4-H AND FUTURE FARMERS MEET NEXT THURSDAY

All Day Meeting to be Held At Reno Township Hall

An all day meeting for 4H Club and F. F. A. members, high school boys, and adults, stressing demonstrations and discussions on sheep, wool and shearing will be held at the Reno town hall on Thursday, March 24. The meeting will start at 9:30 A. M. with a shearing demonstration.

These meetings are being arranged on a district basis so that E. S. Bartlett of the Chicago Flexible Shaft Company, who will be in charge of the shearing work, will have an opportunity of contacting as many 4H Club, F. F. A. members, and sheepsman as possible during his two weeks' sojourn in the state. Mr. Bartlett will conduct a shearing demonstration at the start of the meeting, and also one in the afternoon. The rest of his time will be devoted to the personal instruction of 4H Club members, and F. F. A. vocational agricultural students in shearing. Four electric machines will be in use, thus enabling four boys to shear at one time. This affords them a splendid opportunity to learn how to shear under the instructions of the nation's best teacher. Many of the boys who have received their instructions in previous years from Mr. Bartlett are now successful shearers in their communities.

During the afternoon a contest will be held for the members to select the champion 4H experienced shearer, and the champion 4H beginner, as well as the F. F. A. champion shearer, in each county. These individuals will be eligible to represent the county in the state contest at the State Fair. Last year the Flexible Shaft Company awarded three purebred ewes to the winning contestants at the State Fair; the "Sheep Breeders" Chicago, awarded a subscription to the publication to the winners in each county.

A number of other sheep demonstrations will be held throughout the day, including drenching, testing parasitic sheep, wool wringing, and preparing wool for show and market. In supplementing the wool grading demonstration and wool discussions, 25 fleeces of wool will be used. Most of these fleeces were champion and first prize winners at out of state shows during 1937, at which time Michigan sheepsman had the best showing to date, and won three champions at Chicago, including the grand championship award and two championships at Portland, Oregon. These fleeces will be included in the exhibit.

A discussion will also be given on yearly management practices and results of the contestants in the Wolverine Lamb Production Project. Pictures and other illustrative material will be used.

Plan to attend this meeting, and if you have sheep that are not doing well, you are invited to bring them to the meeting. You are also encouraged to save fleeces of wool for the county show and the State Fair. These schools are complete, and cover every phase of shearing and wool production. The demonstrations and discussions on sheep and wool are in charge of D. H. La Voi, State Sheep Extension Specialist.

Theodore Knight, North Adams, Hillsdale County, Champion 4H Club shearer in the beginners' class at the 1937 Michigan State Fair, will be along to assist in the shearing work and demonstrations.

It is also expected that Stanley Powell, Field Representative of the Michigan Cooperative Wool Marketing Association, Lansing, will be present at the meeting.

Rev. J. A. Bradley, presiding elder of the M. B. C. church, will speak to us the evening of March 23. Rev. Bradley is one of the regular broadcasters over W. M. B. C. Come and enjoy the evening with us. There will be special music.

Late News Events

Pt. Lookout—Application has been made by L. F. Rieve of Detroit for the establishment of an oil pipe line terminal here. The structure would be 1500 feet from shore.

Many objections to the proposed terminal have been received by the federal department. The principal objection is the city of Saginaw. That city contemplates a future water intake in the vicinity and contends that a pipe line might contaminate the water.

Iosco Road Men Attend Meeting at West Branch

A large delegation from this county attended a road meeting in West Branch last Friday. Nine counties were represented.

Louis Webber, of Lansing, gave an interesting talk on county road finances, stressing the fact that at the present time, funds available to County Road Commissions are not adequate to carry on the work expected of them by the public. Fred Holbeck, of East Tawas, ex-Representative from this District, also gave a talk on Legislative procedure in State and County highway affairs.

Young Democrats to Meet at Whittemore

The Young Democrats of Iosco County will hold their March meeting at Whittemore next week. They now have a membership of 70. An April meeting will be held in East Tawas with several outside speakers.

Residents Urged to Write Local History

"Activities and associations of the past explain the present, and a knowledge of them may be used profitably for a guidance in the future," says Henry A. Perry of Lansing, field manager of the Michigan Historical Commission, who was in the county Thursday of this week. "If you desired authoritative information about much of Iosco county's past history, to secure it would require much research and would be a difficult task."

"The information for a complete and detailed history of your county exists. This material should be gathered and compiled by your county historical society. If it is not operating at present it should be revived. If you have none, one should be organized. The commission will cooperate and help with its organization."

"When you have your county history written the Michigan Historical Commission will publish a condensed bulletin of it, giving all the highlights with a complete bibliography of all your source material, so that any one desiring to make research for minute details will find a ready reference. When this bulletin is published, half the edition will be given to your county society for FREE distribution to the schools, libraries, and key points of your county so that it will be available to everybody. The other half of the edition will be kept on file by the Commission in Lansing to supply calls, free of charge.

"Duplicates or copies of all source material collected by your county society is desired by the Historical Commission for its permanent files. This duplication of source material is to guard against any possible loss."

"The original copy of the source material should be placed where the people of your county may have access to it."

For further information write Harry A. Perry, field manager, Michigan Historical Commission, Lansing, Michigan.

Will Hold Field Trial at Prescott Farm Sunday

Of especial importance to the residents of Iosco County will be the approaching Field Trial of the Saginaw Field and Stream Club to be held at the Prescott Ranch Sunday, March 20.

The meet will see approximately thirty of the best pointers and setters in the state at work in the field. An ample supply of grouse and pheasants is assured the visiting sportsmen. C. T. Prescott, Sr., and George A. Prescott, Jr., each winter place a supply of grain at the disposal of the birds.

Local sportsmen are hopeful that G. A. Prescott will enter his pointer, Huron Shore Pony, in one of the events.

An all-age stake and a Derby will feature the trials Sunday. An entry fee of $10 is charged for the all-age run, with the winner receiving 50% of the entry fee money. The next two places are divided 30% and 20% respectively. An entry fee of $5 will be charged for the derby, a class for younger and less finished dogs, with the prize money divided in the same manner. Derby entries may also compete in the all-age class.

In the past the Saginaw Field and Stream Club have held the trials on the state game refuge at Midland, Michigan. These annual spring and fall trials are attended by more than a thousand sportsmen and lovers. The success of this spring meet at the Prescott Ranch may mean the annual trials will be transferred to this section. Local enthusiasts should cooperate and boost this inaugural trial here.

A banquet Saturday night at the Iosco Hotel in Tawas City will be a feature of the meeting. Officials of the sponsoring Club will be present and local sportsmen are cordially invited to attend. Tickets are 75 cents each.

TWO PROMINENT EAST TAWAS MEN DEAD

Wm. Schill Passes Away Saturday; E. J. Phillips Dies Sunday

William Schill

William Schill, well known and highly esteemed business man of East Tawas, died Saturday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harriet Gifford, after a ten day illness. He had been in poor health for several years. Mr. Schill had been a resident of the county for about 45 years. For a number of years he operated a hotel at AuSable. Later engaged in business at Tawas City. For more than 30 years he had been in business at East Tawas and had operated the Schill Restaurant since 1911.

William Schill was born at Kitchener, Canada, on July 10, 1870 and died March 12, 1938 from a cerebral hemorrhage. He was united in marriage to Miss Maria Coch of Brantford, Canada, on December 21, 1895 at the St. Joseph church in East Tawas. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Harriet Gifford, and Mrs. Dorothy Goders, and one grandson, Billy Goders of this city, four brothers, Louis of Cleveland, George of Detroit, John of Battle Creek, and his twin brother, Charles of Sarinaw, and a sister, Mrs. Anna Ringler of Kitchener, Canada.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at the St. Joseph church, Rev. Neuman officiating, with burial in the Greenwood cemetery, in the family lot.

Out of town relatives who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. John Schill and son, Clayton of Battle Creek; George Schill, Mr. and Mrs. George Fowler of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schill and son, William of Saginaw; Mrs. Bertha Ross, Miss Olive Peltz, Mrs. Pearl Fullwood, and Alva Schill all of Detroit, and Delbert Karn of Kitchener, Canada.

Edward Phillips

Edward Phillips, age 52 years, died suddenly at his home Sunday evening of a heart attack while preparing to spend the evening with Tawas friends.

Edward Phillips was born January 18, 1886, at Chesaning and was married to Virginia Hynes on August 26, 1908 at Durant. Mr. and Mrs. Phillips moved to East Tawas eleven years ago where he was employed in the auditing department of the Detroit and Mackinac Railroad. He leaves his wife, four sons, Donald, and Leland of Flint, John and James at home, two daughters, Mrs. Wm. Haguland and Miss Catherine of East Tawas, three sisters, Mrs. W. J. Abels, Mrs. Ray Wright, and Mrs. Hazel Hamer of Detroit, and a host of friends. He was a member of the K. of C. Lodge.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at 10:30 from the St. Joseph church, with Rev. Kirchoff of Gladwin officiating. The remains were taken to Vernon, Michigan, for burial.

Rural Teachers Will Meet at West Branch

The Rural Teachers of northeastern Michigan will meet at the West Branch high school, Saturday, March 19th, at 1:30 P. M. The counties included in this district meeting will be Arenac, Bay, Gladwin, Roscommon, Ogemaw, Iosco, Alcona, Oscoda, Crawford, Otsego, Montmorency, Alpena, Presque Isle, and Cheboygan.

This conference will be under the direction of Miss Delia Neal, Commissioner of Schools of Ogemaw County. Those taking part in the discussions will be Donald Baker, Commissioner of Schools of Gratiot County, and President of the Michigan Rural Teachers Association, Dr. M. L. Smith, Head of the Rural Department of Central State Teachers College, Clark Kerr, Principal of the Wheeler School and former President of the Association.

This is the eighth of a series of conferences that have been held throughout Michigan during the past year to acquaint the rural teachers with the work and objectives of the association and its relationship to the Michigan Education Association of which it is the Rural Division.

The Annual Convention of the Michigan Rural Teachers Association will be held at St. Johns, Michigan this year and plans of this convention will also be discussed at this meeting.

All rural teachers in this section of the State have been invited to attend.

Coup Amazes World

STRIKING with startling rapidity Adolf Hitler's motorized army crossed the Austrian frontier, seized Vienna, forced Austrian Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg to resign, and placed a full-fledged Nazi administration in command of the Austrian government.

Jittery European governments were thrown into a panic as they learned of the German leader's astounding coup. Britain and France sent Hitler identical protests against the Austrian invasion, warning of grave reactions, and several other powers were reported to have joined in the protest.

In Washington, Secretary of State Cordell Hull announced a hands off policy toward the European crisis, and noted leaders gave their opinion that there was no immediate danger of a general war, although they regarded the present situation as highly dangerous. By a unanimous vote, the House of Representatives began consideration of the billion dollar naval expansion bill.

Hitler's Austrian coup was a demonstration of the rapidity of modern armed forces. In less than twelve hours, 50,000 picked troops had advanced into Austrian territory and had forced the fall of the Schuschnigg government. At 10:15 o'clock at night the first mobile units crossed the border, at 1:15 in the morning the advance guard seized the Vienna police and telegraph stations and clamped down a rigid censorship. Complete surprise marked the movement. This was in contrast to Germany's movements in 1914 when five days were required for her armies to enter Belgium.

Faced with overwhelming forces, Schuschnigg broadcast the following message to the Austrian people: "The President of the republic has received from the (German) Reichsfuehrer and chancellor an ultimatum demanding that his own candidate be appointed head of a new Austrian government.

"President Miklas asked me to tell you that the policy of the Austrian government is to recede from force so that no German blood shall be shed.

"We have, therefore, given orders to our army that if it has occasion to meet German troops our soldiers will retreat.

