Tawas Wins Opener in N. E. M. League Series

250 FANS SEE LOCALS WIN BY 8-7 SCORE

Will Play Second Game In Pennant Race This Sunday

The first game of the play-off series with West Branch was transferred to Tawas City because of wet grounds. The rain Sunday morning left the West Branch diamond flooded so a last minute change was made.

A crowd of more than 250 fans witnessed one of the most thrilling games of the season. Tawas City finally staging a last inning rally to win what had been a seesaw battle all afternoon. The final score being 8 to 7.

West Branch started the scoring in the third with one run. The locals came back at them with two runs in their turn at bat. West Branch tallied three more in the fifth, Tawas City denied the plate twice to even the count at four all. Tawas took the lead in the seventh by tallying another run. West Branch evened things up in their turn at bat in the eighth, but the locals scored in the last half of the inning to again take the lead.

West Branch went into the lead in the ninth by scoring twice, but Tawas showed some of the fighting spirit, which carried them to the top in their division, and scored two runs to win the game.

After both pitchers held their opposition unless the first two innings, Steelman, first up for West Branch in the third, was safe when M. Mallon messed up his grounder. Ammond struck out, Benson singled, Lucas fled to Quick in left, Blancher singled scoring Steelman.

Tawas City came back with two. After Smith fanned, Davis singled and stole second. G. Laidlaw struck out. Quick was safe when the first baseman missed his grounder, and took second on the first pitch. W. Mallon singled scoring Davis and Quick.

West Branch scored three runs in the fifth. Steelman opened with a single, Ammond sacrificed and was safe when W. Mallon's throw hit him on the arm. Benson was safe on M. Mallon's error. Lucas singled scoring Steelman and Ammond. Blancher fanned and Husted singled scoring Benson. Lucas was out trying for third. Matthews ended the inning by striking out.

Tawas City came right back with two runs. W. Mallon singled, M. Mallon fled to right. Laidlaw singled, Mallon taking third. Roach singled scoring Mallon, Moeller singled scoring Laidlaw, and then was out on an attempted steal to end the inning.

Tawas took the lead in the seventh when Quick opened with a base on balls. W. Mallon forced him at second. M. Mallon singled, Bill stopping at second. W. Laidlaw singled and the bases were loaded. Roach sacrificed, W. Mallon scoring. Moeller ended the inning with a fly to center.

West Branch scored one in the eighth. (Turn to No. 2, back page)

Boy Scout News

The Lake Shore District of Summer Trails Council of the Boy Scouts of America held a Camporee in the East Tawas State Park last Saturday and Sunday, and Tawas City Troop No. 73 carried off first honors with a point total of 26. Curran received 24 points, and East Tawas 22. The first place winners for Troop No. 73 were Junior Ogden and the scout pace and Phil Mark in knot tying. Nine members of the troop attended and all assisted, either in the contests or in the evening entertainment.

There is plenty of room for more scouts in the local troop and the Troop Committee would be glad to have every boy from twelve years of age up enrolled. The work of Norman McLennan, as Scoutmaster, has already borne good fruit, as last week's contest shows. The troop meeting place is the Masonic Temple, which has been placed at the disposal of the boys every Monday night from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Troop 73 now has but two patrols, the Indian and the Eagle, under leaders John King and Nelson Thornton. There is room for several patrols and an increased membership would give further opportunity for schooling in leadership.

Our troop is part of the Summer Trails Council, B. S. A., which Council is asking the assistance of every-one interested in the character building citizenship training program of the scouts to assist in a financial way that the field work of camporees and hikes, etc., may be utilized offener by the troops. Representative citizens will soon visit the residents of Tawas City and ask their assistance.

Koth-Burton

Before an altar lighted by tall cathedral candles and banked with palms and baskets of white gladioli at the Westminster Presbyterian Church in Bay City Saturday, Miss Helen L. Koth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Koth, of Bay City, became the bride of Dr. H. F. Burton, of East Tawas. Dr. Burton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Burton, Bay City.

The Rev. Homer D. Mitchell performed the ceremony which was witnessed by 200 guests including a number of East Tawas friends of Dr. Burton.

The bride's gown of laurel green was a Molyneux model of the Victorian period made with a long, semi-full skirt and a high waistline and elbow length sleeves. A small laurel green turban with a matching face veil completed the costume and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and swansonias.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Warren Koth, of Sudbury, Ontario, to the strains of the wedding march.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Cecil MacDonald, wore a gown of descot rose taffeta with a full tiered skirt and high waistline. The little flower girl, Ellen French, wore a floor length frock of blue net and carried a basket of sweet peas.

Dr. Arthur Bloesing, of East Tawas, served the groom as best man, and Stanley Burton, Edward and John Hyde, of Midland, were ushers.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception for 100 guests was held at the Burton home. Supper was served at an ivory satin covered table centered with a large wedding cake and lighted by tall candles.

East Tawas guests who attended the wedding included: Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Moss; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kunze; Miss Regina and Nathan Barkman; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pinkerton; Miss Helen Kelleter; Miss Bernice Klumb; and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Berube.

Dr. and Mrs. Burton will make their home on Bay street in East Tawas.

County Oil Men To Meet In East Tawas Sept. 29th

A meeting of all oil men of Isosco County will be held at the Holland Hotel in East Tawas at 8 p. m. next Thursday, September 29, under the sponsorship of the Michigan Petroleum Industries Committee, to set up a county organization of men engaged in this industry.

All oil men including agents, jobbers, distributors, office personnel, service station operators and attendants, warehousemen, tank truck salesmen, producers, refiners, and garage operators are urged to attend this organization meeting. There are no dues or assessments incident to membership or activity in the oil men's organization, William Palmer, secretary of the committee, announced.

Several matters of recent development and of vital importance to men interested in producing, refining, distribution and sale of petroleum products will be discussed at the meeting.

DEATH TAKES EAST TAWAS PIONEER LADY

Mrs. William G. Richards Had Lived Here for Past 65 Years

East Tawas lost one of its pioneer residents last week-end in the death of Mrs. William G. Richards. A kind and thoughtful neighbor and respected by her host of friends in the community, Mrs. Richards had lived in East Tawas for the past 65 years. She was 82 years old at the time of her death last Friday evening.

Susan Adams was born June 10, 1856, in Keene, Ohio, a little community named after Keene, New Hampshire, where her family lived before they moved to Ohio to settle before Civil War days. Susan Adams' family sprang from early American stock and one of her ancestors helped to build the first meeting house in Salem, Massachusetts, in colonial times.

At the age of 17, in 1873, Susan Adams left her home in Ohio to come to East Tawas to live with her sister, Mrs. J. C. Adams. She had been a resident of the community since that time.

On August 16, 1881, she married William G. Richards, who for a number of years was engaged in the hardware and lumber business in East Tawas. Mr. Richards died in 1920. Three daughters were born to the couple. Florence Richards died at the age of 12 years in 1902.

Surviving Mrs. Richards are two daughters: Mrs. Edith Sanderson, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., and Mrs. Mary Garlock, of East Tawas.

Funeral services were held from the home Monday afternoon with Rev. S. A. Carey of the Methodist Church officiating. Burial was in the Greenwood cemetery in East Tawas.

During her long and useful life in this community, Mrs. Richards witnessed many changes from the early lumbering days to the present time.

Eight cases are to be dismissed because they have been before the court for one year without any progress being made.

Saginaw Hotel Man Opens Lakeside Tavern Here

Joseph B. Carr, former manager of the Mertz Hotel in Saginaw, has taken over the operation of the Lakeside Tavern in Tawas City.

Mr. Carr has had a crew working during the past week renovating and repairing the hotel and cleaning up the grounds.

The hotel is now open to provide sleeping accommodations, Mr. Carr said, and further plans regarding the general policy of the Tavern will be announced in the near future.

The Lakeside Tavern was built about ten years ago by M. H. Barnes and operated by him until 1936. During the summer of 1937, Fred H. Goodrich, of Tawas Inn, operated the Tavern. It has been closed since that time.

Herman-Merschel

Winifred Grace Herman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Herman, became the bride of Norman Merschel, son of Mrs. A. J. Merschel and the late Mr. Merschel, at an impressive candle light service in Christ Episcopal Church in East Tawas, Wednesday evening, September 21.

Rev. C. E. Edinger, of St. Luke's Church, Ferndale, formerly of East Tawas, performed the ceremony. The bridal party entered the church, which was filled with hosts of friends and relatives, to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, played by Mrs. Pauline Thompson.

Miss Dorothy Herman, sister of the bride, served as Maid of Honor, wearing a gown of turquoise tissue taffeta brocade, with fitted bodice, short puffed sleeves caught with tiny flowers, and fitted skirt extending with a slight train. A matching turban with halo veil and an arm bouquet of pink roses completed her outfit.

The bridesmaid, Miss Genevieve Deckett, wore a dress similar to that of the Maid of Honor only in a raisin shade. She carried a bouquet of talisman roses.

The bride entered on the arm of her father. Her gown was made of white velvet brocaded chiffon over white satin with a slight train, fitted bodice and sleeves and a high neck line. A finger tip tulle veil was fitted to her head with a band of white flowers and pearls. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of white roses and gardenias.

The bride's mother wore a dark blue lace dress with black accessories.

The bride was met at the chancel steps by the groom, and his attendants, Gerald Mallon, the best man, and Donald Herman, brother of the bride.

