Mr. and Mrs. Chris. Green and grandson, Charles Timereck are in Grand Haven for the week end.

George Guest of Melvindale was instantly killed yesterday afternoon (Thursday) when he was mistaken for a bear by John Owen of East Tawas. An inquest was held this afternoon before Justice of the Peace H. Read Smith. Unintentional negligence was the verdict of the jury. Mr. Owen will be arraigned later. Mr. Guest resided near Hale until about eighteen years ago and is well known here.

Owen, who is a retired construction superintendent of the Detroit and Mackinac railroad and highly esteemed citizen of this community, said that he was on his way to his hunting cabin near Silver Creek when he saw what he thought to be a bear near a pile of poles in an open field near the woods. He said that he had waited fully five minutes before shooting. The distance was between 350 and 400 feet. Owen is 70 years old. He had shot a deer earlier in the season and it had been his ambition to get a bear.

Mr. and Mrs. Guest had been at their cabin at Londo lake for a few days. With them as guests were their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schrieber of Detroit. The two men had spent several days hunting north of West Branch. Wednesday they went to the home of Mr. Schrieber's brother, John Schrieber in Wilber township. They planned to hunt on Thursday with Ernest Schrieber of this city. Fred Schrieber was in the woods about 400 feet from the scene when the tragedy occurred. Ernest Schrieber was about 160 rods away. Neither were aware of the accident until called to the scene by Mr. Owen.

Mr. Guest is survived by his wife and three married children.

While hunting Saturday afternoon near the Alcona dam, Fred Bowser, age 63, of Flint was fatally injured by a bullet fired by his nephew, Oren Emmons, of Curtisville. Emmons was brought to Tawas City by Troopers M. H. Mitchell and C. C. Komelshny and then taken to Harrisville for arraignment. He waived examination and was released on his personal recognizance to appear at the December term of the Alcona county circuit court. Mr. Bowser is well known in this county having been a resident of Curtisville before going to Flint.

Emmons, while hunting Saturday afternoon, shot at a deer which disappeared in the brush. Seeing a movement in the bushes he fired again and then went to search for his kill. On approaching the spot at which he fired he found that he had killed his uncle. Neither man knew that the other was in the woods. They had not seen each other for about three weeks.

Alabaster

Mr. and Mrs. Charles White and children and Mr. and Mrs. R. Stevens of Detroit spent the week end here. Chas White was fortunate to get an eight point buck the first day he went hunting.

James Brown and friends, John and Bill Cuthbert of Bay City, spent Sunday at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Brown. Dan Schott of Harbor Beach called at the G. W. Brown home Saturday. He was lucky enough to shoot a bear.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence King, Jr. of East Tawas spent Sunday at the Browns'.

Mrs. J. L. Brown and son, Wallace spent Thursday at Saginaw where they attended the funeral of Mrs. Brown's brother.

Mrs. G. W. Brown and daughter, Arlene and Mrs. John Brugger of Tawas City spent Tuesday at Bay City.

Moeller Bros. Specials, Fri., Sat. and Mon. Phone 19F-2. Monarch Coffee, per lb 27c, 3 lbs. 75c; Treasure Oleomargarine, per lb 13c; Bacon Nuggets, per lb 25c; Picnic Hams, 4 and 5 lb average, per lb 25c; Northern Bread Flour, 24 1/2 lb bag 79c; Golden Loaf Bread Flour, 24 1/2 lb bag $1.05.

The Community Ladies' Aid will meet for a Christmas party at the church on December 16.

Mrs. Arthur J. Benson and sister, Mrs. Ed Anderson spent Thursday in Bay City.

N. W. Brown and sons, Ernie and Charles spent a few days in Lincoln, hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Harris and daughter, Dianne accompanied by Miss Luella Anderson of Flint, spent the week end at home.

The deer hunters who have been lucky so far around our vicinity are Mr. and Mrs. Deering, each a fine deer; Jack Welna and Edward Anderson each a ten point deer. G. W. Brown, Melvin Brown, Joe Roberts, and Lenord Fuerst an eight point deer.

Mrs. Julius Benson had as her dinner guests on Tuesday, Mrs. A. Hogquist of East Tawas, Mrs. Collie Johnson, Mrs. Charles Kane and Mrs. Jalk Kelly of Tawas City and Mrs. Leonard Fuerst.

Prescott-Wilson

In a lovely ceremony solemnized at 12 o'clock noon Thanksgiving day at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. George Allen Prescott, Miss Mary Lou Prescott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Prescott, spoke her marriage vows with Benjamin L. Wilson, son of Mrs. Lewis W. Wilson, of Philippi W. Va.

Rev. Frank Metcalf read the ceremony before about fifty guests in front of a large white fireplace decorated with evergreen boughs before which stood two large baskets of yellow chrysanthemums.

The bride chose a Chanel suit of tan wool. The dress was embroidered with an all-over pattern of brown dots and the coat featured a short moleskin jacket effect. She wore brown accessories and a corsage of bronze and white bebe chrysanthemums and yellow rosebuds for complement.

Miss Rose Mary McKay, of East Tawas and Mr. Morris, as maid-of-honor, chose a brown and gold fall suit which she accented with brown accessories and a corsage of bronze and white bebe chrysanthemums. Norman F. Smith, of Lansing, attended the groom as best man.

Peter Allen Prescott, nephew of the bride, served as ring bearer. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Arthur E. Giddings.

A Thanksgiving dinner was served to the immediate families and a few close friends at the Prescott home following the rites after which Mr. and Mrs. Wilson left on a motor trip through Michigan, Ohio, and West Virginia. At its conclusion, they plan to return to Cleveland, where they will live for the present.

School Officers Will Meet Dec. 17

A meeting of Isco county school officers will be held Friday, December 17, at the court house, Miss Margaret E. Worden, county school commissioner, announced yesterday. There will be two speakers from the Department of Public Instruction. Important matters pertaining to the welfare of the schools of the county will be discussed.

Hale

Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Boyer of Pennsylvania are visiting at the home of their daughter, Mrs. John Webb.

Mrs. Mae Westervelt of Reno visited her sister, Mrs. Alice Abbott over the week end.

Fred Bowser of Flint was shot last Saturday while hunting near Curtisville.

Robert Buck and family and Dannie Pearsall attended the missionary address given by Rev. Richard Paulson of Africa at the Reno Baptist church last Sunday afternoon.

Albert Buck of Midland is here at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Buck, during the deer season.

Mr. and Mrs. Brace Shattuck and Miss Edna Shattuck left Wednesday to spend a few days with relatives in southern Michigan and Ohio.

NEW SANITORIUM AT GAYLORD

The Northern Michigan Tuberculosis Sanatorium, located at Gaylord, was officially opened for patients Friday of this week, according to Superintendent J. L. Egle, who had delayed the opening until every piece of needed equipment was on hand.

The district served by the Sanatorium comprises Oceana, Newaygo, Mecosta, Isabella, Midland, Arenac, Gladwin, Clare, Osceola, Lake, Mason, Manistee, Wexford, Missaukee, Roscommon, Ogemaw, Isosco, Alcona, Osceola, Crawford, Kalkaska, Grand Travers, Leelanau, Antrim, Osego, Montcalm, Alpena, Presque Isle, Benzie, Cheboygan, Emmet and Charlevoix in the lower peninsula, and Mackinac, Chippewa, Luce, Schoolcraft and Alger in the upper peninsula.

The total cost of this building, including the power house, garage and laundry combined, and the sewage disposal plant approximated $460,000. When operating at full capacity it will house 150 patients, but for a time it will be necessary to house part of the staff in the building, until such time as work is started on the nurses' home, superintendent's residence and a three family resident physician apartment.

At the present time there are 45 employees, but when operating at full capacity there will be about 65 employed, including nurses, doctors, etc. The hospital is equipped with the finest and most modern equipment in every department, with Kelley-Koot X-Ray equipment completely shock-proof for fluoroscopy and radiography.

A treatment room is on the second and third floors, each equipped with fluoroscopy, making it unnecessary to transport ill patients from one floor to another for treatment. Completely equipped for all types of chest surgery, both major and minor.

Sterilizers of the latest design furnished by the American Sterilizer Company.

A completely equipped laboratory to serve all of the needs of the Sanatorium.

Ben East to Speak at Twentieth Century Club

The ladies of the Twentieth Century Club met in their club rooms for the regular meeting Saturday afternoon. The meeting took the nature of a Thanksgiving meeting and two splendid papers were read, one "The Thanksgiving of Yesterday and Today" by Mrs. Olive Davidson and "Old American Homes and Their Stories" written by Mrs. LeClair and read by Mrs. Jas. Mark. These papers were well received by all.

At this meeting it was voted to change the day of meeting from Saturday to Wednesday so be on the watch for the new date.

The next meeting of the club will be held on Friday, December 3 at 2:30 P. M. At this time we are to have a lecture on conservation by Ben East, sent to us through the courtesy of the Bay City Times. This is to be an open meeting, everyone is invited as we are sure the lecture will be of interest to the gentlemen as well as the ladies and we urge everyone who can possibly come to avail themselves of this opportunity to hear Ben East. Remember the date, Friday afternoon, December 3 at the club rooms.

CHINESE QUIT NANKING

Chiang Will Lead His Armies Against the Invaders . . . Congress Is Expected to Enact Tax Law Revision

Looking as if he had just bitten into a sour, very sour, pickle, Norman H. Davis, chief of the American delegation to the nine-power conference in Brussels, is pictured chatting with British foreign minister Anthony Eden (left) and French foreign minister Yvon Delbos (right).

Chinese Flee From Capital

NANKING, capital of China, was abandoned as the seat of the government because of the rapid advances westward of the Japanese forces.

Officials were being scattered in several cities, the central point being Hankow, on the Yangtze 300 miles west of Nanking. One army of the invaders was moving from Shanghai on Nanking, and another was about to attack Tsinan, capital of Shantung province in North China.

China, however, was far from giving up the fight. It was reported in Shanghai that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek had resigned as president of the executive council in order to lead his troops in a final effort to stop the Japanese and win the war. H. H. Kung, it was said, would succeed Chiang in the presidency. He is finance minister.

Thousands of civilians and foreigners were fleeing from Nanking. But military authorities remained there and declared the city would not be surrendered to the Japanese without a desperate fight.

If the Japanese penetrate the powerful "Hindenburg line" anchored on Soochow, Changshu, and Kashiing, the Chinese were expected to fall back to new positions stretching from Kiangyin, on the Yangtze river, to Wusih, 100 miles east of Nanking.

Paris heard that Japan was threatening to establish a naval blockade of the Chinese coast if any nations attempted to send supplies to the Chinese armies.

