WATER WORKS CONTRACT GIVEN SAGINAW FIRM

Chicago Iron Works Will Construct Elevated Storage Tank

Last Friday evening the bids for the Tawas City water works distribution system were presented to the council. L. W. Wells, Saginaw contractor, proved to be the low bidder. His bid was $43,045.05. Wells was awarded the contract. The bid of the Chicago Iron Works of $6,445.00 was the lowest for the construction of a storage tank.

There were four bids on the distribution system. The unsuccessful bidders were: Gilmary Construction company, Detroit, $47,917.05; Carroll Williams, Grand Rapids, $47,526.81; Elliott Construction company, Belleville, $44,524.35. The Pittsburgh Bridge & Iron Works were high bidders for the storage tank construction project. Its bid was $6,780.00.

With the construction of a complete water works and sanitary sewer system assured, the citizens of Tawas City can now feel proud. During the past 50 years the progressive citizens of the city have been working toward this end and for its accomplishment much credit is due to the untiring efforts of the city officials, both past and present.

The water supply will be obtained from a 10-inch artesian well which will be located at the southwest corner of North street and First avenue near the athletic field. The distribution system will consist of 6, 4 and 2 inch mains laid at a depth of (Turn to No. 1, Back Page)

Harris Barkman Visits Chicago Furniture Mart

"Aroused by a public demand for better things," said Harris Barkman of the Barkman Mercantile & Outfitting company, "which grows greater as times and conditions improve, manufacturers exhibiting at the mart came there with what most observers termed the finest lines in the history of the mart. Mr. Barkman has just returned from the winter furniture exhibit.

"In every instance," said Mr. Barkman, "there was keen attention to the matter of styling as it would affect the consumer in whose home this furniture will eventually find itself. Every available trick of the designers' art coupled with the ingenuity to produce a better finished product. Of outstanding interest during the market was the apparent predominance of modern—a modern that no longer projects the jarring note of the extreme as it greets the eye. For the first time the modern presented at the market was of the conservative variety, easily adaptable for use with traditional patterns.

"Attendance was one of the greatest in years, thereby showing the growing public demand in replacement of home furnishings. By unavoidable circumstances, renewing of worn out furnishings has been neglected in the past few years. This year the public can take advantage of beautiful furniture and floor coverings at a very reasonable replacement cost."

County Road Commission Explains Snow Removal

Many county roads have been blocked with snow during the last ten days that ordinarily could have been kept open. This is due principally to the heavy frozen snow, which is very difficult to plow and also hard on machinery. Most all of the county plows have been broken down during the last few days and it may be several days before some of the important side roads can be opened.

While this condition (very heavy frozen snow) is somewhat unusual, it might be well to explain the set-up for snow removal as far as the Commission is concerned. The remark is often heard that "the county now has the roads and they are supposed to keep them open." This expression is no more true than the same would have been if applied to the townships when they had the roads. What is true, is that the Road Commission will do all within its power with the funds at its command to keep its roads passable. There are no favorites, except that mail and school bus routes come first after the gravel or main roads. Funds are far short of being sufficient to buy and operate heavy equipment of the type that would open any and all roads.

Many counties in northern Michigan report that if all of the Holbeck-McNitt funds received during a year were used on snow removal it would not be half enough to keep all roads open. When it is considered that maintenance and construction are demanded, the Road Commissions have little choice but to neglect snow removal on a great part of their roads when a severe snow fall occurs.

If all winters were like the last two or three here, our county could probably keep open most all roads (Turn to No. 2, Back Page)

CELEBRATE 50TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Friends Help Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Ferguson Have Enjoyable Event

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Ferguson of this city, with the help of relatives and many friends, celebrated their golden wedding last Sunday.

Stephen Ferguson and Isabelle McCondra were married at Chelsea, Ontario, on January 26, 1886, and moved to East Tawas a year later. They lived in East Tawas for seventeen years, moving to Tawas City in 1904, where Mr. Ferguson entered the grocery and meat market business which he still operates.

The Fergusons have three children—George Ferguson, Mrs. Elizabeth Tuttle and Douglas Ferguson, and two grandchildren, George Tuttle and Betty Jean Ferguson, all of whom make their home in this city.

Rev. Frank Metcalf of the Baptist church in his Sunday morning service very fittingly spoke of the anniversary and Mrs. Nyda Leslie sang two numbers in honor of the occasion.

The marriage vows were renewed with Rev. Metcalf officiating just before the three-course dinner served to 30 relatives. The house was trimmed with gold and white streamers. The afternoon and evening were spent visiting with friends, who came to congratulate them.

Out of town relatives who attended the celebration were: Mr. and Mrs. Neil Ferguson of Bay City; Wm. McCondra of Flint, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Brookshire of Flint, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Bean of Flint, Mrs. Annie Carpenter of East Tawas and Mrs. Louis Van Wick and two children of East Tawas. Owing to the extremely cold weather and snow in Canada, relatives from Canada were unable to come. Telegrams, letters and cards were received from absent relatives and friends, and also many lovely gifts and flowers.

The Tawas City Masonic lodge and Eastern Star chapter held a dinner party Monday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson's wedding anniversary with 75 present. An appropriate program with Mrs. Giddings as toastmaster was greatly enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson were presented with a floor lamp. A mock wedding brought forth much merriment and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing.

Mrs. Jas. H. Leslie entertained members of the former Good Neighbor Club in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson last Wednesday evening.

Iosco County Teachers' Institute

There will be a teachers' institute for all teachers in Iosco county on Friday, February 7, beginning at 9:30 a. m. at the Tawas City high school. Each teacher is entitled by law to time spent in attending a county institute and the day counts as a day taught.
Miss Elizabeth McCrickett from Michigan State Normal College and Clarence Crawford from the State Department of Public Instruction will be the speakers from outside. Everyone interested in schools is most cordially invited to attend.
Margaret E. Worden, Commissioner

Legion Posts Will Aid Applicants For Bonus

The three American Legion organizations in Iosco county, Jesse C. Hodder Post, Tawas City; Audie Johnson Post, East Tawas, and Loud-Merkel Post, Oscoda, have made arrangements to distribute bonus application blanks and assist in filling them out. Telegrams came Wednesday to Legion officials announcing that the application blanks were in the mail.

The distribution of blanks and assistance in filling them out will be a special part of business at the regular meeting of Jesse C. Hodder Post, American Legion, next Monday night. All veterans are invited to attend. Application blanks may also be secured from Joseph St. Aubin, post-adjutant.

Joseph Barkman, post adjutant of Audie Johnson Post, East Tawas, announced yesterday that he will be pleased to furnish blanks and assist in filling out these papers. He will be at the Barkman Lumber company office during the day and the Barkman Mercantile & Outfitting company store each evening excepting Fridays.

Veterans who desire assistance should bring their adjusted compensation certificate or, in case a loan has been made on it, the receipt.

Young Men's Club To Stage Tournament

The Young Men's Club of East Tawas will stage a ping pong tournament in their club rooms on the second floor of the Klenow building. Plans are being rushed so that scheduled play can begin early next week. It will continue for a period of three weeks, during which time each member will play a series of six matches.

The purpose of the tournament is to decide on club champions in singles and doubles play in the popular indoor pastime. Standings will be made public each week and at the conclusion of the tournament the club champions will be ready to accept challenges from any club or lodge champions in either of the Tawas.

The club, which recently observed its first anniversary, has in its membership list some fast players and the tournament, the first of its kind to be attempted here, promises to be very interesting. Watch this paper for developments.

Iosco County Recreation Program

An inter-city volleyball game, to be staged early in February, is one of the interesting features planned under the new county-wide recreation program, it is announced.

Picked teams representing Oscoda and Tawas City will vie for honors at the latter place on a date which will probably be decided during the next week. The Oscoda team will be chosen next week as a part of the regular program in that village under the direction of Percy B. Allen.

Allen also announced today the organization of the Wilber Athletic club and a schedule of general activity, including social games and stunts, in the Red hall in that community. A special program is planned there next Thursday night.

In the meantime, an Oscoda-Ausable softball league will be organized as a part of the regular activity in the Oscoda auditorium next Wednesday night, following an open softball and volleyball session and a continuation of the "fats vs. leans" basketball rivalry Monday.

What Bait Do You Use

To the Editor of the Tawas Herald
Dear Sir:
In a recent issue of your paper I noticed that the perch were biting in Tawas bay.
For the past several weeks I have faithfully and daily attempted by every method and means known to me to tempt members of the piscatorial species to bite my hook. I have used everything from bread dough to minnows and to date all I succeeded in catching was cold. If you will kindly tell me just where these elusive creatures are biting, I will pay my last year's subscription to the Herald. That is not a threat—it is a promise.
Yours for better fish stories,
I. Walton.