The couple spoke their vows before an altar banked with white lilies and asters, before which burned white candles in the candelabra. Lighted tapers were in the windows and baskets of fall flowers were used throughout the church. The center aisle pews each held clusters of flowers.

The ushers were Wallace Grant and Fred Lomas.

Mrs. R. W. Hickey, cousin of the bride, sang "Oh Promise Me."

Immediately following the wedding service a reception was held at the bride's home. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers.

The table was covered with lace cloth and centered with three-tiered wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Merschel left on an extended motor trip through the Eastern states and Canada. For traveling, Mrs. Merschel wore a costume suit of cinnamon brown, trimmed with brown fur, with hat, gloves and accessories matching the suit.

On their return, the bridal couple will live in East Tawas where Mr. Merschel is manager and owner of the Merschel Hardware Company. Both Mr. and Mrs. Merschel graduated from East Tawas high school.

August O. Katterman

Funeral services for August Otto Katterman, pioneer Grant township farmer, were to be held at 2 p. m. today at the Zion Lutheran Church in Tawas City with burial in the Zion Lutheran cemetery.

Mr. Katterman died Tuesday at the age of 80 years. He was born November 7, 1857, in Buffalo, N. Y. He came to Isosco County when he was 13 years old and has lived in Grant township for the past 45 years.

Surviving Mr. Katterman are his wife, Mrs. Mary Dorothy Katterman; three daughters and a son, Mrs. Carey Rattle, of Saginaw; Mrs. Lillian Pettijohn, of Kalamazoo; and Miss Stella Katterman and Charles Katterman, both of Grant township.

Card of Thanks

I sincerely wish to thank the electors of Isosco County for the loyal and fine support they gave me in the recent primary election. And I promise to serve efficiently and with courtesy as best I may for Isosco County. Sincerely, Donald Arthur Evans.

Discuss School Health Work at District Meet

Various phases of health work in public schools were discussed at a meeting of the Health Workers and school Commissioners of Region Two, which was held at the county courthouse in Tawas City Monday.

This organization includes school commissioners, school superintendents, county nurses, health officers and sanitary inspectors, ranging from Genesee and Lapeer counties on the south, to Crawford and Alcona counties on the north, and Isabella and Clare counties on the west.

The object of the organization, according to its president, Mrs. Daisy Howard, Genesee county school commissioner from Flint, is to correlate health programs in the schools so that children will not be taught health as a separate subject but will have it integrated throughout all their school activities.

GOP AND DEMS HOLD COUNTY CONVENTIONS

Name Delegates to State Conventions to be Held In Grand Rapids

County conventions of both the Republican and Democratic parties were held at the county courthouse Wednesday to name their delegates to the state conventions and to transact other business.

The Republican county convention was held in the morning with more than 40 delegates in attendance. H. Read Smith, county chairman, presided. In the afternoon, fourteen county Democratic delegates met in convention presided over by the county Democratic chairman, Robert Dahne, of Whittemore.

The Republican convention passed resolutions endorsing U. S. Senator Arthur Vandenberg, Congressman Roy O. Woodruff, Frank Fitzgerald for Governor of Michigan; and the Isosco County Republican ticket. A resolution stating that "we are not in sympathy with the New Deal administration and we recommend a change at the November election" was also passed.

Instead of four delegates, each entitled to a full vote at the state convention, the Republicans named eight delegates, entitled to a half vote each, so that more representation could be given to members of the Young Republican group of the county.

The eight delegates who will attend the state Republican convention to be held in Grand Rapids, Monday, October 3, include: Russell H. McKenzie, East Tawas; E. John Moffatt, East Tawas; John Larson, Oscoda; Angus Dunham, Whittemore; Mrs. Lucille Stevens, Tawas City; Osman Ostrander, Burleigh township; Mrs. Duell Pearsall, Hale; and John A. Stewart, East Tawas.

The following Republicans were named as alternates: Frank Gardner, Oscoda; L. C. Little, Grant township; Edna Otis, East Tawas; George A. Prescott Jr., Tawas City; Joseph Dimnick, East Tawas; Walter Laidlaw, Tawas township; and Louis Braddock, Tawas City.

Prior to holding the Democratic county convention, the five Democratic county nominees met to elect the following county committee: Chairman, Robert Dahne, Whittemore; Secretary, John St. James, Tawas City; and Treasurer, Archie Graham, Whittemore.

Instead of naming just two delegates, entitled to a full vote each, to the state Democratic convention to be held in Grand Rapids, September 30, four delegates were elected. They were: T. George Sternberg, East Tawas; Lloyd Soucie, Oscoda; Henry George, Oscoda; and Robert Dahne, Whittemore. They will be entitled to a half vote each at the state convention.

It was voted that the Isosco County Democratic delegation attend the state meeting, unstructured.

Republicans To Sponsor Oratorical Contest Here

A county oratorical contest sponsored by the Young Republicans National Federation will be held at the courthouse in Tawas City at 8 p. m., Wednesday, October 5, Russell H. McKenzie announced.

The winner in this county contest will compete in a Congressional district contest, October 12; and the district contest winner will take part in a state contest in Lansing the week following. Then will follow a regional contest at Columbus, Ohio, from which the winner will compete in a final national contest to be held in Washington, D. C. A prize of $1,000 will be awarded the winner in the national contest.

Entry blanks and list of subjects may be obtained from Mr. McKenzie at the courthouse. The orations are to be not longer than ten minutes in length.

The Francis Engineering Company of Saginaw will be in charge of the project. It is hoped to get the work underway by the middle of October if plans can be worked out with WPA authorities by that time, according to N. E. Wagner, resident engineer for the Francis company.

Materials, which the council voted to purchase, include cast iron pipe, hydrants, cast iron fittings and various special equipment and supplies. The city of East Tawas is offering for sale to local investors $22,000 worth of waterworks revenue bonds bearing four per cent interest. Bids on these bonds will be taken up by Fred B. Lomas, city clerk.

CLOSED FOR HOLIDAYS

We will be closed Monday and Tuesday, September 26 and 27 for the holidays.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—In 1918, the Bolsheviks were fixing to shoot Maj. Alexander P. de Seversky, but he persuaded them to let him go to America so he could get a new wooden leg. He got it, also a beautiful wife, a $5,000,000 airplane factory, and a lot of flying records, culminating in his new east-west transcontinental record of 10 hours and 3 minutes, from New York to Los Angeles.

Flying for Imperial Russia in the World war, he engaged in more than 100 dogfights with the Germans and dropped 13 of them. But one day they dropped him—into the Baltic. A forty-pound bomb, which he had failed to release, exploded as the ship struck the water, and blew it to bits.

Recovering consciousness later, he discovered that, witless as he was, he had been clinging to a pontoon. The water was red around him. Shifting his good leg over the pontoon, he made a tourniquet of his torn trouser leg. He swooned again, as a Russian destroyer picked him up. He crow-hopped the Chinese border on his wooden leg, as a stupid border guard refused to recognize his papers.

Washington received him hospitably, in April, 1918, and made him a consulting engineer for the army air service. He later experienced some rough going, but the only real crack-up in his career was encompassed in that drop into the Baltic. He was steadily on the uptake, designing planes, flying and bringing through his factory. In 1933, he designed and built an amphibian plane which made a record of 177.79 miles per hour. Trained in the Imperial Naval academy, he has contributed greatly to aviation engineering and design.

Several years ago, using an alarm clock and few electrical odds and ends, he made a waltzing plane, swaying rhythmically with band music from below. His waltzing days were over and he found this a satisfactory substitute.

SIMON LAKE, the inventor of the submarine, 72 years old, hopes some day to get an under-sea peek at the sunken continent of Atlantis. In a mid-town hotel in New York, he is up to his knees in blueprints of submarine adaptations and gadgets which he hopes will be found useful by the deep sea boulevardier. His father is 91; his grandfather lived to the age of 96 and his sister to 102. Although his once red hair is white, he thinks he is just now getting his start in life.

His 25 basic patents alone made the submarine possible. Like many, possibly most, inventors, he could devise a scheme for almost anything except getting what was coming to him. So, in his genial, casual way, he is broke.

Reading Jules Verne, when he was 10 years old, led him to capsize a rowboat on the Toms river in New Jersey and test his staying powers in the submerged air chamber. In 1894, he made a wooden submarine 14 feet long, with a soda water tank supplying compressed air. It worked nicely. In 1894, he made the Argonaut, Jr., in which he cruised under the water for thousands of miles on Chesapeake bay.

Like the Wright brothers, he aroused little attention. He finally got Washington interested when he telephoned to the capitol from the bottom of the sea. His working submarine came through. Washington didn't seem to care much what he did, so he took his invention to foreign capitol. Czarist Russia made him some impressive offers but he decided they were a dissolute lot and, as a self-respecting American business man, he wouldn't have anything to do with them.

All in all, he became fed up with bureaucrats and red tape and governments in general and turned to deep sea treasure hunts. The submarines, of course, destroyed much more treasure than they ever dredged up. This troubles him. Vigorous and energetic, with a wrinkled, knobby weather-beaten face, genial and friendly, he plugs along alone in his hotel to redeem the submarine by making it a general cargo and passenger carrier.

Weekly News Review Four-Power European Treaty May Avert General Warfare

—By Joseph W. La Bine

Foreign

Until he spoke at Nuremberg a fortnight ago, Adolf Hitler had never given open, out-and-out promise of assistance to Czechoslovakia's Sudeten Germans. If his purpose was to brew trouble, it was not long in coming. By promising his excited fellow Germans the right of "self determination," Der Fuehrer gave overnight rise to demands for a plebiscite, demands which were not long in bringing bloodshed.