Britain Woos Hitler

VISCOUNT HALIFAX, lord president of the council in the British cabinet, was in Germany ostensibly for the purpose of visiting a hunting exhibition but actually to negotiate with Hitler and other Nazi chiefs for the establishment of more friendly relations between Great Britain and Germany. Public belief was that he was authorized to hint to Hitler that there was hope Germany might regain some of its lost colonies if Germany would abandon its economic isolation and co-operate with other European powers in a revised League of Nations.

The British want to detach Germany, and Italy, too, if possible, from their alliance with Japan. Halifax was a fitting messenger to send to Berlin, for he is an outstanding friend of Germany among British officials.

Leaving It Up to Uncle Sam

UNLESS congress changes the neutrality act, it is probable the nations that signed and adhered to the nine-power Pacific treaty will take no positive action against Japan for violating that pact.

The delegates to the Brussels conference, with the exception of Italy, voted to censure the Japanese for making war on China, and then adjourned to get further instructions from their governments.

Great Britain and France agreed to join in any effort "short of war" which the United States may decide should be made, this meaning economic sanctions against Japan. But the isolationist policy of this country would have to be abandoned if such sanctions were to be of any avail.

A long document was submitted to the conference by China asking that the war be ended by the infliction of penalties against Japan. The memorandum gave statistical tables that showed economic sanctions could halt Japan because of that nation's dependence on foreign markets and foreign sources of supply.

Norman H. Davis, chief American delegate, in addressing the conference, was rather conciliatory toward Japan, but he said:

"The question in its final analysis, is whether international relations shall be determined by arbitrary force or by law and respect for international treaties. In fact, that seems to be the greatest issue facing the world today."

Mr. Roosevelt emphasized that America will not try to solve the employment problem by a huge armament program, as other nations are doing.

Airplane Crash Tragedy

GRAND DUKE GEORGE OF HESSE, his wife, mother and two little sons and six other persons were killed when a Belgian air liner crashed and burned near Ostend. They were on their way to attend the wedding of the duke's brother Ludwig in London. Ludwig succeeded to the title and the marriage ceremony was performed privately with him and his bride, Margaret Campbell Geddes, daughter of Sir Auckland Geddes, in deep mourning. Ludwig was the third grand duke of his line within a week, for his father died only a few days before the airplane tragedy.

Extra Session Opens

WITH the evident intention of doing what it can to aid business, congress began its extraordinary session. Its first business was to listen to a rather long message from Mr. Roosevelt in which the Chief Executive committed himself to limited tax law revision for the purpose of removing admitted injustices suffered especially by small business and non-speculative investors.

Mr. Roosevelt proposed tax "modifications adequate to encourage productive enterprise," but explained that he sought primarily to aid at the expense of individual or partnership undertakings.

The President said exercise of "ordinary prudence" would protect the nation against prolonged business recession.

He reiterated his intention to balance the next fiscal year budget, and demanded that congress find and provide new revenue for any added expenditures authorized now.

The President asked congress to provide:

1. Wages and hours legislation.
2. An "all-weather" crop control program.
3. Reorganization of executive departments.
4. National planning for better use of natural resources.

It appeared certain that a vigorous opposition to all or part of this program would arise, but nearly everybody seemed in favor of tax law revision.

Plot to Kill Stalin?

FROM foreign diplomats stationed in Moscow came reports that a plot by German agents to assassinate Dictator Stalin of Russia had been uncovered, and that it might compromise Maxim Litvinov, foreign commissar, who left the Brussels conference suddenly and apparently seriously worried. Investigations by the G. P. U. already have resulted in the recall or disappearance of many leading Russian diplomats. The German consul general in Leningrad was ordered to leave the country immediately. It is believed two German agents arrested some weeks ago confessed the conspiracy to murder Stalin and involve the country in a civil war.

"Fireside Chat"

CALLING on the nation for full co-operation in the taking of the voluntary census of the unemployed, taken by the Post Office department, President Roosevelt in a "fireside chat" by radio said that permanent cure of the unemployment problem lies in finding jobs in industry and agriculture. Nevertheless, he said, it is still the policy of the administration that no one shall starve through lack of government aid.

He gave assurance that the government will try to stimulate private industry enough to enable it to re-absorb the jobless; and after the results of the census are tabulated, a long-range program will be launched. This program, he said, will apply to employers as well as to workers, and in this was perceived a note of encouragement to business.

The President said prosperity of the nation depended upon national purchasing power, and added:

"Our far-sighted industrial leaders now recognize that a very substantial share of corporate earnings must be paid out in wages, or the soil from which these industries grow will soon become impoverished. Our farmers recognize that their largest customers are the workers for wages, and that farm markets cannot be maintained except through widespread purchasing power."

Mr. Roosevelt emphasized that America will not try to solve the employment problem by a huge armament program, as other nations are doing.

Thalberg's Millions

AN INVENTORY filed in probate court at Los Angeles placed a gross value of $4,469,013 on the estate of Irving G. Thalberg, motion picture producer. The net estate will amount to about $2,244,000. After several cash bequests to members of the family the remainder will be divided into three trust funds of about $629,000 each.

The income from one of those will go to Norma Shearer, his widow, for the remainder of her life. Their two children are to receive the income from the remaining two funds until they are thirty-five years old, then the principal.

Lewis Back from Europe

SENATOR LEWIS of Illinois returned from a tour of Germany in which he sought to arrange for payments to American holders of German municipal bonds. The group of which he was a member has submitted a report to Secretary of State Hull.

In France, England, and Germany, the senator said he found a strong increase in American exports to the three countries but expressed himself at a loss to see how the nations could pay for their purchases, because they are all in debt as a result of feverish preparations for or against war.

Row in Coal Bureau

GEORGE E. ACRET, acting director of the division of examiners of the bituminous coal commission, resigned and suggested a congressional investigation of the agency. He says it has almost completely broken down, and for this he blames Senators McAdoo of California and McGuffey of Pennsylvania.

Acret revealed that there has been a row in the commission for several months over patronage, which he alleges has been "hogged" by the senators; and that another cause of dissension has been the fact that the commission has been seeking to grant railroads below-cost fuel at the expense of general consumers.

Here's Wallace's Program

SECRETARY WALLACE offered a program which he said would "promote security for both farmers and consumers" in his annual report to the President. To finance it he recommended a moderate processing tax on cotton only. Crop control when necessary, and the "ever normal granary" are parts of his plan.

These are the six points of the program which Wallace said would harmonize with the general welfare:

1. Farmers should have a share in the national income to re-establish the prewar ratio of the average farmer's purchasing power to that of the average non-farmer.
2. The people who live on the land must have security of tenure, either as owners of land or renters on a long-time basis.
3. The soil must be used properly and conserved for future farmers and future city dwellers.
4. Farmers through sound co-operatives must come into control of those marketing, processing, purchasing and service functions which they can manage efficiently.
5. Family sized farms should be favored by federal programs, benefit payments and other such aids to rural income.
6. Federal and state funds should continue to be spent to promote agricultural research and farm efficiency.

Death of Atlee Pomerene

PNEUMONIA put an end to the career of Atlee Pomerene, former senator from Ohio. He died in Cleveland at the age of seventy-three years. Pomerene gained fame as a special prosecutor in the Teapot Dome oil inquiry, and President Hoover made him chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Public Paying Off on Accomplishments in Gridiron World

YEARS ago when Democrats and Republicans were still doing business as such, life was considerably easier for a sports writer. Everything had a tag on it, was classified with seemingly as much permanence as the two major political parties.

There were only two big leagues, the American and the National. No one had thought at that time to identify the Yankees as a separate organization any more than they had yet conjured up such cute labels as curve-ball league, fast-ball league, hitters' league and pitchers' league.

Situation Is Changed by Irish and Pitt

Only football had anticipated the modern trend. There was, for instance, the matter of properly assorting the coaches. Once that had been easy. You merely put them into two groups, "lucky fellows with jobs in the Ivy league" and "sad agents hoping there would come a day when they would have a pay roll big enough for them to compete with the Ivy league in the higher educational field."

Then the classification changed. Notre Dame and Pittsburgh, two institutions which for years had been doing well enough in preparing young men for the travails of teaching and bond selling, enlarged their scope.

Forthwith the spotlight centered on the two men of undoubted genius who had been responsible for this pickup. With the generosity that is proverbial among newspaper men, the press credited each of them with having a system. Other coaches copied their strategy. Soon it became the habit to refer even to such long-established practitioners as Gil Dobie or Hurryst Yost as followers of the "Warner system" or the "Rockne system."

Obviously there was some error here and there in such groupings, but the general rating was pretty well accepted. One day I asked Rockne if he believed there was any sense in such regimentation.

"No," he replied. "There's only one way to classify coaches or teams either, for that matter, winners or losers. That's what it all boils down to."

Midway in another football season and knee-deep in gentlemen who are claiming all sorts of new classifications as the result of municipal and state elections throughout the nation, I have been thinking about that reply.

Both Sides End Up by Blaming Teams

I am not entirely satisfied with "Pollyannas" and the "Pity Poor Us" groupings. Actually there is very little difference between the Pollyannas claiming the nicest things are going to happen in this best of all possible worlds and the Pity Poor Us-es whining in advance.

Both sets usually wind up by blaming it all on the team Saturday night. Meanwhile, since opposing coaches and the operators of football pools are cynical men, they have fooled nobody save people who play football pools.

It also returns us to where we started. Perhaps because, like other voices of the people, alumni usually do their darndest in November, I could try the rating once suggested by the lamented sports commentator, Bill McGeehan. This was, "Coaches sure of their jobs and coaches who never say a word even when the music prof flunjs the only running halfback left with two legs."

Yet, what good does that do us? Almost immediately we discover that some of the men sure of their jobs are so new to success that they have not yet had real opportunity to make a failure of it. Conversely, some of the boys who have lost everything save the franchise, took their nose dive because they were too smug while at the top.

That brings us back to the Rockne rating—"Winners and losers." True, men who compose the groups often interchange so quickly that it is difficult to tell who is coming and who is going. Yet, with all other things equal there are men who will fumble and men who will go on for touchdowns. The essential difference is there in all sports. Sometimes form holds for a day, sometimes for a season. Anyhow, the public pays off. And, come to think of it, aren't sports very much like that greater game of politics?

NOT IN THE BOX SCORE:

ALTHOUGH he started his newspaper career as a sports writer, Henry L. Mencken, the eminent author and critic, now confides he has seen only one sports event in six years. He says that was a combat between two lady wrestlers and, although he was highly entertained when one of them bit the other in the leg, he departed feeling sorry they had not killed each other . . . The twenty-year-old Man o' War now weighs 1,375 pounds, 300 more than he scaled during his racing prime.

