TAWAS ENDS SEASON IN 2ND PLACE

2 Games Donkey Baseball Will be Played at Local Field

The Tawas City base ball team won their final league game of the season last Sunday by setting back the Hemlock team, the score being 8 to 3. By virtue of this victory and Prescott's loss to Alabaster, gives Tawas undisputed possession of second place in the final standings of the league.

Bill Mallon and Stanley Shellenberger shared the pitching for the locals. Bill threw the first six innings, he struck out ten of the visitors and walked four, while holding them hitless and runless. Stan, hurled the last three frames, he allowed three hits and three runs, all made in the ninth inning. He struck out four and walked one. "Pinky" Nichols was souping them up for Hemlock. He allowed six hits, collected seven strikeouts and walked three.

"Lefty" Quick showed a neat bit of base running in the first inning, he singled and then stole second, third and home.

This game was postponed from the 11th of July, and it wound up the league schedule. The management is trying to book some games with some teams from the surrounding territory.

The manager of the baseball team has arraigned a real treat for the fans in the surrounding country. "Donkey Baseball," the game with a million laughs. If you want to laugh don't miss this, even Mr. Groucho would laugh to see the boys trying to steer their donkey in any general direction. You all know how contrary these beasts can be, well the ones used this game are no exceptions. The one that the third baseman rides is named "W. P. A." and he sure lives up to his name, he just he busy looking for hamburgs, that he forgets there is anything like a game going on. "Mae West" and "Jimmy Braddock," two of the donkeys used by the batsmen, just don't care to run the bases, in fact, it is a safe bet that neither of them will score a run. "Clark Gable," who is used alternately in the field and also by the batsmen, is very docile until asked to move, then he lives up to his breeding, and begins to balk. It would take too long to tell all about this game, but it is the best thing you have ever had chance to see.

The rules of the game are; Each fielder, with the exception of the pitcher and catcher, is mounted on a donkey, the batter stands on the ground and must hit the ball, then he catches his donkey and rides to first base, maybe, the fielder must be on his donkey's back when he makes a putout or throws the ball. There are no base lines, in case a runner is caught off the base, he can go all over the field to avoid being put out.

On Saturday night, (Miner's Grove baseball team, will furnish the opposition. Let's see if these boys can out ride the Tawas team. Sunday night, a team from the Forestry Offices will try to out-coax the locals. We say "out-coax", these animals won't drive, maybe they can be coaxed.

If you have never seen a game of this kind, don't miss this one, if you have, you won't want to miss it. Remember, Saturday and Sunday, September 11 and 12, at 8:30 P. M., at the Tawas City Athletic Field. (Turn to No. 2, Back Page)

Ray Smith Succumbs to Heart Attack

Tawas friends were deeply grieved and shocked Thursday morning when they learned of the sudden death of Ray Smith who succumbed to a heart attack at about nine o'clock.

He is survived by his wife and a nine year old son, Jack, and one sister.

Funeral services will be held at two o'clock Sunday afternoon from the Baptist church. Rev. Frank Metcalf will officiate.

Obituary next week.

Mrs. Joseph Parent

Emma Lucille Hottos was born in Burleigh township, Isosco county on March 14, 1896, and died at Mercy hospital, Bay City, September 5. Age 41 years, five months and 21 days. The deceased had attended the schools at Whittemore, Tawas City and East Tawas. On May 19, 1919, she was united in marriage to Joseph Parent of Sherman township. To this union four children were born, two of whom preceded her in death. Those left to mourn are the husband, a daughter, Marion; a son, Gerald; three sisters, Mrs. Wm. Kelly and Mrs. Russell Williams of Whittemore and Mrs. Mike Mischal of Kalamazoo, a number of other relatives and a host of friends.

Funeral services were held from St. James Catholic church, Whittemore, Rev. Fr. Bolton officiating. She was laid to rest in the Whittemore cemetery.

Rutz—Wrathell

Miss Mary Rutz of Detroit and Clifford Wrathell of this city were united in marriage Saturday evening at the home of Rev. A. S. Sommerfield. Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Watts attended the young couple. They will make their home in Detroit, where the groom has employment.

Isosco Baseball League

Miner's Grove won over Wilber in last Sunday's contest by the score of 11 to 9. The game was a battle from start to finish with plenty of hits, runs, base running, errors, arguments and what have you. By winning this game Miner's Grove just about clinched the championship in the Isosco County league for this season. They are out in front by 1 1/2 games. In order for Wilber to tie them, Miner's Grove would have to lose to Baldwin Sunday and Wilber win its two remaining games. One a scheduled game with Whittemore, and the other a postponed game from earlier in the season. Should Miner's Grove win Sunday's game they will have it in the bag regardless of the outcome of the other games.

The Whittemore - Baldwin score was not reported.

Next Sunday's games are Miner's Grove at Baldwin and Whittemore at Wilber.

STANDINGS

Miner's Grove	14	3	.824
Wilber	12	4	.750
Whittemore	2	11	.154
Baldwin	2	12	.143

$25,000 Received Here In "Pay Taxes" Campaign

Reviewing the results of the "pay your taxes" campaign just completed by county and state officials, Auditor General George T. Gundry estimated today that payment of delinquent taxes in the state during the last few days of August amounted to more than $15,000,000. As a result of payment either in full or on the moratorium payment plan approximately 500,000 parcels will be removed from the tax sale list, Mr. Gundry said. In Isosco county more than $25,000.00 was paid to the treasurer. Business was so great during the last few days in August that several weeks will be required to make out the tax receipts and make the necessary entries.

Crediting the advertising campaign authorized by the administrative board with much of the success in collections, the Auditor General stated that payments this year were nearly fifty per cent greater than those of the corresponding period last year.

Due to the avalanche of descriptions paid to county treasurers they will be unable to make their returns to the state in time to prevent posting on the tax sale rolls, Gundry said. He pointed out, however, that even though the original estimate of 1,500,000 descriptions are advertised for sale those that have been paid will be withheld from sale by the county treasurers.

The Auditor General indicated that fully two-thirds of the taxpayers availed themselves of the moratorium plan for the amortization of their delinquencies.

15 Miles County Road Built During Year

The Isosco County Road commission has this year built about 15 miles of new grade and by the end of the season hopes to have several more miles completed, besides four new bridges have been constructed. As much of the new grading will be covered with limestone as funds will permit. The stone plant though now in operation has been idle for the last six months, because money was not available to operate the plant and the same time carry on the regular maintenance, the grading and bridge program.

During the past five years, or beginning with the taking over of their twenty per cent of the Holbeck McNitt roads the commission has rebuilt, about 90 per cent of all township bridges that were in immediate need of repair or replacement. Most of this construction has been of a concrete and steel. So that when all the bridges have been taken care of a large part of the funds that have been going for bridge construction will be used in road improvement.

A lot of this improvement was made possible by a very light snow fall last winter. A heavy snow fall would have consumed funds that have been used during the past six months for road improvement.

The new grades built include some very heavy construction, among those heavy pieces built this year are the Laidlaw road in Tawas, the August Cholger road in Wilber, the Londo Lake road in plainfield, a part of the Reno Cemetery road, the Eulie Colvin road in Burleigh, the stretch between sections 18 and 19, Burleigh, and a part of the Town Line road in Reno.

Isosco like most, all northern Michigan counties is working under a handicap, because of insufficient funds to give the service the people expect, and at the same time carry on a large program of construction; however at the present rate of improvement, a few years should find all the mail routes and many other roads passable every day except for heavy snows.

In this connection it might be of interest to note what some other counties say at the present time about the finances of their Road Commissions. The following quotations are taken from recent issues of Michigan Roads and Construction:

"The policy of the Houghton spending all available money on roads until sufficient funds are available, has been approved by a unanimous vote of the Houghton County Supervisors."

"That the Iron County Road Commission is in dire need for more (Turn to No. 3, back page)

Burney Tahash

Burney Tahash, a highly respected citizen of Reno township, died very suddenly at his home Friday afternoon, August 27, following a heart attack. A short time before his death he complained of not feeling well (a very unusual statement for him) and said he would lie down for a little while. He passed away before medical aid could reach him.

He was born in Huron county May 18, 1871. The deceased had resided in and near Oscoda for 15 years until about two years ago. On June 10, 1935, he was united in marriage to Mrs. Clara Williams. Since that time he has made his home in Reno township. In their early lives the two had been childhood playmates.

Mr. Tahash had been a carpenter by trade. He was a kind and considerate neighbor and friend and his good fellowship will be missed by his many friends.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon from the Reno Baptist church. Rev. A. T. Mack officiated. Burial was in the Evergreen cemetery at Hale beside a former wife where a very impressive ceremony was carried out by members of Oddfellow Lodge, No. 401, of Oscoda of which he was a member.

There are left to mourn his demise his wife, Clara, a son by a former marriage whose whereabouts is unknown; one sister, Mrs. Charles Damm of Pigeon, five brothers, William of Grand Rapids, Ray of Flint, John of Swartz Creek, James of Detroit and Frank of Pigeon, besides a host of other relatives and friends.

Out of town relatives who came to attend the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tahash of Grand Blanc, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Tahash of Flint, Mr. and Mrs. John Tahash and children of Swartz Creek, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Damm of Pigeon, Mrs. George Rautzon of Flint, Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Williams of Swartz Creek, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fuller of Pontiac, Mr. and Mrs. Pave King of Mt. Morris and Miss Irene Tahash of Royal Oak.

Cholera Adds to Death Toll . . . Chinese Planes Bomb American Liner . . . Britain Protests Attack on Envoy

'Black Death' in Shanghai

AS IF there were not horror enough in Shanghai, the ill-fated city found itself face to face with a new peril—bubonic plague. The outbreak of the disease, first discovered in the French concession, where most of the American population lives, was traced in large part to the sanitary difficulties in removing the bodies of Hongkew civilians killed by bombings, artillery shelling and machine-gun fire.

