SHORE ROAD NOW COMPLETE TO ALPENA

Harrisville - Oscoda Stretch Opens For Traffic November 10

Michigan motorists next week will be able to drive over concrete pavement virtually the entire 235-mile distance between Detroit and Alpena for the first time in history.

Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, announced the 17-mile stretch on US-23 between Oscoda and Harrisville now closed for construction, will be opened to traffic November 10. Although the contractor will still be busy with sodding, shoulders, etc., traffic will be permitted to drive over the new concrete slab as a special convenience to north-bound deer hunters.

The lone exception to this all-paved highway next week will be a 5-mile detour south of Pinconning on US-23 where two culverts are under construction in connection with a widening project in that area.

The detour is good gravel road. With the Oscoda-Harrisville stretch opened, a four-year improvement program, approximately $1,750,000 will be completed on US-23 between Flint and Alpena, most of which has been concentrated on the Huron Shore proper from Bay City north.

This program has resulted in the paving of 54.6 miles of US-23, erection of three new bridges, and a half mile of sidewalks along the highway. Nearly 15 miles of this highway has been widened north of Bay City. In Isoco County, 12.9 miles have been paved and 26 miles in Alcona County.

Commissioner Van Wagoner told a Presque Isle delegation this week that the Huron Shore development program will continue with the route between Alpena and Rogers City expected to be hard-surfaced next summer. Most of this stretch is now graded.

Winter Attractions Will be Advertised

Immediate formation of plans to advertise Michigan's winter sport attractions as part of a general state publicity program was promised today by Norman H. Hill, newly appointed director of the state's advertising fund.

"Certain areas in the state, particularly adapted to winter sports, have wisely started in to make the tourist business an all-year program by the promotion of events to fill in between the close of the hunting season and the opening of the trout season and we intend to help them out," Hill said.

"We do not intend to use any major portion of the state account in this manner, but certainly some part should go for the purpose. No attempt will be made to promote any special section, but the attractions of all Michigan will be publicized."

At the same time the new director announced that he will issue an invitation to the secretaries of the four tourist and resort associations asking their attendance at a conference in Lansing to discuss final plans for a unified program. Each of the associations receive a maximum of $25,000 from the state fund to match their own appropriations for advertising.

An additional $50,000 a year was appropriated by the legislature to be expended through the state administrative board for general state publicity.

Lighthouse of Salvador

The name Lighthouse of Salvador is sometimes applied to the volcano Izalco, which is located near San Salvador, Central America, on account of the vivid flashes of fire it sends forth from time to time that are visible from a long distance.

JOHN BAY RETIRES FROM E. & M.

A. A. Bigelow Succeeds Him As Superintendent of Railroad

After more than 30 years of service as an employee of the Erie & Michigan Railway Company, John Bay of this city retired November 1 as General Superintendent. Mr. Bay has been superintendent since the death of the late C. W. Luce whom he succeeded. In accepting his resignation officials of the railway complimented Mr. Bay on his satisfactory service.

A. A. Bigelow of this city, senior employee of the railway, and train conductor for many years, succeeded Mr. Bay.

Isoco Boy Enters State Police Service

Oramel O'Farrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Farrell of Whittemore, left Tuesday for Lansing where he will enter the Michigan State Police department. His first duties will be a six weeks course of instruction in police work. He will be the first Isoco county boy to be called to this important branch of our state government. His many friends in the county wish him the best of luck in his new field of endeavor.

Music Honor Roll

The following students have fulfilled the requirements and have their names inscribed on the Roll of Honor the Music Department of St. Joseph school for the month of October: Arlene Proulx, Dorothy Bolen, Frances Danin, Leon Slimko, Phyllis Michalski, Leroy Anderson, Clara Jean Benson, Patsy Papas, Sally Papas, Alice Small, Shirley Lixey, George Rowley, Buddie Sheldon and Kathleen Houston.

Part Time Work Given Students

High school and college students who find it necessary to secure part time jobs in order to remain in school, are assisted by the Federal Government through the National Youth Administration.

Beginning November 15 and remaining for two days a representative of the N. Y. A. will be at the Welfare Office in Tawas City. All students who are interested in N. Y. A. work should apply in person at the office.

It is necessary that all students apply in person so that projects may be worked out that will be the most beneficial to both the student and the N. Y. A.

Meaning of "Alcatraz"

The word "Alcatraz" is Spanish for pelican. The federal prison was so called because thousands of these birds frequented the cliffs on which it is situated.

The Quality of Mercy..."

Drawn for the American Red Cross by Lawrence Wilbur

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION

Once again the time has come for our community to demonstrate its concern for maintaining a very necessary part of our civic welfare program—the work maintained by the Isoco Chapter of the American Red Cross.

It is not necessary for me to remind citizens of our community welfare. We have all seen, during the past year, how effective Red Cross work is, both from the standpoint of the year-round program and that done during times of great national emergency. Perhaps never before has the work of this great national agency been so universally endorsed as in this year during the gigantic relief operation in the devastating floods in the Ohio and Mississippi River Valleys. It was a great work, done in an efficient manner, and truly deserves our most sincere commendation.

Our community, I am pleased to say, carried its full share of the responsibility for making this great relief work possible, through contributions of our citizens.

The annual Roll Call of the Red Cross, through which such fine work is supported, is from November 11 to Thanksgiving Day. Memberships enrolled during that time will support the work for the year ahead of us. The Red Cross asks little from the community, yet contributes much to the general welfare of our people.

It gives me great pleasure, as mayor of Tawas City to set aside the designated period as the time when all members will be asked to renew their memberships and those who have not enrolled before are urged to add their names to the ranks of Red Cross members in our community.

Signed J. A. Brugger,
Mayor of Tawas City.

Dilworth-Kelchner

Miss Arlene Jane Dilworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Dilworth and Albert Kelchner of Pontiac were united in marriage at the Christ Episcopal Church Sunday, October 31 at 1:30 P. M. by the Rev. Charles E. Edinger. They were attended by Miss June Kelchner, sister of the groom, and Waldo Curry.

The bride wore a blue tailored suit and had a corsage of red rose buds while her attendant chose a cinnamom brown suit and a corsage of burnt orange rose buds.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of the East Tawas high school, the 1933 class.

After a short wedding trip the young couple took up their residence in Pontiac where Mr. Kelchner has employment.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Kelchner extend their best wishes.

AGRICULTURAL SHOW WILL BE HELD NOV. 11-12

$175.00 Offered In Trophies and Premiums to Exhibitors

The Fourth Annual Tawas Bay Horticultural and Agricultural show will be held in the Community Building, East Tawas, Thursday and Friday, November 11 and 12. This annual show is given by the East Tawas chapter of the Future Farmers of America in co-operation with the Isoco County Agricultural Extension Division.

There are trophies and premiums amounting to $175.00 offered in the various divisions of the fair and may be won by Smith Hughes high school pupils, 4-H club members and farmers living in Crawford, Oscoda, Ogemaw, Arenac and Isoco counties.

The evening program this year differs from those of former years in that only Thursday evening will be devoted to entertainment and educational instruction. Portions of the program will be developed from local school talent, while the speaker of the evening will be a neighboring county agricultural agent, R. B. Coulter of West Branch, who will discuss the agriculture of Northeastern Michigan. There will be no Friday evening program.

The show, according to R. E. Jewell, Smith Hughes instructor at the East Tawas schools, will be under the supervision of our young future farmers. It will be divided into eleven divisions—Corn, Potatoes, Small Grain, Poultry, Legumes, Fruit, Vegetables, Handicraft, Home Economics, Home Baked Goods and the Judging Contests.

You are invited by the management to visit the show, and at the same time exhibit articles in some of the above classes.

Schlichter-Hosbach

Quiet rites marked the marriage of Miss Elrietta C. Schlichter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schlichter of Mayville and Arnold C. Hosbach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Christian Hosbach of Tawas City, which took place Sunday at St. Paul's Lutheran church near Mayville. Rev. Emil Kasischke of Yale read the service in the presence of 200 guests.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown trimmed with lace. A satin redingote was worn over the gown and her long veil was attached to a small cap. She carried Johanna Hill roses and baby chrysanthemums. Attending the bride was her sister, Miss Doris Schlichter, who wore blue lace and carried a bouquet of pink roses and baby chrysanthemums. Herbert Hosbach of Detroit, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man.

Luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents afterward, the bridal table, with a large wedding cake in the center, being decorated in white. Guests were served at the other tables, decorations consisting of pink and white tapers.

Mr. and Mrs. Hosbach will reside in Tawas City, where Mr. Hosbach has employment.—The Saginaw News.

State Would Discourage Dirty Cream Production

Acting under orders from John B. Strange, state commissioner of agriculture, and E. C. Meade, director of the state bureau of foods and standards, dairy inspectors went out into the state this week to condemn all of dirty milk and cream which they find entering creameries.

An orange ice cream coloring material will be placed in each condemned can of milk and cream before it is returned to the farm. The coloring, which is made from vegetables, will not damage the milk or cream for use on the farm, but will render it unfit for resale to the consuming market.

The sediment test will be applied to every can of milk and cream entering the creameries or milk plants where the roving inspectors may hang their hats for they would be here today and somewhere else tomorrow. Their itinerary will be known only to the department of agriculture. Surprise tests will be made throughout the dairy belt.

Producers of dirty milk and cream will be notified that retest will be made of all deliveries from their farms and markets will be closed unless quality improvement is shown.

Labor Parley Deadlock

LEADERS of the American Federation of Labor and the C. I. O. couldn't get anywhere in their peace conference in Washington. So they adjourned temporarily, and some of them said the parley might not be resumed. George M. Harrison, head of the federation delegation, said that unless the C. I. O. attitude changed there was no prospect of peace. Both sides had made offers, but these were scornfully rejected by the opponents.

Japs Mobbed in Frisco

FIVE eminent Japanese citizens, sent out on a good will mission to the world, arrived at San Francisco and were at once besieged on their steamship by a howling mob which struggled with the police for two hours.

The demonstration was sponsored by the district council of the Maritime Federation of the Pacific, comprised of seagoing unions affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization. But about a third of the crowd was comprised of Chinese, who streamed out from the city's vast Chinatown to vent their rage at things and persons Japanese.

Help for Stock Market

EVER since the slump in the stock market began the government has been urged to do something about it. Finally the administration yielded to the demands and the federal reserve board of governors reduced margin requirements on stock purchases from 55 to 40 per cent and imposed a 50 per cent margin on short sales. The new requirements went into effect November 1 and are not retroactive.

