IOSCO MILK PRODUCERS HOLD MEET

Discuss Ways to Increase Use of U. S. Dairy Products

At a meeting held in the court house early last week some thirty milk producers, milk distributors, and dealers discussed the milk business of Iosco county. Day Extension Specialist Jewel Jensen, from Michigan State College, gave a very interesting discussion of the dairy situation of the United States and emphasized the fact that Michigan people from the health benefit as well as financial aid should consume more dairy products and help other states reduce the huge surplus of dairy products which are now in storage. Mr. Jensen mentioned that according to federal statistics we now have 185 million pounds of butter in storage. "This is 80 million more pounds than we usually have stored at this time of the year thus contributing to the low prices which farmers are now receiving for their dairy products. If we sit back and do nothing about it," said Mr. Jensen, "prices are going considerably lower before next August." A farmer who used one pound of butter substitute destroys the market for nearly 25 pounds of his own milk and thus continues to depress prices. We often blame our foreign neighbors for low prices because they export butter to this country and our administration for allowing them to send it here. We must not blame them now, as our butter prices are already too low to allow other countries to ship here and still make a profit. Our butter prices must be from 12 cents to 16 cents higher than those of other countries before they are able to pay the required duties and transportation to this country and this differential does not exist, according to Mr. Jensen. If each of the 130 million people in this country would consume one additional pound of butter each year the problem would be solved, or if each person would consume one-half of one pound more than is customary the abnormally high surplus would be removed and farmers would enjoy prices at least as high as have prevailed during the past five years.

Other authorities appearing upon the program were A. E. Murphy, of the State Bureau of Animal Industry, who discussed regularly measures pertaining to dairying which their department supervised with special emphasis being placed upon the rules relative to bottle milk distribution. Ralph Moore, from the same State Department, outlined a program which is to be carried out in nearly every county in Michigan and has already been started in 27 of the 83 counties. The program is designed to encourage a wider usage of all dairy products in this county, state and nation for greater public health and rural prosperity. An advisory committee to encourage the program in Iosco county was elected by those in attendance. Each branch of dairying in the county as well as those interested in the general public welfare were selected to make up the organization. Those who were selected and who may be asked to assist with the program at a later date are:

Agricultural Agent, W. L. Finley; County School Commissioner, Margaret E. Worden; District Health Officer, Mr. LaMont, of West Branch; Agricultural Instructor, Russell Mead of Oscoda; Home Extension Agent, Miss Alice Hertzler; Producer Dairyman, Charles Harsch, of Renz Township; and John Katterman, of Tawas township; Producer Retailers, Glenwood Streeter, of Plainfield township; and Waldo Curry, of Tawas township; Sturtivant, of Whittemore, and Mr. Wagner, of Hale Cheese factory; Ice Cream operator, Harold Gould, of East Tawas; Grocer Distributor, Elmer Kunze, of East Tawas; Township Supervisors, Edward Burgessson, of Baldwin, and Harry Cross, of Wilber.

Home Economic Notes

Mrs. Campbell Will Open Market in Sawyer Bldg.

Mrs. J. A. Campbell, well known throughout Iosco County, will open a grocery store and meat market Wednesday, March 1, in the Sawyer building, Tawas City. Mrs. Campbell announces that the new store will carry a full line of fresh and smoked meats, staple and fancy groceries, and fresh fruit and vegetables.

The Sawyer building in which the new market will be located has been used for the past few years as a warehouse for this district by the Alpena Candy company. It is one of the oldest business buildings in the city having been built by E. H. Buch in 1895. He operated here until 1912 when he moved his market to the business district on Lake street on a site where it is now located. The brick building on Matthew street was purchased in 1914 by the late James Hamilton. A short time before his death he disposed of it to Benjamin Sawyer. Among those who have operated businesses in the building are E. H. Buch, Henry Stens, Ernest Moeller, James Hamilton, Jas. H. Leslie, Northern Creamery company, Grover Sawyer, and the Alpena Candy company.

The building has been remodeled and redecorated and nicely equipped for the retail meat and grocery trade.

Although the officers of the Tawas City Chamber of Commerce do not have business of equal importance to the last meeting, the citizens of Tawas City are promised an interesting meeting at the Monday night dinner, and everyone is urged to attend. The meeting is being held at the Iosco Hotel and tickets are now on sale.

Yacht Club Increases Interest In Tawas Bay

It is a well known fact, though not widely discussed, that any general influx of tourists to either of the Tawas bays benefits both towns. Tawas City receives credit for its Perch Festival as East Tawas does for its Snow Carnival. As both communities enjoy the privileges afforded by their location on the shores of Tawas bay, the aim of the Tawas Bay Yacht Club to have the full cooperation of each city in arranging the Regatta which is held annually on the bay.

Should any reader recall the accounts of previous regattas as written in our town newspapers, he shall no doubt remember the articles were under the date line "Tawas Bay." That either city could lay claim to the beauty made thrilling by sunlight reflected from the snow-white sails of fleet craft as they make their way round a course marked out on the bay, is incredible. The roster of the Yacht Club includes the names of enthusiasts living in both Tawas City and East Tawas.

Yachting is a universal past time. Wherever there is water you will find ships plying their various ways on its surface. For the cleanliness of the sport, the thrill of bringing home a winner, the skill to ride out a storm, the closeness to nature, men follow the sea. The boundless enthusiasm of the few members of the Yacht Club makes possible the presence of sails in the bay each summer.

The very beauty of the scene brings tourists from all parts of Michigan to this locality. Their presence means added business and renown for both the Tawas. The words of praise they speak go farther than any intensive advertising could ever reach. The memories they have, live all through their lives. It is a credit to these neighboring communities that these things are so.

Should any of you feel you have ideas which will be of assistance to the Yacht Club, make your thoughts known through the medium of this paper. The council of many is more effective than the words of a few. To further the cooperative spirit which is the very basis of its existence, an Easter Ball will be held under the sponsorship of the TBYC in the Community building at East Tawas. The committees for arranging the affair are as follows: General Chairman, Gerald Mallon; Orchestra, (Turn to No. four back page)

TOBOGGAN RIDES FREE SUNDAY

Enjoy Thrilling Sport at Silver Valley Iosco County Day

With Sunday designated as "Iosco County Day" at the Silver Valley winter sports area in Huron National Forest, all residents of the county are urged to visit the winter sports park and try out the fast toboggan slides, ski runs and coasting hills in the picturesque valley. Plenty of healthful outdoor fun awaits you at the park, so pack up a basket lunch and a thermos jug of hot coffee and head for Silver Valley this Sunday to enjoy yourself.

Toboggan rides will be furnished free by the East Tawas Winter Sports committee, Fred J. Adams, president, announced, and everyone will have a chance to experience the thrill of sliding down the steep, icy toboggan runs. Youngsters will want to bring their skis and sled, too, to try out the ski runs and the fast coasting hills in the park.

Put on your warm clothes, pile into the family car, and head for Silver Valley, located near the Silver Creek ranger station, nine miles from Tawas on the Baldwin road leading to the Lumberman's Monument, where plenty of sport awaits you this Sunday on Iosco County Day.

