Mildred Cholger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cholger of this city, won the honor of reigning as queen over the 1937 Perch Festival which will be held here April 30, May 1 and 2. She is a popular member of the junior class at Tawas City high school. Joy Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Smith also a junior at the local high school, will be Miss Cholger's maid of honor. Will the King Lose His Crown?

The biggest liar at the last year's Perch Festival, Thomas E. Webster, made an early entry for the coming contest. He said yesterday, "I have lived a long and busy life and it has been filled with thrilling and amazing experiences. I am a truthful man, as everyone should know. Now years ago when I, with a party of men, cut the timber and cleared away the underbrush at the mouth of Tawas River you should—" but if you want to get the low down on some real early Tawas history, hear Mr. Webster's story at the Festival.

Mr. Webster was the king of liars last year and he has a pretty tall story this year, but write up your lie and send it to the committee. Perhaps you are a better liar than he and can grab his crown and the handsome silver cup, which you can show to your friends as proof of your veracity.

WILL PUT WATERWORKS IN OPERATION MONDAY

Mayor John Brugger announced today that the new waterworks system would be in operation Monday. The pump successfully underwent a rigid efficiency test and the system, thus far completed, was inspected this week. Mayor Brugger said that it would be several days before the water would be palatable on account of the heavy charges of chlorine which had been placed in the mains. After tests are made of the water, announcement will be made when it may be used for domestic purposes.

Mayor Brugger said that L. W. Wells, the contractor, would have a crew of men here about May 1 to complete the laying of the mains and the removal of the debris. Work was suspended during the winter to allow the soil to settle in the excavations before completing the job. About 800 feet of mains remain to be laid.

LOCAL BASEBALL PLAYER ENJOYED TIGER TRY-OUT

John St. James, well known Isoco and Arenac county baseball player, was fortunate last year in having an opportunity to try out with the Detroit Tigers at Navin field.

He was called to Detroit on August 28 by Wish Eagan and told to bring his glove and uniform.

There were 38 players in the try-out—18 were pitchers. St. James classed as a pitcher.

In the first workout all pitchers were given a try, pitching one inning each, if they could take it. In St. James' inning he fanned two batters and forced the third to fly out to the center fielder. In the second workout six pitchers were used out of the eighteen. In the third and last, all but three had been eliminated and St. James was one of the lucky ones. At this workout Eagan showed the pitchers the fundamentals of pitching in big league baseball as exemplified by Tommy Bridges and Schoolboy Rowe.

St. James states that this try out was worth every effort and all the time he has spent in baseball. The opportunity to roam Navin field and the dressing rooms of the Detroit Tigers is the height of every young player's ambition.

St. James, formerly of Whittemore now of this city, says he will gladly cooperate with any high school team in the county in starting young pitchers on the right foot.

St. James, well known as a basketball referee spends the most of his time during the winter months at that work.

Sunday, April 25, 7:30 P. M., approximately one hundred fifty boys and girls of the junior grades will meet at the East Tawas Community Building for the first county-wide Junior Festival of Sacred Song. Public and church school groups will be present, and the entire program will be given by the junior children.

The entire group will sing the three hymns, "This is My Father's World," "Saviour, Again to Thy Dear Name" and "For the Beauty of the Earth."

Special group numbers will be sung by children from Hale, Hemlock road, Alabaster, Tawas City, East Tawas and Oscoda.

Individual numbers will include a baritone solo by Phillip Mark, Tawas City; a violin solo, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," by Ruth Giddings, Tawas City; A saxophone solo by Jeanne Haight, East Tawas.

Always on the Job

STREETS are deserted. Homes are dark. Night has wrapped the community in slumber.

In one building, however, a light is still shining. It shines on steadily through the hours of darkness until, at last, the dawn heralds the stir of another day. . . .

That light sums up the eternal vigilance of the telephone. It is truly a beacon of public service, one that stands ready to serve any one, anywhere, any time. And always with the same promptness and skill and courtesy.

All that modern telephone service can mean — all its protection and convenience and comfort — is yours to command twenty-four hours a day.

It takes no holidays. It is, in an old familiar phrase, "always on the job."

