"Humanizing" the Majority

A S MAJORITY members of congress met on Jefferson island in Chesapeake bay with President Roosevelt, to have their relations

The spark which touched off the latest cloakroom whisperings of a third President term was the dec-

Roosevelt laration by Gov. George H. Earle of Pennsylvania that he would give "unqualified and final" support to a Roosevelt - for - President movement in 1940. Further reports had it that John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization and leader of the sit-down strikes that have swept the nation, was working toward the same end. The President has only indirectly disavowed such an ambition. He said at his victory dinner:

'My great ambition on January 20, 1941, is to turn over this desk and chair in the White House to my successor, whoever he may be, with the assurance that I am at the same time turning over to him as President a nation intact, a nation at peace, a nation prosperous . . .

The "humanizing" on Jefferson island was interpreted as attempts to salvage the New Deal programs, which have been getting a mild kicking around in congress of late, through heart - to - heart talks between Mr. Roosevelt and his supporters in the Capitol.

Several pieces of attempted legislation, most notably the President's Supreme court bill, have apparently created a split between the conservatives and liberals in the Democratic party. The President's continued silence throughout the C. I. O. strikes has been a factor, too. Democratic members of congress are puzzled to decide whether the President is unwittingly bringing about the split, or is doing so deliberately with an eye | Committee for Industrial Organizato freezing out the conservatives and creating a completely liberal party. They would also like to know whether he is silently supporting John L. Lewis or is simply giving the C. I. O. leader plenty of rope with which to hang himself.

States Patrol Strike Areas

A S NATIONAL guardsmen, ordered out by Gov. Martin L. Davey, arrived on the scene to protect the public peace in Ohio cities where C. I. O. steel strikes have caused bloodshed and threatened more, violence dwindled, temporarily at least, to the throwing of a few stones and choice epithets.

At Warren, troops dispersed pickets and allowed loyal workmen to move in and out of the Republic Steel plants. A general strike which the C. I. O. had ordered and claimed to be 40 to 70 per cent effective was recalled after a day, with the threat, "The next time our men are called out, it will be on even a larger scale."

At Youngstown the strikers were celebrating the order by which several hundred state troops were forcing the four plants of Republic and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube company to remain closed. Then Gov. Davey reversed his order, commanding troops to keep the plants

The Popular Front government was one of the bulwarks of leftist tendencies in Europe, as opposed to extreme Fascism, and openly ex-pressed its sympathy for the Spanish loyalists. Its passing is extremely important in international affairs.

The Mail Must Go Through

FEDERAL warrants were issued at Cleveland for six C. I. O. leaders in the strike at Youngstown and Warren, charging them with preventing delivery of the United States mails to loyal employees of the steel company plants there. Their names were not re-

The order for the obtaining of the warrant was given by Attorney-General Homer S. Cummings after he had looked over testimony at the senate post office committee's hearing. Charges have been made that C. I. O. leaders were censoring the mail in Ohio cities and refusing to permit delivery of parcel post packages containing food, clothing and other "irregular" articles for workers in the plants.

"All mail that the post office department sees fit to attempt to deliver must be delivered," said Cummings. This did not conflict with the post office department's refusal to deliver packages to the plants, but sought to prosecute persons who would prevent the delivery of mail the department had okayed.

"Terrible Resurrection" By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

70U know, boys and girls, there are all kinds of fear. Some of I them are worse than others, and the fear that comes on you when death is staring you right in the eye comes pretty close to being the worst of them all. But there is one kind of fear that is worse than even the terror of approaching destruction.

Martin J. Colbert, Chicago, had a taste of that sort of terror oncethe kind of fear that has been known to make men's minds crack and turn them into gibbering idiots. Mart had an experience with the ghastly unknown. He saw the impossible happen.

He saw something that couldn't be explained except as the horrible manifestation of some ghostly supernatural hand. He saw a row of lives in their hands and delivered dead and buried corpses start rising from their grave!

It was a thing terrifying enough to make hardened men drop senseless from sheer fright. It shook Mart Colbert to the very marrow of his bones. All this happened in 1902, along about the end of June. For several years Mart had been in South Africa, fighting with the British forces in the Boer war.

Solemn Duty Precedes Big Celebration.

When peace was declared at the end of May, 1902, he was a soldier in the Fifth R. I. Lancers, a cavalry regiment, stationed about fifty miles from its depot at Naawport, Cape Colony.

When the good news was received, the Lancers packed up and started back to their depot, and when they arrived there it was announced that they had two weeks in which to clean up and rest, and get ready for one last job they would have to do before returning to England. That job was to bring in the dead, scattered in temporary graves throughout the country, for reburial in a military cemetery.

The two-week rest period passed all too quickly and Mart was detailed to a squad consisting of himself, three other privates and a sergeant, commanded by Lieutenant Cooper.

They proceeded to a point about fifteen miles from Naawport, where the Lancers had been in action some time before, and where a number of their men had fallen and were buried.

The Kind of Work That Raises Goose-Flesh.

Arriving at the spot, the men started to work at their grisly and unpleasant job. It was open country, and there was an abandoned farmhouse about a quarter of a mile away.

