Fear of Foreign Entanglement Brings Return to Isolationism -By Joseph W. La Bine-

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst, and not necessarily of the newspaper.

Domestic

Since President Roosevelt's "quarantine" speech at Chicago in October, 1937, U. S. public opinion has veered sharply and outspokenly against dictators, meanwhile making new friends for France, Britain and China. Washington's traditional policy of isolation and neutrality has well-nigh gone by the boards, thanks to Nazi Jew-baiting, Japan's threat to U.S. interests in China and dictator inroads throughout South America. Most heated U. S. speechmaker against Adolf Hitler has been Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, whose tirades presumably reflect White House senti-

Long-awaited reaction against foreign entanglement took root only a month ago when congress discovered the administration was sponsoring military plane sales to France and Britain. Today the issue of isolation is growing by leap and bound, not only as a question of foreign policy but as a political football headed for the 1940 presidential election. In less than one late February week enough shots were fired to constitute a definite

One reason for the bill was testimony that Mr. Roosevelt had ignored high military-naval officials in making the foreign deal. Another reason is Senator Nye's fear of an ultimate U. S. desire to sell planes to Germany, Italy, Japan or any other nation, thus producing a "vicious circle." Next day it became apparent the "vicious circle" had already been created internationally. A member of the civil aeronautics authority reportedly told the senate military affairs committee that Germany was willing to sell fighting planes to-of all nations -France. Europe

All European crisis since 1930 have been started by scheming Italy and Germany. With Europe well on its way to another nervous breakdown scheduled for mid-March, signs now indicate that Britain and France, lovers of peace and the status quo, may at least be blamed if not responsible—for the spring

Underlying every potential Euro-pean development is the Spanish war, whose early termination will leave Italy free to pursue Mediter-ranean territorial demands against France. This, because a Franco victory in Spain is an Italian vicvictory in Spain is an Italian victory, giving Il Duce more Mediterranean power. It would jeopardize not only France's colonies, but Britain's "lifeline" to the Far East.

(2) Germany has started mobilization for annual war games, accompanied by renewed grumblings against "war scares" by western democracies.

(3) Chancellor Hitler, Premier Mussolini and Generalissimo Franco are scheduled to meet soon for a decision on Spain's future, and, presumably, the future course of an enlarged European Fascism.

Viewing these three developments the British parliament has approved an extra $2,000,000,000 armament appropriation, starting a new international munitions race which Prime Minister Chamberlain admits might "lead to the bankruptcy of every country in Europe." At the same time London has agreed on plans for an expeditionary force to help France in case of war. Meanwhile both London and Paris' have been making desperate last-minute efforts to win Franco.

German-Italian reply to these 'warlike threats' will probably be to hold their troops in Spain until France grants African concessions. Thus perplexed, London and Paris must either use a whip lash, thereby provoking a new crisis, or permit the most serious blow to democratic prestige thus far inflicted. If they planned the latter course there would be little justification for today's frenzied rearmament.

Japan's thinly veiled ambition is to drive westerners out of China. Until this year the white man was oppressed only insofar as he stood in the way of Tokyo's marching armies. But Japan looks covetously and angrily on such prosperous developments as Shanghai's international settlement, Britain's Hong Kong crown colony and France's Indo-China. Already Hong Kong has been isolated by Jap conquest of Canton, her gateway to China. More recently British territory Wolcott: "This bank can get us along the Hong Kong-Canton rail road was bombed. Farther south us in any European or Asiatic con- Japan seized independent Hainan island despite an agreement with France. This accomplished, munitions shipments into China through Indo - China might be blocked.

Latest and craftiest Japanese plan is seizure of the Shanghai international settlement, only non-Jap area left in the city and an unwill-ing haven for Chinese guerrilla war-riors. In the past 18 months 88 political murders have been committed there, most victims being puppet Chinese governmental officers in Japanese pay. Latest victims were Chen Lo, foreign minister for the Central China government in Nanking, and Marquis Li Kuo-chieh, grandson of China's great statesman, Li Hung-chang.

