The October session of the Board of Supervisors is scheduled for next Monday October 10.

SERVICES FOR WILLIAM FREEL HELD SATURDAY

Last Rites for Victim of Tragic Farm Fire Held in Tawas City

Funeral services for William H. Freel, of Tawas township, were held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at the Tawas City Baptist Church with burial in the Tawas City cemetery.

Mr. Freel met a tragic end by burning to death when his farm home on Townline Road west of Tawas City was destroyed by fire early Friday morning, September 30. Mr. Freel was a bachelor and was alone in the house at the time of the fire. It is believed that he was overcome by smoke in his sleep and rendered unconscious, thus preventing his escape from the burning structure. Coronor E. D. Jacques, Sheriff John Moran and the State Police investigated the scene of the tragedy but the cause of the fire could not be definitely determined.

Mr. Freel was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Freel, and was born in Gainsborough, Canada, on November 25, 1871.

In 1880, Mr. Freel came to Michigan with his parents and settled in Tawas township, where he lived up to the time of his death. He was 66 years old.

He is survived by six brothers: Joseph, Judson, and Arthur, all of Tawas township; August, of National City; George, of Prescott; and Alexander, of Gaylord.

Honor Champion Team At C. of C. Banquet

Members of the victorious Tawas City baseball team, 1938 champions of the Northeastern Michigan League, were honored at a banquet Tuesday evening at the G. H. Q. restaurant. The dinner was sponsored by the Tawas City Chamber of Commerce.

Following an enjoyable meal served by Mrs. Edward Lawson and her staff, E. D. (Ted) Jacques, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who acted as toastmaster, introduced Walter Laidlaw, captain of the baseball team.

Captain Laidlaw, in turn, introduced members of his team to the banquet guests and each one drew a burst of applause as he stood up at his seat. ### Cool Weather Brings Luck To Perch Fishermen Here

Fishermen who are willing to brave the chill fall winds are bringing in some good catches of perch from Tawas Bay and Tawas river these days.

October is usually the best fishing month of the year due to two factors, the Department of Conservation reports.

First, the lower temperatures which come during this month in a normal season stimulate activity in the fish world. The same fish, which like humans, are inclined to take it easy and loiter around a bit during the heat of the summer, get renewed pep as the water cools. They circulate around and are more inclined to show interest in bait dangled in their vicinity.

In general, October usually offers the year's best angling because it offers temperatures which are neither too warm, as they frequently are in the summer, nor too cool, as they are likely to be in the winter. Catches of bass, pike, bluegills and perch are usually heavier in October earlier in the season.

Conservation officers were on the job and 22 hunters, who "jumped the gun," were brought into justice court for shooting too early. Ten were arraigned before Justice W. C. Davidson, in Tawas City, and each paid a $5 fine and costs. Twelve paid similar fines and costs in Justice C. F. Klump's court in East Tawas.

Forest Fire Acreage Loss Larger in This District

Conservation district No. 10, which includes Isoco, Ogemaw, Alcona, and Oscoda counties, has suffered a larger acreage loss in forest fires this season than any other district, the Department of Conservation reports.

The districts record of 2,791 acres burned over is due chiefly to an outbreak of fires during the first week in August, which were believed to be incendiary in origin. Eight fires occurred during this week in jackpine territory in Alcona county and burned 1,720 acres.

Forest fire damage in Michigan this season up to the middle of September was about half as great as during the same period last year. The acreage loss for the state up to September 11 this year totalled 7,139 with 741 fires reported, as compared to 1,064 fires and 14,188 acres burned over by the same date in 1937.

Weekly News Review Peace Wins Shallow Victory, Compared to That of Hitler

By Joseph W. La Bine

Foreign

Since early August, when Czechoslovakia's Sudeten area first began attracting Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's serious attention, Italy's Premier Benito Mussolini has been out in the cold. While Germany's chancellor talked with British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, while the world read about French Premier Edouard Daladier and Czech President Eduard Benes, Adolf Hitler's friend in Rome was asked not once for his opinion. But he gave it nevertheless, thundering six speeches of defiance at western democracies in as many days.

Another rebuff came when Franklin Roosevelt drafted his first note to Germany and Czechoslovakia (See WHITE HOUSE), sending copies to Britain and France, but not to James M. Landis of Harvard university's law school, Chief Justice Walter P. Stacey of the North Carolina supreme court. With railroad's monumental problem brought to a head, labor's protests became secondary to an investigation of why one-third of U. S. railroads are in receivership, why another third borders on bankruptcy.

When committees finish their inquiry, unions must wait another 30 days before striking. Chief hope is that a solution of railroad financial difficulties will obviate a strike by that time, with congressional aid following close behind.

White House

"This country can best be served by putting in positions of influence men who believe in peace and who will resist this administration in seeking to give free advice to either side in Europe."