"I yield to brute force. We must avoid bloodshed. Our troops have been ordered to retire before German troops and await further developments.

"May God protect Austria."

It was announced the plebiscite Schuschnigg had called for Sunday to permit the people to vote on whether the country would remain independent or submit to Nazi rule had been called off. The plebiscite had been denounced by the Nazis as a violation of Austria's agreement with Germany.

Arthur Seyss-Inquart, Hitler's personal representative in the Austrian cabinet, assumed the post of chancellor, and a new cabinet composed of Nazis was announced.

Meanwhile, Italy's reaction to the German coup was watched with interest, and it was believed to have placed a heavy strain on the Rome-Berlin accord. In 1934 Italy massed troops on the border to prevent Hitler's intervention in Austria, and preservation of the latter's independence has been a major point in Italian diplomacy. However, in view of the new accord existing between Italy and Germany, Mussolini will be forced to abandon either Austria or Germany, and since he has not completed negotiations with Great Britain and having few other European ties, he will be left in virtual isolation should he break with Hitler.

Unverified reports stated Italian troops were being rushed to the Brenner Pass, gateway between Italy and Austria.

In London, stock market prices slumped as the coup became public news. Despite the strong terms in Britain's note to Hitler, it is believed in some quarters that a deal has been made with Hitler, whereby the latter has been allowed a free hand in Central Europe in exchange for renouncing claims to colonies.

France, already in the throes of internal disorders, and without a cabinet, stood helplessly by. Premier-Designate Blum hurried consultations with political leaders striving to rally support, and to combine the various opposing factions into a united group. Repercussions in Czechoslovakia of Nazi power in Austria was the chief concern in France, although the cabinet meeting in Prague was said to be considering the situation calmly. Reports from Bratislava, on the

TVA Pot Boils

DETERMINED to get the "low down" on the controversy among the directors of the Tennessee Valley Authority, President Roosevelt summoned to the White House Chairman Arthur E. Morgan and his colleagues, David Lillenthal and Harcourt Morgan. It was believed in Washington that if they could not compose their differences he might ask all of them to resign.

Upon the outcome of this conference depended the action of congress leaders in relation to the resolution calling for a senatorial investigation of the entire TVA setup, sponsored by Senators Bridges of New Hampshire and King of Utah, and Senator Norris' proposal that the inquiry be conducted by the federal trade commission.

Senator Byrnes of South Carolina put forward the suggestion, liked by many, that a single administrator be substituted for the three-man board of TVA directors, this one man to be selected by a joint committee of congress.

Norris thought this plan had good features but would prefer a board of three business executives, who, in his opinion, would be more capable of administering the project than engineers, lawyers or other experts.

Bridges engaged in hot debate with administration senators. He defended his investigation resolution in a long speech in which he made detailed charges against the TVA administration and characterized Lillenthal as a "Hitler" seeking to assert dictatorial powers over the Tennessee valley.

Diplomats Shifted
SHIFTING our diplomatic representatives in Latin America, President Roosevelt sent to the senate these nominations:

Meredith Nicholson of Indiana, now minister to Venezuela, transferred to Nicaragua.
Boaz Long of New Mexico, now minister to Nicaragua, transferred to Ecuador.
Antonio C. Gonzalez of New York, now minister to Ecuador, transferred to Venezuela.

Hoover Sees Hitler
FORMER President Herbert Hoover, in Europe to study conditions, had a long talk in Berlin with Adolf Hitler, who expounded his views on world politics, and was entertained by other Nazi notables. At the close of his two-day visit in the German capital Mr. Hoover said only that he is "even more reinforced in his belief that progress in America rests in the principles of intellectual liberty and spiritual freedom, a system of free economy regulated to prevent abuse, and popular government."

Speaking of Sports

County Fair Gave Start To Track Ace

By GEORGE A. BARCLAY

BREAKING track records for the mile and other distances and winning tight races is old stuff to Glenn Cunningham, ace miler of the present generation. Glenn gets a kick out of his victories all right. He's mighty proud of being the man who ran the fastest mile ever recorded in the world's history.

That amazing performance was recorded recently at a meet at Dartmouth college. The time was four minutes, four and four-tenths seconds. This was four seconds under the Kansas star's own indoor record of 4:08.4 for the mile set in 1934 and two seconds under the 4:06.4 outdoor mark made last August by Syd Woodersen of England.

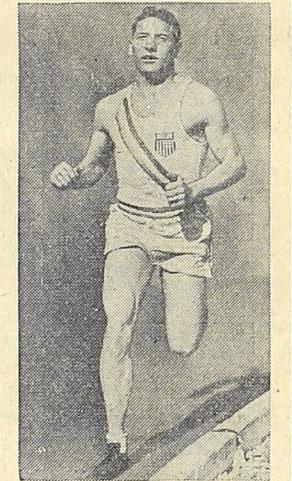

Only a few days before this epochal feat, Cunningham had broken another world's record at Madison Square Garden, New York, running the 1,500 meter event in 3:48.8.

Those were performances calculated to thrill even the most victory-laden champion. But if you asked Cunningham about the biggest thrill of his career he'll probably tell you he experienced it in his first race. That was a long time ago. The story trails back to a county fair grounds and an obscure school-boy track meet on the plains of Kansas.

When Glenn was about eight years old he was severely burned in a school house fire and for a time it was feared he would lose one of his legs. But pluck and a rugged constitution pulled him through and soon he was learning to walk all over again by holding onto the end gate of a wagon. Later, to strengthen the crippled leg he would run up and down the roads surrounding the old home place.

Never Saw Shorts

A few years later while he was still in grade school, Glenn entered a county school meet at the fair grounds at Elkhart, Kan. The track was just a dirt road built for automobile races. The youngster had never had on shorts and a sweat shirt, and hadn't yet seen spiked track shoes.

So in his ordinary shoes and every-day clothes he ran around the track and surprisingly enough, won that mile. Winning miles has been a steady habit with him ever since and he admits he has never had any relish for getting beat in any race.

Since that unnoticed little race out in Elkhart, Kan., Glenn has won any number of brilliant track battles. In high school at home and in college at the University of Kansas and clear down to the present day when he is running under the auspices of the New York Curb exchange, he has streaked through track events like a comet.

Cunningham lost his last race last year to his fellow Kansan, Archie San Romani. The younger Archie has been handicapped by a game leg so far this year, while Cunningham has been running in the greatest form of his entire career.

Future of Track

The champion sees a great future for track events in the United States provided communities that have neglected them in past years will join in a revival.

"Track," he says, "is one sport all youngsters can and should take part in. It returns untold dividends in health, physical development and the building of self-reliance and morale."

Glenn believes that any school, no matter how small or pressed for ready cash, can put on track events for its students if it really wants to. He pointed out that hundreds of schools are actually making the equipment in their own manual training departments.

Rural schools particularly, he believes, can sponsor a track if they are not already doing so.

Playing Managers

ONLY three major league managers who can also take their turn playing in the field or facing opposing pitchers in the betting box will be left in the big time, when the season opens on April 19. They are Jimmy Dykes and Joe Cronin in the American league and Jimmy Wilson in the National league. Mickey Cochrane, pilot of the Detroit Tigers, recently announced that he would not play again.

At one time not so long ago there were as many as nine active playing-managers in the big leagues. That was when Charley Grimm of the Cubs wasn't bothered with lumbago; when Frankie Frisch of the Cardinals was still a flash; when Pie Traynor's throwing arm was working at Pittsburgh; when Bill Terry's knees didn't squeak when he first-based for the New York Giants; when Rogers Hornsby still took an occasional turn with the St. Louis Browns; and when Cochrane was the outstanding catcher of the business.

So now only Dykes, Cronin and Wilson stick to their double chores and only one of them, Cronin, is a day-in and day-out performer. Wilson gave up his regular job as catcher for the Phillies two years ago and Dykes yielded to a younger man last year. Cronin, manager of the Boston Red Sox, is among the stand-outs as an active ball player. He was rated the best shortstop in the American league in 1937. He is only thirty-one and will probably stay active after Dykes and Wilson have quit.

The passing of Cochrane as a player marked the retirement of a masterful catcher, ranking among the greats of all time. Among hitting catchers, none ranks in his class. He knew how to handle pitchers. He knew opposing batters' weaknesses. He hit to all fields, rapping out frequent home runs, bunted smartly and ran the bases with speed and intelligence. Cochrane spent 13 years as an active big leaguer before he was injured critically by a pitched ball last year.

Here and There

WALTER HAGEN, JR., son of the famous golf professional, is a sports commentator for the campus radio studio at Notre Dame.

The operation on Dixie Walker's shoulder was so unusual that the former White Sox outfielder, now with Detroit, has become exhibit No. 1 at medical conventions.

Kid Norfolk, light heavyweight challenger of 15 years ago, has not seen a fight since he retired. He is employed by a Philadelphia construction company.

The American league record for most errors in a single game is held jointly, of all people, by George Sisler and Hal Chase.

Pro Tennis Treat

TENNIS fans may yet be treated to the spectacle of Ellsworth Vines and Don Budge and Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs fighting it out for supremacy in pro singles matches and Budge and Gene Mako opposed to Vines and Perry in the doubles.

Word from the West coast indicates that the fires are being stirred up under the tennis pot and it is reaching the boiling point rapidly. Budge, who electrified the tennis world when he single-handed won the Davis cup last year, is announcing unofficially that when he finishes defending the cup next summer, he will be in a receptive mood about joining the pro ranks.

Helen Wills Moody will not say she will and won't say she won't be interested in turning pro. But she has given her tennis game a stout test in recent months and if it is as good as she hopes, she is going back to Wimbledon to take another crack at the women's world's title. If she wins she will try for the national title at Forest Hills. Then she may be landed in the pro net.

The catch in the scheme for this troupe may be the landing of Helen Jacobs. She appears to be not too anxious to play either amateur or professional tennis, but a $50,000 offer from the pros might land her.

National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart
National Press Building Washington, D. C.

Washington.—From this seat in the grandstand the view is quite clear that New Deal leaders are going out in this summer's primaries to nominate New Dealers against the conservative old line Democrats. I have looked into the local situation in a number of states and congressional districts and everywhere the line of cleavage is showing. And these things are happening notwithstanding the declarations of Postmaster General-National Committee Chairman Farley that there will be no interference.

It is not the purpose here to report on every one of the states or districts where the battle is impending between New Dealers and old line Democrats. I shall attempt, however, to outline a few of them to establish what is going on and how the New Dealers are maneuvering to get a better grip on Democratic party machinery.

To do this clearly, it seems to me it ought to be recalled how President Roosevelt and numerous of his spokesmen have threatened those Democrats who have disagreed with New Deal policies in any serious way. The fight over the President's plan to rebuild the Supreme court of the United States caused a serious split in the President's support and it was immediately thereafter that threats were forthcoming about those who had refused to go along on the court reorganization. About the time that fight was in its most bitter stage, it will be remembered, Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania made a radio speech in which he attempted to kick certain Democrats out of the party. The White House denied any connection with that speech, but there were few who believed Senator Guffey was acting on his own initiative. That is to say, it appeared to be a New Deal policy, for the Pennsylvania Democrat often has served as the mouth-piece in that way.

There was comparative quiet for awhile, but those with ears to the ground noted many minor rumblings that, to the political wise, could mean only one thing. Those rumblings presaged another earthquake. They are increasing in intensity, too. We hear them from many directions.

Young James Roosevelt, son and secretary of the President who is just now serving on a tour of duty as a lieutenant colonel in the marine corps, was in Florida last month. While there he took occasion to say publicly that Sen. Claude Pepper, a New Dealer, ought to be renominated and re-elected. Well, Senator Pepper is such an ardent New Dealer that he once said if anyone wanted to know his position all that was needed was to ascertain Mr. Roosevelt's views—because he would support the President on any question.