Sanitary officers in the concession and the international settlement fought frantically to check the spread of the dread cholera. They were hampered by Japanese military forces which insisted upon keeping closed areas where there still remained bodies to be buried.

Admiral Harry Yarnell, commander of the United States Asiatic fleet, canceled all shore leaves for sailors and ordered Chinese hands off American ships. With the port of Shanghai closed to American shipping other than warships, because of the ever-increasing danger of bombs and artillery fire, 500 Americans who had intended to leave on the next liners out of port were stranded, making a total of 2,000 American inhabitants who remained exposed to the double dangers of warfare and cholera.

Announcement by the Japanese that they had perfected a plan for bombing every air base in China was regarded as a warning to foreign nationals throughout the 3,000,000 square miles of Chinese territory that they had better evacuate if they were to be safe.

Evacuation of Americans from Shanghai was difficult with the ban on shipping. Warships appeared the logical means of rescue, but there were few in the Shanghai area capable of taking aboard large loads of passengers. Accordingly, a cruiser squadron of six ships was being prepared to leave the United States, steam to Shanghai and remove those stranded there.

The Japanese embassy warned foreign nations that they had better advise the Japanese navy of movements of ships into the vast blockaded area, lest these be mistaken for Chinese supply ships. The embassy intimated that cargoes of ammunition and military supplies might be denied admittance and advised foreign ships that it might be a good idea to permit Japanese authorities to inspect their cargoes before entering the blockade.

International Crises

ONE grave international crisis followed another in the new Sino-Japanese war. Britain was still awaiting reply to her protest over the wounding of His Majesty's ambassador to China by a Japanese airman when four airplanes, identified as Chinese, swooped down upon the American liner, President Hoover, flagship of the Dollar line, dropping bombs which killed one person aboard and wounded eight.

The President Hoover, having deposited a load of refugees in Manila, was nearing Shanghai to pick up another load when the bombs struck, tearing 25 holes in the ship above the water line. The ship immediately notified Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commander of the American fleet, who took command of all American shipping in the emergency. He ordered the President Hoover to continue to Japan, and radioed other vessels that they must not enter "hostile" waters off the Wosung and Yangtze lightships. It was only a few days before the President Lincoln, another Dollar liner, had had to run a gauntlet of artillery fire to get 160 American refugees on their way to Manila.

China's ambassador in Washington, Chen Ting T. Wang, lost no time in making complete apology for his government in the Dollar liner incident to Secretary of State Cordell Hull. He said the President Hoover had been mistaken for a Japanese transport by a Chinese aviator. He offered to make full financial reparation immediately. It was indicated that a court martial was in store for the erring aviator.

More spectacular, but only because of the importance of the person it involved, was the shooting of Sir Hughe Montgomery Knatchbull-Hugessen, British ambassador to China.

Britain's note to Tokyo was couched in stringent terms. It said, in part:

"The plea, should it be advanced, that the flags carried on the cars were too small to be visible is irrelevant. There would have been no justification for the attack even had the cars carried no flags at all.

"The foreign and even the diplomatic status of the occupants is also irrelevant. The real issue is that they were noncombatants . . .

"Such events are inseparable from the practice as illegal as it is inhuman of failing to draw that clear distinction between combatants and noncombatants in the conduct of hostilities which international law no less than the conscience of mankind has always enjoined.

Wounded by Japanese airmen, Sir Hughe Montgomery Knatchbull-Hugessen is center of strained international relations.

al law no less than the conscience of mankind has always enjoined.

"His majesty's government must therefore request:

"FIRST—A formal apology to be conveyed by the Japanese government to His Majesty's government;

"SECOND—Suitable punishment for those responsible for the attack;

"THIRD—An assurance by the Japanese authorities that necessary measures will be taken to prevent recurrence of events of such a character."

Tokyo's reply was temporarily withheld, pending a complete investigation.

Trouble Ahead for Ford

JOHN L. LEWIS' magic touch effected a compromise between warring factions of the United Automobile Workers of America sufficient to permit the election of officers, but that failed to cover up the fierce dissension in the C. I. O. affiliate's Milwaukee convention.

Several times only a fortunately-timed adjournment saved a day's meeting from breaking up in a riot. The clashes were between the "progressive" faction of the union, headed by President Homer Martin, and the "unity" faction, containing most of the "left" members, who opposed Martin's program. In the end, the Lewis compromise forced Martin to retain several unity group officers he had apparently been anxious to depose. New officers added were, however, chiefly adherents of Martin, and it was believed his faction still held control of the executive board.

Of chief importance in the convention was the decision to go ahead with the campaign to organize the employees of the Ford Motor company. A special tax of $1 per member, which would bring in a net of something like $400,000, was voted for the purpose. Lewis predicted, "Some day Henry Ford is going to be so very tired he will be willing to accord to his employees the rights that are due them."

War May Soon Be Luxury

ONE good argument for peace is that the rising costs of raw materials are making war more expensive than ever. This was demonstrated when London financial circles revealed that parliament will be asked to vote supplementary funds to carry out Great Britain's armament program for the present year.

In February experts figured the cost of armaments at $7,500,000,000 over a five-year period. Now it is apparent that many more millions will be required. The cost of anti-munitions has increased from $385 to $465 a ton, copper from $265 to $275, heavy scrap steel from $18.75 to $22.50, tin from $1.135 to $1.285, and zinc from $105 to $115. Steel ship plates a year ago cost $46.75 a ton; now they are $57.

Jersey Kids Picket Mayor

THE next thing you know babies will be picketing their cradles for more milk. Spurred on by frequent accounts of industrial strike picketing—or by the encouragement of disgruntled politicians—several hundred boys between the ages of seven and thirteen years rose in revolt against the city fathers of Jersey City, N. J.

Shouting their war cry, "We want playgrounds!", the youngsters tied up traffic with their parade. They dug up cobblestones from the streets, sprinkled the pavements with broken glass, built barricades of boxes and stones which made driving hazardous for automobilists.

The boys directed their campaign against Mayor Frank Hague and United States Senator A. Harry Moore, upbraiding them with placard mottoes condemning their alleged failure to provide sufficient playgrounds for the safety of children. Police dispersed them gently at first, but when they reorganized and resumed the picketing, the officers were forced to seize 15.

YOU Figure It Out!

IT IS true that the first session of the seventy-fifth congress appropriated a vast amount of money, but just how much? It depends upon your point of view.

Rep. John Taber (Rep., N. Y.), ranking minority member of the appropriations committee, in preparing a compilation for the last issue of the Congressional Record, estimated that congress had appropriated $10,252,892,556, all for use in the current fiscal year. He contended this amount of spending in one fiscal year would result in a deficit of between $3,000,000,000 and $4,000,000,000, and a national debt of more than $40,000,000,000.

Publication of Taber's statement drew a reply from Clarence Cannon (Dem., Mo.), chairman of the committee. He presented a series of tables which he claimed proved that the last session appropriated only $3,427,605,854, of which only $7,448,648,922 was for the 1938 fiscal year.

Then, just to sharpen the wits of laymen who sought the answer to the puzzle, Carter Glass, Democratic senator from Virginia, who has often differed from the administration on points of expenditures, offered his estimate that $9,389,488,893 had been appropriated. He added that the national debt is really closer to 40 billions than the 37 billions reported by the treasury.

Puppet King for Ethiopia?

WHEN Mussolini captured Ethiopia (or did he?) it was frequently said that he would never be able to control it, much less develop it, for the Ethiopian tribes are wild and terrible. Apparently he is now coming to the same conclusion and is about to turn for help to—of all people!—the former emperor, Haile Selassie.

It is known that the Italian government has made certain overtures to Great Britain to determine how she feels about the "Conquering Lion of Judah" ascending his throne once more, but strictly as a puppet for whom Il Duce would pull the strings. Britain is said to be willing because of the ever-present Italian threat along her Mediterranean lifeline.

France, too, has been approached on the matter. Frenchmen own the important railroad from Addis Ababa to Djibuti, but one of the principal stockholders in the French corporation is Haile Selassie, and the Italians refuse to recognize his holdings. It is believed that if the French agree to the puppet monarchy the validity of the emperor's shares will not be questioned. Then France will be able to buy them.

The fly in the ointment is that Haile Selassie will have none of this. He will rest his fate entirely with the League of Nations, of which Ethiopia is still a member. Meanwhile the continual raids by native tribesmen, still faithful to their emperor, leave no Italian life safe in the African country, and are making Il Duce's "colonization" a joke.

Dictator Visits Dictator

BERLIN was preparing a hero's welcome for Benito Mussolini, Italian dictator due to visit the German capital during September's closing days. Throughout the city Il Duce's obvious popularity was a realistic reminder of the friendly alliance which has developed between the two Fascist nations.

Unter den Linden and the Wilhelmstrasse were being decorated with bunting, colored lights and huge German and Italian flags. Various tours and military maneuvers were planned for Il Duce's visit. He was to arrive in a private airplane, his own hands at the controls. During his stay he was to be the guest of Adolf Hitler in the presidential palace. Plans called for his appointment as honorary leader of der Fuehrer's private guard and as colonel-in-chief of a Nazi cavalry regiment.

Japs Eye Sino-Russ Pact

IN TOKYO it was widely believed that the non-aggression pact signed by the Russian and Chinese governments was accompanied by a secret military agreement which would ally the two enemies of Japan to the extent that Soviet munitions, military advisers and aviators would be dispatched to China.

The charges were that by the terms of the secret agreement China fully recognizes Soviet activities in Outer Mongolia and the province of Sinkiang in return for a joint defense understanding against Japanese advance in China.

