County's Share of Gas Tax is $3,261.72

Isco County's share of the gasoline tax allocated last week was $3,261.72. Current returns cover half of the annual payment. The state highway department vouchered $1,275,000.00 to the counties.

Returns to the several nearby counties were as follows:

- Arenac, $3,486.61; Bay, $15,416.24; Clare, $3,361.73; Crawford, $2,620.75; Gladwin, $3,439.82; Ogemaw, $3,463.37; Oscoda, $2,298.41; Otsego, $2,760.34; Roscommon, $4,008.98.

Girl Admits Hoax

Virginia Rapp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rapp of Tawas township, admitted last Wednesday to the State Police and Isco County Sheriff's department, that her story of an attack by two strange men was a hoax. She told the officers that she had invented the story to bother her parents because they had not allowed her to go to a moving picture show. She had been found alongside of the road gagged and her feet tied together.

NINE 4-H CLUB MEMBERS GO TO GAYLORD

Outstanding Club Work Wins Vacation Award

The twelfth annual northern Michigan Boys' and Girls' 4-H Club camp is being held this week, Aug. 9 to 13, at Camp Gay-Guy-Lun at Gaylord. The Isco County delegates who have won themselves this free trip and a weeks vacation through their hard work and outstanding accomplishments will help make up the delegation of 425 leading 4-H Club members who come from 28 counties of northern Michigan.

The week at Gaylord camp will be spent in classroom work relative to the making of attractive exhibits, the judging of clothing, handicraft articles, canned goods, poultry, livestock and farm crops. Besides this, study and field trips will be conducted towards forestry and conservation, with portions of each day's time being allotted to leadership training and recreation.

The Isco County delegation while at camp are under the direction of Miss Elsie Mueller of Tawas City, who led a very successful 4-H Club in both handicraft and clothing during the past winter at the Stevens school in Wilber township. Members who won themselves the trip by their careful work and outstanding exhibits displayed at the 4-H Club Achievement Day held last April 7 at East Tawas, are: Alice DeLosh, Alabaster, dress review and clothing; Eleanor Cholger, East Tawas, clothing; Beverly Freel, National City, clothing; Fay Robinson, Whittemore, clothing; Kenneth Fahsel, Tawas City, handicraft; Frederick Latzer, Whittemore, handicraft; Marvin Hensley, Whittemore, handicraft; Billie St. James, Whittemore, sheep club work.

The group left Monday for camp in the Baldwin school bus and will return Friday.

James D. St. Martin

Little Jimmy St. Martin, age 7 years, died Friday, August 6th from a cerebral hemorrhage caused by being hit in the forehead with a brick ten days before. The little fellow had climbed a tree and one of the children with whom he was playing tossed a brick up in the tree, hitting him in the head. He did not complain until on Thursday when he was taken violently ill and went into a coma.

James was born January 10th, 1930, in Tawas City, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. St. Martin of East Tawas. Mrs. St. Martin was formerly Miss Pearl Brown.

Funeral services were held August 9th from the East Tawas Methodist Episcopal Church, with Rev. S. A. Carey officiating and burial in the Brown family lot in the Tawas City cemetery.

Ardith Haglund Parent

Mrs. Ardith Haglund Parent of Saginaw died Friday in the Saginaw Hospital after an illness of five months. The remains were brought to East Tawas and funeral services were held Saturday. Burial was in the Greenwood cemetery.

Mrs. Parent was the daughter of Mrs. H. Haglund of East Tawas and was born 21 years ago. She was educated in the East Tawas school. Her death comes as a shock to her many friends here.

She is survived by her five-months old daughter, her mother, three brothers, Harold, Herbert and Richard, and two sisters, Rosemary and Dorothy.

Arenac's Big Fair Opens Next Tuesday

For the first time since 1932 Arenac county is going to enjoy another fair. The event will be held August 17, 18, 19 and 20 and a cordial invitation is extended to all the people of Isco county to attend and enjoy a few days of pleasure. It is expected to be one of the most outstanding fairs ever held in Arenac county.

There will be free acts, a great midway, 4-H and Smith-Hughes agricultural exhibits, public wedding, horse pulling contests and numerous other excellent features. Not a dull moment from Tuesday morning until it closes Friday night.

Habits of Wasps

Wasps sleep soundly in the dark and are sluggish on a cloudy day. Unlike other insects, when they are awake they breathe by a noticeable "telescoping" of the abdomen back and forth. When they are asleep they breathe like other insects, by a slow, molecular diffusion of air already in the tracheae. The first activity of a wasp after waking is to resume the telescope type of breathing.

Bids Will be Received

Bids will be received on the sale of a Hoosier No. 301 water pump, single piston, 600 gallons per hour, 1/2 horse power motor, 315 gallon pressure tank complete with fittings. Bids will be received up to August 15, 1937. The Board of Education reserves the right to reject any or all bids. Pump may be inspected at school building.

Gilbert Shover Heads Tawas City Legion

Gilbert Shover of Tawas township was elected commander of Jesse C. Hodder Post, American Legion, at the annual meeting held Monday evening. Other officers elected were H. Read Smith, vice commander; H. J. Keiser, adjutant; H. E. Friedman, finance officer; A. E. Giddings, service officer; Fred Marsh, sergeant at arms; William Fitzhugh, chaplain; E. R. Burtzloff, child welfare officer.

Plans were discussed for the new 1937-1938 program which will include improvements to the billet and grounds.

Au Gres Elevator Destroyed by Fire

The AuGres plant of the Consolidated Grain Company was completely destroyed by fire last Sunday evening. The plant had just undergone extensive improvements and a large addition had just been built for grain and bean storage. The fire is thought to have started from the blowing of an electric transformer near the building. This had occurred at about six o'clock, leaving the town in darkness for nearly an hour. An elevator will be built to take the place of the one burned Sunday evening.

ELMER MISSLER CONFESSES; IS ARRAIGNED

Tawas Man Retaken After 24 Hour Search by Officers

Elmer Missler, accused of criminal assault by his 15 year old daughter, Joyce, and self confessed, was arraigned Tuesday before Justice W. C. Davidson. Missler waived examination and was bound over to circuit court. Bond was set at $5,000.00.

The confession and charge came through an investigation asked for by Missler on August 2. He had found the daughter tied up and her mouth gagged. When released she claimed she had been attacked by an unknown party. Missler asked Sheriff Moran to "go to the bottom of it." The girl was brought in and after a long questioning by Sheriff Moran and the State Police, she admitted that the story was fictitious and that she had tied herself up. Further answers to the officers questioning implicated the father in the crime charged and he was brought in from his home. After being questioned by Sheriff Moran and State Police from twelve o'clock Monday night until eleven the next morning he confessed and made a signed statement.

While being returned Friday from Lansing where he had been taken by Sheriff John Moran and State Police for questioning, Missler made an escape at Standish. After a 24 hour search the prisoner was retaken when at twelve o'clock Saturday night he appeared at his home. Deputy Sheriff Millard Dyer was on guard waiting for him. Missler had returned by a circuitous route for his car. He again attempted to escape when Trooper Merlin Mitchell and Deputy Sheriff Harry Pelton came to relieve Dyer. Missler is now lodged in the county jail.

REGATTA HAS FINE RACES; NEARS END

Winjack, Yucatan, Skudge And Windward Lead In Point Races

The Fifth Annual Tawas Bay Regatta is approaching its closing day. Point races this afternoon (Friday) and tomorrow will end the yacht races and a victory banquet Saturday evening at the Hotel Holland will complete the program.

This year's regatta was very successful. A fine sailing breeze during most of the racing program, blue skies and pleasant weather made the event interesting and enjoyable to the crowds who viewed the races.

While the winners will not be known in the point races until tomorrow's finals, there has been one surprise, at least, in the events. The Winjack, owned by Ard Richardson of Lansing, has consistently led in the six-meter class over Phil Fletcher's Jack and Harry Fletcher's Meteor. The two Fletcher boats are from Alpena. Thursday morning the points were Winjack, 10; Jack, 8; Meteor, 6.

Harold Moeller's Yucatan was in a strong position to defend the title won last year in the Class A boats. In each of the three previous days' races she had run away from her competitors. The results compiled Thursday morning were Yucatan, 21; Sank, 16, piloted by Hubert Smith of Bay City; Chinook, 16, piloted by Bill Charters of Saginaw; Aurora, 12, owned by W. F. Johnson of Bay City; Dale, 10, piloted by Carl Babcock of this city.

The Skudge, owned by Carl Acton of Detroit, with 18 points led in the Lark class. She was followed by the Senret, 15, owned by Howard Ternes of Detroit, and the Guga, 13, owned by Walter Gardner of Detroit.

The Winjack won the pennant in the Pt. Lookout to Tawas Bay race. In this race, three boats were becalmed out at sea and were picked up by the Coast Guard.

GREEN SHAPES WAGE BILL

Dictates House Amendments . . . Thousands Flee China, Expecting War . . . Housing Measure Stirs Up Senate

Edward W. Pickard
SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK
© Western Newspaper Union

Where Was John Lewis?

WILLIAM GREEN, president of the American Federation of Labor, emerged as the administration's favorite son in matters affecting labor as he was permitted virtually to write his own amendments to the house version of the wages and hours bill. The senate had passed the bill, 56 to 23, only after President Roosevelt had called Green to the White House and persuaded him to give lukewarm approval to the measure, with the understanding that the house would amend it.

Southern Democrats in the senate, led by Pat Harrison of Mississippi, bitterly opposed the bill, but their motion to recommit it to committee was defeated, 48 to 36. The same vigorous opposition was expected from Dixie's representatives in the house labor committee, but the "Green amendments" (so called because of the federation president's complete domination of the committee meeting) patched up the essential differences.

The bill, as passed by the senate, would create a labor standards board empowered to set minimum wages up to 40 cents an hour and maximum work weeks down to 40 hours. The house committee had intended to extend the limits to permit the board to set wages at 70 cents and hours as low as 35. Under Green's influence the house committee decided to accept the senate provisions on this part of the measure, but the scope of the board was greatly curtailed by an amendment which would permit it to deal only with employers who maintain "sweatshops" and "starvation wages" through fake collective bargaining agencies.

