The Surest Sign of Spring

-Weekly News Analysis-European Crisis 'Postponed'; Delay May Be Fatal to Axis -By Joseph W. La Bine-

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst, and not necessarily of the newspaper.

Domestic

In 1787 the constitutional convention wiped out trade barriers between states. Since then financially pressed commonwealths have sought to protect their own tradesmen and taxpayers from competition with non-residents by licensing, inspection, labeling and a host of similar regulations. By 1939 the barriers have grown so high that Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace claims it causes an incalculable economic loss to the nation. Forwarding a report by the bureau of agricultural economics, Secretary Wallace made these charges:

(1) New York city's inspection requirements bar milk and cream

from points west of the New York by raising prices on the metropolitan market.

(2) Trucking "wars" thrive in Arizona, Kansas, Oklahoma, Wyoming, Colorado, Georgia, Missouri, Maine and South Dakota, where restrictions are imposed against trucks from neighboring states.

(3) Many states virtually bar produce of other states by establishing unique trading, labeling and packaging regulations, quarantines, embargoes and "a bewildering maze of . . . other impositions.'

Though the administration has thus far left remedial action up to states themselves, there is little reason to hope that 48 individual legislatures can work out a nation-wide system, or labor hand-in-hand to solve a problem in which each has a selfish interest. But federal intervention is broadly hinted in the Wallace report, one phase to cover interstate commerce of motor vehicles. The proposed plan: A vehicle properly registered in its home state and with the interstate commerce commission would be exempt from further registration.

Europe

The Ides of March brought disaster for Julius Caesar. The same Ides were scheduled by European observers to bring 1939 disaster to England and France via (1) conclusion of the Spanish war, (2) Italian territorial demands against France, and (3) a subsequent impasse in which London and Paris could choose between appeasing the Rome-Berlin axis or going to war.

The two major hitches in this schedule came in Spain, where Loyalists did not capitulate as expected following the surrender of Barcelona, and in the Vatican, where Pope Pius XI died. Obviously Italy could not free her hands for demands against France until she could withdraw troops from Rebel Spain. The pontiff's death brought a respectful pause in diplomatic warfare, coupled with international conjecture over the choice of his successor.

Whether the axis ever had a "plan" for March is questionable, but certainly the natural course of events would have brought a crisis. Today's most moot question in Europe is whether the unforeseen delay may not weaken the Rome-Berlin position. Speeding rearmament, forcing Germany into world trade submission, pledging aid to France, Great Britain has emerged a much stronger power the last 30 days. One idea of the crisis-to-come has been offered by Journal Des Debats, conservative Paris newspaper. The alleged plan, which Berlin described as "ridiculous and laughable": Fascist states (Germany, Italy and Japan) would diffuse trouble for democracies throughout the world, part of that campaign being Tokyo's recent seizure of Hainan island in defiance of France. Other troubles would include Italy's Mediterranean demands and agitation against Britain in already troublesome Palestine and Syria. This done, and mobilization completed, Adolf Hitler would a "great speech" setting ultimatums, shocking the world next day by making "terri-torial security" marches into Hol-

Housing

Despite federal stimulus, home building has remained at low ebb since 1929, providing a good index of the times. In 1937 a hinted uptrend was cut short by rising material costs and labor troubles. But by the current spring U.S. housing has reached such deplorable shape that renewed building activity is inevitable.

land and Switzerland. This done,

London and Paris would be given their choice of capitulating or watching Holland and Switzerland remain under Nazi domination.

Some idea of the industry's expectations has been voiced by L. Seth Schnitman, consulting economist and member of the army industrial college, who predicts the greatest residential building volume since 1929. Activity for the first three months of this year is 75 per cent greater than during the comparable period last year, representing total expenditures of $325,000,000.

Housing experts agree the initial stimulus was given by New York's Bowery savings bank, which recently cut about one-seventh in the interest rate for mortgage money on and Pennsylvania state lines, there- Federal Housing administration insured home mortgages. Picked up by other New York banks, then spreading westward across the country, the plan has given impetus to investment building operations.

England

From mid-May to mid-June, Great Britain's King George and Queen Elizabeth will be guests of the North American continent on a junket which most good Americans regard as a simple, friendly gesture. But as travel time approaches, the royal expedition is meeting with far more distracting bogeymen than Toronto's Dionne quintuplets, which are being shipped 180 miles under protest to curtsy before their queen.

From June 8 to 11 the royal party will visit the U.S. Because the entire journey was planned last winter in the heat of international chatter about "democratic solidarity," more than one anti-Chamberlain writer has tried to place the prime minister in a difficult position. A sample, by one Peter Howard in Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express: "Now the royal visit puts Chamberlain himself on trial. If it succeeds Chamberlain goes up. If it fails he goes down.'

