TAWAS SEWER SYSTEM

Plan to Construct Storm Sewers to Improve City Streets

If work is continued on through the the winter, Tawas City's sanitary sewer system can be completed by next June, George Francis, of the Francis Engineering Company of Saginaw, has advised the city council, according to Mayor John Coyle. The bulk of the work yet to be done to complete the city's present sewer plan consists mainly of laying lateral sewer lines. Most of the main sewer lines are in with the exception of some short sections still to be constructed. To carry on and complete the sewer project, which is being done in cooperation with the Federal government on a WPA grant, it will be necessary for the city to furnish an additional $2,500 as the sponsor's share. Last week the city council voted to submit a $2,500 bond proposal for this purpose to voters of the city. This will be done at the November election.

Government funds amounting to about $25,000 remain in the WPA labor funds for the sewer project.

Britain Feared Capitulating In Czech-German Argument By Joseph W. La Bine-

At his office in Fleet street, Publisher Geoffrey Dawson decided that wisdom was the better part of valor. Next morning his London Times put in black and white what England's conservative Cliveden set has thought all along: That Britain had best let Adolf Hitler cede Czechoslovakia's Sudeten territory if no other settlement would satisfy him.

Nor did Der Fuehrer appear content with anything less. While nervous France protested such an idea and rushed troops into her amazing Maginot line like gophers rush to their holes, all eyes converged not on London or Prague, but on Nuremberg where the Nazi party was holding its annual congress and clam bake.

There, Chancellor Hitler found the spotlight's rays pleasantly warm. In the first of his eight speeches he made clear Germany's determination to be supreme in southeast Europe. To Czechoslovakia these were frightening words. Immediately Su-deten Leader Konrad Henlein was handed the "fourth and final" list of concessions which he rushed unopened to Nuremberg. Same evening Fuehrers Hitler and Henlein opened them, found satisfaction for every demand except (1) establishment of a one-unit government for Sudetens and (2) freedom for practice of Nazi ideology.

Prague's concessions might have been sufficient a week earlier, but shrewd Adolf Hitler now saw a chance to take the whole hog. Britain, anxious to avoid war at all cost. had capitulated, unofficially admit-ting she was willing to sell Czechoslovakia down the river. And by midnight another unexpected joy had developed, so important that Konrad Henlein was sent scurrying back home with orders to hold out for complete surrender.

At Maehrisch-Ostrau, in Sudeten territory, Czech mounted policemen had horsewhipped a noisy crowd, shoulders. While apologetic Prague hastened its investigation, the incident offered Konrad Henlein a new chance to play the role of martyr.

Next day, with all odds in his fa-vor, Der Fuehrer could afford to assure the world of his peaceful intentions. While Nuremberg's show continued, he received Germany's foreign diplomatic corps, including France's Andre Francois-Poncet who suggested: "Democracies are not exactly lauded at the Nuremberg congress, but their emissaries usually feel welcome." Answered expansive Adolf Hitler: "I hope to continue to make the ambassadors feel welcome, and I also hope that during my regime no mother will have cause for wet eyes on account of any action of mine."

Most foreign envoys left after the reception, but not Britain's Sir Nevile Henderson. He stuck around like a guest who won't go home, trying to corner either Der Fuehrer or Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop. If he succeeded, Germany would learn that Geoffrey Dawson was only fooling, that Britain still meant business.

Aviation

U. S. commercial airlines could not operate without government mail subsidy, but since 1934 even that assistance has been insufficient to prevent huge deficits. Part of the infant industry's trouble has been of its own making, as when monopolistic practices caused the U.S. army's painful experience with air mail five years ago. Throughout its brief history, aviation has contended with improper and vacillating government supervision. Not until last winter did congress create a civil aeronautics authority, which was organized last month under Edward J. Noble.

Last week, CAA gave a party. To Chicago they invited representatives of 25 commercial lines for a "get acquainted" meeting that ended in a lecture. Led by Air Transport association's Col. Edgar S. Gorrell, aviation plumped for immediate stop-gap relief in the form of increased air mail subsidies. Also outlined was a five-point industrial program which requires CAA's moral and financial aid.

cial angel, they had another guess coming. Up stepped Member Harl-lee Branch to dispel, once and for all, any mistaken ideas. Said he: 'It seems proper to remind . . . carriers that while the authority desires that they shall receive fair compensation, no line should assume that the authority is going to dish out public moneys in any reckless or ill considered fashion. No one should be deluded with the idea that all an air line has to do . . . is convince the authority it has succeeded in operating at a deficit. There will be no premiums on bad management."