The "Green amendments" in brief are:

1. Board jurisdiction over wages and hours in any industry only if it finds that collective bargaining agreements do not cover a sufficient number of employees or facilities for collective bargaining are ineffective.
2. Acceptance of wage-hour standards established by collective bargaining in any occupation as prima facie evidence of appropriate standards in that occupation.
3. Board cannot alter wage-hour standards already prevailing in occupation in community considered, or establish classification in any community which affects adversely the prevailing standard in the same or other communities.
4. Industries are protected against prison-made goods.
5. "Label provision" of original act is eliminated to protect industry from what is considered a nuisance.
6. Government work is removed from the board's control and placed under the Walsh-Healey act.

Chairman Mary T. Norton (D., N. J.) of the labor committee indicated the bill would be brought up in the house under a special rule and speedily passed.

$700,000,000 for Housing

HAVING disposed of wages and hours legislation, the senate took up the Wagner-Steagall low-cost housing bill. This would authorize the flotation of a $700,000,000 bond issue by a United States housing authority. To meet operating expenses of the program's first year, $26,000,000 would be appropriated immediately. The proposed bond issue was cut from $1,000,000,000 as a compromise with the Treasury department, which objected to so high a figure.

The bill would aid low-cost housing projects in two ways. It would make loans to the full amount of contracted projects, aiding the repayment of the loans by direct grants if the sponsors kept rents sufficiently low; or it would make direct grants not to exceed 25 per cent of the cost of a project. Under this latter method, the President would be authorized to make an additional 15 per cent grant from relief funds, to be used only for the employment of labor. Sponsors would be required to contribute at least 20 per cent of the cost.

The housing authority would also be permitted to spend $25,000,000 on demonstration projects to illustrate to communities the benefits of eliminating slums and providing adequate housing at low cost. The projects would be sold "as soon as practical" to local housing agencies. Over the protest of administration leaders, including Senator Wagner and Majority Leader Barkley, the senate adopted an amendment by Harry F. Byrd (D., Va.) limiting the cost of the housing projects to $4,000 a family or $1,000 a room. Wagner objected, principally on the grounds that this would not be sufficient for projects in New York city, where it is believed much of the money will be spent.

Flee from the Rising Sun

WAR was still officially undeclared, but all signs indicated that Japan was making ready to prosecute a long-term conflict in North China and that the Chinese were everywhere preparing to withstand the advance of the Japanese army. Steady streams of refugees pouring out of the area while they had the chance revealed the opinion of masses of people that a great war was inevitable. Tokyo was hurrying soldiers to the front.

In the Fengtai-Lukouchia district southwest of Peiping, 30,000 veteran Japanese troops massed for an attack upon five divisions of China's central government army, numbering approximately 60,000. Including the remnants of the twenty-ninth army, driven from Peiping by the Japanese, there were said to be 100,000 Chinese. Both sides were well equipped with airplanes.

Further evidence of Japan's expectation of real war were the sweeping changes in military personnel made after a conference between Premier Konohe and Emperor Hirohito. Four new division commanders were named, as well as a new commander for the island of Formosa. It was regarded as significant that all of the new appointees were soldiers with extensive experience in China. The government was attempting to push through an appropriation of $115,000,000 for operations in North China.

In a desperate effort to stem the invaders, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, dictator of China and commander of the Chinese army, summoned into conference at Nanking, national capital, the warlords and governors of important provinces. Plans were made to throw hundreds of thousands of soldiers at the Japanese.

The provincial rulers apparently were only too anxious. Chow En-lai, representing 100,000 communist troops, said his men were willing to become an advance guard for the major Chinese offensive. Nationwide military conscription was being conducted apace.

Japanese newspapers reported that a resolution to sever all relations with Japan was before the Chinese political council for consideration. The fear that gripped Nanking was illustrated by the government's publication of warnings against giving away military secrets, and the warnings which were given government officials to get their families out into the hinterlands where they might be safe from enemy bombers.

Civilians in China needed no warning. Thousands upon thousands were lined up at the railroad stations in Shanghai and in Nanking; many were women carrying children and what belongings they could not bear to leave behind. Thousands of Japanese civilians in China packed the docks awaiting ships which would carry them safely back to their homeland.

As columns of Japanese soldiers pressed forward to meet advancing troops from Nanking, there was no doubt that hostilities would continue to spread southward. It was expected a real battle would ensue when the two columns came within striking distance.

U. S. Keeps Naval Pace

INDICATIONS were that both the United States and Great Britain would embark upon unusually large peacetime naval building programs in 1938.

Britain, according to reports in London, will lay the keels for from three to five battleships, six or seven cruisers and a proportionate quota of destroyers, submarines and smaller craft, to surpass the 1937 total of 664,000 tons, a peacetime record. It was also reported that personnel would be increased ultimately by 125,000.

With the placing of additional 1937 contracts, Britain will soon have 110 vessels under construction. These will include: 5 battleships of 35,000 tons, 5 aircraft carriers, 8 cruisers of 9,000 to 10,000 tons, 5 cruisers of 8,000 tons, 7 cruisers of 5,300 tons, 16 superdestroyers of 1,650 tons, 18 submarines of from 540 to 1,520 tons, 12 sloops and 10 motor torpedo boats.

Armament of the five new battleships will include 10 or 12 new type 14-inch guns, 12 to 16 4- or 4.7-inch anti-aircraft guns and numerous light machine guns. Upper deck armor will be specially strengthened against airplane bombs and bridges and turrets will be gas-proof.

Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of American naval operations and acting secretary of Uncle Sam's navy, said in Washington that congress will be asked to provide funds for the construction of two battleships and two cruisers in the 1938 fiscal year. The admiral inferred in a press conference that the United States expects to keep pace with other nations which are planning extensive naval building. The four new ships will cost $170,000,000 and will be ready in 1942. Construction is about to begin on two other battleships, which will cost approximately $60,000,000.

14 Lost in Flying Boat

IT WAS believed 14 persons were lost in the Caribbean sea when the Santa Maria, luxurious new flying boat of the Pan American-Grace airways, crashed 20 miles off Cristobal, in the Canal Zone, after nearly completing a scheduled flight from Guayaquil, Ecuador.

Last radio reports from the pilot indicated he was trying to spiral down to the surface of the sea in a torrential rainstorm. Two United States submarines, cruising the area in the hope of picking up some survivors, found part of the airliner's shipment of mail, an engine casing, a few other parts and a bucket of ice cream floating in the water. It was feared the pilot, co-pilot, steward and 11 passengers, mostly Americans, were locked in the cabin and lying on the bottom of the sea, which at the point the wreckage was found reaches a depth of 1,000 feet.

Wedge to Split Loyalists

AS THE battle of Madrid continued to rage, Gen. Francisco Franco's eastern army was driving an ever-widening wedge into the territory near the junction of Teruel, Cuenca and Valencia provinces 100 miles east of Madrid. His object is to impose a barrier between Madrid and the loyalist government's capital at Valencia.

Government forces all along the line of advance were reported surrendering or fleeing. Insurgents claimed to have captured large numbers of automobiles and supplies of arms, munitions and clothing.

Latest news from the Madrid front indicated that a rebel attack in the Uersa sector southeast of the city had been repulsed by machine gunners and dynamiters.

El Caudillo Is the Boss

INSURGENT Spain has a "head man" and also has a name for him now. In Germany things are bossed by "Der Fuehrer," and Italians scurry to obey "Il Duce." Now Rebel Spain has dubbed Gen. Francisco Franco "El Caudillo." Throughout the realm on walls and fences are signs bearing the motto, "Homenaje al Caudillo"—"Obey the leader." And the people salute him by raising the right arm.

Franco's followers are protesting that he is not a fascist, but he has never announced just what form of government he will propose for the nation. There is said to be a scheme afoot to shape it along the lines of Portugal's corporative government. Since he openly declared on July 19 that he believes the restoration of a monarchy is vital to cohesion of Spain, it is believed that this is what he will eventually effect. Prince Juan, third son of the former King Alfonso XIII, is the likely candidate for the crown.

Women Hear War Cry

ONE of China's chief agitators for war was Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, Wellesley-educated wife of the dictator. She urged women to fight Japan "according to their ability," citing the fashion in which the women of Spain are occupying the fighting lines.

"In the World war the women of every country gave their best," she declared. "The women of China are no less patriotic or capable of physical endurance.

"China is facing the gravest crisis in its history. This means we must sacrifice many of our soldiers, masses of our innocent people, much of the nation's wealth and see ruthlessly destroyed the results of our reconstruction."

"Human Bait"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO everybody: You know, boys and girls, fishing is a harmless sport, and perfectly safe just so long as you don't get things mixed up the way Tony Bencivenni did. In all the fishing I've ever seen done, the fisherman stays in the boat, and uses a worm, or another fish, or maybe just a hunk of salt pork, for bait.

But Tony didn't follow the usual procedure. For bait, he used himself. And you know, there are fish that don't hesitate to chew up even a man, if they see him trailing along at the end of a fishing line.

Tony lives in Brooklyn, N. Y. He likes Brooklyn because there you can get a swell swordfish steak in a restaurant, without having to go out and catch it yourself. Tony is plenty sick of sword-fishing. There are enough dictators around waving swords nowadays without having the fish do it, too. And like a dictator, a swordfish can drag you into trouble faster than almost anything else on earth or in the water. At least, that was Tony's experience.

Tony says he never did want to go on that swordfishing trip in the first place. He had just arrived in Avalon on Catalina island, off the coast of California, and he didn't know any more about deep-sea fishing than the mayor of Timbucktoo knows about the North Pole. But his friend, Tom Martin talked him into it, and on the morning of August 17, 1931, they set out in a power boat for San Clemente island, about thirty-five miles away.

Then Tony Got His First Strike.

When they reached the north side of San Clemente, Tom showed Tony how to bait his hook and how to handle his line. Then they began cruising and looking for swordfish. Tony says they cruised for two hours before they saw one, and it was a half hour after that before Tony got his first strike.

"That strike," says Tony, "almost yanked me clear out of the boat. There was a tremendous tug on the line, and I caught my balance just in time. Behind me I could hear Tom yelling instructions and I began reeling in my line. I reeled in until another violent jerk told me that the fish was diving for the bottom, and then, still following Tom's instructions, I let the line reel out again.

"By this time my hands were raw and blistered, and I was panting from the exertion. When the line was almost all out, Tom shouted to me to reel in again, and slowly, laboriously, I began hauling that swordfish back to the surface. I must have had him almost to the top when suddenly the line went slack again. A second later I heard a hellish roar and the water burst apart close to the boat. The swordfish shot out of the water like a bombshell and fell back again with a loud splash. Then it was off again, in a series of mad plunges, taking most of the line with it.