No official explanation was given for the board's action but it was understood that it was designed to adjust the margin requirements to current stock market conditions. Imposition of the increased margin requirements on short sales was an innovation from the board's standpoint, a stock exchange rule requiring only 10 point protection on short sales. It was understood that before arriving at its decision the reserve board consulted with the securities and exchange commission.

Many brokers were doubtful that this action would stabilize the market, but the immediate effect was to give stock prices a start upward.

Yardstick for Power

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, in conference with J. D. Ross, administrator of the Bonneville dam project on the Columbia river, established the "yardstick" rate by which the charges of privately owned utilities for electric current are to be judged.

The formula is to pay operating charges, amortize the federal investment in power generation in 40 years and provide a net return of 3 1/2 per cent.

For the present the formula is to apply only to the Bonneville project, but Ross recommended that the same principle be followed with respect to power from the TVA and other government plants.

Miss Roche Quits Treasury

MISS JOSEPHINE ROCHE, first woman to be an assistant secretary of the treasury, has resigned that post and returns to the presidency of the Rocky Mountain Fuel company of Denver. The position will be left unfilled, for the administration hopes she will resume it later. She was appointed by President Roosevelt three years ago and has been in charge of the treasury's public health and other welfare activities.

TWENTY years of public service is enough for Senator Frederick Steiner of Oregon, Republican. He has announced that he will not seek re-election next year, but will return to the practice of law. Steiner was the keynoter of the Republican national convention of 1936.

Mussolini's Bold Talk

NEARLY a million Italians gathered in Rome to celebrate the fifteenth anniversary of the Fascist march on the Eternal City, and heard Mussolini declare that bolshevism must be driven out of Europe, meaning primarily that the rebels must win the Spanish civil war. Among the invited guests was a delegation from Nazi Germany, and for their benefit Il Duce asserted vigorously that Germany must obtain colonies, peacefully or otherwise.

"The motto of the sixteenth Fascist year is peace," shouted Mussolini. "There has been much use and abuse of this word by the bleating of the so-called reactionary democracies. But when it comes from our lips—the lips of those who have fought and who are ready to fight again—this word attains its real, solemn, original, human definition. Because to obtain a durable, lasting peace it is necessary to eliminate bolshevism from Europe. It is necessary that some absurd clauses of the treaties of peace be revised. It is necessary that great peoples like the German people have again the place to which they are entitled, and which they once had, under the African sun."

The presence of the official Nazi delegation, led by Rudolph Hess, deputy leader of the party, demonstrated "the ever closer political bond uniting the two people," Mussolini said.

Chautemps Gives Warning

IF THE necessity arises, France is prepared and ready to employ force in defense of her vital interests. At the same time she offers peace to all nations "that will prove by their acts their desire to keep their engagements loyally."

Such was the warning, evidently directed especially to Italy and Germany, which Premier Camille Chautemps uttered before a congress of the central federation of his Radical Socialist party. "I hope especially in the grievous affair of Spain this pacific, prudent, and courageous action will succeed in cutting short the violations of justice which cannot be renewed without constraining France and Britain to renew their liberty of action," Chautemps said.

The premier's declaration recalled French insistence that unless the nonintervention committee soon pulled foreign troops out of Spain France would open her frontier to aid the Spanish government.

Franco's Progress

GENERALISSIMO FRANCO, having completed his conquest of Gijon and the rest of the loyalist territory in northwest Spain, began moving his insurgent forces eastward to the Aragon front, where his officers said the "decisive offensive of the war" would be begun.

The loyalist government moved from Valencia to Barcelona.

Windsor Talks of Trip

THE duke of Windsor, speaking at a dinner of the Anglo-American Press association in Paris, said that he wanted to make it clear that "in any journey I have undertaken or may plan in the future, I do so as a completely independent observer without political considerations of any sort or kind and entirely on my own initiative."

He added that "I am a very happily married man, but my wife and I are neither content nor willing to lead a purely inactive life of leisure. We hope and feel that in due course the experience we gain from our travels will enable us, if given fair treatment, to make some contributions as private individuals to solving of some of the vital problems that beset the world today."

Noted Editor Dead

DEATH chose a shining mark when it removed George Horace Lorimer, retired editor of the Saturday Evening Post. He succumbed to pneumonia at his home in Wyncote, Pa. Honorary pallbearers at his funeral included former President Herbert Hoover and other men distinguished in public life. Mr. Lorimer became editor in chief of the Saturday Evening Post in 1899 and developed it from an obscure weekly to its high position in its field.

Ecuador Coup de'Etat

GEN. ALBERTO ENRIQUEZ, war minister of Ecuador, and officers of the army executed a coup d'etat which forced Provisional President Federico Paez to resign and leave the country. Enriquez at once assumed power as "supreme chief" with a cabinet composed largely of army officers. He decreed the establishment of a popular tribunal to deal with persons accused of tampering with public funds and announced "a national political purge." The people accepted the change of government quietly.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Escaped Ax-Murderer"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
 Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:

This adventure yarn just proves, once more, that you don't have to prowling around the African jungles to find thrills. No sir, you don't have to be a big game hunter, either, to run across tough spots where you have to do hair-trigger thinking.

Why, if Jimmy Hagle, who lives in Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, never sees a jungle, well—he will have plenty of adventure to look back upon. Hold on to your chairs, boys and girls.

Jimmy Hagle—it's James Ruthven Hagle now—was twelve years old, back in 1917, when America jumped into the World war. Frances—that's his sister—was eighteen. Both went to the same schoolhouse. Thanksgiving rolled around and school was dismissed at noon the day before, for the holidays.

Jimmy and his schoolmates were leap-frogging home, snowballing and whetting up their Turkey Day appetites.

Siren Meant Convict Had Escaped.

Right then, from over those snow-covered, vacant lots, came a low moan. It sharpened in the crackly air until it became a shriek. That meant just one thing to kids and grown-ups in Fort Leavenworth. There were three prisons around that town and when a siren groaned it meant that one or more convicts had escaped. It meant terror to women at home alone.

Jimmy and the boys were too busy with Thanksgiving plans to worry much about the siren's wail. Escaped convicts wouldn't bother kids. So they all shivered a little, started snowballing again and romped home.

Jimmy neared his house. A strange, black tomcat scurried out of the open coal chute. Jimmy heaved a snowball at it and ran into the kitchen to sniff of Thanksgiving preparation. Mother and Dad were all dressed up. Big affair up in Kansas City they had to attend. Mother would be back bright and early to fix that turkey. Jimmy and Frances had been tentatively planted with the neighbors for the night.

"Nix," said Jimmy. "We'll stay here. Think we're afraid?" "Well, they did stay. Alone for the first time, the house seemed dark and sinister. The light snow turned into a Kansas blizzard. Rattled doors and windows and howled around the corners.

Lights out and twelve-year-old Jimmy lay sleepless, listening to noises of the storm. Memory of that wailing siren came back. Memory, also, of his father's comment on newspaper articles. Dad had read aloud, before he left, that five convicts—four of them convicted murderers—had escaped. One was a maniac murderer, guilty of a triple slaying— butcherer of three persons with a knife and ax.

Jimmy tried to think of Thanksgiving. Troubled sleep came at last.

He was being shaken. His body tensed. Then, a voice called, "Buddy, I hear a noise in the basement. What do you suppose it is?" Jimmy put on a brave air. "It's that cat I saw running out. He must have come back through the coal chute."

Giant Negro With a Knife.

Frances went back to her room. Jimmy's mind turned again to the siren—the escaped murderers.

Ten-fifteen minutes passed. The unmistakable rattle of sliding coal. Clump clump, clump. Footsteps down there, surely. Frances was at his bedside again—trembling. "I can't sleep. You must go down and put that cat out."

Jimmy wasn't sure at all that it was a cat. Cats don't clump, clump over concrete. But he couldn't back down before his older sister.

Both Jimmy and Frances tiptoed down the cellar steps, turning on the lights. Jimmy first opened the door to the food-storage room. In the dim light he saw nothing unusual. Then he threw back the door to the furnace room and entered. He glanced backward to see whether Frances was following him. She was. But behind her, at the door, was a sight that froze the blood of that twelve-year-old lad.

A giant negro—bared teeth and bloodshot eyes—was pressing the door shut with his powerful back. His right hand was on the knob. His left held a long-bladed knife—a butcher knife. It was the escaped ax murderer—insane—desperate. He was mumbly-gripping the knife convulsively.

Jimmy and Frances screamed in chorus. Jimmy thrust his sister behind him. They retreated toward the wall. A twelve-year-old boy facing an armed maniac who had fought off armed posses of grim men for days—overpowered prison keepers and escaped.

The murderer was weaving stealthily forward, muttering. The knife was bobbing for a thrust. His words were intelligible, now. "They'll never get me. They'll never get me," he repeated.

Jimmy's arms stretched backward to protect his sister. His hands touched something.

Dad's tool bench!

Good Hammer Throw by Jimmy.

The smooth hickory handle of a riveting hammer was in Jimmy's fingers. Instinctively they closed upon it. The convict was still advancing.

Hardly aiming, Jimmy flung the hammer with his good right baseball arm at the leering face less than six feet away.

Blood spurted. The heavy hammer had struck the murderer squarely across the bridge of the nose. He sank to his knees, scrambled for a few dazed seconds—staggered to his feet.

Frances raced for the dark stairway. A black hand seized her flowing nightgown. Jimmy seized her, literally tore her free. She plunged up the stairway. She fell. Jimmy fell across her. Up again. Into the kitchen. The stairs shook with the heavy tread of the killer behind them.

They were crossing the dining room—the front door their goal. A thud on the floor. The butcher knife, hurled by the convict, quivered in the floor beside Jimmy's foot. Blood spurted high, but brother and sister plunged on.

Frances flung open the door. Out into the blizzard, screams rising over the howl of the storm. Lights flashed on. Jimmy and Frances fell exhausted upon a neighbor's porch. Police found marks of the struggle, and giant footprints leading from the Hagle's front porch. The convict had disappeared in the blizzard.

A few nights later, the killer prowled again. He was captured after a desperate battle. Today he is serving, in solitary confinement, the remainder of his life sentence in the Kansas State prison.

