Congress Speeds U. S. Defense: Okay Army Bill, Plan Big Ships -By Joseph W. La Bine-

EDITOR'S NOTE-When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst, and not necessarily of the newspaper.

Defense

On January 1, 1936, Japan scrapped her 5-5-3 naval treaty with the U. S. and Britain. Subsequently an arms race started on both land and sea, precipitated each time Der Fuehrer or Il Duce made an aggressive step. In the U. S., even loud-mouthed congressmen were loathe to think of defense in terms of actual invasion until self-righteous Germany swiped Czecho-Slovakia and Memel. Two weeks later congress got down to talking cases, passing an unprecedented $513,188,-000 army appropriations bill in jig time after war talk like this in the Oklahoma's Thomas: "Every nation must be ready every moment . . . to defend itself."

Utah's King: "The only possible danger is from Japan, and . . . Japan is beating her head against a stone wall in China. Even if Germany should defeat England, I haven't the slightest idea that would endanger us.'

Indiana's Minton: "Germany might obtain Bermuda or part of Canada.

Minnesota's Lundeen: "Then let the United States seize Bermuda and Britain's West Indian possessions to force payment of her war debts. Andrew Jackson set a precedent in collecting a debt from France by threatening to seize French territory in this hemisphere.

Indiana's Minton: "That would be adopting the technique of Hitler.

Having boosted army funds $52,-987,000 over the current year's appropriation, congress had next to consider navy news from the White House. Admitting Japan's secret naval program was one reason, President Roosevelt approved two President's original budget, but tossed in anyway, was a $250,000,000 grant for parity payments. But no financing was provided, and the house seemed economy bent. Rather than resort to unpopular processing taxes the house voted against parity, winning disfavor of the potent farm bloc and a victory for the President, who insists extra-budgetary needs must be met with definite taxation. Agriculture leaders hoped the senate would restore parity; even so, an embarrassing situation apparently lay ahead. With no money, glum dirt farmers saw only one way to pay off the government loans on which they have pledged 81,000,000 bushels of wheat. The way: To default, making the U. S. the world's largest wheat owner.

(2) Cotton. Another rejected amendment called for $60,000,000 "to develop domestic markets and subsidize foreign exports." This obvi-ously referred to the plan President Roosevelt broached a few hours ear-lier: To spend $15,000,000 between now and August 1 by paying producers $1.25 a bale (on 8,000,000 bales) for releasing their government-held loan cotton for sale on the world market. Though the 1939 crop will otherwise swell govern-ment-held surpluses to 13,000,000 bales, congressional economy apparently won. Said Virginia's Rep. Clifton Woodrum: "We might as well repeal the budget and the accounting act, and let pandemonium and chaos reign.'

Meanwhile, far in the future, southern cotton farmers saw relief in the revolutionary "cottonless" cotton developed at Texas A. & M. college's experimental college. Said to produce an over-large, oil-rich seed without detracting from the grade of the lint, the new pitiouct made farmers wonder if cotton couldn't be raised exclusively for oil, whose price is fairly constant.

Transportation

Among other things, U. S. railroads blame high taxes, bad business and unfair competition from other media for their present plight. Labor blames the railroads themselves. Most people blame a mixture of geographical, economic and political factors, in which everybody's hands are partially soiled. When railroading reached a crisis last autumn and congressional aid became imperative, a flock of panaceas arose ranging from the Hastings "postalizing" plan to the sub-stantial bills of Montana's Burton K. Wheeler and California's Clarence F. Lea. Both management and labor pressed their particular cases and after two months of haggling the issue seemed little nearer a solution The latest voice is that of Joseph B. Eastman, interstate commerce

Few observers doubt that Adolf Hitler's ambition is restoration of the pre-war Hapsburg and Hohen-zollern empires. Most agree, also, that his next step will be capture of the Free City of Danzig (now under League control) and the adjacent corridor which is Poland's only outlet to the Baltic sea. That Germany will get these concessions without a fight is further evident because Danzig is already 90 per cent Nazi; Poland, moreover, apparently recognizes her futile position and is ready to move into the German orbit rather than join a French-British-Russ alliance permit-

land of Germany's good intentions, Nazi press notes like these sound suspiciously like the start of another campaign: Field Marshal Goering's Essener

National Zeitung: "Polish attacks on Germans (in Pole territory) are an intolerable strain on the German-Polish treaty of friendship-democ-racies pull the strings!" (Similar allegations regarding German minorities preceded recent Nazi invasions in Austria, Sudetenland and Czecho-Slovakia.)

