Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fiedler and sons of Detroit visited Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rempert for several days.

C. L. McLean has been visiting relatives in Oklahoma the past week. (Continued on back page)

LOCALS DEFEAT ROSE CITY IN 4 TO 1 GAME

Twining Will Play Local Team Here Next Sunday

Last Sunday's contest at Rose City was one of the fastest games played by the locals this season. But 1 hour and 40 minutes were required in downing the Ogemaw County boys, the final count being 4 to 1.

Two hits and one run were all Rose City could collect off the Tawas hurling, while 19 of the hilly country lads went down swinging. Bill Mallon twirled the first five innings for the locals. He allowed 2 hits and their lone tally while 11 men missed the third strike. Shellenbarger took over the mound duties in the 6th. He worked 3 innings, striking out 6 of the opposing batters and allowing no hits. Slosser, another wrong handed pitcher, tossed them up in the 9th, getting 2 strike outs and issuing 1 base on balls.

The locals collected 9 hits off the offerings of H. Houck. He issued 1 base on balls while 5 of the Tawas batsmen were fooled with the third strike.

Twining will furnish the opposition for Tawas at her athletic field next Sunday, August 22. This is an all-important game, as Turner and Prescott are tied for first place and Tawas is but 1/2 game behind. This game is the last on the schedule but Tawas has two postponed games to be played off. One being at Alabaster and the other with Hemlock on the local field. Don't fail to see these games as they have a decisive bearing on the outcome of the American League championship race. The boys are all primed ready to step out and regain the top seat in the standings. A lot of help from the stands can't hurt, any ball club so let's all turn out and help bag these last games.

123 New Books For Iosco County Library

The Iosco County Library has received a gift of 123 books from the WPA. These books, all new copies sent from Macanley's book shop in Detroit, have been distributed to our four library stations, namely, Tawas City, East Tawas, Whittemore and Alabaster. In a few weeks the books will be exchanged, giving our patrons an opportunity to read all the books.

A few of the books in our Tawas City station are: "Gone With the Wind"—Mitchell "White Banners"—Douglas. "Great Aunt Lavinia"—J. Lincoln "Sound of Running Feet"—Lawrence. "I'll Met by Moonlight"—Leslie Moore.

There are several other popular books and also many good attractive juvenile books.

Survey Lake Street For U. S. 23 Widening

The State Highway Department is making a survey of U. S. 23 in Tawas City and plans will be made for the widening of Lake street east from Matthew street. About 6 weeks will be required for making the survey.

With the great increase in traffic especially trucks, on Lake street, this portion of the U. S. 23 has become a menace to driving here. The department has had the proposed widening under consideration for a number of years and the removal of this hazard will be a benefit to the thousands of motorists who pass through the city, as well as local drivers.

Iosco Baseball League

Miner's Grove continued on their march to the championship of the Iosco Baseball League by defeating the Whittemore nine in a game with plenty of action. The lead see-sawed back and forth throughout the game, Miner's finally ending up in front by a close score of 11-10.

The Wilber, Baldwin game was a one-sided affair with Wilber winning by a score of 16-8.

Next Sunday Wilber will be hosts to Miner's Grove. This game has a decisive bearing on the outcome of the race. Wilber must win this game to keep in the running. If you are looking for a hard fought, knock 'em down and drag 'em out baseball game don't fail to see this contest. It will be well worth your time.

Baldwin will make an attempt to get out of the cellar by upsetting Whittemore if they can. This game will be played on the East Tawas athletic field.

Yucatan Holds Trophy In Class A Boat Races

A week of excellent racing and yachting activities ended Saturday night with the Commodore's banquet at the Hotel Holland. Phil Fletcher of Alpena acted as toastmaster. At this time trophies were given to the winners in the various events.

Harold Moller's Yucatan again defeated a strong list of contenders in Class A and won the trophy for the second year. This yacht, built in 1935 by the Mallon Boat Works of this city, is one of the most beautiful boats on Lake Huron. From the day it was launched it showed its racing mettle and its young owner can be proud of the fine record attained.

The trophies were given as follows:

Six-Meter Class
1st.—Winjack, Ard Richardson of Lansing, owner.
2nd.—Jack, Phil Fletcher of Alpena, owner.
3rd.—Meteor, Harry Fletcher of Alpena, owner.

Class A
1st.—Yucatan, Harold Moeller of Tawas City, owner.

2nd.—Chinook, owned by William Charters, and Sauk, owned by Hubert Smith, Tie.

3rd.—Aurora, owned by W. F. Jenkinson of Bay City.

The Dale owned by Carl Babcock, sailed in two races but did not finish the series.

Class B

2nd.—Imp, owned by Oliver Alverston of East Tawas.

3rd.—Borjan, owned by Wm. Gardner of Bay City.

Lark Class

1st.—Skudge, owned by H. C. Acton of Detroit.

2nd.—Guga, owned by Walter Gardner of Detroit.

3rd.—Senret, owned by Howard Ternes of Detroit.

During the races the waters were patrolled by the U. S. C. G. Cartigan under Captain H. F. Culver.

Tawas Man Gets Long Prison Sentence

Wednesday noon Elmer Missler formally plead guilty before Judge Herman Dehnke and was sentenced from seven and one-half to twenty years at the Southern Michigan prison. Missler had been accused by his fifteen year old daughter, Joyce, of criminal assault.

Judge Dehnke's sentence was made after he had questioned Missler, the daughter and the officers who had made the arrest. Missler had made a signed statement confessing to the crime. Conforming with the new law, Missler's mentality will be examined and he will be sent to a prison caring for his classification.

National Forest Will Purchase Pine Cones

The Forest Supervisor of the Huron National Forest, at East Tawas, Michigan will purchase 400 bushels of Norway Pine cones on the open market, the price offered being $2.00 per bushel. Interested parties are invited to write for quotas to the Forest Supervisor at East Tawas, also stating the approximate number of bushels possible to collect. Several points of delivery will be established at which a Forest Service representative will inspect and collect the cones.

Hale Will Vote on Fire Fighting Apparatus

Hale will vote September 7 on a proposal to purchase fire fighting equipment for the village. Several bad fires during the past few years has aroused public opinion and a considerable sum of money has been raised by popular subscription and otherwise. The amount asked for at the election is $500.00. This seems a very reasonable cost to tax payers considering the benefits acquired by having fire fighting apparatus.

East Tawas Listed For New Postoffice

A $145,000.00 Postoffice for East Tawas was listed Tuesday on the $70,000,000 building program presented by the house appropriations committee. From this recommended list the treasury and postoffice departments will select the buildings to be actually undertaken after Congress completes action on the bill.

Other Michigan towns on the list of proposed buildings are Gladwin, Midland, Caro and Gaylord.

BLACK NAMED FOR COURT

Choice Surprise to Senate . . . Chinese Central Army Clashes with Japanese . . . Legislation in Tangled Mess

Japanese Soldiers Bring Their Own Beer to Peiping.

Edward W. Pickard
SUMMARIZES THE WORLD'S WEEK

Nominee Draws Rebuke

WITH his customary exercise of the dramatic, President Roosevelt nominated Senator Hugo L. Black (Dem., Ala.) to fill the vacancy on the Supreme court bench caused by the retirement of Justice Willis Van Devanter. Senator Black had not even been mentioned for consideration previously, and the appointment was a complete surprise to his colleagues.

For 20 years it has been a custom, when a senator is appointed to high office, for his nomination to be considered in open executive session. But when Senator Ashurst (Dem., Ariz.) proposed this in Senator Black's nomination, objections came forth immediately from Senator Burke (Dem., Neb.) and Senator Johnson (Rep., Calif.). They asked that the nomination be referred to the senate judiciary committee for "careful consideration." This was viewed in the light of a distinct rebuke for the nominee.

Senator Black has been a militant leader in the fight for the President's wages and hours legislation. As a justice he would have the opportunity to pass upon measures regulating public utility holding companies, authorizing federal loans and grants for publicly-owned power plants, and fixing prices in the soft-coal industry. He was, as the chairman of the Black committee to investigate lobbying, the center of a storm of public opinion during the early months of 1936.

Black practiced law in Birmingham after being graduated from the University of Alabama in 1906. At fifty-one, he is one of the younger members of the senate.

Shells Pepper Great Wall

ALTHOUGH war was still without benefit of official declaration, the army of the Chinese central government clashed with the Japanese invaders for the first time. The eighty-ninth division, from the provinces of Suiyuan and Shansi began the attack at the Nankow pass of the Great Wall, 30 miles northwest of Peiping, the Japanese said.

Through this pass the Japanese have been able to move reinforcements from Manchukuo, its protectorate, and the Chinese wanted to gain control of it. They wiped out a whole battalion of Japanese soldiers in the opening battle.

The Japanese opened up immediately afterward with heavy artillery fire which the Chinese failed to return. Indeed the latter were silently retreating into positions they thought more secure. As shells fell in the city of Nankow, fires were seen to arise from heavily populated areas. The Chinese, however, were said to be well equipped with trench mortars with which to defend the pass once they considered their position satisfactory.

Japanese warned that all of their forces in North China, some 40,000 fighting men, would be loosed upon the Chinese if they made any attempt to return to the old capital in Peiping, now held by the invaders.

South Demands Crop Loans

CONGRESS regarded adjournment as possibly farther off than ever as the wage-hour bill got tangled up with surplus agricultural control and cotton loans in what looked like a hopeless mess.

