 1902."

"Locator," "J. W. Trotter," "P. S.—Don't look for this mine in the summer time, as it is dangerous. Doc."

That the monument where the notice was found formed the starting place, is apparent. But so far no one has managed to run as if chased by Indians until he finds the canyon with the two big rocks. Plenty of men have tried it, though.

SWIFT SILVER MINE

THERE seem to be three distinct teras in America during which mining was most important. The first was during the Spanish occupation, the second after the Civil war, and the last the present time. But the Swift silver mine belongs to none of them; it produced its silver shortly before the Revolution.

Swift was the captain of a sailing vessel of those times. He met a man who had been adopted into an Indian tribe, and this man revealed that the Indians had discovered a fabulously rich deposit of silver in Kentucky.

The mine was in a cave, well hidden from the casual searcher. It was all that had been promised, and Swift set to work mining and smelting the ore, running it into molds and stamping it with a dollar die which he had brought with him. When they had made as much of this money as they could carry, they concealed the place as the Indians had done and started eastward—none too soon, for the tribesmen discovered that their mine had been plundered and started on their trail. In fact, pursuit grew so hot that the white men were forced to bury a large proportion of their spoils, escaping with enough, however, to be put into circulation. This money was known as "Swift's dollars."

Then came the Revolutionary war, and Swift was busy with many matters. He next met up with him when he came into Kentucky with Boone, and told the story of the Indian mine at Boonesborough.

He said that he could find the place again, although his sight was failing, and a company was formed to go with him. He led them truly, and at last toward evening one day he recognized the location. The night was spent in dreams of great fortune, and at daybreak everyone was eager to uncover the hidden shaft—but alas! during the night Swift's eyesight had left him completely, and he could not see even the sun as it poured its rays against his face.

He tried to tell the men where to go, but it was useless. They were forced at last to abandon their search and return home empty handed.

That mine has been hunted ever since those days, but it remains hidden.