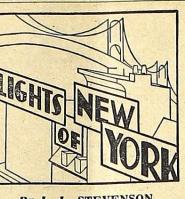

Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz: The paper advised Poles to continue collaborating with Germany and not to listen to "foreign sirens" lest the results not be 'advantageous." The "foreign sirens" are obviously France and Britain, whose failure to back up protection promises the past year will undoubtedly force Poland to seek German mercy.

Labor

The unhappy plight of U.S. employer-employee relations may be due either to (1) the Wagner labor relations act, or (2) American Federation of Labor's battle with Congress of Industrial organizations. Like an impatient school teacher, both congress and the White House have resolved to end this squabble, the White House by sponsoring A. F. of L.-C. I. O. peace talks, congress by amending the Wagner act.

When April 11 was chosen starting date for senate committee hearings on Wagner amendments, labor peace talks were in full bloom. But so strong are the workingman's feelings about the proposed changes that many a peace advocate thought hearings might have been delayed until labor's warring factions either make up or draw swords. To amend the Wagner act, congress can pick from four sets of proposals, all opposed by C. I. O., three Samuel Konefsky is blind. He los his sight in a wagon accident in Warsaw when he was a small boy. In 1926, he came to America with his parents and at once took up the study of Braille and typing. Then he went to Brooklyn high school. There he completed a four-year course in three and was graduated with honors. Brooklyn college came next. Not only did he keep up with his various studies but found time to engage in school activities. He was a member of the debating team and also did research work in subjects pertaining to government. He was elected to the honor society, was on the dean's honor list and was graduated cum laude. His ambition was to become a college teacher. Now three nights a week he conducts three classes in government, with more than a hundred students, in the college from which he graduated. Days, he works for a Ph. D. degree at Columbia university. * * * The roll call in Professor Konef-

It is his belief that a student gets more by taking part in a class rather than merely listening and making notes. So he uses the recitation system. Only during examinations does he have an assistant. Then his secretary acts as a general supervisor. The examina-tions over, she reads the papers to him and he marks the grades. Our World's fair, it seems, will have an effect on men's suits this year. At least, the New York Custom Cutters club at a recent meeting exhibited a snappy model called 'The Dawn of Tomorrow," which, of course, is the fair's theme. It is cut much fuller around the chest and the waistline is lower. Thus the wearer can swell with pride or

JEW YORK.—There is an Anthony Edenish flavor about the way Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles denounces Germany in the absence of Our Welles No Secretary Hull, Flop in Poll of and there is an Edenish flavor Best Dressers aboutour Mr.

Welles himself. He is tall. He is lean. He has a wee, precise mustache, and why nobody has picked him in a best-dressed poll is a mystery. His long, big nose is perfectly cut, too, and not a hair is out of place in the thinning pompadour that roaches back from a domed forehead.

This is not, however, to hint that the undersecretary is any-thing less than 100 per cent American. He was born in New York City 46 years or so ago. President Roosevelt's own Groton and Harvard shaped him, and he is at home in four or fice clubs that insist on looking up candidates in the Doomsday book of the Revolution of '76. His church, naturally, is the Episcopal church, and his home now is understandably in historic Maryland, where two sons are no doubt also preparing for Groton.

The diplomatic gauntlet that he ran to' reach his present post ex-tends back to 1915 and Tokyo. Betimes he has been much in South America. He has been first-assistant since 1937 to Secretary Hull.

He is a personable young man of 40, but, in "Barbary Coast," "Kentucky," and such earlier films as "Smilin' Guns" and "The Lariat Kid," he came through handsomely as a tough old-timer, and now that's his ticket. He likes it, and, living these roles, becomes a sage, homespun old codger given to offhand, David Harum apho-risms. I have heard of similar occupational trends in Hollywood. He says he is growing old happily.

