TAWAS HANDS PRESCOTT BOYS 9 TO 3 DEFEAT

Mallon Holds Opposition to 6 Hits in Sunday's Game

Tawas City handed Prescott a 9-3 defeat last Sunday on the latter's home field and thereby took possession of first place in their league.

"Bill" Mallon did the hurling for the locals and turned in another of his splendid pieces of work. "Bill" is well known for his pitching prowess in these parts and usually does the opposition up in fine shape. He allowed but 6 hits and walked one batter. Twelve batters bowed before Bill's pitches and the three Prescott runs were all unearned.

Bob Christie started on the mound for Prescott. He allowed eight hits, hit three batters, struck out seven and allowed eight runs in the seven innings in which he worked. He was relieved by his brother, Don, in the eighth. He fared slightly better, giving no hits but issuing three passes and striking out three. Incidentally, the three walks coupled with a passed ball paved the way for the final Tawas City run.

The "Slugging Mallon Brothers" known as Bill and Marv, did the heavy hitting for the Tawas boys. Bill collected a double and a single in four times up. Marv swatted out a double and a triple in five trips to the plate, driving in four of the Tawas City runs.

Bob McPherson carried big club for the Prescott crew, getting two hits, a single and double, in four excursions to the swatting post.

The locals are stepping right up in baseball prowess now. Next Sunday's scrap brings the Rose City Partridge Chasers to the Tawas City athletic field. Rose City after losing two games, broke into the win column by besting Hemlock 5-2 in a hard fought game. Which indicates a possibility of some stiff competition for the locals. Let's plan on being on hand to help the boys win another and retain the lead.

Iosco Baseball League

Miner's Grove regained the top position in the Iosco League by defeating Baldwin last Sunday by a score of 7-4.

Baldwin, who hasn't won a game this season, threatened to make a new start last Sunday when they grabbed an early lead and held it until the eighth inning when Miner's Grove put on a four-run rally to sew up the game.

Whittemore and Wilber were idle Sunday with an open date.

ANNOYED AT FIREWORKS; SHOOTS BOY

Elwood Dunham in Serious Condition At Hospital

Elwood Dunham, age 18 years, is in a serious condition at Samaritan Hospital, Bay City, as a result of being hit in the abdomen and legs with a charge of buckshot Saturday night at Sand Lake. John Miller, one of Dunham's companions, was hit in the chin and shoulder. Samuel Powell, age 65, is in the county jail charged with felonious assault. He had become angry with the young men because they were annoying him with firecrackers and fired two charges of buckshot at them.

Dunham, Miller, Elbridge Cataline, Robert Leslie and Bernard Slavinski were shooting firecrackers in front of Powell's cottage. In the midst of their sport Powell appeared upon the scene and fired the two shots. Both youths were rushed to the office of Dr. E. A. Hasty at Whittemore by Oramel O'Farrell where Miller received treatment. Dunham, who was suffering from extreme loss of blood, was rushed to the hospital, where he is still in a serious condition, although Wednesday it was thought he was somewhat improved.

Elwood Dunham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Dunham of Saginaw. He had always made his home with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. John Earhart, at Whittemore. He graduated from the Whittemore high school in May. Elwood is very popular with the young folks and is well as with his class members and is highly esteemed by all who know him. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery. Miller is recovering nicely under the care of Dr. Hasty.

Powell was arraigned Wednesday before Justice C. F. Klump at East Tawas. He asked for a hearing and is set for June 30.

Will Extend Three-Lane Road North of Linwood

Murray D. Van Wagoner, State Highway Commissioner, sends out the cheerful news that the new three-lane highway completed last summer from Bay City to a point a few rods north of Linwood corners on U. S. 23 will be extended 4.2 miles this summer bringing the wider highway just north of Lapan's corner. Bids will be advertised for on June 30. Should more funds become available it is possible that this wider trail may be brought further north sooner than anticipated, but Commissioner Van Wagoner will not make definite promises beyond the Lapan corners.

This is really good news to the people of the north country and the tourist who visits the north. The narrow two-lane highway has outlived its usefulness and also its safety for the increasing traffic that is daily making its way to the north. The commissioner recognizes this fact and is anxious to have the highway improved from a safety standpoint. Other highways throughout the state must also be improved and unless additional funds may be apportioned to this section of the country, the extension of the three lanes from Lapan's north will not be continued until 1938. It is expected that the next lap will take the wider highway through to a point just north of Pinconning or to Standish. The sections now being widened are comparable to the sections selected when the two-lane pavement was laid.

Anyway, the folks up north appreciate this added improvement and are ready to receive as much more as may be apportioned.

The new pavement will be 31 feet wide and will cost $25,000.—Arenac Independent.

Supervisors Will Meet on Monday

The Board of Supervisors of the County of Iosco will meet next Monday for the annual June session. The principal business at the coming session will be the work of the committee on equalization.

School Notes

The Sophomores of the Tawas City High School won first honors in the scholastic averages for the past school year with an average of 2.594. They were followed by the Seniors with 2.221, the Freshmen with 2.111 and the Juniors with 1.781. The average for the entire high school was 2.126.

The students who received no mark lower than a 'B' for the year's averages and are therefore placed on the honor roll are: Phyllis Bigelow, Madge Davis, Lucille Depoty, Isabelle Dease, Hazel Herham, John Katterman, Evelyn Latham, Myrton Leslie, Marguerite McLean, Norma Musolf, Erma Lou Pfahl, Ernest Ross and Otto Ross.

The following students have been neither absent nor tardy for the school year: Ruth Clark, Kathleen Davis, John Katterman, Frieda Ross, Walter Koepke and Earl Shover.

Open Coffee Shop In Lakeside Tavern

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Moeller have opened a coffee shop in the Lakeside Tavern. The formal opening was held Sunday and a large number of friends visited Mr. and Mrs. Moeller and wished them success in their new venture.

E. J. Martin's Hotel Iosco and the Lakeside Tavern, which was recently reopened by F. H. Goodrich, gives Tawas City two excellent hotels with which to serve the increasing stream of summer visitors. The dining room of the Tavern has been remodeled to accommodate the Coffee Shop and the building has been redecorated.

Whittemore Will Have New Pharmacy

On Saturday, July 3, Bellon's new pharmacy will open at Whittemore in the W. A. Curtis building. A full line of drugs and sundries will be carried. There will be a registered pharmacist. A cordial invitation has been extended to visit the new store during the celebration and homecoming.

'ON THE LINE!' DEMANDS CIO

Steel Refuses to Sign Contracts . . . And So There's a Deadlock . . . Look to U. S. for Strike Settlement

Monroe (Mich.) Women Defended Their Husbands' Right to Strike.

Edward W. Pickard
SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

© Western Newspaper Union

THERE is no issue of wages, hours or other material demands in the strife between the independent steel corporations and John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization. The corporations have agreed to all of the demands of the unions—verbally. "Verbally"—that is the word which has for weeks kept thousands of workers in eight or ten states from returning to their jobs.

The C. I. O. demands that the corporations put their agreement in the form of a written contract. The corporations refuse. And the unions have refused to call off the strikes until they get the signatures on the line.

Union officials have taken the position that if the company officials are willing to agree orally to union demands they ought to be willing to confirm the agreement in writing. Lewis has demanded that President Roosevelt intervene to force the companies to sign. At a press conference the President refused to say officially what was his reaction to the demand. He did say—and emphasized that he was not speaking "officially"—that he could not see why the companies would not make written agreements if they would make the same ones verbally.

Tom Girdler, chairman of the board of the Republic Steel corporation, explained the companies' stand:

"The reason the C. I. O. wants a signed contract is because such a contract would be the first step toward the closed shop and the check-off.

"Under the closed shop every worker has to belong to a union, whether he wants to or not. The closed shop is actually a 'deal' between the employer and the union whereby the employer helps to force every employee into the union. Under the checkoff the company takes unions dues out of the pay envelopes of all its employees and hands them over to the union.

"Does the C. I. O. contract preserve industrial peace? It does not. They have broken numerous contracts."

Federal Intervention Asked

IT WAS virtually certain that there would be some federal action in the steel strikes, with Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio and Mayor Daniel J. Shields of Johnstown, Pa., appealing desperately to the President for aid. Governor Davey, in a long telegram detailing the arguments on both sides, declared that the situation had gone far beyond the powers of one state to control. When a worker in the Johnstown steel mills was abducted by six strikers and stripped of his clothing in their automobile (he was later released), following weeks of rioting and bloodshed, the mayor decided that kidnapping was the last straw and appealed to Mr. Roosevelt.