THE GARDEN MURDER CASE

CHAPTER VII—Continued by S. S. VAN DINE

"Oh, Markham—my dear Markham!" Vance shook his head sadly.

"I'm perfectly willing to confess to you that I took a taxicab to and from my aunt's."

"Suppose," he said, "that the elevator boy should deny that he took you either down or up in the car since your first arrival here this afternoon."

"What's that!" Markham exclaimed. "That's more than suspicious—taken with what we have just heard from this Miss Weatherby."

"I dare say," Vance was unimpressed. "The legal mind at work. But from my gamin' amateur point of view, I'd want more—oh, much more."

"What's that!" Markham exclaimed. "That's more than suspicious—taken with what we have just heard from this Miss Weatherby."

"Heath nodded and started toward the door." "And Sergeant," Vance halted him; "you might question the elevator boy and find out if there is any one else in the building whom Kroon is in the habit of calling on."

"I suppose I'm in for some more tricky questions," he commented.

"I don't know anything about it. You told me Swift was dead, and I merely surmised the rest."

"I'm listening with great interest." Kroon had again assumed his air of superiority. "Why don't you stop beating about the bush?"

"I do not!" he regarded that question as incompetent, irrelevant, and immaterial. Also frivolous.

"Say It" With Frilly, Lacy Neckwear

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

YES, indeed, fashion is in an utterly feminine romancing mood this spring. Hats gay with ribbons and flowers and laces, suits prettified with the daintiest frilliest lingerie blouses worn for years, dresses of prints so flowery and multi-colored as to dazzle the eye and that which is a sure sign of the return of romanticism in the mode—

And now that we know that frilly, ultra-feminine neckline and wrist-line fantasies are going to be the very thing let's look up some of the entrancing things which shops are showing this season.

In the first place there's nothing smarter than finely pleated laces for neckwear. The good-looking collar and cuff set that gives so keen a fashion touch to the simple crepe frock worn by the young woman standing below to the left in the picture is of a rather heavy lace in a dark shade of ecru.

See to the right above in the group Claudette Colbert wearing a stunning collar made of an interesting silk-drawn novelty lace fluted row upon row as you see. This actress

SMART FOR SPRING By CHERIE NICHOLAS

"I've known about it for years. Everybody who's been up here knows about it. Anything wrong with my knowing about the gate?"

"And that would be between a quarter after four and twenty minutes after four?"

"I wasn't holding a stop-watch on myself, but I guess that's close enough When I entered the garden I saw Swift slumped down in his chair. His position struck me as funny, but I paid no attention to it until I spoke to him and got no answer. Then I approached and saw the revolver lying on the tiles, and the hole in his head. It gave me a hell of a shock. I can tell you, and I started to run downstairs to give the alarm. But I realized it would look bad for me. There I was, alone on the roof with a dead man"

"Ah, yes. Discretion. So you played safe. Can't say that I blame you entirely—if your chronology is accurate. So, I take it, you re-entered the public stairway and came down to the front door of the Garden apartment."

"That's just what I did." "By and by, during the brief time you were on the roof, or even often you returned to the stairway, did you hear a shot?"

Kroon thought a moment. (TO BE CONTINUED)

"Warning in Russian"

FEW bodies of men have ever attracted so much attention as the Canadian "Mounties" and few have ever had so much written about them. The Mounties have been the center of many a tale, both true and of the fictionalized variety. This one is true—told by a man who once was a Mountie himself. It's an actual page out of the Canadian Mounted's history, and the man who is telling us about it is Constable Walter D. Fast of Chicago.

Walt served for five years with the Mounties—from 1929 to 1935. And the events which make up this strange tale happened in 1935. Walt was stationed at St. Paul de Metis, in Alberta.

He was out on a routine patrol one July day, riding along a lonely trail, when he saw smoke rising from a clearing up ahead.

He put the spurs to his horse and headed for the clearing. As he came closer, he could see fire and suddenly a hoarse scream came to his ears over the still summer air.

Trapper's Cabin Was Blazing.

At a gallop, Walt pushed toward the blaze. The screams grew fainter as he approached. He dashed into the clearing to find a small trapper's cabin burning furiously.