He first upped himself as an oldster by lying about his age to get in the war. Gassed in France, he lost all his teeth and got a rasp in his voice, which also helped. He raised pineapples in Guatemala, made money, lost it in Los Angeles real estate, and then crashed the films. Born and reared in Swampscott, Mass., he is a master of the quaint western and southwestern idiom.

45,000-ton super super-battleships to cost $95,000,000 each, bigger than any yet conceived and capable of squeezing through the Panama canal with two feet to spare on either side. One good reason: By showing that the U.S. is able to out-arm any other nation, Japan might be forced back into a limitation treaty.

Present U. S. strength includes 15 capital ships (one nearing obsolescence) ranging from 27,000 to 33,000 tons. Six more are authorized. Britain has 15 capital ships in the same category, plus the 42,-000-ton Hood and nine other boats underway. Last Japanese report (in 1936) showed 10 capital ships, none over 33,000 tons, and three under construction. Vague rumors since then indicate about five new super dreadnaughts of excessive tonnage. Treaty or not, both Britain and the U.S. feel obligated to maintain a 5-5-3 ratio even though the world's third largest sea power sets the pace.

(2) Elimination of rate concessions to the government would save about $7,000,000 a year.

(3) All important forms of transportation should receive "equal and impartial regulation," preferably under ICC direction. While the house sped passage of a bill to facilitate voluntary rail reorganizations, Mr. Eastman pointed out that creation of a new reorganization court would delay rather than facilitate matters. His alternative: Give ICC charge of reorganization duties.

Men whose height is from five feet to five feet eight are to get a buildup this year through the efforts of the tailors. It seems that in the past too much stress was laid on wide shoulders and other matters that increased the roly-poly effect. This year, trouser legs are to be longer and waistlines shorter, and thus the effect of increased elevation. But whether the new suits will enable a five-footer to look a six-footer in the eye and tell him where he gets off, deponent sayeth not.

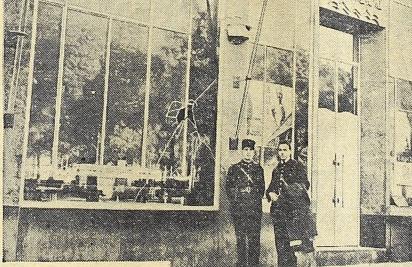

Just to bring this to a jumping off place, there is that Long Island. drug store owner who can't figure out why a thief should leave behind something more valuable than he took. Customers being somewhat far apart, the delivery boy of the drug store is provided with a bicycle. When he comes in from a trip, he's supposed to chain it by the weighing machine out front. He forgot to do that the other day with the result that the bicycle was stolen. But in its place was not only a newer but a far more expensive machine. The druggist took the matter up with the police who, after failing to find the substituted bicycle on the stolen list, told him all he could do was keep it and use it until an owner turned up. © Bell Syndicate.-WNU Service.

Commodore Barry's Will

Found in Philadelphia PHILADELPHIA. - Commodore John Barry's will, drawn up 135 years ago, has been discovered by Dr. John F. McCloskey, register of

"The Father of the American Navy" bequeathed his entire $15,000 estate to his widow, Sarah, for her "use and fullest enjoyment" and ordered that his "faithful Negro servants be granted their liberty and 20 pounds the year."

The yellow crumbling document in Barry's handwriting is dated February 23, 1803, seven months before the commodore's death.

When Italy first began unofficial clamoring for Tunisia, the Italian travel bureau in Tunis (above) was well smashed up during demonstrations. This happened early last December following Count Ciano's remarks in the Italian chamber of deputies. In the intervening three months Paris has made Tunisia almost as impregnable as the famous Maginot line which guards France from Germany. Since the Tunisian frontier is largely mountainous, like the view shown at right, an invading army from Libya would have intense difficulty scaling peaks and fighting off artillery.

island Negroes, he used to say: "Yes bahs, ships grow hugely in coming years and if some is fighting ship it must go swiftly and not fear other passing great ship. Axing parding sir, we Jamaica boys say canal need great enlarging."