Family Theatre To Show Brilliant Musical Drama

New and unrivalled thrills in song, dance, laughter and drama are brought to the screen by "King of Burlesque," the Fox picture coming Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, February 2-3-4, to the Family Theatre, East Tawas, which turns the spotlight on a fascinating new world of entertainment.
Featuring Warner Baxter, Al Faye, Jack Oakie and Arline Judge at the head of an all-star cast, the picture tells an absorbing love story of the people who make the nation's entertainment.
It follows Baxter's rise from the "flesh" shows of 14th Street to the glittering palaces of Broadway. It traces his decline under the spiteful control of his society wife, played by Mona Barrie.
In the climax, the picture shows how this master of entertainment returns to his most spectacular success and to the realization that he had loved Alice Faye all the time.
Specialty numbers by a stellar cast of supporting players contribute to the entertainment.

Births and Deaths

It is estimated that 150,000 persons are born every day and 100,000 die. The population of the world, therefore is increasing by about 50,000 daily.

Women Can Stand More Cold

As a generalization, women can stand the cold better because they have a thicker layer of fat under the skin.

When Emotion Is Dangerous

Emotion which is not disciplined by thought is always dangerous.

Edward VIII Becomes Ruler of the British Empire; Substitute for Unconstitutional AAA Rejected by Senate Subcommittee.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© Western Newspaper Union.

GEORGE V, king of Great Britain and emperor of India, died in Sandringham house, peacefully and painlessly, in his seventy-first year. Immediately on his passing, his eldest son, Edward Albert, who had been prince of Wales, succeeded to the throne, which by British law, is never vacant. Next morning the state council, consisting of the queen and her four sons, which had been created by a decree which George signed a few hours before his death, proclaimed the accession of the new ruler as Edward VIII. His first official act was to notify the lord mayor of London of his father's demise.

King George, who had been on the throne almost twenty-five years, was the best loved and most democratic of the world's monarchs, always just, solicitous for the welfare of his subjects, and living a simple and almost faultless domestic and official life. The new king, a confirmed bachelor, knows his vast empire intimately, having visited practically every part of it, some regions many times. Decidedly different from his father in his tastes and ways of life, he still, as the prince of Wales, has been a great favorite of the people, and in recent years, realizing that he would soon have to mount the throne, he steadied down and took an increasing interest in the affairs of the empire. He is especially liked by the laboring classes, in whose welfare he often has shown deep sympathy. That he never married has been a disappointment to the British people. Now for the first time since the reign of William IV there is no prince of Wales. Next in the line of succession is the king's brother, the duke of York, and second comes the duke's little daughter, Princess Elizabeth. There will be six months or more of official mourning for George's death, and Edward VIII will not be crowned for about one year.

The body of the dead ruler was removed from Sandringham house to the little church of St. Mary Magdalene in Sandringham. There it was to be taken to Westminster abbey, there to lie in state. Interment is to be in the Albert Memorial chapel at Windsor, beside the tombs of George's father and mother.

THE New Deal's substitute for the unconstitutional AAA, a bill empowering the secretary of agriculture to pay farmers who co-operate voluntarily in a program of soil conservation, was introduced in congress by Senator John B. Bankhead, Democrat, and Representative Marvin Jones, Democrat, Texas. The bill was referred to a senate subcommittee. The members of the subcommittee doubted the constitutionality of the new measure and directed Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to write a new bill. The bill rejected by the committee stated as its purposes:

1. Preservation and improvement of soil fertility.
2. Promotion of the economic use of land.
3. Diminution of exploitation and unprofitable use of national soil resources.
4. Provision for and maintenance of a continuous and stable supply of agricultural commodities adequate to meet domestic and foreign consumer requirements at prices fair to both producers and consumers.
5. Re-establishment and maintenance of farm purchasing power.

Secretary Wallace was requested to write a new act that would provide a plan of co-operation with each of the 48 states, and set up a permanent program on AAA policies. Chairman Smith, Democrat, said. Saying he spoke for the committee. Smith explained: "We said in effect to Secretary Wallace, 'Make it constitutional,' because we have the responsibility to pass it."

THE compromise bill providing payment of the soldier bonus, whipped through congress by crushing majorities, was passed on to the President, who is expected to veto it. Congressional action on the measure was completed when the house voted 346 to 59 to accept the senate substitute for the bill it had previously passed. The senate vote was 74 to 16. Leaders of both houses claim they have sufficient votes to override a veto.

The original house bill did not provide a method for paying the cost of the bonus, which is estimated at $2,337,000,000. The senate suggested the issuance of the $50 "baby bonds" which will bear interest of 3 per cent annually until 1945 if the veteran elects to hold on to them. Each veteran will receive the 1945 value of his adjusted compensation certificate in $50 bonds with a government check for odd amounts. Interest owed by veterans upon loans unpaid on their certificates is canceled, but there will be no refund of interest paid upon such loans.

THE present federal relief program, depending principally on work relief, CCC and public works, is alone costing approximately as much as the fourfold program which went before and which embraced these three items plus direct relief which has now been returned to the states, according to a study of the relief problem and the government finances by Kendall K. Hoyt in the Analyst.

For immediate purposes, at least, there is no prospect of much reduction in the rate of federal expenditure, according to Mr. Hoyt. In order to prevent the states from trooping back for more relief funds the government must keep its pledge to employ the arbitrary three and one-half millions of persons which have been carried since last November principally under WPA and CCC. In dollar terms this means that, according to budget estimates, the outlay for recovery and relief for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, will be almost the same as that for the preceding fiscal year, namely, three billions in round numbers, or an average of 250 millions per month.

It is within expectancy, therefore, that costs to the country will reach a new high unless economic conditions improve more rapidly than can now be foreseen.

APPARENTLY "authentic" administration sources are credited, according to Democrats in congress, with a report that Jesse Jones, RFC chairman, may become secretary of the treasury. It was said that Henry Morgenthau, present secretary of the treasury, may be made confidential adviser to the President.

One congressman, who keeps abreast of developments in government financial circles, said he was reasonably sure the change already has received some consideration from President Roosevelt. Another added that it was "a 100-to-1 shot that it is under consideration."

The reports were discounted to some extent, however, by the fact that the President has just renominated Jones for two more years as chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

One Democratic representative argued that on the basis of his past record Jones could carry into the treasury the respect and confidence of both big business and "the man in the street." He described the RFC chairman as sufficiently liberal to command the support of liberal elements and yet not leaning so far in that direction as to alarm conservatives.

PREMIER NESSIM PASHA, weary of his job since the anti-British riots started November 13, has handed the resignation of his cabinet to King Fuad I. The resignation was accepted.

Nessim found it exhausting to keep an equilibrium between the conflicting forces of the throne, the British residency, the nationalists and their compatriots. But the final blow, dealt him by the British government at London, was the thinly veiled ultimatum to Egyptian Nationalism, in the form of verbal instructions for negotiations for an Angli-Egyptian treaty. The sting to Egyptian pride was in the warning that if the present negotiations fail, the British consider their hands will be free and will revise their Egyptian policy.

FACTORY sales of automobiles manufactured in the United States rose to 407,804 in December, bringing the year's total to 4,069,486, the Department of Commerce reports. The total compares with 2,753,111 in 1934. At the same time the department reported an increase of $7,483,914 in exports of automotive products during the month of November from the preceding month. November auto exports reached a valuation of $22,403,722. This is the peak figure for any corresponding month since 1929, when the export total amounted to $27,129,963.

AFTER several months of governmental stability Premier Pierre Laval has handed to Albert Lebrun, president of France, the resignation of the entire cabinet. Leaders expressed fear of a financial crisis.

The radical Socialists: Minister of State Edouard Herriot, Minister of Commerce George Bonnet, Minister of Mercantile Marine William Bertrand, and Minister of Interior Joseph Paganoux, composed a letter of resignation condemning the domestic and foreign policies of Laval. Their colleagues, Minister of Finance Marcel Regnier and Minister of Pensions Maupoll, refused to sign, declaring they would resign only with the cabinet as a whole. The Nationalist Minister of State Louis Marin, also dissented from the resignation.

Laval, informed of what was going on, handed the president the resignation of the entire cabinet.

HUEY LONG'S lieutenants, following the victory of their primary slate in Louisiana, declared that the late senator's fight on the Roosevelt administration would be pushed, with the share-the-wealth program as the spearhead of attack. Returns on the primary indicate a majority of more than 100,000 for senator, governor and other state officers. Nomination is equivalent to election.

