Chamber of Commerce Chairman Says Gymn Would Benefit City

Once again a jar is being applied to the citizens of Tawas City, which will set into motion their combined efforts to make one more step toward their ultimate goal—"The Finest and Most Complete Little City in the Country."

This city might be comparable to a supply of high explosives—more than sufficient energy to accomplish any given job—but needing a jar to bring about a reaction. However, after the jar has been applied in the past, the resulting reaction has been controlled and led into channels most beneficial to all the citizens.

To illustrate this we might consider two jars which brought about major reactions in the past decade; the first one for consideration being that of the Sanitary Sewer System, and the second one for consideration being that of the Water Works. In each case the jar was first applied to the Tawas City Chamber of Commerce, by our then, Mayor, A. rather stormy reaction was first had, but it soon settled down into the futherance and completion of the two best systems that money could buy, and with little or no additional tax on the individual citizen. In fact, the Water Works Board was not only able to make the regular yearly payment on the bonds last year, but it assumed a portion of the general city tax load, and in the future will be able to assume even a greater portion thereof. We can't say quite so much for the Sanitary Sewer System as it can realize no cash returns, but it has proven so economical in operation that it has not been necessary to add to the city taxes to provide for its upkeep. Merely a small quarterly fee, which would not represent even a fair return on the amount invested in a private disposal system, has been levied, and that only against those receiving a direct benefit therefrom.

The new jar that we are now being subjected to is in the form of a proposal by the School Board for a new gymnasium in connection with our school. This is not an absolute necessity to 'live in Tawas City, any more than the Sewer and Water Systems, but the citizens will realize many benefits therefrom, and it should receive the combined support of every one. The cost of the project is to be spread over a number of years, and (Turn to No. 1, back page)

BAPTIST MEET AT HEMLOCK CHURCH JAN. 25

Kiowa Indian Interpreter and Dr. Haynes Speakers

George Hunt, Kiowa Indian of Oklahoma, and Dr. Coe Hayne, recording secretary of the American Baptist Home Mission society, are the principal speakers at the mid-year meeting of the Alpena Baptist association which will be held Wednesday, January 25, at the Hemlock Road Baptist Church.

George Hunt is a deacon of the Rainy Mountain Baptist Church, and is known as one of the best interpreters among the Kiowa people. When ever there is an especially important task of interpreting to be done he is sent for. He is a strong worker in the church, a faithful deacon and an excellent singer.

The story of George Hunt and his family is one to be preserved for future generations. When Baptist missionaries first went among them, the Kiowas were living in teepees and were suspicious of the Government. Julia Given, the daughter of Sitting Bear, a Kiowa Chief who was killed by United States soldiers, was a Christian and a fearless missionary. In 1896 she married George Hunt, then a camp Indian. He became a Christian and has ever since devoted his life to the service of his people. Julia Given Hunt died a few years ago, leaving one daughter, Joleta, who graduated from Keuka College and was the first Kiowa woman ever to receive a liberal arts college degree.

George Hunt married again. In 1864 on one of their raids in Texas the Kiowas kidnapped a baby girl and reared her as an Indian. George Hunt's second wife, who accompanied him to Philadelphia, is a daughter of the kidnapped girl. The Kiowas are steadfast Christians. Ernest, son of George Hunt, has been a capable worker in the B. Y. P. U. an assistant treasurer of the Rainy Mountain church. Caroline, a daughter of Ernest, is a fine Christian girl whose ambition is revealed by her entrance as a student in Southwestern Teachers' College of Weatherford, Oklahoma.

Dr. Hayne has held his present position ever since the world war, when he served overseas as director of athletics of the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. He was also games manager in the Embarkation Center, France, and in this capacity secured many concessions from the French authorities making possible a program of sports for troops waiting sailing orders for America.

Dr. Hayne's duties in his present position are varied and far-reaching in the home mission field and the service which he has rendered as an expositor of missionary work has been of much knowledge concerning our ever expanding home missionary work.

He has won considerable distinction as an author, and among the books which he has written are "A Rider of the Old Fremont Trail," "Race Grit," "Old Trails and New," "By-Paths to Forgotten Folks," "My Brother in Overalls," "Red Men on the Bighorn," "Vanguard of the Caravans," "They Came Seeking" and "Baptist Trail Makers of Michigan."

Dr. Hayne is a graduate of Kalamazoo College and of the University of Chicago, and has held pastorates in Michigan and Utah. His alma mater, Kalamazoo, honored him in 1922 with the degree of Litt. D.

The program of the meeting which will be held at the Hemlock Road Baptist Church is as follows:

"Don't come again, Phil," Mr. Sentry said. Mr. Hare stepped away so that they might speak alone. Phil felt suddenly empty. "But father, mother will want to come!" Mr. Sentry smiled. "Of course! If she wishes. But not you children. I'd rather you didn't; and certainly not the girls." And he asked, "How are they?"

"Fine."
"Mary—happy with Mr. Endle?"
"Yes."
"Barbara well again?"
"Yes."

Mr. Sentry nodded. Phil waited; and his father said at last: "Phil—I don't know that it matters now. But I want you to know a thing or two." Phil felt his cheek stiff with pain. "The older man faced his son fairly. 'All I said about that night was true. I didn't know Miss Wines was there. I shot her by accident. And—I had had nothing to do with her.'"

Phil's throat was full; but he managed to speak. "I believed you, father," he said. "We all did. That it was—an accident!" Mr. Sentry cleared his throat. "About the woman last summer," he said, "and the other, long ago. All that is between your mother and me. She knows they—didn't touch what she and I had together."

Phil could not speak; and the older man said: "About the appeal. Appeals, delays, tricks wouldn't help in the long run. I hope you—understood my decision."

Phil said slowly: "Yes sir! But you don't need to consider us. We're up to it." He added: "Of course, Mr. Hare says perhaps the Governor—Well, I mean if we can make him believe you—"

Sentry shook his head. "No, Phil. That's the jury's province, to decide whether I told the truth or not. If they didn't believe me, the Governor has no right to say they were wrong."

"Mr. Falkran says he could get a new trial—"

"I had a fair trial! Bob Flood let Falkran get away with a lot of things." Mr. Sentry's lips set. "I won't put you all through that again, Phil!" And he said, almost curtly: "So—that's all, then. Good-by!"

Outside, Phil found himself trembling. He said apologetically to Mr. Hare, "I feel about ten years old, right now."

"So do all men, sometimes," Mr. Hare assented. "But they never let anyone guess, except their wives."

April slipped away; and Phil missed Linda more and more. But on the first day of May, he reached the office at the usual hour, rang for a stenographer—and Linda came in.