Mediterranean Menace

REGARDED as a renewal of attacks on shipping in the Mediterranean due to the Spanish civil war was the submarine attack upon the Russian freighter Timiryazev off Algiers. When the ship sank after being struck by a torpedo the captain and the crew of 29 were picked up by a fishing boat and brought to Algiers.

None of the crew could identify the attacker, although all reported they had seen a submarine's periscope just before the blast.

Louis Retains Championship

TOMMY FARR, the Welsh fighter whom all the "smart guys" thought was a set-up for Joe Louis, world's heavyweight champion, gave the "Brown Bomber" the surprise of his life in New York, when he stayed 15 rounds. Louis got the eminently fair decision, but Tommy was still fighting like a tiger when the final bell rang.

Vote Government Funds to Restore Historic Salem

Commemorate Great Epoch in Maritime History.

Washington.—Allotment of $110,000 of public works funds for the restoration of the Derby Wharf National Historic site, Salem, Mass., has been announced by Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior and administrator of public works.

This is the first national historic site to be designated by Secretary Ickes under authority vested in him under the act of congress known as the historic sites legislation. The area embraced within the site includes Derby wharf, Central wharf, the old Salem courthouse, the Richard Derby house, and other associated properties of important historical significance.

No federal moneys were expended in purchase of the property, the enabling legislation specifically declaring against such expenditures. The allotment will be used for restoration purposes, providing employment for skilled and unskilled labor recruited through the national re-employment service.

Co-operation by the commonwealth of Massachusetts, the city of Salem, the United States Treasury, the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities, and private individuals cleared the way for the government to assist the project through the national park service and the PWA. Fifty thousand dollars was voted by the Massachusetts legislature; the Treasury department consented to the transfer of the old custom house to the Department of the Interior; the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities donated the Richard Derby house; and local citizens subscribed approximately $7,500 toward the expenses involved in acquiring title to associated properties.

Once Mistress of Seas.

Derby Wharf National Historic site will be an example of the scope and intention of the enabling legislation. It will commemorate the most flourishing epoch in New England's maritime history, when Salem was mistress of the seas, her swift ships the pioneers in opening up trade with the Far East; her name synonymous with that of the United States. Long before Boston, New York, Baltimore, and Philadelphia—which ports successively earned their way into the roster of great ports of the Eighteenth century—were heard of in the Orient, Salem had become a recognized word.

When the colonies revolted from British rule, Salem turned her fast-sailing fleets to the service of the colonies. They played so conspicuous a role in the naval warfare of the period that they are credited with the capture of more prizes than all the rest of the American ports combined. Again, in the War of 1812, Salem provided 40 out of a to-

Taste for Shrubbery

Proves Fatal to Cows

Healdsburg, Calif.—Oleanders may be highly desirable for home decoration, but they are hard on cows. For several years past, the state hospital has had an epidemic each June of deaths among its prize herd of Holsteins, one of the most valuable in the state. Year-end investigations this year revealed the fact that the cows had eaten the clippings from oleander shrubs and the clippings had done the rest.

American Indians' Songs

Being Put Upon Records

Philadelphia.—The literature, history and songs of the American Indian, dying under the stress of modern life, are being preserved in wax by a group of anthropologists and psychologists interested in the philosophy of the first inhabitants of America.

Dr. Frank G. Speck, professor of anthropology at the University of Pennsylvania, an authority on Indian life, is helping to record for posterity the saga of the red races. Records are being made of primitive dances, hymns of praise and hate, the incantations of medicine men and all the rites of a war-prow.

Modern mass production has taken Indians from the ancient trades of weaving and pottery-making and swing music and dancing have outmoded the age-old Sun Dance, sounding the death knell of Indian art and life as a distinctive part of America, according to Dr. Speck.

Indian tribes, including the Iroquois, the Delawares and other groups, at first feared that the records would be a source of ridicule at the hands of white men, but they assented to Dr. Speck's request when he assured them that learned men wanted to study their customs by that method.

AIRPLANE BICYCLE

The addition of a propeller which controls the speed of his stream-lined "aerocycle" makes it possible for Dominick Devenzenzi of Chicago to drive his bicycle at the rate of 45 miles per hour. The 27-inch aluminum propeller operates co-ordinately with a chain connected with the pedal chain, the speed increasing on the principle of an airplane.

Tag 3,000 Pike to Trace

Duluth, Minn.—Swimming in northern Minnesota lakes are 3,000 wall-eye pike tagged by the University of Minnesota in an experiment to learn how far pike travel and their ultimate fate.

Professor Samuel C. Eddy, aided by the state game and fish division and the United States Forestry service, locked narrow metal strips to the jaws of the fish. Anglers catching the fish are asked to communicate with Eddy. Female fish were excluded.

Sixteen Teeth at Birth

Meriden, Conn.—A baby born in Crosson hospital had a full set of teeth. Although covered with a thin film of skin, eight teeth in the upper jaw and eight in the lower were visible.

Huge Plow Will Cut Six-Foot Furrow

Huge plow constructed at a cost of $3,400 which is designed to cut furrows six feet deep. It will be used in the Santa Ana river plains of California to recover rich loam soil buried under sand deposits by the 1916 flood. The machine will be pulled by two 95-horse-power Diesel-driven caterpillar tractors. The share will be nosed into and pulled from the earth by a powerful hydraulic hoist mounted on top of the frame.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Cures for Communism.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—A certain rich man out here—rich but indulgent—got a letter from his heir, a sophomore at one of the big eastern colleges.

The lad announced he had been converted to communism and was contributing to the cause. So what about it?

The old man wrote back: "Son, you have a perfect right to follow the dictates of your conscience. But as a consistent communist you naturally would not continue to live on the ill-gotten gains of a wicked money-grabber. Today I am cutting off your somewhat generous allowance. You will also vacate the luxurious apartment you now occupy because I'm not paying the rent of same any longer. So go ahead, my boy, and commune freely—with my blessings! But from date that'll be about all from this end of the line."

Exactly four hours after the arrival by air mail of this ultimatum, the hard-hearted parent got back a rush telegram stating that the young man had been thinking things over and had decided not to take up the new doctrine.

The Art of Listening. WE HAD a party at which there appeared what I may call the dumb poets—Sam Hoffenstein and Ogden Nash. At the studios where they're both turning out epics, there's a rule that neither shall burst forth into poetry while he's under contract—no thumbing of the harp, no sounding of the lute. Cinema's gain is creation's loss.

Maybe that explains why they made such good listeners the other night. And isn't a good listener a boon! I don't mind being interrupted, provided the interrupter chooses the right subject. Mute and rapt, I can harken for hours on hours if someone is talking about me, say, or even reading from my published works. But these two minnesingers only broke in to ask that the pickled shrimp be passed or gently to suggest that another little drink or two wouldn't do any harm.

Ogden Nash has attained the highest peak of distinction attainable for a writer. His chief imitator has an imitator who is bringing up his oldest boy to be an imitator.

Resurrecting Old Words. WHEN a word gets fashionable—especially a new word which some wordsmith thought up right out of his head—it gets too doggone fashionable. The same applies to old words which have been disinterred from their forgotten tombs in the dictionary.

I seem to see grave robbers prowling through the unabridged, starting in at "aard-vark," which is an animal formerly common only to Africa but not frequently found in cross-word puzzles; and working on through to "zythum," a very strong beer drunk by ancient tribes. I guess those old-timers imbibed copiously of the brew and then named it. It doesn't sound like the sort of word a dead sabel party deliberately would make up.

Do you remember the run "intrigued" had? I never got so sick of a word in my life. And then along came "provocative," and it turned out to be a pest. People went around just looking for a chance to work "provocative" into the conversation. The only way to lick 'em was to pretend to be deaf and dumb.

And now the reigning favorite is "allergic." Folks spout it everywhere, whether they know what it means or not. I don't mind saying I'm getting awfully allergic to "allergic." There must be many others like me.

Campaign Books. LET us not cavil too much because high pressure salesmen, working on commission, have been unloading upon the faithful, at fancy prices, the gift book put out by Washington headquarters to pay off campaign debts. In fact, 15 cents' worth would cover practically all the cavil I personally have used up in this connection.

The result tends to prove the gratifying fact that, while more Democrats may not necessarily have learned how to read and write, obviously more of us have got money than formerly was the case when the Republicans were in power.

Besides, think of what the strain would have been upon the poor postman if the national committee had been stuck with all this bulk literature and congressmen had started franking copies out to their constituents with Uncle Sam paying the freight. To give you a further idea about this franking privilege, I may state that it was named for Frank, Jesse's brother—and you'll remember how careless those James boys were with the United States mails!

Household Questions

Use for Old Shaving Brush—A discarded shaving brush makes a splendid blacklead brush, as it penetrates parts which are difficult to reach with an ordinary stove-brush.

For Boiled Ham—When boiling ham add a small teacupful of vinegar and a few cloves to the water. This will improve the flavor. If the ham is allowed to cool in the water in which it was boiled it will be moist and sweet.

Eggs and Mushrooms—Put 2 ounces of fresh butter into a stewpan; break over it 4 fresh eggs, and add 3 spoonfuls chopped mushrooms, 1/2 teaspoonful salt, 1 saltspoonful ground white pepper. Stir the mixture with a wooden spoon over a clear fire until of a thickish consistency, and serve very hot on buttered toast.

Laundry Hint—Transfer marks left after a piece of embroidery is completed may be taken out before the article is squeezed through in warm water by rubbing gently with a piece of cotton wool moistened with methylated spirit.

Improving Cauliflower—Cauliflower is improved by being soaked in water to which a little lemon juice or vinegar has been added.