The lieutenant carried a rough map, made in the field, which showed where all the dead of the regiment were buried, and he pointed out the graves which were to be dug up.

It was the sort of work that gave the men the jitters. They dug up the bodies of two of their old buddies, but none of them relished the job, many women and As they took the second man out of his grave, one of the men discovered a third grave close by. It was a wide grave-much wider than the other. When it was pointed out to the lieutenant he said it looked as if several Fascists moved in, parading jubi- bodies were buried there together.

He looked on his map, but this grave didn't appear on it. Whatever for Gen. Francisco Franco, not a was underneath that broad mound, it was evident that it contained none shot was fired. The last defenders of the Lancers' dead. But in order to be on the safe side, the lieutenant had fled toward Santander, 45 miles ordered the men to dig up that grave as they had dug up the others.

Their Eyes Couldn't Believe What They Saw.

It was that grave which was to give Mart and his buddies the most terrible fright of their lives.

The men were taking turns with the spades. Two men at a time went down into the graves to do the digging. Mart and another fellow had dug down the first couple of feet, and now two other men were in

Mart, another private, Sergeant Kirby and the lieutenant were standing at the edge of the pit, watching the others work. The two diggers had when he knocked out Champion worked their way down to about a level of four feet below the ground. Their spades were working rhythmically, tossing out one scooping of in the eighth round of a scheduled earth after another.

Mart was looking at the bottom of the grave, when suddenly, his whole body stiffened. The other men saw it too.

The earth at the bottom of the grave began to move. Dirt and stones fell aside, and a row of long buried corpses-hardly more than skeletons-began pushing their way up out of the ground!

Strong Men Fainted in Terror.

Down in the grave, the two diggers dropped-unconscious from sheer terror. Mart, with the icy hand of fear clutching at him, turned and ran. The rest of the men did likewise.

AS A congressional committee opened hearings on tax evasion No sensation Mart has ever known could quite equal that strange, and avoidance by wealthy citizens, horrible feeling that came over him at the sight of those long-dead skele-Secretary of the Treasury Morgentons pushing their way up through the earth at the bottom of their comthau was among the first to testify.

Washington.—Two actions of sections of the congress lately deserve more than ordinary attention.

Makes News One of these was probably as courageous a position as any group of senators ever has taken. The other action-by majority of the housewas shot through with the utmost cowardice and selfishness.

Lately, a group of senators, nearly all Democrats, took their political to the senate a report from its judiciary committee advising defeat of President Roosevelt's proposal to add six new justices of his own choosing to the Supreme court of the United States.

In my time in Washington, I believe I can say without qualification, there never has been a committee action in the house or senate in which the President, as the leader of the dominant party, received such a castigation on a legislative proposal as was given Mr. Roosevelt by Democrats who constituted the majority of the senate judiciary committee. They did not mince words in any respect. Whatever may be the merit of Mr. Roosevelt's proposal to add six justices of his own choosing to the highest court, the majority report of the judiciary committee left no stone unturned in disclosing objections to the proposal as opponents of the court reorganization scheme see them.

Almost on the same day that senate Democrats were, in effect, breaking or revolting from the President's leadership, the Democratic majority in the house killed off a proposal for new taxes in the District of Columbia that would have resulted in taxing the salaries of representatives and senators and their office staffs. They were brazen about it. They were not going to vote an income tax upon themselves and they made no effort to conceal their reasons for refusing to accept the recommendations of a special tax subcommittee which was acting for the permanent committee in the house of the District of Columbia.

The District of Columbia committee, examining the budget for the seat of the federal government, was confronted with a deficit in the district finances and instructed its tax subcommittee to develop new sources of revenue in order that the District of Columbia might not get into debt. Among the taxes proposed was a tax on income of residents of the District of Columbia, which is synonymous with Washington, and it provided for taxing earnings here whether the person who earned the income was a resi- of the President's proposal. At this dent of the capital city or not. That was too much. The majority in the house of representatives just | proposition. could not take it. They voiced their objections openly and, being superior in numbers to those who believed that income in the District of Columbia should be taxed, they forced the tax bill back to the District of Columbia committee for revision. Indeed, they went further. The line of criticism of an income tax that would touch the sacred salaries of congressmen and senators was such as to have the effect of forcing the committee to bring in a tax bill that would increase the tax on property in the federal area. Now, it is a fact that few members of the house and a very small number of senators have bought residences in Washington. They usually live in apartments or hotels or lease homes for the period that congress is in session. Consequently, a real estate tax will not concern most of the representatives and senators.

The indictment brought against the President's court plan by the senate judiciary Court Plan committee was Report quite unusual in many respects.

In the first instance, it was approximately fifteen thousand words in length; being in that regard probably the longest and most comprehensive analysis that any congressional committee ever has made of a piece of legislation. Certainly, it is the most extensive examination to be included in a committee report in the last quarter of a century.

Every argument advanced by the administration in support of the plan was picked to pieces and held up to public gaze; every possible reason for expansion of the court by the addition of six new justices was scrutinized and denounced and, then, the committee put forth some of its own ideas.

