THREE IOSCO BOYS ATTEND 4-H CLUB CAMP

Fourth Annual Meet Held at Chatham, Upper Peninsula

Lloyd Soucie and Roy Lee of Oscoda and Jack Crego of Whittemore spent last week at a state 4-H Conservation Camp at Chatham in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan.

The three boys represented Iosco county's 4-H Conservation Club members at the Fourth Annual Camp held at Camp Shaw which is located upon the Michigan State College Upper Peninsula experimental farm near the little Finnish town of Chatham.

The camp is made possible each year by liberal contributions from the Federal Cartridge Co., of Minnesota, the State Conservation Department and the 4-H Club Department of Michigan State College.

A group of boys numbering 120 gathered at the Chatham camp Monday afternoon, September 11, and represented Conservation Club members from 48 counties of Michigan. The 4-H Clubs in Forestry, Forest Fire Study, Deer Yard Study, Stream Improvement, and Pheasant raising, however the Iosco county boys won their free trip through their careful work and keen interest in the Deer Yard Study project which they completed last March. The Iosco representatives were selected by state club leaders at the past spring Achievement Day which was held at East Tawas April 14. While 64 club members were competing for high honors.

Each of the three local boys have received special recognition for their interest in this project. Lloyd Soucie was awarded a $100.00 scholarship which may be applied upon a regular four-year course at Michigan State College. Roy Lee's club story, written at the close of the project, was selected and published in the State Conservation Department's magazine, and Jack Crego was selected as a typical 4-H Conservation boy and his picture was taken along with another club boy from Northern Michigan at the Cusino State game farm. This with two fine 10-point buck deer at picture may be selected as a cover for a new 4-H conservation bulletin that is now being printed. These boys, according to County Agent W. L. Finley, might never have received such recognition had it not been for the splendid guidance which their local club leaders, Russell Mead of Oscoda, and Howard Switzer of Whittemore gave them during the project.

Class room activities and tours at the camp were under the careful guidance of R. A. Turner from the United States Department of Agriculture 4-H Club Department, Washington, D. C., State Club leaders A. G. Ketterman, P. G. Lundin and R. G. Hill of the College Conservation Department, Charles Welsh and Russell Martin of the State Conservation Department as well as many other very competent men from these same departments.

While in camp the program was centered around proper land use and the position which conservation should hold in Michigan living. Tours were made to such points of interest as the U. S. Forest Equipment Station at Dukes, Cusino State Game Refuge, Hiawatha National Forest, Pictured Rocks, Munising Paper Mills, Wagon Falls, Marquette Iron Works, Presque Isle Point and the Prison at Marquette.

The Iosco county boys were accompanied to camp by County Agent W. L. Finley.

Whittemore P.-T. A. Aims For School Improvement

An unusually large crowd turned out for the first P.-T. A. meeting of the year at Whittemore last Tuesday evening.

In a brief talk before the assembly Superintendent Grimm expressed a hope that the group could assist in the move toward converting Burleigh township schools into a township unit rural agricultural school. The high light of the business session was the association's unanimous adoption of the proposal as its theme for the coming year.

Mr. Grimm also introduced the new faculty members to the parents during the business meeting. The new members are Miss Boorsma, Mr. Nogle, Miss Johnson, Mrs. King and Miss Flathau. The committees for the next meeting which will be held October 10, are as follows: Social—Mrs. H. Collins, Mrs. M. Bowen, Mrs. R. Fuerst, Mrs. T. Shannon, Mrs. M. Londo; program—Mrs. E. A. WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—If this means "the end of civilization," it might be better just to hand Herr Hitler the works now, accept a slave state, save a lot of lives, pick up the goose-step and hope for some future Spartacus to lead us into a return engagement. The phrase, "the contemporaneity of the past," is, I believe, Dr. Charles Beard's. Along with Dr. Beard's book, "The Rise of American Civilization," it has reminded this onlooker that no madman ever has wrecked the world and that the creative and humane spirit has never failed. History did not sustain Lord Grey when, in 1914, he said, "The lights of the world have gone out, and I doubt if they ever will be lit in our lifetime."

In the spirit of these meditations, this department will, in the forthcoming dark days, keep a sharp eye out for lamplighters, men of creative intelligence, and their names will be carried on this mast-head whenever possible.

For a start, here's Eduard Benes, former president of Czecho-Slovakia, an old story in personality columns, but news today as a wise, calm spirit in a world of howling demagogues. The helch of the guns in Poland was answered almost to the minute by his book, "Democracy Today and Tomorrow." Here is what he says about "the end of civilization":

"We hear very often the slogan that war or revolution in Europe will mean the end of human civilization. That is a mistake. Modern civilization cannot be destroyed. One can destroy in one country, through war or revolution, some of the remarkable monuments of human culture and civilization, ancient and modern; but the present organization of the world does not allow anybody to destroy human civilization. Human civilization is, first of all, the moral conception of modern mankind, although including, of course, all economic values, all achievements of technological progress, all great cultural monuments, buildings, cities, universities, libraries, museums of art and science; many of them are of inestimable value, and could, of course, be destroyed in a great catastrophe. And that would be a loss which could never be replaced. But that does not mean the destruction of human civilization... The human spirit, in its great creative power, having saved in innumerable places the results of modern science, technology and progress—material and moral—will continue in any case its great creative work."

There is no bland optimism in Mr. Benes' book. He invokes no easy formulas and sees salvation only in the collective work and intelligence of men of good will—in desperate endeavors, perhaps, but sure to win in the end because they always have.

At another moment of tension, when the "end of civilization" seemed near, I remember talking to the great Dr. Masaryk, Mr. Benes' intellectual and political mentor. He curtly refused to discuss the particularized rights and aspirations of Czecho-Slovakia.

"We could state them only in terms of world morality and justice," he said. "If we are right in thus conceiving our undertakings, we may be assured that they will prevail. If our hopes are not so based, they should not prevail."

Without a hint of bitterness for powers recreant to their obligations to his country, or to its assailant, Mr. Benes puts his hope for freedom and democracy—and for Czecho-Slovakia—in this same wider context, and he is calmly assured of the high destiny of human personality because "This is the nature of man and of human society."