With the Department of Agriculture estimating a 15,500,000-bale cotton crop, about 3,000,000 bales more than can be consumed, Southern representatives and senators were demanding surplus crop loans. The Commodity Credit corporation has authority to make such loans.

In a press conference, President Roosevelt indicated that he had no intention of permitting a 10-cent cotton loan until congress passed the agricultural control program and ever-normal granary bill which Secretary of Agriculture Wallace says is necessary before the new session in January. Trouble is the house committee doesn't know how to write such a bill and make it stick, in view of the Supreme court's decision on the AAA.

Now the Southern bloc has made it clear that it will not push through the President's much-desired wages and hours bill, as dictated by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, unless southern farmers get their cotton loans. Furthermore, the Southerners under the capitol dome are now asking for loans as high as 15 cents a pound, and in some cases even 18 cents. The South is not any too well in accord with maximum hours and minimum wages anyway.

The result of the whole affair is a complete stalemate. Somebody will have to give in; somebody probably will, and there will be old-fashioned "hoss-trading" on a wholesale scale. For congress wants to adjourn before the snow flies.

Southerners in the senate were also worried when Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York succeeded in winning recognition to debate an anti-lynching bill, the type of which the South has been successful in blocking since the Civil war. Some were of the opinion that the bill, already passed by the house, might be defeated by filibuster (Senator Bilbo of Mississippi threatened to filibuster until Christmas) but more believed that the Southern members would consent to its passage to put President Roosevelt "on the spot." They explained that if he did not sign it he would lose the negro vote so essential to the third term that is being whispered about, and that if he did sign it the Democratic South would drop him like a hot potato.

Senate O.K.'s Court Reform

ALL that was left of the administration's sweeping court reform proposals passed the senate in an hour without a record vote. This was the procedural reform bill for the lower federal courts. It was in the nature of a substitute for the Summers bill in the house of representatives, and went back to the house for what was expected to be a peaceable conference.

The bill, as summarized by Sen. Warren R. Austin (Rep., Vt.), who wrote most of it, included:

Provision making it the duty of the District court, in any constitutional suit between private citizens, to notify the Department of Justice that upon a showing by the attorney general that the United States had a probable interest the government would be made a party to the suit.

Permission for the senior circuit judge to reassign district judges within that circuit for the purpose of clearing congested dockets. (If necessary, a judge may be transferred from one circuit to another.)

Permission for direct appeal to the Supreme court, if 30-day notice is given, from any decision of a District court against the constitutionality of an act.

Requirement that all suits for injunction against the operation of federal statutes to be heard by a three-judge court, including at least one circuit court of appeals judge.

Shanghai Smells Smoke

A JAPANESE officer and a seaman tried to enter the Shanghai airport, now under Chinese military control, in a high speed automobile. Chinese guards, after trying to halt them, shot and killed them. The Japanese claimed the road on which the men were traveling was part of the international settlement, and threatened the severest reprisals unless the Chinese made satisfactory explanation.

The incident bid fair to touch off a terrible conflict on the scene of the war of 1932. When Japanese warships threatened the Shanghai wharves, Chinese national troops began pouring into the city from every direction. Simultaneously came reports that two boatloads of Nipponese soldiers were headed to augment the garrison in Shanghai, and that the sudden ingress of Chinese troops had virtually blocked off the entire city, isolating thousands of foreigners from the outside world.

Cutting Madrid from Sea

SLOWLY but determinedly Gen. Francisco Franco's rebels are pressing their campaign to cut Madrid off from Valencia and the sea. Latest advances of well-mobilized and mechanized troops, following up co-ordinated attacks, brought the insurgents near to the capture of Salvacnete, which is only 30 miles from Cuenca. Cuenca is the provincial capital, and from it emanate most of the roads upon which the loyalist government is depending to keep open the traffic between the two cities.

Reports revealed that the rebels were also opening a new drive on Santander, last government stronghold on the northern coast, and had already made important advances. The drive followed an attack made upon them by Asturian miners fighting under the loyalist colors. The miners acted quickly in a surprise move, advancing far enough to throw hand grenades into the insurgent trenches. Then the rebels opened up with machine gun fire and half the attacking band was killed, Franco's officers claimed.

That all might not be going as well as General Franco insisted was indicated when he was forced into the paradoxical act of shelling one of his own cities, Segovia. This was done, it was reported, to quell a rebellion among the insurgent forces. It was also said that the insurrection had been spreading among several provinces.

Meanwhile, other nations were on the point of being involved again. There was a riot among rebel troops at Toledo, and Italian soldiers were alleged to have aided in quelling the uprising. Four merchant ships—one British, one Italian, one French and one Greek—were attacked in the Mediterranean by three "mystery" planes. Great Britain blamed the rebels and demanded an answer to its protest. Italy blamed the red loyalists. The loyalists blamed the rebels, the rebels blamed the loyalists, there were lots of talk and back talk, and nobody got anywhere.

Peiping Gets "Protection"

ALTHOUGH Nanking is preparing to wage a destructive war, do not be afraid. "The Japanese army will protect you."

Emperor Kang Teh

Leaflets containing these words fluttered from the skies to come to rest in the hands of residents of the ancient Chinese capital, Peiping. As the airplanes which spread the news hummed overhead, a brigade of 3,000 Japanese soldiers, in command of Maj. Gen. Torashimo Kawabe marched through the city, taking possession of it in the name of Tokyo.

What would be the result of the new Japanese domination apparently begun by Maj. Gen. Kawabe as a matter of speculation. Chinese residents, long since convinced that the inevitable would happen, took it calmly enough. Some of them voiced their belief that the former boy emperor of China, Tsuan Tung (Henry Pu-Yi), since 1934 Emperor Kang Teh of Manchukuo, would return to his throne in Peiping. He would then rule over North China as well as Manchukuo, as a puppet for whom Japan would pull the strings.

New York's Share Cut

SENATOR ROBERT F. WAGNER'S (Dem., N. Y.) $726,000 housing bill was passed by the senate, 64 to 16, but the senator scarcely recognized it when his fellows were done with it.

Senator Wagner and other administration leaders struggled frantically to defeat an amendment by Harry F. Byrd (Dem., Va.) limiting the cost of housing projects to $1,000 a room or $4,000 a family unit. Result of the struggle: The upper house, which originally passed the amendment 40 to 39, defeated a motion to reconsider by 44 to 39.

The bill originally called for expenditures up to $1,500 a room or $7,000 a family unit. Opponents conceded that the Byrd amendment would prohibit the building of the type of houses Senator Wagner had in mind in New York City.

Purge Toll to Date: 320

SEVENTY-TWO Russians in East Siberia were lined up and shot by the government, bringing the total number of eastern executions in Russia's purge of "Trotzkysts" to 320. The 72, described as rightist terrorists, were charged with operating along the Siberian railroad for the Japanese secret service.

It was alleged the accused had wrecked a train, killing 14 persons and injuring 40.

Arrests of officials in charge of various branches of the Soviet economy who had failed to make their production quotas continued.

Memorial for Will Rogers

THE memory of Will Rogers, America's lately beloved gum-chewing philosopher, will be enshrined in fitting manner near his Claremore, Okla., home after the President signs a bill which has now been passed by both houses of congress. It appropriates $500,000 for a memorial to Will; the state of Oklahoma also will be required to furnish $500,000.

"Terror in Old Mexico"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HERE'S a yarn from Emil Berg of Brooklyn, N. Y.—the story of how, in November, 1927, he faced one of the most terrible fates any man can imagine. You know, in Russia the worst sentence a man can be given is a stretch in the horrible salt mines of Siberia.

Most prisoners in the salt mines die from the hardships. Those who do return come back gaunt and wasted—mere shadows of the men they were when they went in. But down in Mexico they have salt-mine prisons which, I'm told, are even worse than the ones in Siberia. They say that no gaunt and wasted men return from those mines. In fact, they say that the men who go down in them never come back at all.

And that's where they were going to send Emil Berg! It happened while Emil was in the army down on the border. He was stationed in Laredo, Texas, with the "Fourth Field" and he says the boys used to go across the river to get a drink of Mexican beer now and then, because in those days we had prohibition in the states, and beer was harder to get this side of the border.

Emil Laid Out a Bad Mexican.

On the night of November 1, Emil was in Nuevo Laredo, over on the Mexican side, having a drink or two. About eight o'clock he started for camp again, but on his way to the international bridge across the Rio Grande an ominous looking individual stepped out of the bushes at a deserted spot and asked Emil what his name was.

Emil had been doing some boxing in the Fort McIntosh bowl and was pretty well known in Laredo. At first he thought that this fellow had recognized him and—well—just wanted to talk. But suddenly the Mexican reached for his hip and Emil found himself looking into the business end of a forty-five.

He started to put up his hands, but the Mexican chose that moment to turn his head and take a quick glance down the street. It only took a second, but Emil saw his chance. He put his whole hundred and fifty-eight pounds behind a well-timed haymaker. It caught the Mexican on the chin and he slumped to the ground. Emil bent down and picked up his gun, tossed it into the bushes and continued on his way.

He walked on toward the international bridge, strolling along in a leisurely fashion—taking his time about it. But when he got there he wished he had hurried. For there was his friend the Mexican, who had taken a short cut and beaten him to the bridge, talking to the Mexican soldiers guarding the Mexican end of the span. They grabbed Emil. Emil yelled for the American sentry on the Texas side, but the sentry didn't hear him. The soldiers hustled him off to the local jail and threw him into a cell.

Sentenced to the Salt Mines.