"It applies force to the judiciary," the committee said in a sentence that constituted one paragraph and thereby was emphasized.

"The only argument for the increase which survives analysis," the report added, "is that congress should enlarge the court so as to make the policies of this administration effective."

The bill was found by the seven Democrats and three Republicans who constituted a majority of the senate judiciary committee, to be "a needless, futile and utterly dangerous abandonment of constitutional principle." It charged that the "American system" of independence of the courts would be violated and that if the bill were to be enacted into law, "political control" over the judiciary branch of the government would pass into the hands of the President.

With the presentation of this terrific attack on the bill to the senate, a second unusual circumstance developed. Those Democrats who were opposed to the President's proposal decided to go about the job of fighting the measure on the floor in a manner seldom seen in the congress. These opponents from the Democratic ranks got together and chose Senator Wheeler of Montana as leader of the Democratic opposition to the Democratic President's court revision program. They gave him full authority to act, including the selection of a steering committee, a committee on strategy, to aid him.

Thus, in the senate now we have three major leaders. Senator Wheeler will speak for the court opposition; Senator Robinson of Arkansas as the leader of the Democratic party in the senate will lead the fight for passage of the court bill; and Senator McNary of Oregon will head up the Republicans as usual. Since all of the Republicans and Independents excepting only Senator La Follette, Progressive, of Wisconsin, are opposed to the court revision plan, Senator McNary and Senator Wheeler are working hand in glove against the regular Democratic line-up headed by Senator Robinson.

It appears that the President is going to be badly defeated on this piece of legislation, but it is too early to be sure. Mr. Roosevelt is a powerful figure and he has political knowledge that must be described as remarkable. He has with him in the senate some exceedingly able political strategists. It is thus a battle of wits,

Mr. Roosevelt has said several times that he will accept no compromises. There is a very definite feeling at the Capitol, however, that the President will be glad to have a compromise if he can get one and save the bill from complete wreckage. On the other hand, Senator Wheeler and his strategy committee have announced in no uncertain terms that they will defeat the bill or any compromise that is offered. Time alone can answer the question of what will come out writing, the odds certainly are against the President on the

Speaking of taxes and the selfishness that was evident in the house action, as men-Hunt Tax tioned earlier, Evaders calls to mind the investigation by the joint house and senate committee that is now under way. This committee, made up of five representatives and five senators has begun a search to find out how taxpayers avoid taxes or reduce the amounts they would otherwise have to pay by various trick schemes. The committee has been given fifty thousand dollars with which to make the investigation and it is receiving able assistance from Under Secretary Roswell Magill and other Treasury experts on taxation.

Contrary to the outlook when Mr. Roosevelt released a vicious attack on tax dodgers and tax avoiders. this committee is getting down to real business and there is every reason to believe it will be able to recommend to congress changes in the law that will stop some of the schemes and tricks to which large taxpayers have resorted.

I have sat in on a number of the hearings thus far, including the opening session when Secretary Morgenthau made the opening statement and disclosed to the satisfaction of everyone that he was not conversant with the problem at hand. Like the President, Mr. Morgenthau attempted to place the tax problem confronting the government on moral grounds. His statement did not click with the committee at all. With two or three exceptions, the committee members recognized the problem as purely a question of law and Senator Pat Harrison, Democrat of Mississippi, vice chairman, said that there was no point in making the investigation "a Roman holiday." Therefore, the thing settled down very quickly to an earnest study of cases where men have resorted to various kinds of subterfuges of law, to reduce their tax liability.

In this connection, it seemed to me that too much credit cannot be given Under Secretary Magill who apparently is anxious to get to the bottom of the problem.

They do say the new NRA bill, as drawn by the Gallagher and Shean of the administration, Messrs. Corcoran and Cohen, is more sweeping than

Dean-Frick Battle

Has Made Cardinals More Serious Outfit

No DOUBT the real facts in the case are merely that Dizzy Dean has recently happened to have some of his best days while ill-luck has been continuing its overdue catching up with Carl Hubbell.

Maybe that isn't the whole explanation, though. Certainly a change has come over the Cards' dugout since the St. Louis representatives were training in Florida and since the season opened.

During the training period Frankie Frisch's young men were more concerned with the lighter aspects of life than with the business of baseball. Having read in the newspapers that they were due to win a pennant they let it go at that and devoted their more diligent attention to guitar concerts on street corners. Once the National league season had started there was no greater concern over frequent defeats. Somehow the athletes seemed to believe that such rebuffs could not happen to them in real life and that they would wake up almost any morning to find they merely had been victims of bad dreams.

Captain Leo Durocher, having played with a Yankee team or two that similarly misplaced its confidence over a portion of the season, was one of the few who had a correct line on the situation.

"Yeah, we've got a good team but it's a young one," he explained when the Cards were moving blithely and none too adeptly through their early season exercises. "A team like that can win a pennant and it also can finish away down with the Dodgers. It's all how the breaks fall or, rather, how things click. Something's got to wake us up and start us going. What? How do I know? How does any one know? Those things just happen.