Confident that frightened Prague would tolerate anything, the henchmen of little Fuehrer Konrad Henlein organized demonstrations that ended in riots which took six lives. By this time the Czech government was forced to show its hand. Tight martial law was clamped on five Sudeten towns, then on three more. While a jittery world held its breath, Fuehrer Henlein shot back an ultimatum that martial law be lifted in six hours or his party would "decline responsibility for all further developments."

In the next 24 hours Prague rejected the ultimatum, rushed troops to the frontier and won a brief series of skirmishes that took on the temporary aspect of a civil war.

Since further trouble would certainly bring Germany to the rescue, since France and Russia are bound by treaty to aid Czechoslovakia, since Great Britain must aid France, this overnight turn of events assumed international importance. In Berlin, the press cried out at "terrors of the Czech police." France maintained her high-pitched military machine and looked, as usual, to London.

Next afternoon came the most precedent-setting move yet made. A thoroughly frightened Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain announced he would take his first airplane ride, crossing the channel to Berchtesgaden for a conference with Adolf Hitler. Said he: "I am going to see the German chancellor because . . . discussions between him and me may have useful consequences."

Later the same day he landed at Munich, sped to Berchtesgaden, where Der Fuehrer was waiting. For three hours Britain's strong man, then Neville Chamberlain emerged to tell the world he was returning to London, would come back to see Hitler in a few days.

What happened at Berchtesgaden was mere conjecture. Best guesses said London and Paris seek a four-power pact with Germany and Italy, since Prime Minister Chamberlain's visit was suggested by French Premier Edouard Daladier. No one could figure how the source of this trouble, Czechoslovakia, fit into the picture, but it was clear Der Fuehrer would accept little short of outright autonomy for his Sudeten friends.

The Chamberlain flight brought little but gloom in Prague, where resistance stiffened and an angry cabinet ordered Konrad Henlein's arrest. But Fuehrer Henlein, who had just broadcast a proclamation demanding Sudeten union with Germany, was already fleeing to Munich. In the mood she was in, Czechoslovakia was ripe for loud broadcasts that came from Moscow that night, assailing Neville Chamberlain's "sellout" to Fascism, urging Prague to "fight to the last" against Germany.

White House

Like any other hospital visitor with time on his hands, Franklin Roosevelt waited impatiently at Rochester, Minn., watching Son James on the mend from his gastric ulcer operation. Finally he went riding on Minnesota's rain-soaked roads, found his car mired, stopped to chat 20 minutes with a farmer about crop prices. Outcome: The President promised he would try to raise them.

From his special train, which served as hotel, the President watched the outcome of his "purge" (See POLITICS), also watched nervous Europe (See FOREIGN). Finally, interview-hungry correspondents were told: "At this time, Minnesota is not a news source for events in Europe, Maryland and Maine."

Mr Roosevelt's worries about

Europe were obvious. To a nine-year-old visitor who found him studying Czechoslovakia's map, he advised: "Just now, more than ever, it is necessary to remember your geography lessons. So keep up your interest in geography."

That night the presidential special left for Washington where Secretary of State Cordell Hull waited to talk diplomacy, where Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. waited to discuss U. S. money and stock market action in the event of war.

Politics

Until August 11, the word "purge" had little application in American politics. On that date Franklin Roosevelt asked Georgians to defeat their Sen. Walter F. George because: "He is out of touch with the broad objectives of the party . . . On most questions we don't speak the same language."

Subsequently, "purge" went after South Carolina's Sen. Ellison D. Smith and Maryland's Sen. Millard E. Tydings. Both won anyway. Adding to the President's consternation was Maine's historically prophetic election in which all Republicans won, all Democrats lost. Only two days later, Georgians voted to give "purge" a final shellacking, to bury with vengeance the gravest political error Franklin Roosevelt has ever made.

Day before Georgia's election, Manager Edgar B. Dunlap of the George machine could confidently predict victory. Major reason was the President's speech, but Manager Dunlap himself was another reason. One-time Georgia chairman of the Birthday balls, once an RFC attorney, he was fired from the latter job for political activity. Few Georgia Democrats carry more weight. Against red-suspended ex-Gov. Eugene Talmadge, against New Dealer Lawrence S. Camp, against Townsend Planner William G. McRae, Manager Dunlap drove a campaign that won handsily. But while anti-New Deal Senator George was renominated, so was Gov. E. D. Rivers with his "Little New Deal" platform.

Among other results in a week filled with primaries:

In Michigan, Gov. Frank Murphy and ex-Gov. Frank Fitzgerald became Democrat, G. O. P. gubernatorial nominees, respectively. In Utah, Dr. Franklin S. Harris, president of Brigham Young university, won Republican senatorial nomination, will face Democratic Sen. Elbert D. Thomas in November.

Business

No target of New Deal dislike has been U. S. small business, though a leading small town business man is often regarded by his fellow townsmen as the counterpart of big business. Last spring, Franklin Roosevelt called a meeting of little business men at Washington, was later shocked to see his conference turn into a near riot.

Not the outgrowth, rather a reaction from this meeting is the National Small Business Men's association, founded by a letter-writing letterhead manufacturer from Akron, Ohio, Dewitt M. Emery. Jokingly called "little in everything but stature," 6 1/2-foot President Emery solicited members by mail from business firms not employing more than 500 persons, not capitalized at more than $1,000,000. Presumably too inarticulate for membership are the butcher, baker and grocer who fit into Franklin Roosevelt's more logical definition of a small business man.

LITTLE MAN EMERY

To Pittsburgh last week for their first convention went Dewitt Emery's little business men. Though Pittsburgh's C. W. Elton hopefully predicted 2,500 delegates, the first day found a scant 200 whose restraint held discussion to a minimum. Next day, with their number increased to 300, little business men talked more freely. Drawn up were resolutions which lashed fiercely at administration policies in relation to business.

Their demands: Free enterprise, less waste, removal of excess burdens and employees, balanced budget, lower taxes, sound money.

Crime

Fortnight ago, before his rackets case against Tammany Leader James J. Hines was thrown out of court, New York District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey was a good bet to win Republican gubernatorial nomination. Cause of the mistrial was Tom Dewey's reference to Tammanyman Hines' alleged conspiracy in Manhattan's poultry racket, a reference which Justice Ferdinand Pecora thought constituted a breach of court etiquette.

Since Justice Pecora has a Tammany-Democrat background, it was easy for disgruntled prosecutors to mutter about political influence. Day after the mistrial decision, even the august New York Times pontificated that "Justice Pecora has made a profound mistake of judgment."

In its efforts to prove Politician Hines had participated in the late Arthur ("Dutch Schultz") Flegenheimer's policy racket, the state had spent $50,000, presented four weeks of testimony, gone to great pains guarding precious witnesses.

But Justice Pecora's decision had hardly ceased echoing through the courtroom before Tom Dewey began planning his next move. Though the Republican nominating convention was but two weeks away, though Defense Attorney Lloyd P. Stryker had sarcastically suggested that a new trial be delayed until "after the political campaign," the state will probably rush through a new trial which would preclude the 36-year-old prosecutor's running for governor. Biggest job will be to avoid Justice Pecora's sitting on the case. For this, the state must either ask Gov. Herbert Lehman to designate another judge, or present the case back to a county grand jury for an indictment identical with the last.

Relief

As enacted, social security is insurance based on a man's lifetime earnings. But Depression and Recession have shown that some never earn enough to retire comfortably. For this reason, also because 1938 has brought an alarming rebirth of pension ideas (Townsendism had 100 supporters in the last congress) social security will probably be revised next winter in the face of such "short cuts to Utopia" as California's "$30-every-Thursdays" plan.

Changes Franklin Roosevelt reportedly wants: (1) Beginning of old age insurance payments in 1940 instead of 1942; (2) increasing minimum monthly old-age payments from $10 to $30, decreasing maximums from $85 to $60; (3) payments to widows and orphans of workers equal to those received by a man retiring at 65.

Already announced are plans to expand social security among 16,000,000 now excluded: Farm laborers, domestics, seamen, federal reserve bank employees, and possibly self-employed persons.

War

In theory the forlorn League of Nations applies sanctions against aggressor nations. Ineffective against Italy's Ethiopian campaign, the league has been even less capable of spanking Japan for her Chinese conquest. Fortnight ago, when the league began its current session, China resolved to demand action. From Hankow went hundreds of telegrams to league representatives.

But last week all hopes were dashed when a European crisis (See FOREIGN) developed into such proportions that China's complaint drifted to the background. Only hope remaining is that Great Britain will force the league's hand to protect her swiftly vanishing economic domination of the Far East. Meanwhile, Jap troops continued creeping up on Hankow, one-time Chinese capital which is their final objective, and which they will ultimately capture whatever the cost.

● In Spain, fighting practically ceased on both sides as eyes turned to central Europe where an even greater conflict was brewing. Only action took place on the Ebro river front, where insurgent troops occupied a hill north of Gandesa and strengthened their positions.

Miscellany

On Utah's Bonneville salt flats, Englishman John Cobb drove his button-shaped, 2,500 horsepower racing car 350.20 miles per hour, capturing the record held by a fellow countryman, Capt. George E. T. Eyston.

chemists who can manufacture "ersatz" or substitute materials of war. These products relieve them of some worry in the event of blockade, but there are certain essentials—like oil and cotton—which every nation must have to carry on successful warfare.