The next morning they hauled Emil into court, and there he learned that his Mexican friend was accusing him of hitting him for no reason whatever. What made matters worse was that Emil had broken the Mexican's jaw with his haymaker. He told his side of the story, but the Mexicans refused to believe it because they couldn't find the gun where Emil said he had tossed it.

They took him back to his cell and tried to make him sign some papers written in Spanish, which Emil couldn't read. For three days they urged and coaxed and threatened him to get him to sign those papers. They refused to let him communicate with his officers at Fort McIntosh, but Emil had one consolation. Soldiers in the United States army don't go across the border and just disappear without anything being done about it. They'd be looking for him by this time—and maybe they'd find him.

Emil was right. On the third day the American consul came to see him. Then Emil got the shock of his life. The consul told him he had been tried and sentenced to two years in the salt mines inland—the mines from which, people said, you never came back alive!

The consul had obtained a writ which would prevent the Mexicans taking Emil out of Laredo for a while, but he wasn't sure even then that he could save Emil from the mines. They put Emil back in the cell—and then began a period of waiting.

Tough Days in the Prison Cell.

Day after day went by. The uncertainty was driving Emil half crazy, but the prison itself was even worse. "There were ten of us in the cell I was in," he says, "and we were never let out for exercise, for we were considered dangerous. There were no beds. We slept on the floor. I didn't even have a blanket, but I shared my cigarettes with the Mexican prisoners and they shared their rags and blankets with me. I was getting along fine with those fellows until one night a new arrival was thrown into our dungeon.

"This newcomer was all hopped up with marihuana, and he lost no time in telling us in broken English that he hated all gringos in general and gringo soldiers in particular. So that night I had to sleep in a sitting position with my back to the wall to make sure I'd be alive the next day.

"One day there was some shooting outside the prison wall and I saw the guards carry in a colored man. They took me out to talk to him as none of the guards spoke English. He had been serving a ten-day sentence for having imbibed too much tequila, and on his third day, while working in a prison gang in the street, he had made a break for the river. But one of the guards brought him down with a rifle bullet. He died as I was talking to him."

A few minutes later the American consul came rushing in to see if Emil was all right. He had heard that someone had been shot. But that was the end of Emil's troubles, and a couple of days later he was released. The consul took him home, gave him a big feed to sort of make up for the short jail rations he had been on, and drove him back to the post. And that time no one tried to high-jack them on their way across the international bridge.

Notary Public's Oath

A notary public is a public officer who takes acknowledgement of, or otherwise attests or certifies, deeds and other writings, or copies of them, usually under his official seal, to make them authentic, and takes affidavits, depositions, and protests of negotiable paper. In the United States appointments are made by the governors of the states. The oath is as follows: "I do solemnly swear that I will support the Constitution of the United States and the constitution of the state of (name of state) and that I will faithfully and impartially discharge the duty of notary public for (name of county), according to the best of my skill and ability; so help me God."

Voice Reveals Character

An indication of character which concerns the face is the voice, which can tell you quite a lot about a person. Weak colorless voices, according to a writer in Pearson's London Weekly, belong to weak colorless people. Harsh voice, harsh, gross nature. High pitched, unconvincing, emotional. Musical, diplomatic, refined. Deep voice, powerful, courageous, forceful. Here, of course, one must not overlook the difference in male and female voices. For instance, the woman with a low-modulated voice, without it being harsh, is usually deeply emotional though she may not show it to outsiders. She is refined, "true blue"—a thoroughbred.

Washington Digest
National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart
National Press Building Washington, D. C.

Washington.—President Roosevelt stated to the newspaper correspondents in his press conference the other day that crop control must be brought back. He said it with some emphasis. Within a few days before that, he had given his approval to a bill placing a minimum on wages and a maximum on hours in which labor could work in industries whose productions enter into interstate commerce.

The President was not specific as to details of the legislation in either case but it is important to note that he has reaffirmed his position on these two principles for it is to be remembered that both the NRA and the AAA were thrown out by the Supreme court a long time ago, and the President seeks now to restore them in another form.

This circumstance would seem to confirm assertions that have been made in various quarters lately that the President wants to maintain a "planned economy" for this country. It would seem that he is determined to go ahead along those lines and that his program for reorganizing the Supreme court was a part and parcel of the scheme. In other words, the President's new declaration about crop control and wages and hours and his support of the Wagner housing bill represent a return to the original theories which he held for "remaking" our nation.

After discussing these circumstances pro and con with proponents as well as opponents in the congress, the conclusion is inescapable that Mr. Roosevelt and his advisers are headed into new ground. They desire evidently to make the federal government the most important factor in our national life and to set aside little by little the functions of state and local governments by their course of action.

Undoubtedly there is strong argument for the policies they have adopted; certainly, there are many functions which the national government can perform more effectively and more efficiently than they can be performed by state governments, and equally, it is true that some phases of our national life should not be subjected to the influence of state lines. On the other hand, there surely is valid reason why Washington bureaucrats should not be allowed to interfere in the daily practices and convictions of individuals.

The reason I believe all of this is so important now is that always there has been a tendency of federal functions to expand. To say this in another way: Federal officials from the lowest to the highest seem to be equipped with a particular faculty for delegating to themselves additional authority as soon as they are accorded power. What the country should fear then, it seems to me, is the steady encroachment upon the rights of states and thereafter the rights of individuals. Perhaps I should have reversed the order and should have said, first, encroachment upon the rights of individuals and, second, thereafter encroachment upon the rights of states.

Now, there are those persons in considerable number who believe sincerely that the federal government is the agency through which all public functions should operate. I cannot agree. Rather, long experience in Washington convinces me that the old, old argument for state rights—so long one of the tenets of the Democratic party—has too much merit to be overthrown without consideration for the effects of the new theories. It may be that human nature has changed enough to accept new theories and live happily thereunder but I am quite convinced that human nature does not change so fast.

To get down to cases in application of the principles discussed above, let us consider the wages and hours bill. That measure shows how this encroachment takes place and gives a rather clear picture of the expansive nature of federal policies.

Wages and Hours Bill

The wages and hours bill first creates a labor standards board. It is circumscribed by certain limitations which say that it cannot fix wages above forty cents per hour nor can it reduce the number of working hours per week below forty. Further, a great number of lines of work are exempted from jurisdiction of the board—work of a seasonal character, farm labor, labor in certain specified industries which obviously cannot be subject to regulation without destruction of the business itself. Besides these restrictions, there is an implied warning in the bill against sudden or abrupt changes in business practices that would dislocate industrial operation or curtail employment.

These delimitations would seem to leave the board without a great deal of authority. Such, however, is not the case. Among those industries remaining under jurisdiction of the board, there is yet as much power as obtained under NRA and its codes which were so hidebound and so inelastic that thousands of firms were in open rebellion against the restrictions unless they were able to pass on the higher costs resulting from these restrictions, to the public. That is, unless they could make the consumer pay the added cost, they faced eventual bankruptcy.

I do not say that the labor standards board as now conceived will go as far as the NRA codes but experience with the present national labor relations board indicates that the public should expect the maximum exercise of power instead of any middle of the road policies. The labor relations board has become a festering sore on private initiative. Business interests everywhere, while being pounded on the back by the administration to employ more workers, are kept in a constant state of confusion by the bias of the board. This is the board which was designed by Senator Wagner, of New York, to maintain peace between labor and employers. If the labor standards board can use discretionary powers accorded it and can proceed in correcting abuses of labor as rapidly as is "economically feasible," it may be able to develop better conditions in industry. But such language as the words "economically feasible" are subject to all kinds of interpretation and if the membership of the labor standards board happens to include some radical labor leader, most anything will be economically feasible.

It is from such quirks of law that bureaucrats expand their powers.

But there is yet another phase of this policy that demands consideration. While the United States is one unit under the federal government, it is made up of a number of sectional units and each sectional unit comprises a number of states and even each state in some cases embraces subdivisions where practices in business and living traditions are as different as day and night. A regulation as to the fairness of hours or wages in New England may be, and probably would be, wholly inapplicable in Alabama or Georgia. A regulation that would operate satisfactorily in Pennsylvania may be, and probably would be, completely sour in the Pacific coast states. Yet this board cannot administer its regulations on a piece-meal basis; they must apply to the whole country and it is only fair to assume from the existing facts that whereas rulings may be advantageous to some sections of labor, they might completely destroy other sections of labor. The same results can be expected from the effects of these rulings on the employers, except that where the effect is adverse on employers businesses can be driven into bankruptcy—and the jobs they provided disappear.

Another Phase

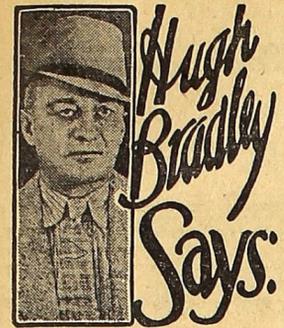

I think there can be no denying that no law will be successful unless it has the co-operation, the active support, of a very large majority of the people. If proof be needed, it is only necessary to recall how the prohibition laws were not enforced in those areas where public sympathy with them was lacking. It does not require very much time to determine whether a law is popular. During the life of the NRA, those who opposed such impossible regulations as General Hugh Johnson dictated were branded by President Roosevelt at first as "chiselers." It was a biting criticism. Yet, within a few months there were more chiselers than there were those who believed that the law could possibly be made to work. I am very much afraid that there will be more chiselers under the wages and hours law than there are those who believe in its efficacy.

The initial operations of the board and the law probably will not create a great deal of dissension. But there will be disgruntled groups of workers and there will be dissatisfied employers who will seek exemption or changes or special consideration by regulation. In some cases, obviously, the board will issue new rules. As likely as not those new rules will upset some other group or region or section and they will demand consideration.

