In Memoriam

In memory of our wife and mother. Loving and kind in all her ways, Upright and just in all her days, Sincere and true in heart and mind. Beautiful memories she left behind. God took her home, it was his will. But in our hearts she liveth still. God alone knows how we miss her. Through these long and lonely years. Andrew Lossing and children.

Miss Lyda Moore will reign as the 1939 Perch Queen at the Fourth Annual Perch Festival which will be held here Saturday and Sunday. The contest closed Wednesday evening, Miss Norma Musoff is the Maid of Honor having received the next highest number of votes.

The coronation will be held Saturday evening at the Edgewater Inn Pavilion when Queen Lyda, attended by her court of honor, will be crowned by Ron Gamble, assisted by Bob Clark both of WJR Detroit. The court of honor consists of Misses Norma Jean Musoff, Hazel Herman, Lorene Frank, Donna Faye Groff, Evelyn Pfeiffer.

The coronation ceremonies will be broadcast over WBCM, Bay City. One of the attractions will be pipe organ music by Bob Clark who is heard every morning in the "Dunkers' Club" program over WJR.

Earlier in the evening a banquet will be served at the Masonic temple.

The Queen, and her court of honor, and Ron Gamble and Bob Clarke will attend.

By Sunday perch fishing in the river will be at its height. During the week hundreds of fishermen, young and old, have made fine catches of perch. Old timers say that this is one of the best runs of perch that has been in the river for years.

High school bands and many floats will feature in the parade which will be held at three o'clock Sunday afternoon. It will start at the Hayes-Leslie garage and go west on Lake street to Matthew street.

The Lee United Shows of Bay City will furnish a merry-go-round and rides for the children and other carnival attractions. This will be held in the Tawas City park.

Would Make Dunkers of Festival Banqueters

Membership into the internationally known Ancient and Honorable order of Dunkers, will be accepted at the Perch Festival banquet announces Ron Gamble of WJR, who will crown the Perch Queen. "Bob Clark, as Chief Dunker, and myself, as club chairman, will act on behalf of the executive board."

"Our membership at the present time numbers an approximate 1200; with requests for memberships coming in every day. We have made arrangements with a sponsor who has commercialized two of our 5-time-a-week programs, to furnish Dunker's Club membership cards. These bear name and address of member; membership number; and authorization for that member's indulgence in the Art of Dunking, when and where he so desires, without interference nor embarrassment of ridicule or censorship by others not in favor of the act. On the back of these membership cards will be found a few fundamental rules governing every legitimate dunker."

"When club membership in any town or city has reached a total of 50 or more, that club may, upon application to the executive board, and by addressing their desire to the Dunker's Club, Radio Station WJR, Detroit, Michigan, obtain a charter in the International Order. This Charter is a legally drawn-up document with its fancy scrollwork; legal terminology; and official seal. Across the top of the Charter appears the International Club Fraternal title: "The Ancient and Honorable Order of Dunkers;" below which will be seen a steaming cup of coffee resting between two tempting doughnuts. Below this, the body of the charter.

MISS LYDA MOORE

Celebrate 10th Year of Children's Fund

The 10th year of service by the Children's Fund of Michigan in Health Unit No. 2 was fittingly celebrated in West Branch at the Parish house on Wednesday.

The program started with selections by the Mio High School band and continued on throughout the day. The program was presided over by Mrs. Bernard Sargent. During the morning program a number of ladies who are promoters of health work in each of the counties gave a resume of the services rendered and the value the Unit has been to the children of the counties. Talks by Jerome T. Jerome, (Turn to No. 2, back page)

Health Notes

Isoco county will hold its first Home Economics Extension Achievement Day in the Community Building at East Tawas on Thursday, May 11. Detailed plans are being formulated for an interesting program, an attractive display of homemade rugs, and a tasty luncheon.

Mrs. Janice Zettle, of West Branch, who has traveled and lived in several foreign countries, will feature the afternoon program.

Watch your local paper for details of the day and make plans to attend this event.

WELL KNOWN EAST TAWAS RESIDENT DIES

David Bergeron Succumbs Thursday to Long Illness

David J. Bergeron, 63 years, passed away at his home here Thursday morning, after a lingering illness for the past four years.

David J. Bergeron was born March 22, 1876, at Chippewa Falls, Wisconsin. He came to East Tawas about 25 years ago. He was united in marriage to Miss Georgia LaBerge, of East Tawas, in 1916. He was a salesman for Armour's Co., for over 25 years and was forced to leave their employ four years ago on account of illness.

He is survived by his wife, three children, Fidelis, age 19; Jeanne, 16; and David, 9; and one brother, Noel E. Bergeron, of Chippewa Falls, Wisconsin. He was a member of the K. of C.

Funeral services will be held Saturday, April 29, at St. Joseph's Church with Rev. Robt. Neuman officiating and burial in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Mrs. Anna Carlson

Anna Binston Carlson, age 73, died at her home last Sunday morning, after an illness of ten days. Death was due to pneumonia.

Anna Binston was born in Winslow, Skanne, Sweden, on February 17, 1866. She was married to the late Hans Carlson in 1880 at East Tawas. Two children are left to mourn her death, Mrs. Andrew Christenson and Arvid Carlson, both of East Tawas; and three grandsons, Mrs. Carlson had lived in Baldwin and East Tawas for the past 59 years. She came to East Tawas when 14 years old to make her home with John Appin's parents. She was a member of Grace Lutheran Church.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, Rev. G'enn Pierson officiating with burial in Greenwood cemetery.

Out of town relatives who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hill of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Carlson and daughter of Bay City, Mrs. E. Goodman, Mrs. Charles Egstrom and Reuben Logan of Bay City; Blaine Christenson and Miss Bertha Berg of Chicago, Ill. Mrs. B. Booth and daughters, Gertrude and Mildred of Saginaw, Mrs. Fred Pratt, Mrs. Edw. Pratt and son, Mrs. L. Kirbitz, all of Flint; Mrs. L. Larson son and daughter and Gus Christenson of Oscoda and many friends from Alabaster and Baldwin.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our appreciation to the many kind friends who sympathized with us in the loss of our wife and mother.

FOR SALE—June and sweet clover; hay, $4.00 per ton; 8 yr. old mare. Frank Blust, Tawas City.

New 5c-to-$1.00 Store Will Open Tomorrow

H. J. Keiser has announced that his new 5c-to-$1.00 Store will open tomorrow (Saturday). Tawas City will then have a store selling this price range merchandise which will compare favorably with stores of that type in the larger cities.

Mr. Keiser, drug store owner in this city for the past 15 years, has had a long successful merchandising experience and needs no introduction to the people of the county. The new store adjoins his drug store and is in that portion of the Keiser building formerly occupied by H. E. Friedman's dry goods store.

During the past week Mr. Keiser and his clerks have been busy arranging the "large stock. The store has been attractively equipped with modern fixtures and the merchandise has been arranged for the convenience of the shopper. A trip through the store today disclosed that a surprisingly large number of every day necessities can be purchased in the 5c-to-$1.00 price range—articles of clothing, kitchen utensils, dishes; glassware, light hardware, electrical goods and toilet articles.

John Forsten Will Manage Tawas Team

At a short business meeting of the Tawas City baseball team held Thursday evening, John Forsten was elected as manager for this coming season. John has had several years, both as player and manager with the local team, and has been athletic coach for the Tawas City high school for the past eleven years, in which time he has won several High School championships. A majority of the present Tawas City roster is made of players who have played under him during their high school years.

With most of last year's team intact and the addition of several prospective players, who plan on coming out for this season's squad, he should be able to lead Tawas City to their second straight league championship.

At a league meeting held Monday evening, April 24, it was decided to open the season on Sunday, May 14. Tawas City will journey to Harrisville, where they will be guests of the team from that city. Harrisville has a strong aggregation of players this year and promise to give the local boys a good run for their money for top honors in the coming championship race. So let's plan on accompanying the team and give them a flying start toward their second straight league title. The game is scheduled to start at 2:30 p. m., as are all games, in both the American and National Division. The starting time was changed this year from the customary 3:00 in previous years.

With only two weeks to go before the opening game, Manager John has called for a practice session on Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Anyone wishing to try-out for this year's team is asked to be on hand at this practice.

Opening games for Sunday, May 14, are: American Division—Tawas City at Harrisville; Prescott at Turner; Rose City at Whittemore; Twinning at Alabaster. National Division—Beaverton at Sterling; Standish at West Branch; Pinconning at Wicklud; Gladwin at Bentley.