Day after he recited this opinion of Franklin Roosevelt to Chicago Republicans, Iowa's onetime Sen. Lester J. Dickinson might have admitted that he spoke too hastily. Traditionally isolationist, long silent in Europe's crisis (See FOREIGN), U. S. officialdom kept hands off until every other effort failed, until Adolf Hitler was poised to march against little Czechoslovakia. Then, to Reichsfuehrer Hitler, to Czech President Eduard Benes, went President Roosevelt's plea:

"On behalf of 130 millions of Americans and for the sake of humanity everywhere, I most earnestly appeal to you not to break off negotiations..."

Next day, as Iowa's Dickinson was speaking, came Adolf Hitler's reply disclaiming responsibility, maintaining the "terrible fate" of Sudeten Germans made delay impossible. By nightfall all Europe had surrendered hope, and by nine o'clock the President was willing to try again. To Berlin went another cable. Its highlight:

"There are two points I sought to emphasize; first, that all matters of difference could and should be settled by pacific methods; second, that the threatened alternative... of force... is as necessary as it is unjustifiable."

Craftily phrased to maintain U. S. neutrality, the President's message nevertheless contained the word "unjustifiable" which connoted a measure of sympathy for Britain and France. Moreover, he dispatched a personal note to Italy's Premier Benito Mussolini, another to Tokyo, thereby asking Reichsfuehrer Hitler's two bedfellows in totalitarianism to plump against war.

No President in modern U. S. history has ever taken such a step, nor did much time elapse before tongues started wagging. Would Franklin Roosevelt's intervention embroil the nation in Europe's squabble? Did Washington have a secret "parallel action" agreement with France and Britain? And, most important for the moment, would the President's move bring desired results?

By daybreak the last question was answered. To Munich, Adolf Hitler summoned Britain, France and Italy for peace negotiations that undeniably resulted in part from Mr. Roosevelt's intervention. By noon, Secretary of State Cordell Hull assured correspondents that the U. S. has no "parallel action" agreement. By nightfall, even arch-New Deal hater Sen. Rush D. Holt admitted the President's course had been wise.

Unnoticed, shoved into the background by Europe's crisis, was the U. S. political picture which nonetheless may change definitely as an upshot of the President's action. Recalled was last summer's Fortune poll which showed the New Deal's two most favored features were rearmament and foreign policy. Whatever might result from Munich's peace parley, the Czech squabble proved (1) that Germany's expansion efforts will continue to threaten Europe, and (2) that the U. S. cannot escape some measure of participation in world affairs. Will the administration's success thus far bring national approval for continuation of New Deal foreign policy? A safe bet was that political speeches leading to November's election will stress foreign relations, possibly urge important revision of the neutrality act, under which the President may now invoke "cash and carry" provisions anytime a state of war exists abroad.

War

So engrossing was Czechoslovakia's problem that both China and Spain (See Below) received scant attention. One press association's total 12-hour report from both battlefronts was 29 words, but U. S. headline writers knew the name of Hankow would soon be flashing from their pencil tips. Reason: Japan's invading army crept closer up the Yangtze river to its ultimate destination, appeared almost certain to capture China's onetime provisional capital before another month is up.

Chief question is whether vengeful Nipponese troops will turn Hankow into the wholesale slaughterhouse they made of Nanking last winter. If they do, it will wreck central China's No. 1 industrial city, a trading and manufacturing point of inestimable importance. Pioneer of western industrialization, Hankow's three WuHan cities of Hankow, Hanyang and Wuchang opened their doors to foreign trade in 1858, became a machine age center of rice, flour and textile mills, dye works, oil refineries and distilleries. Since the WuHan cities head water and rail facilities to all south China, their loss will be a severe blow to Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Since China's capital has moved 600 miles up-stream to Chungking, observers wondered last week whether Japan will stop at Hankow, as promised, or push on to drive Generalissimo Chiang's headquarters still farther back into Asia.

Only scant hope for China's future came from far-away Geneva, where the League of Nations council invoked article 16 of its badly battered covenant, voting economic and financial "sanctions" against Japan. This was a futile hope, however, since sanctions failed miserably when last applied against Italy in her Ethiopian conquest. Moreover, the League agreed that "co-ordinated action" against Japan was impossible, that each member could apply sanctions if it desired. Never before have sanctions been invoked against a non-league member.

DR. V. K. WELLINGTON KOO
He was not too hopeful.

Not too optimistic was China's scholarly delegate, Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, who reluctantly admitted:

"The only question now is to what extent various members of the League will participate in sanctions."

Though Spain's war was postponed last week on account of wet grounds, observers thought they saw clearing skies that bore close relation to the Munich peace parley (See FOREIGN). From Rome came almost unimpeachable word that Premier Benito Mussolini is withdrawing support from Generalissimo Francisco Franco's insurgent army, and at the same moment Paris heard insurgent Spain would be neutral in any European war.

By the time these two rumors were patched together, they added up nicely. If Generalissimo Franco remained neutral, he would be useless to Italy in fighting France. But a more important reason lay in Premier Mussolini's sudden about-face from which he emerged as Europe's No. 1 peacemaker.

