On November 5, teams from over 200 high schools in the state will meet to debate upon the question "Resolved that the Several States Should Adopt a Unicameral Form of Legislature." A schedule made out by the Manager of the Michigan High School Forensic Association arranges four prelimary debates in which all member schools particpate. At the close of this series, the 64 schools having the highest per-centage of victories will be sched-uled to take part in elimination de-bats. Losing teams will be dropped National City bats. Losing teams will be dropped Tragedy stalked into the National out after each debate until the two teams remaining in the race will Gypsum plant at National City late meet in the championshhip debate which will be held in Ann Arbor in May.

This is the second year Tawas City has been a member of the De-bating League. For beginners, they made a very commedable record. The ten enthusiastic and capable members of this years squad should make it possible for our school to receive a wall plaque.

The first debate of the season will be held at the local high school, where an affirmative team from Tawas City will meet a negative team from Oscoda. Last year, Oscoda defeated us by a two to one decision. Since Tawas City is out for revenge and Oscoda is determined to uphold her reputation it should be an interesting debate.

Tawas City debaters will be. Myr-ton Leslie, Harold Ross, Frieda Witzke and Gerald Roekle. The public is urged to attend.

temore high school at 7:30 in the evening. These meetings are being held with the hope of increasing the farm income through the sale of dairy products of higher quality which may be manufactured into butter and cheese that will suit the taste of the entire consuming public. It is hoped to partly accomplish this goal through the encouragement of more careful handling of cream and milk on the farm as well as in the creamery.

A representative from the Dairy Division of the United States De-partment of Agriculture will stress the point that creameries must live up to the law and make sediment tests that must be shown to tH producers. He will also discuss cream testing as well as to avoid sediment and why the recent ruling Conferance Here was brought about which prohibits reameries from returning butter-milk, skimmed milk and whey in cream cans.

LANDON RALLIES G. O. P. Calls on the Republicans to Put Curb on Roosevelt's Demands for Increased Power

The bodies and baggage of the victims can be seen in the foreground. In the background lies the twisted plane wreckage.

Landon Calls on G.O.P.

A LF M. LANDON came to the surface in a radio address to 17,000,000 Americans who voted for him in the last election, and es-

President Alf M.Landon Roosevelt had failed as an administrator, had failed to follow the Constitution, and now was demanding increased power.

What he really needs is less power," Mr. Landon asserted, "a position that will force him to take the advice and counsel of other men of both parties-men whose hearts also are in the right place, but men who have had more experience and who know more about the practical application of government than he does."

It is up to the Republicans, he said, to curb Mr. Roosevelt in his demands. He also discussed the war talk prevalent after the President's Chicago speech and said: "We are faced with a situation where he may make a mistake that would indeed be tragic, that might lead to war. Close observers have increasing doubt if he thought his recent declaration through to its logical conclusion."

In conclusion Mr. Landon said: "We have had a New Deal. Now what we most need in America is a new yardstick-a yardstick to measure the ability and the accomplishments, as well as the good intentions, of public officials.

Rebels Take Gijon GREAT BRITAIN, France and It-aly—with Germany on the sidelines—were still trying to come to agreement for the removal of volun-teers from Spain, but Generalissimo Franco wasn't waiting. His forces in northwest Spain pushed forward to surround Gijon, last important loyalist seaport in that area, and insurgent warships blocked escape by way of the sea. The commanders of the defending loyalist troops realized their predicament and surrendered the city unconditionally. The place was crowded with 130,000 halfstarved refugees. The loyalists still members of a lighthouse crew. Germans were alleged to have occupied Alboran island, 50 miles off the south Mediterranean coast and directly in the path of all shipping to and from Gibraltar. The Germans were said to have established a submarine base on the island, likewise used principally heretofore as a lighthouse station. -*-

to Brussels, Belgium, as head of the American delegation to a conference of the signatories of the nine - power treaty which, the optimists hope, will put an end to the warfare between Japan and China. More realistic observers of the course of events have no such expectation, for the pact has no "teeth" and the conferees can do little except talk.

Norman H. Associated with Davis Mr. Davis, the administration's roving ambassador, are Dr. Stanley K. Hornbeck and Pierrepont Moffat as advisers. Robert T. Pell is the press officer and C. E. Bohlen is secretary of the delegation. Before sailing for Europe the delegates received instructions from President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull, but these were not revealed to the public.