A Shake-Down Cruise

A shake-down cruise is sort of a pleasure jaunt to foreign shores to acquaint the crew with its duties. It's an old ship-builders' custom. Shake-down voyages of United States navy vessels, however, are preceded by other trials. First is the builder's own trials. Next come the navy's "standardization trials." Aboard this time are some navy observers, and the vessel is tried for speed. Then come necessary readjustments, recruiting of the crew and the shake-down.

Model Mate

After 50 years of observation Arthur Cleveland Brent, of the Smithsonian Institution, reveals that the red-shouldered hawk is the matrimonial model of birddom. These birds marry very young, never desert their wives, and always live in the homes they stake out, even putting up no-trespassing signs made of fresh sprigs of evergreen. Most amazing of all is the elation with which they decorate the nest with violets when there's a new addition to the family.

 By WILLIAM BRUCKART
 NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington. — In this so-called modern civilization of ours when we are supposed to keep pace with progress, every one of us is confronted every day with some sort of government regulation or restriction. We are told what to do and what not to do and a good many politicians want to increase the number of things we are told to do.

Included in this modern civilization is a perfect network of spies who bear official titles of one kind or another, and probably the most insistent of these spies are the agents of government who look after taxes. All of which is necessary because tax payers undoubtedly will dodge a little if they can get away with it. The federal government has a good many thousands of them; state governments have them and county and city governments maintain a veritable army of employees whose job it is to check up on taxpayers. They do their job thoroughly. Make no mistake about that: If the taxpayer does not come through in accordance with the orders of the tax collectors, there is plenty of punishment.

Which brings us to the point of and the reason for this discussion. It sets the stage for the question: If the government, national, state or local, is so punctilious about tax collections, the gathering in of people's money, why is it that government is not equally punctilious about the way the money is spent? This question is very much to the forefront now. It is a question of paramount importance because of a proposal for governmental reorganization which President Roosevelt insists must be considered by the forthcoming session of congress. The federal government must be reorganized. The reason for this reorganization, according to the President's argument, is that the present structure is inefficient, wasteful, and generally quite unwieldy.

It is to be granted, I think, that much of the present federal government structure is inefficient, wasteful and unwieldy. Throughout the government one will find various agencies charged with the same responsibilities, doing things in opposite directions, winding and binding red tape around the citizens until some of them scarcely can get a hand free to mark their ballots. The whole thing needs a thorough going over but, as I see the picture, this going over should be done with a view to making governmental machinery workable and rebuilding only where hastily conceived governmental agencies and functions have demonstrated that they are acting as a deterrent rather than an encouragement to the nation as a whole.

I have no quarrel with Mr. Roosevelt concerning the need for changing some parts of the governmental machine. I have a very definite objection, however, to some of the changes he proposes. I object strenuously, for example, to his move to destroy the present setup for protection against improper spending of the taxpayers' money. Specifically, I can see no possible excuse for Mr. Roosevelt's demand that the general accounting office be made subservient again to the whims of politicians by placing that agency under the control of a political appointee, namely, the secretary of the treasury. That is exactly what is proposed, and if the President's governmental reorganization program is accepted by congress in its present form, the President of the United States, whether Mr. Roosevelt or his successor, again will be able to determine to a large measure how the taxpayers' money is spent.

That may appear to be an exaggerated statement. One may ask about the constitutional provision which requires that all appropriations shall be made by congress. This would seem to prevent executive mismanagement of the taxpayers' money. Such, however, unfortunately is not the case because we have had proof under President Roosevelt's administration what can be done when one political party has such complete control of the machinery of government. Congress appropriated billions. True. But had there been no general accounting office in existence, I doubt if anyone could have even guessed what would have happened to those vast sums of money.

It has been my privilege to watch operation of the federal government almost 20 years. Because of that experience, I think I am able to say that I am more conversant with the tricks to which politicians resort in getting money out of the treasury than persons who have not had an opportunity to study the government as it actually functions. And because of that experience, I am going to make the unequivocal statement that unless congress repells Mr. Roosevelt's plan to destroy the curb on trick and illegal spending, this nation and its citizens will pay for the folly in waste not now conceivable.

Someone might arise and say that my statement is unjustified because there was not such a terrific drain on the treasury before the general accounting office came into existence in 1921. My answer to that is that there was a tremendous drain on the treasury before 1921 when the accounting, auditing of bills and checks, was done by individual agencies of the government. The difficulty is that, except for war time agencies, the cost of running the federal government before the general accounting office was established was only about one-seventh of what it is now. None of the federal agencies then in existence were as large then as they are now; none had as much authority nor as great a scope of operations, and the bulk of the new agencies that have been born in legislation that is haphazard and undigested to say the least. The older agencies of government have scores of workers who know how to handle their business. Regrettably, it must be said that most of the new agencies are controlled by, completely filled up with, men who are unfamiliar with the gigantic problems their jobs entail.

Public sentiment is a thing difficult to understand. For example, millions of people became wrought up when President Roosevelt sought to increase the membership of the Supreme court of the United States by the addition of six judges of his own choosing. They rightfully fought back against the destruction of our judicial system. Fighting words characterized the criticism of Mr. Roosevelt and his New Dealers who sought to break down the system of checks and balances created in our government by the founding fathers when they provided for executive, legislative and judicial divisions of governmental authority.

So, I am wondering why thus far there has not been an outburst of vehement criticism of Mr. Roosevelt with reference to the proposed destruction of the check on spending. I am wondering, too, why people who complain so violently against spies in the form of tax investigators should not demand of their government equal protection for the funds after they have been taken away from the taxpayers.

There are two other agencies of the federal government which Mr. Roosevelt's reorganization plan will eventually destroy. Each has proved its worth. Each has a record of service to the nation and protection for individual citizens that cannot be ignored. I refer to the interstate commerce commission and the federal trade commission.

The ICC has supervised the railroads nearly half a century. It has compelled them to be fair when some individuals in the railroad industry were inclined to cheat or take advantage of an unorganized segment of the population. Sometimes there has been criticism of the commission for placing the railroads in a strait-jacket, but the good that the ICC has done far outweighs any damages it has caused.

Yet, it is proposed in the President's reorganization plan to take away the independence which has characterized the history of the operations of this agency. The President wants to place over the commission a political appointee responsible only to the Chief Executive. Through all of the years I have worked in Washington, there has been a never-ending effort on the part of politicians to get their hands on the agency that controls the railroads. It takes no stretch of the imagination to see what would happen if the politicians were able to succeed in this direction. I am quite convinced that if the ICC is subordinated to the political philosophy of a presidential appointee, every one of us who uses the railroads will be paying toll. The toll will not go to the railroads but to the politicians.

With respect to the federal trade commission much the same can be said. Like the ICC, the trade commission is quasi judicial. It is an independent agency. Times unnumbered, it has stepped on crooked business and has forced business of this stripe to play the game within the regulations. On occasion, I have criticized specific actions by the commission as lacking in judicial consideration. By and large, however, I think no one can say unqualifiedly that the federal trade commission has failed to do its job in the interest of individual citizens—which, after all, is what government is supposed to do.

Model for Silver Coin

The model for the head of Liberty on the peace dollar of 1921 was Mrs. Anthony de Francisci, the wife of the sculptor who designed the coin. The sculptor has declared that the face on the coin is a composite face typifying something of America.

Miss Anna D. Williams of Philadelphia was the model for the profile of Liberty on the silver dollar minted from 1878 to 1904; no silver dollars were coined from 1905 to 1920. The number of stars appears to have no particular significance, except that as there were 15 states in 1794 when the first silver dollars were minted, 15 stars appeared on these coins. In 1797 a star was added for Tennessee, but later dollars had only 15 or 13 stars.

THE REASON HEADACHES ARE RELIEVED SO FAST

THE REASON BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST
Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water.
By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating.
This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "taking hold" of headache and similar pain a few minutes after taking.

All people who suffer occasionally from headaches ought to know this way to quick relief.

At the first sign of such pain, take two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Sometimes if the pain is more severe, another dose is necessary later, according to directions.

If headaches keep coming back we advise you to see your own physician. He will look for the cause in order to correct it.

The price now is only 15¢ for twelve tablets or two full dozen for 25 cents—virtually, only a cent apiece.

MAGIC CARPET

It doesn't matter what you're thinking of buying—a hat pin or a baby grand, a new suit for Junior or a set of dining-room furniture—the best place to start your shopping tour is in an easy-chair, with an open newspaper. Make a habit of reading the advertisements as a guide to good values, you can compare prices and styles, fabrics and finishes, just as though you were standing in a store. Make a habit of reading the advertisements in this paper every week. They can save you time, energy and money.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Intriguing Construction.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.— Downtown I saw some sort of siege-wall going up. At first I thought it must be a part of the proposed plaza leading from our new terminal.

Our new terminal has been under construction almost as long as New York's unfinished Cathedral of St. John. Inch by inch it progresses, giving creeping defiance to those critics who say that what Los Angeles needs is not any additional entrances, but more exits.

On second glance I decided the owner of the business property behind this strange rampart probably made the same mistake I did. I saw a picture in the paper and I said, "Pretty late to be printing a photograph of Fifth avenue showing how it appeared when the World's war heroes got through pranking last month." I looked again and saw it was only a scene in Shanghai after the Japanese finished bombing.

So I figure this forehanded Los Angeleno is just getting ready for next year's convention of the vets out here. When his wall is absolutely impregnable against assault, he'll no doubt paint a big sign on it reading:

"Welcome, American Legion."

Kindness for Reptiles.

UNDER the slogan, "Kindness for reptiles," the National Park service discourages people from destroying every creature they encounter, merely because it wriggles or crawls.

I'm what you might call an occasional snakist, indulging in snakes only in moderation. In other words, I can take my snakes or I can leave them be. But realizing that practically all snakes destroy noxious vermin, I refrain from murdering every passing snake, regardless of his private habits and personal disposition, just for being a snake.

I was raised in a locality where moccasin snakes were so numerous the Republicans used to accuse us of voting them at county elections. Yet I recall only one instance of a moccasin snake biting anybody, and it must have been tempted beyond all power of self-control, for the fellow bitten was a pious party who didn't think little children should be suffered to believe in Santa Claus. I regret to state that he recovered. It was the snake that died.

Movie Preferences.

I DON'T like movies about hospital where an impossible young surgeon performs impossible operations, in four strokes under par, using his irons all the way 'round; and then, while replacing the divots, makes love to an impossible although beautiful nurse. But between operations he washes his hands. Dadgum him, he's always washing his hands! Who does he think he is, Pontius Pilate?