Developed as part of the program of Huron National Forest aimed toward providing year round recreational facilities in the forest area for general public use, the Silver Valley winter sports enthusiasts in northern Michigan.

Ralph E. Crowell, forest supervisor, said that present plans call for the building of a dam next summer on Silver creek, which runs through the valley, to make a pond which will be turned into a large skating rink next winter, thus adding skating to the winter sports facilities provided at Silver Valley.

The development of the winter sports park has been carried on under the supervision of Ranger John Fanson with CCC boys from Silver creek camp carrying on the work under the direction of Frank Wilkaski, project superintendent of the camp. Howard Collins, of the forestry staff, is the foreman in charge of the crew that built and is maintaining the toboggan runs. Between $4,000 and $5,000 has been expended in providing the excellent recreational facilities in Silver Valley. This includes labor and material costs, construction and maintenance of the toboggan runs, shelter building, well, and other facilities.

Last Sunday's fleet storm made the toboggan slides so fast that sand had to be placed at the ends of the runs to bring the toboggans to a stop. Speeds of 70 to 80 miles an hour were attained on the icy slides.

Sunday noon, Jimmie Steverson, news and sports commentator of WJR, Charlie Gehring, Detroit Tiger second baseman, Gordon Castle, of CKLV, and other members of their coasting club, who were guests of honor at the East Tawas Winter Sports Carnival, were entertained at dinner at the Silver creek CCC camp. Led by pretty Josephine Cieszkla, Winter Sports Queen, whom Steverson crowned before a crowd of more than 500 spectators, the Detroit guests enjoyed the fast toboggan runs in Silver Valley during Sunday afternoon.

A hill in Silver Valley was dedicated in honor of Steverson and Gehring's coasting club and each member received a miniature sled from the winter sports committee.

Gehring was presented with a hat made of a crooked pine root to "hit the curves" during the coming baseball season. Vic Marzinski, committee member and an ardent tiger fan, found the crooked root in his basement, and polished and shellacked it to be presented to Gehring as a souvenir of his winter trip to northern Michigan. Gehring said he planned to take the "special hat" south with him to the Tiger training camp at Lake Land, Florida, to show his teammates.

The winter sports committee was well pleased with the success of this year's carnival and are planning for an even greater event next season.

Nazi, Argentine Trade Plans Threaten American Program

By Joseph W. La Bine

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst, and not necessarily of the newspaper.

Trade

Today's high pressure international salesmanship runs counter to the reciprocal trade program of U. S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull. Devoted to the cause of low tariffs and "most-favored-nation" pacts, Secretary Hull's idealistic and honest efforts must compete with such devices as the German barter plan and a series of multi-colored trade ideas which emerge annually from congress' halls. This month Mr. Hull saw his beloved program threatened on several fronts:

Argentine. Of all South American governments, that at Buenos Aires is least friendly to the U. S. At Lima's Pan-American conference Argentina spoiled President Roosevelt's "continental solidarity" declaration by charging that the disgraceful policy of "dollar imperialism" was still rampant. But the real roots of this dislike are commonplace things like hoof-and-mouth disease, drouth and depression.

An agreement was reached in 1935 providing for U. S. import of cattle from Argentine sections not infected with hoof-and-mouth disease. But congress failed to ratify it. In 1937 drouth and temporary U. S. prosperity forced heavy imports from Argentina. This business dropped with a thud in 1938's recession, far faster than Argentina curtailed her imports from the U. S. Result has been a trade imbalance and subsequent strengthening of Argentine exchange control against the U. S., encouraged by Germany's increasing willingness to swap machinery for Argentine foodstuffs. This sentiment reached a climax with Argentina's declaration that imports from the U. S. must be reduced to the level of 1935-36. Faced with a 40 per cent slash in exports, Secretary Hull may be forced to dangle juicy trade plums before Argentina's eyes, seriously endangering the rest of his reciprocal program.

Germany. Barter trade like Nazi Germany's is allowed in the U. S. provided it does not interfere with the "most-favored-nation" plan. But artificial currency devices like German payment for U. S. goods with "trade marks" (good only for purchase of Nazi goods) are taboo. Mid-February found U. S. lard prices low and likely to drop still more when the spring hog run starts. Meanwhile Germany hungrier for fats. Putting two and two together, German trade experts began contacting midwest packers to swap lard for machinery.

Though the Reich apparently progressed on two deals, most packers turned their backs, uninterested. Recalled was the experience of one firm which arranged a swap deal with Germany several years ago, only to find itself burdened with several thousand Nazi harmonicas. Typical was the comment of R. H. Cabell, president of Armour and Company, who dismissed the bid by simply stating that "the big packing houses are not interested in bartering, but in the sale of products at market rates." Next day packers were pleased to note that lard futures were selling up, but Mr. Hull could not fail to note that the Nazi program had made a mite of progress in his bailiwick.

Agriculture. Crux of the "cost-of-production" farm bill now before congress is that domestically consumed products shall have a minimum price. All surpluses would be dumped abroad for whatever they would bring. Whatever the bill's merits, Mr. Hull presumably regards it as an artificial trade barrier in the field of agricultural trade, which would be reflected in other branches of commerce. If "cost-of-production" fails, the state department must still hurdle a second new farm measure which would extend governmental loans on three major crops (cotton, wheat, corn) equivalent to three-fourths the "parity price"—an amount higher than the current market price. Farmers would then be expected to turn their crops over to the government for the loan price. Domestically consumed products would sell at not less than the loan price. With surpluses the U. S. would attempt to recapture its lost foreign markets.

Significance. Though world economic satisfaction must be a prelude to permanent world peace (an important principle in the Hull program), each nation seeks to further its own admittedly selfish interest with self-preservation as a justification. Still to come is the showdown in which nations will decide whether world problems will be settled via economic treaties, at the expense of selfish aims, or via force, at another kind of expense.

MOVIES—Historically taboo, motion pictures may now be shown in Vermont on the Sabbath under local option.

KNEES—No clothing which exposed the knees could be worn in Provincetown, Mass., under an ordinance which was passed, then withdrawn because no record was kept of the vote.

POKER—U. S. card manufacturers report more women now play poker, also that it may supplant bridge as No. 1 card game.

MEDICINE—James B. Conant, Harvard president, recommends one eight-year course to replace two current four-year courses for physicians.

Defense

Last December President Roosevelt's arms expansion program had more foes than friends in the still-to-convene seventy-sixth congress. Two months later it had more friends, thanks to clever White House publicity maneuvers and a lot of saber-rattling in Europe. The house passed 367 to 15 an administration bill to spend $376,000,000 extra on defense the next two years. (Same day, Great Britain voted about $1,000,000,000 more for arms.) Chief features are boosting the army's aviation force to 5,500 first line planes and making the Panama canal impregnable. Certain of passage was the Vinson naval expansion bill to spend $68,000,000 on naval air and submarine bases.

But there was little unity in this new strength. Closely allied to rearmament is the problem of U. S. military alliances with other democracies, since the threat that inspired American rearmament is the same threat that makes France and Britain jittery. After a California air crash revealed U. S. manufacturers were selling military planes to France, after President Roosevelt denied telling a senate military affairs committee that U. S. "frontiers are in France," the White House-congress foreign policy debate came out in full bloom. Questions: (1) Shall the U. S. keep its foreign policy secret? (2) Is President Roosevelt risking involvement in war through secret international deals?

