

TAWAS CITY

STERLING TEAM FIRST WINNER IN N. E. M. SERIES

Tawas City Loses Sunday's Game In 4 to 2 Battle

Failure to hit in the pinches and the 19 strikeouts collected by Jerry Daniels, the mainstay of the Sterling pitching staff this season, cost the local team the first game of the three game series to determine the Northeastern Michigan League Championship. That the Tawas City team can play better ball than it displayed last Sunday is known among the fans who have been following the team this season. Although they could offer numerous alibis all they say is that the opposition played better ball, but we hope to play the better ball, next Sunday. They have been fighting with their backs to the wall all season and still managed to come out of the fray at the top of the heap in the American Division. Everything went wrong for them last Sunday. In seven of the nine innings the locals had runners in scoring position only to see the batters "hit the air" or have the third strike called with the bat on their shoulder.

In the first inning Quick opened with a clean single to center and immediately stole second. Katterman, attempting to bunt, hit a pop fly to Daniels. With two strikes on Zollweg, Quick stole third and was out when he overid the bag. Zollweg struck out on the pitch. In the second W. Mallon opened with a base on balls, Laidlaw hit pop fly to the pitcher in trying to sacrifice Bill to second. M. Mallon struck out, Staudacher singled and Kussro fanned for the third out.

Moeller opened the third with a long fly to right which looked like a ground rule double the ball leaving the park about ten feet in fair territory but the umpire called it foul as it curved out of the line after crossing the low fence in right field. The rule book says it should be called a rule double if it is when it leaves the field. Moeller then was called out on strikes. Quick flied to short and Katterman struck out. Zollweg opened the fourth with a line single to left. W. Mallon sacrificed and was safe on a fielder's choice when Daniels tried to force Zollweg at second. Laidlaw sacrificed second to first, and with runners on third and second and only one out it looked bright for the locals, but M. Mallon and Staudacher heard the third strike called ending the rally. In the fifth another scoring opportunity was lost. Kussro opened by drawing a base on balls and took second when Hasty missed a swinging strike by Moeller. Moeller struck out Hasty dropping the third strike and throwing to first for the put out, Kussro taking third on the play. Quick bunted a single between third and the pitching mound scoring Kussro with the first Tawas City run. Quick stole second, Katterman and Zollweg fanned.

The sixth opened with W. Mallon striking out and being safe at first when the catcher lost the third strike. Laidlaw flied to third. M. Mallon hit a slow roller down the first base line and was safe when Wilson dropped Daniels throw. Staudacher hit back to the box and M. Mallon was forced at second. Staudacher stole second, and Kussro ended the inning by striking out. Smith who replaced Moeller in right field opened with a single off the third baseman's glove. Quick bunted a pop fly to Daniels. Smith struck second. Katterman struck out, and Zollweg grounded out, second to first. W. Mallon was safe on H. Koelsch's error to open the eighth. Laidlaw doubled to right scoring W. Mallon. M. Mallon, Staudacher and Kussro fanned. Smith, Quick, and C. Libka who batted for Katterman in the ninth, struck out ending the game.

Sterling went out in order in the first inning. Wilson opened the second with a single to center. K. Koelsch attempting to sacrifice, hit a pop fly to Kussro at first base which was converted into an unassisted double play. Walker tripped on a misjudged fly ball to right field. Beck hit what looked like a sure single to left, but, Quick made a dive and came up with the ball for the best fielding play of the game.

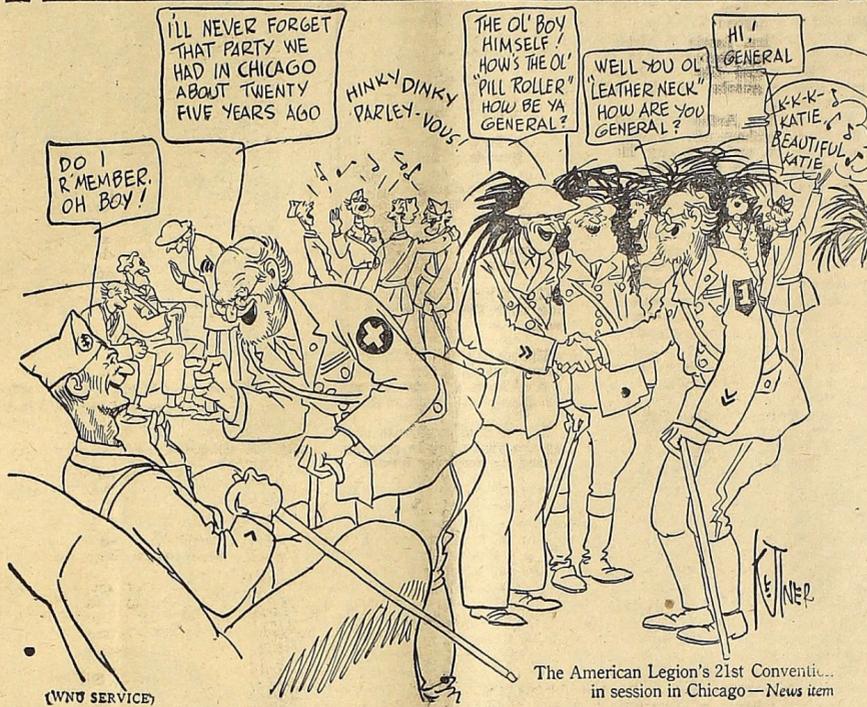

The balloon went up in the third. Hasty struck out. Daniels singled and was forced at second by Swartz, Katterman to Mallon, Swartz taking second when Mallon threw wild trying for a double play. H. Koelsch singled to right. Moeller let the ball get by and Koelsch headed for third, Mallon took Moeller's throw and relayed to Staudacher at third, the ball getting past Staudacher and Koelsch continued on to home with the second run of the inning. Templin grounded out M. Mallon to Kussro.

Wilson opened the fourth by drawing a base on balls. K. Koelsch ran three bases when his single banded over Quick's head in left field. Mallon let a wild pitch and Koelsch scored. Walker flied to Staudacher, Beck and Hasty fanned.

Daniels fanned to open the Sterling half of the fifth. Swartz hit a slow roller down the third base line Staudacher making a nice pickup and throw to first for the outout. H. Koelsch was safe when M. Mallon fumbled his grounder. Templin hit to

Rollin-Eckinger

Miss Lucille A. Rollin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Rollin, of Tawas City, became the bride of Harry L. Eckinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Eckinger, of Kawkwawlin, in rites read at the Rollin home Sunday afternoon by the Rev. Frank Metcalf in the presence of the immediate families.

A background of vari-colored fall flowers was arranged for the service in which the bride wore a white silk chiffon gown with a lace cloth jacket and floor-length skirt. Her circular shoulder veil fell from a coronet of orange blossoms and she carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and white feverfew.

Mrs. Alton Abbott, sister of the bride, was matron-of-honor, wearing a gown of light blue taffeta of floor length. The model also accented a short jacket, puffed sleeves, and her flowers were roses, fashioned in the corsage. William Eckinger, brother of the groom, assisted him as best man.

A buffet luncheon followed the ceremony, with garden flowers providing motif. Mr. and Mrs. Eckinger are making their home at 1408 West Midland street, Bay City.

Plan to Finish Au Sable River Jetty Project

The WPA project for constructing piers into Lake Huron at the mouth of the Au Sable river at Au Sable which has been suspended for the past two months due to shortage of labor, may be reinstated and work resumed October 2, according to James G. Mead, WPA superintendent.

The balance of the present project consists of placing oak waling brush and 2,000 tons of stone between the piers.

These piers now extend into Lake Huron for a distance of 1250 feet from shore and consist of a double row of spiles giving a width of 100 feet to the river extension.

This construction was necessary to cut through a bar across the mouth of the river preventing the entrance of boats of more than three feet of draft. There is now at least nine feet of water, allowing anything but large freighters ingress and egress to points up the river.

That the river is being ejected far into the bay is evidenced by the enhanced fishing conditions along the piers this summer. As high as 350 satisfied hook and line fishermen have been checked with limit catches on many of the days, states Superintendent Mead.