What Englishmen mean by "success" or "failure" of the American visit was finally brought into fairly close focus, but it still remained a doubtful quantity. Probable meaning: The visit will "fail" if U. S. citizens get the impression that King George and Queen Elizabeth are making a begging expedition to gain American aid in pulling England's chestnuts out of the European fires.

Defense

Six thousand airplanes would effectively darken the sky. Nose to nose, they would reach 45 miles; wing to wing, 52 miles. To build and maintain 6,000 planes, plus personnel and equipment, would cost about $300,000,000. Authorization for such a U. S. army air force has already passed through congress and the appropriation will follow close on its heels. This done, American aviation will be in good shape. But even today both army and navy boast new accomplishments:

Army. Principal delight of Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps, is the five-man, twin-engined, high speed "Airacuda," designed by 34-year-old Robert J. Woods after he "consolidated" the ideas of 500 army experts and 45 civilian engineers, draftsmen and engineers. Features of the Airacuda: Tremendous cruising range, two anti-aircraft cannon, four machine guns and aerial bombs which explode like anti-aircraft shells when dropped near enemy planes. General Arnold's opinion: "It's the most striking example of airplane development of the past year, anywhere in the world. Navy. In choppy Carribean seas some 600 navy planes—one-third the entire force — recently provided "eyes" for U. S. battlewagons solving Fleet Problem XX. One spectator, President Roosevelt, watched the conduct of these planes and reportedly asserted the U. S. had naval air forces as good or better than any other. Said Adm. William D. Leahy, chief of naval operations: "The performance was the best l ever saw. They carried out their mission without an accident."

Most Americans do not realize that the bulk of New Deal reform measures have been adopted in one form or another. But practically everyone realizes the cost of reform has been tremendous, that the public debt now stands at $40,000,000,000, that the treasury has a current deficit of $2,200,000,000. With reform achieved, President Roosevelt is willing to join conservatives in two mutually desired ambitions, balancing the budget and helping business get back on its feet.

Chief arguments concern the method. New Dealers, whose program is voiced by Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins, would re-move oppressive taxes and hope that the resultant boom would swell federal coffers, balancing the budget without eliminating "necessary" activities. Most businessmen and many congressmen would take an additional step-economy.

Total 1939-40 budget estimates are $8,995,000,000, creating a new $3,326,-000,000 deficit and zooming the public debt smack against its legal debt limit of $45,000,000,000—unless congress raises the limit. Far from willing to raise it, or even to approve the new budget, congressional Republicans have found strong support in rebellious Democrats. Their spokesman is Mississippi's Sen. Pat Harrison, who came out for a flat 10 per cent budget cut and a warning: "The country's credit is good and I don't think we have reached the debt danger point, but the stoplook-and-listen sign is up . . of this emergency stuff could be cut, and I'm in favor of cutting.'

Senator Harrison has already found support in two studies:

Brookings. Surveying the new governmental reorganization bill (to consolidate and abolish executive agencies for the sake of economy and efficiency), Washington's thorough-searching Brookings institution claimed it was ill-conceived, that no economies would result. Of 132 agencies listed for reorganization, only 54 require legislative authority, and no legislation is necessary unless congress wants to "give the President authority to make laws by executive order." Suggestions: (1) Prune all present activities "rigorously;" (2) develop a "more consistent" program.

So potent are economy's new friends that the administration may well find its cautious business-wooing program a boomerang. Wading half way across the pond of conciliation when opinion favored a com-plete passage, Mr. Roosevelt has been left behind and confronted with charges of insincerity because Harry Hopkins-the man who started his program-would need business' support to win the 1940 nomination.

MARSHAL HENRI PETAIN The "hero of Verdun" emerges

Now 82, Marshal Henri Petain has been named ambassador to newly reorganized Insurgent Spain in an obvious gesture to win Gen. Francisco Franco's friendship by emotional appeal. Many years ago, in another crisis.

M. Petain as instructor in the French war college, Marshal Petain instructed Spain's new iron man, himself a famous Twentieth century militarist. Later, in 1925-26, Marshal Petain joined forces with Franco in leading the expedition that defeated Abd El Krim, Riff leader in Morocco. Petain also went to Madrid and negotiated an agreement with the governor of Premier Prima de Rivera.

Lights of New York by L. L. STEVENSON

Warrior: As Col. P. E. Barbour was coming along Broad street the other afternoon, a terrific commotion broke out when he reached Stone street. A chow led by a woman had spotted a little, lean alley cat and started something. It was a tactical blunder on the part of the chow as the feline immediately swarmed all over it, doing damage wherever it struck. A gallant gentleman leaped out of the crowd and, taking care to avoid claws, tossed the militant cat out into the street. The woman picked up her injured pet and endeavored to comfort it. The cat, however, had other ideas. It made its way back to the curb, poised and in a neat eightfoot leap again attached itself to the chow. Once more it was pulled off and this time kicked out into the middle of the street. The colonel, who admires spirit, reported more or less sorrowfully that before the cat could wriggle through traffic and get back, the lady and the chow had gone away from there.