The invitation to the conference was issued by the Belgian government "at the request of the British government and with the approval of the government of the United States." China and Japan are both signatories to the treaty. The for-mer accepted the invitation to the Brussels meeting, but it was believed Japan would not be represented there. Tokyo has maintained the policy that the Sino-Japanese troubles must be settled without the intervention of other nations. -*-

Zuppke Gives His Recipe for Making an All-American

BOB ZUPPKE, whose Illinois team tied Notre Dame, provides the world's best definition of an All-America football star. To produce one he says you need "a man who can run, weak opposition and a poet in the press box" . . . Cleveland's Earl Averill definitely is on the market and the bidding has not been brisk for Boston's Jimmy Foxx . . When Bob Pastor appeared before the State Athletic commission he was assured that Commissioner Bill Brown had never called Max

Baer a bum. Yet when a sports editor was on the carpet he asked that the record be read and in the commission's own minutes it was stated that Ballyhoo Bill referred to Max as a bum. The minutes, of course, must be wrong. Indeed, practically everything's wrong except Ballyhoo Bill and his playmates.

Although he has won five World series games and has beaten them four times the Giants still insist Lefty Gomez is not suchamuch as a pitcher. They admire Red Ruffing's ability to pitch to spots and say he was the best Yankee to face them . . . Boston college's fresh-men indicate that Gil Dobie will have an even better eleven next year than the present one . . . Fight manager Hymie Caplin finds one trouble with being proprietor of a delicatessen restaurant in New York. His fighters insist upon coming and running up tabs. Jack Hurley, former manager of Billy Petrolle, was here recently and now the boys say he was offered Al Weill's job as Hippodrome and Garden matchmaker. It still seems one of the main requirements of a Garden matchmaker is the ability or willingness to be fired every week.

Informed Philadelphians insist politics has become all important in the making of Penn's football teams, that the Yale massacre was no surprise . . . Friends report Tony Lazzeri, who still is in-line to manage the team next season, as saying all Cleveland's Indians need is a second baseman and a catcher to make them terribly tough for the Yankees to trim . . . Jack Kearns has averaged $25,000 or better for TOKYO newspapers stated that 15 Soviet Russian planes, co-operating with Soviet land forces, had bombed Kashgar, Yarkand, Karg- Jimmy Adamick, has been on every card . . . Wrestling Promoter Jack Pfefer tells friends the New York managing the A's State Athletic commission picks on him because he tells the truth about wrestling-namely that it is an enterprise overflowing with phony boloney.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

FRIENDS insist Walter Hagen will be back in this country next summer for one more fling at the big golf tourneys. One of them, who recently visited with him in Europe for several weeks, says the Haig now is in better shape than at any time during the last seven years . . . Howard Harpster, last year's coach, now is employed by a Pittsburgh electric company . . . Jock Sutherland has three good men for each position on his Pitt squad.

. . Injuries may wreck them but right now N. Y. U.'s opportunists can be tabbed as the best of the met elevens . . . Army may be stronger than most people suspect if this new fullback, Frontzak, lives up to the glowing promises.

While Yale is weeping about a sad Frosh football squad Coach Johnny Gorman rejoices concerning the best Cubs ever seen at Princeton. Ninety-four young Tigers, including 15 prep and high school candidates are out for the team. The best of them is a husky named Jackson from Exeter. Scouts from Harvard, Yale and Dartmouth, who had been trying to sell him their own brand of higher education, say he probably is the best backfield prospect in the country . . . Fordham Coach Jim Crowley still can heave a pretty nifty forward pass . . . A young man panhandling on Bleecker street near the Mills hotel in New York city insists he is a former Olympic champion.

The Red Sox will be torn apart during the winter with only Cro-nin, Jack Wilson, Higgins, Grove and McNair being fairly sure of their jobs while the club looks for a slugging outfielder, a top-flight catcher and a few winning pitchers. Incidentally, Business Manager Collins continues to get most of the blame from Boston's citizens who consider Angel-Owner Young Tom Yawkey more to be pitied than censured . . . Columbia's coaches wish the big, blond Hub Schulze, handsome enough for Hollywood, didn't have a disposition as perfect as his looks. Believe he could be All-America if he could really get mean . . They also give Larry Kelley plenty of credit for his pass-snatching ability but say he was far away from being a high-class end.

At Fordham they say both the White House and Jim Farley tried to arrange a football meeting between the Middies and the Rams. But, although it would have been a sellout and Navy is almost as greedy as West Point, the Sailors begged to be excused. After various pleas they were quoted finally admitting that Fordham was "just too good." Shame Boston writers put Golf Champion Ralph Guhldahl on the pan so strenuously when he was there for the Belmont open. The guy's merely colorful, probably the most colorful open champ since Sarazen . . . Sam Snead, his pro golf colleagues tell you, is on his way down unless he stops trying to win all those driving contests. They say he strains so for distance that he subconsciously wrecks the smoothness of his swing.

Mack's Illness May Keep Him Out in '38

candidates and formulation of party policies through adoption of a campaign platform. The question has many angles and in consequence many pros and cons already have been advanced. In natural consequence also, some very well-known Republicans have taken definite decisions, either for or against the plan which has the approval of men like John Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, and former President Herbert Hoover. Some very splendid men find themselves honestly in opposition and have said so in unequivocal terms.

