The new test employs an organic dye, developed from a chemical formula so complicated it requires a full typewritten line. A small lump of earth mixed with the dye is all the test involves. If the mixture becomes yellow it indicates acid soil. If it becomes purple it shows alkalinity. A color chart shows the degree of either. Bay City-Samuel P. Cranage's phantom fortune of $55,147,000, represented by five sixty-five-year-old Government debentures, shrunk to zero under the scrutiny of special agents of the United States Secret Service, dispatched here from Washington to investigate the bewildering discovery. Cranage, a retired lumberman, found the documents in the files of the long defunct Pitts & Co. lumber mill. He is heir to and executor of the estate. The agents are of the opinion that the documents are merely reproductions of the originals. Lansing-The annual drive to repair winter's damage to the State trunkline system is under way. Gravel roads are suffering from the spring break-up, particularly bad this year because their bases were frozen so hard last winter. Repair work in some sections, such as U.S.-16 between Lansing and Detroit, probably will cost about $100 a mile. Replacement of patches is the principal part on this artery. On U.S.-12, where frost has tilted entire blocks of pavement, it will be necessary to remove and replace them.

I happened to be in a position to know that the Smith speech caused all kinds of commotion and fear among New else knows, that "Al" Smith has a big personal following. When he threat-

WASHINGTON .- Some years ago | was a time a few months ago when the when Reed Smoot of Utah was a memnational trend was decidedly against ber of the senate Mr. Roosevelt. It even went so far as to cause many individuals to say that Smoot's where he enjoyed a long and meritorious Prophecy service, he ventured a prophecy. It was this:

tain."

There is in Washington quite a gen-"The cost of government has in" eral feeling that the Roosevelt re-eleccreased every year, and it will contion chances have improved and are tinue to increase. I care not what continuing to improve. This condition party is in power, that result will obis quite evident to observers continuously on the job here for even in the As I recall, Senator Smoot's statepersonal manner of the President himment was made about eight years ago self there is an outward appearance and it was made at a time when the that he believes the situation is well Republicans, of whom the Utah senator in hand. was one, were in control in the senate. His statement came as a result why the New Dealers feel so much of an immense amount of jibes that better is that events leading up to the were being hurled at the Republican national Democratic convention seem majority. The Democrats were hav to be cleared of any harassing possiing a grand time, kidding the Repubbilities. licans who were then in complete control of the government.

Senator Smoot recognized that which few in responsible positions in the government recognized, or if they did recognize the fact, they chose not to admit it. Nevertheless, the senator's statement is true today as it was true when he made it and for many years before.

The Smoot prophecy comes to mind now because of the sudden acceleration of moves to curtail government expenses, to reorganize the scads of New Deal and emergency agencies, to eliminate overlapping functions among these agencies, and, in general, to put the house of government in order.

Two such efforts are underway. One of them was initiated by Senator Harry F. Byrd, Virginia Democrat, who succeeded in obtaining senate recognition of his charges that there was tremendous waste, that there were useless agencies and that, in addition, governmental functions were being generally messed up because none except the old-established units of government knew what they were doing The Virginia senator obtained adoption of a resolution providing for a general survey and recommendations for the clean-up. It was a situation in which even the most ardent New Deal ers could not find an excuse for objecting to it. So the senator took the lead. Subsequently, President Roosevelt reached the conclusion that something ought to be done in the way of untangling the tangled skein of governmental functions so he proposed a sura committee of so-called experts to go over the problem. Thus, at the start, at least, it appears that the taxpayers are going to be favored by a break. I think it ought to be added, however, that no. one has had the temerity to suggest that either the Byrd survey or that engineered by Mr. Roosevelt will yield very much.

The new law is not likely to bring any great change at present in Austrian armaments, for Austria already had disregarded both the treaty of St. Germain's disarmament provision and its restriction of armaments without serious objection from other countries. Tanks, forbidden to Austria under the treaty, were actually paraded around the Ringstrasse some months ago under the eyes of foreign military attaches whom she had invited.

