Mrs. J. A. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. George Leslie, Mrs. Johanna Mills.

John A. Campbell, pioneer educator in Isosco county's present system of schools and highly esteemed resident of this city, died early Sunday morning at his residence here. He had been ill for several months. Cancer was the cause of death.

Funeral services for the deceased were held Tuesday afternoon from the Tawas City Baptist Church. Rev. Frank Metcalf and Rev. M. A. Sommerfeld officiated. In addition to relatives, a large number of friends and former pupils of the schools in which Mr. Campbell taught years ago were in attendance. The Tawas City schools, stores, postoffice and offices in the city and county buildings were closed during Tuesday afternoon as a mark of the respect in which he was held.

John A. Campbell was born July 26, 1868, in Oxford, Canada. He came to Michigan with his parents when a child. At an early age became a teacher and his first school was at Grindstone City. In later years he taught at Whittemore, Tawas City and Oscoda. In 1897 Mr. Campbell was elected County Commissioner of schools. This was only a few years after the office had been established by the legislature. Mr. Campbell held that office until he resigned in 1918. During Mr. Campbell's long distinguished service in the county schools as teacher and commissioner he was an inspiration to the young people and influenced them toward the higher and nobler things in life.

After his resignation as County Commissioner of schools the Campbell family removed to Minneapolis, Minnesota, where Mr. Campbell became a member of the advertising staff of the Minneapolis Tribune. Some time later he became associated with the Brown Real Estate company in New York City. During the past few years he has been a resident of Tawas City.

In 1899 he was united in marriage to Mae G. Moore at Tawas City. She survives him. He is also survived by one daughter, Mrs. Nyda Leslie, one sister, Mrs. Johanna Mills, of Whittemore, and one grandchild.

RAM TRUCK IN COUNTY NEXT WEDNESDAY

Flock Management Will Be Discussed at Reno Meeting

The Michigan Purebred Sheep-Breeders Association and College Animal Husbandry Extension Division ram truck meeting will be held at the Bentley Ranch on M-65 in Reno Township next Wednesday afternoon, October 19. The truck which will be carrying some 60 or 80 purebred rams of the popular Michigan breeds is scheduled to arrive for the Isosco meeting at 2 p. m., and will spend the balance of the day at this stop.

Our new Animal Husbandry Extension Specialist, E. L. Benton, will be in charge of the truck. He will discuss flock management practices which are proving successful under Michigan conditions and will assist farmers in selecting rams of a type which will cross well with Isosco flocks. According to Mr. Benton, rams of a low-down, blocky, thick-fleshed conformation with short neck, a wide masculine head, and with a dense, long-stapled fleece should be selected. This type of ram will assist in producing an early maturing lamb crop of high quality which is desired upon the market.

As in recent years, Bert Hoben, of the Michigan Livestock Exchange, Detroit, will be present to demonstrate lamb grading and to discuss marketing.

Sheep men, who are in hopes of buying a purebred ram, but who do not have cash available at this time, may secure credit through the Michigan Livestock Exchange and pay for the sheep when the lamb or wool crop is sold. Mr. Hoben will be in charge of this service also.

It is reported that rams will be selling a few dollars cheaper this year than they did during the last couple of years and farmers looking upon which they have reservation papers, will be able to trade them in on new rams from the truck.

Sheep men, in need of new stock, are encouraged by County Agent W. L. Finley to take the old ram under their arm and bring him to the meeting. He may be exchanged for an individual from the truck or perhaps to another farmer who has a good sire.

The regular meeting of the District Board of Health for District No. 2, was held at Gifford's Dining Room, East Tawas, on October 7. H. S. Karcher, chairman, presided at the business meeting which was held directly after the luncheon. Nine Board of Health members responded to roll call besides 26 other interested people.

It was moved and carried that the budget for 1939 be $700.00, $100.00 from Oscoda County and $200.00 each from Alcona, Isosco and Ogemaw counties.

Dr. Sue H. Thompson, director, District Health Unit No. 2, discussed the present work of the district, after which the nurses from the court took a brief description of their work. L. M. Lamont, sanitary inspector and Dr. Arthur F. Blossing, dentist, also gave short talks on their work and what they expect to accomplish next year.

After the business meeting L. H. Rhodes, of West Branch, showed some moving pictures of interesting places and scenes, which were taken by Dr. Thompson and himself.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—G. Ward Price, British war correspondent, who is Adolf Hitler's friend and supporter, and who has traveled, lunched, dined and visited with him off and on for years, is England's most authentic news source as to Der Fuehrer's plans. Lord Rothermere's paper, the London Daily Mail, which employs Mr. Price, has been scooping the ears of the other London sheets on Hitler's stories.

Mr. Price previously has related how he and Lord Rothermere were two of four guests at Mr. Hitler's first formal dinner party after he seized power. That was December 19, 1934. It was about this time that Lord Rothermere, reaching 80 per cent of the British reading public, through his newspapers and press associations, began his unceasing campaign for fascism in England. A third guest at the dinner was E. W. D. Tennant, of the Anglo-German fellowship, a fellowship which Lord Rothermere and Mr. Price have diligently fostered, with their Apologia Fascisma.

Mr. Price, educated at Cambridge university, is a seasoned and richly garlanded British war correspondent. As foreign correspondent of the Daily Mail, he was with the Turkish army in the first Balkan war; he was an official correspondent at the Dardanelles, he was with the British army at Salonika. He has long been a quasi-official reporter for the British empire. He writes concisely, clearly and expertly, with a keen alertness for revealing little human touches and with little concern for the dry imponderables of political or economic theory.

His book, "I Know These Dictators," published in this country last year, was, in the view of this writer, big news, and should have stirred up a lot of excitement. Principally about Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini, it builds out of intimately observed minutiae of their moods and persons a synthesis of virtue, charm and heroism.

Mr. Price, in this book, reports that Adolf Hitler is genteel, humorous, courageous, chivalrous, abstemious, profoundly intellectual, kindly, forgiving, unselfish, tender, a clever story-teller, and loves dogs and children.

DR. NORBERT WIENER challenges Milton, or Pope or whoever it was that observed, "Chaos umpire sits, and by decision more embroils the fray." At last, says this famous savant of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, scientists "can now predict what will happen in states of complete confusion."

As Dr. Wiener explains the new outreach of the calculus, at the fourth international congress for applied mechanics at Cambridge, it seems to clock everything, from a case of hiccoughs to Adolf Hitler, just so long as it is "pure" chaos and not a mere adulteration. That ought to let in most of Europe.

He read English at the age of three and Latin at five, and entered Tufts college at the age of 11, finishing in the class of 1910. He took his master's degree in 1912 and his doctor's in 1913, both at Harvard.

At the age of 19, he was an assistant professor at Harvard, lecturing on "The Theory of Knowledge." Dr. Wiener has kept on steadily gathering laurels in the groves of Academe.

EVENTS of the last few weeks have, of course, flushed many half-pint Hitlers in Europe, chief among them being young Leon Degrelle, of Belgium. Counted out last year, he now bounces back with some show of power; enough, at any rate, to make a martial stir of men and horse in Brussels, with word that he might start delivery on the "terror" which he has been promising for several years.