Phil stared at her. She seated herself at the end of his desk, opened a notebook, laid sharp pencils ready.

He cried: "Linda! What are you doing here?"

"Come to take your letters."

"But how did you get here?"

"I persuaded Miss Randall to give me the job."

"But you can't—"

"Don't you believe it," she retorted. "Nobody can get a job under Miss Randall unless they can prove they're good. Certainly not a girl like me. You know, one of the idle rich? We have to prove we've got everything."

"But you—"

"Shorthand, typing, business forms, everything," she assured him gaily. "If you don't believe me, try me." And she said then: "I ought to be good! I've been working at it, studying twelve hours a day for six weeks, and practicing besides. Hence these dark shadows under my lovely eyes. Notice?"

And when he could not speak, she demanded: "Mean to say you haven't missed me? Haven't you even noticed that I'd quit being underfoot around your house all the time?"

"Gosh, I've missed you awfully. But Lin, what's the idea?"

"The idea, young fellow-me-lad," she said, speaking lightly lest her throat swell with tears, "the idea is that I have diagnosed your case, and written your prescription, and the prescription is me, taken regularly, in large doses. So when you go into business, into business go I. When you sit all day at a desk, I pull my chair up to the corner of the same desk. You'll be spending most of your time here for a while. Well, so will I."

"What do your folks think about it?"

"Highly approve," she assured him. "Would you like me to get my father's consent?"

"Oh, you can't do this, Linda!"

"Of course I can."

"Be here all day with me?"

She spoke huskily. "Be anywhere, always, Phil, with you."

"You'll marry somebody—"

"You, if you'll have me."

"You know I can't, Lin!"

"Then at least I can be your secretary."

"You're so doggone stubborn."

"But efficient!"

He grinned. "All right," he said. "You know it will be grand for me, having you around."
"Me too, Phil."
"Take a letter!"
Her pencil poised; began to fly.

CHAPTER XII

Phil accepted Linda's presence in the office, but with misgivings. He reported the matter to Mrs. Sentry that night.

"Do you think it's all right, mother?" he asked. "She's sure to be talked about." And he said, thinking aloud: "Linda's so darned fine. If things were different—But they're not, of course. Never can be. I never can marry, or have children. I realize that." He added tenderly, almost lightly: "Besides, my job is to take care of you."

She said: "Yes, Linda's sweet; but she knows that I need you. I shan't always be selfish about you, Phil, but—I shall need you and Barbara, for a while."

He thought doubtfully of Dan, but marry her, and raise about nine children and keep her so busy she won't have time to think about all this. People think too much anyway!"

Phil said: "I know; but he looks at it just the other way. He says we have to face it, live it down." And he confessed, half-angrily, "To hear him talk, you'd think he wanted her to wear a placard telling the world who she is."

Dan said scornfully: "That stuffed shirt! He's—like a woman. He wants to be a martyr. You know, the old line: 'I could not love thee, dear, so much, loved I not honor more.'"

"I don't blame him for testifying. Do you?"

"Hell, no! I'd have done the same. But why should he rub it in now? I'll go see him tonight and tell him so."

But Dan's arguments were unavailing too. Professor Brace chose a Sunday afternoon in May for his confession. There had been tennis.

Linda was there. When it was time

She did not speak. He stood like one awaiting judgment; but Dan said honestly: "He wasn't to blame, Barb. He was summoned, had to tell or lie. I'd have done the same."

"Of course," she assented. "I don't blame him for testifying. But Mac, I do blame you for telling me."
"Oh, Barbara, you can't fool yourself, pretend to ignore what has happened!"

Barbara faced him for a moment; then suddenly without a word she turned, turned and ran, ran into the house and away. He called her name, but he did not pursue her.

Dan said disgustedly, "You may be a professor, but you're the darnedest fool I ever saw!"

"She will see I'm right, in the end!" Brace insisted.

But he was wrong in this prediction. Barbara thereafter avoided him, and when he came to the house she was quick to disappear. Yet Barbara began to wish to know all that had happened at the trial.

She asked her first questions on the Sunday following. Dan came,

"Mac and I Have Never Teamed Up," Barbara Confessed.

he promised: "Sure, Linda knows. We'll be here, mother. Don't be afraid!"

It was the first day of May when Linda came into the office; and during that month, July seemed far away. Business problems arose to worry Phil. Once he sought Mr. Loran's advice; but the Loran home was closed. Mr. and Mrs. Loran, he heard, had gone to Europe for the summer. So Phil turned to his mother, and every evening he consulted with her, asking her counsel, by his demands upon her forcing her to find strength to meet them.

Also, Barbara was better every day, the flood of spring which flowed across the city surging through her too.

But Barbara never mentioned her father. It was as though she had deliberately put him out of her mind. The others, recognizing this, did not speak of him in her presence; and they sought for her sake to protect her in every way, to find a routine, to live as near normally as possible.

Dan was often at the house; and sometimes Phil wondered how his mother could be blind to the bright devotion between Dan and Barbara that was so plain to his informed eyes. Once Dan wished to speak to Mrs. Sentry, to tell her their secret; but Phil's persuasions restrained him. Yet Dan came often, and Professor Brace too; and the tennis court had use again. If Sundays were fair they might all be there, Linda and Barbara, the Professor and Dan and Phil. Sometimes Mrs. Dane, or Mrs. Urban or other friends of Mrs. Sentry dropped in, and after tennis there was tea.

It was Professor Brace who in the end shattered the insulation of silence with which they had conspired to protect Barbara. He insisted on confessing to her his damning testimony against Mr. Sentry at the trial. He warned Phil in advance of what he meant to do; and Phil, unable to dissuade him, told Dan what Brace intended.

"I tried to talk him out of it," he explained. "Probably Barb can stand it now, though. She's a lot better. I'm more worried about mother. She doesn't show things on the surface much, but she's awfully shaky inside. Every once in a while, she shivers."

"I know."

"Sure, she's pretty well worn out." Dan reverted to Barbara. "But Phil, Professor Brace is a darned fool! What Barb needs is to forget all this business; never speak of it or think of it again. As soon as I can get a job somewhere else, I'm going to take her away from here, for tea, she and Phil and Mrs. Sentry went into the house, and Dan and the Professor played a set of singles, Barbara looking on; and when the set ended—Professor Brace won—Barbara said warmly: "You're good, Mac. We'll teach Dan some tennis yet, before we get through."

Dan retorted cheerfully, "Maybe I'm not so good, but Linda and I can give you two a lesson, any time."

"Mac and I have never teamed up," Barbara confessed. "But it wouldn't take us long to learn."