I don't like movies about newspaper offices where the hero is a drunken reporter who behaves in a manner peculiar to newspaper reporters (in the movies); which is so darned peculiar that, in a real newspaper office, somebody'd beat out his brains with a wet towel.

I like movies showing Myrna Loy, when not playing nurse; and Spencer Tracy, when not playing reporter.

Anyhow, nothing could be an absolute failure that has a Walt Disney short separating the ultra-colossal or regular feature from the extra-special four-star absolutely unparalleled super-stupendous preview feature.

Gossip About Cobb.

JUST a little effort to trace down gossip now going around:

(I) The claim that I am going to play Scarlett in "Gone With the Wind" is absolutely unfounded. Latest word is that the coveted role will go to Fannie Brice, although the Ritz brothers are being mentioned. If they should be chosen, Scarlett will be played as a three-handed quartette.

(II) Dame Rumor hath it that the Atlantic sperm whale will be renamed the Justice Black sperm whale. Not yet confirmed, but sounds sort of plausible. The Atlantic sperm whale has a hide almost two feet thick.

(III) The statement that Charley McCarthy may join the reorganized brain trust at Washington remains unsettled. Probably without foundation. For while Charley is trained to sit upon his master's knee, he cannot be depended on to keep silent and has too many brains to be trusted.

(IV) Stories to the effect that Representative Ham Fish will be Republican nominee for President in 1940 may be regarded as absolutely authentic so far as Representative Ham Fish is concerned.

There Seems to Be Several Angles in This Football Game

THIS game called football: Cognomen confusers—Bethel college, McKenzie, Tenn., and Bethel college, Kansas. Bowling Green Teachers' college, Kentucky, and Bowling Green Normal school, Ohio. Dickinson college, Pennsylvania, and Dickinson Teachers' college, North Dakota. Marquette university, Wisconsin, and Marquette Teachers' college, Michigan. Monmouth college, Illinois, and Monmouth Normal school, Oregon.

Twenty-eight Notre Dame graduates coach college teams as compared to seven from Minnesota. Only two alumni of Carlisle, as famed on the gridiron 25 years ago as the Irish and Gophers are now, are coaching. They are William Dietz at A'Brighit and Gus Welch at American U.

Of the 40 or more football players whose last names are the names of colleges only two seem to be competing against their namesakes this year. Dickinson of Delaware played against Dickinson college and Marquette of Villanova bore down against Marquette. None of the athletes seem to be playing on teams bearing their own names.

There is, though, a "Furman" at Cornell and a "Cornell" at California.

Coach Jock Sutherland of Pitt started his athletic career as a track and field man at Oberlin academy. At Pitt he played football, tossed the weights, was track captain and filled in his other idle hours with varsity wrestling.

How Irish Were Saved by Hairline Finishes

Hairline finishes—Elmer Layden's Notre Dame team was saved from defeat in the final minutes of play in three games during 1935. The Irish won from Pitt and Ohio State on last minute scores while tying Army in the final second, 6 to 6. That year Notre Dame scored 27 points in the last seven minutes of play in seven games. In the Ohio State game

Andy Pinney scored 18 points in the last quarter, 12 of them coming in the last two minutes.

In 1906 Cornell beat Oberlin, Hamilton, Bucknell, Bowdoin, Pitt, Holy Cross and Swarthmore. But was twice defeated by the Penn Frosh.

Coaches whose teams meet this season include:

- COACH AND COLLEGE
1. Morey, Bates
 2. Crisler, Princeton
 3. Kern, Carnegie Tech
 4. Little, Columbia
 5. Neal, DePaul
 6. McMillan, Indiana
 7. Yeager, Iowa State
 8. Mylin, Lafayette
 9. Croft, Montana State
 10. Peden, Ohio U.

OPPONENT

1. Dartmouth
2. Chicago
3. Pittsburgh
4. Penn
5. Wabash
6. Centre
7. Kansas State
8. Franklin and Marshall
9. Utah State
10. Illinois

Harvard once had five plays from the Holy Cross one yard line (The extra chance being due to the Crusaders being offside) without scoring the touchdown.

Thomas of Middle Georgia college ran back the opening kickoff for touchdowns in three games one season.

Duke plays teams from five different states in its first five games this season.

In 1936 Byron White of Colorado made four touchdown runs through the snow against Utah. After these jaunts of 39, 28, 89 and 45 yards he threw a 50 yard pass over the goal line for a fifth touchdown.

At least two Olympic contestants are playing college football this season, Hurdlers Forest Towns of Georgia and Fritz Pollard, Jr., of North Dakota. The two, incidentally, ran a 14.2 dead heat in the British Empire games.

In 1936 Guilford college defeated only Brigewater. Brigewater defeated only Gallaudet. Gallaudet defeated only Wilson Teachers. Wilson Teachers won none.

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

WHEN discussing football prospects Carl Snavely, coach of Cornell's high-riding eleven, could spot Gil Dobie six towels and still run away with any crying contest

Jack Dempsey has been a most frequent racetrack visitor recently. Can it be that Jack is taking the sport of kings seriously again after that technical kayo he suffered from his first experience with the gee gees? . . . Owner Benschwanger of Pittsburgh is quoted as saying he would rather finish sixth with a fighting ball club than third in the manner of the 1937 Pirates. So it has been predicted there will be various trades this winter with Arky Vaughan already on the market . . . N. Y. U. may not be the hardest luck eleven of the year. But what other team has lost such key-men as Swiadow, Savarese, Williams and Bloom in rapid succession?

Three generations of Whitney owners, William C., Harry Payne and Cornelius V. have cheered while their famous Eton Blue and Brown Cap have been carried to victory in almost every important American stake and an Epsom Derby. The colors, which will be retired from the turf after this season, were obtained in England 50 years or so ago. "Those colors are a jinx," the famous English trainer Jack Lambert told William C. Whitney. "You can buy them for a song." . . . Art Rooney will return in the spring for another crack at the ponies. You can take a short price on that, horse players never quit. For instance there was a celebrated English punter, a higher roller than any Rooney, Gates or Chicago O'Brien. He's dead now but until he ended it all, shortly after being turned down for a fiver, he still had been talking of a comeback.

That football return duel between Fordham Tackle Barbartsky and Pitt End Daddio was a honey . . . Daddio and the other star Panther end, Frank Souchek, play numbers one and two on the Pitt golf team.

Cubs' Loss of Pennant Is Blamed on Wives

Some Chicagoans claim Charley Grimm's Cubs finished second this year because too many wives were interfering in their husbands' business

As usual most of the obit writers were wrong when Princeton's great lineman, Biffy Lea, died. He was not an All-America end for four years as most of them insisted. He was All-America tackle for three years and then, due to an injured shoulder which forced him to play with his arm strapped to his side all season, he moved out to end the next year. Made the All-America as end this time . . . It is extremely doubtful that the new world record for the mile, set in London last summer by Stan Wooderson, will be allowed by the international federation. There are two reasons, both sufficient under the rules to prevent acceptance of the mark. One is that the race was with club members. The other is that it was a paced race and he was permitted to have the pole all the way.

Umpires Emslie and Byron, one two of the best in the big time, visited the World Series. When they arrived at press headquarters the first guy they asked for was Casey Stengel.

Both the Yankees and Joe McCarthy are to be congratulated on their new contract. Joe has had plenty to work with. Baseball never has known a more efficient organization than the one shrewd Ed Barrow has perfected during his years as business manager. Yet some men squander their own talents as well as the gifts that are offered to them. Joe never has done that. He has made good and full use of every opportunity. Although $35,000 a year probably is beyond the comprehension of most of the fans who pay to make the club richer each season there is no doubt but what cash customers are wholeheartedly glad he is getting it.

Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers rushes from the dressing room to the nearest soda emporium after each bout to fill up on cantaloupe and ice cream . . . Two home games in Washington drew within $13,000 of what the Redskins took in at seven games in Boston . . . A British newspaper syndicate paid Tommy Farr $30,000 for his life story after the Joe Louis bout . . . Bill McKechnie, new manager of the Cincinnati Reds, formerly managed five of the seven rival pilots in the National league . . . They are Grimm, Frisch, Traynor, Grimes, and Wilson. . . Dean Cromwell, track coach at Southern California, let out a deep groan when Bob Peoples fractured his wrist in a freshman football game with Stanford, and no wonder . . . Peoples probably is the best javelin prospect in the United States.

Joe Louis' softball team has been touring California cities, asking a guarantee of only $150 a game . . . Joe gives all the receipts to the players . . . A letter addressed "Barney Ross, Somewhere in the U. S. A." was delivered to the welterweight champion in Chicago a few days ago . . . Dorothy Bundy who eliminated Alice Marble from this year's national tennis tournament, is en route to Australia with Dorothy Workman.

Glove-and-Bag Ensemble Is Latest

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

LOOK to your accessories!

This is a season when the accessory theme reigns uppermost in the minds of designers. Fashion demands accessory items that not only tune to a nicely to your costume but they must radiate glamor and be as elegant "as thy purse can buy." So all-important, so outstanding has this idea of smart accessories become in the scheme of things, 'twould almost seem as if the clothes we wear were made to serve merely as a background to show off the swank, the splendor and romance of the added accents in way of jewelry, gloves, handbags and belts, headwear, neckwear, footwear and even the very "hankies" we carry or proudly display in capricious little pockets that may not be so utilitarian as they are decorative.

Especially do handbags reflect this trend of the mode to indulge in elegance and glamor. Leathers are softer, trimmings are more startling and to add to the fuss and furor now raging in behalf of accessories, designers have worked to achieve matching ensembles of bag and gloves which make it simple for the woman of impeccable taste to dress up to her standard.

The illustration shows a trio of perfectly stunning ensembles by David Lewis, American designer, noted for his leather artistry. Here gloves and handbags are matched in a manner so striking the entire costume takes on an air so smart there is none smarter.

Black with gold accents is the favorite language of fashion these times. It's gold and glamor that makes its way into the styling of the handsome and distinctive dressy afternoon and cocktail set to the right below in the picture. For this ensemble the softest of black antelope is used in a frameless skirt-type bag with black bengaline to line it. Gussets of gold kid are set in with inverted pleats both front and back. The soft handles have the "feel" of luxury and the slide-fastener closing adds the practical note. The matching black antelope slip-on gloves are hand-stitched and have gold details, but the back of the glove is devoid of any knuckle stitching which cites an important trend this season.