Thirty-two years old, of the type of a healthy and husky high-school lad, he is the best-looking of all the Hitler apprentices, and there's no knowing but that he might start the world's first great petitcoat putsch. Comely young women have flocked to his banner in shoals, and much of his support has come from women. He has both allure and showmanship and few of the stigmata of the paranoiac, unless it be his apparent determination to scare everybody to death.

He tried to seize Brussels in October, 1936, stirring up considerable violence. His party is the "Rexist." © Consolidated News Features. WNU Service.

Weekly News Review
France, England Friendless
In New World Power Lineup
By Joseph W. La Bine

Foreign

Since the notorious peace of Munich, almost every day has seen the stars of Great Britain and France descend to new lows, torn by dissension from within, heaped with ridicule from without. Hardly had Alfred Duff Cooper resigned from the British cabinet in protest against Prime Minister Chamberlain's "sell-out" before Winston Churchill arose in the house of commons to state his views. He prophesied that England will be dependent on German good will for its very existence. "We have sustained defeat without war, and the whole equilibrium of Europe has been changed," he summed up.

That Prime Minister Chamberlain agrees is shown by his insistence on a high-speed rearmament program, a move quite contradictory to his Anglo-German peace pact and his treaty with Italy. It is an admission tion that not even Mr. Chamberlain trusts Adolf Hitler or Benito Mussolini very far.

WINSTON CHURCHILL
He, among others, was ashamed.

Meanwhile, France has been quick to make peace with Italy by recognizing her conquest of Ethiopia. Her parliament, by overwhelmingly approving the Munich pact, agreed that no price was too high for peace even though it meant relegating France to the position of a second-rate power. But sorely-taxed Frenchmen want to know why they must pay for a huge army and navy that refuses to fight.

There are other signs, as well. The resignation of Czech President Eduard Benes in the face of growing public sentiment against weak-kneed democracies, indicates that Czechoslovakia is giving in to demands for co-operation with the Rome-Berlin axis. It is almost humorous to reflect that Great Britain has agreed to defend Czechoslovakia's integrity. Even more tragic is Chancellor Hitler's demand for reparations from Czechoslovakia, to be paid out of the $150,000,000 loan recently granted the Czechs by Great Britain.

With central Europe turned over completely to dictatorship, with Russia breaking her French alliance and crawling back into silence, France and Britain apparently stand alone, friendless, merely tolerated by her "friends"—Italy and Germany.

Taxation

Though campaigning politicians do not speak of it, next winter's congress will probably turn the income tax headache into a nightmare. With another federal deficit in prospect, with high income brackets already taxed to the limit, the solution will be a broadening of tax base on middle and low income groups, i. e., the man making less than $50,000 a year. Present exemptions are $1,000 for single persons, $2,500 for married persons, with $400 extra for each dependent under 18 years of age. If 2,067,736 persons filed 1935 returns on that basis, an estimated 8,400,000 would yield from $200,000,000 to $500,000,000 more under the proposed plan for reducing exemptions to $500 for single persons, $1,000 for married persons and $200 for dependents. Chief victims would be those now paying in the low income brackets, a prospect that bodes virtual political suicide for any congressman who favors the measure. Only alternative would be federal sales taxation, which "horrified" President Roosevelt when he first took office and has since been a dead issue.

Business

When President Roosevelt asked early this month that there be less "sabre rattling" by business and labor, instead of more co-operation to aid the almost-certain economic recovery, he gave business an opportunity to speak. The answer came from Charles R. Hook, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, whose slight rebuke that "encouragement from leaders in public life would help" was followed by a truly straightforward plea. Said he: "Manufacturers are extremely eager for a more co-operative attitude . . . Industrialists want to see a sound business recovery . . . Industry wants to see a higher income for every family . . . Industry does not want to see runaway prices . . . To help this recovery along, every group in this country can assist. Manufacturers, farm leaders, by using tolerance and patience . . . can do much to promote industrial peace and progress, which are essential to real recovery."

Labor

Chief result of the American Federation of Labor's Houston convention has been a widening of the breach between A. F. of L. and John Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization. Labor leaders have long harbored hope of bringing the two factions together; A. F. of L. made a gesture last winter, while David Dubinsky's International Ladies Garment Workers have long been on the fence, acting as mediator.

But when A. F. of L.'s William Green began throwing charges of "communism" at C. I. O., when he alleged further that two members of the Wagner labor relations board (Donald Wakefield Smith and Edwin S. Smith) were pro-C. I. O., the last hope for peace faded. As a result, C. I. O. has called its first constitutional convention at Pittsburgh November 14, when delegates from 42 international and national unions will meet with representatives of 180 industrial union councils. At that time, A. F. of L. may expect to be blasted in return.

Strangest feature of labor's war is that both factions remain loyal to President Roosevelt, who should have incurred A. F. of L.'s wrath by reappointing Donald Wakefield Smith to the labor board last month, and who should have made C. I. O. angry by consenting to changing the Wagner act next winter, on Mr. Green's request. Though Mr. Lewis has been conspicuously silent about the administration, Mr. Green has been quick to point out that C. I. O.'s constitutional convention is a rebuff to the President's moves for labor peace.

War

To the Japanese soldier clawing his way toward Hankow, the prospect has been discouraging. Even if he survives the stubborn, bloody Chinese resistance, even though he helps raise the Jap flag over Hankow, the war will not be over. Nip-pon has announced Hankow as the final objective, and it probably will be taken soon. But Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek insists his people will continue to resist.

CHINA'S CHIANG KAI-SHEK
"There can be no peace . . ."

His latest statement: "If Japan does not abandon aggression and withdraw her instruments of invasion, and if she does not restore China's territorial and administrative integrity, there can be no peace . . . The longer our armed resistance continues, the stronger will our determination grow."

General Chiang's prophecy is already fulfilled. Though Chinese have won no spectacular victories, Japan's drive up the Yangtze to Hankow has cost more casualties than any previous phase of the war. Every indication is that Japan will never control more than rivers, railroads and highways, that huge and lumbering China will eventually assimilate whatever permanent Japanese population is sent over to administer the conquered territory.

● Since "peace at any price" became Europe's watchword during the Czechoslovakian crisis, it is just possible the same watchword may be applied to Spain's civil war. In this imbroglio, where Germany and Italy have aided the strong Fascist cause of Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco, communistic Loyalist Spain has suffered repeated setbacks and now controls but a small area.

France, and especially England, have already made peace overtures to Italian Premier Benito Mussolini in the Spanish conflict. One proposed settlement is division of the peninsula into a democracy and dictatorship.

Observers think it entirely possible that Germany and Italy may force a sell-out of Loyalist Spain just as Czechoslovakia was sold out, that England and France may eventually agree to give Generalissimo Franco victory.

Domestic

Though the U. S. is a land of free press and speech, most Americans agree it is far from smart to let foreign agents operate untrammelled. Last winter, when agitation for an investigation of un-Americanism first came before congress, many a lawmaker wondered not only about un-American agents, but all foreign agents. Who are they? How do they operate? What are their aims? Upshot was a law requiring all "agents of foreign principals" to register with the state department by October 6. Though the deadline came and passed with thousands still left unregistered, the persuasive threat of prosecution is expected to bring results. Though the law has no teeth, its registration requirement will let Uncle Sam keep an eye on foreign agents, will help curb the growing spy danger.

