MAYOR COYLE WILL PITCH FIRST BALL NEXT SUNDAY

HARRISVILLE TAKES OPENER FROM LOCALS

Northern City Wins 17 to 11 In Sunday's Comedy Of Errors

Tawas City journeyed to Harrisville last Sunday where they opened the 1939 baseball season in a game had it been rehearsed, couldn't have produced more comedy. Ben Turpin and Charlie Chaplin combined could not have been any funnier in their hey-day. They did everything wrong, dropped the ball, kicked it, held it until the runner was safe, failed to cover the bases, and even pulled the "wrong way Corrigan." Tawas City was charged with nine errors, but the score keeper must have been looking the wrong way on some of the plays and missed several of the miscues. Harrisville was having their troubles too, as six errors were chalked up against them. Though some of the bad playing was excusable as cold breeze was blowing off the lake, and the temperature was about right for football.

Tawas City outthit their opponents 16 to 13, and in doing so showed that they have a strong offensive team. "Lefty" Quick led the attack with five hits out of six times up, included in his collection was a three base hit. "Little Dutch" Staudacher and Harold Moeller each got three out of five times up, included in Harrisville's 13 hits was a two-base knock by Gunderson, made on a misjudged fly ball. "Bill" Mallon started on the mound for the locals. He worked six complete innings, he retired in the seventh with none out, Gordon Myles, young southpaw, who finished the game. Bill allowed 11 hits, issued five free passes, struck out seven, and all the opponents runs were charged against him. Myles struck out four, and allowed two hits.

Harrisville also used two pitchers. Gunderson started and hung around for six innings during which time he allowed 15 hits, walked two batters, struck out four, and all of the Tawas City runs. He was replaced by H. MacDonald to start the seventh. He allowed but one hit and hit one batter, and got two on strikes.

Next Sunday, May 21, will be Tawas City's first home game. Whittemore will furnish the opposition. Mayor John Coyle will throw the first ball with Mayor Pro Tem Ernest Burtzloff in the catchers box to receive it. The rumor is that they have been holding secret practices and that the fans who come out to see the first pitch hit about halfway to the plate, or dropped by the intended receiver, should get that far, will be disappointed. Let's come out anyway and see what happens. The Flag Raising ceremonies will also be held. The Tawas City High School Band will be on hand to furnish music for the occasion. The two teams, along with the band, will march to the flag pole in center field where "Old Glory" will be raised to the top of the flag staff followed by the American division championship flag and the Northeastern Michigan league championship flag. The ceremonies will start about 2:15.

So come on fans! Let's get the boys started in the other direction and headed for another division and league title. As the old saying goes, "A Poor Beginning is a Good Ending," "A Poor True in this case. The team has a lot of batting punch and several practice sessions, both, "fielding and skull," held this week ironed out most of the trouble which befell them last Sunday, and it is hoped that they won't be repeated. So remember to be on hand next Sunday at the Tawas City Athletic field. All games are scheduled to start at 2:30 p. m. (Turn to No. 1. back page)

Health Notes

Dr. R. Sachs, Children's Fund Ophthalmologist, will begin work in Isosco county on Monday, May 22. He will work in Oscoda all next week, and set up his second clinic in Tawas City on May 31. Miss Klumb, county nurse, has made a survey of all the schools, and with the cooperation of the teachers, has sent to every parent of a child suspected of having a vision defect, an invitation to have that child receive an examination by Dr. Sachs. Approximately 300 children have responded, hence it will be necessary for Dr. Sachs to spend about four weeks in the county. Appointments for eye examinations have been sent out this week. Due to the fact that there are so many children to be seen, if an appointment is broken another cannot be arranged. Parents are urged to try to help the children be punctual about keeping their appointments.

Penalty on Dog Tax

Penalty will be added June 1, 1939 on 1939 dog tax.
Grace L. Miller, County Treasurer.

Annual Fish Dinner

The Annual Fish Dinner will be served as usual by Tawas City Lodge No. 302. F. & A. M.

The public is invited to eat their holiday dinner with the Masons in the Masonic Temple on that day from 12:00 noon, until all are served.

The committees are now at work and the meal will be up to the usual high standard established several years ago by the organization.

This affair has been largely attended in past years not only by citizens of the Tawas, but by residents of the state as far distant as Detroit, Lansing, Flint, and many other Michigan cities.

Review 10 Years Work Of Cousen's Fund

Ten years have elapsed since James Cousen created the Children's Fund of Michigan. When it was founded on Children's Day, May 1, 1929, it constituted the largest single charitable bequest for human welfare ever established in the State of Michigan. The ten million dollars set aside at that time was subsequently augmented by approximately $2,100,000. It stipulated that all the money be spent in twenty-five years. The reason for this and other provisions set forth in the deed of trust has been discussed in previous annual reports.

From May 1, 1929, to April 30, 1939, the Children's Fund of Michigan has spent $6,972,765.15. This sum of money represents income and part of principal of the entire trust. An average, therefore, of about $700,000.00 has been distributed among the major projects to carry on the program and to assist in various undertakings that have come within the purview of the Fund. The major portion of the work has been of a constructive character. Almost one-half of the money spent in the last ten years has been devoted to the health program. Over $3,300,000.00 has been expended in maintaining and establishing health units, nursing service, dental, service, eye clinics and sanitation surveys. In addition to this, two clinic buildings have been erected, one in Marquette and one in Traverse City, which serve as centers to which children in the Upper Peninsula and the northern part of the Lower Peninsula may be brought for intensive study and such medical or operative procedures as may be necessary for their rehabilitation.

A conception of the size of the service in the Health Department on Public Health Nursing Program can be gauged by a review of some of the work performed. In the ten year period, 625,570 home visits were made on patients requiring some form of service connected with communicable diseases, tuberculosis, prenatal and postnatal care, infant feeding problems, crippled children, and other miscellaneous conditions. There were 114,057 diphtheria immunizations and 164,343 smallpox vaccinations. Our physicians traveled over five and one-half million miles in this decade to perform these duties. Milk, food water supply, sewage disposal, and other general inspections that would have direct bearing on preventing illness and preserving the health of children totalled 135,596.

Whittemore Takes Game From Hemlock; 19 to 13

Hemlock lost a loosely played slugfest at Whittemore last Sunday by the score of 19 to 13.

Clarence Jordan pitched for Hemlock and was wild the first two or three innings, but from the third inning he settled down and pitched good steady ball. He gave up thirteen hits, while Hemlock collected twelve hits off two Whittemore pitchers.

The team showed the need of more practice as they made a total of thirteen errors, most of which were made in the first three innings when Whittemore scored most of their runs.

Hemlock plays Harrisville at Buckhorn (formerly Tawasville) Sunday. The game starts at 2:30 and should be a much better game than the one last Sunday as the boys have had a couple of good practices this past week.

The team is all set to open their home season with a victory and would like to see all of you Hemlock fans at the Buckhorn diamond Sunday.

Ten Million Pickeral Fry Planted In Bay

Ten million pickeral fry, seven truck loads, were planted in Saginaw, bay off Tawas City, according to M. T. Coyle of this city, who was in charge of the operations. The fry was planted at various points in the bay. Five years are required to produce commercial size fish.