After a week's debate there presumably were no longer any secrets about either the French deal or the administration's foreign policy. Actual cause of the rumpus was apparently removed, but not congressional resentment.

Thundered California's Sen. Hiram Johnson: "No epithets applied to senators or newspapers will relieve the situation of its secrecy. . . . There is resentment among the administration that anybody should ask the facts. But if there comes a war it will not be fought by the President alone . . . Facts themselves are startling. Faced with U. S. military orders under the new defense bill, plane manufacturers already have their hands full with export orders. Starting with $25,000,000 in 1936, plane exports have roughly doubled annually, approximating $200,000,000 this year. In the past eight months France and Britain have ordered 1,200 ships. Chief congressional wonder is which orders will get precedence, U. S. or foreign. Meanwhile aircraft firms are reluctant to expand their plants to satisfy production requirements which may be only temporary.

SENATOR JOHNSON

Europe

In modern Europe no month is complete without its crisis. January's crisis was Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's visit to Rome. February's was the fall of Barcelona and its decisive implications. In March the crisis will again center on Spain if three signs mean anything:

(1) Germany and Italy have helped Spain's Insurgents win their battle thus far, France and England siding with Loyalists because they were anti-Fascist. Today, with Loyalists on the run, Britain has granted de facto recognition to Gen. Francisco Franco's Insurgents, encouraging France to fall in line. Obviously a policy of expediency, the Anglo-French overture is accompanied by financial offers to help rebuild Spain. In wooing Franco, Paris and London will positively arouse the Rome-Berlin axis to new wrath.

(2) Combined British home fleets will maneuver around Gibraltar in March, just as Germany completes its most thorough mobilization since last autumn's much-feared troop concentration. Meanwhile Italy is doubling its garrison in Libya (adjoining France's African Tunisia) as an admitted step in retaliation against reputedly increased Tunisian garrisons.

(3) Closer conformation of Anglo-French policy is seen in London's declaration to help Paris in event of war, also in Britain's de facto recognition of Insurgent Spain while awaiting official French action. Such parallel policies, coupled with the bold British decision to spend $1,000,000,000 more on armament, illustrate how Europe's two de-mocracies are drawing closer together and preparing to meet the next totalitarian demands. Probably these demands will be Italian territorial claims against France, coming immediately after the Spanish war.

Meanwhile that war has gone merrily on its way as Gen. Jose Miaja finds himself practically the boss of Loyalist Spain's civil and military branches. With an estimated 500,000 unenthusiastic soldiers under his command, General Miaja recently heard that his friend General Franco was about to charge against Valencia and Madrid with 1,000,000 men.

Labor

In Washington John L. Lewis could peek at the calendar for March realizing it probably held the fate of his Congress for Industrial Organization. At the core of trouble is United Automobile Workers of America, torn during January when President Homer Martin simultaneously resigned and was booted from C. I. O.'s executive board. Reason: U. A. W. underlings thought Mr. Martin was conniving for personal control of Ford Motor company's heretofore independent labor vote, while Mr. Martin thought C. I. O. was turning communistic. Now split in two factions, U. A. W. opens a pro-Martin convention in Detroit during early March, and an anti-Martin parley in Cleveland March 27.

First victory was scored by the Martin faction when property of U. A. W.'s Plymouth local (Detroit) was pulled from court custody and returned to Martin cohorts. Still pending is a replevin suit instituted by anti-Martinites.

To rumors that he might lead U. A. W. into alliance with William Green's American Federation of Labor, Mr. Martin answered with an emphatic negative. Daily winning public support from such Lewis henchmen as Sidney Hillman and Philip Murray, Mr. Martin stands a good chance of emerging not only as undisputed head of U. A. W., but as leader in a C. I. O. conservative movement.

People

In Moscow, Secretary Earl Browder of the American Communist party hailed President Roosevelt, Cuba's Col. Fulgencio Batista and Mexico's President Lázaro Cárdenas as opponents of Fascism. ● Breaking a bottle of champagne to dedicate an aquacade at New York's World fair, Swimmer Eleanor Holm was cut by flying glass. ● One hundred and two years old, Banker Edmund J. Reardon of Cambridge, Mass., celebrated his birthday by staying away from the office. ● Having too many other responsibilities, President Walter S. Gifford of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, will resign as a director of the United States Steel corporation April 3.

WHAT to EAT and WHY

C. Houston Goudiss Helps to Answer the Question: What to Eat During Lent?

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

A CLERGYMAN friend of mine once remarked that in his opinion, Lent lasts far too long. He had reference, I believe, to the fact that in a swift-moving age, people might be more apt to keep Lent faithfully, if it terminated in a shorter period than 40 days.

Many homemakers, I feel sure, would echo his sentiments, but for a rather different reason! Numbers of them, I know, find the six weeks of Lent the most troublesome of the entire year. Their difficulty lies in planning meatless meals that satisfy hearty appetites. And since the weather is often bitterly cold in late February and early March, families usually seem hungrier, and harder to satisfy, than at almost any other season.

A Chance for Variety

Lent does challenge the homemaker to exercise imagination and ingenuity. But it also provides a golden opportunity to get out of a menu rut, if you happen to be one of those people who follow a set formula most of the year. It may, likewise, offer a chance to make some significant savings in your food budget.

Most of us feel that meat makes the meal. And it cannot be denied that its savory extractives give it a most appetizing and intriguing flavor. But there are a number of other foods which contain proteins of equal biological value. Furthermore, nutritionists hold that it is desirable to obtain protein from a number of different sources. That is because different protein foods contain varying amounts of different amino acids; and by eating a variety of protein foods, we can best obtain a wide assortment of these "building stones" of the body.

For Meatless Meals

Fish comes to mind, first of all, as a main dish for the meal that does not include meat. For those who are far from the source of supply of fresh-caught fish, there are the quick-frozen varieties, the dried and salted fish, such as finnan haddie, shredded codfish and block cod, and 27 types of canned fish and shell fish.

Canned salmon is one of the least expensive of all protein foods. And so many things can be said in its favor that one nationally known food authority referred to it as the most nutritious animal food that could be had for children over six. It is a notable source of minerals, especially calcium, phosphorus and iodine, and contains vitamins A, D, and G.

Cheese in Many Forms

Cheese is another splendid source of protein that should be used more freely, not only during Lent but throughout the entire year. It is high in energy values. And in addition, it contains the milk minerals, calcium and phosphorus, and is a good source of vitamin A. Cheese is so flavorful that it adds zest to any meal at which it is served. And it certainly should interest the homemaker with an eye to thrift. For a little goes a long way. It is, therefore, an ideal food around which to build nourishing, appetizing and economical meals.

Macaroni, Spaghetti and Noodles

Cheese is especially good when combined with such foods as macaroni, spaghetti or egg noodles. It affords a pleasing flavor contrast. And it helps to balance the menu.

AROUND THE HOUSE
Use for Old Velvet.—A good polishing cloth for silver can be made from an old piece of velvet.

When Making Mustard.—Add a drop of salad oil. This improves the flavor and appearance.