● Regardless of who holds power when civil service is expanded, it will create furore in the minority ranks because present job-holders will be favored. On this assumption, a furore will come in Republican ranks February 1 when 81,000 Democratic workers in so-called emergency agencies are moved into civil service classification. Another 44,000 may be added later. This results from U. S. civil service commission approval of President Roosevelt's executive order last June, which asked expansion of the merit system. Undeniably a step in the right direction, February's change will be less meritorious than most civil service operations, since present job-holders need only take a non-competitive examination and get the recommendation of their superior officers.

Politics

To New York state voters, November's gubernatorial election will be a matter of choosing between two worthy men, once co-workers against crime, now political opponents through trick of circumstance. Odds appear to be growing that the Democratic Gov. Herbert H. Lehman will beat Manhattan's racket-busting District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, Republican nominee.

Merits for Dewey: An amazing record of fighting New York city's criminal element since he was appointed special prosecutor by Governor Lehman in 1935. Young (only 38 years old), handsome, a crusader, he nevertheless has little governmental background outside the court room.

Merits for Lehman: Almost 40 years' manufacturing and banking experience that have enabled him to run the Empire state on a business basis. He battled successfully against legislative opposition to his sweeping set of laws expediting criminal procedure, went on to wipe out a $100,000,000 deficit left by his predecessor, Franklin Roosevelt.

Dewey Support: New York state Republicans. He must win 250,000 votes which Lehman controlled in 1936, must also win the powerful labor vote which, though it helped elect him district attorney last year, is still Democratic.

Lehman support: New York state Democrats, who have controlled the governorship many years; New York city Jewry, because Lehman is Jewish; Tammany (what is left of it), because Tammany bitterly dislikes Tom Dewey for prosecuting its favorite son, Jimmy Hines; the American Labor party, because Lehman has endorsement of both A. F. of L. and C. I. O.

Since he must attack his strongest points, Candidate Dewey's first blast was against Tammany, which necessitated dragging Candidate Lehman into the picture. Unintentionally, said Mr. Dewey, the governor is "the good will advertising, the front man and window dressing for a thoroughly corrupt machine." Proud of his own anti-crime record, Governor Lehman answered he was "amazed" that the young district attorney would "abandon" his racket prosecution to enter governmental affairs in which he has "no real record of accomplishment."

CANDIDATE LEHMAN

What everyone knows is that Tom Dewey can have anything he wants from the Republican party, even the 1940 presidential nomination, if he wins. That is one reason Franklin Roosevelt was willing to patch up his quarrel with Governor Lehman, who opposed the Supreme court enlargement bill. It is also why New York's campaign is attracting national attention.

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Discusses Significance of Fruits and Vegetables; Tells the Truth About Canned Foods

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

A GENERATION ago, except in mid-summer, fruits were a luxury that only appeared, with nuts, at the end of a festive meal, and vegetables, except for the root crops, had no regular place in the daily diet. But when scientists established the importance of mineral salts in human nutrition, these two groups of foods assumed a position of commanding importance, because next to milk and eggs, they are the chief conveyors of minerals from the soil to man.

With the discovery of vitamins they achieved new distinction, because in their content of these vital substances, they rank with milk and eggs as "protective" foods.

Foods That Safeguard Health

In addition to providing nutrients that are indispensable for buoyant health and normal growth, they possess another important virtue: the indigestible cellulose or bulk yielded by the fibrous framework of the leaves, stems and fruits of plants, has a natural laxative value which helps to insure normal elimination. And finally, they are extremely useful in helping to maintain the acid-base balance of the body, for all vegetables and most fruits yield an alkaline-ash following digestion.

Green Vegetables for Iron

Fruits and vegetables supply varying amounts of practically every mineral element the body requires.

They do not compare with milk as a source of calcium, but substantial amounts of this bone-and-tooth-building substance are to be found in leaf and stem vegetables, carrots, oranges, figs and strawberries. Moreover, investigations have demonstrated that calcium from vegetables is well utilized by adults.

Green vegetables, in general, are outstanding as a source of iron. And it has been further established that their iron is better absorbed and becomes more completely available for nutrition than iron from some other sources.

Some fruits are also valued for their iron content, the more notable including oranges; tomatoes, which are botanically a fruit, though they are classed as a vegetable; strawberries, blackberries, raspberries and huckleberries; and dried figs, dates and prunes.

Vegetables for Vitamin A

We usually think of milk and other dairy products as our most important sources of vitamin A. But recently, it has been determined that the thin green leaves of vegetables are also outstanding in this respect. Weight for weight, when fresh, escarole is more than five times as rich as butter. Young green peas and green string beans are also a good source of this vitamin as are tomatoes, carrots, and sweet potatoes.

Sources of Vitamin C

Vitamin C, which is essential for maintaining the health of teeth and gums and for preventing the degeneration of muscle fibers generally, is obtained almost entirely from fruits and vegetables. The principal sources of this vitamin are the citrus fruits; raw and canned tomatoes and canned tomato juice; strawberries; raw carrots, onions and yellow turnips.

As this vitamin is easily destroyed by heat in the presence of oxygen, the amount present in any fruit or vegetable is greatly reduced by the average home cooking methods. On the other hand, this and other vitamins, as well as minerals, are usually well retained in commercially canned fruits and vegetables.

What About Canned Foods?

I frequently receive letters from readers who question the merits of canned foods. They ask whether it is true that canned foods are devoid of vitamins; whether canned foods are wholesome for children; whether or not canned foods may spoil on the grocer's shelves; and if it is dangerous to eat foods that have stood in the can for a few minutes after being opened.

To discount the value of modern canned foods is to display a lack of knowledge as to how these foods are harvested, prepared and packed. And the failure to use them may result in depriving your family of essential minerals and vitamins.

There are available in cans today, 46 varieties of vegetables, 33 kinds of fruit, and 10' different juices, besides soups, numerous specialties and several kinds of fish. Every one of these presents a healthful and nutritious food in a form that is often superior to the same foods cooked at home. That is partly because of the methods employed and partly because canned foods are processed at the peak of their flavor and freshness.

A Superlative Canned Food

An outstanding example is canned salmon which has been called by one of America's leading food experts, "the cheapest and most nutritious animal food that can be had for children over six."

Very little fresh salmon finds its way into our markets and even then it may be far from "fresh" after a considerable journey packed in ice. On the other hand, salmon canneries have been established in close proximity to the waters from which salmon are taken, so that only a few hours elapse between the time the fish are removed from the water and the moment their rich nourishment is sealed in cans.

Similarly the fruits and vegetables designed for canning are allowed to mature on tree or vine. This means that they develop maximum flavor and vitamin content. Then they are picked, rushed to nearby canneries and hermetically sealed in cans. The sealed cans are then cooked at high heat so as to destroy any bacteria which might be present. Because they are protected from the air during the cooking process, and because the cooking liquors are sealed in the cans, they retain a maximum amount of minerals and vitamins. It is because canned foods are so definitely superior in this respect that physicians encouraged the canning of strained fruits and vegetables for infants and young children.

Fallacies Disproved

Canned foods will keep indefinitely without spoilage, as long as nothing occurs to make the can leak. It is not necessary to remove canned food from the container as soon as the tin is opened, though many homemakers often do so because the food presents a more attractive appearance in a dish or bowl. A hissing sound when opening does not mean that the contents of a can are spoiled, but rather that there was a vacuum in the can, which the air is rushing in to fill.