ALL the world rejoiced over the news that Lincoln Ellsworth, noted explorer, and his pilot, Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, had been found safe and well in Little America and were on board the rescue ship Discovery II which was sent jointly by the British and Australian governments. The two men had been missing since November 23 when they started on a bold airplane flight across the Antarctic continent. In this they succeeded, but they ran out of fuel and were forced to land at the bay of Whales. They had a considerable supply of provisions, but this was almost exhausted when they were found. No word had come from them because their radio transmitter was disabled.

RECENT League of Nations developments have gone heavily against Italy's aspirations for African conquest. Of four major actions taken by the assembled powers, led again by Anthony Eden of Great Britain, two definitely were antagonistic to Italy, one was a draw and one was somewhat in the Fascist state's favor. They were:

1. The league council decided to move toward an oil embargo against Italy. A committee of experts was appointed to ascertain if oil sanctions could be made effective.
2. Britain announced a military alliance with France, Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia and these nations pledged aid should Italy attack Britain because of sanctions. Rumania and Czechoslovakia promptly joined this group, making seven nations pledged to combined action against Italy should war come over efforts to stop the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.
3. The league declined to send a neutral investigating body to Ethiopia, which Ethiopia asked and to which Italy consented.
4. The league conciliation committee published a report that no new peace proposals are possible at the present time, and that the league should pursue a policy of watchful waiting.

SUMMARILY overruling the government's petition for a rehearing of the Louisiana rice millers' cases, involving the refund of some 200 million dollars in processing taxes held in escrow, the United States Supreme court issued its mandate ordering the return of the funds to the taxpayers.

The court also issued its mandate in the Hoosac mills cases, in which the Agricultural Adjustment act was held unconstitutional and thereby closed the door to petitions for a rehearing in that case. In a third action the court ordered arguments on February 4 on the New Deal's motion to dismiss a suit brought by the state of Georgia to test the constitutionality of the Bankhead compulsory cotton control act.

The expected decision in the TVA case was not handed down.

UNDERSECRETARY of the Treasury Thomas Jefferson Coolidge resigned his position suddenly and unexpectedly, because he did not agree with all the policies of the administration. At the same time Assistant Secretary Lawrence W. Robert resigned. President Roosevelt accepted both resignations. It was understood there was no connection between the two withdrawals. Mr. Robert had been expected for some time to quit his post.

In his treasury position Mr. Coolidge, long a New England banker, has been in charge of such government financial affairs as the huge borrowings of money to meet heavy government expenditures. He was understood to be in accord with most Roosevelt policies but felt he was unable to give his full support to the general New Deal program.

INTRODUCED in the house by Chairman Rayburn of the interstate commerce committee is a bill for the purpose of increasing the powers of the federal trade commission to prevent unfair and deceptive trade practices. It proposed these four major changes in the present law:

1. Declares "deceptive acts and practices" unlawful in addition to the "unfair methods of competition" now specified.
2. Includes "trusts" in the scope of the law along with corporations.
3. Gives the Circuit Court of Appeals power to restrain practices involved in a commission proceeding pending final court decision.
4. Limits to 60 days from the date of a commission order the time in which application may be made to the Circuit court for review of the order.

CONGRESSMAN CONNERY of Massachusetts, chairman of the house labor committee, says that body has approved a bill designed to impose the 30-hour week on industry operating in interstate commerce, and that he hopes it will have the support of the President. The measure would license all interstate business and withhold licenses from firms which work employees more than 30 hours a week, fail to provide a wage sufficient to maintain a decent and comfortable standard of living, deny workers the right to join unions or bargain collectively, or employ persons under sixteen years of age.

SAMMY JAY WORRIES

IT ISN'T often Sammy Jay worries about anybody but himself. Truth to tell, he doesn't worry about himself very often. You see, Sammy is smart and he knows he is smart. Under that pointed cap of his are some of the cleverest wits in all the Green Forest. Sammy seldom worries about himself because he feels quite able to take care of himself.

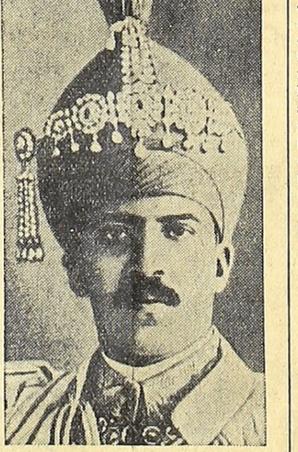

Whenever He Had Found One of Them, He Had Screamed at the Top of His Voice.

Lightfoot or any trace of Lightfoot. But he did find plenty of hunters with terrible guns. It seemed to him that they were everywhere in the Green Forest. Sammy began to suspect that one of them must have succeeded in killing Lightfoot the Deer.

Sammy knew all of Lightfoot's hiding places. He visited every one of them. Lightfoot wasn't to be found, and no one whom Sammy met had seen Lightfoot for two days.

Sammy felt badly. You see, he was very fond of Lightfoot. You remember it was Sammy who warned Lightfoot of the coming of the hunter on the morning when the dreadful hunting season began. Ever since the hunting season had opened Sammy had done his best to make trouble for the hunters. Whenever he had found one of them he had screamed at the top of his voice to warn every one within hearing just where that hunter was.

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

POTTED MEATS AND FISH

IN ENGLAND potted meats are so common that the everyday cook knows all about preparing them. We like to have such meats occasionally, and the following are reliable methods of preparing such dishes.

Meat such as ham, tongue or chicken, as well as left-over fish is potted for a luncheon dish, rather than use it in other ways, such as hash, which is all too common in some homes. The goodness of the potted meats is, of course, first of all, in the meat, then in the proper pounding and preparation and seasoning. If carefully prepared and put away, these will keep for a long time, and may be used for an occasional snack or an emergency dish.

Potted Chicken.

Take a cold roast chicken, rejecting the skin and sinews, chop fine and to every pint allow a half-cupful of chopped ham or tongue. Put the bones of the fowl into a saucepan, add a pint of cold water and simmer until there is half a pint of stock: strain and remove the fat. Pound the chicken, and ham or tongue to a smooth paste in a mortar with an old-fashioned pestle; this makes a smooth paste; or it may be put several times through the food chopper until fine. Then pound—the pounding makes the meat of the

MY WAY

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

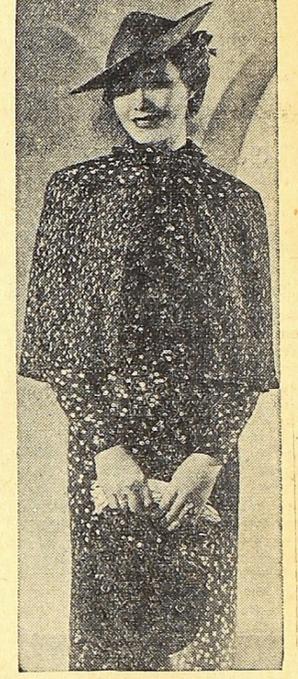

LET me be up at morning,
And let me on my way,
For, with so much to see, to do,
Then who would long delay?
Let me go seeking fortune,
Let me go finding fame,
And doing something for the world,
The world that does the same.

Let me be far at noontide,
Be far upon the quest,
For with so much to see, to do,
Then who would care to rest?
I hear the pulleys rumble,
I hear the traffic roar,
A hundred matters to be done
And highways to explore.

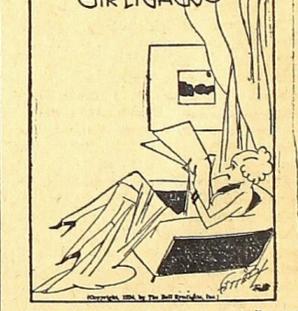

Let me be up at morning,
Let me be far at noon,
For with so much to see, to do,
And so the morn to venture,
And so the day to roam,
But, when the evening shadows fall,
Let me be coming home.

The Saar

Industrial Panorama in the Saar.

Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

THOUGH barely 738 square miles in area and with fewer than 825,000 people, the Saar has been one of Europe's most publicized regions since the World war.

Powder keg of Europe; witches' caldron; political sore spot. For years such graphic labels have been tacked onto this small but highly industrialized region lying north of Alsace-Lorraine between France and Germany.

From the days of Attila and the Caesars down to Foch and Von Hindenburg, its valleys and wooded hills have rocked and echoed to the tramp and shouts of marching armies.

Geographically, the Saar is an irregular patch of hilly land crossed by small valleys. It lies alongside Luxembourg, forms a buffer state between France and Germany, and was cut from the two German states of Prussia and Bavaria.

With a population about equal to that of Boston proper, it shelters more than 1,000 people per square mile—one of the most densely settled areas in all Europe.

Only such miniature European states as Andora, Liechtenstein, San Marino and Monaco are smaller than this tiny, yet dynamic country. America knows no state so dwarfish. Delaware is about three times the Saar's size, yet has less than a third its population.