Life is cheap in the Orient and loss of a few puppets would be small for control of the Shanghai international settlement. Though backed only by rumor, there is growing belief that Chinese murders may have been "planted" by Tokyo as an excuse to march in and keep peace, conveniently setting an important precedent.

Whether true or not, the belief jibes with retaliatory action taken in Tokyo. Up before a turbulent meeting of the diet rose Lt. Gen. Seishiro Itagaki, minister of war, to declare he was "convinced of the necessity to take an effective measure of self-defense" in the international settlement. Later, in extraordinary session, the cabinet placed official approval on such action when Premier Baron Kiichiro Hi-close China's open door would meet stubborn resistance. From London came bitter protest against the Hong Kong bombing. In Shanghai the international police redoubled their efforts and prepared to resist a threat on the settlement. To the south, at lazy Haiphong, Indo-China, France was angry enough to junk her Japanese agreement just as Japan had junked it, opening her gateway to supplies for sorely pressed Chinese troops.

Business

U. S. efforts to reconcile heavily taxed business have proceeded since "Uncle Dan" Roper was replaced as commerce secretary by Harry Hopkins. After initial promises Mr. Hopkins settled back in silence for two months of study to learn what made his heretofore ineffectual department tick.

Some hint of more reconciliation was contained in President Roosevelt's pre-vacation remark that business need fear no more taxes. More hint was found in the speech of Secretary of War Harry Woodring, who stepped from his military shoes to tell the Democratic Women's National council that he hoped soon to see an end of "spending and taxing" if private business will take the initiative. Even before Secretary Hopkins left for Des Moines to make his "policy speech," Washington knew pretty well what an obviously revitalized commerce department intended to do. Main points in the Hopkins program: (1) Develop the heretofore unimportant business advisory council; (2) promote re-employment to slash WPA rolls; (3) study taxes and their effect on business; (4) attempt to succeed where the labor department had failed, in settling the feud between the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organiza-

Lights of New York by L. L. STEVENSON

England's king and queen may or may not visit New York when they come to this country next spring. Nevertheless, New York has entertained three princes who later became king of England. Because they were so recent, the two visits of the Prince of Wales, who became King Edward VIII, are well remembered. Before him was his grandfather, Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, who became King Edward VII. The first royal visitor was Prince William Henry who later became the Duke of Clarence and then King Henry IV. He didn't come as a prince but as a midshipman on one of His Majesty's warships. That was back in 1782 when England didn't exactly acknowledge the independence of this country. So Colonel Mathias, of Ogden of the American army, originated a plan to kidnap the prince and Admiral Digby, in command of the British fleet in North American waters. George Washington approved the plan but for some reason no attempt was made to carry it out.

The visit of Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, 19-year-old son of Queen Victoria, back in 1860, had the whole town in an uproar. He was received at Castle Gardens, now the aquarium, by the mayor, the common council and the entire First division of the National Guard There was also just about a unanimous turnout of the population of the city, thousands paying from 50 cents to $5 for places along the line of march, which led from the Battery to the prince's hotel at Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street. The greeters went through with their part of the program all right but they took so long about it that darkness fell before the parade started. New York's street lighting system wasn't what it is now so that even those in the $5 seats saw only dim lines of moving figures.

The night after the arrival of the prince and his party, there was a grand ball in the Academy of Music in Irving place. It was quite a formal affair, women being advised not to wear bonnets. Men were told to wear uniforms if they had any. If not, black trousers, black dress coat, black waistcoat and white cravat or white waistcoat and black cravat. Three thousand citizens were invited. About 3,000 more crashed the gate. When the crowd stood still with an "elbow in every rib and a foot on every toe," as one reporter wrote, the floor waved. When the music started, a section gave way and disappeared and it took two hours of earnest carpenter work to make repairs. Then the party went on and the prince danced with several American girls.