The fry was hatched at the Bay City hatcheries from eggs taken from fish caught in Saginaw bay this spring. Figures reveal that in the recently concluded spawning run in the bay 941,909 pounds of pickeral were taken, furnishing 11,174 quarts of pickeral eggs.

These figures compare favorably with those of previous seasons, according to Capt. Robert E. Ellsworth, who during the annual run was in charge of spawn collection and subsequent work at the state park fish hatchery.

Capt. Ellsworth's data shows that 70 so-called "hatchery fishermen" and 56 seiners and small fishermen participated in the annual collection of spawn.

Comparative figures show that in 1934 the total take of fish was 821,892 pounds, with 11,907 quarts of egg. In 1935 the fish take was 919,172½ pounds, but the collection of eggs amounted to 17,561½. This mark dropped back to 12,980½ the next year, which saw a total fish take of 851,897½ pounds. Only 7,103 quarts of eggs were collected in 1937. Despite the fact the fish take was 1,008,178 pounds.

PROCLAMATION

In a proclamation issued yesterday by Mayor John Coyle, Saturday, May 27, was designated as Poppy Day in Tawas City. The proclamation asked all citizens to observe the day by wearing a memorial poppy in honor of those who gave their lives in the World War, and to contribute for the welfare of the disabled veterans and dependents, families of veterans. It stated:

"Whereas, when the forces of ruthless autocracy committed aggressions against the United States in 1917, the best young men of this nation offered their lives in the nation's defense, and

"Whereas, among these young men were many from Tawas City, who served gallantly and sacrificed greatly in the conflict, and

"Whereas, more than one hundred thousands young American were called upon to sacrifice their lives that America might be secure as the land of liberty, justice and democracy,

"Now therefore, I, John Coyle, Mayor of the city of Tawas City, believing that the memory of their high patriotic sacrifice should be kept bright for the inspiration of their men, urge all citizens to wear their memorial flower, the poppy, on Saturday, May 27, and give for the poppy as they are able to aid the war's living victims, the disabled veterans and dependent families.

"To that purpose, I do hereby proclaim Saturday, May 27, to be Poppy Day in the city of Tawas City."
John Coyle, Mayor.

LAKE ST. WILL HAVE TWO NEW BUILDINGS

Foundation Laid for New Recreation Building Thursday

Two buildings on Lake Street in Tawas City are now in the process of construction and both will make valuable additions to our business district. A super-service station on the bay side of Lake at Whittemore street owned by Hugo Groff, of Detroit, and Joseph Stepanski, of this city, is nearly completed, and footings have been run for the Recreation Building east of the bank building. The latter is being built for Charles Moeller. Alfred Boomer is the contractor for both buildings. The cement blocks will be furnished by the Mueller Products company of this city.

The super-service station now nearly completed is 24 feet x 30 feet, one story high. It is of cement block construction, with round corners, and will be finished in white cement stucco. The building was erected at an ample distance from the street for convenient service and parking. This required a large fill. The station will have all new modern equipment.

Charles Moeller revealed to-day that the new recreation building, now under construction, will be built large enough for six bowling alleys. It will be 39 feet wide and 120 feet long. This building will be constructed of cement blocks, with round corners, and finished with stucco. It will have an ultra modern front. The building will be equipped with the latest heating and ventilation devices.

The new recreation building when completed by the first of September, will be one of the finest equipped bowling alleys in Northern Michigan. Four new alleys will be installed, two more may be added later. The interior of the building will be attractively arranged and there will be ample room for players and spectators. The equipment will include tobacco and cigars, and candy counters for the convenience of the patrons.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Radio, automobiles, airplanes, moving pictures and virtually all the other technical ten-strikes of the modern world came in between the first and second Chicago world's fairs. About all that is brand new at the New York World's fair is television, which took its bow with a telecast at the inaugural ceremonies.

Unlike Britain's garret inventor, John Logie Baird, Allen B. Du Mont, putting his by-line on the new television set, came along through the "channels" in which promising young technicians are grooved these days. Out of Rensselaer Polytechnic institute in 1923, he was employed as a tube engineer with the Westinghouse company in Bloomfield, N. J., until 1937, when he became chief engineer of the De Forest Radio company. But, when he caught the television germ, he did just what Baird did, the only difference being that he holed up in a cellar instead of an attic.

It was in 1931 that he quit a good job to play a hunch. The hunch was that the cathode ray was the joker in the flickering television deck. So he dived into his basement, built his laboratory and stayed underground until he was ready to come up with a cathode-ray tube which is pretty nearly the works in television.

In 1937, Mr. Du Mont rounded up some capital and built a sizable two-story laboratory at Montclair, N. J., employing 42 men. By 1938, Paramount pictures had declared itself in a big way, and, at last accounts, Mr. Du Mont's enterprise was virtually a subsidiary of this corporation. That is interesting in view of the fact that, in England, they already are televising events for the moving picture screen. It is indicated that the Du Mont rig may be subject to the same development.

COL. EDWARD STARLING, who confers with Albert Canning, chief constable of Scotland Yard, about guarding the British king and queen on their visit here, is an American of the "Deadwood Dick" tradition which the British like to think is typical of this country—a long, lean, reserved, tight-lipped Kentuckian, with a sombrero, the guardian of five Presidents, camera-eyed and a crack pistol shot. He will be there when their majesties go to the White House, but he will not be conspicuous. He merges with the scenery like a chameleon.

He saved Clemenceau's life during the Paris peace conference. Guarding Woodrow Wilson, he rode in an automobile immediately behind the "Tiger's" car. He saw an assassin level a gun. Shooting from the hip in a lightning draw, he cracked the killer's wrist.

He is the one man the President has to obey, an advance man who interviews police, maitres d'hotel, transportation officials and chefs, even editing menus, and, on occasion, speeches, if they indicate too much of a tax on the President's receptive energies.

At 17, he was a deputy sheriff of Hopkinsville, Ky. As a special agent for the railroads, he touched off his first national headlines by trapping the "California Kid," a desperate murderer who had long eluded capture. President Theodore Roosevelt gave him special assignments which routed him into the White House secret service detail in 1913. In 1935, he became head of the detail, which congress had authorized after assassination of President McKinley.

He is six feet tall, gaunt and serious, graying now, the better to fade into the crowd.

JOHN R. STEELMAN, the government's special mediator in the Appalachian soft coal dispute, was once a "blanket stuffer," riding the rods with the hoboes to get from Arkansas to the western wheat fields.

There, in the post-war boom days, he earned $9 a day and invested his savings in a Henderson college A. B., a Vanderbilt M. A. and a University of North Carolina Ph. D. Heading the government conciliation service, he smoothed out 4,231 labor disputes, involving 1,618,409 workers, in the 1938 fiscal year. He was an Arkansas farm boy, working the southern logging camps. He is tall and dark, and friendly and easy-going in manner.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Tax Revision Brought to Fore By Administration Objection Over Huge Farm Appropriation

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

CONGRESS: Spend, Tax, Save

Excess spending was the complaint of U. S. Chamber of Commerce members at their annual convention. This has also been congress' complaint against President Roosevelt. A few days after the Chamber adjourned, Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins returned from a Potomac cruise with the President to radiate optimism, pooh-poo the Chamber's complaints and plump for another year's spending as "essential."