Table Knives.—If handles are stained, a good rubbing with a soft cloth sprinkled with peroxide of hydrogen will restore them to their original color.

When Washing a Sweater.—Before washing a woolen sweater which has buttons and buttonholes, sew up the buttonholes to prevent their stretching.

Steamed-Up Bathrooms.—Bathrooms can be prevented from filling with steam if the cold-water tap is allowed to run a short while before the hot is turned on.

Washing Flour Sieves.—Always wash flour sieves in soda water, never in soapy water, as particles of soap may adhere and give a soapy taste to foods put through the sieve.

—in two ways. First, the proteins of cheese supplement those found in wheat from which macaroni products are made. Secondly, cheese contains a substantial amount of fat, which teams well with high carbohydrate foods, such as any of those made from the cereal grains. Cheese may also be combined with vegetables, to make another balanced food team. The cheese contributes proteins, energy values, and minerals, while the vegetables are an outstanding source of cellulose or bulk, as well as vitamins and minerals.

Don't Overlook Nuts and Legumes

Legumes are one group of vegetables which are high in energy values. They also contain protein which is suitable for repairing worn-out body tissue. Dried beans, peas and lentils may therefore be used as a main dish at Lenten meals, replacing both meat and potatoes. There are many varieties of ready-cooked beans on the market, packed in both glass and tin. And dried lima beans are particularly well-suited to being made into croquettes, patties, loaves, chowders and ragouts.

Nuts are another possibility for Lenten meals that should be considered by every homemaker. They, too, can be used for croquettes and nut loaves, as well as souffles and casserole combinations. Nuts can be combined with vegetables for a main-course dish . . . with fruit for dessert. In the form of nut butters, they make a nourishing spread for luncheon sandwiches.

Moreover, each type of nut has a distinctive taste, and walnuts, peanuts, brazil nuts and pecans, for example, each make a thoroughly delightful dish, with a flavor quite different from the others.

Most homemakers will also want to use eggs more frequently during Lent, because they are so readily available and easily prepared. This is commendable, because besides being a fine source of protein, eggs rank next to milk as a protective food.

Only a few of the many possibilities for Lent have been suggested in this brief review. But surely they give a hint of the many good and nutritious foods a homemaker can choose on those days when she plans meatless meals.

Questions Answered

Mrs. F. H. H.—One glass of whole milk is said to supply about one-tenth of the day's protein requirement for a woman in normal health. A medium-sized egg likewise furnishes 10 per cent of the day's protein requirement.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action
Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.
You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
Use Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to get rid of excess poisonous body waste. They are antiseptic to the urinary tract and tend to relieve irritation and the pain it causes. Many grateful people recommend Doan's. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Ask your neighbor!

HEALTH

—By Dr. James W. Barton—

IT WOULD be safe to say that at least two of every five adults have varicose veins to some degree—thighs, legs, ankles, lower bowel (hemorrhoids), scrotum (varicocele) and elsewhere. Fortunately most cases require no treatment as no symptoms are present. There are a great number of cases of varicose veins in the legs, sometimes accompanied by varicose ulcers difficult to heal. Just what should or should not be done is often a problem to these patients.

Dr. Barton

As a guide to patients and physicians in the treatment of varicose veins, Doctors Howard R. Mahorner and Alton Oschner, New Orleans, offer some suggestions in Annals of Surgery. They recommend the use of a tight band or tourniquet across different levels of the thigh—upper third, the mid thigh and the lower third. When the patient walks with the tourniquet applied the varicosities—swollen, twisted parts of veins—do not stand out as much as when standing still or walking without the tourniquet, but in certain instances there are different degrees of improvement with the tourniquet at different levels.

Treatment—by injection or operation—is not recommended in advanced age, lowered vitality, pregnancy, tumors or inflammation of veins (phlebitis).

'Hardening' Substance Used.
The "active" treatment consists of injecting the veins with a "hardening" substance which causes them to dry up, or removing portions of the veins by operation.

Cases chosen for the injection method are:

1. Early cases with small varicose veins of the calf or lower leg in which the deep veins will return the blood to the heart when the varicose veins are destroyed.
2. Certain cases which refuse operation.

3. Cases where patients dislike idea of operation but are willing to undergo injection treatment at present time.
The combined injection and surgical treatment is used in cases with moderate or severe varicosities where there are no conditions present which would prevent good and safe results.

Where the condition of the varicose veins is not considered severe enough to require injection or operation, rest, keeping legs up on chair or higher as much as possible, and the use of elastic stockings and bandages is recommended.

Appendicitis Deaths Can Be Decreased

When the death rate for appendicitis in one large city is about three times that of another large city, there must be some reason other than the skill of the surgeons or the staff and equipment of the hospitals.

Dr. Mont R. Reid, Cincinnati, in Surgery, states that the lapse of time between the onset of the symptoms and operating appears to be the important factor in determining the death rate. For example in Philadelphia where the length of time between the appearance of the first symptoms and operation is 49 hours, the death rate is 11 per 100,000; whereas in Cincinnati, where the death rate is over 30 per 100,000.

Statistics also show that the taking of purgatives definitely increases the death rate.

In communities where intensive campaigns have been conducted to educate the public with respect to dangers of delaying operation and taking purgatives, the death rate has been greatly reduced and doctors have been forced by public sentiment to adopt the policy of advising immediate consultation with a surgeon in cases of acute unruptured appendicitis.

Early Operations Necessary.
Just as a physician would not refuse to use antitoxin for diphtheria, so should the physician, in the light of the knowledge that early operation lowers the death rate in appendicitis, not neglect to advise this early operation.

Dr. Reid also states that in his experience when he is sure an acute unruptured appendix is present, he advises immediate surgery. "I have long since refused the responsibility of 'observing' any case of acute appendicitis. In my practice this must be borne by the patient or his family."

Another point is that while the typical or "usual" signs of appendicitis—pain that starts in region of stomach and then shifts down to lower right side of abdomen and stays there, together with nausea and vomiting—are found in the majority of cases, the appendix may be situated at other than its regular position and so not give the usual symptoms.

PETER IN SAMARIA

LESSON TEXT—Acts 8:14-25.
GOLDEN TEXT—Come ye, buy, and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price.—Isaiah 55:1.

Commercialism certainly should have no place in the Christian Church. But in an age that will even commercialize a man's love for his mother, it is small wonder that the great holy days of the Church—Christmas and Easter—have become the special object of profit-seeking purveyors of everything from hats to whisky. New Year's day, Thanksgiving day, Mother's day, Father's day, any day at all, becomes just another opportunity to take a man's money, waste his time, and possibly to destroy his soul. It is high time that intelligent folk make effective protest against such perversion of sacred things.

The Scripture lesson for today tells of one who went so far as to try to buy the power of God for money, that he might use it to get gain for himself, failing to realize that the power of God is a gift and to be used only for His glory.

I. Spiritual Power—the Gift of God (vv. 14-17).

The Holy Spirit who is the third person of the blessed Trinity had called Philip, a layman, and sent him forth to preach in Samaria. Men and women were converted, and when the church at Jerusalem heard of it, they sent Peter and John to give counsel and help to the new converts. Through the laying on of hands these received the gift of the Holy Spirit even as we now receive Him the moment we believe on Christ.