Maybe there is no connection between royalty and the Social Register. On the other hand, there may be because the latest issue of that record of those who belong omits the name of the Duchess of Windsor. The name of Countess Barbara Hutton Mdivani Haugwitz-Reventlow is also out. A name omitted for the first time this year is that of Richard Whitney. He is the Wall streeter whose present address is Sing Sing. The name of Ben Broeck Terhune is also among the missing. Mr. Terhune is in Sing Sing serving a term of from one and a half to three years for a matter involving $75,000 worth of jewelry.

Other omissions this year include Jay Carlisle, who married the blonde show girl Marcelle Edwards, who was the fourth Mrs. Tommy Manville, and Davie Ryan, scion of the copper fortune, who married Martha Barkley down in North Carolina and who claimed the wedding was the result of corn liquor. The name of Polly Lauder, omitted after she became the bride of Gene Tunney, prizefighter, has not yet made a reappearance.

Just as a sort of a letdown-and because of the need of a few more lines-this bit overheard in a night "He's been up the river so many times they call him Showboat.'

These limber young New Yorkers are probably tops in earnings as a dance team, and are said to have been paid more on their European trip than any other dancers, past or present. When they first teamed up in 1926, Frank Veloz bought a $22.50 tuxedo and borrowed his father's white vest, which was too big for him. Yolanda Cassazi borrowed a pink ballet skirt and slippers from a friend. The slippers were much too large and she had to stuff them with tissue paper. They had much in common, and could keep in step with each other, but not with the music. They lasted one week and were fired from the next 14 jobs before they began to click.

That was the beginning of a lucrative friendship. They won 40 prizes together, around the dance halls, before their first professional engagement. They have now had about five years in the box-office stratosphere, with, as yet, no arthritis setting in.

As to any hint of war-mongering, in bringing over the carmagnole, they say their enlightened public will understand this is just a folk dance and won't start any trouble.

A Braided Rug That Grew Up With Family

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS DEAR MRS. SPEARS: The leaflet on making Rag Rugs that just came with your two books is most interesting to me, and I thought you might like to know about a rag rug that literally grew up with our family. When we first went to housekeeping I started what I hoped would be a large braided rug for the dining room. When it was big enough to go under the small table we were using then, I put it down. Each winter I have added more rows to the edge. The family has grown and we all fit on the rug quite nicely now.

"I save the best parts of old sheets and dye them different colors; then tear them into one-inch strips. I have a power machine, strips. I have a power machine, so I run these through it turning in the raw edges. The stitching strengthens the strips and makes them firm and neat for braiding."

If this letter inspires you, I have made a sketch here showing how the start your room size rug. If

HEALTH

 Rheumatism attacks greatly relieved by injection of patient's blood.

-By Dr. James W. Barton-

ALTHOUGH it is generally agreed that the majority of cases of rheumatism are due to infection-teeth, tonsils, sinuses, gall bladderand that many are due to dampness, to climate, to errors in diet, there is also the belief that there is a "tendency" to rheumatism in some families. It may be that this tendency is due to the fact that the individual is allergic or sensitive to certain substances, just as the tendency to the hay fever, asthma and eczem a complex seems to pass down from parent to children. That the results obtained by a new method of treating rheumatism are due to this sensitiveness or allergy seems logical. Dr. J. LeCalve, in

Medical Press, Par-

is, states that injecting the rheumatic patient's blood back into him causes a mild shock which the patient withstands well, and which increases his resistance to further attacks of rheumatism, stimulates the circulation and desensitizes the body against the substance causing the attacks.

The injection of his own blood has a calming effect upon the pains, especially if the injection of his blood is made directly into the pain-

Sulphurated Oil Injected.

In a number of cases Dr. La-Calve injected sulphurated oil, and also the blood, and in others the sulphurated oil alone was injected. In 42 cases he found that the combination of the blood and the sulphurated oil produced better results than did the injection of the oil alone, but he also obtained several cures by the injection of the blood alone. One or two injections of 30 to 45 drops of the patient's blood are made.

