WM. HATTON IS CHAIRMAN SUPERVISORS

County Board In Session Three Days This Week

SUPERVISORS

V. J. Anderson, Alabaster.
Hobart Brayman, Au Sable.
Edw. Burgeson, Baldwin.
Theo. Bellville, Burleigh.
Harry Van Patten, Grant.
Jas. McGilivray, Oscoda.
Lewis Nunn, Plainfield.
Frank Schneider, Sherman.
Harold Black, Reno.
Ferdinand Schmalz, Tawas.
Walter Laidlaw, Fred Brabant, Wm. Hatton, Tawas City.
E. J. Leaf, Henry Klenow, H. C. Hennigar, Harry Pelton, East Tawas.
Horace Powell, Whittemore.
Harry Cross, Wilber.

At the spring session of the Isoco County Board of Supervisors held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week Wm. Hatton of Tawas City was elected permanent chairman. He succeeded Edgar Loeks of Whittemore. Harold Black of Reno was named chairman pro tem. E. J. Leaf of East Tawas acted as temporary chairman.

Chairman Hatton appointed the following committees and the appointments were confirmed by the board:

Claims and Accounts No. 1—Anderson, Powell, Cross, Van Patten, MacGilivray.

Claims and Accounts No. 2—Burgeson, Laidlaw, Brayman, Pelton, Cross.

Claims and Accounts No. 3—Brabant, Laidlaw, Van Patten, Pelton, Bellville.

Equalization — [Leaf, Schneider, Nunn, Laidlaw, Bellville].

Finance and Apportionment—Black, Burgeson, Schmalz, Hennigar, Anderson.

Drains and Ditches—Cross, Schneider, Nunn.

Roads and Bridges—MacGilivray, Brayman, Schmalz.

Official Bonds—Nunn, Black, Leaf, Schneider, Brabant.

Welfare—Nunn, Cross, Powell.

Officers Salaries—Hennigar, Van Patten, Schmalz, Pelton, Klenow.

Judiciary — Powell, MacGilivray, Klenow.

County Farm—Bellville, Burgeson, Cross.

Mileage and Per Diem—Brabant, Leaf, Brabant, Powell, Black.

Purchasing — Laidlaw, Hennigar, Klenow.

Conservation — Burgeson, Hennigar, Powell.

At this meeting a county library board was set up with the following members: Mrs. W. C. Davidson, of Tawas City; Mrs. Elmer Kunz of East Tawas; and Supervisors Black and Burgeson. The county library is an outgrowth of a former WPA project. In recognition of assistance given by various cities and townships to the older project, the state is giving about $1000.00 for library work in the county this year.

The board adopted resolutions asking the Isoco County Road Commission to consider the construction of two roads each one-half mile in length. One at Tawas Point and the other from M71 to Van Etten Lake.

A resolution was adopted petitioning the legislature to grant the Department of Conservation discretionary power to handle the "deer situation." This resolution recommends that the deer license policy be reversed and allow the killing of antlerless deer instead of bucks only. The apparent increase of the deer population has produced two problems. The death of large numbers of young deer in the winter from starvation and the large amount of damage to crops suffered by the farmers from deer feeding on their crops during the summer months.

Bill Clark's All Stars journeyed to Bay City last Sunday and were defeated by Williams Service team by the score of 2395 to 2975. The All Stars included Phillips, Kussro, Clark, W. Lixey and Bennington.

On Tuesday evening the Tawas Laundry team motored to Pinconning and defeated Koppa's team of that city 2505 to 2256. The line-up and scores of the Laundry team were: Shuman, 494; Klenow, 482; E. Carlson, 500; Laidlaw, 520; Bartlett, 509.

The West Branch Businessgirls' team will bowl Marij. Lickfelt's team at 2:30 Sunday afternoon, April 16, at Shuman's alleys. Marij's team defeated the West Branch team in a recent match at West Branch by 20 pins.

Next Sunday eight teams from this locality will journey to Alpena to enter the $700.00 prize tournament for Northeastern Michigan. The Tawas Laundry team, last year's champions of the Alpena tournament, will be the defending champs. The teams to make the trip and enter the contests are: Old Style, Carlson's Grocery, Tawas Laundry, Retz's Lunch, and Mobilgas, of the Major League; and Barkman's Lumber Co., of the Goodfellowship league.

On Monday evening, April 3, the Major League finished the second half of the split season with the Old Style team winning the right to meet the Forest Service team, winners of the first half, in the five-game playoff match to determine the champions of the league. This contest was staged Monday evening, April 9, and was very handily won by the Old Style team. The Forest Service team failed to show the form which carried them to the top in the first half of the season.

The Old Style team is to receive individual trophies with City Championships, 1938-39 inscribed upon them. Arvid Carlson and Ed Sieloff won first and second prizes for high and second high game averages for the season. Following are the individual averages for members of the eight teams of the Major League.

EIGHT GIRLS ENTER PERCH QUEEN CONTEST

Ron Gamble, From WJR, Will Crown Successful Candidate

Eight candidates for Festival Queen were in the lineup when the registration list was closed Wednesday. Choice from this group will be made by patrons of the Rivola Theatre. Ron Gamble, WJR announcer, of Detroit, will crown the Queen. The coronation ceremonies will be held Saturday evening, April 29, at the Edgewater Inn Pavilion.

The following girls are candidates for Festival Queen: Norma Jean Muso, Grace Hill, Donna Fay Groff, Lydia Moore, Hazel Herman, Lois Pfeiffer, Lorene Frank and Leona Malenfant.

Tickets may be secured from the candidates, members of the Perch Festival Committee, or at any of the stores in the city. Patrons may vote each time they attend the theatre between now and April 26. The locked ballot box at the Rivola is under the direction of Sheriff John Moran. The votes will be counted Thursday, April 27.

Ron Gamble will crown the successful candidate for the honors at the Edgewater Pavilion in ceremonies which will be broadcast over WBCW, Bay City. This event will be followed by the Queen's ball with music furnished by an excellent orchestra.

The past week has witnessed a large amount of work by the various committees and the complete program will soon be ready for the big event.

To help make a more interesting parade for the Festival this year, owners of business places are urged to enter individual floats. See Albert Buch, chairman of the float committee, for particulars.

EAST TAWAS CLERGYMAN IS HONORED

Pope Pius Sends Apostolic Benediction to Fr. R. F. Neuman

A cablegram received from Vatican City in Italy expressing the "Jubilant Apostolic Benediction" of Pope Pius XII on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of service in the priesthood of Rev. Fr. Robert F. Neuman, pastor of St. Joseph's church, featured the ceremonies held here Wednesday in Fr. Neuman's honor.

To pay honor to his long period of service in the priesthood, Bishop Murphy, Right Rev. Edward A. LeFebvre, Vicar General of the Saginaw diocese; 125 visiting clergy, including many of Father Neuman's classmates; and relatives and friends of the pastor, assembled here for the elaborate ceremonies. Many of the priest's friends from Bay City, Saginaw, Grand Rapids and Muskegon were present at the rites.

Following the ceremonies at the church, the visiting clergy and dignitaries attended a banquet served by ladies of the parish at the St. Joseph's school in Tawas City. Toastmaster for the occasion was Rev. Fr. Fred W. Ryan, of Oakley.

Bishop Murphy responded to the toast, "Our Holy Father." "Seminary Days" was the subject of an address by Rev. Fr. William P. O'Connor, professor of philosophy of St. Francis Seminary, Milwaukee. Fr. Neuman will be the celebrant at another solemn high mass of thanksgiving for the parish to be held at the church at 10:30 a. m. next Sunday. The sermon will be given by Rev. Fr. George Sunday, C. S. S. R. of the Holy Redeemer church, Detroit. Friends of Fr. Neuman will attend a public reception in his honor at 2:30 p. m. Sunday in the East Tawas Community building. Arthur Goulette, of Oscoda, will act as master of ceremonies. A brief musical program is planned for the event with the jubilee chorus of children from St. Joseph's school taking part.

