NATIONAL CITY MANDIES WHEN HOME BURNS

Resists Sons Efforts to Aid; Boy Escapes Flames

A very delightful evening was spent last Wednesday when 16 friends gathered at the home of Mrs. G. A. Pringle, the occasion being her birthday. The Republican menu of boiled potatoes, fried salt pork, baked beans, sauerkraut and Johnny cake was served. The table decorations consisted of elephants and small American flags. The guests wished Mrs. Pringle many more years of peace and happiness on their departure.

William Saffel, National Gypsum company employee, was burned to death late Saturday night when he resisted the efforts of his 17-year old son, Robert, to take him from their burning home. The boy escaped from the flames. The father and son lived in a tarpaper shack about three miles from National City. The body was taken to Lima, Ohio, for burial.

The son was held here for investigation. When questioned he said that he had been at the home of a neighbor, Robert Biniger, that evening. When he returned at about eleven o'clock he found his father asleep on the floor. He said he went to bed. A short time later his father got up from the floor and accidentally tipped a table over. A lamp which was burning on the table, rolled under the bed and the rooms was quickly filled with flames. The boy said that he tried to get his father from the building but that he resisted all of his efforts until he was forced to flee. He then ran to Robert Biniger's home for aid. Trooper M. H. Mitchell of the Michigan State Police and Coroner E. D. Jacques were called to the scene a short time later.

Saffel has been a resident of this county and an employee of the National Gypsum company for about two years. He was separated from his wife who resides at Lima, Ohio. The boy was released Thursday after undergoing a lie detection test at Lansing where he had been taken by Sgt. Hiram Grimsom of the State Police. The son was the only witness to the tragedy and this test was made with the view of absolving him from blame. He returned Friday to Lima where he will reside with his mother. He had been here since October doing the housework for his father.

From Miss Edythe Walker, who is spending the winter months in Detroit comes the account of a pleasant reunion of former Tawas friends, held last week at the home of Mrs. Margaret Murphy Smith of Pontiac. Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Nisbet and Miss Edythe-Walker drove out to Pontiac from Detroit and met the guests gathered at Mrs. Smith's. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Schermerhorn, Mrs. Lucile Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Raye and Mrs. Charity Schermerhorn Jennings, who arrived bringing a huge cake frosted with the words "Tawas Friends, 1893-1938." The day was spent in visiting, dining and playing bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold C. Hosbach and Leonard Hosbach were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schmidt of Bay City.

Miss Margaret Stephanski spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Stephanski.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Finley and son, Dwight returned Sunday from Lansing and Ithaca. Mr. Finley attended "Farmers' week" at MSC on Thursday and Friday.

Miss Jean Robinson of Ypsilanti and guest, Miss Isabelle Dease of Bay City spent the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Horton.

Mrs. Othmer Proctor and two children of Vassar spent Tuesday with Mrs. W. L. Finley.

Responding to the demand of his locality for good, sound breeding stock, Thomas Scarlet, of the Meadow Road, has recently purchased the purebred Percheron, "Tommy Laet Boy," 220420, from J. A. Craig of Prescott. Tommy Laet Boy is a coming three year old with a background of blue-blood ancestry. Percherons are more numerous in America than all other draft breeds combined.

Mrs. G. A. Prescott, Sr., left Friday morning for Cleveland where she will visit for a couple of weeks before leaving for the east. She expects to be gone for about six weeks.

Mrs. H. J. Keiser, Miss Janet Keiser, Mrs. John Dillon accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beardslee leave Saturday on a vacation trip to Miami, Florida to be gone about six weeks.

The M. E. Ladies' Aid will serve a Washington Birthday supper on Thursday, February 17 at the M. E. church. Serving will begin at 5:30 with prices 25 and 50 cents. adv

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Robinson and son, Lewis from Bay City and Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Larson from Saginaw visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Sommerfield on Sunday.

The Baptist Women's Society will hold a bake sale at Tuttle's Electric shop on Saturday, February 19. adv

George Laidlaw left Wednesday for a few days visit in Saginaw with his sister, Mrs. Harry McLean and family.

John N. Brugger of Detroit spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Brugger.

Miss Lillian Tanner spent the week in Detroit attending the convention of the Michigan Retail Lumber Dealers Association.

Perper-Barkman

Miss Sophie Perper of Flint and Milton Barkman of East Tawas exchanged their marriage vows Sunday at two o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Perper at Clio. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Barkman of East Tawas.

The service was read by Rabbi George Dickstein in the presence of 35 relatives and friends. For the ceremony the bride chose an afternoon dress of powder blue crepe and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses, sweet peas and valley lilies. Her attendant, Miss Zeldia Fryman of Flint, wore a black gown trimmed with pink crepe and her corsage consisted of Briar-cliff roses and sweet peas. Aaron Barkman of Chicago performed the duties of best man for his brother.

Following the wedding a dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents. A reception then followed and the couple left immediately for a motor trip to Florida. On their return they will make their home in East Tawas at the Jos. Misner apartments.

For travel the bride chose a three-piece fox trimmed suit of cocoa brown with black accessories.

Mrs. A. Barkman, daughter, Regina, son, Nathan, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Barkman and son, Sydney attended the wedding. Also the Misses Ruth Myers of Bay City and Annabelle Myers of Brant Michigan.

Mrs. R. C. Arn appointed Drain Commissioner

Mrs. R. C. Arn was appointed to the office of County Drain Commissioner Wednesday to fill the unexpired term of her husband, the late R. C. Arn. The appointment was made by a committee consisting of Probate Judge David Davison, Prosecuting Attorney John Stewart and County Clerk Russell H. McKenzie.

Boy Scouts of America Mark 28th Birthday...

These boys are making a canoe. One of the "crafts" being demonstrated in home towns throughout America during Boy Scout week. Since America's future lies in its youth, the Boy Scout movement has gained popular support.

Twentieth Century Club

The Club met in regular session in the club room Wednesday, February 9.

After the regular business was disposed of the following program was enjoyed by all, and many voiced the wish that a program of this sort might be put on more often.

Jury Panel—World events. Their effect on the social, economic, educational and religious life of United States. Chairman—Mrs. Giddings. Speakers—Eugene Bing, J. A. Campbell, A. E. Giddings, and Rev. S. A. Carey. Each speaker gave some splendid thoughts on their subject and left the ladies more interested in world events.

Baseball

There will be a meeting of the Tawas City Base Ball team Friday evening, February 18, 8:00 p. m., at the city hall for the purpose of organizing for the coming season. Officers will be elected and other business of importance for the welfare of the team will be discussed. Anyone interested as a player, fan or booster is urged to be present. Let's Go!

A Correction

In publishing a report from the Auditor General's department in a previous issue of The Tawas Herald we erroneously said that Iosco County's share of the gas and weight tax was $3,606.73. Our lintype has become so accustomed to large figures in setting reports of government expenditures that it requires extra effort on the operator's part to make as small a sum as three thousand dollars register on it.

Mrs. Clara Tahash

Mrs. Clara Tahash, age 65 years, passed away at the Bay City General hospital on Wednesday, February 2, where she had been taken January 29 for treatment. She had been in poor health for several years.

Clara Fournier was born in Huron county, May 30, 1872 and passed away February 2, 1938. She was united in marriage to Ross Williams on September 26, 1894. To this union five children were born. Mr. Williams passed away in 1927. She married Burney Tahash on June 10, 1935, who preceded her in death on August 27, 1937.

There are left to mourn the loss of a loving mother, one son, Willard Williams at home, four daughters, Mrs. Vesta Hutchinsin of Saginaw, Mrs. Vesta Hutchison of Saginaw, Eva Lawrence of Prescott, Mrs. Mary Graham of Bay City, besides seven grand children and a host of friends.

Out of town relatives that attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Williams of Swartz Creek, W. E. Duffy and son Lawrence of Owenton, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Williams of Pontiac.

The funeral services were held at the Reno Baptist church Saturday afternoon with Rev. Frank Metcalf officiating. Interment in the family lot in the Reno Cemetery.

Bleau-Klinkhamer

St. Michael's Church of Pontiac was the scene of a lovely wedding on Thursday morning, February 3, when Genevieve Ellen daughter of Albert L. Bleau of Pontiac, formerly of Alabaster, became the bride of Sylvester H. Klinkhamer, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Klinkhamer of Pontiac. Rev. Michael J. O'Reilly performed the ceremony.

The bride's gown of white satin was fashioned on princess lines with a short train, the long sleeves extended in points over the hands. Her tulle veil was of floor length and had an off the face cap of pointed lace, she carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and snap dragons.

Alberta L. Bleau of Kalamazoo was her sister's only attendant, her dress was of crystal blue satin and was fashioned on the same lines as that of the bride and had short puffed sleeves with hat to match, her bouquet was of pink roses.

Frederick Emmendorfer attended Mr. Klinkhamer as best man. Alex J. Klinkhamer of Detroit, brother of the groom, was an usher. John G. Bleau, brother of the bride, and Norman LaLone were the acolytes at the nuptial high mass.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's father for about 35 guests.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Klinkhamer will reside in Pontiac.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their acts of kindness, for the beautiful flowers and to Rev. Metcalf for his comforting words in our recent bereavement.

WINTER SPORTS CARNIVAL ENDS THIS WEEK END

Jimmy Enjoys Last Week's Events Although It Rained

Rain and typical February thawing weather forced cancellation of "outdoor" winter sports activities at the third week-end of the East Tawas Winter Sports Carnival Saturday and Sunday but the "indoor" events of the Carnival took all honors for the week-end. The winter sports committee is "praying" for more snow and colder weather this week-end, Saturday and Sunday, February 12 and 13, to make the final days of the Carnival enjoyable to those who participate in skiing, tobogganing, snowshoeing, ice skating, ice fishing, and ice boating.

Saturday night at the Community Building, more than 600 persons assembled to witness the coronation ceremonies of pretty Senia Loffman as Snow Queen of the 1938 East Tawas Winter Sports Carnival.

Jimmy Stevenson, genial news and sports commentator of Radio Station WJR, Detroit, with appropriate ceremonies, placed the crown of fragrant cedar branches on the head of attractive Snow Queen while members of her Court of Honor, comprising Rosemary Hickey, Geraldine Williamson, Ernestine Larson, and Elsie Ahonen attended their Queen.

Rambling Bill Hurley, in his capacity as Master of Ceremonies, first introduced to the Carnival Ball attendants, Gordon Castle, WJR announcer whom many know through his work with Mary Gray on the Crowley-Milner morning review hour over WJR.

Mrs. Castle and her 17 year-old daughter, Marion; and Mrs. Stevenson accompanied their husbands on the week-end trip from Detroit to East Tawas.

Following Mr. Castle's introduction at the ball, Rambling Bill then presented Jimmy Stevenson and the familiar, "Hi there folks!" brought forth a burst of applause as the favorite newscaster took the microphone of the loud-speaker system which had been installed in the ball room.

Jimmy confessed that crowning a snow queen was an entirely new experience for him but he proceeded to carry through the ceremonies with alacrity and dispatch, placing the crown of cedar branches and silver leaves on fair Senia's head and naming her Queen of the Winter Sports Carnival.

En route to East Tawas Saturday shortly after noon, the Stevenson and Castle party were bowling along over U.S. 23 at -- let us say -- a rate of speed "in excess of 40 miles per hour (nearer 70 we think) when they were overhauled and ordered to stop by State Trooper Merwin H. Mitchell of the East Tawas State Police post.