The professor said suddenly: "We teamed up once, Barbara. The first night I met you. The night we followed your father home."

Barbara's color drained away. Dan said furiously, "You darned fool!" But Barbara said:

"Hush, Dan. Mac didn't say that just to make me unhappy, did you, Mac? What are you trying to tell me?"

"I just want you to know, Barbara, that I testified against your father, told the jury about our seeing him that night, helped to convict him." She was white as ivory; and he said: "You had to know sometime. I wanted it to come from me."

Majority of Highway Motorists Found to Be Making Less Than Twenty-Mile Trip

Highway travel is predominately a short-distance movement and less than two out of every 100 vehicles observed on main highways are traveling more than 100 miles to reach their destinations. Eight out of ten are traveling less than 20 miles. These are averages of preliminary figures obtained in 11 states in planning surveys being conducted by the bureau of public roads in co-operation with 43 state highway departments.

The main highways and their extensions through cities carry 58.9 per cent of the total motor-vehicle traffic; 30.8 per cent is on the large mileage of other city streets and scarcely more than 10 per cent of the total occurs on all secondary and local rural roads which, in mileage, have eight times the extent of the main highways.

Preliminary data from 17 states show traffic on the main highways and transcity connections to be 58 per cent urban in origin and 42 per cent rural. These are approximately the percentages of urban and rural population in the states where the counts were made.

Ninety-three per cent of the use of city streets, other than through routes, is by urban vehicles, while 84 per cent of the traffic on minor rural roads is by rural vehicles.

Data being accumulated in the planning surveys, says the bureau, will give definite indications as to what should be accomplished in further road building; as to the relative transportation service that may be afforded by improving this or that class of road; as to who will benefit if either is done and who, being benefited, should pay the cost and in what proportion.

The states are still at work collecting a mass of statistical facts on highways and preparing the first complete maps of all rural highways. Each of the 43 states will publish its own results.

How to Tell Mule's Age
One way to tell a mule's age is by his teeth. On the edges of the incisors are grooves or cups that wear away as the animal advances in years. Another way the ages of mules are determined is by the cavernous spaces above their eyes. These sunken places do not fill out when an old mule is fattened.

PETER DENIES HIS LORD

LESSON TEXT—Luke 22:31, 32, 54-62. GOLDEN TEXT—Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall.—I Corinthians 10:12.

One of the most heartbreaking experiences we have as Christians is to find that one in whom we have had every confidence as a true and faithful follower of the Lord, has denied Him by going out into almost unbelievable sin. Often it seems that those who, like Peter, have had the loftiest and most inspiring fellowship with the Lord, and who speak with the greatest ease about His love and grace, turn to the most reprehensible of sins.

Lest any unbeliever who reads this begin to gloat over the failures of Christians, let him be reminded now of his own sin which needs his attention, and of the fact that though Peter fell, he arose again to victory and usefulness. May it also be said that none of us has any right to a "holier than thou" attitude toward a brother who has fallen. "Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall" (I Cor. 10:12), and let him in broken-hearted sympathy help to restore his stricken brother "in the spirit of meekness: considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted" (Gal. 6:1).

I. Sifted but Not Destroyed (vv. 31, 32).

Satan, who is a far more powerful spiritual being than most folk think, is actively interested in tempting the Christian. He uses many clever devices. Although he is not possessed of divine powers, he does have supernatural cunning and knows the weakness of each one of us. He knew the boastful self-assurance of Peter and was ready to tempt him at that point. Jesus knew this, and even in this dark hour shortly before His crucifixion He takes time to warn Peter, and with His warning to give the assurance that though it was to be tried, his faith was not to fail, and that he was to be restored to fellowship and service when he "turned again," which is the correct translation for the word "converted."

II. Self-assurance and Disgraceful Failure (vv. 33, 34, 54-60).

Peter was sure of himself and of his consecration to the Lord. A man who stands in that place is in grave danger. It is not long before we find Peter, apparently presuming on his own ability to stand fast, consorting with the enemies of Christ, warming himself by their fire. Someone has suggested that the great spiritual problem of our day is not the conflict between the Church and the world; nor is it to determine how the Church can best serve in the world, but rather what to do about the world which has gotten into the Church. How did worldliness get into the Church? The members brought it there after they had gone out and warmed themselves at the world's fire, and fellowshiped with the world in ungodly living.

The denials made by Peter seem almost unbelievable in the life of one who had been in immediate fellowship with the Lord and who had seen His glory. We have here a revelation of the fact that "the heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked; who can know it?" (Jer. 17:9). We agree with Dr. Wilbur M. Smith: "This is of the Devil. This is humanity sinking to the lowest plane of base ingratitude. This is shame upon shame." One might have hoped that one denial would bring quick and sincere repentance, but instead it leads the way to a second and to a third. There seemed to be nothing that could stop Peter, until "the Lord turned and looked" at him. This suggests its only effective way to deal with backsliders. Argument, pleading, even shaming them, will do no good. We must bring them to the place where they meet their Lord.

III. The Look of Love and a Broken Heart (vv. 61, 62).

What was in the look of Jesus is perhaps best expressed by Alexander Maclaren: "It spoke of Christ's knowledge, of Christ's pain, of Christ's love." The backslider needs first of all to realize that the Lord knows all about his denials and sin. He has been hiding things from his family and friends, denying accusations, trying to cover up his guilt. Let him now abandon every such effort. Jesus knows all about it.

The second thing to be realized is that he has added to the pain and sorrow of his Lord. For a believer to turn away from Him is no light matter, to be casually dealt with. He needs to be deeply conscious of the wounding of the heart of the Lord, as well as of the damage done to God's people and His cause in the earth.

But above all it was a look of love. The Lord deals in tenderness with the backslider. While he never can or will condone sin, He loves the sinner, and especially does He love the one who belongs to Him but who has gone astray. What a gracious Lord we do have!

How to Curtain a Group of Windows

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: I want to tell you how much practical help I have received from both of your books. I have been sewing for years but these books have explained many points that I never understood before. I am now planning new draperies to dress my living room up a bit. One group of three windows is especially difficult as the davenport has to be placed in front of them. Can you give me a suggestion? I think I would like a plain valance without gathers or pleats across the top. How should this be made and hung? I have just made a beige slipcover for the davenport with green pipings and bands.—A. D. W."