Fr. Neuman, who was born 51 years ago in Dorr Center, Alcona county, attended school in Grand Rapids. His first year of seminary study was spent at St. Gregory's Seminary in Cincinnati in 1903. Then followed two years of study at St. Francis Seminary in Milwaukee. He was ordained in April, 1914, at the St. Andrew's cathedral in Grand Rapids by the late Bishop Henry Joseph Richter. His first appointment was to St. Anne's church and Mission in Cadillac. Fr. Neuman then served as pastor at St. Mary's church and mission at Cascado near Grand Rapids; 12 years as pastor at Hemlock, in Saginaw county; and then pastor of the St. Joseph's church in Muskegon before coming to his post here in December, 1937.

Two Tawas City Girls Win Second Place

The sub-district forensic contest was held Wednesday, April 5, at the Lincoln high school. At this contest, Prescott, Oscoda, Mt. Harrisville, Lincoln and Tawas City were represented. In the declamatory contest, "The Valley of Bones" given by Ruth Cubalo, of Lincoln, was the winning declamation. "The Guillotine," which was well given by Marion Musolf, won the second place.

In oratory, Betty Ross of Harrisville, won first place with the speech entitled "Our Responsibility." Dorothy Blust of Tawas City, won second place. Her oration was entitled "America or Germany?"

Leslie Johnson, of Harrisville, was the victor in extemporaneous speaking. Marion Musolf and Dorothy Blust, the two representatives of Tawas City high school, did very well at the sub-district contest in forensics.

Arnold Anschuetz Farm Home Burns

The farm home of Arnold Anschuetz two miles northwest of Tawas City was destroyed by fire Wednesday afternoon. It was an excellent farmhouse and represents several thousands of dollars loss to Mr. Anschuetz.

It was thought that sparks from the chimney ignited the roof and the high wind quickly whipped the flames into a conflagration which could not be extinguished. The East Tawas fire department was called but when they reached the farm the fire had gained too much headway.

EAST TAWAS

Mr. and Mrs. Russell McKenzie and children spent Easter at Pennebog with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Tebo and Mrs. George Bigelow, of Detroit, spent a few days with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Platte.

Friends of Mrs. H. T. Thomas are sorry to learn that she fell from the steps at her home. Friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Trestrail spent Easter with relatives at Jackson.

George Bergiven, Jr., of Bay City, spent the week end with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Bowman have returned from Port Huron where they spent a few days with her mother.

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Weed, of Detroit, spent a few days in the city. They returned to Detroit Thursday.

The Easter Cantata "The Crucifixion" was given at the Community Building last Sunday evening in a crowded house. It was pronounced by those who heard it as the finest musical production ever given in the Tawas. Much of the credit for the wonderful manner in which it was given is due to the able direction of Albert Trestrail, musical director of our public school, and Mrs. Harmon Boice, accompanist. Some of the best talent in the Tawas figured in solos, duets, etc. Many requests have come during the week to repeat the cantata as some were turned away, there not being seating room.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Gardner on April 12, a son.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Misner, of Flint, spent the week end in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Oren Misner returned Saturday from California where they spent the winter.

William Prinkelborg, of Detroit, spent the week end with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sheldon, of Detroit, spent the week end with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Klenow.

Dr. Richard Klenow, of Bay City, spent Easter with his parents.

Mrs. Henry Klenow returned from Bay City, Saturday, where she has been a patient at Mercy Hospital.

Dr. and Mrs. H. F. Burton spent Easter in Bay City.

Mrs. Sadie McSweney, who spent the winter months in Bay City with her son, has returned home for the summer.

Charles Curry who has been ill for several months, was taken to Bay City hospital for a few days. Mrs. Curry accompanied him.

Mr. and Mrs. Everil and son Clyde, spent a few days at Flint with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward LaBerge and baby, of Detroit, spent the week end with Mr. LaBerge's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. LaBerge.

Mr. and Mrs. Seth Jackson, of Wisconsin, spent the week end in the city.

George Lomas, of Detroit, spent the week end with his mother, Mrs. Emma Lomas.

Mr. and Mrs. Don St. Martin, of Detroit, spent the weekend in the city with relatives.

Colie Johnson, who has employment in Flint, spent the week end with his family.

Walter Gardner, of Detroit, spent the week end with his brother, Lawrence, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hewson returned Saturday from Florida where they spent the winter.

Mrs. Emma Lomas returned Saturday from a week's visit in Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Hickey spent Sunday with friends at West Branch.

The High School dance at the Community House on Monday evening was well attended.

Victor Johnson has returned home from Detroit and Flint where he spent the winter months with his children.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Schriber and children returned home from Muskegon where they have been visiting the past week.

Mr. W. Barkman returned home Wednesday from Clio where she spent a week visiting her parents.

The fire alarm was sounded at 6.0 a. m. Thursday when Dr. Moss' office was discovered to be afire. The amount of damage has not been determined. The origin of the fire was thought to have been caused from an oil-heater.

Clayton Sheldon, of Detroit, is spending a week with his mother, Mrs. Jas. Sheldon.

Mrs. Milo Bolen and Mrs. Victor Marzinski and daughter spent Thursday at Bay City.

Mrs. Elmer Sheldon spent Thursday at Bay City.

Mrs. H. Gould and Mrs. Yanka spent Thursday at Bay City.

Weekly News Analysis U. S. Survey Seeks Explanation For Small Business Ailments

By Joseph W. La Bine

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst, and not necessarily of the newspaper.

Business

Most of America's 4,000,000 small business men nowadays make little profit, can raise little capital, cannot widen their markets nor improve their competitive positions. Whatever the cause, the problem is so serious that an even half-dozen credit-loosening measures are now pending in congress. Realizing that unscientific action would be blind staggering, Harry Hopkins' revitalized commerce department recently asked amendment of one such measure to direct it "particularly to the vital needs of small business enterprises" and provide research facilities.

The earliest step in this direction started last fall when Wyoming's Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney began surveying U. S. business development with a $500,000 appropriation and his so-called "monopoly" committee. Thus far successful in finding business' pulse, the O'Mahoney committee has been given another $600,000 to find what's wrong with the pulse.

Announced simultaneously by Securities and Exchange Commission, er Jerome M. Frank is an SEC-sponsored survey to be conducted with O'Mahoney funds by 561 chapters of the U. S. junior chamber of commerce. SEC will "drench itself with facts" on such problems as (1) needs of small business for capital financing; (2) sources of capital and various financial channels through which small business may obtain financing; (3) factors which prevent small business from obtaining capital.

SEC'S JEROME FRANK
O'Mahoney funds, Jaycee probes.

While "Jaycees" got their survey underway, SEC was already working on a dozen special surveys. Among them: Omaha, to find problems of local industry in prairie states, where business has been affected by droughts; Birmingham, where southern industrial development possibilities will be studied; Fall River, Mass., a typical New England region where business has been lost via depression and increased competition from other sections; Denver, a typical mountain-state section; Detroit-Toledo, a typical area with high degree of business activity.

Quickly dismissed by Mr. Frank was the possibility that his SEC might be to blame, since registration requirements for small securities issues were liberalized a year ago with no resultant increase in securities borrowing by small business. Starting out without any "preconceived ideas," investigators will not try to pin responsibility on banks or anyone else until the eight-week probe is completed and findings tabulated.