Thus canned fruits and vegetables are not only "as good as" fresh ones, but are often superior in food value. Every homemaker should see to it that she uses both liberally in the diet of every member of her family, as a means of providing liberal amounts of minerals and vitamins.

Mrs. A. B. M.—There is not the slightest reason why a normal person should not drink coffee after middle age unless the beverage has been expressly forbidden by a doctor. On the contrary, many people find both coffee and tea extremely comforting in their later years.

AROUND the HOUSE Items of Interest to the Housewife

Children's Garments.—Children's clothing that is too heavy or improperly balanced may cause rounded or sloping shoulders, say child guidance experts.

Faulty Heels.—Wear a comfortable shoe in the house. Rounddown heels, or heels that are too high, cause fatigue and harm the feet.

Dishing Up Fish.—When baking fish, place a piece of clean muslin or cheese cloth in the bottom of the pan; then when fish is baked it can be lifted out of the pan and turned over on the serving plate without breaking.

See to Your Lighting.—The type of lighting used can change the entire effect of a room at night.

A Few Extra Winks.—If you are loath to get up in the mornings, you would be wise to prepare for breakfast just as many things as possible the night before.

Firmly Anchored Straps.—If the shoulder straps on slips are not anchored below the lace or trim on firm reinforced material, they are sure to pull out and perhaps ruin the slip entirely.

Uniform Sized Fruit.—If fruit is preserved either whole or cut into pieces, each one should be uniform in size, so they cook in the same length of time and look better in the jars or cans.

Kitchen Trash Basket.—Don't buy a straw or wooden trash basket for kitchen uses. Buy one made of metal, so that it can be washed and kept sanitary. Meat papers, cartons and other containers of food are so apt to spill some of the remains of their contents into the basket, and unless the basket can be washed, roaches and mice are bound to be attracted.

Breaking in New Shoes.—Sprinkle talcum powder into the new shoes. They will seem more comfortable when worn for the first time.

Quiet Nazareth

The gentle heart of the Holy Land, a pilgrim center for centuries, has scores of spots with hallowed memories. Except for a few buildings, the village of Nazareth is unchanged since the time of Christ. The streets are narrow and dark, but clean and even elegant—with a population mild and intelligent. Many sites are legendary, Mary's well at the foot of the hill, the carpenter shop of Joseph. Easy motor excursions go to the Sea of Galilee, so closely associated with Christ's wanderings along its shores. Trains run from there to Haifa, the port. The quiet, restful hills where He wandered are still full of natural peacefulness.

HEALTH

—By Dr. James W. Barton

MANY individuals are seeking the "ideal" laxative, something that will cause a bowel movement daily, that will not upset the stomach nor inflate the bowel. Many will search in vain because what will help one type of individual will not help, but perhaps harm, another because we are not all alike in our digestive systems. There are three types of individuals—the sluggish, the normal or active, and the overalot or overactive.

Most health writers advise the use of foods containing roughage or fiber, because the rough fiber by irritating or stimulating the muscles of the bowel cause the wastes to move downward through the bowel. There also appears to be some substance in the fibrous material (aside from its roughness) that stimulates bowel action. This stimulating action is helpful in the sluggish type of individual and also, to some extent, in the normal or active. In the high strung nervous or emotional individual, rough or fibrous foods must be avoided, or eaten sparingly.

Fiber Important.
For the sluggish and the normal individual some rough foods every day are advisable. Drs. John L. Kantor and Lenna F. Cooper, in Annals of Internal Medicine, tell of their study of the relative laxative value of typical fruits from the standpoint of their fiber value. They maintain that an adequate or necessary amount of fiber in the food is important in the dietetic or food treatment of constipation.

Fiber is supplied by three classes of foodstuffs—fruits, vegetables and cereals. Although prunes were found to be generally more laxative than apples or bananas, the apples and bananas proved more effective in some cases.

"In the selection of fibrous foods, only bland articles should be used in the beginning of the treatment because rough foodstuffs may irritate the bowel and cause spasms." As an example of the amount of fibrous food the average individual troubled with constipation should eat daily, it is suggested that in addition to the usual three or four vegetables and the usual cereals, about six prunes, one banana and one medium-sized apple should be eaten.

Underweight Child Presents Problem

The youngster may be returning to school after holidays spent outdoors and despite his improved appetite and eating more food, there has been little or no gain in weight. This is naturally discouraging to parents of underweight children. If the youngster has spent his vacation in a boys' camp with the swimming, hiking, rowing and paddling, there may be an actual decrease in weight but an increased firmness of muscles.

However, younger children just reaching school age should be gradually increasing in weight; if not, parents should try to find the reason. It will be found in some cases that there are infected teeth and tonsils and these conditions should be corrected before the child begins school after the holidays. In an attempt to increase the weight of the youngster some parents try to force him to eat more food which may be helpful in some cases but is more often harmful.

In speaking of the underweight child Dr. Henry Dietrich, in Southwestern Medicine, says that the average underweight child should not be put to bed and given forced feedings nor should he be treated with gland extracts.

"I refer now to the child who is mentally and physically more active than the average, usually with no infection or physical defects, who is somewhat underweight, fails to gain at the proper rate, and eats poorly. The parents, friends, and sometimes the physician decide that the child needs a tonic. In such a case we must learn of the activities the child must carry on each day. How much time does it spend at school, how much at play, what activities does it have outside of school, what is its total amount of sleep?"

Sleep Important.

Fatigue—tiredness—occupies an important place in the complaints of childhood. From 10 to 11 hours of sleep are necessary for the school child, and for children up to six years a noon-day nap of 1½ hours is necessary.

The thought then with the youngster who thinks and acts faster than the average is that his underweight may be due to overactivity—tiredness. The treatment is not more food but more rest and sleep, as suggested by Dr. Dietrich.

It Must Be Admitted Waiter Was Not Tactful

The customer was raging and fuming as the manager came up. "What is the matter, sir?" asked the manager. "Discharge that waiter at once!" demanded the diner. Regarding the boiled egg which had been served, the manager said:

"I'm very sorry about this egg, sir, but I can't discharge the waiter for that. After all, he wasn't to know that there was a chicken in it."

"Perhaps not," snapped the customer. "But when I told him there was, he needn't have taken away my spoon and brought me a knife and fork."

Norse Seamen

Hardy, indeed, are Norway's seamen. Though Norway ranks but forty-seventh in population among the major nations, her merchant marine is fourth largest in the world. Since the days of the Vikings, Norwegian seamen have specialized in long ocean trips. Even today they carry most of the cargoes from America's Gulf states to Europe.

In the days of sailing ships, too, Norwegian skippers began taking their families to sea because ocean voyages took many months. The sailors' superstition that women are bad luck to a ship, never bothered them.

'Hill-Climbing' Boats

A unique steamship service operates between the East Prussian towns of Elbing and Deutsch Eylau, a distance of 40 miles. Part of the trip is made on a canal and part on a railroad, whose specially designed trucks pick up the little vessels and quickly carry them over four long hills. These "hill-climbing boats" have rendered unnecessary the construction of 20 locks.—Collier's Weekly.

