JOHN COYLE ELECTED MAYOR TAWAS CITY

Election Makes No Change in Supervisors of County

Two hundred fifty-two citizens, about two-thirds of the voters of Tawas City, quietly cast their ballots last Monday for city officials. John Coyle on the Peoples ticket was elected mayor, defeating Chas. Moeller, Republican, by the small margin of ten votes. Both men were considered by their fellow citizens as excellent material for the office. Substantial majorities were given to the republican candidates for the remainder of the offices.

At Whittemore the largest vote ever polled in that city was cast Monday and resulted in victory for the republican ticket. Interested leaders for both parties worked strenuously the entire day bringing in every available voter.

Although Whittemore has always been a republican town, the democrats, well organized in that vicinity, felt confident that success was a sight. However, when the final count was made victory again perched on the republican banner.

In Plainfield and Oscoda township the Republican tickets were elected. Peoples ticket candidates won out in Wilber township with exception of the office of board of review. This was won by Wm. Phelps, republican.

R. A. Bentley, slip candidate for clerk in Reno township was successful. Harry Van Patten, for supervisor, and Jesse Carpenter, for clerk ran close races in Grant township against candidates on the ticket.

Alabaster—Victor J. Anderson, supervisor; Mrs. Effie Oates, treasurer Sada McKiddie, clerk; Walter Furst, highway commissioner; John Furst, justice of the peace; Clyde Jenkins, constable.

Ausable—Hobart Brayman, supervisor; Nellie Robinson, clerk; Nellie Jacques, treasurer; John Johnson, board of review; short term; Rhea Mathews, board of review, long term; Edward Couture, justice.

Baldwin—Edward G. Burgess, supervisor; Oscar P. Alstrom, clerk; Frieda Bischof, treasurer; John Burbanck, highway commissioner; William Wilkenson and Fred Gottleber, justices; Fred Gottleber, board of review.

Burleigh—Theo. Bellville, supervisor; Osman Ostrand, clerk; Paul Siegrist, treasurer; Floyd Shaffer, highway commissioner; Earl Partlo, board of review; Otto Furst, justice of the peace; Bert Dunnell, justice.

Grant—Victor Herriman, supervisor; Nona Goroux, clerk; Bernice Herriman, treasurer; Jay Thomas, highway commissioner; James McArdle justice; Albert Groff, board of review.

OUR FIRE DEPARTMENT

Early Wednesday morning the fire department was called to the Greystone. When the chemical engine arrived at the scene it was found that a cushion in a car belonging to smelt fisherman was on fire. Breaking the glass of one of the locked doors the fire was quickly extinguished by the use of the chemical and the car was saved from any great damage.

"The chemical engine arrived on the scene and the fire was extinguished before any great damage had been done"—has been said by home owners a great many times during the past 18 years. Cold weather or hot weather, and in places where water is inaccessible even now with our water system the chemical engine has been very successful. There is no other fire fighting apparatus that could take its place.

At the inspection Wednesday morning on their return to the hall, the firemen discovered that it was fortunate that the fire was not serious and that there had been no quick need for water. It was found that the nozzles and siamese had been disconnected from the fire hose and that the men's boots had been removed from the pumper for other purposes and had not been replaced. Such a condition should not exist and the person responsible should receive a reprimand.

P.-T. A. Notes

The Tawas City P.-T. A. will meet Wednesday, April 20 instead of next week. County Agricultural Agent W. F. Finley will give a talk on gardening and will answer questions relative to the care of small gardens. All interested are cordially invited to come and hear Mr. Finley.

Hale Church Burns Mortgage Friday

An enjoyable evening was spent at the Hale M. E. church Friday April 1, when about 175 people met to celebrate the burning of the old church mortgage.

The program began with a bountiful potluck supper, places were set for 160. Others came in later to enjoy the program of music and speaking, which was one of the best we have had the pleasure of hearing for some time.

Rev. Pengally acted as master of ceremonies. Musical numbers were ably rendered by a group of singers, Norman Van Worter and the Deano Male Quartette.

Speaker of the evening was Rev. Spracklin of the Fremont Ave. M. E. church of Bay City, who gave an inspiring and forceful talk.

A brief history of the building was given by Mrs. W. E. Glendon and the paid up mortgage was handed Rev. Pellowe, District Superintendent, who, with the assistance of Rev. Pengelly, Rev. Spracklin, John Webb and E. O. Putnam, lighted the paper and held it until it was reduced to blackened embers before the eyes of the many interested spectators.

The M. E. Church wishes to extend sincere thanks to all who have helped in any way to pay this debt and to all who helped to make the evening's program a success.

Twentieth Century Club

Health Day was observed by the members of the Twentieth Century Club on Wednesday of this week when they met at the club rooms Mrs. Grace Mark, Club President, presiding.

The Roll Call, "How to Keep Young," brought forth the advice that if one would keep well, keep happy and keep busy, one could stay young.

Miss Bernice Klumb, County Nurse of Children's Fund, told of her work in the county and especially of the work for the crippled children. Miss Evelyn Brown, student at the University of Michigan, and graduate nurse, who is spending six weeks in the county studying rural nursing read a paper prepared by Dr. Burton. A general discussion followed.

The next meeting will be held April 20 and will be the final meeting of the Club year. The music committee will have charge of the meeting and music and drama will be studied. Mrs. Grace Mark will give her report on the Federation of Club Women held in Detroit in March. All Club members are urged to be present.

Prayer and Benediction

Organ Postlude, James Mark

An offering will be taken during the service.

Union noon-hour services will be conducted in the East Tawas Community house next week, April 11 to 14, inclusive, by Rev. H. Wilson of Christ Episcopal church, Rev. S. A. Carey of the Methodist church and Rev. Frank Metcalf of the Tawas City Baptist church.

The service will begin each day at 12:20 p. m. and will consist of congregational singing using the old hymns of the church, Scripture reading and a short message dealing with our Lord's last week upon the earth. There will also be a special vocal number for each day.

The meetings will close not later than one o'clock and will thus give time for the young people from the school, and the business people of the community, to spend a few minutes in the noon hour in religious meditation and worship.

The people in the community are invited to join in worship in these services and so help to make them a real community inspiration.

FOR SALE—Choice oriental spruce, all sizes. Oscar Fahselt, Tawas City.

Iosco Soil Conservation

Farm acreage allotments of Soil depleting crops will soon be sent to farmers. These allotments are for a guide to farmers planting crops this spring.

To qualify for full payment under the new program, a farmer need make no reductions from these allotments but must meet the following requirements on his farm:

1. Plant no greater acreage of depleting crops than his farm allotment.

2. Plant only his farm potato acreage allotment on commercial potato farms. Payment will be made only on the actual acreage of potatoes planted in 1938.

3. Plant not more than three acres of potatoes on non-commercial potato farms.

4. Carry out soil building practices to meet his farm soil building goal.

Deductions will be made from the maximum farm payments if these provisions are not met on the farm.

The total allotments for all farms in the United States are set so that production under normal conditions will result in ample supplies of farm commodities rather than surpluses which are wasteful of soil and farm income, and so that there will be no small manage reserve supply against short years.

It is intended that farmers and consumers will be safeguarded against disaster and prohibitive price fluctuations by this system and the soil of the nation will be preserved.

John Sibley Sentenced 7 to 10 Years at Jackson

John Sibley of Reno plead guilty Tuesday before Judge Herman Dehnke to attacking a Taft school teacher. Sibley was sentenced to serve seven to ten years at Jackson prison.

Lone Ranger Serial to be Shown at Rivola

The motion picture version of "The Lone Ranger," a man of mystery, will be shown each week at the Rivola Theatre, Tawas City, starting Wednesday and Thursday, April 13 and 14.

The story is based on the radio serial, "The Lone Ranger," created by station WXYZ Detroit and being broadcast each Monday, Wednesday and Friday evening over WBCB, Bay City.

Besides featuring the Lone Ranger there are also the horse Silver and Tonto, Chief Thunder Cloud in addition to a large all star cast.

In "The Lone Ranger," the identity of the leading character is kept a secret for the first time in motion pictures. Many films have had an unknown villain, but never before has the hero of a picture remained unidentified throughout the story.

The feature picture with this serial will be "Judge Hardy's Children," starring Lewis Stone, Mickey Rooney and Cecilia Parker. This is another glorious new adventure with the grand family you met in "You're Only Young Once."

Tony Sienko, age 21 years, of Saginaw was rushed Friday noon to the hospital with a badly mangled leg. He had attempted to jump the Alabaster train at the Hamilton crossing and slipped, falling under the wheels. His leg will doubtless have to be amputated.

For Sale—House and lot fronting Tawas Bay. Known as "Clark McCormick Place." Corner of Beach and Lakeshore Drive. For particulars see, L. H. Braddock, adv.

400 ATTEND ACHIEVEMENT DAY PROGRAM

Many Fine Exhibits Made By Iosco County Boys and Girls

The holding of the Annual Spring Achievement Day, which was attended by over 400 interested people, at the Community Building in East Tawas, Thursday, March 31, marked the completion of one more year of work for the 4H Club people enrolled in clothing, handicraft and hot lunch projects in Iosco county.

The exhibits which were on display during the day represented the efforts of 74 clothing club girls from 13 different clubs, who made 177 articles. The 357 handicraft articles were made by 70 boys and girls from nine different clubs. One hot lunch club of seven members completed their required work.

From ten until twelve o'clock the club members and their parents were entertained by a free moving picture show at the Family Theatre. Films on Michigan Scenic Highways and Conservation were shown by the State Highway and Conservation, under the supervision of Conservation Arthur Lietz.