Protection: It seems that after all these years, drivers of fire trucks are being given shelter from the weather. In the past day or the weather. In the past, day or night, hot or cold, rain or shine, they sat on the front seat with nothing around or over them. Any driver knows what that means on a cold winter night, especially when aroused from sound slumber. But the new apparatus recently placed in service by the city has cabs for drivers. And I'm one of those who are heartily in favor of the change. Tough enough piloting fire apparatus over New York's streets without being exposed to the elements.

Intelligence: At the risk of making this a fire and dog department, I'm inclined to mention Spots of Engine company No. 65. Spots is a Dalmatian and therefore is a true fire hound. Whenever an alarm comes in, and Engine company 65 being on Forty-third street between Fifth and Sixth avenue, rolls often, Spots goes right along. He rides on the drivers seat but scorns sitting down. So as the engine tears through traffic, he looks very much like one of those iron dog statues that adorned middle western front lawns when I was a kid. But remarkable stability is not Spots' sole accomplishment. He responds to alarms just as do his human companions and, just as they do, knows the signal that sends his company into action.

Different: Miss Olive Jean Cregan, who topped the civil service list for appointment as a policewoman, has chestnut hair, hazel eyes and a milk-white skin. In fact, she's so pretty that it might be a pleasure to be arrested by her. She's five feet, two inches tall, weighs 121 pounds, rides horseback. toe dances and is a jiujitsu expert. She loves music. A senior in Brooklyn college, she is a shark in Latin and earns money by tutoring. After she receives her appointment. uniform and equipment she'll study law in her spare time. Thus in Miss Cregan, a new cop era.

Domestic: A night-club patron, finding that he had taken one drink too many, called up that organization which rents chauffeurs at a dollar an hour and asked to be driven to his home over in Jersey. As the car drew up to the residence, an irate wife rushed up to the chauf-

"So you're the one who keeps him out late nights!" she screamed. And with that she administered several sound slaps. The chauffeur merely went on his way without a word. And so pleased with his courage was the husband that he now has the same man drive him whenever he comes to town. There is one place, however, to which he will not allow him to take him-to that home over in Jersey.

End Piece: My pet peeve is the doormen who slam taxi doors when not tipped or tipped less than they think they should receive for a useless service. A man and a woman got in a taxi in front of a wellknown hotel and the untipped doorman slammed the door with great force. In fact such force that the glass was shattered. And the taxi driver leaped out and gave him two beautiful black eyes.

Planting Fish by Plane Successful in Montana

HELENA, MONT.-Planting fish by airplane might sound as feasible as shooting rockets to Mars, but this method has proved successful in Montana.

Three galvanized metal cylinders, three feet long, pointed at one end and open at the other, were filled with 2,000 rainbow and native trout ranging from two to three inches

Flying from 100 to 400 feet heights over isolated lakes, the containers were tossed from the plane. They burst when they struck the water. Only 50 fish, it is estimated, were John Schofield, superintendent of Montana Fish Hatcheries, was delighted with the experiments.

"I'm sure that fish can be planted cheaper and faster by plane than by pack train in isolated lakes,' Schofield said.

At 70, Britain's Chamberlain Reviews Life's Busiest Year

Whether the public likes it or not, Britain's Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain has tried desperately to maintain world peace via the conference table method. On March 18 he will end his seventieth—and most eventful - year. Right: Mr. Chamberlain startled the world September 14 by paying a precedent-shattering call on Hitler at Berchtesgaden. Photo shows him leaving London, flying for the first time. Below: The second meeting, at Godesberg, on September 22.

Then came Munich. On September 30 Mr. Chamberlain returned home to read this document at Heston airdrome, London. He had also signed a pact with Germany, Italy and France.

But the policy of "appeasement" bore suspicious fruit. Following Munich, Germany and Italy appeared planning new demands against France and Britain. Preparing for a declaralain and Lord Halifax, his foreign minister, visited Paris on November 24. Below: On January 10 he again stopped in Paris en route to Rome. Photo, left to right, shows French Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet, Mr. Chamberlain, Premier Edouard Daladier

Next day, January 11, Mr. Chamberlain ar rived in Rome to visit Mussolini. The trip was heralded as another "appeasement" mission from which a new totalitarian victory could be expected, but nothing happened. Mr. Chamberlain may have gained nothing, but he tried to break down the growing barriers between the peoples of Europe.

• Rapid heart beat is often found in healthy individuals of all ages.