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. SYNOPSIS

Barbara Sentry, seeking to sober up her escort, Johnnie Boyd, on the way home from a party, slaps him, and attracts the attention of a policeman, whom the boy knocks down. As he arrests him, Professor Brace of Harvard comes to the rescue and drives Barbara home. On the way they see Barbara's father driving from the direction of his office at 12:45, but when he gets home he tells his wife it is 11:15 and that he's been playing bridge at the club. Next day Sentry reports his office has been robbed and a Miss Wines, former temporary employee, killed. The evening papers luridly confirm the story, and Sentry takes it hard. Mary, elder daughter, in love with Neil Ray, young interne at the hospital where she works, goes off to dinner at Gus Loran's. Sentry's partner, with Mrs. Loran's brother, Jimmy Endie, Mr. and Mrs. Sentry call on old Mrs. Sentry, and Barbara, alone, receives Dan Fisher, reporter, who advises her not to talk. Phil Sentry, son at Yale, is disturbed at the possible implications and suspicion of Miss Wines' absence from her rooms for three days during August. He goes home to help Sentry, is arrested and booked for murder. Dan Fisher explains the evidence against him—that the robbery was a fake, the safe opened by one who knew the combination, changed since Miss Wines' employment there—that a back door key, a duplicate of Sentry's, was found in the girl's purse, and that Sentry, too, had been away those three days in August. Brace calls, and backs up Barbara in her denial that Sentry could have done it, because of the discrepancy of time between the slaying and their seeing Sentry on the road. Phil, showing the police over the house, finds his strong box forced open and his gun, which only his father knew of, gone.

Irons looked at him for a moment soberly. Then he took Phil's arm. "Steady, Mr. Sentry," he said. "The folks upstairs will need all you've got."

Phil said chokingly, "Damn you, what is it?"

"Somebody's burned a lot of money in the furnace," the Inspector told him. "You can still read the printing on the ashes of some of the bills."

"What of it?" Phil insisted.

"And there's an envelope, a long one, only half burned, with the firm name on it. Sentry and Loran. Whoever tried to burn it was in a hurry, didn't finish the job."

Phil protested, "But I don't see—"

Irons said quietly: "Someone took some money out of your father's safe, Thursday night. We've been wondering what they did with it. Where it had gone."

For the rest of that day, Phil was like a man dazed by an actual physical blow. He had, till he saw that rifled metal box in the recess under the window seat, not even contemplated the possibility of his father's guilt. That possibility had been, perhaps, in the back of his mind; but he had not faced it. His faculties had been concentrated upon the fact of Mr. Sentry's arrest, with all the terrors that arrest implied; and upon the fact that his sisters, his mother, his grandmother looked to him now for strength and heartening.

He felt himself young and futile and inadequate to the task imposed; he tried to grow in a moment from an irresponsible boy into the man the situation demanded. He thought more of them than of his father till, looking over the Inspector's shoulder, seeing the metal box that had been forced open, remembering what it had contained, remembering that Miss Wines had been shot, he heard himself lying by instinct, blindly, clumsily. And he saw a moment later that the Inspector knew he had lied; and while panic filled him, Sergeant Kane appeared and led them to the cellar—where worse appeared.

Someone had stolen his gun, and none but his father knew where it was! Someone had burned money in the furnace, and none but his father could have done that! And Inspector Irons had felt this evidence to be conclusive. That certainty was clear in the older man's eyes, plain for Phil to read.

The Inspector's sureness, more than his own senses, convinced Phil; drove home to him the shattering realization. His father was a murderer.

Phil might have been proud of his bearing that morning. When he and Inspector Irons came up from the cellar, Oscar spoke to him, said Mrs. Sentry would like him to drive her to town to see Mr. Sentry; and Phil said, "Right!" He could not for a moment face his mother; so he called to her from the hall, "I'll bring the car around."

He went to do so, brought the small car, the one his father always drove. At the front door he blew his horn; and his mother and Barbara presently came out, and Barbara kissed Mrs. Sentry, hugged her tight.

"Give father a big kiss for me," she directed. "Tell him I love him and I think he's grand and I'll come see him tomorrow sure!" And she called to Phil, "Drive carefully!"

Phil tried his voice, and its very familiarity was reassuring. That at least was unchanged. He had thought the world was changed.

"Sure," he promised; and as his mother got in beside him, "All right, mother?"

She pulled the door shut. "Mr. Hare said to come to his office, Phil," she directed.

And Phil got the car under way; and he told her how much seeing her would cheer his father. "You're always so strong and steady and sure," he said. "Ever since I was a youngster, it always made me feel better to come dump my troubles in your lap. All of us."

He talked so much about her and about his father that it did not occur to her to think of Phil himself. Her thoughts already cast forward to the interview that lay ahead. She dreaded it so terribly; yet it must be faced, must be gone through.

When after a dazed half hour of preliminaries she found herself waiting for Arthur to be brought to her, she looked at her surroundings with an almost impersonal curiosity. They seemed to her hideous; a small room, a table, two chairs. A grill of slender bars at the one window, a smell of disinfectants. . . . She was to see Arthur alone; but the door would be open, and an officer in a position to watch them through the open door. It did not occur to her that the District Attorney's old friendship for Arthur had led him to permit her unusual consideration. Dean Hare had warned her they would be watched; she thought this hard enough.

Arthur came in. A man walked up this morning," she assented, "just to say we could count on them in every way."

"He's all right."

"I'd like him better if Mrs. Loran were nicer. She and I don't speak the same language. You heard Mary tell how she behaved the other night, at that dinner when Mr. Loran wasn't there. As if she were a burlesque actress, Mary said."

"Mary always hated Gus. He used to kiss her and Barbara whenever he saw them when they were youngsters, and Mary always hated to be kissed. Gus did it to tease her, as much as anything." He added, after a moment: "I expect Mary takes it—all this—pretty hard. She's the sort who would."

She confessed: "I think she's worried about what Neil Ray's attitude will be. He's rather a—prig. But Mary loves him."

"It will all clear up in a few days," he predicted.

"I hope so." She spoke after a moment, in a tone curiously humble. "But Arthur—I think we have to be honest with each other. I know what time you came home." He stared at her; and she saw his cheek drawn and pale. She said: "It was quarter of one."

After a long while he spoke, very slowly, in a low tone. He said: "Yes, Ellen. It was quarter of one, half-past twelve, about that, anywretchedly. "She was—she lay there—I don't know how she got there, Ellen, or who killed her. I lost my head. I ought to have called the police, but I was afraid to. I left her there, went home. I thought if no one saw me—"

She said, gently: "You always were afraid of things, Arthur. You found her there dead?"

"Yes."

"Just—lying there?"

"There was someone with her. A man. They had robbed the safe, taken the money. He ran past me in the dark as I came up the stairs." And he said again, in a helpless resignation: "Barbara must tell them the truth if they ask her. None of you must lie." He made a bitter gesture. "It will be hard enough to make them believe the truth—that I lost my head, ran away, left her there."

Mrs. Sentry said: "Barbara has already told them. She told Mr. Flood."

"Told—Already?" He was white.

"She thought that if Miss Wines was really killed at about one, as the papers said, you couldn't have done it. So she told him you were at home before that, to prove to him that you didn't do it."

"Miss Wines was killed about twelve o'clock," he said, half to himself.

"How do you know?"