The issue will be fought out at a meeting of the national committee early in November and probably there will be such a convention early in 1938.

As I have said, there is argument on both sides but after discussing the situation with many Republicans, it appears to me that the advantages outweigh the disadvantages. I say this from the standpoint of the country at large.

Many times in these columns, I have expressed the conviction that a strong minority party, whether that party be Republican or Democratic, is a very healthy condition for the country as a whole. A political party with too great a majority is likely to run away with itself and do many unsound things. We have had proof of this during the Roosevelt administration and we had proof of it during the administrations of the late President Harding and President Coolidge when Republicans had too many members of the house and the senate and the Democratic minority was impotent.

I cannot speak from a Republican standpoint any more than I can speak from a Democratic standpoint. Nevertheless, from the position I attempt to follow as an observer of national affairs and long range national policies, it does seem that the Republicans ought to quit fighting among themselves and get together to oppose that which the present minority in this country finds objectionable in President Roosevelt's policies. They ought to determine on a set of principles and stick to them. It is their obligation and if they fail to fulfill that obligation, it seems to me they had best disband, get rid of those who ican party and let somebody else

Washington .- There is much talk | Roosevelt on everything he has done, but they can tear him politically limb from limb with constructive proposals to take the place of those things he has done which represent discouragement, deceit and disaster to the country's economic life.

There will be no gain for the Republicans in 1938 elections if they attempt to ride two or three different horses as they did in 1936. For example, they cannot do as Candidate Landon did, to wit, call for a balanced budget in one speech and advocate being Santa Claus in another; they cannot blow hot and cold, and, therefore, they must be either conservative or radical. It seems to me the Republicans can probably plan for an immediate balancing of the national budget. In that connection, they can with justification demand curtailment, if not entire elimination, of many governmental functions inaugurated under the New Deal. They can offer constructively a proposal to legislate out of existence some 20 or 30 federal agencies for which there never has been and is not now any excuse for their existence. 1 * * *

Another question that is crying for attention is the huge national debt, now at $37,-000,000,000, the National Debt highest in history. That debt must be reorganized and placed on a basis that will permit gradual liquidation of it. The Roosevelt administration has done nothing regarding the debt except to build it higher and higher.

If the Republican party wants to do a constructive job it ought to set to work to examine all of the statutes enacted by congress in the last ten or twelve years and especially those enacted in the haste of the emergency with a view to repealing of many of them. Some can and should be rewritten to make them workable. Those statutes placed on the books by the Roosevelt administration constitute outstanding evidence of the lack of opposition. We all know many of those bills were written in executive departments and sent to congress with instructions to pass them unchanged. Bad legislation has resulted many times and a checkup surely is indicated.

As regards legislation now on the statute books, it seems to me we will never have sound prosperity until certain laws that increase production costs are eliminated. I mean by this that there are numerous laws which have the effect of widening the spread between the price of the raw materials and the price of the manufactured products. Legislation of this kind is bound to force attempt to be leaders in the Repub- down the prices paid to the producers and in my opinion, th on products of the farm. Probably the most delicate question with which the Republicans are confronted relates to wages and -hours of labor. Business interests have been shortsighted. Too many times employers have overworked their employees and have shown but little consideration for the rights of labor. The result is that labor is demanding consideration in the shape of protection at the hands of its national government and the Republicans, whether they desire to

DANIEL C. ROPER, secretary of commerce, also made a speech in Washington, under the auspices of the Rotary club. His subject was the economic relationships of the nations of the western hemisphere, and he proposed this four-point program which he believed would benefit the entire world:

1. United action throughout the Americas for the publication of verified facts about every country, stressing constructive events and objectives rather than prejudice, crimes, and disrupting events.

2. The introduction into the educational system of every country study of other languages so that each country would be better prepared in attitude and knowledge to help develop its own country. "This

Farmers Warned on Loans

EDWARD A. O'NEAL, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, headed a group of farm leaders who called on the President for the purpose of asking loans of 60 cents a bushel on corn to improve prices. It was understood Mr. Roosevelt warned that crop loans should not be pushed so high that the drain on federal revenues would become too heavy; and that he intimated that the budget would not permit great extension of loans at this time.

However, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace subsequently told a press conference a government loan on this year's large corn crop "should be exceedingly desirable." He declined to say what loan rate he favored, but conceded that a corn loan of about 46 cents a bushel would be comparable to the government's 9 cents a pound loan on this year's cotton crop. -*-

Credit System Praised

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, speaking at the opening of the new Federal Reserve building in Washington, gave full praise to the federal reserve system as a most important part of the government's plans for economic stability and security. He said disastrous depressions and booms could be avoided only by the development of the credit and monetary machinery of the nation.