The discouraging inevitability of war has been growing in Europe's consciousness for five years, and out of that inevitability have arisen new methods of defense unparalleled in history. England, which is especially invulnerable to modern aircraft, has developed her "ARP" (air raids precaution) program to the point where almost every man, woman and child knows how to handle a gas mask. She has built bomb-proof and gas-proof cellars with feverish haste, constructed new coast defenses and trained expert anti-aircraft gunners.

But these precautions are minor compared to those of France, Germany and Czechoslovakia with their amazing "lines." Between 1929 and 1936, France employed 15,000 men to construct the Maginot line, a series of underground fortifications which extend from Belgium to Switzerland, aimed to protect the country against invasion from Germany.

When the September crisis first broke, France rushed hundreds of thousands of men into this line and Germany answered by hastening work on a similarly startling series of fortifications, the Siegfried line.

Thus, militarists of 1938 are of the opinion that warfare has not changed much in the past 20 years. As in the World war, the doughboy is the most vital factor in land conflict. A similar comparison can be made on the sea, where the battleship is still the backbone of the fleet despite mighty naval planes.

"Ersatz" to the Fore.
Perhaps the major difference between 1918 and 1938 is that gold is not now so important. The "allies" have behind them a gold reserve almost 30 times the value of that of Germany and Italy, but the latter two countries now boast of their RIGHT—How France and Germany face each other with their amazing Maginot and Siegfried lines. BELOW—Czech soldiers, small in number but great in bravery, stand ready to defend their nation against German aggression.

Despite the fearsome thunderings of Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini, a paradox of war-mad Europe is that the foes of Germany and Italy have far superior military equipment.

Though Rome and Berlin may shout and boast, a cold analysis of comparative strength shows that the inevitable "allies" can eventually defeat them in a war which might last as long as two years.

This fact has long gone unnoticed. It was not brought out until a few weeks ago when Germany opened her autumn maneuvers and began looking with hostile eyes at little Czechoslovakia, whose Sudeten German minority has allegedly been discriminated against.

Though Czechoslovakia herself is weak, though even Great Britain has a surprisingly small armed force, the mighty power distance guns and other fiendish implements of Mars.

But the theory has not been borne out in the three conflicts the world has seen these past five years. Italy's campaign to capture Ethiopia lasted an amazingly long time, considering the crude type of opposition offered by Haile Selassie's forces. And in China the Japs have met with similar resistance. Shanghai was not captured overnight by a terrific bombing attack; the campaign lasted closer to five months.

The most striking example of modern warfare is in Spain, where two powerful forces are fighting their battles along tactics similar to those used in the World war. Madrid was bombed hundreds of times and still found itself able to hold out against Generalissimo Franco's rebel troops.

Figures on America's military power are provided only for comparative purposes. Though the United States has abandoned her policy of complete isolation, her neutrality position is stronger than it was in the World war, when American aid was deemed necessary to crush Germany's imperialism.

Thus the lineup of great powers finds Germany and Italy on one side, opposed by Great Britain, France and Russia. Such European countries as Jugo-Slavia, Rumania and Hungary are minor factors. Switzerland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Finland have avowed their intention of escaping complications.

Here, then, are the figures. In actual army strength—including standing forces, airmen and reserves—Russia, France and Great Britain have 26,725,000 men. Italy and Germany have less than half, or 10,725,000.

Great Britain's navy is alone bigger than the combined fleets of Italy and Germany, whose tonnage is 1,107,032. Britain's 1,758,478 tons, plus 699,342 tons from France, makes an opposition force of 2,457,820 tons. Some of this naval equipment will not be ready to use for several months, but the actual ratio at the present time is about the same.

In air strength, the "allies" have 15,400 planes, while Germany and Italy together have 11,500.

A Week or a Year.
It is interesting, though admittedly horrifying, to contemplate how long a general European conflict could continue. Several years ago the Italian general staff made the rash prediction that the next war would be finished within a week. This belief was based on the rising importance of fast planes, gas, long-

Lights of New York

Dates: What with an escort service for lonely women visitors to New York and a more recent similar service for lonely New York male visitors, now comes an "introduction service" for young men and young women. The announcements state: "introductions so correct your grandmother would approve . . . which make your life in New York as vivid and exciting as a Disney cartoon." Applicants for membership must give references which are "tactfully but carefully" investigated. They must also submit to an interview in which their backgrounds and hobbies are learned. Character sketches and photographs are filed and those wishing company merely have to thumb through the files until a suitable candidate is found. Membership costs $3 and thereafter, a charge of a buck for each introduction. Thus a boy or a girl with only a small cash capital need no longer be lonely in the great city.

Aid: Loneliness is not the only New York enemy against which an organized campaign is being waged. A new institution is designed to minimize the handicaps of bachelorhood. For a fee, buttons will be sewed on, socks mended and other chores usually performed by wives, mothers and sisters will be done. Not only that but apartments will be looked after, beds made, clothes sent out to be pressed and if desired, arrangements made for parties. Withal bachelors may have many of the benefits of matrimony without being called on to make explanations when they come home showing the effects of foolish water or if they happen to stay out extra late.

City Life: On Fifth street, near Sixth avenue, a dancing Negro . . . His clothing covered with ribbons and artificial flowers . . . Safety pins stuck in his bare feet . . . As he shuffles about, he accompanies himself on a more or less musical instrument fashioned from a tin can . . . His reward, an occasional penny . . . A self-absorbed sailor walking along Forty-eighth street playing a tune on a toy piccolo . . . At Times square and Forty-fifth street, a young man hurrying to the assistance of a drunk who isn't doing a good job of escorting a blind man across the street . . . On Forty-second street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, bootblacks grabbing their chairs and shine boxes at sight of a cop, running into a subway entrance to hide and emerging and resuming business when the coast is clear.

Dark: The object of most sun-starved New Yorkers, especially feminine ones, is to acquire as much tan as possible during the summer months. Early in the season, boiled lobster complexions are common because of a Sunday at Coney. But as the Sundays pass, with perhaps two weeks' vacation up in the Catskills or down at the shore, the little stenographer achieves the shade of an aborigine, the cost of suntan oil and various sunburn soothing ointments merely being regarded as overhead. In the past, I was diverted by tracing suntan patterns on the bodies of chorus girls when they resumed work in the fall. Such pastime is impossible now. They wear more on the stage than they do on the beaches.

Sights: These old eyes have become more or less accustomed to the various spectacles witnessed daily on the streets of New York. But the other afternoon while strolling along Park avenue and wishing that paragraphs would write themselves, I stopped and rubbed my eyes. Advancing toward me was an exceedingly fine lady, glittering with precious stones and clinking with gold circlets on wrists and ankles while in her hand was a pink ribbon. At the end of the ribbon was a pompous goose wearing a gold collar and gold anklets. By the time I had recovered enough to ask questions, the lady and the goose were gone.

Luck: When a man bought some smokes in a Times square cigar store, the clerk shoved back a $10 bill he offered. Said Uncle Sam hadn't made it. So the customer, heaving a sigh, shoved the counterfeit into his coat pocket, produced another bill, paid, and went out. On Forty-second street, a young man bumped into him, apologized and was gone. So was the bum bill. And the man is wondering what the pickpocket will do with it.

Missionaries in Liberia
Make Long Jungle Treks

WASHINGTON.—In the performance of their duties, American missionaries in Liberia travel hundreds of miles each year through the steaming jungles in hammocks borne by natives, according to the Right Reverend Leopold Krull, Protestant Episcopal bishop to the African republic.

For six months of the year the bishop and his assistants explore the jungle or travel up and down 450 miles of coastline in the bishop's launch, seeking to convert the natives. In the other six months, Bishop Krull said, torrential rains make missionary work impossible except along a small strip of coast.

HEALTH

● New sound equipment from England is boon to hard-of-hearing.

—By Dr. James W. Barton—

I WRITE frequently about hard of hearing because most physicians feel that to enable a patient to hear better means not only more happiness and enjoyment but an improvement in general health owing to more physical activity on the part of the patient.

It is therefore gratifying to learn through the London correspondent of the Journal of the American Medical Association of a special sound equipment installed at the cinema or movie of the Royal School for Deaf and Dumb Children by Lord Horder. Fortunately the word "deaf" is now more often replaced by "hard of hearing" and the word dumb is not used at all because the individual could talk if he could hear.

"Experiments in the use of electrical hearing aids have been carried out during the last three years at the school, which is now the first to be equipped with apparatus that enables a fair proportion of its pupils to distinguish the sounds reproduced in a talking film. A record is made, by means of an audiometer (machine to measure the amount of hearing possessed by a pupil), of the exact amount of loss of each child. It has been found that those who do not have a greater hearing loss than 70 per cent (still have 30 per cent of hearing) can be benefited with hearing aids.

Use Special Headphones. "The sound reproduced with the film is put on to a line through a special device which makes sure that the sound will not be too loud. The line goes to sockets fixed on the back of each chair and each child has a small box from which a lead is plugged into the socket. The special unmasked or true tone headphones which the child uses make the sounds clear and distinct."

This apparatus is especially helpful to the hard of hearing, as it brings out more clearly the consonants (t, s, b, l, m, n and others) which are not as easily heard as the vowel sounds (a, e, i, o, u). The system of unmasked (natural) hearing is regarded as the most important part of this new equipment because its use helps the youngster to learn or appreciate speech sounds.