Secretary of Labor Frances E. Perkins named a mediation board of three to meet in Cleveland and hear the cases of the union and the companies. On the board were Charles P. Taft, son of the former President and chief justice, a Republican and lawyer from Cincinnati; Lloyd K. Garrison, who served as the first president of the National Labor Relations board in 1934, and Edward F. McGrady, first assistant secretary of labor, and a known enemy of company unions, spy systems and the tear gas method of quelling strike riots.

In Monroe, Mich., where the C. I. O. union threatened to import thousands of pickets from Detroit, a band of several hundred deputized vigilantes, armed, kept the peace, aided by the police force of twenty. In Youngstown, Ohio, Johnstown and other cities vigilante groups were also being formed.

Steel Wants Its Mail

THE Republic Steel corporation filed in the federal district court in Washington a petition for a writ of mandamus compelling Postmaster General Farley to deliver parcel post packages to steel plants in Ohio which local postmasters have refused to deliver.

The petition charged that the local postmaster at Niles, Ohio, was refusing to deliver packages containing food and clothing and addressed to the loyal workers who were being housed inside the Republic plant. It charged that this refusal was made after the postmaster had reached an "understanding" with two members of the union.

"Having waited a week for a reply to our letter . . . to Mr. Farley and having received none, we have no recourse but to such legal action as is available to us under the circumstances involved," said John S. Brooks, Jr., counsel for the corporation. He said separate suits will be instituted in Ohio against the local postmasters involved.

Court Plan Walloped

THE senate judiciary committee made short work of President Roosevelt's Supreme court packing plan. Its report, in summary:

"We recommend the rejection of this bill as a needless, futile, and utterly dangerous abandonment of constitutional principle.

"It was presented to the congress in a most intricate form and for reasons that obscured its real purpose.

"It would not banish age from the bench nor abolish divided decisions.

"It would not affect the power of any court to hold laws unconstitutional, nor withdraw from any judge the authority to issue injunctions.

"It would not reduce the expense of litigation nor speed decision.

"It is a proposal without precedent and without justification.

"It would subjugate the courts to the will of congress and the President and thereby destroy the independence of the judiciary, the only certain shield of individual rights.

"It is a measure which should be so emphatically rejected that its parallel will never again be presented to the free representatives of the free people of America."

Informed Washington correspondents were of the belief that the bill hasn't a chance of being passed, even with amendments. It seemed not unlikely that, due to the confusion and conflict over White House proposals and statutes, there would be an adjournment of this session of congress shortly, perhaps to reconvene in special session beginning November 1. The breathing spell would give the administration an opportunity to align its majority more solidly behind the President's desired legislation to improve the lot of the underprivileged.

Harry Loses 1st Round

DESPITE the pleas of Harry L. Hopkins, works progress administrator, the full senate appropriation committee approved the Byrnes amendment to the relief bill, 13 to 10. The amendment to the $1,500,000,000 bill requires local governments to pay at least 40 per cent of the cost of all WPA projects, or else sign a kind of civic "pauper's oath." The South Carolina senator's amendment was seen as further evidence of the break between the administration and the conservative Democrats.

In the senate debate on the bill it quickly became apparent that Sen. Byrnes' "40 per cent amendment" would not carry. Sen. Joseph T. Robinson offered a compromise which would require states to pay 25 per cent of the cost of work relief projects. President Roosevelt had repeatedly made it known that he wanted no such rider on his relief bill, and it was Sen. Robinson's first break with the White House on an important issue.

Capital on the Move

THE Spanish loyalist government, after another terrific bombing of the city by insurgent airplanes of the German Junkers and Heinkel types, decided to move the capital from Bilbao to Santander, but to defend Bilbao to the death. The Basque battalions reorganized for a last ditch stand to protect the broken "iron ring" of the city's defenses from the forces of General Francisco Franco. The latter, it was admitted, already had penetrated the first line of fortifications near Fica and Larrabezua, five miles to the east. Several persons were killed and many houses destroyed by the rebel bombs and machine guns. Meanwhile the loyalists were claiming important advances along the Cordoba front.

Reds Rub Out 8

EIGHT Soviet Russian generals, including Marshal Michail Tukhachevsky, former vice commissar of defense, learned the wrath of the Kremlin. Condemned for treason, they were led before a firing squad and killed, by order of the military tribunal of the Soviet supreme court. The court only the day before had declared them guilty of conspiring with the military intelligence service of an "unfriendly" foreign power. Although the "unfriendly" power was never named by officials, correspondents in Moscow declared indications were unmistakable that Red leaders believe the power was Nazi Germany.

Most of the Russian capital was virtually certain that the eight, who had been denied appeal, had been put to death for an ambitious plot to rob the Soviet of its western provinces and turn them over to Germany.

The Soviet purge was followed by the suicide of Alexander G. Cherviakov, forty-five-year-old president of the White Russian Soviet Republic, westernmost of the Soviet Union's republics. While it was said that he had killed himself "for family reasons" his death came almost immediately after his denunciation in a meeting as a plotter against the Communist party. Hundreds of thousands of suspects were reported removed from the Communist party rolls by the government.

Fiscal Dictator for France

WHILE a congressional committee in the United States prepared to begin an investigation of alleged tax dodgers among the wealthy, Vincent Auriol, French finance minister, gave broad hints to French millionaires that they, too, had better get themselves square with the tax collector. He revealed that the tax rate will be raised on the higher bracket incomes and on products which are government monopolies, such as tobacco, matches and alcohol. Measures will be taken, in France's financial crisis, to prevent frightened capitalists from exporting funds abroad.

All this because the Communist party, reversing its long stand at the last minute, agreed to accept Premier's Blum's proposal that he be made financial dictator of the nation for six weeks. In that time he hopes to raise the 30 billion francs needed to finance the government throughout the year. Most authorities believe that six weeks will not suffice, that he will be forced to ask for an extension of his "full emergency powers." Blum hopes that the long awaited business revival will actually set in during that period, solving the whole financial problem automatically.

rest of his body. The natives told him afterward that in that way they could squeeze a lot harder, since the limb afforded them a good fulcrum. But all that Frank found out afterward. At the time it happened he wasn't thinking about movie snakes, or fulcrums, or anything else but the huge reptile that was wrapping itself around him.

We're in the Money!

IF YOU don't think things are picking up, maybe the United States Department of Commerce can convince you. It has just reported the national income for 1936 reached a total of $62,056,000,000, and officials predicted that the figure for 1937 would reach $70,000,000,000. The all-time high was $78,632,000,000 in the dizzy boom year of 1929, and the all-time low $44,940,000,000 in 1933.

The department's report said that since 1933 the national income has risen more swiftly than prices and that the real purchasing power of individuals was much larger. Income, it said, increased 38 per cent from 1933 to 1936, while the cost of living advanced 8 per cent. The per capita income of employees last year was listed at $1,244, which was $58 more than in the preceding year and 88.4 per cent of the figure for 1929.

CIO Starts at Bottom

JOHN L. LEWIS aimed another blow at steel through the United Mine Workers, of which he is president. Workers in the captive mines (mines operated by an individual steel concern which is the sole user of the coal brought to the surface) in Pennsylvania walked out of the shafts and joined the steel picket lines. The purpose was to cripple further the steel plants now shut down or operating under difficulties while picketed; the immediate objective was the closing of the Cambria plant of Bethlehem Steel. The effectiveness of the walkout was a matter for dispute; plant officials claimed all departments were in operation. In some plants the miners outnumbered striking steel workers as steel pickets.

Hell to Everybody

"The Jungle Terror"
By FLOYD GIBBONS

FRANK RINI of Brooklyn, N. Y., says that all the adventures that ever happened to him came while he was a soldier down in the Canal Zone. Back in 1924, Frank was a corporal in the One Hundred Ninety-Second company, C. A. C., stationed at Fort Sherman. And on January 15 of that same year, he had the experience that frightened him more than anything else he ever faced in his life.

It wasn't the fright alone—it was the sheer horror that went with it. Such a horror as only the dank, steaming, crawling jungle could produce. A party of five soldiers set out from the barracks one Sunday afternoon, and Frank was among them. It was a sort of hunting and exploring trip.

"We were out for anything we could shoot," Frank says, "but our real ambition was to find a primitive tribe of Indians who were said to live in that section of the Canal Zone.

Chopped a Way Through the Jungle.

"We were not allowed to take our rifles. That is against army regulations. But we borrowed a few shotguns and each of us had a bolo to cut our way through the jungle undergrowth. For the first five miles our route lay on a beaten track along the ocean side, but from there on we were in virgin territory. There our bolos came into play and we had to hack our way through brush and growths that were, in spots, almost impassable."