"Remember that time in Cleveland when Mike Gazella, just a substitute, practically browbeat a Yankee team into snapping out of it and grabbing the flag? Nobody told CATTERED along the Atlantic coast region from Boston to St. him to do it. He just happened to Augustine are countless historic touch off the spark when too many old brick structures invested with great players were feeling low or the glamour of romance, of stirring acting careless. Something similar adventure, of heroic sacrifice and can happen to us. Then watch."

Viewing the Cards in the dugout try, but nowhere is one instinctively | before a game recently, I rememmoved to bare his head in a sin- bered that conversacere reverence so much as in Inde- tion. The collection pendence hall, where more than 150 of babbling, careyears ago a handful of patriots free young men who dared the wrath of Great Britain were more concerned with carrying on feuds among themselves than with doing serious damage to the opposition a month ago had changed. The Cards were not the hard - bitten Gas House Gangsters of two or three seasons ago but neither were they joy-riding youths. More than anything they were like the Giants who sat in the dugout across from them. Serious athletes, that is. Young men not given to too much carryings on but intent upon giving the fans who crowded the stands a fair-break for the attention lavished upon them.

Even Dean, ordinarily a gentleman who could give a ten-mile start to Tennyson's famed brook in any babbling contest, was as silent as Hubbell across the way. Only once in the 30 minutes immediately preceding game time was there anything like the celebrated Dean wit and humor. Then some stranger intruded to ask for the classic Dean signature on a baseball.

"Shucks," was the reply then. 'Get away, man. The only way I'll sign anything with that guy's name on it is with a bat."

Since the name of Ford Frick, president of the National league and the recent spanker of Mr. Dean, is prettily written on all the league baseballs before they leave the factory, there seemed no doubt about who "that guy" was. Also the chorused amens which followed this fervent announcement seem now to indicate what has converted the Cards into a team.

Definitely, the St. Louis representatives continue to chafe under the reprimand of the league president who was only doing his duty. Frick quite the objects of popular adoration that some of them had conceived themselves to be. Since the truth hurts worse than anything else the young men were bound to get

Dean pitched as he can pitch when he remembers he is no longer a barefooted kid in an Arkansas cotton patch. The Cards played the ball of which they are capable.

Idea of Some Astronomers Some astronomers regard the Milky Way as the plane of a spiral nebula, with the earth located in one of the arms.

Wasps sleep soundly in the dark and are sluggish on a cloudy day. Unlike other insects, when they are awake they breath by a noticeable "telescoping" of the abdomen back and forth. When they are asleep they breathe like other insects, by a slow, molecular diffusion of air already in the tracheae. The first activity of a wasp after waking is to resume the telescope type of breathing.

GARDEN MURDER CASE

"The disconnected buzzer wires gave me the answer this morning," explained Vance. "Her scheme was both simple and bold. She knew that, if she followed Swift upstairs before the big race, she would have no difficulty in enticing him into the vault on some pretext or otherespecially in view of the fact that he had shown a marked interest in her. Her intention was to shoot him in the vault, just as she did, and then go into the study and shoot you. Swift's body would then have been placed in the study, with the revolver in his hand. It would appear like murder and suicide. As for the possibility of the shot in the study being heard downstairs, I imagine she had tested that out beforehand under the very conditions obtaining yesterday afternoon. Personally, I am of the opinion that a shot in the study could not be heard down here during the noise and excitement of a race broadcast, with the study door and windows shut. For the rest, her original plan would have proceeded just as her revised one did. She would merely have fired two blanks out of the bedroom window instead of one. In the event that you should have guessed her intent when she entered the study, and tried to sum-mon help, she had previously disconnected the wires of the buzzer just behind your chair at the desk." "But, good Lord!" exclaimed Floyd Garden in an awed tone. "It was she herself who told Sneed about the buzzer being out of or-

"Precisely. She made it a point to be the one to discover that fact, in order to draw suspicion entirely away from herself." Vance paused. After a moment he went on.

"As I say, her plan had to be revised somewhat because Doctor Garden had not returned. She had chosen the Rivermont Handicap as the background for her maneuvers, for she knew Swift was placing a large bet on the race-and if he lost, it would give credence to the theory of suicide. In a way, Doctor Garden's absence helped her, though it required quick thinking on her part to cover up this unexpected gap in her well-laid plans. Instead of placing Swift in the study, as she originally intended, she placed him in his chair on the roof. She carefully wiped up the blood in the vault from sponges, instruments, operating table and floor, would have known how. Then she came down and fired a blank shell out of the bedroom window just as soon as the outcome of the race had been declared official. Substantiatin' sui-

"Of course, one of her chief diffi-culties was the disposal of the second revolver-the one she fired down here. She was confronted with the necessity either of getting rid of the revolver—which was quite impossible in the circumstances—or of hiding it safely till she could remove it from the apartment; for there was always the danger that it might be discovered and the whole technique of the plot be revealed. Since she was the person apparently least under suspicion, she probably considered that placing it temporarily in the pocket of her own topcoat, would be sufficiently safe. It was not an ideal hidingplace; but I have little doubt that she was frustrated in an attempt to hide it somewhere on the roof or on the terrace upstairs, until she could take it away at her convenience without being observed. She had no opportunity to hide the revolver upstairs after we had first gone to the roof and discovered Swift's body. However, I think it was her intention to do just this when Miss Weatherby saw her on the stairs and resentfully called my attention to the fact."