Just here, it might be recalled how under the AAA crop control law, wheat, cotton and corn were originally considered but tobacco had to have protection and rice and potatoes and peanuts, and every other farm product had its champions battling for consideration before the Supreme court held that the law with its processing taxes was an invalid delegation of power by congress. Therefore, while I may be "seeing things" concerning the labor standards board and the new proposal for crop control, the records surely support my statement that anytime the federal government starts a new policy it begins at the same time to enable expansion of federal power far beyond the original concept of a program.

Let Guest Columnist Johnny Farrel Tell of Golfing Thrills

(Hugh Bradley presents as his guest columnist this week Johnny Farrel, king of the fairways a decade back who continues on as one of our foremost golfers. One of the most popular of all the pro trouper, the Balasrol hero tells of his trials and thrills that have come to him on his way down the tournament trail.)

By JOHNNY FARREL
WHEN Hugh Bradley asked me to be his guest columnist this week, that made me smile. Because, Hugh, I know as much about pounding a typewriter as you do about pounding a golf ball.

Speaking of smiling, though, a lot of people have asked me why I always seem to be smiling when I get in a tough spot out there on the fairways. That's easy. Ever since I first started playing golf up in Westchester shortly before the war, I've told myself to keep smiling. For I think that's the answer to golfing success. When you're cheerful and smiling you are relaxed and easy, your swing doesn't freeze and you're able to keep your club in a flowing groove. It's when you fail to find that groove that you find yourself in trouble—and lots of it.

Payoff Putt Is Easy When You're Not Grim

Everything hung on that putt. I wouldn't let myself think of what it meant to me. Do you know, Hugh, what I was thinking of? I remembered a story I'd heard in the locker room the night before—the one about the duffer who had a new caddy. You've heard that—how he kept telling his caddy to pick up those divots, and when they got back to the clubhouse the caddy turned the duffer's bag upside down and, looking very seriously, as grass chunks tumbled out, said, "Here are your divots, boss, but what I want to know is what you are going to do with them?"

Freedom From Bull Pen Aids Gomez Pitching

Lefty Gomez's return to form this year is attributed to his abandonment of bull pen work. It has helped him conserve his strength for his regular turn on the mound. Last year he was warming up every other day for relief work and his record reflected it. . . . St. Louis Browns ran a tryout camp at Johnstown, Pa., recently. Boys, seventeen to twenty-one years old, more than five feet nine inches tall and weighing more than 150 pounds were eligible. They furnished their own equipment and transportation.

Britons met the team at Plymouth and had first class reservations for the ten players, five wives, and the manager on the ride to London. . . . The party was registered at the Savoy hotel for a day with all bills paid by the British. . . . Moe Bloom, who ranks close to the top of the East's soccer referees, was born in Scotland, educated in Wales and married a Manchester lassie. . . . Contrary to press reports, Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers' bit for fighting Pedro Montanez is a flat $50,000 instead of $65,000.

University of Southern California, with Ken Carpenter, Olympic discus champion in best form, may be the Pacific coast's top football team this fall. . . . Sol Strauss, the eminent Twentieth Century fight club attorney, has only one complaint concerning his recent trip to England. He is peeved because the sandwich does not make them thick enough. . . . Harry Voiler, the fight movie man, wires that he has just spent 60 G's fixing up his Miami Beach hotel. . . . John Gorman, Brooklyn baseball business manager, is to be congratulated for encouraging home talent and appointing the able young Babe Hamberger as his traveling assistant. . . . During his amateur soccer days, Danny Devlin, now associated with Mickey Walker, was an Irish International.

Rudolph Caracciola, who won the German Grand Prix, averaged 82,5618 miles per hour over this most famous of European road courses. While winning the Vanderbilt cup here on July 5 Bernd Rosemeyer's average was 82,564 miles per hour. That ought to prove something about the Roosevelt Raceway providing faster time for its auto racers, according to Publicist Steve Hannagan. . . . Keep an eye on little Helen Rains, the swimmer. She weighs about eighty pounds and is only twelve years old but she's doing mighty well racing Erna Kompa and the rest of the big girls. . . . Colleges in Turkey have adopted crew racing. . . . Barney Ross is the only fighter allowed to train at the exclusive Grosinger club in the East. . . . Boston Red Sox teammates call Bing Miller Uncle Tom. . . . Knoxville of the Southern association has released Beattie Feathers, Bear half back, for failure to hit. . . . Carl Hubbell has beaten the Pirates 33 times and lost only 13 to them since entering the National league.

Jockey Johnny Gilbert, who rode the Arlington Classic winner, wears a little gold idol in his cap for good luck during the running of a race. Owner Jack Whitney gave it to him. . . . Pitcher Larry French spends his spare moments studying astrology and is one of the world's most superstitious ball players. . . . Three weeks before Tommy Farr ran out on Max Schmeling, Syd Hill the Harringay promoter who thought he was sponsoring the match, gave him a present valued at 35 pounds. It was a traveling bag which Tommy found very handy on his trip over here to meet Joe Louis. . . . So badly was the California sensation, Bob Nestell, beaten in his last fight that he is still in retirement on his chicken ranch. The guy who did the beating was Bob Pastor.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Advertising's Value.
VERNALIS, CALIF.—On the train a charming young woman said: "I always read the advertisements whether I want to buy anything or not. Do you think I'm crazy?"

I told her she was the smartest young woman I knew. If I were asked to describe the race in any bygone period since printer's ink came into common use, I'd turn to the advertising in the papers and periodicals of that particular age. For then I'd know what people wore and what they ate and what their sports were and their fancies and their tastes and their habits; know what they did when they were healthy and what they took when they were sick and of what they died and how they were buried and where they expected to go after they left here—in short, I'd get a picture of humanity as it was and not as some prejudiced historian, writing then or later, would have me believe it conceivably might have been.

I'd rather be able to decipher the want ad on the back side of a Chaldean brick than the king's edict on the front—that is, if I craved to get an authentic glimpse at ancient Chaldea. . . .
Running a Hotel.
 I'VE just been a guest at one of the best small-town hotels in America. I should know about good hotels because, in bygone days, I stopped at all the bad ones. The worst was one back East—built over a jungle of side tracks. I wrote a piece about that hotel. It had hot and cold running cockroaches on every floor and all-night switch-engine service; the room towels only needed buttons on them to be peekaboo waists, but the roller towel in the public washroom had, through the years, so solidified that if the house burned down it surely would have been left standing. The cook labored under the delusion that a fly was something to cook with. Everybody who'd ever registered there recognized the establishment. So the citizens raised funds and tore down their old hotel, thereby making homeless wanderers of half a million resident bedbugs; and they put up a fine new hotel which paid a profit, whereas the old one had been losing money ever since the fall of Richmond.

A good hotel is the best advertisement any town can have, but a bad one is just the same as an extra pesthouse where the patients have to pay. . . .
Poor Lo's Knowledge.
 SOMETIMES I wonder whether we, the perfected flower of civilization—and if you don't believe we are, just ask us—can really be as smart as we let on. Lately, out on the high seas, I met an educated Hopi, who said to me: "White people get wrong and stay wrong when right before their eyes is proof to show how wrong they are. For instance, take your delusion that there are only four direction points—an error which you've persisted in ever since you invented the compass, a thing our people never needed. Every Indian knows better than that." "Well then," I said, "how many are there, since you know so much?" "Seven," he said, "seven in all." "Name 'em," I demanded. "With pleasure," he said. "Here they are: north, east, south, west, up, down and here."

Of course, there's a catch in it somewhere, but, to date, I haven't figured it out. . . .
The Russian Puzzle.
 UNDER the present beneficent regime, no prominent figure in Russia's government, whether military or civil, is pestered by the cankering fear which besets an official in some less favored land, namely, that he'll wear out in harness and wither in obscurity. All General So-and-Soski or Commissar Whatyoumaycallovitch has to do is let suspicion get about that he's not in entire accord with administration policies and promptly he commits suicide—by request; or is invited out to be shot at sunrise. To be sure, the notion isn't new. The late Emperor Nero had numerous well-wishers, including family relatives, that he felt he could spare and he just up and spared them. And, in our own time, Al Capone built quite an organization for taking care of such associates as seemed lacking in the faith. 'Twas a great boon to the floral design business, too, while it lasted.

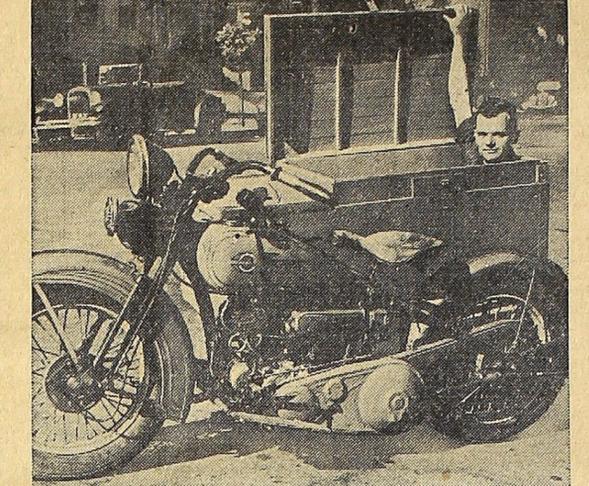

But in Russia where they really do things—there no job-holder need ever worry about old age. Brer Stalin's boys will attend to all necessary details, except the one, formerly so popular in Chicago, of sending flowers to the funeral.