Tiny perforations are one of the newest style notes in leather. You will undoubtedly see bag-and-glove sets as pictured to the left above at the smartest places. Black perforated antelope soft as a kitten's ear is used for this ensemble—the air-conditioned idea carried out even to one's accessories. The bag is beautifully lined with slipper satin. The short pull-on gloves to match are handstitched and have a corded binding at the wrist but no stitching on the backs.

One of the loveliest of the Lewis tailored bags (see pictured to right above) is simple and squarish in shape, with white cross-stitched whipped edges. The handles are set on the bag with tiny cross stitches, which is the only trim. A slide-fastener gives a wide opening for convenience. This bag comes in grand fall accessory colors and is made of antelope, lined with bengaline. Short pull-on gloves with matching cross stitches around the fingers and the entire glove make this set a striking example of how American designers are keyed to create what the American women want and will wear. Such lovely accessories thrill us with the knowledge that we are correct even to the fingertips.

KNIT THIS SUIT

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

A two-piece suit that looks like a three-piece one, such is this smart outfit of lustre knitting yarn. It is knitted in a waffle pattern in a manner that makes it firm and reliable in wearing. The wide lapels and jabot are knitted separately and then sewn to the jacket. A smart cut-away line makes the jacket take on a trimly tailored and up-to-the-moment style.

LAME HEADS LIST OF PARIS FABRICS

Lame heads the list of important fabrics in the Paris couturiers' winter collections, for fabric designers have adapted the metallic material for broader use than ever before.

Lame is no longer simply lame. There are flower print lames in colors; simple heavy gold and silver cloths draped into enchanting evening gowns, iridescent materials with glowing silky stripes; "gold dust" lames; plaid and checkered metallic fabrics and lame moires.

Velvet in all its forms from the sheerest of chiffon velvet through Lyons and even corduroy are distinctive and feature in costumes for wear at every hour of the day. Cut velvets backed with colors or metallic tones provide luxurious evening fabrics.

Four-Way Costume Is Back in New Wool and Velveteen

The four-way costume returns this fall with added popularity in a new plaid wool and velveteen version that is especially appropriate for college or general school wear.

There is a two-piece plaid dress of the shirtwaist type that comes in black, brown, wine or green, with a boxy swagger velveteen jacket and skirt with front panel of the predominant color of the plaid.

The velveteen jacket is practical in that it may be worn with other dresses and skirts.

Sequins for Glitter

Glittering sequins embroidery trims hundreds of new fall frocks. Among the motifs which brighten sober dresses are stained glass window patterns, fireworks designs and Louis XV bowknots.

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH OF HALE

K. W. Vertz, Pastor.
November 7—Divine services at 10:00 a. m. Sunday school at 11:00. Children's Bible school every Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

Dear reader, are you prepared to meet your God and eternity? If not, then here is the only way you can be prepared. "Repent of your sins and believe the Gospel." The blood of Jesus Christ, the son of God, cleanses us from all sins. Not only to know this, but believe and live this gospel, is the only assurance and insurance for the eternity to come. Prepare now before your chances are gone. Today is the day!

Mrs. John R. Slocums wishes to convey her deepest gratitude to the Masonic Order of Hale and to friends who participated in the wood bee for her during the absence of her husband who was in the Hospital in Ann Arbor, to Fred Guilford who so generously let the men cut the wood on his property.

TELEPHONE SERVICE HAS

INCREASED IN VALUE; RATES HAVE DECREASED

Michigan today is enjoying really remarkable values in telephone service.

The Company's material and labor costs have increased substantially since reductions in rates were made in 1934, 1935 and 1936. In 1934 rates for service to farmers and for long distance service were reduced; in 1935 the long distance night rate was made effective at 7 o'clock every night and was extended to all day every Sunday; in 1936 further reductions were made in the rates for long distance and for various other services and items of equipment, and the charges for installing and moving telephones were drastically cut.

At the same time the average individual's income has improved, and prices asked for many other items and services have gone up.

Yet telephone service is still available at the reduced rates; the quality of the service never was higher; and its value to the community is increasing daily, as indicated by the increasing number of calls made per telephone.

We farmers are money ahead with CONCRETE ROADS!

BEFORE they paved the roads in my county, I decided I'd better look into the cost of road improvements. You see, I own two cars and pay taxes on considerable farm property.

"I found that concrete, besides being the best pavement to drive on, is actually the cheapest every way you look at it. Costs less to build than any other road of equal load capacity. Costs $88 to $465 less per mile per year for surface maintenance than other pavements.

"And concrete saves gas, tires and your car—enough to make a big difference in a year's time!

"Take my word and demand concrete wherever traffic exceeds 100 vehicles a day. You'll be money ahead."

"You had breakfast with him?"
"I certainly did and ate everything he had in the house." She began to laugh. "I may as well tell you, he acted rather hot and bothered and I began to think it was too much for his feelings, seeing me so unexpectedly, one whom he had loved and lost—you know! Then I came back here to the house and Mr. Kreeel spilled the real truth. Bob's all enamored with the new schoolteacher and she's a blonde and of course he wasn't keen on having her know that strange young women were calling on him for breakfast—you can see what this did to my vanity."

"It must have been a blow. And he must be a crazy fish!"
"Oh well—a blonde! Mr. Kreeel says a light blonde."
"Now you may as well know the truth about me, too. When Pink told you about this guy and insinuated that you were dashing off to him, I made up my mind that I'd come after you and if there was a chance in the world I was going to snatch you away from him. That sounds, maybe, as foolish as your blonde story, but it's what happened. I couldn't let another man have you without a battle. And when I came in here today and this funny little old Kreeel person was here with you, well, I darned near rolled over laughing at myself. I thought Pink had been making a monkey out of me, that it was all a gag. Anyway, it doesn't matter. The gentleman has his blonde and I haven't lost you."

"Curt," said Rachel, not quite steadily, "you haven't got me to lose. I like you—a lot—but I don't know you so very well. I won't be rushed, it would be bad for both of us. I'll never again do anything I'm not sure about. The Cayne business taught me that much, forever."

"My darling," said Curt, "I'm going to devote my entire time to making you know me better. I won't hurry you, I won't worry you. But I'm going to hang around an awful lot."

He made no move toward her, he did not even take her hand, and she did not try to answer him. Presently he spoke again: "I think we ought to be on our way. Suppose I go and get the car?"

While he was gone she banked the fire, made the left-over sandwiches and crullers into a package and wiped clean with paper the dishes and spoons they had used. She was waiting with her suitcase when he drove up. Vinco's car was the most sporting ever seen in Rockboro, a bright yellow and as long as a locomotive, and when Rachel came out there was violent agitation behind the Kreeel lace curtains. She waved a smiling good-by toward it.

Smoothly, quietly, the long bright car ran through the long bright quiet street and Rachel leaned to look out at the library.

"Want to stop?" asked Curt.

"Want to tell him good-by?"

"But Rachel shook her head. "No—I did that this morning."

CHAPTER XIV

Vinco welcomed her return with severity which masked relieved friendliness.

"The next time anybody wants one of my young ladies for any funny stuff, he can go jump in the lake. I've got a lot of good engagements for you, Miss Rachel, and you've got to work hard to make up for lost time. I hope you didn't roughen up your hands being a kitchen maid. Vinco's young ladies must have hands like ladies."

Her hands, Rachel told him, were as smooth as they had ever been. And she was so glad to be working for him again, she'd work like mad and do everything he told her. And she didn't want to go out on any more odd assignments any more than he wanted her to, she was all through with being a detective or anything else except one of Vinco's young ladies! The little man did not relax his grimness a bit at that. "I wish I could believe you were permanent for five years," he grumbled, "but I don't. You'll be getting married. All the best ones do it. That Curt Elton! And he has the crust to be telling me that this country has a new crop of pretty girls every year and I get the pick of 'em. Talks like I was another Ziegfeld."

Rachel did not answer that. She had nothing to tell Vinco about Curt. She saw Curt almost every day, but he assumed no possessive airs, made no claim. Gradually and naturally she was learning to know him and about him, filling out his first sketchy picture of his life with his opinions, his beliefs, his plans and all that had formed them. Curt forced nothing, he was casual and easy, but beneath that she knew his love for her was waiting. And until she was ready to answer it or to deny it, he was patient. She could take her own time.

Meanwhile they had fun together, the city received them and Rachel who had lived there all her life learned more about it in a month from going about with Curt than she had known in all the time before. As winter melted into the suavities of spring they walked the water front and watched the tugs and the ferries and the liners, sure and intent on their courses as though no other element existed save the water they traveled. They visited the parks and became—distantly—acquainted with a beautiful black panther for all the world like a proud, sullen tomcat. They looked at the sliced and segmented stone battlements of the upper city from the Palisades, at the magic hour when every window is flaming with the reflected sunlight. They went up into high newspaper offices where the presses were pounding the march of the world news. They looked at the lovely classic proportion of City hall, which sits among surrounding skyscrapers like a Colonial gentleman in satin and lace among Brodwingnagian stevedores. They ate sukuyaki at a Japanese restaurant, sour milk soup and spiced meat steamed in cabbage leaves at an Armenian's, Parsi curry with pomegranate wine at an East Indian's, pancakes with lingonberries at a Swedish place, bortsch in a famous kosher cafe, Russian blini among the Muscovites, chow mein in Chinatown, fried devil-fish and zucchini in Little Italy, succulent pig's knuckles in Yorkville, paella Valenciana in a downtown cavern run by a stout Catalan, white cheese and black wine at a Greek's. They found queer shops, shops for amber, shops for iron, shops for fireworks, for herbs, for pistachio nuts, for kittens and puppies and monkeys, for beads, for second-hand books, for casseroles, for practical jokers' apparatus, for pigeons, for brass and copper, for tango records, for fishing tackle, for fascinating mixtures of junk and antiques.

"I Suppose," said Curt, "You'll Be Going Over to France to Your Mother."

Everywhere they went Rachel could not fail to see how well Curt got on with all types and levels of people, how they invariably accepted him and liked him. He could get by any barrier, pass any watchman, however crabbed, and every-one—taximen, beggars, waiters, policemen, grand old ladies in limousines, clerks, smart young men strolling out of the Racquet club, youngsters roller skating in the parks, street cleaners—all responded to any personal word from him, often with overwhelming confidence. Rachel decided it was because he looked so interested and always listened while anyone talked to him.