Saarbrücken, metropolis of the Saar, has only 132,400 people; yet in one year Saar trains haul 60,000,000 passengers!

Sit in any stuffy cafe at Saarbrücken, watch the guests eat red cabbage and boiled pork, or sip fat steins of beer as the band plays heavy Wagner music, and the place seems just another German industrial center.

But look into its eventful annals, or make a careful trip about its historic roads and ruins, and you find a land with a past peculiar to itself.

Saar Problem in Caesar's Time. There was, in fact, a Saar problem even in Roman times, when blond men from east of the Rhine already had invaded this basin. In Caesar's "Commentaries" you read of these early German settlers. One Roman report of the time says that 120,000 barbarians, enamored of Gaul, had settled here.

Caesar feared these Germans might menace Rome itself; so he helped the Gauls drive them back across the Rhine. His battles on the Aisne and elsewhere were precursors of centuries of fighting along the Rhine.

Some Roman military roads hereabouts are shown on the Peutinger map of about 200 A. D. One ran north from Argentoratum (now Strasbourg) to the Saar basin. About this same time the Romans built a castle at a point on the Saar river where it was bridged by their military road from Paris to Mainz. Saarbrücken was so named, meaning "Saar Bridge." That early Roman castle was the first house in the now modern city of Saarbrücken.

Dense forests choked all the basin then, forests frequented by heathen druids, by wild Celtic tribes who hunted deer and boars with spears. Scattered ruins of menhirs, dolmens and cromlechs, symbols of the druid cult, have been found in the Saar forests.

Slowly, through centuries of paganism, tribal wars, and feudalism, the Saar was settled, civilized, and its wooded areas dotted with castles, villages, and towns.

Many old castles, as at Saarbrücken and Ottweiler, were set afire by invading French in 1793, and some of their occupants perished on the guillotine. Yet in German-speaking Saarbrücken today, with its street cars, new city hall, baths, paved streets, playgrounds, "talkies," airport, museum and brightly lit stores with glass fronts, newspapers, and crowded schools, there is little to remind one of the Roman stronghold of long ago; no old Latin edifices remain, as in Rome itself.

Roman ruins there are—if you dig—ruins of villas, of baths and bridges, some almost in the shadow of early Christian churches. At Tholey is a church that dates from the thirteenth century. In sharp contrast, near Saarbrücken is a mosque built by the French during the World war, where in their Moroccan soldiers might pray!

Strategically, the Saar lies on a natural route between France and Germany, and for centuries they have disputed as to where their boundary lines should be fixed. Soon after the break-up of Charlemagne's empire, and the Treaty of Verdun in 843, the Saar became German soil.

Briefly, for more than a thousand years prior to the Versailles treaty Germany held the Saar, except for two short periods, the second being the years from 1793 to 1815, when Napoleon pushed the French frontier to the Rhine.

When Blucher and his Prussians advanced into France in 1813, he followed the very route taken by the German hordes when the Roman empire fell.

It was so in the Franco-Prussian war; Von Moltke, in 1870, followed Blucher's route of 1813, and about Saarbrücken came one of the first clashes of that war which helped Bismarck to found his German empire. Again, of course, in the World war, the armies passed this way, and many an allied soldier washed his shirt in the Saar, the Moselle and the Rhine, or traded cigarettes and white bread to willing frauheims for a jug of wine.

Fly over Saarlouis, where Marshal Ney was born, and in its very heart you see the outline of the old forts built by Louis XIV of France.

Dating, as a town, from 1630, its people lived for more than 200 years almost wholly by trading with the garrisons—first French, then German, then French again.

Today old walls and moats that encircled the fort have been torn down and filled to make broad, smooth streets, as the Americans did with parts of Manila.

German infantry, artillery, cavalry, army wagons—all the money-spending machinery of war—made Saarlouis a busy town until after the World war. When they evacuated, the French came in for a while; but now few occupants are found for all the vast barracks. It is quiet, much too quiet, for those residents who remember the band concerts, the glittering reviews, and fat army pay rolls of other days.

French Are Scarce There. German in race, speech, culture, and traditions, the Saar showed by a pre-war census only about one person in 200 with French as his native tongue. It was simply a legal accident at Versailles which made these people citizens, temporarily, of a phantom state.

The Saar, under that treaty, gained no nationality, no president or other ruler of its own. Instead, a commission of five Europeans was named by the League of Nations to administer the territory's affairs until the plebiscite.

By treaty the Saar went under a customs union with France; French customs guards were set to patrol the line between Germany and the Saar, and French money was put into use. To pay France for her own coal mines damaged by Germans in the World war, she was given the coal mines in the Saar. The treaty provided also that after the plebiscite Germany might buy these mines back again if she wished, and such an agreement was concluded late in 1934.

Only around Saarlouis is any French influence noticeable, and that is not due to the presence there of many living Frenchmen. Such influence belongs to the past—Vauban's old forts, built when Louis XIV made this a French garrison town; French names and epitaphs in the cemetery; and an odd local dialect current among older residents, a curious blend of German and French.

To see how thoroughly German the region is, in speech and sentiment, you have only to mingle with any holiday crowd and listen to the songs, the speeches, and the music; or read the papers, or see what crowds follow broadcasts from the radio stations at Frankfurt and Stuttgart.

Industry Is Intensive. As in the Ruhr, industry here is compact, intensive, and theatrical in its setting.

Like volcanoes, its giant mills, as at Volklingen (250,264), belch forth clouds of thick gray smoke; the red glare of blast furnaces turns black night into brilliant Gehenna.

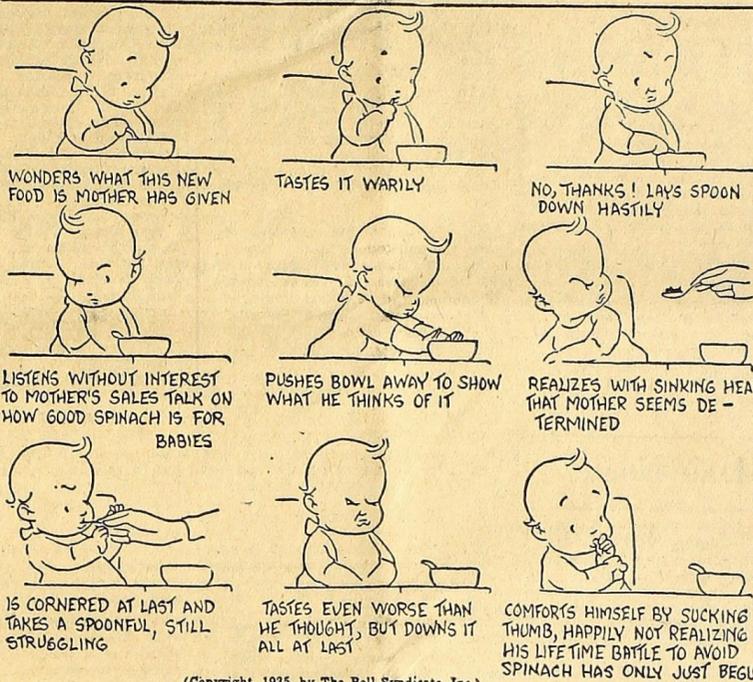

Under every hill is coal. Over every mine is a big wheel on a tower; again and again you see the big wheel spin, as it winds up a cable that lifts its load from deep in the earth.

This is the only place on earth where you see mines and steel mills closely crowded by forests, as if bits of industrial Pittsburgh were set in one of our forest reserves. The wooded slopes of the winding Saar river all covered with snow much resemble Algonquin park in Ontario in winter; it seems the woods must be as dense and mysterious as when druids built their sacrificial altars there and hungry pagan Celts searched for wild meat.

Leap Year Is With Us Again, and Here's What Causes It

Keeps Seasons in Order, Gives Fair Maidens Their Chance.

This is leap year and February 29 is the cause of it. But the cause of February 29 dates back to 46 B. C. when the astronomer of Julius Caesar figured out that the solar year (the time it takes the earth to complete its orbit around the sun) was 365 days and six hours.

The six hours stumped them until they decided to add an extra day to every fourth year and make that 366th day February 29. This is "leap" year because the extra day causes the calendar to leap over a day of the week after February 29. Ordinarily the calendar rotates just one day because 365 is one over 52 seven day weeks. Thus, March 1 fell on Friday last year, but will fall on Sunday instead of Saturday this year.

Pope Suppresses Ten Days. The Julian astronomers didn't have the thing down pat, however, for the solar year is actually 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes and 45.51 seconds. By the time Pope Gregory XIII decided to act in 1582 A. D. the dates of the year had shifted 10 days out of season. To correct this Pope Gregory ordered that October 5, 1582, be made October 15, 1582. To take care of the discrepancy occurring thereafter Pope Gregory's astronomers decided that leap year should be omitted on every century year not divisible by 400. Leap year won't be suppressed again until 2100 A. D.