Already credited with proposing the Munich parley, since no one else could deal with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, Il Duce was probably seeking to improve his relations with Great Britain by invoking the Italo-British friendship pact. Signed last spring, this treaty has been dormant because Italy refused to desert Generalissimo Franco. Still another reason for Il Duce's act might be Italy's inability to continue financing Fascism's Spanish battle.

Whatever the cause, observers hoped a Europe gone suddenly peace-mad would let the Spanish war fizzle out. With Italy quitting, with Germany likely to follow suit, and with loyalist Spain already dismissing her foreign fighters, the hope was a bright one.

Saddest U. S. news of Spain's war was the capture by rebel troops of James P. Lardner, 24-year-old son of the late, famed Author Ring Lardner, in the last engagement of his company, the renowned Lincoln-Washington brigade.

HEALTH

● Breathing exercises will relieve asthma, specialists are now certain

—By Dr. James W. Barton

IN MY student days the cause of asthma was unknown. That it seemed to "run in some families" and that all that could be done was to give amyl nitrite during an attack was about the extent of our knowledge and treatment.

Today it is known that a complex of three ailments—hay fever, asthma and eczema—does run in some families, and the members of such families are predisposed or have tissues that are predisposed to asthma, hay fever, and eczema, if they come in contact with certain substances by breathing, eating or handling. Since this has become known many are now kept free of attacks by avoiding these substances or by having had their tissues "desensitized"—tiny amounts of the substance being injected under the skin.

In asthma there appear to be other conditions which enter into the cause of the attacks, such as defects and infection of the nose and throat, so that even when pollens, foods, dust, dander, or other exciting causes have been corrected, attacks persist, often, it is believed, because of emotional disturbances.

However, and this is the important point, no matter what causes the asthmatic attacks, the majority of all asthma cases are helped by the breathing exercises advocated by the Asthma Research Council of Great Britain.

Information Available. I have mentioned and outlined these exercises before, but any asthmatic can obtain the little book of instructions—"Breathing Exercises for Asthma"—by sending a postal order for 25 cents—to Secretary, Asthma Research Council, King's College, Strand, London, W. C. 2, England.

At King's College hospital asthma clinic the results of this exercise treatment for 1937 were: 40 per cent of cases of asthma had either disappeared entirely or became so slight as to cause no inconvenience; in about 30 per cent the condition was very much improved and there remained 30 per cent of failures. Of the 30 per cent of failures, half of these did not or could not learn the correct method of breathing; the other half did not improve despite the fact that they were breathing correctly.

Glandular Trouble May Cause Acne

Some years ago I tried to interest a skin specialist in diet as a possible cause of acne—pimples. I pointed out that, although some gland change was partly responsible, food must be another factor because the acne in many cases improved or became worse according to the amount of certain foods eaten. He believed that the gland change, as the boy emerged into a man or a woman, was entirely to blame.

It would seem that more than one gland is at fault in causing acne; the pituitary gland lying on the floor of the skull is also partly to blame. It is now known that the front part of the pituitary gland has much to do with the way starch foods are handled by the body so that slowness or lateness in the development of this gland is considered another cause of pimples or acne. In fact, some months ago Dr. C. H. Lawrence in the Journal of the American Medical Association, told of his success in the treatment of a number of cases of acne, given daily treatments of anterior pituitary extract for 60 days. And just recently Dr. Joseph Wortis, research fellow in psychiatry at Bellevue Psychiatric hospital, New York, recounted his success in six cases of acne by the use of insulin—the extract of another gland—the pancreas—now used to keep diabetics alive.

Age Factor Considered. Thus it would seem that it is some lack of activity or some delay in gland development that may be the cause or partly the cause of acne. The fact that acne first, or usually, occurs in the early teens would support this idea.

Even when acne occurs in older people it may be due to lack of activity of one or more glands and extract of the pituitary or the pancreatic gland should prove helpful. What about the viosterol treatment; why does it help in so many cases?

Viosterol is rich in vitamin D. Vitamin D stimulates all the body processes into action and makes certain minerals—lime and phosphorus—not only build and give more energy to the body, but helps to destroy harmful organisms in the blood and intestine. This extra activity of the body processes stimulates skin activity and helps to prevent and cure acne.

'America's Last Frontier' Saved

The solitary ranger in the foreground is gazing at "America's last frontier," the rugged, mountainous heart of the Olympic peninsula in the state of Washington, which will be preserved for all time, according to the terms of a bill signed recently by President Roosevelt. This legislation establishes the Olympic National park, comprising the old Olympic National monument, together with the adjacent forest lands. Here is an untouched wilderness of mountains, gorges, forest and fields in which there are no settlements and no supply points in an area of 500 square miles. The high peak in the center of the picture is Mount Seattle.

Casey Jones, Legendary Hero of Railroad Ballad, to Be Honored

Home Town Plans Memorial to Engineer Lauded in Famous Ballad.

CAYCE, KY.—They're going to build a monument here to that "man at the throttle"—Casey Jones.