I am told from sources that I believe have an understanding of the Florida situation that young Mr. Roosevelt's endorsement may be the deciding factor in a close race. That is to say, the race was so tight between Senator Pepper and the able young Rep. Mark Wilcox that one guess was as good as another. Now, however, Representative Wilcox is asking the voters whether they shall determine who their senator shall be or whether they shall be told by the White House. It is said that broad resentment already has been created; so much resentment, indeed, that recently Mr. Wilcox made the statement that no campaign would be necessary on his behalf if only "Sistie" and "Buzzie" Dall, grandchildren of President Roosevelt, would give Senator Pepper their endorsement.

Over in Pennsylvania another kind of a situation has bobbed up. In that state, the bosses have trouble agreeing on their candidates, and finally they took their troubles to the White House. (I mean the Democratic bosses which have supplanted the Republican bosses who used to rule Pennsylvania.) The result of the White House confab was that Governor Earle will run for Democratic nomination to the senate so he will be alongside another New Dealer, Senator Guffey, and Charles A. Jones, Pittsburgh attorney, was picked as the nominee for governor. These selections were made by the state committee, which is controlled, of course, by New Dealers, and therefore those are about the only names of importance that will be voted on in the statewide primary. But the significance of these things is not so apparent until it is known that two or three important Democrats in Pennsylvania have withdrawn and have "retired from politics" as a result of the situation.

Now, in Indiana, there is still another picture. It is probably the most interesting of any now taking shape. In the Hoosier state, we are started off with an announcement from the steps of the White House by Governor Townsend that "Van Nuys must go." He referred to the Democratic Senator Van Nuys who had the temerity to oppose the President's court packing bill and who generally is regarded as much more of a Democrat than his colleague, Senator Minton, who remains inside the New Deal fence always.

The Indiana picture is further complicated by the smoke rings Paul McNutt is blowing around. Mr. McNutt, a former governor of the state and now high commissioner to the Philippine commonwealth, is running for the New Deal nomination for the Presidency like the well-known jackrabbit. He says, however, that he is not a candidate for anything. It is a statement that is hard to believe because the McNutt airplane flight from the remote islands, the speeches across the United States, the free food—free drink—free publicity party given for Mr. McNutt at an outstanding Washington hotel—all combine to spell the launching of a political boom of some kind. So, in Indiana, the Democratic state committee soon will be setting up a slate of its choice—and that choice will be satisfactory to the President. It means that these will be New Dealers. That is apparent because of the death sentence already pronounced for Senator Van Nuys. Of course, Mr. Van Nuys isn't licked yet, but that is the picture.

Then, the Indiana situation is, or ought to be, of great interest to the Republicans. I am told that if the Democratic committee, controlled as it is, should ditch Senator Van Nuys, he may decide to run as an independent candidate for re-election. He probably would not get anywhere in a machine controlled state like Indiana, but he might draw enough away from the Democratic vote to enable a Republican to win.

Now, out in Indiana there is a right up-and-coming young fighter on the Republican team. He is Rep. Charles Halleck. By virtue of the fact that he is lone Republican congressman from Hoosier territory, Mr. Halleck is in a splendid position to set off some fireworks. Mr. Halleck is highly regarded by Democrats and Republicans in the house. He is young, vigorous and keen. Furthermore, Mr. Halleck is neither a conservative nor a radical, and we are hearing more and more of a swing in the country that probably will land our political policies in the middle of the road, instead of on the wild-eyed programs of most New Dealers or the moss-backed policies of hide-bound Republicans of yesteryear.

As I see the picture in Indiana, therefore, it is not impossible to conjure up a situation in which the New Deal attempt to drive Senator Van Nuys from politics would backfire to the extent of electing a Republican senator.

Kentucky also provides a battleground. In that state, I think New Dealers made a great mistake and it may eventuate that the mistake will cost them dearly. Senator Barkley, the Roosevelt spokesman in the senate, is going to have to fight his hardest to win renomination over Gov. "Happy" Chandler. Kentuckians here who know the politics of their home state tell me that the governor is a real challenger and that he is a campaigner of genuine ability.

Concerning the New Deal mistake: it will be remembered when Mr. Roosevelt interfered in senate affairs by indicating his choice for the leadership upon the death of the great Senator Robinson of Arkansas. That was the occasion when the President wrote to Senator Barkley, addressing him as "Dear Alben," and thereby attached a title that has proved such a source of levity. When it became apparent that Mr. Barkley would meet opposition, the New Deal promoted a testimonial luncheon for the senator and sent numerous New Deal wheel-horses to Louisville to attend. Among them was Marvin McIntyre, assistant secretary to the President. Well, the Chandler folks built up a testimonial luncheon for the governor on the same day. Although Mr. McIntyre reached Louisville in time, he "just could not make it" to get to the Chandler luncheon. So that was that, and hundreds of Kentuckians at once decided that the New Deal was going to have Mr. Barkley and that made them say to themselves that they would choose their senator. It is of such incidents that political victories and political defeats are made.

Another battleground yet to be mentioned is Iowa. Senator Gillette was among those who did not like the President's court reorganization scheme, and said so. From there on, he has been a marked man. He will have to fight for renomination, therefore, against a New Dealer—rather, an opponent of New Deal selection. Representative Wearin has announced that he will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination.

TIPS to Gardeners

Choosing Flowers

IF YOU want flowers that come into bloom early, plant seeds of nasturtium, Virginia stock, zinnia, sunflower, bachelor's button and allyssum.

Among the easiest flowers to grow are the nasturtium, allyssum and California poppy.

To achieve brilliant color in the garden with a minimum of effort, grow petunia and zinnia. They require some care early in the season, but once established they grow luxuriantly, and nothing provides more color.

If snapdragons and asters, though among your flower favorites, are barred from your garden because of the prevalence of rust and wilt, return them to their deserved places by getting rust and wilt resistant varieties from your seed dealer.

In your rock garden, try some of the following: African daisy, linaria, lobelia, statice, verbena and Virginia stock, among the annuals; and columbine, English daisy, forget-me-not and Iceland poppy, of the perennials.

Old-Time Charm
In Pansy Afghan

Pattern 6021.

Here's something different in crochet—an afghan with a pansy design that's full of old-time charm. Make it of 4 fold german-town, entirely in single crochet—a medallion at a time, with each flower a different color if you wish (it's grand for left-over wool). Put the finishing touches on these sweet pansy "faces" with a few cross-stitches. An easy-to-follow chart makes this a very simple pattern! In pattern 6021 you will find directions for making the afghan and a pillow; an illustration of it and of the stitches used; material requirements; and color suggestions.

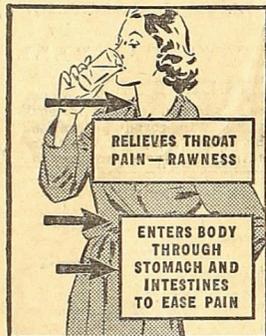

To obtain this pattern send 15 cents in stamps or coins (coins preferred) to The Sewing Circle, Household Arts Dept., 259 W. Fourteenth St., New York, N. Y. Please write your name, address and pattern number plainly.

2-WAY RELIEF FOR THE MISERY OF COLDS

The speed with which Bayer tablets act in relieving the distressing symptoms of colds and accompanying sore throat is utterly amazing . . . and the treatment is simple and pleasant. This is all you do. Crush and dissolve three genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets in one-third glass of water. Then gargle with this mixture twice, holding your head well back.

This medicinal gargle will act almost like a local anesthetic on the sore, irritated membrane of your throat. Pain eases promptly; rawness is relieved.

You will say it is remarkable. And the few cents it costs effects a big saving over expensive "throat gargles" and strong medicines. And when you buy, see that you get genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

THE FLEET'S ON GUARD!

Uncle Sam's 'Battlewagons' Leave West Coast Bases
For Greatest Maneuvers in Nation's History
With Hawaii Serving as Focal Point

By JOSEPH W. LABINE

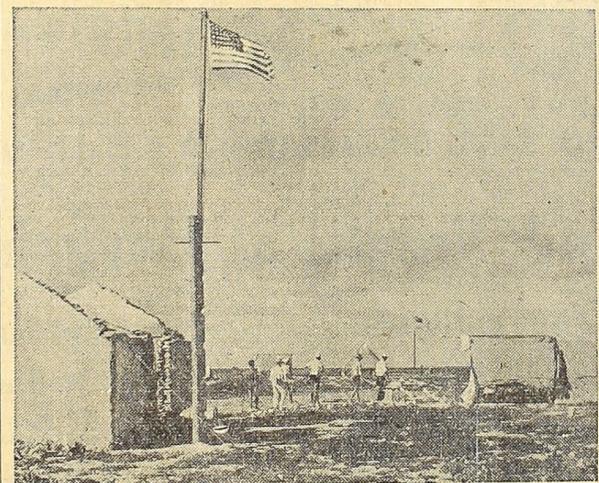

Its movements shrouded with secrecy, the strongest battle fleet the United States has ever seen is sailing from home bases at San Pedro and San Diego this month to compete in the most intensive and strenuous naval maneuvers in the nation's history.

This will be no child's play under a warm tropical sun. Instead the battle chiefs are sending their iron-clad monsters as far north as the Aleutian islands that "drip" off the frigid west coast of Alaska. Here some ships will work under the most unfavorable wartime conditions possible. Meanwhile others will "fight" as far as 1,500 miles below Honolulu.

Announced last December when America was worrying strenuously over Japan's aggressive attitude, the maneuvers may well be considered a stage show for Nippon's benefit, though official Washington has denied it. And—intentional or otherwise—the war games will focus national attention on the navy just when congress is considering President Roosevelt's recent armament appropriations bill.

The casual layman witnessing this display of maritime power will probably be moved to stick out his chest with pride. Not so the navy's commanders, however, who will probably view the results of the war games as very tangible evidence that America needs more battleships. With other nations developing long range cruisers and airplanes, the vast Pacific becomes more difficult to defend. Fewer refueling islands are needed by an approaching enemy; they can take a long "end run" around Hawaii and unless America's first line of defense is close at hand, there's apt to be trouble.

Almost 175 men of war, about 500 planes and 50,000 to 60,000 men are Quietly Uncle Sam has been expanding his territory in the Pacific. Through colonization he has annexed Howland, Baker and Jarvis islands, none of great commercial value but important as military landing fields.

participating in this gigantic affair, all under the command of Admiral Claude C. Bloch, recent successor to Admiral Arthur J. Heppburn as CINCUS of the fleet.

Aircraft Carriers Help.

Three aircraft carriers, Saratoga, Lexington and Ranger, are carrying their brood of war birds to America's first line of defense. Mighty battleships, slim destroyers and cunning submarines will play vital roles in this make-believe conquest and protection of the Pacific.

The 1938 defense problem centers around Pearl harbor in the Territory of Hawaii. Known as the navy's largest base, this beauty spot of the Pacific has been the focal point of annual maneuvers for several years. But this spring, for the first time, the navy's show will be diffused over the entire eastern Pa-owns Palmyra island in that vicinity, which has a quiet lagoon suitable for seaplane landings. Kiska in the Aleutians is one of the six American ports closed to foreign shipping and over which no civilian aircraft is permitted to fly without approval by the government.

Meanwhile, the military establishment in Hawaii hasn't been neglected. It has become the most important defense center of the nation. It is estimated that approximately $100,000,000 has been spent on fortifications alone. More troops are concentrated there than in any other section of the nation. The world's greatest military airport, Hickam field, is under construction on the outskirts of Honolulu.

Many a world power is now angry with itself for not having annexed more of the several hundred small islands that dot the Pacific, and which are now looming more important for naval purposes. Today for the first time it is apparent that the nations which control the islands are those which control the Pacific itself.

Japan's Pacific Power.