That machinery, he continued, "must be steadily perfected and coordinated with all other instruments sians and charged with "Trotskyist" of government to promote the most productive utilization of our human death penalty. his estimate of $418,000,000 as the probable deficit for 1938 fiscal year was much too low. So he gave out new budget figures putting the probable deficit at nearly 700 millions. And it admittedly will be much greater unless the executive and congress achieve very considerable economies.

Felix Warburg Dies

FELIX M. WARBURG of New York, one of the country's foremost financiers and philanthropists, died at his home at the age of sixtyseven. He was senior partner of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., international bankers. Between 1920 and 1930 he gave at least ten million dollars to various philanthropies, and for years he was active in the efforts to aid the Jews in Palestine and those driven from Germany by the Nazis.

Mine Disaster

COAL gas exploded in the Mulga mine in Alabama 12 miles from Birmingham, and the lives of 33 miners were snuffed out. Five hundred men were at work in the mine at the time, but fortunately the explosion was four miles from the entrance. The blast was the first since the operation of the mine was taken over by the Woodward Iron company, large producers of merchant iron in Birmingham. However, 56 men had been killed at Mulga in former years.

The airman has retained his military status since his graduation in 1925 from the air corps flying school at Kelly field, Texas.

Palestine Terrorism

B RITISH military authorities took stern measures to suppress the violence in Palestine, but apparently without success. The Arabs continued their attacks on the Jewish people and buildings and in Jerusalem began using bombs. Gen. A. P. Wavell, commander of the 10,000 British troops in Palestine, ordered the homes of Arab terrorists burned, following the destruction of Kalandia airport, near Lydda, with an estimated loss of $50,000. Sixty persons were arrested for breaking the twenty-four hour curfew which amounts to virtual martial law.

If this sort of thing keeps up, Great Britain is likely to make Palestine a crown colony instead of a mandate.

organize the minority faction in the sults are beginning to be reflected United States-and it is to be remembered that even in the last election there were almost 16,000,000 Republican voters. In advocating this action, I am not motivated as much by my belief in and support of some of Mr. Roosevelt's policies as I am in my disagreement with others of the program to which the New Dealer has adhered.

A strong and vocal minority will insure the retention of rights and powers in the hands of the people where they belong and at the same time it will compel Democrats to stick together in carrying out sound policies proposed by the President. That latter statement may sound paradoxical. I think it is not. I make the statement because I know how many times the gigantic Democratic majority in congress has fought over trivialities and because I know how many times sincere opposition to unsound policies has met with defeat without the country knowing the reasons for that opposition.

Taken all in all, therefore, I believe it is an obligation upon me as an observer of national affairs to declare in favor of a movement by the minority party that will result in a concentration of its power for the good of the nation.

. . . And what, one may ask, should be the creed of the minority party next year?

Well, as I see the picture, the Republican party must be the conservative party in the United States. What of the Creed? President Roosevelt and his New Dealers cannot avoid being the radical party. I have said this many times in these columns and it is more evident now even than when I reported upon the situation earlier. The conservatives can and should have a voice in their government that constitutes a balance-wheel. Proceeding from that premise, therefore, there can be little argument that the principles which the Republicans advocate should be drawn from principles of governmental policies that have proved sound. That is to say, the Republicans cannot afford to attack Mr.

These agree is that there is too much government in business. The government itself is engaged in many lines of commerce and industry and it is breaking down private enterprises in countless ways. I regard the function of government as a thing to be confined to matters and enterprises which individuals cannot do as individuals. We might use the postal service as an example. No one would be so silly as to say that the postal service could be operated satisfactorily in any other way than as an agency of the federal government. In contradistinction to the postal service, however, we can point to such things as the building of model homes for private citizens. I think the government has no business at all in that field. This is so, first, because of the tremendous waste accompanying any governmental operation and, second, for the reason that private persons who are holders of funds whether the amount is great or small recognize real estate mortgages as sound investments. I need not mention the red tape or the politics that can choke up any such thing as a government housing development. I could go on and mention numerous other general principles upon which there can be honest differences of opinion. It is upon these questions where differences are honest and not created for political reasons that the Republican party should express itself. It ought to do this if it is going to be representative of opposition sentiment. © Western Newspaper Union. THE TAWAS HERALD

THERE is an easy way to keep dust from sifting through the cracks of the ashpit door when shaking furnace grates. Quite a few readers have asked me how it can be done, and I'm sure many more of you will be interested. Here's how:

Have a spray made of small pipe, connected with the cold water system installed in the ashpit of the furnace. Only a short length of pipe will be needed. In it have small holes drilled and cap the free end.

Just before shaking the grates, a fine mist over the whole ashpit, wetting down the ashes as they drop through the grate openings and settling the dust immediately. Then remove the ashes from the ashpit. They will be sufficiently wet to prevent the dust from rising and settling in the cellar.

The cost and installation of such a spray will be but little, and it certainly will save you considerable work in dusting off things on which the dust would otherwise settle.