During the afternoon Miss Margaret Worden very ably acted as chairman, giving many favorable comments on club work and youth education. Music during the program was furnished by the East Tawas High School Band under the direction of Mr. Trestrail. Mr. Trestrail also led the group in community singing.

Other highlights of the afternoon program consisted of the Honor awards by state club leaders Miss Olga Bird and Mr. A. G. Kettunen. Dr. Thompson from West Branch announced the winners in the health contest, while L. H. Rhodes, district Club Agent, discussed summer 4H Club projects and camps. The Achievement Certificates and 4H Pins were awarded by County Agricultural Agent, Wilton L. Finley.

The local delegates in the Clothing Club project are as follows: Irene Snyoznska, Vine School, Miss Evelyn Katterman, leader, Virginia Zaharias and Louise Alstrom, Bradwin School, Miss Edna Bischof, leader; Beverly Freeland and Katharine Dedrich, National City, Miss Ruth Katterman, leader; Clara Boen, Evelyn Christianson, Ila Hughes, Genevieve Laughlin, Patsy Boen and Inez Furst, Alabaster School, Miss (Turn to No. 2, back page)

Whittemore Man Honored By Standard Oil Company

J. B. Bowen, "B" Station Agent of the Standard Oil Company at Whittemore, Michigan, was recently presented with a gold pin symbolizing 20 years of faithful service, by E. R. Scoop, Division Manager.

Mr. Bowen entered the service of the company on October 22, 1917, and has made many friends during the past 20 years that he served the public. Starting in with the old horse drawn wagon and sleighs, he has progressed along with the improvements until now he has one of the latest motor-driven tank wagons in this vicinity.

Health Notes

The Michigan Society for Crippled Children was formed for the sole purpose of focusing public attention on this problem long neglected or ignored and urging the public through its local organizations to help solve the problem.

The annual Seal campaign of the Society and its affiliated local committees helps to provide some of the money for this undertaking. The Society is offering for sale at a penny each its Easter Seals to help finance this necessary work.

The Seals will be on sale from April 6 to 17. The slogan is "A Better Life for Crippled Children."

The Iosco County Crippled Children's organization is sponsoring the Seal sale in our community. It should be of interest to all to know that 50% of the returns from this sale remains in the community for local aid for cripples. The other 50% is turned over to the Michigan Society for the purpose of maintaining Hospitals and Convalescent Homes. All of these advantages are available when necessary.

"REFORM" BILL PASSED

Measure Giving President Vast Powers Squeezes Through Senate . . . Mussolini Ready for War

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the senate finance committee, is here seen telling members of the press what his committee had done and proposed to do to the revenue measure so that it would be less objectionable to business and to the country in general. It already had made radical changes in the bill as it was passed by the house.

Wide Powers for President

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S reorganization bill squeezed through the senate by the close vote of 49 to 42, after a fierce fight. A motion to recommit, which would have virtually killed the measure, was defeated by a vote of 48 to 43.

Opponents of this bill are convinced that it paves the way for a dictatorship in the United States. Mr. Roosevelt made public a letter to a friend in which he disclaimed any intention to become a dictator under the powers granted him by the bill. He said he was firmly opposed to an American dictatorship and that he has none of the qualifications which would make him a successful dictator.

The special reorganization committee of the house reported a new bill as a substitute for the senate measure but differing from it only slightly. Its speedy passage was predicted by Majority Leader Rayburn.

The bill, as it was passed by the senate, authorizes the President, by executive order, to transfer, re-group, co-ordinate, consolidate, segregate the whole or any part of or abolish any of the 135 bureaus, agencies, and divisions of government. Excepted from this section, however, are the federal reserve board, the corps of engineers of the United States army and the independent, quasi-judicial and regulatory establishments, such as the board of tax appeals, the communications commission, the federal trade commission, the interstate commerce commission, and the national labor relations board.

It abolishes the civil service commission as now constituted, and the general accounting office. It creates a new "department of welfare," and it authorizes six more $10,000 a year assistants to the President.

Senators Are Angered

COMMENTING to the press on the senate's action on the reorganization bill, the President made the remarkable statement that it proved the senate could not be "purchased by organized telegrams based on direct misrepresentations."

This led to an outburst of indignation in the senate. Hiram Johnson of California started a hot debate with the assertion: "I don't know just what was meant by this remark, but I do know full well the implications which arise from it. Did the President mean that the senate could be purchased only by promises of projects in particular states, or by marshals or other officials in particular localities?"

Senator Wheeler of Montana said that it was a "coincidence" that Senator James P. Pope, Democrat, of Idaho, had voted for the reorganization bill about the same time that he had been able to get for his state an appropriation of close to $1,000,000 to start a dam project. When Pope and his friends indignantly protested, Wheeler said he was satisfied there was no connection between the two matters.

The citizens who sent between 75,000 and 100,000 telegrams asking senators to vote against the reorganization measure are still to be heard from concerning the President's comment.

Adjournment Prospects

CONGRESS wants to adjourn by the first of May, but leaders foresaw three possible obstacles to this plan—the wage-hour bill, the Hungarian debt settlement proposal and railroad legislation.

Democratic Leader Barkley said he hoped the senate could dispose of the tax revision bill, the $1,100,000,000 naval expansion program, and the proposed $1,000,000,000 relief measure in April. This would clear the senate calendar, he said, unless consideration of Hungary's debt program should result in a lengthy senate debate on the entire war debt question.

Representative Rayburn, house floor leader, said he thought that chamber could complete its present program by May 1. But other members said that if efforts to revive the wage-hour bill are successful, the picture may change.

Ten Men to Probe TVA

FIVE senators and five representatives will do the investigating of the Tennessee Valley authority, for the resolution for a joint committee inquiry was adopted by the senate without a dissenting vote, and was approved unanimously by the house.

The resolution was introduced by Sen. Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, majority leader. It calls for investigation of charges of malfeasance and dishonesty made by the ousted chairman, A. E. Morgan, and includes eight of the twenty-three charges originally made by Senators Bridges and King in their first resolution for a congressional inquiry. It also calls for a "fishing expedition" into the activities of private utility companies and their injunction suits against the TVA.

Sen. H. Styles Bridges, the New Hampshire Republican, in a radio debate declared the administration was trying to obscure the charges of scandal within the TVA by forcing the inquiry to cover the private utility angle. "The administration's strategy has been to cover up TVA dirt by a phoney counter-attack," he said.

He was answered vigorously by Sen. Lister B. Hill of Alabama. "I will be in supreme command," Mussolini cried, thrusting out his chest. "Military problems are fundamental ones," continued Mussolini. "I dedicate the greatest part of my day to them. Anyone who dares to attack the rights and interests of our fatherland will find in the land, sea and air the immediate, resolute and proudest answer from the Italian people's arms."

France was warned also by Nazi Propaganda Minister Goebbels in a sensational speech in Vienna. Proclaiming the might of the new Germany, Goebbels shouted: "Germany is now strong enough to resist any attack from France. There can no longer be any question of a promise from Paris to Berlin. Paris is no longer the heart of European politics. The heart is now Berlin."

Not only did the Mohammedan pasha, Keritli Oglu, prince of tyrants, wrest his food from his subjects; he made them pay a "tooth tax" for the wear and tear on his teeth in eating it.

The degree of doctor of divinity is usually an earned degree. There is no general regulation, however, to deter a university from bestowing such an honorary degree should it so decide.

The Romance languages, which are Italian, Spanish, Portuguese, French and Rumanian, are described as "romance," from the Old French word, "romanz," meaning translated from Latin.

When Hen's Egg Hardens
A hen's egg has a soft shell or coating until a few hours before it is laid, when the shell hardens. The eggs of most animals lower than birds, as frogs, reptiles, and fishes are soft even after laying.

A Classic Example
The Hermitage, beautiful and historic home of Andrew Jackson, lies only a few minutes from the heart of Nashville, Tenn. The building is a classic example of the best architecture of its day and is preserved in every detail almost precisely as it was when Old Hickory passed away. The site of The Hermitage presents a scene of sylvan loveliness and quietude reminiscent of days gone by. The home contains relics and mementos of Jackson's tempestuously busy and aggressive life. The rooms are furnished with the pieces which Jackson and his family actually used, and the grand stairway in the lower hall ranks as one of the most beautiful.

"A Free Ride to Doom"
By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY: I've seen a lot of articles lately, in newspapers and magazines, warning automobilists not to pick up strangers along the road. Well, sir, today I'm going to warn the strangers not to get too chummy with these doggone automobilists.

And I'm not more than half kidding about that, either, boys and girls. It's a poor rule that won't work both ways, and you can get in just as much of a jam picking up with some bird in a car as the bird in a car can by giving a lift to the guy with the wiggling thumb at the side of the road.

If you don't believe that, listen to the story of Ernest A. Kehr, of Richmond Hill, N. Y. Ernie took a ride one time, back in the summer of 1934, with a bird he'd never seen before—and that ride came darned close to being the last one Ernie ever took.

Picked Up by a Strange Motorist.
Ernie had been up in Calgary riding wild horses in the rodeo and was on his way home. He had hiked through Glacier National park and he was pretty tired, but he was pushing on as fast as he could because he had arranged to meet a friend at a small town in Montana and he didn't want to keep him waiting.

Over the Side of the Mountain They Went.

Valier was the name of the town and Ernie was within 15 miles of it when a man came along driving a brand-new car. The man pulled up beside Ernie and asked him if he wanted a ride. It didn't take much figuring on Ernie's part to decide that this was an easier mode of travel than the "Shanks mare" system he had been following. He climbed into the seat by the driver and they were off.

But Ernie had no more got into that buzz buggy than he began to have his doubts. There was something queer about the driver. He had seemed cordial enough when he had offered Ernie the ride, but there his good will seemed to have ended. When Ernie passed a casual remark, the fellow ignored it. He kept his eye on the road and the car seemed to be moving faster and faster with every foot they went.

