

TAWAS CITY

WHITTEMORE, TAWAS CITY VIE FOR FIRST

Locals Will Play Double Header at Whittemore Sunday

The American Division of the Northeastern Michigan League has developed into a real race with four teams very much in the running. Whittemore and Tawas City are in first place with five games won and one loss. Turner is next on the list with six wins and two defeats. Prescott is running a strong fourth with four victories and two losses. Anyone of these teams have a good chance to cop first place in their division, and the baseball fans in this vicinity can look forward to some heated contests during the remainder of the season.

Last Sunday's game with Harrisville was washed out before it got started. Both teams were out in full force anxious to get going. Tawas City still smarting from the trouncing handed them by Harrisville in the opening game of the season, and eager to get revenge, Harrisville out to duplicate the trick and again sat the Tawas City lads back on their heels. But the big black clouds which were gathering in the northwest, finally came over and drenched the diamond and a number of players and fans before they could reach cover. When the storm ended, the infield was a young lake and baseball was out for the day. The game will be played on August 27.

Next Sunday is the first of the big battles which is ahead of the local team, a double header is scheduled to be played at Whittemore. The first game will start at 1:00 p. m. So ladies, if you are the wife of a rabid baseball fan, don't kick if he asks for an early luncheon or dinner, but see that he gets it and then pile into the family car and accompany him to Whittemore and witness two of the hardest fought games you can ever dream of, take place. Both teams will be out to take two and hold a notch in the league standings with Turner and Prescott out trying to win their games and stay in the running, and also keeping a weather eye peeled on the Tawas City-Whittemore battles, hoping for a split which would give them a better chance to gain the cherished position.

What do you say fans? Let's have a large delegation from Tawas City at the game Sunday and help the boys bag both ends of the twin bill. Manager Jack Forsten has had the boys out for several stiff practice sessions this week and they're all primed and ready to go. The team will leave from Choler's garage at 11:00 a. m. sharp, and all players are asked to be on time.

Miss Jean Hardy, girl evangelist, Bible teacher, and dramatic reader, of Detroit, will be speaker and teacher at a Bible school and meetings at the Hale Methodist church beginning Tuesday, July 18, and continuing until Sunday evening, July 23. Then beginning Monday, July 24, will hold a Bible school and meeting at the Whittemore church, continuing until Sunday evening, July 30.

The Bible school will begin at 9:15 with a devotional period under the leadership of Miss Hardy. Then from 9:30 to 10:30 a class period of three groups, the young people and adults with Miss Hardy teaching, an intermediate group and a primary group. From 10:30 to 10:45 a recess period. Then from 10:45 to 11:45 there will be a class period of two groups, the young people with the pastor teaching a course in "Knowing Your Bible," and the intermediate and primary group with Miss Hardy leading. The Bible school will close with a picnic at the lake.

Each evening during the Bible school at 8:00 o'clock, Gospel meetings will be held with Miss Hardy preaching. We urge everyone, young and old to attend these services. Miss Hardy comes well recommended as a speaker and Christian Bible teacher. She has been very successful with young people, being a young girl herself. She has been in the Gospel ministry for the past six years. The pastor has had her in several meetings, and has always been pleased and impressed with her safe and sane Gospel message. She is also a fine dramatic reader, which she renders during the meetings.

Refits Hercules for Deep Sea Fishing

Deep sea fishing for bass near the Charities, a moonlight party trip on the bay—call Mike Coyne. He has refitted the "Hercules," a substantial commercial fishing craft, for passenger service and during the past few weeks a number of parties of sportsmen have enjoyed fishing near the Charities. They were successful, too, getting fine catches of four to five pound bass. Mike insures his patrons' success in getting fish. If bass are not biting at the Charities, he anchors the "Hercules" in the bay where they can fish for perch.

Hale Boy Rescues Three From Upset Raft

Three persons narrowly escaped death last Thursday while bathing at Bass Lake near Hale and only quick thinking and prompt action on the part of Bruce Greve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Greve, prevented tragedy. The children had moved a raft out to deep water and June Clayton assisted Margaret Johnson out to the raft. Their added weight upset the raft and Mrs. Bernice Carter, who was on the raft with the children, came to the rescue of the two girls, but their weight was too much for her and the three had gone down several times when Bruce dove under the girls and held Mrs. Carter to the surface until his sister, Norma, who was out in a boat, reached them and the girls were taken to shore in the boat.

Isoco Tax Commission Meeting Adjourned

According to a communication from County Clerk R. H. McKenzie the meeting of the Isoco County Tax Commission scheduled for July 21 has been adjourned to July 28.

Famous Harpist Will Appear Here July 19

Otto Baganze, of Fon Du Lac, Wisconsin, one of the leading harpists in the United States, has been engaged for a concert on Wednesday, July 19, at 8:00 p. m. in Emanuel Lutheran church, of which Rev. J. J. Roekle is pastor. The general public is cordially invited. No admission will be charged, but a free will offering will be taken. Mr. Baganze is well recommended—very talented and skilled musician, who through many years of faithful application has acquired a marvelously brilliant technique of an instrument which is known to be one of the most difficult to master. He began playing the harp at the age of nine years. He is a pupil of Enrico Tramoto, who is recognized to have been the world's greatest harpist, and of Edmund Schuecker, the great chorale harpist. For seven seasons he studied under and worked with Joseph Vito of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. He now specializes in church music and during the past three years has given some 1200 concerts in Lutheran churches in twenty states.

Of great interest is the unusual instrument which Mr. Baganze owns and plays. It is claimed to be the last word in the harp-maker's art, both as to construction and tone, and has been termed "the Stradivarius of harps." It was produced especially for exhibition at the Century of Progress Exhibition in Chicago and was here shown as "the finest harp ever built." It is worthy of note that this particular instrument was played for the first time in public by Mr. Baganze in a symphony concert towards the close of the World's Fair. Assisting the harpist in his concerts are Rhoda Tramo with the vibraphone and chimes and his son, Rueben, with the cathedral Marimba. This ensemble has very largely been pronounced an excellent combination, splendidly adapted to Mr. Baganze's programs in which he features chorales, hymns and religious music.

Mr. Baganze comes well recommended by men prominent in church and musical circles, and no one will ever regret hearing his unique and uplifting concert program.

National 3-Year Men Vacation With Pay

All men who have been in the employ of the National Gypsum company, for three years prior to July 1, are eligible for one week's vacation with pay. This plan was announced to the employees of the company's National City plant Thursday. Approximately one hundred men are entitled to vacation in this vicinity.

Hale School Will Hold Reunion Sunday, July 30

A reunion of those who attended the Hale public schools will be held Sunday, July 30, at the Rollways camp Au Sable river. The program is now being arranged by the officers and it will include a pot luck dinner. Mrs. Cora Johnson, president, says, if you know of a former schoolmate whom you wish to have attend, send the address to Francis L. Gardner, secretary, 494 Ashland ave., Detroit, or Mrs. Faye Johnson, corresponding secretary, Whittemore, and an invitation will be sent. If you remember a good story about an incident in the good old school days bring it along. It may be useful because someone may have a good story about you. Last year's reunion brought out a large crowd at Loon lake and everyone had a fine afternoon.