Pink told Rachel she didn't believe a word of the stories she brought back about places, it was all, she insisted, made up by Curt. So now and then they would take Pink with them on their explorings. But usually they went alone.

They had so much to talk about, Rachel and Curt. Little by little Curt told the story of the Midwest city where he had always lived except for his school and university years. Rachel could see the mansard brick house, horse chestnut and sycamore trees with myrtle beneath them in the front yard, big untidy garden at the back, the rooms, high-ceiled, spacious, filled with the furnishings of earlier generations. His grandfather had lived there, and his father, and the older man had started a newspaper which the son had inherited along with the house and the black walnut tables and chests. But Curt's father had died when Curt was only ten.

He had never told her much about his parents and Rachel did not ask questions, but this mention of his father's death made her wonder about what had gone on in the family after that. They had gone to walk in the park on a Saturday afternoon when he began to tell the story of how his father had started the plan for a park in his home city, but that he had not lived to see it carried out. It made Rachel think of Anne and Harry Vincent.

"What did your mother do—after your father died?" she said.

"My mother carried on. There wasn't anything but the house and the newspaper, so we lived in the house and she ran the paper. Night after night she'd go down there and work and I'd go with her. I studied my lessons in her little office. She'd be checking over the ads or maybe writing something for the editorial page, or phoning for some special social item nobody but she could get, like the news of an engagement, or a list of wedding presents—the people in our town like it when Mrs. Elton herself calls up—or maybe she'd be auditing the books, or talking to the foreman of the pressroom or one of the printers. Our shop's very personal, my mother and I know every man, woman and child who works there and all about them, and they all come in to her when they want anything special. She's the boss and the banker and the adviser and ever-present help in trouble to all of them. Just as I've got to be when I go back and anchor in again."

"What does your mother look like, Curt?" asked Rachel. "Haven't you her picture?"

"She's never had one taken that I know of, not even snapshots. She looks—well, my mother looks like—a nice little quiet homebody who doesn't know a thing outside of a sewing needle and a cookbook. She's plump and her hair's gray and she's wrinkled around the eyes and she wears mostly rather plain dark blue dresses with a white ruffle somewhere and she puts on horn-rimmed glasses when she reads or writes and she giggles—she has a perfectly enchanting giggle—when she's amused. And her voice is rather low with a flat Midwest twang in it, and she's got tiny little feet that she's very vain of, and she's afraid of mice, but that's the only thing in the world she is afraid of. She'll bawl out a corrupt local politician or a soldiering printer like nobody's business. And she knows everything there is to know about running a little city newspaper. Sometimes I think she knows everything there is to know about everything else. She's uncanny, that woman."

"She sounds sweet."

"She isn't sweet. She can be as nippy as an Airedale pup. Everybody comes and tells her their troubles because she can sympathize and understand without being slushy and she can give good advice without getting sore when it isn't followed—which it unusually isn't. She's got a cayenne temper. And she's awfully obstinate when she gets set on anything. When I was a kid, after those evenings at the office I'd trot alongside her all the way home after midnight and there was always a pitched battle because she wanted me to drink a glass of milk. I hate milk, always have hated it, but she said it was good for me, and I had to drink it."

"Who won?"

"I did for a while because I cheated. I'd go out to the icebox, get the milk and pour it quietly down the sink. Finally she got onto me and there was hell to pay! After that she got the milk herself and watched me until the last drop was gone."

"She must miss you," said Rachel, thinking of Anne.

"Rachel, I've held out on you," said Curt. "I've never told you the real reason I'm taking this year off. Damn it, my mother wants to get married again and it made me so mad I couldn't stand it! It's not that she's old, she's only forty-six and the man's a perfect corks, he's a grand chap, I've known him all my life, he's been in love with her for years, but when she told me about it I was so jealous I acted like a perfect fool. And she said, and she was perfectly right, that if I'd come to depend on her like that it was high time I went off somewhere and got over it, and when I had I should come home again and go to her wedding and take over the paper. She said she was dead tired of working and I'd get married, and she wanted me to, but she didn't mean to be nothing but a mother-in-law on the side lines, she intended to have a home of her own and somebody her own age to live with."

"But, Curt, she sounds wonderful!"
"She is wonderful. But it was just a trifle too sane and sensible for me all at once. I went off in an elegant gloomy rage. Of course I'm completely over it now and I am going back and do exactly what she wants. Because now I want it, too."

"Curt, don't you think the most of us are all wrong about our mothers? We don't think of them as separate human beings, they seem part of us, we feel as if they ought to consider us before they consider themselves at all."

"Oh Lord, yes, the world's made up of mothers grabbing at their children, never wanting to admit they're grown up, and children grabbing at their mothers, denying them any existence outside of their role of motherhood. It's tough, either way."

Rachel thought of Anne and then of Elinor. "It's all twisted either way," she said. Then, slowly, "When you said you were going back—did you mean soon?"

"I can't stay here much longer, you know. It's not right. I've got to get at my real work."

Rachel turned silent with dismay. She could feel the coming loneliness as if it had already begun.

"I suppose," said Curt, "you'll be going over to France to your mother, you spoke about that once a long time ago. I mean, I suppose you think you're going over to France to your mother unless she comes home. Well, I'll tell you something. D'you want to hear it?"

"Yes, of course."

"You're not going to do anything of the sort. Or at least, if I do let you go—no, I don't believe I could do it. I can't have you gallivanting over there with fifty million Frenchmen making a play for you. I'd have to go along to keep them off or I'd go crazy. So you see, Rachel, there's only one thing for us to do and that is get married. What do you think? I'm only asking your opinion as a matter of form, darling. I don't intend to pay the least attention to any argument you may start."

They walked along very quietly for a few steps and then Rachel said: "I'm not going to start an argument, Curt. I want to go with you. There—for heaven's sake—don't shout like that—don't jump—this park's full of people—"

"They ought to be glad to see somebody happy these days," said Curt, and flung his arms around her. "Let 'em look—do 'em good!" He held her and kissed her half a dozen times before he would let her go. "My dear, my darling girl—would you mind if I ran round up and down this path and threw my hat in the air and yelled a couple of Comanche whoops—?"

"War-whoops?" laughed Rachel, pushing her hat back into place.

"Love-and-war whoops! Oh Rachel, you are the most beautiful and darling creature—listen, do you love me—honest and true?"

"I must love you, I felt so lost and forlorn when you said you were going away."

"That's what I've been working for, to make myself indispensable, essential, necessary, sine qua non and so forth and so forth. Darling, to think I've succeeded! You mean it, don't you? No fooling, you're going to marry me?"

Insects Are Responsive to Color; Red Is Not Attractive to the Honey Bees

Horticulturists have known for a long time that insects are responsive to color. In the long progress of plant history, flowers, the botanists tell us, assumed colors, turning their leaves into petals of bright hues, in order to attract the winged carriers that had appeared in the world and would prove so much more reliable than the vagrant breezes as transplanters of pollen. Writing in My Garden, R. A. Foster-Melliar describes the progress of flowering plants learning to advertise. At first, he says, it would seem that all flowers were yellow, but as competition became more active, other color appeared.

Plants that wanted to attract the bee were careful to use some other than red, since to the bee, red is not distinguishable from gray or black. The large flowers of big plants could afford striking advertisements in the form of gorgeous petals. Little, low plants had to manage to get themselves into a fortunate location near these big, opulent competitors, where they could get some of the chance over-flow patronage of the winged visitors.

Because insects go to their favorite colors, experiments have lately been conducted at the New York Agricultural station that prove the effect of variously tinted insecticides. Bordeaux mixture, adding to the high polish on the leaves of potato plants, definitely attracted aphids in large numbers. A mixture darkened with lead arsenate failed to draw the insects. Interesting developments in the tinting of standard insecticides may result from the application of these facts.

Lesson for November 7

CHRISTIAN CHARACTER AND PEACE

LESSON TEXT—Colossians 3:1-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—And let the peace of God rule in your hearts, to the which also ye are called in one body.—Colossians 3:15.
PRIMARY TOPIC—In His Name.
JUNIOR TOPIC—In His Name.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How May I Have Peace?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Christian Cure for Strife.

Armistice day is but a few days away, a fact which was probably in mind when the title of our lesson was chosen, for while it speaks of "Christian character" it also refers to "peace." But the peace spoken of here is the peace of God which is the result of peace with God and which issues in holy living. The only hope of this world for a real and lasting peace is in the winning of men and women to glad allegiance to the Prince of Peace, our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ.

Altogether proper is the close connection in Scripture between the most profound spiritual truth and practical holy living. Whether it be done in a land of enlightenment or in the midst of heathen darkness the teaching of the deep things of God brings forth in the receptive heart an appreciation of God's provision for our redemption, a consciousness and hatred of sin and an appropriation of victory in Christ. All three of these factors emerge in the study of our lesson.

I. "Seek Those Things Which Are Above" (vv. 1-4).

Faith in Christ makes us one with him in his death and in his resurrection. We are therefore to live in resurrection power. Our Lord has entered into heaven, and is there seated at God's right hand. If we are in him, if we have died and arisen with him, we are dead to the things of this world and our one desire is to "seek those things which are above."

The mystic union of the believer with Christ brings us so close to God our Father that we may say with the poet:

"Near, so very near to God,
Nearer I could not be,
For in the person of His Son
I am as near as He."

We are "hid with Christ in God." He is our very life. Note however that this union with Christ expresses itself in a most practical manner for we as Christians are admonished to

II. "Mortify Your Members . . . upon the Earth" (vv. 5-9).

The most spiritual Christian is the one who is most sensitive to sin and most earnest in his purpose that it should be mortified—which means "put to death." We may not temporize—we must not compromise with sin. Put it to death.

The list of things which are to be put away include a number of sins which we recognize at once as utterly inconsistent with a Christian profession. But note also that there are a number of them which are all too common among Christian people—covetousness, anger, wrath, malice, and so forth. Lying and shameful talk are condoned by some (and practiced by many).

III. "Put On the New Man" (vv. 11-17).

Christianity is positive. We put off sin—we put on righteousness. Knowing no lines of racial or creedal distinction we recognize Christ as "all and in all." Then as "God's elect, holy and beloved," we are clothed with the Spirit of Christ. Tenderhearted, kind, lowly, meek, of a forgiving spirit, long-suffering; all these Christlike ways of living should appear in those who are hid with him in God. As the encircling band which holds together these beautiful and precious virtues, we have love, "the bond of perfectness" (v. 14).

