TAWAS CITY WINS FOURTH N. E. M. GAME

American-National All-Star Game Here Next Sunday

The June session of the Iosco County Supervisors was held this week, ending today (Friday). The principal equalization of the assessment rolls. Whittemore vs. Wilber at Buckhorn Ball Park, Sunday afternoon, July 25.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Mark were pleasantly surprised last Friday when friends, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ford of Owosso, whom they had not seen for 30 years, called on them. Both families were former residents of Au Sable. They were accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Brait and daughter of Windsor.

Tawas City won their fourth straight game by defeating Hemlock in a loosely played game last Sunday at the Athletic Field by the score of 18 to 3.

Miss Katherine Loker, of Lansing, granddaughter of Mrs. L. B. Smith, entertained friends, the Misses Janet Kelder, of East Lansing, Emily Mull and Virginia Bouerman, of Lansing, over the week end. They were accompanied by Mrs. Ezoa Loker and returned to Lansing on Monday.

Herman Kussro did the hurling for the local team and turned in a splendid performance, allowing but two hits, walking two and striking out eight of the opposing batters, and thereby assuring the team of another dependable pitcher. As the local boys gave him an early lead, he was never in any serious trouble.

Jack McArdle, veteran spit-ball pitcher, started on the mound for Hemlock. Lack of support kept him in constant trouble. In the four and one-third innings he pitched he allowed nine hits and ten runs, walked two and struck out four. Tighter fielding on the part of his supporting cast would have cut down both runs and hits as a number of the Tawas City hits were of the scratchy variety. Eleven errors were committed during his sojourn in the box. C. Jordan relieved him in the fifth with one man out. He retired the next two batters to end a big inning in which five runs were scored. In the three and two-thirds innings which he pitched he allowed eight hits and eight runs, walked two and struck out five. Four errors were committed behind him.

The Baptist Ladies will serve supper in the Baptist Church basement Thursday, June 29, at 5:30, price 35 cents.

The Misses Fidelis and Donna Faye Groff and Janet Koepke spent Friday and Saturday at Bay City.

Next Sunday Tawas will journey to Twining to mix bats with the team from that town. Twining is playing a good brand of ball this year despite the fact that they have won only one game this season. Why not accompany the team to Twining Sunday and help them bag number five? They would appreciate your support. Sunday's game will be the half-way mark in the league schedule. Tawas City has one postponed game to play, a rained out game with Whittemore of May 21. It will likely be played at Whittemore as part of a double header on July 16, when these two teams meet in a regular scheduled game set for that date.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. E. Ballard of Niles visited friends in the city a few days this week.

On Sunday, July 2, a real treat is in store for the baseball fans in this vicinity. A game has been arranged between the stars of the American and National divisions. The players, twenty from each division, will be picked at a meeting of the managers (Turn to No. 1, back page).

The fire department was called Sunday afternoon to extinguish a grass fire near the J. A. Mark home. Owing to the high wind at the time, there was danger of it spreading to the nearby buildings. The fire was fought with the chemical engine. The fire department should be commended for their prompt action.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Vitale and Ernest Ross, Jr., of Saginaw, were Sunday visitors with Rev. and Mrs. Ernest Ross.

A linen shower honoring Miss Lydia Moore, bride of next month, was given Thursday evening by her friends at the Log Cabin Inn. Miss Moore received many beautiful gifts.

Mrs. Myrtle Ellis, wife of Vincent Ellis, of East Tawas, died Tuesday evening at her home after a two months' illness.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Brown and daughters, Mrs. Arthur Benson and Mrs. Edward Anderson were visitors at Saginaw on Friday.

The deceased was born September 18, 1892, at Rose City, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis had been residents of Oscoda until they came to East Tawas five years ago. She leaves to mourn her death, her husband and seven children, Mrs. Richter Lixey, Mrs. Ed. Lixey, Clinton, Marion, Kenneth Eugene and Bobby, all of East Tawas.

Rev. and Mrs. F. Metcalf and son, Melbourne, left Sunday to attend the graduation exercises at Mt. Pleasant, at which their daughter, Miss Anne Metcalf, was a member. Miss Metcalf specialized in primary work and has accepted a position in the Clio Public Schools for the coming year.

Those from out of town who attended the funeral were Mrs. Frank Cardinal, of Saginaw; Mrs. John Orr, of Standish; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ballard, of Curran; Mrs. Oscar Webber, of Gagetown; Miss Jennie Ellis, of Detroit; and Mr. and Mrs. William Atherton, of Flint.

Observe 50th Anniversary of Tawas City High School

The year 1939 marked the 50th anniversary of the Tawas City High School. In observance of this special occasion, the annual alumni banquet was held Saturday evening at the Masonic Temple.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ferguson and daughter, Betty, of Saginaw, are spending the week with Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Ferguson.

Gold and white, the color scheme, was used on the tables in the form of tiny yellow nut cups and yellow nasturtiums and marigolds. The dinner was served to the 60 guests by members of the Eastern Star.

Mrs. Carl Schaaf, formerly Lulu Robinson, has returned to her home at Marine City after a week's visit with her aunt, Mrs. Ira Horton. Miss Lois Ross accompanied her for a few weeks' visit.

A program was given after the dinner in which James Mark acted as toastmaster. The minutes of the last meeting were read by William Leslie and the treasurer's report by Herbert Cholger. Mrs. Waldo Leslie greeted the Seniors of '39 and the response was given by Otto Ross, member of the Class of '39. The Seniors were then initiated into the Alumni association by a short quiz. Each Senior was asked a question by the toastmaster and he or she was to answer question correctly before being admitted into the alumni.

Senior Festivities

The festivities of the Class of 1939 of the Tawas City high school were culminated Thursday evening, June 15, by the Commencement program. During the previous couple of weeks, the members enjoyed a series of events which marked their closing days of high school.

It has been customary during the past few years for the seniors to take a trip near the close of the school year. This year they went to Ann Arbor and Greenfield Village on Thursday and Friday, June 1 and 2. Among the places of interest visited at Ann Arbor were the Michigan League, where dinner was eaten Thursday, the beautiful Rackham Graduate Building, the famous Burton Memorial Tower, which houses the Baird-Cayllon, the athletic fields, and the University Hospital. The latter is said to be the largest hospital under one roof in the world. Some of the class members visited Arlene Leslie, Class of 1934, who at that time was a patient at this institution. They left Ann Arbor at about four o'clock and remained that night in the Fordson Hotel, Dearborn. Friday was spent visiting places of interest in Henry Ford's Greenfield Village. Among these places were the museum, the building in which Ford made his first car, the building in which Edison made his first electric light bulb, and the court house in which Lincoln practiced law at Springfield, Illinois. The latter building contains the chair in which Lincoln was shot. A stop was made at Saginaw on the way home where all attended a theatre. The drivers for the occasion were Mr. Nordman, who acted as sponsor, Mrs. Tuttle, Mrs. Horton and Richard King.