They had gone quite a distance before Ernie discovered what the trouble was. His companion was well under the influence of liquor.

Fast Driving on a Dangerous Road.
That didn't look so good to Ernie. The fellow was driving faster than was safe, even with a sober man at the wheel. By this time he was hitting fifty on a road where a sane driver would not have gone more than thirty—a long, steep downgrade that ran along a sloping mountain ridge. The ground fell away on one side of them into a deep mountain gully and on the other side it rose straight up—a wall cut out of solid rock by the graders who had leveled the roadbed.

The small car bounced about perilously on the rough, uneven road, but that didn't seem to bother the man at the wheel. Instead of slowing down he fed the machine more gas. The needle of the speedometer climbed to sixty—then to seventy.

Ernie began to get nervous about that time. The car was roaring along now at a speed that almost upset it every time it came to a curve. It bounced about the surface of the road in a thoroughly alarming manner. Ernie kept his eye glued on the driver, watching his every move and ready to grasp the wheel in the event that he should lose control of the car. It seemed nothing short of a miracle to Ernie that it hadn't gone off the road or smacked into something long before.

Plunged Right Off the Mountain Side.
They had gone skidding around a curve on two wheels and had just come to a long, straight stretch. The road ahead looked smooth and in good condition, and for the first time during the ride Ernie felt comparatively safe. He drew in a deep breath and heaved a sigh of relief—let his eyes wander over the landscape for a second. And then it happened.

Says Ernie: "I had no sooner taken my eyes from the man than I saw the car leave the hard road and go off onto a soft shoulder. At the speed we were making, that shoulder was fatal. The sudden change of surface swerved the wheels of the car and over the side of the mountain we went, the car turning over in the air as it left the ground. The earth seemed to spin about in a dizzy circle for a few seconds and then we crashed to the slope at the bottom of a sheer drop of 40 feet."

"We hit the slope with a crash—so hard that the motor of the car was knocked right off the chassis and buried itself in the ground where we struck. But the rest of the car, with both of us in it, continued to roll down the slope at a terrific speed. It rolled over six or eight times and finally crashed into a rock with such force that I went sailing 50 feet through the air. After that I lost consciousness."

A 40-foot drop, six turns in a tumbling car and a 50-foot fall through the air! The driver was dead when they found him, and Ernie—well—he got a bump on the head, three busted teeth—and that's all. And he's still wondering if he's really as tough as those figures would seem to indicate.

Washington Digest
National Topics Interpreted
By WILLIAM BRUCKART
NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Washington.—To have a clear understanding of the discussion that is to follow, I think I must first find a definition of the word "contumacy."

The TVA Controversy
It ought to be properly and officially defined because it is going to be a very important word in this country. So, I read from the dictionary here on my desk the following definition:

CONTUMACY, contemptuous disregard of authority; insolent disregard of authority; incorrigible obstinacy.

Next, it should be set down that there are—rather, there were two men with the surname of Morgan as officials of the Tennessee Valley authority before President Roosevelt removed one of them from office for contumacy. The fact that there were two Morgans must be remembered because each one figures prominently in a continuing controversy and for the reason that neither one of the Morgans is connected with "the House of Morgan" to which so many demagogues refer when they talk about economic royalists.

In the third place, we should know something about David E. Lillenthal, who, like the two Morgans, also was a director of the TVA. Mr. Lillenthal continues to be a director, as does Harcourt Morgan. The Morgan who no longer has official connection with TVA, according to President Roosevelt, is Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, founder of the famous Antioch college at Yellow Springs, Ohio. Arthur Morgan was removed as chairman of the TVA because the President said he was guilty of "contumacy," and Harcourt Morgan was made chairman.

The removal took place by executive order after Mr. Roosevelt had personally held three hearings for the purpose, he said, of determining who was wrong in an old-fashioned cat and dog fight that has been going for months among the three directors of TVA. Arthur Morgan had made accusations against the other two directors, charges of a libelous nature, charges of dishonesty—in short, charges that the other two directors were guilty of enough things to cause their removal from office. Arthur Morgan had openly urged a congressional investigation of the TVA as well, and when Mr. Roosevelt made his own investigation and Arthur Morgan refused to offer one iota of evidence to support his previous charges, he was guilty of contumacy and the Chief Executive removed, or just plain fired, him.

And so, we come to another phase. In urging a congressional investigation, Arthur Morgan followed what he thought was the proper course. He held that the TVA was a creature of congress which placed in its law, its legal charter, that none of the directors could be removed unless on charges that they had played political favorites in TVA appointments. He thought that the White House investigation was a means of checking a congressional investigation which had been so vigorously opposed by Senator Norris of Nebraska, father of the TVA and Roosevelt supporter. That is to say, Chairman Morgan didn't believe President Roosevelt had any authority to call in the three directors and there, in the presence of all, compel the chairman to substantiate his charges. So he stood pat. But Mr. Roosevelt believed he did have authority and he used it. He removed Arthur Morgan and promoted Harcourt Morgan to the TVA chairmanship.

Well, there had been a lot of hemming and having around the senate over the general TVA investigation proposed by the fighting young Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, who was joined in the battle by Sen. William H. King of Utah. Senator Norris succeeded in stalling the investigation for quite awhile. But after the White House investigation which Senator Bridges contemptuously referred to as a "comic opera trial," things began to happen in the house of representatives as well as in the senate and so now there is scheduled an investigation in which house and senate will join, an inquiry that will go into every phase of TVA to see what makes it tick.

There can be no doubt at all that instead of satisfying the country, especially congress, as to the merits of the TVA row, the White House investigation had the effect of bringing about a far-reaching investigation in congress. Many bitter words have been uttered about the White House course in firing Arthur Morgan, observations that Mr. Roosevelt had "railroaded" the chairman out of the TVA job; assertions that it constituted an American version of the famed French "Dreyfus case," assertions that "contumacy is a crime only where dictators operate," etc. Try as they may now, the public ownership advocates, socialists and others who believe in the state owning everything, are due to have the varnish removed from

TVA. The country at last is going to have a look at the real wood; they will get some facts that hitherto have been concealed or hushed up. That is, these things will come out for an airing unless the presidential lash whips enough commitment into line to develop a whitewash.

TIPS to Gardeners

Combinations
TO INCREASE yield from the vegetable plot, the home gardener should grow "combined cultures."

The theory is to plant in closely spaced adjacent rows vegetables harvested at widely different times, using one before the other begins to mature.

Combine cauliflower, lettuce and radish, for instance. Plant cauliflower early in rows three feet apart. Between the rows plant lettuce, and between lettuce and cauliflower rows plant radish. Radishes are harvested early, then the lettuce, and later the cauliflower.

Following are several other combinations recommended by Harold Coulter, Ferry Seed Institute vegetable expert:

Carrots and parsnips in alternate rows two feet apart; radishes between first two rows; lettuce between second and third rows, and spinach between third and fourth rows.
Spinach rows two and one-half feet apart; radishes between spinach; pepper plants set between spinach when radishes are pulled.

Men can never understand a three-quarter wife—a wife who is lovable for three weeks of the month—but a hell-cat the fourth. No matter how your back aches—no matter how loudly your nerves scream—don't take it out on your husband.

Doan's Pills
Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

CONQUERING THE POLES

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Big beefy, handsome Joseph Buerckel, forty years old, with hard fists and a whip-lash tongue, is Hitler's grand marshal of the Nazi subjugation of Austria. To the surprise of Nazi home talent in Austria, he is given entire charge of the fusion and subordination of the Austrian Nazis by Berlin.

He was a poor schoolmaster who worked his way up by continuous and diligent Jew-hating. While less earnest and industrious young men were wasting their time, he was working nights, Sundays and holidays on this, his chosen career.

Against stiff competition, it took him years to gain distinction, but at last he came to outrank even the illustrious Julius Streicher in long-distance anti-Semitism.

He was born in the Palatinate, the south German territory adjoining the Saar. He was in the World War, in the closing years, and joined the Hitler movement soon after the Munich beer hall putsch in 1923.

He was a good rough-and-tumble fighter and organizer and was advanced rapidly in the more overt and violent party drives.

When Baron von Papen was removed as Saar commissioner, in 1934, and made ambassador to Vienna, Herr Buerckel replaced him. Under his supervision was the jug-handled plebscrite and his the exultant radio voice which told the world that German justice had triumphed.

The League of Nations handed him the valley, and he became governor in 1935.

A typically forthright ukase was his Christmas decree against shopping in Jewish stores.

"If you try to get out of it," he said, "by pretending that your wife did the shopping, it merely shows that an unreal Nazi spirit prevails in your home, and you are not a he-man, but a fool."

YOUNG Jan G. Masaryk, Czech minister to the Court of St. James, had a fervent belief in the Kellogg and Locarno pacts. He once said, "They are splendid instruments of a world order of peace and stability." Now he calls at the British foreign office, perhaps to hint that something seems to have gone wrong.

He is the son of the late Dr. Thomas Masaryk, first president of Czechoslovakia. His mother was an American, born and reared in Brooklyn, and so is his wife, the former Mrs. Francis Crane Leatherbee, daughter of Charles R. Crane, the widely known manufacturer and industrialist. He has spent much time in America.

At the age of eighteen, he ran away from the University of Prague, in the early years of the war, and worked in a factory at Bridgeport, Conn. He returned home and finished his studies, and was the first Czech minister to the United States in 1919.

He has his famous father's impassioned belief in democracy, and has been its eloquent defender in central Europe, where his country is Horatius at the Bridge.

THE history of this age will be hard to unscramble. Japan can't take a belt at a local power baron without landing on an American stockholder. Dr.

