The Tawas City baseball team ad-vanced to second plcce in the division standings with a 3 to 2 Victory over standings with a 3 to 2 Victory over Prescott last Sunday on the latter's diamond. Bill Mallon was on the mound for the local nine and allowed but five hits, and would have had a shutout but for an error in the eighth which was combined with three hits, netted Prescott their two runs. Eight opposing batters went down swinging, his control was exceptional, as no no free passes were granted, and one no free passes were granted, and one batter reached first base on a questionable hit by pitched ball.

petition in voluntary bankruptcyfiled in Chicago, say his lawyers.His boldings were more than $5,000,-His holdings were more than $5,000,-000, including the famous Potter Palmer Lake Shore drive residence -all down the chute in the federal district court. His machinery companies, not involved in the petition, are rolling along nicely. They seem to be one up on the "good earth" as an arcanum of security. Modern times are like that.

In the basement of a New York hospital, where he ran the elevator, he had a grand time taking an old hot-tube gas engine to pieces and putting it together again. He was 17, not long from Chicago, where he had been a telegraph messenger boy. An old one-eyed swamper around the place, who understood machinery, had instructed him in the working of the power plant and had encouraged his laboratory work. There was a close working alliance between faculty and student body.

Two years later, the lad got a job as a typist in a law office, baffled at first because he couldn't use a monkey wrench on the typewriter, but exploring it satisfactorily with a screw-driver and pliers.

But a law office hadn't any wheels, and he did better with the Lackawanna railroad, which had plenty, although he was in the traffic department. In his spare time, he worked out improvements on a bicycle chain and sprocket. That brought him in touch with bicycle manufac-turers and at last he was on the main line—and it wasn't the Lackawanna. It was a wide, paved highway to millions in the invention of automobile and aviation devices whose only deadend was real estate.

Of Swedish ancestry, son of a Mo-line, Ill., Methodist minister, he packed a copy of Schopenhauer in his pocket when he was a messenger boy. In those days, he wolfed Hux-ley, Darwin, Marx, Tyndall, Wallace and Spencer, calling himself a Socialist in his earlier years. Never still a minute, he is buoyant and a short detour from the main highway. They say they wouldn't be surprised if he should bob up with something as exciting as perpetual motion, one of these days.

FAIRS: Attendance Resolution. West Virginia's Sen.

Closer to large populations, New York's World's fair would naturally draw larger attendance than its ri-val at San Francisco. By June 1, after running 3½ months, the Gold-Resolution. West Virginia's Sen. Rush D. Holt began demanding that the senate vote on his resolution for-bidding a third term. Until that vote was made, Mr. Roosevelt could hardly be expected to declare him-self; if the resolution were passed often he correspond his condidacy. en Gate exposition reported attend-ance of 3,284,329. In one month, from April 30 to June 1. New York's turnstiles spun to the tune of 5,594,-770

More interesting to executives of both fairs was the source of at-tendance, for local visitors add little to the prosperity of either San Fran-cisco or New York. At the Golden Gate, a checkup of parking lots re-vealed 85 per cent of visitors were from California. Of out-of-state visitors, 55 per cent came from nearby Washington, Oregon, Arizona, Nevada, etc. Closest comparable estimate at New York came from the Goodrich exhibit, which offered replica auto tags to the estimated 20 per cent total attendance which visited the Transportation area. Judging from auto tag sales, 49 per cent of the fair's visitors were from New York. Others: New Jersey, 15 per cent; Pennsylvania, 6.5 per cent; Massachusetts, 4.5 per cent; Connecticut, 4.5 per cent. Only states not regis-tered on June 1: North and South Dakota.

Though both surveys showed early attendance was localized, both fairs also predicted mid-summer vacation season would bring visitors from afar.