It was at Cayce, a small town in southwestern Kentucky, that the almost legendary hero of the railroad ballad, born John Luther Jones at nearby Jordan, Ky., obtained his first job as telegrapher's helper.

He got his nickname from Cayce, but they spelled it Casey.

The song "Casey Jones" is revered by all railroad men, and its familiar strains have endured since the turn of the century.

To pay tribute to "the brave engineer who died with his hand on the throttle," nearly 700 persons gathered recently at Cayce for a dinner at which $200 was raised toward the memorial.

Life a Success Story.

Jones' life was a success story without the popular ballad that threw his heroism into bold relief.

He had become an engineer at 30 and arrived at the top for railroaders early in 1900 when he was assigned to the famous "Cannonball," the "pride of the southern rails."

Neither Webb, the fireman, nor Jones' widow, the former Janie Brady, living in Jackson, Tenn., has much patience with the historical inaccuracies of the song.

Mrs. Jones said Casey didn't "kiss his wife at the station door" before the tragic run, as the song relates.

Obedied Orders.

Some versions of the song ignore geographical factors altogether. One would have Casey pulling "up the Reno hill" and later warning his fireman, "we're goin'ta reach Frisco, but we'll all be dead." Other versions have Casey's locomotive crashing head-on into another engine.

Speaking at the Cayce dinner, Webb, now gray, said he followed Jones' order to "Take your place to jump, 'cause it's two locomotives that's a-bound to bump." The Negro hit the grit and rolled into a clump of bushes.

Grieving fellow workers took Jones' scalded body from the wreckage. Several days later he was buried at Jackson, Tenn., within earshot of two railroads. Even now, gruff engineers lightly tug their whistles in salute as their locomotives roar past the cemetery.

The song about Casey was not written deliberately. It didn't appear until more than two years after the crash. One account has it that a Negro railroad shop worker started it, in either Canton or Memphis. Shop boys hummed it and made up new verses. Later Eddie Newton, a song writer, visited Canton, scored the song and had it published.

Nickel Boosts Chemical Plant Growth in Tank

HATTIESBURG, MISS.—F. C. Glenn, who started a chemical tank farm after he saw one in a newspaper, has found that he raises stronger plants by adding nickel to his food formula.

Last year he left nickel out of the mixture and the plants developed such a pungent odor that bugs and insects left them alone. This year a variety of caterpillar has infested his tomato beds, which no longer smell.

Glenn said he tried the nickel in the solution because, in combination with 16 other elements in the human body; it tended to promote stronger growth. He has found the same result from using it in his tank farm.

His tank farm so far is an experiment, and an expensive one at that. Straw and excelsior are used with the chemicals, and Glenn has found that the yield is about three times what it would be in the same amount of dirt farming. But there are the advantages of not having to depend on the weather, easy regulation of climatic conditions and control of insects. Tank farm crops might be marketed well ahead of field crops.

Eventually, Glenn believes, the cost of the chemicals used in the solution will be reduced to the point where tank farmers can compete with dirt farmers.

Park Service Adds 15 Acres to Bedloe's Isle

WASHINGTON.—When the national park service completes its improvement program on Bedloe's island in New York harbor, not only will the Statue of Liberty have a rebuilt headrest but the island will be 12 to 15 acres larger.

A master plan is being drawn for the proposed work, which will include regrading and landscaping, demolition of old army buildings and construction of several new stone walks.

Work has begun on erection of a stone seawall and parapet around the northwest end of the little island, shrine of patriotic vacationers, to increase its size. Seven spikes in Liberty's huge crown have been taken down and the rusted supporting iron inside replaced.

Reconditioning the statue, gift of the French people to the United States, and improvements on the island will cost about $250,000. The money has been provided by the Public Works administration.

The work is the first done on the statue since the interior department took over the island from the war department last September.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Miss Louise A. Boyd, wandering far from sunny San Rafael in California, pushes farther up the East Greenland coast than any American ever went before. She was a comely woman of 30, skilled in the rubric of serving tea and all the niceties of Victorian etiquette before she shoved into the ice pack and began pot-shooting polar bears—nine in one day. She might have felt like the late William James who, free from a long stretch at a Wisconsin chautauqua, asked passersby if they could direct him to a nice Armenian massacre.

For the last 12 years she has been equipping stout little Norwegian sealers for her Arctic expeditions. She has trained herself in scientific observations and her findings are published under scientific auspices. She holds decorations from two foreign governments and the American Geographical society has published two of her books. She surveyed a stretch of the Greenland coast, previously uncharted, and for this the Danish government named the area Miss Boyd Land. She has ventured farther north than any other white woman.

She dislikes publicity and has little of the histrionic sense common to explorers. So far as the reporters are concerned, she might just as well make an expedition to Flatbush. At great labor and expense it has been ascertained, however, that she takes a nice wardrobe north with her and that she always powders her nose before going on deck. She probably was trapped into these indiscreet admissions as she has made it clear that all this is nobody's business.