Almost as he spoke the senate passed a record agriculture appropriations bill which totaled $1,218,000,000 (compared with the President's budget estimate of $842,126,051). Restored were $225,000,000 in parity payments to growers of wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco and rice, earlier shelved by the house. Added was a $113,000,000 item for disposal of surplus commodities, and an extra $25,000,000 to the original $24,984,000 estimate for a farm tenancy program.

If the senate thought Mr. Hopkins' spending plea meant a green light from the White House, it soon learned otherwise. At his press conference the President rebuked congress for breaking its promise to levy new taxes to meet out-of-pocket costs. Recalled was last session's $212,000,000 farm parity appropriation for which no revenues were provided. Chimed in Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau: "The bill . . . disturbs me greatly. I think that if they are going to add . . . to the present deficit, it should be up to congress to meet the increase . . . It's about time we began tapering off."

Probable upshot is that the farm appropriations squabble will force consideration this session of two issues treated superficially thus far, namely, economy and tax revision. Said Georgia's Sen. Richard B. Russell, floor leader for the farm bill: "I am strongly opposed to singling out the farm program as the only one which must be reduced, or for which we must levy new taxes . . . I am willing to economize, but not solely at the expense of the farmer."

Since the President opposes new levies on small taxpayers, tax revision (probably the price congress with Polish Foreign Minister Josef Beck. Upshot was a lessening of Polish suspicion. Next day the Soviet proposed a four-power (Russia, France, Poland and Britain) mutual assistance pact to safeguard European peace. Reason: Hitler's denunciation of pacts with Poland and Britain have made a new "peace front" imperative.

Vatican. Pope Pius XII, himself a one-time ace diplomat, had his papal nuncios to Britain, Poland, France, Italy and Germany invite for another year's spending as "essential."

VLADIMAR POTEKIN Poland grew less suspicious.

those nations to a conference over the Polish-German question. Though shunned because (1) anti-Axis nations feared it would mean a new Munich appeasement conference, and (2) anti-God Russia was not invited to participate in a discussion which vitally concerns her, the proposal nevertheless brought one possible ray of hope: Hitler and Mussolini rejected it because they believed the European situation not sufficiently serious to endanger peace. The Vatican thought this might mean Hitler does not intend to precipitate trouble right now.

Scandinavia. Foreign ministers of Denmark, Norway, Finland and Sweden apparently rejected proffered non-aggression treaties with Germany. Such pacts are still possible, but by their reluctance Scandinavian states remain a bulwark of neutrality which obviously wants no truck with Der Fuehrer.

Japan. Often reiterated the past month has been Japan's reluctance to turn its anti-Communist pact with Germany and Italy into a military alliance. Reason: Japan wants no war with democracies, which would inevitably result if a new Russ-British-French-Polish entente were to fight Hitler.

PEOPLE:

Charlie Again

One summer day in 1874 curly-headed four-year-old Charles Ross and his brother were taken for a ride by two men who promised them Fourth of July fireworks. Charlie's brother was found a few days later but Charlie himself was never found despite 23 ransom letters demanding $20,000 for his release. The best clue was lost when two burglars were shot five months later on Long Island. One, Joseph Douglas, gasped before he died that his dead partner had helped him steal Charlie Ross.

Since then hundreds of abandoned children have been identified as Charlie Ross, but this spring a new candidate arose in Gustav Blair, 65-year-old carpenter at Phoenix, Ariz. Blair claimed his traits and appearance resembled Charlie Ross. Lincoln C. Miller, whose family reared Blair, testified his (Miller's) father had told him Blair was a kidnapped child, that he had guarded the four-year-old child in a cave.

After deliberating eight minutes, a Superior court jury at Phoenix decided on the basis of this testimony that Charlie Ross had been "found." At 65, the horny handed carpenter looked to radio and film contracts.

FORECAST

—By Democratic Statistician Emil Hurja, that on basis of current standing Vice President Garner and New York's Tom Dewey will win Democratic and Republican presidential nominations next year, provided President Roosevelt seeks no third term. Meanwhile, a Gallup poll gave Dewey 54 per cent of all Republican votes.

—By Washington gossip, appointment of Francis B. Sayre, assistant secretary of state, as Philippine high commissioner to succeed Paul V. McNutt, Democratic presidential aspirant.

—Also by Washington gossip, mid-summer resignation of Richard C. Patterson, assistant secretary of commerce, to enter either utility field or motion picture industry.

POLITICS: GOP Liberalism

Though U. S. political power swings pendulum-like from conservatism to liberalism and back again, there is a long-run trend to liberalism. New Deal liberalism will probably be followed by Republican conservatism, but no alert Republican believes his party can win by junking all New Deal reforms and going back to the theories of Coolidge and Hoover days.

A good sample of progressive G. O. P. thinking is that of Minnesota's youthful Gov. Harold Stassen who, according to Dr. Glenn Frank of the party's program committee, believes something like this:

Republicans should accept much of the New Deal's social legislation, first auditing the New Deal's results and soliciting constructive statements regarding G. O. P. philosophy on political and economic problems. Though believing farmers "are ready to repudiate the New Deal," Mr. Stassen warns that the party cannot favor any individual clique like farm, business or labor groups.

Stassen on the 1940 convention: "It is very important that delegates represent genuinely and honestly the sentiment of their states. They should not just be a delegation picked by political bosses. Among them should be some youngsters; some real farmers, real workers."

WHITE HOUSE: Plan No. 2

Legalized by the newly passed governmental reorganization bill, President Roosevelt's No. 1 federal shakeup (effective June 24) created new agencies for public works, lending and welfare. Plan No. 2 followed quickly, a roundup of long-misplaced bureaus whose abolition or consolidation the President believes will save $1,250,000 yearly.

Its most significant feature: Abolition of the unique national emergency council and transfer of its major functions to the President. An immense elaboration of ex-President Hoover's famed "Secretariat," NEC has been and will remain a sensitive, nationally organized ear-to-the-ground device whereby the Chief Executive can keep his finger on the public pulse. Its 38 state administrators will probably be retained. Its director, Lowell Mellett, will probably be named one of six presidential assistants with a "passion for anonymity."

Other changes (with former affiliations parenthesized):

To COMMERCE: Inland waterways commission (War); to AGRICULTURE: Rural electrification administration (independent); to JUSTICE: Federal Prison Industries, Inc., and national training school for boys (independent); to NATIONAL ARCHIVES: Codification board (independent, to be abolished).

To INTERIOR: Coal commission (independent, to be abolished); bureau of insular affairs (War); bureau of fisheries (Commerce); biological survey (Agriculture), and Mt. Rushmore memorial commission (independent, to be placed in Interior's park service).

To STATE: Foreign commerce service (Commerce); foreign agricultural service (Agriculture), and foreign service buildings commission (independent). To TREASURY: Bureau of lighthouses (Commerce), to be placed under Treasury's coast guard; director general of railroads and War Finance corporation (independent, both to be dissolved).