In fact, the Rome-to-Berlin highway goes over mountains, between mountains, or at least through landscape with blue hints of hills around the rim, practically the first half of its way. Exceptions are the broad rolling Campana, which surrounds Rome, and the ample plain of the Po. Between Florence and Bologna, the road launches right over the Apennine range, the craggy shinbone which runs the length of the Italian boot. On the southern side lies the peaceful town of Pistoia, whose medieval name and ironworking fame survive in the modern pistol. "On the other side of the Apennines lies Bologna, whose university once drew famous men to its colonnaded streets. The country, however, has been Italian again since the conclusion of the World war. "The little patch of Tyrol is part of Austria's Alpine elbow nudging Germany away from Italy. Expect to Cut Motoring Time to Fourteen Hours.

Washington, D. C.—Rome was not built in a day, but eventually it will be "made" in a day by automobile from Germany. Plans have been approved for an 800-mile super-highway binding Berlin to Rome, to be completed by 1941. Arrow-straight wherever possible, free of grade crossings and speed limits, the road will reduce motoring time between the two capitals to a predicted 14 hours. Of the total length, 47 per cent will be in Italy. From there it will cross Austria and proceed north through Germany. "This highway of modern tempo across three countries coincides in places with an ancient Roman via," says the National Geographic society. "Both then and now the route was chosen to stimulate circulation between the sunny Mediterranean civilization of Italy and the north-

There are only 133 bards in the world and only three outside of England. He is to be inducted into the order under his Cornish name of "Lef Howlishhad Pel," which means "Voice of the West." The bards are workers in various fields of culture, science and skill, and are lovers of poetry and romance.

"The highway crosses Austria's western end, so that throughout the whole journey international motorists will drive to the right. It is in eastern Austria that 'Keep to the left' is the rule of the road. Road Runs Due North. "The route is a slash almost due north across central Europe. Berlin lacks only two degrees of latitude of being mapped straight above Rome. "The capitals at opposite ends of the road have many opposites in their respective histories. Berlin was a provincial city of somewhat over 300,000 people a century ago; Rome was a world power before the beginning of the Christian era. Now Rome, with a million inhabitants, spreads its domes and florid towers over so much more than seven hills that it is one of the favorite candidates for the title of the world's most extensive city. Berlin ranks sixth in area, but has four times the population of its southern sister city. Industries do not figure in the activities of Rome; Germany's

Owner Gives Up Car to Pay $10 Tow Bill

Marshfield, Ore.—Albert Prass of Marshfield went to town for aid after his car stalled on the Oregon Coast highway near a railroad overhead crossing. In his absence, a policeman called a wrecker. Pratt turned the 1925 auto over to the wrecker and marked it up as a total loss.

Funeral for Old Flags Held Over Pyre in Ohio

Urbana, Ohio.—In an impressive ritual 60 American flags "worn out in service" were destroyed here by members of the H. M. Pearce post, American Legion. Neither the army, navy, nor the American Legion heretofore has used a ceremony on such occasions, Lieut. Col. William Vance, army reserve corps, who drafted the one here, said. The ritual prescribes an outdoor service with officers and members assigned to stations around an open fire. The ceremony opens with the sergeant-at-arms presenting to the commander all flags to be destroyed with these words: "I wish to present a number of flags of our country for inspection and disposition." After their condition has been noted the commander declares: "They have reached their present state through a service of tribute and memory and love. "A flag may be a flimsy bit of printed gauze, or a beautiful banner of finest silk. Its intrinsic value may be trifling or great. Its real value is beyond price, for it is a symbol of all that we and our comrades have worked for, and died for—a free nation of free men, true to the faith of the past, devoted to the ideals and practices of liberty, freedom and justice." The flags are then ordered dipped in kerosene and placed on a rack over a fire. As this is being done the bugler sounds "To the Colors," and the entire company stands at attention. The chaplain says a prayer.

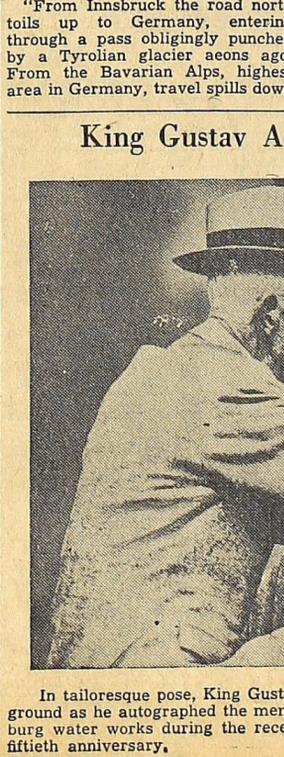

CATHOLIC COUNSELLOR

Mrs. Leonore Z. Meder, Chicago attorney who was re-elected national councillor of the Catholic Daughters of America at the annual convention at Bretton Woods, N. H. Delegates from all parts of the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico, Cuba and Canal Zone, representing 2,000 subordinate courts, attended the week's convocation.

into the South German basin of Bavaria, where the southern metropolis of Munich buzzes with many industries. Nurnberg, across the Danube to the north, sticks to its traditional industry, the manufacture of playthings. "From Nurnberg the Rome-to-Berlin route turns eastward toward Leipzig. From Leipzig the road slashes across the North German plain to Berlin."

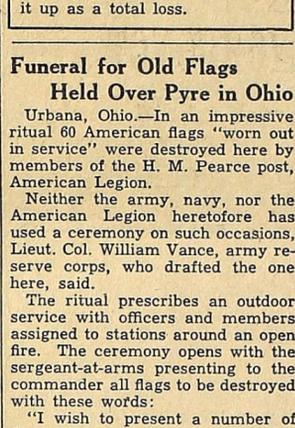

King Gustav Autographs a Stone

In tailorsque pose, King Gustav of Sweden is pictured seated on the ground as he autographed the memorial stone placed outside the Gothenburg water works during the recent celebration of its one hundred and fiftieth anniversary.

Dish-Drying Is a Picnic With These

More fun than a picnic . . . drying dishes with these cross-stitched towels. Put color into them with cotton floss, and you'll have the gayest, gladdest set ever! Here's pick-up work that fairly flies for each motif's in 8-to-10-inch crosses. Think what a welcome gift just a pair of these would make at bridal shower or housewarming. But chances are you won't be willing to part with a single one of this handy set. In pattern 5858 you will find a transfer pattern of six motifs averaging 5 by 7 inches; material requirements; color suggestions; illustrations of all stitches used. Send 15 cents in stamps or coins (coins preferred) for this pattern to The Sewing Circle Household Arts Dept., 259 W. Fourteenth St., New York, N. Y. Please write your name, address and pattern number plainly.

Gift of Humility

O, the beauty of humility! How rare it is to find people possessing some gift, who do not boast of it and hold it up before others as a wonderful thing, which should be much talked of and noticed. Every talent we have is a gift of God; we have nothing to do with it, except to cultivate and take care of it, and to thank God for it. It is right that we should be aware of this special favor to us, but not to be boastful and conceited over it.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them! Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feet tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed by the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Flogging in England
In England flogging probably reached its heyday after the monasteries, where the poor had been sure of free meals, were abolished. This led to a great increase in vagrancy. The punishment was whipping. In many places the law provided that a vagrant be carried to some market town "and there tied to the end of a cart, naked, and beaten with whips throughout such market town till the body shall be bloody." Queen Elizabeth changed the law so offenders were stripped only to the waist. She also substituted the whipping post for the cart.

Formerly Called Gaul

France is the modern name of the country which was formerly called Gaul, a word shortened from the Greek name Gallatia. The Gauls were the original possessors of the land, but the Franks, moving out of the German province of Franconia, conquered the land, and called it France or Frankreich.

Laziness Is Unknown

Laziness is unknown in Barbados. To eat, one must work, so it is either work or starve. The result is that Barbadians are anxious to do any kind of work that presents itself.

Christ of the Andes

Although there is no trace of the inscription on the monument known as the Christ of the Andes, says a writer in the Philadelphia Inquirer, there is a tradition that the following inscription was originally carved in the stone: "Sooner shall these mountains crumble to dust than Argentines and Chileans break the peace which at the feet of Christ the Redeemer they have sworn to maintain." The statue was erected on the boundary line between Chile and Argentina, in Upsallata Pass, to commemorate the peaceful settlement of a boundary dispute in 1902. The dedication ceremonies took place March 13, 1904.

I'VE GOT RURAL ELECTRIFICATION WITHOUT WAITING FOR THE HIGH LINE!

Plenty of Current for LIGHTS—RADIO—WASHER—PUMP—IRON—SWEEPER

AT 50¢ A YEAR Power Operating Cost!

32-VOLT 650-WATT GIANT WINCHARGER

"At the present time we are using about 20 lights, electric washer, pump, iron, and radio from our Wincharger and have plenty of power to spare."
Geo. Barlow, Simms, Mont.

Put The Wind to Work on Your Farm And Have Rural Electrification NOW!

Let the amazing new 32-Volt Giant Wincharger use your free wind power to make all the electricity you want on your farm right now! Get away from the drudgery of oil lamps—washboards—brooms—and hand pumping! Wincharger is far cheaper than the high line, both in first cost and operating cost!

There's no electric meter ticking your dollars away! Wincharger's power operating cost is only 50¢ a year!

NO Electric Bills! NO Gasoline Bill!

