JAS. BAGULEY DIES; PIONEER RAILROADMAN

Funeral Services for Aged Man Held Monday Afternoon

James Thomas Baguley was born at Syerston, Nottinghamshire, Eng-land, on September 16, 1855. He was married to Hannah Hunt of Besthorpe, Nottinghamshire, on May 21, 1878, at East Stoke church, where he was organist. They remained at East Stoke until coming to the United States in May, 1883. They located first at Breckenridge, Gratiot county, and three months later came to Tawas City. Mr. Baguley secured work with the crew that were surveying for the first railroad, running from Alger to Tawas City. He later worked as fireman on the Bay City Alpena railroad and the Detroit & Mackinac railroad, giving 42 years of faithful service. To him went the honor of being the fireman on the first engine that went into Alpena

On coming to reside in Tawas City, he and his wife affiliated with the M. E. church. He served as trustee, which office he held at time of death, treasurer, organist, Sunday School Superintendent and for many years as leader of the adult Bible Class.

Joyce did not wait for the end; leaving the men still arguing she went to her room, sat down at the desk and strove to prepare herself for what she felt sure would prove an ordeal. Blackadder was not long in following; she motioned toward a comfortable armchair and he sat

"Joyce, I'm a queer bird," he began in a voice so amiable it startled her. "That little talk we had vesterday-I certainly got off on the wrong foot, and I'm sorry. That's been my trouble all my life-making other people angry through getting riled myself. If a vile temper was something you could have cut out like an appendix I swear I'd take ether tomorrow."

"Better wait," she said smilingly, scarcely able to credit her ears, "until you get somewhere you can do it right-surgeon, hospital and a pretty nurse."

"Yes," said Helm more soberly, "those things are a long way off— an awful long way off—and that brings me back to the line I meant to have taken from the start. I ought to have reasoned with you, Joyce, shown you a fact or two you're too young to think out for yourself. For instance, you've got this place, you've actually taken it over, but you can't hold it—not pos-

"But that's exactly what I'm doing," protested Joyce.

"You think you are, but it can't last," asserted Blackadder with growing confidence. "It's against reason, Dorado, the science of economics, the Mexican and American governments. What's fooling you just now is the well-known phenomenon of the calm between the two winds of a cyclone. Besides, it isn't worth it. The worst trick you could play on any American would be to give him this rancho for nothing."

"It isn't a rancho," corrected
Joyce quietly; "it's a hacienda the difference between a toy balloon and a Zeppelin."

"I know, I know," said Helm, showing a first trace of impatience, but he promptly restrained himself. Her placidity fooled him into thinking he was really getting somewhere; why spoil it? "The thing that gets me, Joyce, is how you could ever bring yourself to come here after what-what happened."

"You mean about my mother?" asked Joyce in the same still voice.

"Yes," he answered. She rose with a peculiarly swift motion and stood with fingers resting on the desk to steady herself. A moment before she had seemed small, on the point of resuming the familiar form of the young girl he had felt sure he could handle; now, suddenly, she was an imposing and arresting figure.

"I wonder if you can be made to see what I see," she began, her voice low and vibrant, "what I've seen for years, all my life. It worked with Mr. Van Suttart, perhaps it might with you."

"What?" asked Blackadder. "Things that happen—especially terrible things," continued Joyce, ignoring the question, "can't be measured or weighed or seen away from where they took place. My mother's death has become part of time. To me it's a stone in a long high wall-longer and older than any one life. It's built into La Barranca, and so am I. Come with me and I'll try to show you what I mean-a world, my part in it, where my part began and where you think it ended."

Blackadder rose and fixed his eyes on her rapt face. "Since you offer to read my thoughts, just where do I think it ended?"

"With escape, of course," said Joyce, "father's and mine. But it's the difference that counts; with him there was no return."

The great idea-the blinding inspiration-did not come to Blackadder until many minutes later at the moment when Joyce, standing aside for him to pull open the little postern door, stepped past him into the velvet blackness of the outer garden, stopped and drew back. Her dark head seemed to vanish; there remained only the stenciled splotches of her printed frock.

"I'm sorry it's too dark tonight to show you," she said. "It was through here-where I used to

"Not too dark for me," said Blackadder quickly. "If you haven't forgotten the way I could follow you quite easily."

"Could you?" said Joyce doubt-fully. Her dilating pupils made out a hitherto unseen tree and then another. "Why, yes; I'm beginning to see quite well now myself. Come on. It will be lighter beyond the

A few minutes later, standing on the platform of mossy masonry which had once been a pier, they became dimly visible to each other in the cut steel light of the stars. Blackadder had taken off his coat as they walked along and with nervous fingers had rebuttoned it in the

"Yes," he said, "I realized you must be cold. Here, slip it on—slip it on like a sweater."

Before she could quite understand, before she could raise her arms, the coat was descending over her head. How extraordinary, she thought, and was on the point of crying out it was nonsense to put on a coat like that when its sleeves swirled and tightened; one around her neck, the other across her as-tonished half - open mouth. Then she struggled frantically, but the sleeves only drew tighter. They were being tied, knotted. She was gagged, trapped, powerless to raise her hands.

Too late she realized her only chance would have been to runrun at the first instant of attack. But already Blackadder's arms were descending past her hips to her knees; they closed, lifted her, hung her like a sack over his shoulder. If only she could get at the buttons! But she was lying on them and all he need do to keep her that way was to tilt her knees upward.

He did it twice, and that was enough to cure her. He was strong; she had never imagined a man could be so strong. She felt him step off the pier and creep along its side until he reached the edge of the water. Immediately he sank halfway to his knees but persevered, making his way toward the right. Once he reached and turned the angle of the hacienda's outer wall he knew where he was; now all he had to do was to keep in touch with that wall, follow it so closely no eye from the ramparts above could spy him. As Joyce struggled the cloth of the coat grew hot and soggy against her face. Promptly she quieted and bent every effort to getting a little air by turning her head this way and that. She must think, and to think she must breathe. After all, this was only Helm Blackadder in the grip of an insane conviction he was doing his duty as decreed by God and Irma Sewell. Why be frightened?

She lost all sense of locality until he slowed almost to a complete halt, released the pressure of his right arm to take a grip on one of the hand ropes and ventured a cautious foot on the bridge. At its first oscillation she realized her chance had come at last; once started down that treacherous incline no longer would he dare practice the trick of raising her knees. She tore at the buttons, freed one hand; quickly she untied the sleeves, threw back her head and screamed for help at the top of her voice.

"Leonardo! Tobalito! Accude! Dirk, Dirk, oh, Dirk!"