Frank J. Taylor, president of the American Merchant marine, returns from the canal to New York with the same idea. He says congress should spend $300,000,000 to widen the canal for both commercial and national defense reasons. Mr. Taylor's career is Brooklyn's favorite 'boy who made good" story-from $1 a day to $35,000 a year, which is the possibly vulgar epitome of such careers in this day and age.

He was an orphan lad in a Manhattan slum, at work at 12 as an apprentice at Robbins dry dock in the Red Hook section of Brooklyn. He rose in politics, in the state assembly for 12 terms, sheriff, commissioner of records, welfare commissioner and comptroller of New York City.

Retiring from the last office in 1937, he went to Florida, but the steamship owners tracked him down and burdened him with this $35,000 job. He fights government intrusion on private enterprise, but says the shipping interests will co-operate effectively with the United States maritime commission. © Consolidated News Features. Exercise Most Reliable Cure For Asthmatics

THE TAWAS HERALD

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON WHEN a number of research and practicing physicians form an organization or council to find out all possible about an ailment and TODAY'S pass this information along to other HEALTH practicing and re-COLUMN search physicians, much is likely to be learned about that ailment. Thus, in Great Britain, there was formed some years ago what is known as the Asthma Research council and at each annual meeting progress for the previous year is reported. Although there are various causes for and types of asthma, one method of treatment has

This special treatment is exercise or exercises.

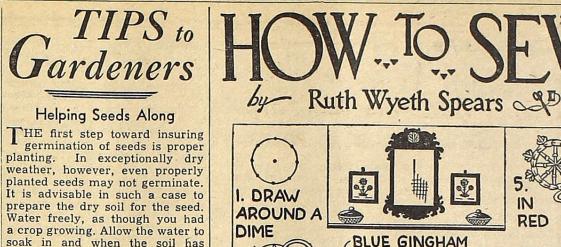

The asthmatic Dr. Barton chest is barrelshaped because the lower chest and abdominal muscles remain distended-the breathing being all done at the upper part of the chest, the lower part of the chest — the diaphragm— scarcely moving at all. The object of the exercises is to teach the patient to breathe with his diaphragm or abdomen. Three groups of exercises are described in the little book 'Physical Exercises for Asthma,' published by the organization.

Exercises Explained.

Although the exercises vary some-what, the breathing is the same in all—a "short" breathing in of air through the nose, followed by a gen-tle but long breathing out through the mouth. During this breathing out through the mouth, the patient makes an F or S sound with the lips or teeth to fix his attention on blowing out as long as possible. Durblowing out as long as possible. During the breathing in, the upper part of the chest muscle must remain still, the abdomen rising during this breathing in. With the breathing out the abdomen contracts or draws downward very slowly. It is recommended that the exercises be practiced for at least 10 minutes twice each day. For asthmatics and all interested in asthma, this little book should prove of great value. It may be obtained by sending 25 cents to Asthma Research Council, King's College, Strand, London, W. C. 2, England. The name of the booklet, as mentioned above, is "Physical Exer-cises for Asthma."

causes you to be overweight he simply tells you that you eat more food than you use or need, and so this extra food is stored in the body as fat.

When you ask your doctor what

Overweight Persons Store Food in Body

When you call his attention to a mutual friend or acquaintance who is slim but eats more than you do, doesn't do any more physical work, and gets as much rest, he repeats his statement that, notwithstanding this fact, you still eat more food than your particular body needs. It is estimated that the average individual uses up about one half of the food he eats to supply the body's needs—beating of the heart, breath-ing of the lungs, the digestion and absorption of food, separating harm-ful wastes from the blood and carrying these wastes to the skin, lungs and lower bowel to be thrown out of the body.

Calories Not Used Up.

This means then that the overweight individual taking in 3,600 to 4,000 calories of heat units of food uses up 1,800 to 2,000 of these units in just supplying various processes of the body with their needs. This amount of food is used by the body every day "whether the individual is sleeping or waking, working or resting, eating or fasting, and there is no method of avoiding the ex-penditure or use of this amount of food by the body. Each day from birth to death the heart pounds the chest wall 100,000 times, and the bellows of the lungs open and 4,000 calories of heat units of food the bellows of the lungs open and close 20,000 times."