"Tom yelled: 'It's a beauty.' And it was. It was every bit of eleven feet long, and it must have weighed close to four hundred pounds. And just then, the fish turned suddenly in the water and charged straight for the boat!"

Tom yelled to Tony to haul in the line, and Tony forgot about the reel and began hauling it in hand-over-hand. In the excitement of the moment he didn't notice that the line had become tangled around his foot. That swordfish was taking all his attention. At the last moment it veered, missing the boat by a fraction of an inch, and then Tony felt a tug at his entangled foot. He was knocked clean off his pins, and before he realized what had happened he was in the water, choking and gasping for air, being dragged along at the end of the line.

Overboard Among the Sharks.

Says he: "In vain I tried to untangle the line around my foot—and in vain I tried to break the strong cord. Down—down I was dragged by that diving fish, and I thought my lungs would burst before it shot to the top again. And then, while I was still fighting for air, I became aware of an even deadlier menace. Sharks! A number of them, swimming nearby, dim, ghostly shapes in the water."

Suddenly, Tony realized that he was no longer being dragged. He looked toward the swordfish and saw the reason. He had come to the surface now, and there was the fish, less than two hundred feet away, charging straight at him. Tony drew in a deep breath. This looked like the end, and he was getting ready to meet it. But the swordfish never reached him. Halfway in its course it was met by two or three darting streaks of gray. THE SHARKS!

"What a battle that was," says Tony. "The fierce struggle threw up mountains of water. And then the line began to drag me into that mad maelstrom. I was getting closer and closer, when suddenly it snapped—probably slashed by shark teeth. Then, free for the first time, I looked for the boat. It was coming toward me at a fast clip—but it was too late. For at the same time I noticed that two triangular fins were cutting the water around me in circles—circles that were getting smaller with every turn."

Bump on the Head—and Rescue.

Just the same, Tony began swimming toward the boat. The circling fins were now so close to him that he could see the bodies of the sharks. Suddenly, one of them darted madly. He felt its body touch his foot as it swam beneath him—and he shivered. Wasn't that boat ever going to reach him?

"The other shark would charge at any moment," he says "It had turned on its side, jaws gaping. I tried to steel my nerves for the inevitable finish. Churning the water wasn't going to keep this one off. He was ready for the kill. I heard a roar and a rush of water behind me and remembered the other shark. Before I could turn, something struck my head, and that is the last I remember."

But when Tony opened his eyes again, he was in the boat, and Tom was pouring whisky down his throat. It was the boat that had given him that bump on the head—and it hadn't arrived any too soon. For Tom had had to fight the shark off with a gaff hook while he dragged Tony's unconscious body out of the water.

Tony says he looked over the side and saw nothing but a couple of fins circling the water where the swordfish had been a few moments before. And that's when he resolved that thereafter he'd get his swordfish in a restaurant, served up on a plate with a piece of lemon and a little parsley. This business of being shark bait was no fun at all.

No adventure is any fun—until after it is all over.

Hudson and Staten Island

Staten island was one of the earliest discoveries of the explorer, Henry Hudson. He first saw the highlands on September 2, 1609, and on the following day entered the lower bay and anchored in the harbor of Sandy Hook. The next day he manned a small boat and sent it through the narrows to explore the bay, and the island now known as Staten island was discovered September 4. It was then inhabited by a branch of the Raritan Indians. In 1630 the Dutch West India company purchased the island from the natives, giving in exchange for it "some kettles, axes, hoes, wampum, drilling awls, jew's-harps and divers small wares." It was the Dutch who named the island, calling it Staaten Eylant—Island of the States—after the States-General, the Parliament of the Netherlands, which was popularly referred to as "The States."

Judge Advocate General, Adviser

The judge advocate general is the official legal adviser of the secretary of war, the chief of staff, the War department and its bureaus, and the entire military establishment. He advises concerning the legal correctness of military administration, including disciplinary action, matters affecting the rights and mutual relationship of the personnel of the army, and the financial, contractual, and other business affairs of the War department and the army. The functions of the judge advocate general's department include not only those of the judge advocate general and of his office in Washington, but also those of judge advocates serving as staff officers at the headquarters of army, corps area, department, corps, division, and separate brigade commanders, and at the headquarters of other officers exercising general court-martial jurisdiction.

Washington Digest
National Topics Interpreted
By WILLIAM BRUCKART
NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington—The government's silver policy again is attracting attention. Several things have caused it. First among these things is the matter of rising prices for foods and other necessities of life, but attention seems to have centered on the silver question again as a result of the Treasury's newly arranged agreement to trade some of its gold for some of the Chinese silver.

Probably the silver question is not as widely discussed as it might be because it is a complex subject and there are not too many people who understand it and its implications. I cannot refrain at this time, however, from recalling that when the silver act of 1934 was passed, I wrote in these columns a prediction that the country sooner or later would regret that legislation. I repeat the statement now and I do not believe it will be long until the average citizen will recognize what the silver policy is doing to most of us. I mean by that, it will not be long until Mr. John Q. Public will understand that the silver policy has a lot to do with the high prices he is paying for his pound of bacon, his slice of beefsteak or a thousand and one items that he buys at the grocery store. He will feel it, too, when he seeks to buy a new suit of clothes or a new pair of shoes. There can be no argument about it: The affect of inflation brought about by a perfectly ridiculous silver policy is upon us.

Early in July, the Chinese minister of finance visited Washington and called personally at the Treasury to express the appreciation of the Chinese government for the satisfactory conclusion of negotiations that enable the Chinese to give the American Treasury silver for gold. It was the usual diplomatic courtesy. At the same time, however, the visit of the Chinese minister served to awaken America to the fact that the Treasury has been going along, buying silver from foreign countries in order to maintain an arbitrary price which the Washington administration contended should be the world price for silver. This price is forty-five cents an ounce, and it is a most profitable price for silver producers in Mexico and Canada and some other foreign countries. It is not as profitable, however, as the price the Treasury pays to American producers—which is seventy-seven and one-half cents an ounce.

But, one may ask, what has this thing to do with the cost of beefsteak, ham and eggs or shoes?

I hope I may be able to explain it as I have watched the picture unfold and to explain it in a manner that those unacquainted with high finance may see the thing in its true light.

How It Works

First of all, the policy of the administration that has brought billions of gold into the Treasury to be stored as so much dead weight has resulted in many thousands of shares of stock in American corporations or their bonds being bought by foreigners who gave gold in payment. President Roosevelt early in his administration insisted that gold should not be in circulation as money. Consequently, the Treasury has so much gold that it has had to build separate storehouses to protect it. Now, we are sending some of that gold to China in trade for China's silver. I think most everyone will agree that the silver is just as useless because we have no need for it in our currency structure. People do not want to carry silver dollars around in their pockets.

Assuming that the exchange was simply an even trade of two objects, neither of which was usable to us, one probably could dismiss the matter with a wave of the hand. Regrettably, such is not the case. The additional silver frankly is adding to our troubles because of the Silver Act of 1934 which permits the Treasury to issue currency—silver one-dollar bills—against it.

So, instead of being sterilized and stored away in vaults, the silver accession results in a prompt increase in the amount of currency in circulation. That action tends to increase the excess reserve—unused money—of the banking system. As this money becomes available for circulation, its value necessarily and obviously is cheapened. Or, to say it another way, the things you buy with money become of greater value because it takes more of these pieces of currency to buy the same quantity of food or clothes or shoes.

Some Will Disagree

Authorities will disagree with the above statement to the extent that all kinds of currency have not been expanded (which means inflated) by the issuing of silver certificates. That is true. But we must be realistic and recognize that a silver certificate occupies exactly the same place in our currency structure as does a bill that is backed by gold or one that is issued by the Federal Reserve banks. Therefore, it seems to me to be a fair statement to say that the whole currency structure is tainted by this deluge of silver certificates now and heretofore coming from the Treasury. And it is equally a fact that prices of every kind are going to increase exactly in accordance or in ratio with the new money that is put out from the Treasury.

I do not know how long it will be until the voters wake up to the necessity for repeal of the silver act. It probably will not be long before there is a wave of public indignation against the policy if the average person realizes that the program is actually a tax upon the American public. Surely, if the silver policy were labeled, "tax to support the silver program," the attitude of the country would change overnight. That really should be the name of the Silver Act of 1934 because that is its effect. The tax results from the fact that the Treasury is paying foreign producers as well as American producers prices for silver that are higher than the value of the silver warrants. This means that any article of silver that you buy in a store costs you more than it would if silver producers abroad and in the United States were not being subsidized. The additional cost is a tax on every buyer just as much as though you had paid the tax directly into the Treasury.

It may be interesting to know that the Treasury has issued nearly eight-hundred million in silver certificates. In addition something like seven million silver dollars have been coined, and these still remain in the package in which they were wrapped at the mints. Besides all these, there is silver bullion that cost $375,000,000 piled up in the Treasury. Silver certificates can be issued against this.

The silver act of 1934 provided that the Treasury could buy one dollar's worth of silver to three dollars' worth of gold for what is called reserve purposes. On the basis of the gold now held, the Treasury can buy under that law a total of $4,125,000,000 in silver. At the present time Treasury records show we have silver reserves amounting to around $2,600,000,000. These figures show, or ought to show, how much inflation lies ahead—how much higher prices may go—unless something is done to restore a sound currency policy in the United States.

Some Democrats who are not too friendly with Postmaster General Jim Farley, along with the Republicans in congress, are having fun these days with the Democratic National committee. They are also succeeding, it appears, in making President Roosevelt's political seat uncomfortably warm. Nothing will come of it except that the subject will fill many newspaper columns of attack and defense as the politicians shoot back and forth.

To review the situation, it should be recalled that the Democratic National committee found itself in debt to the tune of about $650,000 at the end of the 1936 campaign. Some bright mind in the Democratic National committee conceived the idea of selling Democratic campaign handbooks to corporations at $250 per book, or more, as a means of raising money.

To make the book attractive, a single sheet bearing the autograph of Franklin Delano Roosevelt was inserted. Hundreds of corporations were solicited, and hundreds bought the books—theoretically, because of the autograph of the President. Mr. Roosevelt stated he did not know he was autographing the blank sheets for the purpose for which they were used.

Republican Leader Snell, of New York, introduced a resolution in the house of representatives, proposing an investigation of the sale of these books to corporations. He contended that it was a violation of the corrupt practices act.