Weaving through ice packs on an Atlantic voyage gave her her big idea. One of her chief interests on her northern voyages is photography. She is the daughter of John Boyd, wealthy Californian. The old manse at San Rafael, which this writer has seen on occasion, is a citadel of decorum, from which it would seem, none would ever wander, so far and so dangerously.

THOSE who liked Thomas Mann's "The Coming of Democracy," will find in Dr. Cyrus Adler, who celebrated his seventy-fifth birthday just the other day, a living statement Embodiment of Herr Mann's theme. A scholar and humanist, he has given his life to an exemplification of democracy as an ethical and cultural aspiration and not a political formula—which is Thomas Mann's impassioned thesis. This writer thought of that when he read the book, and spotted up Doctor Adler's birthday in the future book for attention here.

He is the only president of two colleges, Dropsie college of Philadelphia and the Jewish Theological Seminary of New York. A fellow of Johns Hopkins university, where he obtained his doctorate, he taught at the University of Baltimore. He has been a staunch defender of science and the humanities against bigotry and insularity through the more than half-century of his teaching, writing and speaking.

At his retreat at Woods Hole, Mass., he is still creative, alert and vigorous. He is saluted here as the proprietor of one of our most important birthdays.

DR. GEORGE D. BIRKHOFF, professor of mathematics at Harvard, seems to be the first to note the competition in the academic world from the influx of superintellectual refugees from Europe.

As the doctor sees it, mathematicians won't be worth a dime a dozen if these highly gifted men keep on coming. However, his observations indicate no narrow insularity on his part. He is all for the enrichment of our intellectual life, but notes that somebody may have to ride on the running board with all this overcrowding.

When Einstein began batting his hot relativity grounders this way, Doctor Birkhoff was one of the few men in America who could field them. He is a prolific writer in the overlapping zone of mathematics and philosophy, one of the most heavily garlanded men in the scholastic world, a distinguished Catholic layman holding high papal honors for scholarship. He is a native of Michigan, educated at the University of Chicago and Harvard.

Star Dust

- ★ Seal Steals Show
- ★ Tyrone Power Leads!
- ★ Infant Publishers

By Virginia Vale

IT BEGINS to look as if the various actresses who refused to play the heroine in "Spawn of the North" were smart girls. They probably remembered that it's dangerous to work in a picture with a clever animal, because nine times out of ten the animal steals the picture.

Mention "Spawn of the North" to someone who has seen it, and he—or she—won't reply: "Wasn't the battle between the salmon fishers and the pirates exciting?" or exclaim over the icebergs or the salmon run or the excellent performances of John Barrymore and Lynne Overman. Not if he—or she—runs true to form. The exclamations will all be for the trained seal, Slicker.

Slicker deserves the enthusiasm, and his owner and trainer deserves the good break that he gets through Slicker's performance. He is H. W. Winston, a veteran of vaudeville; he and his trained seals, on one of their tours of the Continent, played a command performance for British royalty.

Another animal who became a star overnight is the terrier who played "Asta" in "The Thin Man." He'll appear with Constance Bennett in "Topper Takes a Trip," a sort of sequel to "Topper." In fact, he'll replace Cary Grant, in a way. Grant is too busy and too expensive for the new "Topper" picture, so the dog will be Miss Bennett's companion in this one.

Tyrone Power is gathering bouquets from those who know about band leaders for his performance in

TYRONE POWER

"Alexander's Ragtime Band." A little group of musicians was discussing it recently, and they said that he wasn't merely standing up there and waving a baton, as movie stars whose roles require them to turn band leader usually do. They maintained that he was actually leading the band.

Incidentally, Paul Wing, whose "Spelling Bee," impressively sponsored, goes out on a nation-wide hook-up at 5:45 Sunday afternoons, has an effective way of taking radio-acting apart and putting it together again for those who want to act in broadcasts.

Mr. Wing takes a play—one that he wrote some years ago, when he was well known as a playwright—and rehearses the aspiring actors in it as it would be done on the stage; then he coaches them in it as it would be done in a broadcasting studio, bringing out the many differences in technique.

Elaine Carrington was put gently but firmly in her place recently by her son and daughter (Robert, aged ten, and Patricia, aged fourteen). Mrs. Carrington, in case you don't know, is one of radio's most successful writers; for years she has done the script for "Pepper Young's Family," which is broadcast on two nation-wide hook-ups, on Monday and Friday mornings and afternoons. She made her name as a brilliant short story writer before she took to radio, selling to the biggest magazines.

But—Patria and Robert are now publishing a magazine, "The Jolly Roger," (at their mother's expense), and getting contributions from friends and family. The only stories that they've insisted on having re-written, (and they didn't like even the re-written versions too well,) are those by the famous Elaine Carrington!