Anyway, leap year has a more romantic aspect. By tradition, if not by practice, it is the time a woman can propose marriage to a man. The origin of this counter attack in the love suit is less satisfactorily explained than the Julian and Gregorian calendars.

But apparently Margaret of Norway, who became queen of Scotland, started the thing in 1288 A. D. by saying there ought to be a law. She decreed that during the leap years of her reign every "mayden ladye of bothe highe and lowe estait shall hae

Calendar Accepted Rapidly. The Gregorian calendar was accepted in Italy, Spain, and Portugal on the same day it was ordered in Rome. In France it was accepted before the year was ended and in 1583 by the Catholic states of Germany. The German Protestant states retained the Julian calendar until 1700 when Sweden and Denmark also changed to the Gregorian or "new style" calendar. Russia held to the Julian calendar until the soviet union was formed.

In Great Britain the Julian calendar was abolished by the act of 1750. That same year saw the change in the British colonies in America. The birthday of George Washington, which was February 11 under the Julian calendar, became February 22 when the change occurred.—Chicago Tribune.

All-Occasion Frock That Is Flattering

Here's an all-occasion frock of great charm and versatility which you can make with very little effort, and at a surprising saving. There's flattery—there's loveliness, in every line, whether you've a naturally youthful silhouette, or one more generously proportioned. Don't you love the smooth simplicity of a V-shaped yoke, and the dainty bit of rich lace at the throat? It's grand and warm in sheer wool—dressed in novelty crepe, lustrous or dull satin.

First to Play Juliet

It is the first Shakespearean production it was the custom to use boy actors for feminine roles. The part of Romeo was played by Burbage and an unidentified boy played Juliet in the earliest performances. Between the time of Burbage's death and the Restoration there are no records of Romeo and Juliet on the stage. From 1642 to 1660 parliament prohibited public stage plays. After the lifting of this prohibition, Sir William D'Avenant received from the king exclusive stage rights for the play. His original Juliet was Mary Saunders, afterward Mrs. Thomas Betterton, who is apparently the first woman ever to have played the part of Juliet.

First Tournament of Roses

The first Tournament of Roses parade was held in Pasadena, in the year 1890, having been inspired by the Carnival of Flowers at Nice, France. At first the festival was called the Battle of the Flowers. Later the affair took its name from the governing board, which was called the Tournament of Roses association.

"I may if you don't fetch the blanket," he said. "A fire on the shore means nothing of itself. Just an Indian camp—John Buck and his squaw. We'll have to signal."

The word sent her bounding up the bank. She came flying back with the blanket. Garth ordered her to hold one corner. He took another. They stood in front of the fire, with the big blanket stretched between them. Mr. Ramill called irritably from the top of the bank. What did they mean, waking him and taking away his bedding? Lillith cried out the glad news. Garth gave her a curt order to pay attention. At his commands, she began to stoop and rise in unison with him, lowering the blanket to the sand and jerking it up again in front of the fire, at irregular intervals.

After some time he ordered a halt, with the blanket on the ground. He added an explanation: "Those were dots and dashes. We've given the SOS—and my name. They may not have made it out. That light is nearer, but it has not turned. Ready now. We'll repeat."

He went through another series of long and short liftings of the blanket. They again paused with the blanket down. Garth stepped out of the fire glow to peer over the water. Lillith followed.

Above the low-hung star another star flashed on and off. Across the silent, glimmering flood of the river came the hoarse blasts of a steamer's whistle, muffled by distance yet unmistakable.

"All right, Miss Ramill," Garth said. "Tell your maid to pack your luggage."

She asked in a low voice: "Haven't I tried to play up? Is it sporting of you to mock me?"

Her face was shadowed. He could not see the look that went with the questions. After a moment, he answered soberly: "It is not, and you have. Permit me to apologize."

"Is that all?"

"What else?" he replied. "You are of course relieved and pleased to be rid of a man you so thoroughly hate. You may rest assured I will not intrude, once you're aboard ship."

"Yes," she murmured, "when Dad and I no longer have any need of you to—"

Her father came staggering down the bank to thrust in between them. "I say, Garth!—don't lie. Is it true the steamer is putting in for us?"

Doubtful of a safe night landing at this unused beach, the steamer captain lay off-shore and sent in a canoe. Garth steered Mr. Ramill into the birchbark. At the same time Lillith stepped in ahead of her father. She repeated the maneuver when the two Indian paddlers drove the canoe out alongside the little river steamer.

Garth saw no more of the girl until after the steamer tied up at Fort Simpson, the trading post at the mouth of the Liard river. Taken into a stateroom by the wife of a missionary from Fort Norman, she remained in complete seclusion.

Her father kept almost equally close in the skipper's own room. The canny Scot had welcomed the American millionaire to his bunk—for a consideration. The cabin was jammed with fur traders and Fort Norman oil-field officials, who were going outside for the winter. Garth messed and berthed forward with the crew. He kept to his worn buckskins. But a sleet-squall ended the pest of flies and mosquitoes. He was able to shave and cleanse his skin of dope, yet enjoy the fresh air on the unsecured deck.

When the building-topped bluff of Fort Simpson was sighted in the distance, Mr. Ramill left the cabin and came forward. Though not yet fully recovered from his wound, he walked with the springy step of a lean-waisted middle-aged gentleman in healthy training. After the snagged and stained leather suit, the clothes loaned him by the skipper looked startlingly respectable. The same was true of his clean-shaven dope-free skin.

He stopped before Garth, bland-faced, shrewd-eyed.

"I've just heard, my boy, that you think of stopping off at this post. I trust it's not on account of any feeling against me or my daughter. You can't blame her for a bit of resentment. She's a woman, and you certainly put her through the mill. As for myself, I called it quits when you pulled me out of the hole this last time. What d'you say?"

He tossed his half-smoked cheap cigar outward and held out his one-fleebly now firm-muscled hand. Garth gave it a hearty grip.

"All accounts squared, sir, and no hard feelings against either of you. Miss Ramill proved herself far more plucky and sporting than could have been expected. I wish you both bon voyage."

"But for you to be leaving the boat, my boy! There's no need of it. I can arrange for you to get into the cabin. In fact, I'd like the opportunity to talk over matters. We might still get together on those terms you offered."

"We might," Garth agreed; but then his smile hardened. "That side of the matter will have to wait. I shall first settle with your friend Huxby."

The millionaire frowned. "Don't call that murderous hound a friend of mine. His shooting you is understandable. My wounding was of course what he claimed—sheer accident. But for the scoundrel to abandon a helpless girl to starvation! If he was too cowardly to dare her frenzied threats and forcibly take her and me with him in the canoe, he could at least have had the plane come for us."

"If you care for my guess," Garth said, "he was more interested in your daughter as an heiress than as a woman."

"No guess about it. A cold-blooded rascal who would have murdered you for your claim! I'll run him down and make him pay in full for deserting Lillith and me, if it costs a million."

"His punishment will cost you nothing, Mr. Ramill. He has been trapped by his own greed."

"Trapped?"

"Before we came aboard, word was received by radio that a man named Huxby had recorded a platinum placer claim at Fort Smith; that he had bought a large airplane, and flown north with three miners."

Mr. Ramill looked his doubts. "I've heard nothing of it."

"Because I thought best for you not to."

"You! Do you mean to tell me that everyone on this steamer kept mum because you, a mere prospector—? The millionaire paused. "Have I been blind? You are not a common prospector. There's something about you . . . in spite of your vagabonding about this north country!"

Garth said: "We are talking about Huxby. I've radioed for a Northwest policeman to meet me at Simpson with a plane. The charges are robbery and assault to murder."

"Radioed? The skipper told me his transmitter was out of order."

"By my request, sir. I thought it as well to keep you out of the affair. It is possible Miss Ramill may have recovered from her resentment against him. I'll ask you to pardon my going to see if there are any more reports on Huxby's movements."

Though by no means curt, the dismissal was abrupt. Mr. Ramill stood pondering for several moments before he returned to the cabin and went to the door of the stateroom that the Fort Norman missionary's wife had shared with Lillith.

Some time before the steamer nosed in to the landing, Garth made out that the pontooned plane afloat at the waterfront was too small to be one of the regular Bellanca transports. It had no cabin, and only three seats. Foremost of the passengers ashore, he at once climbed the bluff to the post.

As he expected, a red-coated constable of the Northwest police was lounging in the old trading post store-room with one of the Airways pilots. The latter sprang to meet him.