Expected soon is Plan No. 3, probably shifting jurisdiction over deportable aliens from labor to justice departments, and ironing out jurisdictional overlapping concerning public lands.

ASIA: Up the River

Twenty-two months ago China's capital was Nanking. Japanese aggression pushed it westward up the Yangtze to Hankow, next backward into Szechwan province and the ancient walled city of Chungking. Playing a retreating game, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek knows that the deeper he can draw Japan into his bailiwick, the easier will China's resistance be.

CHINA AND HER CAPITALS Japan is prepared to follow.

But Generalissimo Chiang did not expect what happened next.

Into Chungking (normally 635,000 population) swarmed 1,500,000 refugees, in itself a grave problem. Then one day 45 Japanese war planes swarmed over Chungking, dropping incendiary bombs and demolishers, more than 100 in all. When the smoke cleared China could count 5,000 casualties, a ruined capital and temporarily blasted morale. Germany and Britain found their embassies destroyed. For all concerned it seemed best to move the capital-on-wheels again, this time 150 miles northeast into Chengtu, whose normal half million population will automatically double overnight.

Peace-loving Chengtu might well regard this official invasion as a death sentence. General Chiang probably hopes an off-the-river capital may break his bad luck jinx, but Tokyo thinks otherwise. Despite British protests that Chungking's bombing was purely terroristic and without a definite military objective, Nippon's warriors announced their death planes were prepared to follow China's capital wherever it may roam.

U. S. Colleges Revive Traditions As Alumni Return to Campus

May and June are commencement months on every U. S. college campus, a period when alumni return to their former stamping ground and endeared traditions are revived. One typical tradition is illustrated at the right, where Helen Deer and Maxine Laughlin smoke the "pipe of peace" at the University of Kansas commencement. Every member of the graduating class does it, sending up in smoke all grievances students may have nurtured during their college careers. Thus they all leave on friendly terms—supposedly.

At many colleges returning alumni turn youngsters once more to participate in class fights or engage students in athletic contests. Typical is the above scene at the University of Pennsylvania, where graduates of the class of 1923 last year had a pants fight as part of the alumni day observance.

At Annapolis, graduates of the U. S. naval academy toss away their midshipmen's hats after receiving diplomas, symbolic of embarkation on a new life.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells. Get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a good general system tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. WELL WORTH TRYING!

Powerful Telescopes Manufactured in $20 Plant

By L. L. STEVENSON

Creepy: A friend of Paul Wing's told him this tale as a true story: The friend, with several companions, was driving toward Westchester. A woman thumbed a ride. Ordinarily, he pays no attention to hitchhikers but as the woman looked weary and destitute, he gave her a lift. After riding for some time, the passenger announced that she had reached her destination. The only way she could repay the courtesy extended her, she said, was by telling the fortune of one of the women in the car. None cared to have her palm read, however. Then the woman announced: "I will make a prophecy. If you carry a corpse in this car before midnight, Hitler will be dead before the first of May." All laughed at the prediction. On the way home that night, a policeman stopped the car and asked that an injured man be taken to a hospital. Before the hospital was reached the man died.

Financial. Mana-Zucca, blonde composer of "I Love Life" and other well-known numbers, who recently broke into swing with "Two Little Shoes," maintains a year-round home at Miami, overlooking Biscayne bay. Recently annoyed by her gardener's failure to finish seeding the lawns, she sent him a vigorous note of disapproval. The gardener showed the note to friends and was surprised to receive an offer of $5 cash for it. A second and more vigorous note followed and that was admitted severely by the composer.

"Why didn't you answer my notes?" she demanded. "I was hoping you'd send me a new one every day," was the calm answer. "They pay a lot better than gardening."

Good Deed: On the bulletin board of the Majestic theater, where that Dwight Deere Wiman smash hit, "Stars in Your Eyes," is playing, is the picture of a little Spanish boy with a sad look in his eyes. His name is Hipolito Carreras and he is 12 years old. He is an orphan of the Spanish Civil war. The reason his picture appears on the stage of a theater in New York, when there are so many thousands like him, is that the cast of "Stars in Your Eyes" has officially adopted him through the Foster Parents plan. Hipolito is at present in a refugee camp in France, near the Spanish border. He will be transferred to a regular children's colony where he will be raised and educated for useful manhood. And a salute to each and every member of the cast of "Stars in Your Eyes."

Correspondence: The Andrews sisters report that these days mash notes come from the following types of males: High school boys who like to make their girl friends jealous by displaying a letter from a celebrity; callow youths who are too backward to express their feelings and who find an outlet in writing to girls they have never met; married men who are on the outs with their wives; smart alecks who think they can play rings around a Gable in penning torrid love blurbs; ambitious lads who'd like to marry a money-making gal—and manage her affairs, and old bucks who have become tired of whittling and have taken up letter writing.

Skip It: According to the recollection of Ernie Holst, who supplies dance rhythms at the Glass Hat, Robert Morley, John Gielgud, Noel Coward, Reginald Gardiner and other noted English performers who have dropped in from time to time have always avoided the dance floor when he swung into a rhumba. It seems that some seasons ago, in one of the Cochran revues in London, there was a skit burlesquing rhumba dancers, and the English, still recalling it, are wary. At least, that is the explanation Holst got when he made inquiries.

End Piece: Night clubs featuring Hawaiian music seem to be doing a good business. To me, that's entirely understandable. It's obvious that there are plenty of folks who, even as I, are curious to find out if there is on this earth just one Hawaiian number that doesn't sound exactly like all other Hawaiian numbers.

1,560 Claim Fortune

That Napoleon Seized

PARIS.—A fortune of $1,570,850 which has been in the possession of the state of France since the days of Napoleon is claimed by 1,560 self-styled heirs from all over Europe. The fortune is that of Jean Thierry, member of an ancient Champagne family, who died in Italy. It was seized in 1796 by Napoleon when he marched into Venice and carried it to Paris, where it has since remained.

Two Miami, Fla., youths, Lynn C. Burkhart and Arthur P. Smith Jr., are operating a "factory" they built and equipped at a total cost of $20, and are turning out telescopes that have attracted the praise of Dr. G. H. Twelve inches in diameter, this mirror is very large for any but a professional attempt. Center: The mirror is studied for possible defects. It takes approximately eight months to grind the mirror. Right: Here's the finished product being inspected by Burkhart. It's ready for use in star studies.

Uncle Phil Says:

Then He Isn't One

In this world it is impossible to prove to a fool that he is one. But he finds it out himself, sometimes.

The validity of a bronze statue is seldom disputed.

Fashion Is to Be Chic

Present fashions in ladies' hats prove that it isn't always necessary in feminine hats that they be sensible.

A stranger cannot stop a barking dog by scolding it.

A rolling stone gathers no moss, but quite often one that doesn't roll accumulates nothing but mud.

Studying books may not help one to get rich, but studying men does.

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: Your books have shown me how to do so many things that I am turning to you for help. I want to make slipcovers for the living-room furniture because with three young ones the upholstery is soon going to be ruined. The job completely baffles me. I am enclosing a rough sketch of one of the chairs. Can you suggest any way that a removable cover can be made for it? B. A."