Blackadder clamped his left arm like a vise and kept on. He was at his last gasp, thoughts racing so madly through his brain he scarcely heard her cry. Why was he here? What was he doing? What did he care whether Joyce stayed or went? Hot sweat was pouring down his back, yet an icy crust was forming on his forehead! What a fool he had been to think he could cross this bridge carrying a wildcat in his arms - a wildcat that had seemed a feather at the start and now weighed a ton!

But there was something indomitable in him-some bulldog quality that made him the slave of an idea once he had sunk his teeth in it and drove him on to domination whatever the cost. It explained much-why he was here and why he couldn't quit.

The floor of spiles beneath his feet was rising-for an instant it had been level, now it was steep! He was winning-winning through. He looked up and saw a bulky shadow. Two brown hands like talons were

"You've taken off your coat!" ex- | burden. He had won! But only Do- | struction of the bridge, or was it rado's left hand seized on Joyce; his right crashed into Blackadder's face, sending him hurtling backward. He tumbled, rolled. He could feel his nails breaking as they clawed vainly on the corrugated surface of the spiles. His arms thrashed out. One of them struck against a rope and for his very life he wound it on his wrist. Fury blinded him; now to climb back, bury his thumbs in Dorado's doublecrossing throat and-

At that moment all four anchor ropes at Dorado's end were slashed and Blackadder knew an instant of horror as the bridge fell. Treachery, and now death! But what saved him was the very depth of the gorge. The severed bridge acted as a bumper as it slammed against the opposite cliff, its dangling end reaching less than halfway down. Shaken off, torn by thorns, cut by the shale, bruised against boulders, he rolled to the bottom. Then silence-minutes of silence before he commenced to groan. Presently a frenzied voice called down at him. "What's the matter? Who are you down there? What happened?"

Immediately there were other excited voices. Under Leonardo's direction two of the severed ropes were hastily knotted into one, another added, and Tobalito was descending backward, his bare toes seizing like hands on grip after grip. Having tied the end of the rope under the injured man's shoulders he ascended almost as fast as he had gone down and helped haul Blackadder to the top. Dirk leaned over him.

"Blackadder! You? What happened? Where's Joyce?" He took hold of his shoulder and shook it. 'Answer! Where's Joyce?"

CHAPTER XIV

Joyce, seized by an arm, had been dragged forward so violently she would have fallen face down had not the same hand supported her and set her on her feet. She heard a low laugh and looked up into Dorado's unforgettable face. Nightmare—this was nightmare. He was laughing at the trick of the coat. Now he repeated it with modifications. No longer need it cover her head; let her yell all she liked. Also it was secured in place not with the buttons but by the simple expedient of a lariat wrapped around her from shoulder to waist, leaving enough loose end to bind her to the man with whom she must ride. No sooner was the operation completed than the cavalcade set off, Dorado in the lead, she at the extreme rear. Already lights were showing and people coming on the run from the hacienda, but if any shots were fired she would get them

Dorado, convinced Blackadder's mouth was closed forever, saw no reason to hurry. The half dozen horses ambled along at a running walk, giving Joyce time to think, too much time, time enough to grow part of this ghastly dream? Oh, if only it could be a dream! An hour passed. Her knees grew chafed, burned and then turned numb with the pain. She swayed and would have fallen had she not been tied to the man before her, but the worst was yet to come. With the descent of the switchback path, owing to the changing of the angle of pressure, agony returned fourfold. She broke down and wept, sobbing whimperingly in her abject misery. As relief had come to Blackadder on the level stretch from the path to the camp, so it came to her. But it was not complete.

An hour passed and she found herself released of her bonds and stretched on the army cot in Dorado's quarters. Then it surged over her. Nothing but divine rest mattered-nothing. Her eyes shut with almost a click and she slept. When she woke a fine fire was burning at the entrance to the drift and by its light she saw Dorado seated on a camp stool near by, watching her out of half-closed eyes. As hers opened wide his did also. He smiled but said nothing. They looked at each other for a long time and the longer the silence lasted the more did Joyce feel her heart grow tight and small in her breast. What magic word could save her? But it was he who spoke first.

"You frightened, hein?" "Talk in Spanish," said Joyce, surprised she could speak at all. 'It will be easier for both of us." Promptly his heavy face brightened and he became voluble. "Ah, that's better, much better. In castellano I can talk, tell you things, explain how simply and easily everything can be arranged in only you turn out to be as reasonable as you are beautiful."

"I don't feel beautiful," said Joyce shortly, straightening on the cot and bracing herself. "I'm thirsty—terribly thirsty."

"Ah, forgive!" cried Dorado, turned and shouted an order. A man came running with a pannikin of water fresh from the brook and scarcely had she drained it before another retainer appeared carrying a tin plate heaped with food.

"It's a molle de guajalote," said Dorado proudly. "Knowing you were to be my guest I ordered it especially for you.'

At first Joyce merely toyed with the most famous of Mexican dishes but presently hunger triumphed over anxiety and she began really to eat.

Slowly, then more slowly, for the longer each mouthful lasted the more time she gained to think. But somehow thinking didn't seem to do much good; perhaps talking-saying anything at all-would be bet-

"What do you want?" she asked. "Money? La Barranca? What?"
"You," said Dorado briefly, smiled and waited.

"That's impossible," said Joyce after a pause. "Nobody can take me—not while I'm alive. That probably sounds silly, but I mean it."

Blackadder's murder and the de-(TO BE CONTINUED) "Social Competence" Can Be Measured;

New Test Determines Fitness for Life

by a new yardstick known as "social competence." It is the newest effort of science to determine the mental and sociological level of human beings. It contemplates the day when the science of eugenics may be applied to breed a superior race and weed out the incompetent, feeble-minded and other social dependents.

Dr. Edgar A. Doll of the Vineland, N. J., training school, originated the yardstick. He declared that when social competence is expressed mathematically as a "social quotient" it is similar to the longfamiliar "intelligence quotient" and is comparable to it in many ways in measuring the intangible factors of human behavior.

Writing in the Journal of Heredity, Dr. Doll explained that the social quotient is not a measure of the intelligence of a human being, but rather a rating of an individual's fitness for society and parenthood. A feeble-minded person of very low intelligence might be rated to live freely and independently instead of being confined to an institution. On the other hand a highly intelligent person might be found socially incompetent and unfit for society.

Social competence under this yardstick is analyzed according to six valuations: Self-help, locomotion, communication, occupation, self-direction and socialization. In a baby, "self-help" would include grasping objects or sitting up unsupported. In an older child, it would after his health. In an adult, selfreaching out to relieve him of his direction would include using money came a state monopoly.

The ability of a person to fit into providently, providing for the fuachanging world may be measured ture, and assisting others.

The social measurement of an individual can be obtained by questioning a friend or relative, Dr. Doll said. Thus it is possible to analyze social competence of children yet unborn through their parents.