"Hullo, 'Lan—you d—n' lame duck! Helluva note, you squattering in the wet all these months. Could've cruised your frozen hell a hundred times in any old crate."

Garth gripped hands with him. "Lo, Kiwi! I didn't happen to be after airports. There are things you have to rub your nose against to see."

"And smell! I've heard of your Eskimo igloos. Count me out—completely outside. Indian huts are enough and to spare."

Garth sobered to business. "What news?"

"Your man set his bus down here three days ago. Hepped off PDQ with all she could heave up under—gas and oil."

The constable had stood at attention. He met Garth's glance with a salute. "All ready, sir."

"Good work, Dillon. One question—those three miners?"

"Broke prospectors, sir. Records, far as known, not savory. But none of the bunch is wanted, and they're not newcomers from across the border. They'll know enough not to interfere when I take my prisoner."

The post factor came hastening in to shake hands. "Pardon my absence, Mr. Garth. Was up the Liard. It's a great pleasure to have you stop off with us. If you plan to take in dogs, I have a picked team that I'd be honored—"

"Thank you, no," Garth cut in. "But I would like a rifle, rabbit undersuit, winter moccasins, gloves, and three pairs of webs."

He turned to the pilot. "Season more advanced up there. Blizzards off the Selwyns; the lake probably starting to freeze. Enough, stream-flow, though, to keep a clear runway for your pontoons, if we don't loiter all week."

He went into a bunkroom to put on the rabbit-fur suit under his buckskins. When he came out, a girl in a plain, ill-fitting gown stood talking to the pilot. The pilot glanced towards him. The girl turned quickly. He found himself face to face with Lillith Ramill.

Yet it was not the grease-and-pitch mewed face of his canoe companion,

Nor was it that deep-lined rouged and powdered face with scarlet-smeared lips that had sneered at him on Tobin's wharf. It was a face smooth and firm, vivid with life and vitality. Only the blue eyes were hard.

"Alan Garth," she said, "I've learned all about it. You're going back there—after him!"

"Sorry, Miss Ramill. It's not revenge, if that's what you think. I tried to spare you. But, if you must have it, he is a thief."

The girl's eyes flashed. "Worse! He's a cowardly murderer. That is why I too am going to see him taken prisoner."

"You?"

"Yes. I am going to see him cringe, the sneaky beast! Do you think I've forgotten how he crept up and shot you when you weren't looking? And what if he didn't intend to shoot Dad? He left him to die. If that's not enough, must I tell you how he taunted me? He jeered that I'd be starved into welcoming him by the time he came back for me."

"Yet that's no reason why you—"

"It is! You shan't go without me. If you refuse, there's another plane just come. I'll make Dad charter it for me. I'll have the pilot tag after you!"

Garth studied her gravely. She stared back at him, hotly defiant. He pretended to accept her reasons for wanting to go:

"You must certainly are a good hater, Miss Ramill. One thing, though. The valley is about to freeze up. It will not be the summer paradise we left. We may land in a blizzard."

She looked around the store. "Where are those Eskimo suits you told me about?"

At that he smiled a bit grimly. "This is Indian country. You shall have rabbit and buckskins." He turned to the factor: "Add the lady's outfit to my account." To the pilot: "Kiwi, this is where you are to fit your name. You're going to be a wingless ground bird."

"Oh, have a heart, 'Lan!"

"Three is a crowd, and she is it. Ask her father."

For the first time the girl betrayed a trace of doubt. "But we'll have to have a pilot."

Kiwi stared, then grinned at the joke. "Lady, what you don't know about our boy friend would appear to be quite a considerable.—All right, you lame duck, go hog the joystick. Do I stay planted or take the watercraft?"

"Steamer. Southbound planes are apt to be overcrowded, with everyone coming out," Garth replied. "Now, Miss Ramill, we'll go down and get your father's visa on your passport."

Constable Dillon put in a word: "It's not on the cards, sir, to take along a young lady. If this Huxby tries to act up—"

"He's your meat, Dillon. I'll stand responsible for Miss Ramill."

Down at the waterfront, Garth went over the plane with his pilot friend. There was a full load of gasoline and a change of oil. To the week's supply of provisions, he added the three pairs of snowshoes and the new rifle. With the rifle came enough cartridges to refill the belt that still held his knife and belt-ax.

Lillith had gone aboard the steamer. She returned with her father. He looked worried. She had put on her Indian-woman costume—buckskins, moccasins, fur cap and gloves. The millionaire chose to lay the blame on Garth.

"Have you gone insane? No more than get her out of that muskell hell, and you want to drag her back to your infernal hole in desolation!"

"The lady's choice, not mine."

"Well, you're taking her."

"How can I help it, sir? You are her father. Why not assert your paternal authority?"

Lillith brushed aside their trifling. "Which is my seat?"

"The rear.—Close her in, Kiwi!"

She turned to fling her arms around her father and kiss him. It was the only caress Garth had ever seen her give anyone.

As he put on his pilot friend's helmet and goggles, the constable mounted to the middle cockpit. Kiwi handed the girl into the rear one. He drew over her head the shatterless glass cowl that almost covered the opening.

Garth spoke a last word to her anxious father: "In all probability, sir, we'll overtake you within three or four days. May, however, have to lay over, in case of storm. If fog or snow makes us miss you on your way out, we'll probably meet at Fort McMurray."

Mr. Ramill came close. "Garth, there's something I can't understand. This crazy notion of Lillith's, I mean. It's not mere willfulness. She has something in mind."

"Wants to see the handcuffs slipped on Huxby," Garth replied. "Can you blame her? Mangled vanity. Had believed he loved her for herself at least as much as for her inheritance. 'Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned'—all that, you know."

"Not all, Garth—no! There's something else. I can't make her out. Something different about her."

"Perhaps she'll tell you when we come out. I'll of course do what I can for her."

Garth shook hands, and swung aboard the small craft. At a sign from him, the displaced pilot gave the propeller a spin. The plane swung around, to taxi downstream.

There was no hurry. Had Huxby schemed to fly into the valley merely to stake the placer in his own name and hop out again, he would not have taken the three miners. He undoubtedly had planned to do his season's assessment work. That would mean a shaft sunk to bedrock, so that he could bring out a load of the platinum-gold alloy.

Midway of the down river flight, the three-seater ran into a sleet squall. Garth dropped to the water and tied up under the lee of a spruce-black point. When Lillith demanded to know the cause of the delay, he explained how sleet may put a plane into a spin by freezing on the wings.

The squall blew over, leaving everything sheathed with ice. Garth and Constable Dillon knocked clear the front edge of the wings. Another prop brought the party to the emergency refueling post, shortly before sundown.

This time Lillith Ramill did not refuse Tobin's crude hospitality. She troubled the old sourdough far more by insisting upon watching his preparation of supper and breakfast.

He could not at first believe she was the painted lady who had scoffed at his "garbage." She not only refrained from scoffing, she ate his bacon and porridge as heartily as Garth and the policeman.

The moosehide canoe lay upturned on the bank beside Garth's old birchbark. Tobin had at once told Huxby's story. According to the engineer, the lady and her father were still marooned in the mountains. He had come out with Garth to fetch a plane for them. But Garth had been killed by a wounded she-grizzly.

Gypsy Race Much Mixed; Fourteen Dialects Used

The gypsy race is now a very much mixed one, with elements of the blood of all of the countries in which they have resided; and gypsies from one part of the world may present characteristics and appearances quite different from those of another part, notes a correspondent in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The English word gypsy reflects the old belief of many countries that the gypsies were Egyptians. In other countries they were called Tartars. The old agreement of the traditions concerning them was that they had come to Europe out of the east.

Modern inquiry has revealed a good deal of their true history, however, and has established that the race is originally from northwestern India. Bands of the inhabitants of this region were driven away from their homes and set wandering by hordes of northern invaders which swept down upon them in the Ninth century.

These forbears of the modern gypsy moved into Kabullistan and Persia, and ultimately filtered through Syria into Egypt and northern Africa and through Turkey into Europe. There are now 14 or more distinct dialects of their language in European countries—indicating their widespread distribution.

Languages and Tongues

Language is a term that is applicable to any mode of conveying ideas, whether by speech, writing, hieroglyphics or a system of gestures or pantomime. Even the deaf have several languages, but cannot be properly said to have "tongues." Tongue is an English term for the spoken language of a particular people, as, the French tongue, the German tongue, and so on. Meillet and Cohn in "The Languages of the World" index 6,760 named tongues and systems of writings. That work classifies speech as of (1) country, (2) town, (3) village, (4) island, (5) river, (6) tribe. Dialects are included

Fabric "Firsts" Arrive for Spring

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

FABRIC "firsts" for midseason and spring are even at this early date staging a great show in big stores as well as stores not so big.