Hungary may now be expected to violate the treaties and rearm, that, too, being a part of Mussolini's policy.

PEACE negotiations between Italy and Ethiopia, outside the League of Nations, seem imminent, for emissaries of Emperor Haile Selassie already have been received by Marshal Pietro Badoglio, and the Italian undersecretary of colonies is in east Africa to conduct the preliminaries. This news followed closely the dispatches telling of a great victory won by Badoglio's northern troops over 20,000 fresh and picked

Ethiopian soldiers Badoglio whose fight was directed and watched by the emperor himself. The battle, at Mai Ceu, lasted all day and the Ethiopians left 7,000 dead on the field as they fled to join the main body of 50,000 troops south of Lake Ashangi eight miles away. Italian fatalities included 16 officers and about 1,000 soldiers, most of the latter being Eritrean Askaris. It was believed Marshal Badoglio would follow up this victory with a smashing blow at Dessye, main concentration point of the Ethiopians, unless peace negotiations stop him.

Just before this battle the Italian air bombers attacked and practically ruined Harar, second city of Ethiopia. Most of the populace had fied when scouting planes gave a warning of what was to come, so the casualties were few.

Nutt of Indiana, C. Ben Ross of Idaho or Clyde C. Herring of Iowa. For permanent chairman at Philadelphia Senator Robinson of Arkansas is likely to be picked. The speech putting President Roosevelt in nomination for a second term may be delivered by Senator Wagner of New York.

New York Republicans of the Old Guard persuasion scored a decisive victory over Senator Borah in the primaries, and the Empire state delegation to Cleveland will be unpledged to any candidate. The triumph of the conservatives was complete. Not only were the Borah candidates defeated in nine congressional districts in which they made contests, but the organization candidates for delegates defeated independent candidates not pledged to Borah in three other districts

Maine Democrats in their primary pledged their ten convention votes to the renomination of Mr. Roosevelt. The Kentucky state Republican convention instructed the four state delegates at large to vote for Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas for the Presidential nomination. This, with previous developments, assured Landon of 18 of the state's votes.

WILLIAM N. M'NAIR, the Demo-cratic mayor of Pittsburgh, appeared as a witness before the house ways and means committee and was almost thrown out on his ear.

Unable to halt McNair's biting tirade against wasteful spending on the one hand and the proposed new punitive tax on corporation earnings on the other, Chairman Robert L. Doughton threatened to call a policeman bodily to evict the mayor.

"Why all this dignity?" shouted Mc-Nair. "Good night!" A committee clerk brought a policeman to the front of the room as the congressmen quickly passed a motion to excuse the witness. McNair said he would leave "gladly" and departed.

UNABLE to raise $3,200,000 to redeem two bond issues reaching maturity, the province of Alberta, Canada, defaulted. Premier William Aberhart, leader of the Social Credit party, admitted he could not get the necessary funds. In last fall's election the Social Credit party won a big victory. One of the planks in its platform advocated the payment of $25 of social credit "dividends" monthly to every citizen. None of these dividends has against the reichsfuehrer, and a still been forthcoming as yet.

though several leaders pleaded that the move be put off for four years. Governor Olson said privately that in his opinion the resolution could do no harm since it does not commit the liberals to putting a national ticket in the field this year.

THOUGH Koki Hirota, the new Jap-anese premier, said a few days ago that while he was in office there would be no war, it is evident his government really is looking for serious trouble with Russia. This feeling is expressed by Eiji Aman, spokesman for the Tokyo foreign office, who said: "Japan must prepare for Soviet aggression." Recent activities indicate the Reds are availing themselves of the critical situation Eiji Amau which developed after the recent military revolt in Tokyo and are increasing the strength of their troops along the Manchukuan border. Amau said the "recent Soviet policy has been to fire on any persons near the border." He said he regards this as rather strange behavior on the part of a "friendly neighbor." He said Premier Hirota had protested the alleged action to K. K. Yurenev, Russian ambassador to Japan The tension was increased when Moscow learned there had been heavy fighting in Outer Mongolia, ally of Russia, where Japanese and Manchukuan troops had crossed the border. B. S. Stomaniakov, Soviet vice-commissar for foreign affairs, told Japanese Ambassador Tamekichi Ota that the situation' did not permit "waiting pacifically for development of events." He declared "serious responsibility" would fall on the shoulders of the Japanese government if the fighting in Outer Mongolia were allowed to continue.