"But why," asked Professor Gar-len, "didn't she fire the revolver upstairs in the first place-it would tertainly have made the shot sound more realistic—and then hide it in he garden before coming down?"

"My dear sir! That would have peen impossible, as you can readily see. How would she have got back lownstairs? We were ascending the tairs a few seconds after we heard he shot, and would have met her coming down. She could, of course, have come down by the public stairs and re-entered the apartment at the front door without being seen; but in that event she could not have established her presence down here at the time the shot was firedand this was of utmost importance to her. When we reached the foot of the stairs, she was standing in the doorway of Mrs. Garden's bedroom, and she made it clear that the had heard the shot. It was, of course, a perfect alibi, provided the technique of the crime had not been revealed by the evidence she left in the vault . . . No. The shot could not have been fired upstairs. The only place she could have fired it and still have established her alibi, was out of the bedroom window." He turned to Zalia Graem.

"Now do you see why you felt so definitely that the shot did not sound as if it came from the garden? It was because, being in the den, you were the person nearest to the shot when it was fired and could more or less accurately gauge the direction from which it came. I'm sorr, I could not explain that fact to you when you mentioned it, but Miss Beeton was in the room, and it was not then the time to reveal my knowledge to her.'

There was another brief silence in

"But, Mr. Vance," put in Doctor Siefert, frowning, "your theory of the case does not account for the attempt made on her own life."

Vance smiled faintly. "There was no attempt on her life, Doctor. When Miss Beeton left the study, a minute or so after Miss Graem, to take my message to you, she went instead into the vault, shut the door, making sure this time that the lock snapped, and gave herself a superficial blow on the back of the head. She had reason to believe, of course, that it would be but a short time before we looked for her; and she waited till she heard the key in the lock before she broke the vial of bromin. It is possible that when she went out of the study she had begun to fear that I might have some idea of the truth, and she enacted this little melodrama to throw me off the track.'

Siefert had leaned forward and was studying Vance closely.

"As a theory, that may be logical," he said with skeptical gravi-"But, after all, it is only a theory."

Vance shook his head slowly. "Oh, no, doctor. It's more than a theory. Miss Beeton herself-and in your presence-gave the whole thing away. Not only did she lie to us, but she contradicted herself when you and I were on the roof and she was recovering from the effects of the bromin gas-effects. incidentally, which she was able to exaggerate correctly as the result of her knowledge of medicine."

"But I don't recall-" tor, you remember the story she told us. According to her voluntary account of the episode, she was struck on the head and forced into the vault; and she fainted immediately as the result of the bromin gas; then the next thing she knew was that she was lying on the settee in the garden, and you and I were standing over her."

"That is quite correct," Siefert said, frowning at Vance. "And I am sure you also remember, doctor, that she looked up at me and thanked me for having brought her out into the garden and saved her, and also asked me how I came to find her so soon. If she had been unconscious, as she said, from the time she was forced into the vault to the time she spoke to us in the garden, how could she pos- to the rings on the front of my so that no trace of it remained on sibly have known who it was that leather vest without her seeing me the floor. A nurse with operatingroom experience in removing blood the vault? And how could she have as she talked, but for a minute or the vault? And how could she have as she talked, but for a minute or she had entered the vault? . . . You see, doctor, she was never unconscious at all; she was taking no chances whatever of dying of bromin gas.'

Siefert relaxed and leaned back in his chair with a faint wry smile. 'You are perfectly right, Mr. Vance.'

"But," Vance continued, "even had Miss Beeton not made the mistake of lying to us so obviously, there was other proof that she alone was concerned in that episode. Mr. Hammle here conclusively bore out my opinion. When she told us her story of being struck on the head and forced into the vault, she did not know that Mr. Hammle had been in the garden observing everyone who came and went in the passageway. And she was alone in the corridor at the time of the supposed attack. Miss Graem, to be sure, had just passed her and gone downstairs; and the nurse counted on that fact to make her story sound plausible, hoping, of course, that it would produce the effect she was striving for-that is, to make it appear that Miss Graem had attacked her."

Vance smoked in silence for a moment. "As for the radio-active sodium, doctor, Miss Beeton had been administering it to Mrs. Garden, content with having her die slowly of its cumulative effects. But Mrs. Garden's threat to erase her son's name from her will necessitated immediate action, and the resourceful girl decided on an overdose of the barbital last night. She foresaw, of course, that this death could easily be construed as an accident or as another suicide. As it happened, however, things were even more propitious for her, for the events of last night merely cast further suspicion on Miss Graem.