By Dr. James W. Barton

66 THE term paroxysmal tacchycardia is when the heart rate suddenly beable time - a few seconds, hours or days-just as sudrate." During an attack the various dishes that are best heart rate may go as high as 250 beats to the minute and then drop to a rate of 72 to 76. to eat at all, in view of the The cause of this very rapid many good foods they congested without the slightest disbeating of the heart is un- sider taboo! known but something-shock, worry, disappointment-interferes with the "starter" of the heart beats and the beat gets out of its regular rhythm or regularity.

Fortunately the great majority of cases occur in the two heart chambers — the auricles — which receive the blood, not the two chambers — ventricles - from which the blood is pumped to lungs, and to all the other parts of the body. This auricle type is not dangerous.

Dr. W. Ford Connell in Canadian Medical Association Journal states: "Paroxysmal auricular tacchycardia is found in healthy adults of truth of the matter is that under all ages. Heart disease may or may not be present. This very rapid beating may be just for a few ficulty in digesting almost any food that has a place in the wellbeats or it may go on for as long as six days. Attacks lasting a few minutes are much the commonest. Neither exercise nor drugs makes any change in the rate whereas in a normal heart or a diseased heart, drugs and exercise affect the rate.'

Attacks Stop Suddenly. Most persons feel discomfort during an attack-a fluttering in the chest or pounding in the neck.

Usually no treatment is necessary as the attacks stop suddenly without treatment. Many of these individuals have learned some method of preventing or shortening an attack by stimulating the large nerves supplying heart, lungs, and digestive apparatus. Thus holding the breath or pressing with the fingers on first one eyeball and then the other, or pressing firmly on the large blood vessel in front of neck which can be seen to bulge if watched closely, or the drinking of ice water, or by bringing on a vomiting spell, often stops an attack. The drug that has been found most useful is quinidine (not quinine) and it can be given by mouth, five grains every hour for 10 hours.

As this very rapid heart beat nat urally alarms the individual, Dr. Connell suggests that its lack of danger be explained.

Excess Tissue Water May Cause Epilepsy

It is sometimes difficult to tell whether a patient is hysterical or physiological factors influencing having an epileptic attack or "fit." However, in epilepsy the patient is always unconscious and may do harm to himself-biting his tongue or others if not protected. In hysteria the patient is not unconscious and is aware of all that he is doing and all that is going on about him. He is usually, but not always, trying to be the center of attention. This is called a defensive mechanism.

While the cause of epilepsy is still unknown, investigators have found that food is a factor in causing attacks, as a group of 11 epileptics, having one or more attacks a day, were kept entirely free of attacks by being starved for 10 days. Other investigators then found that if liquids were reduced the epileptic attacks stopped, occurred less often or were not so severe. From this finding-excess water in the tissues causes epilepsy—a test for epilepsy has been discovered.

Epilepsy Test Perfected.

Drs. McQuarrie and Peeler, in Journal of Clinical Investigation, tell of their study of the effects of using extract of the pituitary gland in cases of suspected epilepsy. This extract-pitressin-has the effect of preventing the escape of water from the tissues by way of the kidneys. The patients were forced to drink water and were then given the pitressin. In cases of true epilepsy this forced drinking of water and the keeping of it in the body by means of the pitressin brought on epileptic attacks. A series of other individuals who were forced to drink large quantities of water and were also given pitressin did not have any attacks.

The point then is that before giving the regular treatment for epilepsy to patients it should first be learned, by this method, that the case is really epilepsy.

The present successful treatment:

1. Cutting down by one-half on all starch foods-bread, sugar, potatoes, pastries.

2. Cutting down by one-half on all liquids—water, tea, coffee, milk, cocoa, soft or hard drinks. 3. Increasing the fat foods-butter, cream, fat meats. 4. A daily dose of phenobarbital as prescribed by a physician.

And how different from the problems of the home-maker who must try to reconcile her menus, both with the food dislikes of various members of the family, and with the foods that they declare they can't eat, for fear of digestive distress.

It is true, of course, that individuals differ greatly, and occasionally a food that can and should be eaten regularly by most people will course distress in an inple, will cause distress in an in-dividual case. But that is no indication that the food will have the same effect on another person, and it is misleading either to proffer or accept advice of this nature from friends.

It may be that the victim has an allergy to the food in question —that he reacts to it differently than the majority of people. But there is also the possibility that the prejudice exists because of some previous distress, caused, not by the food itself, but by the circumstances under which it was

To Check Constipation Get at Its Cause!

If constipation has you down so you feel heavy, tired and dopey, it's time you did something about it. And something more than just taking a physic! You should get at the cause of the trouble.

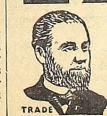

If you eat the super-refined food most people eat, the chances are the difficulty is simple—you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk." doesn't mean heavy food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines. If this common form of constipation is your trouble, eat Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day and drink plenty of water. All-Bran isn't a medicine—it's a crunchy, toasted, nutritious cereal. And it will help you not only to get regular but to keep regular, day after day. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer. by every grocer.