What a glorious truth it is that the believer is indwelt by the Holy Spirit (I Cor. 6:19). Thus even the humblest believer has in Him the One who redeems man, gives grace for holy living, and empowers for service. The greatest power in all the world is consequently available to every true and yielded believer. Gone then are all excuses for weak and careless living. Gone is every ground for claiming that one cannot serve God. The power and grace are His, and He gives them to His followers as a gift. Christian friend, are you giving, the Holy Spirit of God liberty to infill and use you as He will?

II. Spiritual Power—Not for Sale (vv. 18-24).

Men who put their trust in money are prone to think that one can buy anything. They say with Walpole, "Every man has his price." But they are wrong. There are men and women in the world who cannot be bought, and it is even more certain that the best things that life can give a man have no price tag on them—a mother's love, friendship, fellowship with God, the Holy Spirit's power—these among many others are not for sale.

Simon, a professed believer, recognized that these followers of Jesus had a great power which he thought to buy for his own business as a magician. His was a very gross and blatant effort to do what many have done in the Church, and are doing today, by more skillful and sometimes by under-cover methods. There are those who by holding the purse strings seek to control the message of the preacher, or who use their financial influence to obtain control of church organizations and institutions. Their efforts are doomed to ultimate failure, but the present harm they do to the cause of Christ is appalling. Many a church and pastor would be far better off if they could rise up and say with Peter, "Thy money perish with thee."

III. Spiritual Power—for Testimony (v. 25).

Peter and John set the Samaritan believers a good example by permitting the Spirit of God to use them to testify and preach the Word of the Lord in many villages. The Holy Spirit does "not speak of himself," but guides the believer "in all truth" (John 16:13), and His primary ministry is to glorify Christ (John 16:14). It follows that the outstanding mark of a Spirit-born and Spirit-filled believer is his desire to speak of and to glorify Christ.

Such a testimony will be "not in words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth" (I Cor. 2:13), and will bear fruit for eternity.

A Common Adversary
Much contempt and hatred towards erring humanity would be averted—and instead compassion would be excited—if we kept constantly in mind the humbling thought that we have the same common adversary! Indeed, such realization would elicit prayer in lieu of caustic criticism.

The Word Chance
By the word chance we merely express our ignorance of the cause of any fact or effect—not that we think that chance was itself the cause.—Henry Ferguson.

In the middle of the first week at York, business called Phil back to town; and Linda of course came with him. That night at home, her father, watching her, discovering her increasing distress, spoke doubtfully.

"I know how you love Phil, Lin," he said. "Your mother and I understand. But—we hate to see your life broken by it. If he feels he must be with his mother—"

"I'll wait," she said.

He shook his head. "That isn't fair," he urged. "Not fair to yourself—or to us, Lin. We've been sympathetic, but—we want you to be happy, some day. Please."

"I'd rather be unhappy, loving Phil, even if I never can have him."

"It isn't even fair to Phil," he insisted; and Linda cried, her self-control for a moment cracking:

"Oh, be still! What do I care what's fair? There's no fairness in it, anyway. Fair? Was it fair for this to happen to Phil? To all of them? Is it fair to me that I can't have him now?"

And then, suddenly contrite, seeing his sorrow, she was in his arms, weeping. "Oh father, father, what am I going to do?"

He held her close. "There, Lin!" he told her. "Sorry. I didn't mean to make it harder. Whatever you do, we're standing by."

"So am I," she whispered. "So am I. But I'm awful sick of it. It's so long, long, long—"

Yet with Phil in the office next morning she managed as always to be steady, reassuring, calm. While he dictated, his eyes rested inattentively on her head, bowed above her notebook; but his thoughts were on his dictation, till as the last letter was done he stopped in mid-sentence, staring at the hair above her brow.

She looked up inquiringly, and he finished the letter; but when she had gone to her typewriter and he was alone, he was troubled and full of a deep, protective concern. Unmistakably, in the dark masses of Linda's hair, there were threads of gray.

He thought, incredulously, that she was no older than Barbara Twenty-one? Twenty-two? She had been, through these months, so composed that it had not occurred to him to think of her as suffering, weary and torn and tired from giving herself without stint so long. She must rest, he decided, must give up the work here; and he considered how to tell her so. When a little after noon, in her car, she started for York again, he began to make an opening for this suggestion.

"You know, Lin," he said, "you've carried me through all this. I don't know what I'd have done without you to talk to. It has helped a lot, just—worrying out loud to you."

If there was bitterness in her smile he did not see it. "Of course," she said. "That's what I'm here for, isn't it, Phil? At least I can do that much for you."

He said, half-smiling: "You keep me going, and I keep mother going. That's what it amounts to."

Her glance flashed toward him almost angrily. "You enjoy feeling that you're indispensable to her, don't you?" Her tone was a challenge.

"I—suppose so," he admitted. "At least it's a job to do."

"If she told you you were just a nuisance, you'd probably be angry, or hurt."

"Yes, probably."

"You know," she said resentfully, "I think that's often the way. We hang on and hang on, telling ourselves we're important, when as a matter of fact we're just—boring people. I'm not at all sure that we couldn't help more by taking care of ourselves, letting other people go their own road."

He smiled. "You can't mean I've—bothered mother?"

"Well, no one can learn to walk till they get rid of their crutch, Phil." Her tone was gentle now, yet she said: "You've been her crutch. It's about time she learned to walk alone."

"I couldn't leave her, Linda!"

"Oh, I suppose not," she assented briefly. They were at the moment stalled in traffic. When now the green light released them, she meshed the gears with a clashing vehemence that was somehow eloquent, and let in the clutch so sharply that the car leaped jerkily ahead. He said, trying to laugh:

"Whoa! Trying to break our necks?"

"Sorry!" But she did not sound sorry; and she spoke in a sharp decision. "Phil, you'd better tell Miss Randall to find you a new stenographer. I'll stay till she gets someone; but then I'm through."

He had meant, a while ago, to tell her just this; to tell her that he could not let her any longer sacrifice her youth and her happiness to him; to tell her that she must leave him. But now at her word he felt a deep hurt and loss.

"Had enough?" he asked in level tones.

"I'm tired, too tired to keep it up. I may go abroad, anywhere."

"Well, you're wise," he agreed carefully. "Summer's a hot, hard time. But of course, I'll miss you!"

"You'll find somebody easily enough."

"Oh yes, don't worry, Lin. We'll get along."

"People do, don't they?"

"Yes. Yes, somehow."

She laughed mirthlessly. "I've been—flattering myself persuading myself you couldn't do without me."

"Well, you've helped a lot, Lin. Probably I won't realize how much till I have to go it alone."

"Oh, you'll get used to it! And—you'll never learn to walk till you throw away your crutch. I'm tired of being a crutch, anyway."

They were clear of the worst traffic, came to the straight reaches of the Turnpike, sped a while in silence.

"See here, Lin," he protested at deep intoxication in his tones. He said, like one awakening, "Why—I must be crazy, Lin!"

"Crazy? Phil, what do you—"

"Sure, crazy! Why, I honestly thought, Lin, that I could let you go!"

Her eyes, probing his, quickened at what she saw. Her head rose, her cheeks were bright!