They pushed on through that jungle, but not very far. It was hard work and it took most of the glamor out of the expedition. They grew weary and stopped for a rest. Frank climbed a coconut tree, cut down a half dozen of the nuts and they drank the juice to quench their thirst. Then they decided to call it a day and start back for the fort.

The sun was beginning to sink in the sky now, and it would never do to be caught in the jungle overnight. They began moving fast, but that hot, tropic sun seemed to be moving faster than they were. In order to get out before darkness trapped them they tried a short cut through a low, swampy region that led in almost a straight line to the fort.

Big Snake Coiled About Frank.

Frank was a little ahead of the rest of them, for he knew this particular jungle route better than they did. He was keeping his eye open for familiar landmarks and had just spotted one—a peculiarly-shaped mass of ferns on the bank of a small creek. He had just leaped across the creek when something hit him.

A soft, wriggling mass settled down over his shoulders. And Frank looked up and almost fainted when he saw the sinuous form of a huge snake coiling itself around him.

Frank has seen snakes like that in the movies since, but those reptiles didn't act like his did. The snakes in the picture wrapped themselves completely around an animal, but Frank's snake kept his tail coiled around the limb of a tree while he encircled Frank with the

The Huge Snake Coiled Itself Around Him.

"I felt something hot pierce my arm and knew that the head of the reptile had fastened itself on me. A boa constrictor can bite quite painfully as well as squeeze. I never knew it before, but I learned it then. With that bite I lost all my reason. I began struggling like a madman, and suddenly I found my voice and started to yell."

Meanwhile, the reptile had kept its hold on Frank and slowly but surely was squeezing every bit of breath out of his body. He didn't yell more than once or twice before the snake had flattened his lungs so that yelling was impossible. "I was considered a pretty strong man about camp," he says, "but this snake was just too much for anything on two feet.

The Reptile Bit Him, Too.

"I was about all in when I saw the first of my comrades break through the jungle foliage and come toward me at a dead run. After that I remember only dimly what took place. I remember them hacking at that snake with their bolos and even shooting at it, but still it wouldn't let go. It hung on until they had literally cut it to pieces. Finally it gave its last quiver and they untangled me from its folds. But by that time I was out cold, and they had to work over me for more than an hour before I was conscious of anything or anybody."

Even when they did bring him to, Frank could hardly walk. And only part of that was due to the squeezing he had taken from that monster reptile. The rest of it was just plain weakness from the shock of his hideous experience.

The boys measured that snake before they left the spot, and it was nineteen feet long and almost four inches in diameter. They told Frank around camp that a reptile of that breed and size was quite capable of killing a horse, and Frank isn't at all unwilling to believe them.

"My whole body was sore for more than two weeks, just from the little dose I got," he says, "and I don't think a horse would have felt much better after the same sort of treatment."

Names of Things We Eat

The names of the things we eat have curious derivations. The humble vegetable, parsley, for instance, traveled from Greek to Latin, from Latin to Saxon, and from thence to its present form. It actually has the same origin as the name Peter (a rock), for it grew among the rocks of ancient Rome. Potato is from the Spanish patata, which, in turn, says Pearson's London Weekly Magazine, came from the Haytian batata, a sweet-tasting type of yam. The word sweet goes back to the Sanscrit svad—to taste; and sugar has also come to us from the same ancient language, via Persian, Arabic, Spanish and French. The Sanscrit for sugar was caraka, which first meant "grains of sand."

Eye Infections

The form of eye infection most frequently encountered is known as conjunctivitis. This is an inflammation of the conjunctiva, the covering which lines the eyelids and runs onto the eyeball. This type of infection is caused by micro-organisms. Another infection set up by germs is known as pink eye. Germ born infections are transmitted by the hands, soiled towels, or otherwise.

Washington Digest
National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart
National Press Building Washington, D. C.

Washington.—As it becomes more painfully apparent that there is no basis upon which to expect present returns of federal taxation to produce sufficient funds to maintain the administration's rate of spending, the President and the Treasury are peeping into every corner for new sources of money. They have already recommended to congress that the present nuisance taxes be re-enacted to bring in some five hundred million a year and they are casting their eyes elsewhere for other tax receipts.

In addition, and as a part of the general pinch that the Treasury now feels, Mr. Roosevelt has asked congress to revise certain provisions of income tax law to close up loopholes and prevent escape from taxation. The President's message to congress on this point was quite bitter and, many observers thought, rather unfair but, nevertheless, he told congress that it was up to the legislative branch to see that there was no tax avoidance.

The President's message dealt with an alleged moral phase of tax avoidance and that part of his message has provoked much criticism of the Chief Executive's attitude. He sought in his statement to the congress to make it appear that many wealthy persons had avoided taxes and that, by so doing, they had sinned.

Now, the President's view is entitled to consideration and his charge that there is tax avoidance is correct. Indeed, I believe no one can successfully dispute the charge that there is tax avoidance of a wholesale character in the United States. But when the matter is placed in the category of a moral issue, it must be examined in a different light. The President did not talk about tax evasion in his message; he talked about tax avoidance. Tax evasion is illegal and immoral. Tax avoidance is purely and simply the arrangement by an individual so that he pays the lowest tax he can and still complies with the law.

I am inclined to side with those in congress who have criticized the President on the attitude he assumed. As long as congress tells an individual, through the language of a law, that he must pay so much tax and prescribes the conditions, if that individual complies with that direction of congress, he does not commit a crime when he pays only that much tax.

I am constrained to support my view in this instance with the language of the late Mr. Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes who, as a member of the Supreme court of the United States, gained probably as much respect as any man who ever sat on the highest bench. Mr. Justice Holmes said in a decision of the court 21 years ago and now strangely apropos the following words:

"We do not speak of evasion, because, when the law draws a line, a case is on one side of it or on the other, and if on the safe side it is none the worse legally that a person has availed himself to the full of what the law permits. When an act is condemned as an evasion, what is meant is that it is on the wrong side of the line indicated by the policy, if not by the mere letter, of the law."

Again and again, courts have held that a citizen may employ "any legal means" available to him to diminish the tax which he must pay. It would seem then that Mr. Roosevelt's message used rather ill chosen and ill advised language when, in dealing with questions of tax avoidance, he sought to make it appear that it was wrong for a citizen to try to save his own money.

Message Causes Stir

It has been rather interesting to note the type of outbursts, editorial and verbal, that has come as a result of Mr. Roosevelt's tax message. These outbursts have continued partly because the President asked congress to make an investigation of tax avoidance where some very large taxpayers are involved. Of course, congress is going to do that because it will give congress, or at least certain individual members, an opportunity for publicity. And they do not overlook opportunities for publicity.

Since the discussion of tax questions has continued on the basis of the projected investigation, it has given plenty of writers an opportunity to express their opinion in detail. Many of these critics have become quite personal in their assault upon Mr. Roosevelt and their biting observations are doing him no good politically at all. In fact, I have heard some rumblings beneath the surface to the effect that his tax message has hurt him as much politically as his proposal to add six new justices of his own choosing to the Supreme court of the United States.

Probably the worst of these criticisms appeared in the Washington Evening Star, a newspaper that seldom takes a bitter stand on any question. The Evening Star called attention to regulations of the bureau of internal revenue which prescribed that a person must count as income anything taken in payment of services, whether that thing be money or some other thing of value. It cited the fact that the President occupies the White House without payment of rent and that he has available a large staff of servants who man that institution; that he is provided with automobiles and yachts and various other services and circumstances without cost. Editorially, the newspaper then goes on:

"Has the President of the United States, unwittingly, failed to include in his income tax the value to him of the residence provided by the government which pays him his salary? Under these regulations it would appear that even the automobiles and the yachts provided by the government should be considered in making out an income tax return. There is no publication of income taxes and therefore the public is not informed as to whether the high officials of the government who are provided with residences, as some are, or with automobiles, as many of them are, take these things into consideration in reporting their income taxes. It would scarcely be an argument to say that residence provided for a public official is not part of his pay. Cabinet officers, for example, are not provided with residences by the government. They must provide residences themselves, at considerable cost. It is obvious, therefore, that a residence given a government official is part of his pay."

When the President proposed the tax investigation, he said that he believed there were a good many millions of dollars that could be forced into the federal treasury as a result of such inquiry. His action followed sweeping orders issued to internal revenue agents and auditors to review every income tax return with the utmost care. The agents and auditors, of course, will go over the returns filed by the entire list of income tax payers, little as well as big, but the congressional investigation will be devoted only to some of the men called by Mr. Roosevelt, "economic royalists." It is obvious that congress cannot go into all returns so congress will pick on the big ones because those men will have names out of which good headlines in newspapers can be written.