Suppose the Michigan Bell Telephone Company maintained its own separate research laboratory in which to develop improvements in telephone service. And suppose each of the other 23 telephone companies of the Bell System did the same.

All these laboratories probably would be trying to solve the same problems; this would be wasteful duplication of effort and expense which would increase the cost of your telephone service.

In the Bell System, Bell Telephone Laboratories does the research work for all. Each company pays only a fraction of the cost, but gets full benefit of a research program that no one company could afford to maintain.

This economy is one of the advantages of our membership in the Bell System. It is an important reason why all America, including you in Michigan, enjoys the best, most reasonably priced telephone service in the world.

Flowers for a Purpose

GARDENERS want flowers for house bouquets, for beautification of the yard, or both. To be certain of an abundance of flowers for cutting throughout the growing months, however, the gardener need plant packets of only three or four of the following flowers:

Annuals-snapdragon, aster, calendula, calliopsis, candytuft, carnation, bachelor button, cosmos, dahlia, larkspur, annual lupin, marigold, nasturtium, salpiglossis and zinnia.

Perennials-columbine, coreopsis, gaillardia grandiflora, perennial lupin, pyrethrum (painted daisy) shasta daisy and delphini-

For earliest bloom, the following are recommended by Gilbert Bentley, flower expert: Calliopsis and candytuft among the annuals, and coreopsis, delphinium and pyrethrum among the perennials.

For late-blooming cut flowers, grow zinnia, marigold, gaillardia, snapdragon, aster, cosmos and dahlia.

SYNOPSIS

Mary Loring and her father, Jim, an in Mary Loring and her father, Jim, an ineffectual attorney, meet a train which brings his wealthy sister-in-law, unmarried Linnie Cotswell and her friend, Lelia Ormsby, divorcee, for a Christmas visit. Waiting at home for them are Mary's mother, her younger sister, Ellen; her father's nagging maiden sister, Aunt Mamie, and Peter, the baby of the family. At the depot Dr. Christopher Cragg helps the guests with their luggage.

Aunt Linnie was in Mrs. Loring's arms now, and they were exclaiming and weeping and laughing all at the same time; then, Mrs. Loring was greeting Lelia, and drawing them all into the hall, while Ellen and eight-year-old Peter rushed pellmell down the bare steps, with Barrie. Pete's Airedale, following at Mary looked towards the curb to see if Chris was pulling up. Yes, there he was, opening the door of the car, dragging out Linnie's and Lelia's bags. She ran out to help him, insisting on carrying three of the smaller pieces, while he swooped the other six into his grasp.

"Isn't she the loveliest thing you've ever seen, Chris?" whispered Mary, as they slipped and slid over the icy walk to the house.

CHAPTER II

On Christmas day there were gifts for everybody-a sled and skates and a warm leather windjammer for Pete; a sweater for Aunt Mamie Mrs. Loring; six yards of heavy brown silk to be made into a dress for Mrs. Loring, the gift of Ellen and Mary; ties and gloves and a muffler for Mrs. Loring; books bought at Hormel's at cost for Aunt Linnie and Lelia; stockings and a sweater each for the girls from their parents.

Lelia, who had slipped from the room, unnoticed, now returned, her arms laden with long, narrow boxes.

"I'm afraid you'll think I was terribly unoriginal in my little Christmas offerings," Lelia was saying. "You see, they're all the same. And, with a smile, she extended a box to Mrs. Loring. "For you, Janet, with a great deal of love; and for you, Miss Mamie-"

A second later, Mary was tearing aside the tissue on the flat oblong box which Lelia had proffered her. There were gloves inside-doeskin. brown, hand-stitched, the kind that Lelia, herself, wore-the kind that Mary had seen advertised in Vogue, but had never thought she'd pos-

"And that I take seven?" demand-

"Ah, that's due to Aunt Linnie's excellent bookkeeping," Lelia returned with a laugh. "Perhaps she's never told you, but she keeps a little book in which she has jotted down the size glove, stocking and frock each one of you wears!"

"If only I could always have things like this," Mary was saying to herself. "If only I could travel, meet interesting people, do things, go places! I believe I'm becoming discontented with Hawkinsville and Main street and pot roasts! I wish I could do something! I wish I could dance or act-or write! Of course, I have been writing for years, but the stories have been so putrid that must eat a peck of salt with his I either destroyed them after the second reading — or later when they'd been hurled back at me by at least six editors! Thank heavens, nobody's ever suspected I wanted to be a writer, and that, so far, it just hasn't worked! Why, the family'd tease me to death if they knew! But I believe I'll try again! It's been two months since the last script came to an ignominious end in the furnace. I simply must make myself write something worth while, and get myself places! Look at Aunt Linnie! Then, look at Aunt Mamie! Now, there are two examples of

Mary, a little tired from her whirl of housework during the morning, sat, silent and contemplative, between Petey and Aunt Mamie. "It's all going off perfectly," she was thinking to herself. And then, irrelevantly, "I wonder where Chris is having dinner. I wonder if he'll drop in this afternoon."