Japs Learn Power Can Be Headache Joji Matsumoto warned the government not to get in trouble with American investors by nationalizing its electric power industry.

This would endanger investments of $75,000,000, he contended, mostly held in this country.

He is Japan's leading corporation lawyer and one of its most important financiers, an officer of the Capital Rehabilitation Aid company, which has a quaint sound but which is understandable even in the Occident.

Sixty years old, he is a former professor of law at the Tokyo Imperial university, from which he was graduated. He is a director of the Tokyo Gas company and several other corporations, and was vice president of the South Manchurian railway.

Spain's Romeo and Juliet The "Lovers of Teruel," Spain's Romeo and Juliet, form one of the most ancient legends of Spain. They were Diego de Marcilla and Isabel de Segura and lived in Teruel during the Thirteenth century under the reign of King James of Aragon. They parted because of family disapproval and languished and died. Their bodies were mummified and they were buried in the chapel of the church of San Pedro.

Man Pushes Closer to Heart of 'Weather's Kitchen,' Seeking Short Cut Route Over Top of the World; Russians Pioneer Arctic

By JOSEPH W. LaBINE

In 1909 courageous Robert E. Peary trudged to the North Pole. The world praised his conquest of the Arctic but with the same breath questioned: "What good is it?"

That cynical attitude persisted until last May when a group of intrepid Russian scientists and aviators began the most thorough examination of Arctic wastes yet attempted by men, braving untold hardships to gather data about the weather's "kitchen."

Suddenly the whole world has become aware of the potential value that lies within the Arctic and Antarctic circles. As Russia goes to work, the United States looks with renewed interest to Alaska, her own far north province. In Canada, British Columbia seeks to extend her domain to the North Pole. In Great Britain, scientists are mulling over data gathered by the British Graham land expedition to the Antarctic.

Many reasons justify this sudden interest. The fabled northwest passage which Henry Hudson sought may yet be found in the Arctic sea. Aviation progress has made practical such long sustained flights as the two Moscow-California hops last summer. Moreover, who knows what valuable mineral deposits lie beneath the crust of ice and snow that covers Arctic lands?

Antarctic Land Discovered.

In the Antarctic, the recent British expedition discovered that Graham land is not an archipelago of islands as previously reported by Sir Hubert Wilkins, but one great tract of land—a peninsula of the Antarctic continent. Thus an immense tract has been added to the earth's known surface.

But it is the North pole which commands most interest because of its proximity to North America, Europe and Asia—a potential short-cut across the top of the world.

The Soviet's best scientists are now living in some 60 weather stations along the Arctic coast, helping push back the frontier and open the sea to ships—at least in summer.

Their observations are now supplemented by those of the ice-floe expedition, four scientists who landed near the pole last May and have since drifted slowly southward, to be picked up recently off the coast of Greenland.

Submarines Enter Picture.

Moscow has announced that eventually it will establish a series of weather observatories and landing fields along the proposed polar airway between Russia and the United States. From these vantage points the Soviet will study geography of the Arctic with airplanes, while submarines dive under the ice crust to explore the frigid seas below. Dr. Ruth Gruber, an American newspaper correspondent, recently visited the Siberian north which formerly existed only as a home of living death for Czarist political prisoners. Even today the Stalinist government is probably using part of Siberia as a prison for victims of its atrocious purges, but Dr. Gruber found other portions of this vast expanse buzzing with industry.

America has been slow to appreciate the possibilities of Alaska. Her first concrete step was the removal of farmers from sub-marginal American lands to more fertile

BELOW—Every iceberg that menaces shipping in the northern seas was once part of the mighty Polar ice cap, which has drifted southward with so many exploration parties, including the recent Russian expedition under Commander Panapin.

Alaskan soil several years ago. But she has done little more.

Today, when airways span every continent, there is still no regularly scheduled line between the United States and Alaska, although the Alaskans themselves are more air-minded than their brothers in the states. Last year more than 20,000 residents of the territory made trips by air—almost one-fourth of the entire population! Alaskans realize their territory can be conquered for year-around exploitation only by air.

Private Radio Stations.

In the entire territory there are 21 private radio stations, of which Pacific Alaska Airways (a Pan-American subsidiary) maintains 13, used solely for weather reporting to supplement the present totally insufficient federal service. The United States bureau of air commerce will soon establish modern radio stations at Juneau and Fairbanks, which is the first step in helping conquer America's portion of the frozen north.

Meanwhile, to the immediate east, British Columbia is suffering from growing pains and Premier T. D. Pattullo wants to push its borders to the North pole. Contingent upon agreement with the dominion government, the annexation would include all of Yukon territory and part of Mackenzie, including half the radium-producing Great Bear lake.

Such a territory would give British Columbia rich potential mineral sources, plus wealth in water power, fishing, agriculture, fur farming and lumbering.

In a few months the entire world may know what Commander Panapin and his companions discovered on their recent expedition, although the Soviet may elect to keep its information secret.

Gulf Stream at Work.

It is already known that they found a layer of warm water near the North pole, caused by meanderings of the tepid Gulf stream. And, despite the general belief that the Arctic is devoid of life, they had frequent animal visitors.

Many obstacles must be overcome before commercial air routes can be mapped over the Arctic, although aviators used to northern flights claim the atmosphere is much clearer and more favorable for flying than in temperate zones. The biggest aviation obstacle is impracticability of compass devices based on the sun, since the Arctic has no sun part of the year.

But the day may come when Londoners bound for San Francisco or the Orient can fly with perfect safety and comfort via the short-cut route, over the top of the world.

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Noted Food Authority

Relates the Miracle of VITAMINS and Explains Why YOU MUST EAT THEM or DIE

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS
6 East 39th St., New York.

WE LIVE in the most inspiring age the world has ever known. Chemists grow plants without soil. Doctors snatch men from death with insulin. Surgeons perform incredibly delicate brain operations. And thanks to the amazing discoveries of nutritional scientists, children enter the world with far better chances for long and happy lives, while men and women of seventy are more active and useful than their grandparents were at fifty.

Much of the hard-won knowledge of how to eat so as to increase efficiency, curb disease, and improve the chances for longevity is due to the discovery of vitamins.

VITAMINS DISCOVERED

Twenty-six years ago, a now-famous scientist walked nervously around his laboratory, back and forth—back and forth. He was conducting a nutrition experiment of vast importance. He didn't quite know what he was going to find, but he believed that he was on the verge of a revolutionary food discovery.

The scientist was my friend, Casimir Funk, a brilliant Polish bio-chemist. He had been working on the problem for many years. At last, in the year 1912, his experiments were positive and conclusive. Then he announced to the scientific world that he had discovered a vital force. "This force," said Funk, "I have called vitamin, because it is necessary to life."

Thus, the word "vitamin" came into being, along with the first knowledge of these minute but powerful factors which exert such a tremendous influence on human health and happiness.

SPARK PLUGS OF NUTRITION

Other bio-chemists throughout the world—including Sir Frederick Gowland Hopkins in England, and Hart, Humphrey, Babcock, Steenbock and McCollum in the United States—had been working on the same problem that Funk had partially solved. They knew that the first step was to find out how vitamins affected the human body, and that the second step was to discover what foods contained these vital substances.

And so there began a long series of experiments in the laboratories of great universities all over the world, which demonstrated what happens when a diet is deficient in any of the vitamins, and proved that if laboratory animals are wholly deprived of vitamins for a short time they will die.

These experiments are of the utmost significance to every homemaker, because the same thing happens to human beings as to experimental animals. Today our knowledge of vitamins has progressed to such a degree that it is possible to state the exact requirement for most of the vitamins and to designate the foods from which adequate quantities can be obtained.

RESISTANCE AND VITAMIN A

To date, six vitamins have been identified. Vitamin A promotes growth and builds resistance to disease. It is necessary for the health of the mucous membranes of the body and helps to guard against infections of the respiratory and alimentary tracts. It influences the health of the hair and skin, is necessary to prevent a serious eye disorder known as night blindness, and is essential for the formation of healthy teeth.

Vitamin A is found in milk, butter, margarine that has been reinforced with vitamin A concentrate, egg yolk, cod-liver oil, thin green leaves and yellow fruits and vegetables such as carrots, sweet potatoes, apricots and bananas.

APPETITE AND VITAMIN B

Vitamin B promotes appetite, aids digestion, prevents a serious nerve disorder. It is essential to the maintenance of a good digestion, which is vitally important if the body is to obtain full benefit from the food consumed. This vitamin is closely related to the energy metabolism, and the requirement increases with the rate of growth and with increased energy expenditure, so that growing children and working men and women should receive very generous amounts.

Vitamin B is found in yeast, whole wheat cereals, oatmeal, milk, fresh and dried peas and beans, spinach, cabbage and other greens, egg yolk and liver.

VITAMIN C FOR TEETH, GUMS

Vitamin C plays an important part in regulating body processes, and prevents the dread disease of scurvy. A lack of this essential vitamin results in profound changes in the structure of the teeth and gums, may be responsible for hemorrhages occurring anywhere in the body, and for the degeneration of muscle fibers generally.

Vitamin C is most abundant in succulent fresh green leaves, such as green cabbage. It is also found in onions, potatoes, oranges, tomatoes, green peppers, bananas and strawberries.

VITAMIN D AND RICKETS

Vitamin D is sometimes called the sunshine vitamin because it can be manufactured in the body through the action of direct sunlight on the skin. This is the vitamin that is necessary for the proper utilization of calcium and phosphorus in building bones and teeth. When it is lacking in the diet of infants, there develops that horrible disease known as rickets, in which the bones become soft and twisted, resulting in pitiful deformities—knock knees, bow legs, pigeon breast.