I would use plain cream colored glass curtains for all three windows and overdrapes at the ends only. A striped material in tones of tan and green and blue would be nice for the draperies with a narrow fringe edging in green and tan or green and blue. A valance board at the top of the windows is essential when a plain valance is used. This board should be four inches wide and 1/2 inch thick. It is screwed in place with L brackets. Ordinary metal curtain rods are placed just under it for the glass curtains and side drapes. The plain valance should be long enough to fit around the ends of the board and should be about six inches deep finished. It should be stiffened with an interlining of crinoline, and an allowance should be made at the top for a tuck or fold to be tacked to the board as shown. Be sure to save this lesson as it is not in either of the books offered below.

Coolidge's Tribute

Writing of the death of his mother, Calvin Coolidge said: "In an hour, she was gone. It was her thirty-ninth birthday. I was 12 years old. We laid her away in the blustering snows of March. The greatest grief that can come to a boy came to me. Life was never to be the same again. . . . Five years and 41 years later almost to a day, my sister and my father followed her. It always seemed to me that the boy I lost was her image."

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

BUSINESS MAN . . . AGE 12

This youngster already knows the rudiments of business. He not only has learned how to raise poultry successfully but how to sell it at a profit. He uses the telephone to get authoritative advice from the county agent and to reach the merchants, poultry buyers and housewives to whom he sells his fowls.

Today, farmers young and old recognize the dollars-and-cents value of the telephone in marketing activities. They know, too, that it provides an invaluable means of summoning veterinarian, doctor, and help when fire or other emergencies threaten. And for all members of the farm family, a telephone is the means to greater participation in the social life of the neighborhood.

Weekly News Analysis Kennedy-Bullitt War Forecast Justified by World Situation

By Joseph W. La Bine

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst, and not necessarily of the newspaper.

International

When U. S. foreign envoys make their rare appearances in congress, it is usually to advise house and senate committees on foreign affairs. But two days before President Roosevelt gave congress his unprecedented defense proposals (see below), two top-ranking U. S. ambassadors walked into secret session not with the foreign affairs committees, but with a committee on military affairs. The ambassadors: Joseph P. Kennedy, home from London, and William C. Bullitt, home from Paris.

MESSRS. KENNEDY, BULLITT
It looked like cold-blooded truth.

Though committee room walls supposedly have no ears, it was learned that Messrs. Kennedy and Bullitt thoroughly frightened their congressional audience with the following opinion on European affairs:

Great Britain has favored "appeasement" of Italy and Germany because neither she nor France have adequate arms. So intense is British appeasement sentiment that London would permit Germany to build an airbase in Canada rather than revert to war. But since Czechoslovakia's "sellout" at Munich last September proved that one appeasement leads to another, France has determined to stop this policy. Therefore France will not concede to Italian territorial demands, knowing that in war Great Britain must come to her aid and that Russia, in turn, must aid the democracies.

Crux of the Kennedy-Bullitt opinion: That further appeasement, as advocated by Prime Minister Chamberlain, will only delay the eventual showdown and make war even more critical when it comes, which will probably be within the next few months. The U. S. will not be drawn into this conflict immediately.

If this was propaganda for President Roosevelt's long-range national defense program, committee members swallowed it hook, line and sinker. And well they might, because the forecast appeared to be cold-blooded truth when measured in the light of that day's news from abroad. It all looked like war:

THE BIG FOUR
As Prime Minister Chamberlain left London's Victoria station for his appearance in Italy's Premier Mussolini, unemployed demonstrators booed him and shouted: "Appease the unemployed, not Mussolini!" Between London and Dover, where he crossed the channel, Mr. Chamberlain might have reflected on the advisability of such a course. Hitler was clamoring for submarine parity with Britain; Italy was fighting the Spanish civil war and yelling for concessions from France; both Germany and Italy were propagandizing about British "atrocities" in Palestine.

En route to Rome, the Chamberlain entourage stopped in Paris to (1) show Germany and Italy that France and Britain stand together, and (2) assure France that Mussolini could not induce Chamberlain to bring pressure for French concessions to Italy. After two hours of tea drinking, a spokesman announced Chamberlain would tell Mussolini that France agreed to consider concessions on "secondary" questions. These are (1) the status of 100,000 Italians in Tunisia; (2) control over the Djibouti-Addis Ababa railroad; (3) administration of the French-controlled Suez canal. As for himself, Chamberlain expected to tell Mussolini he refused to mediate between France and Italy, or grant belligerent rights to Spain's General Franco so long as Italian troops are fighting the war.

But Chamberlain also knew he must speak softly, for only a week before the Anglo-French alliance had suffered a severe blow. At Berchtesgaden, Polish Foreign Minister Joseph Beck had deserted his French alliance to find greater security with Germany. Moreover, this meant that Poland would be ready to block any Russian effort to aid France and Britain. Temporarily free from danger in the east, the Rome-Berlin axis was ready to apply pressure on democracies.

The best prediction: That Chamberlain-Mussolini conversations will lead to another "Munich" peace conference, but certainly not to general European peace.

HUNGARY
Last November's Italian-German commission settled a boundary for Czechoslovakia and Hungary, but neither nation liked it. Since January 8 a series of border incidents has kept both nations aflame, each holding the other responsible. Czechoslovakia has offered terms for truce, but Budapest refuses until Prague pays for damages, acknowledges responsibility for attacks and punishes individuals responsible. The outcome of this squabble is unpredictable, but Germany may well step in to help the Czechs since the Reich wants the border city of Munkacs to be retained in Czechoslovakia's Carpatho-Ukraine. The town is important in Berlin's program of fortifying Carpatho-Ukraine in preparation for a German drive into Russian Ukraine. Meanwhile there is war on the Czech-Hungarian frontier.

JAPAN
"Britain and the United States are believed to be aware that should they resort to serious economic pressure against Japan, Japan would have sufficient determination and preparation to resort to retaliatory measures against their mainlands and dependencies."
This war talk came from Japan's Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita in answer to measures Great Britain and the U. S. had already taken to combat growing Japanese domination over the Orient. Because Tokyo has closed China's "open door" in violation of the nine-power treaty, both London and Washington have given China financial support. Meanwhile...

JAPAN'S HACHIRO ARITA
He threatened a U. S. invasion.

while the U. S. has completely stopped the sale of war materials to Japan.
Minister Arita's statement, appearing in Tokyo's Fascist newspaper, Nichi Nichi, is the most warlike gesture yet made against the U. S. What equalized the threat, however, was a similar gesture made against Russia by Lieut. Gen. Rensuke Isogai, Japanese chief of staff in Manchuria. Said he: "We do not want war... But the Soviet authorities have shown no sign of cooperation. Instead they are strengthening their military works and reinforcing their armies in Russia and the Far East."

JAPAN'S HACHIRO ARITA
He threatened a U. S. invasion.