The Rivers and Harbors division of the War Department is considering, after many requests, the construction of a small craft harbor at the jetty location to furnish emergency harbor for yachts, commercial fishing craft and any other small draught vessels.

Oscoda should be congratulated on this fine improvement. Tawas river has similar possibilities and the limited amount of improvements already made by private interests indicate that such improvements have a practical value. The people of the city should sponsor a movement to improve the river. Mouth has been dredged, Tawas river mouth. During the past summer many pleasure craft have used the river as a harbor, and their being here has been of material benefit to the business of the city. Since the river mouth has been dredged, good perch fishing has been continuous throughout the summer.

Garbage removed twice a week. 50c per month. Call city clerk.

EMIL HILLER DIES IN SHOP ACCIDENT

Was World War Veteran Detroit and Mackinac Employee

Emil Hiller, of East Tawas, World War Veteran and Detroit & Mackinac railroad employe, was instantly killed Monday morning when his head was crushed between a freight car and the coach shop door at the railroad yards. Mr. Hiller was 44 years old and is survived by his wife. He had been married only a few months.

The accident occurred at about eleven o'clock. Mr. Hiller had been transferring lumber on cars on the coach shop tracks. He moved a car forward with a pinch bar. There is a slight down grade in the tracks at this point and the car continued to move. In an attempt to stop it from crashing into the coach doors, which were closed, he became trapped and his head and body were crushed between the car and the door.

Emil William Hiller was born February 5, 1895, at Tawas City. He was a quiet unassuming man and was highly esteemed by those who knew him. In addition to the wife, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. George Judd, of East Tawas; two sisters, Mrs. Walter Equitz, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and Mrs. Henry Westman, of Lake Stevens, Washington; and a half brother, Clarence Judd, of East Tawas.

The funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from the East Tawas Methodist church. Rev. S. A. Carey officiated. Last military rites were given by Audie Johnson Post, American Legion.

Mrs. George Denstedt

Mrs. George Denstedt was born September 8, 1887 and passed away at the Oestopathic Hospital in Saginaw, Sunday, September 17, 1939, following an operation on Friday, at the age of 52 years.

She was a faithful member of the Dorcas society of the Baptist church, and funeral services were held at the church Wednesday, September 30, at 2:00 p. m., Rev. Byler officiating. Waiting the arrival of her eldest son, who was unavoidably delayed on his trip from his home in Idaho, the body lay in state until the following afternoon when she was laid to rest in Evergreen cemetery.

Mrs. Denstedt leaves to mourn her loss her husband, George Denstedt, three daughters, Mrs. Genevieve Hausen, of Trenary, Mrs. Viola Green, of Hale, and Mrs. Leona Parks, of Houghten Heights; two sons, Thomas Kelly, of Idaho, and Edward Kelly, of Long Lake; five sisters, Mrs. Lucy Denstedt and Mrs. Florence Ewing, of Hale, Mrs. Emma Miller, of Detroit, Mrs. Lena Ballard, of Lansing, Mrs. Rose Snyder, of Linwood; four brothers, John LeClair, of Ypsilanti, James and Noah LeClair, of Flint and Claude LeClair, of Detroit; seventeen grandchildren and a host of other relatives and friends.

Teachers Must Take Oath of Office

County School Commissioner R. A. Rollin has received a supply of teacher's oath forms from the Superintendent of Public Instruction at Lansing. According to Act 54 of the Public Acts of 1939, all persons holding a Michigan teacher's certificate are required to file an oath of allegiance, properly notarized, in the office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction between the dates of September 29 and December 27, 1939, in order to protect the validity of the certificate. The act applies to teachers in public and parochial schools and also to persons who held certificates but are not now in the teaching profession. After the oath is filed, Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, Superintendent of Public Instruction, will send the certificate holder a card certifying the fact that the oath has been filed. Proper forms for filing the oath, which need be filed only once, may be secured from County School Commissioner R. A. Rollin and Superintendent of Public Instruction Elliott at Lansing.

COUNTY HOME ECONOMICS LEADERS MEET

Discuss Year's Program at Legion Hall Last Tuesday

Nineteen local Home Economics Extension leaders met at the Legion Hall in Tawas City at 10:00 a. m., Tuesday, September 25, for their first discussion of the Home Furnishings project in Isoco county. Miss Ruth Peck, Home Furnishings Specialist of Michigan State college, led the discussion on "Upholstering for the Family's Comfort," which included such topics as selection of materials for upholstering chairs, reconditioning old chairs, making foot stools and planning the year's project.

These 19 leaders represented 11 different communities in Isoco county and those who attended are as follows: Tawas City, Mrs. John Campbell, Mrs. Archie Colby; East Tawas, Mrs. O. W. Rowley and Mrs. Henry Klenow; Oscoda, Mrs. Don Addis and Mrs. Russell Mead substituting for Mrs. Lloyd Mead; Wilber, Mrs. Herbert Phelps and Mrs. Gust Olson; Hale, Mrs. Robert Greve and Mrs. Fritz Holzner; Alabaster, Mrs. Chas. McCormick and Mrs. Art McCormick; Upper Hemlock, Mrs. Beatrice Herriman; Au Sable, Mrs. George McKenzie and Mrs. Ed Vaughn substituting for Mrs. Andrea McDonald; Vine, Mrs. August Lorenz and Mrs. Carl Zimmerman; Reno, Mrs. Ed Robinson, Mrs. A. T. Vary and Mrs. Alec Robinson; Meadow Road, Mrs. Joseph Ulman.

These leaders represent about 175 members in the county. Leaders from the following not reporting for the first meeting were Baldwin, Whittemore, Laidlawville and Tawas City II.

Mrs. Victor Herriman, county chairman, called the meeting to order. The other county officers this year are Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. August Lorenz and Recreation leader Mrs. Archie Colby. Alice Hertzler, Home Extension Agent announced the next meeting for the leaders when they will bring chairs to be re-upholstered for the week beginning October 31-November 3.

Another meeting for the home economics extension groups was held at the Baptist church in Tawas City for the chairman and secretaries of the local groups, Miss Margaret Harris, Assistant State Home Extension Leader met with these local officers, giving them materials and helpful aids to carry on the duties of their offices.

Nineteen also attended this meeting and were: Oscoda, Mrs. Jacquays and Mrs. Russell Anderson; East Tawas, Mrs. Newton Warner and Mrs. G. W. Bullock; Reno, Mrs. Alex Robinson; Hale, Mrs. Wilbur Taylor and Mrs. Claude Salisbury; Tawas City, Mrs. Chas. McLean and Mrs. Wm. Leslie; Upper Hemlock, Mrs. Grace Long; Alabaster, Mrs. Sadie McKiddie and Mrs. John Bowen, Jr.; Tawas City II, Mrs. Douglas Ferguson; Wilber, Mrs. Harry Cross and Mrs. John Newberry; Vine, Mrs. James Chambers; Laidlawville, Mrs. Andrew Anschuetz.

District Health Notes

Dr. S. Thompson, Health Officer, will be in the district office at the Court House, Tawas City, from 10 to 12 A. M. on Thursday, October 5, to give Schick tests and diphtheria and small pox immunization to preschool children.

The first Child Health meeting of this year was held at the Baptist church on Me-55 on September 14. The speaker at this program was Miss Edna L. Hamilton, B. N., Director of Nurses for the Children's Fund of Michigan. She discussed the Children's Fund budget for 1940 in District Health Unit No. 2. Miss Hamilton explained that the Children's Fund wishes to extend the benefits of Health Education to other areas in Michigan where this has constantly been denied because funds were not available. Since this district has had a nine year demonstration of the value of organized health department, it seems just that the people should have decided whether or not this activity should be continued after the Children's Fund is exhausted, or leaves the counties. Miss Hamilton stated that the budget for 1940 would include an increase to 10 cents per capita of population for each of the four counties in this unit. Isoco county has been contributing $250.00 per year, and to 10 cents would be required to contribute $750.00 which is an approximate figure based on the 1930 census. A committee was appointed to present this to the Board of Supervisors at their October meeting.