A complete schedule will appear in an early edition of the Herald.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Neumann Celebrate Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Neumann, of Tawas City, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary, Saturday and Sunday, April 22 and 23, by entertaining many friends and relatives at their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Neumann were married April 23, 1889 in the Emanuel Lutheran Church in this city, and renewed their vows April 23, 1939 in the same church by Rev. J. J. Roekle, the present pastor, in the presence of their nine children. Returning home from the church, they were met by a host of friends and relatives. Dinner was served to 70 guests at a beautifully decorated table, white and gold colors prevailing. A large centerpiece of yellow roses and snapdragons; an eight-tier wedding cake decorated with tiny white doves and yellow rosebuds with a miniature bride and groom adorning the top—baked by Mrs. W. F. Gumm; and gold candlesticks with cream colored candles, bearing gold numerals which graced the table.

They received a purse of $75 besides many other beautiful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Neumann are blessed with nine children, thirteen grandchildren, and two great grandchildren, of which there has never been a death.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Neumann, Sr., and son, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Weekly News Analysis U. S. Seeks Peace Safeguards As Bulwark in Case of War By Joseph W. LaBine

SENATOR JOHNSON, STATESMAN LONG, SENATOR PITTMAN He didn't like . . . but he did like . . . his proposal. (See CONGRESS)

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst, and not necessarily of the newspaper.

Europe

Without waiting for Adolf Hitler's speech on April 28, President Roosevelt knew what reply to expect from his peace appeal. Benito Mussolini had already given the Rome-Berlin axis' answer in a speech at Italy's 1942 world fair ground. Though II Duce publicly spurned Mr. Roosevelt's "Messiah-like message," he reminded listeners that Italy would not be sinking millions into a world war if he planned war. This sounded hopeful, but each day brings less diplomatic leeway to an already tense Europe.

Mediterranean. Internationalized Tangier lies opposite Gibraltar. Observers fear trouble because 40 German warships are now making unprecedented maneuvers in this area, also because Spanish Moroccan troops are massed nearby and thousands of fresh Italian troops are landing in Spain. Cruising nearby are French and British warships, causing Europe to talk about the "greatest naval battle of all times" off Spain's coast.

Another possibility: Powerful Portuguese fascists are rumored working for internal blowup of Dr. Oliveira de Salazar's regime, uniting the entire Spanish peninsula under Nazi-Fascist domination without risking any international repercussions from an invasion. Thus would Germany get Portuguese colonies in Africa and the East Indies.

Balkans. Chief public German activity nowadays is to recoup eastern

SALAZAR AND HOMELAND (Map shows Iberian cities being visited by German warships in current mystery maneuvers. Also Tangier, international zone which the Axis may try to seize.)

European losses suffered at Anglo-French hands. With Turkey, Greece and Rumania apparently under democratic protection, Hitler has unsuccessfully invited Rumania to join the Axis powers. Shrewd Franz von Papen, last Nazi envoy to Austria before anschluss, has been named ambassador to Turkey. Meanwhile, Italy has won a reiteration of friendship from Hungary's Premier Paul Teleky and begun bringing Yugoslavia into the Rome orbit.

Triple Entente. Countering these moves is a new effort to perfect an Anglo-French-Russian mutual assistance aid, stymied only by Polish and Rumanian refusal to let Soviet troops cross their soil. As a direct result of the new triple entente, emboldened France has threatened to march if Germany seizes the Free City of Danzig by force. But France knows no such thing will happen; Poland will be frightened into begging the Reich to take it.

Congress

Self defense is a more basic tenet of U. S. foreign policy than either President Roosevelt's internationalism or congress' isolationism. However it may be accomplished, John Public wants (1) to keep out of foreign wars, (2) to be prepared if he gets into one. Hence, despite optimism over the President's peace appeal to dictators, congressmen, defense chiefs and tradesmen find themselves sizing up America's political, economic and military preparedness for a European war.

Political. Under the neutrality act as finally amended, congress hopes to keep peace with the world. To the senate foreign relations committee, Bryn Mawr college's Professor Charles Fenwick uttered one of the month's most sagacious remarks: "I do not think there is any such thing as neutrality."

But plans persist, chief of which are: (1) Sen. Key Pittman's "cash-and-carry" principle under which any belligerent could buy all the war materials it wanted, provided it paid cash and hauled them away in its own ships; and (2) Sen. Elbert Thomas' sanctions plan whereby the President could designate treaty violators and cut off commercial relations with them.

After a week's testimony, jittery committee members were less optimistic about a Utopian neutrality. On the Thomas plan, Utah's wizened Sen. William E. Borah commented it would lead us into war, in fact, was a war in itself. Reasoning: Its "obvious purpose" is to cut off trade and starve a nation into submission, which is a choice trick of modern war makers. On the Pittman plan, California's equally wizened Sen. Hiram Johnson commented it would make the U. S. an ally of such strange bedfellows as Great Britain and Japan. Reasoning: In wartime, only these two nations could reach U. S. ports for cash-and-carry purchases.

In the end, cash-and-carry held most favor. Testified Breckenridge Long, former ambassador to Italy and World War undersecretary of state: "I am thinking of what would be best for the U. S., not what would help any other country. Cash-and-carry . . . entails no sense of discrimination by positive act. . . . It more nearly approximates real neutrality and does not prevent development of industry in the U. S., upon which we might some day have to rely."

Economic. Assistant War Secretary Louis Johnson outlined instantaneous mobilization of manufacturing resources in case of war. Present status: Of 7,000 industrial items needed by a marching army, converted private factories could produce all but 55 within six months, the remainder in another six months. Present goal: To cache supplies to last a 400,000-man army six months. Biggest problem: To build reserves of 21 essential national-defense raw materials which the U. S. lacks, including aluminum, antimony, coffee, mica, manganese and tin.

Meanwhile, Secretary of State Cordell Hull reviewed four years of U. S. reciprocal trade in contrast to Germany's unorthodox barter system. His conclusion: From 1934 through 1938 the U. S. boosted commerce with trade-agreement countries by 39.8 per cent; Nazi trade with the same nations rose only 1.8 per cent. As an instrument of foreign policy, reciprocal trade has been successful. Not so thrilling, however, were simultaneous reports on the first two months (January, February) of the U. S.-British reciprocal pact, showing U. S. purchases of British goods had increased while U. S. exports to Britain dropped under last year. Explanation: U. S. exports in early 1938 were above normal.

Military. Publicly booked to testify before the house foreign affairs subcommittee, exiled Col. Charles A. Lindbergh sprang a surprise by jumping from his steamship to a desk in the war department, there to survey all aviation research facilities available to the army. Well posted on Russian, German, French and British air strength, Colonel Lindbergh will help the U. S. expand its air facilities under the new defense bill.

Miscellaneous

Considered by the U. S., a government commission to explore unofficial American claims in vast Antarctica, where Britain, Germany and Norway are chief contenders in a race for potential raw materials.

Planned for mid-summer release by the department of commerce, a 1,000-page industrial survey containing data on all 3,000 counties, every city of more than 10,000 population, and 280 nation-wide industries.

Lost, by Pipo, hippopotamus at Madrid's zoo, 2,000 pounds during compulsory fasting necessitated by the Spanish civil war.

Science

In 1934 General Motors dedicated its Chicago World fair exhibit at a banquet where great industrial advances were prophesied, many of which came true. This year General Motors has another exhibit at New York's World fair. Giving another "prophecy" banquet, Board Chairman Alfred P. Sloan Jr. eulogized statements from big U. S. corporation executives, forecasting everything from cities lighted by artificial suns to fool-proof, self-parking automobiles. Other features of tomorrow:

Truck crops produced in soilless "bathtubs"; television as vital as radio; chemically produced fuels and foods; with raw materials coming from farms; clothing so inexpensive it could be discarded when soiled; automatic machinery to perform routine jobs; dustless, air-conditioned homes; daily plane service from the U. S. to Europe at 500 to 600 miles per hour.

Most vital prophecy: Chemical advances which will postpone old age.

Labor

Broadly speaking, proposed revisions in the Wagner labor act would cut the national labor relations board's power and give judicial color to decisions involving employer-employee disputes. No. 1 reason for such amendments is that employers charge NLRB has not only discriminated against capital, but against the more conservative American Federation of Labor in favor of the newer and less orthodox Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Called to testify before the senate labor committee, NLRB Chairman J. Warren Madden protested so vehemently against employer charges that committee members were rather certain he favored labor instead of sitting on the fence like most judges. Yet he gave figures to back up NLRB's fairness claim. Example: A. F. of L. and C. I. O. broke even on cases which NLRB dismissed or were otherwise settled without the board's aid; of 94 per cent of cases adjusted without NLRB hearings, 42 per cent were won by employers.

NLRB'S MADDEN

Good start, questionable ending.

(Simultaneously, Secretary of Labor Perkins released figures showing 1938 had fewer strikes than any year since 1932. Figures: In 1938 there were 2,772 strikes involving 688,000 workers, costing 9,000,000 individual working days; in 1937 there were 4,740 strikes, 1,860,000 workers and 28,424,000 days' idleness.)