She looked ahead, as though searching for something. There was a cross-road, of rough gravel. She swung the car into it, drove it bounding up a steep slope till from the crest lowlands spread far and green below them, and they were alone. She stopped there, and stilled the engine, and turned to him, and smiled.

"Now—what were you saying, Phil?" she suggested politely.

"Please—" Then her voice broke, and she could no longer smile, and her eyes were full. "Oh Phil, please—please go on!"

Early in September, Mrs. Sentry suddenly decided to go to Cleveland to see Barbara, and Phil must go along. He and Linda had not told with them, smiling, calling words of farewell. Her eyes held his as the train slid away.

"Well," said Mrs. Sentry then, "it's nice to have you to myself for a while. Of course Linda's sweet; but she's with us so much."

Phil colored, and pretended to look out of the window so that she might not see. "Be nice to see Barb again," he remarked. "And Dan."

She chuckled. "I have a few things to say to Dan!"

"What about?"

"I haven't told you," she confessed, "but Barbara is going to have a baby. She wrote me last week. That's why I decided to go out to Cleveland."

"But—that's great, mother!" Phil cried. "Is she all right?"

"Of course she's all right! Why shouldn't she be? But Dan's salary is ridiculously inadequate. They can't afford a baby."

He grinned. "Lots of people do, on less!"

"Lots of people do lots of things I don't expect Barbara to have to do."

Phil said cheerfully, "You know,

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: I am a bride of six months and your Book 1—SEWING for the Home Decorator has certainly been a life saver for me. I have turned to it for help when making things for every room in our little house. The guest room is next. I would like to use yellow to brighten it up. What color could be combined with this? My smart effects must be accomplished with spare minutes rather than expensive materials, so I would appreciate a helpful hint along this line.—M. S."

If you really want to make that yellow guest room smart, use touches of brown to add characsketches. Book 2, Gifts, Novelties and Embroidery, will give you a new interest. It contains complete directions for making many useful things. Books are 25 cents each. If you order both books, a crazypatch quilt leaflet is included FREE; it illustrates 36 authentic embroidery stitches in detail. Address Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplains St., Chicago, Ill.

TIPS to Gardeners

Making the Garden Pay

VEGETABLE gardens are grown to provide fresher, more nourishing food for the family, and to conserve on food bills. Therefore, crops must be wisely chosen and systematically planted.

According to Walter H. Nixon, vegetable expert, the most important vegetables considered both for food value and garden space required are: Beans, cabbage, carrots, beets, squash, tomatoes, onions, peas and spinach.

To get the most from garden space, plant two crops of spinach, one in spring, the other in late summer. Plant Chinese cabbage and parsnips about midsummer in space occupied earlier by beans, radishes and peas. Make successive plantings of carrots and beets for a steady supply of small tender roots.

Plant bush beans and beets on both sides of tomato rows. When tomatoes need the space, those earlier crops will have been pulled and used.

Corn can be worked into the garden plan even though there is not such space. Plant spinach or beets or green onions between rows of slower-growing corn. Then grow pole beans (cornfield beans) to climb on the corn stalks.

I have sketched an idea for you here. Mark your material with little dashes about six inches apart and then make the tassels as shown. For the bedspread, reverse the color scheme, using yellow tassels on brown material. Several rows of the tassels may make a border for spread or curtains instead of an all-over design if desired.

Now is the time for all of us to give our houses a fresh start. Crisp new curtains; a bright slip-cover; new lampshades; or an ottoman will do the trick. Make these things yourself. Mrs. Spears' Book 1—SEWING for the Home Decorator, shows you how with step-by-step, easy to follow

SAFETY TALKS

Most Hazardous Occupation

MOST farmers probably would scorn the use of industry's steel-toed safety shoes, hard hats to protect their heads from falling objects, and goggles with unbreakable lenses to ward off sparks from the grindstone and splinters from the wood-cutting power saw. If this be true, it may possibly account for agriculture ranking first as the most hazardous of occupational enterprises.

The National Safety Council reports that of 19,500 fatalities in occupational accidents during 1937, agriculture, or farm accidents, contributed 4,500. Trade and service industries were responsible for another 4,500 accidental deaths. All other industries experienced fewer accident fatalities during that year, the council said.

last. "You—sound bitter. Mad. That's not like you."

Her lips twisted; he thought they quivered, too, and there was a thickness in her tones.

"Why shouldn't I be bitter, and mad?" she demanded; and then she said: "Oh, I know I've no one to blame but myself!" She stepped on the throttle viciously; the car leaped ahead. "Goodness knows you don't encourage me! But like a fool I kept hoping—"

"You're hitting sixty, Lin!"

"I want to hit sixty," she retorted. "I want to hit seventy, eighty!" The car was racing.

"Stop it, Lin!" he insisted. "Slow down." And he said, "I'll cut the switch, unless you do."

"Oh, all right." She dropped to a fifty that by comparison seemed like crawling; and she said:

"I've hung on, and hung on, hoping some day you'd want me so bad you'd forget your father, and your mother, and how much she needed you, and everything. I guess I was a fool, that's all. Your mother doesn't really need you, and Barbara doesn't. Nobody needs you but me—" Her voice broke. "I need you awfully, Phil," she pleaded. "Can't you see? And you need me."

He said, staring straight ahead: "I love you, Lin, God knows. But—it isn't only that mother needs me. It's—that nobody—that I can't marry anybody."

She drove on, and he watched the road, and the road sped to meet them mile on mile. Mile on mile, and she was an automaton, like one frozen, at the wheel; and his eyes were bleak on emptiness; and the road raced toward them like a ribbon, dove beneath them, so was gone.

He watched the traffic light shine green half a mile ahead; saw it yellow and then red as they drew near. They were close. They were upon it! He cried in quick alarm:

"Lin! Red light!"

Her brakes bit—just in time. They slewed and swerved and skidded to a stop with bare inches to spare. The driver bawled something, furiously, and was gone.

The lights changed. Linda, still in that stony silence, meshed her gears and crossed the intersection. She picked up speed; and then Phil cried suddenly:

"Stop, Lin! Slow down!"

She obeyed, staring at him. "What's the matter?"

Phil laughed, and there was a

Mrs. Sentry what lay between them. Linda, her point won, yielded to his desire to delay the disclosure for a while.

The day of their departure for Cleveland, Phil was in the office in the forenoon, said good-by to Linda there, then went home to finish his packing and go directly from the house to the afternoon train. When old Eli drove him and his mother to the Trinity Place station, Phil was surprised to find Linda waiting on the platform.

"Just some papers for you to look over while you're away, Phil," she explained; and she handed him a long envelope, unsealed. He saw that she had written on the outside: Open this when you are alone.

And she explained: "Routine things. Don't bother with them now."

So Phil thrust the envelope into his pocket, and they all stayed talking together till the train pulled in. Mrs. Sentry went first up the steps, and she did not look back, so Phil was able to kiss Linda before he followed his mother aboard. He saw through the windows Linda move along beside the car, keeping pace you're secretly hoping she'll need you to take care of her for a while."

"Don't be absurd! My place is with you!"

"Oh, I'd get along," he said, and wished to say, "You know, Linda and I—" But his mother's eyes swung shrewdly toward him before he could speak, and his courage failed; and she smiled at nothing and said:

"Russian Bank, Phil? It helps pass the time."