Picnic Steaks—Mince finely 1/2 pound tender steak, add 1/2 table-spoonful finely-chopped onion, 1 table-spoonful breadcrumbs, 1 beaten egg, 1/2 teaspoonful salt, 1/4 teaspoonful pepper. Knead the ingredients well together, shape into rounds about 1 inch thick, place on a greased baking dish with dabs of margarine on top, and bake in a moderate oven for about 20 minutes. When cool, wrap each in a lettuce leaf and pack in carton.

Ironing Linen Table Mats—Linen table mats edged with lace or crochet require special care in ironing. The mats should be pinned in the correct shape to the ironing sheet when wet, placing the pins close together where the lace joins the linen. Iron with the point of the iron and keep the mat pinned out till the lace is quite dry. Embroidered organdie mats should be ironed on the wrong side over a thick underfelt.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
By WILLIAM BRUCKART
NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington.

Political students and observers in Washington find themselves in a quandary concerning the objectives of the New Deal administration because of a series of late developments. Frankly, most students of politics have to confess their inability to fathom the various developments of recent weeks or to measure their significance.

I have written, heretofore, about the wide open split in the Democratic party and about the presidential moves to heal that split but, instead of the new developments being of a kind designed to heal wounds, they appear superficially at least to be doing directly the opposite thing. Confessing my own inability to understand the political strategy, if there be strategy, let me merely call attention to such things as:

The recent radio speech by Senator Guffey, Pennsylvania, Democrat, which thoroughly read out of the party such able men as Senators Wheeler of Montana, Burke of Nebraska and O'Mahoney of Wyoming.

The speech of Postmaster General Farley before the Young Democrats at their Indiana meeting, stating that there will be no reprisals against those Democrats who have seen fit or now see fit to object to parts of President Roosevelt's New Deal program.

The so-called harmony dinner of Democratic senators at a Washington hotel after the election of Senator Barkley of Kentucky as Democratic leader of the senate, and the absence of President Roosevelt from that meeting.

The renewal by President Roosevelt of his criticism of "Economic Royalists" in his speech in celebration of the birth of Virginia Dare, the first white child born in America, at Manteo, N. C.

The speech of Senator Guffey in New York declaring without equivocation that the Committee for Industrial Organization, headed by John L. Lewis, should provide a nucleus for an American Labor party. This party should have among its objectives the political destruction of any one who fails to carry through the New Deal policies or who opposes a program designed to make the court structure of the United States subservient to the President.

There are other phases, other circumstances that might be included in this list, but those enumerated serve to show the confusion that prevails. They present to me a wholly nonunderstandable and unexplainable hauling and filling—breathing hot and cold without a change of face.

Conceited Beau Brummell

Beau Brummell (1778-1840), the master dandy of all time, was so idolized by the aristocracy of London as an arbiter of dress and manners that, eventually, he became unbearably conceited. One night he even ordered a duchess out of his house, during a reception, because her "dress was cut too low in the back." The gentleman's taste was so offended that he had to cover his eyes while she humbly backed out of the ballroom.—Collier's Weekly.

There has been nothing of a purely political nature create quite so much of a stir in a long time as did the radio speech of Senator Guffey in which he called for defeat of all those who opposed the President's plan to reorganize the Supreme court of the United States by adding to it six justices of the President's own choosing. It was in this speech that Senator Guffey singled out Senators Wheeler, Burke and O'Mahoney for destruction. He did this because these three senators led the fight against the President's plan to pack the Supreme court. Senator Wheeler and Senator Burke conducted the fight on the floor of the senate; Senator O'Mahoney wrote the devastating report by which the senate judiciary committee advised the senate to kill the court packing bill.

Senator Guffey's speech was made at night. When the senate convened at noon the following day, Senator Wheeler took the floor and delivered one of the most vicious speeches of which he is known to be capable. It was excelled in bitterness only by the attack which came from Senator Burke. Senator O'Mahoney likewise made sure that the senate record revealed the feeling of those who were convinced the President had made a vital mistake in proposing the court reorganization.

I have heard these questions asked many times: What can the President gain by making Senator Guffey or any man of his type a spokesman for the administration? Further, can the President afford politically to strike at the very heart of the Democratic party by permitting even secretly the political destruction of such brilliant men as Wheeler, Burke and O'Mahoney?

The answer to those questions, as far as I can see it, or as far as I have been able to gather opinions on the point, must inevitably lead in the direction of a party purge. By that I mean, the President and his closest New Deal advisers must be seeking to drive out of the Democratic party, the machinery of

Which he controls, any and all Democrats who are unwilling to be one hundred per cent for the theories of economics and social reform which the New Dealers countenance.

If that be true, and I repeat it is only an assumption, then the President evidently is hoping to create a class party, a radical party which can be made to include such outfits as the John L. Lewis following, the communists and half-baked nitwits who are opposed to the principle of individual employment, the accumulation of personal belongings and even the idea of owning homes by individuals, free from debt.

On the other hand I cannot convince myself that Mr. Roosevelt would make a political mistake of this gravity. For it would be a mistake in two ways, namely, a virtual destruction of the Democratic party and the blighting of any hope the President may have for being elected a third time. It is these combinations that make the whole situation so difficult to understand.

It may be that one result will be that Senator Wheeler or Senator Burke may find himself in a political situation where one or the other will be forced to seek the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1940. It is quite apparent now that the split in the party is going to cause a violent explosion in the next Democratic national convention. There is no way to avoid it. It may be added in the same breath that Mr. Roosevelt can go into that convention and force his own renomination because surely the Farley political machine cannot be dislodged unless the factional dispute spreads to the rank and file of Democrats throughout the country. This is to say that, having control of the party machine, Mr. Farley can muster the election of enough delegates to assure the Roosevelt nomination, especially since Mr. Roosevelt demanded and obtained the repeal of the age-old Democratic rule that required a vote of two-thirds of all the sitting delegates before the convention nominates a candidate.

With further reference to Senator Guffey, Senator Barkley told the senate during the violent Wheeler-Burke-O'Mahoney attack that Senator Guffey had tendered his resignation as chairman of the Democratic senatorial committee a week previously. Senator Barkley's statement, however, was not accepted generally; it did not have the ring to make it convincing, nor did it appear to be anything more than an attempt by Senator Barkley to save Senator Guffey's face.

It may well be that the rupture in Democratic harmony will turn out to be a great issue as early as the 1938 congressional and senatorial elections. There are a number of senators who opposed the court packing bill and, therefore, fall within the Guffey castigation, who will be up for re-election next year. If the Guffey attack is followed up at all in the state organizations, those Democrats who opposed the President's will necessarily must defend themselves. The only way they can defend their course of action is by a counter attack on the President and those policies of his which the candidate for the senate opposed. I predicate my prediction of continuation of the row in 1938 on the statement made by Senator O'Mahoney in answer to the Guffey radio tirade. In that statement of position, Senator O'Mahoney stated, to quote a single paragraph:

"I would rather walk out of the door of this chamber and never return, than to surrender any honest convictions I have. I say to you, senators of the United States, so long as I am in this body I shall raise my voice and cast my vote as my conscience dictates and nobody, whether he comes from Pennsylvania or from New York or any other state, can tell me or the people of my state what I should or should not do."

Contrast that statement with the following declaration by Senator Guffey in his radio speech:

"I was elected to the United States senate in 1934 because I assured the voters of Pennsylvania that it was my intention to support loyally and without wavering the program of the Chief Executive."

And in calling attention to that statement of subservience, Senator Burke of Nebraska declared:

"Pennsylvania may want that kind of representation in the senate, and, if they do, God bless them, let them have it; but to me it would seem that if the senate is to have that kind of representation, it might as well have a parrot in a cage in the secretary's office and bring it in when the senator's name is called and have him say, 'Yes, Mr. Roosevelt, count me for that, too.' That is not my idea of what a senator should do."

Heat for Rheumatism

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

THE first thought in maintaining life is the use or application of heat. Heat is created or manufactured in the body from the food we eat, just as heat is created in a stove or furnace from the coal, wood or oil that is burned.

Heat stimulates the circulation in the inner and outer parts of the body, increasing or strengthening the circulation in individual parts, and throughout the entire body.

Thus in the treatment of that very old ailment, rheumatism, heat is being more generally used than ever before. Even those able to afford the Spa or water resort treatment now find that the drinking of sulphur and salt or saline waters is not considered as important as the application of heat in the various forms now available at these resorts.

Dr. C. W. Buckley, in the Journal of State Medicine, London, says:

"The effect of a course of mineral water drinking may be due to purgation or purging, cleansing the bowel or intestine, and so removing toxins or poisons: this will be the effect of strong sulphur and saline waters; and to flushing of the kidneys and the tissues generally. In most rheumatic conditions, however, the external use of water in the form of baths, douches, and other methods is generally considered to be more important than the drinking of the waters."

What are the effects of the use of these hot baths, douches, and other heat methods?

Dr. Buckley states that the effects are due to heat, mechanical, and chemical action that takes place in the body tissues. The heat effects will be the same whatever the character of the water employed and will influence rheumatic conditions by improving the flow of blood especially in the skin and outer tissues.

Value of Sugar Foods.
About the first foods that are reduced in amount in trying to get rid of fat are sugar, bread, potatoes, and fat. These starch foods not only supply energy for the body, but if not used, are stored away in the body as fat.

Now while sugar tends to store fat many of us forget or do not know two important points about sugar. Sugar is the greatest energy producer for its weight of all the starch or carbohydrate foods. Sugar gets into the blood and supplies energy in less time than any other single food.

As you know, a sugar solution is now put into the veins before, during and after surgical operations to give and maintain the patient's strength.

At our universities and schools great quantities of sugar in the form of candy or chocolate bars are consumed before the afternoon football, hockey, basketball or other practice.

I am not trying to get readers to eat more sugar; it is likely that most of us eat enough for the amount of work we do. To eat too much sugar may mean a great increase in weight because with little or no work done, or exercise taken, this extra sugar may be stored away as fat.