The class officers were elected at St. Joseph high school on Wednesday of last week as follows: Twelfth Grade—President, Cecilia Duborsky; Vice President, Wm. Bergervin; Secretary, James Martin; Treasurer, Donald Lixey. Eleventh Grade—President, Anthony Czielski; Vice President, Phyllis Mae Klenow; Secretary, Claire Bergevin; Treasurer, Jeanne Bergevin. Tenth Grade—President, John Herick; Vice President, Karla Rae Elliott; Secretary, Valerie Chestler; Treasurer, Joyce Berzhinski. WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Mahatma Gandhi has indicated that, in his opinion, a world war against Adolf Hitler would be justifiable and possibly necessary. The British, with their imperious job of keeping their great Indian empire in hand, probably aren't worrying about Gandhi. More important is the attitude and activity of his vigorous and popular understudy, the 44-year-old Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru. The latter has been boldly resistant to British rule, spent six years in jail, and has acquired popularity and leadership as Gandhi reaches his seventy-second year.

Meager news reports from India indicate that Nehru has been calming down in his agitation against British imperialism, and that, a few weeks ago, he was vehemently denouncing fascism and the new German aggression. London is reassured, but watchful, as Asia may become a balance of power in the clash of world dominions and Nehru has been an active propagandist of pan-Asiatic doctrine, summoning browns and blacks to resist what he believes to be the aggression of the whites.

Born of a noble caste, Nehru was educated at Harrow and Cambridge, taking honors in the classics. His father, the Pandit Motilal Nehru, was a lawyer and the richest man in Allahabad. He gave away his mansion and moved into a shabby little house when he became a convert to Indian nationalism.

His son, reared in splendor, had no such ideas when he came home from England. He was a strong supporter of the British regime until the Amritsar massacre of 1919. Then he burned his 50 British suits, donned native dress, and became an agitator for the Nationalist cause. However, he was no devotee of loin-cloth asceticism. He was all for fighting and it was as the most belligerent of all the Indian leaders that he came to the presidency of the all-Indian congress in 1935.

Nehru was at times sharply opposed to the non-resisting Gandhi, but apparently their differences have been resolved. He is handsome and engaging, a vigorous assailant of the ancient caste system of India.

IT WAS not until a year ago that Romain Rolland returned to France, after more than 20 years' exile in Switzerland. He had opposed war. Several years before he finished "Jean Christophe," Tolstoy had called him "The Conscience of Europe." He is a pallid old man now, with thinning hair and sad, deep-set eyes, but still "above the battle" and still trying to arouse the conscience of mankind.

He dispatched to the New York international congress of the American Musiological society a message of good will. It is quoted here in accord with this department's wartime alertness to such men and messages. He says:

"In the field of art, there is not—there should not be—any rivalry among nations. The only combat worthy of us is that which is waged in every country and at every hour, between culture and ignorance, between light and chaos. Let us save all the light that can be saved. There is none more refulgent than music. It is the sun of the inner universe."

It was this sun that illumined "Jean Christophe," one of the greatest books of all times, published here just before the World War, profoundly moving to multitudes of Americans as an avocation of the creative and aspiring spirit of man. Many times in recent years, Romain Rolland has written that the world had little hope of escaping another and possibly last devastating war. But, described as "an old man, broken and despairing," on his return to France last year, he has continued his plea for peace, decrying hatred, pleading for understanding.

His has been a lone voice, never identified with "movements," or political groupings, right or left. He opposed Henri Barbusse and his Clarte group, and the various "united fronts," as he did the leaders of violent reaction on the right.

He was educated in music at the Ecole Normale, became a devotee of Wagner and then of Tolstoy and Shakespeare. He is the evangel of the humane spirit in a day when it is hard pressed.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Congress, Like Entire Nation Not Certain of 'Best' Course To Preserve U. S. Neutrality

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

CONGRESS: Admonition

"I have come back to Washington with an open mind. Whether I vote for repeal of embargoes or retention of them, my vote . . . will be for the means which I believe best calculated to keep the United States out of war. That we must do."

Illinois' Sen. Scott Lucas, a middle-of-the-road Democrat, was bold enough to admit publicly what most of the nation's 531 legislators admitted only to themselves: That no man could stamp his foot and say there was only one way to keep the U. S. out of Europe's war. But a few who took their seats in Franklin Roosevelt's third special session (and the nation's twenty-fifth since 1797) were highly opinionated, 100 per cent positive that only the arms embargo they pushed through congress three years ago could keep America neutral. Among these few were Idaho's Borah, North Dakota's Nye, Michigan's Vandenberg and Missouri's Clark.

But national leaders, being merely men, were confronted with the same confusion as the nation: The more they thought about arms embargo vs. "cash and carry," the more they argued about straight international law vs. specific neutrality legislation, the less positive they were about everything save one fact, that the U. S. must keep out of war.

Day before congress opened, politics found itself "adjourned" for 85 minutes. To the White House went Republicanism's 1936 standard bearers, Alf Landon and Col. Frank Knox, to talk with Franklin Roosevelt, John Nance Garner and congressional leaders of both stripes. Even the President was apparently confused, for there were rumors he had decided to supplement straight "cash and carry" (whereby belligerents could buy, pay for and haul away arms in their own ships) with old-fashioned international law. His thesis: One principle of international law never disputed is that belligerents have the right to purchase anything they need in neutral countries.

Only concrete results of the conference were the platitudes everyone expected, announced by White House Secretary Steve Early:

(1) "The conference with unanimous thought discussed the primary objective of keeping the U. S. neutral and at peace.

(2) "There was complete accord that . . . the whole subject . . . be dealt with in a wholly non-partisan spirit."

Next day, at 2 p. m., the assembled houses of congress heard Mr. Roosevelt's recommendations:

"Let those who seek to retain the present embargo position be wholly consistent and seek new legislation to cut off cloth and copper and meat and wheat and a thousand other articles from all the nations at war.

"I seek a greater consistency through repeal of the embargo provisions and a return to international law . . . I give you my deep and unalterable conviction that by the repeal . . . the United States will more probably remain at peace than if the law remains as it stands today . . ."

"May you, by your deeds show the world that we of the United States are one people, of one mind, one spirit, one clear resolution, walking before God in the light of the living."

NOTABLES

In the news

DUKE OF WINDSOR was named major general of British expeditionary forces and planned to go back to France.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB, native of Loretto, Pa., who rose to control billions of dollars in the steel industry, was buried at New York.

KERMIT ROOSEVELT, son of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, reportedly renounced his U. S. citizenship and became an Englishman to join the British ministry of shipping.

When the President left the floor, so did 17 isolationists of the Borah-LaFollette-Nye-Clark school. Ringing in their ears was one presidential admonition: "Let no . . . group . . . assume exclusive protectorate over the future well-being of America . . . Let no group assume the exclusive label of the peace bloc. We all belong to it."

After the 17 met, California's crusty Hiram Johnson made an announcement: "We are ready to fight from hell to breakfast."

ASIA:

Mystery

Amazingly brief was Japan's reaction when the U. S. abrogated its 1911 trade treaty last summer. One reason was the immediate upsurge of interest in Europe's dogfight. But one thing led to another, Japan made peace with Russia, and British-French interests in the Orient were left to fall under Japanese influence. These problems settled, pugnacious Nippon dusted off the U. S. treaty abrogation, mixed it with America's decision to reinforce her Pacific garrisons, and concocted from these ingredients a puzzling diplomatic issue.

Something was in the air. On three successive days Tokyo newspapers carried what were obviously government-inspired editorials which said things like this:

"Should the U. S. strengthen her present policy it can be supposed that Japan would be compelled to assert her right to existence."

"Following the decreasing Anglo-French influence in the Far East . . . the U. S. is threatening to come forward and . . . protect its rights and interests in China, thus giving rise to a greater likelihood of Japanese-American friction."

"Neither Japan nor the United States seeks war . . . We desire to judge the situation coolly . . ."