AT HOME
Checking the above news with Bullitt-Kennedy statements, congress was in fine shape to discuss U. S. defense measures. Tennessee's Rep. Andrew J. May of the house military affairs committee popped up to urge military training for 300,000 CCC boys. He also asked four-lane superhighways down Atlantic and Pacific coasts and across the gulf states.

Next day the President sent congress his defense message, well pared down from the multi-billion figures originally bandied about Washington. The total extra, emergency appropriation request: $552,000,000, half of which should be spent before the next fiscal year is over. Presidential arguments, few of which were needed, pointed out that the U. S. is relatively no better prepared today than in 1917, when it took a year from the war declaration date for American troops to reach a major engagement.

Items in the proposed outlay: $300,000,000 to increase army air corps up to 3,000 fighting planes; $110,000,000 for "critical" items of war equipment; $32,000,000,000 for industrial mobilization; $8,000,000 for improved seacoast defenses; $44,000,000 for stronger Atlantic and Pacific naval bases; $10,000,000 for more naval planes; $27,000,000 for civilian pilot training; $27,000,000 for adequate Panama canal defenses.

Politica
Because Massachusetts state-house custom decrees the governor shall have private, nonstop elevator rides, the operator whizzed new Gov. Leverett Saltonstall past a group of employees on their way to lunch. Said the governor: "Pick them up in the future. I like to ride with people."

Agriculture

Under Secretary Henry A. Wallace, the U. S. agriculture department's "original objective" has been increased consumption through one method or another. Last summer came announcement of a new method, a "two price" plan for boosting domestic consumption of farm products. Under this arrangement the U. S. would subsidize manufacturers, whose products would be sold at a below-normal price to low income families.

First objections came from manufacturers and retailers, many of whom thought the plan would curtail free enterprise. Then congressmen turned a cold shoulder, suggesting difficulties in getting the special purchase privilege in the hands of people deserving them. As congress got underway it became certain that Mr. Wallace had dropped the plan entirely, though still clinging to the "original objective."

Announcement was made that conferences are being held with cotton manufacturers to encourage the lowest possible prices for mattresses to be sold to low income families. Grapefruit will be similarly "merchandised." Said Mr. Wallace: "We want increased consumption... We will use any method to obtain it. We hope we can get the trade (processors and distributors) to do specific things to save costs to the limit."

Via London, U. S. farmers have learned that the agriculture department proposes to reduce American wheat land from 81,000,000 acres to 55,000,000 acres, resulting in total wheat plantings of 65,000,000 acres even if some growers do not cooperate. This news came from the international wheat advisory committee's conference, where 21 nations had sent envoys to study schemes for export and import limitations. As the sessions got underway, a discouraging note appeared in the International Institute of Agriculture's report. Wheat available for export in the year ending next July 31, the report said, was 1,140,000,000 bushels, against a world import demand of 540,000 bushels.

People

At San Pedro's Terminal island correctional prison, where he was transferred from Alcatraz, Al Capone was said by a guard to be "screwy as a bedbug."

In Vienna, Jewish, persecuted Dr. Salomon Frankfurter, 80, rejoiced that the U. S. had elevated his nephew, Harvard's Felix Frankfurter, to the Supreme court.

Races

Less evil than that of any other high Nazi is the reputation of Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of Germany's Reichsbank. In appearance more a business man than a politician, Dr. Schacht is the Reich's No. 1 contact with foreign commercial interests. When it came time to peddle Germany's 600,000 Jews abroad, Chancellor Hitler turned naturally to Dr. Schacht, knowing he was the only high Nazi whose utterances on the Jewish problem would get a hearing abroad.

A cold business man as well as a diplomat, Dr. Schacht could be depended on to evolve a Jewish plan which would work to the Reich's financial benefit. Early in January, at London, he announced the plan: Part One. Within the next three years, 400,000 of the Reich's 600,000 Jews would be shipped abroad, the remaining 200,000 to be retained as common laborers. The 400,000 emigrants would leave by installments, heads of families going first. For aged and infirm, Germany would guarantee satisfactory provision.

Part Two. World Jewry would raise a $2,500,000,000 loan, "secured" by Jewish property in Germany, funds to be used for sending poor German Jews abroad. The loan would be serviced by increased German exports, to be paid for in free foreign exchange. World Jewry (which Nazi Germany regards as all-powerful in democracies) would decree greater use of German export items.

Still master of the situation, the Reich can apparently force Jew-respecting nations to choose between accepting the plan or tolerate further persecution. For Germany, the Schacht idea provides for disposition of 400,000 "undesirable" citizens whose property will be confiscated. Most important, it offers a way to break the world boycott on German goods. But where Jewry can raise $2,500,000,000 is another problem.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Advertising: Sandwich men run pretty much to type, that is in the way of equipment—two boards and cards to hand out. Occasionally there is variation. For instance, that old man who parades Forty-second street doing publicity for a pants-to-match establishment. As he comes toward you, his sign is topped with a white man. Going away from you, the man is colored. It remained for Bill, however, driving away up on Broadway, to discover something unique. The sandwich man had the usual boards. But instead of carrying cards, he had a portable radio which was playing loud and strong. The light changed before Bill could tell whether he was attached to his employer's establishment with wires but at any rate, he attracted a lot of attention. And what was he advertising? You'd never guess—a radio store.

Controversy: Whether to do the hair up or down has split the fair sex into two factions. It seems that Hollywood's stars refuse to pile their hair on top of their heads and that recently 60 of the New York's smartest debs, gathered at a luncheon with their hair down. Those who argue against the hair up hold that it lives an older appearance and that no hair fashion in the last decade has been more flattering to a woman than the "casual coiffure" which falls in soft curls at the nape of her neck. And so despite the dictates of a fashion which says, up, one of the town's big department stores advertised that "hair up is out." As for me, I'm neutral. I can't forget the sad fate of my campaign against red fingernails—a campaign that came home to roost.

Pictorial: Years and years ago, a young photographer started in business in Yorkville. An expert and conscientious workman, he specialized in children. He began with baby pictures and went on up through the years. Then came wedding pictures and next pictures of children of those whom he had pictured as children. He's now working on the third generation. Having kept specimens of the work he has done, his studio is now a pictorial history of that section of the city.

Grim: There have been only seven electrocutions at Sing Sing prison during the last year. This is a record; over a nine-year period the average number has been 16 each year. The present low may or may not indicate a falling off in crimes for which the sentence is death. But it does indicate a falling off in the income of Robert Elliott. The state executioner is paid $150 each time he throws the switch.