"... But They Don't Like Me!"

For a number of years it has been known that certain foods cause urticaria (hives) in some individuals. Eating strawberries was about the first food noted as a cause of hives because so many were afflicted at the strawberry season.

Today it is known that many of our most nourishing foods—wheat, eggs—will cause hives, itching and other forms of skin inflammation. An individual thus afflicted is said to be "sensitive" or "allergic" to particular food or foods.

Later it was found that instead of skin irritations some foods caused "head colds" and even asthmatic symptoms. Still later it was found that it is certain foods that cause upsets of the stomach and intestine. This was hard for some individuals to understand because they "liked" the food or foods that were found to be the cause of the stomach or intestinal disturbances. There were some, however, who stated that, "I like apples, eggs, or lettuce, and they don't like me."

Allergy Causes Ailments. It is only very recently, however, that many stomach and intestinal disturbances such as chronic indigestion, diarrhoea, constipation, symptoms resembling appendicitis, colic, inflammation of large intestine (mucous colitis) were found to be due to sensitiveness to foods. Dr. W. H. Browning in New Orleans Medical and Surgical Journal states that in addition to the usual "indigestion" symptoms in many cases of peptic ulcer (ulcer of the stomach and small intestine) healing fails to take place because the patient is sensitive to certain foods. In fact, the food to which an individual is sensitive may cause symptoms similar to ulcer, in that pain comes on from two to four hours after eating this food.

Another annoying ailment due to sensitiveness to certain foods is eczema of the anus (lower opening of the bowel). It is not surprising that eczema in this region fails to clear up, when it is being caused by a food eaten regularly.

Instead of thinking that foods to which we are sensitive cause only skin irritation, head colds and asthma, we should remember that these foods cause cases of stomach and intestinal disturbances.

What to Eat and Why

C. Houston Goudiss Describes Diet After Middle Age; Shows How Right Food Can Prolong the Vigorous Years

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

ONE of the best prescriptions ever offered for longevity was advanced by the wise man who said: In the twenties, prepare for the thirties; in the thirties, prepare for the forties; and after that—prepare for a long and vigorous old age!

That advice is well worth following, for it has been estimated that by taking into account all the newer knowledge of nutrition, it is possible not only to improve health, but to add a number of years to the normal life span.

A Man Is as Young as He Feels

It has been well said that "the age of man has small relation to his years," for it has been demonstrated, both clinically and in the scientist's laboratory, that old age is a physiological condition rather than an accumulation of years.

In grandmother's day, a woman of 50 was considered old. Today that age is regarded as young, and much of the important work of the world is being done by men and women who can see 50 only by looking over their shoulder.

Importance of Correct Diet

On the other hand, thousands of Americans are unknowingly impairing their efficiency and shortening their lives through the misuse of food. They are eating the wrong kind of food—and what is equally disastrous—they are overeating! They do not seem to realize that eating too much does not strengthen the body, but exhausts it with the labors of digestion. The surplus nourishment clogs the system and may be indirectly responsible for headache, dyspepsia, biliousness and mental dullness.

Unless they change their habits of eating, they will inevitably become victims of their own indiscretions. For while it is folly to neglect the health at any age, to do so in middle life is to open the way to an early death or to an old age marred by sickness.

Keep Down the Weight

The first 25 years of man's life are devoted to growth. During this period of youth, the body usually has a large fund of reserve energy which can be called upon in times of stress. During the next 25 or 30 years, the weight should remain constant. If the diet is properly regulated, and sound habits of hygiene are followed, a man or woman will come into middle age full of vigor and with mental and physical capacities undiminished.

Unfortunately, however, the laws of hygiene and nutrition are often broken during the active middle years. As a result, bodily reserves are depleted and middle age finds many men and women near the danger line, no longer able to resist infections and the degenerative diseases.

That is why it is so desirable—

if you hope to be vigorous at 50 and after—that you begin to plan for it many years earlier.

Live sensibly. Avoid overwork. Regularly take a moderate amount of exercise. Get enough sleep so that you avoid that chronic "tired feeling." Above all, eat enough, but not too much, of the foods that build and maintain health: milk; eggs; fruits and vegetables; protein foods in amounts just sufficient to meet your requirements, so that there is no excess to be eliminated; enough fuel foods to give you plenty of pep and power, but not in amounts that will cause the weight increase which many people erroneously believe inevitable during the middle years.

Curb the Appetite for Rich Foods

It is most important to avoid overeating. For muscular activity decreases with the passing years. The middle aged individual often rides where a younger person might walk or observes active sports from the sidelines where he formerly played them with zeal. Unfortunately, however, the appetite seldom diminishes in proportion to the lessened fuel needs. That is why every individual who has entered upon the middle years should check his or her weight frequently, and promptly reduce the fuel foods if a significant gain is noted.

The protein requirement diminishes somewhat after the age of 60 for no new tissue is being built. It is, furthermore, advisable to take a large share of the protein in the form of milk and eggs.

Vegetables should be used freely and if there is difficulty in mastication, they may be finely chopped. Fresh fruits may be eaten as long as they do not cause fermentation; otherwise cooked fruits should be used instead. Contrary to popular opinion, sweets can frequently be eaten in considerable amounts without causing indigestion. Fats, however, should be used sparingly.

Hot Foods Beneficial

Hot foods are often more easily digested than cold, and it is helpful to begin a meal with hot broth, in order to stimulate the secretion of digestive fluids. A hot beverage may also be beneficial at bedtime.

It is sometimes observed that five or six small meals are more easily digested than three large ones. Each person should discover what meal schedule best suits individual requirements and then abide by it. For it is indeed true that middle age—and the years beyond—are largely what you make them!

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN CHURCH OF HALE
K. W. Vertz, Pastor.

On Sunday, September 25, St. Paul's Lutheran Church will celebrate its annual Mission Festival with two services, one at 10 a. m., with the Rev. G. Koch, of Zilwaukee, preaching the sermon, and one in the evening at 8 p. m., with the Rev. A. W. Huelsen, of Pigeon preaching. In the morning service a group of experienced singers from Owosso will render several numbers. In the evening service, the Emmanuel Lutheran choir, of Tawas City, under the direction of Wm. Woltman, will give a sacred concert. The public is cordially invited to both these services.

Mr. and Mrs. Emery Patterson, of Mohawk, N. Y., have been visiting the former's niece, Mrs. Will Sheltenbarger and family, of Hale. Mr. Patterson was a former resident here 46 years ago. For the past 33 years, he has been connected with the A. N. Russell Manufacturing Company at Ilion, N. Y. He also has other business interests in the Mohawk Valley. Mr. and Mrs. Patterson plan to visit this area many times in the future.

Miss Norma Dorsey, popular member of the younger set, surprised her friends by announcing her marriage to Paul Steinhilber, of West Branch, at Auburn, Indiana, Wednesday, September 14. The best wishes of the community go to this newly married couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Rahl and two sons, Austin and Jimmie, spent Sunday at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Rahl. Donnie Grandpre, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Grandpre, who was seriously ill the fore part of the week, is improved at this writing.

Our town was saddened on Tuesday when it learned that A. O. Katterman had passed away. Their many friends extend their deepest sympathy to Mrs. Katterman and family.

Mrs. W. Van Sickle spent Monday afternoon with Mrs. Russell Binder. Mrs. Luella Chambers, of Parma, Mrs. Ada Schell and Mrs. Clara Faxton, of Lewiston, spent Wednesday with Mrs. Jas. Chambers.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Youngs spent one evening with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Binder.

Callers at Charles Brown's were Mr. and Mrs. Art. Popp, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Fahselt and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Art. Dillon, of East Tawas, Mrs. Biggs, and Ruth Katterman.

Mrs. Roland Brown, of Oscoda, is spending a week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Chambers. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Burt were at Unionville on Tuesday to attend the funeral of her grandfather.

Otto Pfahl, of Detroit, called on his brother, Fred, and family on Sunday.

4-H Club Notes

GRANT
Our regular monthly business meeting was held at the home of Corine Fahselt, September 20. Due to the rainy evening on September 6, the meeting was postponed to a later date. This will be our last 4-H meeting. All members are looking forward to achievement day. Eugene Coats gave us an interesting story about his trip to the Upper Peninsula where he attended Conservation Camp at Chatham the past week. After our social period, refreshments were served by the hostess.

Sol Visits Florida First
Florida is nearer the Tropics of Cancer than any other state and the sun's rays reach it before they reach any other section of the United States, says Florida's State Chamber of Commerce.

Use of Word Dowager
The title dowager was first used in England of Catherine of Aragon, widow of Arthur, prince of Wales, who was styled princess dowager till her marriage with Henry VIII.

Karakul Sheep Sacred

Karakul sheep have been regarded as sacred by Brahmans, Buddhists, and Mohammedans, notes a writer in the Detroit Free Press. They are the first animals mentioned in the Bible and historians consider them the first animals to have been domesticated in pre-historic times. "To the Bokharar each part of the sheep has a symbolic meaning. The skull is regarded as the seat of knowledge, flexibility of life, etc., and on sacred pilgrimages the roadside is hung with these parts which the pilgrims touch.

Charleston Claims Many "Firsts"

Charleston was settled in 1670. Fort Johnson and Fort Moultrie, near Charleston, played decisive parts in the American Revolution. Fort Sumter, in Charleston harbor, drew the first shot of the Civil War. Charleston claims more "firsts" than any city in the country, among them the first fireproof building in America, the first museum, first prescription drugstore, first regular steam railroad, first fire insurance company, first apartment house and first legitimate theater. The Charleston Chamber of Commerce, organized in 1773, was the first city chamber of commerce.