Pottery and Stoves in Ancient Chinese Graves

The ancient Chinese, like the Egyptians, were much concerned about extending the necessities, comforts and conveniences of life to their deceased relatives and friends. Consequently they buried with the dead various implements and even human servitors.

Among the things buried with the dead were pottery models of stoves, so that the cooking of food might be continued in the other world. A number of these, dating to about the beginning of the Christian era, are in the hall of Chinese archeology of Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago. Also exhibited is a cast-iron stove of a type practical for actual use in cooking. This, although likewise found buried in a grave, is of the type of stove upon which the people of the period did their cooking, according to a curator of sinology. Made during the later Han dynasty (A. D. 25-220), it is one of the oldest extant castiron objects in the world. The process of casting iron was unknown to the ancient Greeks and Romans, but was the basis of an important industry in ancient China. Iron founders amassed large fortunes, mean going about alone or looking and in 119 B. C., during the reign of Emperor Wu, the industry be-

Fashion Goes Definitely Bolero

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

EVENTUALLY, why not now, a bolero costume? The bolero vogue is sweeping through all fashiondom like wildfire. Both in suits and dresses the bolero has leaped into the very foreground of the mode with such a flourish none can escape it and what's more no one with an eye to chic and charm will want to escape a fashion so flattering, so kind to waistlines, so make-youlook-young as do these new bolero silhouettes.

You can get most any type of a bolero outfit you happen to want which counts a lot when you are choosing a fashion "first" for spring. A simple tailored model is very practical in that with a supply of diverse blouses and a collection of intriguing accessories your bolero costume comes well nigh serving as a whole wardrobe in it-

If you decide on a tailleur we would suggest that you look for a tweed in the ultra smart new wheat color or if navy or black be your preference you will be able to find models galore tailored of wool twills (watch twills for they are going big) or of gaberdine or of dependable crepe or that which will carry the summer through, triple sheer. See to it that the bolero be duly equipped with trim little pockets, two or more if you please.

For those whose fancy turns to softer dressmaker styling there's no ly in the style parade, so be sure to haps the outstanding note is sounded in plain with print combinations. Of these types there is such a vast outpouring from style sources you will feel an attack of brain storm coming on when you try to make a selection. Sometimes the bolero and skirt is in monotone with perhaps mated print to which a gypsy sash is matched. Then again the entire bolero is of the print with sash to

With object in mind of calling attention to the widely diverse trends interpreted in the now-so-important bolero costume, the three models were carefully selected from among a showing of advance fashions designed by the Style Creators of Chicago in the wholesale district. These are typical of what you will find in leading shops and departments during the coming months.

In the center of the group we present a charming dress of navy crepe, its modish bolero effectively trimmed in white nailheads. "They say" navy is going to be an outstanding color choice for spring. In fact, all blues are good with especial emphasis on the new gray blues. Here's another "pointer:" try with a navy bolero suit a blouse and sash in a soft violet shade, with which wear a boutonniere of spring violets, with plenty of self leaves in cool green.

Sugar sacking in the very, very new wheat color makes the costume to the left. It has a brown print silk blouse with sash to match. The meticulously tailored bolero has the smart military influence. Ideal for spring is the sheer wool crepe in beige outfit pictured to the right. The revers in tuxedo style are of cat lynx, the tawny colorings of which tune admirably to the general scheme of things. The furtrimmed bolero is a fashion highlight that is destined to shine brightkeep your eye upon it. In concluding we just thought you might like to know that in the shops you can find the most fascinating boleros of colorful suede with belts or tie sashes to match. Wear them with any skirt or dress and you'll be classed with the best-dressed. @ Western Newspaper Union.

LACE RESORT MODE

Whether for active or for spectator sports this cotton lace dress is just the thing for wintering in the South or taking along on a cruise, and then keeping until spring, when it will serve delightsomely for warm days. The dress is cool and colorful and does not rumple easily, which is important for long, hot days, also an argument in its favor when it comes to packing for travel. The scalloped edges and the contrasting belt are new notes for the classic two-piece frock.

LATE BELT MODES IN HUNGARY STYLES

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Every nation has some form of art particular to its people. In Hungary, little nation in southern Europe, this folk art takes the form of exquisite embroidery that has become famous throughout the world.

Weisz of Budapest has adapted the traditional patterns of the peasants and styled them for the newest belt modes. Skilled peasants, both men and women, have transferred the gay designs to linen and handloomed jute belts.

The linen belts in natural or chalk white have bright woolen flowers embroidered on them. The edges are finished with a button-hole stitch of the cheerful yarn. All of them are finished with amusing and unique shaped buckles of natural colored wood, hand-painted with tiny flowers.

The hand-loomed jute belts that are perfect with suits, sweaters and light woolen frocks are also embroidered in bright yarns.

These belts are washable and of fast colors. They are in time for the crepe frocks of spring and sum-

Hats of Youthful Drape Style Shown by Milliners

Youthful draped hats are the leading contributions of Paris milliners, and a variety of new designs has been launched for wear with costumes of leading couture houses.

Still rising skyward with a forward movement, the newest hats have height in modified form to effect a lengthened silhouette without giving an exaggerated line.

Berets, toques and turned up brims, worn well back on the head or poised to one side, are leaders among the new types.

Gardeners

Know Your Soil

GARDENER who knows the quality and texture of his soil can get maximum returns from his garden.

Clayey soils require careful handling, but are productive. Sandy soils are early. Sandy loams are just about ideal for most home garden crops.

Peas, lettuce, cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower, beets, carrots, radish and onion like moderately cool, moist conditions during development. Plant them early so they will develop before the extreme heat of summer arrives.

Plant them aga_n later, timing the planting so they will mature during the cool, moist fall months. Sweet corn, beans, tomato, pepper, egg plant, cucumber, melons, squash and pumpkin are not as hardy as those listed above and prefer plenty of heat, sunlight and ample moisture for best develop-They should be planted later than peas, lettuce and carrots, so as to come into maturity during the warmest weeks of summer.

Favorite Recipe of the Week—

For Winter Meals.

SCALLOPED dishes are favor-ites for cold weather because it is a pleasure to use the oven, and because the blended flavor of foods makes such delicious finished products. The tartness of tomatoes complements most any meat that is being served, and while there are almost unlimited ways of making the dish, you may enjoy trying the following recipe:

Scalloped Tomatoes. 1 No. 2½ can 1 tbsp. sugar tomatoes 2 cups bread crumbs 1 tbsp. minced onion 4 tbsp. butter 1 tsp. salt

Combine the tomatoes with the onion and arrange a layer in a baking dish. Mix the salt and sugar with the bread crumbs and blend with melted butter. Place a layer of crumbs over the tomatoes, add another layer of tomatoes, crumbs, and so on until the dish is filled and ingredients used. Leave crumbs on top. Bake about 30 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees).