He stared at her. "She was killed before that," he amended suddenly. "Before I got there. Bob Flood knows—" He rose in haste. "You'd better go, Ellen," he said. "Tell Dean Hare I must see him right away. You see, I've told them, up to now, that I was at home at eleven fifteen. I hoped I could—lie out of it. But now I may have to tell them the truth."

She rose to face him; she asked softly, "You didn't kill her, Arthur?"

"Of course not! Ellen, don't you believe—"

"You can tell me!"

He hesitated. He said then, in a quickly mustered anger, "I told you, I didn't!" But she had felt his hesitation; she watched him pitifully, and he cried: "What are you waiting for? Go on. Tell Dean Hare—"

And she said, submitting: "Very well, Arthur, I'll tell Dean. I'll do whatever you say."

He turned abruptly toward the door. The policeman came to meet him. She thought he went away almost eagerly, as though glad to escape the question in her eyes.

She waited for a while after he had gone, in that hideous little room, fighting for self-control. Arthur's hesitation had been like confession. His mustered anger at her insistence had been eloquent. She knew now surely that he was guilty. She faced the future, dazed, feeling nothing. A dreadful time, a lifetime that must be endured.

She thought, almost amused: I've always been so proud. And she remembered something she had said to Arthur long ago, something about a scandal. I could not forgive a scandal, she had warned him then.

There was no question of forgiveness now. Too late for that. Just, somehow, to endure, to live.

But Arthur had given her a message for Dean Hare, wished to see Dean right away. And—Phil was waiting for her. She rose and moved.

In the car, Phil asked, "Well, how is he?"

"Oh, he's fine," she said. "Don't worry, Phil, he's fine!" Whatever her own certainty, the children need not know.

"Mr. Hare Said to Come to His Office, Phil."

beside him, stopped with him in the doorway, and she heard the click of metal. But she heard it at a great distance, all her senses concentrated in her eyes.

He was so little changed! Except perhaps that he seemed tired, and that his eyes were inflamed, he was not changed at all. Yet he had been gone so long. She tried to remember how long, and realized incredulously that it was no more than a matter of hours.

He came toward her, rubbing his wrist with his hand. He stopped, facing her. He said, from a little distance: "Well, Ellen! I'm glad you came."

She said: "We must sit down, Dean says, with the table between us, and our hands in sight. On the table, perhaps."

He nodded. "They have to be careful, I suppose." They sat down; and he said, "How are the children, all right?"

"We're—distressed, of course. The policeman is watching us, Arthur."

"I suppose so." His eyes held hers. He said: "Ellen—I'd have done anything possible—spare you all this. The whole thing is so—unbelievable. Just a series of miraculous coincidences."

"It is incredible, yes."

"Of course, it will straighten out in a day or two. I had nothing to do with that girl, Ellen. But you know that, of course."

"You've told them so?"

"Of course. Why, Ellen, they say themselves that she was killed about one o'clock. I was home long before that." She felt, almost to her own surprise, a deep compassion in her heart. He said urgently: "You know that, yourself. You were awake when I came home."

She hesitated. "No, Arthur," she amended, "I wasn't awake. I woke up, asked you what time it was."

"Well, I told you. It was quarter past eleven."

She tried to speak, but her throat was tight. He tapped the table between them with his fingertips.

"Good of you to come," he repeated, and he said: "Gus came last night, late. He came over from New York on the five o'clock and saw an extra at the station, and hurried right up here. It helped to see him. You feel pretty much a pariah, in jail, you know."

Mrs. Sentry smiled dutifully at the feeble humor. "He called me way." He asked, "How did you know?"

"Barbara saw you."

"Barbara?" Sudden panic in the word.

"Yes." His eyes were flickering with rapid thought. His fists clenched on the table; he lifted one and lowered it again, and sweat was on his brow.

"I hoped no one saw me," he admitted. "Barbara?" She did not speak; and he said at last, hopelessly: "Well, if they ask her, she must tell them. None of you must lie, Ellen. Tell them the truth."

"Tell me the truth, Arthur," she pleaded.

"I had nothing to do with the girl, Ellen! I didn't—murder her!"

She asked no question; and after a moment he went on, hurriedly: "This is what happened. I went to the office, after the bridge game broke up, to get that coffee-pot of yours. I'd forgotten it when I left in the afternoon." His lips twisted

Marble Floor of Library of Congress Given Care Equal to That of Costly Gem

People think they take good care of their biggest diamond ring. The chances are ten to one they take less care of it than the Library of Congress takes with its floors. People wash their rings in any soap, and bump them against metal objects. There is no such "rough stuff" with the classically beautiful marble floors in the Library of Congress.

Those floors cannot even be scrubbed with a mop, for fear of the metal pails chipping the edges of the marble slabs, according to W. C. Bond, superintendent of the building. Instead, a corps of char-women each night goes over the shining marble with soft cloths, scrubbing the stone with painstaking care, writes a United Press correspondent in the Chicago Daily News.

Not only that, but no soaps or washing powders touch the floor until they are thoroughly tested by the bureau of standards to determine that they contain no abrasives such as sand, which would scratch the finely polished surfaces.

Before the bureau of standards was established, the library force used to take a piece of marble and soak it in a solution of soap to determine if the soap contained acids.

"The acids might stain the marble," Bond explained.

"The marble is priceless," he said. "I would not estimate what it would cost to replace it. For instance, we have two mantelpieces. They cost about $3,300 originally. But you can't get that kind of marble now. It has been said they are worth many thousands of dollars."

Bond has just one trouble—he can't stop a person who has metal heelplates, and he lives in constant fear that the scraping of metal plates will chip the marble.

But he has taken some precautions. When a person carries a cane into the library, he must check it, and the library gives him another which is shod with a rubber tip. If he carries an umbrella, he must check that. No tapping on the marble flags with metal.

Shave Hindu Boy's Head

Between the ages of nine and twelve the orthodox Hindu boy has his head shaved, leaving a small strand of hair on top. He is then invested with the sacred thread and thus formally admitted into the practice of Hinduism.

Lesson for October 16

REVERENCE FOR GOD

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:7; Matthew 5:33-37; 12:33-37. GOLDEN TEXT—Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name.—Matthew 6:9.

Character reveals itself through the words and deeds of a man. He may try to conceal his real spiritual condition and may assume an outward appearance of piety but he need not say many words, nor meet many of life's problems, before his true condition is revealed.

Our lesson for today touches primarily on the matter of the words of men, presenting first God's command that in speaking we are to show reverence for His name, and then leading up to the expression of that reverence in abstinence from swearing and from idle talk.

I. Reverence Commanded (Exod. 20:7).

The forbidden thing is the taking of the name of the Lord "in vain." Our use of the word "vain" carries the meaning of "useless, without purpose or meaning." This is part of what is in mind in this commandment, for the name of Jehovah is sacred and is to be revered as standing for the eternal God. It is never to be used carelessly, or for a frivolous purpose. All too often we tell jokes or stories which have no real purpose or meaning except to elicit a laugh and in them we use the name of God. We all need to exercise care at that point.

The Hebrew word translated "vain" has the additional meaning of "evil" and "falsehood." Men are so bold that they may even use the name of God to support themselves in a lie. God hears and will in no wise hold them guiltless.