Useful: Mrs. Louise Hamer told me of the woman who got on a subway train at an uptown station with a big bass viol. The doghouse or rowboat, or whatever swing musicians call it, was in a case of course and in the case were two pockets. After some trouble, the woman found a seat and propped the bass violin beside her. Then she opened the bottom pocket and took out knitting needles and yarn. All the way downtown, her needles flew. And Mrs. Hamer never did learn what she carried in the other pocket in the bass viol case. But she believes it might have been her luncheon.

End Piece: New York color scheme as painted by Andre Baruch: Skyscraper gray, taxicab yellow, Union Square red, greenhorns, blues singers, the Great White Way and that well-known dark brown taste. To which might be added the Wall street gold and Park avenue purple.

Allied Memory Bell in Verona, Italy, Recast

VERONA, ITALY.—A bronze bell cast from the metal guns of the Allied armies, which for several years has rung the daily sunset signal at Roverto in memory of the dead of the World war regardless of nationality, has been recast in a Verona factory after developing a flaw.

During the recasting gold and silver objects donated by the governments of 14 former belligerents and by a large number of individuals were dropped into the liquid metal. The new bell, which is larger than the original and stands 9 feet high, will soon be sent back to the historic castle at Roverto to resume the memorial sunset signal.

Halt Beavers' Inroads By Polite Blackmail

REGINA, SASK.—Blackmail is being steadily awarded a colony of 25 beavers on the outskirts of Regina.

The beavers took up winter residence in a creek near a school. The school has several hundred young willow trees growing on the banks of the creek. The busy animals, intent on building homes, started to gnaw down the prize trees.

No way was found to halt the destruction. Finally school authorities were blackmailed into hauling poplar trees to the creek bank for the beavers.

The willow trees were saved.

America's Shrine of History

Founded by act of congress in 1800, the library of congress at Washington is today the largest of its size in the world. Its nucleus was Thomas Jefferson's collection, and such treasures as the original constitution of the United States and the original articles of confederation, shown above being examined by Dr. St. George L. Sioussat. Since the library is growing constantly, an $8,000,000 annex was recently added boasting 249 miles of shelving and 20 acres of floor space.

Picture Parade

Modernity strikes the staid library of congress. Above: "speed capsules," a new gadget for shooting books through a 700-foot tunnel in 23 seconds. Their arrival at the destination is cushioned by a bank of air which prevents damage to the books.

Many of the library's books are rare items, like the above Eliot Indian Bible of 1663, the first Bible printed in America. It is in the Algonquin language and is bound in Morocco. At left, Mr. Parma of the library examines a collection of rare books in the library's incunabula. Mr. Parma is holding a volume of canon law printed in Venice in 1486.

The new annex, which will care for the library's expansion requirements for some time, is architecturally as typical of its time as was the original or main building, which was built in 1897. The murals are by the dean of American muralists, Ezra A. Winter.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Dr. Robert H. Goddard, experimenting with rockets for the last 24 years, and steadily making progress, has had as his goal the penetration of the higher atmosphere, the possible catapulting of messages across the ocean, and sundry scientific inquiries to which he has thought his unique gunnery might supply the answer. Although much Jules Vernish stuff has been written about his "rockets to the moon" and about shooting people across the Atlantic in a few minutes, he has been an aloof and patient scientist, intent on seeing only what he sees and not making any handsome promises.

So far as this courier knows, the suggestion by Maj. James R. Randolph that rockets may replace heavy artillery, for long-range bombardment of cities, is the first official recognition of their possible use in warfare. He specifically cites the work of Doctor Goddard, at a time when Doctor Goddard is piling up new patents and getting some of his biggest sizzlers under control. It is also the time when the tiny, motored plane, evolving from the toy, and controlled by radio, is absorbing the interest of the army experimenters as a possible bomb-dropper.

At Roswell, N. M., financed by the Daniel Guggenheim foundation, Doctor Goddard has a unique desert laboratory with plenty of elbow room and sky room. He now has a gyro steering mechanism on his rockets, by which they may be accurately aimed. He has gained 30 per cent in range over his best shots of two years ago, and is now forcing his rockets to a speed of 700 miles per hour.

His most valuable contribution to rocketeering, noted by Major Randolph, is his continuous flow of power, instead of the single initial explosion. Gasoline and oxygen, mixing and exploding as they issue from a tail nozzle, give steady propulsion.

Doctor Goddard, an amiable, unassuming, baldish man, began his rocket experiments at Clark university in 1914. He is a physicist, absorbed in pure science, admitting that we might hit the moon with a rocket if we wanted to spend that much power, but so far he keeps down to earth on immediate and specific problems—and makes progress.

IT DOES begin to look as though scientists will be the loudest of all when "Beulah Land" rings out at the next singfest. Once upon a time, religionists looked warily whenever a man of science opened his mouth, because so many of them were arguing against a hereafter. But Sir Richard Gregory, with his "It is just as permissible to assume that another world awaits habitation of an exalted type of humanity as it is to believe in the eternal existence of individuality," is only the latest of many to hit the sawdust trail.

Emeritus professor of astronomy, Queens college, London, is one of his present distinctions, and he is also a former editor of the magazine, Nature. The stars have been his chief guide for most of the years since he was born in 1864. How much their lessons helped him to his knighthood, 1919, and his baronetcy, 1931, is a question. But certainly, along with his acknowledged interest in heaven, they must take responsibility for his chief books, "The Vault of Heaven" and "Discovery, or the Spirit of Service of Science."

PROF. WALTER B. CANNON of Harvard avoided a mistake made by Howard Scott. When Mr. Scott appeared as the John the Baptist of technocracy, he started taking our measure for its immediate application.

Cannon Cure Not Crammed Down Throats

When Professor Cannon put out "biocracy" several years ago, as a cure for the ills of the "body politic," he made it clear that we could take it or leave it. Hence, while biocracy is still in the suspense file, Professor Cannon finds honor and advancement as the newly-elected president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, which body is driving for some grand scale rationalization of science and society. That's the main idea of biocracy—a society which is not at war with the life force.

He is one of the most distinguished physiologists in America, given to novel research. He is the discoverer of a method by which we may hear our brains ticking.

The trip was arranged by Edward Johnson, general manager of the Metropolitan opera, and Richard Crooks, leading member.

• Infantile paralysis is contracted through direct or indirect contact.

By Dr. James W. Barton

ANOTHER year has passed and it must be admitted that the various methods used to prevent infantile paralysis (poliomyelitis) have not proved generally successful. However, it is well that all should know how the disease is contracted or transmitted from one child to another.

"The disease is transmitted by direct or indirect contact with the patient, principally by contamination with the infected secretions of, or discharge from, the nose, mouth and throat.