If you happen to have some sweet cucumber pickles on hand, slice two or three and add them to the above ingredients. MARJORIE H. BLACK.

JELLO, EVERYBODY:

Here, boys and girls, is the doggondest story you ever read in your life—the story of a lad who was called "yellow" and didn't like it. The story of a lad who, to show that he wasn't vellow. sat unmoved while they put up a wreath of flowers in his lapa lily in his hand—while death darted at him five times across a

His name is Philip Luongo—this lad who faced his maker rather than be called a coward—and he lives in New York city. And if you have ever got a job to do that calls for real courage, just get Phil to do it. After what he went through six years ago, in that crowded theater up in the Bronx, there isn't anything in the world that is going to scare him.

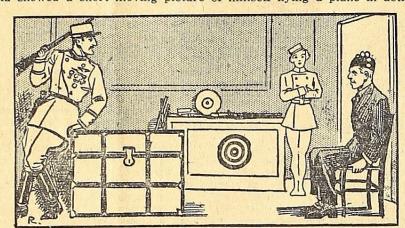

Phil Didn't Like to Be Called "Yellow."

It was a dare that started Phil Luongo off on his big adventure. A famous French sharpshooter was appearing at a vaudeville theater on Tremont avenue, and every night he called for volunteers to be his human mark-to wear a headgear with five small glass balls on it while the Frenchman shot them off one by one. Other lads who had seen the show dared Phil to go up there and be shot at. And when Phil said he didn't like the idea they called him "yellow."

Phil didn't want to be shot at any more than you or I do. But they couldn't call him yellow and get away with it. With his friends he went to the theater, ready to make them eat those sneering words of theirs. They took seats in the first row of the orchestra and waited for the Frenchman's act to come on.

The fourth act had just ended and the Frenchman was due next. He came out suave and smiling-made a short talk about his war record and showed a short moving picture of himself flying a plane in action on the Western Front. Then he went into his shooting act, performing with every kind of gun imaginable, and never missing a shot. Volunteered to Be Human Target.

As his act drew to a close, he warmed up to his big stunt of the evening. He stepped to the front of the platform, asked for a volunteer to put on the headgear. But at the same time, he warned the audience that anyone who did put on the headgear would be doing it at his own risk.

It was Phil's moment to speak up, and darned if Phil wanted to do it. He kept thinking of what would happen if the Frenchman should miss. But suddenly out of a daze, he found himself holding up his hand-crying to the man on the stage that he would volunteer to be his human target.

The Frenchman seemed to look surprised—then he smiled. Phil was ushered to the stage by the Frenchman's assistant seated in a chair over by one of the wings. He was scared to death, but he tried not to look it. Only his heavy breathing betrayed the fact that the inside of him had gone ice-cold and that his heart was pounding so hard that he felt sure it must break through his chest. Nobody tried to make it any easier for Phil. In fact, it seemed as though they were deliberately trying to scare him out of it. They put a wreath of flowers in his lap—a lily in his hand. The orchestra began playing the Funeral March. The audience laughed. Apparently they were getting a great kick out of it. But Phil wasn't. He hung onto the sides of his chair, fighting off the desire to get out of it. To run off the stage and back to his seat in the orchestra. But always when he thought of quitting, there came before his eyes the picture of those pals of his, sneering and calling him yellow.

Suddenly the orchestra stopped playing. The Frenchman pushed a trunk to the middle of the stage, lay down on his back and began sighting at Phil's head along the barrel of his rifle. A new fear gripped at Phil's heart. He hadn't known the Frenchman was going to shoot at him from any such crazy position.

Found Himself a Hero.

The Frenchman's smile disappeared. His brow knit, and little veins stood out like ropes in his forehead. There came a sharp crack, and the first little glass ball on Phil's headgear fell to pieces. Another crack—and another. Then Phil's courage came back to him. He sat calm and unafraid while the Frenchman shot off the other two balls and came toward him smiling, with outstretched hand.

The theater roared in thunderous applause. Phil suddenly found the spotlight focused on him. He tried to go back to his seat, but again and again he was brought back to take bows. It might have been the big moment of Phil's life, but it wasn't: The real thrill came when the Frenchman stepped forward to make a little speech.

He congratulated Phil on his courage in facing his gun-said it was the bravest thing he had ever seen done. And then he made a confession that surprised Phil himself. In all his years on the stage, the Frenchman said, this was the first time anyone had had courage enough to take such a chance. Usually he admitted, nobody volunteered, and he had to use his assistant for his

MEASURING A MAN'S WORTH

LESSON TEXT—Mark 5:1-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—How much then is a man of more value than a sheep!—Matthew PRIMARY TOPIC—A Man Who Went Home Well.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What Is a Man Worth?
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC -What Am I Worth? YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Putting People Before Profit.

Awful is the scene that meets us as we go with our Lord across the sea of Galilee and draw up to the shore of the country of the Gadarenes. Distressing beyond words is the plight of the man who is under the power of a legion of the demons of Satan; inspiring is the assurance that Christ is victor over the devil and his hosts; soul-searching is the disappointing picture of the men as they evaluate their brother's spiritual need over against personal gain.

The same mighty conflict between the two great spiritual kingdoms, of good and evil, God and Satan, goes on in our day. Jesus Christ is still "greater . . . than he that is in the world" (I John 4:4). Equally true is it that we must each one of us choose what is to be our attitude toward the conflict, and especially toward the Christ.

I. The Power of Satan (vv. 1-5). Foolish men sometimes speak boldly about Satan as though he were only a weakling, or perchance but a creature of legend.

The devil, who is but one being, operates through many evil spirits, or demons. They are everywhere active, and it appears from more than four or five inches Scripture that they seek a physical body through which they may func- a foundation of soft muslin, flantion. Demon-possession, which was nel or an old wool blanket is good so common in our Lord's day, still to use. One patch shown here is exists, especially on the mission field. There are some who believe that the almost unbelievable cunning and brazen wickedness of modern gangsters is an expression of demoniacal control.

The text graphically portrays what becomes of a poor soul who has gotten into the clutches of Satan. It is a dark and terrifying picture known to us even in this year of 1938. But, thank God, there is a way of deliverance.

II. The Victory of Christ (vv. 6-

The command of Jesus (v. 8) evidently preceded the cry of the demons (v. 7). Notice that the demons who hated our Lord had no doubts about His being the Son of God. They knew Him. How strange it is that many voices that deny His deity come from the pulpit, the professor's chair, or over the radio, in the name of Christianity!

The demons knew His power, also, for though they adjured Him not to torment them, they realized that they must obey His command to "come out of the man." They asked permission to enter the swine.