ODDS AND ENDS—Two of radio's most promising young singers, Marie-Louise Quevli and Felix Young, have just recorded an album of Jerome Kern's music. . . . The "Alice in Wonderland" skating sequence in Sonja Hanie's new picture, "My Lucky Star," makes the picture worth seeing; the rest of it isn't quite up to her usual standard. . . . Don't miss "You Can't Take It With You"; in some respects it's better than the stage version that New York raved over.

Dust Bowl Taps Covered Lakes

Deep Wells Dug in Oklahoma Raise New Hope for Reclaiming Land.

GUYMON, OKLA. — Optimistic from the results of a year's research, state agricultural and water conservation authorities believe that they have discovered a means for permanent reclamation of the dust bowl.

Great bodies of water have been located under the arid Panhandle district, and scientists believe that the amount is sufficient for permanent water well irrigation throughout the entire southwestern dust bowl area of Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado, Kansas and New Mexico.

Several irrigation wells are in operation now, one of them having flowed 1,000 gallons of water a minute for the last year. It was drilled by the state board of agriculture at the Panhandle A. & M. college, Goodwell. In one place a body of water 500 to 700 feet deep was located 250 feet below the surface.

Broad Program Outlined.

Results from other experimental work conducted by the United States geological survey, the state geological survey and the United States department of the interior prompted F. L. Vaughan of Oklahoma City, director of the water resources division for the state planning and resources board, to outline an extensive program.

While several wells are being drilled by farmers, Vaughan revealed that he would ask the next Oklahoma legislature to set up a huge program directing a new type of farming the dust bowl sector.

Irrigation districts will be marked off. The drilling, spacing and flow from the wells would be taken over much as the state has taken over oil production through a conservation division.

"All of the experimental reports show there is plenty of water," Vaughan said, "if it is used judiciously and not wasted."

WPA Aid to Be Sought.

Works Progress administration aid will be asked for the drilling. Estimated cost of a well is $2,500. The first research into ground water was conducted about a year ago when the United States geological survey studied the sub-surface water supplies in the Oklahoma and Texas Panhandle.

The report, as yet unpublished, shows that there are sands saturated with water throughout the entire dust bowl area, Vaughan said. They vary in size from 40 to 100 feet in thickness.

Joe C. Scott, president of the state board of agriculture, said that the report also included the description of a large body of water covering a vast area.

"The geologist was unable to determine whether it was running water or whether it was an underground lake," Scott said. "It is 500 to 700 feet deep and is believed to have its source in the Rocky mountain area of Colorado."

"It was impossible to determine its size."

Savant Claims Solomon Is Greatly Overrated

MONTREAL.—King Solomon, famous for his 1,000 wives and wisdom, is a greatly overrated figure, Prof. H. G. May of Oberlin college, told students at the summer school for clergy at McDonald college here.

Professor May said that Solomon, a symbol of wisdom for centuries, was no more than an unwise dictator whose policies, markedly similar to those of dictators today, led to the breakup of the Hebrew kingdom after his death.

"The phrase, 'Solomon in all his glory,' aptly fits the reign of this Hebrew monarch," he said. "Recent research shows that he was a very wealthy king. He made his wealth through the exploitation of his people and the resources of the country."

"Solomon could be designated as the 'copper king' and a horse trader. He developed the rich outcroppings of iron and copper veins south of the Dead sea. With the methods of a dictator, he raised levies of forced labor to work the mines."

"With his great resources of copper and iron, he was able to acquire gold, for which he traded the baser metals. His policies of exploitation, however, had their reward. Upon his death, the Hebrew kingdom broke up."

Lassoing of Woodchucks

RANGELEY, MAINE. — Richard Haley has made a game of getting rid of woodchucks.

He scares the animal into its hole, and loops a piece of string round the entrance.

Then he sits down to wait. When the woodchuck eventually peeks out to see if the coast is clear, Haley pulls the string and the 'chuck is "roped" cowboy-fashion.

"It's great sport," says Haley. "But don't try it unless you have plenty of patience. Sometimes I have to wait 45 minutes for the 'chuck to appear, but when he does, he's practically mine."

Rug From Old Coat And Scraps of Felt

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

THE directions for making the rug in my book—SEWING, for the Home Decorator, have brought many letters from readers describing rugs that are new to me and very interesting. The reader who shares with us this idea for using pieces of heavy woolen and scraps of felt, tacked her rug to the side of the house and took a snapshot of it which she sent me.

3 BRIGHT BLUE ON RED
4 YELLOW ON

(1) is made of the back width of a very heavy old coat. An allowance was made for a hem to add weight to the edge. The foundation may be pieced if a large section of heavy cloth is not available or felt purchased by the yard may be used for it.

Next, circles of felt in two colors, cut from old hats and discarded school pennants, are sewn together with heavy black thread as at A. These are then sewn in place as at B beginning at the center of the foundation. The large circles in the three center rows are two inches in diameter. Those in the next two rows are 2 1/2 inches. All the small circles are one inch.