These outward manifestations of our oneness with Christ have an inward controlling power—for in our hearts "the peace of Christ" is to "rule." The word means to serve as "umpire," as a referee in times of difficulty. There in the Christian man's inmost being we also find the "word of Christ" dwelling, really abiding, and not in scarcity but "richly." Small wonder that there is in such a heart a never-ending song which glorifies God's grace and which helps and admonishes others.

Our final verse sums up the life of the Christian, for in whatsoever he does there is but one motive, one purpose—a willing thankful response to the will of God. He does nothing that he cannot do in the name of the Lord Jesus.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

There May Be Many Reasons for Making Quilted Chair Pads.

IF ALL the reasons for quilted chair pads were lined up in order of their importance the most intangible reason of all might head the list. Yes, it is quite likely that any decorator, amateur or professional would place atmosphere at the top. But then it is also possible that first rating might be given to the reason that the pressure of slats across the backs of chairs is softened by quilted pads. Then, though it might not be mentioned, it is a known fact that worn out cane seats are sometimes replaced with inexpensive composition seats which may be disguised by gay quilted pads.

Chintz, calico or gingham chair pads are in fact one of the simplest and most inexpensive ways of adding color and charm as well as comfort to a room. Such pads are often used on the backs of chairs and not on the seats, and especially for side chairs, the seat pads used without any back covering. In making such small things as these it is quite easy to do the quilting on the machine. Or, if you wish to take the other point of view about it, the work of

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Towel Holders.—Either a spring-type clothespin, or the paper clamp from a loose-leaf notebook, properly nailed to the wall makes a satisfactory towel hanger for the basement.

Cooking Doughnuts.—Doughnuts will crack and brown before they are thoroughly cooked inside if they contain too much flour or if the fat in which they are fried is not hot enough.

Save Stale Bread Crumbs.—Bread that has become hard and stale can be ground into crumbs, browned in the oven, and used for improving the flavor and appearance of many dishes. Store in an airtight tin.

Uses for Beef Marrow.—Beef marrow is very nutritious. Add it to the suet for meat puddings and forcemeat, and to stews and soups. Mixed with tinned tomato puree, or haricot bean puree, you get excellent mixture for a savory toast.

Tomato Marmalade.—Half cup vinegar, one cup sugar, one quart chopped tomatoes, one teaspoon mixed spices, one teaspoon salt. Cook together until thoroughly dissolved. Pour into shallow pan and cook in slow oven for one and a quarter hours. Turn into sterilized jars and cover with paraffin while hot.

When to Add Salt.—Salt will curdle new milk. In preparing porridge, gravies, etc., salt should not be added until the dish is prepared.

Keeping Boards From Warping.—Warping of long boards can be prevented to a considerable extent by standing them on end or on one edge so both sides are equally exposed to the weather.

'Tis Said Arithmetic Is a Science of Truth

"Figures can't lie," said the professor earnestly. "For instance, if one can build a house in twelve days, twelve men can build it in one."

"Yes," interrupted a quick-brained student. "Then 238 will build it in one hour, 17,280 in one minute, and 1,036,800 in one second. And I don't believe they could lay one brick in that time."

While the professor was still gasping, the smart one went on:

"Again, if one ship can cross the Atlantic in six days, six ships can cross it in one day. I don't believe that either; so where's the truth in arithmetic?"

quilting them by hand would not consume an unreasonable amount of time. There is no doubt that handwork has a certain quaintness that machine work lacks.

The pads shown here are made with one layer of sheet wadding between the two layers of the chintz. The edge bindings and ties are made of bias tape. Cut the three layers of the pad material exactly the size and shape you want them to be when finished. Place the sheet wadding between the two layers of covering material as shown here at A. Either pin or baste in this position, and then quilt as shown here at B. Make the ties by stitching the lengthwise edges of the bias tape together, and then tack them to the corners of the pad as at C before it is bound. Now, bind the edges, sewing the ties right in with the binding as shown here at D.

Every Homemaker should have a copy of Mrs. Spears' new book, SEWING. Readers wishing a copy should send name and address, enclosing 25 cents, to Mrs. Spears, 210 South Desplaines St., Chicago, Illinois.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Pretty Smart, These Belgians

"Members of the crew" of the good ship "Normandie" at Ostend, Belgium, are waving from the deck of the craft that never goes to sea. Built of bricks, the "ship" is a hotel constructed as a replica of the great French liner. Guests go on board as usual via the gangplank on extreme right. The hotel has made a hit with visitors to Ostend.

Old Revolutionary Fort Restored at Morristown

Through Erroneous Tradition Called 'Fort Nonsense.'

Washington.—Completion of the restoration of the old Revolutionary fort, built at Morristown during its occupation by the Continental army, under the direction of George Washington, commander-in-chief, later known as "Fort Nonsense," and now one of the features of Morristown National historical park, New Jersey, was announced by A. E. Demaray, acting director of the National Park Service. The reconstruction project was begun during the autumn of 1936 with CCC labor as a part of the park's educational program, which is now being developed by Elbert Cox, superintendent of the area.

Mr. Cox points out that the tradition that the fort was built to keep the men busy and to sustain their morale, and was dubbed accordingly "Fort Nonsense," is not supported by historical evidence. Examination

ROSE IN HER HAIR

A rose by any other name—even "chapeau"—is still a beautiful thing to look at. Particularly is this true when its wearer is as chic as Miss Lucy Saunders, society girl of Belmont Park, N. Y., who is pictured here, modeling something different in hats. It is made of robin's-egg-blue crepe, draped to resemble a rose perched on top of her head.

tion of the writings of Washington and other officers connected with the Morristown encampment bears no reference to such claims, according to Mr. Cox, who sets down the history of the old fort as follows:

History of Fort.

When the American army under Washington took up headquarters in the vicinity of Morristown in January, 1777, Washington began the herculean task of gathering a store of supplies for the coming campaign. Little by little he secured wagons, grain, and military supplies for the use of the army; but constantly he was faced with the fear of a raiding party coming out from New York to destroy his irreplaceable supplies. With this thought in mind, orders were issued to construct a small earthen redoubt on the hill which drove far down into the center of Morristown. Once this work was completed and manned with a small artillery force, the town would be safe from raiding parties. The fort was finally completed and still no attacks had come from New York. On May 28 the army marched away towards Bound Brook, but supplies were left at Morristown as Washington did not then know whether the coming campaign was to be in the south to protect Philadelphia, or in the highlands to protect the Hudson river valley. As supplies were left in Morristown, one regiment of the army was also detailed to stay there to guard the public property. Due to the natural barriers which had made Morristown a good site for the winter camps, no attack was ever made on the town, and the "upper redoubt," as it was called by Washington, never saw action.

During the Nineteenth century the fort remained as a landmark of the countryside, but the purpose for which it was built soon became obscured. Bit by bit the story grew that Washington could find no work of value to keep the soldiers busy through the winter and consequently ordered them to build the fort, which, since it was mistakenly supposed to have had no purpose, was dubbed Fort Nonsense. As the years passed this erroneous legend became the generally accepted story through the community.

Once Privately Owned.

Although it was a familiar landmark, the site of Fort Nonsense was privately owned and not regularly open to the public until a few years ago, when Mr. Francis E. Woodruff of Morristown furnished funds for the purchase and preservation of the site by the town of Morristown. Upon the establishment of the Morristown National historical park in 1933, the area was donated by the town to the United States, thereby making the reconstruction a possible unit in the educational program of Morristown National historical park.

The reconstruction of Fort Nonsense is based mainly upon two sources: archeological work on the site itself and old military textbooks. The archeological work revealed the position, shape, and depth of the trenches as well as the location of the two entrances and guard house. Copper plates and descriptions in French and English fortification manuals served as a means of arriving at construction details not revealed by the archeological process.

After the preparation of plans based on these types of information, actual reconstruction of the fort was begun. In most cases this consisted of removing the dirt fill which had washed into the trenches and throw-

Waitresses Learn Suave

Manners in New School

St. Louis.—If John B. O'Meara, trainer of hotel employees, has his way, "hashers" will be a thing of the past and merchandisers of food will spring up in their place.

Next time you're in a restaurant, he says, ask the waitress what chicken a la king is. If she answers indifferently, "Old chicken and gravy and stuff fixed up," she's a hasher—unmistakably.

You're being served by a merchandiser of food if she answers courteously, "It's chicken cubed in rich cream gravy with pimientos. We're serving it today in flaky pastry shells with mangoes and mushrooms added."

O'Meara's first lesson for waitresses concerns the menu—where the food came from, how it is prepared and how to describe it in a way that will make the stomach tingle expectantly.

The course advances to the proper way to take an order and proceeds to kitchen vocabulary. Definitely out are such instructions to the cook as "another man wants to take a chance," for an order of hash, or "six in the grease," for a half-dozen fried oysters.

STARFISH PRINCESS

She'll star in aquatic events at Long Beach, Calif. No pun intended, but Miss Aileen Zulawick has been selected as the "Starfish Princess" to preside in fall and winter events at the famous southern California beach resort. She is shown in her starfish costume.

ing it back on the parapets. Where the ruins were insufficiently pronounced to warrant rebuilding on that basis, contemporary specifications for the construction of fortifications were followed.

The picket gates were made four inches thick—like the originals, heavy enough to prevent the penetration of musket balls. The guard house was purposely constructed small according to the accepted practice of the period in order that the sentry on duty might not lie down and go to sleep.

Red Men Given "New Deal" by Government

New Trade Regulations Guard Against Exploitation.

Window Rock, Ariz.—Indians now have a "new deal" under special regulations governing trade with Navajo, Zuni and Hopi reservations recently drawn in Washington.

The draft, approved by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes and John Collier, United States commissioner of Indian affairs, is cited by E. R. Fryer, Navajo service superintendent, as an answer to those who would attempt to discredit Collier's work.

The regulations, which observers say give the Indians "the square deal they ever have had from the white man," are designed to prevent exploitation of the Indians through trade channels. Breaches are covered by severe penalties, including fines and prison terms for offenders.

Main point of the 28 rules enacted to protect the Indians is a regulation allowing only government employees to trade with the red men.

Traders are directly responsible to Collier for entire operation of trading posts, Fryer said.