"Downhill Toward Death" By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO, EVERYBODY:

Here's a varn, fellow adventurers, that socks me right smack in the weakest spot I've got. You know, I am not afraid of mice, and I don't go around nights looking under beds for burglars. Some day I might even get used to being shot at or torpedoed, or chewed up by man-eating kangaroos. But heightaltitude-elevation-anything more than two inches off good, flat, solid ground-just about scares me to death.

Today, reading a yarn from Adventurer Eric K. Frank of Palisades Park, N. J., I got a dose of altitude fever I couldn't very well avoid.

It was quite a few miles away from here, boys and girls, and quite a few years back. The episode that is scaring the pants off of me happened on Winsel-Burg mountain in south Germany in the year 1927. Then, Eric Frank was one of a party of hardy souls who had gone out with a guide for a skiing jaunt on the treacherous slopes of the Winsel-Burg. They had been climbing up steep paths, edging their precarious way along narrow, ice-covered ledges, skirting treacherous cliffs and dodging dangerous pitfalls. Finally they came out on a broad slope covered with hard-packed January snow, whose vast, glistening expanse reared itself high up the mountain side, and here the leader called a halt.

One of the Party Was Missing.

Four hours is a long time to be climbing. That bunch of ski-pushers hunkered right down in the snow for a rest-started opening up knapsacks-got out their lunches. They were all set for a nice quiet little meal in the peace and stillness of the great outdoors, but they forgot that old Mother Nature, for all that she is a quiet old dame, can be cruel and murderous when she has a mind to.

The knapsacks were open-the lunches out-some of the crowd had started eating when the guide remembered a precaution highly necessary in those regions where people get lost from their parties, fall down cliffs and get stuck in crevasses. He started to check over the people in his charge to make sure none of them were missing. He counted the gang twice, frowned, counted them again. Then, his face pale and his voice shaky, he announced that the party was short one man.

Eric Frank had a queer feeling in the pit of his stomach when he heard that announcement. "I was filled with fear," he says, "and I know everyone else was too. I pity anyone who gets lost in those mountains. Either he starves to death, freezes to death, or ends up at the bottom of a gorge with his bones broken." He put away his lunch un-eaten—strapped on his knapsack, and started out with the rest of the party to search for the lost man.

Riding Fast to Sure Death.

For two hours they hunted, doubling back on their own tracks, trying to find the place where he had left the party. Finally, they spotted him-a rapidly moving speck, far off to the left-a man on skis, hurtling mush-headed theory that a state's at express-train speed down the side of the mountain. It was a sight prison should be a clearing house that should have brought joy to that anxious little party of searchers, and not a strong-box with a time-lock on it. but it only filled them with a new and awful fear. Unfamiliar with the country, the man on skis was riding STRAIGHT TO HIS DESTRUC-TION. The slope he was careening down so merrily ended in a steep, towering cliff. If he wasn't stopped before he got to the bottom, he would be dashed to pieces on the ice-covered rocks below. Eric thrust his feet into the toe-straps of his skis-told his comrades he was going to try to head that poor devil off. "You can't do it," his friends told him. "He's too far gone. Nothing on earth could reach him in time. You'll only go over the cliff yourself." Eric didn't even hear the last of it. He was on his way, shooting down the mountainside in the direction of the doomed man-and the threatening, ever-nearing

Melda kept putting him off. He must make more money. She must save more herself "for a rainy day." The steady job which Philip held was not enough. The little bungalow on the edge of the woods which Philip had built with his own two hands, and in which he harbored his dreams, was not enough. Melda regarded Peggy's mansion with critical eyes, and steeled her heart against the bungalow.

Then came the accident! The brakes had not held. Brooks Fielding's car had plunged down an embankment, overturning the machine, and pinning its occupants fast under its huge bulk. Little Jackie's lifeless body had been extricated first. There was little hope for the white-capped nurse. Melda, despairing, went to see Peggy and Brooks at the hospital.

Brooks groaned under the burden of a plaster cast, but the weight of the accident had fallen upon Peggy. There was no envy in Melda now. The green-eyed monster lay crushed and dead under the car at the foot of the embankment. "Drab gold," she moaned, twist-ing and turning the rings, "that's all they are! That's all everything is. Why can't I die?"

"Don't," begged Melda.

Peggy suddenly became calm. "Listen, Melda," she said. "We

GET READY FOR WINTER DRIVING

No section of our population is more dependent upon the automobile as a means of transportation than the residents of the smaller communities and rural districts.

Yet each Fall, many car owners cause themselves a great deal of trouble and expense by neglect-ing one or all of the simple yet necessary steps to assure proper operation of the car in Winter weather.