If you are prepared to make many neatly fitted openings almost any type of chair may be slipcovered. Either bindings or facings may be used to finish edges where seat and back covers are cut around arms and supports. Where there are so many openings of different lengths, snap fasteners are generally more satisfactory than zippers. If snap fastener tape is obtainable it saves time to whip it to the long edges. The narrow frill for this chair covers a curved line across the front and carving at the top of the front legs.

You can make slipcovers, all types of curtains and many other things for your home with the help of Book 1—SEWING, for the Home Decorator. FOR MORE LOADS—EXTRA YEARS
THE SPREADER WITH BEATER ON THE AXLE

THE additional years of service you get from a John Deere Spreader are due, largely, to mounting the beater on the axle—the famous patented feature of construction which has kept John Deere Spreaders out in the lead for more than 25 years.

Mounting the main beater on the axle permits building a simpler, stronger, longer-lived spreader with fewer moving parts—a spreader that's easier to load... easier to pull... that does better work... a spreader that gives you more dollar-for-dollar value.

- FEATURES
- "Knee-action" front wheels
  - Hardened steel roller drive chain
  - Roller bearings on all three beaters
  - New-type, non-wrapping spiral beater
  - Renewable axle bearings and axle sleeves
  - Steel pole and eveners

McCORMICK-DEERING Side Rake and Tedder

THIS two-in-one hay tool combines the best in a side delivery rake and a tedder. It forms a quick-curing windrow—turning the leaves inward to prevent shattering and the stems outward to get the quickest action from the sun and air.

The shift of a lever converts the McCormick-Deering from a side rake to a tedder. Another lever sets the teeth at the right slant for either operation.

Roller bearings assure light draft. The strong frame is well braced by a large truss beam over the reel. Gears are extra heavy. Teeth are securely fastened by special clips and bolts. We have this and other McCormick-Deering hay tools ready for delivery.

Too Great a Price
A laugh costs too much when bought at the expense of virtue.—Quintilian.

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of their value. Doan's Pills are the only pills that have been tested by the ablest physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions. These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for functional kidney disorder and for relief of the pain and worry it causes. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be warning of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling of puffiness around the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

Fifteen minutes later, they were entering the crowded rooms of the Club Torquay. The scent of expensive perfumes, cigarette smoke, and food in the offing, filled the place. Men in dinner coats, women in evening gowns sat around the gaming tables, while persons wishing they had seats stood behind them, watching the play.

Two seats were finally vacated, and Aunt Linnie and Mrs. Bascom hurriedly slipped into them. "Are you going to play?" Miss Cotswell asked Mary over her shoulder.

"Heavens, no!" Mary answered, and glanced across the table just in time to see two more people get up, a defeated expression on their tired faces, and Lelia and Balianci slid into their little gilt and rose-velvet chairs.

Miss Cotswell opened her evening bag, extracted a fifty dollar bill, and asked the long-faced banker for fifty one-dollar chips.

The game went on and on. The placing of new bets before each spin began! The whirl of the wheel! The bouncing of the ball—on Black—on Red—on number twenty-seven! Here, there, until it settled on the winning number.

Mrs. Bascom had lost consistently; had purchased one batch of chips after another; but Aunt Linnie, betting, as she said, "like a piker," had been fairly lucky.

Balianci, after a brief time, relinquished his seat to Mr. Bascom, and was now standing next to Mary, his moist hand encircling her elbow.

Linnie had asked her again and again if she did not wish to play; had even offered her a bunch of counters when an adjacent seat had suddenly been vacated; and again and again, Mary had firmly refused.

Eventually, however, Linnie had risen from her chair. "Listen, Mary," she whispered, "I simply have to go to the powder room. Now here are five chips for your very own. Please play them while I'm gone. Hold this seat for me, or someone'll grab it the minute I leave. Whatever you win with them is yours. Go on, darling."

Thus impromptu, Mary grudgingly took Linnie's place at the table. Everybody about her was intent upon placing chips on their chosen numbers or colors before the next turn of the wheel, but Mary, never having played roulette before, just sat there, the chips Aunt Linnie had given her clasped tightly in her hand.

"Go on and play," Mrs. Bascom whispered. "They don't like it when people just sit around doing nothing."

The "guests" were again placing their bets on numbers or colors; and rousing herself to action, Mary dropped just one of her five chips on Black. Again the croupier spun his wheel, and the ball dropped on Red; bounced out and landed on another Red; fitfully leaped out and settled itself comfortably on Black. "You've won!" hissed Mrs. Bascom, who had again placed her chips on a losing number. "Leave it there! It's worth two dollars now."

"Just leave it?" Mary inquired breathlessly.

"Of course! Leave it on Black."

Again the croupier spun his wheel. Again Black won.

"It's worth four dollars now," said Mrs. Bascom. "Black's evidently your lucky color!"

"Oh, but maybe it won't win again! Perhaps I'd better try a number now!"

"Faites votre jeu!" admonished the croupier coldly, and before Mary had time to do anything at all, his wheel had again been turned, and her four dollars' worth of chips had remained, willy-nilly, on Black.

Again the bouncing of the ball here and there—and again Black won. "Mary! This is uncanny! Leave it there, darling. Your chips are now worth eight dollars!"

"But it can't go on this way!" Mary demurred. "I ought to stop now, or place those chips on something else!"

"Well, do as you like, but I'm switching to Black."

Mary grabbed her chips and looked about the table in search of a magic number. "My birthday's the fourth of April," she told Mrs. Bascom. "I'm playing number four this time. Eight dollars on number four!"

The wheel spun. The ball bounced here and there. "You'll be sorry," Mrs. Bascom whispered. "Black'll win! I'm playing on your luck, Mary—fifty dollars' worth of chips!"

The ball was still bouncing. Then, with a spasmodic jerk, it rose in the air, and fell with a brittle thud on number four. "I won again!" Mary cried, turning around and looking at Aunt Linnie. "How much is it now, Umberto?"

Balianci removed a cigarette from his mouth. "Two hundred and eighty dollars, fearata, not counting the eight dollars you played."

"Two hundred and eighty dollars!" Mary exclaimed. "Well, it is time for me to stop!"

"Don't you dare!" cried Mrs. Bascom, grabbing a fifty dollar bill from her purse, and signaling the banker for more chips. "Play just once more, Mary. If you win this time, you'll really get something worth while."

"Faites votre jeu!" the croupier commanded icily.

"I want my chips, please," Mary hastily informed the assistant croupier nearest at hand; and, with a quick motion of the man's rake, her winnings were deftly deposited in front of her.

Mary sat back in her chair in a state of helpless indecision, casting an almost angry look at Mrs. Bascom. "If only that woman would stop urging me on," she told herself, "I might be able to figure this thing out."

The phrase "Two hundred and eighty dollars . . . Two hundred and eighty dollars!" whirled dizzily around in her mind. "How much that would mean to Dad! Yet, how wonderful it would be to double it!"

It was unthinkable, of course, that she should risk one cent of those two hundred and eighty dollars. But why not take one last chance, win or lose, with the eight one-dollar chips?