The Seniors were entertained Monday evening, June 5, at the home of Superintendent and Mrs. A. E. Giddings. Charades, graduate and other games were enjoyed during the evening. Pitching Quits, The Three Little Fishes, Herbert Cox's Car (featuring Mary Cuniff as the fat tire), and Mr. Forsten's Physics Class were admirably illustrated by four different groups. High scores were won by Mary Cuniff, Otto Ross and Norma Musolf. A two course luncheon was served at 11:30. Appointments were carried out in keeping with the spring season as emblematic of Commencement.

A dozen or more years ago it became the custom in the Tawas City high school for the Juniors to give the Seniors the choice of a banquet or the sum of sixty dollars toward defraying the expense of the annual Senior trip. It finally came to pass that the banquet was regarded as so important in the social life of the school and in the pre-Commencement festivities that it became an annual affair. This has made necessary that the Seniors earn all of the money for their annual trip. The event this year was held at the Masonic Temple on Friday evening, June 9. The Seniors, with their wives were the guests of honor. As this important school event was fully described in last week's issue of the local paper, no more mention of the event will be made at this time.

Enders, son of Lambert Enders, of Medford, Wisconsin, at nine o'clock on June 21, at St. Joseph's Church, East Tawas. The nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. Robert Newnam, pastor of St. Joseph's Church.

The bride wore a white lace redingote with train over white satin. Her fingertip veil of tulle was attached to lace cap finished with high empress tiara of seed pearls and her bouquet was of white roses and baby breath.

The attendants included Mary Mielock, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, and Gertrude Ann Enders, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid. They wore gowns fashioned of lace and net. The maid of honor wore pink with the velvet bows on bodice and sleeves. Her head covering was pink net with crown of blue and pink lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid's dress was blue with pink velvet bows and head covering also of pink net. Each of the attendants carried pink gladioli.

Joseph Enders, brother of the groom, was the best man and the groom was also attended by John Mielock; brother of the bride and seating the guests were James Mielock and Robert Elliott.

Mrs. Mielock, mother of the bride, wore blue print ensemble with navy blue accessories. A corsage of pink sweet peas completed her costume.

A breakfast for 45 guests at the home of the bride's parents followed the nuptial ceremony.

Out of town guests were Lambert Enders, father of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Dyer, Mrs. Anna Theman and Gertrude Ann Enders, of Medford, Wisconsin; Mrs. L. P. Seidal and son, Patrick, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. A. Enders and son, Earl, Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Mielock and children, Mary Mielock and A. W. Bernadine Hazel Brown

The death of Bernadine Hazel, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Brown, of Alabaster, called forth the tender sympathy of friends and acquaintances besides leaving dearest memories to her mother, father, two brothers, Ernest and Charles, and sister, Mildred; her grandparents Mrs. J. L. Brown, of Alabaster, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Apsey, of Lincoln; also her many aunts, uncles and other relatives.

Little Bernadine was taken ill on Wednesday of last week. By the following day her condition had become so serious that she was rushed to Mercy Hospital in Bay City, but medical skill was unable to relieve her, and she passed away early Friday morning, at the age of three years and one day.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon in the Community Church in Alabaster. Rev. J. M. Kavanaugh, of Prescott officiated. Burial was made in the Tawas City cemetery.

A profusion of beautiful floral offerings and the large attendance at the funeral bespoke the kind feeling toward the family and the compassion felt for them in their sorrow.

Brown, Violet R. Carroll, Mary Louise Cunniff, Vernon Charles Blust, Norman D. Hogaboam, Otto O. Ross, J. Herbert Cox, Vice President, William E. Koepke, Gerald A. Roekle, Fidalis J. Groff.
- The following program was rendered:
- Class March—Mrs. A. E. Giddings.
 - Invocation—Rev. Frank Metcalf.
 - Salutary—Otto O. Ross.
 - Selection—Tawas City High School Band.
 - Valedictory—Norma Jean Musolf.

 - Selection—Tawas City High School Band.
 - Address—Charles F. Hamilton.
 - Class Song—Class of 1939.
 - A. E. Giddings.
 - Benediction—Rev. M. A. Sommerfeld.

One feature of the program was two valedictorians rather than the usual one. Erma Lou Pfahl and Norma Jean Musolf each had a scholastic average of 8.89 points out of a possible four points. The Salutatorian Otto O. Ross, had an average of 3.53. All three student speakers digressed from the standardized form of class part and instead developed a practical topic of present day interest.

The Salutatorian Otto Ross developed the idea that with graduation many of the class must depend upon themselves to a greater extent than before. He then developed from the experience afforded by history "The Advantages of a Guiding Principle" for this greater responsibility. The first valedictorian, Norma Jean Musolf stressed the fundamental relation between the public schools and our democratic form of government. The second valedictorian Erma Lou Pfahl developed the topic, "Youth and Education." She showed the importance of the effect of education upon the youth of today who will soon be managing the affairs of the nation. All three students clearly showed the effect of the training which had been afforded by their speech work in school.

The guest speaker, Charles F. Hamilton, President of the Bay City Business College, has spoken in Tawas City several times during the past few years. He is a graduate of the Northern State Teachers' College, Marquette, has a master's degree from the University of Michigan, has had several years of practical experience as a school administrator and is a practicing attorney. In addition, he has done much work in the theory and practice of guidance. As a result, Mr. Hamilton has unique qualifications for a Commencement speaker. He developed from his study and experience some fundamental factors concerning a successful life.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Congressional Patronage Grab Shoves Political Wheelhorses Into Justice, Commerce Jobs

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

CABINET: Patronage

An able economist, Republican Willard L. Thorp was borrowed from Dun & Bradstreet to be advisor in the commerce department's bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. Next Harry Hopkins named Republican Thorp chief of the bureau, but a patronage-minded Democratic congress turned him down. This was Secretary Hopkins' first conflict with patronage, but another was destined soon in which Attorney General Frank Murphy would also learn about patronage. Up for simultaneous congressional consideration came two appropriation bills, one to give Mr. Murphy's department $1,000,000 for Thurman Arnold's newly stimulated antitrust drive, the other to give Mr. Hopkins' department $225,000 for employing a staff of experts to consult with business and industry.