If, then, the overweight individual were to cut his food exactly in half he would not put on a single pound of fat. If he took some regular exercise-walking a mile daily-resting one hour less in the 24 hours, he would take off some weight because it would require some of the fat tissue on his body to supply the energy for the exercise taken and for the loss of the hour's rest.

If, however, the overweight individual were unable or unwilling to take exercise or do without one of his resting hours, but cut down his food by more than half (say from 1,800 calories down to 1,500) every day, then 300 calories or heat units would have to be supplied by the fat on his body to make up the 1,800 units his body needed every day to do its work. An extension telephone at your bedside provides the quickest means of summoning help in emergencies ... fire, sudden illness, burglary.

It affords privacy, for yourself or guests, both in making and receiving calls. A convenience to every one, it is a real boon to convalescents. And it is of special value to the busy housewife, for it saves her the time and trouble of many tiring trips up and down the stairs.

You can have an extension telephone in any part of your home for less than 3 cents a day. To order an extension telephone, call, visit or write the Telephone Business Office.

See The New, Improved JOHN DEERE Model "L" TRACTOR It's Built for REAL ECONOMY

No matter how small your crop acreage—you will want to come in and get full information on this new John Deere tractor built for market growers and small-acreage farmers. Its engine is of simple, 2-cylinder design. Its operating costs are amaz-ingly low. Many owners use only 5 or 6 gallons of fuel for a full 10-hour day's work.

On small acreages, it is the only power unit needed—it does the plowing, seed bed preparing, planting, cultivating, hauling and other jobs-completely replacing horses. Best of all, the price of the tractor and equipment is within reach of every pocketbook.

Everyone should see this new John Deere-the only way to really appreciate its easy handling, its compact design, and its flexibility, is to come inget the feel of the wheel.

THE TAWAS HERALD

SYNOPSIS

Mary Loring and her father, Jim, an in-effectual attorney, meet a train which brings his wealthy sister-in-law, unmarried Linnie Cotswell and her friend, Lelia Ormsby, di-vorcee, for a Christmas visit. Waiting at home for them are Mary's mother, her younger sister, Ellen; her father's nagging maiden sister, Aunt Manie, and Peter, the baby of the family. At the depot Dr. Christopher Cragg helps the guests with their luggage. Mary is secretly in love with Doctor Cragg. In leaving, her Aunt Linnie urges Mary to visit her in New York, but Mary refuses. Mary works in a rental li-brary, where she spends her spare time writing short stories. Mary's father is let out as railroad attorney, the fees of which were almost the sole support of his family. To earn money she decides to begin writ-ing in earnest. Mary feels sure that her newest story, "At Sea," would please to the book store for a current novel. Fall-ing from a ladder while getting his book, she regains consclousness to find his arms around her. He tells her he loves her, and then tells her he is to be married the com-ing month to a girl he has known all his life. Despondent, Mary decides to accept her Aunt Linnie's Invitation. In New York her aunt laughs at her for her plans to write, and insists that she meet as many eligible men as possible. The new week brings two letters. One, from the National Weekly, with a $100 check for her story, makes her deliriously happy. The other, from her sister, tells her that financial con-ditions at home are getting worse. The next day, at a party given by her aunt, Mary meets distinguished Jerome Taylor, wealthy middle aged man-about-town, and effusive Count Umberto Ballanci. The counts eith maner nauseates her. Mary Loring and her father, Jim, an inwealthy middle aged man-about-town, and effusive Count Umberto Ballanci. The count's oily manner nauseates her

CHAPTER V—Continued -5-

The Mulatto woman consulted the names on the envelopes with maddening precision, finally extending a letter towards Mary. "Just one, honey. Looks like a man's writing, too.

Mary caught the letter from the long, olive-tinted hand. "I hope it's from my father," she said, almost as if to herself. Dad had not written to her since her arrival in New York, and she was hungry to hear, in his own words, how he was getting on.