Madden sentiments: "Employers and employees are learning to live together within the framework of industrial democracy." But the next day he spoiled a good impartial start by inferentially defending C. I. O. in a statement charging employers favor A. F. of L. Again plumping for pinkish C. I. O., he held an employer may not legally call a union leader a "communist" because, in turn, courts have often (but not as a general rule) restrained unions from advertising that an employer is unfair to organized labor.

QUIZ

If you read Weekly News Analysis, these questions will be easy: Identify: Breckenridge Long; Paul Teleky, Olivier de Salazar, Franz von Papen. There were (more) (fewer) labor strikes in 1938 than in 1937. What nation plans a world fair in 1942? Name three strategic raw materials which the U. S. lacks. How may cities be lighted in the future? What famous transatlantic flier now works in the U. S. War department? U. S. exports to Britain in January and February, 1939, were (higher) (lower) than U. S. imports from Britain? What European nation's independence is being threatened unexpectedly by Italy and Germany? What country owns Tangier?

Lights of New York by L. L. STEVENSON

Charles M. Schwab's recent announcement that he would close his three homes and "start life anew" is taken to mean that the famous Schwab mansion, Riverside drive and Seventy-third street, will soon disappear and a huge apartment house take its place. At various times in the last 15 years it has been reported that the mansion would be sold and razed. Those rumors were always denied, although of late years the Schwabs seemed to prefer a cozy cottage at Loretta, Pa., rather than the 75-room house on the drive. Mrs. Schwab, however, was much attracted to the mansion. Back in 1901, when construction was started, she took an apartment on Seventy-second street that she and her husband might watch it grow. And it was there she died in January. It took three years to build the house and the cost is said to have been $2,500,000.

The Schwab mansion, a point of interest to just about every one who comes to New York, is a reproduction of the Château de Chenonceaux in the Loire district of France, which was built at the time of the French Renaissance by Francis I, and subsequently presented by Henry II to Diane de Poitiers, most famous of his women admirers. The rooms are done in various French periods with Gobelin tapestries and works of French, Italian and Flemish masters for which the Schwabs combed Europe. The building is 75 by 100 feet and is set in the center of a garden about 200 by 400 feet. Mr. Schwab is said to have paid $800,000 for the block, now assessed at $2,500,000, which real estate men hold is about half its value.

One of the features of the Schwab home is the great organ, reputed to be the finest instrument of its kind privately owned. It is built into the house and when the mansion comes down, according to Mr. Schwab, it will be destroyed since, being a part of the house, it cannot be dismantled and reassembled. No pipes are visible as they are hidden in the walls. Over a period of almost 25 years, the organ played an important part in the Sunday afternoon "at homes" of the Schwabs. Among the many artists who attended those musicales were the late Mme. Schumann-Heink and Fritz Kreisler.

Speaking of razing, there is, or rather there was, the old post office building at Broadway and Park Row. Because of its solid construction, it took the wreckers a long time to level it but they finally accomplished their task with the aid of a huge iron ball, used for wall smashing purposes, which afforded a heavily attended free show. Seventy years ago, the building was erected at a cost of $8,500,000 and it cost $63,400 to tear it down. The site will be landscaped and will become part of City Hall park as it was before the city deeded it to the federal government.

While by no means a follower of fashion, every once in a while, I encounter something that pleases me. The latest example is the renaissance of the bow tie. I like bow ties especially in the good old summertime. Bow ties don't get in the way of the soup. For the last few years, requests to be shown bow ties have brought only scorn from superior clerks. Maybe, if I stood firm, they would dig up a few show-worn specimens. Now, according to the Herald Tribune, one dealer carries 3,000 different bow ties in stock. And I can name at least one customer. Maybe I'll go on a regular bow tie spree.

Possibly sometime the Windsor tie will come back into favor. In my very young days, I wore a Windsor and let my hair grow long. Boy, was I literary! Now the only writing men of my acquaintance who stick to the Windsor are James Beardsley Hendryx, of Lee's Point, Sutton's Bay, Mich., who puts on a Windsor when he dresses up to come to New York, and Frank Sibley, Boston newspaper man.

Sickness Starts Youth as Butterfly Collector

RAVENNA, OHIO.—William W. Thrasher, 20 years old, has one of the finest butterfly collections in northern Ohio, because he suffered infantile paralysis 10 years ago.

For a long time, he could not walk. Then friends suggested that butterfly-chasing would give him sufficient exercise to relieve his legs' crippled condition.

"For the first five years," he says, "I roamed the fields near my home, catching butterflies. I mounted only moths and butterflies from the immediate vicinity."

Thrasher has nearly 500 varieties of butterflies and moths.

Visitors from Out of Town: George, Elizabeth Go Calling

At 9:30 a. m., eastern standard time on May 15, King George and Queen Elizabeth of England set foot on North American soil for the most widely heralded royal visit in modern history. In England, where the battleship Repulse was remodeled, in Canada and the United States elaborate preparations have been made for the comfort and enjoyment of Britain's monarchs. Until June 14, when the royal couple leaves Halifax on the return trip, American newspapers will be filled with accounts of their cross-continental tour. Every minute of their journey has been scheduled carefully.

Picture Parade

Sidelights on the journey: Above, the band of the royal marines, Portsmouth division, which accompanies the monarchs. This is the first time since 1911 that a royal marine band has accompanied British sovereigns abroad. Left, Mrs. Henry F. Nesbitt, White House accountant and housekeeper, whose duty it will be to make George and Elizabeth comfortable during their stay in Washington.

The price of popularity is little privacy. One of the few respites the traveling royalty will enjoy is at Jasper Park Lodge, Alberta. Photo at right shows a portion of the living room in the bungalow specially prepared for the sovereigns.

Elaborate alterations were made on the HMS Repulse to insure the finest possible quarters. The above picture was taken in early January when workmen began refitting the main dining room.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Not all the news these days has to do with fighting and contention among the nations. On a week-end run to Washington, this Plant Wizard to Brazil to Grow Goodwill Fruit America's 68-year-old plant wizard, in a unique and friendly deal which probably will ring more cash registers than would Mussolini if he swallowed all the Balkans in one gulp.

Busy all over the world for 40 years or more, Mr. Swingle has created enough new wealth with his plant conjuring to build a sizable battle fleet. Brazil, getting on Uncle Sam's cuff for $120,000,000, breaks precedent among debtor nations by immediately getting busy in a long-range effort to set up a favorable trade balance and get square with the export-import bank. She thinks Mr. Swingle can show her how to grow many things which we urgently need. Furthermore, she intends to become entirely independent of aggressor nations, not by ersatz or by a strong-arm economy, but by scientific utilization of her natural resources in soil and climate. Mr. Swingle departs for Brazil with the sanction and co-operation of the department of agriculture. His expenses are paid by the Brazilian government.

Tung oil trees, rubber and quinine will get Mr. Swingle's immediate attention. Brazil thinks that, with some expert coaching by Mr. Swingle, she can bring all these through as negotiable assets in interest or amortization day. It looks to this observer like a sunny break in the blizzard of screwball economics which has been sweeping over the world. The above will be just a starter. Mr. Swingle's research will cover virtually the entire range of Brazilian agriculture and forestry.

A native of Pennsylvania, a botanist, educated at the Kansas State agricultural college, he became an "agricultural explorer" for the United States government in 1902. Working in nearly every country in the world.

He brought Egyptian cotton to Arizona and Acala cotton to California, and helped establish the date industry in the latter state. In Florida, he achieved miracles of hybridization in citrus fruits. He added immeasurably to the knowledge of pollenization, hopped up the seeing power of the microscope, and, in French, German, and English, wrote authoritative treatises on plant pathology, cytology, taxonomic botany and citrus propagation. His fame is widely international and he is a member of every important scientific society in his field.

A homespun American, he is as clabby as a suburban gardener, exchanging garden lore over the back fence with his neighbor. His export of ideas and seeds and cuttings has yielded vastly more goodwill and tangible wealth than our exports of scrap iron, and his imports have run up into billions.

TWO years ago, it appeared that John Logie Baird, the mop-haired garret inventor who took the lead in British television, was running second to other inventors. The postmaster general ruled against him in picking the Marconi-Emi system for the British Broadcasting corporation. But now his system is working in London motion picture theaters and his representatives are here to install it in several Broadway houses.

The son of a Scottish country parson, in an old tweed coat and slacks, he lived meagerly in a dark soho attic and worked with a set of carpenter's tools, a vacuum tube and a few magnets, with no results. When he started thinking his way through a problem, he went to bed. He had been in bed a couple of weeks, when, almost despairing, he saw a red sunset through the window. That suggested a take-off from the infra-red zone of the spectrum. On February 3, 1928, he flashed a picture across the ocean, a ghost face flickering on the wall of the dark cellar of A. M. Hart, of Hartsdale, N. Y.

In the old days, his trousers were pateded, his hair was a brush heap, and he usually had one sock drooping. Now, as president of Baird Television, Ltd., he is slicked up a lot, and, according to all accounts, is becoming a magnate. "Sunset red and morning gray start the traveler on his way."