Mr. Benes is unique among statesmen in that he did not resort to any single trick of the demagogue. In fact, he expressed and displayed contempt for such artifice. Fragile in person, careless in dress, blunt in speech, he is conspicuously lacking in what is called personal magnetism. In the pre-war and war years, he was a conspirator against the Austrian captors of his country. He was arrested as a spy six times.

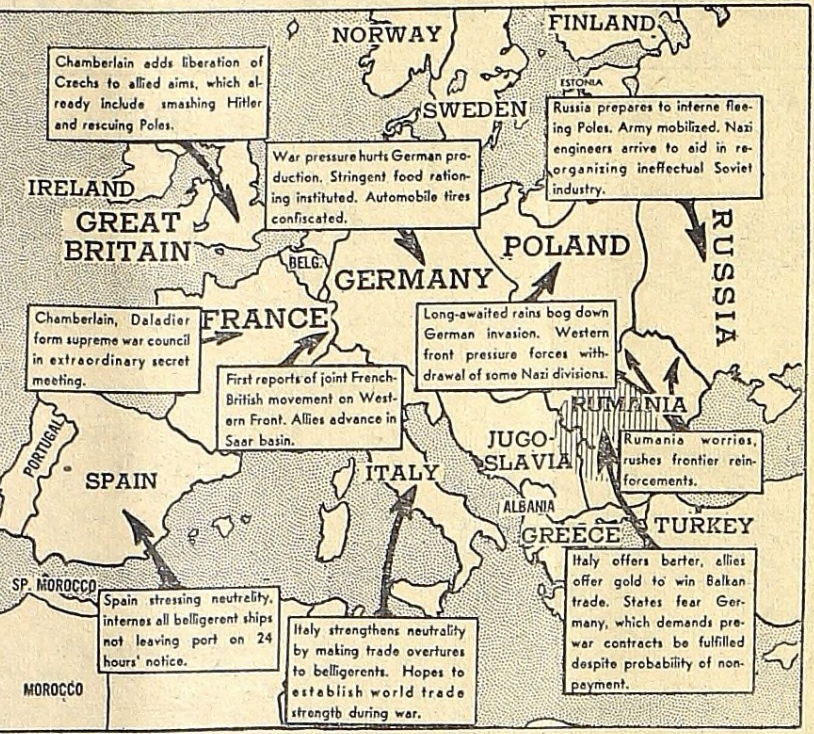

Peasant born, youngest of eight children, brilliantly educated in law and the humanities, stubborn and tireless in his championship of the humane spirit, Eduard Benes believes civilization will, in the end, be saved by a new leadership which will be both informed and enlightened.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Conservative Trend Apparent In FDR's Crisis Appointments; 'Permanent' Congress Likely

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

A WEEK OF WAR IN MODERN EUROPE
The neutrals were also busy.

CONGRESS: Emergency?

Open for inspection this month is a choice collection of political anomalies. Whether Franklin Roosevelt made third term capital out of Europe's woes was only a guess, but the emergency of war caused strange things to happen.

"Junked," in Secretary Steve Early's words, was the "imaginary brain trust." Solidly whacked under presidential orders were Communists and Fascists. Brought into $1-a-year emergency posts were more anti-New Dealers than Washington has seen since Herbert Hoover left town.

Big business, the President's No. 1 foe, not only supported his "cash-and-carry" neutrality proposal, but one of its representatives, Industrialist Herbert Bayard Swope, said enthusiastically that "Mr. Roosevelt is going to keep us out of this war." Meanwhile the traditional big business party, Republicanism, was convinced the New Deal's hidden aim is to send "American troops to settle Europe's quarrel."

Such Republicans as Ohio's Sen. Robert Taft and Vermont's Sen. Warren Austin plumped for cash-and-carry, as did many a lesser insurgent Democrat who last summer hated all that Franklin Roosevelt represents.

If this looked like harmony, observers had another guess coming. They had not reckoned with North Dakota's Sen. Gerald P. ("Neutrality") Nye, with Idaho's lionish Sen. William E. Borah, or with Missouri's Democratic Sen. Bennett Champ Clark. As the call went out for special congressional session, voices like these were raised in protest and warning. Isolationism again reached the fore.

Far from stubborn, Senator Borah merely wanted assurance of adequate debate on neutrality. He had no desire to "kill time," but was sure cash-and-carry "will inevitably bring us into war."

More alarming was Senator Nye, author of the present neutrality law: "Americans had better talk now before the gags of a declared emergency are placed. I expect that from here on the administration will be contending that every voice raised in opposition... is at once a pro-Hitler voice. Be that as it may... there will be... a complete demonstration to the American people of what the President's wishes will lead America into."

What gags he had in mind, Mr. Nye did not say. But there was every indication cash-and-carry neutrality, without gags, had a chance of getting through congress. Under proposed amendments any goods could be sold to a belligerent who bought it, paid for it and carried it away in his own ships. American ships would be prohibited from entering combat areas.

(Incorporated in New York was an agency through which French and British governments could buy war materials and other goods from their $7,000,000,000 war chest set aside for that purpose. Planned last spring, the agency replaces J. P. Morgan & Company, who acted in this capacity during the last war.)

One other question facing the President was how to get rid of congress once it had changed neutrality. Quite a case for continuous wartime session could be built from a Gallup poll which showed most Americans feel safer with congress in session. Moreover, special interests began clamoring for non-emergency legislation. California's Rep. Jerry Voorhis said congress must "correct the injustices of the last so-called relief act." New Jersey's Sen. Warren Barbour predicted passage of his anti-espionage bill. Everything considered, it looked like congress would sit for quite a spell.

INTERNATIONAL: The Neutrals

Biggest repercussion of war in the western hemisphere was the convening of 21 American republics at Panama City to safeguard neutrality, protect hemispherical peace and further economic co-operation. Biggest repercussions in the Far East were (1) shakeup of Japanese army leadership in China and Manchukuo to hasten an end to the Chinese war, and (2) German-inspired efforts for a non-aggression pact with Russia, thus checking the growing Japanese sentiment in Britain's favor. Though the government did not take these efforts seriously, there were expressed desires for a settlement of Russo-Jap border questions.