France, Portugal, Germany and The Netherlands have disappeared as strong contenders for Pacific power. The last to leave was Germany, and its place was taken by Japan which was given most German possessions under mandate at the treaty of Versailles. Under this mandate Japan took virtual possession of a strip of the Pacific 2,500 miles long from east to west and 1,200 miles wide. She acquired 623 islands, including the Marianas group (with the exception of Guam); the Marshall islands; the Caroline islands; and the Palau islands.

Since Japan is probably the only nation from which the United States has anything to fear in the Pacific, the Versailles mandate now looms highly important. Japan can establish naval bases almost halfway across the ocean from her home shores and within 2,500 miles of Hawaii, within easy striking distance. But she has not yet established these bases, and Uncle Sam has made his Hawaiian islands so impregnable as to discourage the most optimistic would-be attacker. Which once again emphasizes the islands' importance, since an enemy from the west would almost have to gain possession of Hawaii before attacking the United States.

Oahu, the island on which Honolulu is located, is circled by a coast railway on which guns can be moved quickly to stave off any attack. Latest anti-aircraft weapons are ready for the enemy, including huge horns capable of picking up the sound of aircraft miles away. This sound is transferred to 800,000,000 candle-power searchlights. Once the enemy plane is bathed in light, range-finding devices automatically aim the guns on the target.

Indeed, Hawaii has become the Malta of the Pacific.

U. S. Joins the Race.

Talk of guns and battleships and fleet maneuvers may sound strange to American ears today, and more than one slow-awakening individual will wonder why all this bustle about defending the Pacific. But in Washington, where congress is building a program that will give the United States a navy "second to none," the matter is of vital importance. Actually our navy is not in the best of shape, and we are entering the rearmament race five years behind the leaders.

The impossibility of America's continued abstinence from this military program is a growing conviction with more Americans every day, though a peace-loving nation may rebel at the thought of building for war.

As we turn our eyes west to the sinking sun, though, we'll be assured that no trouble will come from that direction before dawn again lifts the Pacific's night shroud. The fleet's on guard!

WHO'S
WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Many years ago, in South America, this writer was always hearing somebody mutter "Perros!" (dogs), as he passed by. It expressed his dislike of all North Americans. Upton Sinclair's book, "The Jungle," about the Chicago packing houses, had been carefully mistranslated, in a widely circulated version, which made multitudes of South Americans believe all North Americans ate dogs. Even in remote jungle towns, I found European trade scouts and salesmen making diligent use of the book. It was the neatest trade propaganda trick of the century.

The one-sided battle has continued through the decades. Late reports are that South American radio stations are belting Uncle Sam with everything at hand, and, to the same degree, apostrophizing Italy, Germany and Japan.

For this reason, there appears to be more than meets the eye in the printed story of our new airwave rearmament, and the assignment of a new short-wave channel for broadcasts to South America.

With Secretary Hull, Dr. L. S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American union, pleads for "stronger cultural ties" in the first broadcast. Spanish translations follow the English version.

While all this is in the name of "peace and good-will," and official announcements carry no hint of a defensive propaganda war, it appears to be the answer—perhaps the only possible reply—to the widespread smearing campaign against the U. S. A. in Latin American countries.

The sixty-six-year-old Dr. Rowe is a happy choice to head America's "cultural," if not propaganda, outreach in this direction. He has become widely known and decidedly persona grata in South America in his 32 years of pleading and proselyting for solidarity, friendship and understanding in the Americas.

He has fraternized with South Americans more than any other northerner, lecturing, writing, evangelizing and expounding his doctrines of friendly co-operation—always on the high plane of cultural and intellectual intercourse. He has been head of the Pan-American union since 1920, succeeding John Barrett.

LIFE begins at forty for Gracie Fields, English Music Hall actress, who curtsies to the king and becomes a commander of the Order of the British Empire. It is another Jane Alger story, this tale of the Lancashire mill girl who became the highest-paid entertainer in the world.

Her earnings from her 5,000,000 gramophone records, and from the stage and cinema have reached $750,000 a year. Her film, "Mr. Tower of London," ran seven years.

She lives simply with her mother, who manages her affairs, and never has anything more than pocket money. Every so often she visits Rochdale, the mill town where she sang for pennies at the age of seven, and has a rollicking time, singing for her old friends.

She was a "half-timer" in the cotton mills, half the day in school and half at work.

In 1930, she made a brief appearance at the Palace theater in New York. It wasn't much of a success. She explained afterward that she had been warned in England that entire audiences in America chewed gum together and in time, with dreadful facial contortions. This frightened her and spoiled her act, although, she admitted, there was only one observable gum-chewer.

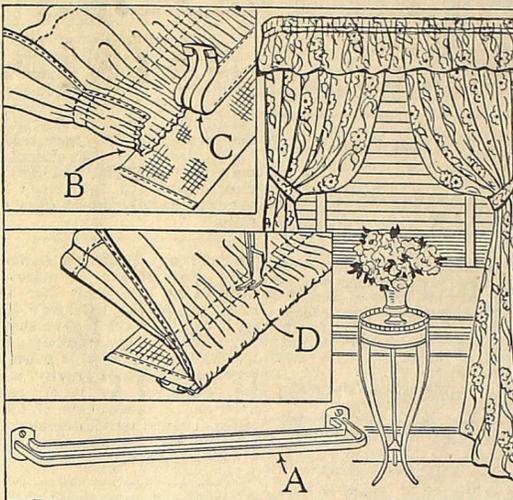

She was glad to land safely in England, where she is widely beloved and known as "Good Old Gracie."

Just a few days before her fortieth birthday, she returned home from a party at four o'clock in the morning. The milkman, the policeman on the beat and a street-sweeper ceremoniously handed her a morning paper with her name in the king's honor list. She is tall, blonde and merry.

Oilcloth in the Making
Oilcloth is a thick canvas coated on both sides with thick oil paint. First the canvas is passed through liquid glue, etc., pressed by heavy rollers, dried, and rubbed with pumice-stone. The paint is applied in several coats, the final coat being in a pattern. The quality of the oilcloth is governed by the number of coats of paint.

HOW to SEW RUTH WYETH SPEARS

Stitch a Shirred Valance to Buckram

PLANNING draperies is as exciting as planning a new frock. Color, fabric, suitability, style. Curtains sound the keynote of a whole room, and this is the time of year to be thinking about them. The chintz draperies with shirred valance shown here are dignified and yet charmingly informal. They are easy to make; they have the smart tailored effect that is usually obtained only by using a valance board, yet they are hung on ordinary double curtain rods of the type shown here at A.

The side drapes are made of full widths of the chintz and are hung on the inside rod with plain casings at the top. Cut the valance material the desired depth and twice as long as the space it is to fill after it is shirred. Hem the ends and bottom. Now, make a row of gathers along the raw edge at the top, another row 2 1/2 inches below the first and a third row 1/2 inch below the second. Cut a piece of buckram 4 inches deep and as long as the outside curtain rod. Bind the ends of this strip. Place the shirred valance edge wrong side down on the strip of buckram as at B. Cut a casing strip wide enough for the rod to slip under it after the edges are turned, and place it over the valance edge as at C. Stitch the casing strip and the valance to the buckram as shown. Turn the valance over to the other side of the buckram and stitch through the other two rows of shirring as shown. Slip the outside curtain rod through the casing and the valance is ready to hang.

Are you in a rut about your curtains? Do you know the different methods that decorators use to give windows individuality? In her book SEWING for the Home Decorator, Mrs. Spears has told the whole story with sketches and text. Slipcovers, difficult dressing tables, and making of lamp shades, how to bring furniture up to date and many other technical problems are treated in this useful dollar saving book. Readers wishing a copy should send name and address, enclosing 25 cents (coins preferred), to Mrs. Spears, 210 So. Desplains St., Chicago, Ill.

"Alright," Not Good Word
There is no such word as "alright" recognized in modern English usage. For a period during the Twelfth and Thirteenth centuries before the invention of printing, the form "alright" was used to some extent by English writers, but the phrase "all right" had been previously preferred and it has been regarded as the correct form ever since.

Mouse Has Most Skin Surface
As a mouse has far more skin surface for its weight than most other animals, says Collier's Weekly, it can fall down a mine shaft of any depth without being hurt. After the first hundred feet or more, the acceleration, due to gravity, meets the retardation due to air resistance and a steady rate of fall is maintained during the remainder of the drop, the animal landing only in a dazed condition.

Discovered Sugar Beet
The discovery of sugar in the beet was made by a German chemist, Marggraf, as early as 1747. Little progress was made until 50 years later when another German chemist, Achard, succeeded in extracting sugar from the beet root on a comparatively large scale.

ORDINANCE NUMBER 99

An ordinance providing for a rental of the use of the Sanitary Sewer System, for the method of collecting the same. And providing for a deficiency appropriation from the Contingent Fund. And also establishing a Special Fund.

SECTION I
The City of Tawas City ordains: It is hereby determined to be necessary and equitable that the users of the Sanitary Sewer System be required to pay for the operation and maintenance of the same; and that a rental charge be fixed for the use of the same, and said funds so raised to be placed in a fund to be designated for that purpose.

SECTION II
The Common Council shall cause to be fixed each year, at the first meeting of the new Common Council, a schedule of rentals to be charged the users of the same, which said rental shall be collected by the Superintendent of Public Works, in a manner to be designated by the Common Council.

SECTION III
The Common Council shall fix a schedule of rentals, so as to provide an equitable distribution of the costs of operation and maintenance costs among the various types of users; And it is further provided that the Common Council may provide discounts for the prompt payment of the rentals, and to further provide that in case said rentals are not paid by any user of said system, the same shall become a lien upon the property so serviced and may be collected as taxes.

SECTION IV
In addition to said rentals, the Common Council shall appropriate from the Contingent Fund a sum of money not less than the sum of two hundred and fifty ($250.00) dollars, to be placed in the fund hereby created and to be designated as Sanitary Sewer and Maintenance Fund, which appropriation shall be considered as part of the revenues of said system in fixing the amount necessary to be collected from rentals.

Moved by Coyle, and seconded by Leslie that Ordinance No. 99 be read and passed to its second reading. Roll Call—Yeas—Babcock, Burtzloff, Coyle, Davison, Leslie, and Rouiller. Nays—None. Carried.

Ordinance No. 99 read and passed to its third reading. Moved and seconded that meeting adjourn. Carried.

Mortgage Sale

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Frank E. Bernard and Amy Bernard, his wife, to Nora Jackson, dated the 6th day of October, 1932, and recorded in the Office of the Register of Deeds for the County of Iosco, and State of Michigan, on the 17th day of October, 1932, in Liber 16 of Mortgages on page 378, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date of this Notice, for principal and interest, the sum of Nineteen Hundred Forty - two and 03/100 ($1942.03) Dollars and the attorney fee as provided for in said mortgage, and no suit or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the moneys secured by said mortgage or any part thereof;

Notice is hereby given, that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and the statute in such case made and provided, on Monday, the 9th day of May, A. D. 1938, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, the undersigned will, at the front door of the Court House, in the city of Tawas City, Iosco County, Michigan, that being the place where the Circuit Court for the County of Iosco is held, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, the premises described in said mortgage, or so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount so as aforesaid due on said mortgage, with seven per cent interest and all legal costs, together with said attorney fee, to-wit:

The Southeast Quarter (SE 1/4) of Section Thirty-four (34), Township Twenty - three (23) North, Range Five (5) East, in the Township of Plainfield, County of Iosco, and State of Michigan, containing one hundred sixty (160) acres, more or less, according to the Government survey thereof.

Dated February 4, 1938.

Nora Jackson, Mortgagee
R. J. Crandell, Attorney for Mortgagee.
Business Address: Standish, Michigan.