The Treasury had a different idea about the investigation which congress undertook at the President's request. The Treasury's plan contemplated a number of secret hearings, star chamber sessions, and I believe everyone knows what can be had in a star chamber session with bureaucrats operating with all of the powers they possess in our government.

Word of the Treasury's ideas did not please congressional leaders and they very quickly put their foot down on the scheme. Of course, members of the house and senate figured they would not share in the political benefits unless they did the investigating. I hear much comment to the effect, however, that an investigation in the manner congress had decided to make it is much preferable to the star chamber proceedings which the Treasury proposed.

I mentioned that the congressional committee is dealing only with "big names." The reason for this is plain. It would do no good at all in a publicity way for the congressional groups to call in some small taxpayer who, by availing himself of the privileges of the law, had been able to reduce his total tax to a comparatively few dollars. On the other hand, if a big business man, an economic royalist, claims all of the exemptions and deductions that the law specifies and thereby cuts down his tax, he becomes the subject or the target for much ballyhoo about tax avoidance. I do not see the difference.

Piles Work on Congress

Since the President finds himself in a deadlock with congress on his proposal to add six justices of his own choosing to the Supreme court of the United States, he has turned to a new approach in dealing with the legislative situation. He has suddenly loaded congress down with work. This is to be distinguished from the course he has followed in his earlier years of his tenure when he submitted only one legislative suggestion at a time.

Now, in addition to the court reorganization proposal, there is before congress the far-reaching governmental reorganization plan, the billion dollar slum clearance and house building, farm tenancy bill and a highly controversial piece of legislation proposing to establish minimum wages and maximum hours for labor. These are, in addition, of course, to the tax revision proposition I have discussed above and the annual appropriation bills with the billion and a half relief fund measure.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Summer Influenza.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—In this favored land we are now starting to celebrate the customary seasonal rite of having our summer influenza.

Summer influenza is distinguished from winter influenza by the fact that the former does not set in until September, thereby providing intervals for spring and fall to slip in between.

The symptoms remain practically the same. The eyes water copiously, but the nose runs second. The head stops up thoroughly, thus providing proof of the fallacy of the old adage—all sinus fail in dry weather. The patient barks like a trained seal, but the difference here is that the seal stops barking if you toss him a hunk of raw fish.

One could go on at length, but it's difficult to continue a writing job when you're using a nasal inhalant to punctuate with and have a taste in your mouth like moth balls smothered in creosote dressing.

The Art of Cussing.

MY OLD chum Burgess Johnson, once an editor but now a college professor, tells a credulous bunch of advertising men that Mark Twain was the champion all-time all-American cusser—could cuss five solid minutes without repeating himself.

Pardon me, Burgess, but Mark Twain never did any such thing. Once I heard him at his out-cussingest best—denouncing a publisher who had offended him. He swore for five minutes all right, but over and over again he used the same few familiar oaths which the English-speaking race always have used. He didn't introduce a new or an original one.

I studied the art of cussing, both by note and by ear, under such gifted masters of profanity as southern steamboat mates, New York newspaper men, London cab drivers, western mule whackers and north woods timber choppers.

With my hand on my heart I solemnly affirm that not one of these alleged experts ever employed any save the dependable age-seasoned standbys, to wit, seven adjectives, two strong nouns, one ultrastrong noun and one compound phrase—the commonest of all.

Romance for King Zog.

FOR about the fifth time comes a plaintive plea from Albania, one of those remote little border countries of eastern Europe where every now and then peace threatens to break out. They have a king over there. At least they had a king at the time of going to press with this dispatch. His name is King Zog. This is neither a typographical error nor a vaudeville gag. The name positively is Zog, and radio comedians may make the most of it.

For many months he has been paging the world for a wife. The qualifications call for the lady to have $5,000,000. His majesty would also like for her to turn Mohamadan, but the main requirement is that $5,000,000 bank roll.

California's Coastline.

WHILE it's quite a roomy coastline, California has at present only one coastline. This is a source of mortification to patriotic native sons, Florida having two such, one on either side, besides a dampish area in the middle known as the Everglades.

Still, in a way, California's silvery strand continues to excel. Within easy speeding distance we have at least one beach resort where, when Palm Springs folds up on account of the heat, many of our artistic colony go to relax. So wholeheartedly do some go in for this that often you may stand off a quarter of a mile and hear them relaxing.

Occasionally a relaxationist relaxes so completely that it takes weeks for him to get over it. His friends leave him at the seaside only to gather at the bedside.

The Changing World.

IT WAS Susan B. Anthony who dedicated her life to the cause of emancipation for her sex. But it was her grandniece who lately attained the headlines by suggesting that, with the addition of a buckle here and a ribbon there, a nightgown would make a suitable evening gown for almost any occasion.

Thus do we see how from one generation on to another is handed down the flame of genius and service to womankind.

But, although the inspired suggestion is already weeks old, there still are no signs that it is finding advocates among the queen bees of the cultural hive. Maybe the reason is that a belle of the Hollywood artistic group would feel so ostentatiously overdressed if she wore a full-fashioned nightgown to a social function.

Wife of White Man Is Elected Indian Chief

Fort Washakie, Wyo.—An age-old tradition was broken here when an Indian woman with white blood in her veins became a "chief" of the Arapahoe tribe.

Tradition among the Arapahoese had previously kept woman's place strictly in the tepee.

Mrs. Nellie Scott Burns, wife of a white settler, was elected one of six councilors from a field of sixteen candidates.

The Shoshone Indians, who share the Wyoming agency lands with the Arapahoese, refused to break tradition and Betty Stoll, one of twenty-six candidates for the six Shoshone posts, was defeated.

The election was a modern one—conducted by secret ballot—but the tribes flocked to the polls by automobile, wagon and on horseback. Squaws voted with braves.

A generation ago feats of horsemanship and skill with the tomahawk and scalping knife determined which braves should lead the tribe.

Younger elements of both tribes gained control in each council after bitter opposition from the "old men" of the reservation. The younger Indians favor extension of farming programs backed by federal aid to which the older tribesmen are bitterly opposed.

Terry More Certain Than Ever Cubs Are Giants Big Threat

HERE'S what they say: Bill Terry—"The more we look at the rest of the league the more we figure those Cubs are the ones we have to beat. Of course you can't tell how well their pitching will stand up, but with Hartnett back there catching it looks a lot better. They stayed up close to the top when they were having plenty of hard luck and now their power boys are back in action they're bound to be tougher.

"What? Yes, that's right. They've been something like us with Leiber out and Ott not doing so good. Don't know when Hank'll be back, either. You know they only gave him light food when he was in the hospital and now he's got to build himself up again before he can take chances on hard playing in the hot sun.

"Tough break that, because he certainly looked swell in spring training, but let me tell you something. That other guy out there in his place (Ripple) isn't going to hurt any ball club. He's hitting close to .300, won a couple of games on the road that nobody seems to have given him credit for, and he can field as good, or better, than anybody you can name in the league.

"Jersey City? It's a great baseball town with one of the finest parks I've ever seen, and our tieup is bound to be helpful both to the Giants and to the folks over there. We bought in to late to do any real good this year though, even if we have got plenty of money to spend and so we can't promise anything this season. But we're improving. I was talking to Travis Jackson recently and he says Bluege is just the shortstop we've needed over there. Also there's a couple of other deals we may swing before long."

Carl Hubbell—"Do I measure my pants every day so as to get them just exactly one inch above the second white stripe on my stocking? Nope. That's just because they don't make baseball pants any longer. I like 'em long and I stretch 'em as far as they'll reach."

Charley Grimm—"Yeah, we figure we've got to beat the Giants but you've got to take them all seriously in this league this year. Maybe Bowman won't continue pitching so good in Pittsburgh but they've got a better club out there than last year.

"Then go down in the second division and look at Philadelphia as an example. Jimmie Wilson's come up with three good pitchers and that kid Scharein knows how to handle the ball at shortstop even though he is a little green and mainly used to second base. Yeah, we've got some good youngsters ourselves. We figure Marty's going okay out there in the outfield now and that Shoun is a pitcher almost anybody would like to have.

"Parmelee? We let him pitch his own games because we know he's got as much as anybody in the league when he's right. If he gets into trouble the infield doesn't come charging in telling him how to pitch and neither do the boys start yelling from the bench. We just let Gabby Hartnett handle him and they've been doing a mighty good job together even if he has lost a couple of tough ones.