In foods, vitamin D is only found in appreciable amounts in fish-liver oils and egg yolk. That is why every homemaker should be so grateful to the scientists who labored to discover how to concentrate this precious vitamin from fish-liver oils and add it to foods, or to increase the vitamin D content of foods through irradiation.

ANTI-STERILITY VITAMIN E

Vitamin E comes in for less discussion than the others, because its significance to nutrition has not been fully determined. It does, however, appear to be necessary for successful reproduction and is found especially in wheat germ and lettuce.

VITAMIN G PROLONGS YOUTH

Vitamin G is necessary for growth and for the maintenance of health and vigor at all ages. It helps to ward off old age by prolonging the vigorous middle years. It is essential to the health of the skin, and recent experiments demonstrate that cataracts in the eyes may be due to a deficiency of this vitamin, which is found in yeast, and in liver, kidneys, egg yolk, milk, cheese and green leafy vegetables.

Certainly enough has been learned of vitamin chemistry to make clear that the homemaker falls in her duty who does not provide vitamins in abundance for every member of her family. Both children and adults depend upon you for their food supply. It lies within your power to help them to health and happiness or condemn them to weakness, illness and sorrow. Do not fail them. See to it that every member of your household—your children, the wage earners, the middle aged and the elderly—get enough vitamins to afford them the health that science has placed within their grasp.

Forgiving One Another

Forgiveness of injuries is a God-given grace. It is the most reluctant act that human nature ever performs. In the deepest condition of moral degradation there is no such thing as forgiveness of injuries thought about. So destitute is mankind of the spirit of forgiveness of injuries that heathen religions taught the right of revenging an injury, but not of forgiving one. In view of this, we say, the spirit of forgiving injuries is God-given. The Bible is the one book which from beginning to end advocates forgiveness.

Roman Emperor's Advice

Begin the morning by saying to thyself, I shall meet with the busy-body, the ungrateful, arrogant, deceitful, envious, unsocial. All these things happen to them by reason of their ignorance of what is good and evil. But I, who have seen the nature of the good that is beautiful, and of the bad that is ugly, and the nature of him who does wrong, that it is akin to me, not only of the same blood or seed, but that it participates in the same intelligence and the same portion of the divinity, I can neither be injured by any of them, for no one can fix on me what is ugly, nor can I be angry with my kinsman, nor hate him.—Marcus Aurelius.

Hawaiian Toads Large

Hawaiian toads are among the largest in the world, consequently have huge appetites. Their tongues are unusually long, hinged at the front. Thus a toad can sling its sticky tongue far out to snare insects. A toad also relies on its wits to get meals.

Aklavik, Inside Arctic Circle

Aklavik, well inside the Arctic circle, is almost as far north as Point Barrow, Alaska, northernmost point of civilization, says the National Geographic society. Aklavik is the largest trading post on the Mackenzie river delta. Temperatures sometimes reach 65 below zero.

"Arkansas" Name Used by Indians

"Arkansas" was the name formerly used by the Illinois Indians to designate the Quapaw tribes living near the mouth of the Arkansas river and was probably derived from the name of a Sioux clan division of which the present Omaha, Ponca, Osage and Kansa tribes were part.

1938 Spring Hats Will Be 'Saner'—Or Will They?

Spring stylists are getting more level-headed about hats, so they say. This collection proves them both right and wrong. You can draw your own conclusions about the little feathered bonnet worn above by Rita Johnson of the movies. The skyscraping quill is bright blue.

Rita changes to a tight-fitting little number that's given added height by a colorful bouquet of spring flowers. The soft veil adds "luxury." Nice, we'd say.

But wait a minute. What's this? Betty Furness, also of the movies, dons a "nose-length" veil sprinkled with sequin flowers, fastened on the top of her head with a handmade rose in cerise. This isn't a spring hat, really. It's for formal dinner wear, which makes us breathe easier.

Here comes Betty Furness in something less startling and more springlike. John Fredericks designed this number, a dusty pink hat with a black suede band around the edge. The crown is high and a soft veil covers the face. What's your verdict... are 1938 hats better or worse?

Whittemore

Whittemore P. T. A. will meet Tuesday evening, April 12. Election of officers will take place, also a good program will be given. Everyone is invited.

The Origin of Cheese
Although it seems likely that cheese was created first by accident, when an Arab traveler left his day's ration of milk in a canteen made from an animal stomach in which rennet was still active, the Greeks believed cheese had a mythical origin. According to their legend, cheese was invented by Aristaeus, the son of Apollo, also king of Arcadia. It was regarded in Greece as a divine present.

SYNOPSIS

James Lambert tries in vain to dissuade his beautiful foster-daughter, Leonora from marrying Don Mason, young "rolling stone," whom she likes but of whom he disapproves according to his conventional business-man standards. He tells her, "Unless a house is founded upon a rock, it will not survive." Leonora suspects the influence of her half-brother Ned, always jealous of the girl since the day his father brought her home from the deathbed of her mother, abandoned by her Italian baritone lover. Don arrives in the midst of the argument.

"I've a clean bill of health, sir. When I was a kid of nineteen and carried a message from a wonderful English girl who had stayed at home because she was going to have a baby, to her husband stationed in China (a man, by the way, whom you'd have been proud to introduce to Nora), and found the fellow living with—Well, I won't go into details; but it gave me a jolt which wasn't easy to forget. I've rubbed elbows with a lot that's sordid, Mr. Lambert, but I've hurt no woman. Balance that, please, against my depleted bank account." "Well, Daddy?" Nora prodded after a moment.

"This is all very well," responded James, "all very commendable; but it doesn't change the financial aspect of the case. Suppose," he said, turning to Don, "suppose you persuade this girl of mine to marry you. What assurance can you give me that, unless I continue to support her, she won't during the next ten years or so, know poverty and hardship?"

"Only this," said Don, and held up two strong, browned fists. It was an argument more eloquent than words, but the older man refused to see it.

For a moment there was a silence so profound that one was conscious of the crackling fire and rain beating against a window at the far end of the big room. Then James said quickly, as if to get it over: "I suppose you know that Nora is not my daughter—I should say, my legal daughter?"

Don nodded.

"What he means, Don," explained Nora, throwing a perfectly amicable glance to James, "is that I'm not entitled to one penny of the Lambert fortune. So if you've that in mind, darling, Dad's giving you a tactful chance to vamoose gracefully."

"I'm still here," said Don, his eyes smiling at her.

Watching the young people, James stirred uneasily.

"Nora misunderstood me," he went on. "She often does, though I think she knows I wouldn't be unjust to her. If at my death her brother inherits more than she does, it's not because I adopted him legally when I married his mother, but because he's helped build up the business I started as a youngster. What I referred to was—See here, Nora, suppose you leave me alone with this young man."

A laugh of merriment bubbled from Leonora.

"Poor Father! You can't get used to this generation, can you? We're so outspoken! Don knows the whole story, darling: how when you went at the call of my poor, dying, deserted mother and found me, a gangling six-year-old whose birth record named you as my father, you took me home and treated me exactly as if I were your own, though you knew, with no shadow of a doubt that I was the child of—"

"Leonora!"

She raised her head, meeting his shocked eyes gravely.

"Well, Dad, it's true, isn't it? I had to tell him. Don knows what an angel you've been to me, and that I'd do anything on earth for you short of giving him up. You really shouldn't ask me to do that, you know."

"Not when I believe it's for your own happiness?" asked James. Then, as the girl shook her head, he added: "Well, clear out, both of you. I've got to think things over. Clear out."

CHAPTER II

It was long past midnight when James Lambert went upstairs. "Thinking things over" had been a devastating process that led him back to his first amazing glimpse of Leonora, her thin little legs dangling forlornly from a straight-backed, uncomfortable chair beside a bed on which lay the body of her mother.

He had come in answer to a frantic telegram, the first word Iris had vouchsafed him since the note he had found after she went away. But he was too late. She had been dead almost three hours; and ever since (the woman who ran the rooming house said afterwards), the child had sat there, refusing to move, to eat, to cry, holding tight in one small, clenched fist a scrap of paper which she had promised her mother to give to "the dear, kind father" who was coming for her, and to no one else.

James never forgot the shock of Nora's presence in that silent room.

While he stood below on a sagging, littered porch, the landlady had told him that his wife "was gone, poor soul," but because he was expected "the body" had not been removed; and added, remembering the little girl: "She's in the fourth-floor-back, Mister, and if you don't mind I won't go up. My heart's not good and them stairs is something awful."

James did not want her to go up. He was about to look upon the face of his dead wife, the woman who had betrayed him, but whom he had never forgotten nor ceased to love. He was vastly stirred—stirred and horrified that she had been living in so sordid a place. He had pictured her sharing a life of luxury with her Italian lover—had even attended the man's concerts in the futile hope of catching a glimpse of his beloved amid the audience. It was plain now that the fellow had deserted her—damn him!—left her to die in poverty and among strangers.

Ascending those steep and narrow stairs, James Lambert's heart pounded with indignation. His whole form trembled as he stepped into the gloomy room. Out of deference to the dead a shade at its one small window had been partly lowered, and, closing the door, he stood for a long moment with his back against it, breathing heavily.

So this was where his adored Iris had lived—and died! The man's sad eyes dragged slowly around the place, avoiding instinctively the bed where lay all that was left of something he had cherished. God, what a room! The dim light could not hide what seemed to James its dreadful poverty: the broken window stuffed with an old skirt; the sagging bureau propped with a block of wood; the shabby rug, a small, mute pair of shoes beside a chair.

His stricken glance came to the bed at last, and seeing that rigid form beneath a sheet, hard tears that had been suppressed for seven years, suddenly blinded him. More shaken than seemed possible after so long a time, he took one dazed step forward, then, dashing the mist out of his eyes with an impatient hand, he saw—Nora!