Trying to figure out this uncalculated-for war talk, the Chicago Daily News' A. T. Steele radioed from Tokyo that he thought the Japs were being prepared for "any future drastic American move." To others, it sounded like Tokyo was making a propaganda buildup to justify anti-American moves in China.

LABOR:

Peace in Wartime

Taking his eyes a moment from Europe's bloody picture show, Franklin Roosevelt glanced at domestic affairs and suddenly realized that October is U. S. labor's big month. At Cincinnati the American Federation of Labor was ready to convene. John Lewis' Congress for Industrial Organization planned to meet in San Francisco October 10. But there was no sign of peace between these two warring factions, and internal warfare is bad business in a time of world war.

Soon, however, there were indications the White House would move for peace, as it has done the past two years. The President conferred with A. F. of L.'s Daniel MADAME PERKINS What can you do?

Tobin, a leading advocate of labor unity. At his press conference he assured reporters he would address a message to the A. F. of L. convention, and that "it would be a good guess" to say the message probably would mention peace.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins also did a little campaigning. She told how both factions have asked representation on the new war resources board. Her quandary: If you appoint a representative of both factions, will they carry their fight into the board? Or can you appoint only one representative and say that he truly represents all labor without bringing protests from the other groups?

MISCELLANY:

Thanksgiving

Because President Roosevelt proclaimed Thanksgiving on November 23, and because Gov. George A. Wilson designated November 30, the Clayton county, Iowa, board of supervisors proclaimed a third date, November 16, "so as not to conflict with the dates set by the President and the governor."

THE WAR:

Words

Guns still boomed at a nearby Polish outpost when Adolf Hitler rode triumphantly into Danzig.

"We greet you . . . The city is decked for you," shouted Albert Forster, who is Der Fuehrer's latest Konrad Henlein.

"I am happy to greet you, my faithful gauleiter," answered the man whose armies were even then wiping up the spilled blood of Poland. Then he launched into a speech which the British ministry of information shortly called "full of the crass misstatements which usually fall from his (Hitler's) lips." Typical "misstatements":

¶ "The Duce (Mussolini) made proposals which Germany and France accepted but Britain refused."

¶ "Poland chose war because the western powers stated that the German army was worthless, that the German people were low in morale and that there was a breach between the German people and its leadership."

¶ "Britain should be happy that Germany and Russia reached an agreement. They are now relieved of . . . uncertainty."

Next day, as the New York stock market boomed in hopes of a long war, Britain's Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain answered him: "Among the many misstatements . . . I wish to refer . . . to the statement that the French government agreed to Italian mediation while His Majesty's government refused."

"Our purpose . . . is to redeem Europe from perpetual and recurring fear of German aggression. No threats will deter us or our French allies from this purpose."

On the third day French Premier Edouard Daladier had his inning, tracing step-by-step every broken promise that litters Adolf Hitler's trail from the reaffirmation of Locarno to the rape of Poland. Then:

"Germany already has prepared the dismemberment of France. Maps showing France amputated have been printed . . . But France has arisen . . . We will end the war only when we can ensure the security of France."

Completed was Russia's valiant "rescue" of 11,000,000 white Russians and Ukrainians (plus several million Poles) who were "left to their fate" when the Polish state collapsed under Germany's invasion. Nazi and Soviet chiefs conferred in Moscow on Poland's new partition, presumably deciding to leave a small, hamstrung buffer state. Lithuania and Slovakia were each given a small slice of the Polish pie.

In the East

BELGIUM'S WORRY

Will history be repeated?

But as war ebbed in Poland, other eastern nations grew fearful. Rumania's neutrality was threatened outside and inside: (1) on the north by Russian-German proximity; (2) on the east by an expected Turkish-Russian pact which might close her Black sea outlet; (3) internally by violence, illustrated in the assassination, presumably by pro-Germans, of anti-Nazi Prime Minister Armand Calinescu.

Meanwhile Der Fuehrer's fast-growing eastern empire suffered growing pains. While millions of sullen Poles presented a constant threat of rebellion, London and Paris heard insistent reports of uprisings among Czechs and Austrians.

In the West

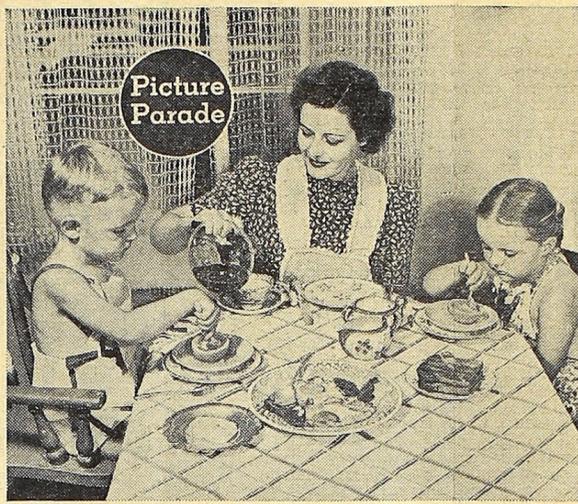

For the moment, fighting died down along the Saar front while both sides took time out to move up fresh troops. But France was fearful on two counts: (1) about 70 Nazi divisions were being moved from Poland to the western front; (2) Aachen, the town from which Germany jumped into Belgium in 1914, was evacuated of civilians and became a concentration point for Herr Hitler's troops. Was history about to be repeated?

At Sea

As the British airplane carrier Courageous went down, its 578 dead boosted Britain's sea toll to 761. Prime Minister Chamberlain reported 31 allied or neutral ships had been sunk by U-boats, also that the allies have sunk seven or eight German subs. Comparison: In April, 1917, peak month of the World war's sea fighting, average British tonnage loss per week was 127,000, or 39 ships. For the week ending September 19 in the present war, Britain lost 45,000 tons, or 13 ships. Biggest U. S. concern in the sea war: Several American cargoes had been confiscated by Britain; at least one American steamer, the Wascosta, had been stopped and searched by a German sub.

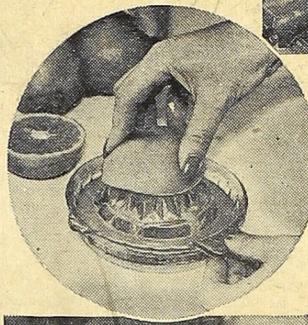

HIDDEN OGRE

Does the Tax Collector Lurk Beside Your Breakfast Table?

Picture Parade

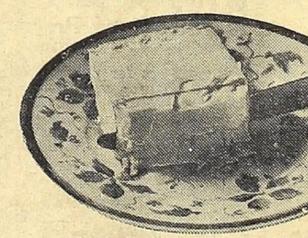

What's this about hidden taxes? Do they really take a healthy slice out of your family income? Analysts of the National Consumers Tax commission, who keep records of taxes in every state of the Union, claim the hidden levy takes from the average family's budget each year the equivalent of 578 loaves of bread or 165 pounds of butter or 144 dozen eggs or 156 pounds of bacon. Of an average $495.13 spent annually for food, each family is said to pay $35.15 in hidden taxes. On a national average, here's what the above breakfast is taxed:

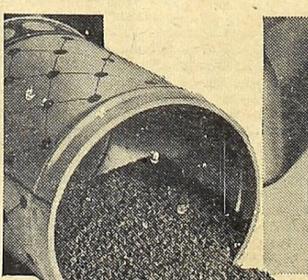

Above: Cost of toast is raised 6.4 per cent by 53 hidden taxes—11 federal, 42 state and local. The orange juice at the left costs the average family $14.74 a year, including the tax collector's $1.25 squeeze.

On bacon there are 48 taxes (30 federal, 18 state and local) boosting the cost 3.9 cents a pound. Of $20 spent annually for table eggs, about $1 goes to the tax collector.

There are 46 taxes on a pound of sugar (29 federal, 17 state and local). Average family uses 71 pounds a year, pays $2.70 in hidden taxes. Tax collectors swallow 18 per cent of the sugar cost, or one of every five and one-half pounds.