TAWAS YACHT CLUB WILL HOLD RACES

Seventh Annual Regatta Will Open Sunday, July 23

The seventh annual regatta of the Tawas Bay Yacht Club will be held on Tawas bay July 22 to 29. Announcement of this year's plans was made this week after a meeting of club members last Saturday evening.

Merrill Pollard, rear-commander of the club, is general chairman of the event. Leonard Butryn will head the registration and finance committee. Gerald Mallon and Don Anderson will make arrangements for the banquet, while Matthew Haglund will supervise laying out of the course and erection of the judges' stand.

Four classes will make up the fleet for the week's racing. Class A, which includes all boats over 26 feet, will consist of Six Meters, CH class boats and Saginaw Bay class boats. Class B boats, from 16 to 26 feet, will include Cat Boats; Class C, all boats under 16 feet, will be made up of Snipes, Larks, Comets and other craft. National One-Design sloops will comprise the fourth class.

The racing program will consist of seven races—five point races and two novelty races. Starting Sunday, July 23, at 1:00 p. m. with the first point race, sailing craft will vie for honors through the entire week. A banquet at the Holland hotel at which trophies will be awarded, will close the affair on Saturday night, July 29. Skippers will register their boats on Saturday, July 22, at the Community Building in the State Park. Instructions will then be issued and they will be shown the course over which they are to sail throughout the week.

Twenty-five skippers have assured the committee their boats will be on Tawas bay for the regatta. Carl Babcock, Hugo Keiser, Gerald Mallon, Leonard Butryn, Arthur Dillon, Sr., and Merrill Pollard will act as judges.

Arrangements are being made for the installation of a public address system on the state park dock so that spectators may know the position of competing craft during the races.

170 ENJOY EAST TAWAS EPWORTH MEET

Sessions Close Tonight After Memorable Week

One hundred and seventy six young people, representing communities from Saginaw, on the south, to Chishogan on the north, and as far west in Michigan as Gaylord and Grayling, are in attendance at the 10th annual district Epworth League convention held at East Tawas this week.

Opening with a "Get-Acquainted" party at the Community Building last Saturday evening, the meeting has offered many fine character-building sessions. The program includes student council conferences, leadership classes, dramatics, recreation periods and entertainment features.

Among the prominent speakers who are lecturing and leading classes are Dr. Sidney D. Eyr, Detroit area executive secretary who delivered a fine address Tuesday evening; Dr. Newell A. McCune, pastor of Peoples church, East Lansing, who is conducting the Gallien services on the shores of Tawas Bay each evening; and Barton Res Pogue, the Upland, Indiana, poet, who is leading the dramatics class and gave several short dramatic skits.

Communities which are represented at the institute include Akron, Alpena, Auburn, Bay City, Bay Port, Bethel, Bridgeport, Caro, Chesaning, Detroit, East Tawas, Freeland, Gaylord, Hale, Hubbard Lake, Mayville, Midland, Pinconning, Prescott, Prudenville, Saginaw, Tawas City, Tuscola and Vassar.

Already rated by those in attendance as a success, the week's doings will close tonight (Friday) with an inspirational campfire service on the shore of the bay.

J. Alvin McLean

James Alvin McLean resident of Oscoda for 30 years, well known employee of the Isoco County Highway Department, passed away Friday of a stroke suffered two months ago.

J. Alvin McLean was born at Bentley, January 14, 1908, and came to Au Sable and Oscoda in 1909.

In 1919 he was united in marriage to Miss Ruth Thornton. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Joyce, three brothers, Ray, Adrian and Clifford, and his mother, Mrs. Fred Stiller. Funeral services were held Monday from the Oscoda Methodist church, Rev. S. A. Carey officiating, assisted by Rev. M. A. Sommerfield. All members of the Highway Department attended the funeral.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

G. O. P. Centers on Vandenberg Despite Tom Dewey's Showing In Popular Opinion Samplings

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

POLITICS: G. O. P. Shift

As recently as one year ago politicians feared such highly successful public opinion samplings as the Gallup poll might make party nominating conventions needless. Example: New York's racket-busting District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey is No. 1 popular candidate for the Republican presidential nomination next year.

But popular opinion is one thing and common sense another. Astute Republicans know Tom Dewey has no administrative record, know also that he might be elected and still prove a failure, thus destroying the party's chances in 1944. In Washington, where political schemes are hatched, the G. O. P. now seems bent on nominating not Tom Dewey but another Michigan product, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg. Reasoning: Most conservative politicians favor him and most G. O. P. editorial support falls in his direction.

What such seers have not considered is that 1936 found Gallup polls, Fortune polls and several other samplings much less fallible than U. S. editorial opinion, which the public rejected to elect a Democratic President. But since 1936 the public has followed a newspaper-inspired trend to conservatism, which probably makes today's editorial opinion less erring.

Biggest Vandenberg asset in winning both G. O. P. and Democratic votes is his middle-of-the-road record and a reputation for working harmoniously with both friends and enemies. In May he led a victorious fight against the Florida canal project in which he was supported by 22 Republican and 23 Democratic senators. Better than anyone else, observers think he could win anti-Roosevelt Democratic votes.

Other G. O. P. boomlets:
Bridges. In 1936 New Hampshire's ex-governor and present senator, H. Styles Bridges, missed the vice presidential nomination with Alfred M. Landon simply because strategists thought a Landon-Bridges combination sounded too much like "London Bridge is falling down." This month thousands of booklets captioned: "For President in 1940—Styles Bridges" are being distributed in his behalf by a New Hampshire organization. Noticeably absent from campaign literature is the first initial H., a concession to diplomacy.

Martin. House Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. was judged most popular congressman last winter by newspaper correspondents and has now become vice presidential possibility. Since he would rather be speaker of the house next session than vice president (provided the election goes Republican), Joe Martin is busily fighting off boosters like Illinois' Rep. Leo E. Allen, who predicts that the man who managed Alf Landon's nomination fight at the 1936 convention will find a lot of friends awaiting him at next year's gathering.

AGRICULTURE: Good or Bad?

Until Judgment day men will probably use the year 1929 as a basis for comparing economic conditions. This year, 10 summers after the stock market reached its peak, a decade's experience led Standard Statistics company to probe the U. S. farmer's status. General conclusion is that it almost parallels 1929's, though conditions themselves differ as night from day. Today's "prosperity" has a different basis.

Retail sales, always a good index, seem to be up. But biggest increases are shown not by independent local merchants but by mail order houses, which may indicate no return of prosperity but simply a swing to mail order buying. Less important, but significant in the mail order increase, is decentralization of industry.

Science Finds Possible Cure For Catarrh

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

ONE of the meanest ailments with which mankind is afflicted is ozaena, or the dry form of catarrh. In addition to the catarrhal symptoms, there is a most offensive odor which makes it almost impossible for these patients to mix with other people.