But I believe that the knowledge that sugar will give a great amount of energy in a very short time should be acted upon by those who are overweight, that is by those who are in good health.

As you know, the reason so many overweighters soon go back to a full diet after being on a reducing diet for a short time is because of a feeling of weakness. This weakness naturally alarms them and they go off the reducing diet. This is because there is not enough sugar being carried by the blood to muscles and tissues which use sugar as a fuel.

"When the number of calories or food units is reduced it should be remembered that too little sugar and starch may cause a low sugar content, with its resultant nervousness, and also lessened muscle activity and early muscle tired."

This means that the overweight who cuts down too much on sugar and starch foods is going to feel so weak and nervous, and tire so easily and quickly that he will take very little exercise. And it is exercise that not only reduces weight but maintains the strength of the muscles.

What should be done is to eat a little starch food just before taking the exercise. Eating a few lumps of loaf sugar, a piece of candy, a chocolate bar, or a banana which is rich in quickly digested sugar, will give the energy necessary to take some exercise or play a game, or do some physical work. The sugar gives the energy in less than ten minutes and enough energy with which to do an hour's exercise.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Breath of Life"
By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:
I'll bet you'd have felt pretty tough, too, if this had happened to you. If you were lying at the door of death—depending for your very life on the efforts of two or three of your pals who were trying to save you—and you heard one of them say, "Aw, heck, fellows, we're not getting anywhere with this. Let's give it up for a bad job,"—well—in a case like that I wouldn't blame any man for getting discouraged. And so was Don Ward discouraged, on that day back in May, 1932, when that identical thing happened to him.

Don has a job now at the Pilgrim State hospital at Brentwood, N. Y. He doesn't go out any more to shoot trouble among the electric wires and cables of Long Island, but in 1932 he was a lineman employed by a firm of electrical engineers in Northport, L. I., and worked with a gang of six men, stringing wires all over the surrounding country.

Chris Anderson was the boss of that crew, and there's another lad in that outfit whom we might as well mention now as at any other time, because he played a big part in this story of Don's. His name is Kelly, and he had a couple of sore feet and a stubborn disposition, and if he hadn't had both of those things it's a different yarn we'd be telling today.

Kelly's Sore Feet Started It All.

The crew was running a new street light circuit in Stony Brook, L. I. Don and Kelly were working together. They had strung seven or eight sections of wire when Kelly began to complain about his feet. He had on a new pair of shoes that day, and climbing up and down the poles made them sore. So Don told Kelly to stay on the ground. He'd take over the part of the work that called for climbing.

Don went up the next pole. There were a lot of other wires strung on it—old ones from which the insulation had worn off until they were practically bare. Don admits he should have been more careful in tack-

Uncle Phil Says:

And Often It Burns
Everyone rakes the embers under his own cake.
Credit human society with one virtue: If you had a famous ancestor, human society will remember it.
It's difficult for a man to collect himself when his wits are scattered.
When you wonder how some people get by, it may be because they do not care whether they do or not.

YOU CAN THROW CARDS IN HIS FACE ONCE TOO OFTEN

WHEN you have those awful cramps; when your nerves are all on edge—do take it out on the man you love.
Your husband can't possibly know how you feel for the simple reason that he is a man.
A three-quarter wife may be no wife at all if she nags her husband seven days out of every month.
For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tune up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three decades of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."
Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

First to Play Juliet
 In the first Shakespearean production it was the custom to use boys actors for feminine roles. The part of Romeo was played by Burbage and an unidentified boy played Juliet in the earliest performances. Between the time of Burbage's death and the Restoration there are no records of Romeo and Juliet on the stage. From 1642 to 1660 parliament prohibited public stage plays. After the lifting of this prohibition, Sir William D'Avenant received from the king exclusive stage rights for the play. His original Juliet was Mary Sanderson afterward Mrs. Thomas Betterton, who is apparently the first woman ever to have played the part of Juliet.

Wine Temperamental Beverage
 Wine is a temperamental beverage. Some kinds improve on long ocean voyages. Other kinds become "sick" on trains and ships and require months of rest to recover their tranquility. Others sometimes have temporary "sick spells," the cause of which baffles even expert wine doctors.—Collier's Weekly.

American Boy Introduces A New Football Game
 In the early fall issues of "The American Boy" there'll be presented the story of a new game—six-man football—fast as professional football, wide open as basketball, thrilling as hockey!
 The game came to life through the need of small schools for some substitute for 11-man football, which was too expensive. Stephen Epler, a Nebraska graduate student in athletics, developed the game of six-man football to meet this need. In six-man football anybody can score, the possibility of injury from mass plays is minimized, and the game is open enough for spectators to follow every exciting development.
 The new game is a hit. New schools are taking it up every day. In coming issues "The American Boy" tells the world about this practical new game. In addition, it presents "The American Boy official Hand-book", which can be obtained from the magazine at 20 cents a copy, or 15 cents when bought in bulk.
 Note: Subscription prices of "The American Boy" will be raised in the near future. Send your subscription order at once to take advantage of the bargain rates now in effect: one year at $1.00 or three years at $2.00. Foreign subscriptions 50¢ a year extra. Send your name, address and remittance to "The American Boy", 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. On newsstands the price is 15 cents a copy.

WHAT! PHILGAS ONLY $1.75 A PACKAGE?

That's right! A "package" (cylinder) of Philgas—real cooking gas for homes beyond gas mains—costs only $1.75. No more bother with the dirt and inconvenience of old-fashioned cooking methods. No more waiting, no fires to build, no wicks to trim, no ashes, no soot, no smelly liquids, no pumping, no priming. MODERN gas cooking is now within the financial reach of every family.

What It Is—
 Philgas is real gas. You use it in your modern gas range or other appliances just as you would in the city. Philgas Self-Service is not an untried development. Philgas, the modern cooking fuel, has been used for years by tens of thousands of customers!

How It Works—
 A small lease charge installs a Philgas Self-Service system (two cylinders—one in use, one in reserve). It is a simple system. You purchase gas in small, easy-to-carry "packages". Your dealer maintains a supply of full containers at all times, ready for use.

Many beautiful models of modern gas ranges are available for Philgas Self-Service. You can buy just the type you want, at just the price you want to pay. See an actual demonstration of Philgas Self-Service and these modern Philgas ranges to-day!

She went to the servants' entrance of the apartment, rang the bell. A middle-aged man in a houseman's coat opened the door. "Oh, the new maid," he said. "Mr. Cayne said you'd be coming. This way."

Rachel followed him into a large hot kitchen where a stout woman was arranging an elaborate tea tray. "This is Lena, my wife," he said. "My name's Towers. What's yours?"

"My name's Rachel," she said meekly, adding still more meekly, "pleased to meet you both."

"I'll show you your room," said Mrs. Towers, giving Rachel a cold prolonged stare. "And you get along with this tray, Bert, the madame's rung twice. You're to go in and see her as soon as you've taken off your coat and hat, Rachel. Come right along."

Down a back hall was her room—no smaller than the one she had at Pink's, Rachel noticed—with white iron bed, unmade, a bureau with wavy mirror, a chair and table, a stationary stand.

"Bedding and towels is in the bureau," said Mrs. Towers, "but don't stop to fix anything now, the madame's waiting. There's the closet, put your hat and coat in there. Mr. Towers and me have a room two doors down, the bathroom's between. Come ahead."

With a strong sense of masquerade and warning herself to be very careful, Rachel followed Mrs. Towers again through the back hall, then at the kitchen door they turned into another hall which led to the front. At a mirrored door Mrs. Towers paused and tapped, then opening it, announced in sugary tones: "Here's the new girl, madame."

Rachel found herself in a long, too-decorated, too-crowded, too-colorful drawing room. Directly before her against the light were a smallish woman dressed in fluttery pastel chiffons and a very young man, lounging in one chair, his feet on another. And for the first time in her life she waited to hear her own mother's voice.

"Now where on earth," said Mrs. Cayne fretfully, "did Peter pick up such a great overgrown gawky creature?—she's sure to be clumsy."

The shock of the unfeeling comment sent the blood flying to Rachel's face. She couldn't speak. Then the very young man said, "Look, she's bushing!" and began to laugh.

His laughter brought back Rachel's composure. She comprehended that this was her half-brother, Peter Cayne's and Elinor's son, and she remembered that she must play her part. "Good afternoon, madame," she stammered, "I hope—I hope I—will be able to do the work satisfactorily."

"I suppose you haven't a uniform? Not even an apron?" said Mrs. Cayne.

"No, madame."

"There, you see, Holbrook," Elinor Cayne turned to her son. "Your father leaves everything to me. He would have it that I needed a maid and he sends one who hasn't so much as an apron."

"What color uniforms are you going to get for her? Why don't you try something interesting—soft blue or violet or bright pink?" Holbrook Cayne's voice was not boyish and he seemed older than his seventeen years, though he was slender and not very tall.

"Your father would have a brain storm!" Mrs. Cayne laughed now. Then she spoke again to Rachel. "What's your name?"

"Rachel." As she said it Rachel wondered if her mother would ask her last name, but Mrs. Cayne seemed satisfied and as she was busy with the teapot Rachel could look at her closely for the first time, the blue eyes Anne had described, the dark hair, the fair white skin, the general loveliness and an amazing youthfulness of outline and manner. "Youthful," thought Rachel, "but obviously not young. And this is my own mother! How strange, how strange this is!" Mrs. Cayne's many rings, the bracelets clinking down her arm as she lifted the cup, the twisted bar of diamonds in the chignon at her breast recalled Rachel to the reason she had been sent there. "I must be careful, I must be awfully careful," she thought. Aloud she said: "If you don't need me to do anything right away, madame, I'll unpack my suitcase. Or if you'd like me to I could go out and buy an apron to use tonight."