Trooper Mitchell, in all seriousness" Jimmy Stevenson, who was at the wheel of his new Dodge new cad, that he was driving in a reckless manner (Turn to No. 1, back page)

L. D. S. Church

First period, prayer and testimonies
10:45 A. M. Second period, church school and classes

7:45 P. M. Song service
8:00 P. M. Preaching by the pastor
Subject; Seeking the Kingdom of God?

Come, you are welcome to attend any or all of our services.
Apostle D. T. Williams, who, for a number of years, has been supervisor of the Great Lakes Regional Territory for his denomination, is making a farewell visit to the local congregation of the Latter Day Saint Church, Wednesday, February 16, at 8:00 P. M.

Such changes have been made by the denomination's administrative authority that necessitates the transfer of Mr. Williams from the Great Lakes Region to active supervision of fourteen of the Southern and Southeastern states.

The speaker, in preaching the farewell sermon, will use the topic, "The new earth." The local pastor invites and urges every member of his congregation as well as others to attend the church at Tawas City Latter Day Saint church.

The minister will give such a unique and interesting exposition of the text in Revelation 21:1 as will intrigue the mind of the thoughtful and intensely interest the casual thinker. Mr. Williams will be succeeded by Apostle M. A. McConley whom he recommends as his successor in office. Mr. Conley comes by the appointment of the First Presidency and with the fullest authority of his Council, the Quorum of Twelve.

Misses Cora and Denesge LaBerge left Thursday for two weeks' visit in Saginaw and Detroit with relatives.

Health Notes

The Michigan Tuberculosis Association will come to Iosco County on February 17 to take chest X-Rays for the purpose of diagnosing early tuberculosis. Early diagnosis means early recovery.

In Iosco County the death rate from tuberculosis is high; we have an average of five deaths a year from this disease. It is apparent then, that there are people among us who are constantly exposing others because they have an early case which has not been diagnosed. People in contact with a patient are subject to infection themselves. The object of early diagnosis therefore, is to remove patients to a sanatorium as soon as they are found, so that they may be cured, and so that others may not become infected.

It is the desire of your county nurse and health department to help you to rid the county of tuberculosis, but cooperation of each citizen is needed. If you have a friend or relative who cannot afford private medical care, has never had a chest x-ray, and has had contact with a tuberculosis patient, refer him to the x-ray clinic. People who have reason to suppose they may have tuberculous symptoms will also be welcome. X-rays will be taken of both adults and children.

The X-ray Clinic will be held at the East Tawas High School on February 17, from 9 to 12 a. m. Those unable to pay will receive their x-ray free of charge. Those who can, will be charged $2.00, a minimum cost for materials only. If you have had one free x-ray from the Association, then you will be charged $2.00 for your second.

The Child Health Committee will meet next Tuesday afternoon, February 15, at the Alabaster school at 2:30. Dr. Burton will be the speaker. Everybody welcome.

FOR SALE—FEEDS; egg mash, chick starter, chick grower, turkey starter, turker grower, dairy feed, hog feed. Feeds made THE HUBBARD SUNSHINE WAY makes livestock pay. Sold with money back guarantee. Consolidated Grain Corporation, Bentley and Rhodes, Michigan. 4

Late News Events

Lansing—Auditor General, George T. Gundry, today announced that the number of afflicted children accepted for treatment at the State expense has risen perceptibly during the past ninety days. The Auditor General laid the cause for the increase to the present scarcity of employment which has in many instances caused applicants who were formerly able to pay, to apply for aid as indigents.

Mr. Gundry pointed out that the per capita cost for treatment for the children now being treated, has decreased in a satisfactory manner. He said, "Since we have instituted a double check accounting system, we have been able to eliminate chiselers from our rolls. This has aided us immeasurably in conserving our resources and accepting more cases under our present budget."

In checking the files in Gundry's office it was found that an average of 1600 new commitments are made each month on which the entire cost borne by the State of Michigan. Gundry pointed out the fact that aid now extended to indigents does not release them from an agreement to pay when their financial status improves and that all such aid is rendered with the provision that the State be reimbursed.

It was explained that these costs arise out of hospitalization, doctor's fees and transportation from and to the child's home and the hospital.

Favorite Recipe of the Week

Asparagus au Gratin
ASPARAGUS AU GRATIN is just the dish to serve when you are looking for something especially good to eat that is easily and quickly made. The recipe given here calls for a medium-thick white sauce, but instead of making it you may prefer to use a can of cream of mushroom, pea, or celery soup. The soup adds flavor and eliminates the task of making sauce. If you use the soup, heat it with the cheese and serve over the asparagus to toast.

4 tsp. butter
 4 tsp. flour
 2 cups milk
 1/2 cup grated cheese
 Salt and pepper
 1 can asparagus
 tips
 6 slices toast

Melt the butter, add the flour, and stir until smooth. Add the milk and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add the cheese and season with salt and pepper. Heat the asparagus tips in their own liquid until they are hot. Arrange the tips on the toast and serve with the hot cheese sauce.

Fried slices of pineapple would be good to serve with the asparagus. Sprinkle the slices ever so lightly with sugar and brown in butter.

Nation Celebrates 250th Anniversary Swedenborg's Birth

AMAZING as it seems that one mind could encompass so many varied realms of knowledge, nevertheless it is true that Emanuel Swedenborg, the 250th anniversary of whose birth is being celebrated this year, made important contributions in many fields of science, theoretical and practical, in statesmanship, philosophy, and religion. In 1716-1718 he published the first scientific periodical in Sweden, containing records of his mechanical inventions and mathematical discoveries, which included the first airplane design to have fixed wings and moving propeller, the first air-pump to employ mercury, and the description of a method for determining latitude and longitude at sea by observations of the moon among the stars. In the "Principia," a work on physics and cosmology, he arrived at the nebular hypothesis theory before Kant and Laplace. He was 150 years ahead of any other scientist in his works on the functions of the brain and spinal cord, and on the functions of the ductless glands. Swedenborg served as an active member of the parliament of his country for more than fifty years, introducing fiscal reforms and much general legislation. At the age of fifty-five Emanuel Swedenborg discontinued his scientific pursuits and began his work as a theologian, publishing the "Arcana Coelestia, Apocalypse Explained"; "Heaven and Hell"; "Four Doctrines"; "Divine Love and Wisdom"; "Divine Providence"; "Apocalypse Revealed"; "Conjugal Love"; "True Christian Religion"; and other miscellaneous theological works. Information regarding the life and achievements and the works referred to, will be sent without charge by application to the Swedenborg Foundation, 51 E. 42nd St., New York City.

He glanced into Joyce's boudoir and passed the open door of the drawing room. Then he retraced his steps and strolled to the opposite corner only to behold more emptiness. Abruptly he knew the truth as certainly as if he had watched Joyce lead Adan down the narrow passage toward a certain spiral stair. His heart contracted with such violence it caused him to halt in his tracks in more senses than one. Where was he headed? Where had he already arrived?

His deduction had been correct; Joyce had taken Adan to the roof. As they emerged into a transluence which would have been blinding had it not been dimmed by the impalpable golden dust of the night she turned toward her companion with caught breath. His face was amiable and alive but apparently his open eyes were blind. She felt dismay and then an impulse to laugh aloud at herself. She restrained it, aided by a feeling of sadness. The impassivity of his expression dumfounded her. Was it credible he saw neither moon nor stars nor that distant double torch of snow rising against the pale blue of heaven?

Rather hopelessly she led the way to the parapet and sat down, sensing a drag as if he followed unwillingly. Last night she had shivered and Dirk had put his coat around her shoulders; tonight it was Adan who quivered to the cold but she had no wrap to lend him. Since he was far more warmly dressed than she it seemed the cold which affected him must come from within himself. He was silent; not morose—just silent and suffering. If he saw the moon, the stars and the Nevada at all, it was with a calculating and compressing eye that strove to diminish grandeur to the size of a stage backdrop for future reference. He was theater, he was city, and he was Latin; furthermore such nights as this, with snow-capped Popo added to the Sleeping Woman for extra measure, were the everyday chill-concarne of his existence. He made a movement toward his breast pocket. At least they could talk, thought Joyce; she must say something—must, must! She turned her head and felt her jaw drop loose. Adan was knotting his silk handkerchief at the back of his neck, arranging it in such a manner as to mask nose and mouth against the perils of the night air.

Joyce almost choked. "You don't like it here, do you?" she managed to murmur.

"Oh, yes, I do," replied Adan in muffled tones. "Much better than when Pepe ran the place."

Again Joyce caught her breath. "That's so," she said presently, "you visited him, didn't you?"

"Once."

"What was it? A shooting party?"

"Oh, no—a roughhouse. We brought down a carload of girls and two carloads of men. Don't let's talk about it." Abruptly his voice turned pleading. "Let's go down to the piano. I want to play for you—play for you like last night."

She rose with a sense of relief and escape to which were added several more poignant emotions—chagrin, self-pity, disappointment, to name only three, and a sort of confused dismay composed of anger at herself, and at the world in general and Dirk in particular. What had he to do with it? Nothing. That was why she was angry at him and somehow it seemed a perfectly good reason. As she hurried along the balcony, heading for the drawing room, she saw him leaning on the rail, his face lifted toward the visible patch of sky.

"Adan is going to play," she said crisply. "Want to come along?"

"No, thanks," said Dirk even more curtly. "I'm going to bed."

Under her urging Adan played only boisterous music—rollicking marches, rumbas and a galloping passo libre—and when he tried to slip into a languorous tango or a dreamy waltz she broke in with a cry: "No, no! something fast, faster—something jolly." She was studying him, measuring him by his own standard, yet giving him no chance to practice the whole alchemy of his art. He could have his piano but nothing more. Sitting there, with his agile fingers flying over the keys, he became readable, clear to her eyes. He was handsome, good-natured, shrewd, kind-hearted and fearless—an ideal master of ceremonies. Quite suddenly he rose from the piano and faced her, his eyes hard.

"You don't like me tonight," he stated.

"Why, yes, I do, Adan," stammered Joyce, "of course I do. What makes you say that?"

"No, no," said Adan, somewhat bewildered at finding himself in a role whose lines and cues he had totally forgotten if he had ever known them—the role of the undesired. He couldn't yet quite believe it. Much less could he conceive he might soon find himself cast as a pursuer if he didn't take his eyes off the flushed face before him. But some inkling of danger may have stirred his senses as he continued, "It's different tonight. You ask for silly, meaningless music—music with no soul. You don't come with me. You stand to one side to see how fast I can run up and down the piano without losing my breath. No; I won't play any more. I'm a man, not a whippet chasing an electric rabbit for you to laugh. Good-night, senorita. You are very beautiful, but this evening you happen not to be a woman."

CHAPTER XII

The bullet which passed through Dorado's leg and traversed the heart of his horse was steel-jacketed; had it been soft-nosed the wound would have been serious, possibly fatal. The heavy-set general suffered far more from the shock of his fall than by reason of the hole through his thigh, nevertheless he considered his condition grave enough to appeal to Blackadder for advice and aid. He released him from the batea and installed him as nurse—a change equivalent to a transfer from one galley bench to another since, needless to say, Pepe was in the vilest of tempers.