Mr. Snell remained determined, however, and sought to harrass the New Deal further by asking Attorney General Cummings for an official opinion. At the same time, he read on the floor of the house a long list of corporations who had bought the "souvenirs" of the 1936 campaign, together with a list of prices they had paid.

These facts cut deeply into the Democrats who are seeking to protect Chairman Farley and the Democratic National committee wiggle and squirmed. Nevertheless, Mr. Snell may as well have butted his head against a stone wall since he got no further than Representative Rayburn, the house Democratic leader, would have gotten, if Mr. Snell had been majority, instead of minority, leader.

Cubs-Giants Feud Tale of Diamond's Sharpest Rivalry

THE dogged fight between the Cubs and Giants for the National League pennant this year is reminiscent of bygone days when their feud was a tale of baseball's sharpest and most enduring rivalry. The only difference is that while the competition is just as keen this year, the bitterness is gone.

The story of the rivalry of the Cubs and Giants practically writes itself. It stretches far beyond the years of Mike Donlin and the one and only Matty. It embraces other hard-bitten Giants of the youthful 1900s bus-riding a brick tossed way from hotel to ball park to defend the baseball honor of the nation's largest city.

There are memories of lantern-jawed little Johnny Evers, thick-muscled Frank Chance, shouting bitter taunts at fans tight-packed within old wooden grandstands. Once more you see Mordecai Brown, tobacco-flecked ball clutched within three fingers, warming up for the greater baseball glory of the nation's second largest city.

Pages could be written about other never-to-be-forgotten incidents of far off afternoons. Of happy years when the Giants merely knocked off the Dodgers (then Superbas) in their stride and saved their best hate and sharpest spikes for Chicago invaders.

You showed your colors then. Every man was an enemy and so regarded unless he could display the proper ribbon and could mingle dire insult with high praise in correct proportion.

Remember that glowing baseball year of 1908, when feelings were running at their fullest anyhow?

Then Chicago baseball writers arrived at the Polo Grounds early on one heat-waved afternoon to view with bitter astonishment a notice posted upon the press gate. Above the sprawling signature of a man who never hesitated to name his enemies it stated simply and starkly that, by order of John J. McGraw, no Chicago writers would be permitted to enter the park.

Of course that was long ago. McGraw is gone now. Evers is a plumpish, white-haired upholder of the law. Their heirs, the Terrys, Grimms, Hartnetts, Hubbells and Demarees of today, seldom permit feelings to flow as violently for the sake of a mere ball game. Yet there is a grim tenacity about present meetings just the same. So far this year the National League race has been a nip and tuck affair between the Cubs and Giants.

Truly enough National League pennants have been won most often in recent years by late season spurts, but there is no copyright on the procedure. The same methods by which modern Yankees and Tigers have triumphed in the other circuit could prevail as easily.

There are other angles—indeed far too many of them for this limited space—to this story which practically writes itself. Yet, as might have been mentioned at the start, I have been sitting here thinking about something else.

About Rogers Hornsby in fact. Ten years ago, lacking only a month, he led the Cubs to a surprising, victory-adorned trip through the West. Still a great second baseman and hitter, the man who had won St. Louis' first pennant a season previously, he substituted for the ailing McGraw as manager and almost brought another flag to New York.

That was in 1927. McGraw esteemed Hornsby above all other baseball men at the moment, for the first time in his life was speaking proudly of a successor.

Seven years ago we stood for almost two hours talking on a crowded Broadway corner. Hornsby had just taken charge of the Cubs, was making a hustling, fighting team out of a collection of stars who hitherto had looked at life too gayly.

That was in 1930. The late William Wrigley bubbled with pride whenever he thought of his new manager, was making grand plans for the years they would have in baseball together.

And now, while the Cubs and Giants carry on their fan-warming feud the man who might have managed either of them wanders around in the prime of his forty-one years, out of a job.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

THOSE two well publicized but friendly enemies, Mike Jacobs and Jimmy Johnston, shortly will announce a partnership controlling the world prizefight situation. At least that is the buzz along Broadway where it also is whispered the new merger will leave Madison Square Garden with nothing to do but hold the bag . . . Keep an eye on Georgia's torrid football team this fall. The Bulldogs take the field with practically an all veteran outfit . . . Jimmy, the little Brooklyn Italian who used to shave Jack Curley in a Forty-second street barber shop each day, has been unable to work since the death of the famous sports promoter. Incidentally, he spent his entire week's salary buying flowers to honor the memory of his departed patron. Pretty swell gesture that, one Jack would have liked far better than the phony carryings on of more eminent persons.

Tony Canzoneri, who has been an almost daily visitor to the race-tracks, is getting ready for another fling at the boxing game . . . Harry Turner, boxing and wrestling promoter, is the Pop of an eight-pound baby boy . . . Fort Jay football followers are cheering because Lieutenant Joe Stancook, the former West Point ace who was slated for duty in the Philippines, has been permitted to remain with them until Christmas . . . Did any one note that Tony Plansky, the Olympian from Georgetown, is doing a swell coaching job at Williams? One of Tony's products is young Tuffy Cook, who may surprise all the quarter-milers in his final campaign.

Jersey City directors are tiffing a trifle, one faction wishing Bill Terry would put Casey Stengel in charge of the club and buy Babe Herman for the outfield . . . Maybe the Giants' regulars do not know it, but one of them will be with Cincinnati next year. It's part of the deal in which the Reds sent Weintraub, Brennan, Brown and Dwyer to J. C. . . . The American Association mailed out engraved invitations for its All-Star game on July 27 . . . Dodger fans may adore their players but when Van Mungo phoned for a table on a Brooklyn hotel roof for the other night the reservation was put down for "Van Mungo." . . . Ted Breitenstein of Cincinnati's once famous pretzel battery of Breitenstein and Peitz now is a watchman in a brewery.

Irv Witty, N. Y. U. basketball star, is keeping in shape for next winter's campaign by acting as a sports councilor at Camp Equinunk in Pennsylvania . . . Jules Bender, who led the Eastern collegiate point scorers while at Long Island U. last winter, is similarly occupied at Camp Windau in Pittsfield, Mass., while preparing for a pro court career . . . And, while on the subject, is it true that Long Island is taking their athletic scholarships away from Bender, Ben Kramer, Leo Merson and Red Norton, although they have not yet finished their courses? And could the reason be that the four able youngsters have played their allotted four years of college basketball and room must be made for new talent?

United States control of the National Hockey League is almost complete, with only Les Canadiens and Toronto's Maple Leafs to be left in Canada next season. Cleveland, where Printing Ink Magnate Al Supphen has his million-dollar stadium all set, will get the Montreal Maroons' franchise, with Ex-Ranger Bill Cook as manager. Tommy Gorman, veteran Maroons' manager, probably will stay close to his race-track interests as manager of the Montreal Forum . . . Of course there's no hint of syndicate hockey, but it's a fact that Detroit's Jim Norris owns the Red Wings, has a big piece of the Americans, controls the Chicago Stadium, home of the Black Hawks, and holds stock in Madison Square Garden, which owns the Rangers, who in turn apparently have taken good care of the younger Cook . . . Hockey moguls, incidentally, still seem squeamish about giving Big Bill Dwyer the works. No matter how much they gossip about forcing him out, the fact that he still has an option to redeem his N. Y. Americans if he can assemble the proper coconuts.

New York's small outdoor fight clubs have had their worst season since 1929. Too much rain, not enough local attractions and Jimmy Johnston's popular priced Garden shows have ruined the little fellows . . . Bill Johnston has offered Henry Jeffra $5,000 to fight Indian Quintana in a 15-rounder . . . Aldo Spoldi, Italian lightweight, scored two one-round knockouts in his homeland and will return here in the fall . . . Enrico Venturi also writes from Italy that he is counting the days until he gets back here and resumes his lightweight activities . . . Katsumi Morioka, Japanese bantamweight who boxes Quintana at Coney Island, is known as "Kats" to the fight mob.

Close friends insist that, in spite of the bags of gold being dangled before his eyes, Don Budge will not turn pro until the United States has defeated the Davis Cup successfully at least once . . . Kerr Petrie, dean of New York Golf writers, was born on the fringe of Carnoustie, where the British open was played this year.

Mount Vernon Undergoes Some Important Changes

Alterations Result of Research Among Records.

Washington, D. C. — Mount Vernon, home of George Washington near the national capital, has a new superintendent, the fourth since the Mount Vernon Ladies' association took over the care and upkeep of the famous shrine in 1858. Following the recent death of Colonel Harrison H. Dodge, the Ladies' association elected Charles Cecil Wall, former assistant superintendent, to take charge.

"Numerous changes and restorations have taken place at Mount Vernon in recent years," says the National Geographic society. "Many of the alterations, the new superintendent points out, were made as a result of extensive research work among records, letters and other documents found both in this country and abroad. As a result the Mansion House and its adjacent buildings and gardens are today more nearly as they were in Washington's time than when the Ladies' association took over the neglected estate. This organization, founded 79 years ago, by Miss Ann Pamela Cunningham of South Carolina, is chartered by the state of Virginia. Its officers serve without pay.

"Because the vast proportion of Mt. Vernon's thousands of annual visitors come by motor car, the federal government and the state of Virginia have each constructed trunk highways to take care of the heavy tourist traffic.

"Facing the circular plaza, but outside the gates, are lunch rooms, and souvenir shops, housed in buildings whose colonial architecture harmonizes with the rest of the estate. There is also an outdoor cafe. Parking spaces for cars and busses are partially concealed by shrubbery and trees.

"A high brick wall, which was not a feature of the plantation in Washington's day, but was erected to protect it today, encircles almost the entire estate.

"Perhaps the most conspicuous change in the Mansion House itself is the removal of the white railing above the roof of the portico on the east, or Potomac, front. Study of several ancient drawings and paintings of the mansion, some of which have only recently come to light, revealed that the railing did not appear on any pictures prior to 1839, and therefore the railing must not have been a feature of the house during Washington's lifetime. Consequently it has been taken down.

"Another restoration, of particular interest to landscape architects, is the kitchen garden along the south side of the bowling green.

Rats Protected at Mine; Give Warning of Danger

Zortman, Mont.—Under strict orders from the management, the employees in the mines near this small north central Montana mining community protect the hundreds of rats that scurry from tunnel to tunnel and regard them as their friends.