But the biggest neutral news came from Europe, pleasant and otherwise. Moscow's allegiance to Berlin was more marked than ever. German engineers arrived to aid Russian industry, thus indicating the Soviet will be Adolf Hitler's storehouse. While Paris radio reported all Soviet merchant ships en route to England had been ordered home, thus indicating a coming breach, the Soviet joined hostilities by shooting Polish craft which violated the frontier. Should enough such incidents occur, Russia might take revenge by joining Der Fuehrer in a new Polish partition. Completely mobilized, the Soviet was capable of almost anything.

Most intense activity came in the Mediterranean region. Andre

ANDRE FRANCOIS-PONCET
Things happened in Rome.

Francois-Poncet, French ambassador to Rome, allegedly notified his foreign office that Italian neutrality is certain, that Mussolini is angry over Germany's warlike settlement of the Danzig issue, and that all this may eventually work out to the allies' benefit.

Not only was Signor Mussolini making every effort to bolster his world trading position and thus wax rich, but he looked especially at the frightened Balkan states. There he saw puzzled tradesmen seeking a port in a storm, striving to stay neutral while Germany pressed for delivery of goods contracted before the war. This much was certain: Italy had more interest in her own future than in Germany's, and might even consider Herr Hitler a godly menace should he win control over the Balkans. But if Mussolini could control Balkan trade, if he could meanwhile develop a profitable war commerce with France and Britain, so much the better.

THE WAR:

Behind Scenes

"What kind of a war is this? The nation is puzzled. It expected war to mean an immediate clash of arms... Instead, there is little news... Nineteen out of twenty persons ask therefore this question: Are we making as decisive an attack... as our strength allows?"

Day after printing this editorial, Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard had more news, not from the front but of carryings-on behind scenes. Secretly, Prime Minister Chamberlain and Lord Chatfield

BEAVERBROOK Well?

(minister of defense co-ordination) flew the English channel and met Premier Edouard Daladier and French Gen. Maurice Gamelin somewhere near Paris to form a supreme allied defense council. Thus was avoided one of the mistakes those nations made in their last war against Germany.

Next day Mr. Chamberlain, safely back home, told parliament he left the French meeting "fortified and encouraged." Not only would the allies trounce Germany, but they would rescue Poland and liberate the Czechs.

Significantly silent following Field Marshal Hermann Goering's blast at Britain a few days earlier, Germany was apparently busy pursuing war on two fronts. Food rationing was extended, all auto tires were confiscated and a contraband-of-war list was decreed as a "defense measure" against British blockade. In Paris, smart Premier Daladier formed a 21-man war cabinet which included all parties except Socialist, whose Leon Blum refused to participate.

Western War

England learned for the first time that her troops and planes were fighting in France. With activities still centered in the Saar basin, violent fighting brought conflicting reports. Berlin claimed French advances to Saarbruecken were driven back. French admitted Germany had seized French territory in its counter offensive, but said the ground was recaptured and poilus were primed for an attack on the famed German West wall.

Eastern War

After waiting two weeks, Poland's Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz finally got his bald pate wet. The famous autumn rains started and German advance was slackened while the efficient Polish artillery went into action. Warsaw was variously reported falling and standing. Probably it still stood, but it was evident the Poles were taking losses elsewhere on the frontier to keep their major city intact. On the propaganda front, Poles (and even U. S. Ambassador Anthony Drexel Biddle) reported Germans were bombing everything in sight.

AGRICULTURE:

Corn Woes

From 1928 to 1937 the 10-year corn production average was 2,310,000,000 bushels. Last year it was 2,542,000,000 bushels. With 255,000,000 bushels already sealed on farms under government loans, the department of agriculture last month estimated this year's production at 2,450,000,000 bushels. But this month Secretary Henry A. Wallace had to confess: Later figures boosted the estimate to 2,523,000,000 bushels, smaller than last year, to be sure, but presenting a greater problem thanks to the big carry-over. With a carryover of some 450,000,000 bushels, the U. S. will have 3,000,000,000 bushels of corn on hand for the coming season.

Under AAA regulations, Mr. Wallace had to decide whether the indicated supply is more than 10 per cent above normal domestic needs plus export requirements. If so, he had to propose marketing quotas for next year and submit them to corn belt farmers for approval or rejection. If approved by two-thirds, quotas would require farmers exceeding their allotments to store excess grain or pay a penalty tax of 15 cents a bushel.

Biggest factor working against quotas was last spring's abnormally large pig crop, which Mr. Wallace said would justify raising the quota level.

AMAZONS

Women Employed in New Role As Men March to Battlefield

War is no longer a man's business exclusively. The United States is almost the only major power which has not drafted women to perform some military duty formerly left to men. Women now fly, drive ambulances and carry rifles, ready to take their places on the battlefield. Above: Two members of England's women's ambulance corps are shown in uniform as they canvassed for recruits during London's first national defense display. Later, when war actually came, Britain's women took over many men's jobs. At right: One of the many women Soviet Russia is training for air defense work. The Soviet has the world's best women aviators.

During celebration of patriotic days in Paris (above), French women showed what the women of the world favor in the way of attire now that war is here again. These women are members of a home defense unit. At left: Two Turkish girl fliers who took part in the flight of a squadron of bombing planes from Istanbul to the capitals of Europe a few months ago. Commanding the group is Lieut. Sabiha Guekichen, adopted daughter of the late President Kemal Ataturk.

Miss Mary A. Shanley, who recently became the fourth woman in the history of the police department to reach the rank of first grade detective at a salary of $4,000 a year, didn't start out deliberately to follow a career in criminology. Back in 1928, she was a secretary in a law office earning $35 a week and supporting an invalid brother, who died a short time ago, and her mother. A city job appealed to her because of security and pension rights. Noting a police department opening listed among the civil service positions, she applied and was accepted. Since then she has made more than 50 arrests. Her specialty is catching shoplifters. Each morning, she reads the newspapers to see where the best bargains are offered. Shoplifters do the same thing because they know the ads will attract crowds.