"From the first I realized how difficult, if not impossible, it would be to prove the case against Miss Beeton; and during the entire investigation I was seeking some means of trapping her. With that end in view, I mounted the parapet last night in her presence, hoping that it might suggest to her shrewd and cruel mind a possible means of removing me from her path, if she became convinced that I had guessed too much. My plan to trap her was, after all, a simple one. I asked you all to come here this evening, not as suspects, but to fill the necess'ry roles in my drama." Vance sighed deeply before con-

"I arranged with Sergeant Heath to equip the post at the far end of the garden with a strong steel wire such as is used in theaters for flying and levitation acts. This wire was to be just long enough to reach as far as the height of the balcony on this floor. And to it was attached the usual spring catch which fastens to the leather equipment worn by the performer. This equipment consists of a heavy cowhide vest resembling in shape and cut the old Ferris waist worn by young Vance checked him. "Surely, doc- girls in pre-Victorian Lays, and even later. This afternoon Sergeant Heath brought such a leather vest or what is technically known ha theatrical circles as a 'flying corset'-to my apartment, and I put it on before I came here.

"This waistcoat, or corset," he said, "is worn under the actor's costume; and in my case I put on a loose tweed suit today so that the slightly protruding rings in front would not be noticeable.

"When I took Miss Beeton upstairs with me, I led her out into the garden and confronted her with her guilt. While she was protesting, I mounted the parapet, standing there with my back to her, ostensibly looking out over the city, as I had done last evening. In the semi-darkness I snapped the wire known that I found her soon after so I was afraid she would not take advantage of the situation. Then, in the middle of one of her sentences, she lurched toward me with both hands outstretched, and the impact sent me over the parapet. It was a simple matter to swing myself over the balcony railing. I had arranged for the drawing-room door to be unlatched, and I merely disconnected the suspension wire, walked in, and appeared in the hallway. When Miss Beeton learned that I had witnesses to her act, as well as a photograph of it, she realized that the game was up."

son's mode to be seen in the beguiling and flattering ruffled lingerie touches given to costumes, the whisper of taffeta underslips and the seductive charm of sheerest of sheer fabrics for daytime, afternoon and evening wear. Of all the very lovely sheers on the summer fabric program there's none more lovely than the entrancing printed organdies. These dainty crisp cool-looking and cool-feeling gaily flowered Swiss organdies are the very embodiment of the new elegance and femininity that so distinguishes current fashion.

The fact that they are so enchanting, so lovely tells their story of allure only in part, for after all is said and done it is their utter practicality that offers the big appeal. With the permanent finish and fast color given to the new Swiss organdies you can depend upon them surviving endless tubbings, retaining their crisp vitality and handsome color tones the entire life of your frock.

The exciting variety of new finishings and new patternings given to organdies this season has greatly enhanced them in the eyes of designers who are launching a new vogue for tailored effects as well as the dressier-type costumes. The new matelasse organdie is especially attracting attention. These smart matelasse weaves come in most any coloring and patterning from multi-color florals to smaller geometric figures and fascinating dotted prints that tailor to perfection in attractive one and two-piece frocks such as are ideal for warm weather wear. With dark backgrounds they especially tune to street wear and to costumes for active moments the whole day through as their crinkled finish requires little or no pressing.

The distinctive daytime frock centering the fashions pictured, demonstrates the adaptability of organ-lie in the new cloque or matelasse finish for practical wear. The novelty patterning of this organdie is done in red, blue, green and white dots against a black background. Self-fabric applique in unique design on plain white organdie ornaments the short puffed sleeves and shoulder yoke, also banding the edge of a separate full-cut overskirt that has been cleverly contrived so it may be also worn as a cape if you feel an urge to wear it that way.

For comfort and joy supreme there's nothing more to be coveted than a beflowered print organdie done in exotic colorings. The summer fabric showings are playing up some of the most fascinating flowerprinted organdies eyes ere beheld. That pretty-pretty frock to the right in the illustration is made of crisp and dainty floral printed permanent finish Swiss organdie. Given a simple tailored styling it makes a very practical daytime dress as well as a very attractive one. The selffabric saw-tooth edging at neckline and sleeves adds a voguish finish.

Glamorous is the word for the new organdie evening gowns. In youthful party frocks or in romantic trailing sophisticated styles, they run the gamut of color and fabric finish from dainty allover embroidery cutout patterns to pastels in brilliant floral patterns and striking flocked embroidery designs. For the beguiling evening frock shown to the left the designer uses crystalclear organdie in white with a flocked floral motif in vivid red. DOTTED LAWN

Fashion seems never to get tired of dots. This season more than ever dotted effects are playing a most important role in the fabric realm. Daytime costumes tailored of sheer dotted materials are featured in dark tones that are practical. Navy, black, burgundy, brown, copen, green, with tiny white dots are proving big sellers. Clean cut, cool as a breeze, is the suit of dotted lawn as here shown. Its linen collar and pocket flaps are scalloped. Being sanforized shrunk it can be successfully tubbed time and time again.

The "record" is down in black and white—you hold today's record in your hand—it is this newspaper. This is a record that cannot die—that cannot be erased. For your newspaper is a record of fact!

Here is recorded exactly what was said and done by presidents and kings, by senator leaders and congressmen. More important, the newspaper interprets what it all means to you.