Add winter occupations of ball-players . . . Mule Haas operates a tavern in Jersey. Ethan Allen continues to write a book about baseball. Adolfo Luque is raising game chickens in Cuba. Buck Newsum is about to buy a pool parlor down in Carolina. Joe Cascarella is warbling love sonnets over the air waves . . . Carl Hubbell's hurry to get back to Oklahoma after the World Series was not because he was greatly concerned about his pecan groves. Although he has been playing the game only two winters the celebrated southpaw has become one of the nation's most ardent golfers. Says his wife tells him he's crazy but he just can't help getting out on the course rain or shine.

Only five of the sixteen hockey Rangers—Davey Kerr, Babe Pratt, Cecil Dillon, Butch Keeling and Frank Boucher—are married . . . Hughie Goose Gustafson, defense man with the Rangers' Philadelphia Ramblers farm team, was voted the most valuable player in the Northern (Class D) baseball league last summer. He played first base for the Winnipeg Maroons and can also play a hot game of basketball . . . Joe McCarthy of the Yankees says a baseball manager does most of his worrying in the winter, usually about things which never happen . . . Coach Chet Wynne, who played with George Gipp at Notre Dame, claims he does not get the material at Kentucky that he did at Auburn. Also feels that the climate, which is often more of the Mid-West than Dixie variety, works against him.

Tells Why It's So Hard to Pick Golf Winners

Notes on why it's almost as difficult to pick golf winners as it is to get football selections right . . . Ky Laffoon was 30 pounds overweight last summer. Jimmy Demaree has the smoothest swing in golf but lacks the winning urge. Harry Cooper is sucker money for the bookies because he lets his nervous temperament lick him. Horton Smith just can't get the touch of Eastern courses. Vic Ghezzi is too easily diverted by outside allurements. Jug McSpaden is lost on Florida courses.

Tony Galento, who never uses sparring partners, always bills Manager Joe Jacobs for them anyhow after a fight . . . His friends insist that one of the first things Middleweight Harry Balsamo did when he started fighting star bouts was to buy a washing machine . . . Cliff Wilson, Harvard's very good lineman, wanted to go to Navy but missed on the appointment because of some dental trouble . . . Dave Albritton, Ohio State's Olympic high jumper who will double as a hurdler next spring, is conducting an orchestra this winter . . . Carl Brumbaugh, new Dodger backfield ace and former assistant to Coach Bezdek of the Cleveland Rams, scored three touchdowns in six minutes against Alabama in 1928.

Henry Armstrong, the featherweight champion, plays the violin and piano and sings in the choir. He likes to bowl, and once was a pin boy. Doctors claim his heart action is slower than normal, and he shadow-boxes six rounds in the dressing room before entering the ring for a fight. Sports writers probably have coined more nicknames for him than for any battler of modern times. He has been nicknamed "Homicide Henry," "Hustling Hank," the "California Comet," "Black Blizzard"—Cyclone—Buzz Saw—Windmill—Spider—Terry McGovern." Aside from being a little gentleman, he is the greatest fighter in the ring today.

Harry Gilmore of Chicago was the first featherweight champion, largely because he claimed the title when the class was established and recognized in 1887. How many old-timers remember that Dal Hawkins, usually recalled as a lightweight, succeeded him on the throne? The feather class limit in those days was 118 pounds . . . After beating Abe Attell in five rounds Brooklyn Tommy Sullivan held the title for nearly four years. Then in 1908 he lost it back to Attell, who kayoed him in four rounds . . . Louis Kid Kaplan, now a Connecticut insurance man, performed an almost unprecedented feat after winning the title via the elimination tournament. He refused $35,000 for a fight, saying he could not take the weight and would not take money under false pretenses . . . Johnny Kilbane held the title the longest, 11 years. Eugene Criqui, who succeeded him, was champion for only one month.

Noble Kizer, who will spend the winter at Albuquerque, N. M., expects to return to Purdue in time to conduct spring football practice.

Washington.—Word comes from Rio de Janeiro that the government of Brazil has decided at long last to place its coffee business again on a competitive basis. That is to say, Brazilian coffee once more will be sold in world market conditions. It was 14 years ago that crop control was started, and now it has flopped finally after costing the growers losses accountable in millions and after virtually wrecking some portions of Brazil's foreign trade.

I think it might be said also that the fallacy of the coffee control policy was among the real causes which eventuated in the dictatorship that established itself in Brazil recently. President Getulio Vargas succeeded in placing himself at the head of the nation "indefinitely" and he did so, he said, because of "unrest among the peoples" of the provinces. The first dictatorship in the Western hemisphere, therefore, is a fact.

But to get to the coffee question: it was the determination of the Brazilian leaders that a policy of scarcity would force coffee prices higher in the world market. The state of Sao Paulo initiated the scheme. It failed to work, and its sponsors said the reason was its scope was limited. Thus, it was expanded until the whole nation was embraced. Still, coffee prices did not go high enough and it was then that actual destruction of coffee began. Millions of tons were dumped into the Atlantic ocean and other millions were burned—even as we in this country burned surplus wheat and corn and killed 6,000,000 pigs.

As the destruction continued and the growers found themselves tied tighter with regulations and decrees, there were some increases in prices. But the promised great profits proved to be as illusory as a mirage on the desert.

The whole thing was a boomerang. Not only were the producers in Brazil disillusioned by failure to gain the record returns they had been led to expect, but they found another sad and wholly disadvantageous result staring them in the face. There was some increase in the price—just enough, indeed, to reduce consumption to some extent—for the growers, but with Brazil reducing available supplies others got into the producing business.

Among these new coffee growing areas, Colombia sprang into prominence. Maybe Colombia coffee was not as good as Brazil's, in quality. Maybe it was not quite as acceptable otherwise. But it was cheaper, and it was profitable for Colombia planters to produce. They found a ready sale.

That, however, was not the worst. When other coffee-using nations bought coffee from Colombia and other growing areas, Colombia was able to buy other commodities from the nations buying her coffee. New trade agreements suddenly showed up; new relationships were established, and some of Brazil's former business connections throughout the world are gone with the wind. They may never be re-established.

We, in the United States, ought to give quite a bit of thought to Brazil's coffee experiment for we have had, and are threatening to have more, experiments of a kindred nature. Lessons in crop control are right expensive, and more important is the fact that sooner or later all through history, they have had to be abandoned. And when I refer to crop control, I include all kinds of production control whether agricultural or industrial. Somebody always has to pay dearly for it and usually the cost has been extended. It is reflected in other commodities and in taxes until the actual loss from the experiment is multiplied many times over.

Speaking of congress, the way it has started off makes me think that the extra session was purely a political move. I am quite sure it is going to accomplish some great good like amending the neutrality act. Of course, I suppose I should not be selfish. I ought to consider that the representatives and senators must have time to make speeches for this or that or the other so that their constituencies back home will be duly impressed with their importance. Maybe so! But I repeat that the prospect of anything worth while in either the special session or in the regular session to follow in January is decidedly dull.

Politically, there are several things to watch for in the time that congress will be heave-ho-ing. One of these definitely now visible is the maneuvering among the Democrats to find out whether President Roosevelt really wants to be a candidate for a third term.

I think I am violating no confidence when I say that a good many of the President's real friends at the Capitol would like to know, and know now, whether he is going after a third term. He hasn't told them in a way that is convincing. He made a speech at the "victory dinner" last March 4 in which he said he had an ambition to leave the President's chair and desk with "the nation intact, a nation at peace, a nation prosperous," etc. He said he planned to do that in January, 1941.

That would seem to be clear enough. Yet, it is amazing how many members of the President's party at the Capitol contend that those remarks did not constitute a final withdrawal. They point as well to the fact that other Presidents, after being re-elected for a second term, have come out flat-footed with their announcements and have told their party, in effect, "Go out and get yourselves a new candidate."

So, I am making a small prediction. There will be plenty of odd maneuvers, unusual situations, that will appear to "just happen."

How About Third Term? will appear to bring about a circumstance wherein President Roosevelt can appropriately tell all of those who have so faithfully stood by him that he is, or is not, a candidate for a third term.

The other phase of congressional activity that will prove interesting links in somewhat with the third term question. It involves the personal political fortunes of the representatives and senators who will seek re-election in 1938. It is easy to see how many Democrats, if they know definitely that President Roosevelt will seek a third term, will want to ride again on the New Deal wagon. It is equally easy to understand how some of them, desirous of observing the tradition that no man shall serve more than two terms as President, may want to take a stand opposing the course if President Roosevelt decides that way.

This condition leads far afield. I am informed, for instance that some senators and representatives who have been back home in conservative sections of the country want to dodge further support of the New Deal. This class obviously is biding its time for something to happen to justify a jump. Announcement by Mr. Roosevelt of intention to be a candidate for the third time would provide the reason. The converse is true, as well, for there are those in the house and senate who have found the President's personal popularity at home as great as ever and they are looking for an excuse to sound off that they believe in the Roosevelt policies 100 per cent and want him to have a third term.

The election results in various parts of the country will have some influence on the attitude of representatives and senators as the session continues. Take the vote in Arkansas, for example. Representative Miller won the senatorship in succession to the late Senator Joe Robinson. His victory was over Governor Bailey, who announced that the New Deal was for him and that his defeat would be a slap at President Roosevelt. It is a fact that New Dealers were pulling for him—but Representative Miller was elected.

That is just a sample. The senators and representatives are going to interpret such elections in the light of sentiment in their own bailiwicks. Undoubtedly, some are going to show more spunk in behalf of the New Deal while others have come back determined to foster their ideas of Democratic principles rather than those of New Deal.

This date being what it is, I want to record a tribute in these columns, a tribute to a grand public servant who never has sought publicity for himself nor claimed the credit that is due him. For, it was 40 years ago this week that Col. Edwin A. Halsey, of Tye River, Va., entered the employ of the senate.

Now, he occupies the post of secretary of the senate, the highest available outside of senate membership. The senate never convenes but that I am again impressed with the smoothness of the senate organization under "Eddie" Halsey's direction. I truly believe him to be the best informed man at the Capitol on legislative procedure. As his colored messenger once said to me: "Yessah! De cunnel he suah do know his stuff."

And that goes for Colonel Halsey's political acumen, too. He has performed the chores of the Democratic side of the senate to everybody's satisfaction. I suppose some of the senators who like to be regarded as big shots won't care for this exposure, but I have seen them saved from unnumbered mistakes that would have made them the laughing stock of their constituencies. Day after day, in season and out, "Eddie" Halsey has done more for the Democratic senators than they can ever repay. He ought to be called "the Sage of Tye River," as his counsel warrants that description. The state of Virginia could do itself a good turn if it kept "Eddie" Halsey in mind for something higher.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

The Law's Injustice.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.— Had it happened in another country, we'd say, "What curious ideas foreigners have of law enforcement."