The rodents have saved many miners from injury and possible death because of their uncanny sense to detect caveins.

Due to the sandy nature of the mine formations, caveins are common. The rats are able to determine the slipping earth long before miners are aware of the movement. Wasting no time, the rodents run for safety, thus spreading the alarm.

No dead or even crippled rat has ever been found after a cavein has been cleared.

Heat Stored Up by Earth Cooks Plants to Death

Minneapolis. — Temperatures reach 175 degrees a few inches beneath the earth's surface, it was revealed in the annual report of Dr. Raphael Zon, director of the Lakes states forest experiment station at University of Minnesota farm.

The information was obtained from thermometers buried in the surface soil last summer. The difference between the above-and-below temperatures was due to the earth's capacity for storing heat, Doctor Zon explained.

Minneapolis. — With more than 100,000 volumes in its Scandinavian department library, the University of Minnesota's collection is recognized as the finest library of Scandinavian works in the United States, according to Andrew A. Stromberg, department head.

The university collection is the only one in this country which contains a complete record of proceedings of the governing bodies of Norway, Denmark and Sweden, Stromberg said.

"In the past, Scandinavian students have shown slight interest in the courses our department offered," Stromberg said. "They were too close to the immigration period of their parents. ### What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

This Business of Golf.

OAKLAND, CALIF. — As I sit writing this, I look out where elderly gentlemen, intent on relaxing, may be seen tensing themselves up tighter than a cocked wolf-trap, and then staggering toward the clubhouse with every nerve standing on end and screaming for help and highballs.

I smile at them, for I am one who has given up golf. You might even go so far as to say golf gave me up. I tried and tried, but I never broke a typhoid patient's temperature chart—never got below 102. I spent so much time climbing into sand-traps and out again that people began thinking I was a new kind of hermit, living by preference in bunkers—the old man of the link beds, they'd be calling me next.

And I used to slice so far into the rough that, looking for my ball, I penetrated jungles where the foot of man hadn't trod since the early mound builders. That's how I added many rare specimens to my collection of Indian relics.

But the last straw was when a Scotch professional, after morbidly watching my form, told me that at any rate there was one thing about me which was correct—I did have on golf stockings!

WARNING to pet lovers: If you own guinea pigs or tame rabbits or trained seals or such-like gentle creatures, try to keep the word from them that some of the majority members of the lower branch of congress actually threatened to defy their master's voice.

The senate always has been known as the world's greatest deliberative body—and, weak by week and month by month don't those elder statesmen know how to deliberate! But these last few years the house has earned the reputation of being the most docile legislative outfit since Aesop's King Stork ruled over the synod of the frogs.

So should the news ever spread among the lesser creatures, hither-to so placid and biddable, that an example had been set at Washington, there's no telling when the Belgian hares will start rampaging and the singing mice will begin acting up rough and the grubworms will gang against the big old woodpecker.

Professional Orators.

WE HAVE in Southern California a professional orator who long ago discovered that the most dulcet music on earth was the sound of his own voice. He'll speak anywhere at the drop of the hat and provide the hat.

What's worse, this coast-defender of ours labors under the delusion that, if he shouts at the top of his voice, his eloquence will be all the more forceful. The only way to avoid meeting him at dinner is to eat at an owl wagon. But the other night, at an important banquet, he strangely was missing from the array of speakers at the head table. One guest turned in amazement to his neighbor:

"Where's Blank?" he inquired, naming the absentee.

"Didn't you hear?" answered the other. "He busted a couple of ear drums."

"Whose?" said the first fellow.

Foes of Nazidom.

THE veteran Rabbi Stephen Wise of New York has been reasonably outspoken in his views on Nazi treatment of his own co-religionists and the practitioners of other faiths as well. And one of the most venerable prelates of the Catholic church in Europe, while discussing the same subject, hasn't exactly pulled his punches, either.

So what? A friend just back from abroad tells me that in Berlin he heard a high government officer fiercely denounce these two distinguished men. About the mildest thing the speaker said about them was that both were senile. Somehow or other, the speech wasn't printed in the German papers—maybe by orders from on high.

Well, far be it from this innocent bystander to get into religious arguments and besides I have no first-hand knowledge as to the Christian clergyman's state of health, although, judging by his utterances, there's nothing particularly wrong with his mind. But I do know Rabbi Wise, and, if he's in his dotage, so is Shirley Temple. And I risk the assertion that he would be perfectly willing to have one foot in the grave if he could have the other on Herr Hitler's neck.

Household Questions

Clear Blueing.—To prevent blueing from streaking clothes on washday, dissolve a tablespoon of soda in the "blue" water.

Washing Linoleum.—Dissolve a lump of sugar in the water when washing linoleum or oilcloth, and a brilliant polish will result.

Removing Tar.—Tar is easily removed from the hands and clothing with lard, followed by warm water and soap.

A Refreshing Drink.—Rhubarb juice makes a good beverage of pleasing tart flavor. Clarify the juice with water and add sugar to taste. It may also be combined with fruit juices.

Heat the Nail.—Before hammering a nail into the wall either heat the end over a gas jet or hold it in boiling water for a few seconds. If the nail is treated in this way the plaster will not crumble and the nail will hold firmly for a far longer period than otherwise.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Flogging in England

In England flogging probably reached its heyday after the monasteries, where the poor had been used of free meals, were abolished. This led to a great increase in vagrancy. The punishment was whipping. In many places the law provided that a vagrant be carried to some market town "and there tied to the end of a cart, naked, and beaten with whips throughout such market town till the body shall be bloody." Queen Elizabeth changed the law so offenders were stripped only to the waist. She also substituted the whipping post for the cart.

Wine Temperamental Beverage

Wine is a temperamental beverage. Some kinds improve on long ocean voyages. Other kinds become "sick" on trains and ships and require months of rest to recover their tranquility. Others sometimes have temporary "sick spells," the cause of which baffles even expert wine doctors.—Collier's Weekly.

"National" Soups

The "national" soups are France's pot-au-feu and petite marmite, Italy's minestrone, Russia's borch, Holland's erwte nsoep and Spain's puchero.

Bishop at St. Maurice
 St. Maurice, in the Valais, Switzerland, was a fortress in the days of Julius Caesar and its Abbey was endowed by many kings, emperors and potentates. Some of Charlemagne's gifts are in the treasury. St. Maurice is the seat of the titular Bishop of Bethlehem.

Ruminants
 Animals that chew the cud are called ruminants, and the division of the animal world to which they belong is called the Ruminantia. Among the ruminants are the oxen, sheep, goats, antelopes, giraffes, deer, chevrotains, camels and their close relatives.

Cinquecento
Cinquecento is a term used to describe that period of the Italian Renaissance between 1500 and 1600. It is applied particularly to the artistic styles prevalent at that time, and especially to the classicism of the high Renaissance.

Strawberries as a Dentifrice

U. S. Debt to France in 1790
Hamilton's report to congress showed that the public debt in 1790 amounted to some $54,000,000, of which about $12,000,000 was owed to foreign creditors, chiefly in France. There was also an aggregate of $21,000,000 of the state debts. Hamilton proposed to add this to the national debt, making $75,000,000 in all, and recommended that the national government assume the state debts. The first part of the Nineteenth century.

Hale

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Bronson and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Townsend visited in Sault Ste. Marie Sunday, returning Monday night by way of Traverse City and Petoskey.

Mrs. Rose Kelley was in town Thursday evening. Owing to her age, Mrs. Kelley seldom comes to town and many old friends who stopped to greet her were pleased to see her looking so well.

Frank Gruber, who has been ill from a heart attack is better. Mrs. John LeClair Sr. and daughter, Phyllis, visited at the home of her brother, Herbert Londo.

Gardens are flourishing these days and one of the best in town belongs to Mrs. Ross Bernard, who has a beautiful garden of flowers and vegetables.

Another display of flowers that makes a beauty spot is cared for by E. W. McGirr on the lawn of the Baptist church.

Mrs. A. H. Coure and daughter, Isabell, of Flint called on friends here last week.

A meeting of the trustees of the Methodist Church was held at the home of Ross Bernard Sunday night.

Mrs. Bert Spencer and daughter, Degretta, spent the week end in Saginaw.

Thurman Schofield is cutting timber for a new house to replace the one destroyed by fire. A bee is planned for Friday when they hope to deliver the logs to Salisbury's mill for sawing.

A tent show will be in town all week.

Mrs. J. H. Johnson entertained the bridge club Thursday evening. Jeanette Montgomery of Bay City is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. John O. Johnson. Her brother, Wade, is visiting his great uncle, John Koehler.

Vacation Bible Schools
Miss Birdice Lawrence of Lansing, who has spent seventeen years in China, will speak at the Methodist Episcopal church of Hale at 8:00 p. m., Sunday, August 15th. Some very interesting pictures of the Chinese people and their country will also be shown.

The closing program of the Bielby Vacation Bible School will also be presented on August 15th. Local children will appear in native costumes. The public is very cordially invited.

On Monday, August 16th, at 1:30 p. m. a six-day Vacation Bible school will open in the Londo school under Miss Lawrence's supervision. All school age children will be welcome.

Ripples from Guiley Creek
Well, this reporter has been keeping a check on fishing conditions at the turn of the tide, and last Friday tried to fish against the tide table deliberately, and came back without a single trout, the first time I had been "skunked" this season.

George Davis of Mt. Pleasant, who never fished trout until he came here to work on the Monfort test well, caught 12 nice trout up to 2:30 p. m. He started fishing in the morning about 8:30 and the tide turned at 9:00 a. m. and 3:00 p. m. Best fishing is usually during the hour and a half following those periods. I went fishing at 4:30 p. m. and fished until 6:00 over the same water in which I had taken 12 good ones a couple days before when I had fished at the turn of the tide. This time I drew a complete blank for the first time this season. Sunday evening I was on Sand Lake just before dark when fish are usually rising, but I didn't see a fish rise in over an hour. The tide didn't turn until 10:00 p. m. Many people do not think that tides effect inland fishing, but the man who fishes at those times gets more than twice as many fish as the other fellow who fishes at any time.

Work on the Monfort test well has been very slow the past two weeks, being shut down a good deal of the time.

Miss Donna Press of Detroit is spending the week with us.

Teapot Used in 1790
The teapot did not become part of a service until 1790, when a sugar bowl and creamer to match were added. During the latter part of the George III era came matching coffee pots, to be followed years later by the complete service with kettle and waste bowl of uniform size.