TODAY'S HEALTH COLUMN

In 1937 Drs. Hector Mortimer, R. Percy Wright and J. B. Collip in an investigation of this ailment reported their findings in the Canadian Medical Association Journal. They were able to show that this ailment was due to an inherited constitution just as in the case of sufferers with hay fever and some other ailments.

Dr. Barton That there is a relation between the genital or sex organs and the nose has been known for years and by the use of hormones (estrogen) these research physicians were able to help a number of these ozaena patients by putting this substance up the nose.

As catarrh of the nose and throat is believed to be the commonest cause of deafness, the above named research physicians and Dr. D. L. Thomson now report in the Canadian Medical Association Journal the successful treatment of a number of cases of constitutional deafness by the application of these sex hormone substances up the nose.

Find Constitutional Cause. "The series investigated consists of 153 patients, of whom 94 are females and 59 males. The average age of the females is 37 years, the youngest 11 years of age and the oldest 74; in the males, average age is 38, youngest 9 and the oldest 76." It was found that not only may the two conditions—ozaena and deafness—be present in the same individual, but in one generation of the family ozaena may be found in certain members, whilst others have defective hearing.

The two points we get from this research work is (a) that there seems to be a constitutional condition present that makes these individuals likely to have ozaena or deafness or both, and (b) this very fact makes it possible for the same method of treatment—estrogen—applied to the lining of the nose to greatly help both conditions. Notwithstanding these findings, these research workers state that they do not suggest that constitutional deafness is due to any lack of gland substance in the individual.

Waste Poisons Cause Biliousness

A physician called to visit a patient who had a "bilious" attack left this parting warning. "Remember, now, no food for 48 hours."

The patient promptly replied, "Don't worry about food, I don't want to ever see food any more."

This distaste for food is just one more of nature's little ways of guarding us when we are sick. While food—liquid, soft, or solid—is now given regularly in many ailments, in the treatment of biliousness it is still considered wise to withhold food for 36 to 48 hours.

"The symptoms of a so-called bilious attack may come on more or less acutely. There is a feeling of mental depression, giddiness, headache, nausea or vomiting, loss of appetite or actual repulsion of food, spots floating before the eyes or other disturbance of vision, and a feeling of tiredness and no desire for mental or physical work."

While some of these bilious attacks are due to nervousness or emotional upsets, most of them are due to poisons in the blood from wastes that should have been filtered out by the liver or thrown out by the bowels. Chronic infection of the teeth, tonsils, gall bladder, sinus, or other organs may gradually pile up enough poisonous material or wastes to bring on an attack. After this "explosive" attack which may rid the system of some of the waste or poison products, the patient may feel considerably better.

Food Not Digested.

"Imperfectly digested food which has undergone putrefaction in the bowel or poisonous material allowed to remain too long in the bowel (constipation) may be the cause."

Thus the condition may readily follow a badly digested meal. The first thought in the treatment of an attack is to avoid solid food for 24 to 48 hours, using sweetened water or fruit juices to maintain fluids in the system.

The old-fashioned remedy of a grain of calomel followed by a dose of salts is still good treatment.

The constant thought should be to try to avoid these attacks by eating less rich food, or eating four small meals instead of three large meals, and not eating at all or very lightly when under nervous strain or an emotional upset.

British Minister of War Inspects Territorial Army

Leslie Hore-Belisha, British minister of war, is shown during his inspection of a South London anti-aircraft station recently as he made the rounds of several of the "war stations" and anti-aircraft units in and around the city. The stations are manned by members of Britain's territorial army who are undergoing their annual training.

By the Waters of Chemquassabamticook

40 Mile Soaring Record Established

Chester J. Decker of Glen Rock, N. J., recently established a new American soaring record in Elmira, N. Y., for goal flight and return. Decker flew to Hammondsport and returned to Harris Hill, a 40-mile round trip, in three hours, seven minutes. Previous record was held by Richard C. duPont of Wilmington, Del., who in 1936 flew 34 miles.

Plow Aids 'Der Moxie' in Ring Comeback

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—As Andre Maurois becomes an "immortal," it would seem that there ought to be honorable mention, or at least a simple garland of some kind, for Mme. Maurois. Here a few weeks ago, he explained how his wife, also a person of distinction, learned typing and stenography to keep his script flowing smoothly and legibly to the publishers. He writes only in long-hand, said to be quite as cramped and illegible as that of Horace Greeley, and she alone of all mortals can translate it. Seat No. 35 in the French academy might still be vacant but for Mme. Maurois.

But for Spouse Maurois Might Still Be Mortal. He began work in his father's factory, but got right on the job as a philosopher and literateur, so, when he was assigned to the British as an interpreter in the World War, he could fill them in on Byron, Shelley and Keats, and did so. Later he explained Disraeli to the English, and, around the clubs, they bit their pipe-stems and admitted that this French chap knew a lot of things they hadn't even suspected. "Ariel, the Life of Shelley" put him in the big literary tournament in 1923, where he has been ever since.

He is slight in stature, dapper and fastidious, with his thinning gray hair deployed carefully left and right, gesturing only cautiously with the sensitive hands of an artist. He has an acute, skeptical mind, interested in politics only in its historical sweep. He weighs words like an apothecary and it is as a craftsman and finished wordsmith that he qualifies for the academy. With keen insight, he has expiated America on his numerous visits here, clocking us through the valley of despond. His latest appraisal found us moving out of national adolescence into fully rational, adult statehood. He hopes for the best, but is not a fuzzy optimist. The "decline of the humane ideal," he thinks, is the most disquieting trend of the modern world.

R. WALTON MOORE, of the state department, who will be 81 years old next February, like Mr. Chips, thinks the way ahead lies through the humanities. Mr. Chips showed he was no fossil when they tried to bench him, and no more is Mr. Moore—boarding the Pan American clipper for Europe.

He is amenable in old-fashioned behavior—a tall, quiet, gray, courteous Southerner—and alertly adaptable to all new devices of living. He is keenly interested in aviation, having taken many airplane flights along the Coast, and one on the German dirigible Hindenburg. The state department's participation in international arrangements for landing fields and the like has been in his hand.

In congress from 1919 to 1930 from Virginia, he was a colleague of Secretary Hull. President Roosevelt made him assistant secretary of state in 1933 and later counselor for the department. He is a bachelor, driving 15 miles to his work from Fairfax, Va. He looks as if he could end all war talk just by serving mint juleps all around.

HERE'S a general who has saved more men than any single general ever killed. He leads expeditionary forces against armies of jungle germs—Dr. Victor J. Heiser of the Rockefeller foundation. He is in the news with his report on food research in India, in which experiments in animal feeding suggest new access to health and well-being for humans.

On May 31, 1889, his father sent him to the barn to turn loose the horse, with the Johnston flood rising. He floated away on the barn, his parents drowned, and he kept on going—through Jefferson Medical college, 16 times around the world in his 50-year fight against disease. Until 1914, he was with the U. S. marine health service, then with the Rockefeller foundation. His fame blazed out three years ago with his book, "An American Doctor's Odyssey," and later publications.