Before she could act on this decision, however, the wheel had again been set in motion, and the croupier was now calling out, "Rien ne va plus!"

Mary leaned forward, determined not to be caught napping on the next spin. She would have her chips ready when the croupier again gave notice. Suddenly, she realized that she was still gripping in her left hand four of those five original chips which had been Aunt Linnie's gift to her, and, with a feeling of complete abandon, she added them to her prospective stake. "One more play!" she told herself sternly. "Twelve dollars! Win or lose!"

"Faites votre jeu!" came the command.

Mary placed her final bet on number twenty-two. "That's my age," she told Balianci. "Maybe it'll bring me even more luck!"

The croupier turned the wheel, and with enchanted eyes, she saw it go around again and again. The ball now clicked on to four; bounced out; now dropped into number seven; popped out! Now it bounced up again and then, incredibly enough, settled on number twenty-two.

"You've won again, Mary!" Balianci almost shouted. "Four hundred and twenty dollars!"

Mary jumped from her chair. "I'm through!" she announced to the table at large, and the croupier in particular. "Take my chips off! I'm going to cash them!"

"Piker!" jibed Mrs. Bascom. "I don't care if I am," Mary retorted. "I'd be a fool not to quit now."

"Yes, you would, Mary," Aunt Linnie, who had just returned from the powder room, agreed in a low voice. "Cash in!"

"I want my chips cashed," Mary told the banker, and her voice trembled with excitement.

"Oh, Aunt Linnie," Mary breathed, "isn't it just too miraculous?"

"Yes, darling," Linnie replied. "I'm very happy for you." Then, turning to Mrs. Bascom and to Balianci, whose swarthy face was as blank as the croupier's, "We'll see you later in the foyer!"

"All right," Mrs. Bascom replied. "I'm nearly through."

Balianci bowed, but said nothing. "Come on into the powder room, Mary," Aunt Linnie murmured, "to count your winnings, and—regain your equilibrium."

"I must have won about seven hundred dollars," Mary whispered as they made their way through the crowded room. "But, Aunt Linnie, it really belongs to you. It was your money I played with."

"Fiddlesticks!" said Miss Cotswell. "I gave you those five counters, and it was your own good luck that made them win."

"Then," said Mary, "you must, at least, take half. If you hadn't given them to me, I'd never have played."

"Hush!" commanded Miss Cotswell. "Not another word out of you about my sharing your little fortune. Every dime of it is yours! Here's the powder room. Come in and freshen up. You look as if you'd been in a cyclone."

In the meantime, Lelia, having lost all that she had intended to play, now relinquished her chair to the gaunt old man who had been standing behind her for the past half hour. Balianci appeared at her side immediately. There was a frown between his brows, and his dark eyes smoldered. "May I have a word with you, Mrs. Ormsby?" he asked, his voice so thick and foreign she could hardly understand him.

She glanced at him sharply. Had the man been drinking? "But no," she told herself, "he couldn't have. He's been right in this room ever since we got here." Aloud, she said, "If you like."

"Let us move into the foyer," he suggested. "I must ask you something."

Without a word, Lelia made for the foyer, Balianci at her heels. Once there, she turned about and confronted him. "Well," she said coldly, "what do you want?"

"It is this," he began in a low voice. "Why is Mary so extremely excited over winning a few hundred dollars? She acts as if she had gone mad with joy."

"Well, why shouldn't she?" Lelia countered. "Seven hundred dollars are not to be sniffed at by anybody, particularly Mary. She needs that money, Balianci, and she needs it badly."

The Italian looked stunned. "But how can it mean so much to her if she is an heiress?"

Lelia did not attempt to veil the disdain that she felt for the man. "And where did you get the idea that Mary was an heiress?"

Balianci spread his long thin hands, the palms pointing to heaven. "But she is Miss Cotswell's niece! Miss Linnie Cotswell's own niece! She dresses exquisitely. She leads a life of luxury!"

Lelia regarded Balianci for one long, burning moment. "So, that's why you proposed to Mary," she finally said. "I might have known you had some ulterior motive. Everybody knows you're a fortune hunter! A gigolo!"

"Perhaps it would be better to say opportunist, Mrs. Ormsby."

Lelia regarded his smiling face as if it were something venomous. "It's very fortunate for Mary that you've discovered so soon—she isn't a moneybag for you to marry."

"You mean, then, she has nothing? Absolutely nothing?"

"Yes, I mean just that. Mary's father is a lawyer in a small town. Mary worked in a book shop until she came to New York to be the guest of her aunt. And, by the way, Miss Cotswell is probably not half as rich as you think. Besides, she expects to enjoy a very happy life for many years to come; and what's more, I don't know that Mary would be her heir—even were Miss Cotswell to die tomorrow."

"Unfortunately," purred Balianci. "Very unfortunate. I am crushed."

"Oh, I guess not!" Lelia retorted. "In fact, I think you'll survive very happily. I might even recommend something to speed your recovery."

"And that is?" Balianci murmured.

"What's so funny?" Lelia inquired drowsily.

"I couldn't very well be asleep after that wild peal of merriment you just let forth! What's it all about, anyhow?"

"That you book passage on the Iroquois sailing for Havana tomorrow noon! I happen to know that Mrs. Ulmstead, widow of the soap-flakes potentate, and her two homely, but, oh, so well-endowed daughters, are listed among the passengers."

"Ah, Mrs. Ormsby! How you wrong me! How can you think . . . ?" Lelia pushed past him, her head high, her face flaming. "Good night, Count Balianci. You'd better run along now. You haven't a moment to lose."

A second later, she joined Linnie and Mary in the powder room. Mrs. Bascom, having lost three hundred dollars, had finally left the roulette table, and was there, too.

"Balianci's not feeling well, Mary," Lelia said. "He's asked to be excused."

"Oh, all right," Mary replied, thinking, "Maybe, with this nest-egg to see Dad and Mother along for a while, I won't have to marry Balianci or anybody! I'll tell him tomorrow that I've changed my mind. Of course, it was never made up! He simply took things for granted. Oh, thank heavens, this happened! Aunt Linnie says she won't take a cent of the money—that I earned it all—that every bit of it is mine. Seven hundred and twelve dollars. What a windfall at this time! I'll send Dad a money-order for six hundred and twenty-five of it tomorrow. Maybe I'd better send him more, yet with Aunt Linnie going away and my being left on my own, I really believe I'd better hold out the remaining eighty-seven in case of an emergency!"

Mary woke early the next morning, her mind filled with happy thoughts of the money she had won at the Club Torquay. She wondered just how soon she'd dare get up and speed to the nearest branch post-office. She wanted to get a money-order off to her father as quickly as possible. She wanted, too, to send a note by special delivery to Balianci. She must tell him at once that her apparent acquiescence to his proposal of marriage, the night before, had been a mistake; that she did not love him; that she could not go through with the thing.

Suddenly, the door into the hall opened softly, and Addie's face appeared in the wedge. Mary raised her hand as a signal to be quiet, but Addie tiptoed in, holding up to view a Western Union envelope; quietly approached Mary's bed, and, without a word, dropped it on the coverlet. Then, just as soundlessly, she made her way to the door and closed it behind her.