Blackadder had often been called upon to act as surgeon in far more desperate cases amid surroundings fully as primitive. He procured a couple of cotton jumpers, soft and ragged with wear, requisitioned a precious bar of soap and washed them out with his own hands. Then he boiled a kettle of water, tossed in a handful of salt and was ready. With a mighty grip he pressed the wound both ways from the inside out until the blood showed bright and clear of impurities. He took surly satisfaction in Dorado's howls of pain and a subsequent torrent of imprecations as the outlets were bathed with hot brine and then bandaged. Almost hourly thereafter the patient would insist on having the dressing removed. With plenty of salt water on hand Blackadder felt no fear of infection but resented such frequent interruption since he was busy with affairs of his own.

Keeping his ears and eyes wide open, a single day sufficed to give him an accurate idea of the layout of the camp; since nobody thought he knew Spanish all talked freely in his presence. It was situated at the northeastern extremity of the barranca where the chasm pinched out against sheer cliffs at whose feet bubbled the spring which supplied the brook with water. At night all the so-called miners—nothing but enslaved peons picked up at random—were herded into the depths of the two drifts opposite the one occupied by Dorado and himself. The riders then spread their petates in the airy entrances, forming a solid layer of bodies over which a fugitive would have to fly like a bat to escape. In addition two men with shotguns stood guard day and night at the right-angle turn downstream.

So much for the exterior; by night, when sleep seemed to have a fair hold on his patient, Blackadder would slip away for subterranean exploration. Darkness was his greatest handicap. Matches were scarce, candles there were none nor any lantern. Again inventiveness backed by experience—to say nothing of a knowledge of capillary attraction—came to his aid. Luxuriant castor oil shrubs grew in the shadow cast by the southern wall. He gathered a quantity of the berries, crushed out their oil into a discarded tomato can and rolled a strip off a bandage into a wick. Coiling it in the tin he let one end hang over the side, lighted it and found himself provided with a tiny but lasting beam of light.

By its aid he was able to explore the cavernous reaches behind Dorado's dwelling. There were three inner rooms besides his own. In one, sealed with a locked door of hewn timbers, he knew the daily washings of gold were stored. The other two were open to such air as was available and matted heaps of hay showed they had been used as habitations. What interested him most, however, was the shaft he had surmised must exist. He found it on his third excursion and to his delight discovered it was not vertical but ascended at a slant, showing whoever had sunk it had lacked a mechanical hoist. No doubt it was cluttered with debris, but where men had once passed a man could pass again. Here was a road to freedom, ready-made, but reflection forced him to admit it could lead only to recapture or starvation in the desert; without a horse waiting at the exit it was useless.

He reverted to the idea which had developed in a flash to the size of a full-grown oak—trade La Barranca for possession of Joyce. He had no illusions as to the cash value of the hacienda. Discovery of the bootleg gold diggings might have impressed a novice, but not an old-timer who happened to know Mexican law establishes the subsoil as the inalienable property of the state. Aware of the general situation as well, he was convinced tragic trouble and no conceivable gain would be Joyce's inevitable lot should he fail in his intention to rescue her, willing or unwilling. Dorado himself gave an opening.

"Bueno, cabron, it is now the third day and you write no letter. Tomorrow I think perhaps I send one finger."

"Listen, Dorado," said Blackadder, "you and I have seen a lot of each other and we ought to be able to talk straight from the shoulder. You occupied La Barranca for several years. Wouldn't you like to lay your hands on it again?"

Dorado straightened too suddenly, groaned and settled back.

"Go on," he ordered. "You talk, I listen, then I tell you."

"You know who threw you out, don't you?"

"That Pancho Buenaventura," cried Dorado, turning purple, "and his butcher-boss, General Onelia."

"No, no," said Blackadder impatiently. "Didn't you see a girl? Don't you know anything about her?"

"Girl?" repeated Dorado, his eyes suddenly wide. "Yes, I see one girl. Very nice girl. Who is she?"

"The daughter of Cutler Sewell, the man from whom you stole the hacienda. He's dead and she owns it."

"Me, steal!" cried Dorado, enraged. "Pepe Dorado steal No, no. That gringo, he abandon La Barranca."

"Just so," said Blackadder, "exactly the way you abandoned it five or six days ago, exactly the way the present tenant might be urged into abandoning it again. Get it, or do you want half an hour to think the thing out?"

"Si, si," murmured Dorado thoughtfully. "You tell me some more now."

"Here it is—the whole thing in a nutshell. I lied when I said I don't speak Spanish and again about being a prospector. I'm Miss Joyce Sewell's guardian acting for her stepmother. We don't want her to stay at La Barranca at any price. When you held me up you did yourself a bad turn because I was on my way to drag her out. If you want the place, help me do it now."

"How?"

"Give me a horse. Send guards to watch me all the way into the hacienda."

"Then what?"

"Sooner or later I'll snake the girl out and La Barranca will be once more abandoned and at your mercy. The only thing that stumps me is how to get away to Toluca and from there to Mexico City." He paused. "Of course, if you should try any double-crossing in the way of holding us both for ransom you'd lose the hacienda in the end and perhaps your life."

Dorado thought for a long time, his eyes half closed lest Blackadder read his mind. What fools these gringos were—they still believed in honor among thieves! He pictured first La Barranca, most desirable of all haciendas as far as he was concerned, then Joyce whom two flashes had revealed to be as lovely a girl as he had ever seen. At the moment he honestly believed he could be happy with either as long as he lived—but with both? Mere anticipation caused moisture to gather at the corners of his loose mouth.

"In exchange for freedom and the senorita," he announced finally, "you make offer of La Barranca. So?"

"That's it," said Blackadder. "I accept. The matter of your escape to Mexico City is not difficult to arrange. Near the hacienda there is a rope bridge which saves many miles. I have a car in Toluca; I shall send for it and hide it by night in an arroyo. I'll have horses at the bridge when you arrive with the senorita and I myself will be there to wish you both goodspeed. It remains only to agree on a signal announcing you are ready."

"That's the trouble," said Blackadder, scowling. "How do I know just when I'll be ready since I may have to carry the girl out against her will?"

"So?" murmured Dorado curiously. "But let's not worry over such small difficulties. The moon is in its third quarter; before it rises there are two hours of darkness. When do you wish to start?"

"Today. Now."

"Bueno. Tomorrow night, and the next, and the night after that, I shall spend the two hours immediately preceding the rising of the moon at the bridge—on the north side. Be careful how you cross it."

"I know all about rope bridges," said Blackadder. "What about your leg?"

"You are a good doctor. It is quite nearly well. Today I can walk. I will show you; I shall go now to choose your horse and give orders."

Blackadder took advantage of his absence to descend to the brook as though to wash his hands but in reality to recover his passport and wallet. Half an hour later, accompanied by three guards armed with carbines, he was riding downstream toward the switchback path which had caused him such agony a few days before. Since it was the only exit from the barranca through all its length they were obliged, once the level of the prairie was reached, to ride all the way back around the camp before starting down the other side. Before they made the turn, however, he noticed a peculiar depression masked by a patch of thorny acacias. Deliberately he passed to windward of it and caught a faint odor of smoke; so, he thought, had he risked the shaft here is where he would have come out.

But that was not to be his only discovery. An hour later, chancing to glance across the barranca, he saw a sight that first puzzled, then amazed him. Three lorries were wending their way over the plain from the general direction of Toluca. That in itself was not surprising; what astonished him was their freight—each was loaded with a howitzer. At first he had thought they were boilers; but no, there was no doubt about it, they were howitzers. He questioned the men but got only shrugs for his pains and a little farther on they came to a halt.

Word "On" Is Frequently Mispronounced; "Again" Next in Order for Carelessness

What common words do we Americans mispronounce? The office of education has helped to compile a list of the dozen words in common use that are most abused.

Strange as it may seem, the two-letter word "on" is the most frequently misused word on the list. You might think that almost anyone could pronounce this preposition correctly, but thousands say "un" or "en" and the word is just about number one in the battered American vocabulary, observes a Washington United Press correspondent.

Number two is "again." Folk in this country apparently like to pronounce it like something left over from the prosperity days before 1929, as "a-gain," or they may shorten it to "a-gen."

The rest of the list runs: toward, interesting, accept, address, preferable, drowned, perform, automobile, attacked and forehead.

the first form given in the dictionary is the preferred one.

All these words are supposed to be in the vocabulary of a person who knows at least 2,000 words. This fact is based on numerous studies of the frequency with which words are used in speech, in newspapers, in magazines, in books and on the air waves.

Of course, other words may be mispronounced a higher percentage of times, but such words belong to the higher levels of personal vocabularies that include more than 2,000 words.

For example, here are a few sticklers for your tongue if you have a vocabulary running up to 5,000 words:

Literature, extraordinary, envelope, drama, detail, recess, route and subtle.

 Robert Gillow, an English furniture manufacturer and designer, produced the present type billiard table in the Eighteenth century.

Stitches in Time

A STITCH in time goes a long way toward making your days brighter and your burdens lighter when the bustling, busy days of Spring roll round. No time then for leisure hours with your sewing kit, and fortunate indeed are the early birds who have got on with their Spring wardrobe. The moral?—Sew now!

Practical House Coat.

There is a versatility to this clever pattern which makes it a prime favorite for the style-conscious and the thrifty. Designed in two lengths, it lends itself perfectly to either of two needs—as an apron frock in gingham or seersucker for busy days around the house, or as a full length beach or sports coat in chintz or linen crash. The princess lines are smooth and flattering and there are just seven pieces to the pattern—a cinch to make and a joy to wear.

Slimming Silhouette.

This handsome frock in linen or crepe does wonders for the full figure, sloughing off pounds here and bulges there with the utmost ease. Streamlined from the shoulders and buttoned at the waist with two graceful scallops, this is the sort of frock which answers your need perfectly for almost any social or shopping excursion, a standby to see you through the Summer. There is a choice of long or short sleeves and the simplicity of the design—just eight pieces in all—insures success even for the inexperienced in home sewing.

Attractive Apron.

"Swell" isn't a word the teacher recommends but it is highly appropriate in describing this handy apron frock which goes about the business of being an honest-to-goodness apron, not just a postage stamp model to wear for effect. Appealing in design, easy to wear, extremely serviceable, with two convenient pockets, this perfectly swell apron was designed by a busy housewife who knew her oats! Six pieces to the pattern.

The Patterns

Pattern 1323 is designed for sizes 14 to 46 (32 to 46 bust). Size 16 requires 5 1/2 yards of 35 or 39 inch material for short length without nap. Five yards of braid required for trimming. Housecoat length 7 1/4 yards.

Pattern 1448 is designed for sizes 36 to 52. Size 38 requires 5 yards of 35 or 39 inch material, plus 3/4 yard contrast. Pattern 1439 is designed for sizes 34 to 48. Size 36 requires 2 1/2 yards of 35 inch material. Five and one-half yards of bias strips required for finishing.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK...
By Lemuel F. Parton

NEW YORK.—If a prisoner hadn't jumped out of a two-story window and escaped, 123 years ago, newspapers today wouldn't be front-paging the description of the biggest star in the universe, 3,000 times larger than the sun. They should have named the star Napoleon, instead of Epsilon Aurigae. His was the touch-off of events terrestrial which finally ranged out 3,000 light years and brought news of the giant star. Chronologically, as the astronomers would put it, it was like this:

Frederich Georg Wilhelm Struve was a studious German youth who wanted to be an astronomer, but lacked opportunity for study. For no apparent reason, a ranging band of Napoleon's scouts seized him and locked him in a prison on the banks of the River Elbe.