SENATOR MCKELLAR
He smelled patronage.

Neither expansion plan called for political wheelhorses, but Messrs. Hopkins and Murphy must take wheelhorses or nothing. Sponsored by Tennessee's Sen. Kenneth McKellar (who can allegedly smell patronage further than any other seven men in congress) a proviso was adopted requiring congressional approval for all men hired under either appropriation at a salary of $5,000 or more. Almost incidental to this ruling was the fact that congress cut Mr. Murphy's bill from $1,000,000 to $300,000, and Mr. Hopkins' from $225,000 to $133,500.

Murphy grudge: To proceed with detailed investigation and prosecution of antitrust cases, Thurman Arnold needs smart young lawyers minus business or political connections. One good reason is that wheelhorses would instill New Dealism into the drive at a time when the administration needs business' friendship. Political lawyers are notoriously ineffectual, Mr. Arnold believes.

Hopkins grudge: Special assistants created under the commerce bill would work with business representatives directly on whatever problems might be presented, a job obviously requiring men who have been too busy with economic affairs to meddle in politics.

SPAIN:

Friendly Relatives

Last March 17 Dictator Francisco Franco accepted a friendship non-aggression pact with Portugal, whose mere moral support against the Loyalists was slight compared with the guns, planes and men of Rome and Berlin. Observers immediately predicted a cast-iron military pact with the Axis, but weeks dragged into months until the world suddenly realized General Franco would be no pushover; like a smart politician he was playing both democracies and dictatorships for all they were worth, staving off an Axis pact so long as possible.

Mid-June found Franco's brother-in-law and minister of the interior, Ramon Serrano Suner, visiting in Italy with persuasive Count Galeazzo Ciano, Mussolini's foreign minister and son-in-law. Although their relatives seemed near agreement, Il Duce and El Caudillo were not. Yet Franco's independence was not comfortable.

Needing peace above all to reconstruct his nation, the generalissimo must nevertheless be imperialistic like other dictators. This means a strong hand in Tangiers, which all good Spaniards demand be regained from France. It also means re-establishing Spain's lost world prestige, necessitating an increased influence in Spanish-speaking Latin America. This program plays right into the Axis hands, stimulating conflict between Spain and the democracies and thus assuring Spain's aid should Rome and Berlin declare war.

EDUCATION: Consolation

Not since 1928 have graduating college students found jobs awaiting them. Though this year's crop of seniors will fare somewhat better than 1938's, a decade of hard luck has revolutionized the graduate's outlook, made him glad to take any job, and placed an entirely different interpretation on the significance of a college degree. Sample:

To the University of Chicago's 799 graduates, President Robert Maynard Hutchins addressed this gloomy message: "We know now that graduation . . . does not carry with it the promise that the graduate will ever be able to earn a living . . . We must recognize that you may never make a nickel that you would not have made if you had never come here, that your education will not hoist you by so much as a single rung up the social ladder." Then, to soothe parents who wondered why their youngsters should be asked to waste four years, President Hutchins offered the following left-handed consolation: ". . . Higher education should help the graduate make intelligent use of the leisure which thoughtless engineers and a blind economic system have given him."

TREASURY: Hoard

India was the "sink hole" of precious metals before the World war. By mid-June of 1939 a cellar under Fort Knox, Ky., appeared to be the new sink hole, for there was kept much of the $16,008,915,000 which represents 60 per cent of all the world's monetary gold stock. Most alarming to financiers, who see gold becoming cheaper and cheaper, is the fact that since January 31 the U. S. has absorbed more than one and one-third times the world's estimated gold production for 1939. Reason: Europe's war scares.

On December 31, 1934, U. S. gold holdings were comparatively mild, totaling only $8,238,600,000. Harmonizing with mobilization, they began zooming when Czecho-Slovakia mobilized against Germany last May ($12,915,100,000) kept rising until Munich's conference ($14,511,200,000), slackened off during quiet January ($14,682,000,000), then zoomed during this spring's war jitters to the current $16,000,000,000 mark.

Biggest loser is England, which since 1933 was shipped $3,760,600,000 to the U. S., and which in the first four months of 1939 sent $852,400,000. But some of England's shipments have exceeded her national bank's gold reserve, indicating that foreign gold has first fled to London, then to the U. S.

France, which lost $934,000,000 in 1935, offers the only encouraging picture in today's gold problem. While other countries bordering Germany have frantically shipped their metal elsewhere, the strong-arm government of Premier Edouard Daladier is now enjoying an influx of gold and capital. Biggest reaction in the U. S. is a steady increase of adjusted demand deposits in federal reserve banks. In early June, as gold hoardings reached their new peak, reserve bank deposits also hit a high water mark.

Lights of New York

Samaritans: During an impromptu party in a midtown establishment, one of the group reached such a state that his companions decided home was the only place for him. So despite his protests, they got into a cab with him and ordered the driver proceed to an address well up in the Bronx. The protests continued for some time but finally died away. Having reached their objective, with $3.80 on the meter, they took their cargo to his apartment and rang the bell. To their surprise, an irate woman refused to accept delivery of a husband not on the ground of acute intoxication but because she had never seen him before. With that the drunk revived and made an announcement. It was: "All the way up here I've been trying to tell you guys that last week I moved over to Brooklyn but you wouldn't listen to me."

In mid-Manhattan: Andre Kostelanetz and a group of congressmen, in town for the World's fair, discussing Kostelanetz's petition for a postage stamp honoring Stephen Foster, the American composer . . . Navy lads wandering in and out of Radio city not to see swing musicians but to visit with Edward MacHugh, "Gospel Singer," a favorite with the gobs . . . Phil Baker keenly interested in the fingering technique of a blind accordion player on Broadway . . . Patti Andrews, of the Andrews sisters, who popularized, "Hold Tight," swaying to and fro while clinging to a strap in a Sixth avenue bus . . . Alice Frost, dramatic actress, adjusting the tie of a young bootblack on Madison avenue . . . Jesse Crawford, organ wizard, selecting a mouth organ for a young nephew in a West Forty-second street music store.

Finis: The Seminoles out at the World's fair lost their crocodile the other day. Jim had been the pet of the children of the village for 25 years so there was no little mourning. It may be explained that Jim wasn't one of the fighters in those battles put on out there, alligators being used in such exhibitions. But Jim was quite a citizen nevertheless, so the redskins decided that the only thing to do was to give him a proper funeral with medicine made by Billy Homespun, their medicine man. Then came the white man's law. So instead of being buried with honors, one of Grover Whalen's garbage trucks backed up to the village and poor Jim was heaved into it and carried away to a city dump.