Ohio's First Settlement

Ohio was settled soon after the Revolutionary war, which made "the West" a part of the new republic. The first permanent settlement was established at Marietta by a land company. This was called the Ohio company, and was formed in 1787 in New England by Revolutionary officers, with a view to opening up the West. The government sold the company 1,500,000 acres, and the company recruited settlers and "sold" to them. In the winter of 1787-88 the first party set out from the east and arrived April 7, 1788, at the spot chosen for a town, at the junction of the Mucklingum and Ohio rivers.

Red Coral Always Prized

It is red coral that is and always has been prized, not solely for jewelry and buttons, but as a charm to bring safety, health and secrets not revealed to the ordinary person. As ancient Gauls rushed headlong into battle, they trusted their safety to their swords, strength and the "magic" coral imbedded in their shields or helmets. Many Italians and Indians regard coral as protection against the "evil eye." The world's red coral comes from the reefs off the Mediterranean coast of Africa, says the Washington Post, and is obtained chiefly by Italians.

How Sharks Are Trapped

In Torres sound, south of Papua, the natives trap sharks. The trap consists of a pile of empty, air-tight coconut shells joined together with a rope and attached to a canoe by a lengthy line. The native takes the shells in his canoe to the fishing ground and places them in the water after baiting them with a dead fish on a fire-hardened wooden hook. When the shark grabs the bait it attempts to dive, but the buoy-like action of the empty shells prevents it from doing so. The fish then dashes madly about, dragging trap and canoe along, until it becomes exhausted. Then, if the line is still holding, it is hauled in, speared and taken ashore.

Smart Fall Styles That Are Flattering

HERE are two charming fashions with the crisp, slim-waisted, very feminine look that proves they are new and smart! And you'll notice that the sleeves are proudly puffed up, not out—they give height, not width, to the shoulders. These two simple designs, each accompanied by a detailed sew chart, make it very, very easy for you to have two leading fashions of the coming season at very little cost.

Two-Piece With Jacket Blouse. This charming fashion is extremely good this fall. It's tailored or dressy, according to the materials in which you make it up. The skirt is slim and plain. The jacket-blouse as youthful and becoming as it can be. For street, make it of wool crepe, flannel or faille. For afternoon, choose velvet or broadcloth for the skirt; satin, velvet or silver cloth for the jacket blouse.

With Smart, Slenderizing Lines. Notice that the front panel of the skirt is cut in one with the midriff section—that's a smart detail that you see in expensive models, and it's excellent for large women. You can trust the suave, slick lines of this dress to make you look several pounds slimmer. It fits beautifully. Shoulder darts, and gathers above the waistline, ease it over the bust, without any hint of bulkiness. Make this of satin, silk crepe, velvet or sheer wool, and you'll like it better than any dress you've had for a long time.

The Patterns. 1477 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material for the jacket-blouse; 2 yards for the skirt.

1585 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 5½ yards of 39 inch material for long-sleeved dress; 4¾ yards for short-sleeved.

Fall and Winter Fashion Book. The new 32-page Fall and Winter Pattern Book which shows photographs of the dresses being worn is now out. (One pattern and the Fall and Winter Pattern Book—25 cents.) You can order the book separately for 15 cents.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

HELP KIDNEYS

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste
Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.
Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance.
You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.
In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

SYNOPSIS

Barbara Sentry, seeking to sober up her escort, Johnnie Boyd, on the way home from a party, slaps him, and attracts the attention of a policeman, whom the boy knocks down. As he arrests him, Professor Brace of Harvard comes to the rescue and drives Barbara home. On the way they see Barbara's father driving from the direction of his office at 12:45, but when he gets home he tells his wife it is 11:15 and that he's been playing bridge at the club. Next morning, while Barbara is telling her mother about her adventure, an urgent phone call comes from Mr. Sentry's office after his departure. Arriving home in the late afternoon, Sentry reports his office has been robbed and a Miss Wines, former temporary employee, killed. The evening papers luridly confirm the story, and Sentry takes it hard. Mary, elder daughter, in love with Neil Ray, young interne at the hospital where she works, goes off to dinner at Gus Lorán's, Sentry's partner, with Mrs. Lorán's brother, Jimmy Endle. Mr. and Mrs. Sentry call on old Mrs. Sentry, and Barbara, alone, receives Dan Fisher, reporter, who advises her not to talk. Phil Sentry, son of Yale, is disturbed at the possible implications and suspicion of Miss Wines' absence from her room for three days during August. He goes home to help. Sentry is arrested and booked for murder.

But when Phil opened the door he saw a young man he did not know, and the man said: "I'm Professor Brace. Is Miss Sentry at home?"

Phil was bewildered; but then Barbara, drying her eyes, came past him. "Of course!" she said. "I'm sorry, Professor! I'd forgotten you were coming."

She shook hands with him uncertainly. He said, looking at their pale faces, at Barbara's red eyes, "I'm afraid I've come at the wrong time."

No one had asked him to come in. He still stood in the open door. Phil started to speak; but Barbara said, "Oh no!" She put on, quickly, like a mask, a bright vivacity. "Come in," she invited. "There's just the family here, and grandmother." She took his hat. "Take off your coat," she said.

He followed doubtfully. In the living-room Barbara said: "This is Professor Brace, mother. You remember I told you about him? How kind he was?"

Mrs. Sentry spoke composedly. "Yes, indeed! Good evening, Professor Brace. Barbara told me you rescued her from some embarrassment." She thought: We must go on in normal ways, as if nothing has happened; and she added: "Mr. Sentry was called out on business; and when you rang, we expected him. That's why you had such a reception committee."

He nodded, perceiving the tension on them all, uncertain what to do or say. Barbara introduced him to her grandmother. He sat down; and the talk ran haltingly, with many silences, till Mary, unable to endure this, presently rose.

"I've letters to write," she said. "If you'll excuse me." She escaped upstairs.

Phil asked old Mrs. Sentry, "Grandmother, want me to take you home?"

"Not yet! I'm not sleepy."

Silence oppressed them, till Barbara, forcing herself to talk, told over again the story of Johnny Boyd's battle with the policeman, and the resulting situation from which Professor Brace had rescued her. Phil and his mother scarce heard her, sat with stony faces, listening for any sound outside. But old Mrs. Sentry cut in at last, said sharply: "Stop talking nonsense, Barbara! It's no time for chit-chat! We ought to be finding out—"

Barbara turned to look at her; looked past her, came sharply to her feet, pale and shaken, pointing. "Look!" she cried. "Who's that?" They saw no one. "There was a man at the window!" she whispered.

Phil raced through the hall, and Professor Brace followed him. When they opened the front door, they faced two men. Something exploded, glaringly, in their faces, and Phil uttered an angry cry, and one of the young men said:

"It's all right, Mr. Sentry! Just a flashlight. We got word of Mr. Sentry's arrest. We're supposed to ask whether you have anything to say. Or perhaps your mother—"

Professor Brace, very still, looked at Phil. Phil demanded hoarsely: "Arrest? Who said so?"

"Inspector Irons."

"It's not true!"

"I'm afraid it is," said the reporter. "He's been booked for murder." And he urged: "Better take it easy, Mr. Sentry. I know how you feel, but there'll be a lot of newspaper men around here in another ten minutes. If you want to say anything—"

"I've a notion to knock your block off!"

The other grinned sympathetically. "I know. Don't blame you. It's tough, all right. But keep your head, if you're wise." He looked at Professor Brace. "Are you their lawyer?" he asked.

"I'm Professor Brace of the Harvard Business School. But I'm afraid it's too early for the family to have anything to say to reporters."

Phil looked at him in surprise, then gratefully. The reporter nodded. "Sure," he agreed. "That's sensible. Be polite, but don't talk. And—take a friendly tip from me. Don't get mad and lose your heads, don't say something you'll be sorry for. And—don't take a crack at reporters. We're just doing our job."

He added: "Another thing that will save you some trouble, change your telephone number; get an unlisted number. Then no one can call the house except your friends."

Phil nodded grudgingly. "Thanks," he said, "What's your name?"

"Fisher. Dan Fisher. Anytime you can give me a break on the story, I'd appreciate it, of course."

Old Mrs. Sentry called from the living-room, "Phil, who's that?"

"A reporter, grandmother!"

"Well, bring him in here. I want to talk to him."

Phil hesitated; he heard his mother's whispered protest, heard the older woman say: "Nonsense! He can tell us what we want to know." She called again, "Phil!"

Then Barbara came into the hall, herself conveyed the invitation. "Mr. Fisher, my grandmother wants to see you, please." And it was she who made the introductions in the living-room. "Mr. Fisher was here the other night, mother," she explained. "He's a Princeton man, and he knows Joe Dane." As though these were credentials.

Her mother nodded icily; and old Mrs. Sentry said, "I heard you say Mr. Sentry had been arrested."

Fisher said quietly, "I don't know that he's been booked yet, but they're holding him."

"They think he killed this girl?" The young man hesitated; and she insisted: "Speak up! We're adults!"

"Yes," he admitted. "I believe they do."

"Why? They must have some reason?"

Fisher nodded. "I can tell you what little I know, if you want."

"That's exactly what I want."