North of the Yangtze river, two Japanese armies captured three Chinese positions in their drive on Hankow. South of the Yangtze there was a different story, for defenders. pierced Jap lines six miles southeast of Juichang and forced the invaders to retreat, leaving 300 dead. Fresh from Tokyo came 100,000 troops, determined to intensify the campaign on all fronts until Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's government is crushed.

In Ohio, 110,000 aged people receive federal-state assistance, which costs the U.S. social security board approximately $1,275,000 per month. In August when he ran for Demo-cratic renomination, Ohio's Gov. Martin L. Davey pointed with pride at his record. One accomplishment: Establishment of old age assistance, which has also been established in 47 other states.

Three days before the primary, Social Security's Director Frank Bane charged Governor Davey with using old age assistance to get votes. Though the governor was defeated, that did not stop Social Security from sending out investigators who last week reported to Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer.

At a hearing from which Martin Davey pointedly absented himself, Social Security claimed that (1) requests for old-age aid addressed directly to Governor Davey received preferential treatment; (2) some pensioneers were told it would be 'a good idea" to vote for Governor Davey; (3) political and personal influence replaced the merit system in appointment of Ohio's old age

Next day, Chairman Altmeyer's threat to cut off federal pension grants brought a sharp retort as Martin Davey answered a "dirty

Before he ever became President, Franklin Roosevelt's pet public utilities idea was a four-point program including (1) Grand Coulee for the Northwest; (2) Boulder for the Southwest; (3) TVA for the Southeast; (4) St. Lawrence waterway for the Northeast. Boulder dam had already been built, and since coming to the White House Franklin Roosevelt has started Grand Coulee, expanded TVA. Only the St. Lawrence waterway is unstarted, nor will it start until Ontario's stubborn Premier Mitchell Hepburn gives his blessing, not forthcoming until Canada's railroad situation improves. Without mentioning St. Lawrence, the President managed last week to focus attention on it. At/Hyde Park he read reports by the war department and federal power commission on power needs. Then he decided an electricity shortage in case of war constitutes "a serious threat to national security."

Appointed at once was a special committee for further study, to "find and recommend definite ways and means of meeting this problem." Best bet was that the St. Lawrence All this was well enough, but if plan would be the "ways and

Not since June, 1937, has the U.S. treasury asked the capital market for "new money," though last December it borrowed $450,000,000 to pay maturing bills. But when congress voted billions for relief this past spring, when Recession kept government payrolls swollen above normal, it was obvious that money normal, it was obvious that money must come from somewhere. Fortnight ago, Secretary of the Treas-ury Henry Morgenthau Jr., returned from Europe, busying himself immediately with Budget Director Daniel W. Bell. Then came the inevitable announcement.

money" to help finance Recovery. Still ahead are requests for $1,400,-000,000 more in "new money," though these will not come before next calendar year.

Nor was this all. In the next few weeks, notes totaling $433,460,-900, due December 15, will be refinanced. Short term treasury bills, totaling $1,300,000,000, will be refinanced at a rate of $100,000,000 per week. Bolstered by its new borrowing, the U.S. cash box will operate on a larger working balance between now and December. On hand last week was $1,620,000,000.

How much it cost Secretary Morgenthau to raise his national debt to $38,300,000,000, was evidenced by loan rates. The $1,300,000,000 in maturing bills cost the treasury an average debt service of 0.05 per cent, possibly the lowest rate in U. S. history. Net result of new borrowing will be to decrease bank reserves, now nearing an all-time high, and to increase deposits. Though bank earnings thus far in 1938 are under last year, Secretary Morgenthau was optimistic. Said he: "It's quite remarkable the way banks are paying dividends and covering them. I think they seem to be doing very well. As you know, we have no failures to speak of."

Agriculture

Last spring, the new U. S. crop control measure placed domestic and export corn requirements at 2,470,000,000 bushels, promised to make loans if 1938 production exceeded that figure. Though much corn has suffered from disease, America's crop this year has still turned out above expectations. By last week it became apparent that corn loans will be necessary. At Washington, AAA's H. R. Tolley reported the August estimate of 1938 corn was 2,566,000,000 bushels, which is 94,000,000 bushels in excess of the original estimate. Though loan figures will not be determined until next November's crop board estimates, loans were virtually assured, probably at 57 cents a bushel.