It was hours later and he was in his berth, undressed and about to turn out his light, when he remembered that envelope Linda had given him, still in the pocket of his coat on the hanger here beside him. He reached up and got it and drew out the contents. There was a note from Linda herself:

Dear—

Take all my love with you, Phil. This letter came to the office addressed to you, after you left today. It's from Mary, so I didn't open it. Since it's addressed to you, I thought perhaps she didn't want your mother to know about it. That's why I was so mysterious.

And my dearest love to my dearest. Come back soon.

Bumble Bee Colony May Number Up to 300 or 400; Put in Very Busy Summer

The bumble, or humble, bee is recognized by its large, thick hairy body and long bass hum. The colonies are not numerous compared with those of wasps, or the stingless or the honey bee. A populous colony may number from 300 to 400 individuals, according to a writer in the Indianapolis News. The proportions of sexes and castes of some species have been found to be, in a colony of 120, 25 females, 36 males and 59 workers. The roundish oval cells differ in size and have no exact arrangement. Besides the cells containing the young, the old discarded ones are made to serve as honey tubs or pollen tubs.

The queen bee awakens in early spring from her winter's sleep under the leaves or moss, or in deserted nests, and selects a nesting place, generally in an abandoned nest of a field mouse, or beneath a stump or sod, and immediately collects a small amount of pollen mixed with honey, and in this deposits from seven to fourteen eggs, gradually adding to the pollen mass until the first brood is hatched. As soon as food enough has been collected, she lays the eggs for the second brood. As soon as the larvae are capable of motion and begin feeding, they eat the pollen by which they are surrounded, and gradually separating, push their way in various directions. When they have attained their full size they spin a silken wall about them, which is strengthened by the old bees covering it with a thin layer of wax. When the larvae reach the pupa stage, at which time they remain inactive until their development, they cut their way out and are ready to assume their duties.

The first brood that comes forth usually is composed of workers; about the middle of the summer eggs are deposited which produce both small females and males. All eggs laid after the last of July produce the large females or queens. On the approach of winter, all except the queens, of which there are several in each nest, die.

IT'S A HIT! The NEW Firestone CHAMPION TIRE

Because IT'S THE ONLY TIRE MADE WITH THE NEW SAFETY-LOCK CORD BODY and GEAR-GRIP TREAD

CAR OWNERS everywhere are acclaiming the extra blowout protection and non-skid safety of the new Firestone Champion Tire. And automobile manufacturers, knowing its outstanding performance, have adopted it for their new 1939 models. On every hand you hear, "It's the most effective tire we have ever had on wet pavement and in mud and snow!" It's the hit of 1939!

The Firestone Champion Tire is a completely new achievement in safety engineering and the result of a new and revolutionary means of locking greater safety into the cord body of a tire. This is accomplished first by the use of a new type of tire cord called "Safety-Lock," in which the cotton fibers are more compactly interwoven to give greater strength. And then the fibers in each individual cord, the cords in each ply and the plies themselves are all securely locked together by a new and advanced Firestone process of Gum-Dipping, which provides amazingly greater strength—and greater strength means greater safety.

The new Safety-Lock cord construction gives the added strength that makes possible the use of the new thicker, tougher, deeper Firestone Gear-Grip Tread, which provides remarkably longer non-skid mileage. This sensational new

It is possible that when spring comes, new Treasury department regulations will govern the issuing of passes to those who wish to go to the piers to welcome friends and relatives arriving on ocean liners. Under present rules, only one pass for each passenger is permitted. To enforce such a regulation would necessitate checking the entire passenger list of each ship. What a task that would be can be imagined when it is known that from 500 to 700 applications for such passes are made each day at the customhouse. The procedure is simple. The applicant merely fills in a blank, which has spaces for his name, the name of the passenger and the ship and his relationship to the passenger. If the clerk handling the application doesn't happen to remember a request involving the same passenger, the pass is issued. Hence, few passengers are welcomed by only one pier visitor. Usually there is a whole party waiting for the ship to dock.

Limitations on the number of pier passes have a practical purpose. The pass admits the holder to the baggage enclosure. When a liner docks, the pier immediately becomes a place of great activity. Baggage must come ashore and be inspected by customs officials as quickly as possible. The giant liners of today have huge piers. But they also attract huge crowds. The crowds get in the way and cause confusion and delay. Customs men and police at the gates are firm in their refusal to admit any except holders of passes. In fact, those gates are just about the only ones in New York that can't be crashed. The trouble is that too many passes are issued. A recent arrival on one of the big liners found 23 friends waiting for him on the pier.

Barring all visitors was considered at a recent conference of officials who are wrestling with the problem. It is doubtful if that will be done, however, because of protests by travelers and shipping interests. But if they can be worked out, new and more effective measures of limitation will be put into effect before the rush season next summer.

When Frankie Burke, Jimmy Cagney's double, came here for the opening of "Angels With Dirty Faces," he stopped at the Warwick hotel. Burke, whose real name is Vasselie and whose family comes from southern Italy while Cagney's comes from southern Ireland despite their similarity in features, was discovered hopping bells in a hotel down in Las Vegas, N. M. His home is in Brooklyn and when he reached his seventeenth birthday, he started out looking for a job and didn't find it until he reached Las Vegas. One of the places in New York where he applied in vain was the Warwick hotel.

Youngsters of this modern age seem to get their thrills in reverse. David and Armand, 11-year-old twins; Renee, aged 10, and Heidi-Ann, 6 children of Armand Denis and Leila Roosevelt Denis, explorers, recently returned from an 11,000-mile flying trip with nothing exciting to report except a short train ride. They flew with their parents on a good-will trip to 50 cities with the picture "Dark Rapture," which Mr. and Mrs. Denis filmed in the Belgian Congo. To keep from getting bored on the long flight, the children took along their pets, white mice, flying squirrels and a pair of pink snakes, also a movie camera.

The incident that saved the trip from being a total loss to them occurred at Omaha. There the plane was forced down by weather conditions, so the family made the short jump to Des Moines by railroad. Wildly excited by what they looked on as a novel form of transportation, the Denis kids wanted to ride with the engineer, blow the whistle and shovel coal and though denied such a privilege came to their home near Putnam, Conn., real railroad fans. Now they are looking forward to a horse and buggy ride promised them by the village doctor.

Front Line Soldier Writes Best Seller

TOKYO.—From the war front in China has come a book which today is breaking all existing records for best sellers in Japan. The author, Sergt. Ashira Hino, is a front-line soldier now fighting in central China. His book was written during rest periods in marches over rugged mountains in the Wuhan area. The title, "Mugi to Heitai," may be translated "Wheat and the Soldier." The sergeant has turned over all royalties to the war office. Sales so far are well over 1,000,000 copies.

Makes a Living Out of Plaster

Jobless Family Finds Molding of Figurines Is Profitable Work.

OLMSTEAD FALLS, OHIO.—Father's unemployment was fortunate instead of tragic for the William Crowley family—they now have a thriving home industry which is profitable for all.