A minimum Winter protection program should cover:

Complete change to correct grade of lubricants for motor, transmission and differential. 2. Motor tuned up, including adjusting of carburetor, valves, distributor, sparkplugs, genera-tor and all electrical equipment. 3. Drain and flush cooling system. Refill with suitable anti-freeze solution. Selection of motor oil and greases for Winter driving is particularly important. You must select an oil which will permit easy starting, that will lubricate the motor throughout the entire driving range of speeds and will continue to do so for a reasonable mileage. For many years Quaker State Winter Oils and Greases have been recognized as the highest quality and most generally satisfactory Winter lubricants on the market. Through Quaker State's highly developed methods and equipment it is possible to produce a motor oil which will have a satisfying body over the 400-degree range of temperature it will meet. That is, when the motor temperature is way below zero, the oil will still be fluid enough to allow the motor to turn easily and also to flow freely to all the bearings. Yet this same oil has enough body to stand up and to give the motor proper lubrication when the temperature inside the cylinder wall reaches 400° and over.

Nazi Influence.

'VE been talking with a friend just back from Germany. In old days, I liked Germany as a land flowing with gemuetlich and good beer and a superior line of liverwurst. I wonder whether I'd like it so well now. Because this fellow says every minute everybody must give the cliff.

Nazi salute and say, "Heil, Hitler!" If a citizen wants his eggs fried, he says first to the wuiter, "Heil, Hitler!" If he wants 'em turned over, he says it twice-once for each egg.

There's a swastika flag flying over practically every house. Absence of a swastika flag signifies that the folks who used to live there are now in the hoosegow for failing to fly same. My friend may have exaggerated somewhat, but, I think, not much, because while talking we came abreast of a Leiderkranz cheese in a delicatessen store window and involuntarily he said, "Heil, Hitler!"

Nominating Barkley.

CANVASSES show Senate Leader Alben Barkley gaining as a possible Democratic nominee in 1940. It's high time we had somebody from Paducah for President. For a hundred and fifty-odd years this republic has fooled along without one of our local boys sitting up there in the White House, writing messages to congress condemning the use of sugar in cornbread and proclaiming that, if any traitor dares to pull down fried catfish, shoot him on the spot. With Alben on the job, we'll not only have homegrown statesmanship in job lots, but silver-throated oratory, which, by comparison, would make Patrick Henry seem like a tongue-tied man suffering from chapped lips. For Al can talk an hour and never use the same word twice or the letter "r" once.

Nominate Barkley and that night there won't be a dry throat in Mc-Cracken county. Elect Barkley and-well, I always did think I'd make a middling fair Secretary of the Interior; certainly nobody could botch up the Indian bureau worse than it is.

IRVIN S. COBB. C-WNU Service.

The man ahead had almost a two-mile lead when Eric started. He'd need all the speed he could muster to close that gap in time to save the poor fellow from the cliff. He raced along down the mountain, knees bent, head and chest thrust forward to lower the wind resistance-using every bit of strength and skill that was in him.

Saved by Eric's Desperate Measure.

He was careening along now at forty miles an hour, the rush of cold air in his face making his eyes water so that he could hardly see. He crouched lower and stepped up his pace. Now he was making forty-fiveforty-eight-fifty, and slowly gaining on the man ahead. About half a mile from the cliff's edge, he caught up with his man-motioned to him to halt. Then his heart sunk as the fellow waved back at him and kept right on going.

Eric yelled to him to stop. The wind ripped the words from his mouth and carried them away up the mountainside. He tried making motions again, but you can't make many motions balanced on a pair of skis going fifty miles an hour. The edge of the cliff was only two hundred yards away now. There was one chance left and Eric took it. He whipped up his speed, passed his man, and flung himself headlong in his path.

There was no mistaking that gesture. The friend braked his skis, slowed down, fell in a heap over Eric's bruised and lacerated body. When he got up again-saw the edge of the cliff only fifty feet awayhis face turned white as the snow that had nearly carried him to his death. And after that, boys and girls, came one of the briefest conversations on record. The lad Eric had saved stood up, looked down at that gaping declivity before him, and in a weak voice said: "OH." Eric didn't say anything. After all, what was there to say? C-WNU Service.

It's all been so drab. It's worse now. My looks are spoiled. Jackie is gone. That's all he loved me for, my looks and Jackie. As long as he could heap things on me to make me beautiful, things of drab gold, like these rings, as long as he could show off his son-"

The nurse at the door held up a warning hand. Melda obediently glided out. The nurse answered the unspoken question in her eyes.

"Mrs. Fielding will be all right after a few weeks," she told Melda, "but her face will be badly scarred. She was lucky, though." "And he?"

"He will be as fit as ever in a month or so."

Melda fled. She made straight for the bungalow on the edge of the woods. All the way her heart sang for joy that she would not have to be the recipient of all the drab gold which could not make Peggy happy.

She put the tea kettle over the gas stove. She set the table for two. She knew that Philip would soon come to dream and to work. Here Philip found her a few minutes later, busily preparing tea for two, tremulous and misty-eyed. "Have you still the ring?" she asked, shyly. "Think I'd pawned it?" he laughed. "And I still have this, too.