AVIATION: Competition

Most huge flying boats like Pan-American's transatlantic clippers took two to three years for design and completion. Last summer, when the new clippers were already under way, San Diego's Consolidated aircraft went to work on a streamlined, simplified, awkward looking boat (see photo) powered by two 2,000-horsepower, 18-cylinder, twinrow radial engines; capable of cruising 300 miles an hour with a

Meanwhile Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace had his name added to a list of second choices already cluttered with those of Postmaster General James A. Farley, Indiana's former Gov. Paul V. Mc-Nutt and aging Secretary of State Cordell Hull, who has long been mentioned as a presidential possibility. Immediate result was probably just what the President wanted, a recognition by many Democrats the Garner-Hull-Farley-Walthat lace-McNutt candidacies merely produced an utter confusion which could have but one logical solution

Warts on Foot May Be Cured By Treatments

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON HAVE spoken before of those painful flat growths on the sole of the foot called plantar warts. As they receive the whole weight of the body in walk- TODAY'S ing, relief is often HEALTH cial wide shoes or COLUMN special cushions with a hole in the center which surrounds the wart and thus takes the pressure off it.

Just what causes these warts is unknown, although it is believed that many cases are due to infection. Some of these warts disappear apparently without treatment and others seem to resist all forms of treatment except surgery.

Fortunately the use of wide shoes, a felt or cork cushion with central hole, and the use of some of the ordinary corn cures containing salicylic acid, give excellent results in most cases.

As there are some cases that are difficult to cure, it is gratifying to know Dr. Barton that X-rays now used in so many skin ailments is curing a number of these stubborn cases.

Drs. W. C. Popp and J. W. Olds, Rochester, Minn., in radiology record their investigation of the effect X-ray treatment of 91 cases of of plantar warts. These patients came from a distance and the study was made with the thought in mind of finding out just how many could be cured with but one treatment.

Treatment Successful. In 54 cases there was but one wart and in 37 cases there were two or more. Fifty-eight patients obtained complete cure, whereas 18 received no benefit.

In 40 of the 58 cured cases the wart or warts disappeared after one treatment; 11 required two treatments, five required three treatments and two were cured only after five treatments.

The fact that 18 received no benefit from X-ray treatment did not mean that they could not be cured or relieved, as a follow-up of these 18 patients showed that treatment elsewhere had resulted in six being cured, six relieved of pain, and three got partial relief from pain.

From the above results, Drs. Popp and Olds are justified in stating that "early observations show that their technic-method and dosage of Xray treatment—may offer better curative results than other technics.'

The Eyes Have It

How's your memory for eyes? They impress most people more than do noses or any other feature, yet removed from related parts of the face they sometimes seem singularly lost. Here are six famous pair of eyes. They're identified at the bottom of the column, but don't peek yet!

This banjo-eyed fellow might be Moon Mullins in the flesh, but it's really a wellknown comedian. Easy one, isn't he?

? This fellow isn't very old as his eyes indicate. We won't tell you anything about him except that he's a juvenile film player. Let's see . . . could that be Freddy Bartholomew or Jackie Cooper?

By L. L. STEVENSON Again a police emergency squad has demonstrated that it can solve just about any problem. The lat-est was a 700-pound woman so ill with lobar pneumonia that she had to be taken from the second floor of her home in Brooklyn to Israel Zion hospital to be placed under an oxygen tent. Her physician being unable to move her, he called the po-lice department. Emergency squad No. 12, under Sergt. Edward Dooley, together with three radio cars responded. The officers wrapped the woman in blankets and a heavy canvas life net. After much effort, she was removed from the bed to the floor. They couldn't get any farther, so while an emergency oxygen treatment was being given, they held a conference after which a detail was sent to a nearby construction job to borrow four 15-foot planks.

The planks were placed under the woman and she was moved as far as the door. The casing was removed and she was slid slowly and gently down the stairway. To get her out into the street, it was necessary to take off two sets of doors. The task, including stops for more oxygen administrations, took two hours and a half. Then at its conclusion, it was found that the ambulance sent by the hospital was too small. That necessitated borrowing a larger one from Kings County hospital. When the hospital was finally reached the woman's condition was found to be serious indeed. As a matter of fact she died not long after she had been admitted. That, however, was not the fault of the emergency squad.

Stopped, along with many others, to look in that hole in the ground at Broadway and Forty-third street at Broadway and Forty-third street where for many years had stood the old Fitzgerald building. As I was watching men load bricks and other debris into a motor truck, who should stroll along but ruddy-faced George M. Cohan, smiling and nod-ding to friends and full of life and vigor. Then I recalled that the van-ished Fitzgerald building had housed the George M. Cohan theater, Thus, a man who has actually outlived a a man who has actually outlived a playhouse named for him.