He timed his high window-dive to the passing of a queer-looking ship, made a long, hazardous swim and was pulled aboard. The ship was homeward bound to Russia. The czar was a patron of astronomy.

The young man was encouraged and became not only director of the observatory of the University of Dorpat, but one of the founders of modern astronomy, with Herschel and Bessel.

His sons and grandsons became famous astronomers and it is his great-grandson, Dr. Otto Struve, who, with his assistants at Yerkes observatory of the University of Chicago at Williams Bay, Wis., discovers the facts about Epsilon Aurigae.

He is director of the observatory. He arrived here in 1921, after fighting with the white armies in Russia and fleeing to Turkey with their collapse. He became director of Yerkes observatory five years ago at the age of thirty-four.

IN THE new movie, "Hollywood Hotel," Bennie Goodman, trumpeter and swinger, again demonstrates that he gets all the college trade. The boys whinny with excitement at Mr. Goodman's most off-hand toot. Expeditions sent by this department into the far domain of youth say it's that way all over the country, particularly among the collegians.

The Dossier says he does it with his "gut-bucket, barrel-house, screw-ball and grunt-iron music." Be that as it may, it nets him $100,000 a year.

At the age of ten, he was a semi-pro vaudeville musician, earning around $2 a week in Chicago's Ghetto. He was the eighth of eleven children of a tailor who earned $20 a week. He bought a mail order clarinet on the installment plan, and, by the time he was thirteen, was a full-fledged journeyman musician, but still in short pants.

He first got out in front in California, running his first band in 1931. He slumped down to $40 a week in 1934, moved in with Billy Rose, hit his stride again, and, via radio, is a recent arrival in the top-money brackets.

He is twenty-seven, tall, dark, athletic, good-looking, with rimless octagonal glasses, and, the more savage his music, the more money he makes.

FRANKLIN MOTT GUNTHER, American minister to Rumania, decorously, and quite unofficially, he says, challenges the new anti-Semitism in Rumania. He is a suave career diplomat who once pulled headlines as big as a Rumania war would get today. That was in 1914, when there was less news.

He was a guest on a yacht anchored in Christiania harbor. The harbor master told him that spot had been saved for Kaiser Wilhelm's yacht.

There was an argument and the harbor master said Mr. Gunther had clipped the cap off his head and wouldn't pick it up. It boiled up into a big international story, but Mr. Gunther came through it nicely to continue representing his country in many foreign ports.

President Coolidge made him minister to Egypt in 1928. He is a native of New York, fifty-two years old, an alumnus of Harvard.

Author of "God Save the King" The origin of "God Save the King" has been wrapped in mystery for centuries. It was first sung by Harry Carey at a dinner to celebrate the capture of Portobello by Admiral Vernon in 1740, according to Pearson's London Weekly. Carey admitted authorship of the words, but refused to commit himself about the music. The song achieved instant success on the wave of patriotism that followed the declaration of Bonnie Prince Charlie as king. English citizens sang it everywhere as a retort in favor of the legitimate monarch, and it was first sung in the presence of the monarch, at Drury Lane in September, 1745.

Clever Smocks in Gay Wash Fabrics

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IF WINTER comes, can spring be far behind?—a query that has a most literal interpretation when applied to fashion. While northern blizzards rage and their cold breath sometimes penetrates to even southern climes, manufacturers and designers are busy with beautiful cool washable fabrics, styling them into feminine array that bespeaks the height of fashion.

This fact is illustrated during spring market week in Chicago when the national wash apparel showings of nearly 10,000 new spring and summer styles by over 100 members of the Chicago Wash Dress and Apparel association are presented. At this time thousands of retail buyers from every section of the country come to this style mecca to purchase the gay pretty dresses and blouses, smocks and housecoats, beach ensembles and play-suits of washable materials that cause shop windows to blossom in the spring and rival the best efforts of nature in their bright fresh loveliness.

A preview of these intriguing spring and summer fashions holds good news for women everywhere. You can get wash materials that look as if they belong in the silk or the wool classification and that dressy and choice in appearance it is almost unbelievable that they tub to perfection, but they do. Yes indeed, it's going to be one of the biggest wash dress seasons in years. Dresses are simple in line and cut and that makes them easy to launder, but their very simplicity embodies all the subtle chic which American designers have been learning from Paris all these years. From a dollar house dress to an evening formal all the styles are as smart as skilled workers and ingenious fashion creators can make them.

And the smocks! Well, that's what we want to tell you about most at this writing for there is so much of romance, of charm and chic and flattering design expressed in both their styling and the wash fabrics of which they are fashioned you will be wanting to know some of the new ways they are taking on. Especially so, since at the threshold of spring, fancy ever turns gaily to thoughts of assembling a wardrobe of fresh, pretty clothes for mild-weather wear, not the least important among which is a collection of smocks that while they be utilitarian (that's taken for granted) they must qualify as "a thing of beauty and a joy forever"—carry with them, so to speak, a guarantee to make the wearer look her most charming self at work or at play.

Well, here they are, just such smocks as you are looking for, three of the prettiest models you will find, look the fashion world over if you will. See them pictured here, right before your very eyes, each a Barmon smock of printed broadcloth. The one to the left shows a gorgeous flowered patterning that carries you right out of mid-winter gloom into the outstretched arms of spring. The lesson this gladsome smock teaches is that you can't possibly go too far in choosing 'em gay this spring, for all signs say that prints are going to be more extravagantly colorful than ever.

Looking for the rainbow are you? Well just glimpse the smock to the right, if you please. See your coveted rainbow in all its glory for the girl pictured is wearing a five-color rainbow smock.

The gem of 'em all, in our opinion, is centered in the group. This gypsy fringe frock, as it is called, is designed from a Rumanian shawl, for the shawl, as we all know, is the most prized possession of a gypsy lass. Particular attention is called to the fringe of golden hue which adds gorgeous glamor to the picturesque mode.

COLLEGE GIRL CHIC
By CHERIE NICHOLAS

What the college girl affects in the simplicity of the peasant bandanna which she dotes on wearing, just as you see in the picture, is offset by the sophisticated jewelry which she takes keenest delight in displaying. If she has gone properly modern she invariably wears a single strand of pearls with a sweater, and the latest trick of the campus is a gold and crystal bracelet with her favorite movie star pictured in each crystal ball. The little finger ring is cunningly designed of gold to look like a belt with buckle of diamonds. The other bracelet is very striking, made with cabochon-cut green onyx and chalcedony set in gold.

Evening Slippers Printed evening slippers that include many different colors are being worn at the southern resorts.

Really New Beret to Make Its Appearance in Spring

The ubiquitous springtime beret has a new interpretation in exquisite pastel felts—pinks and blues—with high front on a navy grosgrain headband and worn flat as a pancake on the back of the head. But the news is the sophisticated navy face veil Sally Victor, designer, tied around with swishy bow ends. Then a prim little white toya sailor with mercury wings has a green face veil tied about it and a sophisticated shiny Milan in black banded in Persian embroidery has a crisp black veil tied in a big bow.

Navy Blue Makes Stylish Tailored Street Dresses

Navy blue tailored street dresses with touches of white trim are featured for daytime wear, both in light woolsens and silk crepes in the Mainbocher mid-season collection. Of simple line, the frocks are made with elaborate detail, and the white of the trim is repeated in gloves for the costume.

Chalk stripe and pin stripe suits in black and navy are shown with the tunic length jackets introduced by that house in a recent collection.

Printed Linings Furnish Lively Touch to Costume

The woman who wants to introduce a lively touch to a winter costume but thinks an entire printed frock is too springlike or too gay, will be interested in the vogue of printed linings. These are employed not only for short jackets and longer coats but for handbags, belts and hemlines. A dark frock that flares at the skirt hem will be enhanced by a printed facing, matched perhaps by the lining of the belt or by hat trimming.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. © Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for February 13

CONSERVING THE SABBATH FOR MAN

LESSON TEXT—Mark 2:23-3:6. GOLDEN TEXT—And He said unto them, The Sabbath was made for man—Mark 2:27. PRIMARY TOPIC—God's Holy Day. JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Holy Day. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Shall I Do on Sunday? YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Using the Sabbath for the Whole Man.

"A man's soul is in a bad state when he begins to regard man-made rites and ceremonies as things of superior importance and exalts them above the preaching of the gospel. It is a symptom of spiritual disease. There is mischief within. It is too often the recourse of an uneasy conscience. . . . No wonder St. Paul said to the Galatians, 'Ye observe days, and months, and times, and years. I am afraid of you, lest I have bestowed on you labor in vain.'" These are the comments of John Charles Ryle, Lord Bishop of Liverpool, on the lesson of today.

The formalists of Christ's day, the Pharisees, had overlooked the heart of God's law and the holy living which it was intended to produce, and had bound up even the observance of the Sabbath (which was intended to be a day of rest and gladness) in such a mass of technical "thou shalt not's" that it was a day of fear. They had a false outward profession of worship and had entirely missed the true spirituality of God's law, a fact which drew upon their heads the anger and rebuke of our Lord.

While we as Christians do not observe the Jewish Sabbath, there are principles of doctrine and life bound up in this lesson concerning the Sabbath which we may with profit apply to our day of rest—the first day of the week—the resurrection day, often called "the Lord's Day."

I. False Spirituality Unmasked.

The two incidents in our lesson reveal that under the cloak of earnestly observing the law of the Sabbath the Pharisees were actually covering their own hypocrisy and their hatred for Christ.

The accusations against the disciples because they had taken and eaten grain was not on the ground that they had stolen, for the law (Deut. 23:25) guaranteed that right to the one who had passed through his neighbor's field. They contended, however, that the disciples had worked on the Sabbath in picking and hulling the grain.

The healing of the man with the withered arm revealed that back of their professed concern for the Sabbath was a real hatred for Christ. It is an appalling thing that in the house of worship on the very Sabbath day these men, outwardly so religious, were plotting against our Lord. "They watched him," and even so the enemies of the cross watch us who are his followers.

II. True Spirituality Defined.

Jesus cuts across human hypocrisy and hatred to declare that the true keeping of the Sabbath is to do the work of God. No work of necessity (like plucking the grain) or of mercy (like healing the withered arm) is ever out of place on the day of rest.

How shall we know what we may do on the Lord's Day? Two guiding principles appear in our lesson. (1) Know and follow God's Word. Note the use that Jesus made of it in verses 25 and 26. No man will misuse the Sabbath or the Lord's Day who understands God's Word and obeys it. (2) Live in accordance with the spirit of the Lord Jesus. When tradition stood in the way of the best interests of man, He broke with tradition. If He could do good on the Sabbath He did it.

A word of caution is needed, for some have sought to interpret this lesson as providing biblical ground for doing all sorts of things on their day of rest. That day is for man's good, not for his destruction. His greatest good is served by rest, worship, spiritual development, Christian fellowship, and the doing of deeds of necessity and mercy.

III. Righteous Indignation Manifested.

Our Lord rightly showed His holy anger (v. 5) against his hardhearted critics. He was the Holy One who did not permit His anger to go beyond its proper expression. Man, it must be confessed, seldom is able to control and direct even his righteous indignation. But there is such a thing as being angry without sin (Eph. 4:26), and one could sometimes wish that God's children could be moved to a holy anger against all sin and unrighteousness.

Comforting Word

This is a comforting word of Scripture which presents Christ as a shepherd whose sheep had strayed.

God's Grace

Think what the grace of God is like. Grace is love loving the unlovely.