"What's that? You're blamed well right we're pleased with Frey and he may win a regular job with us if those others don't continue to hustle. He's helped us a lot. Right now we're practicing him in the outfield more than any place else and that may turn out to be his spot because there's a chance his arm may not be quite good enough for shortstop.

"Anywhere we play him is okay with him though, because he's a swell kid to handle and loves to play. Fast, too. When we got him I knew he could shake a foot but I had no idea how fast he really was."

Roy Parmelee—"It feels swell to be with this club. Especially after last year. Boy, that St. Louis heat was terrible and it was only part of it. New York? Hey, don't go quoting me on anything like that. The fans were swell to me there."

Lonny Frey—"How does it feel to be sold down the river and then wind up eating in the dining room with the quality folks? That's baseball. Brooklyn was okay, but they're great to me here and—"

HELP KIDNEYS

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste

Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all pined out.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

Mortgage Sale

WHEREAS, William S. Holmes and Ella M. Holmes, his wife, made and executed a certain mortgage, dated December 15, 1916, to State Savings Bank, Caro, Michigan, which mortgage was recorded in the Register of Deeds office for the county of Iosco, in Liber 21 of Mortgages on page 191, and

WHEREAS, default has been made in the performance and payment of said mortgage and the sum of $369.00 representing principal due and $276.78 representing interest on principal being now due to which sum is added an attorney fee of $50.00 as provided by the terms of said mortgage, and

WHEREAS, said mortgage was assigned by an assignment dated June 10, 1921, to Ealy McKay and Company, which assignment was recorded in the Iosco County Register of Deeds office on June 21, 1921, in Liber 26 of Mortgages on page 266, and

WHEREAS, upon a bill filed in the Circuit Court for the County of Tuscola in Chancery on November 5th, 1926, the First National Bank of Bay City, of Bay City, Michigan, was duly appointed receiver of all the assets and estates of said mortgagee and thereupon duly qualified and acted as such trustee, and

WHEREAS, thereafter by an order of said court made on January 24, 1927, said receiver was authorized, empowered and directed to sell to L. G. McKay, of East Tawas, Michigan, all the assets of said Ealy, McKay and Company for the purpose of re-transferring the same to the said First National Bank as trustee for the benefit of the creditors of the said Ealy, McKay and Company, and

WHEREAS, said Lloyd G. McKay, by a certain trust indenture dated February 12, 1927, conveyed, assigned and transferred all of the assets of said bank to said First National Bank of Bay City, as trustee for the creditors of said Ealy, McKay and Company as aforesaid, and

WHEREAS, the said First National Bank of Bay City, after duly qualifying as such trustee, thereafter on the 11th day of May, 1932, resigned as such trustee and the Bay Trust Company, of Bay City, Michigan, was under and by virtue of the terms of the trust agreement aforesaid appointed its successor in trust and has duly qualified and is now acting as such trustee, and

WHEREAS, said First National Bank transferred by deed its right, title and interest in and to all the assets of Lloyd G. McKay and Ealy, McKay and Company to said Bay Trust Company, dated October 7, 1932, and recorded October 10, 1932, in Liber 71 of deeds on page 213, and

WHEREAS, no suit or proceedings have been instituted at law to recover the debt now claimed to be due on said mortgage,

Notice is hereby given that said mortgage by virtue of the power of sale therein contained will be foreclosed by the sale of the premises herein described at a public auction at the front door of the courthouse in the city of Tawas City, County of Iosco and State of Michigan, that being the place where the Circuit Court for the County of Iosco is held, on the 11th day of September, 1937, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, Eastern Standard Time, which premises are described as follows:

Mortgage Sale

WHEREAS, Frank Dressler and Mari Dressler, his wife, made and executed a certain mortgage, dated October 25, 1936, to Ealy, McKay and Company, bankers of East Tawas, Michigan, which mortgage was recorded in the Register of Deeds office in the County of Iosco, in Liber 27 of Mortgages on page 104, and

WHEREAS, default has been made in the performance and payment of said mortgage and the sum of $1164.74 representing principal due and $759.19 representing interest on principal being now due to which sum is added an attorney fee of $15.00 as provided by the terms of said mortgage, and

WHEREAS, upon a bill filed in the Circuit Court for the County of Tuscola in Chancery on November 5th, 1926, the First National Bank of Bay City, of Bay City, Michigan, was duly appointed receiver of all the assets of said mortgagee and thereupon duly qualified and acted as such trustee, and

WHEREAS, thereafter by an order of said court made on January 24, 1927, said receiver was authorized, empowered and directed to sell to L. G. McKay, of East Tawas, Michigan, all the assets of said Ealy, McKay and Company for the purpose of re-transferring the same to the said First National Bank as trustee for the benefit of the creditors of the said Ealy, McKay and Company, and

WHEREAS, said Lloyd G. McKay, by a certain trust indenture dated February 12, 1927, conveyed, assigned and transferred all of the assets of said bank to said First National Bank of Bay City, as trustee for the creditors of said Ealy, McKay and Company as aforesaid, and

WHEREAS, the said First National Bank of Bay City, after duly qualifying as such trustee, thereafter on the 11th day of May, 1932, resigned as such trustee and the Bay Trust Company, of Bay City, Michigan, was under and by virtue of the terms of the trust agreement aforesaid appointed its successor in trust and has duly qualified and is now acting as such trustee, and

WHEREAS, said First National Bank transferred by deed all its right, title and interest in and to all the assets of Lloyd G. McKay and Ealy, McKay and Company to said Bay Trust Company, dated October 7, 1932, and recorded October 10, 1932, in Liber 71 of deeds on page 213, and

WHEREAS, no suit or proceedings have been instituted at law to recover the debt now claimed to be due on said mortgage,

Notice is hereby given that said mortgage by virtue of the power of sale therein contained will be foreclosed by the sale of the premises herein described at a public auction at the front door of the courthouse in the city of Tawas City, County of Iosco and State of Michigan, that being the place where the Circuit Court for the County of Iosco is held, on the 11th day of September, 1937, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, Eastern Standard Time, which premises are described as follows:

The GARDEN MURDER CASE

Zalia Graem glared defiantly at Vance.

"I asked Mrs. Garden what I could do for her, and she requested me to fill the water glass on the little table beside her bed. I went into the bathroom and filled it; then I arranged her pillows and asked her if there was anything else she wanted. She thanked me and shook her head; and I returned to the drawing-room."

"Thank you," murmured Vance, nodding to Miss Graem and turning to the nurse. "Miss Beeton," he asked, "when you returned last night, was the bedroom window which opens on the balcony bolted?"

The nurse seemed surprised at the question. But when she answered, it was in a calm, professional tone.

"I didn't notice. But I know it was bolted when I went out."

He turned leisurely to Floyd Garden. "I say, Garden when you left the drawing-room yesterday afternoon, to follow Swift on your errand of mercy, as it were, after he had given you his bet on Equanimity, where did you go with him?"

"I led him into the dining-room." The man was at once troubled and aggressive. "I argued with him for a while, and then he came out and went down the hall to the stairs. I watched him for a couple of minutes, wondering what else I might do about it, for, to tell you the truth, I didn't want him to listen in on the race upstairs. I was pretty damned sure Equanimity wouldn't win, and he didn't know I hadn't placed his bet. I was rather worried about what he might do. For a minute I thought of following him upstairs, but changed my mind."

Vance lowered his eyes to the desk and was silent for several moments, smoking meditatively.

"I'm frightfully sorry, and all that," he murmured at length, without looking up; "but the fact is, we don't seem to be getting any forerider. There are plausible explanations for everything and everybody. Assuming—merely as a hypothesis—that anyone here could be guilty of the murder of Swift, of the apparent attempt to murder Miss Beeton, and of the possible murder of Mrs. Garden, there is nothing tangible to substantiate an individual accusation. The performance was too clever, too well conceived, and the innocent persons seem unconsciously and involuntarily to have formed a conspiracy to aid and abet the murderer."

Vance looked up and went on.

"Moreover, nearly everyone has acted in a manner which conceivably would make him appear guilty. There have been an amazing number of accusations. Mr. Kroon was the first victim of one of those unsubstantiated accusations. Miss Graem has been pointed out to me as the culprit by several persons. Mrs. Garden last night directly accused her son. In fact, there has been a general tendency to involve various people in the criminal activities here. From the human and psychological point of view the issue has been both deliberately and unconsciously clouded, until the confusion was such that no clear-cut outline remained. And this created an atmosphere which perfectly suited the murderer's machinations, for it made detection extremely difficult and positive proof almost impossible. . . . And yet," Vance added, "some one in this room is guilty."