No licensed traders are permitted to grant or donate money or goods for the performance of any tribal dance or ceremony. All payments to Indians for products or labor must be made in United States currency or in credit on traders' books, at option of the Indian, it was decided.

All government checks accepted by traders must be made in cash, merchandise or credit to the full value of the check. Acceptance will be at option of the Indians in all cases, the superintendent said.

Trading fees, which will be exacted yearly for the privilege of conducting traffic with the tribes, will be used to enforce regulations. "Gambling devices and gambling of any sort is prohibited in traders' stores," Fryer said.

Traders are fully in accord with the new program, which is expected to remove much of the bitterness formerly associated with the necessary trade between white men and red men.

Injection for Hernia

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

I BELIEVE I am safe in saying that practically every physician has among his patients one or more who have a hernia or rupture requiring treatment who, for various reasons, will not submit to operation.

It is only natural, therefore, when they read and hear of cases of hernia cured by the injection method which means just a few visits to the surgeon's office, that they feel willing to undergo this simple method of getting their rupture cured.

Much to their surprise and disappointment in consulting a surgeon they are informed that their particular case is not suitable for the injection method; that only a surgical operation will correct the condition. Unfortunately the majority of the medical profession were opposed to this "new" method at first and rightly so as all types of hernia were being treated with many failures. These failures were due to not selecting the cases suitable for this method and to the use of some sclerosing or "hardening" fluids which failed to work properly.

Cases Must Be Selected. It is fortunate just at this time that a general survey of the results of the injection treatment throughout this and other countries has been made by Dr. Nathan N. Crohn, Chicago, as reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association. The records show that the cures by this method were as high as 98 per cent in 15,000 cases in one European report.

After discussing various methods and various sclerosing or hardening material to form scar tissue, Dr. Crohn concludes:

"The hernia cases for injection must be suitably selected. The tissue surrounding the hernia must be strong and elastic (not too flabby or worn too thin by a truss).

"A large number of patients who reject surgery and who would otherwise go untreated except perhaps for a truss, will submit to the injection treatment. In proper hands, in carefully selected cases, the method is valuable; abuse is extremely easy and can cause general condemnation."

Posture and Overweight.

Most physicians are of the opinion that there are just two types of overweight, (a) those whose overweight comes from outside themselves—eating more food than their body needs or uses, and (b) those whose glands do not manufacture enough juice (thyroid and pituitary gland). Then the two kinds of gland overweight differ from one another in that those whose overweight is due to lack of juice from the thyroid gland are fat all over the body, and those with lack of pituitary juice have their excess fat across shoulders, abdomen, breasts and hips, and no excess fat on forearms or lower legs.

However, Drs. W. J. Kerr and J. B. Lagen, San Francisco, in Annals of Internal Medicine, Lancaster, Pa., discuss a type of overweight that appears to be not due to any lack of gland juice but which arises in persons who not only eat more than their daily requirements, "but whose posture (position of the body when sitting or standing) is relaxed or careless. It is not easy to determine whether individuals with the relaxed habit of standing or sitting are predisposed to the train of events which follow, but it is apparent that, when medical aid is sought, these patients present the posture of relaxation. The gradual accumulation of fat tissue in the normal or usual places where fat gets deposited (abdomen—inside and outside—hips) gives the appearance of rotundity or 'roundness' which is called corpulence."

Drs. Kerr and Lagen tell us that between the ages of forty and fifty is where these overweights can do something for themselves by proper exercise and diet. They can actually "delay" the heavy and "old" appearance caused by overweight by eating less food and taking more exercise.

If they really want to postpone old age, want to give heart and lungs plenty of room, allow the floor of the chest to come down further and get more air into the lungs, they must always sit and stand as tall as possible, take regular exercise, and eat less food. And as most of them would find this a terrible task, at first, anyway, Drs. Kerr and Lagen made this suggestion: "Treatment requires temporary support for the pendulous or low hanging abdomen, and assistance in emptying the lungs of used air which should leave the lungs. A belt—an abdominal belt—gives this support and aids the lungs in breathing out the used air. The weight should be 'gradually' reduced to bring the normal curves back in the spine."

Interpreters of the Mode

SO LONG as you Sew-Your-Own, Milady, just so long will Yours Truly strive to interpret the mode for you. Today the trio brings you frocks for every size (from four years to size 52) for almost any occasion. Each has been designed to bring you the ultimate in style in its particular class and all claim a new high in simplicity and comfort.

Ultra-Smart Dress.

It's nice to know you're easy to look at even if the occasion is only another breakfast session. That's why the ultra-smart dress at the left is so handy to have. Note the clever detail all the way through even to the inverted skirt pleat. See how beautifully the sleeves set-in—you just know at a glance how simple it is to put together. Cotton, of course, is the material.

Typical of Youth.

The surest way to be a big little-body is to wear dresses that are as expertly planned as the grown-ups'. The little number above, center, has the smart styling of a sub-deb's frock. It is typical of youth's freshness and activity, and is one model that gets little girls' complete endorsement. It is the number one dress for the number one sweetheart in anybody's family.

An Orchid to You.

Do you think of a charming sorority tea with lots of atmosphere and plenty of style when you look at the handsome new two-piece above, right? Would you like it made in one color and material, or perhaps with a top in gold lame or satin combined with a skirt of a rich dull fabric? Why not make it yourself to suit your own fancy and step into a swell little world of glamour crowded with fans and fun and festivity?

The Patterns.

Pattern 1401 is designed for sizes 36 to 52. Size 38 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35-inch material.

Pattern 1366 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires 2 3/4 yards of 39-inch material, plus 1 3/4 yards of machine-made pleating trim, as pictured.

Pattern 1396 is designed for sizes 32 to 44. Size 34 requires 1 7/8 yards of 39-inch material for the blouse, 1 1/4 yards of 54-inch material for the skirt.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

New Pattern Book.

Send 15 cents for the Barbara Bell Fall and Winter Pattern Book. Make yourself attractive, practical and becoming clothes, selecting designs from the Barbara Bell well-planned, easy-to-make patterns.

Friendly Talk

BUT after all, the very best thing in good talk and the thing that helps it most is friendship. How it dissolves the barriers that divide us, and loosens all constraint—this feeling that we understand and trust each other, and wish each other heartily well! Everything into which it really comes is good. It transforms letter-writing from a task into a pleasure. It makes music a thousand times more sweet. The people who play and sing not at us, but to us—how delightful it is to listen to them!

Yes, there is a talkability that can express itself even without words. There is an exchange of thought and feeling which is happy alike in speech and in silence. It is quietness pervaded with friendship.—Van Dyke.

School Notes

High School
The Senior class will hold an Armistice supper at the Baptist church Friday evening, November 12, at 5:30. The price is twenty-five cents for children not over eight years of age and fifty cents for all others.
The debate squad spent a very profitable and enjoyable day in Flint, Saturday. Three rounds of debates were held in which our teams met debaters from Grosse Pointe, Royal Oak, Lansing, Mount Morris and Linden. Our school won five out of six debates. But to be real frank, we learned more of what we didn't know than what we did know. It was an excellent experience and very stimulating. Our big dream now is to make as good a record in our league debates. We are going to try hard. In the afternoon after the tournament was over, we all attended a very exciting football game between Arthur Hill of Saginaw and Flint Central High Schools. Both schools were also well represented by fine band demonstration between halves of the game.
The Juniors entertained the Seniors at a hard time party Friday, October 29. The evening was spent playing Halloween games and telling stories. The prize costumes were worn by Mr. Giddings, Vernon Blust and Lucille Rollin. We didn't offer prizes but we should have. Doughnuts and cider were served in the basement.

7th and 8th Grades
Those on the honor roll for last month in the seventh grade were Ruth Giddings, Lyle Hughes and Betty Nelson; in the eighth grade were Roy DePotty, Donnofay Groff, Hazel Moran and Nona Rapp.
Last Friday we celebrated Halloween by a party. The costumes were good and the antics amusing. By the appearance of the faces and the noise there is no doubt but that they had a good time. We finished with candy, doughnuts and cider.
There were eleven in the seventh grade and seven in the eighth grade who were neither tardy nor absent during the last month. So far this year we have had no tardy pupils.

3rd and 4th Grades
Our room won the award for having the most parents at the last P. T. A. meeting. The award is a beautiful picture called "Sir Galahad."
We enjoyed our Halloween party Friday afternoon. Ruth Ulman, Isabelle Toms, Dwayne Leslie, Norman Koehnke and Neil Thornton won prizes at games played.
Visitors during the week were: Donald Lansky, Betty Wendt, Nelson Ulman, Harry Toms, Jerry Ogden and Joan Goedecke.

We had our Halloween party last Friday. We made a Jack-o-Lantern. We had a good time.
Duane Howitson has gone to East Tawas. Janet Ogden has left too.
The helpers have finished their new book.

Whittemore

The Ladies of the Saint Church will serve a chicken supper in the basement of their church, Saturday evening, November 6, at reasonable prices. Everybody welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jackson and family returned to their home here Saturday after a two months stay at Star Lake. Mr. Jackson is much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stine and children spent the past week in Battle Creek.

Mrs. Charles Schuster spent last week in Glennie.

Elwood Bronson, who suffered serious injuries to his right eye a week ago Sunday when he fell down a flight of stairs in a restaurant in Owosso, where he and his two companions, Elgin O'Farrell and Edward Graham, had stopped to get a lunch enroute home from attending a foot ball game in Lansing, took worse Wednesday, but last reports state him some better.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Harrell entertained Mr. and Mrs. Cramer of Flint over the week end.

Twenty three members of the Ladies' Literary Club were guests of the Tawas City Club Saturday and report a very fine meeting.

The masquerade dance, Friday night, sponsored by the Senior class, was well attended. Prizes were awarded to Miss Joy Dahne and friend, Elmer Conrad of Midland, and Mr. and Mrs. Russell McKenzie of East Tawas, for the best costumes.
The business Men gave a Halloween party Friday night for all the kiddies. A huge bon-fire was built on the corner of Main St. and all the weiners and buns were furnished for a weiner roast. Some of the bigger boys were also seen roasting weiners, and if you don't think they were good just ask Tony Fix and Dr. Hasty, even Supt. Switzer and John O'Farrell were seen smacking their lips on a nice fat bun. The kiddies thought it a wonderful party and expressed their appreciation by not soaping any windows. Prizes were awarded to Dale O'Farrell, Alberta Fuerst, Rose Mary Kelley and a St. James boy for the best costumes in the parade.