"But I do need you to do something," Rachel followed the small fluttering figure down the hall again and into an astonishing bedroom, rocco pink and blue with endless mirrors. "There, look in that closet and you'll find some evening dresses that need pressing. I don't know which one I'll wear tonight, so you can press them all. That closet's for evening clothes alone. This one over here is for day things."

The evening dress closet was wide and deep, with so many gowns of every color, every material, that Rachel paused in surprise.

Mrs. Cayne was impatient. "Take the first row and get them done before dinner, I'll wear one of them. You can do the others tonight."

"It's a tryout for me," thought Rachel. She took an armful of dresses and went back to Mrs. Towers, who indicated a small laundry beyond the kitchen with an iron and pressing board.

The dresses were expensive and elaborate, too elaborate, too showy. Rachel worked at them carefully, surprised to find herself almost without feeling. She wasn't even disappointed, she was simply numb and blank.

Mrs. Towers called her. "The madame's ringing for you."

"I'm not half done," said Rachel.

"Take 'em all back and don't say nothing. She won't look 'em over," advised the cook with a shrewd, not unfriendly glance. "She don't know good work from bad. She just likes to think she's making people step."

Thus warned, Rachel carried the dresses back to the bedroom. Mrs.

"I'll Wear That Blue Crepe, I Think," She Said.

Cayne was sitting before her dressing table taking off her bracelets.

"I'll wear that blue crepe, I think," she said, and Rachel laid it carefully on the bed. "Silver sandals—on the rack in the evening dress closet. And I want my bath quite warm, but not hot. Heaps of scent."

Rachel brought the slippers and was sent for fresh stockings and underwear from one of the tall in-laid French chests. There seemed to be no end to Mrs. Cayne's wardrobe. The bathroom was an exotic arrangement of colored marbles, mirrors, plate glass, silver. Rachel started the water, added quantities of gardenia bath salts and was startled to see how somber and shabby she looked in her old knitted suit in the middle of the glitter and luxury. She fetched a negligee of crushed pink velvet, pink velvet mules bordered with white fur, helped Mrs. Cayne to take off her chiffons and to slip out of her girdle.

"Press every dress before you hang it up, that's most important," said Mrs. Cayne absently. She was absorbed in watching her reflection from every possible angle with open pleasure.

Rachel put the room in order while Elinor bathed. The door opened and Mr. Cayne looked in. He recognized Rachel with satisfaction. "Here you are then," he said, nodding. "Where's Mrs. Cayne?"

"Taking her bath, sir."

"Oh Elinor," called her husband, "want to see a show tonight?"

"I can't tonight. Holbrook and I are going to the movies."

Mr. Cayne came into the room, his keen glance ran over the bracelets and rings on the dressing table, he put out a cautious finger, moved them, counting. "I'll go with you," he said.

Mrs. Cayne's voice was sweet, but faintly mocking. "Dear, you won't like it, I'm chaperoning a party of Holbrook's friends."

"No, I couldn't stand that." He looked round at Rachel with a sly twinkle. "How do you like your new maid?" he called.

"She's terribly overgrown and gawky and rather dumb. I don't see why you couldn't get me someone experienced."

"Oh pooh, nobody ever suits you." Rachel realized that this remark was in the nature of explanation and apology to her. She seized another armful of dresses and escaped to the laundry. When she came back Mr. Cayne had gone to his own room and Mrs. Cayne was waiting to be dressed. She was in much better humor. Rachel tried to seem accustomed to her work, buckled the sandals deftly, manipulated the hooks and snaps with concentrated attention. Just before the gown went on Mrs. Cayne settled herself to the prolonged labor of make-up. It was plain that she enjoyed the process and she did it skillfully. Rachel watched her with an obscure painful resentment, which she could not reason away.

When Elinor's face was tinted to her pleasure she stepped into the dress she had selected, a blue crepe exactly the color of her eyes, and Rachel drew it up over the slim hips, adjusted the intricate shoulder straps and buttoned 25 tiny buttons down the back. Then Elinor again put on her rings and bracelets and brooch, reshaped her lips, touched perfume to each wrist and behind each ear and finally, directing Rachel to move the long mirrors so that they would offer her entire reflection, she walked back and forth the length of the room, observing her effect intently.

When she was quite satisfied, she had more orders for Rachel. "I'll want my mink coat and muff and that little hat of blue velvet flowers and a blue velvet bag. Have everything ready as soon as dinner's over, and you might as well open the beds. Towers will show you, you'll have to do that regularly. But you don't need to wait up until I come in tonight."

Rachel went back to the kitchen and asked if there was anything she could do to help Mrs. Towers, an offer which pleased the woman. "No, you go on and unpack your bag and make your bed," she said. "She may think up something for you to do tonight."

"I have the rest of those dresses to press," said Rachel.

"You take them out of the closet and shake them and put them back. She won't notice. Is she going tonight?"

"She and—and—young Mr. Cayne are going to the movies with some of his friends."

"You better call him Mr. Holbrook, that's what they like. Mr. Cayne not going?"

Rachel reported the conversation on that subject and Mrs. Towers smiled grimly.

"She likes to run around and pretend Mr. Holbrook's her beau. She can't get away with it when Mr. Cayne's along. Go ahead now, fix your bed, we don't begin our dinner till the dessert's gone into the dining room."

"I'm awfully obliged to you for helping me out, Mrs. Towers," said Rachel. "Any time you want me to do anything here please say so."

"That's all right. I guess we'll get along. You can call me Lena if you want."

Lena liked her. Rachel knew that was an asset. She hurried into her tiny room and made haste to unpack and put the bedclothes on the bed, then scrubbed her face and hands and smoothed her hair flat again for her curls were perking up—everything at top speed to be ready if Mrs. Cayne rang for her, and to keep her thoughts off the display of vanity and uselessness she had just seen. It had disturbed and hurt her in a way she could not explain nor forgive; she was shaken with disappointment which she must not yet admit.

When Rachel went back to the kitchen dinner was going into the dining room. The serving table was filled with massive silver and red and gold French china and Lena was making fresh toast, draining artichokes and stirring golden Hollandaise sauce all apparently at the same time. Towers, impressive in his dress suit, had just carried in boned stuffed squabs, he brought out the platter, seized the tray with gravy, wild grape jelly and buttered crumbs in individual dishes and disappeared again. He and Lena had the serving beautifully systematized, it was fascinating to watch, every one of the many dishes was ready for him exactly as he needed it. Lena glanced up only once as she spooned and garnished and turned from the stove to the serving table: "You could set our table if you want, Rachel," she said "on the side there, the dishes in the cupboard up above, see?"

So Rachel prepared the table for her first meal under her mother's roof in the kitchen with the cook and the butler. She did it carefully, anxious to win Lena's approval, but it took only a few moments, she had it finished before the salad was served. It was a marvelous-looking salad, white endive wreathed with green cress, and it came chilled from the icebox with its plates. The sight and smell of the food made Rachel very hungry and Lena guessed it. She ladled out a bowl of soup and handed it to her: "They take their time," she said. "But that's no reason why you should starve."

Towers hastened in. "They're going to have coffee at the table on account of her and the boy going out." He looked at Rachel: "You better be ready to jump."

Rachel slipped down the hall past the dining room door to Mrs. Cayne's bedroom and took out the coat, hat and gloves, but she could not find a blue bag and was wary of rummaging. Presently Mrs. Cayne came in, head in the air, bright with triumph. "The blue bag's in that chest, top drawer—no, no, stupid, the bag with the lapis top's the one I want!"

She flung that direction at Rachel but otherwise hardly noticed her, for she was again intent on herself in the mirrors. But when she was ready, the little blue velvet hat set exquisitely on her exquisite little head, her slim body wrapped in the softness of her furs, she had one thing more to say and she said it with thoughtless cruelty: "Borrow an apron from Lena before I see you again, you're too depressing in that dreadful old rag."

The atmosphere in the kitchen had greatly changed when Rachel went back for the rest of her dinner. Towers had taken off his coat and he and Lena were leisurely and thoroughly eating their way through the generous remainders of the family's meal. They piled Rachel's plate, but she had lost her hunger. "I'm tired," she told them, wishing they wouldn't chew so audibly and visibly.

"Got to wait up for her?" asked Towers, taking another squab.

"No, she said not to, tonight. But she said I was to open the beds, that you'd show me how she likes it done and then I'm to do it regularly."

Towers and Mrs. Towers exchanged meaningful looks. "She don't want Mr. Cayne to know what time she gets in. She wouldn't take the car, she knew Yates would keep tabs on 'em." This was Towers' explanation.

"What was she nagging him for tonight?" asked Lena.

"Wants an ermine cape and some jewelry, pair o' clips, I think. They only cost seven thousand."

"She's got enough jewelry now to stock a shop," said Lena to Rachel, "and she takes no more care of it than if it came from the five-and-ten. Did you see where she keeps it?"

"No, I didn't," Rachel hid her now stimulated interest.

"It's all in a little wall safe behind her dressing table and half the time she don't remember to lock it. If Mr. Cayne didn't look after it she wouldn't know what she's got, nor where she'd put it."

"She don't keep track of anything," added Towers.

"I don't see how she can," said Rachel. "I never saw a place so full of ornaments."

Towers wagged his head. "It's a junk shop, that's what it is. Mr. Cayne used to have the nicest neatest bachelor apartment before he got married! But she likes things fancy, everything."