It was from her father-just one page of his small, scholarly handwriting-neat, modest, suppressed, like the man himself. She read, with affectionate eagerness, what he had to say.

had to say. My own little girl: Your money-order for eighty-five dol-lars came today, and it is with inex-pressible embarrassment, and deep grat-itude that I am accepting this loan from you. There is no use trying to conceal from you that I am terribly hard-pressed, and that your generous offering has arrived as something of a god-send, but Mary, I shall pay you back. I am doing everything I can to make a contact, and hope for something good to break this week. Don't, I beg of you, ever mention to your aunt the straitened circumstances in which I—through my inadequacy— have thrown my family. I could not bear the chagrin of having your dear mother's sister know the true state of our financial affairs, let alone suffer the embarrassment of an offer of help from her.

hard to start up again." Mary worked on "Their Son" again the next morning, rewriting whole sentences, transcribing phrases, deleting words that appeared unnecessary, but the conformation remained the same, and she could see no way in which to improve it. She was not satisfied with what she had done. The story lacked something. At one o'clock, she put it aside, telling her-self grimly, "I'm so saturated with the thing that I can no longer look at it from an unbiased standpoint. I'll go out for a walk. Maybe the fresh air will drive the cobwebs out of my brain, and I can get to work on it again tonight with a fresh outlook." Then, she suddenly remembered that Aunt Linnie had made an engagement for the evening with Umberto Balianci, and, with a sigh, she resigned herself to

waiting until the following morning to work on the script again.

Balianci called for them at seven, just shortly after Lelia had ensconced herself comfortably in bed with Somerset Maugham's new book at her side, and a tray of delectable food over her knees. "Well, thank heavens, I'm not going out with you and Linnie tonight," she said with a mischievous grin.

"Aunt Linnie said to wear a street dress," Mary remarked. Lelia yawned luxuriously. "Oh, strange-looking creatures that pracof course, with Balianci footing the tically sat in our laps." Her ravenous young appetite had bill! He will, no doubt, treat you to an eighty-five cent table-d'hote in some wretched place in the Village, and smugly feel that you and Linnie are in his debt for the rest of the winter. He's so accustomed to having somebody else pay the check that, when he does come across with an invitation, he damn' well sees to it that his output of cash is of the smallest possible denomination. He's a sponger, darling, looking for a rich wife, and nobody on earth can make me believe anything to the contrary." Mary pulled on her Lapin coat, and caught her gloves up from the dressing-table. "You do look cozy, Lelia," she said, "and heaven knows I wish I were staying at fore. home tonight instead of going out into that horrid, raw weather. I'd have liked to work on my story." "The afternoon paper says we'll have a regular blizzard by morning," Lelia announced, crunching a Julienne potato with tantalizing en-joyment. "Thanks be to Allah for Typewriting Is Held Character Clew; my bed and board! See you later, my dear, unless you get lost in a snowdrift. I doubt if Balianci has the price of a taxi!" Mary wondered, during the long, spasmodic serving of the meal, if they were going some place later on, but her speculations as to that were soon brought to an end by Balianci's saying, a tentative tone in his voice, "The weather, it is execrable. Should we not be happier to remain here for the evening?" Miss Cotswell, who had scarcely touched her food, replied that per-haps they would, lit a cigarette, and sat back resignedly in her chair. After which, Balianci divided his attention and his eyes equally between the tawdry floor show and Mary. Once, during the evening, he put his hand over Mary's as it lay on the table, caught it to his lips and murmured, "A hand so beautiful, it needs no jewels." Mary hastily withdrew her hand, and the corners of her mouth twitched with amusement as she thought, "Just as well-since I haven't any!"

"You are so right, beautiful lady," Balianci continued, his voice reminding Mary of the purr of a large Maltese cat. "The lily should never be gilded." Miss Cotswell caught Balianci's eye at this moment, and neatly conveyed to him by her expression that his remarks were not altogether to her liking.

Eventually, at eleven o'clock, she rose. "We must be getting home,' she said tersely.

Balianci managed to squeeze into the same seat with the women on the homeward trip in the taxi, and to take advantage of the closeness of the quarters by pressing his shoulder rather too tenderly against Mary's. "He can't be doing it on purpose," Mary told herself. "It's simply that this seat is so narrow." Miss Cotswell turned abruptly, just as they reached the elevator in her apartment house, and extended her hand to Balianci in an undeniable farewell. Later, in the privacy of her apartment, she said to her niece, "Umberto was loping right along with us into the lift. No doubt, he intended to come up for a nightcap, but I couldn't stand another moment of his company. Dreadful evening, wasn't it?"