AROUND the HOUSE Items of Interest to the Housewife

For Home Dressmaking.—Make a small pincushion and sew it to a "bracelet" of elastic. Stick some pins in the cushion, slip the bracelet on your left wrist and the pins are always handy.

Use for Old Shears.—Old shears are useful in salad making to shred the leaves of lettuce or other greens.

Tasty Sandwiches.—To vary the plain peanut butter sandwich, mix peanut butter with chili sauce, spread on slices of hot buttered brown bread, and put together with crisp lettuce leaves. Garnish with slices of dill pickle.

Bacon in Stuffing.—Bacon, chopped small, should be added to all stuffing. It gives a delicious flavor.

Before Baking Potatoes.—Let them soak in cold, salted water for 15 minutes. They will bake in half the time.

Haddock With Tomatoes.—Lay a small dried haddock in a pan with a little water and bake for ten minutes. Remove skin and bones, and flake the fish into large flakes.

Melt two tablespoonfuls butter in a saucepan, fry a little chopped onion lightly in it, add one-half cup canned tomatoes, and cook until soft. Put in the fish and a little chopped parsley, season, stir over low heat until all is thoroughly hot, then serve.

Remember Our Feathered Friends.—Birds welcome bread crumbs and suet when winter winds are howling, but don't forget to provide shelter for them so they may eat in comfort. Roosting boxes are easy to make and save the life of many a bird.

Cream Soup.—To prevent skin from forming on a cream or milk soup, beat it just before serving. The froth protects it from skin formation.

When Boiling Suet Pudding.—Put three or four slices of orange rind in the water. These will collect all the grease, and the pudding will be light.

Reno News

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Perkins and son, Blair and Mrs. Will White were callers at the Russell Binder home on Sunday.

Mrs. L. D. Watts spent from Friday until Sunday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Frockins.

The neighbors and friends were shocked and grieved to learn of the death of Mrs. Tahash on Wednesday of last week at General hospital in Bay City, where she had been taken the Saturday before. She had been in poor health for several years, although she was able to care for her own household. She suffered a bad cold then a complication of diseases which proved fatal. The family has the sympathy of their many friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Harsch and children of Whittemore spent Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Frockins.

AS LINCOLN GREW OLD

The tragic march of time that etched deep furrows in Abraham Lincoln's brow is clearly illustrated in these pictures from the Yale University Press. The above photograph was made by Matthew Brady, famous Civil war photographer, on February 27, 1860. This picture and his speech at Cooper Union, Lincoln once said, made him President.

One February 23, 1863, two years after the war began, Brady again trained his lens on the features of Lincoln. Here we see him in repose, part of the war behind him, weary to his soul . . . a wise, saddened man.

Now it is 1864 and in the South Lincoln hears the steady, undiminished roar of the guns and the gasps of the dying while at home discontent rises. He is pleasant-faced and smiling here as he tries to give his followers a note of confidence. But who would say only four years separate this photograph and the first one?

Here is one of the most famous pictures ever made of Lincoln, taken during the last years of his life and showing a face scalded by time.

And here is Lincoln today, his image preserved in statuary form for the thousands who visit this revered spot in Lincoln memorial, Washington, D. C.

Bedlam Reigns in Roper's Conference . . . Housing Bill Enacted . . . German Army Versus Nazis

© Western Newspaper Union.

Business Men in Uproar

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE ROPER thought the thousand "little business" men he invited to Washington to tell their troubles and needs to the President would hold a nice quiet meeting and formulate a program that wouldn't embarrass the administration. But they fooled him.

Their opening session in the Department of Commerce auditorium was decidedly riotous and finally the police were called in to restore order. Every man present wanted to make a speech and dozens fought for possession of the microphone of the loudspeaker system in order to tell what they thought was wrong with the country and what should be done about it. Mr. Roper tried valiantly to deliver a message of greeting from Mr. Roosevelt, but the throng refused to listen even to that. Assistant Secretary Ernest Draper had little better luck. Draper announced that Fred Roth, shoe manufacturer of Cleveland, was temporary chairman, and this led to further disorder because he was "hand-picked."

RFC Chairman Jesse Jones, who tried to speak, was cheered but soon retired from the room with Roper and Draper.

Some of the business men who could make themselves heard condemned the administration for high taxes, reckless spending and unwarranted attacks on industry and business. Others called on the President to declare he will not accept a third term. They demanded he get rid of his theorists. They voted to consider the problem of taxes, shouting down the attempts of Commerce officials to sidetrack it.

Finally nine small groups were formed to discuss as many phases of the problem and carry their findings to the White House. These, with their topics and chairmen, were:

Small loans, James G. Daly of Columbus, Ohio; wages and hours, Dr. W. K. Gunter of Gaffney, S. C.; fair trade practices, Howard D. North of Cleveland; government research, Bernard McLean of Dallas, Texas; housing, D. E. McAvoy of New York; social security, O. L. Roach of Danville, Va.; development and planning of small business, Leslie E. Sanders of Orlando, Fla.; unemployment, Wallace Kimball of Long Island City, N. Y.; installment selling, R. P. Hasty of Chicago.

Housing Bill Passed

ENOUGH Democratic senators switched their votes on the Lodge prevailing wages amendment to the housing bill, so the senate by a vote of 42 to 40 adopted the conference report on the housing bill and the measure went to the White House for the President's approval. This was the first item on the administration's program to be enacted since the special session was called November 15 last.

The measure provides for government insuring of mortgages on privately constructed housing up to 90 per cent of the value of the property on homes costing not more than $6,000; and on 80 per cent on homes costing up to $16,000.

With the prevailing wage amendment eliminated, legislators and labor leaders are disputing as to the effect it will have on the wage scales in the residential building industry. Senator Lodge's amendment was approved by the American Federation of Labor, but proponents of the measure said it would defeat the whole housing program. At any rate, it appears to have served the opponents of the administration by getting it in bad with organized labor.

Generals Versus Nazis

ACCORDING to dispatches from Berlin a crisis is pending between the high officers of the German army and the Nazi government leaders. The generals brought things to a focus by forcing the resignation of Marshal Werner von Blomberg, war minister, because he had married the daughter of a carpenter. That, of course, was a minor affair, but it emphasized the split between the army clique and the Nazi party chieftains concerning the control of the Reich's armed forces. It was said Hitler was considering following Mussolini's example and himself taking over the war portfolio.

All this leads to a revival of the reports current in diplomatic circles that the army set may try to ease Hitler into virtual retirement, revive the monarchy and make the duke of Windsor the kaiser of Germany. When all the circumstances are considered, this isn't as foolish as it may sound at first.

Duke of Windsor

Admiral Claude Charles Bloch, shown above, has assumed command of the United States fleet, succeeding Admiral Heppburn. The transfer was made at San Pedro, Calif.

A. F. of L.'s Big Offer

SEEKING to organize the purchasing power of its members behind manufacturers who employ them, and to undermine the position of the C. I. O., the American Federation in its Miami convention promised to spend $6,000,000,000 annually on goods made or serviced by federation affiliates. Officials explained that what was wanted was agreement with as many manufacturers as possible to sign contracts with the federation unions in return for a guaranteed market. The union label trades department has sent a brochure to business men to enlist their support.

First step in the drive will be a "momentous national educational campaign," President William Green said. This will be marked by a national exhibition of products and services of A. F. of L. affiliates which will be held in Cincinnati May 16 to 21.

The federation's executive council endorsed a proposed change in the Wagner labor relations act that would insure to the members of craft unions within an industry the right to elect their own collective bargaining representatives.

The United Mine Workers, of which John L. Lewis is president, voted unanimously at their Washington convention to oppose any change in the act.

Gen. Franco

GENERALISSIMO FRANCO, chief of the Spanish rebels and now the dictator-president, has created a cabinet to administer the territory he controls and announced the policies of the government thus:

A labor charter, "based on the working class," and providing separate unions for workers, technicians and employers.

A press statute guaranteeing freedom of the press.

Municipal organization for efficient local government.

A public works program for reconstruction of devastated regions and an agrarian plan for loans to farmers and "judicious redistribution of land."

Revision of legislation created by the republic.

A foreign policy based on "peace compatible with the dignity of great peoples."

A financial program claiming "all that belonged to Spanish soil as well as treasures which have been stolen from Spain."

Navy Fliers Perish

DURING the naval maneuvers off the southern California coast two navy planes collided 70 miles from Point Loma, and ten of the men aboard lost their lives. Three were rescued from the sea and taken aboard the battleship Tennessee. Bodies of eight of the victims were quickly recovered. Only small bits of wreckage were found.

League Asks Aid for China

MEMBERS of the League of Nations were asked by the council to consider whether they can lend individual aid to China in its war with Japan.

Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, China's chief delegate, urged the league to halt Japan's campaign and assure a just settlement of the conflict through the co-operation of peace-loving countries.

Japs Raid Our Salmon Beds

ANTHONY J. DIMOND, delegate from Alaska, told a house committee that Japanese fishing operations in Bristol bay, off the Alaskan coast, will utterly ruin the salmon fishing industry there if allowed to continue.

Some years ago the Japanese invaded the waters of Bristol bay, Dimond said. They denied they were packing salmon, but were interested merely in "experimental" work. In 1936, however, American merchant seamen observed a Japanese steamer apparently packing salmon. Last year the Japanese began to operate there in earnest, establishing floating canneries.

Dimond is sponsor of a bill to extend the jurisdiction of the United States over the waters adjacent to the Alaskan coast in order to prevent illicit fishing operations by foreign nationals.

Japan Warns Foreigners

JAPAN'S embassy in Shanghai issued a warning to foreigners to evacuate more than 100,000 square miles in central China "in view of the possibility of extensive operations." This meant the battle north of the Yangtze river, which was fast developing into what promised to be the decisive battle of the war.

The Japanese reported their troops had occupied Chefoo on the Shantung peninsula and that their planes had bombarded the Amoy area between Shanghai and Hong Kong.

Rush Defense Plan Bill

LEADERS in congress lost no time in carrying forward the national defense program which President Roosevelt had offered in a special message.

Legislation to authorize the expenditure of $800,000,000 in naval construction was introduced immediately in both the house and senate, and steps were taken to provide the additional requirements of the army.

It was predicted the house would pass the expansion bill by the middle of February.

Chairman Carl Vinson of Georgia called together his house naval affairs committee and began hearings on the measure, certain that it would be reported favorably with little delay.

The President in his message recommended:

That the present naval building program be increased 20 per cent.

That congress authorize two additional battleships and two cruisers during 1938.

That congress authorize $8,800,000 for additional anti-aircraft equipment.

That congress provide for better establishment of an enlisted reserve for the army.

That congress legislate to prevent profiteering in war-time and to equalize the burdens of possible war.

Opposition to the bill in the house was expected to come from certain members from the middle western states. Tinkham of Massachusetts also didn't like the program, saying it was one of offense, not defense, and that the President was preparing to get the United States into the League of Nations.

Senators Vandenberg of Michigan and Frazier of North Dakota demanded that Mr. Roosevelt make public the foreign policy he expects to follow behind increased armaments.

New Dutch Princess

THERE was great rejoicing in the Netherlands when Crown Princess Juliana gave birth to a baby girl who some day may become the third queen of the country. The infant was promptly baptized, being given the name of Beatrix Wilhelmina Armgard.