KING LEOPOLD
He prefers to be friendless, foeless.

be well, although France's line of defense would be shortened by 155 miles. But if Germany again penetrated Belgium, France would possibly evade a German attack on its northern frontier and might not aid Belgium as immediately as it did in 1914. If past experience is any indication, France might even squeeze out of a war via the time-tested appeasement route.

Meanwhile the Belgians have good reason to rush their fortifications. Knowing a German drive would hold France as its ultimate goal, shrewd King Leopold also knows the Reich might avoid a conflict with him if there is a good chance it would delay the attack on France.

FORECAST

CITATION—Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, who stood pat on the U. S. position during Japan's recent drive against Occidentals in China, is expected to be given the distinguished service medal by congress.

UP—Increased world consumption of U. S. cotton is expected by the agriculture department on basis of current sales. For the year ending August 1, consumption is estimated at 11,250,000 bales compared with 10,900,000 bales last year.

RETURN—Lord Beaverbrook's London Evening Standard predicts a return to England this fall of the duke and duchess of Windsor.

OIL—T. G. Delbridge of Philadelphia, president of the American society for testing materials, estimates the U. S. has ample petroleum supplies for 150 years.

Canada Fed Up On Alien Plots

Agents and Propagandists For Foreign Powers Face Sharp Check.

OTTAWA.—Canada is planning a far-reaching campaign to purge its shores of spies and subversive propagandists.

As one step in such a drive, the dominion government threatens to cancel the naturalization certificates of many foreign-born who are alleged to have taken Canadian citizenship as a means of masking their activities. This will make it possible to deport them as undesirable aliens.

Consuls Warned.

As a second step, the government has sounded a warning to consular representatives of foreign nations not to engage in propaganda here, or to attempt any interference with former nationals of their countries who have since become naturalized Canadians. Violation of this warning, it is strongly hinted, may lead to the expulsion of the offending official.

Strengthening the government's hand in its campaign is the official secrets law, passed at the recent parliament session. This measure provides greater secrecy for national defense plans, and also provides for protection of munition plants and other strategic government premises against sabotage and espionage. The bill provides that any person found loitering on or near such premises shall be liable to arrest, unless able to give a satisfactory reason for his presence.

German Agents Active.

German agencies in Canada are still carrying on "activities dangerous to the state," despite periodic reproofs from the dominion government, it was charged in the house of commons by A. A. Heaps, C. C. F. member from Winnipeg. He quoted published articles by a United States government agent to the effect that an active German spy had escaped from the United States last year through Montreal, where he was assisted by the German consul.

Heaps declared himself convinced that 95 per cent of Canada's foreign-born population were loyal to this country, but added that some were being influenced by propagandists from their native lands.

Engineers Move Hamlet From River to Safety

VIDALIA, LA.—This sleepy little cotton town, which has fought the Mississippi river since it was founded in 1802, has retreated for the last time.

Since the day when the Spanish dragon captain, Jose Vidal, set foot on the land which later became the site of the town, residents and nearby plantation owners constantly have been forced to flee for their lives before the mudway waters of the flooding river. But they always returned when the waters retreated.

United States army engineers decreed that the town must move. Where the town's business activities were transacted, a levee is being constructed to stop the steadily encroaching waters of the river that once brought glories to one of the South's principal cotton-shipping ports.

Six blocks away, a new Vidalia, retaining much of the historical wealth of the Old South, is gradually taking form. Only a brown spread of slowly flowing water soon will be visible where the New Orleans-bound packet boats once nudged the levee while Negroes packed bales of cotton aboard.

Vidalia has been retreating slowly for the last century, due to the river's habit of cutting new channels and undermining the man-made buttresses.

Clydebank Yard Builds Motor Liner in 28 Weeks

GLASGOW.—In the record time of 28 weeks an 11,000-ton ship, 530 feet long, has been built at Clydebank. She is the New Zealand line motor passenger liner Essex. Construction was speeded up to make way for naval tonnage.

Special apparatus will suck in 33,000 cubic feet of sea air every minute and distribute it among fruit for cooling and preservation. Apples breathe, and the gases they exhale will be trapped, cooled and wafted through the holds to prevent fruit tainting.

Jury Service Excuses Seem to Be Weighty

AKRON, OHIO.—George W. Crouse Jr. thinks he has some good reasons for not doing jury service.

Appearing before Clerk of Courts V. T. Bender, Crouse put it this way:

"I'm secretary of an insurance company, so attorneys never let me serve on damage cases, and I don't like to play cards, so there's nothing for me to do but sit around. Furthermore, I'm a farmer, and this is the farmer's busy season."

Clerk Bender, a farmer himself, said he thought Crouse's dismissal might be arranged.

Star Dust

★ New Irish Contingent

★ Olivier Reaches Top

★ Pseudo-Scraps on Air

—By Virginia Vale

THERE seems to be a new cycle starting in the movies, one involving young actresses who hail from Ireland. If they have red hair and green eyes so much the better.

Let me refer you to Greer Garson as a starter. She was launched in this country in "Goodby Mr. Chips," you know, and is a red haired, green eyed beauty. Geraldine Fitzgerald is another product of the Irish theaters. Maureen O'Hara, who arrived in this country with her mother recently, also with Charles Laughton, is the latest example. He felt that she should play "Esmeralda" when he does "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" for RKO.

She was born and brought up in Dublin, studied at the Abbey theater's school, and did a few bits in British pictures before she appeared in his "Jamaica Inn."

As she was just 18 everyone was prepared to give her all the encouragement they could, since she'd be in the company of experienced players. But after the first few days they discovered that she didn't need it. In fact, they had to be on their toes to keep her from walking off with the picture.

Perhaps ambitious youngsters who want to land in pictures would do well to rush to Ireland, achieve red hair, and start in with the Abbey Players, if this cycle is to continue. The only difficulty would seem to be acquiring green eyes, and exceptional ability to act.

If you read that delightful novel, "Rebecca," which until recently led so many best-seller lists, you'll be interested to know that Laurence Olivier has been signed to play the role of the hero.

Although he is young, Olivier has had years of experience on the stage and in the movies, but until this year he never reached the heights. Now it seems as if everyone wants him for a new production. He is appearing on the New York stage in "No Time for Comedy," with Katherine Cornell, and you can see him giving an even better performance in "Wuthering Heights," opposite Merle Oberon, than he gives in the play. He'll be perfect for the part of "Max de Winter" in "Rebecca."

If a brand new squabble breaks out between two radio stars, don't be surprised, and don't take it seriously. There isn't a really good feud raging on the air now, and radio stars discovered long ago that feuds whip up interest in their programs.

The best one of all took place years ago, between Rudy Vallee and Will Osborne, but that one was rather serious. Walter Winchell and Ben Bernie started theirs on purpose, and kept it going for years. A certain press agent has been trying to start one of those serialized battles between Sammy Kaye and Kay Kyser, with the question of which one originated the idea of singing song titles as the bone of contention, but he is said to be the everlasting credit of Kyser and Kaye that they're too proud to fight.