He rose dejectedly. I could not understand his manner: it was so unlike the man as I had always known him. All of his assurance seemed gone. Then he swung round quickly, and his eyes swept angrily about the room, resting for a brief moment on each one present.

"Furthermore," he said with a staccato stress on his words, "I know who the guilty person is!"

There was an uneasy stir in the room and a short tense silence which was broken by Doctor Siefert's cultured voice.

"If that is the case, Mr. Vance—and I do not doubt the sincerity of your statement—I think it your duty to name that person."

Vance regarded the doctor thoughtfully for several moments before answering. Then he said in a low voice: "I think you are right, sir." Again he paused and, lighting a fresh cigarette, moved restlessly up and down in front of the window. "First, however," he said stopping suddenly, "there's something upstairs I wish to look at again—to make sure. . . . You will all please remain here for a few minutes." And he moved swiftly toward the door. At the threshold he hesitated and turned to the nurse. "Please come with me, Miss Beeton, I think you can help me."

The nurse rose and followed Vance into the hall. A moment later we could hear them mounting the stairs.

Fully five minutes passed, and then the tense silence of the room was split by a woman's frenzied and terrifying cry for help, from somewhere upstairs. As we reached the hallway the nurse came stumbling down the stairs, holding with both hands to the bronze railing. Her face was ghastly pale.

"Mr. Markham! Mr. Markham!" she called hysterically. "Oh, my God! The most terrible thing has happened!"

She had just reached the foot of the stairs when Markham came up to her. She stood clutching the railing for support.

"It's Mr. Vance!" she panted excitedly. "He's—gone!"

A chill of horror passed over me, and everyone in the hall seemed stunned.

In broken phrases, interspersed with gasping sobs, the nurse was explaining to Markham.

"He went over—Oh, God, it was terrible! He said he wanted to ask me something, and led me out into the garden. He began questioning me about Doctor Siefert, and Professor Garden, and Miss Graem. And while he talked he moved over to the parapet—you remember where he stood last night. He got up there again, and looked down. I was frightened—the way I was yesterday. And then—and then—while for a few minutes. Then he spoke. "I asked all of you to stay because I felt you were entitled to an explanation of the terrible events that have taken place here, and to hear why it was necessary for me to conduct the investigation in the manner I did. To begin with, I knew from the first that I was dealing with a very shrewd and unscrupulous person."

"I was inclined to suspect Miss Beeton almost from the first, for, although everyone here had, through some act, drawn suspicion upon himself, only the nurse had the time and the unhampered opportunity to commit the initial crime. She was entirely unobserved when she put her plan into execution; and so thoroughly familiar was she with every arrangement of the household, that she had no difficulty in timing her every step so as to insure this essential privacy."

"Subsequent events and circumstances added irresistibly to my suspicion of her. For instance, when Mr. Floyd Garden informed me where the key to the vault was kept, I sent her to see if it was in its place, without indicating to her where its place was, in order to ascertain if she knew where the key hung. Only someone who knew exactly how to get into the vault at a moment's notice could have been guilty of killing Swift."

"Incidentally, one of my great difficulties in the case has been to act in such a way, at all times, that her suspicions would not be aroused at any point."

"Her motive was not clear at first," Vance explained, "and, unfortunately, I thought that by Swift's death alone she had accomplished her purpose. But after my talk with Doctor Siefert this morning, I was able to understand fully her whole hideous plot. Doctor Siefert pointed out definitely her interest in Floyd Garden, although I had had hints of it before. For instance, Floyd Garden was the only person here about whom she spoke to me with admiration. Her motive was based on a colossal ambition—the desire for financial security, ease and luxury; and mixed with this over-weening desire was a strange twisted love. These facts became clear to me only today."

Vance glanced at young Garden. "It was you she wanted," he continued. "And I believe her self-assurance was such that she did not doubt for a minute that she would be successful in attaining her goal."

Garden sprang to his feet. "Good God, Vance!" he exclaimed. "You're right. I see the thing now. She has been making up to me for a long time; and, to be honest with you, I may have said and done things which she could have construed as encouragement—God help me!" He sat down again in dejected embarrassment.

"No one can blame you," Vance said kindly. "She was one of the shrewdest women I have ever encountered. But the point of it all is, she did not want only you—she wanted the Garden fortune as well. That's why, having learned that Swift would share in the inheritance, she decided to eliminate him and leave you the sole beneficiary. But this murder did not, by any means constitute the whole of her scheme."

Vance again addressed us in general.

"Her whole terrible plot was clarified by some other facts that Doctor Siefert brought out this morning during my talk with him. The death, either now or later, of Mrs. Garden was also an important ingredient of that plot; and Mrs. Garden's physical condition had, for some time, shown certain symptoms of poisoning. Of late these symptoms have increased in intensity. Doctor Siefert informed me that Miss Beeton had been a laboratory assistant to Professor Garden during his experiments with radio-active sodium, and had often come to the apartment here for the purpose of typing notes and attending to other duties which could not conveniently be performed at the university. Doctor Siefert also informed me that she had actually entered the household here about two months ago, to take personal charge of Mrs. Garden's case. She had, however, continued to assist Professor Garden occasionally in his work and naturally had access to the radio-active sodium he had begun to produce."

Vance turned his eyes to Professor Garden.

"And you too, sir," he said, "were, as I see it, one of her intended victims. When she planned to shoot Swift I believe she planned a double murder—that is, you and Swift were to be shot at the same time. But, luckily, you had not returned to your study."

"But—but," stammered the professor, "how could she have killed me and Woody too?"

Nature Esteemed by Chinese
Nature is close to the life of every Chinese, says Nature Magazine. All the feathered folk that go to make up the finishing touches for the charm of the out-of-doors are held in high regard by the laborer, the student, the water-shop keeper. More than mere incidents in the complete scheme of all things natural and of the earth, they were long ago given a rank of high importance in Chinese literature, art, and science. Perhaps, too, that is the secret of the abundance of bird life in China, in spite of the fact that the country has suffered periodic cycles of famine and scarcity since the dawn of history. Evidently this love has been so sincere that the birds have been preserved.

Right and Wrong
Conscience is that faculty which perceives right and wrong in actions, approves or disapproves them, anticipates their consequences under the moral administration of God, and is thus either the cause of peace or of disquietude of mind.

Opportunities
There are people who would do great acts, but because they wait for great opportunities, life passes, and the acts of love are not done at all.—F. W. Robertson.

Underweight Who Feels Ill.
A physician meeting a friend on the street jokingly criticized him for allowing himself to get so fat; in fact added a little warning as to the consequences of carrying so much extra weight.
The friend quiet calmly replied, "Well, I've just been down to the hospital to see a very thin friend of mine who is confined there. As I went through the wards I had a chance to look into a few private rooms as I was passing, I didn't see any fat patients; they were all very thin."
Generally speaking thin men and thin women may live longer than those who are fat but there is a degree of leanness or underweight that carries with it nervousness, lack of energy, lack of concentration, and early fatigue. These individuals feel so weak and dispirited that they are constantly consulting not only their own physician but many others. And the strange thing is that after careful examination while there may be such simple conditions as blood pressure slightly below level, and the temperature slightly below normal, there is, in most cases, no organic condition found.
In many cases the reason these thin individuals do not feel well is because they have been born with "nerves." Other cases have acquired "nerves" because of some underlying defect in the body, or because they have been under severe strain or emotional disturbances.
Dr. E. V. McCollum in his book, "Food, Nutrition and Health," thus describes these thin patients:
"These are the restless, active, and over-conscientious people who habitually work beyond their capacity, because their strength is so limited. They worry and expect the worst. They are possessed with fear for their health, fear of failure in business or occupation, fear for the safety of family and friends. Most of them have digestive disturbances."

Silence and Speaking
By keeping silence when we ought to speak, men may be lost. By speaking when we ought to keep silence, we waste our words. The wise man is careful to do neither.—Confucius.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By REV. HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, © Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for June 27

LESSON TEXT—Hebrews 11:3-10, 17-22.
GOLDEN TEXT—These all died in faith, not having received the promises, but having seen them afar off, and were persuaded of them, and embraced them, and confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth.—Hebrews 11:13.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Honor Roll.
JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Honor Roll.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Heroes of Faith.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Faith Tested and Triumphant.

The great "heroes of the faith" chapter, Hebrews 11, provides an excellent review summary of the messages in Genesis, which we have studied during the last three months. Fittingly, the entire account, from the Creation to the hope for the future expressed by Joseph, revolves around the word "Faith." The patriarchs had many noble qualities but these were all rooted in the fundamental of all virtues, namely, that faith in God without which "it is impossible to please him" (v. 6).