On coffee costing 23 cents a pound, 3.3 cents goes to hidden taxes. Cream and milk: Of $59.89 spent annually, $4.15 goes the same way.

Diversions of 1737 Entertained Col. Byrd

"A Library, a Garden, a Grove and a Purling Stream are the innocent scenes that divert our Leisure," William Byrd II wrote to a friend in England, as he sat in his palatial residence, Westover-on-the-James, one of the most celebrated and beautiful of all Colonial homes. As for the library, it numbered nearly 4,600 volumes, the largest private library in the colonies. It was in April, 1737, that Colonel Byrd advertised

Calcium Plays Important Role In Normal Diet

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

THE one outstanding criticism by food experts of the ordinary diet found in the majority of homes is that it does not contain enough minerals, particularly calcium.

TODAY'S HEALTH COLUMN

Perhaps you have thought of lime only as being one of the necessary elements to form the bones and the teeth, and of some use in tooth powders, and to overcome an acid condition of the blood and tissues.

One of its most important uses recently discovered is that calcium is a real heart stimulant or tonic.

Dr. P. Martin, Basel, in the Swiss Medical Journal, reports his studies on the influence of calcium during the training of athletes. "The young athletes were mostly city dwellers who lived in modest circumstances and whose food was frequently deficient in calcium. Moreover, working in offices during the day, they had little opportunity to benefit from fresh air and sunshine.

Dr. Martin made a test on young runners who ran 400 meters or about a quarter mile. Of a group of 27 athletes, 15 underweight training without use of calcium; the other 12 were given large doses of calcium during the five months of training (December to April).

Need of Calcium Proved. The reports of the results of the tests at the onset and the end of the training showed that the heart rate of the athletes was not only less in those using calcium but came back to normal (after running the 400 meters) in much less time than the athletes who had not used the calcium.

It is not suggested that the average individual should use calcium in its usual drug form. The suggestion is that most normal individuals would do well to simply use more of the foods that are rich in calcium such as dairy products—cheese and milk; egg yolks; green vegetables—lettuce, cabbage, turnip tops, spinach; cauliflower, carrots, string beans, turnips, parsnips; fresh fruits—strawberries, raspberries, rhubarb, oranges.

Habits Cause Of Constipation "The hustle and bustle of the average person's daily life in this machine age, the lack of time to create a habit, improper foods or freak diets, pandering to the almost universal desire for slenderness, insufficient fluid intake and other factors contribute to the prevalence of constipation."

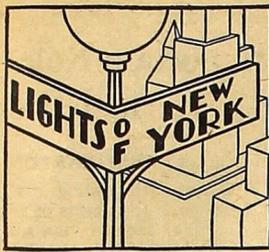

I am quoting Dr. Clayton C. Perry, Cleveland, Ohio, in an article on constipation in Medical World. I believe Dr. Perry's statement that "the lack of time to create a habit" is one of the great truths as to the cause of constipation. With a great many individuals there is the hurried breakfast and no time for, or thought of, the intestinal habit. And so common is constipation that he states further: "It is so rare in my experience to find a patient who is not constipated that I have come to look with awe and wonder at those who tell me that their bowels move naturally and regularly."

200 Histories Reviewed. "A review of 200 consecutive case histories of patients examined in my office (except cancer patients) revealed that 129 complained of constipation and used cathartics. Among the 71 nonconstipated patients, however, there were several with diarrhea and colitis. If these cases are excluded the number with normal bowel habits is small."

One of the conclusions come to by Dr. Perry is that a large breakfast is one of the most important factors in correcting constipation. With this conclusion most physicians will agree because a hurried, light breakfast does not give the impulse to the digestive tract to move and drive wastes downward. The very weight or heaviness of a meal will, in itself, give considerably stronger impulses to the whole digestive tract—stomach, small intestine, and large intestine.

It is difficult for the average individual to sit down and eat a good breakfast in a leisurely manner, and to take time to sit and read the paper for a few minutes after breakfast seems impossible. Yet, if this same individual were to retire a half-hour earlier and get up a half-hour earlier he could easily eat a larger, unhurried breakfast, read his paper and reach office or factory in plenty of time.

U. S. Will Get Soil From Kings' Graves

LONDON.—Soil from the burial places of English and Scottish kings will be taken to the United States to be deposited in gardens which are to become a symbol of peace.

The earth, taken from Westminster abbey and Iona cathedral, Argyllshire, Scotland, will be placed in the Cultural gardens of Cleveland, Ohio.

Balloon Tests Aid for Pilots

New Technique Cuts Down Errors in Studying the Tricky Currents.

TROY, N. Y.—Meteorologists who watch vari-colored balloons float into the sky are responsible for the most accurate method devised for guiding airplane pilots through hazardous winds, according to Elbert F. Corwin, Rensselaer Polytechnic institute meteorologist.

The new technique, with its narrowed margin of error, is expected to prevent pilots from encountering violent upwinds and treacherous downdrafts that sometimes suck planes into mountainsides. It guides them by enabling the pilots to know at which levels they may fly to avoid the currents.

Corwin said the new method utilizes a geometrical principle, determining distance through angles. Weather observers at present base calculations on an assumption that balloons always rise about 600 feet a minute.

Work With Weather Bureau. Corwin and two student assistants, at the request of the United States weather bureau, for months sent colored balloons into the air and observed their flight to heights of five miles and distances of from 10 to 17 miles.

It was found that "up and down" winds accelerated, slowed or even reversed, the balloons' normal rate of climb. Thus, the Rensselaer findings showed, the pilot of an airplane might encounter violent winds by trying to avoid them, because winds, reported at 10,000 feet, might really be at 8,000 or 12,000 feet.

The R. P. I. meteorologist's method utilizes a small balloon tied by a 100-foot line to the main, "sounding" balloon. A special theodolite, similar to those used by weather observers and surveyors to study angles, would then measure the angle between it and the two balloons. Calculations then determine to within relatively few feet their height.

Error as High as 33 Per Cent. "We checked the positions of the balloons each minute and later compared these with what they would have been assumed to be under the assumption of constant rate of ascent," the professor said. "On still days we found the assumed rate correct enough, but on other days with up and down winds the actual rate was much faster or slower than the assumed, frequently as much as 25 per cent. In one instance the error was 33 per cent.

"The principal value of this new method is that we may learn more about the frequency and violence of high winds in different sections of the country, particularly in mountainous regions, and report accurately to those who fly what to avoid or take advantage of on any particular day."

Surgeon Tests Gas Mask Successfully in Operation

LONDON.—An account of a successful operation for appendicitis performed by Col. E. M. Cowell, of Wimpole street, while wearing a general service respirator is printed in the Lancet.

"Before starting," it said, "Colonel Cowell carefully applied antidote to his glasses and to the eye-pieces of the respirator both within and without.

"The respirator was donned before washing, and was worn for the 45 minutes till the dressing was applied. No difficulty was experienced in comfort, efficiency or visibility. The wearing of the civilian-duty type of respirator would, Colonel Cowell thinks, be much more comfortable and easier for all concerned."

New Orleans Will Use Tin Cans Under Streets

NEW ORLEANS.—Traffic soon will roll over streets made partly of metal, but it won't conflict with the city's antinoise campaign.

The metal-tin cans—will be on the bottom. The scheme, a money-saving idea of Mayor Robert S. Maestri, will salvage the over-supply from city dumping grounds.

The idea is, the mayor said, to provide a base for paving. Due to the low, swampy nature of city land, paving without an upholding base, often buckles and sinks.

Once before, Maestri experimented with a paving base. City workmen dumped sand into prepared ground in marshy sections of the city. Sinking was reduced to a minimum.