Nevada's Pat McCarran backed Franklin Roosevelt for re-election in 1936, opposed his Supreme court and government reorganization measures. But while the President sought to "purge" other half-hearted New Dealers in this year's primaries, he made no intervention in Nevada's primary. Opposing Pat McCarran for renomination were Homes traveling right along with Reno's Albert Hilliard and Carson them . . . A living earned with City's Dr. John Worden, both "100 per cent New Dealers." The outcome: Pat McCarran won easy renomination.

At Litttle Rock, Ark., conscientious J. Rosser Venable, defeated candidate for Democratic senatorial nomination, submitted his $683.90 expense report with an explanation of one item: "I bought one 25-cent watermelon for a few persons in a store and divided with them this delicious, juicy melon."

Among victims was the count of Cavadonga, eldest son of Queen Victoria and King Alfonso. As a child he nearly bled to death from a tooth extraction. Two years ago, he had 20 transfusions over a malignant tumor which could not be relieved by surgery for fear of bleeding. List week, at Miami, the count of Cavadonga sped down Biscayne boulevard with Mildred Gaydon, night club cigarette girl. Their car swerved to miss a truck, slid, smashed into a telephone pole. C. Houston Goudiss Offers Timely Advice On Avoiding the Menace of Tooth Decay

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

NE of the most serious indictments against our presentday civilization is its failure to preserve the teeth of men, women and children. Nor does the mere statement of the case convey any idea of the seriousness of the situation. Yet a single decayed tooth might be compared to a poison factory, distributing its noxious products to every part of the body, and tooth decay may be indirectly responsible for rheumatic ailments, neuritis, dyspepsia or duodenal ulcers. It may be a contributing cause of heart trouble.

Possibilities of Prevention Yet there is little or no excuse for the appalling amount of dental decay that afflicts the American people. For in recent years a vast amount of laboratory and clinical research has been undertaken in this field and there is impressive evidence that dental caries, or decay, may be completely controlled by dietary means. Then, too, our understanding of correct dental hygiene has advanced tremendously, and scientifically designed tooth brushes and skillfully compounded dentifrices are available in every town and hamlet through-

Various investigators have advocated different dietary formulas for the control of dental decay. There is a lack of agreement among them as to which single element is the most important in constructing a diet to prevent the brushing be done correctly,

> Vitamin C and Tooth Health Vitamin C is closely associated with the health of both teeth and gums. There is strong evidence that this vitamin is essential to the dentine, enamel, cementum and the bone of the jaw. And there are on record remarkable experiments which demonstrate that dental decay and gum disorders are both prevented and arrested when extra amounts of foods containing vitamin C are in-

Vitamin D which we get from the sun, from fish-liver oils and concentrates, and from irradiated foods and those fortified with vitamin D concentrate, is necessary for the proper utilization of the calcium and phosphorus, which must be generously supplied if the teeth are to develop properly.

Importance of Dental Hygiene Thus a carefully calculated diet, beginning before birth and continuing throughout life, is necessary to build teeth that are structurally sound. But even the most perfect teeth require constant care to maintain their soundness.

Thorough brushing is necessary after every meal to remove all particles of food which remain between the crevices and cling near the necks of the teeth. If not removed, this debris may ferment, giving rise to unpleasant odors and creating acids which may attack the tooth enamel.

It is important, however, that away from the gums and with a slight rolling stroke,

A Good Dentifrice Essential

The selection of a dentifrice is most important because an agreeable dentifrice encourages thorough brushing-an efficient dentifrice helps to float away minute bits of food not reached by the toothbrush.

It is also advisable to use a paste or powder which helps to restore luster to teeth which have been surface-stained by foods and beverages.

The use of an antiseptic mouthwash, at least once daily, especially before retiring, is commendable as it leaves the mouth fresh and clean.

It is also important to give the teeth regular systematic cleansing, and to see your dentist periodically for a careful checkup. @ WNU -C. Houston Goudiss-1938-28

N EW YORK.—In Indianola, Iowa, the only member of the Mullican family who stayed that way was Doc Mullican, the Only Doc town dentist. One of his daughters Mullican married, and the Stayed Put four others became the Lane sisters of Hollywood.

Had he lived a few months longer, the father would have witnessed the grand slam success of three of the girls, Priscilla, Rosemary and Lola, in the new film "Four Daughters."