Our study may well attempt no closer analysis of the text than to note the results of faith as they appear in the verses of our lesson.

I. Understanding (v. 3).
Philosophy and human reason frequently bog down in the confused bypaths of unbelief and partial knowledge, but faith cuts right through the clouds and the confusion and "understands" that God is the creator of all things. If you want to know, believe God.

II. Worship (v. 4).
The world abounds with cults and religions of almost unbelievable diversity, and of appalling insufficiency for the needs of man. Only when man does as did Abel, and worships God in accordance with God's holy law will he obtain "witness that he is righteous."

III. Fellowship (v. 5).
Here again faith triumphs. The societies and associations of man fumble around trying to establish "good will," "fellowship of faiths," and what not, only to fail. But when a man knows God as Enoch did, then he is ready for true fellowship with his brother.

IV. Assurance (v. 6).
When a man trusts God implicitly the uncertainties of life vanish. It is an easier thing to talk about than to do, but, thank God, it can be done. We must believe not only that God is, but by faith we must recognize him "as the rewarder of them that diligently seek him."

V. Salvation (v. 7).
Saved by faith—that is the story of the Christian, even as it was the story of Noah. The ark is typical of Christ. Only in him is there salvation.

VI. Obedience (vv. 8, 9).
The world has a ribald saying, "I don't know where I'm going but I'm on my way," which represents a dangerous philosophy of life. But faith in God enables one to go with Abraham who "when he was called went out, not knowing whither he went." He knew God and that was enough to call forth unquestioning obedience.

VII. Vision (v. 10).
Men of vision—that's what we need, we are told. Well, then we need men of faith who can see the unseen, who can see "a city which hath foundations" even in the midst of the wilderness.

In the fields both of secular and spiritual achievement vision has marched before victory. Carey, Judson, Livingstone, every great missionary, dreamed dreams and saw visions before they achieved lasting victories in distant lands.

VIII. Resurrection (vv. 17-19).
God gave a promise and the only means of fulfilling that promise was about to be taken away, but Abraham did not hesitate for he believed that God was able and ready to raise the dead if necessary to fulfill his promise. Have all our prospects been dashed to the ground? Is everything hopeless, humanly speaking? God is both willing and able to make all things work together for good and for his glory.

IX. Hope (vv. 20-22).
The forward look—that is the look of faith. Isaac's blessing concerned "things to come." Jacob, too weak to stand alone, leaned on his staff and worshiped, and passed on the covenant blessing. Joseph gave commandment concerning his body, looking forward to God's fulfillment of the promise.

Christian hope is not a wishful desire that an unbelievable thing may somehow occur. That is an unbelieving misuse of the word "hope." To a child of God hope means a well-grounded assurance that God will keep his word.

Underwater Treatment

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

SOMETIMES wonder whether the new methods of treatment for pain and stiffness in muscles and joints have not made us forget some of the methods used hundreds, yes thousands of years ago. There are more "pain killers" available now than ever before, many of which do excellent work in emergencies or when other methods are not suitable, and all of which get away to a great extent from the necessity of using opium.

When we think of the hot baths used so many years ago to ease pain and prevent stiffness as compared with the modern method of using pain killing drugs, the hot baths may seem crude and clumsy. However, the big point about easing pain and getting stiff joints loosened up is that the hot water allows movement without causing too much pain and increases the blood circulation in the part.

As you know objects are "lighter" under water and so the raising or movement of a crippled or sore arm or leg under water is done with less effort and pain than when out of the water.

In Europe there are many "bath" sanatoriums in charge of physicians of high standing. These physicians are called balneologists (balneo meaning bath).

What German Experts Say of It.
The Berlin correspondent of the Journal of the American Medical Association reports a paper read by Balneologist Hartel before the Berlin Medical society recording the good results obtained by the underwater method employed at Warm Springs, Ga. Films showing patients undergoing systematic exercise under water were exhibited.

At this same meeting Dr. Scholtz of the Virchow hospital in Berlin spoke of his experiments with lame persons. Movement in a crippled arm or leg is almost always first made possible by the removal of its weight in water; after the first movements, continued regular bathing and exercise increase the strength of the limb and its power to control movement. The removal of the weight of the limb because it is under water allows the patient to exert his whole power and attention on the movement instead of on the effort of the lifting of the weight of the arm or leg.

A child shown by Dr. Scholtz who had been entirely crippled by infantile paralysis had now the normal use of his limbs after receiving this treatment.

This underwater treatment should be of great help in loosening up old stiff rheumatic joints, or in injured joints where the pain of movement has brought on stiffness.

Underweight Who Feels Ill.
A physician meeting a friend on the street jokingly criticized him for allowing himself to get so fat; in fact added a little warning as to the consequences of carrying so much extra weight.
The friend quiet calmly replied, "Well, I've just been down to the hospital to see a very thin friend of mine who is confined there. As I went through the wards I had a chance to look into a few private rooms as I was passing, I didn't see any fat patients; they were all very thin."
Generally speaking thin men and thin women may live longer than those who are fat but there is a degree of leanness or underweight that carries with it nervousness, lack of energy, lack of concentration, and early fatigue. These individuals feel so weak and dispirited that they are constantly consulting not only their own physician but many others. And the strange thing is that after careful examination while there may be such simple conditions as blood pressure slightly below level, and the temperature slightly below normal, there is, in most cases, no organic condition found.
In many cases the reason these thin individuals do not feel well is because they have been born with "nerves." Other cases have acquired "nerves" because of some underlying defect in the body, or because they have been under severe strain or emotional disturbances.
Dr. E. V. McCollum in his book, "Food, Nutrition and Health," thus describes these thin patients:
"These are the restless, active, and over-conscientious people who habitually work beyond their capacity, because their strength is so limited. They worry and expect the worst. They are possessed with fear for their health, fear of failure in business or occupation, fear for the safety of family and friends. Most of them have digestive disturbances."

Household Questions
Chilling Canned Fruits.—Before placing canned fruits in the refrigerator to chill remove the paper label which acts as an insulator.
Washing Woolens.—Rinse woollens in warm water to which a little olive oil has been added. This helps to keep them soft.
Quick Mayonnaise.—The yellow part of an egg is thoroughly beaten up with a teaspoon vinegar. Add some salt and pepper. Pour oil over it and whip the mixture thoroughly. Then add two desertspoons of vinegar and one tablepoons boiling water.
Clearing the Atmosphere.—Burn a few drops of vinegar on a hot shovel for a quick way of clearing the smell of stale smoke out of a room.
Washing Linoleum.—Oilcloth and linoleum will dry with a brighter finish if a lump of sugar is dissolved in the scrubbing water.

"Wall of Windows" in Bryce Canyon Park

Towering above the floor of Bryce Canyon National park is this huge knife-like formation, a slender ridge of eroded rock, pierced by large openings. To it has been given the name "Wall of Windows." Its fantastic minaret-like top, in varying shades of red, brown and ochre, stands brilliant in the afternoon sun in silhouette against the blue sky. This is a Union Pacific railroad photograph.

THE HERALD OF MISTRESS SPRING

PETER RABBIT was sitting in the middle of the dear Old Brier Patch. Jolly, round, red Mr. Sun had just begun his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky, and Peter was wondering where he would go and what he would do when he heard a sound that caused him to suddenly sit up very straight with both ears pointing right up to the sky. Peter held his breath for a minute and then he heard it again. This time he jumped straight up in the air and kicked his heels together for joy. It was just the softest, sweetest whistle! It wasn't merry and it wasn't sad; it was just beautiful. And it seemed to come from everywhere and nowhere—just out of the air. "Winsome Bluebird!" cried Peter Rabbit. "Oh, it's Winsome Bluebird! I wonder where he is! He sounds a long way off and yet he may be close by. Oh, I do wonder if I'm the first one to hear him!" "I guess you are, Peter," said a soft voice. "I guess you are, because you see I've just arrived and I came straight to the Old Brier Patch, because I just knew that you would be looking for me and I wanted you to have the pleasure of being the first to see me. Why don't you look up in the little cherry tree over your head, Peter, and say something?"

"Oh, Winsome, I'm So Glad You've Got Here at Last; I'm So Happy I Could Sing for Joy."

Of course, Peter felt very foolish, and he looked just as he felt, as he saw Winsome Bluebird sitting right over his head. You see that soft, beautiful voice had seemed to come from everywhere, and Peter hadn't been able to tell just where it did come from.

"Oh, Winsome!" he cried. "Oh, Winsome, I'm so glad you're here at last! I'm so happy I could sing for joy!"