Most users of the 32-Volt Giant Wincharger report 100 kilowatt-hours of current per month or more. That's $5 worth of electricity, according to average high line rates, that they get FREE from the wind with Wincharger! If you have a gasoline operated electric plant, Wincharger will save you $30 to $50 a year on gas and oil! There's no tax on the wind—it's FREE!

World's Largest Makers Of Wind-Driven Generators

Wincharger is made by the world's largest makers of wind-driven generating equipment, in the largest factory devoted exclusively to this product. More than 500,000 farm folks are now enjoying free electricity from Winchargers.

Tongue-Tasting
Not all parts of the tongue are evenly sensitive to the various tastes. The tip of the tongue is better able to taste sweet substances, while the base quickly detects the presence of bitter thin's. Materials containing salt are most easily tasted at the sides of the tongue, but sour or acid tastes are felt all over.

Where Mountain Lions Live
Mountain lions, variously called cougar, panther, puma, and catamount, range in the large wilderness areas west of the one hundredth meridian. They are hunted chiefly in the Rocky Mountain states and southward through the desert mountain ranges of Arizona, Texas and New Mexico. Farther westward they are less numerous, except in the coastal ranges of California, Oregon and Washington, where they are somewhat abundant.

U. S. Debt to France in 1790
Hamilton's report to congress showed that the public debt in 1790 amounted to some $54,000,000, of which about $12,000,000 was owed to foreign creditors, chiefly in France. There was also an aggregate of $21,000,000 of the state debts. Hamilton proposed to add this to the national debt, making $75,000,000 in all, and recommended that the national government assume the state debts. The national debt was paid during the first part of the Nineteenth century.

SYNOPSIS

Preparing to close her summer home and spend the winter in France with a great-aunt, Anne Vincent, a middle-aged widow, accedes to the pleas of her adopted daughter Rachel, twenty and pretty, that she tell her about her real mother. Anne, an unselfish, understanding soul, finds the task difficult. Rachel learns that her real mother was beautiful eighteen-year-old Elinor Malloy, deserted by her young husband, before Rachel's birth. He was killed in the World War. In desperate financial straits, Elinor had agreed to Rachel's adoption at birth by Anne, whose own baby had died. Elinor subsequently had married Peter Cayne, a wealthy New York business man, and had a son. To soften the story for Rachel, Anne omits telling her that her mother had been callous and selfish. Rachel goes fishing with Bob Eddis, a local boy who runs a library and does wood carving. She refuses his plea to stay in Rockport and marry him instead of going to New York to look for a job. Anne decides that it is time for Rachel to learn more self-dependence. Rachel makes arrangements to stay in New York with "Pink," a keen, vivacious girl absorbed in her job. Anne leaves provision for Rachel's finances in case of need and leaves for Europe. Rachel, bent on seeing her real mother, looks up Elinor Cayne's number. Rachel learns the Caynes are not yet in town. Pink takes Rachel to dinner at Tom and Rhoda Steele's where she meets Oliver Land, a shabby genteel young man out of work who suggests that she apply for a job as a photographer's model for advertising illustrations. He agrees to introduce her to the head of an agency. Rachel is not entirely happy with Pink Matthews. Her desire to see Elinor Cayne increases. Through Oliver Land she meets Louis Vinco, a young friend of Vincent's. She succeeds on her first assignment posing for furniture advertising. Oliver makes her feel her indebtedness to him. On an assignment, Rachel meets Curt Eiten, a young friend of Vincent's. She learns that he is a country newspaper man spending a year in New York. For experience he takes a number of different jobs, planning to return home later to edit the paper his father left. That evening she receives flowers from him. She phones Mrs. Cayne's home but is rebuffed because she will not give her name.

"I can get almost anyone for anything, but this stumps me. It's a ticklish proposition, the girl's got to act the part perfectly and not let the other servants get on to her—don't lose any time, Miss Vincent, please—"

Rachel seized the card and her make-up bag and turned to go, but Curt ran after her. "Will you meet me for a bite of lunch before we go to the auto place? Where we had tea yesterday is handy—I'll be waiting."

Rachel nodded and almost ran out, for Vinco was looking at her sternly. He didn't, she knew, encourage friendships between his men and girl models, saying he'd prefer they hated one another. But she supposed Curt, as an old friend, had certain privileges.

After work he was waiting, as he had said he would be. "You were awfully nice to come," he said. "I went round to Vinco's early hoping I'd see you, but I didn't know I had such a friend in that photographer. A swell guy, that."

"I was glad to come," said Rachel. "I've been so bothered and worried about such a lot of things I need to be with somebody who can get along as easily as you do. But listen here—we must go Dutch on this lunch. We're both working people, it's not fair to—"

"To what? I asked you to lunch, didn't I? And I'm going to pay for it."

"But I mean—that's just a social convention—it really isn't fair."

"I'll discuss that with you some other time. My Lord, do I look like the kind who invites a girl to lunch and tells her to pay her check? Don't annoy me, Rachel. You don't mind if I call you Rachel, do you? Because I'm going to do it whether you mind it or not. Here, what are you going to eat? Let's have minute steak and some mixed salad, and please don't tell me you're dieting, for if you do I'll order the biggest baked potato in the world and force it down your throat."

"I'd like a minute steak. I didn't get any breakfast to speak of this morning and I'm worn out wearing ermines."

"That's the girl." He gave the order and put his elbows on the table and looked over at her straight. "What's bothering you? A man?"

"Among other things, but he's not the chief bother. Don't let's talk about it, I might cry, I feel so sorry for myself."

"All right. But if I can do anything, here I am and I mean it."

"You can't do anything."

"No, it's an eternal truth of this crazy world that we've got to get ourselves out of our own jams." He dropped the subject there. "Vinco was telling me a queer thing this morning when you came in. One of the big private detectives asked him to find a girl who could go into a rich family as a maid to get some dope on what's going on in it. It's this way. Somebody in the house is stealing the missis's jewelry—a piece now and then, things she doesn't wear much, and occasionally a piece of silver goes, a cigarette box or a candy dish. Her husband wants to plant a servant in the house without his wife knowing anything about it; it seems she's nervous and not very well and he thought a woman would be best. Gee, I wish they wanted a man."

I'd hop to it like nobody's business. Wouldn't I make a swanky butler!" He grinned over at her ingratiatingly. "Modom, the carriage waits. 'Ave a drop more Scotch, milord!" "Who are these people?" asked Rachel, idly. "D'you know their name?"

"As a matter of fact, I do, though I don't suppose Vinco would want it noised about. They're fairly hot society numbers, very Park avenue and so forth. The old man's got plenty of what it takes, apparently. Cayne is the name—Peter H. Cayne—why, what's the matter—"

"Say that again," cried Rachel. "Say that name again!"

Curt looked at her in surprise and did not answer, so she repeated her question: "What was their name—not Peter Holbrook Cayne—the people who live at six-forty-three Park avenue?"

"Do you know them?" asked Curt, warily.

"No, but I know of them—my mother knows them, at least she used to know Mrs. Cayne."

"Damn it, I ought to be kicked. As if I wasn't old enough never to mention names!"

Rachel thought fast. She must convince him, but tell nothing.

"Don't worry, it's all right. I was just surprised—mother was telling me something about Mrs. Cayne only a little while before she said, 'I won't say anything, honestly.'"

"I talk too much," said Curt. Rachel laughed. "Please don't worry. I'll never mention it to a soul. But—I was just thinking—"

"So beautiful girls do think! News to me."

She wondered what was the best way to approach the sudden thrill-

"You Poor Kid, I Know You're Dead," He Said.

ing idea that had seized her. "Do you believe—do you think I might take the detective job?"

"You! Not a chance! You couldn't make up as a housemaid to save your life! And you—" Curt shook his head and repeated, "Not a chance."

"Look here, suppose I tell you something. I'm not so crazy about this modeling stuff and the girl I live with is pretty well fed up with me and I certainly am with her—and—there's a man who, that is, I'd just as soon make it impossible for him to see me—and this would be so exciting!—Be sensible. You thought you'd be a good butler, why wouldn't I be a good maid? I know all about housework. Speak to Mr. Vinco, won't you?"

It was plain that this plea moved Curt, but he hesitated.

"Yes—but—they'll have to have a girl who knows something about the detective business, they wouldn't take a greenhorn who's simply looking for a little excitement."

"You could put it up to Mr. Vinco and let them do the deciding."

"He won't want to lose you as a model."

"He probably wouldn't mind, temporarily. And he loves feeling he's important and can get anything for anyone who asks him, you know it."

"What makes you so anxious? You act as if it was jam on the cake. If it's this fellow that's bothering you, I can tell you a dozen ways to settle him without going to all this trouble."

"How very very clever we are with other people's business! Oh, but clever!"

"Don't be fresh to your kind of Uncle Curtis. I suppose it would be sort of fun for you, a job like that. I tell you, I'll speak to Vinco, I'll say I spilled the beans to you and you want to try it. I don't think there's a Chinaman's chance you'll land it—"

"Don't let's worry about that. Will you speak to Vinco right away, today? Don't dawdle, please, or somebody else will grab it." Curt looked at his watch. "You order dessert and I'll go phone to Vinco this minute."

"But what do you want for dessert?"

"Anything you like, only I want a large cup of coffee."

Rachel ordered baked apples and the coffee and then waited, rigid with suspense, until Curt came back. "You were gone an age! What did he say, hurry, tell me?" she begged.

"He thinks you're crazy, but he's going to send for the head of the detective agency and talk it over with him. His name's Terriss, by the way, and a very good egg; runs the most reputable business in the city, won't touch scandal-sheet stuff. Baked apples, swell! For such a flossy-looking girl you have nice homely tastes. And listen, we've got to hurry or we'll be late at the auto shop."