II. Swearing Forbidden (Matt. 5:33-37).

The Sermon on the Mount (so-called), from which this portion of Scripture is taken, is difficult to interpret to the satisfaction of all. Some disregard its evident application to the kingdom and, attempting to apply it in the midst of an ungodly generation, fall into such inconsistency that they abandon the effort and regard the teaching of the passage as impossible idealism. Others, who rightly interpret the passage as presenting the laws and principles of life in the kingdom of God when it shall be fully set up on earth with Jesus as King, fail to make any application of those principles to the life of those who are now living in this world—though not of it—but rather have their citizenship in heaven. This is also an unfortunate error.

We who follow the Lord Jesus are not to swear by either things sacred or things that might be called secular. Perhaps He has in mind that our lives should be so true that men will not need to have any kind of an oath to be assured of our sincerity and honesty. Some believe that all oaths even in court are forbidden, while others, with due respect for the feelings of those who hold this view, regard the taking of oaths in official matters as not being in mind. All would agree that the careless and almost sacrilegious use of God's name in administering oaths would be taking His name in vain.

Swearing is also entirely beyond the pale with Christian men and women. It is all too common with both men and women. A great church has organized a "Holy Name Society" to keep its members from using the name of the Lord in profanity. What a telling comment on the times in which we live!

III. Judgment Assured (Matt. 12:33-37).

Jesus had cast out a demon who had possessed a man and made him blind and dumb. The Pharisees could not deny the miracle but attributed it to the power of Beelzebub, prince of the demons. Jesus closed their mouths by pointing out that Satan did not work against himself, and went on to speak solemn words regarding their and our responsibility for what we say.

A day of judgment is coming, when we shall answer for the idle and wicked words which we speak. While we would not bring condemnation upon those who indulge in the innocent pleasantries of life by making too severe an application of these words, neither should we destroy their evident import by failing to apply them to our daily conversation. One need but listen to the casual small talk of men and women in public places to realize that we need to give attention to the matter of elevating not only the conversation of others but our own as well to a nobler and more helpful level. Surely Christians should speak for the glory of God on every occasion and in each circumstance of life.

The way to accomplish this worthy purpose, and the only way, is to have the heart and life filled with the good treasure of God's Word, for verily out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. What do your words and mine indicate to others regarding what is in our hearts?

Find Rich Gold Vein in Canada

Prospectors Are Enthusiastic Over Discovery Made at Nameless Lake.

YELLOWKNIFE, N. W. T.—A gold strike that may rank among the greatest in Canada's mining history has been made on a nameless lake 30 miles west of here.

The new gold field was discovered by Fred W. Thompson and Roy Lundmark, veteran Ontario prospectors, and many claims have been staked.

In describing the discovery, Thompson said he has been "all over Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba, but has not seen anything to compare with this."

Makes Find From Plane.

Thompson made his original discovery from an airplane while flying over a desolate area of rock.

"I first saw veins from the air about six weeks ago," he said, "and had been trying to get over here ever since. Norbert Miller, the pilot, brought Lundmark and me and put us down on this lake. We made a traverse, and two hours after we landed we found free gold a quarter of a mile from the lake, in one of three parallel veins each about five feet wide.

"We started staking right away in the course of staking we ran onto a number of other veins which panned. Since that time we have been averaging one discovery a day, either high-grade gold or rock which pans."

Thompson, who was born in Croydon, England, and served six years in the British navy, started prospecting in Canada in 1908.

Rich Vein on Island.

Most important of the veins uncovered so far by Thompson is on what he calls "Treasure Island," a patch of rock and muskeg, surrounded by waters of the nameless lake, where a 35-foot-wide quartz vein lies exposed for 60 feet, and free gold gleams under two feet of water where lake slime has been scrubbed away.

On another near-by island, separated from Treasure island by a 50-foot narrows, the continuation of the wide vein yields even richer gold samples, it was said.

Colin S. Johnston, Toronto engineer who examined the scene of the strike, said that the discovery "assured the future of the Yellowknife area."

"This is a great day for the Northwest Territories and all Canada," he said. "It is the most significant turn that the whole Yellowknife rush has taken. It means that there is a fertile field for prospecting in all the metasediment belts which were hitherto shunned."

New Type of Diving Suit Is Given Double Sheath

SYDNEY.—A new diving suit, which may revolutionize present methods of deep-sea diving, will be used in an attempt to salvage the cargo of the steamer Cumberland.

The wreck, with its cargo of metal valued at $200,000, lies at a depth of 47 fathoms off the coast of New South Wales. The ship struck a mine in 1917 while on the way to England with copper, iron and zinc for British munitions.

Navy officials who have been testing the new diving suit, the invention of E. R. Clifford of Sydney, believe that it will permit diving operations at such a great depth, owing to its novel construction. It is built in two compartments, the outer of which is subjected to air pressure, while the inner contains air at normal surface pressure.

In old type of diving suits paralysis often resulted from the pressure of the air that had been forced in in order to resist the water.

328 Varieties of Birds Discovered in Michigan

ANN ARBOR.—A new check list of bird species found in Michigan, prepared by Prof. Joselyn Van Tyne, curator of birds at the University of Michigan museum, shows more than 328 varieties of birds found within the state. Of these, 199 are known to nest in Michigan.

Pointing out that the list does not claim to be complete, Professor Van Tyne said that the museum is soliciting records, authenticated by specimens wherever possible, to correct and supplement present information on Michigan birds.

Big Freeze Declared Due in 71,799 Years

MIAMI.—After two years of research, Professor Hirsch Yankelwitz, formerly of the Institute of Technology of St. Petersburg university, declares that the earth will freeze into a solid ball in 71,799 years.

It's all a question of determining when the volcanic fires, which give life and vegetation, will burn out, he declares. He reaches his figure by comparing the dimensions of the earth, Mars and the moon, freezing three spheres of relative size, letting them form a coating of ice and then measuring the amount of moisture.

A big man is John J. Sheehy, principal keeper at Sing Sing prison, who has been in the service of the state for 25 years. He's 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 318 pounds. His hands are in keeping with his size and weight. They have been compared to hams. Also to pile drivers. As principal keeper, Sheehy's duties are equivalent to those of chief of police of a small city. But no police chief in a city small or large has to handle a population equivalent in toughness to that which constitutes Sheehy's domain. In those 25 years of service he has come into exceedingly close contact with more than 30,000 criminals varying from petty thieves to men so desperate that they would stop at nothing. In all those years and with all those associations, he has never had to use a weapon. Perhaps the size of his fists has had something to do with that.

One of the duties of the principal keeper—known through the prison as "P.K." or "Dep"—is to start condemned men to the electric chair. Sheehy hates that task since he hates electrocutions. Yet he has traveled that last mile with more than 300 persons. That's held to be a world's record. But while leading men to their death is bad, leading women along that short, grim journey is even worse. Yet that too is a part of the duties of Sing Sing's principal keeper. In the last quarter of a century, Sheehy has walked the way of death with four women, Mrs. Ruth Snyder, Mrs. Anna Antonio, Mrs. Eva Coo and Mrs. Mary Creighton. The four had taken human lives. Nevertheless, the giant Sheehy flinched at the task the law said was his—but went through with it.