He took a folded yellow paper from his pocket. The license! Melda laid caressing hands over the plain gold band and the yellow paper, as they lay in his big, upturned palm. "They are real gold," she said. And this." Her eyes swept the simple homeliness of the sturdy little bungalow, the slanting rays of the setting sun across the table, the kettle singing on the stove. "There is nothing drab about this. Funny I couldn't see it before." "Let's find the minister," he suggested. "Now."

"Plain as Nose on Face"

Shakespeare, satirically, refers to a jest "invisible, as a nose on a man's face"; Burton, in his "Anat-omy of Melancholy," uses the expression, "as clear and as manifest as the nose in a man's face," and Cervantes, in "Don Quixote," has it, "plain as the nose on a man's face."

"She's a Miss Alice Hale. Hope you don't feel bad about it, Miss Rachel. I contend to Mis' Kreel that you could have had him if you'd wanted him, but you didn't want him. A body with a pair glass eyes could've seen that he was after you last year. She's a light blonde."

"I wouldn't have any chance against a light blonde, so I'll have to make the best of it, though it breaks my heart."

"Now, Miss Rachel, quit your fooling. I guess you didn't want Mr. Eddis and I say you were right, for though he's a nice young feller, he's a mite, so to speak, peculiar. It's no way for a young man to live in a little made-over shack, housekeeping for himself. A hermit, you might as well describe him. And then, he don't like the radio. That's unnatural. He goes on like this and he'll just grow into an old crank. 'S too bad. I've certainly had pleasure out of your radio, Miss Rachel, this winter. My name was mentioned twice, once for my birthday Cheerio sent me a greeting and Kel Murray's orchestra played a special tune for me and called my name and address in full and said it was for me. Several people downtown spoke to me about it." He interrupted his spate of talk to look out of the front window. "Here comes somebody up the road, looks like a stranger. Probably another one of these dinged brush peddlers hunting me down. They give a body no peace! He's coming in here by mistake."

Rachel turned to follow Mr. Kreel's glance, then she jumped up and ran to the door. The stranger was Curt Elton.

CHAPTER XIII

It took a little maneuvering to get rid of Mr. Kreel without hurting his feelings or indulging his curiosity, but it was managed at last. And this being accomplished and Rachel and Curt left alone, an odd restraint fell on them, Rachel broke it. "I do believe you're disappointed that I wasn't in the hands of gangsters or something wild, so you could rescue me. Did you bring a tommy-gun?"

brat's room, you took it all so seriously, as if it mattered what happened to any of them. I got you into that job and I insisted that you ought to make the search, so I felt responsible."

"But how did you get here this time of day, there's no train?"

"I took Vinco's car and drove. I'd have been here earlier, but I lost my way in the night." "You've been driving all night?"

"Pretty nearly. Want to drive back with me?" "I suppose I might as well. I thought I'd take the afternoon train. But you can't drive back without a rest and a sleep, Curt."

"If you'd let me take the newspapers off that sofa and catch an hour's nap I'd be all right. You really want to go back today? There's no reason for you to stay?" His voice was anxious.

"No, not a thing. I was awfully upset by that last interview at the Caynes'. And I felt I couldn't go back to the flat and begin in the morning at Vinco's. I suppose I let my nerves trick me, Curt. And so, I came down here, and-and had a good night's sleep and a great big breakfast-and I feel all right again. Now, I'll tell you-I had a sort of half-date for lunch, but I'll break it and while you take a sleep I'll go downtown and get some food and we'll have a picnic here. Or we could go down on the beach and make a fire, no, it's too cold for that. I'd like to have a run on the beach before we start back, though, just for a minute. By the way, where's Vinco's car?"

"In a garage, one of the inner tubes was leaking, it's nothing, they only have to put on the spare. I am sleepy, it's this warmth getting me. And the relief of finding you so-" he paused.

"Finding me how?" "Yourself again."

She left him lying on the sofa and went joyfully down the long road once more. Curt's coming had been a marvelous lift—and then, the news about Bob and this Alice Hale! Her mouth quirked remembering. No wonder he had been awkward and evasive! She stopped at the library and was glad to find him alone and she pulled her face into gravity. "Now, Bob-about lunch-" she becides that he or she is going to at familiar Fall festivities. Deftly reduce weight for health or appearance's sake the first and longest step toward attaining the normal figure and weight has been taken.

Food Supply in Body Fat.

The second step is to get a thorough examination by the family physician, particularly heart, blood vessels and kidneys. There have been cases of collapse and death following a strict reducing diet which could have been avoided had the overweight undergone examination and taken six months to a year to reduce instead of three or four weeks.