"It appears that the action of the injected blood, particularly its painrelieving action, is due to the fact that it promotes the presence of histamine or similar substance in the blood. As the injected blood gets mixed very slowly with the patient's blood, the relief of symptoms lasts for a long time."

As you know, the idea of curing or preventing disease by injecting small quantities of the substances causing the disease is used in a great many ailments — smallpox, hay fever, asthma and others.

Food Diary Helpful In Preventing Asthma

cases asthma is due to sensitiveness to various substances-pollen of plants, fur, feathers, house and other dusts-a test for these substances is made by scratching the skin and rubbing some of the suspected substance into the scratch. What are called patch tests are made by putting some of the substance on the skin and covering it completely with a small square of adhesive tape. A number of scratch and patch tests with various substances can be made at one time. If, after application of the substances to the skin, the red inflamed spot is of a certain size, this food or other substance is considered to be the cause of the attacks.

Many who have frequent attacks of urticaria (hives) are able to trace and many attacks of asthma can likewise be traced to certain foods if a careful watch is kept. Such everyday excellent foods as wheat and eggs may cause attacks of hives and asthma.

'Elimination' Diet Also Used.

When the scratch test fails to show just which food is causing the asthmatic attacks, what is called the "elimination" diet is used. A diet of "innocent" foods, foods not likely to cause attacks, is used and foods suspected of causing attacks may be added, one at a time. I have mentioned before the list of foods likely and not likely to cause attacks, as arranged by Dr. Walter Alvarez of the Mayo clinic. A very satisfactory method of finding which food or foods are causing the asthmatic attacks is by keeping a food diary. A simple system of keeping the food diary is suggested by Dr. K. P. Turrentine in Southern Medicine and Surgery. "The food diary consists of a cross-ruled sheet of paper, the foods being written on the left margin and the dates on the top margin. Thus the dates on the top margin. Thus the patient need only make an X in front of each food under the line for the day on which it was eaten. If an attack of hives (or asthma) occurs on a certain day, that day should be checked and attention drawn to the foods marked for the 24 hours before attack occurred."

This keeping of a food diary is simple and inexpensive and will give results in some cases where the skin tests did not locate or show which food was causing the attacks.

PETER PREACHES TO GENTILES

LESSON TEXT—Acts 10:30-48.
GOLDEN TEXT—Look unto me, and be ye saved, all the ends of the earth: for I am God, and there is none else.—Isaiah 45:22.

"God is no respecter of persons."
Sometimes one wonders whether many of His people know about that glorious attribute of the Godhead. One thing is evident, that very few care to practice this divine principle. Just now the world seems to have gone entirely berserk in its proclamation of race superiority. Along with undue and improper recognition of wealth and position, there has always been in the hearts of men a measure of prejudice against other races. These hatreds seem now to have been fanned to effect of a bolero, and with a a flaming intolerance of such as are not of what some regard as their own superior race. The more flat crepe or silk prints. You'll definite this intolerance, the more enjoy having some cottons like unlike God people really are. Let this, too, in the summer-time; it's us weigh ourselves in the balances and see if we too are found wanting.

I. "In Every Nation" (vv. 30-35). Peter was a Jew, and God now used a vision to teach him a muchneeded lesson regarding the carrying of the gospel to the Gentiles. The Jews were (and still are-let us remember it) God's chosen people. However, they were not chosen for their own comfort, convenience, or glory, but that they might be channels for the outflowing of God's blessing to all nations.

Cornelius was typical of those in every nation who are ready for the preaching of the gospel. He was a God-fearing, righteous man, but none the less in need of redemption. God brought this man who was ready to receive the message together with the man Peter who was prepared to preach it, and the result was salvation.

Whatever it may be that keeps us from carrying the gospel to all nations, we ought to recognize as unchristian, and put it aside. It may be race-prejudice, for it still persists; but it may be an equally dead-ly indifference to the needs of others. Let us, like Peter, go to them and open our mouths (v. 34) to proclaim Christ.