An Inlet, Not Outlet

The straight of Gibraltar, often considered the Mediterranean's chief outlet, is technically an inlet. Due to evaporation, the level of the Mediterranean is a little below that of the Atlantic ocean, so that fresher ocean water constantly flows in through the strait. This is true in spite of the large volume of water poured into the Mediterranean by such rivers as the Nile, the Rhone, the Ebro, the Po and through the Dardanelles. The Mediterranean extends over an area of more than a million square miles, equal to a third of the area of the United States. It washes the shores of Europe, Asia and Africa.

The Name Doreen

Doreen is of French origin and means "gilded." Although pronounced the same as Dorine or Dorina (Dorina is another form) it is quite a different name, since Dorine is of Hebrew origin and means "perfect."

Yes sir, worrying about how long it would take us to get the doctor. "Or suppose the house catches on fire? When you need the Fire Department nowadays you don't write a letter, or go after them on a mule. No sir. You hop to a telephone!"

And there are errands to be run. Well, she can't do all those things without a telephone . . . and at the same time give me the attention I expect.

"All Dad would have to do is call the Telephone Business Office. I'd do it myself if I could just get out to a pay station. But I can't. . . . So is it any wonder that worry is keeping me awake half the day?"

Mrs. J. C. Monroe fell in her home Saturday and suffered a compound fracture of her leg, one break is below the knee and the other in her ankle. She was taken to the office of Dr. E. A. Hasty where the broken bones were X-rayed and set, and later taken to her home. Her many friends were grieved to hear of her terrible misfortune.

The O. E. S. held their second card party Thursday evening. Ten tables of progressive reds were in play. High scores went to Donna Charters and Richard Fuerst, and low scores going to Mrs. Wm. Austin and Arthur Johnson.

Miss Leila Jackson entertained 16 young ladies at her home Wednesday evening, honoring Mrs. Norman Schuster of Prescott. Games were in play during the evening and a dainty lunch was served by the hostess. Out of town guests were, Mrs. Leo Bowen, Mrs. Clarence McKenzie, and Mrs. Russell McKenzie of East Tawas, and Mrs. Waldo Leslie of Tawas City.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Louks returned Wednesday from a six weeks stay at Hot Springs, Arkansas. Anson Lail is seen at this writing.

Friends were grieved when word came Tuesday that Mrs. S. A. Ross had passed away at her home north of Mills Station. Mrs. Ross has been active in church work here until her failing health about a year ago. She will be missed in the community as well as in the home. The body will be taken to South Bend, Indiana for burial in the family lot.

Mrs. Elizabeth De Reamer and two sons returned Friday from a few days visit in Canada.

Thomas and Harry Scarlet were Sunday callers at the home of Chas. Deming.

Mrs. H. Collins of McIvor was a Grant caller Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Scarlett and Lola, Harry Scarlett, Jack Scarlett, and Phil. Giroux spent Friday evening at the home of Jas. McArdle.

Miss Dorothy Herriman spent Sunday with Mina Somerville.

Handwriting Experts Clever

A handwriting expert's first test of a suspected signature is to compare it with several genuine samples. If it duplicates any of them, it is a forgery. No man signs his name twice exactly the same way. Easiest job for an expert is to detect a forgery written in public, says the Washington Post. Even the best forgers need hours to turn out a clever duplicate. For centuries law courts have assumed no two persons have the same handwriting. Yet an Englishman has proven that about 5 per cent of identical twins have identical handwriting.

Claimed Exemptions From Draft

During the Civil war immigrants who had not become naturalized filed claims for exemptions from the drafts. To counteract this, patriotic organizations made appeals for volunteers and endeavored to raise troops among their own people. In Cincinnati, Ohio, German and Irish organizations held meetings to denounce aliens trying to escape the draft and to ask their leaders to raise troops.

primary election, receive for registration the name of any legal voter in said city not already registered who may APPLY TO ME PERSONALLY for such registration. Provided, however, that I can receive no names for registration during the time intervening between the Second Saturday before any regular, special, or official primary election and the day of such election.

The last day for General Registration does not apply to persons who vote under the Absent Voters' Law. (See Registration by Affidavit.) Notice is hereby given that I will be at my office

Tuesday, March 15, 1938

The twentieth day preceding said election, as provided by Part 176, Relating to Elections, revision of 1936, Michigan Election Law, from 8 o'clock a. m. until 8 o'clock p. m. on said day for the purpose of Reviewing the Registration and Registering such of the qualified electors in said City as Shall Properly Apply therefor.

Notice is hereby further given to the Qualified Electors of this City that I, the undersigned Clerk of said City, will register qualified electors who may apply at my office on any business day in the year up to and including Saturday, March 26, 1938—Last Day for General Registration by Personal Application for said election, from 8 o'clock a. m. to 8 o'clock p. m. The name of no person but an ACTUAL RESIDENT of the precinct at the time of said registration, and entitled under the constitution if remaining such resident to vote at the next election shall be entered in the registration book.

Registration by Affidavit Any absent voter, as defined in this act, whose name is not registered and who shall claim the right to vote by absent voter's ballot at any election or primary election, may at the time of making application for absent voter's ballot, present to the City Clerk an affidavit for registration which shall be in substantially the following form:

Affidavit for Registration STATE OF MICHIGAN

County of _____, being duly sworn, depose and say that I am a citizen and duly qualified elector of the _____ Ward of the City of _____ in the County of _____ and State of Michigan; that my postoffice address is No. _____ Street _____ or R. F. D. No. _____ P. O. _____ that I am not now registered as an elector therein and that I am voting by absent voter's ballot at the election (or primary election) to be held upon the _____ day of _____, 19____, the application for which ballot accompanies this affidavit; that I make this affidavit for the purpose of procuring my registration as an elector in accordance with the statute; that I make the following statements in compliance with the Michigan Election Law: Age _____ Race _____ Birthplace _____ Date of naturalization _____ I further swear or affirm that the answers given to the above questions concerning my qualifications as an elector are true and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Signed _____ *Taken, subscribed and sworn to before me this _____ day of _____ 1938

Notary Public in and for said County, State of Michigan. My Commission expires _____ 1938.

Upon receipt of such affidavit in the time specified herein, the clerk shall write in the registration book the name of the applicant together with the other information required by this chapter and such applicant shall thereupon be deemed to be duly and properly registered.

*Note—If this acknowledgment is taken outside of the State, the Certificate of the Court that the person taking the acknowledgment is a notary must be attached.

Registration of Absentee By Oath If any person whose name is not registered shall offer and claim the right to vote at any election or primary election, and shall UNDER OATH, state that he or she is a resident of such precinct and has resided in the City Twenty Days next preceding such election, designating particularly the place of his or her residence and that he or she possesses the other qualifications of an elector under the constitution; and that, owing to the sickness or bodily infirmity of himself or herself, or some member of his or her family or owing to his or her absence from the city on public business or his or her business, and without intent to avoid or delay his or her registration, he or she was unable to make application for registration on the last day provided by law for the registering of electors preceding such election, then the name of such person shall be permitted to vote at such election. If such applicant shall in said matter willfully make any false statement, he or she shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and upon conviction, be subject to the pains and penalties thereof.

Provision in Case of Removal to Another Precinct Any registered and qualified voter who has REMOVED from ONE ELECTION PRECINCT of the City to another shall have the right, on any day previous to election day, on application to the City Clerk, to have his or her name transferred from the registration book of the precinct from which he or she HAS REMOVED to the registration book of the precinct in which he or she

THEN RESIDES. Such elector shall have the right to have such transfer made ON ELECTION DAY, or Primary Election Day, by obtaining from the board of inspectors of election of the precinct from which he or she HAS REMOVED a CERTIFICATE OF TRANSFER, and presenting the said certificate to the BOARD OF ELECTION INSPECTORS OF THE PRECINCT IN WHICH HE OR SHE THEN RESIDES. Dated February 10, 1938. W. C. Davidson, City Clerk.

"Yank off bridle and saddle and turn him loose." Suddenly Joyce began to sob. "What are you crying about? There's simply nothing else to do."

"Oh, it's not that!" cried Joyce, still weeping as she unbuckled throat latch and girth. "It's Tro-nido, I'm—I'm crying about Tro-nido."

"Don't," said Dirk, "please don't, or you'll have me so I can't do a damn thing. Don't you suppose—Hell!" Then he continued quietly, "Joyce, hold on a bit; we may both have to ride Rayo. The battery's run down."

"Oh!" she gasped, grief forgotten in the face of fresh disaster.

Suddenly Dirk started tearing out the front cushion. "Here it is, thank God—the crank. Get in, Joyce. Take the throttle and work the choke. Hurry!"

He leaped out and in a moment was cranking with all his might. No use. Not a spark. Then he began using reason and judgment, giving Joyce time enough to do the same. They teased the motor—teased it into a first gasp of life. Then more teasing. Then a roar, so sudden, so mighty that it seemed the old car would shake itself to pieces before Joyce could shut off the throttle. The backfiring was deafening, more like a machine gun than a motor.

"Oh, Dirk!" she screamed though he was already at her side, "I can't make it stop!"

"Who's a fool now?" he yelled at the top of his voice. "Take your foot off the accelerator and push yourself over."

Then he was at the wheel, backing, turning cautiously for fear of the spikes of niggerheads, but finally straightening out on the Toluca trail, shifting into second and at last into high. Joyce turned, knelt on the seat and looked back. The riders were closer now, quite close; some of them were already dismounting, their carbines unslung, and running to kneel on the farther edge of the barranca.

"Never mind the bumps, Dirk," she called over her shoulder, "give her gas and take everything that comes. The shooting is about to start."

"How far off are they?" asked Dirk.

Then and there Joyce was stumped, for is there a woman alive who knows by sight the difference between a hundred yards and a half a mile? "I don't know," she said; "I haven't the least idea."

"Of course you have!" he shouted impatiently. "How far? Is it ten yards or a mile?"

"I don't know," said Joyce. "I'm not being stubborn; I just don't know." Then she cried, "Never mind—here it comes!"

The first bullet struck in line but well behind the car; it ricocheted and passed over them with a screaming whine. That was enough for Dirk, he opened the throttle wide and sent the flivver careening across the prairie, making note of the direction he would have to take to bring it back to the abandoned trail. More bullets followed but none so threatening as the first and presently there was silence. Joyce sat down and sank back, sighing her relief.

"I guess we're safe, Dirk. Hadn't we better nurse the tires a bit? They must be pretty soft."

"You're right," said Dirk, slowing down. "How long has this soap box been parked in that gully?"

"Let me see," said Joyce calculatingly. "Is it a year? No; it can't be. I'll give you a chance to figure it out for yourself, Dirk. How many days have you been at La Barranca?"

"Nine," said Dirk promptly.

"Then add three to that," said Joyce. "It doesn't seem possible. Twelve days, less than two weeks! I was away twelve years; I've been back twelve days. Somehow it doesn't make sense."

CHAPTER XVI

At the first crossroads they were lucky enough to get gas and the poor old flivver, faithful to the last, limped into Toluca a little before noon. Abandoning it in a side street to avoid unnecessary complications, they walked to the San Carlos and before long were feasting on crystal trout fresh from the Lerma and certain equally famed accessories. More than once they raised their eyes to look at each other across the table, then dropped them because their hearts were too full of content for words.

But the moment the meal was over Dirk said without warning, "Joyce, will you marry me? I've got to know."

"Yes, Dirk. When?"

"This afternoon. As soon as we get to the city."

"Oh? Why wait till then?" asked Joyce.

But Dirk was in no playing mood. "Because there's no American consul in Toluca," he answered gravely.

"Does there have to be a consul?"

"Either that or some authorized officer from the embassy. Any preacher in good standing can do the trick, but the presence of an American official as witness is what makes it legal at home."