III. The Perversity of Man (vv.

The keepers of the swine fled to tell the owners. They and others came to see what had happened. They saw the demoniac seated, clothed and in his right mind, "and they greatly rejoiced and magnified the name of the Lord." Did they?

No, indeed! "They were afraid"

(v. 15), "and they began to pray him to depart" (v. 17).

Why were they afraid? Two reasons are suggested. In the first place they wanted no spiritual activity that would interfere with their business. Swine were of more value in their sight than the liberation of demon-possessed men. They have their successors in our day. Such are the men who rent their buildings for taverns and dance halls because they want money. Akin to them are those who counsel against the expenditure of money to keep the church open, the Sunday school operating, and for the sending of missionaries into fields white unto harvest.

A tract entitled "Suppose" asks the pertinent and searching question, "Suppose I were offered $10,000 for every soul I led to Christ; would that impel me to do more than I now do because of the constraining love of Christ?"

Another reason for their fear was that they did not want to be disturbed in their state of spiritual somnolence. Someone has said that the reason the church of our day does not have a revival is bename to C. Barnum Seeley, "so that the name of Barnum shall always be known as his name." Provision had already been made for the conaway, the pursuit of money would have to be set aside while men sought souls.

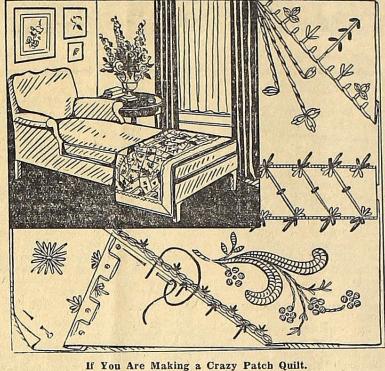

Careful Planning

Just the difference in the way the two men use their heads makes the difference in the way they conduct their business. Misdirected, systemless work will make any business management ineffective,, while careful planning, simple, effective system, will aid even moderate ability to accomplish vast re-

MAKING an old fashioned silk slipcovers and dressing tables; crazy patch quilt is a simply fascinating thing to do. From the moment you start collecting bits of silk and satin and velvet until the second you invent your last combination of embroidery stitches it holds your interest.

This type of quilt is not quilted after piecing, but tied like a comforter. No padding is needed if soft warm material is used for the foundation. The pieces are always in irregular shapes-often very tiny and the largest is seldom long. They are pinned or basted to a piece of ribbon and the selvages are not turned or covered. It is best to arrange a number of patches before you start to sew them in place with the embroidery stitches.

The embroidery is really used to give balance and unity to the whole design. If a patch seems too light make it darker by embroidering it in dark thread. If it seems too plain you can trace the little forget-me-not design shown here onto it and embroider it in natural colors or use some of the more simple designs shown here as fillers.

Many more authentic old patch work stitches are in a new leaflet which is now included with the book offered herewith. This book also tells you how the draperies in today's sketch are interlined.

Every Homemaker should have a copy of Mrs. Spears' new book, SEWING. Forty-eight pages of

Strange Facts

Sounds Can Be

Closely allied to the subject of sound is the science of acoustics, that branch of physics which has to do with making sound easily and distinctly heard in large rooms, halls, or out-of-door meeting places. In the construction of theaters, churches, or concert halls the matter of acoustics is of great importance. A room is said to have poor acoustics when sounds from the front cannot be heard clearly in every part of the room or when troublesome echoes are produced. Echoes are caused by the reflection of sound waves from large, smooth surfaces-in a room, from walls, floor, or ceiling. If the room is so constructed that there are no large surfaces of wall, the echo is broken up into small waves, none of which is heard by the listener. Mink Is a Wanderer

The male mink is a wanderer. He will often travel 10 to 15 miles in a night, says Successful Farming. The female, on the other hand, rarely leaves her den more than a quarter of a mile. The female skins are of finer quality than the male, but rarely grade more than medium. The weather is never too cold for the mink to travel.

Where Mountain Lions Live Mountain lions, variously called cougar, panther, puma, and cata-mount, range in the large wilderness areas west of the one hundredth meridian. They are hunter chiefly in the Rocky Mountain states and southward through the descrt mountain ranges of Arizona. Texas and New Mexico. Farther westward they are less numerous, xcent in the coastal ranges of California, Oregon and Washington, where they are somewhat abundant.

Schuschnigg Gives In

REICHSFUEHRER HITLER, massing 20 divisions of the German army and presenting what were euphemistically termed pow-trian press was forbidden to print hostile criticism of the Nazi regime in Germany. Many army officers and civil officials who had been dismissed as pro-Nazi were reinstated or put on pension. Altogether, the Nazification of Austria was well on the way to completion.

But Hitler was not satisfied with this, and called to Berlin the new minister of the interior, Dr. Arthur von Seyss-Inquart, a Nazi, to discuss further extension of the "conquest" of Austria. Schuschnigg was still trying to maintain the dominance of his Fatherland Front, and Hitler didn't like that. There was a report that he might go to Vienna himself, taking Field Marshal Goering with him.

Italian officialdom was highly pleased with the success of Hitler's coup, saying it accorded with Italy's central European policy and tended to solidify the Rome-Berlin align-

Great Britain and France, however, were alarmed by the developments and agreed to lodge joint representations in Berlin and Vienna asking assurance that Hitler intends to preserve Austrian independence. Neither nation would admit that actual union of Germany and Austria was feared just yet. Britain's ambassador to Berlin. Henderson, is said to have warned Hitler recently against any attempt to bring about the "anschluss" which has been one of the Fuehrer's chief ambitions.

One London correspondent said the British cabinet had just been informed that Hitler and Mussolini had formed a new secret defensive alliance of which the Austro-German arrangement was only a part. It was said to include co-ordination of the German and Italian foreign and financial policies in Europe and strengthening of the Rome-Berlin axis in various ways.

With the start he has made, it may be expected that Hitler before very long will make the move against Czechoslovakia that has been anticipated for months. That country is the gateway toward the southeast and its position is perilous in view of the Fuehrer's known ambitions. France is her ally but France would hesitate to take strong action in her behalf unless directly supported by the British.

One observer said, "the Fuehrer seems to have started on the road to Bagdad."

Jap Refusal Starts Race

JAPAN having flatly refused to reveal her naval building plans, it is believed that the greatest navy construction race ever seen is about to start, and the United States may feel called upon to take the lead, with England, France and Japan in the competition. Our government told Japan that a refusal to divulge her intentions would be regarded as confirmation of reports that she was constructing or planning super-warships, so now, according to some officials in Washington, we will have to invoke the "escalator clause" of the London treaty and build larger and more powerfully armed battle-

Relief Bill Pushed

SENATE leaders expected to put through, with little delay, the $250,000,000 emergency relief appropriation bill. The house approved the measure by a topheavy vote of 352 to 23. All efforts to make major changes in the measure were overridden. Only one amendment, barring relief to aliens temporarily in this country, was authorized.