II. "Good Tidings of Peace" (vv. 36-43)

The death of Christ for their sins (v. 39), His resurrection from the dead for their justification (v. 40), the coming judgment for sin (v. 42), and remission of sins in His namethese are the essentials of Peter's message. Note how plain is the truth. Jesus has come and has wrought redemption for all who will believe. Now we must choose whether we want Him to be our Judge or our Redeemer. It is a case of 'either—or.'' Either He is your Say iour, or He will be your Judge. "God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved. He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God" (John 3:17, 18).

The proclamation of this message of redemption was never completed, even "while Peter yet spake these words, the Holy Spirit fell upon them all" (v. 44). Blessed interruption! Would that we might have more like it in our churches and Bible schools.

III. "The Holy Spirit Fell" (vv. 44-48)

Notice that He came upon "them which heard the word" (v. 44). Book reviews, political addresses, discussion of civic or social problems will not bring the result. Forums, clubs, discussion groups, unless they have for their subject the Word of God, need not expect anything like this to happen. But preaching of the Word of God concerning the person and work of Christ, whether it be in a home (like that of Cornelius) or in the great cathedral (and thank God some of them do have such preaching), will result in some soul finding Christ, and receiving the Holy Spirit.

It is worthy of note that these believers gave evidence of their new-found spiritual life by magnifying God, obeying His word, and testifying to others. It is to the credit of Peter and his companions that they recognized the workings of God's grace in the lives of these Gentiles. May we also be quick to see, appreciate, and encourage every true gospel work, whether it be among our own people or with some other race, whether in our church or in some humble cottage. "God is no respecter of persons."

Revelation Must Speak Let Reason count the stars, weigh the mountains, fathom the depthsthe employment becomes her, and the success is glorious. But when the question is: "How shall man be just with God?" reason must be silent, revelation must speak; and he who will not hear it assimilates himself to the first deist, Cain; he may not kill a brother, he certainly destroys himself.-Henry Melvill.

CHAPTER XIV-Continued -30-

Phil smiled happily; and then he turned to Mary's letter, and sobered again; and for a moment he held it in his hands, remembering their last word from Mary with bitterness. He was tempted to destroy this letter unopened; but at last, like one performing an unpleasant duty, he tore off the end of the envelope and drew out the letter inside and began to read.

And at the first words, his eyes widened, and his breath came hissingly and he sat up sharply in his berth. The letter was from Paris. Mary had written:

Dear Phil:

Gus Loran killed Miss Wines. He has told me so.

I'll try to tell you just what happened. I think I told you he was here. His wife was getting a divorce. We met by accident; but he seemed fascinated by me. My Argentine and I weren't getting along very well. He's gone back to South America now. I began to realize that Mr. Loran had something on his mind. He was drinking a lot, and looking sick; and then he began to give me presents, pretty valuable ones, and I asked him why, and—he was drunk most of the time of course—he began to talk about some great wrong he had done about some great wrong he had done me, and about making amends.

Then Barbara came to kiss Phil, her eyes dancing; and she linked her arm through his, and Mrs. Sentry and Dan were close on their heels, and they came to Dan's car. Phil, watching Barbara, thought she was become beautiful. It had never occurred to him that his sister was beautiful before. He had thought of her as a nice-looking youngster; but now she wore a subtle radiance of glowing eyes and clear skin and steady lips that were strong even when they curved in quick laughter.

This went on for weeks, and he's been sort of cracking up all the time. I asked him questions, but he'd shut up like a clam. But when my husband left me, he got maudlin and wept about what was happening to me, and blamed himself, and finally, night before last, he begged me to forgive him and I asked for what, and I finally got it out of him. He had Miss Wines in Maine in August.

begged me to torgive him and 1 asked for what, and I finally got it out of him. He had Miss Wines in Maine in August. The guide lied for him. And he says she tried to blackmail him, and his wife was already threatening to divorce him and collect big alimony, and he was scared. Then Miss Wines sent word to him to meet her in the office that night at half-past eleven. He was going to New York, anyway; and he decided to try to scare her so she would let him alone. He had a pistol he had carried in the War, and he took it to scare her with. He says he took out the magazine, thought it was empty. He got on the New York train and put on his pyjamas over his clothes and called the porter and told him he was going to sleep, and then slipped off through another car, and went out a different gate, and went to the office and she was there.