Pat Friday, the 17-year-old co-ed from the University of California, who is singing on Bing Crosby's program this summer, will probably be a top-notcher in movies and radio in a few years. Crosby heard her sing at an amateur night at a Beverly Hills restaurant, and recently she made her coast-to-coast debut on the air, under his direction. The telephone switchboard at the Hollywood NBC studios was promptly jammed with inquiries about her, and the following morning two movie companies offered her contracts. She turned them down; wants to work only in radio until she finishes her college course, two years from now.

ODDS AND ENDS—"One Man's Family" has again been named the best serial dramatic program on the air in the annual Radio Guide poll. . . . But in the same poll the Charlie McCarthy program won six awards. . . . Errol Flynn has passed his U. S. Department of Commerce tests and has a private pilot's license. . . . Betty Davis has had to shave her eyebrows and forehead to play "Queen Elizabeth"—the studio will have to give her a vacation after she finishes, to let them grow in again. July Is Sponge Fishing Season; Big Tropical Industry Revived

IN MID-JULY begins the annual sponge take between coasts of Miami, Fla., and Nassau, of the Bahama islands group, from which comes most of the sponges used in U. S. homes, bath rooms and gasoline stations. The above picturesque view shows the sponge fleet at anchor off the British colonial quay at Nassau. Sponges are taken from dinghys which put out from the sloops when a bed is sighted. Fishermen carry glass-bottomed buckets and spears. Others (right) pick by hand.

Picture Parade

Sponges grow at almost any depth of water. Above photo shows natives picking them from a shallow pool. Left: A fisherman depositing part of the day's catch in a rock-lined coral pool on a small island where the sponges will remain soaking until the fleet returns to Nassau. The British colonial government is experimenting in planting of sponge beds. There are three varieties: Silk sponge, wool and common type, most generally used in North America. When the fleet sets out from Nassau it usually remains away for two weeks to a month. Each boat carries small dinghys.

When fishermen have secured a catch they return to Nassau where sponges are dried out and placed on sale at an auction similar to a southern tobacco auction in the United States. Actual drying process is shown above. Sponges are buried under weeds and straw to dry out in the sun.

Since the unique sponge can be classed neither with the "metazoa" or the "protozoa" many zoologists place it in a special subkingdom known as porifera. Sponges may range in size from a pin's head to masses several feet high, and vary in weight from a grain to more than 100 pounds.

SLEEPING SICKNESS PRECAUTION URGED

Two Doses Immunize Horses For 8 Months.

Horses treated with two doses of chick embryo vaccine to prevent sleeping sickness are immune to the disease for a period of at least eight months, it is indicated by immunity tests being conducted by the division of animal pathology and hygiene, college of agriculture, University of Illinois.

Further tests on immunity will be conducted at the agricultural college to keep veterinarians and live stock owners informed with reference to the period of immunity established by the vaccine.

In the meantime, it is suggested that all good horses be immunized immediately with two doses of chick embryo vaccine to avoid losses which were reported in 85 different counties last year.

Horses that had the disease and recovered last year and horses that were vaccinated should be revaccinated, it is recommended by staff members of the division of animal pathology and hygiene.

It is hoped that tests under way at the college of agriculture will determine if horses are immune longer than eight months.

Suspicious clinical cases of sleeping sickness in horses have been reported from different sections of the state. However, tests of materials submitted to the laboratory of animal pathology and hygiene have as yet failed to yield the virus of the disease.

Mulching Commendable For Soil Conservation

In order to preserve its strength, soil must be protected with some kind of covering to prevent rains from washing away the finer particles. In the opinion of Russell E. Underwood, extension soil conservationist at the New Jersey college of agriculture, Rutgers university, the use of mulch is valuable in this respect, especially where specialized crops prohibit the use of soil-conserving rotations.

"When specialized crops are grown on sloping land and clean cultivation is practiced to control weeds and check evaporation of soil moisture, the soil is exposed and very vulnerable to dashing rains," Mr. Underwood explains.

"Mulch should be applied in strips across the slope so as to cover from one-half to two-thirds of the land area. This applies to mulch grown on available adjacent land. Frequently, however, the mulch crop could be grown and not harvested but allowed to remain on the land for protection against erosion. Oats, barley and sudan grass planted in late summer will make fairly good growth before being killed by winter freezes. Such material offers good protection against winter erosion and has the advantage of being anchored to the soil so that it is not washed or blown away."

Nature Toes the Mark In Control Laboratory

Night or day, sunlight or darkness, temperature control within a fraction of a degree, and plant-life that can be "put to work or put to bed at will," all are under the control of scientists in a specially-designed chamber at the New York state college of agriculture.

The exactness of control is probably the greatest yet achieved in any laboratory, and the aim is to unravel the mystery of plant "vigor," the quality that makes any one stock superior to others, either in yield, disease-resistance, or in other ways.

In plant breeding, it is known that when two inbred or purebred strains are crossed, the result (a hybrid) may be astonishingly better than the parent stock. This is referred to as "hybrid vigor." Why and how this happens are subjects of study by plant physiologists.

Farm Topics

One of the best ways to cut the cost of growing heifers is to provide improved pastures.

Records kept by dairy herd improvement associations increase the sales value of good grade and purebred animals.

Horses of good draft type, fine quality and energetic, kindly dispositions do the most work, endure heat well, and sell for highest prices.

Shifts to high analysis fertilizers are creating a need for more exact labeling, including the content of the secondary elements in the mixtures, say U. S. department of agriculture chemists.

The practice of fertilizing land with phosphorus bearing material is older than written records. The first acid phosphate fertilizer was made in 1842 by John Lawes, an Englishman who treated bones with sulfuric acid to make the phosphorus more readily available to plants.

Our Presidents

WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON was the oldest President when inaugurated. He was sixty-eight.

Zachary Taylor had never held any political office prior to his election to the Presidency.

The following Presidents were States ambassadors: John Adams, Jefferson, Monroe, J. Q. Adams, Van Buren and Buchanan.

When Lincoln was inaugurated there were five ex-Presidents alive: Van Buren, Tyler, Fillmore, Pierce and Buchanan.

Five Presidents, Madison, Monroe, Polk, Buchanan and Garfield, had the name of James.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt was the last President to be inaugurated on March 4 and the first to be inaugurated on January 20.

There's a Good Reason You're Constipated!

When there's something wrong with you, the first rule is: get at the cause. If you are constipated, don't endure it first and cure it afterward. Find out what's giving you the trouble.

Chances are it's simple if you eat the super-refined foods most people do: meat, white bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, you should eat a natural "bulk" producing food—such as one as the crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal, Kellogg's All-Bran. All-Bran is the ounce of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. Eat it every day, drink plenty of water, and join the Regulars. All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Rebuke Sticks

It takes little time to administer a rebuke, but it takes a long time to forget it.—Chinese proverb.

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of worldwide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that recommendation. Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for functional kidney disorder and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be warning of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

Some time in the near future the postoffice department will issue stamps in book form. The pages will be interleaved with waxed paper to prevent them from sticking to each other. The book will be convenient to carry in the pocketbook.

W. B. Kelley is having a new front put in the annex adjoining the post-office building.

Charles Katterman has a contract for painting six of the Prescott houses.

W. F. Whittemore plans to build an agricultural implement sales building next to the bank during the coming year. It will be occupied by the business owned by John Preston.