Busy English Housewife Has Budget of 25 Million

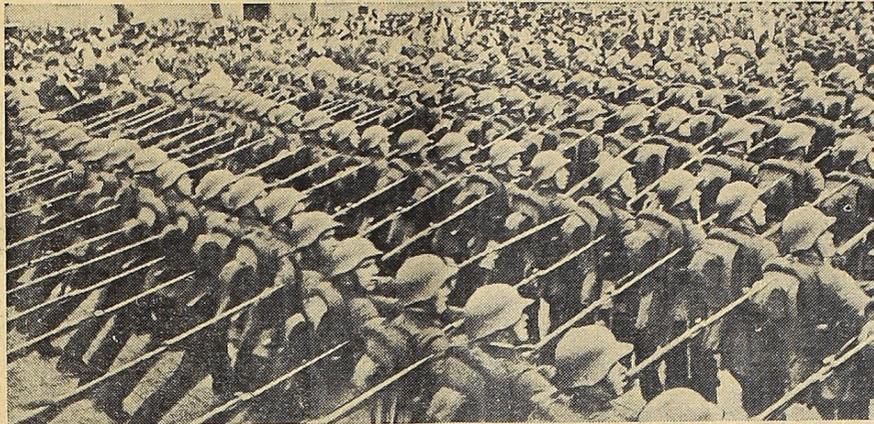

LONDON.—The busiest housewife in England is Mrs. Monica Felton, who has just been appointed chairman of the London county council supplies committee.

Mrs. Felton has $25,000,000 to spend every year, but she must spend it wisely and well, getting the best things at the lowest prices.

Her purchases will range from toys to building equipment, from bandages to X-ray apparatus.

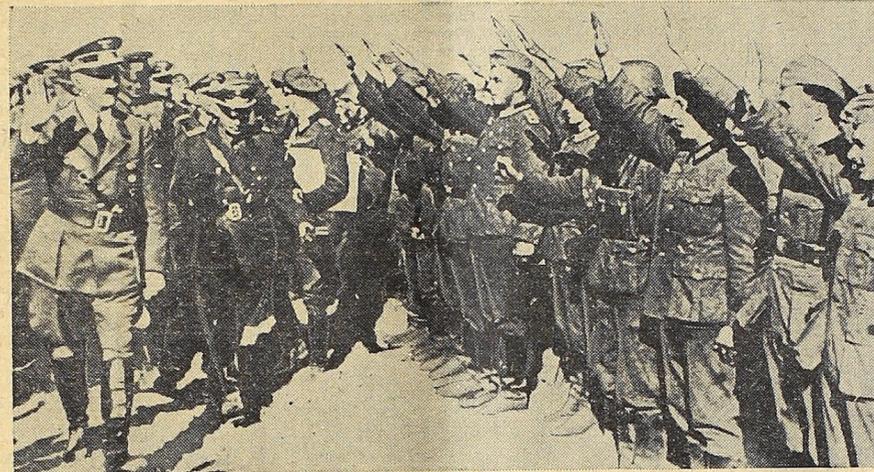

The buying of food is one of the most important aspects of the committee's work. L. C. C.'s food bill last year was in the neighborhood of $7,500,000.

Oops! Don't Stop Now—It Might Be Dangerous

They're not prodding each other on, these soldiers of Soviet Russia's red army. They're marching to the west. Russia already has taken over the Polish Ukraine and the Polish section of White Russia. An unknown quantity in the war, the red army is Europe's largest from the standpoint of numbers.

Fine! Says Germany; Hooey! Says England

This incident of the war in Poland was passed by both German and English censors. Under the picture, the German caption said of Hitler: "The leader and supreme commander of the armored forces appeared unexpectedly among his soldiers, whilst they crossed the Vistula river. He was in the front line and was greeted with great enthusiasm." The English censor added a note: "This picture, dated from Germany, shows hardly anybody in full war kit."

As Germany Recoups World War Losses

Maps show how Germany's expansion the past five years has created a nation far larger than the kaiser's pre-war empire. Principal World war losses were Alsace Lorraine, to France; the Polish corridor, Posen and Upper Silesia to Poland; Danzig, which became a free city, and the Rhineland, demilitarized. All but Alsace Lorraine have now been recaptured, although Polish seizures are not recognized and therefore not shown on the 1939 map. Germany has also seized Austria and most of the former Czechoslovakia. Germany is still below her pre-war size, however, because all foreign colonies were confiscated at Versailles.

Hitler 'Honored' by British Tommies

As visual proof that England's humor isn't dead, these members of the London balloon barrage, trying to select a suitable name for their canteen, decided that "Berchtesgaden" would be just the thing. Berchtesgaden, Germany, is the Bavarian retreat of Adolf Hitler.

THE INFANCY OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 2:13-23. GOLDEN TEXT—And they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us.—Matthew 1:23.

Looking forward to an experience in life which promises to be both interesting and profitable always brings a glow of expectation. Something of that spirit should pervade the Bible schools of our land as they begin a six-months study in the Gospel of Matthew.

Consideration of our Lord's life properly starts with the story of His birth, but we reserve that for our Christmas lesson. Today we stress the manner in which the Child Jesus was received into the world. Men then as now, were either for Him or against Him. God had only one attitude, that of loving protection and preparation of His Son for His ministry.

I. Christ in the World of Men. The world of today is far different from that of the first century, but the difference is all on the outside. Almost breath taking have been the developments of modern civilization, but these have not changed the heart of man. He still fears and hates and fights and sins. His attitude toward Christ is unchanged. There are still only two classes of people in the world—those who have received Christ and are saved, and those who have rejected Him and are lost.

1. Against Christ. How do men show their rejection of God's Son? Just as they did at His birth, by: a. Fear. Herod was afraid lest the coming of this one should result in the loss of his ill-gotten gains. His anger and fear made old Jerusalem afraid. b. Indifference. When the Wise Men asked where Christ was to be born, the priests and scribes knew exactly where to find the facts in the Holy Scriptures, but having done so, they relapsed into utter indifference.

They had no interest in the fulfillment of the prophecy. c. Hatred. Herod poured out the violence of his heart by killing the first-born. He was the first of many who have raged against the Christ in futile anger. d. Sorrow. The tears of the mothers of Jerusalem but foreshadowed the weeping and wailing which characterizes Christ-rejection both in time and eternity.

2. For Christ. Thanks be to God, there were those in that day who were for Christ and, like those who follow Him today, they showed: a. Spirituality. Men have marveled that the Magi knew of the birth of Christ. They must have studied the prophecies of the Word and been responsive to the teaching and moving of the Holy Spirit. Can we say as much for ourselves? b. Interest. Not content to know and to marvel, they shamed the priests of Israel by their persistent interest in this great thing which had come to pass. c. Love. They brought themselves in worship and they brought rich gifts from their treasures. You can give without loving, but you cannot love without giving. d. Action. They came. They persisted until they found the Christ. Then they listened to God and protected His Son by not returning to Herod.

II. Christ in God's World. Men had brought sin and ruin into the world. They had rejected His Son, but God still ruled and we see Him protecting, preparing, and fulfilling prophecy through His Son.

1. Protecting. Men may hate and seek to destroy God's Son. Satan may inspire them with ingenuity and cunning, but see how the Eternal One speaks to Joseph in dreams, how He prepares a place of refuge in Egypt and ultimately in Nazareth, where the boy Jesus may increase in wisdom and stature and favor with God and man.

2. Preparing. God knows of the days of public ministry which are ahead and above all, of that day when on Golgotha's hill Christ was, in His own body, to prepare salvation for you and for me. God is not taken by surprise. He moves forward to the completion of His plan with the stately tread of eternity.

3. Fulfilling. God also sees to it that prophecy is fulfilled. We read in verses 15 and 23, "that it might be fulfilled" and in verse 17, "then was fulfilled." God's Word is always sure, for He makes it so. His infinite and eternal faithfulness guarantees the fulfillment of every prophecy, yes, and of every promise of His Holy Word.

Progress of Mankind

In my youth, looking at this man and that, I marvelled that humanity had made so little progress. Now, looking at man in the multitude, I marvel that they have advanced so far.—George Gissing.

No Love Without Service

It is as impossible for love to thrive without service as for a plant to grow without soil. Love feeds on what we give, not on what we get.

FARM TOPICS

BUSINESS RECOVERY VITAL TO FARMERS

Employment Revival Would Aid Agriculture.