At the same time the Manchukuo government issued a warning that unless the Outer Mongolian government "takes immediate steps to terminate all kinds of provocations against Manchukuo's frontiers, the relations of the two countries are threatened with the most serious contingency."

Hachiro Arita, who became foreign minister of Japan, said he did not think the border facidents would break up relations out a recurrence would be dangerous.

Lansing-The SERA will remove more than 17,000 persons from WPA employment. Dr. William Haber, State relief director, said that Federal authorities had ordered a reduction by May 1 from 99,182 to 81,550. He estimated that 6,000 of those taken off the employment list will find work on State highway projects, and another 2,000 will go to work on other Federal projects.

Houghton Lake-More than 2,000 acres of public hunting grounds, together with frontage on several streams came into State ownership as the result of two purchases made at the March meeting of the State Conservation Commission. Purchase of 1,440 acres on the north branch of the Manistee River in the AuSable State Forest was authorized. Forty acres were purchased in the Butterfield Swamp area near Houghton Lake and 677 acres in the Presque Isle State Forest.

Lapeer-Lapeer County voters will decide this month whether to accept the Dryden Community Club as a gift from Mrs. Mary Squier Parker, sister of the late Gen. George C. Squier. Widely known as "the Country Club for Country People," the park was maintained for the public at Gen. Squier's expense for many years. Last summer it was offered to the city. The park consists of 80 acres, and with the clubhouse, the old mill, the mill pond and its forest of native trees, is said to be worth $60,000.

Harbor Springs-The City of Harbor Springs was paid $23,170.19 in settlement of one half the cost of a $25,000 court judgment obtained against the United States. The judgment was rendered as an outcome of the electrocution of Ernest Haynes, who met death when he contacted a high-tension wire in climbing a ladder at the weather bureau tower on July 26, 1922. The Federal Government was found equally liable with the city for having located their tower in close proximity to the city wires.

facts but there is Dig Up Helpful Facts lieve that the Virginia senator will find many obstacles placed in his way and that he and his committee will be unable to present any comprehensive statement on their findings to the country in advance of the November elections. The same is true concerning the survey directed by the President, only more so. The cold fact is publican ranks. First, the Repub-President's committee to even approach these surveys is permeated with politics, so much so that a straightforward accounting or general description of the affairs of government will not be allowed to become public property and thereby become a campaign issue. Of the two, Senator Byrd's proposal has the better chance, but that is rather small. Adverting to the Smoot prophecy, it is therefore of no great importance whether a thoroughgoing examination of the governmental structure that has grown up in the last three years under President Roosevelt is made in advance of the elections. These New Deal agencies have been created and these New Deal agencies, like many of the "Old Deal" agencies, are with us to stay and suck up taxpayers' money for quite some time. I need only remind you that we still have in existence the War Finance cornoration and the rallroad administration that were created as war-time agencles, not to mention a dozen other similar units.

It is possible, indeed, I think it is probable, that there will be a trimming of pay rolls in many of the New Deal agencies immediately after election. There certainly ought to be important curtailment of expenses and of the list of employees, but accomplishing that is a matter much more easily described than done. So, I feel safe in saying that all of this ado about a reduction in governmental swelling amounts to nothing more than just ado.

In making the statement above that the outcry about reducing the government pay roll and untang-New Deal ling the functions is Spirits Rise just so much ballyhoo, I think it ought to be said at the same time that as the chief emblem in their arms, the New Deal spirits are rising. There former silver, the latter white.

dictates it. Actually, there is nothing every reason to be on the horizon now to indicate any changes from the way I have just described it.