Towels or Picture
In Quick Stitchery

Pattern No. 6242

You'll love these quaint motifs that make a hit wherever they're used! The appropriate mottoes (they come in pairs) make them unusual as towels and equally effective as small pictures or for pillow-tops. They're mainly in 10 to the inch cross-stitch with a bit of other simple stitchery to lend variety. They're fascinating to do. Pattern 6242 contains a transfer pattern of 6 motifs averaging 5 7/8 by 7 7/8 inches; color schemes; materials needed; illustrations of stitches.

To obtain this pattern, send 15 cents in coins to The Sewing Circle, Household Arts Dept., 259 West 14th St., New York, N. Y.

TIPS to Gardeners

Proper Watering

EACH year, more and more gardeners are learning that gardens should not be watered by sprinkling.

Sprinkling usually moistens the surface soil only and thus the roots naturally come up there for water. When the root system is concentrated near the surface there is more danger of injury by hoeing; and if sprinkling is not done constantly, plants will be quickly affected by drought.

Many hours can be wasted holding the hose and directing the spray. Time of watering is not of great importance, but it is usually considered more economical to water thoroughly early in the forenoon or late in the afternoon since the soil can then be thoroughly soaked with less loss from evaporation.

The most efficient method of watering, according to Walter H. Nixon, Ferry Seed Breeding Station vegetable expert, is to lay the hose on the ground. Do not have too heavy a flow of water, or there will be a washing of soil and exposure of roots. Let the water run slowly in one place for 20 minutes to half an hour. KEEP THE SUBSOIL MOIST.

NERVOUS?

Do you feel so nervous you want to scream? Are you cross and irritable? Do you feel those dreads to you? If your nerves are on edge and you feel you need a good general system tonic, try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women.

For over 60 years one woman has told another how to go "smiling thru" with reliable Pinkham's Compound. It helps nature build up more physical resistance and thus helps calm quivering nerves and lessen discomforts from annoying symptoms which often accompany female functional disorders.

Why not give it a chance to help YOU? Over one million women have written in reporting wonderful benefits from Pinkham's Compound.

Star Dust

- ★ Sleuthing for Talent
- ★ A Glutton for Doing
- ★ Typical Actor at Four

By Virginia Vale

IF A stranger bobs up in your town and begins asking people to take screen tests, don't be surprised; just blame it on Jesse Lasky, who began making pictures way back in the early days. Probably you've listened to his "Gateway to Hollywood" on the air, and perhaps you heard the final result of that search for movie talent—the selection of Rowena Cook and Ralph Bowman as the two fortunate young people whose names will be changed to "Alice Eden" and "John Archer," with the leading roles in the picture, "Career," as their first screen appearances under these names.

Six other contestants were given contracts, and the search for new faces for the screen will probably be taken up again by some of the big producing companies. About every so often this search seems like a good idea to the movie-makers; usually it is practiced for a while, with plenty of ballyhoo and results that are anything but spectacular, and very little in the way of real talent is brought into the studios.

Carrying it on with the aid of radio, as Mr. Lasky has done, may be the solution. Certainly there are plenty of potential movie stars in our midst, and all they need is a chance to make good.

Jean Parker seems to be the public's favorite actress for the roles of the heroines of Gene Stratton Porter's novels. She appeared recently in "Romance of the Limberlost," and was signed recently by Monogram to do "Her Father's Daughter," by the same author.

"Never a dull moment" seems to be Leslie Howard's slogan these days. Playing a leading role in "Gone With the Wind" isn't enough to keep him really busy, it seems, so he has signed with Selznick International to act as associate producer on "Intermezzo" and play the leading role as well. It is scheduled to go into production early in May, and he is spending his spare time on pre-production plans.

There's an amusing story going around about Sally Eilers' four-year-old son, one that would indicate that he's losing no time in acquiring the typical actor's point of view. He made his screen debut in "They Made Her a Spy," his mother's latest picture. And when he was shown some of the rushes he demanded, like any actor greedy for close-ups, "Where's more shoots of me?"

Seems hard to believe, but Major Bowes' "Capitol Theater Family Hour" celebrated its 852nd week on the air recently. It's the oldest of the broadcasts, and the Major deserves a few bouquets for the way he has handled it.

Columbia is coming to the aid of all of us who have been complaining about the short pictures that we have to sit through in order to see the long ones. They are preparing a series of six, to be called "Fools Who Made History," which will deal with men whose ideas really helped the human race, although their contemporaries thought they were slightly haywire. The first will be based on the work of Dr. Morton, who discovered anesthesia.

When Don Ameche was in the East he went to Connecticut and bought himself a house; Connecticut is now practically a second Radio City, what with practically all radio stars either buying or renting there. But just when Mr. Ameche is going to find time to enjoy that house is a puzzling question, for Hollywood apparently can't get along without him; he seems to make twice as many pictures as anybody else does.

ODDS AND ENDS—That new "Author! Author!" program that is broadcast on Friday evenings promises to be almost as popular as "Information Please" . . . And "Information Please" has made it practically impossible to get a dinner party together on Tuesday evenings if there's not a radio in the dining room . . . "What's My Name?" which recently left the air, will return to take Fred Allen's place when he goes on vacation.

15,000 Hours Spent Building Largest Model Bridge

Dominick de Gregorio, 40, of Philadelphia, Pa., is pictured with his 30-foot model of the Delaware river bridge. De Gregorio started his miniature in 1933, during a time when he was unemployed. He has spent 15,000 hours in its construction, and has spent $1,000 in the building of it. The bridge, unusually light, is made of balsa wood, and stands only 22 inches high. The only tools used were homemade knives and a razor.

Tight Feeling In Chest Held Danger Signal

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

IT IS ONLY natural that when an individual begins to get a "tight" feeling in his chest just under the breast bone, he should begin to worry about his heart. There may be a few men who pay no attention to this as they can remember having this tight feeling when they played games as boys. As a matter of fact the tight feeling in the chest they had as boys is practically the same tight feeling in the chest when the heart is affected, because, in both cases, the heart is asked to do more work than it is able to do at that particular time.

In youth it may have been due to nervousness preventing the heart and lungs from working together properly. In beginning heart failure in the adult it is because the heart is not able, not strong enough, to do the work—perhaps the ordinary amount of work—required of it.

We should all remember that if a failing heart in its early stages is given rest, or required to do a little less work, it may regain its reserve or last for years longer.

Dr. Parsonnet Reports. In speaking of these failing hearts—chronic myocarditis or myocardosis—Dr. Aaron E. Parsonnet, Newark, N. J., in Annals of Internal Medicine, says:

"The patient may complain that he gets out of breath on climbing stairs or doing some work that he could do easily the previous year; he may complain of palpitation ('thumping,' 'skipping,' 'knocking'); he may notice the palpitation after ordinary or customary effort; he may be troubled with a grip-like distress under breast bone; indigestion—fullness, nausea and occasional vomiting; or only symptoms may be getting tired easily and sleeplessness."

The five outstanding symptoms then are breathlessness, palpitation, sore or griplike feeling under breast bone, indigestion and sleeplessness. "Moderation in work and play; rest and relaxation, if necessary, for an hour after lunch; a full night's sleep of eight hours; mental relaxation and forgetting of business worries at home; moderate exercise. Overweight should be gradually reduced by cutting down on food." Thyroid extract cannot be used because it speeds up the heart.

Regular Visits to Dentist Are Necessary

A physician sat waiting in the chair of his dentist waiting for the X-ray films of his teeth to be developed. When they were ready the dentist showed them to him and made no comment. The physician pointed to two of the teeth and said: "You can't save those two teeth, can you?" The dentist replied that they were too far gone and would have to be removed.

"Well, if I hadn't had that pain in my hip I'd never have had the teeth examined, as it is just three years since I had an X-ray examination. In other words, a middle-aged man apparently in good health can be attacked by rheumatism or arthritis from a decaying tooth of one or two years' standing, although it is possible that there have been previous attacks of arthritis from decay of other teeth or infected tonsils at some previous time."

Just why some individuals with infected teeth can escape arthritis or rheumatism for years or escape it entirely may seem hard to understand, but there are two factors to be considered, (a) the strength or power of the organisms causing the trouble, and (b) the amount of resistance the individual has to those particular organisms.

Nature Gives Warning.

Naturally we should not wait for an attack of rheumatism before having our teeth examined because the infective processes may be going on for years before the pain occurs in the joint or muscle. In Hygeia, Harriet Fitzgerald says: "Did you ever think that nature has ways of warning us of our ailments? A slightly sensitive tooth, a decayed spot, bleeding gums or an inflamed spot above a certain tooth may all mean that you should consult your dentist and that postponing that visit simply means that you are creating trouble. When you have a cavity and decay is only in the enamel (the thin hard covering of the tooth), the tooth is not sensitive and it is practically impossible for you to know a cavity exists." Your dentist can find this cavity, however.