You can make slipcovers, all types of curtains and many other things for the house with the help of Book 1—SEWING for the Home Decorator. Just follow the pictures. Step by step you learn to make the lovely things you have been wanting for your home. Book 2—Gifts, Novelties and Embroidery—illustrates 90 stitches; also dozens of things you can make in your spare time to use or to sell. Books are 25 cents each. If you order both books leaflet on crazy-patch quilts will be included free. Address: Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplains St., Chicago, Ill.

Where Mountain Lions Live

Mountain lions, variously called cougar, panther, puma, and catamount, range in the large wilderness areas west of the one hundredth meridian. They are hunted chiefly in the Rocky Mountain states and southward through the desert mountain ranges of Arizona, Texas and New Mexico. Farther westward they are less numerous, except in the coastal ranges of California, Oregon and Washington, where they are somewhat abundant.

No Ill Effects From Moon
The popular notion that the moon affects the mind, causing periodic insanity, has no foundation in fact. The term "lunatic" is derived from the Latin word "luna" (the moon), and corresponding words in French, Spanish, Portuguese and Italian are similarly derived. The derivation thus embodies the old belief that persons mentally afflicted were affected by moon changes.

DISTRICT NO. 2, GRANT

Watts School

Teacher—A. Nina Moore

School opened September 6 with an enrollment of 14, the next week we registered four more making an enrollment of 18.

We wish to thank the school board for a nicely painted room inside and out, seatwork material, a thermometer, a pencil sharpener, workbooks in arithmetic and reading. These books will help to standardize our work besides giving the pupils a vast number of experiences, which without them would be impossibles.

We organized a Safety Patrol with Beryl Binder, captain, and Henry McCardle, Melvin McCormick and Roland Fahselt on the patrol.

For science, we studied the three cousins, the cricket, grasshopper and katydid. We had the experience of observing them for several days. Several caterpillars have been brought in by various pupils. In due time they began to spin.

For opening exercises Mrs. Moore is reading "The Hoosier School-Master," by Edward Eggleston.

The sixth grade made maps of European rainfall, and have each chosen a country to travel in. All material relating to this country, including pictures of scenes, industries, etc., will be posted in a book of this particular country.

We have started our course in music. We are learning "Danny, Boy" in the higher grades and "Swing Song" in the lower grades. We also are trying to learn to march and keep time to music.

Roland Fahselt was absent one day to attend the Saginaw Fair.

We have all been weighed, meas-

What to Eat and Why

C. Houston Goudiss Relates the Romance of Wheat and Discusses Flour, the Basic Food

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

THE story of wheat flour is the story of civilization. Before man learned to cultivate this golden grain, he was obliged to move from place to place, with the seasons, in search of food to sustain and nourish his body.

Then, on one happy and momentous occasion, perhaps 6,000 years ago, an inspired nomad plucked the kernels clustered at the top of some waving grasses, observed that they had a nut-like taste, and passed along the far-reaching discovery to his fellow-tribesmen.

The beginnings of wheat cultivation are lost in antiquity. But we do know that for thousands of years, it has been one of the most important crops in the world—so necessary to man's well being that the supplication, "Give us this day our daily bread," has summed up his most fervent desires.

Food for the World
Today, nearly three quarters of a billion people use wheat as food. And modern methods of milling have developed flours of such superlative quality that breads are more appetizing and more attractive than ever before; special flours make cakes and pastries light as the proverbial feather; and there are prepared mixes available for biscuits, waffles, muffins, griddle cakes, pie crust and gingerbread.

For Energy and Vitality
The form in which wheat flour makes its appearance on the table is of less importance than the fact that it is and should be an essential item in the family food supply. That is because it offers a rich supply of fuel value at little cost. The different types of flour contain from 61 to 76 per cent carbohydrates, from 11 to 15 per cent protein, and varying amounts of mineral salts and vitamins.

It is necessary to know something of the structure of the wheat kernel and to understand how the various flours differ, in order to select the flour best suited for each purpose. A kernel is made up of several outer layers of bran; a layer of cells high in phosphorus and protein, just inside the bran; the endosperm, composed of cells in which starch granules are held together by proteins; and the germ. The starch cells are so small that one kernel of wheat may contain as many as 20,000,000 granules.

White and Whole Wheat Flours
White flour is made chiefly from the endosperm. Whole-wheat, entire-wheat and graham flours are loosely applied terms which refer both to products made by grinding the wheat berry without the removal or addition of any ingredient, and also to a flour from which part of the bran has been removed or to which bran has been added.

One of the most prolonged discussions of the last two decades has involved arguments for and against the use of white or whole wheat flour in making various types of bread and muffins. As a result, many people have been confused and misled—often at the expense of their enjoyment in meals.

Here are the facts: White bread contains important energy values, proteins, some minerals, chiefly potassium and phosphorus, and when made with milk, it also supplies some calcium. It is easily and almost completely digested, tests indicating an average digestibility of 96 per cent.

Bread and other bakery products made from whole wheat flour also contain proteins and carbohydrates, plus good amounts of iron, copper, phosphorus and potassium; and vitamins A, B and G.