V. H. Bagger, a former resident, is visiting in the city for a few days.

S. B. Yawger of Hale, stated yesterday that he plans to build a new store building.

C. D. Geer of Hale returned Monday from a visit at Linden.

It is reported that T. J. Warren will purchase the S. Ferguson grocery at East Tawas.

Howard Caines of Baldwin township has disposed of his farm and expects to remove his family to Two Harbors, Minnesota. They will make the trip by wagon.

L. J. Fox of Mayville has taken charge of the depot at Whittemore.

Arrangements are being made for the D. & M. yacht races which will be held Aug. 12, 13 and 15.

REMEMBER the man who traveled far and wide — and at last found what he was searching for right at home? Like-wise parents, who are hunting the best vacation spots for their children, are very apt to find them right here at home — in the favored State of Michigan.

Broad, well-policed highways beckon — inviting you to bring your youngsters to well-conducted beaches and camps that were made for pleasure, that are supervised for safety. And the Michigan air and sunshine sharpen young appetites and brown youthful, ruddy cheeks.

Young and old together will enjoy the grand State Forests, the fine State Parks, the long scenic coast line ... and picturesque rocks and sand dunes ... and the educational value of the many points of historic interest.

It's a comfort to know that home and family can always be reached quickly by telephone.

Evidence of Glacial Period
Thousands of years ago a moving mass of ice covered two-thirds of what is now Ohio and left its imprint upon the surface of the underlying stone foundation of Kelley's Island. On this island, ten miles out in Lake Erie from Sandusky, rocks that have been uncovered are deeply cut and the evidences of the glacial period is one of the marvels of the world.

LOWER HEMLOCK

Cool, Easy Frocks For Midsummer Use

DO YOU go in—or rather out—for active sports? Then there's a place in your life for the pretty play frock (1767) with short tennis skirt, sunback, and bright bands of braid. A little short-sleeved jacket and head kerchief are included in your easy pattern. In pique, gingham or chambray, it will make your vacation smarter and gayer.

Cool Daytime Frock.

Are you looking for something cool, becoming and different for daytime? Then 1778 is just what you want! A square-necked, youthful basque frock, with circular skirt, upped sleeves and a tiny waistline, it will look summery and refreshing even on the hottest day, with your big hat and white shoes. For this, choose silk print, linen, gingham or lawn.

The Patterns.

1767 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 14 requires 5 1/2 yards of 35 inch material without nap. 2 1/2 yards of braid.

1778 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 and 40. Size 14 requires 4 1/2 yards of 35 inch material with short sleeves. 1 3/4 yards of trimming.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Whatever Else Might Be Said—He Was an Optimist

The fight was between two heavyweights, Puncher Smith and Killer Jones. In the first round, Puncher hit the floor hard five times, and just before the bell went down for a full count.

The winner was rushed to the mike where he said a few modest words. By this time Puncher had come to, and staggered to his feet. The announcer coaxed him to say a few words.

Puncher tried to keep his knees from collapsing. He heard sounds like the chirping of thousands of birds. Then he said to the mike: "Ladies and gentlemen—this is the greatest fight of my career—and may the best man win!"

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.
Get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a good general system tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. WELL WORTH TRYING!

THE STORY SO FAR

Young, pretty Jane Barnes, who lived with her brother, Baldwin, in Sherwood Park, near Washington, was not particularly impressed when she read that rich, attractive Edith Towne had been left at the altar by Delafield Simms, wealthy young neighbor, whom the war had left completely discouraged and despondent. Evans had always loved Jane. That morning Baldwin Barnes, on his way to work had she had left in the car, containing a diamond ring on which was inscribed "Del to Edith—Forever." He knew then that his passenger had been Edith Towne. Already he was half way in love with her. That night he discussed the matter with Jane, and they called her uncle, worldly, sophisticated Frederick Towne. He visited them at their home, delighted with Jane's simplicity.

CHAPTER III

Edith Towne had lived with her Uncle Frederick nearly four years when she became engaged to Delafield Simms. Her mother was dead, as was her father. Frederick was her father's only brother, and had a big house to himself, after his mother's death. It seemed the only haven for his niece, so he asked her, and asked also his father's cousin, Annabel Towne, to keep house for him, and chaperone Edith.

Annabel was over sixty, and rather indefinite, but she served to play propriety, and there was nothing else demanded of her in Frederick's household of six servants. She was a dried-up and desiccated person, with fixed ideas of what one owed to society. Frederick's mother had been like that, so he did not mind. He rather liked to think that the woman of his family kept to old ideals. It gave to things an air of dignity.

Edith, when she came, was different. So different that Frederick was glad that she had three more years at college before she would spend the winters with him. The summers were not hard to arrange. Edith and Annabel adjourned to the Towne cottage on an island in Maine—and Frederick went up for weekends and for the month of August. Edith spent much time out-of-doors with her young friends. She was rather fond of her Uncle Fred, but he did not loom large on the horizon of her youthful occupations.

Then came her winter at home, and her consequent engagement to Delafield Simms. It was because of Uncle Fred that she became engaged. She simply didn't want to live with him any more. She felt that Uncle Fred would be glad to have her go, and the feeling was mutual. She was an elephant on his hands. Naturally. He was a great old dear, but he was a Turk. He didn't know it, of course. But his ideas of being master of his own house were perfectly archaic. Cousin Annabel and the servants, and everybody in his office simply hung on his words, and Edith wouldn't hang. She came into his bachelor Paradise like a rather troublesome Eve, and demanded her share of the universe. He didn't like it, and there they were.

It was really Uncle Fred who wanted her to marry Delafield Simms. He talked about it a lot. At first Edith wouldn't listen. But Delafield was persistent and patient. He came gradually to be as much of a part of her everyday life as the meals she ate or the car she drove. Uncle Fred was always inviting him. He was forever on hand, and when he wasn't she missed him.

They felt for each other, she decided, the thing called "love." It was not, perhaps, the romance which one found in books. But she had been taught carefully at college to distrust romance. The emphasis had been laid on the transient quality of adolescent emotion. One married for the sake of the race, and one chose, quite logically, with one's head instead, as in the old days, with the heart.

So there you had it. Delafield was eligible. He was healthy, had brains enough, an acceptable code of morals—and was willing to let her have her own way. If there were moments when Edith wondered if this program was adequate to wedded bliss, she put the thought aside. She and Delafield liked each other no end. Why worry?

And really at times Uncle Fred was impossible. His mother had lived until he was thirty-five, she had adored him, and had passed on to Cousin Annabel and to the old servants in the house the formula by which she had made her son happy. Her one fear had been that he might marry. He was extremely popular, much sought after. But he had kept his heart at home. His sweetheart, he had often said, was silver-haired and over sixty. He basked in her approbation; was soothed and sustained by it.

Then she had died, and Edith had come, and things had been different.

The difference had been demonstrated in a dozen ways. Edith was pleasantly affectionate, but she didn't yield an inch. "Dear Uncle Fred," she would ask, when they disagreed on matters of manners or morals, or art or athletics, or religion or the lack of it, "isn't my opinion as good as yours?"