Tongue-Tasting
Not all parts of the tongue are evenly sensitive to the various tastes. The tip of the tongue is better able to taste sweet substances, while the base quickly detects the presence of bitter things. Materials containing salt are most easily tasted at the sides of the tongue, but sour or acid tastes are felt all over.

Many Castes in India
There are hundreds of castes in India, but the highest and lowest have the most members. The former is the Brahmin, or priestly class. The latter is the Chamars caste. The Chamars are at the bottom of the social ladder because they work in hides and leather.

Peculiar Hallucination
A most peculiar hallucination is the one in which a man constantly imagines that he sees himself or his "double." Not only does he see this apparitional individual peering at him from mirrors but often sitting in a chair as he enters a room or walking in front of him as he goes down the street. — Collier's Weekly.

The Word "Antimacassar"
The word "antimacassar" comes from Macassar, the capital of Celebes, and the source of macassar oil with which dandies once slicked their hair.

Successful Efforts
Efforts are always successes. It is a greater thing to try without succeeding than to succeed without trying.

The painting of St. James church was completed Friday. The work was done by Earl Schneider and A. B. Schneider, painters and decorators of Sherman township. The appearance of the church has been very much improved.

WILBER

Mr. and Mrs. George Davidson and family of Bay City spent a few days at the A. Christian home.

The ball game played at Whitemore Sunday was won by Wilber by a 11-10 score.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Wood of East Tawas spent Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. A. Christian.

George Butler of Flint has been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cross and family.

Chas. Cross of East Tawas spent Sunday at his parental home.

George Greene, son, Ronald, and daughter, Elsa, spent the week end in Saginaw.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the bereaved family of Geo. Thomas from friends in this township.

Mrs. Mary Sims has gone to Ann Arbor where she will receive medical aid.

Henry Thompson returned to the St. Clair Flats after spending a few days at his home here.

Miss Ruth Thompson of Detroit is spending a vacation here with her parents.

Frank Cogley and son are spending a time here with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schriber have returned from a visit with relatives in Wisconsin.

Weather at South, North Poles
Speaking generally, it is colder at the South Pole and near it than it is in the region around the North Pole. Both the average temperature and the extreme temperatures are lower at the South Pole. While the North Pole is at sea level, there is a great land mass, 10,000 feet high and over, at the other pole, and this elevation makes for lower temperatures.

No Ill Effects From Moon
The popular notion that the moon affects the mind, causing periodic insanity, has no foundation in fact. The term "lunatic" is derived from the Latin word "luna" (the moon), and corresponding words in French, Spanish, Portuguese and Italian are similarly derived. The derivation thus embodies the old belief that persons mentally afflicted were affected by moon changes.

Where Mountain Lions Live
Mountain lions, variously called cougar, panther, puma, and catamount, range in the large wilderness areas west of the one hundredth meridian. They are hunted chiefly in the Rocky Mountain states and southward through the desert mountain ranges of Arizona, Texas and New Mexico. Farther westward they are less numerous, except in the coastal ranges of California, Oregon and Washington, where they are somewhat abundant.

Sherman

Mr. and Mrs. Hub Schroeder of Pontiac spent the week end at the home of his parents here.

Nelson McIvor returned from Detroit last week where he has been working.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Parent were at Tawas City Saturday.

Mrs. Joe Schneider is spending a week visiting relatives at Bay City.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jordan were at Tawas on business Friday.

A. B. Schneider as at Harrisville Saturday.

Wm. Rhodes was at Tawas City Saturday.

Mrs. George Grabow, who has been visiting here for a week, returned to her home at Bay City on Saturday.

Mrs. Robt. Stover was at West Branch one day last week.

SYNOPSIS

Preparing to close her summer home and spend the winter in France with a great-aunt, Anne Vincent, a middle-aged widow, accedes to the pleas of her adopted daughter Rachel, twenty and pretty, that she tell her about her real mother. Anne, an unselfish, understanding soul, finds the task difficult. Rachel learns that her real mother was beautiful eighteen-year-old Elinor Malloy, deserted by her young husband, before Rachel's birth. He was killed in the World War. In desperate financial straits, Elinor had agreed to Rachel's adoption at birth by Anne, whose own baby had died. Elinor subsequently had married Peter Cayne, a wealthy New York business man, and had a son. To soften the story for Rachel, Anne omits telling her that her mother had been callous and selfish. Rachel goes fishing with Bob Eddis, a coal boy who runs a library and does wood carving. She refuses his plea to stay in Rockboro and marry him instead of going to New York to look for a job. Anne decides that it is time for Rachel to learn more of her mother's life. Rachel makes arrangements to stay in New York with "Pink," a keen, vivacious girl absorbed in her job. Anne leaves provision for Rachel's finances in case of need and leaves for Europe. Rachel, bent on seeing her real mother, looks up Elinor Cayne's number. Rachel learns the Caynes are not yet in town. Pink takes Rachel to dinner at Tom and Rhoda Steele's where she meets Oliver Land, a shabby genteel young man out of work who suggests that she apply for a job as a photographer's model for advertising illustrations. He agrees to introduce her to the head of an agency. Rachel is not entirely happy with Pink Matthews. Her desire to see Elinor Cayne increases. Through Oliver Land she meets Louis Vinco, is hired as a photographer's model and succeeds on her first assignment posing for furniture advertising. Oliver makes her feel her indebtedness to him.

CHAPTER V—Continued

Rachel knew better. Oliver hung around because she liked him and he liked her, very much; yet it was not as simple as that, Oliver was not a simple person. He might like her—very much—but he might also be willing to take that commission, though he never admitted it outright. Rachel didn't feel that she could offer money to him; if she did and he took it, it would change everything. Men shouldn't take money from women like that. Then Rachel would wonder what difference it made, it was all right to help a friend in trouble; what difference did it make whether the friend was a man or a girl? But something always balked her when she tried to speak to Oliver about money, she didn't quite trust his want, it seemed, though she hated herself for suspecting it, a bit too histrionic.

"Everything seems to be going nowhere, nothing happens that makes sense," she thought unhappily. "I might as well have stayed in Rockboro with Bob Eddis. I've done nothing at all about the one thing I wanted most, nothing." She looked at the clock. She must go to an appointment made for her by Vinco, photographs for an automobile company, she would sit, smiling gaily, in a long red roadster with a young man model beside her at the wheel, also smiling gaily because (supposedly) with the least amount of gasoline and the greatest amount of ease they were passing all the bigger grander higher-priced cars on the road! It bored Rachel to think of it.

CHAPTER VI

It turned out not to be a bore at all. The man model who sat beside her in the car was quite different from the usual Vinco brand. Rachel thought she had never seen him before but he told her she was mistaken. "I was there the first day you came," he said, "I've been hoping to see you again, but I'm not around very often. My name's Curt Elton. I know yours, you're Miss Vincent."

It reminded her a little of Bob Eddis, he was so offhand, yet personal in his look at her. He didn't seem like a model, he wasn't slick, he wasn't collegiate, he wasn't handsome and self-conscious. He was plain and rather gangling, with a square face and humorous intelligent eyes.

"This doesn't seem your game exactly," said Rachel, as he opened the door of the car for her.

"It isn't. But Louis Vinco comes from my home town in Ohio and used to go to school with my brother, and when anything comes along where I might possibly be used, he sends for me. He's a good scout, Louis."

They sat for awhile after this, following directions. Rachel tilted her profile and smiled her smiles. Curt Elton kept his hands on the wheel and gazed ahead intently yet confidently, like a good driver accustomed to speeding.

When the long ordeal was over Curt Elton waited while Rachel took off the sport outfit sent for the picture and put on her street clothes. "Will you go somewhere and have a cup of tea with me?—or a cocktail, if you'd rather. I'm hungry and you ought to be. Or are you one of the ladies who never eat for fear of spoiling the perfect figure?"

"I don't know if I'm a lady, I haven't heard the word for so long. But I certainly do eat and I'd love some tea, for I'm dead."

Curt caught her arm as they passed an old-fashioned hotel.

"Let's stop in here, then. This place has good muffins and nice deep-cushioned chairs and they have real India tea, which should always be drunk, Miss Vincent, without any fixings—no sugar, cream, lemon or whatnot."

"Oh, I must have a tiny pinch of whatnot!" said Rachel; and then, "I don't know what makes me so silly. It must be because I'm tired."

It was early, there were few people in the tearoom. The tea and muffins were delicious and at first Curt and Rachel ate in the pleasant greedy silence of hunger. But at his second muffin Curt paused and spoke. "I'm awfully glad you came out with me. It was kind. I was afraid to ask you, really, for fear you'd turn me down."

"Well," said Rachel, reflectively, "it's the first time I've been out with one of Vinco's young men—"

Curt stopped her with a shout. "Hey, lay off, I'm not one of Vinco's young men, God forbid. I'm just a country newspaper boy taking a sabbatical year to learn about the big city. And Louie Vinco, the good-hearted guy, throws a piece of easy money in my way as often as he can, because he worries about my finances. I'm not really hard up, but Louis thinks anything less than a plush suite and a private bath with valet attached is squalor. Needless to say, Louis didn't get those ideas in our native village."

"If you don't like being a model and don't need the money, why do you do it?" asked Rachel.

"But I just told you I'm a newspaper man and a comparative stranger in town. I want to know people, all kinds of people, and I want to do all kinds of things. This is my year off. When it's over I'm going back home and edit the paper my father edited." His face clouded for an instant, but he went on: "I'll have a lot of experience and a lot of pictures in my mind to keep forever. Like you, sitting there looking like, yes, you do—like Marlene Dietrich in 'Blue Angel.'"

"But What's It All About?"

"All legs and wispy ostrich feathers! Thanks! I can only hope you mean it kindly."

"Most girls would have screamed with joy."

"Then you've tried it before, that line?"

"It's my test. I say to a girl, 'You look like Marlene Dietrich in 'Blue Angel,'" and watch how she reacts. Then I rate her, the count ranging from one-half of one percent to ten."

"And what does the rating prove, Mr. Einstein?"

"It doesn't prove anything. The trouble is, I try to do this modern young man patter and it never works out, the girl doesn't give the right answers."

"Now that's all settled," said Rachel, "suppose we skip it and talk sense. How long have you been here?"