"When will I see the detective agency man?"

"Tomorrow morning, half past nine, at Vinco's. And Vinco says he wants you to finish up your next appointments for him, provided, of course, you land the other job."

"Oh, but I will, of course. Oh, it was awfully kind of you, Curt. I'm so grateful."

"Wait till you see what happens before you go too grateful. I'm not a bit sure I ought to have done this. You may come up against something pretty disagreeable, but if you do and you need any co-operation, or connivance, you just remember that I'm on the doormat outside waiting for the signal. Now I'll pay the check and we'll push off."

"I do wish you'd let me pay for my lunch."

"I told you before not to annoy me with such remarks."

They had to work late, for the photographer was grimly set on making no mistakes this time, so there were takes and retakes and adjustments and checking up on each detail between poses. She had to change from the light sport costume needed in the picture to her own clothes, but Curt waited for her and was there in the shadows of the studio entrance. "You poor kid, I know you're dead," he said. "I've got to dash uptown or I'd take you home. Are you still set on this housemaid stunt?"

"Yes, at least I'm going to find out what it's all about."

"Then if you don't mind I'll come round in the morning and join the conference. I want to know what it's all about, too, I feel responsible for getting you into it."

"Oh, will you? That makes me feel heaps better—thanks ever so much, Curt! You're a lamb!"

By the time she reached home she wasn't so tired, expectation had begun to come back and with Curt to stand by she would be surer of herself. The flat was empty, Pink had left a note saying she had gone to dinner with a man from her office, so Rachel put on house pajamas and foraged for bread and milk and fruit in agreeable solitude. Just as she sat down to eat the doorbell trilled.

"Oh damn!" she said aloud. "Wouldn't you know that would happen!"

It was Genie Moore from across the hall and Genie was in a great rush. "Isn't Pink here?" she asked. "What a nuisance! I wanted to borrow a hat, I've got a swanky date for the theater and Harlem and he said specially not to dress, this frock is all right but I haven't got a thing to put on my head that looks festive or eveningish."

"Neither have I," said Rachel, looking coldly at Genie's selfish blonde prettiness, "and I can't lend Pink's things when she's not here."

"Oh, that's all right. I'll take what I want. Pink won't mind." She walked into Pink's room and began to rummage, coming out a moment later with Pink's new white beret. "This is just what I want, how lucky she didn't wear it."

"Lucky for who?" asked Rachel. Genie laughed. "Lucky for me, sweetness and light. Tell Pink I'll bring it back in the morning."

"You can tell her yourself. Pink's not crazy about lending her hats."

"She won't mind," said Genie, undisturbed. "I'll tell her."

"That'll start another row with Pink, I suppose," thought Rachel, returning to her bread and milk. "She'll think I did it purposely because of my evening dress. A good thing I'm getting out of here. Genie's a horrid little moocher."

She ate slowly, thinking of the morning and her own mother, and with this came thoughts of Anne. How would Anne feel about all this, wouldn't it seem as if Rachel had been ungrateful and deceitful? Anne wouldn't want her to go into Elinor Cayne's house, Rachel was sure of that, and she began to wonder if she could avoid telling Anne. But that would be shameful, cowardly. A second ring of the bell startled her.

"I suppose Genie's come back for slippers and an evening coat," she thought, as she opened the door. But Genie was not there, it was someone below at the street entrance who was ringing. Rachel pressed the electric opening button and then went out on the landing to discover Oliver Land coming up.

"I was near by and thought I'd take a chance," he said. "It's been a grief's age since I saw you. Where's the girl friend—out? That's good, I always have a feeling she'd like to spit on me. Those are smart pajamas, very becoming—and look at you, sitting here alone eating bread and milk, funny!"

"What's funny about it?"

"The most beautiful model in the city ought to be out whooping it up." His face was white, his queer gray eyes were bright and malicious and he didn't seem quite steady on his feet.

"Sit down and stop staring at me," said Rachel. "I'm going to finish my humble meal. I'm hungry."

"I'm hungry, too," said Oliver, "it's quite a while since I ate." He sat down suddenly, folding up, thin and broken.

Rachel was terrified, but she ran to his aid, pulled him back in the chair, held salts under his nose and as he stirred and coughed, she brought a glass of sherry, the only liquor in the apartment, and this she dribbled into his slack, half-open mouth. As she did it she noticed how very thin he was, his collar loose on his neck, his arm a bone in a flapping sleeve. "He's starving," she thought. "He's starving! Oh, this is dreadful, dreadful!" She tried to lift him farther up in the chair, but he came alive and pushed her away.

"Sorry," he murmured apologetically, "I'm making a nuisance of myself. Don't bother—"

"Lie down on the sofa," begged Rachel, "I'll help you. Come along, it'll be better for you to lie down and I'll get you something hot to drink."

He staggered to his feet and with Rachel helping managed the half dozen steps to the sofa. "It's my head," he whispered, "it's queer."

She left him and ran to the kitchen. Thank goodness she hadn't used all the milk. As soon as it was hot enough she brought him a cup of it.

"Now try to drink this," she coaxed, "it's just what you need. Wait, let me hold it." She supported his head and he sipped the milk.

"I'm sorry," he said again, weakly. "I ought not to have come."

"But what's the matter? Are you sick? Where's Bill? You two are so—"

Coconuts Drift in the South Pacific, Find Lodging on Reefs and Sprout Tree

In the South Pacific one is often reminded that "the coconut loves the sea." When growing on the edge of the beach, the slender palms lean out over the water, so that the ripe fruit drops into the sea. Floating coconuts are sighted bobbing on the waves hundreds of miles from the nearest land. After drifting aimlessly with winds and currents, they may find lodging on a coral reef, whose peak is peering far enough above the surface of the sea to catch and hold decaying leaves and vegetation that may be floating around, writes Warner Mason in the Chicago Tribune.

Given a foothold, however precarious, under the hot tropical sun, a marvelous process of germination starts in the coconut. A sweet, white spongelike mass forms inside. It begins in the end of the shell opposite the three "eyes" at the smaller end. This sponge drinks all the milk in the nut, swells to fill the shell, liquifies the hard meat, absorbs it, and converts it into cellular substance. Meanwhile, a white bud, hard and powerful, pushes its way through an eye—the "soft" one—of the shell, bores through the two or three inches of the tough, fibrous outer husk, and reaches air and light.

The first bud now unfolds green leaves, and at the same time two other buds, beginning at the same point, find their ways to the two other eyes and pierce them. These two buds turn down, instead of up; force their way through the husk enclosing the shell, enter the ground, and take root. No knife could cut the shell, which is as hard as stone, but the life within bursts it open, and the husk and shell decay and fertilize the soil around the new roots. Within five or six years, a tree has grown eight or nine feet high, and is itself bearing nuts to reproduce their kind again.

Taming an Animal
"De best way to tame an animal," said Uncle Eben, "is to keep lookin' it straight in de eyes, specially if it's a mule."

Lesson for August 22

THE PLACE OF RELIGION IN A NATION'S LIFE.

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 25:1, 2, 8, 9; 29:43-46; 40:34-38.
GOLDEN TEXT—Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord. Ps. 33:12.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Meeting House.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The House of the Lord.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why a Nation Needs Religion.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Place of Religion in a Nation's Life.

The nation of Israel was under the direct government of God—a theocracy as distinguished from a monarchy, or a democracy. God spoke to them through his servant Moses, but his relationship to the people was far more intimate than that of a distant power delivering laws through a representative. God dwelt in the midst of his people, and today we consider how he made provision for a place in which to meet with them, for a holy priesthood to minister before him, and made known his personal presence by a manifestation of his glory.

I. A Place to Meet God (Exod. 25:1, 2, 8, 9; 29:43-46).

Every place of worship, whether the tabernacle in the wilderness, or a church on a busy city street, testifies to the fact that man is indeed "incurably religious." He is a spiritual being, made by God for fellowship with himself. He is never satisfied until he meets God.

The pattern or plan for the tabernacle was given by God (v. 9), and was to be followed in every detail. But note that the people were to make a willing offering of all that was needed for its construction. God gives man the glorious privilege of partnership with him. Shortsighted and foolish is the man who grumbles because the church needs money. A father might just as well grieve because his children outgrow their clothing. Thank God if your church is alive and growing, and be glad for the opportunity to buy it some "new clothes."

Sacrificial gifts and faithful building according to God's plan, brought to completion a place of meeting which God sanctified and accepted.

II. Priests to Minister to God (vv. 44, 45).

Note, first, that they were men called of God. Those who stand to minister to him for the people dare not appoint themselves, or seek an appointment by men. They must be "God-called."

They were also sanctified, or ordained, by God. Only as men act in true recognition of God's selection and setting apart of his chosen servants does ordination have real meaning.

Finally, notice that the priests were "to minister to" God. His servants are to serve him, and thus to meet the need of the people for whom they speak. They are "put in trust with the gospel," and therefore to "so . . . speak; not as pleasing men, but God" (I Thess. 2:4). If you have that kind of a pastor, praise God for him, and give him your earnest support and encouragement.

III. The Presence of God (Exod. 29:45, 46; 40:34-38).

He dwelt in the midst of his people. Christians also know what it means to have "God with us," for such is the very meaning of the name "Immanuel" (Isa. 7:14; Matt. 1:23). He it was who as the living Word "became flesh and dwelt among us" (John 1:14).