Relief

Growing with other anti-administration congressional sentiment has been resentment against relief expenditures. President Roosevelt was warned last December that he might expect an investigation this session. Though economizing legislators agreed to vote deficiency funds (to last until July 1) before tearing WPA apart, they lopped $150,000,000 off the original $875,000,000 deficiency request. When the White House asked that the cut be restored, rebellion had reached such heights that Mr. Roosevelt was lucky to get $100,000,000 of it.

Thus freed to tackle WPA itself, a 12-man relief sub-committee went to work under Virginia's economizing Rep. Clifton A. Woodrum. Favorite among suggested remedies offered the eight Democrats and four Republicans is a measure proposed by Mr. Woodrum himself, to turn relief administration over to states and municipalities, the U. S. to concern itself chiefly with allocating funds. Aimed partly to wipe out WPA's huge field organization, the bill would also knock $500,000,000 from President Roosevelt's budget estimate of $1,734,000,000 for relief during the 1939-40 fiscal year.

If reported favorably and approved by the house, Mr. Woodrum's measure will get a warm welcome from the senate appropri-tions committee which is headed by Virginia's Carter Glass and has a conservative majority. Chief non-partisan question mark is whether state and municipal relief setups may not handle relief funds so amateurishly as to force an eventual return to closer federal supervision. Another question mark: If congress supervises relief allocations by states, will pork-barrelling result?

Europe

Since Memel fell to Germany, Europe's four great powers have engaged in unprecedented diplomatic warfare. The French-British drive is to encircle Italy and Germany with arms, thus preventing further aggression. Italo-German counter-move is to thwart encirclement. So highly perfected is this warfare that France and England have marked off their sectors of activity, London working with Poland and Russia in the north, Paris with Rumania, the Balkans and Turkey in the south.

North Europe. Poland is the key nation in Britain's campaign, though Russian adherence to a Stop Hitler bloc is far more vital to the British cause. But Poland will not allow Soviet troops to cross her soil, which means that Russia cannot aid the anti-aggression bloc until Hitler swallows more territory and reaches Russia's frontier.

Traditionally a fence-straddler, Poland has signed a mutual defense treaty with England only after making important reservations. With a third of her border already facing Germany, Poland gains new hostile frontiers if the three Baltic states (Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia) accept Hitler's "protection." Moreover, Poland's friendship with Hungary is threatened because that nation refuses to burn her fingers on a Stop Hitler drive. Rumania, the only remaining neighbor, has agreed to make the Polish-Rumanian military pact operative against Germany as well as Russia, but Rumania is too far away and too completely under Germany's economic thumb to offer much help. Thus Poland's fence-straddling can be appreciated, especially since the mild defensive gestures she has made thus far have been enough to make Germany threaten to denounce the 1934 Nazi-Polish friendship pact.

South Europe. Of the Balkan states, only Rumania has received attention from both France and Britain. The latter nation has offered help in event of German aggression, while France chimed in with an important trade treaty. Main French efforts have been aimed at solidification of Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey into an anti-Italian Balkan bloc. Bargaining was started with Turkey to keep open the strategic Dardanelles and

ITALY'S COUNTER MOVE
Who bosses the Mediterranean?

Bosphorus so that French-British warships could protect Rumania in the Black sea. In exchange, France was reported willing to give Turkey a 10,000-square-mile district in Alexandretta, Syria.

But Italy replied quickly by threatening seizure of King Zog's tiny Albania, which would give him a key foothold on the Balkan peninsula. Controlling the narrow Strait of Otranto (see map), Italy could block Yugoslavia's outlet to the Mediterranean, a threat which bid fair to explode France's plans. At the same time Italian and German troops moved steadily into African Libya in anticipation of a drive against Tunisia. When all was said and done, it was questionable whether France still controlled the Mediterranean.

Recapitulation. After three weeks of "encirclement" diplomacy, France and Britain have still to catch their biggest and most vital fish, Russia, and have gained half-hearted military agreements with only three nations, Turkey, Poland and Rumania. In a pinch any of them might collapse.

Miscellany

Total U. S. expenditures for the fiscal year's first nine months ($6,764,353,436) exceeded income ($4,390,177,312) by $2,374,176,124.

● Ninety-five per cent of the voters in Europe's tiny Liechtenstein (population, 12,000) have signed a privately circulated declaration rejecting union with Germany.

Spain

Though recognition by the United States again placed Gen. Francisco Franco's Spain in the good graces of international society (all other major powers had previously recognized the Nationalist government) the war-torn Iberian peninsula still faces a tremendous task. Franco's sole ineffectual international gesture as a European power has been to join Germany, Italy and Japan in the anti-Communist pact. Having thus shown European democracies his heels, the tired generalissimo could turn to more pressing internal problems. Among them:

Order. Though Spain needs manpower to rebuild, many moons will pass before unemployment will be solved. Still breathing in their second wind after 32 months of war, discharged Spanish soldiers will not readily bow to anything less than military law. Franco's answer is expected to be a 1,000,000-man army until early 1940.

Health. Substantiated reports from Madrid tell of a scurvy-like disease sweeping former Loyalist territory, caused by lack of fresh fruits, vegetables and milk. Its medicine chest emptied, short of bandages, iodine, salves and medicines, Spain has sent hurry-up orders to cope with the sorriest physical plight an enlightened nation has suffered in modern times.

Housing. Though intent on restoring shell-pocked Catholic churches in Madrid and other former frontier points, Franco faces a far greater carpentry job in placing roofs over several hundred thousand ex-Madridenos who fled the capitol in war, returning in peace to find their metropolises a shambles.

Revenge. Most Loyalist leaders like Gen. Jose Mijaja fled Spain after hoisting the white flag of surrender. Two notable exceptions were Gen. Segismundo Casado, war minister of the defense council, and Julian Besteiro, a moderate Republican who took no active part in the war except to supervise feeding women and children during Madrid's two-year siege. Humanitarian or not, Senator Besteiro was arrested and court martialed along with General Casado.

Finance. Before the war Spain's gold reserve of $740,000,000 was exceeded only by the U. S., Britain and France. Also on hand were vast hoards of silver. By April, 1938, the U. S. federal reserve bulletin reported Spanish gold had dropped to $25,000,000, and by this month as General Franco entered Madrid, nobody apparently knew where any Spanish gold might be. One vague hint was that Marino Gamba, a rich Loyalist-sympathizing Filipino, had moved most of it to Mexico and thereby insured the solvency of Loyalist refugees. Meanwhile Nationalist Spain held an empty bag.

People

Killed, in an automobile accident, 27-year-old King Ghazi I of Iraq, succeeded same day by his three-year-old son, Crown Prince Feisal.

● Introduced, by the duchess of Windsor to Parisian society, the "peeping petticoat," whereby several inches of white flounce show at the bottom of dresses.

● Released, on $35,000 bail pending an appeal, New York's Racket Fixer James J. Hines, recently convicted of conspiracy in the late Dutch Schultz's policy ring.

Politics

Since Mrs. Harry Hopkins died two years ago, motherless Diana, aged seven, has been cared for by her father and by President and Mrs. Roosevelt. Father Hopkins has bounced about the U. S. for years, coming from New York to become what Republicans call "crown prince" of the administration, first as WPA director and later as secretary of commerce. Without home roots, Mr. Hopkins began rummaging for some in February when he went speechmaking in his native Iowa, a gesture critics thought might be a bid for the 1940 presidential nomination.

Hence the press was skeptical when he announced his home address would henceforth be Grinnell, Iowa, where he had just been named a director of Grinnell college. The Hopkins explanation: He was motivated only by a desire to establish a home for Diana.

If a political significance can indeed be attached to the move, it is that Mr. Hopkins would stand a considerably better chance of winning the 1940 nomination as an Iowan than as a resident of New York, where his political following is nil.