A footpad with an evil record held up a victim. A bystander saw the crime, identified the thief.

The ruffian was held under indictment. But he could give bond. The spectator was "detained" as a material witness—a gentle way of saying he was locked up, exactly as though he had been the criminal. Well, he was guilty of being poor.

Irvin S. Cobb

Six months later came the trial. The defendant, having been out all that time on bail, looked hale and hearty. The prosecution's witness was produced under guard, pale and sickly from close confinement. It didn't help his health any when the crook's attorney browbeat him, yelled at him, practically accused him of perjury.

The citizen sued the state for false imprisonment, for loss of wages, for separation from his family, for all he'd suffered. Under the statutes he had no standing. They threw his case out.

Meanwhile, the convicted crook had been released by the parole board and was free as a bird.

Aquatic Novelties.

INTERESTING discoveries were made in Hawaiian waters by government ichthyologists. For fear the similarity of sound may lead to wrong impressions, let me state that this department has nothing to do with Secretary Ickes, although, since ichthyology pertains to fish, Mme. Secretary Perkins might possibly have a contrary view on this point. Because they do say there are moments in the cabinet when all is not sweetness and accord.

However, the point is that Uncle Sam's piscatorial sharps dredged up a fish that is most delectable for six months of the year, but poisonous the other six months. So at least they've found a creature emblematic of the California climate.

Let this be regarded around here as treason. I will state that I'm as loyal a native stepson as any that ever came out of Iowa, having been here long enough now to join in passing resolutions endorsing the scenery and at intervals uttering three loud ringing cheers for the sunsets.

Also let envious Florida refrain from gloating. To typify Florida's climate that fish would be good only four months of the year and powerfully hard to put up with the rest of the time.

Lecturing Adventures.
IN ALABAMA is a sect which forbids its converts to laugh or even smile. Now I know who it was bought out the house when I delivered a humorous lecture down there.

The other day a chap asked me why I didn't go back on the lecture platform. I told him I'd appeared in practically ever sizable town in America, and though it was years ago and probably popular indignation had abated now, still I wasn't taking any chances—I was waiting for some new towns to be built.

Once I tried the experiment of slipping around to the front door to hear what the crowd said, coming out. That was the night I attempted suicide by gas, but was saved when someone, passing through the hotel corridor, smelled something that smelled even worse than the hotel smelled.

A lecturer's lot is not a happy one. But usually it's the audience that suffers most.

Eating Oysters.

THERE'S a brand-new movement called eat-oysters-in-any-month-you-please movement, or, unless you're working on space rates, it may be called E. O. I. A. M. Y. P. M., for short. Its sponsor says the prejudice against eating oysters in months having an "r" in them is a fallacy dating back 2,000 years when, between hiccoughs, a Roman senator said: "Oysters should be eaten only in certain seasons."

So it appears we've been penalizing ourselves ever since then for the indigestion of a Roman senator, although, so far as eating the California oyster is concerned—he runs around forty to the dozen—I personally could refrain for the whole year without any undue longings. The California oyster looks something like a brass overall button suffering from vertigis.

Still, maybe it's all for the best. Because during May, June, July and August is when the oyster does practically all his courting. There's little enough romance left in the world—and anyhow, who am I to come between an oyster and his love-life? He doesn't seem to have any too much fun the rest of the time.

Famous Reims Cathedral Is Completely Restored

Great Edifice Badly Damaged by Fire and Cannon.

Washington, D. C.—Reims (Rheims) cathedral, badly damaged by fire and bombardment during the World war, at last has been restored to the magnificence of the days when it served as coronation church of French kings.

"For nearly two decades this cherished French shrine has been closed to the public while architects, financed chiefly by the French government and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., repaired war damage," says the National Geographic society.

"In 1927 a rededication ceremony marked partial reconstruction of the edifice. Now, after an impressive service, the restored cathedral has been reopened for worship.

"During September, 1914, when the Germans seized Reims, they covered the floor of the cathedral's vast nave with straw, prior to quartering soldiers there. After the Germans withdrew from the town, the French converted the church into a hospital for French and German wounded. Nevertheless the Germans used the high towers as targets, claiming they sheltered military observation posts. Fire completely destroyed the roof, descended wooden scaffolding on a tower to the nave, set the straw on fire, and practically gutted the building.

Bombed and Shelled.

"From time to time, for the remainder of the war, airplane bombs and shells from long-range guns struck the cathedral. Buttresses and chapels were damaged. Only the massive strength of the thick walls saved the interior from utter destruction. Strangely the equestrian statue of Joan of Arc, close by, remained uninjured in the midst of falling shells, and many considered this a good omen.

"Shells that broke pinnacles and disfigured statues also shattered priceless thirteenth-century stained-glass windows. Drawings of these windows fortunately had been preserved, and some of the windows have been reconstructed in their original forms. Others have been fitted with temporary colorless glass awaiting replacement by the stained glass of future artists.

"An entire new roof has been constructed. Walls, pinnacles, and buttresses have been skillfully mended. Tapestries and works of art carried off to safety during the war have been returned to their places. Several statues purposely have been left mutilated as reminders of the bombardment.

"From 1180 until 1824, Reims was the favorite coronation place of French kings. Most notable crowning was that of Charles VII in 1429, attended by Joan of Arc. Westminster

Tunnels Under St. Paul Rival Roman Catacombs

St. Paul.—Subterranean passages surpassing those of the catacombs of Rome lie beneath the streets of St. Paul, according to George M. Shepard, city engineer.

The honeycomb of tunnels underlying the downtown district is made possible by an unusual geologic formation, Shepard said.

The tunnels were constructed for use by utilities and sewer facilities.

About one-half of the loop district is underlaid by a layer of limestone 8 to 12 feet thick, covered only by 2 feet of earth. Directly beneath this limestone is the deep St. Peter sandstone formation, which is easily tunneled and remains for long periods without lining except in sewers and heat mains.

The tunnels, Shepard said, lie from 20 to 75 feet beneath the surface of the street. In many cases they are communicating.

The topmost layer of tunnels—about 20 feet beneath the surface—is used by the St. Paul water department. Twenty feet beneath them are the tunnels of a telephone company.

At increasing depths of about 10 feet are passages used by a power company and the St. Paul City Railway company. Deepest tunnel system of them all is that of the large sanitary sewer interceptor, approximately 75 feet down.

Most of the utility tunnels are from 2.5 to 3.5 feet wide, and arch to 6 or 7 feet in height.

Try a Novel Experiment in Cattle Raising

Cross Bison and Cows to Develop Hardier Stock.

McIntosh, S. D.—A novel experiment in cattle raising is taking place in the southern part of Corson county, where several head of buffalo have been introduced into cattle herds in hope of developing a larger, sturdier type of beef animal.

Ranchers from the Grand river area and south report that buffalo take charge of their herds of domesticated cattle, acting as caretakers, leading the cattle to water and back to feeding grounds.

During recent severe winters, ranchers have observed that buffalo herd-leaders accurately gauged approaching storms.

When buffalo sought shelter, a severe storm could be anticipated, but if they remained outside, clear weather invariably was probable, they explained.

Buffalo members of these herds already have introduced new feeding habits to their bovine associates, ranchers say.

During periods of deep snow, the buffalo buries its head in snowbanks searching for roots of grass. Lately, cattle have developed similar habits in foraging for buck brush.

Raised as calves, the buffalo have been readily adopted into livestock herds.

Offspring of buffalo and cattle are wilder through the shoulders than domestic cattle. It is hoped if they can be raised successfully that ranchers will benefit from a new type of animal able to endure severe heat or cold.

They point to the fact that this section of South Dakota once was the natural habitat for countless herds of buffalo that survived the worst winter known to pioneers, although man provided no food or shelter.

NOW we ask you isn't this the layout supreme for Young America Miss Modern and Mother Meticulous? Childish glee sophisticated gusto and maternal satisfaction will be the order of the day when you have run-up these swank wardrobe assets. Remember it's the natural thing to Sew-Your-Own!

For Master or Miss.

It's grand to be young in the wintertime; there's so much fun to be had. Mother, to be sure your edition of Young America has his share of outdoor fun this winter make this smart and complete ski ensemble. (For either boy or girl.) It is styled after a real ski champion's outfit and makes an instant hit with every young husky.

Sophomore Sensation.

Here's a dress after your own heart, Milady!—I betcha. Sew-Your-Own calls it its Sophomore Sensation. From gay Paris comes its concave silhouette; from S-Y-O its concise, easy to follow sewing instructions. Make your version in thin wool or velvet for Ace occasions this winter.

Carefully Planned.
 Mothers are sweet in almost any kind of dress, but in the trim new model, above right, they're superbly sweet. There's something genteel about its styling. It was carefully planned to bring you the best in style, the most in comfort. A glance at the diagram will convince the woman who sews of its simplicity. Two versions will be better than one of this charming fashion. Anything from percale to sheer wool will do nicely as the material.

The Patterns.

Pattern 1965 is designed for sizes 4, 6, 8, 10, and 12 years. Size 6 requires 2½ yards of 54-inch material for the ensemble plus ½ yard knitted fabric for hat, sleeve and trouser bands and ¾ yard zipper fastener for blouse front.

Pattern 1359 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 40 bust). Size 14 requires 4¾ yards of 39-inch material. With three-quarter sleeves 4¼ yards are required. The bows and belt require 2½ yards ribbon.

Pattern 1402 is designed for sizes 34 to 46. Size 36 requires 4½ yards of 35-inch material. The collar in contrast requires ¾ yard.

Cheap Sales Cost

United States census figures for 1929 show that at a cost of but 1.54 per cent advertising created a market for the $70,434,863,443 worth of manufactured products of that year.

Our Presidents

Andrew Johnson spent seven years tailoring before he began to learn the alphabet.

During the years 1797-1801, we had a President, John Adams, elected by one party (Fed.), and a Vice President, Thomas Jefferson, elected by another party (Dem.-Rep.).

Andrew Johnson, at the expiration of his term as President, became a member of the senate of the United States.

Andrew Jackson introduced "rotation in office."
 Taylor, Pierce and Grant were soldiers in the Mexican war.

Don't Neglect Your Child's Cold

Don't let chest colds or croupy coughs go untreated. Rub Children's Muterole on child's throat and chest at once. This milder form of regular Muterole penetrates, warms, and stimulates local circulation. Floods the bronchial tubes with its soothing, relieving vapors. Muterole brings relief naturally because it's a "counter-irritant"—NOT just a salve. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. Three strengths: Regular, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong.