But three o'clock, four o'clock, then half after four came and went, and Chris had not shown up.

"Well, girls," demanded Linnie, 'what shall we do with ourselves? How about a miserable game of three-hand bridge?"

"It's all right with me, Linnie," Lelia agreed. "Where do you hide your card table, Mary, and the oth-

"In the hall closet, Lelia. I'll get the table and some cards-although I bet there isn't a whole deck in the house. Petey and his friends are always playing Casino. But, I wonder, would you mind—"

"If you didn't play?" finished Linnie. "Certainly not, my dear.
I'll take Lelia on for a thrilling battle at double solitaire."

"I thought I'd like to take a walk," Mary explained. "I haven't been out all day. Here, Lelia, is the table, and two perfectly mangy decks of cards."

Mary slid into her Lapin coat; then hesitated before the hall mirror for an instant to pull the brim of her soft felt hat down over one eye. Linnie, glancing up, regarded her through a ring of cigarette smoke. "You're a pretty thing, Mary," she said thoughtfully. "Just what are you going to do with your life? Settle down here in Hawkinsville and marry Chris Cragg, or whatever his name is? Or strike out for bigger and better things?"

A deep scarlet suffused Mary's face and neck. "Marry—Chris Cragg?" she repeated slowly. "He's the only eligible man in the town, isn't he?" countered Lindisorderly piles. "But I bet he's not so eligible, at that. Probably makes about ninety dollars a month from his precious practice!"

Mary's lips straightened into a firm, defiant line. "He took in a hundred and forty dollars last month," she returned in a low voice, something in her heart urging her to rush to the defense of Christopher Cragg. "And that's doing pretty well, considering he's been in practice only a short while."

"Huh!" grunted Aunt Linnie, slapping an ace of diamonds on the table. "That isn't enough to keep a beauty like you in shoes! You'd better go back to New York with me, my dear, and hitch your wagon to a star. Don't, by all that's holy. let yourself be satisfied with small

Linnie Cotswell halted herself in the act of placing the three of spades on the deuce. "Oh, but you are!" she returned. "And I want to talk to you about it before I leave town."

"So, Chris is-small tripe, is he?" Mary said to herself as she emerged from the cheerful stuffiness of the house into the cold, brisk air of Concert Street. "Well, he's just about the grandest thing I've ever seen, and I only wish I thought he

"Mary!" shouted a voice from a passing car. "Mary!"

Mary looked up, her heart turning one of those foolish somersaults as she recognized Christopher Cragg's disreputable snow-spattered coupe. He brought the machine to a stop, and leaped out. "Where are you going?"

"Just-out," Mary replied, her dark eyes smiling up at him. "I've been in all day, and I thought it was about time I breathed some

Going with Chris to make a call in the country on Christmas afternoon, knowing he's coming back home with me and perhaps staying for supper-just sitting beside him and hearing him talk! I don't want anything better than Chris-ever, as long as I live." It was the first week in January, and the Loring household had at last settled back into its usual routine. Linnie Cotswell and Lelia had departed for New York three days after Christmas, and it was almost with a feeling of relief that the Loring family had seen them go. Linnie and Lelia were charming, amusing, good company, but to have them as guests was an expense the Lorings could ill afford.

Mary had returned to her post at Hormel's rental library. She sat there now, looking over the membership cards, jotting down the titles of the books Mrs. Cyrus Phipps had telephoned to reserve for her, her thoughts going back in retrospect over the week that had just passed. Aunt Linnie had sought her out in her bedroom the last night of her stay, and extended to her a glowing invitation to return to New York with her-perhaps, even, to go to Miami later on; but Mary had refused. She was warmed by the memory of Christmas afternoon, when, after their call on the Haeslip child, she and Chris had returned home for supper which they had all taken part in preparing.

"I wonder if it'd be all right for me to call Chris up and tell him his book is in," she thought. "He's asked about it several times."

With an almost guilty feeling, she picked up the telephone and called Christopher Cragg's number. "Perhaps," she thought, "I'm just finding an excuse to call him, but I want to hear his voice. I want to hear his voice!"

And when she did hear it, an instant later, she experienced a sudden panicky paralysis, and was unable, for a brief second, to say anything in response to his "Hello." "Chris," she finally brought out,

"this is Mary. Your book came in this morning. Do you still want it?" "Oh, hello there, Mary!" Chris replied, his professional tone cast aside, his voice all warmth and friendliness now. "Yes, you bet I still want it. Can you hold it for me? I'll drop in some time this evening before your closing time."