Wholly unprepared for her presence, even for her existence, James was for the moment without speech; but something about the patient, drooping figure—the soft, gold hair like that of his lost Iris, gripped him strangely. He came still nearer, staring down at the child with pitying eyes.

"Whose—whose little girl are you?" he questioned, though he knew the answer.

"Mamma's," said Nora. She looked up wearily. "Are you my father—the dear, kind father who's going to take me—home?"

"She told you that?" he asked, and his voice trembled.

"Yes," said the child. Then, quite without warning, her mouth worked pitifully, dreadfully. Her small, cold hand extended the crumpled paper.

"She—she gave me this—for you. I—I'd like to go home now, please, if you don't mind. It's bedtime, isn't it? I'm pretty tired." And then, her strange calm breaking, she wailed suddenly: "I want Mamma! I—I want Mamma!"

Her tears were the best thing that could have happened, for both of them. In comforting Nora, James himself found comfort. For those painfully scrawled words on the scrap of paper tore his heart. Deserted only a month before her baby was born, too proud to appeal to the husband she had wronged so grievously yet giving the child his name because she had no other, Iris had at the last turned to him, asking protection for her little Nora.

Nor did she ask in vain. From the moment when James lifted the heartbroken, lonely child into his arms, Leonora had never lacked a father. Indeed, the knowledge that Iris had known he would not fail her, was the man's greatest comfort. Nora was barely six years old at the time. She grew into a happy, sweet-tempered little girl who accepted the good things which came to her without question, and often without thanks. They were a part of life. The bare, cold room where she had kept her unchildlike vigil, became at last only a vague memory, a memory dimly painful of something she must have dreamed. Not until a tragic day when she was thirteen did James Lambert realize that the child had accepted him literally as her own father. He returned from business late one afternoon to find her sitting alone in the twilight. This was unusual, for Nora loved gaiety and young companions. He asked, puzzled and a bit worried: "What's the matter, dear? Not sick, are you?"

"No," she answered, "I was trying to—to remember."

Her voice was husky, and, still troubled, James came nearer.

"Remember what?"

"Things," said Nora. "Things about—about my—"

She hesitated, looked up at him; and it seemed to her foster-father that the girl had left childhood far behind in the few hours since they had last met. "Tell me," she said, "was Mamma really a—a bad woman? Aren't you my father? Is that why Ned hates me? Don't I belong to anyone—anyone in the whole world?"

"My God!" cried James, profoundly shocked. "You belong to me! Where did you hear . . ."

Then, as upon that other day of tragedy, Nora's self-control gave way and the story was sobbed out in those loving, fatherly arms that had never failed her—the old, old story of hearing the tale from some spiteful playmate. Perhaps, James pondered as he held her close, perhaps Nora had been growing a trifle arrogant. Ned had complained on more than one occasion that his little sister "put on airs." His father had thought the comment mere jealousy on the boy's part; for despite the ten years' difference in their ages, Ned was jealous of Leonora.

"She gave me this for you."

The two had never understood each other nor got along. Well, he sighed, the time had come when his girl must learn the truth, though it would hurt them both; so, as tenderly as such truth can be told, James told her.

Nora had gone to boarding school after that; then to college, where she majored in music.

Then came Europe, a gorgeous, colorful six months to Nora—a lonely, dragging time to James. And on the way home, because her companion insisted on taking a one-class boat, she met Don Mason who ever since, James Lambert told himself, had been "eternally hanging around the house," that is, when he wasn't trailing off to some outlandish place where no one in his senses would consider going. Even during his absences the fellow had written every day; and Leonora, who took a Pullman chair for an hour's journey, was thrilled by his adventures in towns where there wasn't even a clean hotel!

"It is," James had confessed to Ned the day before, "an infatuation beyond my understanding."

"And if she marries him," Ned predicted, "you'll be supporting 'em all their lives. Dad, Don Mason is no good. He's a rolling stone."

It would have been some satisfaction to the girl in question had she known that James told her brother brusquely "to mind his own business"—that he would look after Leonora. It was seldom indeed that his much-loved son caused this somewhat fiery man to lose his temper; but now he was worried, and Ned's well-aimed criticism touched a tender spot. So the younger man had gone home rather disgruntled to tell

Cold Flames, Discovery of a Russian Scientist, Is Step Toward Cold Light

Cold flames, perhaps a step toward the long-sought goal of cold light, have been discovered by soviet physicist, Dr. N. N. Semenov, of the Institute of Chemical Physics at Leningrad, who has won international fame though still under forty, observes a writer in the Detroit Free Press.

The existence of ordinary hot flames depends on the fact that many chemical reactions which ought to take place do not do so because of a mysterious reluctance of atoms to combine. The oxygen of the air, for example, should react instantly with the carbon of fuels or with the iron of bridges or buildings. It is fortunate for mankind that these reactions happen reluctantly. If they did not most things in the world would vanish instantly in flame or ashes.

For several years Dr. Semenov has been studying what chemists call chain reactions, in which a preliminary chemical reaction acts to assist another one. The rusting of iron in air is not unlike this. A first reaction of the iron with the

Corinne that Nora was "pulling the wool over Dad's eyes."

Well, James pondered, perhaps he had spoiled Leonora. He closed his eyes as from the room beyond drifted the tender, haunting strains of a Chopin Nocturne. Nora was playing, and, much as James loved to listen, this gift of her musician father subtly disturbed him.

It was late when he went to bed; and in the morning he gave Nora his ultimatum.

"If I'm to consider your happiness, my dear, there's but one way out. I'll give that boy a job. I don't say that he must keep it for a lifetime; but he must prove that he's got the stability to stick at something that will support you. A year ought to show that, Nora; and you're both young. If at the end of that time he has saved money and shown himself even fairly efficient, I'll say no more."

"Even if he throws up the job next day?" asked Leonora.

Her father looked at her, his eyes a trifle hard.

"You think he would?"

"I think," she answered, speaking thoughtfully, "that a year in an office—especially in Ned's office, will finish Don, Father."

"You feel then, that my proposal is unfair?"

Nora glanced up, a wistful smile lighting her face as she responded: "Not as you view things, Daddy. But to Don it will be—well—a year out of life. What would you do, I wonder, if I ran away with him?"

"I should disinherit you," said James, and meant it. Then, as she remained silent: "Is that what you're considering, my dear?"

Don accepted James Lambert's offer.

"I fear I won't make a successful office worker, sir; but I can try," he said. And James responded with unfeigned heartiness:

"That's all I ask."

To Nora the young man was more explicit.

"Remove that worried frown at once," he told her sternly. "Your father's right, of course—that is, right from his own viewpoint. If I can't serve a year for you, Nora, I'm no good. We'll make a game out of it, beloved—mark off each day on a calendar, and when the time is up we'll forge our chains and sail away together."

"Into the sunset's turquoise marge, . . . To fairyland Herespides, Over the hills and far away . . .!"

He kissed her, and lifting her chin to look into her eyes, saw with satisfaction that the smiles which had vanished from them were back again. His girl wasn't to know, Don vowed, the jail sentence that year ahead appeared to him. She wasn't to realize that his only reason for submitting was to save her the sorrow that any trouble with James Lambert would have meant. For in his wildest imagination this young man could not see himself a part of the hustling throng which jammed the subway every morning. The thought of joining it turned him a little sick.

And there was Ned!

If anyone had accused Ned Lambert of being inconsiderate of his sister's lover, he would have scoffed at the idea. Not until years later when life had somewhat tempered Ned's cocksureness, did he suspect that his habit of pausing beside Don's desk to observe his work, much as a teacher keeps an eye on the progress of a stupid pupil, was gall and wormwood to the younger man. He did not guess that his meticulous suggestions drove Don mad—that when an occasional error did occur, it seemed to the harassed youth that Nora's brother took ironic pleasure in detecting it.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By REV. HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

Lesson for April 10

FINDING OURSELVES IN SERVICE

LESSON TEXT—Mark 8:27-38. GOLDEN TEXT—"What shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?"—Mark 8:36. PRIMARY TOPIC—What Peter Found Out.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Peter's Right Answer. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Making Life Count Through Service. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Finding the Richest Life Through Service.

"Finding ourselves" seems like a singular, almost self-contradictory, expression, but it refers to a sound principle recognized by psychologists as well as spiritual leaders. As a matter of fact, modern psychology has begun to recognize and use spiritual laws and principles which alone bring about human happiness and efficiency.

A word of warning—let no one who studies this lesson fall into the serious error of thinking that some formal religious service will bring redemption and favor with God. We are saved by grace through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ—"not of works, lest any man should boast." It is then by the new birth that we are "created in Christ Jesus unto good works which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them" (Eph. 2:8-10).

It is the Christian who needs to "find himself in service." Only as he thus yields to Christ does he really find the life worth living. The words of Jesus in verse 35 are solemnly and gloriously true.

I. Clear Confession (vv. 27-30).

Even those who deny to our Christ the recognition of His deity, and the devotion of life which is His just due, must, if they are at all intelligent, admit that no man ever lived who has made such an impact on human history. Even in the days of his life on earth those who did not accept Him as Christ regarded Him as the resurrected form of one of the nation's greatest leaders. Now unbelieving men speak of Him as the great founder of Christianity, a mighty leader, a wonderful example, or an unequalled teacher.

It is not enough that we stand with the mass of humanity who may thus admire Him, but who do not count Him as Saviour and Lord. The question comes to us as it did to the disciples, "Whom say ye that I am?" "Thou art the Christ"—this alone suffices as the foundation for Christian testimony and conduct.