> Inasmuch as the New Dealers can properly regard their situation pretty that there is no chance at all for the licans are at a disadvantage in that their convention in Cleveland is to be the stage of making recommendations | held at an earlier date than the Demofrom their survey until long after the crats meet. This, however, is more elections are held. Frankly, each of real than apparent. It is thus because of the intra-party battles that appear certain to come to the surface at Cleveland. - The Republicans are not together, not unified, on anything. A half dozen candidates with appreciable followings are snapping at each other and two or three factions are announcing almost simultaneously what the platform is going to say. It just cannot help leading into a beautiful mess at Cleveland unless the Republican leaders show more intelligence than they have shown thus far.

In the meantime, the Democrats are making note of the various battle charges. You can be sure they will use them. Whoever the Republicans nominate at Cleveland necessarily faces a big fight but as the situation now stands, I think the Democrats will be able to make it an offensive campaign whereas ordinarily the party in power must give over much of its campaigning to a defense. This is true unless the Republicans can get together and take the offensive themselves by criticizing and attacking on a united front,

Of course, much water can run under the bridge before the November election. It is always possible that the party in power can make mistakes, can be led into a blind alley under the political guns of its opposition. The Democrats have made many mistakes already but the anti-New Deal opposition shows no indication of plans to take advantage of those mistakes. So the circumstances, as of this time, give every reason for the New Dealers to feel satisfied with the campaigning up to this time.

FILL up those lemonade glasses and drink a toast to Alex Mackail of Port Chester, N. Y. Fill up the longest, tallest glasses you can find-fill up one for each of the thirty thousand members of the Adventurers' club-and still you won't be drinking as big a toast as the one Alex himself almost drank.

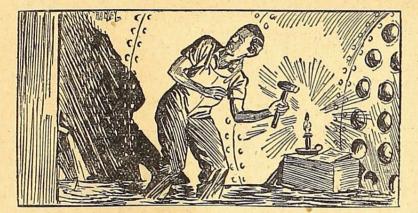

Alex started working on a tall, cool one that was 20 feet long and 12 feet high. And no lemon juice or sugar in it, either. It was only by the sheerest luck that he managed to get out of finishing that cocktail, too. Boys and girls, it's a lulu of a story.

It happened in school. Alex wasn't going to that school to get a cranium of knowledge, though. He was there for the good hard cash there was in it. Maybe the fact that the school was in Scotland had something to do with that. It was in the year 1922, and Alex, who was just a kid then, had nailed himself a job as apprentice with a boiler repairing firm in the Scottish town of Glasgow.

Trapped Inside a Rapidly Filling Boiler.

They were working on a huge boiler in the basement of the Clydebank public school. There were three of them on that job-Alex, his boss and an inspector. The inspector had climbed out of the boiler room and gone home. Alex's boss had decided that they'd done enough work for the day and had climbed out after him to telephone the shop.' Alex was going to wait until the boss came back from telephoning so they could both go home together. While he waited, he pulled a copy of a Diamond Dick novel out of his pocket and sat down beside a guttering candle to read.

In a few minutes he had forgotten that he was sitting inside a stuffy old boiler. He was out on the open prairie, following Diamond Dick through a series of adventures that would curl the quills of a porcupine. He didn't realize that in another minute or two he'd be going through a real, honest-to-goodness adventure of his own-an adventure that would make all of Diamond Dick's exploits look like so many pink tea parties.

The next thing Alex knew, there was a tremendous rush of water at the far end of the boiler. He jumped, and the candle beside him rolled to the floor and went out. Alex looked up then, for the daylight that should be streaming through the manhole in the top of the boiler -but the big tank was black as night. His boss had come back and, thinking Alex had gone home, had replaced the manhole cover and started to fill the boiler up.

Alex lost his head then. He rushed to the front of the boiler and began hammering on it with his bare fists. That didn't do any good. The noise of the pump outside drowned any sound he might make that way.