Mary, warming her chilled fingers before the dying fire on the hearth, smiled. "Maybe it was for you, Aunt Linnie. You're so accustomed to nightingale's knees on toast that I can imagine how low-life you consider a place like Corliani's. As for me, however, it was rather fun. Remember, hot chocolate and salted crackers at Bowen's drug store have been the high points in my night life for years! I'd never tasted real Italian food before, and I was even intrigued with some of the rather

With eager fingers, she slipped it into a large, manila envelope, and, securing Aunt Linnie's fountain pen from the tray of odds and ends on the desk, wrote across its front in large letters, "Mr. Phillip Buchanan, The National Weekly.'

"I'll take it to him myself," she thought, "and if he's not there, just leave it with his secretary. I wish it were later. I don't suppose these editors ever think of rolling into their offices until at least ten. Well, I'll just have to take a long bath, eat a long breakfast, and spend an hour getting dressed. Maybe that'll consume the time between nowand then!"

CHAPTER VI

It was half past ten, and Mary sat with flushed face and icy hands in the reception room of The National Weekly. She had arrived exactly at the stroke of ten, and, after giving her name to the efficient receptionist, had been told that Mr. Buchanan was in, that he was occupied at the moment, and to sit down, please.

Two other persons had now entered the reception room; a goodlooking young man with an intense air; a swarthy girl of twenty-five or so. "But I'll be next," Mary told herself excitedly, her hands like blocks of ice beneath their tan suede gloves.

The other callers had disappeared through mysterious doors and Miss Hickenlooper, the secretary, was now speaking through one of the telephones in response to a buzz that had resounded throughout the re-ception room. "All right, Miss Lor-ing," she said. "Your turn now." Mary jumped to her feet, dropping her purse as she did so. Miss Hickenlooper raised a supercilious eyebrow. "Your purse, Miss Lor-ing," she said coldly. "And you'd better take your coat with you." "Hateful woman!" Mary thought, her face suffusing with a deep red. 'She probably knows I'm excited." "To the right, please," Miss Hick-enlooper was saying. "Office at the end of the corridor." "Thank you," Mary said coldly and, elevating her chin ever so slightly, stepped through the door that led into the working quarters of The National Weekly.

She stood in the doorway an stant before the man at the desk became aware of her presence. He was scanning a typed letter, and a deep frown made a furrow between his eyebrows. He looked austere, and Mary, none-too-assured at best, felt increasingly nervous. He was younger than she had expected to find him, perhaps thirty-five, and his hair looked sunburned, as if he had just returned from a fishing trip in Florida, which, indeed, he had. Suddenly, he glanced up, and seeing her standing there, rose hastily from his chair, a puzzled expression on his face. He was taller than one would have judged, seeing him sitting down, glaring at that letter. He was as tall as Chris. "Is this-Miss Loring?" he asked, and the fear that he had inspired in her was instantly dispelled. His voice was kind, young-with the faintest

It's Balance That Counts

It requires no more time or effort to prepare nutritionally correct meals than those which lack balance, nor is it more expensive. For elaborate meals can lack balance, if they are deficient in minerals, vitamins and bulk, while those composed of such simple foods as bread and milk, and stewed fruits may provide an abundance of the protective substances which satisfy the hidden hunger of the body.

Church for missionary work, and on heir first journey had reached Antioch in Pisidia. In the synagogue on the Sabbath day they were asked to speak to the people. Paul arose in holy boldness and called upon them to hearken to him. What is the important message which gives this preacher such assurance? The resurrection of Jesus Christ. It is true that the sermon he gives presents much other information as it logically and tactfully leads up to its high point, but that point is the resurrection and the redemption_ which it assures.

II. Makes the Gospel Clear (vv. 23-31, 38, 39).

Reviewing Israel's history, Paul factors that science has deterdeclares that of the seed of David mined to be essential for top God had "according to his promise health. deserted her. Poor Dad, trying to "make a contact" at his age! Hoping for "something good to break this week!" Begging her never to divulge to Aunt Linnie, who could so very easily spare a thousand or two thousand dollars to relieve, at least temporarily, the devastating worry that gnawed at his heart and mind! No, she would not "let on," by word or act, how desperate the Hawkinsville situation was. She would never betray Dad's confidence, or do anything to hurt his pride.