The home background of the Lane girls is such that it suggests Meg, Beth, Jo and Amy, these antecedents somehow easing into the picture, to the delight of the audience and the quite unrestrained enthusiasm of the critics. It is too bad that Leota couldn't have been the fourth daughter-this without disparagement of Gale Page, who gets a full share of honors. Leota is aiming at the Metropolitan and is now studying at the Juilliard School of Music.

The only sources of excitement in Indianola, 21 miles south of Des Moines on the Rock Island, were the 3:15 train and the Methodist college. The Mullican girls, all musically gifted and all good looking, became locally famous for their home musicales and their party

Lola, eldest of the four, met Gus Edwards, away out on the kerosene circuit, 18 miles Lola Leads Indianola. She persuaded Trek to him to give her a Hollywood tryout. That led to a vaudeville engagement, and later to Hollywood. It was Edwards who tagged her Lola Lane. Leota moved out next, also in vaudeville, while Priscilla and Rosemary were still in school. But, at the ages of 14 and 16, respectively, the two latter rounded out the quartette in Hollywood, in "Varsity Show."

They have a grand house, showy cars, silks and sables and what-notin the Hollywood routine-but their public doesn't begrudge them their slice of the American dream, as long as they so faithfully portray its "Little Women" of poignant memory.

"Four Daughters," of modest production cost, was quietly unveiled without any fuss whatsoever. Critics headline it as a "sensational success." The lesson seems to be that the picture moguls, downhearted about the business and ready to spend until it hurts, are overlooking the pulling power of not necessarily expensive taste, simplicity, and sound dramatic craftsmanship, in lieu of a million dollars.

IF IT hasn't already happened, it is pretty nearly a certainty that someone will give Commodore Robert B. Irving, master of the Queen

He is deliberate, friendly, chatty and easy-going, the last man in the world to pose for the portrait of a speed demon. Next to pipes, his hobby is collecting carvings of miniature elephants.

The son of a retired army colonel, with no seafaring folk anywhere in his line, he went to sea at 12 on the school ship Conway, and, at 14, shipped on a four-master around the horn to San Francisco. He joined the Cunard line as fourth officer. His first command was the Vennonia, and later he was master of many of the crack ships of the line, including the Lusitania, in 1914, and the Aquitania.

In his native Kirtlebridge, he lives in a house built in 1770, tramps through his 1,500 acres of copse and moors, works in his garden and raises spaniels. 'We Must Hang Together'

"We must hang together" is one of the famous puns in history and is attributed to Benjamin Franklin. When the Declaration of Independence was signed, John Hancock, president of the continental congress, put his name to the document first. "Now we must all hang together," he remarked as he wrote his name. "Yes, indeed," retorted Doctor Franklin, "we must all hang together or assuredly we shall all hang separately."

"N," Middle Initial
In America "N" is probably more widely used than any other letter as a meaningless middle initial in personal names. Many having it are World war veterags. Their enlistment papers, says Collier's Weekly, had a space for a middle name and, they had none, "None" was insert-ed. Afterward None was contracted

Third Largest Island

The third largest island in the world is Baffin island, bowing only to Australia and Greenland. On it are four lakes, one as big as Lake Ontario. In winter, Eskimos build igloos on these lakes, fish for dinner through holes cut in their "parlor floors!" Baffin bay, hardly ever Baffin bay, hardly ever free of ice, is navigable only between June and September. Hence the bay and island are a refuge for, and abound in whales, seals, polar bears, wolves, white and blue foxes. Though it was discovered in 1576, little more is known of the region than William Baffin recorded when he named it in 1616.

Oscoda Garage Completes Building Improvements

With a new modern front, con-structed of stucco trimmed in a colorful combination of cream, red and blue, the installation of a new roof and other improvements, Roy Eymer and Percy Duchane propri-etors of the Oscoda Garage in Oscoda, have completed the renovation of their establishment.

A large nine-foot Neon sign with 16-inch letters projects from the front of the garage. The ladies rest room and lounge has been completely re-modeled so that it is now one of the finest along US 23. A new concrete driveway to the gas pumps and two new computing pumps have also been installed. Additional shop equipment has been added to their modern mechanical department.

With blue awnings, striped in red, and the cream finish on the stucco, trimmed in red and blue, the garage presents an attractive appearance.