In a frenzy of fear he ran to the pipe through which the water was coming and made a futile attempt to stop the flow with his hands. That didn't get him anywhere either, but the cold water that dashed in his face sort of brought him to his senses, and he started telling himself to keep a level head.

THE FERRY-MORSE SEED BREEDING INSTITUTE knows its business from the ground up

You can depend on Ferry's seeds to produce true to type and quality wherever you live — in any climate. How can we say this? Because we conduct over 50,000 tests annually, to make sure they will grow. Over 9,000 tests to make sure of their quality. And that's just part of the continuous activity at our Rochester, Mich., and Salinas, Cal., stations. For 80 years this work has progressed — improving and maintaining the established quality of vegetable and flower seeds.

We develop our foundation stock at the stations. It is then used for seed production on our farms or under our supervision. The result-ing seed is sold only after tests have shown that it is of proper quality and germination. You can buy Ferry seeds today in your own neighborhood, many for as little as 5c a packet.

THE FLAVOR LASTS

"My breath," he says, "was coming in sobs. I remembered that I had left a hammer and chisel at the other end of the boiler, and I started back to get them. That boiler was just twenty feet long, but it seemed like twenty miles. The water was getting higher every minute, but I finally made it, found the hammer and started pounding on the sides. I pounded hard enough to loosen the rivets, but still the water came pouring in.

"Nevertheless, I kept on pounding. I knew there must be someone outside to shut the water off when it reached the gauge level. That wasn't much comfort, though, because by the time the water reached the gauge level, it would be a foot over my head."

Another few minutes, and Alex began to get dizzy. The pressure caused by the inrush of water was going to his head. Still, he pounded away-not because he thought it would do any good, but because, in his terror, he didn't think to stop.

The Grim Reaper's Scythe Nearly Fell.

Fearsome thoughts were going through his mind. What would his mother say when he didn't come home that night? Would anybody ever find him? What would happen when they lit the fire in the morning?

"It was then," says Alex, "that I went insane. I started screaming and tearing with my bare hands at the rusty iron wall of the boiler. I seemed to hear voices outside saying, 'Hold on, Alex-I'll get you !' But I was too far gone to realize what it meant. I hadn't even noticed that the water had stopped coming in. I seemed to lose my senses somewhere in there, and the next thing I knew, I was lying on my back, out in the school yard."

Yes-Alex's boss had dragged him out of that boiler-unconscious. He had fallen in a faint and had taken so much water into his lungs that the boss had to give him artificial respiration before he came to. Alex is a grown man now, but he still has nightmares about that horrible fifteen minutes when he was trapped in a filling boiler.

to Many Old-Timers

One of the most widely known of the "13" superstitions is that it is unlucky to sit at a table where there are 13 persons. Tradition has it that some one of the 13 will die within the year. Some authorities say this dates back to the time of Christ when 13 gathered at the table for the Last Supper, says a writer in Pathfinder Magazine. Judas Iscariot was the first to leave and all are familiar with his fate. However, it is known that this superstition was rife among the Asiatics long before that.

Others trace it back to Scandinavian mythology when the 12 major gods were seated about a table in Valhalla and the evil spirit, Loki, arrived to make the 13th. Friday bears special significance in this connection because it was the festival of certain gods. Their wrath was sure to fall on the unwary heads of all who did not give up their own pursuits on that day to indulge in the festival.

The buns were placed in layers of flannel to keep them warm, and then covered over with an outer cloth of white or green. It is related that the bun vendors of old were also extremely cautious in the manner in which they handed out the buns to customers, permitting only one hand to slide gingerly beneath the covers in drawing out their wares, thus allowing only the smallest possible breath of air to penetrate inside.

The hot cross buns of yesteryears were much more crisp and crunchy than our softer modern ones. They also were more highly flavored with spices, and had a sticky coating of browned sugar. great feast day, writes Marion Butler in the Chicago Tribune.