Mary hoisted herself to a sitting position, and hastily removed the message from its envelope. It was signed, she noted at once, "Umberto Balianci," and it read:

FORGIVE ME MY DEAR BUT I FEEL I SPOKE IN HASTE LAST NIGHT AND THAT OUR PLANS HAD BEST BE FORGOTTEN STOP AM SAILING FOR HAVANA TODAY ON THE IROQUOIS.

Mary slowly reread the message; then, forgetting that Lelia was asleep; forgetting everything except that this was quite the funniest thing that had ever happened to her, she burst into laughter.

"What's so funny?" Lelia inquired drowsily.

"I couldn't very well be asleep after that wild peal of merriment you just let forth! What's it all about, anyhow?"

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for May 21

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education, used by permission.

BEVERAGE ALCOHOL AND THE HOME

LESSON TEXT—Jeremiah 35:5-10; Ephesians 5:15-21; 6:1-4
GOLDEN TEXT—Do not drink wine nor strong drink, thou, nor thy sons with thee.—Leviticus 10:9.

A home is more than a house, and yet people live as though it were not true. They build attractive houses, fill them with comfortable furnishings, and think they have a home, no matter how they may live. God is forgotten, pleasure becomes the chief object in life, and money is desired because it buys pleasure. Intoxicants are freely used both outside and inside the home, apparently with no thought of their destructive influence.

Alcohol burned in a stove produces heat, in an engine it produces power, in a man it produces disgrace and disease, and in the home it produces sorrow, suffering, and ultimately destruction. Why should the decent and intelligent people of America supinely submit to the devastation of this juggernaut, the liquor traffic? What are you doing about it?

The lesson for today presents three factors which make for happiness in the home.

I. Loyalty to Family Standards (Jer. 35:5-10)

When the traditional standards of a family are good and right in the sight of God, they afford a worthy rallying point for the younger generation. The Rechabites were obedient to the instructions of their forefathers. The prophet had subjected them to a test (not a temptation, for he did not expect them to fall) in the presence of the Jews and in the great city of Jerusalem. They were surrounded by the unaccustomed luxury and temptations of the city, and now the prophet tries them further by saying, "Drink ye wine." But they were not afraid to be thought old-fashioned or queer, for they knew that the customs of their fathers were good (see Jer. 6:16), and they stood by them.

To depend on that which is good and noble in the past of our people or family, is a sign neither of weakness nor ignorance, but rather of wisdom and strength. What kind of family standards will your boy and mine look back to? What of the little baby who lay in his buggy while the young mother helped her husband pick out the bottle of whisky in the store window which he then went in and bought? When I see such things my heart burns within me against this wicked business which destroys all of the finest in men and in their homes.

II. Accuracy in Daily Living (Eph. 5:15-21)

"The Greek word rendered 'circumspectly' (v. 15) may be more closely and simply rendered 'accurately.' The thought given is that of painstaking attention to details, under a sense of their importance; a remembrance not only in general but in particular of the duties of the Christian's walk" (Moule).

Every phrase in this section of our lesson is overflowing with meaning but we cannot here refer to them all. Note the temperance application. The man who walks accurately will be "wise" (v. 15) and will "be filled with the Spirit" (v. 18). The inaccurate walker is a "fool" (v. 15), and one of his follies may be in being "drunk with wine" (v. 18). But there is far more in this passage. Spirit-filled people know the will of God and therefore redeem the time. They cultivate that delightful spiritual exercise of home religion known as hymn singing. Have you tried that lately? Gather the family or friends around the organ or piano. Turn off the ever-present radio for a few minutes. Open the old hymn book and sing. Don't overlook thankfulness in verse 20, and then try that golden recipe.

III. Unity in the Home (Eph. 6:1-4)

A united family is obviously impossible where one member or more gives his time and money and very life to booze. You know and I know that it just does not work. Think of the havoc thus wrought not only in the lives of the parents, but particularly in the lives and characters of the children.

Let Christ reign in the home and there will be unity. Children will realize that it is right to obey their godly parents. They will honor and cherish father and mother, and God will reward them for it (vv. 2, 3; also Exod. 20:12). But what is more, fathers will be wise enough not to provoke their children to wrath. Much of the trouble in our homes is caused by disobedient children, but sometimes I think even more of it is caused by unwise parents. The children need nurture and admonition, but that can be done in kindness and with constructive results if we seek the Lord's help. Father, mother, let me plead with you that you permit no interest in business, social life, or even church work to come between you and your fellowship with your children. That is your biggest job and your greatest opportunity.

With Approach of Warm Weather, C. Houston Goudiss Advises Extra Care in Storing Foods in the Home

By C. HOUSTON GOUDISS

IT IS the proud distinction of America's food industries that notwithstanding the infinite variety of perishable foods which are constantly available, and regardless of the distances they have been transported, even the most delicate foods are delivered to the consumer in a fresh, wholesome condition, with all their fine flavor unimpaired.

The secret of this modern miracle is refrigeration. Vast sums of money have been invested in long trains of refrigerated cars, thousands upon thousands of refrigerated trucks, refrigerated warehouses and refrigeration equipment in stores. All this has been done for a single purpose: to keep food fresh and at its best until it reaches the home.

At this point the responsibility shifts to the homemaker. And if she falls down on her job, then all previous efforts to keep food free from spoilage have been in vain.

Homemaker's Responsibility

As guardian of her family's health, one of the homemaker's most important tasks is to see to it that all food is safeguarded against contamination until it reaches her table. This means that perishable foods must continue to be refrigerated properly in the home. For only in this way can they be protected from the ravages of micro-organisms which are always ready to attack foods when conditions are favorable for their growth.

Two essentials are necessary for satisfactory food preservation in the home. First, perishable foods must be stored at a temperature of from 40 to 45 degrees Fahrenheit—never at a temperature higher than 50 degrees.

Second, the right degree of humidity must be maintained. Too much moisture will encourage the growth of bacteria; too little will dehydrate fruits and vegetables and make them unfit for consumption.

Home Care of Foods

Both requirements are met by a good household refrigerator; and the homemaker who appreciates the importance of keeping foods sound and wholesome will regard an efficient refrigerator as an investment in good health. It is especially necessary that the food supply be properly refrigerated during the warmer weather of spring and summer, in order to prevent the consumption of dishes that may have become contaminated without any marked alteration in appearance, taste or odor.

Highly Perishable Foods

Milk is often regarded as the most perishable of all foods, because it is an ideal medium for the growth of bacteria. It is, therefore, essential that this splendid food be kept at low temperatures at all times. It should be put into the refrigerator as soon as possible.

Other types of protein foods also present a favorable medium for bacterial growth when they are held at temperatures higher than 50 degrees. These include meat, fish, meat broths, gelatin, custards and creamed foods. It is advisable to keep these foods, as well as the milk supply, in the coldest part of the refrigerator.

Fruits and vegetables soon lose their moisture content unless they are protected against warm, dry air; and they are likewise subject to the action of micro-organisms which result in decay. But when stored in a modern refrigerator, these mineral- and vitamin-rich foods can be kept in perfect condition for considerable periods, thus making it possible to take advantage of favorable market offerings.