Born on West Thirty-eighth street just two blocks from Hell's Kitchen, Miss Shanley is now 37 years old. She likes her work in the police department. That liking has brought her more than half her arrests. Having completed a day in a department store, she goes home, has dinner and rests a little. Then, if she feels a hunch, she starts out in her free time for a stroll in midtown. One night while walking along West Forty-fifth street, she saw two men "mugging" a man in a doorway. "Mugging" is when one holdup man holds the victim with his arm around his throat while another goes through his pockets. "Muggers" are tough citizens. In some instances they have strangled their victims. Not so long ago, a man was killed in that manner in a washroom of the Independent subway's Forty-second street station. Miss Shanley captured the "muggers" she saw. She knows how to handle a revolver.

In a Herald Tribune interview, just after her promotion, Miss Shanley said that the hard part of her job watching for shoplifters in department stores was the temptation to which she was constantly subjected—the temptation to take advantage of the bargains she saw day after day. She's become hardened now and is able to pass some of them up. But it is still rather tough going.

Speaking of police, here is a story not so pleasant. The other evening in the Forty-second street station of the Independent subway, a drunk was amusing a crowd. I don't know whether he intended to undress and sleep in the station, but at any rate, he had one shoe off when a cop arrived. The officer endeavored to get him to put his shoe back on. The drunk was good-natured but stubborn. He was willing to buy everyone a drink but he didn't want to put on his shoe. Finally the policeman grabbed him and his shoe and started away with him presumably for the station house.

Now that was all right enough. The officer certainly had shown no little patience and the drunk, a young fellow, was in no condition to take care of himself in a subway. But as the cop propelled his prisoner up the stairway, he beat him over the head with his shoe—and he put real force into his blows. Unfortunately he moved too fast for his number to be obtained. But unless I am mistaken, he was the same dark young officer whom I saw recently bang a drunk in the nose at Eighth avenue and Forty-third street. And I'm not in favor of that kind of policemen.

A scout just came rushing in with the information that on Broadway between Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth streets, he saw a woman with purple hair. He was certain of the color because he had walked behind her the entire block. As there didn't seem to be anything he could do about it, he came up and told me. And his breath was perfectly clear too.

Alice Frost is looking for a new maid—one entirely devoid of theatrical ambitions. While on vacation, Miss Frost received a telephone call from an agent who wished to discuss a part he had for her in a new Broadway production. The maid took all the information for her employer, then dropped around to see the agent herself. Result: Miss Frost lost the best maid she ever had and the maid has been given a bit part in a forthcoming show.

Poland Again Battles for National Existence

Boundaries of Poland in 1560, after the marriage of Queen Jadwiga of Poland and King Jagello of Lithuania. Lands of the two nations were combined.

Poland began to disintegrate with the rise of power of the Teutonic knights in East Prussia. Russia began taking land when the Teutons caused internal strife.

Poland's first partition took place in 1772, when Russia, Prussia and Austria each took lands; Russia to the northwest, Prussia to the east, Austria, south.

Russia and Prussia alone shared in the second partition of Poland, which left that country with very little original territory.

The third partition, occurring in 1795, caused Poland to disappear altogether. Russia, Prussia and Austria shared the spoils.

Poland declared its right to autonomy in 1918. Shaded area shows old German boundary restored by Hitler's decree.

Growing Pains Indicate Need Of Correction

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

WHAT was called "growing pains" in my boyhood was believed to be due to the fact that when children were growing, most of the growth was near the ends of the bones and so near a part of a joint. A few years later when infection of teeth and tonsils was found to be a cause of rheumatism, those growing pains were believed to be due to rheumatism and parents were warned that heart disease might follow these growing pains.

TODAY'S HEALTH COLUMN

While there is no question but that pains in knees and muscles in youngsters may actually be due to rheumatism following infected tonsils, nevertheless, it is now believed that rheumatism is not the cause of these growing pains in most cases.

Dr. J. C. Hawksley, London, England, in Medical World, states that "growing pains" is not commonly related to rheumatic fever or sub-acute rheumatism (early stages) and does not finally cause heart disease.

"Children affected with 'growing pains' usually give a history of frequent colds and coughs, and during these attacks the amount of pain is increased."

Treatment Indicated.

Such children are benefited by removal of the tonsils and treatment of their colds. Many of these children do not gain weight. They frequently present signs of poor health. The commonest cause is some slight deformity such as flat-foot, knock-knee, spinal curvature, sway-back. Improvement is rapid when these conditions are corrected.

"Inflammation of the ends of the muscles where muscles are attached to bones—fibrositis—is a cause of growing pains. Tiredness is a frequent cause of growing pains and is seen in children who have long distances to walk to school or who stand for long periods."

Insufficient sleep is also an important factor in causing these pains. Growing pains should always receive the attention of parents. The pains may be due to infection of tonsils, which may be followed by rheumatism and heart disease.

Stuttering—Causes and Cures

As youngsters there was always a laugh when a stuttering boy got up to do some reading. I believe we thought stuttering was a mental defect. When I got older I was one of a number seeking a certain scholarship; the student who won it over all of us stuttered very badly. I corrected my idea that stuttering was a mental defect.

However, it is only in the last 10 to 20 years that research workers studying stuttering (and many of these workers were not physicians) discovered that stuttering was due simply to nervousness. They discovered that under certain circumstances, such as the quietness of the home, there was no stuttering, no hesitancy in speech. This showed that there was nothing wrong with the mouth or vocal chords or stuttering would be present always.

Instead of waiting for children "to grow out of the habit" of stuttering, physicians today recognize that the stutterer is a very nervous individual, one who looks in on himself, one who is self-conscious in the presence of others, and so try to draw him out of himself.

10 Per Cent Have Defect.

Dr. James Sonnett Greene, New York, in his editorial as guest editor, Medical World, states that there are 13,000,000 (10 per cent) of the population of the United States who have some sort of speech defect or voice abnormality. The stutterers alone number over a million. Dr. Greene says that careful investigation usually will disclose that the majority of stutterers are products of homes in which the parents are themselves very nervous. The young stutterer very often gets scolded and even whipped for stuttering, which makes him afraid of every new person or circumstance. Stuttering is really an outward sign of the youngster's feeling of inferiority or inability to compete on equal terms with others.

At the Medical-Social clinic in New York, of which Dr. Greene is a director, the child is treated as if no speech defect were present. The atmosphere and surroundings are of a "friendly" nature. However, at the same time, the surrounding atmosphere and circumstances have been so arranged that the stutterer has to face, in the physician and the other stutterers of the group, the real things of life that he has been trying to avoid.