Thespian: Orson Welles hit the Play Area—that's what the officials want it called—at the fair the other afternoon. Still retaining his full beard, which he raised for "Five Kings," he was as conspicuous as fireworks. Having visited several girly-girl shows, he drifted into Nature's Mistakes, an animal freak show where he saw the two-headed cow, the bull with a human skin and some 50 other animals, the display so fascinating him that he didn't leave until the evening was just about gone. Then he discovered that he'd run out of money. So he took up headquarters in the Gang Busters building, telephoned his wife to wire him $50 and waited an hour until the money arrived. Then he paid up and went home.

Book: Included in recent reading was "Carter Glass, a Biography," by Rixey Smith and Norman Beasley (Longmans). An extremely interesting account of 50 years of public service. In swift moving narrative, the story of the life of the Virginia senator starts back in 1858, continues through the Reconstruction period, through days of expansion and empire building, through the World war, the feverish financial days of the twenties, the depression on down to the present. Many revealing documents from various sources included. Worth while reading.

End Piece: Reports have it that Eddie Garr, current Jeeter Lester of "Tobacco Road," is the only actor on Broadway employing two valets. The new dresser substitutes for Swick, Garr's regular valet, on matinee days when Swick goes to the ball game.

Motor Cannon Is Put on British Pursuit Planes

LONDON.—Pursuit planes and fighters of the R. A. F. are now being armed with motor cannon, Britain's newest, most jealously guarded war-plane secret.

Little is known of them, except the careful statement made by Air Minister Sir Kingsley Wood in the house of commons that warplane cannon were being built in this country "on a considerable scale."

The cannon now being mass-produced in England at a special new factory are a development of Hispano-Suiza motor cannon, it is understood. The cannon, when originally produced in France, was stated to be a gun built into the airplane engine, firing shells weighing nearly a pound as quickly as a machine-gun fires bullets—about 900 a minute.

Armor-piercing, explosive, incendiary or tracer shells can be loaded in the cannon magazine.

Though their school days are a thing of the past, these former classmates can always find sufficient time for a reunion. In Philadelphia, at the University of Pennsylvania's annual Alumni day celebration, George Keller mounts his "mighty charger" and portrays a 1939 version of Napoleon. He is surrounded by fellow members of the university's class of 1937.

New China City Replaces Los Angeles Landmark

Buddhist rites, devil dancers and the traditional cavorting Chinese lion featured pageantry in Los Angeles' new China city recently when that picturesque quarter was cleaned of ghosts and demons. Replacing the old Chinatown, which was evacuated to make way for a new Union station, China city is the site of many historic incidents of early Los Angeles days. The ceremonies were intended to lay the ghosts of its past.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—While it is only 36 years since the first feeble crow-hop of the Wright brothers, aviation already has the equivalent of the cauliflower veterans of prizefighting. —veterans, incidentally, who keep right on going after 30. Ben O. Howard, who skips the Douglas DC-4, the largest land plane in the world, across the country, left his right leg behind him, on his way on and up; as did Alexander P. de Seversky, a marvelous stunt flier with a wooden leg. And Wiley Post was served adequately by one eye in his breathtaking hazards. They carry on far beyond the one score and ten which weighted Max Baer helplessly against Lou Nova.

Ben Howard was flying his self-made plane in the Bendix Transcontinental Trophy race in September, 1936, when he crashed in New Mexico. He and his wife, Mrs. Olive Howard, also a flier, were critically injured. He was unconscious 36 days and his leg was amputated.

"Research pilot," which is now Mr. Howard's rating with the United Air lines, appears to be a bit upgrade from the test pilot job, and implies engineering and technical skill as well as coolness and courage. All this Mr. Howard gained in designing, building and racing planes for many years as the "ride-'em cowboy" of many racing meets.

In 1930, he was flying the night mail, between Omaha and St. Louis. Losing daytime sleep at times, he built a sick little 100-horsepower racer which made him the star of the National Air races at Chicago in 1930. His small-engined planes kept on snatching prizes from ships with twice as much power. After his accident, he was out for 15 months, and then back with United Air lines in experimental work.

He is dark, slender, reserved, mastering the air leviathan with the sensitive and intuitive fingers of a concert pianist.

TENNESSEE made a super-grand splash when it brought Sergeant Alvin York to the World of Tomorrow, with a special train and a guard of honor and what-not. Just as a balance brought forward from the world of yesterday, it was the sergeant who, armed only with a service revolver and a rifle, killed 25 Germans and captured 132, including two officers, and herded them into his home dugout.

The big, red-headed hero of the hog and hominy commonwealth has been having quite a deal of hard luck in the after-glow of his fame. Debt, cinch-bugs, boll weevils and five-cent cotton are no such shining marks as mere Germans. He is busy gunning for the mortgage on his 395-acre farm, near Pall Mall, Tenn., trying to build a silo and hoping for the best.

He is a modest hero and deserves a cheer from all hands. This being a pleasant and unique deviation from that rather bitter monologue of Lou Angler, old-time German dialect comedian. The generals and the orators were throwing out their chests, celebrating their victory in war, "Vere iss der soldier?" was the plaintive refrain of the piece. And then the answer:

"He iss over in de woods, cutting down a tree to make himself a wooden leg."

GEN. EVANGELINE BOOTH, here from London on official business, says she's coming "home" to live next October. A Cooper union audience hissed her when she came here from Canada in 1904, but cheered before she finished. She remained 30 years, running the army from her quaint old house in Hartsdale, N. Y.

She will be 74 next Christmas, relinquishing command of the international army. The daughter of Gen. William Booth, founder of the army, she was reared in London. At 17, the tall, vigorous, red-headed girl swung into the army ranks, singing their warrior hymns in the slums of London. Hoodlums had a standing offer of $50 for anyone who would knock off her coal-scuttle bonnet. Nobody ever did, then or since, although she was once severely injured. She was put in command of the Canadian army in 1896.

Trend

How the wind is blowing . . .
NEGROES — In 18 southern states, 58 per cent of Negro children between ages 6 to 14 were attending school in 1915-16. By 1935-36, the U. S. office of education reports, this figure had increased to 84 per cent.

PRESS—A ministry of information will be established soon in the British cabinet, theoretically having no power of censorship in peacetime but actually destroying Britain's traditional free press.