"Apparently my opinion isn't worth anything."
"Oh, yes it is—but you must let me have mine."

Yet, as time went on, he learned that Edith's faults were tempered by her fastidiousness. She did not confuse liberty and license. She neither smoked nor drank. There was about her dancing a fine and stately quality which saved it from sensuousness. Yet when he told her things, there was always that irritating shrug of the shoulders. "Oh, well, I'm not a rowdy—you know that. But I like to play around."

His pride in her grew—in her burnished hair, the burning blue of her eyes, her great beauty, the fineness of her spirit, the integrity of her character.
Yet he sighed with relief when she told him of her engagement to Delafield Simms. He loved her, but none the less he felt the strain of her presence in his establishment. It would be like sinking back into the luxury of a feather bed, to take up the old life where she had entered it.

And Edith, too, welcomed her emancipation. "When I marry you," she told Delafield, "I am going to break all the rules. In Uncle Fred's house everything runs by clockwork, and it is he who winds the clock."

"Bob is utterly at sea."

Their engagement was one of mutual freedom. Edith did as she pleased, Delafield did as he pleased. They rarely clashed. And as the wedding day approached, they were pleasantly complacent.

Delafield, dictating a letter one day to Frederick Towne's stenographer, spoke of his complacency. He was writing to Bob Sterling, who was to be his best man, and who shared his apartment in New York. Delafield was an orphan, and had big money interests. He felt that Washington was tame compared to the metropolis. He and Edith were to live one block east of Fifth Avenue, in a house that he had bought for her.

When he was in Washington he occupied a desk in Frederick's office. Lucy Logan took his dictation. She had been for several years with Towne. She was twenty-three, well-groomed, and self-possessed. She had slender, flexible fingers, and Delafield liked to look at them. She had soft brown hair, and her profile, as she bent over her book, was clear-cut and composed.

"Edith and I are great pals," he dictated. "I rather think we are going to hit it off famously. I'd hate to have a woman hang around my neck. And I want you for my best man. I know it is asking a lot, but it's just once in a lifetime, old chap."

Lucy wrote that and waited with her pencil poised.
"That's about all," said Delafield. Lucy shut up her book and rose. "Wait a minute," Delafield dictated. "I want to add a postscript."

Lucy sat down.
"By the way," Delafield dictated, "I wish you'd order the flowers at Tolley's. White orchids for Edith of course. He'll know the right thing for the bridesmaids—I'll get Edith to send him the color scheme."
Lucy's pencil dashed and dotted. She looked up, hesitated. "Miss Towne doesn't care for orchids."
"How do you know?" he demanded.
She fluttered the leaves of her notebook and found an order from Towne to a local florist. "He says here, 'Anything but orchids—she doesn't like them.'

"But I've been sending her orchids every week."

"Perhaps she didn't want to tell you—"

"And you think I should have something else for the wedding bouquet?" "I think she might like it better."

"There was a faint flush on her cheek. 'What would you suggest?'"

"I can't be sure what Miss Towne would like."

"What would you like?" intently. She considered it seriously—her slender fingers clasped on her book. "I think," she told him, finally, "that if I were going to marry a man I should want what he wanted."

He laughed and leaned forward. "Good heavens, are there any women like that left in the world?"

Her flush deepened, she rose and went towards the door. "Perhaps I shouldn't have said anything."

His voice changed. "Indeed, I am glad you did." He had risen and now held the door open for her. "We men are stupid creatures. I should never have found it out for myself."

She went away, and he sat there thinking about her. Her impersonal manner had always been perfect, and he had found her little flush charming.

It was because of Lucy Logan, therefore, that Edith had white violets instead of orchids in her wedding bouquet. And it was because, too, of Lucy Logan, that other things happened. Three of Edith's bridesmaids were house-guests. Their names were Rosalind, Helen and Margaret. They had, of course, last names, but these had nothing to do with the story. They had been Edith's classmates at college, and she had been somewhat democratic in her selection of them.

"They are perfect dears, Uncle Fred. I'll have three cave-dwellers to balance them. Socially, I suppose, it will be a case of sheep and goats, but the goats are—darling."

They were, however, the six of them, what Delafield called a bunch of beauties. Their bridesmaid gowns were exquisite—but unobtrusive. The color scheme was blue and silver—and the flowers, forget-me-nots and sweet peas. "It's a bit old-fashioned," Edith said, "but I hate sensational effects."

Neither the sheep nor the goats agreed with her. Their ideas were different—the goats holding out for something impressionistic, the sheep for ceremonial splendor.

There was to be a wedding breakfast at the house. Things were therefore given over early to the decorators and caterers, and coffee and rolls were served in everybody's room.

When the wedding bouquet arrived Edith sought out her uncle in his study on the second floor.

"Look at this," she said; "how in the world did it happen that he sent white violets? Did you tell him, Uncle Fred?"

"No."
"Sure?"
"Cross my heart."

They had had their joke about Del's orchids. "If he knew how I hated them," Edith would say, and Uncle Fred would answer, "Why don't you tell him?"

But she had never told, because after all it didn't much matter, and if Delafield felt that orchids were the proper thing, why muddle up his mind with her preferences?

The wedding party was assembled in one of the side rooms. Lined guests trickled in a thin stream towards the great doors that opened and shut to admit them to the main auditorium. A group of servants, laden with wraps, stood at the foot of the stairs. As soon as the procession started they would go up into the gallery to view the ceremony.

In the small room was almost overpowering fragrance. The bridesmaids, in the filtered light, wore a blur of rose and blue and white. There was much laughter, the sound of the organ through the thick walls.

Then the ushers came in.

"Where's Del?"

"The bridegroom was, it seemed, delayed. They waited."

"Shall we telephone, Mr. Towne?" someone asked at last. Frederick nodded. He and his niece stood apart from the rest. Edith was smiling but had little to say. She seemed separated from the others by the fact of the approaching mystery.

The laughter had ceased; above the whispers came the tremulous echo of the organ.

The usher who had gone to the telephone returned and drew Towne aside.

"There's something queer about it. I can't get Del or Bob. They may be on the way. But the clerk seemed reticent."

"I'll go to the 'phone myself," said Frederick. "Where is it?" But he was saved the effort, for someone, watching at the door, said, "Here they come," and the room seemed to sigh with relief as Bob Sterling entered.

One was with him, and he wore a worried frown.

"May I speak to you, Mr. Towne?" he asked.

Edith was standing by the window looking out at the old churchyard. The uneasiness which had infected the others had not touched her. Slender and white she stood waiting. In a few minutes Del would walk up the aisle with her and they would be married. In her mind that program was as fixed as the stars.

And now her uncle approached and said something. "Edith, Del isn't coming—"

"Is he ill?"

"I wish to heaven he were dead."

"What do you mean, Uncle Fred?"

"I'll tell you—presently. But we must get away from this—"

His glance took in the changed scene. A blight had swept over those high young heads. Two of the bridesmaids were crying. The ushers had withdrawn into a huddled group. The servants were staring—uncertain what to do.