A "Frankenstein"

In a popular book, Frankenstein was the name of the young student in chemistry and anatomy who created the monster. Frankenstein is a synonym for a man whose own works bring him to disaster or de-struction. The monster of the romance bears no name, but the name of his creator has often been transferred to him, so that a "Frankenstein" has come also to signify, in popular usage, a being of the most appalling ugliness and brutality, having no trace of the moral sense whatever

Here are the facts about the Botany Tie. Check them when you shop for neckwear: 1. The Botany Tie is tailored of a special "live" fabric that smooths out when hung up overnight. 2. The Botany Tie is constructed and tailored in such a manner as to retain resiliency in the whole of the tie. 3. The Botany Tie knots and drapes perfectly, and the knot will not slip, because the fabric is wrinkle-proc! naturally...requiring no artificial processing. 4. The Botany Tie is smart, because Botany Worsted Mills also make shirts and worsted for men's clothing fabrics...and the tie patterns are planned to go with advanced trends. 5. The Botany Tie is economical, because it will outlast the ordinary tie, at whatever price."

SYNOPSIS

Barbara Sentry, seeking to sober up her escort, Johnnie Boyd, on the way home from a party, slaps him, and attracts the attention of a policeman, whom the boy knocks down. As he arrests him, Professor Brace of Harvard comes to the rescue and drives Barbara home. On the way they see Barbara's father driving from the direction of his office at 12:45, but when he gets home he tells his wife it is 11:15 and that he's been playing bridge at the club. Next morning, while Barbara is telling her mother about her adventure, an urgent phone call comes from Mr. Sentry's office after his departure. Arriving home in the late afternoon, Sentry reports his office has been robbed and a Miss Wines, former temporary employee, killed. The evening papers luridly confirm the story, and Sentry takes it hard. Mary, elder daughter, in love with Neil Ray, young Interne at the hospital where she works, goes off to digner at Gus Loran's, Sentry's partner, with Mrs. Loran's brother, Jimmy Endle. Mr. and Mrs. Sentry call on old Mrs. Sentry, and Barbara, alone, receives Dan Fisher, reporter, who advises her not to talk. Phil Sentry, son at Yale, is receives Dan Fisher, reporter, who advises her not to talk. Phil Sentry, son at Yale, is disturbed at the possible implications and suspicion of Miss Wines' absence from her rooms for three days during August.

He decided to go home for a day or two; to surprise them. He dressed, packed his bag, had breakfast, and took a train for Boston. If he had sent word ahead, old Eli would have met him; but since Phil did not do so, there was no one at the station. A taxi would have taken him quickly home, but as though he had himself been guilty of some misdemeanor, he was suddenly reluctant to face them all. To put off the hour of that encounter, he walked over to Trinity Place and waited for a suburban train that would deposit him near his home. He remembered that his grandmother, old Mrs. Sentry, always came out for Sunday dinner and stayed through the afternoon and for supper, and he was glad she would be there. She was always sensible and shrewd.

The train arrived and he got aboard, and after the short run alighted. It was dusk when, bag in hand, he set out to walk to his home, his feet lagging miserably. Then a car pulled in at the curb beside him, and someone called in a laughing tone; "Carry your bag, Mister? Taxi, Mister?"

It was Linda Dane. There had been comradeship between them, a real affection, since they were children. He tossed his bag into the rumble, climbed in beside her.

"Hullo, Lin," he said, gripping her hand. "Gosh, I'm glad to see you!"

"Me too," she agreed. "Where've you been? Where you going? What are you home for?" She hesitated. "Oh, this beastly thing in the papers, of course. Isn't it rotten! I hope they get whoever did it and just-just skin him alive. But it's 'bye!" a shame you all have to be dragged into it!" She touched his hand. "Never mind. It won't last long. I'll take you home. How's Joe?"

"Fine," Phil told her. "Saw him

"Wasn't it wonderful that you won? The game must have been just thrilling." She turned into his street. "Drive around a while, can you?" he asked. "I don't want to go in

She looked at him quickly. "Phil? Are you in a jam?" She laughed softly. "Is it something disgraceful? Shouldn't I be seen with you?" "Oh, no. I just want to-"

They passed his home without stopping and went on. "Where shall I drive?" she asked.

'Around the park, James!" he told her, grinning; and he asked, "Lin, how are they all taking it?"

She hesitated. "Pretty hard, I'm afraid." "How's Barb?"

"I was with her when she first saw the papers. She was scared, Phil. But she's trying to-keep them cheered up now."

"Sure! She would!" "I went home with her. She hoped you would come."

"I thought I'd better." He said: "You and Barb and I will have to stick together. We always have, haven't we?"