Troubles in Egypt

YOUNG King Farouk of Egypt is having difficulty in maintaining the regime of Mohammad Pashe Mahmud, whom he made premier after the resignation of Mustafa Nahas, Nationalist leader. The other day the followers of Nahas created a bad riot in Cairo, and King Farouk thereupon dissolved parliament and ordered a general election.

Democrat in Stiewer's Seat

GOV. CHARLES MARTIN of Oregon appointed Alfred Even Reames of Salem to serve out the unexpired 11 months of the term of Sen. Frederick Stiewer, who resigned to enter private law practice. Mr. Reames, a lawyer sixty-seven years old, thus becomes the first Democratic senator from Oregon since 1921. He is chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic state central committee. He will not seek to succeed himself in the senate.

Jackson Gets Reed's Place

ROBERT H. JACKSON, assistant attorney general, was nominated by the President to be solicitor general of the United States. He succeeds Stanley Reed, whose appointment to the Supreme court was confirmed by the senate. Jackson has been much in the headlines lately because of his speeches attacking business and his avowed intention to seek the governorship of New York.

30,000 Bowlers To Match Skill In A. B. C. Meet

By GEORGE A. BARCLAY

YOUNG bowlers, old bowlers, fat bowlers, skinny bowlers, tall bowlers, runty bowlers, small town bowlers, big city bowlers—30,000 strong from continental United States, Canada and Hawaii—will roll balls down the alleys and pray for strikes and spares when the American Bowling Congress world's championship tournament opens at the Coliseum in Chicago on March 3rd.

From morning till night for 47 consecutive days the legions of ten-pin topplers will match skill on 40 specially constructed alleys in competition for the $200,000 cash prize money.

A bowler with a statistical mind has figured that the contestants will travel about six million miles getting from their homes to Chicago and back.

Champions and former champions will fight it out with unknown competitors for first honors. Max Stein of Belleville, Ill., all-events ABC champion in 1937, will attempt to equal or better his record-shattering performance of 2,070 pins in nine games.

But the chances of his repeating are regarded as slim, since only twice before in the 37 years of American Bowling Congress competition have all-events champions repeated.

Max Stein—All-Events Champion

Sharks Practice

On thousands of home town alleys all over the United States local bowling sharks have been practicing for months in anticipation of the tournament. Doctors, lawyers, farmers, movie actors, big league baseball players, clerks, mechanics, school teachers, merchants, salesmen, and representatives of hundreds of other professions will be among the contestants.

Tournament officials estimate that 5,500 five-men teams will be entered this year. Last year when the tournament was held in New York 4,017 quintets bowled.

Wherever you look on the map you will find big and small communities sending teams.

The little town of Land O' Lakes, Wis., with a population of only 112, but housing eight bowling alleys will send at least two five-men teams. Every big city will be represented. Among the Pacific coast teams will be the Harold Lloyd club led by the famous movie actor.

Lloyd has a set of alleys in his home and is handy with a bowling ball.

Anybody's Game

One of the intriguing things about the ABC tournament is that everybody has a chance. Today's champions are yesterday's unknowns. Last year a young bowler nobody had ever heard of, Edward Gagliardi, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., crashed through to a singles championship with a score of 749.

Aces from the baseball world who are at home on a bowling alley will participate. Ray Schalk, famous one-time White Sox catcher, will bowl on opening night. Jimmy Dykes will blast away at the pins on closing night. In between, Gabby Hartnett, Jimmy Archer, Everett Scott and others who won fame on the diamond will appear with some of the crack teams.

1st Base Switches

SEVERAL varsity first basemen in both the American and National leagues don't look any too sure of their jobs as the spring training season looms. Reports drifting in from various headquarters have it that this or that first sacker is either going to have an awful time hanging onto his job, or is already nominated for replacement.

Time alone will tell. Some of the flashy training camp recruits will fold like morning glories when the season opens and some of the apparently washed-up veterans will grab a new lease on life.

The rumors, of course, don't point the finger at all the established hands. Lou Gehrig, the Yankee iron man, for instance, couldn't be blasted out of his job with TNT. And Hank Greenberg can wager his last five-spot that the Detroit Tigers aren't going to move him, not only because of his steady walloping, but because of the tempest that was stirred up when Gerald Walker was traded to the White Sox.

But elsewhere it may be radically different. The Chicago Cubs, for instance, have publicly announced that Rip Collins will be succeeded at first by Phil Cavaretta. Seasoned baseball followers, however, don't think it will be tough for Rip to get his job back.

Over in Washington they say Joe Kuhel's job is going to young Jim Wadell and at Boston it is reported that the Red Sox are toying with the idea of shifting Jimmy Foxx back of the plate and making a try for Zeke Bonura of the Chicago White Sox. In St. Louis they say the Browns may station outfielder Beau Bell on the initial sack to succeed Harry Davis. And stories persist that the New York Giants may wind up with either Buddy Hassett of the Brooklyn Dodgers, or Dolph Camilli of the Phillies.

Braddock Retires

Jim Braddock's recent announcement of his retirement brings to a close a ring career that for ups and downs has few parallels in pugilistic history. The "Cinderella man" of boxing who had fought since 1926 explained that "in fairness to my wife and children I believe it is time to withdraw from the ring."

Jim Braddock Tommy Farr

Braddock won the heavyweight championship from Max Baer in 1935, climaxing a comeback campaign that led from a job as a dock laborer in Jersey City after he had been definitely counted out of the prize-fight picture. He lost the championship to Joe Louis in June, 1937.

Thirty-two-year-old Jim gave an impressive account of himself in winning a ten round decision recently over Tommy Farr. They say even the referee was happy over it.

Linguistic Catcher

Moe Berg, veteran catcher of the Boston Red Sox, is probably the most highly educated player in the big leagues. He is an erudite student of languages and a successful practicing attorney. As an undergraduate he made the Princeton university baseball team as a shortstop. When he left Princeton he had made up his mind to be a lawyer and decided on a baseball career to provide the money.

So he joined the Brooklyn club as an infielder in 1923. He went to Paris that winter and attended the University of Paris, extending his hobby of studying Romance languages. That one year at the Sorbonne added to his Princeton studies enabled him to read Latin, Greek, French, Provençal, Spanish, Italian, and Portuguese, in addition to Hebrew and English.

Washington Digest
National Topics Interpreted By WILLIAM BRUCKART
NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington.—It has been stated frequently that 90 per cent of the residents of Washington are located here because it is the site and seat of the federal government. In other words, Washington is a great city because it is the capital of the nation. The statement is not completely the truth, but a bare analysis by whomsoever made cannot fail to demonstrate that there are thousands who live in Washington for the reasons mentioned.

In consequence of this condition, therefore, Washington news does not get into the newspapers of the country as does other news. The Washington date line in ninety-nine out of each one hundred cases is over a story that deals with some phase of government or politics. Since Washingtonians have no vote, Washingtonians cannot be in politics.

Nevertheless, sometimes there is news about Washingtonians that is of interest to all of the country. The observation is peculiarly true of a circumstance that has lately developed. Moreover, the case in point holds a lesson for the country as a whole.

Lately, congress passed a law establishing a minimum wage for women workers in the District of Columbia. The statute was rather loosely drawn, as it had to be if it were to work at all. It left much to the discretion of a controlling agency called a minimum wage board. One of the reasons why so much discretion was left to the local agency, however, was because the subject with which the legislation deals contains political dynamite and congress did not want to establish a precedent by going too far in fixing wages. So the District of Columbia was left a rather wide scope within which to build its minimum wage structure.

That was the basis for the circumstance above mentioned, the news about Washingtonians, the lesson for the nation.

The wage board started out to hold hearings to obtain facts about the wage level and what was needed by the women workers. Stenographers, office workers, clerks in stores and this and that and the other type of employed women. Finally, the board got around to waitresses and their wages. That was where the lid blew off, because who does not know that waitresses collect considerable money in tips? Promptly, up bobbed a red hot question: should the tips, or the average monthly "take" in tips be considered as a part of the wage of waitresses?

Well, the question has not been settled yet and even when an order is issued, it will not have been settled. It will go on and on and there will be some racketeers who will organize a society or something to fight for exclusion of tips as part of the wage, if that be the order. If the board eventually decides to exclude tips and fix a minimum wage without regard to tips, the employers will carry on a drum fire of criticism about it. Why? Because the question strikes at the very heart of the relationship between employer and worker.

Any worker naturally wants as much of a return for his or her labor as can be obtained. Any employer feels equally that he is entitled to obtain needed labor as cheaply as is possible. The waitresses, therefore, took the position that the proprietor had no right to consider the tips as a part of the wage. On the other hand, the proprietor—probably with the same justification—said in effect that without the job the waitress will not get tips, and that the owner who takes the risk ought to be allowed to count those tips as part of the compensation.

Further, the customers of the restaurant were entitled to some consideration, said the proprietors. That is, they argued that the customer was charged prices for food and service that would yield the proprietor a fair profit. The tips, it was held, were gratuities on the part of the customer and they vary in amount, some large, some small. If the wage rate was to be raised and the tips excluded—somebody would have to pay more for food. The waitresses used the argument that the tips were gratuities, just as the owners did, but since they are gratuities, said the waitresses, in no wise was it fair to include them in the wage scale.

And so the argument went! But the lesson remains. No better illustration is possible, I think, than the Washington waitress wage controversy; there is no better way to show how utterly silly it is for government to mess into private affairs. Whenever government sticks its hooked nose into private affairs, just there begins an unbalancing of human nature. That is to say, there is no substitute for negotiation between humans, each inately fair, each desirous of gaining justice according to his light.

Government can and does function admirably as the agency for protection of rights that are important rights of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. It can and does prevent encroachment upon individuals where such individuals can not protect themselves. But in matters of earning a living, just plain making money, government, in my opinion, has no place. Labor has organization where organization is necessary. Such organization does protect labor, generally speaking, because it has the right to strike. And in all probability, fixing of wages will hurt more than help labor.

While on the subject of expansion of government into every cranberry patch, it is interesting to note that some of the left wing New Dealers would like very much to put the federal government into the business of making small industrial loans. I think probably it will be some time yet before the nitwit section gets anything tangible into the open on the newest of their schemes, but it is true that they are now planning along those lines.

The thought of this group of so-called presidential advisers is that the federal government should start loaning money to small businesses so that those businesses will be independent of "the great banking trust." In short, it is proposed that the federal government should be equipped to make a loan of ten thousand or twenty thousand or fifty thousand to a small manufacturer so that he can expand his plant and take on new workers, etc., etc. It is suggested that perhaps there ought to be a new governmental agency created to handle this work so that it will be done "sympathetically" and with an understanding.

It all comes about apparently from the fact that the present administration has discovered, after five years in office, that there are great monopolies or trusts or something else in the way of combinations in existence. They have found that these monopolies are in control so far that the little fellow in business can not borrow money when he needs it to carry on his business. Something must be done for them, or else they can not have the more abundant life of plenty.

President Roosevelt has become intensely interested in having business become "home owned" or something of the kind. He has shown, for example, in his shots at utility holding companies how much he likes the type of operating company that serves its patrons and doesn't mix up in the tangle of corporations that operate in more than one town or city. They are good, according to the President, and they ought to have consideration. It might be that federal money loaned to them would save them from bankruptcy—or it might be that if they can't make a go of their business, they will go bankrupt anyway. If the federal government had a loan and a mortgage on their assets, they would become federal-owned after foreclosure. That surely would be one way for the federal government to enter the public utility business. It is just a possibility, I mean.