"Ho, ho, Peter!" laughed Winsome Bluebird. "Do try it. I should love to hear you sing."

Peter grinned. "Well, anyway, if I can't sing I can dance," he cried and right away began the funniest little dance that ever was. Finally he had to stop to get his breath. "There, that's how glad I am!" he cried. "Now tell me all the news, Winsome." "Oh, I couldn't, Peter. I couldn't tell you all. There's too much to tell and I haven't got time now. You know there are others waiting for me." "But do tell me if Mistress Spring is most here," begged Peter. "Of course she is! Don't you know I am her herald? I've come all the way up from down south just ahead of her to tell everybody that she is coming. You know, that is what a herald is for. I had rather be the herald of Mistress Spring than anything else in all the world." Winsome half lifted his beautiful blue wings as he said this.

"Don't go!" cried Peter. "I guess I know how you feel. It must be perfectly splendid to make everybody glad and happy as you do. I—I wish I could be a herald."

Winsome Bluebird laughed—the sweetest laugh. "I guess you don't need to be a herald to make people glad to see you, Peter," he said. "Besides, you know you can be sort of a herald by telling everybody you meet that I am here."

"That's so!" Peter cried. "That's one reason I like to be the first to see or hear you. It's great fun to see how pleased everybody is when they know that you have arrived. I—I hope nothing will happen to make Mistress Spring late."

PAINT AND VARNISH REMOVERS

PAINT and varnish removers do not actually remove a finish; their action is to soften the oils of a finish sufficiently to permit it to be wiped and scraped off. Liquid removers are a combination of solvents, such as wood alcohol, benzene, amyl acetate, and other liquids, usually combined with paraffin to check evaporation. Liquid removers act quickly; usually in not more than 20 minutes. By that time paint and varnish will be so softened that they can be wiped off with a rough cloth. For old paint, a second application may be necessary, and scraping with a putty knife. With liquid removers, there is no raising of the grain of wood.

The vapors of liquid varnish removers are inflammable, and care must be taken to avoid fire. I know of one case, and it was not unusual, when this was overlooked with disastrous results. Liquid varnish remover was being used to take the finish from a table. The work was being done in a small room, and as it was winter, the windows were closed. In the middle of things the worker lighted a cigarette; there was an instant flash of fire, and the house was saved from destruction only by quick work with an extinguisher.

When using a liquid remover, there should be good ventilation to carry off the vapors, and there should be no flames nearby. To avoid trouble, a liquid varnish remover should not be used in a cellar when the heater fire is burning, nor in a kitchen with a lighted coal range; with a gas range the pilot light should be put out. With ordinary and common sense precautions, liquid varnish removers can be used with complete safety.

The use of a liquid paint and varnish remover should be followed by liberal washing with turpentine to take up the paraffin.

Certain alkalis have the effect of paint removers; for example, wash-

GRAPHIC GOLF

GRIPPING THE CLUB

THERE are three ways of gripping the golf club; the overlapping, interlocking and the natural, two handed grip. In the overlapping grip the little finger of the right hand overlaps the forefinger of the left. With the interlocking grip the little finger of the right hand is interlocked with the forefinger of the left. A large number of the good golfers today employ one or the other of these grips and their value lies largely in creating better coordination of movement between the two hands.

The problem is to make the hands work as closely together as possible, to eliminate any tendency toward friction between the two. Good golf is a matter of smooth stroking and there is trouble enough along the swing's path without handicapping the stroke at the start. There are craftsmen in every field who grip the tools differently and golf is no exception. Two of the greatest golfers of this era, Bobby Jones and Gene Sarazen, used different grips, the former overlapping and the latter, interlocking. Most of the good golfers of the present day possess large hands and this makes the problem of which of these two grips to use comparatively simple for both are suitable for big hands and long fingers. Among the rank and file of players, however, there are many with small hands and stubby fingers. Women in particular have a natural handicap in small hands and to overcome this the two handed grip is used. The hands placed on the club in the manner illustrated above, cover a good portion of the shaft and if held on the light side will co-operate together well. Many champions of the past have used this grip. The point to remember is that the hands must work in both directions equally well.

JUST GO FISHIN'

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WHEN the world is lookin' bluer Then you ever saw her, knew her, When you only stumble through her Day by day. When you think you're weary of her, Banker, worker, lawyer, lover, There's a way you can recover Right away. When discouraged and disgusted, When you're practically busted, There's a way to git adjusted And to smile: From your cares and competition Take a little intermission, Jump the joint, and just go fishin' For awhile. Why, ya great big mastadon ya, When your girl has gone back on ya, As she ought to do, doggone ya, You're so mean, When you're troubled in the gizzard, When you're sick from A to Izzard, When you look just like a lizard, Blue and green, Then to cure each ache and shiver, And to regulate your liver, Row a boat, or wade a river For a mile— Yes, to feel the old ambition And to git back in condition, Jump the joint, and just go fishin' For awhile!

THE LANGUAGE OF YOUR HAND

By Leicester K. Davis
© Public Ledger, Inc.

TO THE expert palmist, the third finger is one of the most informative of the major elements of the hand. The first finger, you know, is a general index of power and purpose. The second finger likewise reveals the kind of conscious and subconscious thought through which the inner self finds expression. The third finger, which we are now to consider, denotes with equal accuracy the outlets through which ambition and thought can most successfully combine for manifestation.

Attributes of the Third Finger. You may look to the third or Finger of Brilliance, as it is called, for evidence of the creative faculties or lack of them. Remember that the word "creative" is not used solely in the artistic sense.

This finger may be broadly classified into six types. The first of these is the Normal Finger of Brilliance, which is moderate in length, straight and rather smoothly knuckled, and evenly spaced between the second and fourth fingers when the hand is opened wide. This is the third finger of the average everyday man or woman who possesses a normal amount of the creative faculty.

ing soda, trisodium phosphate, and lye. Of these, lye has the great disadvantage of being injurious to wood fibers, and should be used only when this effect is of no importance. Washing soda and trisodium phosphate dissolved in water in the proportion of 1 to 3 pounds to the gallon are usually satisfactory. They may have the effect of raising the grain of wood, which calls for sandpapering after the wood has dried.

WILBUR SHAW.

Gumdipped cords PROVIDE THE EXTRA MARGIN OF SAFETY ON THE SPEEDWAY OR THE HIGHWAY

THOUSANDS said that tires could not stand the terrific grind. They said cars had been built with much greater speed, turns in the track had been repaved with granite-like surface, yet Wilbur Shaw drove to victory on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires setting a new record of 113.58 miles per hour on one of the hottest days in the history of the Indianapolis track.

Think of the terrific impact on these tires as the cars roared into the treacherous turns and out again. Tons of force straining, pulling, and twisting inside the tire, yet not one cord loosened, not one tread separated from the cord body—all because Gum-Dipping, the Firestone patented process, successfully counteracted the internal friction and heat that ordinarily destroy tire life.

You will never drive your car at these record-breaking speeds, but for the safety of yourself and family you need the safest, strongest and most dependable tires. See your nearby Firestone Dealer or Firestone Auto Supply and Service Store. Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires—the safest tires that money can buy.

DON'T RISK YOUR LIFE ON THIN WORN TIRES

No car owner is going to risk his life and the lives of his family knowingly on thin worn tires.

Early Superstitions
Elizabethan England believed in omens, generally bad ones. One's own body gave many a warning: "By the pricking of my thumbs, something wicked this way comes." Dreams were warnings sent by God. A nose-bleed meant something or other. The howl of a dog, the hoot of an owl, the dismal note of a raven, all presaged ill.
Village Claims Record
Old Romeny is taking a bow as the village where they are fewer weddings and funerals than in any other part of England. They have had only one bride there in the last five years, and during the last two years only one person has died.

The Term Tree Claim
The tree claim term applies to an old law concerning homesteaders in the Northwest. They were allowed to file a claim on 160 acres and if they would plant 20 acres of trees they could double their claim.
Noted for Oysters, Sieges
Bergen-op-Zoom, an old Dutch town, is noted for its oysters and the sieges against it.

Mrs. Mary Scarlett, who spent the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Ray King, at Prudenville, has returned home. Mrs. King accompanied her mother, home and remained here for several days.
The death of Mrs. Martha Murray marks the passing of another of the County's pioneers. Mrs. Murray, then Martha Short, visited friends in Grant township fifty-five years ago. The journey was made from Reno to Grant by oxen. In recent years she has been a frequent visitor at the Robert Watts home. Her pleasant smile and friendly manner will long be remembered. Her friends in Grant extend sympathy to the bereaved family.