Ringing in Ear Found Due to Varied Causes

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

RINGING in the ear is not only distressing to the patient but often embarrassing to the physician who is expected to know what could be causing such a simple symptom. Fortunately, the physician knows that in most cases the ringing is due to contractions—opening and closing—of the eustachian tube which carries the air from the back of the throat to the middle ear to give air pressure against the inner side of the drum of the ear. If air doesn't get to the inner side of the drum or doesn't get there with sufficient force to equal outside pressure, then the pressure on the outside of the drum is too strong and the ear drum will be driven inward to some extent. It is the moist surfaces of the inner lining of this tube as they separate from one another that causes ringing in the ears in so many cases. Very often ear specialists use a small air bag which blows open the sides of this tube (which have become stuck together) and thus not only stops the head noises but improves the hearing.

Other Causes Blamed. Unfortunately, however, the opening and closing together of the "sticky" or moist surfaces of this little tube is not the only cause of this ringing noise; the physician must search elsewhere therefore when the ear specialist reports that the tube is not to blame.

That hysteria and neurasthenia (mental and physical tiredness) are causes of ringing of the ears is now believed by general physicians and psychiatrists—the physicians who deal with "behavior" problems in patients.

That the circulation of the blood or rather disturbances in the circulation are causes of ringing in the ears is stated by Dr. E. A. Bredlau, Chicago, in Archives of Otolaryngology (ear and throat ailments). These disturbances cause unnatural artery and vein impulses to the ear because there may be present an aneurism (distended or enlarged blood vessel), high blood pressure, blood vessel tumors of the brain and ear itself, severe anaemia (thin blood), acute inflammatory disease of the ear and nerve and gland disturbances.

Ulcers Usually Treated By Diet and Medicine

A patient apparently in good physical condition consulted a physician because he could not eat solid food; in fact he was living on milk alone because solid food gave him distress.

As he had formerly been suffering with stomach ulcer the physician thought that perhaps the ulcer in healing had partly closed the passage from the stomach to the small intestine. An X-ray examination showed that the barium sulphate meal which should be out of the stomach in six hours at least, was practically all present at the end of 10 hours. Only a tiny stream, smaller than a slate pencil, was carrying some of the barium sulphate into the intestine. This meant that the opening was virtually closed due to the scar tissue formed when the ulcer healed. As this condition requires operation, operation was performed by making another opening into the intestine from the lower side of the stomach. This was 10 years ago and the patient, by watching his diet, enjoys good health.

Operation Seldom Performed.

I am mentioning the above case because many patients with stomach ulcer are afraid of sudden death if they do not undergo surgical operation, whereas most ulcers today are treated by diet and medicine and it is only when diet and medicine do not bring relief, such as the above blocked opening or when there is perforation into the abdomen, or in some cases of bleeding that operation is performed.

Drs. R. T. Monroe and E. S. Emory Jr., Boston, in New England Journal of Medicine review 1,428 cases of peptic ulcer (ulcer of the stomach and first part of small intestine) handled in the Peter Bent Brigham hospital from 1913 to 1932. They were able to trace all but 156 patients.

Of the remainder—1,272 cases—161, about 11 per cent, are dead, but only 87—about 7 per cent—died of peptic ulcer. The average age for the whole group was about 56 years, the average time they had suffered was between 12 and 13 years, and there was little difference in this respect between the patients who died of their ulcer and those who did not.

When more cases died after operation and their age was lower at death, this was because the "surgical" cases were more severe.

25 Million Drivers Seek Safety But Jimmy Thrives on Thrills

Picture Parade

Among attractions at New York's World fair opening April 30 will be Jimmie Lynch, who flirts with cars, tires and fate to thrill thousands of motorists who go home thankful they can drive safely. From new year's to new year's Jimmie roars up ramps into thrills like that above, cheating injury with a firm grip on the steering wheel.

Above two action photos illustrate one of Jimmie's favorite tricks. Cataapulting off a ramp, the running board bites the ground. Thrilled throngs gasp with one voice but timing and iron nerve bring Jimmie safely back to earth while the timid souls watch pop-eyed. He's been doing such tricks ever since the World war, where he rode a motorcycle in equally tricky fashion.

Father and son perform in the tandem act shown above. Amplifiers spell-bind on-lookers as stunts prove car and tire protection daily serving millions on our highways.

Spectators: Above, Mrs. Lynch, wife and mother to the daredevil, wipes blood from a goggle cut above her husband's eye. Right, Odin, the faithful Great Dane.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Just a year ago, Will H. Hays noted a possibly regrettable tendency of the movies toward "escapism." This led to suggestions that he was succumbing to the verbal enchantments of the Hollywood intelligentsia. That all blew over, but here is Mr. Hays today frankly proclaiming himself a eudemonist. Our somewhat conservative dictionary is a bit vague about it, but, in his rough outlines, a eudemonist seems to be one who believes in fairies.

In his annual report as president of the Motion Picture Producers & Distributors of America, Mr. Hays cites with satisfaction the record box-office success of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," and is happy that "there are still a number of eudemonists left in the world." There is no disparaging or invidious reference to non-eudemonists, but, since Mr. Hays also reports with gratification that there are no "isms" and no "social significance" in "Snow White," it is perhaps a fair inference that such black witchery is the dramatic antithesis.

Practicing law in Sullivan, Ind., the homespun, sagacious Mr. Hays was no rising young eudemonist. That came later. He was, however, a rising young Republican politician and a Presbyterian elder, one of the dearest inner-circle technicians of the Indiana party tournaments, where professional standards and scoring are high. That led him inevitably to what statesmen of his earlier day used to call "political preference," and, as postmaster general in President Harding's cabinet, he exercised political power of wide range and penetration.

For seventeen years now, he has headed the moving picture industry. "Czar" is out, a round of eight "silents," when he left his cabinet post, and now about 28 companies putting out highly vociferous films—no wonder he believes in fairies. He doesn't like to be called "czar," preferring just plain "Bill," if there is any call for an informal salutation. Hearing him wind up in an address, or even in casual talk, one could understand how he could be a eudemonist, as he invokes the founding fathers or the palladium of our liberties, against this or that, but he usually coppers such oratorical bets with a remark like this: "And, after all, it probably wouldn't work." Thus he is revealed as what might be called a pragmatic eudemonist.

In his county seat town, he inherited his father's land-law business. A fragile man, with a slight limp and outstanding ears, he has the mannerisms of the country lawyer, and he wins over opposition, as he used to win juries, with a winsome and disarming smile. He is at times a euphemist, as well as a eudemonist—insisting, for instance, that censorship is merely "self-regulation." Several years ago, he was worrying because the movies were going "masochist."

Sullivan, Indiana, is still home base for Mr. Hays and he is the town's favorite son, in spite of his philological flare-up.

IT WOULD be fine if we had a cash register which would ring up a true prophecy when it was turned in. About a year and a half ago, George Messersmith, assistant secretary of state, former consul-general at Berlin, called Adolf Hitler's next moves as clearly and accurately as a speller on an old-fashioned barn dance. He turned in to the state department a precise statement of what der fuhrer had on his mind, now fully validated and certified. Naturally, it got little attention because it was obviously incredible.

The Nazis can't say it was a prejudiced opinion. When Hitler was emerging, Mr. Messersmith thought "evolution would follow revolution," and everything would work out nicely. He changed his mind. When Dr. Albert Einstein suffered certain indignities in getting his passport, Mr. Messersmith was unjustly accused of responsibility. This was all straightened out and President Roosevelt upped him as minister to Austria.

He returned to his present post in July, 1938. He was for 14 years superintendent of the Delaware schools before entering the consular service.

NO matter how small your crop acreage—you will want to come in and get full information on this new John Deere tractor built for market growers and small-acreage farmers. Its engine is of simple, 2-cylinder design. Its operating costs are amazingly low. Many owners use only 5 or 6 gallons of fuel for a full 10-hour day's work.