In the Circuit Court for the County of Saginaw, in chancery.
Winfred L. Case, plaintiff, vs. William Seyffardt, defendant.

In pursuance and by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for the County of Saginaw, State of Michigan, in Chancery, dated the 25th day of July, A. D. 1935, in a certain cause therein pending wherein Winfred L. Case was plaintiff and William Seyffardt was defendant.

Notice is hereby given that I, the subscriber, a circuit court commissioner of the County of Saginaw, state of Michigan, shall sell at public auction or vendue to the highest bidder at the easterly front door of the court house in the city of Saginaw, in said county of Saginaw, state of Michigan, that being the place of holding the Circuit Court for said county, on the 4th day of December, A. D. 1937, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, Eastern Standard Time, all that certain piece or parcel of land and premises situated in the city of Saginaw, county of Saginaw, state of Michigan, described as follows:

The southeasterly one-half of lot one and two in block 126 in the Division North of Cass Street in the City of Saginaw, County of Saginaw, State of Michigan, according to the plat thereof recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds, and also those certain pieces or parcels of land situated in the Township of Plainfield, County of Isosco, State of Michigan, described as follows:

The southwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 10, lot 2 in section 10, the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter of section 10, lot 2 in section 16 and the east one-half of the northwest quarter of section 18 all in Township 24 North, Range 5 east.

The said premises shall be offered for sale in two separate parcels as follows:

1. The premises situated in Saginaw County shall be sold first in one parcel.

2. If a sufficient sum shall not be realized from the sale of said premises in Saginaw County to satisfy the amount decreed to be due said plaintiff, then the premises in Isosco County shall be sold as one parcel.

Settlers Introduced the Bee
 The bee was actually unknown in this country until introduced by the settlers. One writer records that the Indians had no name for it and called it the Englishman's fly. Yet the invention of bee line to mean a straight line is purely American, although it has become familiar to England.

Home Heating Hints

By John Barclay Heating Expert

Rubbish and Garbage Should Not Be Burned in Your Furnace; They Cause Trouble.

I SHOULD like to caution you against burning garbage and rubbish in the heating plant of your home. Many home-owners are given to this practice, knowing it is a quick and easy way to dispose of garbage, but not realizing fully that it is very harmful to the furnace.

Your furnace was built to burn coal, and coal only. Garbage and rubbish, when burned in it, deposit a thick crust of soot on the burning surfaces, and this soot absorbs much of the heat that should go into your rooms. They also form clinkers which, as you know, cause no end of trouble for you in keeping your fire burning efficiently.

Don't burn rubbish or garbage in furnace. They cause heavy soot to cake on surfaces and waste heat and also cause clinkers to form. Keep the ashpit clean.

Remember this: A clean furnace, like a clean automobile engine, will give better service and greater comfort.

WNU Service.

Overdone Politeness

From early childhood, the Chinese are taught so thoroughly to mind their own business that they rarely render assistance when a person is drowning, a house is burning or a store is being robbed. In fact, purse-snatching in broad daylight is a common occurrence on the streets of Chinese cities because thieves are fairly certain that no one will interfere.—Collier's Weekly.

when you've found a way to ease the pains of RHEUMATISM and do it the inexpensive way, too.

You can pay as high as you want for remedies claimed to relieve the pain of Rheumatism, Neuritis, Sciatica, etc. But the medicine so many doctors generally approve—the one used by thousands of families daily—is Bayer Aspirin—15¢ a dozen tablets—about 1¢ apiece.

Simply take 2 Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Repeat, if necessary, according to directions.

HELP KIDNEYS

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous; all played out. In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor.

Under Pressure

SYNOPSIS

Joyce Sewell, on the eve of her twentieth birthday, rebels at her lot, dependent on her detested stepmother, Irma, and full of tragic memories of her mother's murder twelve years before and her father's death six months ago. Irma calls in Helm Blackadder, an admirer, to help her persuade Joyce to marry rich, young Michael Kirkpatrick.

CHAPTER I—Continued

Joyce started toward a chair but stopped. "No; if we are going to have one of our reasonable talks, I'd rather stand."

"That means I'll have to stand too," said Blackadder, sensing he faced a wise and clever fighter. "It doesn't leave me a choice, does it?"

"Not if you feel you have to stay," "Joyce!" cried Mrs. Sewell sharply. "How can you be rude to Mr. Blackadder, a man twice your age and my oldest friend?"

"I wasn't trying to be rude," said Joyce coolly. "I was wondering why he's here."

"I've told you. Because he's my oldest and almost my only friend. We were boy and girl together and if I can't turn to him in my trouble I can appeal to nobody."

"Your trouble?" exclaimed Joyce. "If you'd only leave me alone, let me go my own way, you wouldn't have a thing in the world to worry about."

"That's just it—I can't. I can't stand aside and watch you ruin your life. It wouldn't be right. I can tell you to your face, here before Mr. Blackadder, if you don't take Michael Kirkpatrick while you still have the chance you'll regret it the rest of your life."

"So it's narrowed down to Mike, has it?" said Joyce. "How did you come to pick on him?"

As if she were resigning the floor Mrs. Sewell made a gesture toward Blackadder. Strangely uneasy he straightened and braced his elbows on the mantel. He leveled his eyes at her, taking her measure.

"Let's see if I can talk your language. Do you mind listening till we find out?"

"No; I'll listen." "You're young, Joyce, and you're up against a tough situation. Well, there's nothing we can do about that. Likes and dislikes don't go by favor or obligation; they hang on two Spanish words, easy to understand, hard to translate—simpatica and antipatica. Right?"

"Yes," said Joyce, amazed at the boldness of his attack and startled by his idiomatic use of a language she thought she alone in Elsinboro knew.

"The yoke of living on Irma has been galling you till all you can think of is escape. The first thing you picked on was to be a teacher, but you found out it isn't enough to know your subject—you've got to have a string of silly letters after your name. So you thought you'd be a stenographer and look for a firm engaged in foreign trade. Unfortunately, you're unfitted for business. You'd be an absolute flop."

"Why?" "Because you're emotional and a thoroughbred; the first time you found yourself the mechanical link in a gyp game you'd walk out."

"Then what's left?" asked Joyce dimly as much of herself as of him.

"We're coming to that," said Blackadder sharply. Perceiving he had shaken her, his head moved forward between his shoulders and his eyes grew beady. "You don't like Irma, but you've lived on her since you were eight years old. She's given you everything you've had—shelter, food, raiment and care—and you've never paid for any of it in love or in cash."

"Oh!" gasped Joyce, wincing under the sting of a lash she had used on herself again and again. "How could I? You know I have nothing—nothing!"

"That's not so," said Blackadder, shooting the words at her. "You have plenty if you take it to the right market. Let's get down to bed-rock. Do you dislike Mike any more than you do your stepmother? Do you?"

"No!" said Joyce. "Then why not live on him for a while where you can pay ten for one?"

Watching her sink into a chair as if he had knocked her knees from under her he felt a curious elation. He had beaten her, it had been a hard fight, but he had won out.

"This way out that Helm suggests—" said Mrs. Sewell—"this thing I've been begging you to do—you don't think it's for me, do you? It's for you—for your own good. We're older than you are, we can see back as well as ahead. Can't you believe us? Can't you see it's your best chance for happiness?"

"Happiness!" breathed Joyce. "I suppose every girl has her dream of happiness." Then her low voice began to grow in volume and intensity. "I know I have mine and it's a dream of giving, not taking. I don't mean giving things—money, food, clothes—because love doesn't grow out of things. Even if you try your best to make it, it doesn't, it won't. I mean giving something that's inside you, that aches to be given and—and—"

"I know, dear," interrupted Mrs. Sewell soothingly, "but believe me, you'll feel all that if you'll only just—"

"Oh, you're horrible!" cried Joyce desperately. "I wish I hadn't told you! Do you think I'm blind? You want to be rid of me—both of you. All right. I give in. I promise. If it isn't Mike it will be something else, some other way. I promise." She was gone from the room before either of them could answer.

CHAPTER II

Her departure left Blackadder breathless and somewhat confused. He continued to stand with his back to the mantel, staring at her as if her hurrying figure were still in the sight, filling his eyes. And he had thought she was licked! He became aware of Irma's murmuring voice.

"You were wonderful, Helm, but I knew you would be, I was sure of it. The minute I thought of you the load began to lift off my shoulders and now, whatever happens, it's gone. But let's forget trouble. I can't tell you what it means to me to see you standing there like a pillar giving sense and reason to everything in the room, including me."

She smiled up at him expectantly. His lips parted but it was ordained the maid should enter then.

"It's Mr. Kirkpatrick, ma'am."

The young man entered, flamboyant as to hair, complexion, manner and clothes. "Michael, you know Mr. Blackadder, don't you?"

"Sure thing," said Mike, holding out his hand.

Blackadder beat him to the grip and almost crushed his knuckles, then let go too quickly for a comeback. Mrs. Sewell came to the rescue.

"You can go right up, Michael. You'll find Joyce in her sitting room. I—I wish you luck."

Something in the manner of her final words made Kirkpatrick glance at her curiously. He nodded and started for the back where a side staircase supplemented the one in the main hall. Arriving at Joyce's door he knocked softly, pretended he heard an answering call, turned the knob and stepped in. Joyce was on her knees before the petaca, in the act of fitting a clumsy key into the homestead lock.

"Where did you find the Ellis island trunk?" he asked jovially. "It was my father's," she answered automatically. Then she rose, holding tight to the key, and stood at her full height. "What are you doing here?" she demanded. "Who told you you could come in?"

He backed against the door until the latch clicked shut. "You did. I knocked and I thought I heard you say, 'Come in.'"

"You were mistaken. Please go." "Aw, get off the horse, Joyce. Can't you talk from the floor for once in your life?"

Abruptly her frown deepened. "Did they send for you?"

"Who?" "Mr. Blackadder and my stepmother."

"They did not; I brought myself." "Then take yourself away."

"What's the rush, Joyce, now I'm here? Listen, let's have a showdown. I've told you over and over again I can give you a lot of things and so can you, but I've done all the crawling I'm going to do. Besides, I've just had a tip. I may not know books like some of your rah-rah friends, but I can see out of both eyes. So I'm asking you for the last time—will you marry me or won't you?"

"I won't, now or ever."

He stepped toward her, his fingers itching but his eyes frightened and wet. Abruptly he stopped. Why? He didn't know. She had not moved. She stood with the big key held tightly in her right hand as though it were a dagger. Pressed against her dark dress her fist seemed small and white yet powerful. She had brought him to a halt with only a look—a look of loathing beyond words. He turned, tore open the door and rushed from the room.