"Yes, I can hold it till then." Mary replied in brisk, businesslike tones. "Good-by."

She sat motionless at her desk for a moment after she had hung up, the warm blood coursing through her veins. "Even hearing his voice does things to me," she told herself. "Oh, Chris! Chris! I love you so terribly!"

Then, suddenly seeing a familiar figure pass the Hormel display window, she jumped up and ran to the door. "Dad!" she called.

Mr. Loring wheeled about, and Mary could tell by the expression on his tired face that he had not wanted her to see him. "Are you on your way home to lunch?" she asked, and she was struck by the droop of his mouth, the harassed expression in his eyes.

For the length of a block, they plodded silently, wordlessly along; then, taking her courage in her hands, Mary said, "Something's worrying you, darling. What is it?"

Silence, and then, "Well-you'll have to know some time or other, I suppose. Mary, I've-I've-been let out by the railroad."

"Yes," Mr. Loring repeated dully, "for fifteen years, but they can always let a man out—and they did. I guess I just wasn't up to-snuff, Mary, and now I don't know which way to turn. We've depended almost entirely on my salary from the railroad for the past five years. They said I wasn't aggressive enough-that I just didn't have enough-fight in me. But Lord, Mary, I didn't have the heart to fight in those last two cases. My sympathies were with the-other

"It's because you're so darned good, and fair, Daddy," Mary said compassionately, "but something will turn up, dear. We'll get along. I'm going to write stories and articles and things, and maybe I'll be making money soon. Mr. Jenkins of the Courier has already accepted two of my book reviews. I was going to wait, and let you read them the paper-surprise you and Mother, but now, I think you should know. Of course, he paid only two dollars apiece for them, but his accepting them at all goes to show I have some ability. Don't you think

"Mary, dear, it takes years and years for authors to make a living at their writing. And, darling, you haven't had any training . . ."

Mary smiled grimly. "But, Dad,
I have had training—of sorts! Having been penned up in Hormel's book shop for the past four years, I've read everything worth while that's been published in that time, and besides, I've-I've written a few short stories, myself."

"Darling, don't pin your hopes to a dream. It takes so long to make good at anything. Besides," and here he squared his shoulders with a gallantry that flooded Mary's heart with pity, "I'm the father of the family. God knows, I should be able to support you all.—Mary?"
"Yes, Dad?"

"I don't want your mother to know-until it's absolutely necessary. I've let her down so terribly. I've let her down about this-and so many other things. I'm a failure, Mary. Your father's a failure."

"Don't, Dad! Don't talk that way, dear. You've been the finest husband and the dearest father in the world-and a man who is those things can't be a-failure. But we won't tell Mother just yet, darling. We'll smile when we go in the house, and we'll pretend everything's lovely-and that we just happened to meet on the way home."

CHAPTER III

Christopher Cragg did not show up at Hormel's that afternoon, and Mary, frantic over the news her father had just told her, almost forgot, for a time, his failure to appear. She had determined to embark upon her 'career'' that very day, and during her lunch hour at home had hunted up Ellen's typewriter, dusted it off, and inserted a new ribbon, which she found in Ellen's desk drawer.

She had been reading, for months on end, the "short-shorts" appearing in a weekly magazine. She had even submitted to its editor three or four of her own. The results, however, had invariably been discouraging. Always, after a two weeks' wait, the scripts had been returned to her, a printed rejection slip attached to their leaves.

'Well, I'll try again," she told herself. "Most writers admit, after they've reached the top, that they faced each other, quite oblivious of | had from ten to twenty rejections (TO BE CONTINUED)

PETER EXHORTS TO CHRISTIAN LIVING

LESSON TEXT—I Peter 3:8-18.
GOLDEN TEXT—But as he which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation.—I Peter 1:15.

Christians are not only "the called of Jesus Christ," but are also 'called saints'' (Rom. 1:6, 7). Peter had the same thing in mind when he (in v. 9 of our lesson) says that we "are thereunto called." Let us remember that when we are tempted to say that we "do not profess to be saints." "Dr. James Denney once remarked how odd it would look to see in the New Testament the statement, 'I don't pretend to be a saint.' It would be tantamount to saying, 'I do not take the call of God very seriously and I do not profess to live up to it.' When God calls, our answer is not a matter of indifference and . . . not a matter of presumption. 'It is not a life for which we volunteer, or on which we adventure of our own motion, or which we have to carry through our own resources; it is a life for which we have a divine summons, and that summons is our justification' " (Arnold's Commentary). All believers are called to live a consistent, powerful, useful Christian life, and God makes such a life possible. I. Living for Christ (vv. 8-12).