Not only were these Easter dishes Intriguing in appearance and taste, but they were made doubly fascinating by folk ceremonies that attended them.

Nearly every day of the old English Easter week had its own special dish and unusual practices to go along with it. Shrove Tuesday was, and still Is, in some sections, known as "Pancake day." Although the term "shrove" was originally derived from the Anglo-Saxon "scrifan," meaning to levy a penance, the English epicures evidently invented a most delightful way of paying up, for on this day it became traditional for every family to bake thick, mealy pancakes, flavored with sherry, and serve them sizzling hot for breakfast

Maundy Thursday was the day on which the kings of England used to distribute baskets of food, known as "maunds," to the poor. These were especially coveted for the fine, white bread that they contained, loaves such as those being rare delicacies of that time. James II was the last sovereign to perform this ancient ceremony with all the elaborate church rites that attended it.

Good Friday fairly abounds in curlous legends and customs connected with hot cross buns. In the early hours of Good Friday morning, Englishmen used to be abruptly torn from their pleasant slumbers by the great hue and cry of the bun vendors, who paraded the twisting, narrow streets of the towns, pushing their unwieldy bun carts before them, and chanting from dawn to dusk the familiar, old

EGGS AT EASTER

THE use of eggs at Easter time follows a custom of greatest antiquity, the egg having been considered in widely separated pre-Christian mythologies as the symbol of resurrection. It is probable that the Christian church adopted and consecrated an earlier custom. The egg is generally regarded as the symbol of spring, life and fecundity of nature.

houses sprang up, waging the bitterest of "bun feuds" over the all-important question of which baked the best buns?

Each contended that the English kings and queens, themselves, patronized its house. One took the name of Chelsea Bun House, and the other that of the Real Old Original Chelsea Bun House. Popular taste seemed to shift, at intervals, from one to the other. Both occupied large, frame buildings with covered counters, stretching along their fronts. People used to travel miles on foot and horseback, getting up at the first flush of dawn on Good Friday morning, to eat fresh hot cross buns there, or to buy them in square. black boxes to take back home.

Although the Christian sign of the cross has been imprinted upon these hot cross buns for many centuries now, they were really products of pre-Christian times! Egyptian priests used to sell huns in front of their temples, compiling small fortunes from these strange "admission tickets."

In primitive England, pagan tribes rudely mixed ceremonial buns of coarse grain and water as an offering to the coming of the spring sun, an event which they celebrated at wild festivals. With the coming of Christianity, the clergy waged warfare against this pagan practice, but met with such scant success that they evidently decided to make the best of a bad bargain by converting the buns into Christian symbols through the holy mark of the cross. Another strange kind of bread, baked by old English cooks on Good Friday, was a loaf of vary hard biscuit dough, having the sign of the cross perforated in it. The peasants carefully hung these loaves from their cottage roofs, leaving them there until Good Friday morning of the following year as special talismans to protect their homes from fire. In the dark, superstitious days prior to modern medicine, to these curious loaves were attributed the healing powers of the family doctor of modern times. Whenever an illness fell upon them, these devout peasants of long ago would dissolve small bits of the bread in water, and drink it with as much faith in its curative qualities as we would have in the scientifically prescribed medicine or tonic of today!

The Egg Is Pagan

Not many people realize that the word Easter, although the name of a Christian festival, is a survival of paganism, says Tit-Bits Magazine. It takes its name from Eostre, the pagan goddess, who was identified with the Aurora Borealis, the "rising light of day and spring." Norsemen welcomed her annually in a festival of celebration featuring an egg and a rabbit as symbols of fecundity. The survival of this custom is our present Easter egg, tinted in imitation of the quivering beams of the Aurora Borealis. As the Christian festival coincides with the period of the pagan one, and there is a certain beautiful similarity between them, the name has naturally been retained.

DARKNESS OF CRUCIFIXION

THE "darkness over all the earth" at the time of the crucifixion could not have been caused by an eclipse of the sun for the reason that it occurred just after the passover, at the time of full moon, and an eclipse can only occur when the moon is between us and the sun, or at the time called "the dark of the moon."