Joyce knelt on the floor, then bent over the little rawhide trunk, turned the key and raised the lid. A pungent odor of age-old paper, rust, leather and rotting tape greeted her nostrils.

Her father's last years had left her memory of a weakling, a lovable weakling. Now, immersed in his fervent letters and shocked by the impersonal frigidities of the replies they had evoked, she saw him in his true proportions as a martyr burned at the stake. Slowly, day after day, month after month, yet uttering no cry. Unshed tears stung in her eyes, blinding her. Anger at injustice mounted into rage and rage into the incandescent heat that tempers steel to a cutting edge. He had left no son to avenge his wrongs—only a girl. She dug her nails into the palms of her hands. Some day, somehow, she would find a way. Again there came a knock at her door, a hesitant knock quite unlike her stepmother's.

"Who is it?" she whispered hoarsely.

"It's me, Miss Joyce," answered the maid's voice. "I've brought you a letter and a bit of supper."

"Thanks, Ellen, I don't want a thing to eat. Please slip the letter under the door."

It was long and without a stamp, probably a circular. Her inclination was to let it lie, but abruptly she was seized by its similarity to a dozen envelopes in the petaca, all bearing the penalty-for-private-use formula. A pale yellow slip fluttered to the floor as she tore open the official envelope and unfolded the letter within. She read it at a glance, then again slowly, word by word: "At the instance of the Mexican ambassador, who has deposited the necessary funds, I beg to enclose a warrant on the Treasury of the United States for $10,000, compensation in full for the death of Ann Burden Sewell. Your endorsement will be sufficient receipt."

She caught up the pale yellow slip. Sitting cross-legged she stared and stared at it, for it looked like no check she had ever seen. Yet its purport was unmistakable—the Treasury of the United States held $10,000 at her disposal. The finger of fate was upon her. If this amazing windfall had come an hour sooner she might have signed it over to her stepmother, flung it at her with actual joy, in payment for back rent and board. But not now—no, not now. She put her arms around the petaca, pressed her cheek against its arabesques of brass tacks and bowed her head as if she were making a vow. Presently she went to bed, but lay awake for a long time, dreaming, planning, then floating off into a restful haze midway between sleep and consciousness.

In the morning she was up early. She drank her coffee with eyes on the clock and shortly after nine was being shown into the private office of the president of the City National bank. Toward the last Mr. Bradley had been her father's only remaining friend.

"It's Joyce," she reminded him, "Joyce Sewell."

"Why, of course! How you've grown, my dear. You're lovely!"

"Thank you," she murmured. "You don't know what you've done for me. Now I can do what I've been planning; I can go."

"Where to, Joyce?"

She looked at him steadfastly. "All those years my father stayed here, Mr. Bradley. But La Barranca isn't here; it's in Mexico. I'm going to Mexico."

Joyce laid the warrant, already endorsed, on Mr. Bradley's desk and rose. "I'm leaving the money with you, but you understand I may need a great deal of it any day, don't you?"

"Sit down, Joyce," he said soberly. "Do you know what I've been asking myself?"

"No, sir," said Joyce, sinking to the edge of her chair.

"If I had a girl—your age, your looks, your background—what would I want some other fellow to do in this particular case?" He frowned. "Of course you remember Mexico, but do you remember what happened?"

"Mr. Bradley, are bankers like doctors, lawyers, and priests? I mean are they bound to keep a secret if you ask them to?"

"They are and they aren't. A court order can open wide our mouths and our vaults, but short of that we're bound to respect our clients' wishes. Why? Have you a secret you want to deposit?"

"Yes; oh, yes."

He leaned toward her and asked in a whisper, "Is it about the check for ten thousand?" She sank back, her eyes wide, the color draining from her cheeks. He patted her knee reassuringly and chuckled. "There, there, that was a mean trick. Nobody knows but me, my dear. It was I who supplied your name and address."

"Oh!" breathed Joyce. "Please don't ever do a thing like that to me again!"

"You're safe. I doubt whether I'll ever have any other chance. But why the secrecy?"

"Because I'm going away and I don't want anybody to know where." She leaned forward. "Mr. Bradley, you know my father's story, don't you?"

"No man knows it better, and that goes for his one-time lawyers."

"I learned it last night," said Joyce. "I read every letter, every paper, every deed back to the original grant from the king of Spain. Is there any doubt La Barranca belonged to my father?"

"None whatever. He had as clear a title as I have to my hat or my coat or anything else I've paid for in cash."

"Then it's mine now."

"I wish I could answer no to that, but I can't."

"Have you a conscience, Mr. Bradley?" she asked soberly.

"Me?" he exclaimed, puzzled and astonished.

"I was wondering whether it's ever right to—to take your conscience and choke it."

"His eyes twinkled violently but he did not laugh. 'I see. What's your conscience been telling you to do?'"

"Give this money to my stepmother."

"What for?"

"Well, for all she's done—keeping me all these years."

Mr. Bradley's eyes shone with a strange and increasing fire. "Who's been stuffing your head with that?" he demanded. "Anyway, let me put you straight. In the first place step-parents are required by law to do what's been done for you; it's an integral part of their original bargain. In the second Irma's kindness ruined your father by keeping him from going to work. In the third, since she's a do-good-to-others addict, she's had her money's worth out of the two of you ten times over."

"Thank you," she murmured. "You don't know what you've done for me. Now I can do what I've been planning; I can go."

"Where to, Joyce?"

She looked at him steadfastly. "All those years my father stayed here, Mr. Bradley. But La Barranca isn't here; it's in Mexico. I'm going to Mexico."

Joyce laid the warrant, already endorsed, on Mr. Bradley's desk and rose. "I'm leaving the money with you, but you understand I may need a great deal of it any day, don't you?"

"Sit down, Joyce," he said soberly. "Do you know what I've been asking myself?"

"No, sir," said Joyce, sinking to the edge of her chair.

"If I had a girl—your age, your looks, your background—what would I want some other fellow to do in this particular case?" He frowned. "Of course you remember Mexico, but do you remember what happened?"

United States and Great Britain Have Thirty Per Cent of World's "Who's Who"

The United States and Great Britain have more than 30 per cent of the persons listed in the international "Who's Who" published in London. This book, 19,000 biographies of persons who were considered by the editors to be of "international prominence," had 3,150 persons from Great Britain and 2,650 from the United States.

The total percentage of women in the book was only 1.6 and Great Britain's contribution was only 2.8, but the United States women had 5.6 per cent of the space.

Frank B. Littell, of Washington, dissected the lists in the magazine "Science" and found the following percentage distribution of international celebrities by nationalities:

Great Britain, 16.7; United States, 14; France, 9.1; Germany, 8.2; Italy, 3.7; Sweden, 3.3; Japan, 2.6; Denmark, 2.3; Hungary, 2.2; Canada, 2.2; Netherlands, 2.1; Australia, 2.1; and Poland, 2.1.

A comparison of the distribution of internationally known men in the United States and Great Britain shows where the most striking recognized advances have been made in the two countries. For example, politics is first on the British list and fifth on the American list. Since the British have dominions all over the world and thus are, in a sense, internationalists, this could be expected. On the other hand, scientists led the American list, as might be expected from the "inventiveness" and most science-worshiping nation in the world.

Of the 2,650 Americans in the "Who's Who" 610 attended two colleges or universities, 200 attended three institutions and 110 attended four or more. On the other hand, 420 did not list any college education. Harvard is the alma mater of more famous Americans than any other school. Columbia and Yale were next.

Bad Effects of Fast Eating

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

WHEN food enters the stomach the walls of the stomach contract and squeeze this food onward and out of the stomach.

Now the food should not be squeezed out of the stomach hurriedly or in too short a time, as the longer the food remains in the stomach the better it is mixed with the digestive juice of the stomach and that much more digestion of the food occurs.

An interesting experiment whereby digestion of food in the stomach was actually photographed in the form of moving pictures is recorded in the British Medical Journal by Dr. J. Russell Reynolds.

The moving pictures showed that the stomach is divided into three parts as far as digestion is concerned. When food enters the first part nothing happens for a few minutes until there would seem to be some pressure from the amount or weight of food. When this pressure gets to a certain height the walls relax enough to let the food go into the second part. When this second part gets enough food or weight in it, the muscle walls of the stomach begin to squeeze or contract against the food, and the food is forced into the third part—the part nearest the opening into the small intestine into which the food enters when its digestion in the stomach is complete.

Some Squeezed Back.

An interesting point was noted in that when the stomach muscles squeezed the second part of the stomach sending a large amount of the food downward into the third part, some of the food got squeezed back into the first part again.

When the stomach was high up in the abdomen some of the food was actually squeezed into the small intestine within twenty minutes after it entered the stomach. This is a condition often found in the nervous type of individual and Dr. Reynolds says: "This accounts for the digestive trouble caused by taking meals hurriedly; the muscular coat of the stomach, having no time to adapt itself to the bulk, responded by forcing the food out of the stomach before it was sufficiently mixed with stomach digestive juice. This means that food should be eaten slowly, to give the stomach the proper amount of time to handle or digest it properly."

Underweight Causes.

Many underweights trying to increase their weight have found that despite eating extra food the increase in weight has been little or none at all. Overweights all lose some weight when they cut down on their food. They lose weight whether their overweight is due to eating too much food or to not getting enough juice from the thyroid and pituitary glands.

Now why do the underweights not increase in weight when they eat more food?

There is always the fact that just as there is a tendency to overweight in some families, so is there the tendency to thinness, underweight or malnutrition running in other families. This doesn't mean that the weight cannot be increased but it does mean that the increase cannot be expected to be large.

If, however, the individual has weighed more, has been of normal or average weight, and has lost considerable weight, the reason for this loss must be sought. If there has been worry, anxiety, grief or other emotional disturbance which has caused shock, then all parts of the body including the digestive system have been disturbed; food will go through the stomach and intestine and be only partly digested; diarrhoea may carry away too much fluid, or constipation will cause absorption of waste poisons that will take some of the body's fighting forces to combat.

Further, the loss of rest from these emotional disturbances or from any other cause, uses up the body's tissues and energies, for rest is as important as a body builder and tissue saver as is food itself.

Another factor is that some focal infection may use up the body tissue and body energy, thus causing loss of weight.

And finally, just as lack of thyroid and pituitary juice makes all the body processes work more slowly thus preventing loss of body tissue, so can an increase in these juices make all the body processes work more rapidly, thus using up more body energy and more body tissue.

"Worse Than Drowning"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO, EVERYBODY:

Charles Quinones of Bronx, N. Y., sends in a yarn that sets a new high for horror. Charley Quinones had a mighty queer adventure. It was one that gave him a choice between two deaths. One of them was drowning—and that's no fun. But horrible as drowning was, it wasn't half as bad as that other horror—the one that was waiting for him up above.