MAYBE FATHER WILL LIKE THESE? (Recipes Below.)

Foods Men Like to Eat

What are the foods that Father likes best—the fine, old-fashioned dishes—tasty, full of flavor, and perfectly cooked! He likes a meal to be composed of only a few foods; he wants to know what he is eating, and he does not want foods swathed in a blanket of whipped cream. In a word, fancy cooking is apt to be wasted on Father but he'll appreciate good cooking to the limit.

Left to his own devices, many a man would choose a diet of meat, potatoes, and pie. They're not particularly fond of vegetables—these men of ours—and when it comes to salads, it's a sheer waste of energy to serve them anything fancy. So a little judicious planning is necessary on our part in order to give Father his favorite foods and provide a wholesome, well-balanced meal in the bargain.

Each of these recipes, tested in my own kitchen, I've found to be prime favorites with men. Well prepared and attractively served, they'll go a long way toward establishing your reputation as a good cook.

Vegetable Soup.

- (Serves 6)
- 2 pounds soup bone
- 2 tablespoons fat
- 2 quarts cold water
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 2 tablespoons barley
- 1 cup canned tomatoes
- 1 onion
- 1/2 cup carrots (cut in cubes)
- 1/2 cup celery (cut in small pieces)
- 1/2 cup potatoes (cut in cubes)
- 1/2 cup peas

Remove a portion of meat from cracked soup bone and cut into pieces. Brown in hot fat. Place browned meat, soup bone, seasonings, and barley in kettle and add cold water. Cover and cook until boiling point is reached. Then simmer about 2 1/2 hours or until meat is tender. Cool and skim off excess fat. Add vegetables and continue cooking until vegetables are tender.

Devil's Food Cake.

- (Makes one two-layer cake)
- 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar
- 2 ounces chocolate
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1/2 cup butter
- 2 eggs
- 2 cups cake flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3 teaspoons baking powder

Place 1/2 cup sugar, chocolate and 1 cup milk in saucepan and cook, stirring constantly, until thick. Add vanilla extract and cool. Cream butter and add remaining sugar. Separate eggs, beat egg yolks and add slowly. Then add the cooled chocolate mixture. Mix and sift all dry ingredients and add alternately with the remaining milk. Bake in 2 well-greased layer-cake pans in a moderate oven (375 degrees) for approximately 25-30 minutes. Ice with boiled icing.

Apple Pie.

- (Makes 1 pie)
- Cheese pastry
- 6 cooking apples
- Flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 cup granulated sugar
- Cinnamon
- Nutmeg
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice

Line a pie tin with pie crust. Peel the apples and cut in slices. Sprinkle the bottom of the pastry with flour, salt and granulated sugar. Pile in the apples, filling very full. Dot with butter and sprinkle with cinnamon, nutmeg, sugar and lemon juice. Cover with the top crust, crimp the edges together and score the top to allow the steam to escape. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) for about 40 minutes.

Pigs-in-Taters.

- (Serves 6)
 - 6 large baking potatoes
 - 6 tablespoons margarine
 - 4 to 5 teaspoons milk
 - 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
 - Paprika
 - 1/2 pound small sausages (cooked)
- Wash and dry potatoes. Place on rack in hot oven (500 degrees), and bake for about 45 minutes, or until the potatoes are done. Cut a slice from one side of each and scoop out the inside. Mash thoroughly, add margarine, salt and paprika. Refill the potato shells. Make a depression in the center of each, and arrange in it 2 or 3 sausages. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 10 minutes, or until brown.

Harvest Moon Doughnuts.

- (Makes 24 doughnuts)
 - 1/4 cup butter
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 2 eggs
 - 4 cups flour
 - 4 teaspoons baking powder
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1 teaspoon nutmeg
 - 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
 - 1 cup milk
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla
 - Fat for deep fat frying
- Cream butter and sugar. Beat in eggs. Sift together dry ingredients and add alternately with milk. Add vanilla. Roll dough 1/4-inch thick and cut with doughnut cutter.

Fry in deep fat, 385 degrees until doughnuts are golden brown on both sides. Drain on absorbent paper. Sugar lightly, if desired.

Hot Water Cheese Pastry.

- (Makes 1 2-crust pie)
 - 2/3 cup shortening
 - 6 tablespoons boiling water
 - 2 cups general purpose flour
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
 - 1 cup American cheese (grated)
- Place shortening in warm bowl, pour boiling water over it, and cream thoroughly with a fork. Place flour, salt and baking powder in flour sieve and sift gradually into the creamed mixture. Add cheese. Mix thoroughly. Make up into doughball, then chill in refrigerator. When ready to bake remove from refrigerator, divide dough and roll out. Line pastry tin with one portion of the pastry and proceed with desired pie recipe.

WORTH KNOWING

Split hard rolls. Butter and then stuff them with chicken or fish salad. Chopped ham may be added to waffle batter and served with pineapple-orange sauce. Try combining two or more kinds of soup. The resulting mixture may be served in the regular way or used as a sauce for other dishes.

Becoming Designs Smartly Individual

IF YOU take a large size, then you'll find 1806 one of the most becoming dresses you ever put on! The long, slim lines of the paneled skirt make your hips look much narrower, and the bodice gathers give correct ease over the bust. With its touch of lace, this will be very smart for bridge parties, luncheons and club affairs. Make it of flat crepe, thin wool and, later on, sheer velvet.

Coat Style Dress.

The "something different" about this practical dress is the way the closing is cut sharply over at the waistline. The design (1681) gives you plenty of lap-over, so that you needn't sew buttons and make buttonholes all the way down. And of course you don't need to be told how easy the coat style is to make, to get into, and to iron.

The Patterns.

No. 1806 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material, with short sleeves; 4 1/2 yards with long sleeves; 1 yard for vestee.

No. 1681 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 4 3/4 yards of 35-inch material without nap; 5/8 yard contrasting; 2 3/4 yards edging.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

School began September 5, at nine o'clock. After taking roll we found that we had fifteen in our kindergarten, nine in our first grade and twelve in the second grade. The second graders are painting our chairs cream and brown. Next week they are going to make a library. The first graders are making pictures to paste in their scrap book.