He said: "Well, you see, the robbery was a fake. Whoever opened the safe knew the combination—or else was an expert safe-cracker. The combination had been changed since Miss Wines worked in the office. Only Mr. Sentry and his partner and Miss Randall knew it. There wasn't enough money in the safe, ever, to make it worth the trouble of opening, not for a professional!"

"So the girl didn't come there to rob the safe. She came to meet someone. A man brought her; drove her in town, let her out at a corner four or five blocks away at about eleven o'clock. A policeman saw him do it; and the man parked there and talked to the cop while he waited for her. He stayed there till half-past twelve and then decided she had made a fool of him. He told the cop she had promised to be back at twelve."

Fisher hesitated, but no one spoke; and after a moment he went on: "If you've read the papers, you know that the Medical Examiner found a reason why she might have been killed." And he added hurriedly: "She was missing for three days in August. Mr. Sentry was away at the same time. His office had his address, but they tried to get in touch with him during those three days and couldn't."

He finished quickly: "And she had a key to the office that was a duplicate of Mr. Sentry's key. So—Irons took him in for questioning—and the man that made her key recognized Mr. Sentry, identified him, before I left headquarters."

Barbara, her eyes very wide, started to speak; but Grandmother

Sentry said quickly, "Hush, child!" She spoke to Fisher. "I told you we were adults," she reminded him. "Don't mince words. I suppose you're trying to say that the girl was, as my generation used to put it, in trouble; and that the police believe she went somewhere with my son in August; and that they sometimes met in his office, to which he had given her a key; and that they met there the other night and that my son killed her. Is that it?"

Fisher said honestly, "I'm afraid so."

"Why should he kill her?"

"She told the man who brought her to town that she was going to get some money."

"Blackmail?" The reporter did not speak; and in the silence Barbara hiccoughed like a sob; and the old woman said: "Thank you! Good evening."

Fisher half-smiled. "I'm supposed to be interviewing you," he confessed. "But—"

"You've too much intelligence to try," the old woman interrupted. "Come in to my hotel and have a cup of tea with me some day, young man. Phil, show him to the door."

The reporter nodded. "I will come," he said, and he added: "If Phil was telephoning from the library. The two older women, Grandmother Sentry with a word of farewell to Professor Brace, departed. Barbara looked at the professor helplessly.

"I feel—funny!" she confessed. "I keep thinking I ought to cry, but I don't really feel a thing."

"You're still numb," he suggested. "If a person is shot or stabbed, he just thinks at first that someone pushed him! He doesn't realize how badly he's hurt till the first shock is over."

"And of course," she reflected loyally, "I know it's not true! It couldn't be, could it?" Then, as Phil returned, she asked quickly, "Did you get Mr. Hare, Phil?"

Phil nodded. "Yes," he said. "He's on the job." He mopped his forehead. Then they heard Mrs. Sentry coming downstairs, and Phil and Barbara went to meet her as though to help her.

But she came in strongly, went to a chair, sat down. Only when she was seated did she slump with weariness. She looked at Professor Brace, her guard for a moment down.

"I feel as though we were all dreaming, insane," she said. "I'm glad you're—a stranger. If you were one of our friends, you'd be sympathetic, and—I don't think I could stand that." She added, "At first I didn't feel anything; but now—I'm beginning to!"

Phil on one side, Barbara on the other, pressed close to her, as much seeking comfort as giving it; and Barbara said miserably, "I think the worst part of it is not knowing what has happened, or what is happening!"

"Mr. Hare is on the job, Barb," Phil reminded her; and he explained to his mother, "I asked him to come later and tell us—whatever there is to tell—as soon as he knows."

Mrs. Sentry nodded. "We can't do anything but wait, I suppose!" Her head lifted. "It's outrageous!" she cried. "We're respectable, decent people. The police, the newspapers—"

No one spoke; and after a moment she said indignantly: "I turned off the lights in mother's room and looked out. There are cars in the street, Phil, and men standing around."

"Reporters, probably."

"I won't have that. Tell them to go away!"

Professor Brace said: "They'll stay, Mrs. Sentry. That's their job, you see."

"Well, it's a thoroughly disreputable job!" The doorbell rang, and she exclaimed, "If that's one of them, don't let him in!"

Phil nodded, and he and Professor Brace went together to the door. A man stood there; reporters grouped behind him a policeman by his side.

Phil would have closed the door; but the man said: "Hold on! I'm District Attorney Flood."

Phil hesitated. "Oh, hullo, Mr. Flood," he said. "I've heard father speak of you. You played cards together sometimes, didn't you?" And he explained: "I'm Phil Sentry. Come in, won't you?"

The District Attorney came in and Phil closed the door, and introduced Professor Brace. "My mother's in the living-room," he explained, and led the other that way. "This is Mr. Flood, mother," he said.

Mrs. Sentry, without rising—she could not trust her knees—extended her hand. "Good evening. I've heard Arthur speak of you. This is our daughter, Barbara."

The District Attorney bowed. He was a big man, florid, physically powerful, a successful politician, and with a record of success in his profession too. Yet he seemed smaller now, and ill at ease. Barbara sat on the arm of her mother's chair, watching him; Phil and Professor Brace stood at one side, their faces somewhat in shadow.

Small-Mouth and Large-Mouth Bass of Different Type and Habits, Expert Says

The general rule for telling the difference between a small-mouth and a large-mouth bass is that the mouth of the small-mouth does not extend beyond a point below the eye, while the mouth of the large mouth does extend back of the eye, according to a writer in the Indianapolis News. The small-mouth is found in most clear-running streams and clear cold lakes from the St. Lawrence river to Dakota, and southward to South Carolina. It varies in different localities, but at maturity is usually one to two feet long, with a weight of two to five pounds. The adult is generally olive-green, often darker on the head. It has the arrowy rush of the trout, the untiring strength and bold leap of the salmon, while it has a system of fighting tactics peculiarly its own. It will rise to the artificial fly as readily as the salmon or the brook trout, under the same conditions; and will take the live minnow, or other live bait, under any and all circumstances favorable to the taking of any other fish.

The large-mouth black bass is as abundant as the small-mouth species, but prefers lakes, bayous, and sluggish rather than running waters. It is found from Canada southward even into Mexico. It averages in length one to two and one-half feet, and in weight two to eight pounds. Its color is dark green above and silvery below, the young having a broad blackish band on the sides with dark spots above and below it. It is called in various places by many different names, as Oswego bass, straw bass, green bass, bayou bass, green trout and chub. It is almost as game a fish as the small mouth. Its specific name "salmoides" (Latin salmo, salmon and Greek eidos, like) was given it from a fancied resemblance to a salmon.

Lesson for September 25

DAVID: TRIUMPHANT FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Psalms 23 and 27:1-6. GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord is my shepherd: I shall not want. Psalm 23:1. PRIMARY TOPIC—The Song of the Shepherd.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Song of a Shepherd Boy. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Songs of Faith and Courage. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—A Steadfast and Triumphant Faith.

What a fitting conclusion to our three-month study of Old Testament characters it is to sound the note of "triumphant faith." The life stories which have passed in review have been true to life, as they have shifted from strength to weakness, from fear to courage, from moral responsibility to moral weakness. But God is the one who changeth not—and we would not close our series properly without the encouraging reminder that the man who truly believes God may know strength out of weakness, courage in place of fear, may like David rise out of degrading sin and defeat into the joy and victory of faith.

Two elemental needs are common to all mankind—provision for the maintenance of life, both physical and spiritual, and protection from the enemies of soul and body. Our first Scripture portion declares the faith of David in God as his providing shepherd and the second as his security from fear.

I. Provision (Ps. 23). "The Lord is my shepherd." Putting God first in every detail of life means that there will be

1. No want (vv. 1-5). "My cup runneth over," and surely then there can be no lack of any good thing. God is able and willing. We, like David, should trust Him.

2. No weakness (v. 3). "He restoreth my soul." The world is puzzled by the rejuvenating power of the grace of God in the Christian's soul, but it becomes very real to us through the Word, through prayer, through the indwelling Holy Spirit Himself.

3. No wandering (v. 3). "He leadeth me." In an unknown or dangerous country the essential thing is to stay close to one's guide. In the wilderness of this sinful world, we must keep close to our divine Leader. He knows where the still waters and the green pastures are to be found, even in wildest and most barren land.

4. No worry (v. 6). "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life." It was true of David, it is (or should be), pre-eminently true of the Christian. Someone has said, "If we trust we do not worry; if we worry we do not trust."

5. But—blessed assurance. Not only will the goodness of God follow us all our days, but we shall "dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

II. Protection (Ps. 27:1-6).

"The Lord is my light and my salvation"—could there be any greater certainty that we shall be delivered from every danger and difficulty? To the one who walks in that light there can be

1. No fear (v. 1). "The Lord is the strength of my life, of whom shall I be afraid?" He is the perfect and final answer to all the fears of life.

2. No failure (vv. 2, 3). "Though an host should encamp against me . . . in this will I be confident," that they shall not stumble and fall. One of the fears that dogs the footsteps of a man is that after all his effort and labor some enemy will come in and destroy. The Christian must often meet wicked and troublesome enemies—but though they be a host, he may be serene in his soul, knowing that if he is right with God the devices of man or devil against him shall only fail.

3. No falling (vv. 4, 5). "He shall set me up upon a rock," and that rock is in "the secret of his tabernacle." The assurance of the believer in Christ is in Him, His work upon the cross and His certain word of promise.