When decay goes through the enamel and then through the next tooth structure—the dentine—and reaches the pulp—nerves and blood vessels—you have to visit your dentist because of "toothache."

LOOKING BACKWARD

40 Years Ago—April 28, 1899

The melancholy days have come, the saddest of the year—housecleaning time!

Thomas Davison has rented his farm on the Hemlock to Wm. Osborne of Prescott.

Charles Curry left last evening for Detroit to purchase four more horses for his livery, to accommodate the increasing business.

Next Monday is Dewey Day—the first anniversary of the day on which the Americans won one of the greatest naval battles of the world.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Schermerhorn took their departure Wednesday for their future home at Highland Station.

Supt. T. G. McCausland has moved his family to his farm near Alabaster.

The new station agent at Alabaster is G. W. Frasier.

George Hall of Grant recently purchased a handsome registered Clydesdale stallion at North Branch.

The Iosco County Teachers' association convened here last Friday and Saturday. Hon. D. E. McClure was the principal speaker. Others who took part in the program were Miss Vic Nisbet, Mrs. P. C. Goldie, John A. Campbell, W. H. Hartley, Miss Florence Oakes, Miss Kathryn McDonald and Miss Naona Mason.

A new fog signal will be installed this year at Ottowa Point.

This year's output of Michigan coal will total 1,000,000 tons. There are 17 shafts in operation and about 1,100 men employed.

The Western Plaster Company has just completed a commodious suite of offices on the first floor of the large store building at Alabaster. It will accommodate the general offices of the company, and the telegraph office. The office force consists of S. L. Avery, secretary and treasurer; B. W. McCausland, head bookkeeper and cashier; and Sidney Parkham, stenographer. The company store is under the management of F. B. Slingerland, with Duncan Boomer as assistant. Foreman Robinson has about 60 men working in the quarry.

Miss Edith Smith of Hale will spend the summer at Clayton.

Employees of the Wheeler Ship Yards at Bay City are striking for a return to the scale of wages paid in 1895.

N. C. Harting has purchased the old Tate restaurant building near the depot.

Con O'Brien has accepted a position at Duluth as superintendent of the D. S. S. & A. railway. Mr. O'Brien has been an employe of the D. & M. for the past 21 years.

Wm. Lattor of Reno township plans to build a new farm residence this summer. M. C. Davis of this city will do the carpenter work.

Louis Amiot has rented the James McCue farm in Alabaster township.

Dr. McIntosh is fitting up the Carrol building at Whittimore for an office and drug store.

25 Years Ago—April 24, 1914
Headlines this week: "First Gun Fired in War With Mexico," "United States Marines Seize Vera Cruz," "Twelve Americans Killed and Fifty Wounded."

John Swartz and family left this week for Alpena where they will make their future home.

John O'Brien of Alpena was in the city Wednesday. He has purchased a meat market at Alpena.

Albert Wandersee returned Saturday to his home at Ann Arbor after a few weeks visit here.

Rumor has it that the D. & M. railway will be purchased by the Grand Trunk.

Edd Pierson is now a part owner in the Hardware Department of C. H. Prescott and Sons. He will have charge of the plumbing and sheet metal division.

William's World Famous Colored Singers will appear at the Opera House Saturday evening.

We are in the market for 50,000 pounds of wool. Koffman Bros.

Henry Henke has sold his farm in Wilber township to James Thompson.

Lee Force's auction at Loud Site drew a large number of people from all over the county.
Rupert Bentley of Reno has installed a milking machine in his dairy barn.
Harold Allen has returned to his home in Reno from Big Rapids where he has been attending business college.
The barns on the Barney Long farm on the Hemlock road were destroyed by fire last Saturday afternoon.
Rev. and Mrs. B. H. Thomas of Bay City are spending a few days at their home here.
A meeting of the Iosco County Good Roads association will be held Tuesday evening at the Court House.

A. Blumenau of Whittimore was in the city Wednesday and while here purchased a Ford car from Henry Kane.

I wish to announce that I will be a candidate for Prosecuting Attorney on the Democratic ticket at the August primaries. Albert Widdis.

President Wilson's period of "watchful waiting" at last came to an end in a dramatic manner. The United States is again plunged into a costly war. It may give the "Greasers" a proper respect for Uncle Sam if they receive a severe trouncing at his hands.

America is awakening to a realization of the fact that she has a large standing army of unemployed. This army is ever increasing and a solution of the problem will tax the minds of our best economists, statesmen and businessmen for many years to come.

See The New, Improved JOHN DEERE Model "L" TRACTOR It's Built for REAL ECONOMY

NO matter how small your crop acreage—you will want to come in and get full information on this new John Deere tractor built for market growers and small-acreage farmers. Its engine is of simple, 2-cylinder design. Its operating costs are amazingly low. Many owners use only 5 or 6 gallons of fuel for a full 10-hour day's work.

On small acreages, it is the only power unit needed—it does the plowing, seed bed preparing, planting, cultivating, hauling and other jobs—completely replacing horses. Best of all, the price of the tractor and equipment is within reach of every pocketbook.

Everyone should see this new John Deere—the only way to really appreciate its easy handling, its compact design, and its flexibility, is to come in—get the feel of the wheel.

"Let it Rain - I'll use the Telephone"

RAIN, snow or wind mean little to the woman who has a telephone in the house... for she can do her shopping and "run" many other errands without exposing herself to the danger of icy streets or soaking rain.
The telephone does more than save her trouble. It saves her time too... It shortens her working day, adds to her leisure.
And it's just as useful in social affairs. Chats with friends... bridge games or parties gotten up on a moment's notice... your telephone not only enables you to arrange them, but to be included in them.
Day and night... at little cost... the telephone gives you a combined protection, convenience and pleasure that nothing else can provide.

SYNOPSIS

Mary Loring and her father, Jim, an ineffectual attorney, meet a train which brings his wealthy sister-in-law, unmarried Linnie Colwell and her friend, Lella Ormsby, divorcée, for a Christmas visit. Waiting at home for them are Mary's mother, her younger sister, Ellen; her father's nagging maiden sister, Aunt Marnie, and Peter, the baby of the family. At the depot Dr. Christopher Cragg helps the guests with their luggage. Mary is secretly in love with Doctor Cragg. In leaving her Aunt Linnie urges Mary to visit her in New York, but Mary refuses. Mary works in a rental library, where she spends her spare time writing short stories. Mary's father is let out as a railroad attorney, the fees of which were almost the sole support of his family. To earn money, she decides to begin writing in earnest. Mary feels sure that her newest story, "At Sea," would please the editors of National Weekly. After finishing it she calls Doctor Cragg, who comes to the book store for a current novel. Falling from a ladder while getting his book, she regains consciousness to find him around her. He tells her he loves her, and then tells her he is to be married the coming month to a girl he has known all his life. Despondent, Mary decides to accept her Aunt Linnie's invitation. In New York her aunt laughs at her for her plans to write, and insists that she meet as many eligible men as possible. The next week brings two letters. One, from the National Weekly, with a $100 check for her story, makes her deliriously happy. The other, from her sister, tells her that financial conditions at home are getting worse. The next day, at a party given by her aunt, Mary meets distinguished Jerome Taylor, wealthy middle aged man-about-town, and effusive Count Umberto Ballanci. The count's only manner nauseates her. A note from her father the following day pleads with her not to mention the family's financial plight to her aunt. After reading it she forces herself to begin work on her next story, which is more possible than the first. She labors on until her aunt informs her that Count Umberto, whom Lella terms a sponger and fortune hunter, is to take them to dinner that evening. He takes them to a garish restaurant in Greenwich Village. That evening Mary sends her story, "Their Son," to the National Weekly. She goes to see Phillip Buchanan, editor of the National Weekly, to whom she has given her last story. He invites her to lunch. He congratulates her for the simple treatment given the first story, and says that her last offering will receive immediate attention. At lunch she is introduced to attractive Jim Ormsby, Lella's former husband. Mary tells Lella that she has met Jim, and knows from Lella's actions that she still loves him. A letter from home tells Mary that Christopher Cragg has been married. Dazed by the news, Mary spends a miserable evening with her aunt at Jerry Taylor's penthouse.

CHAPTER VIII

Mary had taken out her typewriter several times during that first week after the arrival of Ellen's letter telling of Chris' marriage. She had tried to write, but her mind would give forth nothing, and, at long last, she had decided not to attempt any work for another solid week. She would accept every invitation showered upon her by Count Ballanci and Jerome Taylor; try to divert her thoughts from Chris by taking an interest in the amusements offered by these two men who appeared to be vying with each other for her company. Eventually, perhaps, she would be refreshed by their diversions, and able to return to business. In consequence of which, she spent every evening with either Ballanci or Taylor; even went, accompanied by Aunt Linnie, to Journey's End, Taylor's estate in Westchester, for a week-end.