The whole grain products are less completely digested than those which are highly refined, however, so some of their nutrients may be lost to the body.

When the two types of flour are considered as sources of protein and energy alone, they are regarded by nutritionists as practically interchangeable. Whole wheat flour is conceded to be richer in minerals and vitamins, but where white bread is preferred, these elements easily can be supplied from other sources.

As a matter of fact, foods made from both types of flour belong in the well-balanced diet, where they add variety and splendid food values at minimum cost. And it goes without saying that for many purposes, only white flour is suitable.

Bread Versus Pastry Flour
Different types of wheat differ in their proportions of protein and carbohydrates, and that accounts for the difference between bread and pastry flours. Bread flour is made from wheat containing a large amount of gluten, which gives elasticity to a dough and helps to make a well-piled loaf. Pastry flour contains less gluten and more starch and has a lighter texture that produces fine-grained cakes. All-purpose flours, as their name implies, are usually a blend of different types of wheat and are designed for general household use.

A Symbol of Progress

It is a tribute to American enterprise that the world's largest flour mills are now to be found in this country, and that tremendous staffs of technicians and research chemists supervise every step in the preparation of the flour which may pass through as many as 170 grindings and be subjected to 180 separations.

Experts begin by checking the quality of the grain while it is in transit to the mill. But their work does not end when the flour emerges pure white in color and unbelievably fine in texture, after having passed through silk bolting cloths of 100 mesh or finer. After that, there are baking tests, day after day, to be sure that every sack which is sold is of uniformly high quality.

Self-Rising Flours

An interesting development of recent years has been the self-rising flours and other ready-to-use mixtures. Some of these contain only a leavener; others include dried milk and eggs; fat; and baking powder, so that only a liquid is needed. All are planned to save the homemaker's time and maintain her family's interest in their most important energy food—the products of wheat—the foremost cereal grain.

Questions Answered

Mrs. F. E. L.—Flour should be stored in a moderately cool, dry, well ventilated place, and should be protected from vermin and insects. It should not be exposed to excessive heat, nor to freezing temperatures.

Miss F. E.—You are right! Rye flour is next to wheat in popularity, though it is usually mixed with wheat in making bread. Flours or meals are also made from potatoes, bananas, soy beans, lima beans, buckwheat, barley and rice, though the percentage is small compared to the amount made from wheat.

War by Time Clock

The only real warfare directed by a movie cameraman was Villa's revolution in Mexico in 1914. An American company paid him $25,000 for the film rights and he agreed to fight only in the daytime so it could get good pictures. Thus the cameraman was allowed to start the daily firing at 9 a. m. and to stop it at 4 p. m. He even delayed battles, at times, to search for new camera angles. —Collier's Weekly.

Rain Won't Keep 'Em Away!

Officials of the forthcoming world series aren't worrying about rain. They need only remember the 3,000 rabid fans who jammed the bleachers and unreserved seats at New York's Polo Grounds before the fifth game of last year's series, undaunted by cold, drizzly weather. Last year's series between the New York Giants and New York Yankees, which broke series attendance records, is expected to be exceeded this year.

champions. Manager Neumann accepted the trophy in behalf of the team. Mr. Goddard, who operates a sport ing goods store in Bay City, is the donor of the annual trophy awarded to the leading team in the Northeastern Michigan League.

Walter H. Graveline, of Bay City, an ardent baseball enthusiast, was the main speaker of the evening. Mr. Graveline paid tribute to the clean sportsmanship shown by the Tawas City team in winning the title honestly and fairly. He told of playing on a Bay City baseball team which came up to Tawas City to play 30 years ago, back in August of 1908.

"I don't recall where the local baseball diamond was at that time but what I do remember is that Tawas City beat us badly. You turn out some real baseball teams up here," Mr. Graveline said.

Later in the evening, Albert Mallon and Jim Mark, who both were members of the team which beat Bay City back in 1908, told Mr. Graveline that, while he was speaking, he was standing approximately on the spot where the infield of the old baseball diamond used to be.

Two large cakes were presented to the winning team. One, donated by the Vaughn-Gillette Baking Company of Bay City, was inscribed in colored frosting "To the 1938 N. E. M. League Champions." The other bore the lettering "Congratulations 1938 Champs" and this one was presented by the Gase's Baking Company of Saginaw.

Following the banquet, members of the championship baseball team were guests of the Rivola Theater.

running by Roiter. C. Libka worked Gardner for a walk to open the winning rally and was forced at second by Roach. After stealing second, Roach moved to third when G. Laidlaw grounded to Whitehouse. Roiter then beat out a slow bouncer to Gardner and Roach crossed the plate with what proved to be the winning marker. W. Mallon walked and McPherson lined to Heatly, who made a nice running catch, to end the inning.

Roiter with two hits out of four trips to the plate and C. Libka with two singles and a walk out of three times up for a perfect day, were the only players to get more than one hit for the champions. Gingerich with two singles and Newton with a triple and single were the heavy hitters for the visitors.