"Since the first of June. I have a room in the Caledonia where O. Henry used to live. I get a new job every two weeks or so and between times I work for Vinco. It's all against his principles to take me on in this odd way, but he's intent on improving me and, do you know, sometimes I fear he's succeeding. I bought one of those deep blue shirts the other day from a swell haberdasher. I'm slipping."

"Tell me about your jobs," begged Rachel, "and don't take that last muffin, it belongs to me."

"I've driven a taxi, been a doorman for a chop suey joint, sold ladies' hosiery from door to door and delivered hats for a Fifth avenue milliner so far. How's that? I'd like to get a job as a waiter, but there's a stiff union. I may do some amateur window washing, or janitor work, and I want awfully to be an usher at Madison Square Garden."

"But what's it all about? Why do you try all this? Don't tell me you're writing a book."

"I might at that, a Worm's-Eye View of New York, maybe."

"It sounds grubby enough for a worm."

"Listen, my haughty beauty, in spite of the popular adage soap has very little to do with morals and none at all with interest of character, I know stacks of people who don't wash and don't shave much, but they're swell, nevertheless."

"Cleanliness combines very well with other attractions, though," Rachel maintained. "I must go on home," she continued, rising, "I'm going to get dinner tonight. Thanks ever so much for the tea. It's been fun." She was surprised that she was speaking the truth, the half hour with Curt Elton had reduced her discontent and pushed her difficulties into an easier perspective.

She stepped on the way home and bought mushrooms and bacon, limes and avocados, and as Pink was late she had dinner almost ready when the other came in. "Oh good!" exclaimed Pink. "I'm so glad we're going to have something here instead of going out. I'm so tired I'm sunk. What elegant food!"

Just as they sat down to table there was a ring at their bell and a florist's box came for Rachel. She opened it to find snapdragons and African daisies, all pale rose and orange and yellow, with a card saying "You look like these, not like Marlene," but no name was signed.

So she had to tell Pink about Curt Elton and Pink said he seemed a good scout. "And a lot better than that so-and-so Oliver Land, if you ask me," she added.

"There's nothing the matter with Oliver except that he can't get a job," said Rachel, annoyed by Pink's coarseness. "Since when have you got a down on people because of that?"

"This Elton lad seems to have no difficulty in finding jobs," replied Pink, calmly.

"That's different, he's quite another type. Everyone's not so smart and up and coming as you are, Pink. We're not all made alike."

"And thank heaven for that. But I do like a man to earn his own living and not cadge it."

Rachel had a grievance she had not aired. It would now make a reprisal.

"I don't criticize your friends, Pink. Not that I think so much of them—there's that girl across the hall, she's been in here half a dozen times and always to borrow something, carfare or a hat or an evening dress—"

"Genie Moore is going to be a great singer some day and she's only got money enough to pay for her living and her lessons and I'm glad to help her along. She works like a horse and she's got to have decent clothes when she gets a chance to sing at a private house. I suppose you're still peeved because I loaned her your white evening dress. I wouldn't have done it if she could have worn mine. I had it cleaned for you, didn't I?"

"This doesn't need to be a brawl," said Rachel. "I certainly didn't like your lending my white evening dress without telling me, but—"

"It was a chance for her to sing as a substitute and I didn't have time to do anything else. I should think you'd want to help another girl along. Look here, I'll buy you another evening dress and you can give me the white one and I'll give it to Genie Moore."

"Certainly not," said Rachel, stiffly. She didn't want to quarrel with Pink. She had come home feeling better than in weeks, the flowers had added to her peace of mind, but now somehow she and Pink were fighting. Over what? Over Oliver Land. She went on after a minute: "I don't want to defend Oliver especially, you'll think I'm interested in him and I'm not, but you ought to be fair, Pink. He may be a great actor some day and you're writing down the first appointment on a card and while she did it Rachel heard Vinco going on with his talk to Curt.

just as Genie Moore may be a singer."

"It's right to help Genie because she works and tries to help herself," blazed Pink. "Oliver Land's a loafer and a beat!"

Rachel got up and put on her hat and coat. "I'm going to the movies," she said, blindly. She stopped at the door, remembering that Pink was tired. "Leave the dishes, I'll wash them when I come in," she managed to say.

Her mood of discontent and loneliness had come back stronger than ever. She was, she thought, an utter failure. She sat in the nearest movie theater and watched the roaring comedy without seeing it, while all around her the audience chuckled and chortled. Finally, in the midst of the longest, loudest laughter she rose abruptly: and went out. At the side of the theater foyer a telephone caught her eye. With sudden resolution she went in and dialed a number she knew by heart: R-E-4-5674, and as she heard the click of the connection and the far muffled ringing of the bell her heart began to swell and hammer painfully.

A man's voice answered, a servant: "Yes, this is Mr. Peter Cayne's apartment. . . . You wish to speak to Mrs. Cayne. . . . What is the name, please, I will see if Mrs. Cayne is at home—"

Rachel stammered painfully: "I—I don't want to give my name—please tell Mrs. Cayne it's—it's—someone she knew—a long time ago—"

The voice answered as if by rote: "What is the name, please, I will see if Mrs. Cayne is at home—"

"Ask her please to speak to me—she used to—know me—" begged Rachel.

There was a pause, and then, "Mrs. Cayne will speak to no one who does not give a name," and the receiver was hung up.

The shock of the rebuff cleared up a little of Rachel's disordered emotions. She walked home slowly, thinking that she had been incredibly absurd.

When she got back to the apartment Pink had washed the dishes—whether as a rebuke or a peace gesture, Rachel did not know—and shut herself in her room.

As she dashed around trying to dress and make coffee at the same time, the next morning, Rachel realized that Pink was still angry. She had not fixed any orange juice for Rachel or even cut the extra slice of bread ready for toasting, which the first one up usually left to help the later riser on her way. And yet Pink knew Vinco's stiffness about punctuality. Rachel hurried and burnt her fingers and cracked a glass and spilled the cream in the tiny refrigerator. At last she was ready but she had to take a taxi to the office, which was an extravagance. But when she came in, feeling bothered and fussed, there was Curt Elton talking to Mr. Vinco and his smile and greeting made her feel better. "Oh, those flowers!" she said. "They were so lovely. I can't tell you."

"Never mind trying. Listen, I've had good news for me. All those auto pictures have to be made over, the photographer, poor nut, used the wrong plates or the wrong lens or something. I'm going to pin a medal on him."

"It's true, Miss Vincent," said Vinco. "You have to go back there as soon as you're through with one other appointment. You've got to model an evening wrap for a fur catalogue, but that's all."

Miss Dean was writing down the first appointment on a card and while she did it Rachel heard Vinco going on with his talk to Curt.

Geographers Say London Is Sinking Into the Sea; Inch Added in Year

London is sinking into the sea, so the Royal Geographical society tells us, and this year she has completed another inch in that seaward journey, reports a London correspondent in the Chicago Tribune.

London has sunk 30 feet in all, but it has taken 5,000 years to do it. It has not sunk at a regular rate either, but by fits and starts, and the Royal Geographical society says that the "next 50 years are likely to show startling changes."

There are many ways in which geologists can ascertain what has happened in the past and forecast with reasonable accuracy what is likely to happen in the future. There is a historical check on many things.

For instance, in the reign of Henry VIII, Cardinal Wolsey built the Bridewell palace on the embankment at Blackfriars. He would not be likely to build a palace where the ground floor would be flooded at every high tide. Yet that is where the palace was. When they were laying the foundations for Unilever house, which stands on the site of the old Bridewell palace, the palace wharf was found to be seven feet below the ordinary high tides of today.

Geologists say that London has not sunk the usual amount every decade. There was a period of about 200 years when the subsiding ceased and then there occurred such a quick sinking that wide areas were flooded.

A tide only 15 feet above the spring level would submerge most of the city today.

London's danger comes from the sea up the river, rather than from the sources down, as is the case with American floods.

GOD GIVES LAWS TO A NATION.

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:1-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. . . . Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. Matt. 22:37, 39.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Good Laws.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Before the Mount of God.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why a Nation Needs Laws.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Basic Laws for a Nation's Life.

Basic laws have been laid down by God for the orderly administration of his universe. Men see them clearly in the physical universe, although at times they do not recognize the One who created all things.

Physical laws are of great importance, but of even deeper significance are the moral and spiritual laws which control the human life. There is in the world a moral law—a distinction between right and wrong—which man may ignore only to his own sorrow, and which he cannot abrogate or destroy. All laws of men which are true and right are founded on this underlying moral law, and are in reality simply a development and interpretation of "God's Code of Morals"—the Ten Commandments.

These commandments given to Israel at Mt. Sinai are worthy of careful study on the part of every reader. They may be grouped under two divisions.

I. A True View of God (vv. 1-11).

The first and most important question to be asked regarding any law is, "By whom was it established?" Legislation by an unauthorized person or organization has no power over others. Who gave the ten commandments? Verse 1 tells us "God spake all these words."

Men sneer at theology as being out-moded, but the fact is that Christian doctrine is the only safe foundation for Christian character. Unless my view of God is right, my life will be wrong. Until I know him I will not appreciate the authority of his law.

1. Whom to worship (vv. 2-5). There can be but one true God, and he alone is to be worshipped. He is a personal being, ready to enter into communion with each one of us. No image can take his place.

2. How to worship (vv. 6, 7). We are to love him and keep his commandments. There is to be no sham about this, for no matter how sweet and pious may be the praise and prayer of a man, he has taken the Lord's name in vain unless he keeps the Lord's commandments by holy living.

II. A Right Relationship to Man (vv. 12-17).

To be right with God means that we will also be right with our fellow man.

1. Family life (v. 12). The fifth commandment has to do with the relation between child and parent. There is a plain and direct command that father and mother should be honored. Only in respect and obedience to parents can the child possibly find true and proper development.

2. Physical life (vv. 13, 14). God is interested in our bodies. Already we have noted his provision for a day of rest each week. Now we are reminded of the sanctity of human life. "Thou shalt not kill," and remember there are many other ways to kill a man than by shooting him. Dr. Wilbur M. Smith makes a telling point by reminding us that we may kill others by selling them tainted food, intoxicating liquors, or "dope," by neglect of duty, by careless driving, by failing to provide employees with sanitary and healthful surroundings.

There is another way that the body may be destroyed—by its misuse in adulterous living.