II. Corrected Error (vv. 31-33).

Although Jesus was not yet ready to have His Messiahship proclaimed to the public, He was prepared to teach His disciples concerning not only that important truth, but of His rejection and death. "He began to teach them that the Son of man must suffer . . . be rejected . . . killed and . . . rise again."

Note the divine "must." While it is true that wicked men showed their hostility toward our God and His Christ by hanging Him on Calvary's cross, yet it was to die for our sins that He came into the world. The cross has rightly come to represent God's love to the world rather than man's hostility to God.

Error now asserts itself, and strangely enough it is the very one who had the clearest grasp of the truth regarding the Messiahship of Christ and boldly expressed it who now objects to the revelation of the coming death and resurrection of Christ, and lends his voice to rebuke the Master for speaking of it.

Satan hates the cross and the open grave. Jesus won the victory over him there. He did not want to hear of it before it took place and used impulsive Peter for a mouthpiece to object. He doesn't want to hear about it now and uses many a skillful and gifted preacher to speak against it. "The offense of the cross" (Gal. 5:11) has never ceased.

III. Consecrated Life and Service (vv. 34-38).

"Let him deny himself" (v. 34). That command we have construed to mean that we should perform little acts of self-denial, foregoing some comfort or pleasure, possibly for a few weeks. It does not mean that at all—but does mean the renouncing of self and self-will, and a complete yielding to God's will. Likewise, to take up one's cross does not mean to bear some of life's little disagreeable experiences; it means again to die to self and to live for Christ.

Careful attention should be given to the solemn questions asked and statements made in verses 35-37. These are not the reasonings of a man—they fall from the lips of the Son of God. What, He asks, will you give in exchange for your soul?

Payment

How little we pay our way in life! Although we have our purses continually in our hand, the better part of service goes still unrewarded.

What Is the Cause of "Spider-Web Check"?

If not properly "fed" with a good oil polish, furniture in time develops what is known as "spider-web check!" This appears on the finish, like wrinkles on the human face—fine lines, spreading here and there in a spider-web pattern. This crazing, this light cracking, is known in furniture language as "checking" and "spider-web checking" better describes the condition. This is the danger-signal, on finish! It's the indication of "starving" wood! A warning to the housewife, that if the finish is not cared for immediately and properly, the furniture will develop cracks, ridges and splits. "Spider-web check" is generally the result of either one of these two causes: Polish-neglect—or the use of a poor, cheap polish—without the essential fine, light-oil base. When the furniture is periodically "massaged" with a reputable oil polish (the best is non-greasy), the pores of the wood are "fed" and the piece is preserved. Then "spider-web check" will not appear! The use of a quality oil polish is the best preventive formula for this ugly, detrimental check!

Lively vs. Dead Ball Is Riddle of 1938 Season

By GEORGE A. BARCLAY

DID the National league put itself out on a limb when it adopted the deader ball for the 1938 season—while the American league voted to continue the lively one?

That question will come in for plenty of attention from now until the end of the world series next October. It has already had a good deal of newspaper space. But no one is really certain there is a radical difference between the dead and so-called lively ball.

Government scientists have taken samples of each, shot them out of catapult-like machines and recorded their findings. Sluggers from both major leagues have tried their bats on both dead and lively balls. The results are still a question mark.

The real answer should be written in the world series. If the National league wins the event and reverses the trend that has given it only three world's championships in the past ten years, credit will be given to President Ford Frick for his owl-like wisdom. If the American league wins, there can't be much said in the way of alibis and most people will then concede that it is the league and not the ball that is responsible.

Some critics have insisted that in voting for a change last December, the National league clubs had come to the conclusion that the ball the Yankees were pounding was too dangerous to continue in use. In fairness to Mr. Frick it should be assumed that the National league was trying to improve the game.

If you are a devotee of strategic baseball, there isn't much argument about the ball being too lively. Strategic baseball—the sacrifice, base stealing, moving the infield in to cut off a run at the plate, the squeeze play, etc.—hasn't been Baseball Miracle?

TAKE it from Joe Cronin who is something of a baseball student and in this instance sits in a neutral corner, the Chicago White Sox and the Washington Senators have actually accomplished a baseball miracle in their swap of first basemen—Zeke Bonura for Joe Kuhel. They consummated a trade in which both sides win.

It might appear at first glance that Clark Griffith, the "old fox" of the Senators, had handed Jimmy Dykes of the Sox a cold deck, when he lured him into handing over a .345 hitter for one whose 1937 average was only .283. But Cronin, son-in-law of Griffith and manager of the Boston Red Sox, says—no. Here's how he explains it:

Zeke Bonura

Jimmy Dykes

Joe Cronin

"Kuhel will bat better than .300 for the Sox. He should drive in a lot of runs and be the best fielding first baseman seen around Comiskey park for a decade. Here's why. Kuhel will escape from many of the left-handed pitchers who have been handcuffing him at the plate.

"He is a left-handed hitter, like five other Washington regulars, who has had to face as many southpaws as the opposition could muster. With the White Sox, Kuhel joins a team that has six right-handed hitters. So he will do most of his hitting against right-handed pitchers.

"Bonura's case is exactly opposite. Zeke, a power-house right-hander, will be among a flock of left-handed hitters with Washington. He'll go to bat frequently against southpaw pitchers, which should help him, too. All things considered, it's one of the smartest inside baseball deals in years."

Olympic Problems

UNCLE SAM'S monopoly of leadership in the track and field events of the Olympic games seems definitely menaced so far as the 1940 Olympiad is concerned. By booking the games in far-off Japan and on dates when our best athletes will be unable to compete, the rest of the world has found a way to beat us.

Not since the games were revived many years ago has the United States been defeated in track and field sections. But by scheduling such events in October, when college athletes obviously should be attending classes, the Olympic managing committee is in effect offering the track and field championships to some other country.

The United States has two alternatives—first, not to send a team to the 1940 Olympics; second to induce the universities of this country to release star athletes long enough for them to compete in Japan and let them make up their lost studies later. Since Britain and several other countries have stated they will not send teams to Japan, the first alternative would be relatively easy. Fulfillment of the second would be tougher. Academic schedules are sacred cows in American universities. They could not easily be disturbed in order to head Germany, Italy and Japan off from winning track and field events. Moreover, many of the crack college athletes are wanted for football service by coaches.

He isn't taking any chances on too long a sea voyage to take the edge off. Instead of taking a slow boat to Glasgow and spending ten to twelve days on the sea, the players have booked passage on a four-day boat on May 10.

Pretty Silk for Her Easter Frock

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

DECK little daughter out in a pretty-pretty dress-up in the gown at the joyous Easter time and note what a radiant outlook it will give her. It will be as refreshing a sight as the flowers that burst into an ecstasy of color at the magic touch of spring to see little girls lifting their way along in the Easter style parade. It seems that silk for dress-up "Sunday-go-to-meeting" frocks has come into its own this spring in childhood's realm, more so than for many seasons past.

Mothers are becoming increasingly alert to the fact that bright colorful well-cut clothes are vastly important in the development of a child's personality. Often it is only a becoming dress that spells the difference between a confident happy child and a timid backward one.

Mothers will find inspiration aplenty as to "how to make" little daughter's Easter frock, in the trio of fashions illustrated, for they came fresh from the designers' hands and are alive with new "ideas." If you prefer to buy your child's frock ready made you will find more daintily fashioned silk models than have been shown for quite some time, but if you are a sew-at-home enthusiast all you have to do to make a dress after the manner of the model shown to the right is to take enough silk (navy printed silk taffeta fashions the gown pictured) to the pleater and the pleater pleats the skirt. Just ask little daughter, she knows!—knows that pleated skirts are very stylish indeed this season. To give the attractive styling to the top part insert puffed details in the sleeves and the bodice as pictured.

As to the little girl centered in the group it is not a case of "all dressed up and no place to go" for her outfit, even to her new wrist watch and the dainty white gloves she carries, unmistakably identifies her as one who will join in the style parade proudly arrayed in her Easter finery. The dress is made of dainty flower-print silk crepe in delicate lovely colors. There is considerable smocking at the waistline, giving the corselet effect so popular in adult fashions, with simulated yoke effect repeating the smocking. The brim hat is of the same silk print.

Little daughter will look just as if she stepped out of a fashion plate if on Easter she wears a dress of plaid weighted silk taffeta (very smart is taffeta this season). Make the skirt with fan box pleats and grace the neckline with a pleated frill, as you see to the left in the picture. Velvet ribbon is used for the bow at the neck and for about the waist, which gives it still another claim as a fashion-first. When in doubt use velvet touches to finish off the dress or the coat you may be making, for as a trimming feature velvet is very important this season.

For children's dresses plain silk crepe in the new charming pastel colors ranks in high favor. These pretty monotone crepes revel in "oodles" of shirring, smocking, fagoting and other handwork detail. The colors available are entrancing.

NEW IN THE MODE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Silk sweaters in bright colors with the tailored spring suit are important news. A cardigan fine slip-over silk sweater as pictured at the top can be buttoned in back or front. It has a boat neck and short sleeves. The silk knit has a small spaced arrow motif. The rough straw sailor has a bandana trim. The gypsy blouse shown here is in black and white polka dot silk crepe. It has a turnover collar and long full sleeves with turned back cuffs and a red silk chiffon handkerchief in the breast pocket. It is worn with a black silk taffeta upturned sombrero with a chin strap.

TAILORED OUTFITS HERALD OF SPRING

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

The annual blossoming of tailored suits is a surer sign of spring than the appearance of the first crocus. Of course, there are always modifications, and this year they take the form of lower waistlines, higher hemlines, and boxy shoulder details.

In keeping with this vogue, simple shoes are once again highlighted. Gone are the foot-revealing sandals that predominated in last year's spring line.