Charley is a Porto Rican who has come to the States to finish his education. It's a tale about his native land that he's going to tell us today. A good many years ago—on April 9, 1927, to be exact—Charley and a bunch of other lads about his own age, started out to do some dynamite fishing.

They all lived in the town of Jajardo, on the northeast tip of Porto Rico, and the sea was not far away. They chose a spot called El Faro because of a lighthouse that stood on the hill above it. El Faro was on the shores of a tidal lagoon where the fish, at high tide, were large and numerous. Charley and his friends took along food, a pan to fry fish in—and several sticks of dynamite to catch the fish.

Fishing With Dynamite.

The tide came through the lagoon at El Faro at a pretty rapid clip. It was at the time when that tide was just turning that dynamite fishing was best, for if they waited while the tide ebbed, the fish would go out with it. They attached fuses to their dynamite and one of the boys threw it into the water. There was a momentary hush, followed by an explosion. The water heaved and trembled. A great wave shot up from below the surface, and with it came fish—hundreds of them—of all sizes, species and colors.

They had to act quickly after that. If they didn't get those fish immediately the swift-moving tide would carry them away. Half a dozen of them dived into the water and began gathering up the ones on the surface. Charley Quinones followed them—but instead of going after the fish on the surface he took a long, deep dive toward the bottom of the lagoon.

Between the Devil and the Deep.

The little fish came to the top after an explosion, but the bigger ones sank to the bottom—and it was the big ones that Charley was after.

Charley had made a good dive, but there was no time to lose. The current was even swifter down near the bottom than it had been on the surface. He saw a big fish—and another—and half a dozen more. "I tried to take two," he says, "but they were too slippery. I took the largest one within reach and turned my head toward the surface. But at that moment I saw something that made me change my mind."

It was a ghastly sight that Charley saw up there above him. Up near the surface, directly over his head, he saw something white swimming back and forth. A second look told him what it was—and his whole body began fairly crawling with horror. That white thing up there was a SHARK!

Huge Shark Was Terrifying.

Says Charley: "The sight of it almost made me faint, and there aren't enough words in any language to describe how terrified I felt. The monster was swimming close to the surface and he seemed to be eating the dead fish that our explosion had brought up to the top of the lagoon. He was huge—one of the biggest sharks I had ever seen, and from where I was I could see his great mouth with its rows of horrible sharp teeth."

Charley saw and thought all those things in a fraction of a second. He knew he couldn't swim upward. That shark would have eaten him alive in less than a minute. But he couldn't stay down there under the water long, either. He had to have air. Already his lungs were beginning to ache from the strain of holding his breath—already his head was spinning around giddily for want of oxygen in his lungs.

Never in his life had Charley been in a worse spot. "What I suffered in those moments of cruel apprehension," he says, "seems incredible now. I never thought the human body and the human mind were capable of standing so much torture. My ears were ringing madly. My lungs felt as though they were about to burst. My heart was beating violently. I wanted to cry, but I couldn't."

"The water down there at the bottom was dark and gloomy. Up on the surface, a dim figure, now, in my blurring eyes, the monster still hovered. It seemed that he was waiting patiently for me to come up. Many times I had heard the expression, 'Between the Devil and the Deep,' and there I was in literally that same predicament."

Desperate Push to the Surface.

"And what made matters worse was the fact that no one could help me out of it. I was alone—more alone than anyone has ever been before, I believe. I couldn't hold my breath any longer, and I took a last desperate chance. Pushing madly with my feet, swimming with all the strength that was left in me, I shot toward the surface. It was hardly possible that I could get out of the water before the shark got me. But I had no other choice."

"Up I went. Then, suddenly I heard a splash—felt a violent blow from a huge body—and lost consciousness."

When Charley came to he was lying on the beach, his friends all grouped around him. They had seen the shark swimming around on the surface, and they knew Charley was at the bottom. They thought sure Charley was a goner, but they did what they could. One of the boys got a huge piece of driftwood from the beach, floated it out on the water and struck at the shark—just as Charley was coming to the surface. The shark turned to swim away, and in doing so had run smack into Charley—and nobody has figured out yet who was the most frightened by that collision—the shark or Charley.

The other young fellows had dragged Charley, half drowned, to the beach, and Charley says that's the last time he's been swimming in anything bigger than a bathtub.

International Boundary Markings

The land part of the international boundary between the United States and Canada, which is about 1,749 miles in length, is marked variously with monuments of iron, aluminum-bronze set on concrete, stone cairns and concrete, placed at points ranging from two and a half to four miles apart. A vista has been cut through the trees where the line runs over wooded areas. The water part of the boundary is defined by courses and distances between turning points that are referred to as light-houses or markers of metal or concrete on the shores of lakes and banks of streams.

Softening Water

The water is so hard in some parts of the country that softening forms a part of the purification processes. Often, the saving in depreciation of water pipes and in the purchase of soap counter-balance the cost of softening. Usually lime water is mixed with the water in a settling basin and after 12 or 14 hours subsidence, the water is drawn off from the precipitated salts. When the hardness is the result of sulphates of lime or magnesium, which cause the water to be "permanently" hard, sodium carbonate, or washing soda is used to soften the water.

Suede Combines Smartly With Knit

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IMPORTANT news—knit and suede have formed a partnership! If it's fashion thrills you are seeking just make a visit to the nearest display of late fall and winter knitwear fashions and see how smartly knit and suede are carrying on in their new alliance.

If you are interested in knitted apparel, and of course you are, for every woman is sensing more and more that knitted clothes not only serve most faithfully, but when it comes to "style" it's all there and—well, as we were saying, if you are interested in knitted apparel just wait before buying until you see the magic worked in the new outfits via the added touch of suede either in an accessory way such as gloves, belts, handbags, hats and shoes or by working the suede in as an integral part of the costume.

See the stunning two-piece to the left in the picture. It demonstrates perfectly how skillfully designers are using suede with knit. The knitted fabric for this model is appropriately called "hustress tweed." The modern Diana will certainly "dress to the part" in this striking two-piece. Describing the knitted material that fashions it, there are solid colored cotton nubs splattered throughout a vertical rib stitch. The jacket front is of soft suede in a contrasting color and a zipper closure. The silk scarf matches the tailored suede belt in color, and the little skull cap worn snugly at the back of the head is of the same knitted material as the skirt.

As to the costume centered in the group, all the way from Tibet comes the fine soft cashmere wool so emphatically in vogue in knitted sportswear this season. Being well styled, this cashmere knitted dress will prove chic and comfortable at outdoor sports at the same time that it underwrites a promise of being well-dressed at afternoon functions. There are suede accents with gold eyelets and a suede belt with a gold buckle. The skirt is four-gored and flares gracefully.

Cashmere does service to smartness, comfort and sports style in the two-piece knitted dress shown to the right. There is a shirred yoke effect in the front part of the blouse, mounted by a neckline drawn up and bowed with a grosgrain ribbon in peasant fashion. The belt is suede. The wide hip-band emphasizes the youthful silhouette and is surmounted by novelty pockets posed on the diagonal.

Which reminds us, the pocket theme is an important one. Watch the newest little jackets and see how decoratively and amusingly they are being pocketed this season. Furthermore, advance news is to the effect that designers are going to continue to "say it" for the new spring fashions in terms of novel and numerous pockets.

If you are assembling a suede accessory ensemble, look up the smart new belts made of cutout leaves in multi colors riveted together with metal eyelets. They tone up the simplest knit dress to perfection.

Another way to carry out a successful partnership of suede with knit is to top the knitted dress with a knee-length somewhat flaring coat of bright suede. This type costume is proving a campus favorite. Also to wear about town there's nothing swankier.

As to sweaters and twin sets (some of the latter top the knit pull-on blouse with a cunning knit bolero instead of the usual sweater jacket) they yield to the new embellishment of suede most gaily.

IN BLACK AND GOLD

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Black and gold, black and gold! Style creators and designers are singing the refrain in clarion tones while the vast throng of fashion followers join in a mighty chorus that resounds throughout the fall and winter mode. With the season's highlight of black and gold in mind, Madame Jolles of Vienna, noted for handbags, especially exquisite petit point as well as other media, designs the elegant bag which you see in the picture of black antelope with an imported dome-shaped gold frame and a circular center lock topped with a ruby red stone.

Corsage for Youth

Floral gifts are appreciated in different ways. A young person will usually like best an arrangement of corsage, while an older person is likely to prefer a plant.

FASHION RUNS WILD IN USE OF FLOWERS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

It all started back in the days of the Restoration, when ladies tied be-guiling bonnets underneath their chins, with flowers tucked at the brim to complete the picture of feminine charm.

Now the designers are giving us bonnets, flowers and femininity, based on Restoration styles. And we're using flowers where we never thought of using them before: nose-gays pinned to chiffon handkerchiefs, violets on a black suede glove, velvet neck-bands finished with forget-me-nots, flower jewelry, and flower polishes for fingertips.

It's all part of the back-to-femininity movement, which started the cropping up of flowers and the softened, subtle nail polish shades that make the hands look really feminine. It's especially smart to match up your polish to the flower you wear—clover polish with a silver-violet flower in your hair, tulip with a brilliant tulip pinned to your black gown, thistle with a bunch of faun-colored thistles on the lapel of your brown fur coat.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for November 28

CHRISTIAN FRUITFULNESS

LESSON TEXT—John 15:1-16. GOLDEN TEXT—Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples.—John 15:8. PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Rule of Love. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Loyalty of Love. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What May We Expect to Achieve? YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How Christians Become Fruitful.

Thanksgiving day has just afforded each one of us a special opportunity to return praise to God for the fruitfulness of America's broad acres. It is appropriate that we think today of the Christian life as manifesting itself in the bearing of fruit.

Christian work of which we spoke last Sunday may (at least in a measure) be imitated, but fruit cannot be imitated. It is the result of life and only those who know the new birth bear the fruit of Christianity.

The chapter before us is a portion of Scripture which has been the peculiar favorite of God's children in all generations. It is at the center of our Lord's words with his disciples immediately before his death on the cross.

Many are the expositions of this passage, but a beautifully simple one which came to the writer from Dr. W. Graham Scroggie is suggested as most helpful.

I. Life and Fruitfulness (vv. 1-8).

Life results in fruit and there can be no true fruit where there is no life. Christ is the vine, the Father is the keeper of the vine. We who are Christ's are the branches abiding in him, that is, living our whole life in and for him in such close union with him that his life as the vine brings forth fruit in us as the branches. That is real Christian living.