Whether infection occurs by direct contact—kissing, or by eating or drinking out of the same dishes, or by inhaling droplets which have been coughed or sneezed into the atmosphere around a patient, or by inhaling infected dust, the fact remains that it is transmitted from person to person in many various ways."

The early symptoms resemble other ailments—fever, headache, restlessness, perhaps vomiting—but stiffness and pain in the back of the neck and sometimes going down the spine should make parents send for their physician at once. A puncture of the spinal cord at a point in the small of the back enables the physician to examine the spinal fluid and thus learn whether infantile paralysis is or is not present. When parents object to the puncture the physician usually considers the case as infantile paralysis for the next week or 10 days.

Prevention Is Main Thought.

What about treatment? The main thought is the prevention of paralysis. An editorial a few weeks ago in the Journal of the American Medical Association stated:

"Complete rest is so important that it is usually far better to have the child in bed at home when the disease is first suspected than to move the patient any appreciable distance to hospital. When these patients are disturbed or moved as little as possible a majority in whom the disease has not progressed beyond the early stages escape paralysis entirely. Should the patient have paralysis, especially of arms and legs, the affected part should be put in a cast at once.

Blood Withdrawal May Be of Value

Years ago we were inclined to smile when we read the stories of the medical man of the savage African natives who boiled human organs and used this liquid in the treatment of diseases. Today extracts of organs—thyroid, pancreas, stomach intestines, pituitary and others—are used regularly by many physicians.

Many years ago regular physicians used to bleed their patients for various ailments, but the bleeding of patients has been abolished by the medical profession. However, as many healthy individuals now give up blood regularly for patients with anemia, or after operation or a severe illness, research physicians decided to investigate the health of these blood givers.

Dr. F. Cadham, Winnipeg, in the Canadian Medical Association Journal states that following the 1936 epidemic of infantile paralysis in Manitoba, convalescent serum for the treatment of the disease was prepared in the government laboratory. This serum is made from the blood of those who have recovered from the disease. Each of the 125 blood donors was asked to return at intervals and each time about two to five ounces of blood was withdrawn. Fifty of the 125 donors supplied blood six or more times, at an interval of one week.

Donors Show No Ill Effects.

An investigation of the physical condition of the donors six months later showed no ill effects. Forty-seven of the 50 donors said they were improved in health; even those who were apparently in good health remarked on a feeling of well being. Sixty-five of the donors experienced an improvement in appetite and seven noted a clearer and healthier tone of the skin. Three who had suffered with acne (pimples) found that the acne had disappeared. Seventy-two of the donors increased in weight (3 to 15 pounds).

Of 200 blood donors who had not had infantile paralysis, that is normal healthy individuals from whom two to three ounces of blood was withdrawn over a period of from 6 to 10 days, none suffered any ill effects and the majority were really benefited by giving up blood.

Just why the removal of these small quantities of blood benefits the donor is not clear, but Dr. Cadham states: "Evidently under certain circumstances the withdrawal of small amounts of blood at regular intervals may prove of value in treatment."

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Reports Some Current Knowledge of Vitamin G, a Substance Essential to Growth and Normal Nutrition

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

A NUMBER of the vitamins have been discussed in these columns from time to time. The latest findings of nutritional science have been related, together with suggestions made by outstanding authorities concerning the amounts of different vitamins required to help maintain top health.

So far vitamin G has not been discussed specifically. Yet a knowledge of some of the functions and sources of this vitamin should be possessed by every homemaker. For eminent authorities are of the opinion that it has a far-reaching influence upon health.

Possible Effects on Longevity

The avowed objectives of modern nutritional scientists are to help humanity to enjoy happier, healthier and longer lives. If any one vitamin could be said to have more influence than any other on longevity, the distinction most certainly would be accorded—so far as present knowledge is concerned—to vitamin G.

Extensive laboratory experiments by investigators who are paramount in their field seem to indicate that vitamin G has a pronounced effect upon the maintenance of health and vigor at all ages. It has been demonstrated with experimental animals that a diet containing more vitamin G than is required for normal growth resulted in greater vigor, a postponement of the onset of senility and a comparatively short period of the mental and physical infirmities we usually associate with old age.

Effect on Digestion and Nerves

Laboratory experiments have also indicated that when there is a shortage of vitamin G, digestion is usually impaired. In this respect, a shortage of vitamin G has a slightly different effect than a deficiency of vitamin B. A definite lack of vitamin B causes an abrupt and complete loss of appetite. Withholding vitamin G appears to affect the desire for food, so that experimental animals consume only about two-thirds as much as they would normally take.

A form of nervous depression may occur when the diet is low in vitamin G for any protracted length of time. Other unfortunate consequences may be a decline in the health of the skin. Studies with animals indicated that when the vitamin was withheld, not only did a loss of weight occur, but there were other signs of nutritional failure. These included an inflammation of the mouth, a loss of hair, a thickening and in some cases, a cracking and scaling, of the skin.

Vitamin G and Healthy Eyes

Studies with a variety of experimental animals resulted in the startling disclosure that on diets lacking vitamin G the health of the eyes was distinctly affected.

Not only was there a loss of hair around the eyes, but the eyeball developed a whitish appearance which was determined to be cataract.

At present, scientists are not prepared to say whether these laboratory findings may be confirmed clinically. But certainly when we know that in many ways, the food requirements of experimental animals are comparable to those in man, it would be distinctly to our advantage to make sure that we do not lack for adequate amounts of vitamin G.

Sources of Vitamin G

Because vitamin G is closely associated with vitamin B, some homemakers occasionally confuse the two. This is not surprising, inasmuch as it was some years following the initial recognition of vitamin B that scientists established beyond a doubt that there was more than one growth-promoting vitamin. Subsequently, they learned that while the substance, later named vitamin G, was frequently found in close association with vitamin B, such was not always the case. For example, vitamin G is known to occur without vitamin B in egg white.

Milk, Meat, Eggs, Greens

The richest sources of vitamin G are the concentrates of yeast, yeast extract and wheat germ. Almost equally well supplied with this vitamin are liver and kidney. Muscle cuts of meat contain vitamin G, but in lesser amounts than liver and kidney.

The vitamin is also found in young green plants, and it is interesting to note that the vitamin is formed during the growth of the plant and decreases with maturity. The amount of the vitamin has been found to vary with different parts of the same plant. In broccoli, the flower buds are said to contain only half as much as the leaves, while the stems contain even less. Among the greens, turnip tops and beet tops have been found to be unusually rich. Investigations indicate that weight for weight, they are twice as rich as eggs, though eggs are considered a good source.