Crowley, temporarily without a job, decided to spend his time to some advantage and began experimenting with creating plaster figures. His studio was the family garage and his chief assistant, daughter Evelyn, who was convalescing from pneumonia. Eighteen-year-old Evelyn sketched the Crowley dog and other animals and her father followed the sketches in making his figurines.

Labor Is Divided.

Then the rest of the family joined forces. "Here is the division of labor," Crowley explained.

"Evelyn makes the preliminary sketch, I do the plaster carving and molding, 15-year-old William Jr. is responsible for the casting, aided by Charles, who is 11, and Mrs. Crowley paints the figures. Eight-year-old Bob takes care of the jars and brushes. Our three dogs and three cats pose as models."

He said the family has perfected a durable composition for statues and a washable finish, but the formulas for both processes are secret.

"In less than a year in business we have sold more than 2,000 novelty art objects to shops in Cleveland and other cities, including Berea, Fairview, Ashtabula and Elyria. We have also sold some objects to Buffalo stores," Crowley said.

Comic Figures Made.

"The objects range from statues of Washington and Lincoln to comic cowboy figures.

"As for our factory, it has expanded until it includes the garage, furnace room and the summer kitchen."

He added that he is employed again, but he spends all his spare time working at home. "Give up the business because I have a job again? No, I wouldn't think of doing that," he said. "There are too many interesting things to find out about this line to give it up."

Faithful Clock Is Voted

'Pension' by Town Board

WISCONSIN RAPIDS.—The old town clock here has outlasted an economy move and now ticks into its declining years with assistance of a $10 a month pension.

The common council voted the $10 a month over protests of aldermen who would have abandoned the clock after 46 years of service in the tower of the city library, formerly the city hall.

The old timepiece is a weight-wind clock and for the last 14 years kept the time without repair service of any sort. Recently an expert repaired the clock and charged $42.50.

The service charge roused advocates of economy, who said that $120 a year for clock repair was too much compared to $42.50 in 15 years, and, besides, the clock was pretty old.

The objections were beaten down by aldermen who asserted that a clock which gave good service for 46 years shouldn't be abandoned for a few dollars.

They voted the $10 monthly as a "special pension" with which to hire a special attendant to oil, repair and wind the clock every month.

Dual Controls Used in School Driving Classes

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—Driving instructors at 14 downstate high schools employ dual-control automobiles to teach students driving technique and rules, the division of highways announced today.

The division said that many of the other 630 high schools offering driver and highway instruction courses were providing actual driving practice for students in machines furnished by instructors and schools.

High schools employing dual-control automobiles were at Elgin, Belvidere, Moline, Carbondale and Charleston Teachers' College high school and Charleston high.

The division said preliminary arrangements are under way for the use of dual control-cars in high schools at Peoria, Spring Valley, Macomb and other downstate cities.

Professor Thinks Love Great Student Handicap

BIRMINGHAM.—Love is a great handicap to the accumulation of knowledge, according to Dr. Ray S. Musgrave, professor of psychology at Birmingham-Southern college.

Doctor Musgrave placed student romances at the top of the list of reasons for failures to pass courses. Next came parties and extra-curricular activities.

The well-known "grudge against the professor" and financial worries also were listed as chief factors making for bad marks.

But love tops them all, Doctor Musgrave said. "When a student is in love, he is unable to concentrate on his studies," he said.

School Notes

HIGH SCHOOL

The Sophomores are busy practicing their declamations, both, during and after school.
The Seniors will tender a pancake supper in the basement of the Baptist church Thursday evening, March 2. Serving will begin at 5:30. Excellent pancakes, pure Michigan maple syrup, and genuine pork sausage will be featured. The popular prices of thirty-five cents for adults and twenty-five cents for all grade pupils will prevail.

The Sophomores held a skating party at Island Lake Friday evening of last week. In addition to skating, hamburgers, hot dogs, coffee and cookies were featured. Eighteen class members attended.
The seventh-eighth grade room and high school were entertained Monday by two sound films loaned by the national government. The films were "With the Asiatic Fleet," and "Peiping, Land of Kahn," were furnished free and transportation also.

It is quite evident that the flu epidemic which is about the state has reached Tawas City. Thirty-five pupils were absent from the entire school Thursday. This causes the percentage of attendance for this particular day to approximately 85%.

Future Farmers Hold Meeting at Standish

Northeastern Michigan District Future Farmer Association held their 2nd annual district banquet and basketball tournament at Standish and Standish, February 16. The basketball tournament was held at Standish high school in the afternoon. Results were as follows: Standish won from East Tawas; Harrisville lost to Standish; Standish won from West Branch. In the play-offs Standish won over Standish. The farmettes from Harrisville defeated the farmettes of Standish in an exhibition game.

There were approximately 75 members present at the banquet which was served by the Senior class of Standish high school. The following chapters were present with their advisors: Standish, West Branch, Standish, Harrisville and East Tawas. A program of local talent was presented. Each chapter furnishing their star entertainers, Mr. Tulock, adviser of Standish chapter, presented the basket ball trophy to Standish chapter, and Mr. Holmquist, adviser of Harrisville chapter, presented the new officers who were elected in the afternoon business meeting. They were: President, Arthur Gibson, of Standish; Vice-President, Wm. Cain, of Standish; Secretary, Kenneth Holmes, of Harrisville; Treasurer, Leonard Dunn of West Branch; Reporter, Howard Bischoff, of East Tawas.

The next meeting of this association will be held at Harrisville in March, at which time a crops potato judging contest and the district speaking contest will be held.

Members of East Tawas F. F. A. who attended were Ray Cass, Harold Harger, Percy Frank, Jerry Haight, Wm. Brooks, George Heier, Leslie Summerville, Bobby Haight, Lyle Rosebush, Gilbert Moeller, Howard Bischoff, Eugene Lickfelt and Adviser Mr. Jewell.

With all available space sold out weeks ahead of its scheduled opening date, the Fifth Annual Bay City Builders Show will soon be a reality. This year's dates will be from February 25 to and including Sunday March 5, and the committee realizing that space would prohibit a larger show have concentrated all their efforts to make this year's exhibit pass anything yet attempted. Workmen have been busy the last ten days painting and setting up the decorations with a view of something novel and different. The new color scheme was taken from the New York World's Fair which is orange and blue.

While the Bay City show has always been considered one of the best exhibits in the state, nothing has been left undone to make this year's show the greatest of them all.

A new feature this year will be the employment of radio. A traveling "mike" and an announcer will interview the public each evening at 8:00 p. m. from the floor of the show. Another feature will be the daily appearance of Betty Vaughn who so capably represented Bay City on the Major Bowes program a few weeks ago. Space has also been set aside for the cooking school which has proven so popular in the past shows. The General Electric Kitchen will be rushed to Bay City direct from the Detroit Builders show so that the visitors will have an opportunity to see this great exhibit in actual operation.

Leonard Butrym; Decorations, A. Don Anderson; Announcements, Carl Babcock; Publicity, Merrill Pollard.
Already plans have been submitted for the decoration of the building which will present a display of beauty never before seen in a ball-room in this locality. This much has been made known, the trend is to modernism. And that should be interesting. It is the earnest desire of the committee that the spirit of fun and conviviality which always exists at a Yacht Club function will go far in inviting cooperation from the Tawasites in connection with the club program.