Every now and then some information leaks out about "emergency action" that was taken by government officials during the hectic days of the Hoover depression as distinguished from the Roosevelt depression. (The depression that was on when President Roosevelt took office in 1933 was labeled the Hoover depression in New Deal propaganda.) One of these incidents came out before the senate committee on public lands the other day. The committee was investigating the nomination of E. K. Burelew to be assistant secretary of the interior, and that formed the basis of an inquiry into general practices of the Department of the Interior which is headed by Secretary Ickes.

Mr. Burelew was answering questions as to how the department spent much of the three or four billion dollars appropriated to it for public works. Those were pump priming appropriations, if you remember, although as far as I can see the water has not started coming out of the pump yet. Anyway, Mr. Burelew let the fact drop that Secretary Ickes had bought two new automobiles in 1933. He said the purchases were due to the "emergency" and, of course, money for them came from the emergency appropriations. Senator Stiewer of Oregon asked what was meant by the "emergency."

"Well, the secretary wanted the cars, and that was the emergency," Mr. Burelew replied amid laughter in the room.

THE 'BIG STICK' WAVES AGAIN

Government Opens New Anti-Monopoly Campaign Headed by Trust-Buster Robert H. Jackson; Revives Favorite American Political Custom

By JOSEPH W. LABINE

The Big Stick is being waved once more in Washington, this time to an accompaniment of sound and fury that makes the "trust-busters" in the lusty days of 1900 and 1910 seem like so many baa-ing sheep by comparison.

Today's cracking-down is pretty much the same old game; only the terminology, the amplification and the size of the field are different.

"Trust!" was the cry almost exclusively in the old days; now we hear "monopolies," "big business," "combinations," "princes of privilege," and "sixty American families" mentioned in the same breath.

A generation ago the anti-trust campaigns were fought in the courts, at comparatively small political meetings and in the press. Today they are fought in large measure over the radio, with some of the government's ablest fire-eaters stirring up millions of people in a long parade of "special" broadcasts.

In addition, the current attack advances at one time in a vast number of directions that would have amazed and confounded the old-timers, but which are characteristic of the tremendously increased scale of operation which the nation has come to accept from its government in recent years.

Monopolies were originally scheduled to have been dealt with by the special session of congress which closed just before Christmas. But when it became evident that protracted wrangling was to keep even the wages-and-hours bill, the executive reorganization bill, or any other of the "must" legislation for which the special session was called, from being enacted, the anti-monopoly drive was switched post-haste from the legislative chambers to the broadcasting studios. Assistant Attorney General Robert Houghwout (pronounced Houghwout) Jackson and Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes were the Nos. 1 and 2 cheer leaders. (At this writing Jackson is rumored about to become United States solicitor general.)

What these two and the President have said has been so widely heard and read that even the remotest hamlet is already familiar with it. But what is the government actually doing—not saying—in this renewal of the old familiar war against trusts?

Seek New Laws:

The administration is again demanding that congress pass laws, such as that requiring the federal licensing of corporations, which will "strengthen" the campaign against "big business" and monopoly.

President Roosevelt is seeking the co-operation of heads of large corporations toward a planned economy which may or may not remove some of the alleged evils.

And the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice has 29 anti-trust cases pending determination by the federal courts. These are the evidence "on the record" of what the government is actually doing. Their scope defies history to produce a precedent.

Four Acts in Effect.

The Sherman anti-trust law of 1890 remains still the most important of the rules under which the battle is being fought, but there are three others: The Clayton anti-trust act of 1914; the Federal Trade Commission act of 1914, and the Robinson-Patman law of 1936 to protect small business men from chain the Hall patents until they ran out in 1909.

Monopoly charges against the Ethyl Gasoline corporation, Earl C. Webb and John Coard Taylor, also grow out of the manner in which the government protects patents on vital inventions.

New York Headquarters.

Jackson, as head of the anti-trust division, has 20 new assistants, costing $150,000 to help him wield the war club, and has opened offices in the New York Federal Courts building for the big drive. Western Union and Postal Telegraph systems are due to be tried there. And he recently succeeded in obtaining permission to sue the Aluminum company, already operating under the consent decree of a Pennsylvania federal court, in New York, where he is slated to run for governor this year.

Sen. William E. Borah of Idaho is the dean of trust-busters. Now, with Senator O'Mahoney of Texas, he seeks a federal law licensing corporations as a curb on monopoly.

An idea of the variety and scope of other federal anti-trust cases pending in the courts may be gleaned from a brief summary of a handful of them:

Jackson swears that the Party Dress Guild, Inc., is restraining interstate trade in women's and misses' party dresses. Monopolies are apparently making it something of a task for odd-size ladies to get out at all, even to parties, for he also charges the Half-Size Dress Guild, Inc., with restraining interstate trade in women's and misses' half-size dresses.

The Protective Fur Dressers' corporation, he says, is skinning the public as well as the more sprightly world of rabbits, by restraining and monopolizing trade in rabbit skins. Local No. 202 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America is charged with restraining the fruit trade; the United Sea Food Workers with tying up the salt water fish business, and the Dairymen's Association, Ltd., with fixing the price of milk in Honolulu.

Oil Defendants.

Several oil company officials, recently convicted at Madison, Wis., on charges of conspiring to restrain gasoline trade, are making plans to appeal the verdict.

The anti-trust division may have to fight an appeal from the Interstate Circuit, Inc., on a decision which agreed that the organization was setting minimum admission charges for second-run moving pictures and prohibiting the use of them on double-feature programs.

Federal investigations are being made of suspected monopolies in the rubber, cement, milk and window products industries. A federal grand jury in Milwaukee, Wis., was investigating monopoly charges against automobile finance companies linked with Ford, Chrysler and General Motors, but the court dismissed the grand jury without hearing its report, much to the chagrin of the Department of Justice. More will probably be heard on this score.

Which of these suits will be won by the government, which may be dropped and which won by the defendants of course remains to be seen. The record for the first era of trust-busting (up to a time shortly before the war) was 42 persons imprisoned, 1,338 fined, and 104 decrees secured in civil proceedings. © Western Newspaper Union.

Floyd Gibbons' ADVENTURERS' CLUB

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"The Unseen Foe"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO, EVERYBODY:

It's Dan O'Donoghue of New York, late sergeant of the Royal Munster Fusiliers, who tells today's tale of mystery and terror. Like one of Kipling's "Soldiers Three," Dan has fought all over India. He has seen the things that Kipling saw, and he's bringing us such a tale as Kipling might have written—the story of a strange and terrifying experience on the Northwest frontier, up near Khyber Pass.

Word had come that the tribes were plundering and raiding up Khyber way, and the Munster Fusiliers was one of the outfits, ordered out against them. They left their barracks in Rawalpindi, Punjab, in the summer of 1908, entrained for Peshawar, marched through the pass, and fought their way into Lundi Kotal, the fort on the other side of the Afghan border.

They chased the marauding tribes back into the hills, but that, as Kipling would say, is another story. The one we're concerned with happened on the way back.

No Beer, So They Drank Water.

The regiment passed through Peshawar again and marched on to Shakhadar, twenty miles away. There, for the first time during the expedition the native canteen manager, Hari Chand Khapur, ran out of beer. "No one who hasn't been in India," says Dan, "has any idea how necessary beer is to the fighting forces. Most of the water in India is contaminated and unfit to drink. But that day we had nothing else, so we drank it and liked it. We pitched camp that night, went to bed early, as orders had been issued for an early morning start the next day. But daylight came, and we still hadn't received orders to fall in."

No one in the regiment could understand it. Other regiments were on the move. Two native regiments—the Twenty-second Punjab and the Fortieth Pathans—marched past the Fusiliers' camp, their drums beating and the men singing. While they were passing, the Fusiliers got an order that only mystified them the more. They were told to fall in WITHOUT their rifles.

The whole regiment was marched off to a corner of the camp. Soon a doctor appeared and began distributing medicine. While the doctor was moving down the line, the man in front of Dan dropped to the ground. Dan picked him up and asked him what was the matter. And he replied: "I don't know, Dan, but I feel very bad."

"The doctor came along," says Dan, "and began asking him questions. I thought it was strange that he didn't come near the sick man."

He Screamed One Ominous Word, "Cholera."

He stood well away, and asked me to take the poor devil to the hospital. I carried him there on my shoulders."

They Were Dying of Cholera.

There were several other men in the hospital, all of them complaining of pains in their stomachs. But that didn't mean anything to Dan at the moment. When he got back to his company they were ordered off to a spot six hundred yards away, where a flag was flying. They were issued beer and rum that evening, and given a supply of green goggles to keep the sun out of their eyes. All the rest of that day they lay in camp, doing nothing, and wondering why they weren't on the march.

When Dan awoke the next morning there was a great commotion outside his tent. "I lifted the tent wall," he says, "and asked the sentry what was the matter. 'Oh, Lqd. Donoghue,' he cried, 'we're all dying. There are dozens dead, and by tonight it'll have taken all of us!'"

Dan sat straight up on his cot. "What'll take all of us?" he wanted to know. And the sentry screamed one ominous word. "CHOLERA!"

Dan will never forget the things he saw during the terrible days that followed. "You can get away from an enemy," he says. "You can fight and bluff your way out of tight corners in a battle. But you can't fight or bluff or run away when the cholera germ gets into your system. You suffer terrible cramps in your abdomen, and you get so weak that you can't stand up. During that epidemic it was a common sight to see the fellows visiting one another crawling along on their hands and knees."

Buried the Dead in Quicklime.

"The boys died off like flies, and those who died were buried immediately—buried all together in a long trench, with six inches of quicklime in the bottom. It was not at all common to hear a fellow say, 'Come on over and see who is getting buried.' And on one such occasion I saw the strangest sight of my whole life."

"A new trench had been dug and about fifty were getting buried in it. The bodies were brought over and laid in the ditch side by side. Some were naked, and others were fully clothed, even to the boots and puttees. As soon as each corpse was put in a blanket was thrown over it and another layer of quicklime was placed on top of that. Father Looman, the Catholic chaplain, was standing at the end of the long grave reciting the burial prayers. It was an awful and solemn moment."

"I was there to see a friend buried. Everyone else there had come for the same reason. There wasn't a dry eye in the crowd. I was standing at the edge of the trench, looking down, when suddenly I jumped. Directly below me was a body covered with a blanket, and it seemed to me I had seen that blanket move."

As Dan watched, that blanket moved again. Other men had seen it move, too. The whole crowd stood stunned for a minute, and then Dan and another man hopped into the trench—and helped out a poor devil who was about to be buried alive—in quicklime.

"And as we led him away," says Dan, "he crept crying, 'Say, what's the idea? What's all this crowd around here for?' He didn't even know how narrowly he had escaped a terrible death."

It was the quicklime that had saved him—that and the fact that he had been buried naked. Says Dan: "If he'd been buried with his clothes on he wouldn't have felt the burn of that biting stuff until it was too late. As it was, the sting of the stuff brought him to his senses, and he lived to get wounded twice during the World war."

Battle of Waterloo

The battle of Waterloo was fought June 18, 1815, between the French under Napoleon Bonaparte and the combined forces of England, Germany and the Netherlands under the duke of Wellington and resulted in the utter overthrow of Napoleon and the restoration of the Bourbon kings to the French throne. That battlefield was in Belgium, about two miles from the village of Waterloo, and twelve miles south of Brussels.