Even as he approached, the cabin's walls began falling. The screams of the man inside, fading to a low moan, stopped abruptly as beams and timbers dropped on him.

By the time Walt got across the little clearing, the cabin was burned nearly to the ground. There was absolutely no hope for the man within. Walt began seeing to it that the fire didn't spread, and at the same time he began wondering why the man who had died in the ruins didn't get out of that cabin.

There was something strange about it. The cabin was a one-story affair, and its occupant had only to step out of the door when it caught fire. If the fire started near the door and blocked his exit in that direction, he could easily have crawled out of a window.

True, the poor devil might have been so ill that he couldn't move, but if so, what was he doing alone in that condition in a lonely cabin in the woods? Walt rejected that theory. Darned few people get so sick they can't move when fire is bearing down on them.

Things Looked Very Suspicious.

Walt reported the fire and the man's death, and then waited for the embers to cool down. The Mounties went over the ruins of that cabin with a fine-toothed comb. The investigation disclosed some mighty suspicious facts.

The victim's charred body was found and examined. The poor fellow's hands had been tied behind his back with wire, and bound behind him to an iron bedstead!

There was evidence of foul play all right. But who had done it? The clues found in the cabin didn't help to answer that question. There wasn't a shred of evidence pointing to anyone in the neighborhood.

The Mounties made further investigations. They learned from folks in the vicinity that the dead man had quarreled with one of his neighbors—a Russian—who lived a short distance from his cabin.

Walt went to the Russian's home. The Russian came out in front of the house and Walt started asking him questions. It was just a routine questioning. There wasn't the slightest bit of evidence to link the Russian to the crime, and Walt had no hope of getting any results from his questioning.

The Russian answered questions readily enough. There was no sign of guilt in his face. As the questioning proceeded it seemed to Walt that the fellow had an air-tight alibi.

Sure, he had quarreled with the dead man. The Russian admitted that. But he hadn't been anywhere near the victim's home on the day it burned down, and he had his wife to prove it by.

She Said Something in Russian.

It all looked pretty hopeless, but Walt kept asking questions. And the more he asked the more he became convinced that the Russian was innocent of any connection with the hideous crime. No matter what Walt wanted to know, his suspect had a ready answer.

And then, as Walt was about to give up, the Russian's wife came out of the house and stood listening. Walt asked a couple more questions, and the woman moved closer. Suddenly she began talking to her husband in Russian.

As she began to talk, Walt gave a sudden start. Then he controlled himself and waited. He waited until the woman had finished talking—and then he walked over to the Russian and slipped the handcuffs on him. He knew then what had happened to the poor devil who had been burned alive in that blazing cabin!

Walt took his prisoner to headquarters, locked him up and charged him formally with the crime. Canadian justice moves rapidly, and it was not long before the Russian was brought up for trial.

At his trial Walt testified, and it was chiefly on the testimony he gave that the fellow was convicted, and sentenced to hang. And hang he did, too. Canadian justice is stern as well as swift, and there are mighty few pardons granted.

And what was the testimony which Walt gave and by which the murderer was convicted? The whole secret lay in the Russian's wife. She had come out of the house while Walt was questioning her husband and had spoken to him in Russian—without knowing that Walt spoke Russian too!

And what she had said was: "Don't tell the policeman you killed him. Say what we agreed to say and they will never be able to prove it on you."

Greyhound Speed

A greyhound can outrun a horse at short distances, and at top speed will hit about 45 miles an hour, Literary Digest says. In top racing condition a dog should weigh approximately 60 pounds and stand from 26 to 28 inches at the shoulder. Whether chasing ostriches in South Africa, deer in South Wales or mechanical rabbits in Florida greyhounds run by sight, not by scent.

Memorial Tablet Below Sea

The only memorial tablet to be placed below the surface of the sea, it is believed, is the inscribed bronze plate that marks the spot, in Kealekua bay off the island of Hawaii, where Capt. James Cook, the English navigator and explorer, was killed by natives in 1779. Laid in 1928, says Collier's Weekly, the tablet is always covered with water, even at low tide.