There she danced with Jerome, she walked with him, she played a little atrocious bridge as his partner. Her mind, however, was back in Hawkinsville, and she would never have dreamed of what was transpiring, had not Aunt Linnie remarked nearly a dozen times a day:

"My dear, the man's simply mad about you, and I swear it's the first time anybody's ever known him to be seriously in love with anybody. Marry him, my dear, if he asks you, and he most certainly will. Just think, darling, what he can do for you!"

Mary would reply, "Yes, Aunt Linnie, but Jerome's old enough to be my father. I really couldn't marry him."

To which Aunt Linnie would reply, "Oh, nonsense! What if he is old enough to be your father? He's stunning-looking, and he's charming—and he's rich as Croesus. All this talk about young love is poppy-cock. Any love wears off after the first few years. And then what have you besides worry over the grocery bill, and how you'll manage to pay the dentist for straightening the children's teeth?"

Linnie and Lella's plans for a West Indies cruise were now completed. They were sailing on the Itasca the fifteenth of March, and expected to be gone at least six weeks. Linnie extended to Mary a most cordial invitation to accompany them, but Mary finally managed to convince her aunt of the sincerity of her desire to write. "I can never thank you enough, Aunt Linnie," she said in conclusion, "but I am going to make writing my business, and it won't ever amount to much of a success if I go gallivanting off on glorious pleasure trips."

"Then," Linnie said firmly, "the thing for you to do, since you're hell-bent on belonging to the intelligentsia, is to remain right here in New York and work. You can't accomplish anything by returning to Hawkinsville, and you might as well just stay in this apartment. Addie will be running it just the same."

Mary rushed to her aunt and threw grateful arms about her shoulders. "Oh, Aunt Linnie, how wonderful! I'd love to stay here. Thank you so much. Why, in the time you're away, I can write at least six shorts!"

It was the morning of the second day in March that Addie called Mary to the telephone. "It's Miss Hickenlooper," the Mulatto said in a stentorian whisper, "or, anyhow, that's all I could make out of the name."

"Perhaps she's calling up about 'Their Son,'" she thought, rushing to the telephone. "Or do editors have their receptionists attend to things of that sort?"

But Miss Hickenlooper's business did not concern the manuscript. Instead, she informed Mary that she was calling for Mr. Buchanan. He had asked a number of people to his apartment for cocktails at five that afternoon. Could Mary come?

Mary accepted with the only bit of enthusiasm she had experienced for anything in days. "Thank you, Miss Hickenlooper," she replied. "I'll be there."

Mr. Buchanan's apartment—the second floor of a house which had once been someone's very smart town home—was located in the East Fifties. Mary climbed one flight of the graceful, old mahogany stair-case, and stopped timidly before a tall, paneled door through which could be heard the buzz of conversation. No bell was to be seen, but a knocker of dull brass occupied a spot in the middle of the center panel, and with a gloved hand that trembled in spite of the self-control she was trying hard to exert, Mary lifted the metal hammer and knocked.

This process had to be repeated three or four times before it elicited any response, but eventually a husky male, with a large pug-nacious face, turned the knob and asked Mary to come in. He wore dark trousers and a white duck coat, and Mary assumed that he was Mr. Buchanan's servant. He looked far more like a pugilist than a butler-valet, and she learned later that day that "Spike" actually had been more or less actively engaged in fistfights until a night several years previous, when Phillip Buchanan had literally dragged him out of the gutter, and installed him in his modest bachelor abode.

Phil Buchanan, surrounded by guests, and in the act of mixing a highball at a wheel-in bar, looked up, a bit startled, and beheld Mary standing in the doorway. "All right, Spike," he replied with something akin to a sigh of resignation, and came swiftly forward.

"I'm so glad you came, Miss Loring. Do forgive Spike's manner of announcing you. He simply can't see any sense in the more esthetic points of the social amenities—and maybe the guy's right. You see, everybody else has been here before, and just barged in."

"I rather liked it," Mary admitted, smiling up into Phil Buchanan's amused, gray eyes. "It made me feel at home. If anybody in Hawkinsville had a man-servant, I'm sure he'd be just as informal as Spike."

Slowly, he took her about the big comfortable room, introducing her to one group after another, enunciating her name clearly, speaking it in full. "This is Mary Loring," he said, and Mary warmed to the gracious kindness in his voice. "Her first story, 'At Sea,' will appear in the National Weekly the fifteenth of next month. Miss Loring, may I present..." And, in turn, he mentioned the name and connection of each person there.

"His press-agenting me," Mary told herself. "Bless his heart—he's rather sweet."

Eventually, the introductions were over, and he placed her in a low chair before the fire of channel coal that crackled in the hearth, asked Mrs. Van Winkle, who appeared to be acting as hostess, to fetch her a cup of tea; then left her to the mercies of two intense young men, who, after greeting her effusively enough, returned wholeheartedly to a discussion of the relative merits of two recently published historical novels.

A black Great Dane of rather startling proportions—evidently the dog that Spike was known to walk—either blinked sleepily before the fire, or else made himself a nuisance by begging first one guest and then another for food. He was a beautiful, lumbering animal, slightly gray around the snout and knobby at the knees, and his name was Oscar.

Conversation buzzed and crackled about the room. Over by the east window, three men and a dowdily-dressed young woman were shrilly discussing the colossal sale of a new best-seller.

Eventually, Mr. Buchanan found time to come and sit on the arm of her chair. "I've been meaning to drop you a note," he said, balancing, rather dangerously, a highball and a cigarette in the same hand. "We'd like a picture of you for our edition of Friday the eighth, and a short biographical sketch. Sort of introductory affair to the appearance of 'At Sea,' a week later. Can you manage it?"

"Heavens, I don't know! I haven't had my picture taken since I was ten!"

"Um—well, that would scarcely do. We're exploiting you as some-what of a prodigy, but I hardly think we can make our readers believe you're as young as all that! I'll tell you what—Miss Hickenlooper will make an appointment for you with a photographer some time this week, and he can take a few shots at you."

"If you want me to, certainly." Then, glancing at her watch, "It's later than I thought it was. I must be going."

"Dinner engagement?"

"Well—yes."

"I'm sorry. A bunch of us'll probably drift into Tony's, later on tonight, and I'd rather hoped you'd go with us."

"I wish I could," Mary replied, thinking how much more stimulating an evening with these hectic, interesting people would be than the one she had in store. Jerome Taylor was calling for her at seven. The dinner would be delectable. They would have the very choicest seats at the theater, and later go on to a club for supper. Everything would be perfect—but suddenly she wished, with all her fervor, that she might just stay on here with Phillip Buchanan and his friends.

CHAPTER IX

Spurred on with a new enthusiasm for writing because of having met, although rather casually and at no great length, a few arrived authors, Mary again set to work the next day. She entitled her new story "Concerning Anne," and, with a feverish zeal but not much conviction, devoted the entire day to working on it. Aunt Linnie and Lella were occupied with some last-minute shopping for their cruise, and the apartment was blessedly quiet.

Miss Hickenlooper, sounding slightly more cordial than she had that day at the office, telephoned Mary around three o'clock, and informed her that she had made an appointment for her for some sittings at the photographer's at four the following day. And would she mind dropping in the office before going to have her picture taken? Mr. Buchanan wished to talk to her. Mary acceded happily to both re-

Psychologist Cites Five Grounds for Love for Music, Enjoyed by Most People

Love for music can be explained by the psychologist, Dr. Carl E. Seashore of the University of Iowa, who as a psychologist has for years been studying and predicting musical ability and appreciation, scouts the idea that love for music is an inexplicable emotion. Love of music can be accounted for on five grounds, he writes, in the Music Educators Journal.

The first reason is physiological. We have an organism that registers music and responds to it somewhat like a resonator. Not only the central nervous system is affected, but the peripheral nervous system, all the muscles, all the internal organs, and especially the autonomic system with its endocrines which furnishes a physical basis for emotion. The whole body is put into a glow of well-being by the pleasure of hearing musical sounds.

A single sound may be beautiful in itself, like a flower or a human face, Doctor Seashore emphasizes. The untutored mind and the musically trained can alike delight in their charm quite apart from their utility in building up musical form.

quests, saying to herself, "Mr. Buchanan's probably made his decision on my story, and I believe, I really believe, it's favorable. Otherwise, he would merely have returned the manuscript with a polite note of refusal."

The following day, she refused luncheon invitations both from Jerome Taylor and Count Ballanci. "Concerning Anne" must be re-typed, and whipped into shape in order to present it to Mr. Buchanan that afternoon. Her heart was light while she made her plans. One story was finished, and another was about to be accepted. She was, she felt, going places and, for the time being, although she did not quite realize it, she had completely forgotten Christopher Cragg. At least, the hurt of his marrying Isa Grace-land was not bedeviling her every conscious thought.