The Works Progress administration, which has on hand about $490,-000,000 of its regular $1,500,000,000 appropriation, will administer the additional relief fund. The WPA has reported to congress that the money will keep at least 2,000,000 persons on the relief rolls until June 30.

Wiping Off RFC Debt

WITHOUT debate the senate approved a house bill writing off more than $2,500,000,000 in Reconstruction Finance corporation debts to the treasury. Senator Byrd of Virginia said the legislation marked a "return to honest bookkeeping on the part of the federal government." He explained that the RFC, which obtained all its funds from the treasury, had listed among its assets about two and a half billion dollars it had advanced for relief and expenditures in various government agencies.

Great Battle in China

ONE of the greatest battles ever fought was reported to be taking place in central China, where the Japanese invaders smashed a Chinese army of 15,000 and forced it to retreat across the Yellow river under fire and without bridges, which had been destroyed by the defenders. Five Japanese armies were driving southward through the rich central China agricultural region and were seriously threatening Kaifeng, capital of Honan province.

This Is a "Drouth Year"

B ECAUSE of early dust storms in Kansas, Oklahoma and parts of the Texas Panhandle, 1938 already is called a "drouth year" by grain for corn, cotton, wheat, tobacco and men. The weather in those regions rice at levels designed to meet dois being closely watched by traders in the United States, Liverpool, Winnipeg and Buenos Aires.

Grain experts of Chicago reported that present conditions of soil in much of the territory from west Texas to Nebraska is such that light rains quickly would break it down into powder, easily blown by high winds. Only extremely heavy rains could prevent such blowing.

Oklahoma wheat is much below that of last year at this time. The western half of the state was reported in serious need of moisture. Dust storms have seriously damaged wheat and done further damage to the state's topsoil. The central section, too, was reported in need of moisture. In all these states producers, grain traders and elevator men agreed that only part of the winter plant in each state would come to harvest should the much-needed rains fail to materialize.

Bees' Ancient Rookies Face 2nd Year Jinx

By GEORGE A. BARCLAY

CAN Jim Turner and Lou Fette, the Boston Bees' "graybeard rookies," escape the second year jinx that baffles so many baseball sophomores after a sensational first year performance?

That's the question fans everywhere are asking about these thirtyone-year-old pitchers as the spring training season gets under way. The answer won't be written until the season winds up next October. But many informed baseball men are setting that they will overcome this jinx the same as they upset the tradition that minor league veterans can't make good in the big leagues. Getting their first big-league trial after more than a decade in the minors, these astonishing veterans each won 20 games for Boston in 1937, or more than Fireball Van Lingle Mungo has ever won in a single season. Together they accounted for more than half the games the Bees won. Their combined record was better than that of all the other pitchers on the staff put together.

Turner led the entire National league in effectiveness with an average of 2.38 earned runs per nineinning game, pitched the greatest number of complete games, 24, and shared with his ancient colleague Fete in pitching the most shutouts, each turning in five.

Baseball Fatalists

Neither pitcher expects to duplicate his 1937 performance, for they are baseball realists and know that R UMANIA is now added to the European states under dictatorship. Octavian Goga's govern- can turn the tide against them. But they don't expect to have a poor season. They think they have a better chance of getting by the jinx than lots of young fellows because of their experience, maturity, attention to keeping in condition and their complete lack of over-confidence. During the winter, Turner kept himself in shape by working for a dairy in his home town of Molensville, Tenn. Fette, over in Alma, Mo., did chores around the farm, went hunting and hiking and kept down to pitching weight.

It was due to the astuteness of Bill McKechnie, then manager of the Bees and now pilot of the Cincinnati Reds, that Turner and Fette were rescued from the American association in 1937. He gambled on them and they paid out. Turner pitched for Indianapolis and Fette for St. Paul. Year after year they worked, not getting a nod from the big leagues. Neither was spectacular. Neither had much color. Both had fair speed, an average curve and good control. Both won their share of games.

But when major league scouts dropped into the ball park, it wasn't Turner or Fette they were looking at, but some flashy youngster.

Age Creeps On

After they passed the age of twenty-five, they began to be resigned, but kept plugging along anyway. Scouts who might happen to see them pitch would say: "They're good bushers, but not big time cali-Too old. Not enough zip."

Turner had a try in the big leagues at the tender age of seventeen, in 1924, when he made the spring training trip with the Boston Red Sox. But that was the nearest he got to fast company until the Bees grabbed him early last year. He believes he was a pitcher of major league dimensions as far back as 1930. "About that time I learned to use my head as well as my arm," he explains, "and I think I could have made good in the majors." But the scouts continued to ignore him and Fette until McKechnie got the bright idea they might help him at Boston. Other big league managers grinned when it was announced that these elderly rookies were pitching for the Bees. But the grins faded when Jim and Lou outguessed their star batters.

Washington Digest National Topics Interpreted R. WILLIAM PRICKART By WILLIAM BRUCKART NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

interesting to me to see how politicians frequently Too Many overlook real issues in national Laws times they stimulate the hound that overruns the rabbits. That is the reason why so often a new man in public life suddenly rises to leadership. He has taken hold of a bad situation that is right under our feet, offered a constructive solution and has dealt with an imminent condition rather than schemed for re-election through political fence building.

These facts lead directly into a bit of current history. It will be recalled how Bruce Barton campaigned through congested sections of New York's Manhattan island for an unexpired term in the house of representatives last fall. About all that Mr. Barton said of consequence in his campaign speeches was that there are too many laws. I think that is obvious. When he was campaigning on that line, he was speaking for great masses of inarticulate

But Mr. Barton went further. He announced his intention to seek repeal of one federal law a week until there is some semblance of reason in the structure of federal laws.

Now, of course, Mr. Barton is very new in politics. He had been keeping his nose to the grindstone of business. He knew only what other persons outside of politics knew, namely, that high pressure minorities, sour pusses and nit wits were getting one law after another through congress, and that, in the end, those laws would be ruinous to the country as a whole. Whether Mr. Barton thought he would succeed or whether he recognized the fact that he was only making a start, it does not matter. Bruce Barton has taken hold of an obvious issue in national affairs and it is not outside of the realm of probabilities that he will "go places" with his program. Thus far, it must be said that Mr. Barton has succeeded only in getting a dozen repeal bills into the house committees through introduction in the house. None has been acted on. Few probably will be acted on-if the house runs true to form. That is to say, Mr. Barton is a Republican and the house is controlled by Democrats and New Dealers. Naturally, they will give no opportunity for the opposition to gain credit for anything, no concessions at all.