3. Social life (vv. 15-17). "Thou shalt not steal"—and remember any dishonest appropriation of what does not belong to you is stealing—call it what you will. And "false witness"—how it has honeycombed our very civilization. Not a little of it is found within the church, more shame upon us! Lastly, we come to "covetousness"—which has been called one of "the respectable sins of nice people." It is subtle and often hidden. Let us root it out of our own lives by God's grace.

Enthusiasm in Work

Enthusiasm is the element of success in everything. It is the light that leads and the strength that lifts men on and up in the great struggles of scientific pursuits and of professional labor. It robs endurance of difficulty, and makes a pleasure of duty.—Bishop Doane.

A Translation

Let us learn what death is. It is simply a translation; not a state, but an act; not a condition, but a passage.

Intimate With Chic

THE lovely flower may have been born to blush unseen, Milady, but not you. Anyway, what chance could you have of going unnoticed when you wear one of these exciting new frocks by Sew-Your-Own—not the Ghost!

Cool, Cool, Cool.

The clever new dress at the left is as young as you are, and in dotted Swiss you'll be as crisp, pretty, and cool as though you bloomed always in an air-conditioned room.

Be certain of success because Sew-Your-Own has made everything easy for you in the step-by-step sewing instructions.

We Only Heard.

Maybe we're wrong, Little Sis, but we heard that this is the dress Mommy has her heart set on for you. You know princess lines that flare, and puff sleeves that give you that cunning big-little-girl look go over well with both mother and you.

You won't go wrong on gingham, silk crepe, broadcloth or percale. So here's hoping, Little Sis.

Vivacious Version.

Thumbs up on taffeta; eyes right for pattern 1349! It's a picture-pretty frock with a knack for bringing out the best in you. A happy idea is to cut one copy with short sleeves for now, another with the long style in a fallish fabric for that popular season just ahead.

The Patterns.

Pattern 1341 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 4½ yards of 39 inch material plus 2½ yards of machine pleating.

Pattern 1828 is designed for sizes 4, 6, 8, and 10 years. Size 6 requires 2½ yards of 35 inch material plus ¼ yard contrasting.

Pattern 1349 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 4½ yards of 39 inch material; with long sleeves 4½ yards of ribbon are required to gether with 1½ yards for the bow.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Prices of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

In Line of Duty

Jones had occasion to reprimand his wife.

"I think," he said, soothingly, "that you fib a little occasionally."

"Well, I think it's a wife's duty. I spoke well of you."

Called upon at the wedding supper, the happy groom arose and said: "I'm—er—happy to say we've never—er—had a cross word in all our—er—married life."

Costly Knowledge

Pickpocket—I only took the gent's watch out of his pocket to know the time.

Judge—Well, I can tell you—twelve months.

Late Awakening

Pugilist (coming to after knock-out)—So he's the champion now? Second—Not 'im. 'E's been beaten twice since 'e knocked you out.

SAMMY JAY CALMS DOWN

EVERYBODY on the Green Meadows and in the Green Forest who heard Sammy Jay thought he had gone crazy. He certainly acted as if he were crazy. He couldn't sit still long enough to answer questions, but flew here and flew there, and flew everywhere, all the time screaming so fast that he mixed his words all up. It was no wonder that his neighbors thought Sammy Jay was crazy.

But he wasn't. No, sir, he wasn't. He was just excited, terribly excited.

He hunted up Unc' Billy Possum and asked him what all the fuss was about.

ed. And it was all because of what he had seen deep in the Green Forest. But his little neighbors didn't know anything about this, and so they thought that something was wrong with Sammy's head, and they said to each other: "Poor Sammy Jay. Isn't it too bad? What could have happened to make him go crazy?"

Now, all this made Sammy worse than before. You know, when you try to tell a thing and people cannot understand you, you are very apt to grow impatient. Most people are, anyway. And it was so with Sammy Jay. He tried to tell what he had seen, but was so excited that his words tumbled over each other and were so mixed up that no one could understand what he was trying to tell, and this made Sammy more excited than ever, so that his talk was more mixed up than ever. Worse still, he began to lose his temper, and he quite lost it when he happened to overhear some of his neighbors say that he certainly was crazy. For the time being he quite forgot everything else and just told everybody what he thought of them, and what he told them wasn't at all nice.

Now, about this time along came Sammy's cousin, Blacky the Crow. He heard Sammy calling his neighbors bad names, and he heard the other little people saying that Sammy was crazy. He hunted up Unc' Billy Possum and asked him what all the fuss was about. Unc' Billy told him how Sammy Jay had come screaming about something he had seen deep in the Green Forest, and how nobody could make any sense of what he said. "He told us that it had great, big claws in its mouth," said Unc' Billy, grinning at the memory. "Do you wonder, Br'er Crow, that we uns think he is foolish in his head?"

Blackie said he didn't wonder at all, and then flew away to look for Sammy Jay. He had no trouble finding him, for he had only to listen to hear Sammy's angry voice. He flew right over to where Sammy was.

"You come over to the Lone Pine with me!" said he, sharply. Now if there is any one in all the Green Forest or on the Green Meadows for whom Sammy Jay has respect it is for his big cousin, Blackie the Crow. You see, smart and sly and clever as Sammy Jay is, Blacky the Crow is smarter and more sly and more clever, and Sammy knows

FIRST-AID TO AILING HOUSE

By ROGER B. WHITMAN

DULL DOOR KNOBS

TWO years ago a Colonial house was built in my neighborhood; small but very charming in design and appearance. It was quickly bought and occupied. The new mistress was very proud of it, and tried to keep it in its new condition. But inevitably, it began to deteriorate. One thing that greatly troubled her was the appearance of the hardware of the front door; the door knob and its plate, the push button and the knocker. When new, these were shiny brass, and weekly polishing was part of the house-mistress' schedule. After a year or so, however, she found that the metal no longer responded.

A glance was enough to show that the brass did not go all the way through; that it was only on the surface. The body of the hardware was steel, and was exposed as polishing took off the brass plating. The builder saved a little money for himself in using brass-plated steel instead of solid brass, although at the most it could not have been more than a dollar or two.

My advice was to replace the cheap metal with other pieces of solid brass, which could be had at any well stocked hardware store.

One disadvantage of steel hardware is that in time the paint around it becomes stained with rusty drip. With solid brass this does not occur.

PAINT ON WINDOW SILLS

Window sills and the rest of the inside trim around a window are usually finished with the same kind of paint that is used on the walls and other parts of a room. This inside paint is not intended to be exposed to weather; yet when a window is open, the window sills are no better protected than if they were outdoors. For this reason it is paint on the inside window sills that first becomes damaged. For protection, window sill paint and the paint on other nearby parts of a window can be given a coat of spar varnish. This, of course, is glossy but even so, it is better than the cracking, peeling, and even disappearance of the paint.

Love, Honor and Obey

Always Beautiful

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

Z INNIAS, gardenias, it's all the same to me, There isn't any difference, as far as I can see. Hothouse flow'rs or ones like ours, I always think and say That anything is beautiful, is pretty in a way. Buttercup or gutter pup, an orchestra, a bird, Always something to be seen or something to be heard, Alleyway or valley way, a country road, a street, Always something to be found, and always something sweet.

Silken hose or cotton clothes, it's all the same to me, There isn't any difference, as far as I can see. Womenfolk are human folk, whatever they may wear, Whether cotton, whether silk, I never really care. Janitors and senators, in overalls or what, Something good in all of them, the rest to be forgot. Fellowmen, if yellow men, or white or black or red, Chilly till they find a fire, and hungry till they're fed.

Many things and penny things, it's all the same to me, There isn't any difference, as far as I can see. All we own, however known for property or lands, All we own is in our hearts and never in our hands. Things we love are far above whatever we possess, Things we feel, not things we have, will bring us happiness. What we need, not much indeed, and then our loves and dreams, And life is always beautiful, or so it always seems.

ALF PADGHAM—BRITISH OPEN CHAMPION

POSSESSES POLISHED GAME FROM TEE TO PIN—LARGE HANDS A HELP

SETS PRO PACE

ALF PADGHAM was the British professional golfer of the year 1936. His crowning achievement was winning the British Open title but even prior to this event he had won several major events. His yearly earnings total as well as his average score would compare favorably with that of high bracketed American pros. To win such an amount of money in English tournaments, one must have a monopoly on the prize events and it is just such a golf tycoon that Padgham proved to be. Padgham can put plenty of power and subsequent distance to his drives but they are not the result of great physical leverage but rather the product of smooth, leisurely swinging. This is the hallmark of the consistent golfer who can shoot par golf for round after round. Bobby Jones once observed that he had never known a first class golfer who did not possess large hands and feet. Padgham can boast of the former in good measure. To the English observer they compare favorably with Harry Vardon's, which means the ultra in British praise. While Padgham's game is now well rounded there was a time when his putting was the weak sister of his game. Practice cured this and his smooth flowing stroke is now good enough to more than hold its own with golf's greatest.

A Quiz With Answers Offering Information on Various Subjects

1. What causes leaves to change color in autumn?
2. Who said, "It is much easier to be critical than to be correct"?
3. Which are the lightest birds in proportion to their size that fly?
4. There were how many signers of the Declaration of Independence?
5. What is the total number of war medals that have been given to soldiers? Which medal was most widely distributed?
6. Are car colors restricted in Japan?

Answers

1. Gradual formation of cells at the stem of the leaf finally shuts off the supply of chlorophyll, or green coloring matter, and starts the formation of the gaudy autumnal colors.

2. The expression was used by Benjamin Disraeli in the house of commons on January 24, 1860.
3. The birds with great powers of flight, such as the sea-gull, are the lightest birds to fly. The common gull weighs only a quarter of a pound. Its bones are hollow and filled with air.
4. There were 56 signers of the Declaration of Independence.
5. The total of medals on record at the War department is 1,543,721. The Victory medal, issued after the World war, is the most widely distributed.
6. In Japan only imperial household cars may be painted maroon, and no cars except hearses may be painted yellow, which to the natives signifies mourning.

COLLECTING LIQUID RUBBER ON FIRESTONE PLANTATIONS IN LIBERIA

An ever-increasing supply of rubber comes from these plantations. Savings made by controlling raw materials and by more efficient manufacturing and distribution make extra values possible at no extra cost.

BECAUSE in Firestone Standard Tires —

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST BLOWOUTS — eight extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process. By this process every cord in every ply is saturated with liquid rubber. This counteracts internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST PUNCTURES — because under the tread are two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING — because the tread is scientifically designed.

YOU GET LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE because of the extra tough, long-wearing tread.