SUBMARINES — Thus far spared such disasters as America's Squalus and Britain's Thetis, France is seeking to purchase four rescue bells like those used by the U. S. navy.

BARTER—Early consummation is predicted for the unorthodox "barter" treaty whereby American cotton would be traded for British tin and rubber.

Half of Wheat Belt Dry Again

Lack of Moisture Indicates Shortage in Grain; Light Winter Crop.

CHICAGO.—Reports of drouth covering a large part of the American wheat belt and extending north into the three western Canadian provinces have been received. It was estimated that over 50 per cent of the total North American wheat acreage is in the dry area.

A large part of the area seeded to wheat west of the 100th meridian was said to be rather urgently in need of additional moisture. There has been steady deterioration in the outlook for winter wheat in parts of Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, and Nebraska, and estimates on the probable harvest are being revised downward.

The department of agriculture's report suggested 544,000,000 bushels of winter wheat. This is the smallest crop in about 25 years, with the exception of the 1933-35 period, when domestic production dropped below requirements. Last year's crop was a bumper one at 687,000,000 bushels.

Speculators Perk Up.
The combination of a shortage of surface and subsoil moisture in the American Northwest has caused wheat speculators to pay much more attention to weather reports from the latter area than they normally do at this season. While seeding has been completed and there was sufficient moisture to germinate the grain additional moisture must be received in the immediate future in order to prevent rapid deterioration in the outlook. A Chicago expert, after allowing for past weather conditions and normal precipitation to July 1, suggests that the spring wheat crop in the Dakotas may be about 30,000,000 bushels less than in 1938.

The outlook at the present time is for a possible aggregate wheat crop of about 750,000,000 bushels, experts say, or about the same as the average for the 1927-36 period—about 50,000,000 bushels in excess of domestic requirements.

Corn Planting Well Along.
Planting of corn made rapid progress as the result of favorable weather conditions. The critical stage in the growth of the corn crop will come late in July and early in August when it starts to tassel. It is at this time that rain and moderate temperatures are most essential if a large yield is to be secured. The trend of the market is expected to be determined largely by weather conditions during that period.

All deliveries of wheat, oats, and soy beans have sold at new seasonal high prices. The small grains were affected mainly by dry weather reports, and soy beans by a scarcity of the cash article. Despite a record crop of soy beans harvested last year supplies are reported to be unusually light.

Vermont Marks Birthday Of First Morgan Horse

MONTPELIER, VT.—The 150th anniversary of the birth of a horse is being celebrated by Vermont this year.

The horse was Justin Morgan, recognized as foundation stock for the American saddle horse, for the American trotting horse and for the Tennessee walking horse.

When in Springfield, Mass., as a three-year-old colt, the horse was taken by one Justin Morgan, a music teacher, in exchange for an unpaid $25 bill and brought to the latter's new Randolph, Vt., home.

At first the horse was known as Figure, later as Justin Morgan's Figure and finally as Justin Morgan. Evidence proves that he was sired by the thoroughbred True Briton, otherwise known as Beautiful Bay, which was stolen from Colonel De Lancey, the Tory, by three Yankees at King's Bridge, N. Y., during the Revolutionary war. The dam was a daughter of Wild Air, another of the great sires of the day.

Recognizing that the name Morgan has come to mean "beauty, spirit and action to all lovers of the horse, and (that) the Morgan horses for many years held the world's record for trotting horses," the Vermont legislature appointed a special committee to play for the 150th anniversary of the horse's birth.

Earliest Fireplace Of Man Discovered

ROME.—What is believed here to be the earliest known fireplace made by man has been found in a grotto near San Felipe Circeo, on the coast between Rome and Naples.

It is believed to be 130,000 years old and to belong to the final Ice age.

A landslide which occurred thousands of years before Ulysses sailed these waters and encountered the bewitching Circe kept it intact until its discovery by a young Italian archeologist, Prof. A. C. Blanc.

STRAWBERRY-WHIPPED-CREAM ICE
See Recipe Below.

Cold, Frosty and Delicious

Do you remember how, as a child, a party just wasn't a party unless you had ice cream? Do such childhood memories even now create little appetite longings for that frosty, flavorsome dish—longings that send you hurrying to the kitchen to make up a batch of your own favorite frozen dessert?

Homemade ice creams and sherbets are more popular than ever now that efficient modern ice cream freezers make quick work of their preparation. (You can freeze smooth, velvety sherbets and ice cream in 5 to 10 minutes flat!)

And when the advent of torrid weather calls for something special to encourage appetites made indifferent by the onslaught of heat waves, these delicious treats come into their own!

Here are some simple hints on making freezer ice creams with a collection of brand new recipes for cool, refreshing, frozen desserts—recipes which I've tested in my own kitchen and found to be as practical as they are appealing:

Hints on Making Ice Cream Freezer Ice Cream.

1. Follow directions in the recipe.
2. Scald freezing container, dasher and cover before using.
3. Crush or crack the ice finely.
4. Fill freezing container only $\frac{3}{4}$ full of ice cream mixture, to allow for expansion.
5. Cover tightly.
6. Adjust the dasher so that the handle turns easily and smoothly.
7. Use three parts crushed ice to one part rock salt, arranging in alternate layers.
8. Turn the crank slowly and steadily until turning becomes difficult.
9. When the mixture is frozen (5 to 10 minutes, with a modern ice cream freezer), wipe around the top of the container with a cloth, and remove cover carefully, so that no ice or salt falls into the mixture.
10. Remove the dasher, and pack down the cream with a spoon.
11. Replace the cover, and drain off the water from the freezer.
12. Repack with ice and salt. Cover with burlap bag or heavy paper, and allow to "ripen" for about an hour before serving.

Peppermint Candy Ice Cream.

$\frac{1}{2}$ pound peppermint stick candy
1 quart thin cream
Break the stick candy into pieces. Pour the cream over the candy and place in the refrigerator over night. Then pour the mixture into the freezing well of an ice cream freezer, pack with three parts crushed ice to one part rock salt, and freeze.

Strawberry or Raspberry Preserves Ice Cream.

1 pint coffee cream
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt
1 cup strawberry or raspberry preserves
Combine all the ingredients and pour the mixture into the freezing container of a modern ice cream freezer. Assemble the freezer and cover. Pack with ice and salt, using three parts crushed ice to one part rock salt. Freeze.

Buttermilk Ice Cream.