On small acreages, it is the only power unit needed—it does the plowing, seed bed preparing, planting, cultivating, hauling and other jobs—completely replacing horses. Best of all, the price of the tractor and equipment is within reach of every pocketbook. Everyone should see this new John Deere—the only way to really appreciate its easy handling, its compact design, and its flexibility, is to come in—get the feel of the wheel.

UNIFIED FOR Economy

One of the many advantages of our membership in the Bell System is the substantial saving to every customer of this Company . . . a saving that grows directly out of the centralization made possible by the Bell System.
For example, we get our equipment from the Western Electric Company, manufacturing unit for all Bell Telephone Companies. This assures us of the finest standardized equipment at a lower cost than we could buy it elsewhere.
Instead of conducting our own research department, we pay a fraction of the cost of maintaining the centralized Bell Telephone Laboratories, "Home of Telephone Progress." In this way we have the use of the improvements developed by a complete research program which no one associated Bell Telephone Company could afford to maintain.
This efficiency . . . avoiding wasteful duplication . . . is one reason why your telephone service is better and costs less than any other telephone service in the world.

SYNOPSIS

Mary Loring and her father, Jim, an ineffectual attorney, meet a train which brings his wealthy sister-in-law, unmarried Linnie Cotswell and her friend, Lella Ormsby, divorcee, for a Christmas visit. Waiting at home for them are Mary's mother, her younger sister, Ellen; her father's nagging maiden sister, Aunt Mame; and Peter, the baby of the family. At the depot Dr. Christopher Cragg helps the guests with their luggage. Mary is secretly in love with Doctor Cragg. In leaving, her Aunt Linnie urges Mary to visit her in New York, but Mary refuses. Mary works in a rental library, where she spends her spare time writing short stories. Mary's father is let out as railroad attorney, the fees of which were almost the sole support of his family. To earn money she decides to begin writing in earnest. Mary feels sure that her newest story, "At Sea," would please the editors of National Weekly. After finishing it she calls Doctor Cragg, who comes to the book store for a current novel. Falling from a ladder while getting his book, she regains consciousness to find his arms around her. He is to be married the coming month to a girl he has known all his life. Despondent, Mary writes to accept her Aunt Linnie's invitation. In New York her aunt laughs at her for her plans to write, and insists that she meet as many eligible men as possible. The new week brings two letters. One from the National Weekly, with a $100 check for her story, makes her deliriously happy. The other, from her sister, tells her that financial conditions at home are getting worse. The next day, at a party given by her aunt, Mary meets distinguished Jerome Taylor, wealthy middle aged man-about-town, and effusive Count Umberto Ballanci. The count's oily manner nauseates her. A note from her father the following day pleads with her not to mention the family's financial plight to her aunt. After reading it she forces herself to begin work on her next short story, which is more difficult to write than the first. She labors on until her aunt informs her that Count Umberto, whom Lella terms a sponger and fortune hunter, is to take them to dinner that evening. He takes them to a garish restaurant in Greenwich Village. That evening Mary sends her story, "Their Son," to the National Weekly. She goes to see Phillip Buchanan, editor of the National Weekly, to whom she has given her last story.

She smiled at Mr. Buchanan. "Yes, I am Mary Loring."

"You took me rather by surprise."

"Oh! But I thought Miss Hickenlooper announced me!"

"She did, of course. I mean that I was hardly prepared for a debutante. 'At Sea' has the wisdom of years in its theme."

"I'm twenty-two," Mary replied, as if that explained everything.

Phillip Buchanan smiled, and his teeth seemed very white because of the contrast they made with the tan of his face. "All of that? Do sit down, Miss Loring. I'm so glad you dropped in. I've wanted to tell you how very much we liked 'At Sea.' It's scheduled for publication April fifth."

Mary seated herself in a chair which faced him across the desk, the envelope containing her manuscript held tightly beneath her right arm. "Oh! Not until April?"

"Not until April?" Mr. Buchanan repeated. "Why, that's giving your story an early publication! Don't you know that our material—at least as far as fiction is concerned—is planned months in advance? In fact, we shelved a story we had arranged to publish on that date in order to make room for yours. By the way, have you written anything since you sent us 'At Sea'?"

Mary produced the envelope containing her precious script, and placed it on the desk before him. "Indeed I have, Mr. Buchanan, and here it is. Another short story."

Phillip Buchanan glanced at it, put it on a pile of papers at his left, and then casually lit his cigarette. "That's fine. I'll turn it over to Mr. Johnstone today."

Mary's eyes clouded with disappointment. She had supposed that Mr. Buchanan, himself, would read the story—perhaps this morning while she sat there in his office. "Mr. Johnstone?" she repeated nimbly.

"Yes, one of our readers." Then, evidently sensing her disappointment, he explained, "You see, all material submitted to The National Weekly goes through a regular routine. Mr. Johnstone reads it first, separates the wheat from the chaff; hands on the possibilities to Mr. Arbuckle, who in turn does a bit more weeding. After which, whatever is left goes on to Mr. Van Winkle. He then okay's what he considers best suited to our needs and sends it on to me. A sort of survival of the fittest, as it were!"

"Heavens, what a test!" Mary replied, that elusive dimple playing at one corner of her mouth. "I'm surprised that anything ever reaches your desk! I had supposed . . ."

"That I read everything that comes to the office? Lord, no! I couldn't wander through all that trash! However, you may rest assured that your story—what's the title, by the way?"

"Their Son," Mary replied.

"You may rest assured that 'Their Son' will be given a sympathetic reading. We like your style, and the realistic manner in which you handled the situations in 'At Sea.' Once an author has appeared within our pages, he's given, as far as we're concerned, a place in the sun. In fact, on second thought, I'll probably just turn this over to Mr. Van Winkle—not put it through the mill."

He glanced abruptly at the dull gold watch strapped to his wrist. "Lord! It's nearly one o'clock, and I have an engagement with Ford Hansen at two. How about having a spot of lunch with me, Miss Loring?"

Mary's hands clutched convulsively beneath the protection of the coat which lay across her lap, and, to her embarrassment, her face flushed scarlet. Phillip Buchanan, the editor-in-chief of the most popular magazine in the United States was asking her to have a "spot of lunch" with him! "Why, thank you," she managed to reply. "That will be fun."

Buchanan leaped from his chair, and went towards a cupboard at the far end of the room. "All right," he said. "Let's go." And opening his door, he dragged out a camel's hair top-coat, and slid into it. "I want to talk to you about a series of shorts, and this is a swell opportunity."

Mary felt dizzy with excitement as she and Phillip Buchanan, closeted in one of the silent elevators of the building which housed The National Weekly, descended twenty floors to the lobby. Mr. Buchanan was taking her to lunch! Mr. Buchanan wanted to talk to her about a series of "shorts" for his magazine. She mentally estimated how many words she could write a day; how many hours it would take to revise and polish what she had written. She must not be hasty or careless. She should, she figured, allow herself two mornings for the original composition, two additional mornings for revision, and a fifth sitting, perhaps, for perfect retyping of the script.

They had reached the lobby, now, and were heading for the street door. "I say," Mr. Buchanan began, "you don't mind barging all the way down to the Lafayette, do you? My appointment with Hansen's in that neighborhood."

Mind! Mary would have gone to Chinatown, or Great Neck, or Timbuktu with him, had he suggested one of those spots as a lunching place! "I don't mind at all," she returned. "I've wanted to see the Lafayette ever since Greta Garbo appeared in 'Romance.'"

Mr. Buchanan looked puzzled. "Romance? Oh, yes, I remember now. All about a young minister who fell in love with an actress! That's right. Some of the scenes were supposed to be laid at the Lafayette. Well, I don't know that you'll find a great deal of the atmosphere of the sixties remaining, but it's a good place to eat. Come on, we'll hop a taxi."