She'd stolen father's key, he says. He and went out a different gate, and went to the office and she was there.

She'd stolen father's key, he says. He offered her the money there was in the safe, and she said she wanted a lot more than that, and she said she was going to tell Mrs. Loran, and started out. And he jammed the pistol against her back as she passed him in the doorway, thinking it was empty, intending to scare her, and it went off.

She took two or three steps and fell; and he saw the empty cartridge rolling across the floor and picked it up, and then ran to her and called to her to get up, and saw she was dead. And he heard someone on the stairs and turned out the lights, and when father came, in the dark, he jumped past him down the stairs and ran. And he saw father's car and started to drive away in it, and realized he had turned into a one-way street and might be arrested for that, so he left it there and hurried back to the station and sneaked on the train. No one saw him.

So, Phil, I went to the American embassy here and told them, and they got the police. They are going to arrange things so they can hear everything we say, in case I can get him to go over it all again. I'll try, Phil. They say just my story isn't enough to prove it. Maybe you'll have heard from the police before you get this. I read about father's commutation; and even if I cae't get Mr. Loran to talk again, this may help to get father pardoned.

It's too late to help me. But maybe it will help make up for my descriing you all. Anyway, it's all I can do.

Mary.

Phil read this letter through with racing eyes; and when he had done, he read it again more slowly, till every word was fixed on his brain. And there was great triumph in him, and a deep jubilation. His first thought was to rouse his mother, tell her. But-she was asleep, and if she knew this tonight, she would not sleep again. She would insist that they leave the train, go back to his father . And he thought of Barbara; Barbara, who of them all had never faltered in her faith. And in the end he hugged this secret close. It could wait, he decided. Wait till tomorrow. Wait till they were with Barbara. Barbara had a right fo be the first to know.

So in the morning-they were roused sarly, since Cleveland would shakily:

Trains are tedious things; but planes move swiftly. Yet to Mrs. Sentry, that day while they seemed to hang motionless in a cloudless sky alive with sunshine so bright she thought it could never be obscured, the swift journey homeward appeared to be interminable.

Dust is never a pleasant thing to | with a trace of metallic aluminum breathe, but some dusts are far dust. worse than others. Coal dust, for example, may color a miner's or coal heaver's lungs as black as night, but it rarely does anything more serious, states a writer in the Chicago Tribune. On the other hand, the repeated inhalation of freshly ground silica dust (silica is a general name for the compound that an apartment, he knew; and when makes up sand and quartz), frethey were arrived, the apartment, quently results in a disease known eis characterized by an ex tensive scarring and destruction of lung tissue.

This disease has come to be recognized as a serious industrial hazard. Since sand and quartz are obviously quite nonpoisonous as found in nature, the fact that they are more dangerous than other dusts when finely ground, led to the suspicion that silicosis was a result of some hitherto unrecognized property of silica.

Advice to Homemakers on How to Feed Families During Coldest Days of Winter; Essential Nutritive Values Described in Terms of Everyday Foods

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

OWARD the end of winter we sometimes experience I some of the coldest weather of the entire season. Temperatures remain below freezing for days at a time. The air is often raw and penetrating, and blustery winds make it seem as if man is being persecuted by nature. Moreover, this trying weather comes after months of short and often sunless days . . . days which many people have spent in overheated houses, &and without sufficient exer- good source of bulk or cellulose cise. Time for Good Eating

But don't imagine for a moment that correct eating and good eating cannot be synonymous. It is true that there is no time of yearwhen correct eating is more important. But it is also a fact that there is no time of year when good eating is more distinctly indicated!