She arrived at The National Weekly quarters at exactly three o'clock, a large envelope containing her new manuscript under her arm. There were three people seated in the waiting room, but, much to her amazement, Miss Hickenlooper escorted her immediately, and with somewhat of a flourish, to Mr. Buchanan's office.

He was seated at his desk, gazing angrily at a typed letter in his hand. The afternoon sun filtered through the Venetian blind of the window behind him, and settled on that strangely sunburned hair of his, making him look, Mary thought, like a little boy who has spent too many hours on the beach.

Buchanan rose hastily from his swivel chair. "Oh, Miss Loring! How are you? Won't you sit down?"

Mary seated herself on the edge of the chair that faced his desk. "I'm very well, thank you. And I've really been working since I saw you the other day. Meeting all those interesting people at your apartment stimulated me immensely, and I got busy at once on a new short."

"Um! That's fine. Have you finished it?"

Mary placed the brown envelope on the desk before him. "Here it is. I thought I might as well bring it with me since I was dropping in this afternoon anyhow. Miss Hickenlooper said you wanted to see me."

Phil Buchanan extracted a crushed package of cigarettes from the pocket of his tweed coat; extended it rather vaguely towards Mary who nodded a refusal; helped himself, and lighted a match. "Yes, I wanted to talk to you about 'Their Son.'"

Mary's heart turned a somersault. "Oh, so you've read it?"

"Yes, after Mr. Van Winkle turned it over to me with a recommendation for thumbs down."

"For what?"

"Thumbs down. He didn't like it, Miss Loring. He said—well, to speak quite frankly, he said it was trite."

Mary felt the hot blood rushing to her face.

"But I decided to read it, anyhow," Buchanan went on, "and I'm afraid I have to agree with him. It doesn't come up to the standard you set for yourself when you wrote 'At Sea.'" The—well—the snap's just not there. The plot's weak. The story lacks conviction."

Mary felt as if she had been slapped in the face. The man's words seemed so brutal, and his rejection of "Their Son" was such a shock. She had definitely counted on receiving a check for it this afternoon. A foolish lump filled her throat, and to her dismay she felt hot tears welling into her eyes and sliding treacherously from beneath her lashes. She could not trust herself even to look across at the man on the other side of the desk.

PAUL CROSSES INTO EUROPE

LESSON TEXT—Acts 15:36; 16:1-15. GOLDEN TEXT—And after he had seen the vision, immediately we endeavored to go into Macedonia.—Acts 16:10.

Guidance is the moment by moment need of every man and woman, boy and girl. The whole of life calls for decisions, many of which look quite innocent and unimportant, but upon which the destiny of an entire life may turn. Who does not recall the poet's lament over the want of an ordinary horse-shoe nail which resulted in the loss of the shoe, which disabled the horse, whose rider was lost, with the result that the battle went against his people.

Since the great issues of life may turn on the simplest of choices, we need guidance at every point in life. This need has been recognized by those who would make merchandise of their neighbors. Quacks and charlatans offer guidance by every method, from reading the palm, looking at the stars, or consulting the spirits, to those smug enterprises which pose as spiritual and talk much of prayer, but which do not honor the name of Christ nor recognize Him as Redeemer and Lord.

One of the glories of the Christian faith is that the believer is indwelt by the third person of the Trinity, the Holy Spirit Himself, who is ready and willing to give divine guidance in every detail of life from the smallest to the greatest.

We study today the coming of the gospel into Europe, and that means through our forefathers to America. We consider what from our viewpoint was a crucial point in the history of the Church. Thanks be to God that His servant Paul was in that hour obedient to the guidance of the Holy Spirit. Observe that the gospel came to Europe.

I. By Providential Hindrance (15:36; 16:4-8).

Not only the steps, but also the stops of a good man are ordered of the Lord. That is not an easy lesson to learn. We may be as much in the will of the Lord when all of our efforts seem to be thwarted as when they prosper. Let us not forget it.

Paul had set out on a second journey to carry out a follow-up campaign in the cities where he had already preached. This was a good plan and had God's blessing (see v. 5). But soon we find that word "forbidden" (v. 6) and then "suffered not" (v. 7). The Holy Spirit began to close doors to the gospel preacher. Now what? Shall he go on in determined self-will? Or shall he become discouraged and embittered in his soul? No, let him wait, for God is guiding him by providential hindrance, which is soon to be followed.

II. By Divine Guidance (16:9, 10). The Spirit spoke to Paul in a vision revealing the divine purpose that the gospel should go over into Macedonia. The Spirit leads in our day, possibly not by visions, but by impelling inward prompting complemented and checked by the teaching of Scripture and by providential circumstances, and a man may know what is the will of God.

A word of caution is needed at this point. Some earnest Christian people go astray by projecting their own desires and purposes into the place where they come to regard them as the will of God, and thus do themselves and others, and Christianity itself much harm. The three things already mentioned should agree—(1) the inner prompting of the Spirit, (2) the teaching of God's Word, and (3) God's hand in our outward circumstances.

III. Through a Faithful Witness (vv. 11-14).

The gospel came to Europe because Paul and his fellow workers were faithful to their calling. When God led, they went to Macedonia (vv. 11, 12), where they sought out those who were in the place of prayer (v. 13). Paul spoke to them about Christ (v. 14). It is one thing to have a vision, it is another thing to be obedient to that vision (Acts 26:19). There are some who talk much of their consecration to God, but who give little evidence of it. The little girl was right (though her grammar was wrong) when she said, "It's better to walk your talk than to talk your walk."

IV. Through a Receptive Heart (vv. 14, 15).

God sent an obedient messenger to the place where He had a prepared heart (v. 14). Space forbids much reference to this godly, successful business woman and house-mother, but we do note that she not only received the Word of God into her own heart, but at once gave herself to the task of passing it on. The first thing she could do was to give aid and comfort to the messenger of the truth, and she did that at once. Be assured that from that day on she did all she could to prosper the gospel on its way through Europe and to the ends of the earth. Have we done likewise?

What to Eat and Why

C. Houston Goudiss Explodes Some False Notions About Food; Warns Homemakers Against Fallacies and Superstitions

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

IT HAS been well said that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. This is particularly true of dietary facts, for half-truths can be more misleading than lies.

There should be no place for half-truths, misinformation or superstition in a matter so vital as the choice of food. Yet judging from the letters that come to my desk, thousands of homemakers are being influenced, not by scientific knowledge, but by "old wives tales," and a multitude of fads and fancies which there is not a shred of scientific evidence to support.

Some food fallacies are harmless. Others may be detrimental to health. For they result in an unbalanced diet that deprives the body of substances needed to maintain physical efficiency at the highest possible level.

Misinformation About Meat

Many common and persistent fallacies concern the eating of meat. It is wrongly charged that light meats are more wholesome than dark meats. . . . that veal is not completely digested. . . . that meat is a contributing cause to disease, and many other equally foolish notions. All these misconceptions are in a class with the absurd ideas that eating turnips will make you brave, that lettuce is a cure for insomnia, or fish a food for the brain.

There is no evidence to support the belief that some meats are less desirable than others because they are less completely digested. Tests show that the length of time meat remains in the stomach varies with such factors as the quantity of fat present, the method of cooking, and the amount of chewing it receives. But there is no marked difference in the thoroughness with which the different kinds of meats are digested.

Erroneous Ideas About Cheese

Other fallacies that continually crop up in my mail are the ideas that cheese is constipating, and that this good food is not completely digestible. Neither belief is in accordance with the facts. Numerous tests have shown that when cheese is given a proper place in the diet, it is usually well digested. Moreover, it has been demonstrated that there is practically no difference between cheese and meat with respect to ease of digestion.

As for the completeness with which this food is utilized by the body, studies made by investigators for the United States department of agriculture, demonstrated that on the average, about 95 per cent of the protein and over 95 per cent of the fat of cheese were digested and absorbed!

Some few persons may have an allergy to cheese just as they are sensitive to a variety of other protein foods. But that is an abnormal reaction and has no bearing on the use of cheese by persons in normal health.

Cheese Is Not Constipating

The mistaken idea that cheese is constipating doubtless arose from poor menu planning. Cheese is a highly concentrated food. It enjoys the distinction of being the most concentrated source of protein known. Because of this fact, menus containing cheese should be balanced by the inclusion of foods containing bulk or cellulose, such as fruits, vegetables or whole grain breads. When these foods are omitted, it is not the presence of cheese, but the absence of bulk that is responsible for the meal being insufficiently laxative.

Homemakers who have the interests of their families at heart will banish the notion that cheese is either constipating or difficult to digest when properly used. They will give this splendid food a regular place in their menus and thereby provide valuable nourishment at a most economical cost. It is doubtful if any other food provides such a variety of important nutrients concentrated in such a small space. Besides its fine quality protein, cheese is notable for its energy values, for supplying the minerals, calcium and phosphorus, needed for teeth and bones, and as a source of vitamin A.