Losing Weight by Emotions

DR. JAMES W. BARTON © Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

MIDDLE-AGED woman A consulted her physician regarding her overweight. She had weighed 130 pounds when she was married, gradually increased in weight to 140 pounds, had passed the menopause without much gain in weight, but now, five years later, was rapidly accumulating weight, weighing 165 pounds.

Knowing the patient well, the physician stated that the weight was increasing because she had no worries— both children happily married, her husband well and filling about, you would lose instead of gaining weight." He suggested that what she needed was a hobby-something to engage her time and energy, that she engage in some form of welfare work where she could see some of the misery of many unfortunates; see how careless fathers, and sometimes mothers, were themselves responsible for the distress of the home; see how, despite the industry and intelligence of some individuals, life had been very hard on them—sickness, loss of employment and other conditions.

"When you see some of these people and their homes, you are going to be very angry at times, filled with pity at other times, but always you'll meet something that will make you mad, make you anxious, make you eat less and sleep less as your thoughts dwell on the sights of the day.

Distress Eats Up Fat.

Research workers have been able to show that emotional distressanger, rage, fear-eat up fat; and so reduce weight because they interfere with two of the main causes of overweight-eating and sleeping.

"A small cat was put into a cage, with a big dog in the cage adjoining. The dog barked, growled, and raged when he found he could not reach the cat. The cat, of course, became terrified as the dog's fury increased. Both lost weight rapid-

The trouble in trying to reduce this method is that they are "slow to anger." They are not so easily irritated or enraged as those of normal weight. Fortunately there seems to be in all of us a desire to keep young, to keep our shape or figure, and it is the fear of losing shape or figure that drives men and women to the reducing diets.

Now it is not recommended that if you wish to reduce weight your family should try to keep you enraged, frightened, or infuriated. It is a great asset in these days to be able to keep the mind calm and restful. But, as a matter of fact, many individuals have been able to reduce by having the mind made active, not by rage or fury, but by some helpful mental occupation aside from their regular work. They have developed a "hobby."

A little less food, a little less sleep, and a hobby that will mean a little extra activity of body and mind will gradually take off the Pain in Abdomen of Children.

Parents and physicians sometimes notice that a number of children between the ages of five and twelve complain of discomfort or pain in the abdomen that seems to be present all the time. There is usually constipation, a tired-out feeling with loss of appetite. As a youngster at these ages should be full of life and always hungry, there must be some real reason for these symptoms.

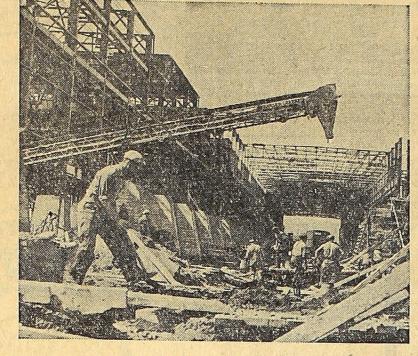

In attempting to find a direct cause for this chronic discomfort in the abdomen in children Drs. J. Signorelli and H. Hosen, New Orleans, state in the New Orleans Medical and Surgical Journal that the most logical conditions likely to cause these symptoms are inflammation of certain lymph glands in the abdomen, chronic appendicitis or the action or disordered action of certain flowers or vegetations in the in-

These physicians prescribed dilute hydrochloric acid in doses varying from 25 to 40 drops three times a day, to be taken diluted in water at each meal.

Marked improvement occurred, with relief of all symptoms, except lack of appetite in four of the twenty-five cases. After one to two months of such treatment the acid was stopped.

Many of the children have now been without the hydrochloric acid for as long as nine months and have been entirely free of the symptoms. This simple treatment for this group of symptoms, in youngsters five to twelve years of age, should be worth a trial at least.

"Youngest and most spectacular of the boating-by-air services is the Pan American Clipper line from California to China. The new 'Orient Express' since April, 1937, has been dodging monotony over the non-pacific Pacific by cleaving the clouds and reaching Hong Kong one week after departure from San Francisco. This jaunt from hemisphere to hemisphere requires a jagged southwesterly course to the Philippines on the eastern rim of Asia, then a jump northwest to China, with five stops between the American terminus and the Asiatic terminus. Kangaroos Replace

Sentimental Polars Atlanta.-"Uncle" Matt Leonard, keeper of the zoo, says "polar bears are like love birds; they can't live without each other." So polar bear Jerry just "pined away" after his mate, Madge, died a short while ago.

Texas Woman Takes Her Place Among Trappers

Eagle Pass, Texas.-A slight young woman, mother of a sevenyear-old daughter, has become the leading woman southwest trapper. She is Mrs. Bessie Davies Kennedy. Her husband, Robert, is a state-paid trapper of mountain lions, wolves, coyotes and bobcats. He is recognized as the best in his profession, and his catch of 168 coyotes in a single month still is the

Mrs. Kennedy surprised this town early last March by hauling in a huge mountain lion on the running than two weeks later she came in with another-a feat that few men have equaled.