David longed for the house of the Lord; he wanted to return to the temple from which his many wanderings so often separated him. How blessed is our lot as Christians for we have in our own bodies the temple of the Holy Spirit (I Cor. 3:16, 6:19); we have Christ in us as the hope of glory (Col. 1:22). We also long to be in God's house (that is if we really love Him), but if we are born again we have the temple of God wherever we may be.

4. No fainting (v. 6). "Now shall mine head be lifted up above mine enemies round about me." Just when, humanly speaking, we would faint because of the enemies all around us, or by reason of the heat and pressure of the fight, then God causes our heads to be lifted up and in the moment of apparent defeat there is victory.

5. But—a song. "I will sing praises unto the Lord." The atmosphere of praise is one which the enemy of our soul cannot stand. It is too rare, too pure, too holy for him. Next time he tries to defeat you—why not "Try Praise"? It works!

Hordes Rush to New Goldfields; Big Prices Are Paid for Claims Stories of Sudden Wealth Lure Prospectors to Northern Canada.

EDMONTON, ALBERTA.—Tales of sudden wealth have brought prospectors by the hundreds to this town, starting point of the trek to the new goldfields of the Northwest.

Already during the past two years 4,000 claims, extending over an area of 55 miles in length, have been staked. Prospectors who started out with dreams of riches have returned and have been able to sell their claims to several of the large mining corporations of Canada and the United States for prices ranging from $50,000 to $500,000.

Three new boom towns have sprung up. They are Goldfields, on Lake Athabasca; Saskatchewan, on the north border of North West Territories; Yellowknife and Gordon Lake, N. W. T.

Await Production. The test of the wealth of the new fields will be made when three properties come into production in a few months, as soon as milling equipment can be delivered, erected and started.

Meanwhile prospectors and others set off daily on tours of aerial exploration. Forty airplanes which operate winter and summer and cover an area of 500,000 miles fly these men into the unexplored parts, leave them for a few days, then return and pick them up and fly them to another spot 50 or 100 miles farther on. In this manner several rich "strikes" have been made.

The aircraft also deliver thousands of tons of freight. The mines are entirely dependent upon them for supplies during the winter, when the Mackenzie river is frozen over. During summer power boats and barges operate on the river, rushing in as much freight as possible.

Oil Fields Found. Oil discovered at McMurray, about 300 miles from here, will soon supply fuel to the river boats and airplanes and to the diesel-operated mining plants of the mines at an economical cost. Refineries and storage tanks have already been completed.

Although "Old Gus" Nyman, the original discoverer of Goldfields, is now penniless—his secret leaked out before he had a chance to stake his claims—fortune has smiled on others.

Sam Otto, an "old timer" in the game, sold his 18 claims to a mining syndicate for $50,000 last February. Two young men, the Ryan brothers, sold their claims in the Yellowknife area to a Canadian mining corporation for a reported $500,000. An adjoining group of claims was sold by the owners to another syndicate for $150,000.

"The commitments already made by leading mining corporations will guarantee development work for the next 25 years," said L. E. Drummond, manager of the Alberta and North West Chamber of Mines. "And if all the claims up to the Arctic circle are developed it will take 100 years!"

Wireless Phone Carries Voices Through Walls

LONDON.—A vest pocket telephone with which it is possible to speak through the walls of a room without connecting has been perfected in a British laboratory.

It consists of earphones and a box which, without special seats or plugging in, will enable the deaf to hear talks and at the same time move about. Concealed microphones, automatically adjusting themselves as the actors move about the stage, will enable "galleryites" to hear as clearly as those in the front stalls. In a fast-traveling car, conversation could be established with a car in front.

The invention is being taken up with the home office in connection with air raid precautions. A tiny microphone and earphone equipment in a gas mask makes it possible for the person inside to carry on normal conversation.

Another use is in mines. With these instruments trapped miners could talk to their rescuers through a wall of rock.

A West End store is having the device installed so that the night watchman patrolling the top floors can hear a burglar ransacking the bargain basement.

HER 'SEEING EYE'

Miss Hazel Hurst, 22-year-old blind girl of Oneonta, N. Y., whose "seeing eye" dog was refused admission into England, returned to New York recently. She said she had only herself to blame for her difficulties and had been treated with every courtesy in London. The minister of agriculture, she said, had expressed regret that he could not give the permit for her dog to enter unless it spent the usual six months in quarantine.

Weather at South, North Poles
Speaking generally, it is colder at the South Pole and near it than it is in the region around the North Pole. Both the average temperature and the extreme temperatures are lower at the South Pole. While the North Pole is at sea level, there is a great land mass, 10,000 feet high and over, at the other pole, and this elevation makes for lower temperatures.

Sometime ago the Freshmen wrote interesting papers on their pets. The best one will be included in the school paper.
The Sophomores have reported on short stories before the class. The speeches were judged on correctness of grammar, eye contact with the group, and the ability to make the story interesting. Some students will remember their "jitters" upon first getting up to speak.

The English IV pupils are studying the lyrics and dramatists of the reign of Queen Elizabeth. They are also preparing for an objective test Friday.

In Latin I class some of the students made very good maps of the Roman Empire and also drawings of the Seven Hills of Rome.

The Juniors held their first class meeting Thursday night after school, and officers for the coming year were elected as follows: President, Dorothy Blust; Vice-President, Mabel Simons; Secretary, Richard Zollweg; Treasurer, June Smith. The class voted to pay monthly dues of ten cents. These are to be paid to the Treasurer the last day of each month.

Fifteen new drill books were added to the commercial department, one for each typewriter as an aid in solving individual accuracy problems.

The Seniors netted about six dollars at their bake sale in Moeller's store Saturday afternoon. The class has also decided to have class dues to help secure the necessary money for the year's activities.

MUSIC
New music has been ordered for the Band and Girls' Glee Club, and the organizations should be in the midst of the new material by the first of next week.

The Orchestra has been disposed of as a school time activity and band has been elected to meet for this extra period every week. The reason for this was that we did not have enough stringed instruments to make the Orchestra a valuable project. A violin class has been organized to take care of the peoples interested in violin, and also to build up beginners so that we may have the basis for an orchestra in the future.

A music adaptability test has been given to various people in the music groups to determine the number of people who have enough musical ability to be able to learn to play an instrument. It is hoped that the test will meet with much success and help us pick capable musicians for our band and orchestra.

SEVENTH and EIGHTH GRADES
Because the Christopher family has moved to National City we have to say good-bye to Bob. Friday was his last day in the eighth grade with us.

FIFTH and SIXTH GRADES
Everyone in the room has been weighed, measured, and had his eyes tested. We have been comparing last year's weight and height records and have found that practically everyone has grown taller and gained in weight.

The fifth grade geography class has been making maps showing the natural regions of the United States.

A number of girls from our room are planning to become members of the Camp Fire Girls Organization.

THIRD and FOURTH GRADES
Donald Roberts entered the third grade Monday.

Margaret Christopher left school Friday. She moved to National City. The third graders dramatized "The Lark in the Wheat" for reading Monday.

We were weighed and measured last week and had our eyes tested Monday.

Birthstones
Birthstones for the various months are: January, garnet; February, amethyst; March, bloodstone; April, diamond; May, emerald; June, agate or pearl; July, ruby or carnelian; August, sardonyx; September, sapphire; October, opal; November, topaz; December, turquoise and lapis lazuli.

Both Toltec and Mayan
A number of prominent archeologists offer the theory that Mexico's famed San Juan Teotihuacan is both Toltec and Mayan in origin. They say that the temple, particularly, has distinct Mayan characteristics.

eight. After two men had been retired, Decker walked and stole second. Decker singled scoring Decker to tie the score again.

Tawas went back into the lead in their turn at bat. Smith fanned, Davis singled, G. Laidlaw singled, Earl going to third from where he scored on a short passed ball.

West Branch still showed fight by scoring two runs in the ninth after two were out. Benson opened with a single and was forced at second by Lucas, who in turn was forced at second by Blancher, who stole second.

Husted hit a slow bouncer to third and was safe at first when Davis had his foot off the bag, Blancher kept on running and scored. Husted scored on a double by Thomas. Fritz ended the inning with a fly to left.

Tawas City, not to be out done, came back with two of their own to take the game. M. Mallon opened with a single through second, Laidlaw also singled. Roach sacrificed and Moeller came through with a single scoring Mallon, Laidlaw tripped in rounding third had to hold up at that base. E. Libka was sent in to bat for Smith, who had been having an off day at the plate. He bunted a single past the pitcher and Laidlaw scampered home with the final score and the ball game.

Walt Laidlaw was the hitting star for the locals with three hits out of three times up. There were several fine fielding plays made during the game. "Lefty" Quick making a shoe string catch of Decker's line drive with two men on base, to end the second inning and in the sixth, Steelman tripled with one man out, Ammond hit a sharp grounder to George Laidlaw, who in turn made a perfect throw to his brother, Walt, to catch Steelman at the plate. These were the real prize winning plays of the afternoon.

Steelman was the batting star for the visitors with three hits out of five trips to the plate, including a triple. Thomas got the other extra base hit of the game, a double in the ninth.

Next Sunday the series will be resumed with Tawas City motoring to West Branch. If you want to see a thriller, accompany the team there and give them your support. The locals are going to play hard for this game and hope to wind up the series Sunday. The team will leave from Cholger's garage at 11:30 a. m. Anyone wishing a banner for their car leave word at the Herald office or Moeller's Grocery.