(Makes about $1\frac{1}{2}$ quarts)
3 cups buttermilk
1 cup crushed pineapple
 $\frac{3}{4}$ cup sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 egg white (stiffly beaten)
Combine the buttermilk, pineapple, sugar and lemon juice. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg white, and pour into freezing container of ice cream freezer. Assemble the freezer and cover. Pack with a mixture of three parts crushed ice and one part rock salt. Freeze.

Cream-Less Ice Cream.

(Makes 2 quarts)
 $\frac{3}{4}$ cup sugar
4 tablespoons flour
1 quart milk (scalded)
2 eggs (beaten separately)
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
 $\frac{1}{4}$ teaspoon salt

Combine sugar and flour and blend with scalded milk; then cook over low flame, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Remove from flame and pour three tablespoons of the mixture over beaten egg yolks. Blend thoroughly, then add to custard mixture, together with salt and vanilla extract. Chill. Pour mixture into freezing container of modern ice cream freezer. Pour the stiffly beaten egg whites over and then assemble the freezer and cover. Pack with mixture of three parts crushed ice and one part rock salt. Freeze.

Strawberry Whipped Cream Ice.

(Serves 6)
1 quart strawberries
2 cups sugar
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup lemon juice
1 pint cold water
1 cup whipped cream sweetened with 1 tablespoon confectioners' sugar

Mash the berries, add the sugar and lemon juice, and let stand for about an hour. Add the water, and pour the mixture into the freezing container of an ice cream freezer. Assemble the freezer and cover. Pack with a mixture of three parts crushed ice and one part rock salt. Turn the crank slowly and steadily until the mixture thickens (about five minutes). Carefully remove the cover and the dasher, fill the hollow with sweetened whipped cream, cover with wax paper, replace the cover and repack with ice and salt. Let stand for about three hours before serving.

Lemon Cream Sherbet.
(Makes about 2 quarts)
 $\frac{3}{4}$ cup lemon rind (grated)
1 cup cold water
1 cup lemon juice
4 cups sugar
2 eggs (beaten)
5 cups milk
2 cups heavy cream
Put the freshly grated lemon rind in a saucepan with the cold water. Bring to a boil and strain. To the liquid add the lemon juice and the sugar. Stir well. Beat eggs and to them add the milk and cream. Assemble the freezer and pack with ice and salt. When the freezer is ready, combine the two mixtures for the ice cream, pouring the fruit mixture slowly into the milk and cream. Stir quickly, pour into the freezing container, cover and freeze.

PAUL REVIEWS HIS LIFE

LESSON TEXT—Philippians 1:12-14, 21-24, 3:12-14; II Timothy 4:7, 8.
GOLDEN TEXT—I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith.—II Timothy 4:7.

Self-examination may be a most profitable experience if carried out in the right spirit and for a good purpose. It may be very humbling to look at one's experiences and accomplishments in honest appraisal, but the very humility which is thus brought about may be the first step toward better things and may prove to be a real means of blessing.

Paul, whose life we have been studying together for the last three months, made a review of his own life and experience in various places in his epistles. We cannot study them all, but in the brief portions before us we find that the apostle had laid hold of those certainties without which life is largely meaningless and useless. He had found victory over both himself and his circumstances. He was perfectly clear about his eternal destiny. He had a goal toward which his life was directed in earnest endeavor, and he had in view the reward which was to be his when he met his God. What an excellent opportunity we have to bring out the truth as related to ourselves on this coming Lord's Day.

I. Living Above Circumstances (Phil. 1:12-14).

Paul had been imprisoned for the gospel's sake. Did that stop him? No, for he made the very guards who were assigned to watch him at his house the objects of his ministry and they, in turn, became missionaries of the cross. He sought to win each one as he took his designated period of guard service and then sent him out as a testimony to "the whole Praetorian guard and to all the rest" (v. 13, R. V.). What a consistent and glowing Christian life Paul must have lived day by day.

Not only were some of his Christian brethren encouraged by his example to preach the gospel, but we note in verse 15 that others, taking advantage of the fact that Paul was in prison, went out to preach just to show that they were as good as he, making their very preaching an expression of their envy of his popularity. Paul showed victory over circumstances by thanking God that the gospel was preached, even though it was done in a wrong spirit.

II. Facing Eternity With Joy (Phil. 1:21, 24).

To Paul, departure from this life would mean his entering into perfect fellowship with Christ and unlimited service for Him. He therefore had a strong desire to depart and to be with the Lord. He would not, however, turn away from his present privilege and duty. If it was God's will that he should abide in the flesh, he purposed that it should be literally true of him that to live is Christ. If that be true in a man's life, then it must necessarily follow that to die is gain. The reason men fear death is that in place of saying "to live is Christ," they say "to live is money," "position," "pleasure," or even "sin."

III. Pressing Toward the Goal (Phil. 3:12-14).

These are the words of the man who possibly was the greatest Christian and Christian worker of all time. Was he satisfied with himself? No, the Spirit of Christ in him and the vision of the goal which he had not yet attained made him press on.

The spiritually minded Christian has no word of commendation for past success, he gives Christ the glory. He does not permit past failures to hold him back, for they have been put under the blood. He is not content merely to hold his own, for he knows that to stand still is to go back. Christian friends, let us by God's blessing and grace take a forward step today, and tomorrow, and the day after, that we may, like Paul, press on toward the goal to the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.

Scripture speaks frequently of the reward which shall come to the faithful Christian at the close of a life of holiness and service for Christ. It is no doubt commendable that Christians do not often speak of their reward, for it should be true of every servant of Christ that the love of Christ should constrain him. On the other hand, it is important that we keep before us the fact that at the end of the road there is recognition by "the Lord, the righteous Judge," and that we may properly look forward to the receiving of the crown of righteousness from His hand. The life of the Christian has glorious meaning from beginning to end, yes, and on through all eternity!

Christ's Power

One of the undeniable miracles of Christian history is the mystic power of the disciples of Christ to remain faithful to Him in spite of all possible temptations to desert the faith.

Rebecca in 'Ivanhoe'

The original of Rebecca was Rebecca Grantz, daughter of Michael Grantz of Langerdorff in upper Silesia. Born on March 4, 1781, as a child and young woman she lived in Philadelphia, where she was known as "the good Jewess" and "the beautiful Jewess." Her portrait was painted by Malbone and by Sully.

It was Washington Irving who called her to the attention of Walter Scott. Miss Grantz had been a cherished friend of Irving's fiancée. She died August 27, 1869.

Uncle Phil Says:

Man Is Gregarious
A delight in solitude is an acquired taste—and usually compulsory.

When love takes flight from a window, it is usually from the dining room window.