By DR. O. B. JESNESS
Solution of a considerable part of the farm problem must be looked for in industry rather than on the farm. Colorado State college is giving serious consideration to the interlocking of these two major American enterprises.

Industrial and employment recovery concern the farmer because increased purchasing power among consumers means improved demand for farm products. Such recovery also will aid agricultural adjustment in that more opportunities for work will be provided for the excess farm population.

Unsatisfactory prices and income for farmers have led to programs seeking to raise prices by holding production or supplies offered on the market in check. There is not an adequate market to absorb at satisfactory prices all of the products farmers produce.

Agriculture is carried on by such a vast number of individuals that adjustment of production to a depressed market does not come readily. It presents a decided contrast to manufacturing in this respect. The fact that agriculture cannot readily adjust production has paved the way for government adjustment programs.

To the extent the troubles of agriculture are the results of surplus output, the remedy must be either market recovery and expansion, or actual curtailment of the industry. Markets have been curtailed by the depression.

For the future, land prices need to be kept in line with prospects for long-time returns.

There are problems of soil conservation and land use calling for public attention. However, soil conservation needs to be treated as a problem of itself rather than to be used as the vehicle for benefit payments to increase the agricultural income. In the future, greater recognition probably will be given to the fact that the individual operator has responsibilities in the matter of caring for the soil and other resources.

In a democracy, public policy is shaped by public opinion. This requires that the average citizens must think seriously about our problems and arrive at sound judgments. That thinking must recognize broader considerations of general welfare rather than to spring only from narrow self-interest.

Music Fan Radioizes Entire Vermont Farm

Music while he works. That's the pet hobby of H. O. Van Vliet, a farmer of East Charlotte, Vt., on whose large farm one may hear philharmonic orchestras and concert ensembles from early morning until late at night.

The magazine Radio News tells the story as follows: "Van Vliet has installed radio speakers in practically every building on the farm, all of which are controlled from a master speaker set in his house.

"It all started because Van Vliet, a busy and industrious farmer, is ardently fond of classical music. But because he had cows to milk, fields to plow, wood to chop and other barn labors to perform, he missed many of his favorite programs.

"So he set about remedying that situation. He bought several old speakers for a couple of dollars each. Using extension cord, he set up a speaker in the woodshed, another in the cow barn, one in the chicken house and still another in the large horse barn. To these he added three in his house; one in the bedroom, a large cabinet speaker in the living-room and another in his kitchen. The entire layout didn't cost over $12.

"He still has one problem unsolved: he can't find a station broadcasting classical music at five a. m., the hour when he hitches his sus-penders and starts out for the barn to milk the cows. The radio minded farmer complains that he has to 'spend an hour or two in the barn the first thing in the morning and all I can get on that consarn radio is jazz music from Boston.'

"Asked if music helps the chickens to lay more eggs and his cows to give more milk, Van Vliet replied, 'I know definitely that animals like music. When I turn on some soft, pleasing music out in the farm buildings, the hens and cows respond to it immediately.'

Proper Sire Care

It is important to success in dairying to secure an outstanding bull of the desired breed—one which is capable of improving the herd—and give him care and management so that his services may be utilized to the best advantage, points out N. P. Ralston of the Missouri college of agriculture. Oftentimes the true value of many bulls is not determined because they are sold before production records are obtained from the daughters.

Nation's Best

Early Superstitions

Elizabethan England believed in omens, generally bad ones. One's own body gave many a warning: "By the pricking of my thumbs, something wicked this way comes." Dreams were warnings sent by God. A nose-bleed meant something or other. The howl of a dog, the hoot of an owl, the dismal note of a raven, all presaged ill. ***

State of Michigan

In the Circuit Court for the County of Iosco, in Chancery.

Order of Publication. Lloyd G. McKay and Rose M. McKay, Plaintiffs, vs. William A. Hoffman, Frederick Burton and Henry Lemke, Defendants.

Suit pending in the Circuit Court for the county of Iosco, in Chancery, at the city of Tawas City in said county on the 18th day of July, 1939.

In this cause it appearing from affidavit on file, that the defendant Henry Lemke, was previously a resident of the city of Detroit, in the state of Michigan, and that process for his appearance has been duly issued, and that the same could not be served by reason of his absence from, or concealment within the state of Michigan, and by reason of his continued absence from his last known address, and that after careful search and inquiry said plaintiffs cannot ascertain in what state or country the defendant Henry Lemke now resides.

On motion of Yeo and Bilitzke, attorneys for the plaintiffs, Lloyd G. McKay and Rose M. McKay, it is ordered that said defendant Henry Lemke cause his appearance to be entered in this cause within three months from the date of this order; and in case of his appearance he, said Henry Lemke, cause his answer to the plaintiffs' bill of complaint to be filed, and a copy thereof to be served on said attorneys for said plaintiffs within fifteen days after service on said defendant Henry Lemke of a copy of said bill and notice of this order; and that in default thereof, said bill be taken as confessed by said defendant Henry Lemke.

And it is Further Ordered, that within forty days the plaintiffs cause a copy of this order to be published in The Tawas Herald, a newspaper printed, published and circulating in said county, and that such publication be continued therein at least once each week for six weeks in succession, or that plaintiffs Lloyd G. McKay and Rose M. McKay cause a copy of this order to be personally served on said defendant, Henry Lemke, at least twenty days before the time above prescribed for his appearance.

WINGS for WORDS

Distance . . . once a barrier to spoken words . . . has lost its power to limit the human voice. Today words defy the intervening miles, and two friends with an ocean or a continent between them talk as if face to face. In thus extending the range of man's voice, the telephone performs a modern miracle. It is part of the miracle that this is done so swiftly, so easily and so cheaply.

CHAPTER X—Continued

Adelaide sat motionless, eyes on her plate. When she spoke again it was of other things. "Did you hear that Delafeld is coming back?" "Who told you?" asked Frederick. "Eloise Harper. Benny's sister saw Del at Miami. She is sure he is expecting to marry the other girl."

"Bad taste, I call it." "Everybody is crazy to know who she is."

"Have you any idea?" "No, Benny's sister said he talked quite frankly about getting married. But he wouldn't say a word about the woman."

"I hardly think he will find Edith heart-broken." Towne glanced across the table. Edith was not wearing the willow. No shadow marred her lovely countenance. Her eyes were clear and shining pools of sweet content.

Her uncle was proud of that high-held head. He and Edith might not always hit it off. But, by Jove, he was proud of her.

"No, she's not heart-broken," Adelaide's cool tone disturbed his reflections, "she is getting her heart mended."

"What do you mean?"

"They are an attractive pair, little Jane and her brother. And the boy has lost his head."

"Over Edith? Oh, well, she plays around with him; there's nothing serious in it."

"Don't be too sure. She's interested."

"What makes you insist on that?" irritably.

"I know the signs, dear man," the cat seemed to purr, but she had claws.

And it was Adelaide who was right. Edith had come to the knowledge that night of what Baldy meant to her.

As she had entered the ballroom men had crowded around her. "Why," they demanded, "do you wear mistletoe, if you don't want to pay the forfeit?"

Backed up against one of the marble pillars, she held them off. "I do want to pay it, but not to any of you."

Her frankness diverted them. "Who is the lucky man?" "He is here. But he doesn't know he is lucky."

They thought she was joking. But she was not. And on the other side of the marble pillar a page in scarlet listened, with joy and fear in his heart. "How fast we are going. How fast!"

There was dancing until midnight, then the curtains at the end of the room were drawn back, and the tree was revealed. It towered to the ceiling, a glittering, gorgeous thing. It was weighted with gifts for everybody, fantastic toys most of them, expensive, meaningless.

Evans, standing back of the crowd, was aware of the emptiness of it all. Oh, what had there been throughout the evening to make men think of the Babe who had been born at Bethlehem?

The gifts of the Wise Men? Perhaps. Gold and frankincense and myrrh? One must not judge too narrowly. It was hard to keep simplicities in these opulent days.

Yet he was heavy-hearted, and when Eloise Harper charged up to him, dressed somewhat scantily as a dryad, and handed him a foolish monkey on a stick, she seemed to suggest a heathen saturnalia rather than anything Christian and civilized.