Guarding Against Mold

As a rule, warmer weather also increases the problem of combating molds. For given moisture and warmth, molds will grow on almost anything. However, the most hospitable hosts are acid fruits, such as oranges, lemons, berries or tomatoes; sweets, such as jams and jellies; bread and meat. While molds are physiologically harmless if eaten, they definitely spoil the taste and appearance of food.

Mold growths can be killed by boiling. They are retarded by the dry circulating air of an efficient refrigerator. It is to allow for air circulation that berries should be stored uncovered—if possible, spread out so that the air can reach more than just the top layer.

Frequent inspection of all food supplies, including those in the bread box, and the prompt elimination of any items showing signs of mold, will help to keep it from spreading.

Constant vigilance on the part of the homemaker in caring for foods on hand will avoid a needless drain on the food budget and will safeguard the health of every member of the family.

Onion Odor.—A little mustard rubbed into the hands after peeling onions, will remove the disagreeable odor.

Mice Avoid Camphor.—Pieces of gum camphor placed near books on the shelves will protect them from mice.

Refrigerator Deodorant.—Put a piece of charcoal on one of the shelves of the refrigerator. It acts as an absorbent for all odors and purifies the air.

Hot Water Marks.—Should you spill hot water on a polished table and it leaves a mark, rub it gently with spirits of camphor and finish off with a gentle rubbing of furniture polish.

Make Shakers Work.—To keep the metal tops of salt shakers from corroding, cover the inside with melted paraffine. While the paraffine is cooling the holes may be opened with a pin.

Easy on the Curtains.—Before washing net or lace curtains, steep overnight in a tub of cold water to which has been added half a cupful of ammonia. This draws out the dirt without soap and rubbing. Next morning rinse the curtains and squeeze through warm suds.

Waste Tea.—Pour left-over tea into a bottle, add a drop or two of glycerine, and use for cleaning windows.

Brightening Chinaware.—Discolored china or any other crockery ware can be freed of discoloration marks by applying a solution of salt and vinegar.

Isn't This Why You Are Constipated?

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? White bread, meat, potatoes? It's little wonder you're constipated. You probably don't eat enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It's a kind of food that forms a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a movement. If this is your trouble, may we suggest a crunchy toasted cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—for breakfast. All-Bran is a natural food, not a medicine—but it's particularly rich in "bulk." Being so, it can help you not only to get regular but to keep regular. You won't have to endure constipation, you can avoid it. Eat All-Bran daily, drink plenty of water, and life will be brighter for you! Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

IT'S IN THE NEWS!

There are two classes of news in these columns every week: (1) Interesting stories about events all over the world; and (2) the advertisements. Yes, the advertisements are news, and in many ways the most important of all, because they affect you more directly and personally than any other.

A new and better method of refrigeration is devised—and you learn about it through advertisements. Improvements are added to automobiles which make them safer than ever—again advertisements carry the story. Styles change in clothing—and advertisements rush the news to your doorstep. A manufacturer finds a way to lower the price on his products—he advertises to tell you about the savings.

You'll find that it pays to follow this news every week. Reading the advertisements is the sure way to keep abreast of the world... to learn of new commodities and conveniences... to get full money's worth for every dollar you spend.

School Notes

HIGH SCHOOL

Along with the study of Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar," the English I class made maps of the Roman territory. Among the best ones were those made by Roger Earl, Corrine Fahselt, Ruth Herriman and Rosetta Lorenze.

The English II class has studied a unit of poems expressing individual moods. The class wrote original poems which were read in class. Harold Ross, Helen Deanne Galliker, Marian Musolf and Irene Cuniff wrote very good poems.

The Latin I class made posters. A very clever one was made by Marian Musolf.

Through an error in last week's paper, the names of four students who were on the honor roll for the month of April were omitted. The ten students who were on the honor roll are: Ruth Clark, Dorothy Herriman, Ruth Herriman, John Katterman, Janet McLean, Marion Musolf, Norma Musolf, Emma Lou Pfahl, Harold Ross and Otto Ross.

The recent public hearing in regard to state aid for schools, which was held before the Education Committee of the Michigan Senate, was well attended. The crowd jammed the Senate Chamber and overflowed into the corridors of the Capitol. Veteran legislators estimated the crowd to be the largest to attend a public hearing in their experience with the legislature.

This week closes the ninth month of the school year. Report cards will be handed out Wednesday of next week.

The high school baseball team defeated the Oscoda high school team at the local diamond Friday by the score of 11 to four.

SEVENTH and EIGHTH GRADES
The seventh grade arithmetic class are having an interesting time trying to find the area and volume of cylinders.

Roy Landon was absent Monday because of a sprained foot.

The eighth grade are still diagramming sentences in English. Maybe in time we will learn where adjective and adverbial phrases belong.

Much interest is shown in reading the poems of one of Michigan's poets, "Will Carleton." Some of the favorites are: "Betsy and I are Out," "Gone with a Handsome Man," and "The New Church Organ." The interest in this poet was ceated through the study of Michigan history.

FIFTH and SIXTH GRADES
Ruth Ulman brought a beautiful bouquet of trilliums.

The fifth grade has a new set of science readers entitled "Discovering Our World."

Matilda Scholz has the mumps. A dictionary called "The Living Language Dictionary" has been added to our library.

The sixth grade language class is memorizing the poem "The Throstle" by Alfred Lord Tennyson.

PRIMARY
We are beginning a book of flowers. We have pressed several kinds and are learning flower names. We hope to include in our books, besides flower pictures, other spring pictures we can make or clip from magazines.

We will be glad when Louis Pfeiffer can get back to school.

All who took part in the P. T. A. program Thursday evening seemed to enjoy it. We enjoy our rhythm band. We are also planning to enjoy the books we shall get because we won the prize for parents attending.

Card of Thanks
We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness during our recent bereavement. Also for the beautiful flowers.
N. H. DeLand and family.

Why not enjoy the peace of mind and security provided by a sound policy in a stock fire insurance company.

Consumers Will Adopt Forty-Hour Week

Adoption of the 40-hour week for office and clerical employees of Consumers Power Company was announced today by Division Manager Samuel Ball.

About 3,200 employees are affected. The company's service area includes most of the lower peninsula outside of Detroit and the Thumb areas. Operating employees are already observing the 40-hour week.

The new working schedule for office and clerical employees will become effective next week.

"Office and clerical employees have been working 44 hours a week," Mr. Ball said. "Henceforth they will receive the same compensation for working only 40 hours."

To the greatest extent consistent with the company's obligations of rendering a satisfactory service to the public, the 40-hour work-week will consist of five eight-hour periods, from Monday to Friday inclusive, from 8:00 a. m. to 5:00 p. m."

The Tawas City office will remain open Saturdays and will be in charge of the salesmen, to permit our customers to make service applications and purchase appliances.

Discounts on bills due Saturday but which are not paid on that day will be allowed the following Monday. Mr. Ball emphasized that the change will not effect Consumers' continuous trouble service or special service in emergencies.