Wandering on over to Sixth avenue, I took a peek down into the depths, through a convenient opening, at workers engaged in bringing to completion the new Sixth avenue subway. For a long time now, these toilers have been laboring far down beneath the street in a region of semidarkness, which seems to be filled with scaffolding, ladders, pipes who always seem to have time to linger and watch men at work. * * *

HEADLINERS MAURICE GUSTAVE GAMELIN

This French general first came to prominence during the Munich crisis, though he has been chief of the army general staff since 1931. Now 66, he entered the World war as a captain of the combined French land, sea and air forces, an unprecedented move to unify the government's defense. The move had been expected, however, since General Gamelin was in 1938 named chief of the general staff of national defense, directly under Edouard Daladier, premier and minister of national defense and war. The new task is one of co-ordinating all French forces. Retaining generalship of French land forces, the new commander will have as air chief Gen. J. Vuillemin. Commander-in-chief of the navy will be Admiral Jean Darlin, advanced from vice-admiral. Both

BUSINESS: Unanimity

A sample day's comment in this spring's week-after-week demand for tax revision as a means of aiding business, and thereby stimulating recovery: Gen. Charles G. Dawes: "The business man is no longer taking things lying down. It is insane to believe that the government can do the job alone. John W. Hanes, treasury under-secretary: "The social reforms desired by the people can be sustained and developed only by the recovery of private enterprise, which after all is the backbone of federal revenue."

vidual with the large appetite that he was kept thin by carrying so much food around. As a matter of fact there is some truth in this remark because a thin individual with a large appetite is going to carry around with him a lot of waste from this excess food. Dr. Walter Alvarez of the Mayo clinic tells us that it is the weight of these wastes that makes us tired as much as the absorption of some of this waste into the blood.

Most of us are apt to think that we get tired because we work too hard physically and mentally. Getting tired by physical work is a good health asset as it means refreshing sleep. Getting tired from mental work may be due to tiredness of the eye muscles, or some tiredness from nervous tension, but this requires but a short rest; minutes not hours as with tiredness due to physical work.

That there are other causes for tiredness besides mental or physical overwork is stated by Dr. F. L. Meredith, Tufts' college, as recorded by Science News Letter. Lack of Gland Balance.

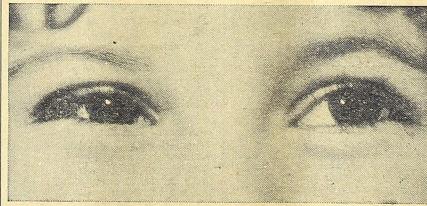

"Poisons from organisms-teeth and tonsils; thin blood; not enough or the wrong kind of food (including lack of minerals and vitamins); sluggish circulation, and psychic or mental states such as worry or lack of interest in one's work.

Another cause is lack of balance of the glands. Thus the thyroid gland, by making too much juice, can speed up all the body processes, keep the individual tensed (on his toes) all the time and cause tiredness to come on sooner. On the other hand, an insufficient amount of thyroid juice slows up all the body processes and the individual feels tired, lazy and sleepy most of the time.

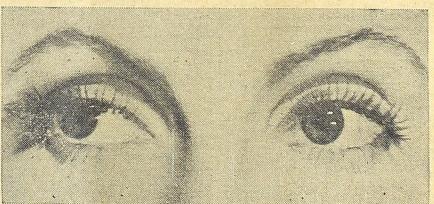

So do not necessarily blame your feeling of tiredness on overwork.

The first thought should be to have the teeth and tonsils examined. If overweight, have metabolism test to see if thyroid gland is over or under active. Have blood examined to see that it contains enough iron. See Blasting down under Sixth avenue seems to have come to an end, for which many persons are thankful. But the blasts caused little trouble. Because New York is built on rock, most of the digging is done with dynamite. Experts are in charge of the job of course and they can so limit the explosions that they are just about under complete control. On rare occasions, however, one does get away and causes damage, generally slight. That is not the fault of those in charge, however, but is due to some fault in the rock formation.