"Always have," she agreed.
"Three Musketeers." "You always were the level-headed one. I'm glad I ran into you now. I'll be needing you, Lin." "I'll be around. But I've got to take you home, now, Phil. I'm due for supper.' "Right! Sorry if I've made you late. I was sort of scared to go in.

As if it were my fault." "Everybody's that way. When anything happens, you always want to say, 'I didn't do it!' "

He chuckled, clasped her hand where it lay on the wheel. "You're a good kid, Lin," he said, a little surprised at himself, wondering why he said this, glad he had said it. "You used to call me a brat!" "You used to be one," he retorted. "But you're outgrowing it. I've had my eye on you. Oh, you play around with the crowd, and you can be the life of the party and all that; but I've noticed you keep your head, Ltoo. When the ocean waves dash high, you're the stern and rockbound coast. You'll do to take along!"

She looked straight ahead, smiling faintly. "You need someone to take along, Phil," she said gently. 'You're not a very steady craft, yourself, when high seas are running."

"I know. A good time is apt to go to my head. You've brought me down to earth more than once." She chuckled. "Both feet on the ground?"

"Funny," he reflected, "that you and I have never been-sentimental about each other. I kid around with other girls, and probably you have your moments too. But we don't get that way. I wonder why."
"I wonder," she echoed, eyes on the road.

"We're just darned good friends. But whenever I've got anything on my mind, I like to talk it over with

"Me too," she agreed, and swung into the drive in front of his house.
"Here we are, Phil." She stopped the car and looked at him, waiting for him to get out; and he looked at her, and hesitated, and after a moment she laughed softly and asked, "Is this what you're thinking?" And leaned toward him.

He kissed her, "Thanks, Lin," Phil stared at his father, felt his

And Grandmother Sentry demanded, "Why shouldn't he come home if he wants to, Arthur?"

Mr. Sentry said, "Well, after all, college is his job right now." The doorbell rang, and Barbara went to answer it. "But of course we're glad to see you, Phil."

The Inspector, without waiting, came in past her; and a second man followed him. Mr. Sentry stood up, holding to the back of his chair. The second man stopped at his elbow. Mr. Sentry said, "Good evening, Inspector.'

The Inspector hesitated uncom fortably. "I'd rather talk about it at Headquarters," he said. "That will be easier, all around."

Then the other man touched Mr. Sentry's arm.

For a moment after the man in plain clothes touched Mr. Sentry's arm, the room was still as ice. Then Mr. Sentry nodded, almost with relief; and he said quietly to Mrs. Sentry, "I'll have to go, Ellen." To Phil: "You can take mother in town when she's ready." Phil nodded, and looked toward old Mrs. Sentry, and he uttered a low ejaculation. Her head had dropped forward, her chin was resting on her chest, and her eyes were closed. At his exclamation, Mary went quickly toward the older woman, and Mrs. Sentry without moving said, "Barbara, get my smelling salts!" Barbara darted up the stairs.

Inspector Irons spoke to Mr. Sentry; they moved away. Mrs. Sentry tried to follow; but she seemed to stumble, and stopped. Only Phil went with his father out into the hall; and, standing in the open doorway, he saw Mr. Sentry get into the house with you and your pride!" Mrs. Sentry smiled patiently, thinking: She was always a scold, a harridan. I suppose she was pretty, and Arthur's father lost his head and married her. Then she saw Barbara staring at them both through tears, and she protested, 'Really, mother!"

Grandmother Sentry said more gently: "There, Ellen, I'm sorry! We can't mend the past now, I suppose. After all-"

She stopped, for tires hissed on gravel, in the drive outside, and while they listened rigidly, someone came up the steps and rang the bell. Phil cried in a great relief, "There, he's back already!" He went to the door, the two girls on his heels.

Lesson for September 18 JONATHAN: COURAGEOUS FRIENDSHIP

LESSON TEXT—I Samuel 20:4-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—A friend loveth at all mes.—Proverbs 17:17.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Noble Prince Jona-

JUNIOR TOPIC—Noble Prince Jonathan.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—
The Adventure of Friendship.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—
The Cost of Being a Friend.