"I see," said Joyce slowly; then she raised her eyes to his face. "Dirk, I'm yours. I'll do whatever you want me to."

He reached out to lay his hand on hers. "I love you, Joyce."

"And I love you, Dirk. Is that why we must hurry so? You'd think it would make us willing to wait."

He frowned. "You haven't told me your reason for rushing to Mexico City, but I think I guessed it."

"To attend to General Onelia," said Joyce, also frowning.

"I thought so," said Dirk, "and that's why we're going to marry today. When you take on Onelia or the ambassador or any other small fry I want a right nobody can dispute to be in the ring—to sit in your corner."

She smiled. "Again I love you, Dirk."

Going out in search of the finest car available, he walked on air. He was glad to be alive, glad to be relieved of the strain of driving and to sit in the back with his arm around Joyce, both of them wrapped in the same rug. Arrived in the city they drove straight to his little house and from her first glimpse of its exterior to the last long look within Joyce was conscious of pleased wonder and a steadily increasing sense of well-being. Here was a nurtured loveliness, unpurchasable in bulk, individual to the core yet with arms held wide to all devotees of good taste. She was happy in this house. Even Pablo, masking amazement, all but choking on suppressed joy at the return of his missing master, seemed of its warp and woof.

"What about a hot bath to start with?" asked Dirk.

"Splendid," she answered quickly, then her lips drooped. "I haven't anything to put on."

"Don't worry," said Dirk. "Search the world and you couldn't find a costume more becoming than what you're wearing to a person of your particular looks, size and adorable build."

"Silly-head!"

"I can furnish you a soft shirt for a blouse and by the time you're ready for them the jodhpurs will have been brushed and pressed as sweet as a flower." He turned to Pablo. "Pablo, this is the senorita Joyce Sewell, from whom you may take orders as coming from myself, only more so. Give her into the charge of Paulina. As for the rest, I leave it to her since she talks Spanish better than either of you."

Dirk had not dismissed the hired car and without bothering to inform Joyce or even waiting to wash his hands he started for the embassy proper, passing the chancellery by. The great iron gate was opened by a strange porter but the man on the door was an old friend.

"Good afternoon, Antonio."

"Buenas tardes, Don Deerke," cried Antonio, excitedly, "buenas tardes, buenas tardes!"

"Is the ambassador at home and awake?"

"Si, senor; como no?"

"Tell him a Mr. Van Suttart would like to see him. Be sure you give the message just as I say it."

As they entered the vast living room the ambassador himself emerged with a rush from his study, stopped and stared. "Well!" he gasped, "I'll say you came on the run!" His eyes moved up and down. "Haven't you changed those clothes since you left?"

Dirk glanced downward ruefully, then looked up and grinned. "I admit it's pretty bad, sir, especially since I come as a private citizen."

"What do you mean? I haven't fired you yet."

"I was merely anticipating," said Dirk, looking around.

"What are you hunting for?"

"Two things. A chair with a washable cover and a drink."

"Forgive me, my boy. Sit anywhere you like; there's nobody to kick about it since I'm a grass-widow from a week ago till the Christmas holidays. I'll ring for your usual. Come on, now; what's on your mind?"

"I'm here for assistance, sir. I want you to help me marry Miss Joyce Sewell of La Barranca this afternoon."

The ambassador collapsed into the nearest chair and groaned. Then they talked—talked as only two men who possess an identical background can talk. The rapid fire of questions and answers covered not only Dirk's absence but swept from such broad considerations as his ancestry for three generations back, down to the trifling matter of his present private income in dollars and cents with salary omitted. Yet there was no confusion. When they got through there was nothing either of them didn't know about the inner and outer workings of Dirk Van Suttart.

"Let's see where we stand," said the ambassador, summing up. "You want to marry Miss Sewell. Well, she's certainly of age as far as that operation is concerned, so stopping you by getting her stepmother to stop her is definitely out. Then you state you can't wait even to telephone your people because of the urgency of securing Onelia's aid, because what they say wouldn't make any difference anyway, and finally because they're probably in Europe." He scowled. "The first of those three reasons is what's bothering me—a trouble heading straight this way."

"You needn't worry on that score," said Dirk. "As a matter of fact, sir, Miss Sewell emphatically doesn't want the aid of this establishment. She says she can get along a whole lot better without it. Her idea is that ever since embassies have been run for trade and to hell with the trader they've become mere stumbling-blocks to the pioneer—also a constant pain, an eyesore."

"Eh?" exclaimed the ambassador, astonished; then he asked with genuine solicitude, "Are you sure she's quite all there?"

"Quite," said Dirk confidently. "The truth is, sir, I'm inclined to agree with her. Give her a chance and she'll make a monkey of Onelia—which is more than we have ever been able to do."

"Dirk—I'm calling you Dirk because I want you to think of me as sitting here in place of your father—in less than two weeks this girl has managed to do extraordinary things to your mind, so much so that I beg you not to trust it until you've taken advice from someone capable of judging her with impartial eyes."

"I agree to that," said Dirk promptly. "What about yours? Do you think they would be impartial?"

The ambassador frowned, then smiled. "All I can say is I'd try my best to make them so. When can you bring the paragon around?"

"Don't think me impertinent, but there isn't time for that. Besides, since she has nothing but riding clothes she might find it embarrassing."

"I take it you're inviting me to your house," stated the ambassador.

"Yes, sir," said Dirk, "and I'd be a lot more humble about it if you hadn't waived your ambassadorship to act as my father."

"That's a bull's-eye," conceded

the ambassador. "Let's go—the quicker the better."

"Do you mind if I have a wash, sir?" begged Dirk. "I mightn't have time later on."

"Help yourself; you certainly need it and you know the way."

Dirk washed all he could reach without undressing, then paused long enough to do some important telephoning; consequently several minutes elapsed before he found himself in the ambassadorial car and only then did he feel a first twinge of trepidation. Almost an hour had passed since he had abandoned his prospective bride without warning. How would she react to such cavalier treatment? How to the surprise he was about to spring on her? Absurd as it might appear, what Joyce thought about anything seemed to him a lot more important than what the ambassador was going to think about Joyce.

Even so he was in for a shock, for the moment Pablo opened the closed door of the living room and stood back that his master and his master's chief might pass they crashed in upon an astonishing scene. Before them, back to the door and with hands thrust in her breeches pockets, stood Joyce in an unmistakable posture of battle. Beyond, a veritable lioness of a hatless woman not only in appearance but by virtue of her roar, paced the room from side to side. Words were tumbling out of her in an unceasing and reverberating rumble, yet Joyce's voice, accurately pitched, could cut across it quite clearly without apparent forcing.

"It's no use, Margarida," she was saying. "You can yelp all you like but you're here and you're going to stay. Try to get out and I'll ride you down the block. That's why I've kept on these clothes."

"Joyce, please!" cried Dirk in an agonized voice; then he collected himself and faced the older woman. "Licenciada Margarida Fonseca, may I present his excellency the ambassador of the United States?" He laid his hand on Joyce's shoulder as she turned. "Chief," he half gulped, "this is Joyce—Joyce Sewell."

The ambassador found himself looking into as straight and blue a pair of eyes as he had ever seen—eyes of a blue that at the moment was almost black. He took a hand cool to the touch, slender, yet amazingly firm, and the next instant a current of courage and the will to fight swept up the length of his arm straight to his heart.

"My dear," he heard himself saying after quite a pause, "don't you think we might all sit down?"

"Of course," said Joyce; then hesitated, looking doubtfully toward Margarida.

At that moment Pablo appeared at the door, stood back and announced loudly: "General Sebastiano Sanchez y Robles, ex-minister of war."

"General!" cried the ambassador, advancing with outstretched hand. "What brings you here, of all places and people?"

"I don't know," said the general, glancing around in a bewildered manner. "I really don't, Excellency. I came in answer to a mysterious message from the young lady who caused us so much trouble, brought about my downfall and thus established my reputation for all time as a prophet. Is she here?"

Joyce stepped forward. "Presente, mi General." She smiled, but almost immediately turned sober. "If I did you an injury, I'm more than willing and ready to make amends. General, I'm going to tell you a story. Frequently I shall have occasion to call upon Licenciada Margarida Fonseca for confirmation. Whenever she denies a point you may take it she means the contrary. Let her face be my star witness; I defy her lips."

Red, Blue and Green Lights Seen as an Aid in Growing Greenhouse Plants

In the plant world, red means go ahead, green lights mean stop. Experiments conducted at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D. C., by W. H. Hoover, a scientist in the department of radiation, show that plants respond to colored lights by speeding up or slowing down their growth to zero.

The reason that plants exposed to green light cease to grow or slow down progress, is that they simply reflect the green through the coloring matter in their leaves, called chlorophyll. Thus, they fail to absorb the light, just as if they were growing in dense shade.

The reds, on the other hand, noticeably stimulated the process of development. Able to absorb the light, plants exposed to red and red-blue rays proved able to assimilate larger quantities of the carbon dioxide essential to their development and so speeded up to a corresponding rate of growth.

The process went on rapidly under exposure to rays so intense that they are invisible to the human eye. Plants can evidently distinguish ultra-violet light and reds far beyond the range of visibility for the human race.

While the sensitiveness of plants to rays of colored lights is a fact of general interest to gardeners, it will have an economic value, Hoover believes, in bringing specimens into bloom earlier or later than under ordinary conditions. Growers will be able, by flooding their greenhouses with green light, to hold back their plants or, by the use of deep red and blue rays, to force them into bloom far ahead of their season.

Papyrus Made From Plant

Papyrus paper was used extensively in Greco-Roman times and was made of the papyrus plant, which grew in profusion along the Nile.

Lesson for March 20

KEEPING THE BODY STRONG

LESSON TEXT—Mark 6:53-56; Judg. 13:12-14; I Cor. 3:16, 17; Rom. 12:1, 2. GOLDEN TEXT—Now therefore beware, I pray thee, and drink not wine nor strong drink, and eat not any unclean thing.—Judg. 13:4.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Body God Gave Us. JUNIOR TOPIC—For Jesus' Sake. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Liquor, Drugs, and Tobacco Do to Health. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How Intemperance Affects Health.

The universe of God is perfectly organized in every respect. Beings that function in the spirit realm are spirit beings, not subject to the limitations of the physical world. We who dwell and serve in the physical world are equipped with physical bodies which are ideal instruments for our present existence.

With all their shortcomings and frailties, our bodies are indeed marvelous machines, intricate and delicate, yet unbelievably hardy and durable. They are a gift from God, and it is our express responsibility to glorify God in our bodies (I Cor. 6:20).

I. How to Have a Strong Body.

It is obvious that not every one has equal physical strength and health. In some measure this is by divine providence or at least by God's permissive will, and those of us who find ourselves thus limited do well to count on His grace for patience to use what we have for His glory. But not one of us wants to yield hopelessly to our inability. Rather we will do our best to overcome it. We want to know

1. How to cure weakness (Mark 6:53-56).

God alone can heal the sick. Even in our day when science has made such strides in the healing art, we note that the most successful remedy or system of treatment is the one that clears the way for what men call nature, but we know to be God, to work. Jesus healed the multitudes in the land of Gennesaret; He heals in America.

2. How to prevent weakness (Judg. 13:12-14).

The mother of Samson, who was to be a Nazarite, was to drink no wine and to observe careful dietary regulations before he was born. Note also that if it is bad for a man to have such poisons in his veins before he is born, surely it is poor judgment to put them in after he comes to the age where he controls his own life. We need to watch our diets, and we have much valuable help on that point. We also need to give serious attention to the use of narcotics. It may surprise some to know that the term narcotics includes not only drugs and alcoholic beverages, but also tobacco, and such common things as tea and coffee.

Other abuse of the body, such as overwork, neglect of rest, etc., may well be mentioned. The besetting sin of some Christian workers is the destruction of their bodies, the very temple of the Holy Ghost, by overwork.