The significance of the Barton program goes much deeper, however, and it is of that significance that I want to write. Through more than twenty years as an observer of national affairs here in Washington, obviously I have witnessed many issues develop, or be created, or be discovered. It seems to me that the really important national issues are those that develop, as the Barton program is developing. That means the issue is fundamental; it means, further, that there is no necessity for building the issue, and it means as well that it involves vital questions of policy.

As I said above, there are too many laws, too many don'ts and very few do's. Restriction and regulation always breed more restriction and regulation. The Roosevelt administration has been constantly saying "don't" in the shape of laws and the tremendous majority in congress has been giving President Roosevelt almost unlimited power to do as he wants to do beyond the "don't" legislation. So the Barton program would restore a great deal of freedom to the people themselves and would restore to congress much of the power that it has given to the President. To carry that thought further, then, the Barton program actually seems to me to propose saving only those laws that the progress of civilization shows to be sound and work-

We might consider some of the statutes which Mr. Barton wants to repeal. There is Time to Cut

The legislation, forced through by Senator Thomas of Oklahoma in May of 1933, gave the President the power to issue $3,000,000,000 in paper currency.] do not see how anybody can regard it as anything but authority to issue printing press money. Of course, it never has been used by President Roosevelt and probably never will be, but the authority to go into printing press inflation exists and that is the danger. How, for instance, can you or I or anyone else feel sure that the money we have in our pocket or the few dollars in the bank is going to be worth anything tomorow when the President of the United States, by one stroke of the pen, could turn loose a flood of worthless money.

Mr. Barton also seeks liquidation of a flock of government agencies. Some of them are 20 years old or

Washington.-It always has been | of even greater age-built as wartime emergency units, but still in existence for no reason at all. Besides the War Finance corporation and some others of that wartime era, it is proposed to get rid of some things of more recent date. The Commodity Credit corporation and the two export-import banks, to mention only three. Now, there is no reason available for retention of the skeletons of the World war, and there appears to have been no reason for creation of such things as the export-import banks. I mean there was no sound reason. Those radicals who forced the diplomatic recognition of Soviet Russia thought there was reason for the exportimport banks because they held such banks would enable trade with Russia. But Russian trade has amounted to about the same as the sale of mules in my home county of Missouri.

> Two other pieces of legislation which Mr. Barton seeks to repeal are strictly New Deal. One is that law which gave the President the right to change the value of the dollar at will, within certain limitations. I suppose there are some who still believe that devaluation of the dollar has done or can do good in aiding recovery. It seems to me, however, that existence of that power in the hands of one man is just another basis for uncertainty among all of the people. In any event, the failure of that panacea has been amply demonstrated.

> The piece of far-reaching New Deal legislation concerned is the so-called Guffey coal law. That thing is a price fixing measure. It gave authority to a coal commission to prescribe prices throughout the country, and producers would be violating a law if they sold below those figures; they would be subject to fines and prison terms. Only recently, the price fixing features were enjoined by a circuit court of appeals and so at the moment they are not operative. Yet the threat exists. And attention should be called to the fact also that the three judges who granted an injunction were appointed by President Roosevelt and supposed, therefore, to be very liberal in their views. Mr. Barton called the Guffey coal act a piece of "grand larceny against the consumers," because, he explained, the consumers are made to pay the higher prices fixed by the commission and they have no word to say

> Among other laws which Mr. Barton wants to repeal is the ill-starred silver purchase act. That law was another one which the inflationists in congress forced through in 1934 when all of the brain-trust camp followers were in their heyday. The only result that I can discover flowng from the silver purchase act is a grand outpouring of cash for the owners of silver mines. They obtained two or three times what their silver was really worth.

Analysis of the limited number of laws, I believe, shows the trend of the Barton program. It may be that he will never get to first base with any of them. My conviction, however, is quite to the contrary. I firmly expect to see a growth in the strength that such a program will muster.

Milestone in 'way off in Tient-Army History sin, China, that is a milestone in the history of the United States army. Late in February orders become operative for the departure of the Fifteenth United States infantry from Chinese soil. That, of itself, of course, does not provoke particular interest. But the famous Fifteenth has been on foreign duty for 26 years and that is the longest any unit of the United States army ever has been away from our shores.

It ought to be explained that very few of the soldiers making up the Fifteenth infantry were with the outfit when it first was assigned overseas. But the regiment has been stationed abroad and the recruits to its ranks have been dispatched continuously to it as retirements and expiration of enlistments have occurred. It is now coming back to American soil and will be stationed at Fort Lewis.

The Fifteenth has a most honorable record, beginning with its organization in 1861. It won honors at Shiloh and in the campaigns of 1862 in Alabama and Kentucky. It fought at Murfreesboro, at Chickamauga, Chattanooga, and at Atlanta. In 1880, it was at the front in the campaigns against Utes, and again in the China relief expedition of 1900, and these were followed by action in the Philippine insurrection. There was a brief spell when the regiment was on home soil, but then it went to work in Cuba. Subsequently, it was moved around here and there until the Manchu dynasty was overthrown and China became a republic. It sailed for Tientsin in November, 1912, and

Sport of 10 Million Americans Nears Another Year's Climax With Two Important National Tournaments

By JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Bowling, the ancient sport with 10,000,000 American participants, nears its climax for another season. From Brooklyn to Main Street pin boys are busier than ever with the game that changed America from a country of spectators to one of par-

Forgotten is the unsavory reputation that once made bowling the sport of saloon hangers-on. As early as 1900 the more genteel folk began kegling and by 1905 women were active participants. Subsequent development was slow until five or six years ago when bowling zoomed to ace-high popularity.

Climaxing the current season are two nation-wide tournaments drawing 250,000 participants, the $34,000 Red Crown sweepstakes and the thirtieth governing body of bowling. The sweepstakes, with weekly prizes totaling $24,600 and grand prizes of $9,400, has brought out 232,000 enthusiasts, a world record for any sports event. These people are now chalking up competitive scores in 1,500 towns all over the country. Winners of grand prizes will be announced shortly after March 6.

Competition Grows.

Five thousand teams will enter the ABC tourney at Chicago during March and April. Something like $200,000 in prizes furnishes incentive here. Figures may bore you but ABC membership spurted from 10,-000 teams in 1936 to 60,000 in 1937, a pretty good indication of the trend, Why this popularity?

One of the best reasons for enjoying the game was given by Jack Dempsey, once prominent in another field of sports. Said Mr. Dempsey: "The main thing I like about bowling is that when you knock the pins down they stay down."

Dempsey, you may recall, had a There is no lack of good maxims | little trouble keeping a fellow named in the world; all we need is to Tunney down in a Chicago ring a few years back.