Construction work on the Eighth avenue subway gave the dynamite experts plenty of chances to exercise all their skill. A part of the line runs through the financial section, some stretches passing within a few feet of the walls of vaults in which were stored gold and other treasures amounting to a king's ransom. A mishap would have been costly indeed. But while a lot of high explosives were touched off, nothing happened except finishing the job. And now the Independent subway system carries 1,067,000 passengers every week day and 520,000 each Sunday. (Bell Syndicate-WNU Service.)

PAUL WRITES PERSONAL LETTERS

LESSON TEXT-II Timothy 1:1-6; Phile-mon 1-7, 21, 22. GOLDEN TEXT-Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that need-eth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth.-II Timothy 2:15.

Letters-what interest we all take in them! We go to town to get the mail, or we stop our work at the familiar signal of the postman. Too little thought is given to the possibility that our letters may be a means of blessing in God's hand. Paul has given us model Christian epistles.

In considering our lesson it is difficult to indicate specific verses, but the reader can readily identify the truth taken from the lesson under each division.

I. Remembrance.

Paul did not write letters which were impersonal and distant in spirit. The warmth of a loving heart, the refreshing recollection of past of fellowship, a genuine interest in the joys and sorrows of his brethren put love into every sentence of his letters.

We need to learn the art of writing letters. Even so-called business communications may often carry a touch of encouragement or inspi-ration. Personal letters should certainly be a constant medium of keeping bright the flame of affec-tion between parents and children, brothers and sisters, and Christian friends separated by distance.

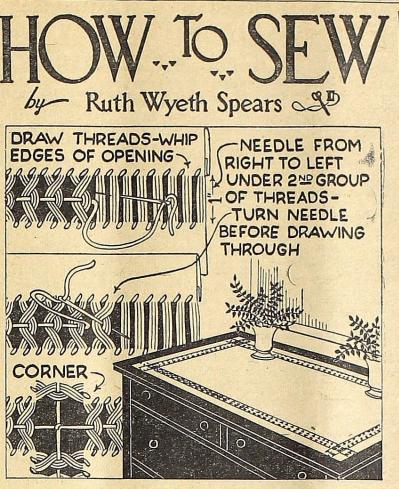

friends separated by distance. Observe that the remembrance of Paul had to do with both personal and spiritual matters, and note how naturally and easily the two blend. There should be no need of being offensively "preachy" in writing let-ters. The personal and spiritual in-terests of our lives should be so close together that we normally close together that we normally and without effort can put them forth as one in spirit.

II. Inspiration.

Who has not had the unforgettable experience of receiving a letter just when its cheering word was needed. Many a man has been saved from despair and possible destruction by such "a word fitly spoken" which is "like apples of gold in pic-tures of silver" (Prov. 25:11). "A word spoken in due season, how good is it!" (Prov. 15:23).

We enjoy receiving such lettersdo we make an effort to write them to others? Or do we excuse our-selves by saying, "You know I am baseball? such a poor letter-writer!" when the fact is that we are probably lazy or tween a savage and a barbarian? indifferent to the needs of our friends? colors were blended together?

Notice that Paul's inspiration and instruction to his friends revolved around two points-his constant zodiac are four that represent animals. Which are they? prayers on their behalf and his faith-

BACK TO WORK

THE most important job for congress today is what it has been for the last six years—to put America back to work. This must be the watchword. Back to work for the unem-ployed. Back to work for idle capital and empty factories. Back to work for all to the task of creating a better world. Only under an administration dedicated to such a program can America once more move forward."-U. S. Represen-tative J. William Ditter.

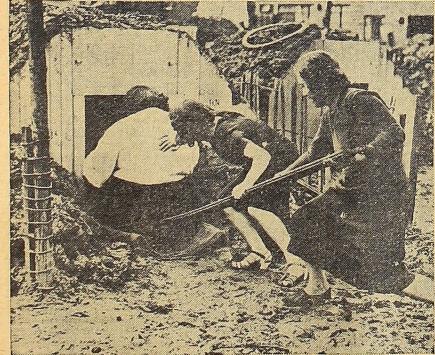

Here's a real study in contrasts at San Francisco's Golden Gate International exposition. When the little grownups of a side show decide to go horseback riding, they don't have to take turns. ful presentation of the teaching of God's Word. If we would follow his example we must first really pray and then study God's Word for ourselves before we shall be ready to pass it on to others.