But, alas, there are branches that seem to belong to the vine but they lack the one indispensable evidence of life which is the normal bearing of fruit. These the Father must take and cast away to be destroyed. While we must not read into these words more than our Lord intended, let us beware lest we explain away their serious import. These are grave words of warning to false professors of Christianity, but they are not spoken to distress and dishearten true followers of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Fruit in the Christian is undoubtedly first of all the fruit of character but that character is also to show in conduct. Note the progress—"fruit" (v. 2), "more fruit" (v. 2), "much fruit" (v. 5). In order to bear more fruit there is need of pruning and cleansing (vv. 2, 3). Pleasant? Not always, but always profitable. Let us thank God for even the pruning knife when its work is needed.

Do not miss the prayer promise in verse 7. It is an unlimited promise with a closely limited condition. Let us meet the condition and claim the promise.

II. Love and Friendship (vv. 9-16).

"This is my commandment that ye love one another." In verse 10 we read that to abide in the love of Christ we must keep his commandments and now we learn that it is his command that we love one another. We are not to await the impulse prompted by the beauty or kindness or propinquity of someone, but we are to love one another. Many a Christian who has obeyed the commandments against stealing, adultery, and blasphemy has never noticed that he is commanded to love.

The joy of Christ was fulfilled on the eve of Calvary by the love of his disciples for one another and for him. He rejoices today when we love the brethren and love him, for thus we enter upon the beautiful relationship of friends.

Dr. Scroggie says, "We may be God's children without being his friends; the one is based on his gift of life to us; the other, upon our offering of love for him. Are you a friend of God? You cannot have God and the world for friends at the same time. The friendship of the world is enmity with God. The world hates Christ, and therefore will not love you if you are like him."

But, oh! the sweet intimacy of fellowship with him. Read verses 14 to 16. Chosen and appointed by him, for "he first loved us," we are not kept in the distant position of servants but are brought into his circle of friends with whom he shares the glorious secrets of his Father, and our Father. It is a great thing to be a Christian, a friend of the Saviour.

Intellect

Every man should use his intellect not as he uses his lamp in the study, only for his own seeing, but as the lighthouse uses its lamps, that those afar off on the sea may see the shining and learn their way.

The Past

The wise man must remember that while he is a descendant of the past, he is a parent of the future, and that his thoughts are as children born to him, which he may not carelessly let die.—Spencer.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

Silk Shades Give a Soft Glow

THERE is subtlety in the light that glows through a silk shade, and many decorators are using them for the room that needs the softness of plaited folds and the mellowness obtained by placing two tones of fabric one over the other.

Two tones of China silk, one to be used for a plain lining and the other for a gathered outside covering will make an attractive shade. Before you buy the material it is best to experiment with samples one over the other trying them both in daylight and over an artificial light. You will also need a roll of silk binding tape matching the top color of the shade. This tape is to wrap the wire frame. And fancy braid either in gold, silver or a harmonizing tone of silk is used to bind the top and bottom of the shade. Use cotton thread to match the outside tone of the silk.

Slip the binding tape off the roll and wrap a rubber band around it as shown here at A. Working from the inside end of the tape wrap the frame as shown at B. The outside layer of silk is put on next. This is gathered both top and bottom and pinned to the wire covering as at C and D so that it is stretched quite tight. Joinings in the outside covering need not be sewed but may be hidden under the folds. This material is sewed in place as at E.

Next, cut a straight strip for the lining and fit it around the outside of the frame as shown here at F. Trim the joining allowing a seam as shown at G. Sew to the frame at the bottom as at H. Trim quite close at the bottom. Turn lining to inside as at I. Slip stitch the joining. Turn in raw edges at top and whip around top of frame. Pin the binding around and then sew it with stitches buried in the mesh of the braid.

Are Women Better Shoppers than Men?

GRANTING a woman's reputation for wise buying, let's trace the methods by which she has earned it. Where does she find out about the advantages and details of electrical refrigeration? What tells her how to keep the whole household clean—rugs, floors, bathroom tiling—and have energy left over for golf and parties? How does she learn about new and delicious entrees and desserts that surprise and delight her family? Where does she discover those subtleties of dress and make-up that a man appreciates but never understands?

Why, she reads the advertisements. She is a consistent, thoughtful reader of advertisements, because she has found that she can believe them—and profit thereby. Overlooking the advertisements would be depriving herself of data continuously useful in her job of Purchasing Agent to the Family.

For that matter, watch a wise man buy a car or a suit or an insurance policy. Not a bad shopper himself! He reads advertisements, too!

Magazine Sale

A magazine sale is now being conducted by some of the members of the high school. This project is being sponsored with the hope of raising enough money to purchase the sound projector for which the school has been working for the past year. To insure the purchase of the machine $225 worth of subscriptions must be sold. If this amount is not sold Tawas High must purchase the machine from some other firm and thus will not be able to receive the deduction price.

The high school has been divided into two teams, the green and the gold. Norma Musolf has been selected as captain of the green and Bill Prescott as captain of the gold. Lucille DePotty was selected as general manager. Let's all sell at least three subscriptions so we can have this machine.

Robert B. Hamilton, vice president of the class of 1933, has recently been elected to Tau Sigma Eta, an honorary engineering society of Tri-State college, Angola, Indiana. One requirement to become a member of this society is to have a B average for four successive terms. There are 16 members at Tri-State at present.

"The Barrier," the movie shown at the Rivola theatre on November 17 and 18 was a decided success. This benefit show was made possible by the co-operation and generosity of Mr. Ives. We wish to express our appreciation also to those who sold and bought tickets.

The following program was enjoyed by the high school Wednesday: Speaker..... Rev. Carey Song, "Come Ye Thankful People Come"..... Assembly Washington's Proclamation Marian Musolf Song, "November"..... Girl's Trio "What We Have to be Thankful For"..... John King Songs, "Swing the Sickle" and "America"..... Assembly

The high school debating team journeyed to Pinconning Friday evening where they were defeated by the debating team of that high school. Our team consisted of Myrton Leslie, Harold Ross and Frieda Witzke. The judges were P. R. Murphy, W. P. Burton and Frank Davis, all of Bay City.

The Junior's bake sale held at Moeller's store Saturday, netted in cash $6.96.

We note that many of the high school students are much concerned over the fact that Mrs. Genhardt secured her "dear" out of season.

Seventh and Eighth
At least this is one time when everyone thinks the same. We are glad that tomorrow is Thanksgiving and that we have a good vacation.

This afternoon we had a program by the eighth grade in which there were recitations, a small play and a vocal trio.

As a result of the ticket sale for the "Barrier" Mr. Ives has awarded this room eight passes. Hugh Prescott's side won, turning $18.00 in. Leona Monroe and Betty Nelson were high salesmen, turning in $6.75 each. Billy Musolf and Herbert Ziehl were close behind.

Fifth and Sixth
Marian Bing was absent on Tuesday and Wednesday because of illness. Ardith Lake substituted for Marian in our Thanksgiving program.

Miss Look's room helped us on a Thanksgiving program. The program consisted of the following: "After Thanksgiving" (a play) by six pupils, "The First Thanksgiving" (a story) by Maxine DePotty, "Happy Thank You Day" (recitation) by Beverly Bigelow, "Thanksgiving Table" (a play) by 16 pupils, "Thanksgiving Day" (poem) by Richard Clark, "Swing the Sickle" (song) by Evelyn Colby, Maxine DePotty and Dona Moore, "Thanksgiving" (poem) by Wava St. Martin, "We Thank Thee" (a recitation) by Gay Young, Prayer for Thanksgiving by Jack Smith, Song by six 3rd and 4th graders, "November" (song) by 5th and 6th graders, Memory Gems were recited by Richard Clark and Junior Orden, "The Reason Why" (recitation) by Lou Libka.

Primary
The "Brownies," meaning the second graders, have started their new second grade readers. They have just finished reading two Indian books.

The first graders have finished reading "Tots and Toys" and have begun "Dick and Jane."

We have been making Pilgrims, Turkeys and Indian boys in our room.

Christmas Seal Sale Endorsed by Governor

STATE OF MICHIGAN
EXECUTIVE OFFICE
LANSING, MICHIGAN

PROCLAMATION
ANNUAL SALE CHRISTMAS SEALS

In years long past, when ravaging plagues swept men to their death by the thousands and hundreds of thousands, mankind was compelled by its own lack of self-defense to submit meekly to the spoliation.

Today the picture is vastly changed. Armed with the weapons of modern science, man has risen to his feet to strike back at the killer, disease-giving no quarter, he has routed the enemy on insurmountable fronts and on others is employing all his ingenuity and resourcefulness to devise methods of gaining new victories.

One such battle is being waged today against the insidious "white plague", tuberculosis. Happily, men of medicine have shown that the battle can be won, and it is a matter of cold fact that in the last twenty-five years the skillful efforts of men learned in the techniques of treatment and prevention have cut the tuberculosis death rate in Michigan by fifty percent.

To the Michigan Tuberculosis Association must go the major share of the credit for this incalculably valuable accomplishment. The association, in turn, owes its success in large degree to the financial support derived from the yearly sale of Christmas Seals. That its winning fight may continue to be waged with unyielding determination and strength, is, I am confident, the heartfelt desire of all.

Therefore, in conformity with established custom, I, Frank Murphy, Governor of Michigan, hereby direct the attention of the people of the State to the Annual Sale of Christmas Seals, and unreservedly urge that everyone capable of patronizing this sale do so to the limit of his ability.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State, this twelfth day of November, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred Thirty-seven, and of the Commonwealth, the One Hundredth.

By the Governor
Secretary of State
Governor

ABOVE IS a facsimile of a proclamation issued this week by Governor Frank Murphy, urging that Michigan people make a generous purchase of tuberculosis Christmas seals. More than 65,000,000 of the tiny messengers of health are being distributed in the state this year by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association and affiliated agencies. Funds raised will be used to carry the fight against the White Plague in 1938. The sale opens on Thanksgiving Day and will continue to Christmas.

1938 PONTIAC SILVER STREAK

AMAZING NEW SAFETY SHIFT GEAR CONTROL*
One of 100 Reasons why—
THE MOST BEAUTIFUL THING ON WHEELS
AGAIN OUTVALUES THEM ALL!

EVEN IF the 1938 Silver Streak lacked the distinctive styling, the extra roominess, the peak economy, and all-around quality that set it apart from other cars, the Safety Shift Gear Control* would still make you prefer "the most beautiful thing on wheels." For this great feature is the finest improvement in handling ease in the low-price field.

Safety Shift clears the front floor completely, speeds up gear-shifting, lets you drive with both hands near the wheel. It's a sign and symbol of the amazing plus value built into America's finest low-priced car—value which, a ride will tell you, tops them all.