The satisfaction of knocking the stuffings out of ten innocent pins at the other end of the alley undoubtedly accounts for much of bowling's popularity. Unlike other sports, anybody can be nominally successful on the alleys, which also helps.

Women like it for several reasons. They're deserting bridge clubs because one can make more social contacts on the alleys. They find the game "fascinating," and it's one of the few winter sports open to women. Anyway, it's being 'done" nowadays so why not join the crowd?

Exercise and Relaxation.

Men also like the social contacts they make at the alleys but there's an even more important factor for tired business men who can't indulge in strenuous athletics. Bowling is hard work-don't get us wrong -but there's a chance for relaxation between bouts with the ball.

Historians tell us bowling is the world's oldest sport, dating back to dinosaur days. In that misty period Stone age sportsmen were heaving round boulders at piles of rock, the purpose being to sharpen one's aim before going hunting. A few centuries later Sir Francis Drake is supposed to have defeated the Spanish Armada and saved England because he was filled with confidenceconfidence instilled by a successful game of bowling just before he took to sea. The modern game is related to nine-pins, originated by the Dutch and brought by them to Manhattan island in 1623. New York's famous Bowling Green was their first rendezvous before nine-pins became a year-round game and had to be moved indoors. Paradoxically, bowling took a new lease on life through legislation aimed to stamp it out. In the Seventeenth century New England Pilgrim fathers banned nine-pins because it wasn't elevating. So the boys decided to add another pin and beat the law.

Toss It and Wait.

The game is really simple and you can leave your inferiority complex at home. It's merely a matter of tossing a 16-pound mineralite ball down a glass-smooth alley at ten neatly arranged pins that are split is the sad fate of a man who annual tournament of the just waiting to be knocked down the American Bowling Congress, gutter. Your first toss may very possibly be as successful as that of a seasoned player. There is no physical hazard. Barring persons with ailments prohibiting any exertion, there is no muscular prerequisite. Often people with physical handicaps become amaz-ingly proficient and blind bowlers are far from uncommon. In a recent New York match between a blind team and another group with normal vision, the blind bowlers lost by a mere 16 points.

Balls are fashioned to fit any hand. The usual type is bored with a thumb hole and two finger grips. Primo Carnera's ball carries the largest grip ever made; the finger span is five and one-eighth inches. A perfect score is 300 points, requiring 12 successive "strikes." A

In Bergen, Norway, fish is served three times a day in nearly all families, and as a result, the life of the community revolves about its fish market. The Bergen housewife is a somewhat fastidious shopper, insofar as fish is concerned, and prefers to have her fish scooped up alive from salt water pools within the market. The serving of fish amounts to a fine art in Bergen.

Something for morning, something for street and a lovely frock for afternoon parties. All three are Size 34 requires 41/4 yards of 35easy to make. And you can have the complete group for a fraction of what you would usually spend, if you make them at home.

Shirtwaist Style.

Trim and tailored, this is the favorite silhouette for Spring. The skirt with kick pleat back and front is fun to wear, very comfortable for walking and going about your daily work. Note the yoke top and inverted pleat in back of bodice to permit perfect freedom. It is a grand spectator sports dress and will make up beautifully in silk crepe, rayon print or cotton fabrics. Princess for Morning.

You'll feel sweet as sixteen in this pretty square-necked princess dress with fitted lines. The silhouette is molded and slim. Note the pretty sleeves, puffed high, to make the waistline look even smaller. Choose a pretty cotton print or one of the new rayons to make a dress as charming as the one shown. You'll find the pattern complete with sew chart telling you exactly how to proceed.

Fitted Lines for Afternoon. Look lovely and picturesque in this frock on molded lines with uplift at the waist and soft shirring in front of bodice. The roll collar and low V neckline is very slenderizing. You'll enjoy the good lines, the flattery of this dress and its grand wearability. whether it is a luncheon for si

One "I Know" Worth a Dozen "I Thinks"

There's just one way to know a thing and that's to know it. A lot of fellows know things halfway, but if someone comes along and argues with them, right away they begin to doubt if what they thought they knew is so. That kind of knowledge never gets a man anywhere. Be sure. And, when you're sure, stick to it. That's the kind of knowledge that builds bridges, bores tunnels and steers ships across the seas.

Such knowledge is also the kind that builds character, that gives proper direction to life, that enables us to avoid needless trouble and tragedy.

Declamatory Contest Held

A shivering and snaking sopho-more got up before the assembly. Amid great trembling the declamation was given; then the shivering and shaking sophomore sat down in relief. This act was repeated sixteen imes amid various degrees of shiverg and shaking.

The majority of the declamations dealt with war and peace. The following are those who spoke on one of these two subjects. Hazel Herman. A Call to Action; Richard Zollweg, A Call to Action; Richard Zollweg,
A Call to Arms; Earl Shover, American Independence. Arnold Rollin, Chautauqua Address on Internal Affairs; Kathleen Davis, The Task of Youth; La Verne Koepke, The Valley of Bones; Mable Simons, I am Innocent of his blood; Betty Ulman, If We Break Faith. Victor Johnson, Let
Uls Have Peace

Us Have Peace.

Of the remaining seven, three pleaded for youth to show greater effort. They were: June Smith, The Throughbred; Walter Koenke. Don't Die on Third; Beata Buc h,A Message

Isabelle Dease has again won honors. Isabelle was listed as one of five who had all "A" Records for the first semester. Isabelle graduated from this high school last year and is carrying on the fine record she had all through her high school years. This high school is proud to have such a student on the records.

The European History Class is studying the religious reformation. They have been making quite an extensive study of the life of the Lutheran Church. They found "The Friar of Wittenberg" by Davis a very interesting account of his life.

Six new books have been added to the school library — Napoleon, by Emil Ludwig; Bismark, by Emil Ludwig; A Short History of the Rennaisance in Italy, by J. A. ADVENTURE IS COMING IN THE AMERICAN BOY

Readers who like adventure and the lure of the far places will find plenty to please them in coming issues of THE AMERICAN BOY Magizine. They'll read, for instance, of seamen and sabotage and San Francisco water-front trouble; of daring adventure in the world of pseudo-science, and of a feud aboard a plunging, volling battleship.

They'll read, too, of excitement aboard a transport plane blaring over jungled Mexican mountains, and of stranger planes that are not bound to earth but swing through the noiselessness of space. Readers can follow a young ex-Mountie as he searches for clues in the wild northlands, and Tierney, the pie-eating detective, on the trail of city criminals.

A new feature in THE AMERICAN BOY is picture pages that tell stories. Pictures, for instance, that vividly show a day in the life of a coast guardsman, and how an Eskimo husky sled dog does his work. They transmit the thrill of battling a hundred pound, water-churning tarpon. Tips on how it's done are also given pictorly—ranging from how to run a broken field to how to be correct in a ball-