If nerves are tired and winter gloom begins to pall why not slip away for a few hours from dull care and go meandering down aisle after aisle of the new materials? It will act like a tonic. Try it.

There are quite a few things to learn about the new fabrics. Generally speaking both the linens and the cottons are taking on a soft, crepey finish which is "different." Then, too, there is a tendency toward rough spongy finishes and novel nubby weaves. Patterning shows decided originality and in instances are almost amusing. The modernized prints depict bars and music notes, or perhaps shell or fish motifs and the newest thing is vegetable designs, and they are wonderfully good-looking. Very new, too, is the Tyrolean button motif which takes its cue from the bright painted wooden buttons that adorn peasant frocks and smocks and jackets.

It is well to keep in mind that cottons are scheduled to play a tremendously important role in the scheme of things. You will thrill at the sight of them. The newer types are positively baffling in that they so often give the impression of being handsome wool suitings or spongy soft uncrushable linens. They are that good looking they may be smartly worn about town, the new nubby cotton tweeds making up most satisfactorily into tailored jacket suits.

For the do-your-own-sewing group the new materials are nothing less than inspirational. One of the newcomers in the realm of smart cottons of which you will be wanting to order a dress length at first glimpse is twin-twine print, which looks more like a soft spongy loose woven linen canvas than anything else. You'll love this rough-surfaced cotton. It is cool and casual, doesn't crush, has practically no wear-out to it and is every inch smart and attractive in appearance. It has a hand-loomed effect with brilliant print on either white or natural grounds. The patterning is interesting, including square dot motifs in bright peasant blues and reds on natural, also florals in orange, green and brown. An allover scroll patterning in deep red on natural is, perhaps, handsomest of all.

The smart tailored coat frock pictured to the right is fashioned of dark-red-on-natural scroll-patterned twin-twine. Black grosgrain binds the collar and front closing. Black bar buttons and patent leather belt are used as trim accent.

The other gown pictured is a spectator sports mode done in a soft jersey type fabric of bemberg with narrow white stripes on deep toned grounds. The convertible neckline, ascot scarf and graceful cape sleeves are each fashion-right. This handsome fabric wears beautifully, resists wrinkling and is cool, sleek and slim under your topcoat. It is shown also in white grounds with bright colored stripes for wear when the warmer days come. It tubs or dry cleans nicely and easily presses slick and suave as new. Jersey type fabrics are fashion news this year and are sponsored by leading designers of Paris, London and American style centers.

Western Newspaper Union.

WARM FABRICS ARE FAVORED BY WOMEN

Fabrics are of exceptional interest in their variety. The most important group is definitely irregular in nubby weaves with a marked hint of informality entirely consistent with a more colorful season.

The really formal coat tends toward smoother, softly napped materials. Fortmann, the creator of these woollens, well realizes that winters in the United States bring frigid winds and low temperatures.

The slender silhouette, clinging lines and the response of the fabric to drape and tailoring are important factors, but women, young and old, want comfort in cold weather. They want physical comfort as well as the psychological comfort that comes from rich textures and deep colors.

Infinite Variety Is Shown in Apparel and Fabrics

Fashion this season has given a great deal for which to be thankful. She certainly has provided infinite variety in apparel for all occasions. Skirts of all widths and lengths, with necklines high and low, hats tilted fore and aft, crown low and high, sleeves as you like 'em. And such color and fabric distinction! In a season ago over novelty fabrics, most of them on the roughish side, slipper satin comes into position in the foremost ranks.

To the gorgeousness of metal cloths and velvets is added the charm of taffeta and the grace of chiffon. One may or may not use trimming, or choose between pleats and tucks.

Newest Color Fashion

The color of the moment is "golden wedding," a rich, warm shade of gold which lends itself well to formal evening clothes and to cruise and southern resort clothes. In silk, wool and cotton, this new tone is sure to be especially flattering to sun-tanned complexions.

I FEEL FINE

Mothers read this:

A CONSTIPATED child is so easily straightened out, it's a pity more mothers don't know the remedy.

A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult. Doctors use liquid laxatives. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. And today, there are fully a million families that will have no other kind in the house.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a doctor's prescription, now so widely known that you can get it all ready for use at any drugstore.

Elimination of Body Waste Is Doubly Important

In the crucial months before baby arrives it is vitally important that the body be rid of waste matter. Your intestines must function—regularly, completely without gripping.

Why Physicians Recommend Milnesia Wafers

These mint-flavored, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in solid form—much pleasanter to take than liquid. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly, then swallowed, they correct acidity in the mouth and throughout the digestive system, and insure regular, complete elimination without pain or effort.

Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48, at 35c and 60c respectively, and in convenient tins for your handbag containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately one adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores sell and recommend them.

Who Are You?

The Romance of Your Name

By RUBY HASKINS ELLIS

A Wilson?

IF YOUR name is Wilson, you will perhaps be interested to know that in the beginning it was Williams. It is believed by the best authorities that it signified "the son of William."

The Rev. John Wilson, one of the earliest settlers in this country (of Boston, Mass.), was the son of the Rev. William Wilson, of England. He came to America on Governor Winthrop's fleet and was the first minister of the first church in Boston. He died in 1667.

There were many others of this name who came to New England and settled there at a very early period. Among them was William Wilson, a settler in Concord, who was a soldier in the Continental army.

Among those who came later was James Wilson, the ancestor of Woodrow Wilson. He came from County Down, Ireland, and located in Philadelphia, where he became editor of the Aurora, a newspaper once edited by Franklin Bache, the brilliant grandson of Benjamin Franklin. James Wil-

Do You Ever Wonder

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Ask Your Doctor and Find Out

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this—and see that you get what you want.

1935 Sees Changes in Governments of World

Japan Continues Its March Into Asia.

Washington.—The world's governmental picture took on a noticeably different aspect as a result of governmental and territorial changes during 1935, listed in a bulletin from the National Geographic society.

"Most obvious to Americans and Europeans, and important because of its potential effect on the African colonial set-up and on the peace of Europe," says the bulletin, "was the occupation of more than 30,000 square miles of the territory of Ethiopia by Italian forces, which began October 2. Already the military operations have resulted in the mobilization of the British fleet in the Mediterranean, the imposition of 15 years had been under control of the League of Nations. The shift was made following a plebiscite, conducted under the auspices of the league. A German governor took office March 1.

"By independent action and by an agreement with Great Britain, Germany freed herself from the restrictions of the Versailles treaty against the maintenance of army and naval forces.

"Chief contribution of the United States to governmental changes was the formal setting up, on November 15, of the Commonwealth of the Philippines, with Manuel Quezon as the first president and former Governor General Frank Murphy as American high commissioner. This was a major step toward Philippine independence which is scheduled to become complete in 1945.

"In a further move toward the transformation of the old British empire into an organization of self-governing units, Great Britain, on August 2, granted India a federal constitution. The new federal government, to be composed of British provinces and Indian states, will come into operation gradually during the next few years.

"Other constitutional changes included: first steps in Estonia toward a corporate state on the model of Italy; first meeting of the national assembly and corporate chamber in Portugal, January 11, under the new corporate constitution; adoption, April 22, of a new constitution by Poland, increasing the powers of the president, and limiting those of parliament; and restoration, June 11, of the former constitution of Cuba, with a new provision granting suffrage to women.

"In Yugoslavia steps were taken by vote of parliament, July 22, toward abolition of the dictatorship and re-establishment of democratic governmental forms.

Plane Has No Propeller and Flies Backwards

London.—Without transgressing established aeronautical laws, an airplane has been developed in England to fly backwards or forward with equal ease, or descend vertically, remain stationary in the air, or land on a patch of ground 20 yards square.

Experts are now testing it and it may find a use in the emergency for which Britain is now concentrating air forces. It is the invention of Pemberton Billing, one of Britain's earlier air pioneers. He calls it the Durotafin.

The most startling features of the new plane are the wings, which rotate and act as propellers. The machine has no propellers of the generally accepted type.

These revolving wings are driven by a normal aero-engine. The wings have allerons controlled from the pilot's seat.

When operated by the pilot, they control every possible variation of movement of the plane, forward or backward flight, turning, hovering, rising or falling vertically.

"The Durotafin is the culmination of nearly 30 years' experience and experiment with aircraft," its inventor explained.

"From the earliest days of aviation I have visualized such a machine.

"The development of my invention will undoubtedly reduce to a minimum the number of air crashes which occur when planes are landing or taking off.

"In war it will prove an almost impossible target with its variety and speed of movement."

Billing opened the first aerodrome in Britain, and started the first air paper.

EGG PRODUCTION WINTER PROBLEM

Proper Care and Management Are Vital.