Once in the cab, he settled himself comfortably back against the leather cushions, as if to snatch a bit of rest while the opportunity offered, lit a cigarette, and said, "Well, tell me something about yourself, Miss Loring. You're from some small town in the West, aren't you?"

Mary glanced shyly at the clear-cut lines of the man's profile. He looked rather bored. No doubt his taking her out to lunch was only a necessary evil as far as he was concerned—the courteous gesture made by a publisher to one of his contributors. Perhaps he was asking her to talk about herself merely in order to avoid the trouble of making conversation. "My home's in Hawkinsville, Iowa," she began obediently, feeling that at heart he wouldn't care if she hailed from the Fiji Islands. "I'm just visiting my aunt in New York for a while."

"Oh, so your aunt lives here?"

"Yes, my mother's sister. But she's going South sometime in March, and I'll probably return to Hawkinsville. I—I really would like to stay in New York indefinitely."

"Why would you like to stay in New York?" Mr. Buchanan asked. "I should think it would be easier to write in a country town, away from all the hurrah. Besides, you're right in touch with a certain type of life which, judging from 'At Sea,' you're particularly capable of handling. Hawkinsville is a country town, isn't it?"

"I suppose that's what you'd call it, Mr. Buchanan," Mary replied, hating herself for the resentment that had crept into her voice. "The population's almost ten thousand." Then, with a chuckle, "In fact, it's been almost ten thousand for the past fifty years! Most of the boys leave for Saint Louis or Chicago to get positions as soon as they're finished with high school or college. Some of the girls marry and go away. A few new families dribble into town every year, and the men get employment at the leather factory. People die, babies are born, but the population remains the same."

The man finally looked at her. "That's interesting," he commented, and the faint lines around his mouth crinkled with amusement. "Tell me. What are the ah—entertainments? What do people do all the time?"

"Well," Mary replied, warming under his half smile, "there's the little country club, three miles from town, and set high up on the bluffs overlooking the Mississippi. The men, and some of the women, play golf there during the summer, and every Saturday night there's a dinner dance with Swanson's orchestra from Burlington to furnish the music; and even though Art Swanson could never, in anyone's wildest moments, be termed a second Paul Whiteman, the music is good. Really, it is! Then, there are two movie houses, and often we get pictures that haven't even been released in Saint Louis yet. And, of course, the churches are very active, and there are any number of church dinners during the winter, with the women of the guild cooking and serving the food themselves."

"And darned good food, I bet it is!"

"Oh, is it! Fried chicken and cream gravy, and corn on the cob, in the summer, with great slabs of chocolate cake and home-made ice-cream. And in the winter, luscious ham, all coated with crisp, brown sugar and baked in wine, Boston baked beans, and loads and loads of tiny biscuits, fresh from the oven."

"Stop! You're making my mouth water! Lord! The people in those small towns know how to live!"

"In—more ways than one," Mary said tensely, her thoughts flashing back to her father and mother; a sudden wave of homesickness and pity assailing her. "At least, they know what life is all about. They're closer to it, somehow, than people in the cities. Closer to Life—and Death—closer to each other. Sometimes, you get annoyed because everybody in town seems to know your innermost secrets—yet, on the other hand, you know that those very same people care—and care terribly when you're sick or dying, or in trouble."

Their cab was drawing up before the Lafayette, and Phillip Buchanan turned abruptly and faced her. "That is the kind of people you must write about!" he said. "That's the life you know. You were born to it. You were raised in it. You've been steeped in that atmosphere. Now, write about it!" And with an energetic jerk, he tugged open the door of the taxi.

The Lafayette was seething with activity. Smartly groomed women were lunching at "tables for two" with smartly groomed men. Larger tables, surrounded by males only, buzzed with laughter and conversation. At first, Mary thought perhaps she and Mr. Buchanan would have to find another place for their "spot of lunch," but the captain miraculously located a small table for them, decorated by three yellow jonquils in a bud vase, and plumped against a window.

"What sort of cocktail would you like, Miss Loring?" Phillip Buchanan asked, almost before he had succeeded in getting his long legs beneath the snowy cloth.

"None, thank you," Mary returned. "You see . . ."

"Fine!" the man replied. "Well, you don't mind watching me drink, do you? Have you decided what you'd like to eat?"

Mary glanced at the menu in her hand. "An Egg Benedict, I think, and endive salad."

"Egg Benedict and endive salad, Alphonse, for Miss Loring, and I'll have fillet mignon with sauce maitre. Coffee, later." He glanced at his watch again. His life, thought Mary, seemed to be run on schedule. He had consulted that time-piece exactly five times in the past hour. "It's a quarter after one," he announced. "I'd better tell you what we have in mind for you, Miss Loring. Both Mr. Van Winkle and I are enthusiastic about 'At Sea.' The plot, of course, is not particularly new, but then, after all, no plot is. You attacked it from a fresh viewpoint, however, and we liked the manner in which you handled it. Now, we feel that a series of shorts, done in the same style, might be used by The National Weekly over a period of several months. Say, one every other week. And, in time, if they prove satisfactory, and click with our public, we will, of course, gradually increase the pay."

"I'll do my best, Mr. Buchanan," she said breathlessly. "I'll start in tomorrow. I—I think I have a plot in mind right now. And then, of course, you have 'Their Son.'"

"Yes. Van Winkle will give that a reading within a few days, if possible. We're practically deluged with scripts right now, but many of them are unsolicited, and I'm sure he'll give 'Their Son' some preference as far as the time element is concerned."

"Is there any particular treatment you . . . ?"

"Simply stick to writing about the type of life you know," Buchanan replied, cutting short her question. He then attacked his steak and, for the next few minutes, completely ignored her existence. Still resentful, she adhered to her vow of silence. Buchanan, however, didn't seem to notice the deficiency, and luncheon would probably have gone on indefinitely without further exchange of words, had it not been interrupted presently by a young man with an engaging smile, who spied them from an adjacent table, and came over to speak to Buchanan.

He was short and dark, with gray eyes that were serious yet friendly. "Hello, Phil," he said cordially, coming towards Buchanan with outstretched hand. "You're the very person I hoped to see today."

"Hello, Jim! Glad to see you! Miss Loring, this is Jim Ormsby."

Jim Ormsby! Could this stranger be Lella's former husband, or were there any number of Jim Ormsbys in New York? "How do you do?" she returned.

"What's on your mind, Jim?" Phil Buchanan was asking. "Won't you sit down?"

"Thanks, no. I'm dashing off to keep an appointment. It's this, Phil—Paul Waring and Lorry Wood and I are running up to my place in Connecticut over the week-end, and we want you to make a fourth. Badminton at the club, you know, and plenty of Contract between drinks. How about it?"

"I think it's a swell idea, Jim. Count me in."

"Fine! I'll give you a ring tomorrow, and inform you on all the finer points of the situation! Good-by, Miss Loring"

Jim Ormsby! Could this stranger be Lella's former husband, or were there any number of Jim Ormsbys in New York? "How do you do?" she returned.

"What's on your mind, Jim?" Phil Buchanan was asking. "Won't you sit down?"

"Thanks, no. I'm dashing off to keep an appointment. It's this, Phil—Paul Waring and Lorry Wood and I are running up to my place in Connecticut over the week-end, and we want you to make a fourth. Badminton at the club, you know, and plenty of Contract between drinks. How about it?"

"I think it's a swell idea, Jim. Count me in."

"Fine! I'll give you a ring tomorrow, and inform you on all the finer points of the situation! Good-by, Miss Loring"

Science Invents Way to Suspend Life Of Low Organisms Into Distant Future

Science, playing the role of a modern Joshua, has devised a method whereby life can be commanded to stand still in a latent state in which no change can take place for tens of thousands of years, it was reported before the American Philosophical society, according to a Philadelphia correspondent in the Boston Herald.