"All men are born free and equal. I don't believe it. Some men are fated never to marry at all."

Murmurings of Spring

"IF YOU'D take a few steps, Sis, I believe I'd be inspired to answer that question, 'Did you ever see a dream walking?' You are nothing less than devastating—truly a menace!" "You meow so sweetly, Connie. I'm a bit suspicious that this little peplum frock of mine has got you catty. Your eyes really aren't green by rights, you know."

Connie Sews Her Own. "How could you? I think my dress looks as nice on me as yours does on you. Why practically all of the girls at the Laf-a-Lot last night wanted to know where I found such a lovely frock. Not one of them guessed that I made it myself. And did I feel elegant when I played Mendelssohn's Spring Song on Diane's new baby grand! The girls said I fit into the picture perfectly. I thought if only Dwight could see me now." "I still say my two-piecer with its piped peplum, cute little buttons and stream-lines is the No. 1 spring outfit in this woman's town."

Mother Happens Along. "Girls, girls, if you talk were only half as pretty as your frocks you'd be better off. Sometimes I wonder if you wouldn't be more appropriately titled The Cheek Twins, rather than The Chic Twins." "Okay, Mother, you win. Let's change the subject by changing clothes. We'll put on our collottes and join you in a round of golf, how's that? Gee, Mother, you never look sweeter than when you're wearing a casual young two-piece shirt dress. To Harriet L. Palmer, sixteen-year-old Standish High School senior, goes the honor of reigning over Michigan's sixth annual trout festival to take place at West Branch Friday, Saturday and Sunday. She was chosen Friday night at West Branch from a group of 14 young women representing eight northeastern Michigan communities.

School Notes

The ninth grade citizenship class has completed the formal study of "safety" for this semester. It has now begun the study of the constitution and by-laws of the Michigan High School Athletic Association. A Michigan law of 1923 placed the control of high school athletics under the control of the Superintendent of Public Instruction. As a result the above association was formed in 1924 at his request to assist him in this work. It is hoped that a study of the work and rules of this state athletic organization will cause the pupils to show better sportsmanship and become better school citizens thereby. The material deals with rules of eligibility, necessity of a physical examination, number of games, and so forth.

A last minute news flash shows that Mildred Cholger, a member of the junior class of this school is to be the 1937 Perch Queen. Congratulations.

The typing class has constructed progressive charts for the purpose of watching their speed increase and their errors decrease during the last ten weeks of school.

The diplomas for the class of 1937 have arrived. They certainly are beautiful with their wine red covers and white satin linings. We "sincerely trust" that all members will be able to obtain a sample.

7th and 8th Grades

3rd and 4th Grades

Norma Lou Westcott and Mary Ann Rempert were visitors Monday.

The fourth graders memorized the poem, "Daisies" for their language lesson Tuesday.

Mrs. Giddings played "The Storm" by Weber so realistically one involuntarily looked out to see if the rain was coming down.

The group of players (seven and a prompter) from Bay City under the leadership of Miss Taylor prepared the stage for their one act play. While they were getting ready Miss LeReux gave us a short talk on her work as teacher in dramatics. The students study stage settings, costumes, lives of actors and actresses, the influence of the time on the stage productions as well as drama. They are very proud of this dramatic course as Central is one of the few high schools in the state to have such a course.

The play presented was, "The Wedding". The scene, a bedroom. Time, just before the wedding, which is an evening affair. The plot centers around a lost collar button belonging to the groom. The search for the button, with the fear of the best man that the wedding will not go right—he has been best man only eight times before this—and he will be disgraced, coupled with an altercation between the bride and groom and a reconciliation just in time for the wedding kept the audience in broad smiles when not laughing outright.

Nyda Campbell Leslie sang three songs, "Song of the Open", "Vissi D'Arte" and "The Old Refrain" with Mrs. Giddings at the piano. We are always glad to have Nyda with us and we certainly enjoy her singing of which we have been very shy this year.

The social committee had prepared delicious refreshments served buffet style with Mrs. Campbell, retiring president and Mrs. Grace Mark, incoming president pouring tea.