Shoe trimming details, including simple cut-outs, punchwork, and perforations, are especially significant because of their restraint. This is also true of colors. The blue, red, and copper-hued shoes now slated for style importance are considerably toned down to conform with the note of early spring reserve.

Nursery Rhyme Buttons to Adorn Spring Prints

Little Jack Horner was no more surprised than the fashion snopper is at the new forms of catalin buttons that are now being sewed on prints here, cotton goods there or just fastened to fancy little cards for the home dressmaker. Little Jack Horner happens to be one of the figures into which the catalin has been shaped and he is accompanied by such renowned persons as Old Mother Hubbard and her shoe, Little Red Riding Hood, the Piper's Son, Jack the Giant Killer and Mother Goose, herself, whose rhymes were the inspiration for these new shapes. Colors? Blue, green, orange and red. And, as strange as it seems, (or does it?) more of these buttons are being used on adults' apparel than on infant wear.

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

Slide Fasteners for Slip Covers

IF YOU have slip covers made by an interior decorator and you go in for such niceties as slide fasteners or welded or piped seams the bill goes up and up. If you make the covers yourself all these "extras" amount to very little either in time or money. In fact slide fasteners require less time than a closing with snaps.

Plan the closings for a slip cover during the final fitting when the seams have been basted but not stitched. Sometimes one short placket is all that is needed. Again openings must be left at several points so that the cover will slip on easily.

To apply a slide fastener to a seam placket, turn the slip cover inside out and crease the seam open. Cut a facing strip 1 1/4 inches wide and 1 inch longer than the opening. Join the facing strip to the back edge of the opening as shown at A. Slash the front of the seam opening 1/4 inch above the top of the opening and crease it over the back facing as shown at B. When the edges of the opening have been prepared in this way, press the edge creases with a hot iron. Next, baste and stitch the fastener in place as at C sewing close to the metal. The machine cording foot is useful for this purpose. Do not trim away the tape at the ends of the fastener. Whip the upper ends down as at D, and cover the lower ones with the hem as at E.

NOTE: If you are making new slip covers or curtains or doing other Spring sewing you will want a copy of Mrs. Spears' book SEW-

ING for the Home Decorator. Forty-eight pages of illustrated directions for making curtains for every type of room; dressing tables; lampshades, and numerous other articles used daily in the home. Send name and address, enclosing 25 cents (coin preferred) to Mrs. Spears, 210 So. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

Strange Facts

Cat-Tails Served as Asparagus

YOU can eat the fuzzy cat-tail you have seen so often in marshy places. The Iroquois Indians used the root of the cat-tail plant to make flour. The root is starchy and the Indians dried it and made a flour that is similar to flour made from corn or rice. Cat-tail flour was one of the substitutes the Germans learned to use during the World War. The American Indians also used the root to make syrup. It is the tender shoots of the plant that Cossacks enjoy and it is this part of the plant that is sometimes served in England under the name Cossack asparagus.

The fibrous leaves of the cat-tail plant have often been used to make mats and chair seats. The flower is converted into a substitute for cotton or silk and is made into a filling for upholstery. In this form the flower was used as a dressing for wounds in the World War. The ancient people of India dried the cat-tails and used them as torches. In some places where palm leaves are not easily obtained the cat-tail leaves are used on Palm Sunday instead of palms.

The leaves of the cat-tail are grasslike, growing in double rows on the reed stalk and the flower of the plant is the tall which grows at the top of the stalk. The tail is not a single flower but is made up of thousands of little flowers. The familiar fuzzy surface is due to fine down which grows on each flower.

"It's Better!" — say Millions about Pepsodent with IRIUM

BOTH Pepsodent Tooth Paste and Powder contain marvelous Irium

Millions everywhere are singing the praises of Pepsodent containing Irium to get teeth far brighter! It is wonderful Irium that helps Pepsodent gently brush away stubborn, clinging surface-stains that hide the natural brilliance of your teeth...just as a cloud will hide the light of the sun. With these ugly surface-stains gone, your teeth reveal the lovely, gleaming radiance they naturally should have! And Pepsodent with Irium works SAFELY—because it contains NO BLEACH, NO GRIT, NO PUMICE. Try it!

Mistake-O-Graph

All dressed up and no place to go might well be the title of this inspiring scene. The importance of the occasion, we fear, must have warped our artist's mind, for the drawing is full of mistakes. Can you find fifteen? The answers will be found above.

Sorghum, "Long Sweetening"
Sorghum-making and sorghum itself are characteristic of the South. During the Civil war, when sugar was scarce, it was used as sweetener. It is known throughout the South as "long sweetening."

School Notes

High School
Friday, April the eighth is the date and Harrisville the place chosen for the sub-district speech contest. Tawas City High School will be represented by Norma Musolf in the oratorical contest; Dorothy Blust in the declamations; and Lucille Depoty in the extempore speaking. Last year the contest was held at East Tawas with Bill Prescott carrying off first honors in orations and Evelyn Latham in extempore speech. We all hope that our school will show up as well or better in the coming contest as they did last year.

Thursday morning a picture sponsored by the Department of Public Instruction was shown in the High School Assembly by its representative, Mr. Williamson. Both topics illustrated were of an educational type and were beneficial to the students. The first picture, "Horse-Sense and Horse-Power," showed the development from the "horse and buggy days" to our modern age of streamline cars and other high-powered vehicles. It showed the increase of traffic accidents due to carelessness, drunkenness, negligence, and other common faults of the highway. The second topic entitled the "Magnificent Reprobate" portrayed both sides of the alcohol question, evil weighed against good.

Fourteen of fifteen students who were on the honor roll for February repeated for the month of March, while one student is on the roll for the first time this year. The girls outnumber the boys nine to six, while the Juniors and Freshmen four each, and the Sophomores one. The following is the list of students on the March Honor Roll: Mildred Cholger, Kathleen Davis, Lucille Depoty, John Katterman, Myrton Leslie, Janet McLean, Marguerite McLean, Marion Musolf, Norma Musolf, Erma Lou Pfahl, Harold Ross, Otto Ross, Harold Wegner, Frieda Witke and Richard Ziehl.

The base ball team hones by this time to have had at least one formal practice, although the boys had several informal sessions. A lot of time is needed to bring together as a unit the boys who will represent our school in the Huron Shore League, comprising the schools of Alabaster, East Tawas, Harrisville, Oscoda, Prescott, Whittemore, and Tawas City. To date a schedule of eight games has been drafted but it is hoped that within a week or two a complete schedule will have been arranged.

The Seniors cleared $20.00 on their supper Friday evening. They are planning to have a bridge party to help pay expenses for commencement.

5th and 6th Grades
Dora Hughes and Kathryn Westcott had the highest scores in a four and one-half minutes subtraction test.

We are learning a Easter song in Music. It is entitled "Ring Out, Ye Bells."

The fifth grade geography class has begun the study of Mexico. We have two new soft balls. One was given to the girls and the other to the boys.

The fifth grade memorized "The Flag Goes By" for language class.

3rd and 4th Grades
The fourth graders have completed their geography booklets, of the United States.

Russell Cornack of Flint entered the third grade Monday.

The girls are enjoying the new soft ball that Mr. Giddings brought down to them.

Lizard Has Good Defense
When pursued, the chuckwalla, one of the largest lizards of the United States, crawls into a narrow crevice in the rocks and inates itself so that it can not be dislodged.

Making Adobe Houses
Adobe houses are constructed of sun-dried bricks made from any native clay. The bricks are molded and their sides turned alternately to the sun day by day for a week or longer, as may be necessary. They are usually made of two sizes—18 x 9 x 3 and 16 x 12 x 4. The larger ones are used as headers, the others as stretchers.

Apologue, a Story
An apologue is a story or relation of fictitious events intended to convey some useful truth. It differs from a parable in that the latter is drawn from events that pass among mankind, whereas the apologue may be founded on supposed actions of brutes or inanimate things. Aesop's Fables furnish excellent examples of apologues.

Naming Canada
There is a legend that the name Canada was a mistake. When an Indian chief told him a nearby village was called Kanada, Cartier believed this referred to the entire country and so labeled it.

Since taking out fire insurance on your house furnishings you have probably added many new things to your home.

EASTER SUNDAY

First Sunday After 'Paschal' Moon
Is Astronomical Date for Easter

Astronomically speaking, Easter falls on the Sunday following the first Paschal full moon after March 21. But the date was originally set to help pilgrims who needed moonlight during their annual journey to Resurrection festival.

Traveling day and night to reach the sacred shrines in time for this observance, the pilgrims decided to make the Easter date flexible for the sake of convenience. Therefore it may vary over a period of 35 days—from March 22 to April 25.

A coincidence accounts for the popular association of Easter Sunday with the arrival of spring. The day occurs almost simultaneously with the ancient heathen Roman celebration of the vernal equinox. So popular has this association become that spring clothing and spring flowers are used extensively as symbols of Easter. The Easter Sunday fashion parade down New York's Fifth avenue has become a recognized American institution.

Each nation has its own unique Easter Sunday customs. American children celebrate the day with Easter eggs and bunnies. In Germany spring lambs are sold for the feast.

Whale Is a Mammal
One of the commonest popular errors of zoology is the notion that the whale is some sort of fish. It is not; it is a mammal which went to sea. The whale is warm-blooded, has a well-developed brain, and in all other respects shows a far higher organization than any of the fishes. Its young are born alive, and are suckled and cared for by the mother as with land mammals.

Plunker, Plumper Vote
A plunker or plumper vote is a vote given to one or more candidates with the idea of improving their chance of election, through voting for less than the possible number. For example, if you vote for one when you could have voted for nine, you increase his chances at the expense of all the others, but only to the extent of one vote.