Homemakers will be glad to learn that heating does not appear to destroy vitamin G. Canned foods are therefore as good a source as though they had not been processed.

Milk must not be overlooked. For all practical purposes, and chiefly because of the amounts in which it is consumed, it is probably our most important source of the G vitamin.

One thing is certain. Homemakers should strive—not for diets that are merely adequate in vitamin G . . . but for a surplus to help build high resistance. One authority has advised a ration that contains four times the amount considered absolutely necessary.

The surplus should help to provide a headstart toward the goal of buoyant health.

Questions Answered

Mrs. G. M. L.—The term, water balance, about which you inquired is used to describe the situation in which the available water from food, beverages, and that manufactured in the body equals that of the water excreted or lost from the body. It is to help keep the body in water balance that the daily diet must contain adequate amounts of fluids.

E. G. M. Jr.—Yes, it is true that approximately one-third of the protein required during infancy is stored by the child's body to take care of growth and development. As children grow older, the amount of protein stored for growth gradually decreases until they become adults.

Heat the Coconut.—Before breaking a coconut, heat it in a moderate oven. Crack it and the shell will come off easily.

Baking Potatoes.—Potatoes will bake more quickly if, after peeling, they are wiped dry and smeared over with dripping before being put in the oven.

When Papering.—It is well when papering a room to remember that large patterns and dark colors will make it appear smaller, while a plain or striped paper, if a light hue, will give an impression of increased size.

Fringed Celery.—Celery looks much more attractive on the table when fringed. To fringe, cut celery into two inch lengths. Fringe each stalk within a quarter of an inch from the center. Put into ice water to which a slice of lemon has been added and let stand until ends are curled.

When to Add Salt.—Salt should never be added to stews, soups and boiled meats until after they're cooked. If put in at first it toughens the fiber of the meat and takes out the juices.

Larger Windows.—A small window may be made to look larger by setting the curtain rods beyond the casing on each side and using the draperies of a material heavy enough so that the casing will not be seen through the material.

School Notes

HIGH SCHOOL

The Latin I class recently studied about the chariot races in the Circus Maximus. In the grammar study the class is learning to decline third declension nouns.

The English classes are reviewing. The English II class had a spell down based on the material studied during the semester.

Second copies of the oration were due on January 18. If noise, laughter and shouting are any indications of a good time, the Juniors and Seniors had a merry party at the school house Friday evening. This party was held to celebrate the birthdays of Clarence Fowler and Mabel Simons, both of whom received a gift from their class. The evening was spent playing bunco and bingo. Hot dogs and coffee were served.

Students of European history have been getting acquainted with many familiar works of art, from the Renaissance period. They are learning to appreciate what made the pictures of The Lord's Supper, Mona Lisa and The Sistine Madonna so famous. Members of Typing I classes are struggling to make a booklet on the aeroplane made up of perfectly typed copies. They are at last beginning to realize how valuable are the qualities of concentration and perseverance.

In Typing II class demonstrations are being made of how practical the typewriter can be. Students have been typing recipes on 3x5 cards, the regulation size for recipe boxes. They are learning how to arrange such material for appearance and economy of space. Several mothers appreciated this project. The other class activity is learning to operate the ditto machine, a popular duplicating machine used in reproducing copies for programs, in advertising and for many other purposes. Later on they will also learn how to operate the mimeograph, another duplicating machine more appropriately used for their purposes.

The honor roll for the month of December contains the names of the following students: June Brown, Ruth Clark, Kathleen Davis, Fidalis Groff, Ruth Herriman, John Katterman, Janet McLean, Hazel Moran, Marion Musolf, Norma Musolf, Emma Lou Pfah, Harold Ross and Otto Ross. We hear with pleasure that the "question of honor" at the Tawas City Chamber of Commerce dinner next week will be the proposed auditorium-gymnasium. This dinner takes place at the Lakeside Lodge, Monday evening, at 6:30. We understand that both ladies and gentlemen are desired.

The pupils who remain at the school building during the noon hour now have one hot dish served to them. This is a government project with Mrs. Augusta Anschuetz preparing the material. Approximately fifty students are served each day.

MUSIC

The students in the band and glee club have shown a fine spirit, and are always willing to work hard. We have found that there are many in our organization who cannot actually read music, but they are willing to learn now that they understand the importance of having more of a music background than just merely able to sing a few songs.

A simple experiment was tried in grades 3 through 8, and we found that half of the students do not know how to read easy music notes. We have decided to learn what music really is instead of just singing the same songs over and over until we know them.

It has been decided that a small instrument called a "Toonette" will be used in the third and fourth grades as part of our music work. The use of these instruments will teach us to read and understand music that we see in books, and will give us a more pleasant music experience. Each Friday we have a bank day and each child brings a few pennies to help share the cost of these instruments. Each child is expected to have accumulated fifty cents by the end of the school year to pay for his use of the instrument.

A rhythm band in Miss Hall's room is proving to be very popular with the children. We hope to make uniforms for them and give a concert this next semester.

SEVENTH and EIGHTH GRADES.
We are now preparing for our examinations which will begin next Tuesday afternoon.

The following people had an "A" average in spelling for the first semester: Maxine DePotty, Lou Libka, Wilard Musolf, Elmer Ogden, Agnes Toms, Hugo Wegner, Ruth Giddings and Evelyn Colby.

The following had a "B" average: Leland Briting, Richard Clark, Roy Landon, Martin Cumif, Charlotte Hughes, Lyle Hughes, Jeanette Koepke, Phil Mark, Billy Musolf, Marie Ulman and Herbert Ziehl.

We have a new song. It is "The Snowman." We wrote it ourselves. We are going to have a rhythm band.

The "Fairies" are reading "Dick and Jane." It is their third book. We chose a book "How to Draw" for our prize for selling Christmas seals.

We shall make an Eskimo scrap book.

We are making an Eskimo play. (News copied by Billy Ward)

In some communities a good argument in favor of such a proposal is that it will do away with child delinquency, but owing to the class of instructors in our school, combined with the efforts of sound thinking parents, such an argument can not be used in this case, however, the fact that valuable property has never been damaged by fire in the past is no argument against insurance for the future, and at this time the citizens of Tawas City are being given the opportunity to make a fine investment in benefits for our future citizens.

On Monday, January 23, the Tawas City Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a dinner at the Lakeside Lodge at 6:30 in the evening. All the citizens are invited to be present. There will be a general discussion on various matters of importance to the city, including the question of the new gymnasium. Anyone wishing to take part should be there. Tickets are now on sale, at 50 cents each. Why not come and make this a record meeting.