Without question, the most precious possession any man or woman has (apart from his fellowship with God if he is a Christian, and the love of his own family) is friendship. It is the flower that blooms by the side of the rugged pathway of life. Like many flowers, some friendships need to be cultivated and encouraged. It has been said that the love of a woman for another woman is a beautiful thing, the love of a man for a woman an even more devoted and precious thing, but that the bond of love between man and man surpasses all in its strength and glory. Some might question such a Mrs. Sentry rose, and she said in low tone, thinking of the servthe possibility of the highest type of friendship. David and Jonathan speaking, not daring to speak. The stand at the head of an inspiring with their whole souls. The lesson for today calls for a careful reading of the incidents in the life of Jonathan and David recorded in I Samuel, chapters 14, 18, 19, and 20, as well as the first chapter of II Samuel. It is a story which He said, groping: "How about a will richly reward a careful read-rubber of bridge You don't want ing. Considering the printed portion in the light of this background we note six things that characterized this great friendship.

I. Cultivated (v. 4).

Friendships must be "kept in repair." Foolish and almost wicked is that man who by boorishly offending his fellowmen, or by to another, her eyes beseeching neglecting the thoughtful words and them to deny this. Mrs. Sentry acts that cultivate friendship, drives made an indignant sound; and Phil men away from him. "He that argued unconvincingly: "Oh, I don't hath friends must show himself think so! They probably just want friendly" (Prov. 18:24). Consider some more information or something. Maybe they've arrested some16:8, 9, where he urges the righteous use of even our worldly possessions to cultivate eternal friendships. "Nonsense! I'm too old to fool Read what Jonathan did in I Sam. 18:3-5, only one of his many loving and thoughtful acts.

II. Courteous (v. 8). David asked that Jonathan deal kindly with him, and the entire story reveals that he did just that, always. More friendships are wrecked on the rocks of little discourtesies than in almost any other

We live in an age which affects an outward veneer of culture but which is at heart often thoughtless and un- States? kind. Let Christian men and women be courteous. They should be as followers of the gentle Jesus, and it will bring them countless friends. III. Candid (v. 9). Friendships that last must be built on absolute candor, not the kind that delights in telling an unpleasant truth, but one which speaks the truth in love. Jonathan told David the truth. IV. Courageous (vv. 12, 13). Jonathan was such a faithful son that when the time of parting came he stayed with his wicked father rather than go with David, whom he loved. But he was true to David even though he knew it would incur the wrath of his father if that friendship became known. Things that cost us nothing are usually "worth it." Real friendship calls for sacrifice, standing by in the night hours, sharing burdens, loyal even though others may condemn us for it. V. Covenant Keeping (vv. 16, 17). Covenants entered into by solemn treaties in our time are soon discarded as "scraps of paper." People make promises to one another that they never intend to fulfill. Jonathan and David made a covenant and kept it. True friends do not violate their loving agreements. This matter of trickery and falsehood in life and business is one that deeply troubles the writer of these notes. He sees unmistakable evidence that this perverse spirit has come into the precincts of the church itself. We should have a rely by picking up dead and wounded vival of honesty in office, home, state, and church.

VI. Complete (v. 17).

"He loved him as he loved his own soul"-such a friend was Jonwas not seeking something for himself. The closest he came to that who could question the propriety of such devotion between true friends? He saw that David was to supplant Saul as king, and in the face of his own interest as Saul's son, he put David forward. Friendship is akin to our relation-amid of Egypt was built by King complete giving of ourselves, if we ship to God in that it calls for a are to be true friends. This does not mean that individuality is lost, or special interests and abilities destroyed, but it does mean a wholesouled desire for our friend's welfare, and a complete devotion of our all to his good.

Braid Trimming Is Smart

T'S so easy to sew a few rows of braid onto a house dress or a little girl's panty-frock, and it's such a smart way to brighten up simple fashions and make them more becoming. So let's rejoice that the fashion of using braid trimming is back with a bang, this Test for tuberculosis made easier with new ointment procedure.

By Dr. James W. Barton

CINCE 1907 research workers in tuberculosis have been trying to get a skin or patch test for tuberculosis that would be easier on patient and physician than the present method of injecting old tuberculin.

Dr. Ernest Wolff, San Francisco, in the American Journal of Diseases of Children, about three years ago reported his results with the use of the tuberculin ointment patch test in 800 cases. More recently, in the Journal of the Amer-

two ointments were made up in exactly the same manner, one ointment containing tubercule organisms and one test could be learned without the organisms. "The ointment is applied to the inner surface of the upper arm or the skin of the chest wall. The skin is cleansed with benzine or ether and dried. A pea-sized drop of the tuberculin ointment is applied on the right side and a similar sized drop of the control ointment (without tuberculin) is placed on the left side. Each of these drops is covered tightly with a one and a half inch square of ordinary adhesive plaster, which is removed in 48

Test Results Analyzed.