Turning to a more cheerful topic, there is Roy Moulton, managing director of the Hotel Piccadilly who is the unofficial postmaster of just about all the radio musicians of the country. Each week he receives hundreds of letters addressed, "In care of Roy Moulton" and each one of these letters reaches its proper destination. It started back in 1929 when Mr. Moulton was manager of another New York hotel. Dan Gold, Mt. Carmel, Pa., a friend, wrote that he would like to get in touch with a certain sax player and enclosed a letter for him. As Moulton knows the whereabouts of hundreds of musicians, the letter reached its destination the next day. A Broadway columnist picked up the story and thus Moulton became the musician's postmaster.

Musicians having made their entrance, there is Kay Kyser who has a record unique for these days of constant reshuffling of bandsmen and singers. Half of his aggregation has been with him since his college days and one of them, Sully Mason, singer, has been with him 11½ years, having been the first man hired by Kyser. His arranger, George Duning, is another "original" with almost as many years to his credit. He has done all Kay's arranging for five years. Previous to that he played a trumpet in the orchestra.

Next comes Lucille Manners, who has discovered an autograph seeker who is willing to indulge in a bit of bribery to obtain a flock of signatures of celebrities without personal contact. The autograph hunter is a Harlem laundress and her proposition was to do Miss Manners' laundry free in exchange for five signatures weekly of stage, screen and radio stars.

Now Billy House, corpulent comedian, who is also a song writer. Unable to play any musical instrument, he writes his lyrics, then devises a tune to go with them by beating out a rhythm on a table top and singing the words. He repeats the tune until he has memorized it. All the songs and verses he uses in his show are original. And I started with Sing Sing and end up singing.

Ancient Spanish Fort in Puerto Rico Is Torn Down

SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO.—Picks and shovels of 7,000 WPA workers have succeeded in doing what the cannons of Sir Francis Drake, the Dutch and pirates tried in vain to do for centuries. It took a labor army to batter down the fortification of El Morro, formidable sixteenth century fort at the entrance to San Juan harbor, for the first time in its long history.

Working under the direction of officers of the Sixty-fifth U. S. Infantry the labor army has torn down several hundred feet of the massive battlements which rise in some places 100 feet over the sea and are 10 to 30 feet thick. The work is being done with an appropriation of $873,000 from the war department to restore the ancient forts which surround this old city on the Spanish Main.

In addition to the seawall at El Morro, the relief funds allocated to the work are being spent to restore ancient sentry boxes atop the battlements; repair military roads, hospitals, and officers' and enlisted men's quarters within the walls of the fort. An ancient monastery and subterranean tunnels are also coming in for attention.

THE EXPLANATION

Chief—Do you believe in life after death?
Office Boy—Yes, sir.
Chief—Then everything is in order. After you had gone off for the afternoon yesterday to bury your grandfather, he came in here to see you.—Stray Stories magazine.

Getting Tired

"Is your daughter improving in her music?"
"No. But the next best thing is happening. She's getting tired of it!"

Manager (pointing to cigarette end on floor)—Smith, is this yours?
Smith (pleasantly)—Not at all, sir. You saw it first.

School Notes
HIGH SCHOOL
The first meeting of the local Parent-Teacher Association will be held at the school building Thursday evening, October 20, at eight o'clock. The president of the district, Mrs. E. J. Mier of Bay City, will be present, and it is expected that she will bring other Parent-Teacher leaders with her. Refreshments will be served. A good sized attendance is especially desired for the meeting.
Many of the high school boys are learning a comparatively new game, six-man football. This is a variation of the regular game which is thought to be more suitable for small high schools than the eleven man game. Two new footballs have been purchased and they are in use much of the time during the noon period and after school at night.

Friday the seventh the Freshman class was formally initiated. Did I say formally? The garb that some wore was ultra-informal!
The Freshman class has just begun the study of Stevenson's "Treasure Island." They have also been studying the recognition of sentences and gerund and infinitive phrases.
Last Tuesday a contest was given in the form of jumbled up words of a given number of sentences. Frank Mark was the first one to finish.
Physics class has started laboratory work. Accuracy and not speed is required for this work.
The English 2 class is studying the origin of words and various levels of English such as colloquial, literary, slang, technical and dialectal. The English 4 class has just finished the study of Shakespeare's "Macbeth" and also the memorization of a few famous passages from the tragedy.
The band has been "beating it out" on some new music and the results appear to be a real "jam session."
Whacking the marble desk with the gavel, let us turn to the business angle. Marguerite McLean and Norma Musolf have been grabbing fall the spare change from band members. The reason? Why they are all making big plans to attend the Illinois-Michigan football game in Ann Arbor on the 29th of this month. Brother, can you spare a dime?
The girls glee club took a peep at some new music. The numbers include "Sylvia," "The Rosary" and "Slumber Boat." All of these numbers are effective for concert work. They are planning to learn how to sing these pieces so as to bring tear drops and smiles from our audience. Marguerite McLean is the official key-board artist for the group. She has the responsibility of the piano work in both the glee club and the trio.
Oh yes, we have a girls trio composed of Janet McLean, Norma Musolf and Lyda Moore. Big things are expected of these girls and they hope to go places and do things.
We have received a communication from the Department of Public Instruction to the effect that the sum of $28,000,000 which had been appropriated by the legislature of 1937 for the aid of the Michigan schools for the present school year has been reduced to $19,500,000. The department also informed us that this state reduction will reduce the amount of state aid to the Tawas City Public Schools from $7,983.11 to $4,789.86. This is a reduction of $3,193.25, or a reduction of 40%. As the amount of state aid as originally voted by the legislature was generally conceded to be the minimum amount required for the successful operation of the schools of the state, this 40% cut causes the local schools, and most of the other schools of Michigan, to be in a precarious financial situation.
SEVENTH and EIGHTH GRADES
Those in the seventh grade having at least a "B" grade in all subjects for the past month were; Maxine Depoty and Hugo Wegner. In the eighth grade Ruth Giddings shared the honors with Betty Nelson.
During the past month the following were neither absent nor tardy: Leland Britting, Richard Clark, Maxine Depoty, Clifford Groff, Roy Landon, Perry Leitch, Linda Lou Libka, Neil Libka, Willard Musolf, Harry Rollin, George Smith, John Smith, Agnes Toms, Hugo Wegner, John Chevalier, Martin Cunniff, Ruth Giddings, Charlotte Hughes, Jeanette Kopeke, Lyle Hughes, Carl Luce, William Musolf, Betty Nelson, Marie Ulman and Herbert Ziehl.
THIRD and FOURTH GRADES
The fourth grade people are now studying about Indians. They are making Indian booklets and weaving Indian blankets.
The fourth graders made a Columbus poster Monday.
Donald Britting was the winner in a spelling contest last Friday.
Darleen Barriger was a visitor on Wednesday.
PRIMARY
Thorald Curry brought us a plant. It is a pink geranium.
Perfect attendance for the month of September included the following: Beginners; Wanda Fowler, Gloria Howe, Bruce Leslie, James Misner, Delano Myles, Janet Ogden, Harry Toms, Nelson Ulman. First grade; Shirley Boomer, Stanley Brown, Thorald Curry, Arlene Monroe and Bruce Myles. Second grade; Bobby Brown, Elgin Hill, Truman Howe, Russell Monroe, Louis Pfeiffer, Corrie Lee Rutterbush, Billy Ward.