Poppy, Blossom of Evil Omen

Poppy, according to mythology, is a blossom of evil omen. They were offered to the dead since they signified sleep. Glaucus, the son of Neptune, once caught a fish. It ate some herbage and jumped into the sea. The Yellow Poppy or Papaver Glauciere Jaune originated from that myth. The cross of the pistil, according to Christian tradition, originated in its color from the holy blood which stained the flower.

TIPS to Gardeners

Get Flowers Earlier

GARDENERS can get earlier bloom from many flowers by starting them indoors from seed and setting the plants in the open soil when frost danger is past.

Plant seeds of the following indoors about six weeks before the plants are to be set out: Delphinium, pink, gailardia, lobelia, myosotis, pansy, Iceland poppy, salvia, stock and verberna.

A week or two later the following can be sown indoors: Ageratum, snapdragon, aster, dahlia, nicotiana, petunia, phlox drummondii, salpiglossis, scabiosa and vinca rosea.

Seed may be procured at your corner store sufficiently early to permit indoor planting.

With a number of popular flowers, however, there is no advantage to be gained by early starting indoors, according to Gilbert Bentley, flower expert of the Ferry Seed Institute.

In this class are sweet alyssum, calendula, calliopsis, candytuft, four o'clock, marigold and nasturtium.

Impression of Pleasure

For all knowledge and wonder (which is the seed of knowledge) is an impression of pleasure in itself.—Bacon.

2 Steps in Fighting Discomfort of COLDS

1. ENTERS BODY THROUGH STOMACH AND INTESTINES TO EASE PAIN.

2. RELIEVES THROAT PAIN RAWNESS.

All it usually costs to relieve the misery of a cold today—is 3¢ to 5¢—relief for the period of your cold 15¢ to 25¢. Hence no family need neglect even minor head colds.

Here is what to do: Take two BAYER tablets when you feel a cold coming on—with a full glass of water. Then repeat, if necessary, according to directions in each package. Relief comes rapidly.

The Bayer method of relief is the way many doctors now approve. You take Bayer Aspirin for relief—then if you are not improved promptly, you call the family doctor.

Solitude Essential

Solitude is as needful to the imagination as society is wholesome for the character.—Lowell.

Spiritual vs. Material Force

Great men are they who see that spiritual is stronger than any material force.—Emerson.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

The Ladies' Literary Club met at the city hall Saturday afternoon with 18 members present. Mrs. Thomas Shannon and Mrs. Arthur Johnson were the hostesses for the day. Mrs. Howard Switzer gave a very interesting paper on poets of today. Mrs. Roy Charters gave the word study for the day and Robert Barrington played two piano numbers. A delicious lunch was served by the hostesses.

Whittemore P-T. A. held regular meeting at the high school Tuesday night with about fifty parents and guests present. This was the best P-T. A. meeting held this term and any one who was not present surely missed a worth while program. Superintendents were present from Oscoda, East Tawas, and Tawas City. Also Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Osgerby of East Tawas. They gave a very interesting panel discussion on report cards and how to rate a student in school work and stressed very much on not discouraging the pupil on giving him low marks. That every effort should be put forth to keep the pupil encouraged in doing better. They also stressed that the parents of students should put a pattern before their children in the home to make better students and citizens. Mr. Anderson, band instructor of the Oscoda high school was present with several of his pupils, who played two numbers. Mr. Anderson also played two Saxophone numbers. The newly organized chorus, consisting of several boys and girls, of Whittemore high school sang two numbers. The parents were proud of the talent in these pupils and hope to hear them again in the near future. Those present only hope for more such worth while P-T. A. meetings. The program committee deserves much credit for this fine program. A delicious luncheon was served by the committee in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. John O'Farrell, Wm. O'Farrell and George O'Farrell were called to Flint the past week on account of their sister, Mrs. Aaron Flynn, being very low in Hurley hospital following an operation. Last reports state very little hope for her recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Webster of Onaway spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Bert Webster.

Mr. and Ed Louks left the past week for a three weeks stay at Hot Springs, Arkansas.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Grimm spent the week-end in Clare.

Miss Norma Lilly of Alcona and Miss Mills of Mikado spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Chas Schuster.

Elgin O'Farrell spent the week-end in Pontiac and on Sunday motored to Blissfield and spent the day with his brother, Oramel of the State Police Force.

Mrs. George Gay and Mrs. Chas. Chipps entertained Wednesday evening with a miscellaneous shower at the Masonic hall in honor of Ella Fuerst, who will become the bride of Malcom Bruce of Detroit, the last of this month.

Word from Saginaw states that Mrs. R. J. Smith is quite ill at the home of her niece.

ADVENTURE IS COMING
IN THE AMERICAN BOY

Readers who like adventure and the lure of the far places will find plenty to please them in coming issues of THE AMERICAN BOY Magazine. They'll read, for instance, of seamen and sabotage and San Francisco water-front trouble; of daring adventure in the world of pseudo-science, and of a feud aboard a plunging, rolling battleship.

They'll read, too, of excitement aboard a transport plane blaring over jungled Mexican mountains, and of stranger planes that are not bound to earth but swing through the noiselessness of space. Readers can follow a young explorer as he searches for clues in the wild northlands, and Tierney, the pie-eating detective, on the trail of city criminals.

A new feature in THE AMERICAN BOY is picture pages that tell stories. Pictures, for instance, that vividly show a day in the life of a coast guard, and how an Eskimo husky sled dog does his work. They transmit the thrill of battling a hundred pound, water-churning tarpon. Tips on how it's done are also given pictorially—ranging from how to run a broken field to how to be correct in a ball.

NOTE: Subscription prices of THE AMERICAN BOY are $1.50 for one year or $3.00 for three years, foreign subscriptions 50c a year extra. Send your name, address and remittance to THE AMERICAN BOY, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit, Michigan. On newsstands, 15c a copy. adv.

School Notes

High School

Fourteen students received marks which entitle them to be placed on our semester honor roll. Of this number six were Seniors, three Juniors, three Freshmen, and two Sophomores. Of the fourteen only three had all A's. These three were Kathleen Davis, Marion Musolf, and Harold Ross. The following is a complete list of students who received no mark lower than a "B": Kathleen Davis, Lucille DePotty, Hazel Herman, Myrton Leslie, Janet McLean, Marguerite McLean, Marion Musolf, Norma Musolf, Erma Lou Pfahl, Frieda Ross, Harold Ross, Otto Ross, Richard Ziehl, and Frieda Witzke.

The Junior class had the best attendance record for the first semester. However, they had the most tardy, while the Freshmen had the lowest percent present, they also had the fewest tardy. The percentage of attendance and the number tardy for the first semester are as follows: Juniors 96.5%, with 35 tardy, Seniors and Sophomores were tied with 96.3%, the Seniors having 18 of their number tardy and the Sophomores 21; the Freshmen 95.0% and only eight tardy.

There were only fifteen students who were neither absent nor tardy during the first semester. Of this group, eight were boys and seven were girls. There were seven Freshmen with perfect attendance records, five Juniors, two Sophomores, and only one Senior.

The Seniors took first honors in the scholastic averages for the semester. The averages are somewhat lower than last year, the marks being 1.979 to 2.024 for the entire school. In winning the Seniors had an average of 2.011. They were followed by the Juniors with 2.051, the Freshmen with 1.988, and the Sophomores with 1.750.

The contest for the declaimers will probably be held on Friday, the eighteenth. There will be fifteen entered in this contest.

Last Monday morning the high school students were entertained by a small circus. Mr. Callendar, who was assistant animal trainer with Ringling Brothers Circus, and his assistant brought several animals, which he owns and has trained, to the school building. Mr. Callendar showed how he trained some of his animals. A Canadian brown bear which he is training, he had done some of the tricks he has accomplished so far. This bear is not very old and likes to play. The students had the privilege of going up and petting the bear. He also had a Chinese chow dog do some tricks such as saying his prayers and doing as he was told to do. Mr. Callendar's best act was with his five mountain goats. They jumped over hurdles, Little Blondie fooled them and went under them. Two of them walked on a bar about five or six feet from the floor. Others walked on a narrower bar with pegs sticking up on it. Pete, another of the goats, walked on the same bar, only he walked on the pegs not in between them as the others did. The show lasted almost an hour and was greatly enjoyed by those who saw it. The show was also presented in the lower grades.

Seventh and Eighth Grades
We have lost another school-mate from the seventh grade. Robert Hynes has gone to Detroit to live.

The eighth grade has completed their National Government study and has started Michigan State Civics.

For some time we have been working with percentage and how we hate it.

Primary
Our Valentine party is to be Monday afternoon. We plan to have a post office instead of a box.

Jack Hynes has left our room. He moved to Detroit.

We like our new books: "Red Deer, the Indian Boy" and "Nip, the Bear," very much.

Since our circus Monday, many have enjoyed the circus movies that we made during drawing class.

ner and that he would have to take him in Jimmy meekly obeyed and started to follow the State Police car. Everyone in the party except Mrs. Castle who tumbled that a "gag" was being executed, believed that Jimmy was due to answer for his misdemeanor in police court and might possibly spend some time in jail until they could reach Rambling Bill Hurley and get him released in time for the coronation.

When they neared Tawas City, they tumbled to the gag when they were met by Rambling Bill Hurley and others from Tawas City and East Tawas. But when first overhauled by Trooper Mitchell near Au Gres they thought they were too far away from Tawas City and East Tawas to be running into a "special" reception committee.

Anyway, Jimmy says hereafter he's going to drive very carefully, especially when he spots a State Police car in his rear view mirror.

Following the Carnival Ball Saturday evening, which was attended by Jimmy Stevenson fans from Alpena, Harrisville Oscoda, Tawas City, Standish, Bay City, Saginaw, Flint and other cities, members of the reception committee and the general winter sports committee, and their wives, attended a Dutch lunch at Rambling Bill Hurley's log cabin resort.

Sunday morning, bright and early, along about 11 a. m., the Stevenson and Castle party arose, breakfasted at Hurley's, then proceeded to fill their lungs, long accustomed to the air of Detroit filled with exhaust gasses, with pure ozone of north-eastern Michigan on a drive along the shore route of US 23 to Oscoda and the Au Sable River. Saturday afternoon, the party visited Silver Valley in Huron National Forest where the ski and toboggan slides are located. Then followed a tour of the Silver Creek CCC camp with Lieut. Donald Yanka, officer in charge of the camp. Conservation Officer Art Leitz and Seng. Hiram Grimason, in charge of the East Tawas State Police post, then took the party to the Lumberman's Memorial Monument overlooking the Au Sable River.

Jimmy Stevenson in his address at the banquet praised the work of the general committee, headed by Fred Adams, who, with the aid of residents of the community were responsible for the success of the East Tawas Winter Sports Carnival.

And to the thrills he and his party enjoyed on their trips to Silver Valley, the CCC camp, and the Lumberman's Monument.

He urged all communities in Iosco County to get behind the Winter Sports Carnival and make it an event to command attention throughout Michigan; to get behind the citizens of Tawas City and cooperate with them in making the annual Tawas City Perch Festival in April a real event again this year; and to boost this section of northern Michigan for its scenic beauties both in winter and summer.

Music for the dance was furnished by Rambling Bill Hurley's orchestra under the leadership of Joe Pfeiffer who plays one of the best old-time "fiddles" in "these here" parts. The East Tawas High School band also played on Saturday and Sunday for the honored guests.