These are the days when breakfasts must be especially hearty . . to satisfy keen appetites, to provide generous amounts of fuel or energy values. That means cereals always, and some form of breadstuff, pancakes or waffles.

Cereals are primarily energy foods, but they may also carry substantial amounts of precious mineral salts and vitamin B.

Creeping plants, for instance, should be allowed to make carpets of color in the larger soil pockets. Erect plants may be used in flat spaces. Trailing plants should be allowed to droop over the face of rocks, or they may be placed at the top of the bank or wall. In smaller crevices, tufted plants with rosettes of foliage and short flower stalks are suitable. Ordinary garden or bedding plants should be eliminated from consideration for the rock garden, it is advised by Gilbert Bentley, flower expert.

True rock garden plants grow less than 10 inches tall. Use only low-growing annuals and perennials that grow among rocks in their native haunts-those that belong Whole grain varieties are also a by nature among stones.

mal individuals to eat some raw food daily. In cold weather, dress it generously with salad dressing for extra fuel value.

Dessert may be pie, pudding or gelatin. The choice depends part-ly upon the other foods served at dinner, partly upon the dessert to be served at the third meal of the day. But here is a good general rule to follow. Serve a fruit dessert at one meal—and a pud-ding containing milk at the other. Of course, the fruit need not be served plain unless you wish. Fruit pies are splendid for cold weather meals, fruit and gelatin combine nicely, and fruit may be incorporated in cakes, as in apple sauce cake.

Rounding Out Day's Nutrition

Whether the third meal of the day is lunch or supper in your household, it should round out the day's nutrition. If you need to get more milk into the diet, let your lunch or supper include a cream soup. If you haven't served eggs previously during the day, choose a souffle or a dish containing creamed eggs. A starchy food, a salad, a dessert and a beverage will complete a meal that both satisfies the appetite and meets nutritional requirements.

It is not difficult to obtain the day's quota of minerals, vitamins, cellulose, protein, carbohydrates and fats. These substances are to be found in delicious, wholesome foods. All you need to remember is not to serve too much of one food and too little of another.

Let the balanced diet be your deal-and cold weather will prove a tonic instead of a possible menace to health!

Sickness was responsible for a rather small attendance at the Jun-ior checker party. Friday evening. Prizes were won by Warren Hughes, Mrs. Ross and Frieda Ross. Despite the small crowd everyone seemed to have a good time and the class netted approximately nine dollars.

The bookkeeping class has started its big practice set of the year. All work is done in class and in one special practice period. This set gives the students a chance to put their knowledge of bookkeeping into practice and gain such useful information as how to make out checks properly, to deposit money in the bank, etc.

The English I class has been studying the ballad as a type of literature. Both folk and literary ballads were studied. The definite rhythm and frequent refrain of the folk ballad were noticed especially.

The Latin I class waxed dramatic the other day in carrying out an assignment of dramatizing Latin words, especially Latin verbs. Marion Mu-solf had many clever bits of word dramatization.

The English II and English IV c'asses are diligently working on the declamations and orations. The local preliminary declamation contest will be held Friday afternoon, March 10. The local preliminary oratorical contest will be held Monday afternoon, March 13. The final local contest is on Friday evening, March 17.

MUSIC

We are trying to build onr band into a larger and better organization. In order to do this it will be necessary to start a beginner's band and not offer class lessons to the school children. Instruments can be purchased for a small sum and parents are urged to make possible this opportunity for the children. We are giving outside time to this work and helping these children at no cost. The class lessons are free and every bit of interest taken in each child. If you are interested in giving your child the opportunity of playing an instrument so that he can enjoy playing in the band. Mr. Nordman will be glad to tell you what instrument is best suited for your child. These low cost instruments can be secured on a monthly nay has is he secured on a monthly pay basis. The rhythm band and tonette classes are coming along fine and are making much progress.

Encourage your child to sing his school songs at hhme, maybe it will brighten up the home spirit.