The Kennedys live in Maverick county and trap in the "Indio" country-a 100-mile square area notorious for its wild animals and its lack of trails. Most of the area is owned by the Indio ranch, and few improvements have been made since the Spanish conquistadors established the ranch's boundary three centuries ago.

The Kennedys were married in 1928 at Crystal city. They moved to Maverick county in 1934, and began trapping. Their daughter, Bessie, is in school at La Pryor, 45 miles northeast of Eagle Pass.

Lesson for July 4

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 1:6-14; 2:23-25.
GOLDEN TEXT—Before they call, I will answer; and while they are yet speaking,
I will hear.—Isaiah 65:24.
PRIMARY TOPIC—A Prayer for Help.
JUNIOR TOPIC—In Need of Help.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—
What Cries Rise to God Today? What Cries Rise to God Today? YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC— God Cares When a People Suffers.

Independence day-and we are to study about a people in bondage! How much that is like life. But, thanks be to God, no one need stay in bondage. The way to liberty is open and free. The Lord Jesus Christ opened it at Calvary's tree and anyone who is still the bond slave of Satan may make this a great and glorious Independence day by now declaring his faith in the deliverer of our souls!

We begin today a series of lessons in the book of Exodus which reveal the high and mighty hand board of her dust-covered car. Less of God working on behalf of his people. Many are the precious spiritual lessons and rich is the practical instruction for daily life to be received in the weeks just ahead. Let us not make the unfortunate mistake of many thoughtless folk who miss the blessing of Bible school attendance because it is a bit warmer than usual.

The family of Jacob—or, as the Bible calls them, "the children of Israel"-prospered in Egypt particularly as long as Joseph and the rulers who remembered him were alive. But they soon learned one of life's bitter lessons, namely, that-

I. Prosperity Often Brings Opposi-

The Hebrews were a peaceful, law - abiding people. They were God's chosen people and as he blessed them they prospered, and thus innocently they brought upon themselves the hatred of the suspicious Egyptians.

Prosperity is never an unmixed blessing. We as a nation know that to be true. Not only does it lead to a certain softening of the sinews, but all too often it results in a weakening of the moral fiber, which makes man easy prey to the attack of the enemy of our souls.

The Egyptians made plans which appealed to their brilliant leaders as politic and wise, but they reckoned without God, and the burdens and afflictions they placed on the Israelites only served to bring further blessing.

II. Adversity May Bring Blessing

The people of Israel did not know it and undoubtedly did not appreciate the fact that the bitterness of their bondage was a blessing in disguise. Note that-1. It kept them separate as a peo-

Affliction often serves to keep God's people separated from the

2. It disciplined them and prepared them for the hardships of their wilderness journey. We too do well to remember that "whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth," and that if we are properly "exercised" thereby our sorrows may yield rich fruit in our lives.

3. It threw them back upon God. He refused to go about town blowing his horn and publicly announce have found that the fiery trial, the the mayor's orders to his fellow burden so hard to understand or citizens. caused them to bring their burden to the Lord. We have traveled far on the road of faith when we have reached the place where we learn that "Man's extremity is God's opportunity."

They had only one place to turn. They were hemmed in on every side but, as ever, they found that the way up no man can close. They called on their God.

III. Prayer Always Brings God's Answer (2:23-25).

Does God really know when his people suffer? Does he really care? Yes, he does. "They cried," and "God heard" and "remembered." That's all we need to know. The groanings of his people had already stirred God's gracious and tender heart. But he waited to hear their cry before he answered. Such is the law of prayer. May we not forget it. Far too often we turn to everyone and everything else, and finally, in desperation, to God. Why not turn to him first?

As we opened this lesson with an appeal for all who knew not Christ as Saviour to make this the day of their Declaration of Independence, so we close by appealing to all God's children to let him make their ears as sensitive as his to the cry of the oppressed, that this national holiday may find every Christian citizen tender in heart and liberal in deed toward the oppressed.

Conduct Through Life

I will govern my life, and my thoughts, as if the whole world were to see the one, and to read the other; for what does it signify, to make anything a secret to my neigh-bor, when to God (who is the search-er of our hearts) all our privacies are open?

Submissive Will

The will can only be made submissive by frequent self-denials, which must keep in subjection its sallies and inclinations.

The young frock with the interesting middle and sporty inverted pleat is one that's going in for extra credit at summer school. It has that advanced chic which readily distinguishes co-eds' clothes. If you're campus bound (or just bound for an ordinary vacation) be sure to have a couple of versions of this fashion first with you. Then you'll be set for that heavy summer schedule.

Lines for a Princess. Second to none in the summer is this princess dress. As fit for golf as it is for dancing, you can see at a glance that this is the one dress you can't be even halfway happy without. Fresh in spirit, dainty in detail and becoming to all figures this simpleto-sew frock will introduce count less women to new chic this season. Come on, Milady, shake

Only when we're very young are we privileged to wear dresses as cute as this one. The most unaccustomed seamstress can make it with its half dozen pieces; the merest remnant will suffice for material. There is more than ordinary intrigue packed in the dimunitive skirt that shows a