II. How to Use a Strong Body.

Unfortunate as it is to observe that some who would serve the Lord have to struggle with the weakness of the body, it is far sadder to note that all too often those who have strong bodies forget to use that strength for God. Our Scripture portions give us two excellent guiding principles. Our bodies should be

1. Kept for God (I Cor. 3:16, 17).

These verses refer to the body of the Christian, for only of him can it be said that his body is the temple of the Holy Ghost.

The Holy Spirit is a person, the third person of the blessed Trinity. He comes to dwell within the soul of the Christian immediately upon his being regenerated, thus making his body the temple of the Holy Ghost. A clear grasp of that truth solves the problem of what we should do with and for our bodies. We must keep them well and clean. We dare not defile them in any way. The body of the Christian is kept for God.

2. Yielded to God (Rom. 12:1, 2).

It is a high and noble sacrifice to die for Christ.

But our call just now is to be a "living sacrifice." There are times when that may seem harder than to be a martyr. We do know that it is not always easy to live through the drab, difficult, and sometimes dreary testimony for Christ. But it can be done and is always to His glory. It is by the transforming grace of God that we are enabled to live such a life.

Meditation

It is the mark of a superior man that, left to himself, he is able endlessly to amuse, interest and entertain himself out of his personal stock of meditations, ideas, criticisms, memories, philosophy, humor and what not.—George Nathan.

Like Unto Him

"There should be no greater comfort to Christian persons than to be made like unto Christ by suffering patiently adversities, troubles, and sickness."

Pretty Things for Easter

THESE three dresses are up high on the list of fashion's favorites, and you can easily make them at home by using our simple, easy-to-follow patterns, each accompanied by a complete and detailed sew chart. Start right now, for even if there's a shiver in the air at this moment, Easter is not very far off! And you'll want to be ready!

Dress With Lifted Waistline.

This is a very, very popular fashion because it makes you look so slim and graceful, what with the waistline high in front, and soft gathers above it, the gently flaring skirt. Made up in a prett print or silk crepe, it will be lovely for Easter and for all Spring. Be sure to wear a bunch of flowers at the neckline.

A Jumper Frock for Girls.

This is one of the sweetest and most becoming styles ever invented for girls of school age, just about the time they begin to shoot up so fast that you can almost see them grow! Make the jumper of linen, gingham or percale, and why not make two or three blouses to go with it? One of linen, one of dimity, and one of organdie.

Everybody Likes Dirndl Frock.

The square neckline, the full rippling skirt and tight little waist, are so flattering to slim figures! Here's a charming dirndl with just the right air of quaintness and freshness about it. Choose a gay flowered print, or a cheerful plain color, pale or bright. But be sure, whether you make it up in silk or cotton, to choose a crisp fabric so that the skirt will flare as it should.

The Patterns.

1481 is designed for sizes 14 to 42 (32 to 42 bust.) Size 16 (34) requires 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch material.

1996 is designed for 6 to 14 years. Size 8 requires 1 1/4 yards of 39-inch material for the jumper; 1 1/2 yards for the blouse. Also 2 1/2 yards of bias facing for neck and armholes of jumper.

1480 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 (32) requires 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch material, plus 1 1/2 yards of ribbon for belt and 3/4 yards of braid or ribbon for trimming.

Spring-Summer Pattern Book.

Send 15 cents for the Barbara Bell Spring and Summer Pattern Book which is now ready. It contains 109 attractive, practical and becoming designs. The Barbara Bell patterns are well planned, accurately cut and easy to follow. Each pattern includes a sew-chart which enables even a beginner to cut and make her own clothes.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

ARE YOU ONLY A 3/4 WIFE?

Men can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is lovable for three weeks of the month—but a hell-cat the fourth.

No matter how your back aches—no matter how loudly your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure.

Make a note NOW to get a bottle of Pinkham's today BEFORE FALL from your druggist—more than a million women have written in letters reporting benefit.

Why not try LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND?

CONSTIPATED?

Many doctors recommend Nujol because of its gentle action on the bowels. Don't confuse Nujol with unknown products.

Regular as Clock-work

Nujol

INSIST ON GENUINE NUJOL

Worth Nothing

Advice can be had for nothing and is often worth it.

Don't Neglect a Cold

Rub soothing, warming Musteroles well into your chest and throat.

Musteroles is NOT just a salve. It's a "counter-irritant" containing good old-fashioned cold remedies—oil of mustard, menthol, camphor and other valuable ingredients.

That's why it gets such fine results—better than the old-fashioned mustard plaster. Musteroles penetrates, stimulates, warms and soothes, helpful in drawing out local congestion and pain. Used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong.

AROUND THE HOUSE

To Protect Grates.—To keep grates free from rust mix with blacklead a little turpentine and methylated spirit, equal parts of each.

Importance of Pressing.—Most hems should be pressed twice, once after tacking; and again after the seam is finished. Press the hems on the wrong side over a damp cloth.

Warmed Over Roast.—If a good portion of a roast is left over, soak it 30 minutes in cold water and then roast again for a short time. It will be like a fresh joint.

To Prevent Iron Sticking.—When pressing curtains, add half a teaspoonful sugar and a quarter teaspoonful salt to each tablespoonful of starch.

Don't Sear Meat.—Searing meat will not hold the juices in, as was formerly believed, but will cause greater shrinkage and loss of fat and moisture.

Keeping Lemons Fresh.—Lemons can be kept fresh and firm by placing them in a wide-necked bottle or jar and covering with water.

DOGS

DETOUR "BLACK LEAF 40"

Keeps Dogs Away from Evergreens, Shrubs, etc.

Use 1 1/2 Teaspoonful per Gallon of Spray.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed throughout the country. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

ADVENTURERS' CLUB

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Whale Overturns Boat"

By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Stick close, boys and gals. We've got to make a long trip today, and we don't want anybody to be lost, strayed or stolen. We're popping off for the South Seas. Down there where they do say, the gals wear grass skirts, and men dive down into the water and choke sharks to death.

There'll be some sharks in this story, too. It comes from an old salt who sailed the briny deep in the days when they had iron men and wooden ships. He's Alfred Stuart, of Jersey City. Al is up in the seventies now, but he recalls mighty well the adventure he had almost half a century ago. I get a big kick out of these yarns from the old timers. Some day I'm going to slip over to Jersey City and just sit down with Al Stuart and swap adventures with him.

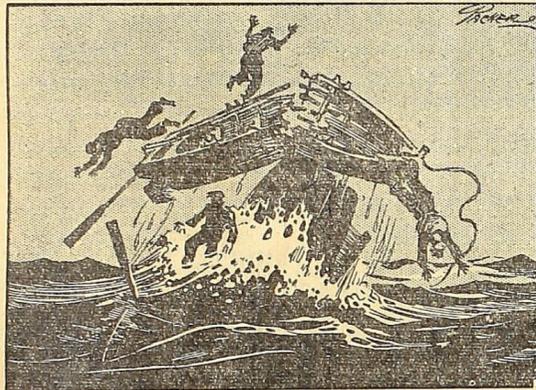

He shipped on a whaler out of New Bedford, Mass., with a crew of mostly Portuguese sailors, a tough-egg captain, and West Indians as officers. Everybody was a partner on the trip, because the crew received a share of the profits, and were all pretty tickled when they picked up several small whales.

The captain was out for big game, though, and he sailed round and round in the whaling zone, looking for more prizes. It's a long way from New Bedford to the South Seas, and the captain didn't want to start back without picking up everything they could find.

They Harpooned a Big Bull Whale.

He was so insistent about it that once he gave the first mate a raking over the coals for not sticking with a whale after nightfall. Al had harpooned a fairly good sized catch, but when it got dark, they had just "flagged" the whale and rowed their dory back to the ship. The captain had bawled out the mate before the whole crew.

"Very well, sir," the mate said. "It won't happen again."
Well, it wasn't long after that, they spotted a great bull whale, one day about dusk. Here was a beauty, and the boat was lowered to go after him. Al was up in the bow, and as they approached the great sea-monster, he made a ten strike with his harpoon.

Men Went Hurling Through the Air.

The big steel prong struck deep into the whale's back; then a second was hurled into almost the same place, just ahead of the "hump." Then the fireworks started. That whale was what Al calls a "runner," not a fighter. He started off like an express train for points distant.

They gave him practically all the line they had, and he just jerked that little boat around the South Seas like a wrecking car towing a baby carriage. The dory bobbed around like a cork, and plowed through the waves so fast that the spray nearly swamped it. After several hours, the whale slowed down a bit. They took in the slack line. The mate got out the bomb gun and took a pot shot at Mr. Whale, and was getting ready to let him have another, when the big boy decided to dive.

Down he went; straight down, with everybody hoping he'd change his mind before he pulled the little boat under. Down, down. The line was almost at its limit. Everybody was standing tense.

Smashed the Boat to Bits.

A Portuguese sailor stood by with an ax to cut the line when it became taut. With a few more feet of its seventy-five fathoms to go, the line slackened.

"Watch him now," yelled the mate. "He's coming up!"
There was nothing they could watch for. It was now dark as pitch, and there floated that little band of whalers trying to penetrate the inky night, straining their eyes for a sight of the whale.

Then, suddenly, bang! Crash! Their little craft was thrown completely out of the water. Men went hurtling through the air. The whale had come up directly beneath the boat and tossed it up as though it had been a toothpick. It cracked in two, almost amidships, and the pieces whirled in the fierce eddies as the whale thrashed about.

The men managed to reach the stern half of the boat and to hang on for their lives, fearing all the while that the whale might crash it to tinder by another slap of his immense tail. And then, another, even more terrifying menace faced them. There was a swish in the water nearby.

Sharks Were All Around Them.

"Sharks," shouted the mate. "Everybody tread water!" Everybody started pumping his legs up and down like a reserve football player warming up. And they treaded water for hours.

In the gloom of the night, they could hear the soft swish of water and faintly see the sinister dorsal fins as sharks nosed close to them. More and more of them. Exhausted men desperately kicking out at unseen dangers. It seemed the sea was literally alive with sharks.

Slowly the dawn broke over the eastern clouds. And there, not fifty yards away was the whale floating on the surface. He was dead. But around him the water was seething with the fins of sharks, making a meal of the great hulk.

"That's a big piece of luck for us," was the mate's comment. "If it hadn't been for that whale near us, we'd all have been shark meat long before this."

The ship finally picked up the boat's crew, but it was almost noon before they did it, and most of the men were half dead from exhaustion. You can't stay in the water and keep on kicking for eight or ten hours, even in the South Seas, without feeling it right down to the bones.

They towed that whale in, and it yielded 120 barrels of oil, and that's some whale. Incidentally, Al Stuart got two of that monster's teeth, and he says they're eight and three-fourths inches long and weigh two and three-quarter pounds. How would those babies be for a watch charm?

Statuary Hall in Capitol

Statuary hall in the United States Capitol was formerly the house of representatives chamber, and was dedicated in 1864 as a National Statuary hall to which each state might send statues of two distinguished deceased citizens. Due to overcrowding, it was necessary to re-distribute one of the statues from each state, and a resolution was passed to this effect in the second session of the Seventy-seventh congress on February 21, 1933.

Elephants Destructive

Elephants can often be a decided pest and damage in their native Africa. A herd can often lay waste a banana plantation in a single night, trampling underfoot what they do not eat. Whenever a telegraph line is erected the straight, smooth poles seem to be irresistible to them; the elephant seems to think it was put up just to rub himself against, and when one pole goes down why there is another one just down the line a bit.