The man who settles down is more likely to "settle up."

There's Competition
Sin loves company, too, and finds it quite as readily as misery does.

Two-thirds of all trouble is worry. But worry is something that's constitutional.

Many are skeptical because of their credulity.

Wit and Wisdom

"SWIMMING gives girls a good color," says a writer. So does diving—into their handbags.

"The bobbed-haired girl is going out," says a well-known hairdressing expert. Yes; every night.

A motorist's defense was that the pedestrian flatly refused to get out of the way. The question, however, is whether he was flat before he refused.

"Intoxicating" was the description in a newspaper report of the scenes at a recent first night. We trust this does not mean that the audience gave way to boos.

Eighty fathers and sons attended the banquet at the Dorcas room last Thursday evening to honor the fathers and sons of our community. Howard Atkinson acted as toastmaster, and after the invocation by Rev. Byler, introduced the song leader who developed a bad case of cold feet and demanded a substitute. Danny Pearson gave the toast to the fathers and J. H. Johnson responded with a toast to the sons. Norman Van Wormer, Eugene and Leorine Lake sang several numbers, and Roger Greve gave a recitation. Mr. Franson of the Silver Creek Ranger Station gave an excellent talk to the boys on sportsmanship, and Howard Evans of East Tawas gave a brief history of the boy scout origin and activities. Mr. Evans, master of the boy scouts in East Tawas, and four members of his troop presented the flag at the beginning of the program and later retired the flag, a ceremony of great interest to the boys present. Here's The Difference these inland waterway freight carriers slightly under 2 cents goes for taxes of all sorts—and this, too, represents all they pay for "roadway" and taxes. Thoughtful people now believe that forms of transport which operate on and by means of facilities provided by the taxpayers shall pay for the use of such facilities and shall be on an equal basis as regards taxes—real taxes to be expended for the general support of government. Laws now before Congress aim to remedy the present inequitable situation in the American transportation industry. In substance, they call merely for a square deal for the railroads. CHAPTER I

Sherwood Park is twelve miles from Washington. Starting as a somewhat pretentious suburb on the main line of a railroad, it was blessed with easy accessibility until encroaching trolleys swept the tide of settlement away from it, and left it high and dry—its train service, unable to compete with modern motor vehicles, increasingly inefficient. Property values, inevitably, decreased. The little suburb degenerated, grew less fashionable. People who might have added social luster to its gatherings moved away. The frame houses, which at first had made such a brave showing, became a bit down at the heel.

The Barnes cottage was saved from the universal lack of loveliness by its simple lines, its white paint and green blinds. Yet the paint had peeled in places, and the concrete steps which followed the line of the two terraces were cracked and worn.

Old Baldwin Barnes had bought his house on the installment plan, and his children were still paying for it. Old Baldwin had succumbed to the deadly monotony of writing the same inscription on red slips through thirty years of faithful service in the Pension Office, and had left the world with his debts behind him.

He had the artistic temperament which his son inherited. Julia was like her mother who had died two years before her husband. Mrs. Barnes had been unimaginative and capable. It was because of her that Julia had married an architect, and was living in a snug apartment in Chicago, that Baldwin Junior had gone through college and had some months at an art school before the war came on, and that Jane, the youngest, had a sense of thrift, and an intensive experience in domestic economy.

As for the rest of her, Jane was twenty, slender as a Florentine page, and fairly pretty. She was in love with life and liked to talk about it. Young Baldwin said, indeed, with the frankness of a brother, that Jane ran on like a babbling brook.

She was "running on" this November morning, as she and young Baldwin ate breakfast together. Jane always got the breakfast. Sophy, a capable Negro woman, came over later to help with the housework, and to put the six o'clock dinner on the table. But it was Jane who started the percolator, poached the eggs, and made the toast on the electric toaster, while young Baldwin read the Washington Post. He read bits out loud when he was in the mood. He was not always in the mood, and then Jane talked to him. He did not always listen, but that made no difference.

Jane had named the percolator "Philomel" because of its purring harmonies.

"Don't you love it, Baldy?" Her brother, with one eye on the paper, was eating his grapefruit.

"Love what?" "Philomel."

"Silly stuff—"

"It isn't. I like to hear it sing."

"In my present mood I prefer a hymn of hate."

She buttered a slice of toast for him. "Well, of course, you'd feel like that."

"Who wouldn't?" He took the toast from her, and buried himself in his paper, so Jane buttered another slice for herself and ate it in protesting silence—plus a poached egg, and a cup of coffee rich with yellow cream and much sugar. Jane's thinness made such indulgence possible.

"I simply love breakfast," she continued.

"Is there anything you don't love, Janey?" with a touch of irritation.

"Yes."

"What?"

"You."

He stared at her over the top of the sheet. "I like that!"

"Well, you won't talk to me, Baldy. It isn't my fault if you hate the world."

"No, it isn't." He laid down the paper. "But I'll tell you this, Janey, I'm about through."

She caught her breath, then flung out, "Oh, you're not. Be a good sport, Baldy. Things are bound to come your way if you wait."

He gave a short laugh and rose. "I wish I had your optimism."

"I wish you had."

They faced each other, looking for the moment rather like two young cockerels. Jane's bobbed hair emphasized the boyish effect of her straight, slim figure. Baldy towered above her, his black hair matching hers, his eyes, too, matching—gray and lighted-up.

Jane was the first to turn her eyes away. She looked at the clock. "You'll be late."

He got his hat and coat and came back to her. "I'm a blamed sore-head. Give me a kiss, Jane."

She gave it to him, and clung to him for a moment. "Don't forget to bring a steak home for dinner," was all she said, but he was aware of the caress of those clinging fingers.

It was one of his grievances that he had to do the marketing—one could not depend on Sherwood's single small store—so Baldy with dreams in his head drove twice a week to the butcher's stall in the old Center Market to bring back chops, or a porterhouse, or a festive small roast.

He had no time for it in the mornings, however. His little car took him over the country roads and through the city streets and landed him at the Patent Office at a quarter of nine. There, with a half hour for lunch, he worked until five—it was a dog's life and he had other aspirations.

Jane, left to herself, read the paper. One headline was sensational. The bride of a fashionable wedding had been deserted at the altar. The bridegroom had failed to appear at the church. The guests waiting impatiently in the pews had been informed, finally, that the ceremony would be postponed.