"Positive reactions (tuberculosis present in the patient) shows as follows: a weak test-light case of tuberculosis-shows a few single small papules or pimples of a pale rose color, a medium reaction consists of many vividly red pimples with redness of the surrounding skin, while a marked positive reaction shows the papules with redness and hardening of the whole surface of the skin covered by the patch; that is about one and a half inches square."

As this test is about 98 per cent correct as compared with the injection of tuberculin method, it makes a very simple method of testing for tuberculosis. "The ease and speed of application lend the patch test to general use in private practice and public health work. It overcomes the objection of the mental shock and pain by the use of the hypodermic needle.

Body Training Pays Big Dividends!

In the Boston marathon race a cents in stamps or coins (coins few years ago research workers of Harvard university examined the blood of the runners immediately after the race. They found that the blood of those who finished well up in the race and those in good condition at the finish was rich in sugar and in those who finished near the end of the last, or were in poor condition at the finish, the blood was poor in sugar. It was suggested to those who finished low down on the list or were in poor condition at the finish that they use more sugar during their training the following year > eat some sugar. Without exception these runners finished farther up in the race and were in better condition physically at the end of the race than they had been the year before. This was all due to the presence of more sugar and that during the race itself they

in the blood. In Europe a research worker, Ove Boje, found that the height of the blood sugar level remains about the same or falls but slightly in trained individuals during one hour of average work, while an increase of 50 per cent in the amount of work done causes marked increase in the amount of sugar in the blood. In untrained individuals there is nearly always a decrease of blood sugar during work and the amount becomes still less as the work increases; but this decrease disappears after a few months' training.

Gladstone Was Right. In fact, instead of the sugar in the blood decreasing it actually increases, whereas in an individual not in "shape" or not in training, the blood sugar is soon exhausted and he cannot continue to work because of lack of energy. But-and this is a big point for all of us-'this decrease in blood sugar in untrained individuals disappears after a few months' training." Just think then of the wonderful effect of exercise in that a few months' training will put the average healthy individual into such physical condition that his blood sugar will not decrease but remain at a normal level or actually increase during work or exercise. Truly, Gladstone realized this when he said that "All time and effort spent in training the body pays a larger rate of interest than any other investment."

MUSIC

In music we are developing the idea that art is of great importance to the cultural and expressive qualities of every individual.

We have 28 members enrolled in the correct property of the county o ocratic nominee.

For the Republican nominations for other county offices besides those given earlier in the story, the candidates were unopposed.

Mrs. Grace L. Miller, incumbent, received 2323 votes, for the Republican nomination for county treasurer, which was the highest total received by any candidate on the county ticket .

For the county clerk Republican nomination, Russell H. McKenzie, incumbent, received 2128 votes. Marjorie Morley Lickfelt, incumbent, received 2073 for the Republican nomination for register of deeds; while

H. Read Smith, incumbent, received 1905 votes for the Republican nomination for circuit court commissioner. For the county road commissioner Republican nomination, Ernest Crego, incumbent, received 1980 votes; and John W. Applin, incumbent, received 1858 votes for the Republican nomnation for county surveyor.

On the county Democratic ticket, five candidates were unopposed for nomination to various offices. Frank Bissonette received the Democratic nomination for Sheriff; Richard Kle-now, the county clerk nomination; Margaret St. James, the county treasurer nomination; John T. Bolen, the nomination for register of deeds; and Frank Dorcey, the nomination for drain commissioner.

Issued First Timetables

In 1839 in England, George Bradshaw, an engraver and printer, published the country's first timetables, in the face of much opposition from the indignant railroad companies. Informing the public when trains were supposed to arrive and depart, says Collier's Weekly, they feared, would "make punctuality a sort of obligation."

The Schnauzer The standard for the schnauzer sometimes called the German terrier, demands a wiry salt-and-pepper-colored coat of an inch and a half's length; a strong elongated head; medium-sized, oval dark eyes; clipped erect ears, straight forelegs, docked, erect tail, and paws like a cat, declares a dog fancier in the Washington Post The dog stends from 15% to 19% inches high and weighs between 20 and 40 pounds. This is the description for the ideal type, there being a giant type and a miniature or toy type.

Early Superstitions Elizabethan England believed in omens, generally bad ones. One's own body gave many a warning: "By the pricking of my thumbs, something wicked this way comes. Dreams were warnings sent by God. A nose-bleed meant something or other. The howl of a dog, the hoot of an owl, the dismal note of a ravenall presaged ill.