Madam, a Voguish Silk Print for You

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

as to insure freedom in movement. A white pique touch softens a becoming high neckline. The bodice top has a slenderizing long line and carries two rows of tiny buttons repeating the detail of the coat. The attached skirt is box-pleated, the pleats stitched down to keep the hips slim. In reality this is a one-piece dress with a two-piece look. Note the very narrow belt.

EVER since children started calling mother by her first name, mother has done her best to live up to this indirect compliment by looking younger each year. She massages and exercises until her figure reverts to girlish proportions, and having studied fashions intensively in order to seek out lines and colors that will do the most for her, she makes a wise and happy choice when she steps forth arrayed in a costume of charming silk print that causes all who behold to pay compliment to her perennial youth.

For the woman whose years have gone "fortyish" or which lead into the "fascinating fifties," life as it is today holds interesting possibilities. So often the complaint is voiced that fashion news and pictures utterly ignore the needs of mature women, catering only to the whims of youth that glories in sylphlike will o' wisp figures. Well, now, what about the charming fashions herewith illustrated? Madam, of "no-age" identity, these flattering silk print costumes are pictured especially for you.

The model centered in the group is submitted as an ideal selection for the woman engaged in a roundelay of daytime activities. Designers well versed in the art of dress declare that scroll designs that brighten monotonous with a dash of color are flattering to the important figure as they do not appear spotty. The model pictured presents a daytime dress of black-with-white-scroll printed silk crepon worn under a full length unlined wool redingote. It has a velvet collar and is styled with a vent in the back so

SMART THREE-PIECE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Jacket suit plus a topcoat is the three-piece outfit for spring that will be your most economical buy no matter how much you pay for it. Costume suits such as pictured are the smart thing for immediate wear. This model is in the natural wheat tones that are coming out in full force this spring. For the coat the designer uses a smart, nubby tweed that contrasts to the smooth surfaced wool that makes jacket and skirt. The relation of suit and topcoat is accentuated in that the short jacket is, as you will observe if you look closely, bound with the identical flecked wool that fashions the long coat. With the topcoat removed you have your spring tailored jacket suit all ready to wear with the intriguing blouses that are so important in current modes.

EVENING GOWNS OF LACE FOR SUMMER

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Evening dresses are, of course, the expected spot for lace to shine. And so it does, but outside of all the regular and expected places, it takes new precedence in putting in the note of color which is so very chic for summer. In fact, the surest sign of a new evening frock is this two color idea. Pink venise sleeves in a black dress, a red lace bolero incrustated in a gray lace dress, or a black lace bodice and volant from the hips, as Worth sees it, black over pink as Ardansse prefers to get her nude effects, bottle green over gray as Paul Roy likes his evening things, not to mention the long white evening cape in lace of Rosevienne or her incrustations of green lace torsades in a black lace dress. Piquet prefers to emphasize his long corselet line with lace just as he underlines the ruching of his slip skirts with either maline or black val, but always in contrast to the color of the fabric. And has anything more ingenious been thought of than his minuscule lace striping (actually 2 millimeters in width) of a day dress, looking at a distance like a pencil stripe?

Bolero Gives Old Evening Dress New Lease on Life

An old evening dress can take a new lease on life, now that the bolero is offered in such a variety of themes. Those who like a trim, tailored type of jacket will be interested in the versions that are made of sharkskin or printed linen. They have boyish collars and stitched trimming. White sharkskin is recommended for wear over a black frock while those printed linens will look well with vivid or dark shades, especially if the wearer is among the winter cruisers. Embroidered organdie and shirred marquisette that are available in white or pastel tints transform a tailored costume into a frivolous and a very feminine one.

WHAT TO EAT AND WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Discusses PROTEINS—The Foods That You Cannot Live Without

Eminent Food Authority Explains Why No Protein Means No Life—Describes the Kind and Amount Required for the Best Growth in Children—Good Resistance, Vigor and Endurance in Adults.

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 39th St., New York.

FOOD is—and always has been—the central problem of life. But only in recent years has its true power been revealed, as a result of scientific investigation.

Fortunately, we now know what constitutes sound nutrition, and it is possible for every homemaker to plan meals that will enable her family to eat their way to health.

Topping the list of food essentials are the proteins. The Dutch chemist, Mulder, who hit upon this name, made a wise choice, for it means "to take first place."

And certainly the proteins are first in importance. For they are the stuff of which our bodies are built. Without them, there would be no life. Every man, woman and child has a fundamental need for protein, because it is an essential component of every living cell and makes up a large part of the solids of a muscle cell. Evidently, a great many of the glandular principles and substances, which control the functions of the body, are also protein in character. Protein is the only food element that contains nitrogen, and next to water, nitrogen is the chief constituent of the human body. Protein Builds Bodies. A new born baby weighs, on an average, from 7 to 7½ pounds, and the adult into which it grows may weigh 20 to 30 times as much. The vast amount of tissue necessary to construct a man is built chiefly from protein. Once the adult body is built, however, protein is not required for the growth of new tissues, except under certain conditions, such as during pregnancy, when one is recovering from a wasting illness, or when an athlete is in training and the muscles are increasing in size. Keeps the Body in Repair. There is, however, a maintenance requirement for protein which continues throughout life, and which applies to both children and adults. For the body may be compared to a machine, on which it is necessary to make allowance for the wear and tear of parts. Protein is the only substance that will rebuild the millions of cells which each day cease to function. Thus, we see that protein performs two vital services—First, it builds new tissues; second, it repairs worn-out tissues. The Building Stones of the Body. Protein is found in many different foods, but unfortunately, not all proteins are equally valuable. That is because protein is a very complex substance, resulting from the union of 22 or more simpler substances containing nitrogen, and called amino acids. These are the true building stones of the body. Some protein foods may have only 7 amino acids represented in their substance; others may have as many as 15 or 16, and these also may be varied by the proportions of the kinds present. Proteins Vary in Value. Some of these amino acids are necessary to build new tissue; others will not build tissue, but are capable of repairing worn-out cells. Some protein foods are, therefore, more valuable to the body than others. It is absolutely essential that the homemaker, charged with the responsibility of feeding a family, should be able to distinguish between those types of protein which are adequate for both growth and repair, and those that are only useful for maintenance. For if the diet does not contain an adequate amount, or the right kind of protein, our bodies will be badly built and they will be improperly repaired and cannot wear well. As Dr. Eugene V. McCollum of Johns Hopkins university, the world-famous investigator and discoverer of vitamin A, puts it: "Unless the right kinds, with respect to the size and shape, are furnished by the food proteins, the exact pattern on which the muscle must be constructed cannot be formed and, in this case, growth is interfered with."

If you were building a house you would consider nothing less than the finest materials. You would know that cheap lumber and poorly made bricks could not produce a lasting building. In the same way, you must learn to discriminate between the various types of protein used for the supremely important purpose of building your children's bodies, or keeping adult physiques in perfect repair. Some foods cost more than others and you should not be guilty of spending hard-earned money for expensive protein foods when the same amount of nourishment could be more economically obtained from an inexpensive source. Where to Find Protein. Proteins that will build new tissue, as well as replace worn-out cells, are known as complete proteins. In this class we have meats, fish, cheese, milk, eggs and some nuts. Incomplete proteins are found in grains and products made from them, and in the legumes—that is peas, beans, lentils and peanuts. The proteins of these foods are of high nutritive value, however, and when supplemented with other proteins, such as those of milk, will meet every bodily requirement. How Much Protein? The protein requirement varies according to size, age, and the kind of protein foods consumed. To allow for growth, children require twice as much protein per pound of body weight as adults. That is to say, an adult requires daily one-thirtieth of an ounce for each pound of body weight, but a child needs one-fiftieth of an ounce for each pound of body weight. The amount of protein food should usually constitute from 10 to 15 per cent of all the calories taken. If this plan is faithfully followed, there will be more than enough to take care of every requirement, because experiments indicate that a man who weighs 154 pounds, or 70,000 grams, needs a minimum of 44 grams of protein every day. In planning the family dietary, a safe rule to keep in mind is to include in the daily diet: a quart of milk for every child, a pint for each adult; one egg, one serving of meat, fish or chicken, one serving of another protein food such as cheese, dried peas or beans, or a main dish made with nuts. You can achieve wide variety and still provide an adequate protein ration within the limits of this rule. For milk may be served as a beverage, in soups, puddings, and as cream sauce. Eggs may likewise be varied in their method of preparation, or concealed in other foods. There are many fine meats, and the number of ways in which fresh, canned, frozen or dried fish can be served is legion. Both cheese and nuts make sandwiches, salads and desserts, as well as main course dishes. Peas, beans and lentils can appear as soup, mock roast or croquettes. Grain products, which include cereals, macaroni and bread, may appear in any course in the meal. In planning menus, always keep before you the ideal that an adequate amount of first class protein makes a first class man, whereas an inadequate amount may lead to stunted growth, functional nervous diseases, lessened efficiency and the earlier approach of old age. In choosing proteins to feed your family—remember that they take first place among foods, and that upon their wise choice rests your future welfare, your destiny—your life!

Polishing Ethics—Pro and Con

When fine furniture leaves the shop of the manufacturer, its finish has been professionally treated, to preserve its beauty—prolong its endurance. And from that time on, this furniture is best maintained by a quality light-oil furniture polish—first, on the shop floor of the furniture dealer—and then in the home. This is acknowledged and accepted as the best way to heighten its beauty—lengthen its life! But unfortunately, many housewives coat the finish of their furniture and woodwork with various shellacs and veneers—using them as a substitute for a fine oil polish and rubbing. And what a great mistake this is! For these coatings form a false finish over the true finish of the furniture; and resin and other destructive elements in them dry out the wood—toughen it—leave a sticky residue. When many layers have been applied, they accumulate as a crust over the finish, clogging it and clouding the natural beauty of the grain. This is the slack way to care for furniture. If the home-maker really "cares for" her furniture, she will frequently rub on a reputable light-oil polish, to preserve it—keep it lastingly lovely!

High School
The Seniors have decided to visit Niagara Falls for their trip this year, if possible. This will necessitate the securing of considerable more money to defray this expense and the expense of commencement. An attempt is being made to rent a bus for the occasion.

The Senior Class will hold a bake sale at Buch's store Saturday afternoon. You will need some baked goods for Sunday. Better patronize them.

Representatives of the Camp Publishing Company of Ypsilanti Michigan, arrived at the school building Tuesday afternoon to take individual and group pictures of the Seniors. All of the work was done within their own car.

The Seniors have decided to hold a benefit supper at the Baptist church, Friday evening, April 1. Begin now to prepare to come to this event in order to enjoy a social time and to help the class to realize its ambition of visiting the Niagara Falls later in the season.

The date for the local forensic contest is Friday, March 18. The following contestants will speak: Declaimers: Dorothy Blust, Kathleen Davis, and Richard Zollner; orators: Norma Musolf, Marguerite McLean, Frieda Ross, and John Katterman; extempore speakers: Lucille DePotty, Joy Smith, and Jo Ann Tinker. One person from each group will be chosen to represent our school in the Sub-district Contest which will be held sometime in April.

—And March Marches On!

Though it's just another month in the year, March probably has more traditions and superstitions behind it than any of the remaining 11 months.
Since Julius Caesar's time the "ides of March" have been famous in song and story, few people realizing that every month had an "ides" in the old Roman calendar. The fact that Caesar was murdered on the "ides of March" made that particular day more significant.

To the Romans, March was the first month of the year, a calendar custom that persisted throughout Europe for centuries. England did not adopt the present calendar until 1752, previously dating its legal year from March 25.
Literally, March is the month of Mars, based on Grecian legend. Certainly its warlike tendencies are borne out by the furious winds usually accompanying the month. If March comes in like a lion, it will go out like a lamb, or vice versa.
If people are "mad as a March hare" there's usually a mental ailment concerned. March beer is traditionally the best, since climatic conditions are supposed to be best for brewing in that month.