GRAMMER ROOM
by Leola Lake and Evelyn Cross
School began September 5, and was dismissed for the day at 2:30 p. m. With our sixteen eighth graders leaving us and nine sixth graders coming in we thought we would only have twenty-nine, but with our new boys from the north and Eugene Lake, Edney Williams, Edward Bissonette, and the twins Louis and Anthony Bissonette, it makes thirty-two. We had an election on the 12th and the following officers were elected: President—Norman Van Womert; Treasurer—Edney Williams; Secretary—Edney Williams. We have the same teacher as last year, H. Redman of Bay City, Michigan.
We have eight sixth graders, ten seventh graders and fourteen eighth graders.
HIGH ROOM
by Dorothy Johnson
School commenced on September 5 with 35 students in the high room. There are eleven tenth graders and twenty-four eighth graders. On Wednesday, the second day of school, we reported on what we did during the summer. It was very interesting. Almost all of the students had a vacation while others enjoyed a trip for one or more days. Almost all of the boys are practicing baseball and hope to be ready to play Glennie on September 15. We have a school orchestra, a guitar ensemble and vocal. Nearly every one is taking one or more of the above. The orchestra comes at the same hour as biology (which is all right with some of the students). On the 12th the tenth graders elected the following class officers: President—Richard Shellenberger; Vice President—Norma Greve; Secretary—Betty Brandall; Treasurer—Ella Donstedt. Both grades are taking citizenship and we are studying about the war in Europe. Pictures of the war have been placed on the bulletin board. On September 14 the ninth graders elected their class officers. They are: President—Ellsworth Bernard; Vice President—Robert Goodrow; Secretary—Helen Reimer; Treasurer—Eva Glendon.

WAR DAYS AND Food Prices

AN IMPORTANT STATEMENT FROM A&P ABOUT

A&P's policy will remain unchanged--That policy is simply this: A&P will provide good food at the lowest prices possible. As always, we will operate our stores and markets with the interest of our customers constantly in mind. We know the hardships that increased food prices can bring to countless families, therefore, our prices will be adjusted only to the extent that it is absolutely necessary.

If, owing to the laws of supply and demand, the prices for food we purchase move upward, obviously we will have to pay the higher cost and change retail prices accordingly. You have our assurance, however, that A&P's margin of profit will continue to be very small and normal in every respect.

Thus--we pledge to our six million loyal customers the best efforts of our wide-spread organization to keep our prices as low as sound business judgment will permit. We repeat, A&P's policy will be unchanged. Good food at the Lowest Prices Possible!

The babies, arriving presently in a rollicking state of excitement over the advent of Auntie Jane, showed themselves delightful and adoring.

"Junior," said Jane, "are you glad I'm here?" "Did you bring me anything?" "Something—wonderful—"

"One little one, and just a taste for baby, Jane, where did you get that gorgeous box?"

"Frederick Towne."

"Really? My dear, your letters have been tremendously interesting. Haven't they, Bob?"

Her husband nodded. He was sitting by the bedside holding her hand.

"They're such beauties, Judy," said Jane, as she went back to her sister.

"No, they're like Bob, with their white skins and fair hair. I wanted one of them to have our coloring.

"Yes, you are. And none of us thought it. And so Mr. Towne wants to marry you?"

"How do you know?" "It is in your eyes, dear, and in the cock of your head.

"Well, I'm not in love with him. So that's that, Judy."

"But—it's a great opportunity, isn't it, Jane?"

"I suppose it is," slowly, "but I can't quite see it."

"Why not?" "Well, he's too old for one thing."

"Only forty—? Rich men don't grow old. And he could give you everything—everything, Janey."

"Jane, you don't know what it means to want things for those you love and not be able to have them.

Life for Evans Follette after Jane went away became a sort of game in which he played, as he told himself grimly, a Jekyll and Hyde part.

Yet the Boy had weapons, faith and hope. The little diary became in a sense a sacred book.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress.

Evans bought a phonograph, and new records. He practised at all hours, to the great edification of old Mary, who washed dishes and scrubbed floors in syncope ecstasies.

He took Baldy and Edith to tea at the big hotels, and danced with Edith. He apologized, but kept at it.

Edith was sympathetic and interested. She invited the two boys to her home, where there was a music room with a magical floor.

Towne danced extremely well. In spite of his avoirdupois he was light on his feet.

not, however, always control his appetite. Hence the sugar in his tea, and other indulgences.

Baldy wrote to Jane of their afternoon frolics.

"You should see us! Eloise Harper dancing with Evans, and old Towne and his Adelaide! And Edith and I! We're a pretty pair, if I do say it.

"We are invited to dine with the Townes on Christmas Eve. Some class, what? By we, I mean myself and the Follettes. Edith and Mrs. Follette see a lot of each other, and Mrs. Follette is tickled pink!

"There will be just our crowd and Mrs. Laramore for dinner, and after that a big costume ball.

"I shall go as a page in red. And Evans will be a monk and sing Christmas carols. Edith Towne is crazy about his voice. He sat down at the piano one day in the music room, and she heard him. Jane, his voice is wonderful—it always was, you know, but we haven't heard it lately.

"Jane, you don't know what it means to want things for those you love and not be able to have them. Bob did very well until the slump in business.

But since the babies came—I have worked until—well, until it seemed as if I couldn't stand it.

"Love to Judy and Bob, and the kiddies. And a kiss or two for my own Janey."

Jane, having read the letter, laid it down with a sense of utter forlornness. Evans and Eloise Harper! Towne and his Adelaide! A Christmas costume ball! Evans singing for Edith Towne!

Evans' own letters told her little. They were dear letters, giving her news of Sherwood, full of kindness and sympathy, full indeed of a certain spiritual strength—that helped her in the heavy days.

But Evans was not happy. He did the things he had mapped out for himself, but he could not do them light-heartedly as the Boy had done.

Evans frequently played a whimsical game with the old scarecrow. He went often and leaned over the fence that shut in the frozen field.

He hunted up new clothes and hung them on the shaking figure—an overcoat and a soft hat. It seemed a charitable thing to clothe him with warmth.

In due time someone stole the overcoat, and Evans found the poor thing stripped. It gave him a sense of shock to find two crossed sticks where once had been the semblance of a man.