Hastily, she picked up the breakfast tray, with its powder-blue dishes and silver coffee pot, and carried it to Addie, who forthwith remonstrated with her for "doin' my work." Then, returning to the sunlit living room, she placed the typewriter on the table, inserted a sheet of white paper and put on the glasses which Ellen said made her look typically librarian.

She had an idea for a plot-a simple idea, but so had been the idea for "At Sea." Mr. Buchanan had liked that well enough to accept it. Her story was to concern a little boy whose mother and father were on the brink of a sensational divorce. Just as things were reaching a crisis, he was hit, but only slightly injured, by an automobile, and this near tragedy brought the parents together again, the tale concluding in a sane and happy manner for all concerned.

Fifteen minutes later, she was still waiting for an introductory line that would inspire within Mr. Buchanan an avid interest to read the rest of the story, but the portentous words were fearfully slow in coming. At last her fingers fell upon the keys, and sharply tapped out a sentence -a sentence that did not please her in the least, but which would simply have to do for the time being. She would have to get on. She couldn't sit there all day, waiting to begin.

Paragraph after paragraph slowly but surely stretched themselves over the pages, but the story unrolled with painful effort. "I've waited too long since the last one. My thoughts simply can't get down to business. Too many things have Sea.' If only I'd begun another story the air was heavy with the stale, ing small things.

one of the small side seats, and lighted a cigarette. "It is a place I have but recently discovered, Miss Cotswell, and the food is most excellent-cooked as only the chefs of my country can cook. I thought perhaps Miss Loring would like a bit of atmosphere-something different from what she has been accustomed to seeing and doing since she has been in New York." Corliani's was crowded, garish, and shabby, and the bare wooden tables were set so closely together that it was almost impossible to wedge a way through them. For some inexplicable reason, Mary woke at six the next morning. Lelia and Miss Cotswell were, of course, still asleep, and even Addie could not be heard stirring about. The script of "Their Son," which she had tucked away in the bottom drawer of her bureau the day before, sprang to her mind, and with a sudden spurt of energy, she decided that now, in the early hours of this cold morning, with not one sign of life to disturb the calm, was the time to read it over. She could look at it from a fresh viewpoint, and, no doubt, discern in its structure glaring flaws which she had been too weary to notice the day be-A second later, she settled her-

39. Now it is clear that we have a victorious, living Saviour and a gospel to preach that is the "power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth" (Rom. 1:16).

III. Makes the Future Certain (I Cor. 15:19-22).

Man comes to the years of maturity and suddenly faces the shocking fact that the life to which he gives so much, for which he labors and sacrifices, is but for a brief span of years, perhaps at the most "three score years and ten, and if by reason of strength they be fourscore years, yet is their strength labor and sorrow" (Ps. 90:10). He sees that friends and loved ones must part at the grave. Is this the end?

The answer to that question comes to us today from the empty tomb in the garden through the words of Paul. Listen to their majesty-rejoice in their beauty and assurance: 'But now is Christ risen from the dead." Hallelujah! And that's not all, He has "become the first fruits of them that slept" (v. 20), which means that all those who are asleep in Jesus will be brought forth in due season.

The resurrection of Jesus transformed the grave (as a friend of mine expresses it) from a dark hole in the ground where hope ends, to a highway, going down, it is true, through the valley of the shadow, but lighted by the victory of Jesus over death, and bordered on both sides by Easter lilies. Thus is "brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory''-a victory that makes us

"steadfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord" (I Cor. 15:54, 58). It is Easter. Christ is risen! Let us rejoice!

God's Garden

God Almighty first planted a garden; and indeed it is the purest of human pleasures... It is the greatest refreshment to the spirits of man, without which buildings and palaces are but gross handiworks; and a man shall ever see that, when ages grow to civility and elegancy men come to built stately sooner than to garden finely, as if gardening were Bacon.