Newspaper men hunting for the bridegroom learned that he had left a note for his best man—and that he was on his way to southern waters. The bride could not be seen. Her uncle, who was also her guardian, and with whom she lived, had stated that there was nothing to be said. That was all. But society was on tiptoe. Delafeld Simms was the son of a rich New Yorker. He and his bride were to have spent their honeymoon on his yacht. Edith Towne had a fortune to match his. Both of them belonged to old and aristocratic families. No wonder people were talking.

There was a picture of Miss Towne, a tall, fair girl, in real lace, orange blossoms, seed pearls—

"Pride was in every line of her. Jane's tender fancy carried her to that first breathless moment when the bride had donned that gracious gown and had surveyed herself in the mirror. "How happy she must have been." Then the final shuddering catastrophe.

Sophy arrived at this moment, and Jane told her about it. "She'll never dare trust anybody, will she?"

"Yo' kain't ever tell what a woman will do, Miss Janey. Effen she a trustin' nature, she'll trust' and trust', and effen she ain't a trustin' nature, she won't trust' nohow."

"But what do you suppose made him do it?"

"Nobody knows what a man's gwine do, w'en it comes to gittin' married."

"But to leave her like that, Sophy. I should think she'd die."

"Effen the good Lord let women die w'en men 'ceived them," Sophy proclaimed with a chuckle, "dere wouldn't be a female lef' w'en the trump sounded." Her tray was piled high with dishes, as she stood in the dining-room door. "Does you-all want rice puddin' fo' dinnah, Miss Janey?"

And there the subject dropped. But Jane thought a great deal about it as she went on with her work.

She told her sister, Julia, about it when, late that afternoon, she wrote her weekly letter.

"The worst of it must have been to lose her faith in things. I'd rather be Jane Barnes without any love affair than Edith Towne with a love affair like that. Baldy told me the other day that I am not unattractive! Can't you see him saying it? And he doesn't think me pretty. Perhaps I'm not. But there are moments, Judy, when I like myself—"

"Baldy nearly had a fit when I bobbed my hair. But I did it and took the consequences, and it's no end comfortable. Baldy at the present moment is mid-Victorian. It is his reaction from the war. He says he is dead sick of flappers. That they are all alike—and make no appeal to the imagination! He came home the other night from a dance and read Tennyson—can you fancy that after the way he used to fling Amy Lowell at us and Carl Sandburg? He says he is so tired of short skirts and knees and proposals and cigarettes that he is going to hunt with a gun, if he ever decides to marry, for an Elaine or a Griselda! But the worst of it is, he takes it out on me! I wish you'd see the way he censors my clothes and my manners, and I sit here like a prisoner in a tower with not a man in sight but Evans Follette, and he is just a heartache, Judy."

"Baldy had had three proposals; he said that the first was stimulating, but repetition 'staled the interest.' Of course he didn't tell me the names of the girls. Baldy's not a cad.

"But he is discouraged and desperately depressed. He has such a big talent, Judy, and he just slaves away at that old office. He says that after those years in France, it seems like a cage. I sometimes wonder what civilization is, anyhow, that we clip the wings of our young eagles. We take our boys and shut them up, and they pant for freedom. Is that all that life is going to mean for Baldy—eight hours a day—behind bars?"

The darkness had come by the time she had finished her letter. She changed her frock for a thinner one, wrapped herself in an old cape of orange-hued cloth, and went out to lock up her chickens. She had fed them before she wrote her letter, but she always took this last look to be sure they were safe.

The shed where the chickens were kept was back of the garage. When Jane opened the door, her old Persian cat, Merrymaid, came out to her, and a puff-ball of a kitten. Jane snapped on the lights in the chicken-house and the biddies stirred. When she snapped them off again, she heard them settle back to sheltered slumber.

The kitten danced ahead of her, and the old cat danced too, as the wind whirled her great tail about. "We won't go in the house—we won't go in the house," said Jane, in a sort of conversational chant, as the pussies followed her down a path which led through the pines. She often walked at this hour—and she loved it best on nights like this.

She felt poignantly the beauty of it—the dark pines and the little moon above them—the tug of the wind at her cloak like a riotous playmate.

Baldy was not the only poet in the family, but Jane's love of beauty was inarticulate. She would never be able to write it on paper or draw it with a pencil.

Wyoming's reported population. Only two of the 48 states are without deer, according to this report.

A revelation which will be astonishing to some, outside of Pennsylvania, is that the Keystone state, the second most populous in the union, also ranks second in deer population with 700,093 reported. California leads the western states with 435,555 deer. The deer comprise more than four-fifths of the big game of America, outnumbering in population the great city of Chicago.

In all, there are 5,160,605 big game animals in America, or less than one to every 25 persons recorded in the last census.

When one harks back to the millions of head of big game which roamed the country 100 years ago, these figures are but an insignificant remnant. It is possible the antelope and bison alone reached a figure over 100,000,000.

Of the 15 species enumerated in the census only the deer seemed to have recovered to a figure appreciably near their original abundance. Some of the species, notably the big horn sheep, are still on the decline.

There are 874,000 deer in Michigan alone," points out Stanley T. Boggess, who made the analysis for the institute. "There are 15 states in the Union which have fewer than this number of human beings."

In general it is noted the entire trend of the big population is on the upswing. It would be difficult to say just how many years it has been since the big game population of any given state exceeded the number of human beings in the same area.

The state which comes nearest this is Nevada. Nevada's 91,000 people outnumber the big game reported in that state only by about 3 to 2. The five species of big game animals resident in Nevada totals 60,875.

The state which comes nearest the proportions indicated by these figures is Wyoming. In that state nine big game species total more than 125,923. This figure represents a sum equal to more than half of

He hasn't been able lately to work much at night, he's dead tired. But there's a prize offer of a magazine cover design, and I want him to compete. He says there isn't any use of his trying to do anything unless he can give all of his time to it."

"Of course you've heard all this before, but I hear it every day. And I like to talk things out. I must not write another line, dearest. And don't worry, Baldy will work like mad if the mood strikes him."

"Did I tell you that Evans Follette and his mother are to dine with us on Thanksgiving Day? We ought to have six guests to make things go. But nobody will fit in with the Follettes. You know why, so I needn't explain."

"Kiss both of the babies for me. Failing other young things, I am going to have a Christmas tree for the kitten. It's a gay life, darling."

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Ring as Love Token
The ring as a love token commences its recorded history when the ancient Greeks sent rings of iron to their betrothed as evidence of an agreement.
The ring being placed on the third finger of the left hand during the marriage service. For it was believed that a nerve led from this finger directly to the heart. But most of the men wore their rings upon the right hand as a mark of power and independence