For our further instruction and blessing let us observe that when God dwelt with his people his glory "filled the tabernacle" (v. 34). Is that true of our churches? Have we so loved God and so fully yielded ourselves and our churches to him that he is free to fill the place with his glory?

The word "abode" in v. 35 is significant. What blessed peace and assurance must have come to Israel when they knew that God had come to abide with them. In this world of transitory things we need such an anchor for the soul—God's abiding presence.

But God's people must move on. There are victories to be won, a promised land to take. So we read that the cloud arose when they were to move forward, and when it was "not taken up, then they journeyed not until the day that it was taken up."

The Psalmist tells us that "the steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord" (Ps. 37:23). I believe it was George Mueller of blessed memory who inserted three words—"and the steps." The man, or the church, or the nation, that trust God, will have both "steps" and "stops" "ordered by the Lord."

Beginning of Eternal Life

Eternal life does not just mean that when our bodies die our souls last on. It means a kind of life which we can begin to live here and now, and which cannot be destroyed by death because it is united with God.—A Day Book of Prayer.

Always an Answer

A little girl was once teased by a skeptic, who remarked that God had not answered her prayer. "Yes," she said, "he answered. He said no."

Is Overweight Important?

By
DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

THOSE of normal weight and many also who are overweight may have the opinion that too much importance is being attached to overweight—its dangers to health and life. If they were to talk for just five minutes to the actuary of any life or sickness insurance company they would learn some startling facts because insurance companies make or lose money on the types or kinds of risks they accept.

One of the first facts the insurance company actuary will point out is the great amount of diabetes among the overweight. He will back this up by showing the figures of Dr. E. P. Joslin, Boston, the outstanding authority on diabetes, who tells us that diabetes is the result or penalty of overweight. The figures for the death rate of diabetic men over forty-five years is as follows: The per cent of overweight to death rate is as follows: five to fourteen, twice the normal rate; fifteen to twenty-four, four times the normal rate; twenty-five and over, ten times the normal rate. These figures tell in most dramatic fashion the penalty for overweight.

Dr. Barton

As you know, the commonest cause of death after middle age is disease of the heart, bloodvessels and kidneys, because the heart and bloodvessels have the hard work of carrying a large quantity of nourishment to the kidneys to have wastes or poisons filtered out and useful substances retained. Now high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, and defective work by the kidneys all accompany overweight, and the simplest method of relieving unnecessary strain is to reduce the weight and size of the patient. Thus when an individual gets down to, or nearly to, normal weight his chances of developing heart, bloodvessel and kidney disease becomes very much less.

British Expert's Views.

Dr. Herbert I. Coombs in the British Medical Journal, in pointing out the importance of overweight in addition to diabetes, heart, bloodvessel and kidney disease, tells us that "arthritis—inflammation of joints—is one of the commonest diseases encountered by the general practitioner, and it is almost always associated with overweight."

Another point brought out by Dr. Coombs, and one that is likely to be overlooked, is the great change in mentality or outlook with the increase in weight. It is generally agreed that overweights are rather cheerful and good natured but after a period of time this good nature of the slightly overweight degenerates into lack of ambition and a "don't care" attitude toward anything and everything.

Still another point, and one familiar to every physician is the bad surgical results that often follow operations on very fat patients. "Mechanical difficulties of nursing heavy patients and the increased risk of infection when large masses of fat tissue are exposed when the knife is used, are often important factors in working against recovery of overweights who come to operation for gall stone, diabetic gangrene, and other conditions."

Causes of Diarrhoea.

Figures from private and public hospital clinics show that at least three of four give a history of being constipated. Although these people are on their feet and are not sick enough to be in bed, they can hardly be considered normal.

However, even among those who are normal or not sick, it would appear that at least half, or 50 per cent, are constipated. It is interesting therefore to read of the other type of cases, that is those who do not appear to be sick, but instead of being constipated are afflicted with diarrhoea.

Of course at times when much fruit is eaten or when something "not fresh" has been eaten, diarrhoea often occurs, lasting for two or more days. But when diarrhoea is present all the time and no excess or over-ripe fruit or other food has been eaten, then the cause must be found to prevent the weakening effects of the diarrhoea.

Dr. A. Richieri, Buenos Aires, in the Argentine Medical Journal, states that diarrhoea occurs very often in all forms of hyperthyroidism (that is when the thyroid gland in the neck is manufacturing too much juice).

As there may be no other symptoms but the diarrhoea (no great increase in heart rate, no enlargement of the thyroid gland, no bulging of the eyes, no trembling or nervousness), it would be difficult to locate the cause as due to an over-active thyroid gland except for the metabolism test.

Answers

1. The principal dictatorships are Russia, Austria, Italy, Germany, Turkey, Hungary, Bulgaria, Albania and Mexico.
2. There is the generalization that sentences should not be long.

Twenty-four words is a safe maximum.

3. GPU is pronounced Gay'poo—but only by foreigners. Russians do not mention the name, sometimes referring to them as the "three-letter men."

4. For diplomatic purposes Perry created for himself the title of "Lord of the Forbidden Interior," but, of course, he did not actually hold such a title.

5. Military rifles drive their bullets at speeds of from 2,000 to 3,000 feet per second. The Gerlich bullet, one of the speediest, is capable of traveling almost a mile a second.

Why Firestone STANDARD TIRES are EXTRA SAFE

TAPPING RUBBER TREES ON FIRESTONE PLANTATIONS IN LIBERIA

From these plantations comes an ever increasing supply of the world's finest rubber. Economies in producing raw materials, manufacturing and distribution make it possible for Firestone to give you so much for your money.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST BLOWOUTS—eight extra pounds of rubber are added to every 100 pounds of cord by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process. By this process every fiber in every cord in every ply is saturated with liquid rubber. This counteracts dangerous internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST PUNCTURES—because under the tread are two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords.

YOU GET EXTRA PROTECTION AGAINST SKIDDING—because the tread is scientifically designed.

YOU GET LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE because of the extra tough, long-wearing tread.

Firestone Standard Tires give you all these extra value features because they are first-quality tires built with high-grade materials and patented construction features. You SAVE MONEY because you buy this high quality and extra value at such low prices.

Before leaving on your vacation trip, join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign by equipping your car with a set of new Firestone Standard Tires — today's top tire value. See your nearest Firestone Dealer or Firestone Auto Supply and Service Store.

Louis Gauthier was born October 20, 1856, at Detroit. He came to Tawas City when he was about 20 years old and had resided at his farm in Tawas township for the past 53 years. He was married to Rebecca Clark who died 43 years ago. To this union eight children were born. Twenty-seven years ago he was united in marriage to Sarah Ulman. Two children were born to them.

The deceased is survived by the wife and six children, William Gauthier, Aaron Gauthier and Mrs. Newton Bowen of Flint, Clarence Gauthier, Orval Gauthier and Ervin Gauthier of Tawas township, and two brothers, William Gauthier of Tawas City.

He will be missed by his many friends here for he had a kind word and smile for all.

The funeral services were held Saturday from the Tawas City Baptist church. Rev. J. R. Stevens of Flint, officiated.

GEORGE L. THOMAS

George L. Thomas was born July 9, 1862, in New York state and came with his parents to Tawas in 1870 where they settled on the Meadow road, later moving to the Hemlock road where he has since made his home. He passed away on August 6 from a complication of diseases at the age of 75 years. He is survived by his wife, Ida Thomas.

Funeral services were held Monday from the Tawas City Methodist Episcopal church, of which he had been a member for years. Rev. S. A. Carey officiated and interment was in the Tawas City cemetery.

Out of town relatives and friends who attended the funeral were Mrs. C. J. Sankey of Kansas City, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Clark and family of Buffalo, N. Y., Mrs. G. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry Nelson and daughter of Bay City, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thomas of Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Newberry of Flint, Fred Thomas, Mrs. Alice Stoutenberg, Mrs. Martha Edgeby of Flint, Mr. and Mrs. William Thomas of Prescott and Thomas Garber of Flint.

McCormick-Deering

SPEED and flexibility are brought to the row-crop farm by the Farmall Tractor. It is so far ahead of horses when it comes to planting, cultivating, and doing other row-crop and general farming work that there is no comparison. And most important of all, Farmall farming means lower-cost farming.

Until you own and operate a Farmall you cannot appreciate the benefits and advantages of it. But just ask any Farmall owner about it. He is the man who is enthusiastic about the Farmall. He knows. He has farmed with horses and with the Farmall and you can bet that he isn't going back to horses.

If you want a real demonstration of the Farmall, call us up and we will arrange one for you.

serve the banquet and their reputation as caterers of the highest quality assures the guests of a fine meal well served.

The territory embraced in the jurisdiction of the local Chapter includes the lodges in Omer, West Branch, Rose City, Lincoln, Harrisville, Oscoda, Whittemore, Hale, East Tawas and Tawas City. All third degree Masons are invited and it is hoped that the Tawas City temple will be filled to capacity to honor the Grand High Priest. Tickets for the evening are sixty cents each, and the banquet is scheduled for seven o'clock sharp.

Teapot Used in 1790

The teapot did not become part of a service until 1790, when a sugar bowl and creamer to match were added. During the latter part of the George III era came matching coffee pots, to be followed years later by the complete service with kettle and waste bowl of uniform size.

Bishop at St. Maurice
St. Maurice, in the Valais, Switzerland, was a fortress in the days of Julius Caesar and its Abbey was endowed by many kings, emperors and potentates. Some of Charlemagne's gifts are in the treasury. St. Maurice is the seat of the titular Bishop of Bethlehem.