If the physician considers it safe to reduce and supervises the amount and kinds of foods that will be eaten during the reducing period, then there will be no going back to the full diet on the first sign of a little weakness or faintness. This is when so many overweights give up the struggle and if they are not under a physician's supervision they are wise to give up and get a fresh start.

The third step or point to remember is that whether the overweight éats a large or a small quantity of food, his body is going to require just a certain amount. If he eats more than this the extra food will accumulate as fat in and on his body; if he eats less than this required amount of food, the body is going to get that extra food needed from some place. And the place the body gets the extra food it needs is from the overweight's own bodyhis excess of stored fat.

"From the standpoint of nutrition the increased fat deposits or fat depots of the body represent so much excess energy; consequently in reducing the weight an attempt is made to call forth these fat deposits. This is done by supplying a diet which has less than the amount needed to maintain the body structure and supply it with the energy needed for its daily work. This compels the body to draw on its reserve energy-the fat depots." If in addition to this the body is kukko-fish and pork and other required to do more work or exercise, then an even greater call is made on these fat depots to supply this extra energy. This is the reason that less food and more exercise will always be the ideal method of reducing weight. This method builds

Tools of "Mystery" Race Are Found by Scientists

Rochester .- Hidden for more than a thousand years on the shores of Oneida lake, a "mystery" Indian civilization has been turned up by a field party from the Rochester Museum of Arts and Sciences.

Hammered copper implements and an unusual variety of pottery were discovered under ground, Dr. Arthur C. Parker, director of the museum, said. Never before, he said, has hammered copper been found under ground, although plenty has been picked up on the surface.

William A. Ritchie, assistant archeologist of the museum, who headed the party, said that the articles found by his men show skilled work-Balatians 5:16. PRIMARY TOPIC-My Neighbors. There is evidence also that the ancient workmen changed the forms of their products. For example, an adze was reshaped to a chisel. The field has yielded barbed harpoons and barbed fishhooks.

Five or six skeletons were dug from a large bone pit. Dr. Parker said he believed that the ancient people lived between 1,000 and 2,000 years ago.

This astounding fact was confirmed by De Havilland, the builders, and by the air ministry, purchasers, but the planes themselves are still decidedly under cover. The official secrets act prevents examination of their design, equipment and-above all-the laminated wood of which they are made. Only generalities regarding the Albatross have been released, but the few details gleaned indicate a revolutionary step in aircraft construction.

The planes span 105 feet from $125,000 each. Six have been ordered by the British government. The first has been completed and is undergoing flying trials. struction. Its main member is a matter.

Even the fuselage, which is a monocoque shell without internal bracing struts or wires, is all wood -a new material in which balsa wood is sandwiched between layers of plywood. It averages two inches in thickness.

> It is said to be extremely strong, tough and durable. In addition it is resilient, sound absorbent and light in weight. It will stand a heavy hammer blow without show ing even a dent, it is said.

The wood is fire treated and from this standpoint the Albatross is contip to tip. They will cost about sidered as safe as an all-metal plane. It was explained that any serious fire on a plane involved the fuel, and that if fuel tanks are ignited the material of which the The Albatross is of cantilever con- plane is constructed would not

Here's the "Bird" for Aviation

Not satisfied with present-day aircraft, R. Passat, center, of Surbiton, England, invented this new-type flying machine which he claims is inspired by action of birds in flight. Wings of the "Lark," as he calls it, are covered on the underside with a gauzy material which is said to catch the air like the feathers of a bird in flight.

Of course roots" to small dimensions at the no man plans to go that far, but the tips. Its "stressed skin" covering is built up of laminated wood and fact is that such is the tragic conclusion for hundreds of thousands of is several inches thick at the thickmen and women-damned for time and eternity by drink. Again in this passage we have the answer to our problem. Not reformation, not education, not culture (desirable and useful though we recognize these things to be), but being "washed," "sanctified," and "justified" in "the name of the Lord Jesus and in the Spirit of God." Try that on your town drunkard. Thank God, it works!

III. Drunkenness Is a Work of the Flesh (Gal. 5:16-24).

The flesh-that is our bodies ruled over by self-will as opposed to God's will-is revealed in the Scriptures to be thoroughly bad, and in opposition to God. Consider the appalling list of the works of the flesh in verses 19 and 20. And note that in the midst of them stands drunkenness. It is the lowest in man that responds to intoxicants. Little won-

The Seniors sell candy every noon, to raise money to increase their treasury. They are planning on having a supper November 12. Details have not been arranged as yet.
Wednesday afternoon two teams from our squad held a debate before the assembly. Myrton Leslie, Harold Ross and Frieda Witzke upheld the affirmative side and John King, Harold Shover and Kenneth Smith upheld the negative. Betty Rapp acted as chairman and Bill Prescott and Gerald Roeckle acted as time keepers. Don't be alarmed by the strange mumbling sounds from the English room. We are indulging in a little verse scansion.