Mathematics Book by Babylonians in 2000 B. C. Shows Existence of Experts

A "math book" written by Babylonians 2000 B. C. has been deciphered, and scientists are deeply impressed by the amazing early progress of those ancients in higher mathematics. The mathematics book, written on 44 clay tablets, shows that 15 centuries before Greek math wizards were born, Babylonians were already doing many tricks with figures that Greeks have been credited with discovering. Babylonian mathematics included multiplication tables, a symbol for zero, negative numbers, tables for calculating areas and volumes, tables of squares and cubes and reciprocals.

For 25 years, all but two tablets of the book have lain unread in Yale's Babylonian collection. Now, Prof. O. Neugebauer of the University of Copenhagen has deciphered them, working from photographs and hand-made copies of the cuneiform inscriptions. The two missing "pages" of the ancient book have just recently been located in Paris. Babylonians were more practical in their mathematical science than Greeks, the ancient book indicates. Many of their tables would be useful in surveying and building, in digging dykes and constructing walls. But when it came to theoretical problems, the Babylonian math sharks understood quadratic and even higher degree equations and solved them by tables, as they are still solved.

The small mathematics book, written in clay, clears up for mathematicians the puzzle of how the Greeks made such swift progress in this science. "It seems now that a large body of facts must have been inherited by the Greeks from Babylonian sources," says Prof. Oystein Ore, Yale mathematician. "The exact manner in which this knowledge was transmitted is not yet altogether clear. The theorem of Pythagoras, for example, was well known to the Babylonians,"

Lesson for September 12 A NATION NEEDS RELIGIOUS HOMES.

LESSON TEXT — Deuteronomy 6:4, 5; 11:18-25. GOLDEN TEXT—Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it. Prov. 22:6. PRIMARY TOPIC—At Our House. JUNIOR TOPIC—At Our House. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Makes a Home Christian? YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Influence of Christian Homes in a Nation's Life.

Home! The very word stirs our hearts and quickens the most precious of memories. Toward its comforting threshold turns the one who has borne the heat and the labor of the day. Within its portals are those who gladly give themselves in sacrificial service that it may indeed be a haven of rest and comfort. The inroads of modern life and of our so-called civilization are doing much to break down home life. All too frequently home has become the place to which one goes when there is nowhere else to go; a place to sleep, and sometimes to eat; an address for mail; a telephone number.

Shall we then abandon the effort really to maintain a true home—one that is in touch with God, and therefore ready to serve man? No; for now as never before we need the influence of a home life empowered by the worship of the true God and guided by his Word. None of us, who are engaged in the determined effort to maintain such a home in the midst of the driving intensity of present day living, speaks too easily on this subject. We know the difficulties; we have heavy-heartedly tasted failure; but we also know the sweetness of victory. By God's grace we press on.

In his dealings with Israel God presents to us an example of what a godly home may be, and what it will accomplish for the community and for the nation. Such a home—

I. Worships the True God (vv. 4, 5).

This is "the first and great commandment" of the law, according to our Lord Jesus. (Matt. 22:36,37.) It is an important part of the Scripture repeated twice daily by all orthodox Jews. In its context, in Deuteronomy 6, it is clearly associated with the home. It is there that he who is the "one Lord" is to be loved, which means far more than that he is vaguely recognized or distantly respected.

II. Honors God's Word (vv. 18, 19).

Loving God and his Word is not a matter for theological speculation or for sanctimonious discussion in some dark cloister. Thank God the Christian faith is at its best in the ordinary affairs of life. It finds its proper place in the tender relationship of parent and child. Its teachings are pure, delightful, simple, and entirely appropriate to any occasion, whether one sits or rises, walks, or lies down. God's words are the words to be laid up in the heart and in the soul, to be taught to our children, to be the constant and normal subject of conversation.

III. Testifies to the Community (vv. 20, 21).

We may not, as did the pious Jew, fasten a little container bearing God's word on our doorstep, but we may make the home itself and the life of its inhabitants an effective testimony for God before our neighbors. It is obvious that the home either speaks for or against God. A profession of faith in him, an outward reputation for adherence to religious principles which does not vitally touch our dealings with one another and with the community in which we live—these clearly testify not for God but against him.

IV. Serves the Nation (vv. 22-25).

God promised that if Israel diligently kept his commandments, loved him and walked in his ways, they would be a nation that would overcome and dispossess their enemies, and prosper in every good purpose.

Statesmen clearly see that the home is the unit of society. It was established upon the earth before the nation, in fact, before the church. No nation can ever really prosper without homes of the highest type.

But a house without God is not really a home, even though it stand in the midst of a garden. Neither the school teacher, nor the pastor of a church can take the place of a God-fearing father, and of a mother who can tenderly lead the steps of trusting childhood in the paths of righteousness. Our lesson title is right: "A Nation Needs Religious Homes," or, better, "America Needs Christian Homes."

Faith that Overcometh

There is no more enviable condition than that of him who has made the pressure of adverse things the means of a deep faith.

A Divine Mission

Know that life is a divine mission, for which you have received and shall receive divine power.

A Mother's Love

No language can express the power and beauty and heroism and majesty of a mother's love.

Three Maids A-Sewing Go

LITTLE lady, it's time to say adieu, so long, good-by to that flimsy but faithful friend—your summer wardrobe. But don't fret, Milady, Sew-Your-Own is right on the job with sparkling new fashions for you; fashions that will make you forget the past and be remembered in the future. So let's not tarry: let's choose the style that's got the most sock for our particular figure and join this group that's going a-sewing!

Stadium Model.

Picture yourself in the trim-waisted little model at the left, if you would have an optimistic viewpoint and a head start on style this season. There's nothing younger than this topper with its dainty collar and cuffs, its snappy row of buttons and fetching pepulum. The way it takes to the weightier fall fabrics is news, and equally intriguing is this fact: it's easy to sew!

Young 'n' Pretty.

Long slender lines of the princess variety make this the lucky number for your first autumn days. Of course you see it's a style to cut in at least two fabrics because it boasts utility plus beauty. If you're going to school you'll want it in acetate jersey or light-weight wool. Neat contrast is here, too, if you wish, in the collar, pocket flaps and buttons. (This is a simple eight-piece pattern.)

A Gift for You.

There's much ado about bodices this fall and unless you have a flock that carries a stylish one

Mother's Loving Heart

WHAT memories we have of faithful hearts, Who thought "the world well lost," and gave their best; Who saw the hidden virtues in each child, Whose love was comfort, peace and perfect rest. Dear mothers of the world, and of today, Your path in life may seem a humble part, But ask each man to choose life's purest gift, I know he'll say—"A mother's loving heart."

Unexpired Contract Is Barring Terry From Other Offers

BILL TERRY did ask for a new contract and a raise. He told Giant officials that he had several other good offers. They informed him that they would not stand in his way of bettering himself but refused to tear up the old agreement which has another year to run . . . Fighting Fox, two-year-old brother of Gallant Fox, is an uncle of the five-year-old Omaha and of the four-year-old Granville . . . Harry Vardon is generally considered one of the greatest of all-time golfers yet few recall the man was one of the worst putters who ever fozzled a short tap.

Sol Saperstein, who weighs 190 pounds, stands six feet four inches and is nineteen years old, will journey from his native Bronx to become a member of the University of Baltimore basketball team this year . . . Baltimoreans insist that Pitchers Vandenburg and Lohrman, who will come to the Polo grounds at the end of the International league season, will be as good for the Giants as Cliff Melton has been . . . Dixie Howell is through with baseball and has signed with Washington's pro football team . . . The Cincinnati Red Stockings, winners of organized baseball's first pennant in 1869, and also undefeated that season, had an annual pay roll of $9,300. The season started March 15 and ended November 15. Short-stop George Wright, who died several days ago, was the highest salaried performer. He received $1,400 for the year.

Youthful clients of this department are complaining about the baseball-bat situation. They insist the big-bat manufacturers do not make proper ones for youngsters any more. Instead they try to sell major-league models which are too heavy for the average kid to swing even if he can raise the price . . . Jackie Farrell may soon get a fall sponsor for that Jersey radio spot . . . Julius Solters of the Indians has not been much of a success with his new club as has Vosmik for whom the Browns traded him. Players say Solters is fence shy in the field and not of the winning type and that Cleveland will probably pass him on next winter.

Cobb Was Swat Champ at Age of 21

Ty Cobb was only twenty-one years old when he won the American league batting championship in 1907. The ages of other A. L. batting champions since then, Manush and Appling, twenty-five; Lajoie and Foxx, twenty-six; Sisler, Heilmann, Goslin, Simmons, twenty-seven; Fonseca, twenty-nine; Speaker and Ruth, thirty; Gehrig and Myer, thirty-one. Cecil Travis, the Washington youngster up with the leaders now, is twenty-four.

Don't fall for any of that hokum about Pompoon being pointed for the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap. He's definitely retired, indeed recently almost passed out . . . Did you know that Frank Moore, who is doing such a fine job as assistant to golf pro Jimmy Farrell up at Quaker Ridge, is a brother of Cards' outfielder Terry Moore?

Guys to watch this fall—Eric Tipton, Duke's triple threat fullback; Andy Bershak, rugged North Carolina end who should cause N. Y. U. no end of woe; Bud Toebe, a great kicker and fine defensive player who will return to one of the Princeton wings after a year's absence due to injuries. Merrill Davis, Dartmouth captain and end. He weighs 205 pounds and is heavyweight boxing champion up at Hanover . . . Sad news emanating from New Haven—Merri Scott, who should have been one of the East's best tackles, has quit Yale. Gallagher, considered a sure bet to carry on where Bob Beckwith left off at center, probably will be ineligible. Several of the best hopes from a fine frosh line also should have studied harder last winter.