This time with an old bathrobe and a disreputable cap. "It will keep you warm until spring, old chap—"

The scarecrow and his sartorial changes became a matter of much discussion among the Negroes. Since Evans' visits were nocturnal, the whole thing had an effect of mystery until the bathrobe proclaimed its owner.

"Mist' Evans done wot dat e'vy day," old Mary told Mrs. Follette. "Whuffor he dress up dat ol' sca'crow in de fiell?"

"What scarecrow?" Old Mary explained, and that night Mrs. Follette said to her son, "The darkies are getting superstitious. Did you really do it?"

His somber eyes were lighted for a moment. "It's just a whim of mine, Mumsie. I had a sort of fellow feeling—"

"How queer!" "Not as queer as you might think." He went back to his book.

No one but Jane should know the truth. And so he played the game. Working in his office, dancing with Edith and Baldy, chumming with the boys, dressing up the scarecrow. It seemed sometimes a desperate game—there were hours in which he wrestled with doubts.

Could he ever get back? Could he? There were times when it seemed he could not. There were nights when he did not sleep.

Hours that he spent on his knees. So the December days sped, and it was just a week before Christmas that Evans read the following in his little book.

"Dined with the Prestons. Told father's ham story.—Great hit. Potomac frozen over. Skated in the moonlight with Florence Preston.—Great stunt—home to hot chocolate."

Once more the Potomac was frozen over. Florence Preston was married. But he mustn't let the thing pass.

The young boy Evans would have tingled with the thought of that frozen river. It was after dinner, and Evans was in his room. He hunted up Baldy. "Look here, old chap, there's little need to exert herself.

Baldy was always adequate to any conversational tax, and Evans, in spite of his monk's habit, was not austere. He was, rather, like some attractive young friar drawn back for the moment to the world.

He showed himself a genial teller of tales—and capped each of Frederick's with one of his own. His mother was proud of him. She felt that life was taking on new aspects—this friendship with the Townes—her son's increasing strength and social ease—the lace gown which she wore and which had been bought with a Dickens' pamphlet.

What more could she ask? She was serene and satisfied. Adelaide, on the other side of Frederick Towne, was not serene and satisfied.

She was looking particularly lovely with a star of diamonds in her hair and sheer draperies of rose and faintest green. "I am anything you wish to call me," she had said to Frederick when she came in—"an 'Evening Star' or 'In the Gloaming' or 'Afterglow.' Perhaps 'A Rose of Yesterday'—" she had put it rather pensively. He had been gallant but uninspired. "You are too young to talk of yesterdays," he had said, but his glance had held not the slightest hint of gallantry.

She felt that she had, perhaps, been unwise to remind him of her age. She was still more disturbed, when, towards the end of dinner, he rose and proposed a toast. "To little Jane Barnes, A Merry Christmas."

They all stood up. There was a second's silence. Evans drank as if he partook of a sacrament.

Then Edith said, "It seems almost heartless to be happy, doesn't it, when things are so hard for her?" Adelaide interposed irrelevantly, "I should hate to spend Christmas in Chicago."

There was no response, so she turned to Frederick. "Couldn't Miss Barnes leave her sister for a few days?"

"No," he told her, "she couldn't." She persisted, "I am sure you didn't want her to miss the ball."

"I did my best to get her here. Talked to her at long distance, but she couldn't see it."

"You are so good-hearted, Ricky," Frederick could be cruel at moments, and her persistence was irritating. "Oh, look here, Adelaide, it wasn't entirely on her account. I want her here myself."

CHAPTER X

So Christmas Eve came, and the costume ball at the Townes'. There were, as Baldy had told Jane, just six of them at dinner.

Cousin Anna-belle was still in bed, and it was Adelaide Laramore who made the sixth. Edith had told Mrs. Follette frankly that she wished Adelaide had not been asked.

"But she fished for it. She always does. She flatters Uncle Fred and he falls for it."

Distance Computations in Astronomy Explained

Sometimes the uncertainty in the measurements of the distances of the stars disturbs us, writes Isabel M. Lewis in Nature Magazine. One of the most difficult facts for the human mind to grasp is the immensity of space and the difficulty that we encounter when we attempt to measure it in ordinary understandable terrestrial units.

It is an easier matter when we deal with our own little family of planets and their satellites. The distance from the earth to the sun, only 93,000,000 miles, furnishes an excellent yardstick.

Two units are used in measuring star distances. One is the light year—the distance that light travels in a year at the rate of about 186,000 miles a second, which is about 63,290 times the distance from the sun to the earth.

Baldy brought Evans and Mrs. Follette over in his flivver. They found Mrs. Laramore and Frederick already in the drawing room. Edith had not come down.

"She is always late," Frederick complained, "and she never apologizes."

Baldy, silken and slim, in his page's scarlet, stood in the hall and watched Edith descend the stairs. She seemed to emerge from the shadows of the upper balcony like a shaft of light.

She was all in silvery green, her close-clinging robe girdled with pearls, her hair banded with mistletoe.

For a moment he stood admiring her, then: "You shouldn't have worn it," he said.

"The mistletoe? Why not?" "You will tempt all men to kiss you."

"Men must resist temptation." His tone was light, but her heart missed a beat.

There was something about this boy so utterly engaging. He had set her on a pedestal, and he worshiped her. When she said that she was not worth worshipping, he told her, "You don't know—"

She was unusually silent during dinner. With Evans on one side of her and Baldy on the other she had little need to exert herself.

Baldy was always adequate to any conversational tax, and Evans, in spite of his monk's habit, was not austere. He was, rather, like some attractive young friar drawn back for the moment to the world.

He showed himself a genial teller of tales—and capped each of Frederick's with one of his own. His mother was proud of him. IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for September 24

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education, used by permission.

ISAIAH: FORETELLING THE BIRTH OF THE MESSIANIC KING

LESSON TEXT—Isaiah 7:14; 9:1-7; 11:1-5. GOLDEN TEXT—His name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The mighty God, The everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace.—Isaiah 9:6.

Christ is coming! Christ has come! Christ is coming again! All three of these great truths are declared by Holy Scripture.

In our lesson for today we study the prophecy of His birth which was given by Isaiah about 750 years before the event took place, and with it we find many beautiful details concerning His blessed character and accomplishments.