To live for Christ one must be born again into the position of a true believer. Peter was not so foolish as to urge that his readers try to live a Christian life without first being born into the family of God. He therefore lays a foundation for his exhortations by discussing in the early chapters of his epistle the atonement of Christ and the position of the believer. Then he gives specific instructions to certain groups, leading up to the general plea for Christian life and testimony

1. Among brethren (v. 8). Knowing what Christ has done for us, it might well be assumed that all of us who are His followers would love one another and do nothing but that which would promote Christian fellowship. But human nature prevails even in the Church, and sometimes displays its worst side there. Hence we need to consider this instruction of Peter that we cultivate unity, sympathy, and love among the brethren. Observe that this is not just a pious platitude which we may take or leave. It states our obligation to one another as Christians. Whatever others may do or say, let us be clear that we have obeyed this word of God.

2. With unbelievers (vv. 9-11). God has called us to live peaceably with all men. We will not cure evil by returning for it more evil. If our ungodly neighbors or fellow workers mistreat us by word or deed, we are not to retaliate in kind. We are to control our tongues -how much we need to learn that lesson. We are not to be tricky and deceitful, not to look for a fight, but to seek peace.

3. For our own good (v. 12). What blessed assurance we find here for the believer. The eyes of the Lord are upon both the good and the evil in the world. He knows. Consider also the promise of "blessing" in verse 9, of seeing "good days" in verse 10, the assurance of peace in verse 11. It is not only honoring to God, but good for us to live as Christians.

II. Suffering for Christ (vv. 13-18). Peter was writing to those who were bearing bitter persecution because they followed Christ. Perhaps some were tempted to say then as they do now, "If there really is a God, if Christianity amounts to anything at all, certainly believers would not be permitted to suffer at the hands of enemies of Christ." Let us be clear that being a Christian in no way exempts us from the common experiences of humanity, nor does it assure us that we will not have to bear persecution and suffering. But (and here is a point of greatest importance), we are able to meet such difficulties in the name of Christ without fear or discouragement, for God is with

1. Not afraid (vv. 13, 14). The martyr spirit has not died out in the earth, and there are those in our day who stand unafraid before dictators and rulers who would destroy them because of their loyalty to Christ. "Be not afraid."

2. Not discouraged (vv. 15-17) The one who knows God's Word (and every Christian ought to know it) can give answer (v. 15) concerning his faith. Note that if we are punished for our own wrongdoing we may well be depressed, but if we meet persecution with a clear conscience (v. 16) we need feel no discouragement.

3. Not alone (v. 18). The path may be dark and difficult, but one thing we know, our Leader, Christ, walked an even darker and more desolate road. He it is who is now with us, yes, in us. Remember that "Christ also hath once suffered" (v. 13) and go on your way in vio tory

Last Thursday a panel discussion was conducted by members of the European history class on the subject of "Is it better for a nation to make mistakes in self-government than to be ruled, however wisely, by an absolute ruler." Members of the panel were Janet McLean, Julius Musolf, Helen Gal'iker and Nelson Thornton. Irene Cuniff acted as leader. This panel gave the students a history to current events and learn to do independent thinking. They car-ried on the discussion by means of a device which is gaining popularity in adult groups. The students deserve commendation for their demonstration.

The Eng'ish I students are making notebooks based on Scott's "Lady of the Lake." Character sketches, detection of the Scottish Highlands, scriptions of the Scottish Highlands, discussions of the differences of the Highland and Lowland Scotch, drawings and memorable passages of the poem are among the things to be included in the notebooks.

AMERICAN BOY MAGAZINE COMPANION TO THOUSANDS

Hundreds of thousands of boys and young men read The American Boy magazine every month and consider it more as a living companion than as a magazine.

"It's as much a buddy to me as my neighborhood chum," writes one high school senior. "The American Boy seems to understand a boy's problems and considers them in such a sympathetic and helpful way. It gives advice and entertaining reading on every subject in which a young fellow is interested. It is particu'arly helpful in sports. I made our school basketball team because of playing tips I read in The American Boy."

Many famous athletes in a'l sports credit much of their success to helpful suggestions received from sports articles carried in The American Boy magazine. Virtually every issue offers advice from a famous coach or player. Football, basketball, track, tennis, in fact every major sport is covered in fiction and fact articles.

Teachers, librarians, parents and leaders of boys clubs also recommend The American Boy enthusiastically. They have found that as a general rule regular readers of The American Boy advance more rapidly and develop more worthwhile char-acteristics than do boys who do not Trained writers and artists, famous coaches and athletes, explorers, scientists and men successful in business and industry join with an experienced staff to produce in The American Boy, the sort of reading matter boys like best.

The American Boy sells on most ewsstands at 15c a copy. Subscripton prices are $1.50 for one year or $3.00 for three years. Foreign rates 50c a year extra. To subscribe simply send your name, address and remittance direct to The American Boy, 7430 Second Blvd., Detroit Michigan.