III. Admonition.

Scolding has no place in a letter, but kindly admonition is quite in order. Paul improved every opportunity to urge his readers to personal piety, Christian fellowship, attendance upon the means of grace, prayer, and the study of God's Word. He also urged his young brother in the Lord's service to "stir up the gift of God" which was in him. The influence of the world, the pressure of work, or some burden of spirit might cause a man to bog down in the slough of despond or of mediocrity. A letter from a true Christian friend at such a time might well be the means in God's hand of renewing holy resolves and of stimulating renewed endeavor. Do you think of someone who is waiting for that kind of a letter from you?

IV. Co-operation. Friendship and fellowship are not one-sided. The very words demand the existence and interaction of two personal beings. "A man that hath friends must show himself friendly" (Prov. 18:24). Paul recognized this, and when he wrote to Philemon he gave him opportunity to respond in loving obedience to a request while at the same time he showed the highest degree of Christian consideration and courtesy toward Philemon. The epistle is a "masterpiece of persuasive tact and delicacy and an enduring model of truest Chris-tian courtesy" (Ellicott).

No right thinking person is satis-fied to be the constant recipient of the love and thoughtfulness of another with no opportunity to reciprocate. The smallest child or the humblest individual who must receive help wants to show his loving appreciation. A considerate friend will therefore open such an opportunity, not as a command or in a spirit of expecting something in return, but as an act of Christian courtesy.

God's Own Spirit

To believe, not because we are learned and can prove, but because there is a something in us, even God's own spirit, which makes us feel light and truth as truth-this is the blessed faith .- F. W. Robertson.

CHAPTER XV-Continued -15-

There was something mysterious about the whole thing. Even the friends who had come to condole seemed strangely quiet on the subject of Jim Loring's sudden death, and as the hours wore on, Mary grew more and more appreabout as "tragic," "a great loss to Hawkinsville," and "terrible for the family"-but the spirit of evasion as to how his death had come about was always there.

"Ellen," she began that night in the privacy of their room "was dad's death really an-accident?" Silence—a long silence, which an-swered her better than any words could have done.

"Ellen! Was it-did he-?" Ellen stifled a sob. 'Yes, Mary. Dad—took his own life.''

"Oh, my God! I was afraid he had! Something told me at the time your message came, and then, today, when I simply couldn't get to see anybody alone, I began to feel sure . .

"Mother found him in the garage, Mary," Ellen went on, "the doors closed, the ignition turned on. She clings to the idea that it was an accident and, Mary, that's what the verdict was, but I know and so do you . .

"That it was suicide." Mary finished in a whisper. "Yes, Ellen, he was frantic about money, and he felt the only way to save his family from poverty was to take his own life, so that we might have his insurance. If only he'd waited another 24 hours, he'd have known it wasn't necessary to do such a dreadful thing! My novel's been accepted by a magazine, Ellen. They're going to pay me five thousand dollars for serial publication only. Think of it -five thousand dollars! And Dad committed suicide — in order to give his family ten thousand dollars insurance.

"Yes," Ellen replied bitterly. "Ten thousand dollars-only twice as much as you'll receive for your novel!"

"And I'm going to sell other rights, I know I shall! And I could've taken care of the family! The irony of it, Ellen! The tragedy! He gave up his life for his family's security -and it was all so needless!"

CHAPTER XVI

June came and went, but notwithstanding letters from Anthony Porter, Phil Buchanan, and Aunt Linnie, asking her to return to New York, Mary remained in Hawkinsville. Mr. Porter wrote that he was quite sure a certain well-known publishing house would shortly give her contract for book publication of "Storm on the Mountain," and that it would be good business for her to be on hand for that, and other things to come. Phil, by wires and letters, all slightly stilted and businesslike, expressed his desire to see her back "where she now belonged"; while Aunt Linnie said that she was lonesome, and longed for Mary to return to live with her-indefinitely, if she liked.