Tony, in the bright, noisy, hot newspaper office, found her work constantly interrupted by the need there was to stop short and remember it. "Still, a job's a job. Larry." "Yes, but you're a good deal surer of a job than you were six months ago. No, I'd tell Greeny to roll his hoop-"

Tony's eyes were dark with a sort of dancing light.

"I'm not going to do it !" she said. "And thanks for putting me straight. I knew you'd know just about what it all meant."

"Whatever you do, you'll go straight ahead, Tony. Get your stuff, and write it the best you can and turn it in, and that's all they want. You're perfectly safe."

Tony, looking into the fire with smiling eyes, asked idly, "Larry, is there any chance of your ever expanding the Journal, putting regular woman's stuff in?" she added idly. "Remember I talked to you about it that first day?"

"Not that-" he answered readily, and paused.

"But what?"

"Well, there's a chance I may go over to the Examiner, with the Journal in my pocket,"

"No-o-o-!" Tony exclaimed, for if all newspaper gossip was thrilling, this was sensationally so.

"Nothing settled. Bot they've wanted to have a business page for some time, with a four-page Saturday supplement every week. What is the Journal today would practically be that supplement. I'd have Currier's job-he's getting out anyway, he's all tied up with real estate in Thousand Oaks, and he's pretty old. I'd handle the stock and bond stuff, and the market generally, and get up this supplement once a week. Prager would keep the name Journal on it, with the other name."

Tony's blue eyes were watching him sympathetically.

"Well-" The younger woman's face flushed uncomfortably, in spite of all that she could do. "It seems funny," she said feebly.

"Frank's always had a tremendous opinion of himself," Bess said, from smouldering thought; "now this 'Sunshine Gospel' thing fits right in, and he's going to be a whiteheaded angel. Lucky for him he didn't get converted three years ago, when he and I first were friends- There he is!" Tony looking across the swinging lights and littered desks, saw Mr. Fitch slipping quietly through to his own office door. "I do not!" It reminded her of Larry and the comforting hour beside the fire that afternoon. "By the way," she said, "you followed up my little City Hall story; here's something that may interest you: Lawrence Bellamy is going over to the Examiner with the Journal."

"What Journal?" Greenwood's voice was as swift as a bullet.

"There's only one. His Journal. The Journal of Commerce and Business."

"Who said so?"

"He did. I know him and his wife quite well. I saw him today, and he told me. They're going to have a weekly supplement, and then he's to do a daily column."

The enigmatic, slightly impish face of Charles Greenwood went suddenly blank.

"Got your Sunday column in?" he asked, in a flat voice.

"Hour ago."

"What's keeping you? It's almost ten."

"I'm going with Van to get some oysters.'

Pure Rubber

Pure rubber is a sticky, plastic material that is useless for most of the purposes for which it is needed. It is a compound of carbon and hydrogen and has the property of being chemically unsaturated-that is, capable of combining with a number of chemical reagents. To make it elastic and heatstable it is combined with sulphur. It is only within recent years that successful attempts have been made to combine it with other things. The gas chlorine, for example, combines with it quite readily to give a resinous material that is useful as a base for varnishes. With hydrochloric acid a product is formed that can be molded into elastic, transparent sheets. The latest development in this line is that of oxygenated rubber. The combination of rubber and oxygen is a soft, plastic mass that can be readily molded but which on heating sets inte

We are mighty proud of this appointment. Because after seeing all the new 1936 refrigerators-we know we would rather offer our customers Kelvinator than any other make.

It's revolutionary! Not just an improved model-but a refrigerator so far ahead that it makes previous electric refrigerators obsolete. Don't take our word for it. Come in and see it for yourself. And if you're ready to buy-remember a Kelvinator costs no more-and terms are easier than ever. Come in and see why we're so enthusiastic about being a Kelvinator dealer in 1936!