While the new method of making time stand still can be applied at present only to very small living organisms, such as yeast cells and bacteria, with no present indications that it could ever be applied to larger living forms, it opens up new vistas for the future, both the theoretical and practical, it was pointed out.

In this new state of being, described as the "latent state of life," one minute in the life of the organism can be stretched out to 10,000 years, the philosophers were told by Professor Alexander Goetz, noted physicist of the California Institute of Technology, inventor of the time-arresting process.

Forms of suspended animation have been achieved before in lower realms of life but the earlier processes were based on an entirely different principle, much more limited in its scope than Dr. Goetz's method for producing latent life, in which animation, instead of being merely suspended for comparatively short periods, can be placed in a state of apparently complete inanimation for periods of time that, from a terrestrial point of view, may be regarded as timeless.

In an interview, Professor Goetz revealed that he is applying his new "time machine" to human sperm cells, in an effort to establish whether the seed of human genius may not be placed in a state of latent life to be revived from generation to generation, thus preserving the talents of future Newtons, Shakespeares, and Beethovens for all generations to come.

PAUL ESTABLISHES CHURCHES

LESSON TEXT—Acts 14:1-7, 19-23.
GOLDEN TEXT—According to the grace of God which is given unto me, as a wise masterbuilder, I have laid the foundation, and another buildeth thereon. But let every man take heed how he buildeth thereupon.—I Corinthians 3:10.

"Onward, Christian soldiers," says the well-known hymn, thus expressing the truth that Christianity is engaged in a relentless warfare against the world, the flesh, and the devil. Those who conceive of their relationship to the church as a convenient and comfortable social arrangement, with a bit of spiritual flavor but no responsibility, have none of the Spirit of Christ, or of His bondservant Paul, whose life we are now studying. Phillips Brooks was right when he said, "If Christian faith does not culminate in the effort to make Christ known to all the world, that faith appears to me to be a thoroughly unreal and insignificant thing, destitute of power, and incapable of being convincingly proved to be true."

The constraining love of Christ sent Paul and his co-workers pressing on from Cyprus to Antioch in Pisidia, to Iconium, to Lystra, and to Derbe. Joy and sorrow, fellowship and hatred came and went, but the witness for Christ went on. Our lesson can best be considered as a study in contrasts.

I. Belief and Unbelief (vv. 1, 2).
"Multitudes both of the Jews and Greeks believed." What joy that must have brought to the preacher. "Unbelieving Jews" and Gentiles with "minds evil affected"—how sad such a result made Paul's heart. The same division prevails today. There are only two kinds of people in the world, the believer and the unbeliever.

II. Popularity and Persecution (v. 4).
"The multitude was divided," Paul knew all about that, so does every faithful teacher and preacher of the gospel. Paul and Barnabas were thus made ready for the experience which they were to have at Lystra where the healing of the crippled man first brought them worship as gods, and then bitter persecution. Few temptations are more appealing to the Christian worker than popularity, and possibly none is more treacherous. Let us labor to please God, not men, and when men give us false acclaim let us like Paul urge them to "turn from these vanities to the living God" (v. 15).

III. Boldness and Caution (vv. 3, 5, 6).
The persecution at Iconium only made the messengers bold in their purpose to stay on (v. 3), giving testimony to God's grace. The Christian worker need not be afraid of the devices of evil men so long as God leads him to stand his ground. Christian testimony calls for courage! But wait, in verses 5 and 6 we find the preachers fleeing to another city. Is their courage gone? No. They are exercising God-given judgment and caution. "Sometimes it is needful to fling away your life for Jesus; but if it can be preserved without shirking duty it is better to flee than to die . . . A voluntary martyr is a suicide . . . Heroic prudence should ever accompany a trustful daring, and both are best learned in communion with Jesus" (Alexander Maclaren).

IV. Death and Life (vv. 19, 20).
The persecution at Lystra culminated in the stoning of Paul and his being left for dead. Some believe that he really died and had the glorious experience recorded in II Corinthians 12:2-5 before he was raised by God from the dead. Be that as it may, God miraculously brought the dead or apparently dead man to full life and vigor, and on he went to the city of Derbe. Those of us who belong to Christ and serve Him should recognize that our very lives are in His blessed hand. Our purpose should be to glorify Him, whether by life or by death.

V. Advance and Return (vv. 21-23).
The work of God is not completed by the pioneering forward thrust into the strongholds of Satan. That work is necessary, and just now men are desperately needed to do such work in heathen lands. Women shame the men by their willingness to go where missionary boards can only send men, who are all too often lacking.

On the other hand, there is no more important work than that of confirming and establishing new Christians in their faith. Paul and Barnabas were not making a retreat. They were courageously returning to the stoning and the hatred of the cities they had served in order to give counsel and encouragement to the believers. Note that they ordained elders, evidently consummating some form of church organization. Sometimes one becomes so tired of intricate church machinery that the tendency is to wish there were none at all, but here again we need to be balanced in our thinking and acting.

TIPS to Gardeners

Fertilizer Usage

GARDENS can't go on producing excellent flowers and vegetables year after year without an application of fertilizer now and then. Because stable manure is difficult to obtain, a complete commercial fertilizer recommended by your dealer will prove most satisfactory. Before applying fertilizer, however, give consideration to a few simple, practical hints.

First, be cautious! Never apply fertilizer recklessly or over-abundantly. Don't be like the man who saw a neighbor get good results from a sparing use of fertilizer. He proceeded to apply 10 times as much, but expecting 10 times as good results—but his garden proved worthless.

Broadcast the complete fertilizer over the soil 10 days before planting, using about three pounds per square rod. Three or four weeks after planting, if the garden seems a bit backward, apply a side dressing. Sprinkle fertilizer lightly alongside the rows, about six inches from the plants; then cultivate. Apply only from one to two pounds per square rod of garden.

NEWS.. Perfected CASTOR OIL EASY TO TAKE

It's news when, by a new and revolutionary process, that old reliable medicine, castor oil, is now made actually odorless, tasteless and easy to take. Kellogg's Perfected Tasteless Castor Oil—the name of this newest and purest of castor oils—sold in refinery-sealed 3 1/2 oz. bottles at all druggists. Palatable, full-strength, efficient, always fresh. Insist on Kellogg's Perfected—accept no so-called "tasteless" substitute. Keep Kellogg's Perfected handy—only 25c a bottle, but what a difference in quality! Approved by Good House-keeping Bureau.

History REPEATS Itself!

Twenty-five years of scientific research made it possible for Quaker State, in 1914, to produce the only motor oil which successfully lubricated the hottest running motor of its time . . . the Franklin Air-cooled engine. Twenty-five more years of research enables Acid-Free Quaker State Motor Oil to meet the most difficult problems of lubricating the 1939 models. Insure the performance of your new car! Use Acid-Free Quaker State regularly. Quaker State Oil Refining Corporation, Oil City, Pennsylvania.

What to Eat and Why

C. Houston Goudiss Explains How Food Can Make You Fat or Thin; Offers Tips on Gaining Weight

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

TO NEARLY every adult, weight is a matter of great concern. Thin people step on the scales in the hope of finding that they have gained a pound or two. Fat people sometimes weigh themselves several times a day, trusting each time that the arrow will point to a slightly lower figure. In many cases, the reason for this absorbing interest is vanity—a desire to look better. But the real objective should be to attain the weight at which one feels better, for few people realize that to weigh neither too much nor too little is one of the best possible aids to buoyant health. Moreover, the secret of weight control for normal individuals lies in the kind and amount of food consumed.