"But," Mary interrupted, "what had her father to do with it?" and go to Chicago to live. Hawkins-

She glanced at the car. It was

At last, they had reached Blondeau street, and were heading down Sixth. At last, they were turning into Concert, and nearing her home. She would write to Phil this afternoon. She would tell him she was leaving for New York soon.

Now they were pulling up at the curb in front of the Loring house, and without waiting for Chris to get out, she opened the door of the car, and stepped to the ground. "Goodby, Chris," she said breathlessly, and turned to smile at him.

He jumped from the car, and stood beside her. "Mary," he be-gan, "think this thing over. Please think it over!"

Mary shook her head. "No, Chris. The sudden introduction of Ilsa's That won't do any good. My mind's made up." And placing her hand father into the question of this in-explicable marriage left Mary quite at sea for a moment. Then, as she began to realize what an important part Doctor Graceland—and his ofon his arm, she added, "I'm sorry, Chris . . . good-by."

"I've never been so glad to see anybody in all my life!" Mary cried. 'Oh, Phil, how did you happen to come?"

"I wanted to see you, you little goose!" Phil returned with a grin. 'Your letters didn't suit me at all. They were too few and far between -and somehow, I felt you were getting farther and farther away from me.

OATMEAL MEAT PATTIES See Recipe Below.

When the Allowance Is Low

Lucky is the homemaker who has tucked away on her pantry shelf a package or two of oatmeal, and in her recipe file a half-dozen clever suggestions for using it in her menus. For oatmeal is a quick change artist, and with a little ingenuity you can turn out a whole array of tempting, unusual dishes as delicious to eat as they are inexpensive to eat.

For example, have you ever tried making light, flavorsome raisin muf-fins with oatmeal? Or have you used oatmeal in a thick, hearty in meat patties or meat loaf? You've used oatmeal for luscious, soft, chewy cookies, of course, but have you tried it for making the crust for a delectable apple pudding, or have you substituted it for nut meats in a rich-tasting torte?

You see, besides adding interest and variety to meals, and doing a first-class job of budget stretching, oatmeal may be trusted to add a large amount of low-cost food energy to the diet. Oatmeal, moreover, is an excellent source of vitamin B,

The reason for Aunt Linnie's loneliness, aside from the genuine affection she held for her niece was conveyed to Mary in a letter from Lelia. It read:

Darling:

Daring: I want you to be among the very first to hear that Jim and I are going to be married again, for, had it not been for you, I mightn't have known until it was too late that he was ill and broke, and that he needed me terribly. I might have stayed indefinitely on in Jamaica. but instead, as you know, we boarded the first ship back to New York, and the very day we landed I motored out to very day we landed I motored out to Stamford to see him. He was there in our little house, terri-

by ill and depressed, and cared for only by Anitau, the houseman; and when I opened the door and saw him lying on the lounge, thin and pale and discouraged, I knew that no matter what had happened in the past, he was my hus-band and that we must be together the rest of our lives we're going to be married next week,

We're going to be married next week, with only Linnie and Phil Buchanan as witnesses, and we're going to live for-ever in this sweet little house. Jim's still quite ill, but the doctors say that with rest and quiet and proper food, he will recover in time. I have plenty of money for us both, and, after all, predically everything L prosees use div of money for us both, and, after all, practically everything I possess was giv-en to me by him. I've not mentioned my happiness be-fore, my dear, because I didn't want to intrude it on your sorrow. Linnie says I've done the most sensi-ble thing of my life, but she's just a bit upset over my giving up my New York apartment and "burying" myself in Con-necticut. She's a little lonesome, I think, and eager for you to return to New York and stay with her forever. How about it, Mary? Can you do it? Can your sweet mother get along without you? Surely, with all the success that's com-ing your way these days, New York's the place for you to live.

But Mary, helping her mother to reconstruct her life, attempting to bring her stricken little brother back to normalcy, stayed on in the little Iowa town. And, too, Ellen and Bill Duryea had decided to marry soon, and she felt that she should do all she could to make their coming marriage as happy an affair as the circumstances would allow. They were going to live with Mrs. Loring; the wedding was, of course, to Bewildered by the hard cynicism in his voice, she glanced sharply up at him. They were at the side of the car now, and he placed his hand on her arm to help her get in, but, to her surprise, his touch failed to affect her as it always had in the past. It seemed but the casual touch of any man going through the usual gesture that courtesy demands. Always before, such slight contact with Chris had sent the blood tingling in her veins, had made her heart beat with a foolish haste.