By H. H. Alp, Poultry Extension Specialist, University of Illinois WNU Service.

More favorable egg prices plus the seasonal rise places a premium on feeding and managing poultry flocks for high winter egg production.

Value of high egg production during the early winter is shown by farm management records taken from several farms during two years. The first year flocks that produced less than 10 per cent of the year's egg crop in October, November and December brought poultrymen an average of 13.2 cents a dozen for the eggs. Where 20 per cent or more of the year's egg crop was produced during these months the average price for the year was 15.1 cents. In addition the annual production was higher where fall and winter production was increased.

The second year the average price for the flock of low fall and winter production was 16.4 cents as compared to 20.7 cents where fall and winter production was high.

Poor fall and winter egg production is an indication that the flock needs better care and management. The hen should have plenty of fresh, clean water from sunrise to sunset. Plenty of the right kind of feed should be available at all times. The laying house should be kept in repair so that drafts and leaks can be avoided. The entire house should be kept clean, and clean, dry litter should be placed on the floor as often as necessary. Crowding should be avoided with approximately four square feet of floor space allowed for each hen.

Weak, parasite-infested birds should be culled from the flock and only the promising layers kept in the laying house.

Selecting the Cockerel for Breeding Purposes

Cockerels that are selected for breeding purposes should show early sexual maturity. This is indicated by the rapid development of the comb and wattles and the age at which they grow. The size of the body is an important characteristic of a good breeder and may be determined by handling the bird. High constitutional vigor is an important point as it affects the general appearance, size and shape of the bird, asserts a writer in the American Agriculturist. Cockerels having this vigor are alert, active, refined and well-developed. The head of the vigorous male is wide across the skull, set with full prominent eyes and has a strong arched back. The body is developed with a full round breast and a full abdomen. The shanks are large, containing a large amount of pigmentation and are well set under the body. If you trap-nest and pedigree your chicks and you have a pedigree of the cockerels, select those cockerels whose dams in their pullet year laid at least 175 eggs, or still better 225 eggs. These eggs should have averaged at least 24 ounces or even more to the dozen.

Trapnesting Pullets

Pullets do not lay with such machine-like regularity as to enable the trapnest to mark desirable birds at each month's closing. The number of eggs in or at a given time is but one indication of prospective value. Early maturity, or production at a comparatively early age, is an indication of good yearly production, though this should be accompanied by good weight and should not be at the expense of size and flesh. A high rate of production is also a mark of value, as it is commonly accompanied by good annual production. These indications may be observed in the first three or four months of laying. The evidences of vigor and ability to maintain weight during production are also to be considered in culling, which, after all, cannot be conducted upon a cut-and-dried formula, with number of eggs laid within a given time the only criterion.

Guard Turkey Breeders

The first consideration with breeding turkey hens is vigor. If it is desired to have turkey hens come into production early in the spring, they should be fed a laying mash all winter, and a grain ration containing yellow corn, oats, and wheat or barley on through to spring. They should be compelled to roost outside all winter, with shelter provided only in severe weather. The worst weather for the turkey flock is when it rains and turns to ice.

Blind Fowls

The causes of blindness in growing fowls are rather obscure. About all that can be said of them, according to a writer in the Rural New-Yorker, is that they are due to some affection of the nerves of sight. They may accompany some forms of paralysis or other diseases. Such birds should not be used in the breeding pen and it would probably be a good idea to make use of them for food before such further symptoms as emaciation make the carcass undesirable for the table.

New York City Still Has

Its Indians and Farms

There are more people named Cohen in New York than any other name. In fact, there are 10,000 Cohens in the Bronx and Manhattan alone. The Kellys are forgotten and overlooked. Indians like to live in New York city. Seems to agree with them as the number is increasing. There are now 391 of them living there.

There are two buildings that each has five floors below the street level. There is one store for every 76 persons. There is one physician for every 545 persons. More people live in the Bronx than in Los Angeles. New York's quite a farming town. There are 365 families classed in the official census as being farming families. And 2,400 cows are milked every day in New York city.—Homer Croly in Esquire.

Sneezing
In every age in every country, men have attached some kind of mysterious significance to sneezing, writes Ray Mollenhauer, Danville, Ill., in Collier's Weekly. Early Christians crossed themselves. Medieval Europeans went back to bed for hours if it sneezed while arising. Today sneezing is a sign of truthfulness in Turkestan, an indication of wisdom in some parts of Scotland and a bad omen throughout a large part of the world which still exclaims "God bless you" or its equivalent when one sneezes—for fear his soul will leave his body.

No Cows Brought by Pilgrims
No cows were brought by the Pilgrims to the United States in 1620. The first cows imported were in 1624, by Governor Winthrop, according to Albert S. Boiles, in the Industrial History of the United States. These cows were raised primarily for hides, secondarily for meat, and only incidentally for milk.

High School
The Junior class bridge party held at the Legion hall last Friday evening was a great success, although there were only twelve tables. Those who could not attend contributed their quarters. Mrs. Nyda Leslie and Albert Quick received the high prizes; Mrs. Campbell and C. T. Prescott the low.

Report cards were given out on Wednesday. These cards now contain the marks obtained on each examination and the final grade for the semester.
The twelfth grade economics class has now become an American government class. The latter course is required by state law of all who are graduated from high school.
The annual institute for the teachers of the county will be held in the high school assembly room Friday, February 7th. There will be no school in the building on that date as all of the faculty members desire to attend.

The Senior class will hold a bridge party at the American Legion hall Thursday evening, February 6. The proceeds will be used to defray class expenses.
Seventh and Eighth Grades

Switching Off Current
It is more economical to switch off the electric lights even for a few minutes. For switch-controlled electrical machinery, such as motors, that consume a relatively large amount of current in attaining maximum speed and efficiency, it is probably cheaper to let them run for a short period when not needed, rather than switch them off and on.

Meteors Give Off Sound Waves
Evidence that meteors give off an all-wave which produces high-speed sound has been shown. Ordinary sound travels at a rate of 1,000 feet a second; the new sound travels at the speed of light or radio waves, 186,000 miles a second.

Few Eskimo Dogs Here

In the business district there will be a fire hydrant at each block and, where necessary, in the middle of the block. Throughout the residential district hydrants will be placed in strategic locations to provide the utmost fire protection.

The installation of this system will be under the combined supervision of the Francis Engineering company, with Paul H. Lemon as resident engineer, and PWA authorities. The prevailing PWA wage scale will be paid to workers. Construction will begin as soon as PWA authorities have formally approved the bids.

that are properly graded. The snow removal program does not in any case include those ungraded roads which in the judgment of the Commission are a hazard to equipment in getting over them.

The Commission has eight truck plows and these are generally kept going night and day when conditions are bad. Of course such snows as the present are so hard on equipment that generally at least half of these plows are in the shops for repairs all the time.

We believe that most of our people appreciate our efforts to keep most roads passable against overwhelming odds.

A couple of weeks ago officials from forty-four counties met the Administrative Board in Lansing and put before them the seriousness of the conditions where snow removal is demanded without funds to do it with. While no funds could be obtained there, the problem was recognized as an important one to be taken up at the next session of the legislature.

Ohio's First Settlement
Ohio was settled soon after the Revolutionary war, which made "the West" a part of the new republic. The first permanent settlement was established at Marietta by a land company. This was called the Ohio company, and was formed in 1787 in New England by Revolutionary officers, with a view to opening up the West. The government sold the company 1,500,000 acres, and the company recruited settlers and sold to them. In the winter of 1787-88 the first party set out from the east and arrived April 7, 1788, at the spot chosen for a town, at the junction of the Muskingum and Ohio rivers.

The Enduring Ingredient

EVEN the stoutest cedar pole must at length succumb to weather and wear. New methods surpass—and replace—the old. Equipment disappears as progress renders it obsolete.
There is, however, one factor in your telephone service that never alters; one important ingredient that survives all the effects of the passing years—and this is the factor of policy.
The policy of this Company is to supply Michigan with the best and most economical telephone service that human effort and sincerity can provide. To accomplish this purpose, there has been a long series of changes—unending changes—that grew out of American inventive genius as applied to the art of telephonic communication.
A noteworthy example of this is seen in the evolution of the cable. Year by year a greater number of wires—each an avenue of speech—has been successfully packed into a smaller circumference. This, with many other improvements, has steadily widened the use of cable. Utilized at first only to link subscribers' telephones with central offices, storm-resistant cable is now used in toll circuits connecting cities, and in a large percentage of all present-day circuits.
This progressive change was not haphazard. It grew out of a policy which itself does not change. That is why telephone service in the State of Michigan is better today than it was yesterday. And that is why it will improve for tomorrow.