The name Pinelli may bob up in the major league box scores once more in five years . . . It will be Ray Pinelli, who'll be a freshman at Notre Dame this fall . . . Roy, an older brother at Notre Dame, is a footballer . . . Ray is a shortstop . . . "He's a six-footer and can do everything," says Papa Pinelli.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

CABALLERO II, the Chilean horse Hirsch Jacobs claimed for four G's at Saratoga, recently, is worth at least $40,000 to several of the more important owners. They are bidding that much now in the hope that they can use the gee gee for breed-improving purposes—Edsel Ford, the auto magnate, is almost as red hot a Tiger fan as is Joe Louis. Likes to watch home games from the high Detroit press box, too.

Joe Tinker, Jr., son of the once-famous Cubs' shortstop, is making a name for himself as a member of a Pittsburgh dance team—The late Howie Morenz was so high strung that after a hard hockey game he never even thought of going to bed. Used to walk the streets for six or seven hours instead—Amherst alumni are uttering numerous nice words about the freshman football coaching of Charley Soleau, who used to do such brilliant blocking for Andy Kerr and the Red Raiders of Colgate.

Speaking of Amherst, keep an eye on Harry Ward this fall. The blond Minnesotan weighs 220 pounds stripped, and Lloyd Jordan will be disappointed if he does not become one of the East's finest tackles—Funny things happen at the Canaris fights every Tuesday night. Right outside the park there is a ring—the bell, win-a-cigar concession. Lots of smokes must be won, too, for the bell rings frequently. Then the fighters invariably head to their corners and have to be brought back to the center by the combined warning shouts of the referee, timekeeper and crowd.

Collins in the Grease With Red Sox Fans

Red Sox Business Manager Eddie Collins, who never has been very popular with Boston fans, is in the grease worse than ever now. The reason seems to be that he ignored the Army and Navy Legion of Valor's request for 300 seats for disabled veterans at the first of those two recent double-headers with the Yankees—In spite of the club's pitiful showing, Brooklyn is making considerably more money this year than in 1936. The answer is easy. In 1936 the Dodgers were off to a poor start, even though they played the second best ball in the league after July 4. This year they were off to a fast start and were aided by superfine ballyhoo. So fans, as easily deceived by April and May flashes as they are by midwinter trades, contributed an extra hundred G's to the nice directors.

Bellhops around the American league tell you that a highly paid Yankee has carried his own baggage upstairs for the last six years so's to duck the tip—Lou Gehrig says Baron Poffenberger will amount to a helluva pitcher some day if all that name doesn't get him down—The Yankees are willing to bet that George Selkirk is the strongest man in baseball—Bill Dietrich of the White Sox once was a Philadelphia high school sprint champion—There is a rumor that Jack Collins, who has been handling Dodgers' tickets for the past several years and who represents the McKeever faction, may succeed John Gorman as business manager—Ford Frick, National league president, dotes on working anagrams.

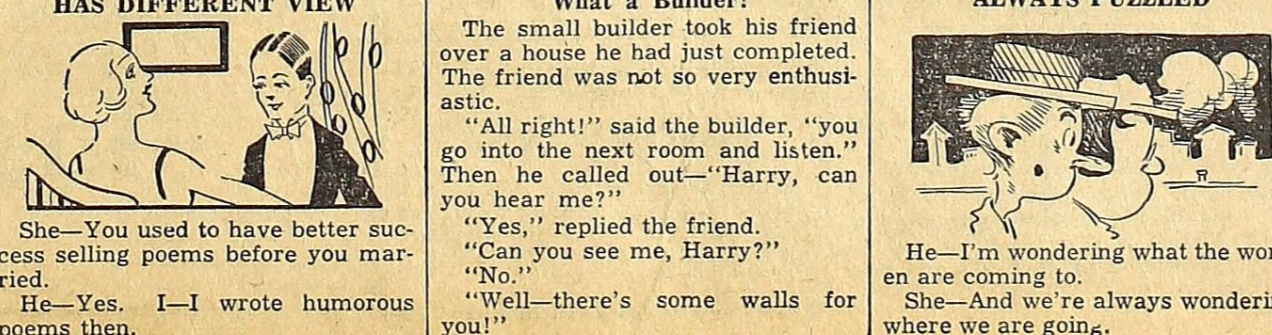

Jim Stewart, athletic director at Southern Methodist, will bring the S. M. U. eleven north twice in 1938 . . . The Mustangs play Marquette at Soldiers' field and Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh . . . The following season they will play Notre Dame at South Bend . . . Once upon a time a Davis cup player received $18 a day to cover all expenses, but after several returned from trips and immediately purchased automobiles the practice was stopped . . . The Browns have another Hornsby, no relation to Rogers, on the way . . . He's a catcher for Palestine in the East Texas league, a Browns' farm club . . . Bill Tilden once said: "If Billy Johnston had my physique I never would have defeated him." . . . Trainer Dave Woodward does not allow the Green Bay Packers to drink water during practice or a game . . . He quenches their thirst by sprinkling their mouths with ice water out of an old garden spray.

Pinky Whitney, Philly third sacker, ascribes his hitting comeback to using Chuck Klein's 32-ounce bat, six ounces lighter than his own . . . Too bad he can't pay Chuck off with hits . . . Jack Doyle, brilliant old Cub scout, has been prowling through the minors all year without buying a player and is getting tired of saying "no" . . . "Looks like I'm going to be 'skunked' for the first time in my scouting career," moans the hard-bitten, one-time Oriole star. "And this is my twentieth year with this ball club."

Breed improvers, who pay thousands of dollars for yearlings each season, also ought to pay more attention to how these yearlings are reared and trained. Trainers of the rich man's stables have as many as 50 horses to handle, which is entirely too much. Why not give the young trainers a break? . . . Jockeys Jimmy Stout has become an ardent tennis fan, going in for racquet work each morning.

10. Can one make a good living by placer gold-mining?

Answers

1. The distinctive paper used in making United States currency costs the government 37 cents a pound. It is estimated 1,743,236 pounds will be used in 1937.
2. At bat, runs, hits, outs, assists, errors and base on balls.
3. It is equivalent to 256 yards.
4. The flower is an emblem of purity in literature and painting.
5. No artificial means is necessary. Some undiscovered natural process keeps the air fresh and pure. The temperature remains about 56 degrees Fahrenheit at all times.
6. This is a reference to the great influence which Mme. de Maintenon had on Louis XIV and his advisers.
7. In 1936 California ranked first in sales tax collections, with a total of over $70,000,000. Illinois was second with receipts of over $61,000,000, and Michigan third with over $45,000,000.

8. The domestic commerce division of the Department of Commerce says that 67.8 per cent of all retail sales are for cash on the counter or cash on delivery.
9. "G-Men" must pass severe marksmanship tests every month, shooting from all sorts of positions at various targets. The 600 or so agents can qualify for all sorts of jobs in disguise work. There are electricians, reporters, printers, radio announcers, etc., on the list, and it's said a lively "G-man" dance orchestra could be formed on the moment, if necessary.
10. In a survey made by the WPA's National Research Project on Re-employment Opportunities it was found that in 1935 as many as 23,000 placer gold miners sold some gold, but their earnings were pitifully small. They worked an average of 45 days during the year and grossed an average of only $1.60 for each working day.

PREPARE a huge crock of apple sauce and your efforts will be well rewarded for this delicious concoction never fails to appeal to jaded appetites. Apple sauce is also the basis for any number of easily prepared desserts that have definite palate appeal during the summer months.

- Apple Sauce.
1 dozen apples
1 1/2 cups apple cider
Granulated sugar to taste
1 teaspoonful lemon juice
1 tablespoonful butter
Pinch salt
- Wash, core and cut up apples. Put them in a saucepan with the cider and cook until tender enough to rub through a sieve. Mixture should be thick. Stir in the remaining ingredients. Pour into a bowl. Garnish with a light drizzling of cinnamon. Serve hot or cold as desired.

funds was made evident at a meeting held in the court house here Tuesday morning. M. Kosky, pointed out to the supervisors present at the meeting that unless more money is available the Commissions activities will be greatly reduced. Kosky stated the commission would ask the county tax allocation commission for two mills for county road purposes. It was hinted that if the Allocation Commission does not give two mills for road purposes a special election might be held in the county to raise the millage. The money received from the state is inadequate, Kosky said.

The above quotations illustrate the problem that is facing most all counties in northern Michigan today. The last session of the legislature gave five million additional funds to the State Highway Department, but nothing more for the counties.

Bees Raid Sugar Refinery
Millions of bees recently railed the sirup vats of the sugar refining works in a suburb of Auckland, New Zealand. Workmen, attired in light clothing because of the great heat, attempted to rout them, and were seriously stung. Thousands of bees were downed in the sirup and refining had to be stopped until the dead of battle were removed.

American Boy Introduces A New Football Game

In the early fall issues of "The American Boy" there'll be presented the story of a new game — six-man football — fast as professional football, wide open as basketball, thrilling as hockey!

The game came to life through the need of small schools for some substitute for 11-man football, which was too expensive. Stephen Epler, a Nebraska graduate student in athletics, developed the game of six-man football to meet this need. In six-man football anybody can score, the possibility of injury from mass plays is minimized, and the game is open enough for spectators to follow every exciting development.

The new game is a hit. New schools are taking it up every day. In coming issues "The American Boy" tells the world about this practical new game. In addition, it presents "The American Boy official Hand-book", which can be obtained from the magazine at 20 cents a copy, or 15 cents when bought in bulk.

Note: Subscription prices of "The American Boy" will be raised in the near future. Send your subscription order at once to take advantage of the bargain rates now in effect: one year at $1.00 or three years at $2.00. Foreign subscriptions 50c a year extra. Send your name, address and remittance to "The American Boy", 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Mich. On newsstands the price is 15 cents a copy.

Massed Snoozers

Very much unlike the hotels of more recent times, the early Ohio tavern frequently would take care of 50 travelers in one night by arranging them on some sort of mattresses on the floor in one large room. They would lie in a circle, with their feet in the center.