He had taken his seat at the wheel now, and they were moving down Trilby Lane. At last, after all these months, they were together again! Yet, somehow or other, their reunion was disappointing; the joy she had anticipated was not there. She felt so separate from Chris, sooutside him, as though she were seeing him objectively for the first time as a person apart from her.

"I want to tell you, Mary," he said, after they had driven some distance in silence, "how very sorry I was about your father. You have my sympathy . . "Thank you, Chris, I-let's don't talk about Dad, please. I just can't seem to bear . . .

"I know, my dear. I shan't say another word." And then, "Let's talk about my marriage!" There was a tinge of bitterness in his voice. "I suppose you've been told it's on the rocks-that Ilsa's getting a divorce."

"Yes," Mary said, "I've been told.'

Chris shrugged. "Nice mess, isn't it?" he inquired. "I didn't quite please the lady, and-oh, well, the marriage should never have taken place. You know that as well as I do, Mary." "No," Mary thought, "no, the marriage never should have taken place-and yet, it had! He said he loved me-but he married Ilsa. Why?" The question which Why? had been tormenting her for months simply must be answered-and answered now.

She turned and looked at Chris, but his gaze remained steadily fixed on the road ahead of him. "Then, why, Chris, why did you go on with it?" she asked in a low voice. Chris drove on in silence. "I don't

He stared at her for one puzzled moment. Then, without a word, turned on the ignition, and, with a violent jerk, started down the road. "Thank God, that's over!" she told herself, as, in silence, they sped towards town. "Thank God, I've found him out! And to think of the months of agony that I've gone through for this man!" "I love Phil!" she told herself in "I've loved him all the wonder. time, and I was just too dazzled by false illusions of Chris to realize it. I must get back to him at once! I must see him at once! I wonder how soon I can leave for New as if never again would he let her York." And then, fearfully, "I go, bent to kiss her lips. haven't written to him for a week,

Timbers in the White House that were used in its construction in 1816 were recently found to be perfectly sound. Houses in New England that were built 300 years ago are still structurally intact. It is said that timbers several hundred years old have been recovered from the ruins of Indian pueblos in Arizona, while a part of a Roman emperor's houseboat that sank 2,000 years ago in Lake Nemi was sound enough to be identified by the Forest Products laboratory as spruce wood. Not long ago a log 7 feet in diameter was found in a tunnel being dug 150 feet below the bed of the Yakima river in Washington. A piece of it was sent to the Forest Products laboratory and the wood was identified as an extinct species of sequoia, of an age estimated by geologists at 12,000,000 years. These examples prove, the U.S.

Watch Sleeping Sickness

Among Horses, Is Advice The division of animal pathology and hygiene at the University of Illinois college of agriculture, Ur-bana, offers this advice for protecting horses and mules from sleeping sickness:

In infected areas, keep the animals in screened stables.

Use burlap or muslin fly covers on animals at work and spray them with an insect repellant.

Keep stables clean. Vaccinate animals early, so they will develop a strong immunity. Staff members of the division said only about one of every four animals in an exposed area develops the disease and about eight of every ten infected horses can be saved with prompt treatment.

The disease is seasonal, appearing in July or August and continuing until the first killing frost. It is believed to be carried by mosquitoes, although biting flies also are suspected of transmitting it.

Farm Facts

Turkeys, to make the most economical gains, must have a constant supply of clean, fresh water.

American agriculture is now said to use more machinery than any other industry in this country.

Feeding experiments indicate that beef heifers fatten faster than steers in a feeding period of less than 150 days.

Sales of wheat and flour for export totaled approximately 91,600,-000 bushels from July 1, 1938, to March 18, 1939, of which about 77, 000,000 bushels have been exported.

Strains of tomatoes that do well in greenhouses will usually do well outside if trained on a trellis, accord ing to Professor Grant B. Snyder, head of the Massachusetts State college vegetable gardening department.