The science of nutrition teaches us that all body fat originates as surplus fuel. That is, food which has been consumed over and above the immediate requirements of the body machine. It therefore follows that in general the problem of gaining or losing weight is concerned with an increase or reduction in the total fuel value of the diet.

Shortage or Surplus of Fuel

Those who find it difficult, after 30, to avoid taking on excess pounds must learn to reduce the total fuel intake. Otherwise, they may find themselves burdened with a mounting surplus of fat, which not only destroys beauty, but impairs health, and tends to decrease both mental and physical efficiency. On the other hand, those who feel that they must struggle to keep their weight up to normal... who declare that they simply cannot gain, no matter how much they eat, should acquaint themselves with the high-caloric foods and make a persistent effort each day to eat a little more than enough to meet their needs. If a gain is achieved, the result will be well worth the effort. For just as overweight is a handicap to health and efficiency, so have nutritionists observed that physical efficiency may be definitely decreased when the weight falls more than 10 per cent below the average for one's height.

It is often said that it is easier to lose weight than to gain it, and in many cases this is true. For the overweight person who consistently cuts down the fuel value of the diet, should, under normal circumstances, be able to reduce gradually, comfortably and effectively. But the individual who is underweight often has a small appetite and therefore has little desire to eat the increased quantities of food that are required in order to gain.

Influence of Body Build

Nutritionists have observed that many people who find it difficult to gain have a tall, slender type of body build. It has been determined that in people of this type, the digestive tract is usually shorter than in those having a stocky build. Moreover, they tend to be more tense, more active and of a more nervous temperament. As a result, the passage of food through the digestive tract may be so rapid that it leaves the body before all the available nutrients can be utilized. At the same time, these active people tend to burn up more of their food for energy, so it is not surprising that they fail to store body fat, unless the diet is especially planned to meet their needs.

Concentrated Foods Desirable

The well balanced diet, with its full quota of minerals and vitamins is basic to good health for all. But in order to produce a gain in weight, the diet of individuals belonging to the slender type should be composed of easily digested foods, which can be utilized by the body with a minimum of effort; and it should include generous amounts of concentrated and highly nourishing foods.

Included in this classification are eggs, cheese, cream, butter or margarine, bacon, bread, cereals, cream soups, custards, ice cream, rice and tapioca puddings. The addition of two or three glasses of milk to the regular meals will be found useful in increasing the fuel value of the diet. Milk also belongs in the reducing diet, but there it is used to replace other high caloric foods. Fruit juices will be found useful in stimulating the appetite of those who desire to gain; and the fuel value of these beverages may be increased by the addition of milk or cream.

An Extra Meal

Very often it is possible to get extra nourishment into the diet by way of a light lunch in mid-morning, mid-afternoon or both—provided it does not interfere with the appetite for the regular meals. This may take the form of fruit juice and crackers; malted milk; cocoa, egg nog or plain milk. A between-meal snack is regarded as especially desirable for thin people whose work is fatiguing. It will help them to sustain energy and prevent them from coming to their regular meals too tired to enjoy or profit by food.

Importance of Rest

Since thin people have a tendency to tire quickly, they are advised to get plenty of rest. There should be long hours of sleep at night, and nutritionists have also observed that the food is apt to be better utilized if a short rest is taken before meals.

HOW to SEW

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: My living room is looking very smart and gay; the clear sketches on how to fit and make slipcovers in your Book 1, SEWING, for the Home Decorator, have been a great help.

"While shopping in a drapery department I found some braid 1 1/4 inches wide in bright blue, green and red. I was so attracted by it that I had to find a way to use it. The result is a chair covered in plain blue glazed chintz with green seam bindings and the blue, green ninety embroidery stitches and many ways to use them. They are 25 cents each; with each order for both books, Rag Rug Leaflet is included FREE. Address Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplains St., Chicago, Ill.

Why Let Yourself Get Constipated?

Why endure those dull headache days due to constipation, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can avoid both by getting at the cause of the trouble? If your constipation, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, the "better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy toasted breakfast cereal is the ounce of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. It helps you not only to get regular but to keep regular day after day and month after month, by the pleasantest means you ever knew.

Eat Kellogg's All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

and red braid around the cushion and the bottom ruffle. It is very stunning and everyone admires it. My problem now is keeping my slipcovers firmly anchored in place. How should this be done?"

Here is a sketch of the chair that was inspired by a shopping tour. I have also sketched a method that is often used by professionals for anchoring slipcovers.

Give your house a fresh start with new curtains; slipcovers, lampshades and other smart new touches which you will find in Book 1, SEWING for the Home Decorator. Book 2, Gifts, Novelties and Embroidery, illustrates

School Notes

HIGH SCHOOL
The last week and a half the European history students have been studying the industrial revolution and its results. Posters were made showing the developments in the fields of transportation, communication and the textile industry. A poster made also showed the good and bad results. One of the pictures brought to light was a photograph of the first locomotive in Isco county. This was discovered by Nelson Thornton.

The Juniors will hold another candy sale next week Wednesday. The experience of typing cards for the Chamber of Commerce in regard to smelt fishing proved a very practical lesson to beginning typing students to show the need for accuracy in their work.

Dr. Clover, Professor of Botany at the University of Michigan, gave an illustrated lecture on her trip down the Colorado river before the high school assembly Tuesday morning. Dr. Clover is one of a party of six who made a trip down the Colorado river and she and her woman companion are the only two women who have ever gone on this trip and come out alive. It was thought, for a time, that the party was lost and airplanes were sent to search for them. Dr. Clover plans on taking another trip down the Colorado in the near future. She was sent here by the Extension Service of the University of Michigan.

Mr. Ives has invited the pupils of the school to be his guests at three o'clock Wednesday of next week to witness the picture, "First Century of Baseball." It is quite evident that most of the pupils will accept the kind invitation.

SEVENTH and EIGHTH GRADES
Norma Zolweg, Ruth Westcott, Melvin McCormick and Dwayne Wright visited us Thursday.

We were invited upstairs to see a movie Tuesday morning on the "Expedition of the Colorado," which we all enjoyed.

School was dismissed at 3:25 Thursday afternoon for the Easter vacation. Danie Ostrander is visiting a few days in Detroit.

PRIMARY
Our attendance record is better than it was before vacation. We hope to begin working for perfect records soon.

We had seven guests at our Easter party. They were Marjorie Matchum, Shirley Hill, Ernie Mueller, Jimmie Phehan and Joan Ulman. Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Gingerich were here too. Everyone was happy to see Bob by Brown back again.

We have been looking for signs of spring. Here are a few we have mentioned:

Who knows most about Building cars?

Ford has built more than one-third of all the automobiles ever built in the world

THERE are more Ford cars in use today than any other make. And there are more Ford V-8s than any other 8-cylinder car.

The 1939 Ford V-8 represents the broadest experience in building cars any manufacturer ever had. You will find values in it far beyond what any other maker can put into a car at the low Ford price.

Ford performance, traditional for a generation, has reached new heights in the 1939 V-8.

And now Ford style leadership is equally outstanding. "The smartest cars on the road" is the way owners describe their new Fords. Smartest in action. Smartest in appearance. Leaders, as they deserve to be.

FORD V-8

APRIL IS FORD INVITATION MONTH! Your Ford dealer invites you to drive America's most modern low-priced car. Make a date for a new experience.

Look at these FORD FEATURES

- STYLE LEADERSHIP—The luxury car in the low-price field.
- V-TYPE 8-CYLINDER ENGINE—Eight cylinders give smoothness. Small cylinders give economy.
- HYDRAULIC BRAKES—Easy-acting—quick, straight stops.
- TRIPLE-CUSHIONED COMFORT—New flexible roll-edge seat cushions, soft transverse springs, double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers.
- STABILIZED CHASSIS—No front-end bobbing or dipping. Level starts, level stops, level ride.