It is entirely appropriate that the lesson for today should be taken from the Old Testament and relate to the prophecy of the coming of the Messianic King, thus binding together the Old and the New Testaments.

Isaiah's prophecy prepares us to study His life in the Gospel of Matthew, beginning next week.

I. The Coming of the King (7:14; 9:1-6)

To us it is entirely understandable that the Son of God was to become flesh and dwell among us and that all the grace and power of God should be upon Him, for we know that He did come in perfect fulfillment of the Scriptures.

But let us not fail to note the marvel of this revelation made centuries in advance through God's prophet.

1. Born of a Virgin (7:14; 9:6). He was to be born. Christ did not come as a fully matured divine being after the fashion of the so-called gods of mythology, but He entered our needy world as the Babe of Bethlehem's manger.

What infinite condescension! He was to be born of a virgin, and so He was. There are those who would minimize the importance of this, or try to explain it away by interpreting the word "virgin" to mean a young married woman.

The late Robert Dick Wilson, an outstanding authority, says, "The great and only difficulty lies in disbelief in predictive prophecy and in the almighty power of God, or in the desire to throw discredit on the divine Sonship."

2. God with Us (7:14). "Immanuel" means "God with us." Isaiah had a foregleam of the incarnation which brought the eternal Son of God into that God-man relationship which was absolutely indispensable if there was to be redemption.

Sin had made a barrier between God and man which man could not pass, and only as the God-man, Christ Jesus, came through that barrier to be "God with us" could there be any hope of our salvation.

3. A Great Light (9:2). The Messiah was to break through the dense darkness of sin and sorrow to bring light and joy. How gloriously that prophecy has been fulfilled!

II. The Character of the King (9:6; 7:1; 11:1-5). The prophet foretold not only the meaningful names of the coming Messiah, but pictured in glowing beauty the mighty things which He was to accomplish.

1. Revealed by His Names (9:6). "Wonderful"—that word has been so misused that it means comparatively little to us. It really fulfills its true meaning in Christ. He is unique, remarkable, yes, truly wonderful. "Counsellor"—in every detail of life, great or small, an infallible guide. "Mighty God"—not just like God, or representing God; Christ is God. "Everlasting Father"—the tender and loving, un-failing One to whom time does not bring any change, for He is the "Father of eternity." "Prince of Peace"—He is not yet the ruler of the nations of the world, hence we hear not only of wars but of rumors of wars. Mark it well that there will be no enduring peace until He comes to reign whose right it is to reign, the divine Prince of Peace.

2. Revealed by His Deeds (9:7; 11:1-5). Eternal justice and righteousness, peace, wisdom, understanding, counsel and might, the spirit of knowledge and the fear of God, un-failing equity—all these glorious accomplishments are to characterize the Messiah according to Isaiah's prophecy.

Has the prophecy been fulfilled? We know that all of these qualities were in Christ when He came to earth the first time, but the complete fulfillment of this prophecy awaits that day toward which the child of God looks with joy and hope when Christ shall come again.

As we study this portion of our lesson, our hearts should cry out with John, "Even so, come, Lord Jesus!" (Rev. 22:20).

HOW TO SEW

by Ruth Wyeth Spears

Patchwork pot holders hanging in a row.

A GREEN and white kitchen is as fresh and crisp as a lettuce leaf. I stepped into one the other day with white walls, green floor and green organdy curtains. Everything was green and white, and over the stove hung a set of patchwork pot holders like a row of bright green and white tiles. All of us love old quilt patterns. For those who do not have time to make quilts, here is a modern use for your favorite designs.

Perhaps you were put to bed as a child under this eight-pointed star? The sketch gives the dimensions for the patterns for the two triangles used in making it for the pot holder. Piece eight small squares of two triangles; then eight oblong blocks of three triangles. A layer of sheet wadding is used for padding. The backing for the holder is white. The three layers are quilted together by sewing just inside the white triangles of the pieced top.

Whistler Couldn't Pass Up Opportunity to Use Bailiffs

Mrs. A. M. Moncrieff, who has just celebrated her eighty-eighth birthday, knew many of the great Victorians in the days when, as Nita Gaetano, she was a celebrated singer—and tells some good stories about them.

Once she dined with Whistler, the famous artist, whose pictures now sell for fabulous sums. Two manservants were waiting at table.

"You must be doing well, selling a lot of paintings," she remarked, a little surprised that Whistler should "splash" in this way.

"No," whispered her host. "They're bailiffs. I thought they might as well be doing something useful."

School Notes

HIGH SCHOOL

The English III class wrote editorials concerning the new auditorium project. Many of them expressed very good opinions on this topic. Some of the students thought they worked harder than on other WPA projects.

The guidance class has completed the study of the four sides of a man's life as discussed by the author, C. F. Hamilton, that is, the mental, physical, the spiritual and the social sides. It was learned that the social side can be developed much more than the mental and that it is just as important. It is expected that the members will soon take the Otis mental test and the Moss social test.

The economics class has completed the story of consumption and had a written test on the material Wednesday.

The Seniors will hold a bridge-pedro-bunco party at the school building, Friday evening, September 29. The price is twenty cents, and the receipts will be used to help defray commencement expenses. Refreshments will be served.

Charles F. Hamilton of Bay City called at the building Tuesday. Mr. Hamilton was the commencement speaker last June.

The high school dance held at the city hall on Friday evening was well attended. We wish to offer an apology for the person who so thoughtlessly blew the fire whistle and hope that person by this time realizes how serious the practical joke might prove to be. We are sure it won't occur again.

SEVENTH and EIGHTH GRADES
Carl Lawrence brought his book of free hand drawings to school. They are very good.

The seventh grade has been studying about courtesy, cleanliness and care of school property.

Joe Miller was absent two days because of a cold.

There are four people who must like to have a holiday on Friday afternoons. But it isn't so much fun when you have to make up time, is it boys?

THIRD and FOURTH GRADES
The fourth grade has begun its study of geography. The pupils are learning directions and have had an interesting time learning in which direction from the school each lives.

PRIMARY
Orville McDonald entered the second grade this week and Harry Toms entered the first making us a total of thirty-four pupils in our room.

The first and second grades have been doing review work before taking up their new books.

The beginners can read their names and the first part of the pre-primer.