Somebody got Briggs and the big car to the door.

Shut into it, Towne-told Edith:

"He's backed out of it. He left this." He had a note in his hand. "It was written to Bob Sterling. Bob was with him at breakfast time, and when he came back, this was on Del's dresser."

She read it, her blue eyes hot:

"I can't go through with it, Bob. I know it's a rotten trick, but time will prove that I am right. And Edith will thank me." "Del."

"Where has he gone?" "South, probably, on his yacht." "Wasn't there any word for me?" "No."
"Is there any other—woman?"

"It looks like it. Bob is utterly at sea. So is everybody else."

All of her but her eyes seemed frozen. The great bouquet lay at her feet where she had dropped it. Her hands were clenched.

Towne laid his hand on hers. "My dear—it's dreadful."
"Don't—"
"Don't what?"
"Be sorry."
"But he's a cur—"

May Replace Chestnut Trees Killed by Disease

The slopes of the Appalachians are spotted with ghost forests. Little more than a generation ago, perhaps, the most characteristic tree of the region was the chestnut. It was taken as a matter of course.

About 1904 an Oriental fungus known as endothonia parasitica appeared on the trees in New England. It spread rapidly through the entire chestnut region, attacking the bark, girdling the trunk, and killing the trees. There was nothing to be done about it. The spores of this fungus were extremely light, so that every little breeze wafted them into new regions.

Today probably 95 per cent of the chestnuts are gone. The few left, which have escaped largely by accident, are doomed. But a few years ago a few healthy trees were transported bodily to the campus of the North Carolina State college at Raleigh, 200 miles from their usual habitat and away from the path of the blight.

For four years, according to a report, writes Thomas R. Henry in the Washington Star, they have escaped infection and remain healthy and thriving. It is hoped that they will live to become the ancestors of other great chestnut forests when all the trees in the mountains have been killed and the fungus goes with them because it will have nothing new to live on.

Meanwhile a series of co-operative experiments is being undertaken by the college and the department of agriculture in an effort to discover a preventative for the blight. A variety of chestnut in Japan and another in China have been found which appear resistant, but they are inferior to the American variety. However, a few are being grown on the Raleigh campus side by side with the fugitives from the Appalachians and efforts, thus far unsuccessful, are being made to produce crosses which will retain the fungus-resisting qualities.

Eyesight Needs Vitamin A

One of the first and most characteristic symptoms of a deficiency of vitamin A is what is known as nyctalopia or night-blindness. This inability to see clearly in a poor light, or quickly to recover clarity of vision after being temporarily blinded by a dazzling glare like that of headlights of an automobile, is asserted to be largely responsible for the rapidly mounting toll of night motorcar accidents.—Industrial and Engineering Chemistry.

REHOBOAM: A MAN WHO MADE A FOOLISH CHOICE

LESSON TEXT—1 Kings 12:1-5, 12-17, 20. GOLDEN TEXT—A man's pride shall bring him low.—Proverbs 29:23.

"He did evil because he prepared not his heart to seek the Lord"—this is the divine epitome of the life of Rehoboam as given in II Chronicles 12:14.

Life is full of choices, and the decisions we make determine our destiny both in this life and in the life to come. Since the great issues of our life may hinge on the simplest of choices, it is obvious that we need guidance at every point and in every moment of life. The counsel of men, the right impulses which are born of good breeding, the light of knowledge—all these may help us to make right choices. But since there is only one who has all the power to make His decisions effective, it is obviously folly of the highest degree to do without His holy guidance, especially since God is willing to give it without money and without price even to the humblest believer.

Men and women, let us not follow the foolishness of Rehoboam. Let us seek first God's kingdom and His righteousness, and then we are assured that everything else shall be added unto us (Matt. 6:33).

The picture before us is astonishingly up-to-date. People were crying for relief from tax burdens. One group of leaders counseled moderation; another group, said in effect, tax them all you can and keep on spending. The king, who in a monarchy had the final decree in his power, replied to the plea of the people with the 900 B. C. equivalent of our modern slang expression, "Oh, yeah?" and the ten tribes promptly revolted.

I. A Reasonable Request (vv. 1-5).

Governments exist for the people, not the people for the government. Political leaders seem to forget this axiom and begin to rule as though they need not listen to the reasonable pleas of the people. Tax burdens rise, regimentation of the life of the nation takes place, and sooner or later the people rise to overthrow the government. It happened in Rome, it was back of the French Revolution, it brought an uprising of the serfs of Russia, it can and will happen elsewhere if men who rule do not listen to reason.

Rehoboam made at least one wise decision—to wait three days before speaking and to seek counsel. He needed this, for having been brought up in the palace of Solomon, without proper training for his place as king, he was quite unable to make immediate answer to their request. Incidentally, we note that much of the folly of Rehoboam is chargeable to the neglect of his father to rear him properly. May that terrible thing never be said about you and me regarding our children.

II. An Unreasonable Refusal (vv. 12-15).

The picture of the two groups of advisers is a most graphic one and should afford the teacher an excellent opportunity to show young people especially, how important it is to heed the counsel of their elders. Even so youth stands today at the fork of the road. Let us in all kindness, love, and tact seek to help them choose the right way.

III. The Inevitable Revolt (vv. 16, 17, 20).

The people, long submissive and apparently servile, ultimately come to the point where they think, and when they do, dictatorial rulers tumble from their self-made thrones. Would that the people of the earth realized the power which they have and that they would use it for the glory of God. Rehoboam felt the power of the people who revolted, others have followed him, for it is still true in the world that the rulers "do evil" because "they prepare not their hearts to seek the Lord."

Rehoboam, who had awaited the arrival of this crucial hour in anticipation of taking his place as the king of the ten tribes, was ready, and was at once chosen as the leader of those who withdrew from the rule of the house of David. Rehoboam's sin brought this about, but it was also in the counsels of God (v. 15). As Alexander McLaren expresses it, "...the historian draws back the curtain. On earth stand the insolent king and muttonous people, each driving at their ends, and neither free of sin and selfishness. A stormy sea of people, without thought of God, rages below, and above sits the Lord, working His great purpose by men's sin. That divine control does not in the least affect the freedom or the responsibility of the actors. Rehoboam's disregard of the people's terms was 'a thing brought about of the Lord,' but it was Rehoboam's sin none the less."

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: I have a pair of lamps for my dressing table, and I would like to use some of my curtain material to cover plain shades. Can you tell me how this is done? C. H."

Here is a method that is shown for a living room lamp in Book 1. Use top and bottom rings from old lamp shade. A cardboard foundation is cut to fit these, and the chintz or other fabric is pasted to the edge of this.

The AB line in the pattern diagram is as long as the diameter of the bottom ring. The dotted vertical line is approximately as long as the depth of the shade. The CD line is as long as the diameter of the top ring. Draw the diagonal lines to touch the ends of the AB and CD lines. Place a tack where they meet at E. Place a pencil through a loop in a string, as shown, and draw the bottom line of the shade making it as long as the measurement around the bottom ring plus a half inch. Shorten the string and draw the top to fit the top ring allowing for a half inch lap.