Don't Make Mistakes About Milk

Not even milk has escaped a variety of groundless superstitions. It is said to be "fattening" when the truth of the matter is that no food is fattening unless consumed in excess of bodily needs. The food faddists say that fruits and milk must never be taken at the same meal, for the fruit acids will cause the milk to curdle. Here is an outstanding example of the misleading effect of half-truths. For it is a physiological fact that milk is always curdled in the stomach by the action of the hydrochloric acid!

Some people are afraid to eat acid-tasting fruits because they have the erroneous idea that they produce "acidity" in the body. In spite of their acid taste, however, most fruits have an alkaline reaction following digestion.

My earnest advice to homemakers is to disregard all such fads and fancies. Don't be guided by hearsay advice. Eat a wide variety of foods in moderation. Learn what constitutes a well-balanced diet. And make that your health ideal.

And That Goes for Life

It isn't love altogether that makes a marriage a success. It's mixed with common sense.

Inefficiency usually lies in incapacity to observe closely.

Beating Tactful

Tact is the knack of keeping quiet at the right time; of being so agreeable yourself that no one can be disagreeable to you; of making inferiority feel like equality.—G. H. Lorimer.

Correct Constipation Before—Not After!

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of emergency relief. Why let yourself suffer those dull lifeless days because of constipation, why bring on the need for emergency medicines, when there may be a far better way? That way is to KEEP regular by getting at the cause of the trouble.

It's common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, a pleasant, nutritious, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All- Bran—goes straight to the cause by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this crunchy toasted cereal every day—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

A General Quiz

The Questions

1. When does a breeze become a wind?
2. How many miles does the earth travel daily?
3. Does Yukon Territory belong to Alaska?
4. How far can the human eye see?
5. Can anything be greater in width than in length?
6. In what year were the first U. S. coins made?
7. Is Joan of Arc's home still in existence?
8. Does an elephant drink with its trunk or its mouth?
9. Is it true that if a car going 40 miles an hour strikes a solid wall, it would strike with the same force?
10. Can earthquakes be predicted?

The Answers

1. When it blows from 7 to 38 miles per hour.
2. On its annual trip around the sun the earth travels about 1,601,644 miles daily.
3. No; it is part of the Dominion of Canada.
4. One can see some objects from an almost unlimited distance, depending upon the size and brightness of the object. For example, the sun is over 92,000,000 miles away.
5. No, length is always the longer dimension.
6. In 1793.
7. The house where she was born still stands at Domremy, in eastern France. Nearby are the Chenu woods where the voices called her to her patriotic mission. The dungeon at Rouen, where she spent her last days, is also still in existence.
8. Its mouth. It sucks up water in its trunk and squirts it into its mouth.
9. The National Bureau of Standards says that a car going 40 miles per hour, hitting against a solid wall, would strike with a force equivalent to falling from a height of 52 feet—at least a four-story building.
10. Some general trends of crustal disturbances may be predicted, but no really workable system has been produced. The case isn't hopeless, scientists concluding that "some day" fairly precise predictions may be made after a complete charting and study of earthquake areas has been completed. That may take 50 years.

School Notes

HIGH SCHOOL

The English I class has begun the study of Shakespeare's play "Julius Caesar."

The English II students are now studying a unit in literature which portrays social and industrial conditions in America. In impromptu themes the pupils portrayed the idea that all industries really formed a brotherhood in that they are interdependent.

English II students are beginning the study of twentieth century writers. Among the foremost essayists of the century are Max Beerbaum, G. K. Chesterton, Hillaire Belloc and H. M. Tomlison. Eminent biographers of the twentieth century are Sir Edmund Gosse, William Henry Hudson and Lytton Strachey. These will be the subject of study during the course of the present unit.

The four grades of the high school participated in a spelling contest last week. The seniors won the contest. A hundred words were pronounced from Chew's Practical High School speller to the high school assembly. Hazel Herman, Junior, led the school with 96 words spelled correctly. Harold Ross, Sophomore, was second with 95 correctly spelled. Norma Malcolm spelled 93 correctly, and Norma Burtzloff, Victor Johnson and Fidalis Groff each successfully handled 92. The median number for each grade was as follows: Seniors, 83; Sophomores, 81; Juniors, 75; Freshmen, 52. The fact that the sophomores proved to be better spellers than the juniors is different than one would naturally expect, as ordinarily the efficiency in spelling passes regularly from the ninth grade as lowest to the twelfth grade as highest.

SEVENTH and EIGHTH GRADES
Maxine DePotty has entered the band. She is playing an instrument known as the glockenspiel.

The Michigan history class has been studying the development of land and water transportation in Michigan.

The following students are on the honor roll for the month of April: Seventh grade—Dick Clark, Maxine DePotty, Evelyn Colby, Hazel Galliker, Willard Musolf and Hugo Wegner. Eighth grade—Lyle Hughes, Charlotte Hughes, Ruth Giddings and Daniel Ostrander.

The seventh grade have been making graphs, comparing highways of U. S. with those of other countries.

FIFTH and SIXTH GRADES
Neil Thornton had the highest score in a Mastery test in language. Raymond Westcott, Beverly Bigelow and Dale Landon had high scores in recent geography tests.

Dwayne Leslie won in our spell down Friday. The fifth graders proved to be better spellers than the sixth. We gave the play "Alcohol in Court" last Friday for Miss Look's room.

The sixth grade language class is memorizing "The Village Blacksmith."

The fifth grade arithmetic class has begun the study of multiplication of fractions.

PRIMARY
Bobby Brown came back to school Tuesday.

We wrote a poem about milk. We plan to use this in our health program at West Branch. Here it is: I like the milk the cow gives me. It's very good as you will see. If you drink it very day, It will keep you happy and gay. It will make you well and strong, Keep you happy all day long. Milk has vitamins A, B, D, E and G. These are never found in coffee or tea.

Junior McDonald and Elgin Hill are working with the band.

full of legal phrases, and containing the grant of right to assemble under the International provisions. Finally, the official seal is affixed to the lower left hand corner, and the lower right, the signatures legalizing the document—those of Chief Dunker Bob Clarke, and Club Chairman Ron Gamble.

"Club meetings are held each morning around breakfast time, and are broadcast from WJR, The Goodwill Station, Detroit. Bob Clarke furnishes all-request music on the organ, and your club chairman Ron Gamble fills in the gaps with nondescript chatter ranging from introducing musical dedications, to answering weighty problems raised by members for consideration by the rules committee.

"Every other Thursday morning is "Dunker's Club Forum Day," and coffee and doughnuts are served to all loyal dunkers on the 28th floor of the Fisher Building, in the lobby of WJR. On the average, we have about 30 members attending our Forum each time it is in session, and they are invited to indulge in the art of dunking to whatever degree they deem advisable.

"Because of the fact that Bob Clarke and myself will be guests of the Tawas City Annual Perch Festival, we thought it might be a good idea to bring along a goodly number of membership cards and a charter or two. We submitted this idea to the Executive Board, who, after a special meeting with members of the International Committee, has passed a resolution extending special authorization to us, under which we have the power to accept memberships during our brief visit with you. We will be glad to do this at your request."

M. D. Orthopedic Specialist from the Central Michigan Children's Clinic, and by Dr. R. Sheets, Medical Director of the Michigan State Hospital at Traverse City, were the highlights of the program.

About 300 people attended the program throughout the day and roll call at luncheon indicated that there were 45 present from Iosco county, 47 from Oscoda county, 25 from Alcona county and a large number from Ogemaw. There were many visitors from neighboring counties and health units.

The Committee and Personal of Unit No. 2 wish to thank everyone who assisted in making our celebration a success. The Iosco county committee wishes especially to thank Mr. Giddings and Miss Hall for transporting the primary room children and allowing them to take part in the program. We wish also to thank Miss Leitz for the beautiful art exhibit representing work of the Oscoda school children.

Change License Plates

License plates for the year 1940 will be black numerals on a silver aluminum background. The silver aluminum background. The silver metal of the plate and the plate will not be subject to chipping as with the enamel now used, making the new license plates more durable; also this color background will tend to eliminate reflections and minimize glare.

Snow Goose and Brant

The snow goose is found in large numbers, nesting on the western part of Baffin Island, while the brant is found over wide areas as far north as Kimmere Island in Arctic waters.

Choral Union Will Be Formed in Tawas

The choir of Grace Lutheran Church were host to the singers who assisted them in their Easter Cantata at an informal dinner at the American Legion Hall, Monday evening. A pleasant evening was enjoyed by all and Mr. Trestrial was presented with a gift by the choir.

As an outgrowth of the Easter program it was decided that the group hold together as an organization and form an unaffiliated Choral Union from the Tawas. A committee on organization was named and it is expected that a short business meeting and first rehearsal for the summer season will be held next week.