"A monkey for a monk," said Eloise. "Mr. Follette, your cassock is frightfully becoming. But you know you are a whitened sepulchre."

"Am I?"

"Of course. I'll bet you never say your prayers."

She danced away, unconscious that her words had pierced him. What reason had she to think that any of this meant more to him than it did to her? Had he borne witness to the faith that was within him? And was it within him? And if not, why?

He stood there with his foolish monkey on his stick, while around him whirled a laughing, shrieking crowd. Why, the thing was a carnival, not a sacred celebration. Was there no way in which he might bear witness?

Edith had asked him to sing the old ballads, "Dame, get up and bake your pies," and "I saw three ships a-sailing." Evans was in no mood for the dame who baked her pies on Christmas day in the morning, or the pretty girls who whistled and sang on Christmas day in the morning.

When all the gifts had been distributed the lights in the room were turned out. The only illumination was the golden effulgence which encircled the tree.

In his monk's robe, within that circle of light, Evans seemed a mystical figure. He seemed, too, appropriately ascetic, with his gray hair, the weary lines of his old-young face.

But his voice was fresh and clear.

And the song he sang hushed the great room into silence.

"O little town of Bethlehem, How still we see thee lie, Above thy deep and dreamless sleep,

The silent stars go by; Yet in thy dark streets shineth, The everlasting light, The hopes and fears of all the years

Are met in thee tonight."

He sang as if he were alone in some vast arch space, beneath spires that reached towards Heaven, behind some grille that separated him from the world.

And now it seemed to him that he sang not to that crowd of upturned faces, not to those men and women in shining silks and satins, not to Jane who was far away, but to those others who pressed close—his comrades across the Great Divide!

So he had sung to them in the hospital, sitting up in his narrow bed—and most of the men who had listened were gone.

"And—I told him he must not, Miss Towne."

As the last words rang out his audience seemed to wake with a sigh.

Then the lights went up. But the monk had vanished!

Evans left word with Baldy that he would go home on the trolley. "I am not quite up to the supper and all that. Will you look after Mother?"

"Of course, say, Evans, that song was top notch. Edith wants you to sing another."

"Will you tell her I can't? I'm sorry. But the last time I sang that was for the fellows—in France. And it—got me—"

"It got me, too," Baldy confided, "made all this seem—silly."

It was just before New Year's that Lucy Logan brought a letter for Frederick Towne to sign, and when he had finished she said, "Mr. Towne, I'm sorry, but I'm not going to work any more. So will you please accept my resignation?"

He showed his surprise. "What's the matter? Aren't you good enough for you?"

"It isn't that." She stopped and went on, "I'm going to be married, Mr. Towne."

"Married?" He was at once congratulatory. "That's a pleasant thing for you, and I mustn't spoil it by telling you how hard it is going to be to find someone to take your place."

"I think if you will have Miss Dale? She's really very good."

Frederick was curious. "What kind of lover had won this quiet Lucy? Probably some clerk or salesman."

"What about the man? Nice fellow, I hope—"

"Very nice, Mr. Towne," she flushed, and her manner seemed to forbid further questioning. She went away, and he gave orders to the cashier to see that she had an increase in the amount of her final check. "She will need some pretty things. And when we learn the date we can give her a present."

So on Saturday night Lucy left, and on the following Monday a card was brought up to Edith Towne.

She read it. "Lucy Logan? I don't believe I know her," she said to the maid.

"She says she is from Mr. Towne's office, and that it is important."

"Miss Towne," Lucy said as Edith approached her, "I have resigned from your uncle's office. Did he tell you?"

"No, Uncle Fred rarely speaks about business."

With characteristic straightforwardness Lucy came at once to the point. "I have something I must talk over with you. I don't know whether I am doing the wise thing. But it is the only honest thing."

"I can't imagine what you can have to say."

"No you can't. It's this—" she hesitated, then spoke with an effort. "I am the girl Mr. Simms is in love with. He wants to come back and marry me."

Edith's fingers caught at the arm of the chair. "Do you mean that it was because of you—that he didn't marry me?"

"Yes. He used to come to the office when he was in Washington and dictate letters. And we got in the way of talking to each other. He seemed to enjoy it, and he wasn't like some men—who are just—silly. And I began to think about him a lot. But I didn't let him see it. And—he told me afterward, he was always thinking of me. And the morning of your wedding day he came down to the office—to say 'Good-by.' He said he—just had to. And—well, he let it out that he loved me, and he didn't want to marry you. But he said he would have to go on with it. And—and I told him he must not, Miss Towne."

Edith stared at her. "Do you mean that what he did was your fault?"

"Yes," Lucy's face was white, "if you want to put it that way. I told him he hadn't any right to marry you if he loved me." She hesitated, then lifted her eyes to Edith's with a glance of appeal. "Miss Towne, I wonder if you are big enough to believe that it was just because I cared so much—and not because of his money?"

"You think you love him?" she demanded.

"I know I do. And you don't. You never have. And he didn't love you. Why—if he should lose every cent tomorrow, and I had to tramp the road with him, I'd do it gladly. And you wouldn't. You wouldn't want him unless he could give you everything you have now, would you? Would you, Miss Towne?"

Edith's sense of justice dictated her answer. "No," she found herself unexpectedly admitting. "If I had to tramp the roads with him, I'd be bored to death."

"I think he knew that, Miss Towne. He told me that if he didn't marry you, your heart wouldn't be broken. That it would just hurt your pride."

Edith had a moment of hysterical mirth. How they had talked her over. Her lover—and her uncle's stenographer! What a tragedy it had been! And what a comedy!

She leaned forward a little, locking her fingers about her knees. "I wish you'd tell me all about it."

So Lucy told the simple story. And in telling it showed herself so naive, so steadfast, that Edith was aware of an increasing respect for the woman who had taken her place in the heart of her lover. She perceived that Lucy had come to this interview in no spirit of triumph. She had dreaded it, but had felt it her duty. "I thought it would be easier for you if you knew it before other people did."

Edith's forehead was knitted in a slight frown. "The whole thing has been most unpleasant," she said. "When are you going to marry him?"

"I told him on St. Valentine's day. It seemed—romantic."

Romance and Del! Edith had a sudden illumination. Why, this was what he had wanted, and she had given him none of it! She had laughed at him—been his good comrade. Little Lucy adored him—and had set St. Valentine's day for the wedding!

There was nothing small about Edith Towne. She knew fineness when she saw it, and she had a feeling of humility in the presence of little Lucy. "I think it was my fault as much as Del's," she stated. "I should never have said 'Yes.' People haven't any right to marry who feel as we did."

"Oh," Lucy said rapturously, "how dear of you to say that. Miss Towne, I always knew you were big. But I didn't dream you were so beautiful." Tears wet her cheeks. "You're just—marvellous," she said, wiping them away.

"No, I'm not." Edith's eyes were on the fire. "Normally, I am rather proud and—hateful. If you had come a week ago—" Her voice fell away into silence as she still stared at the fire.

Lucy looked at her curiously. "A week ago?"

Edith nodded. "Do you like fairy tales? Well, once there was a princess. And a page came and sang—under her window." The fire purred and crackled. "And the princess—liked the song—"

"Oh," said Lucy, under her breath.

She stood up. "I can't tell you how thankful I am that I came."

"You're not going to run away yet," Edith told her. "I want you to have lunch with me. Upstairs. You must tell me all your plans."

"I haven't many. And I really oughtn't to stay."

"Why not? I want you. Please don't say no."

So up they went, with the perturbed parlor maid speaking through the tube to the pantry. "Miss Towne wants luncheon for two, Mr. Waldron. In her room. Something nice, she says, and plenty of it."

Little Lucy had never seen such a room as the one to which Edith led her. The whole house was, indeed, a dream palace. Yet it was the atmosphere with which her lover would soon surround her. She had a feeling almost of panic. What would she do with a maid like Alice, who was helping Josephine set up the folding-table, spread the snowy cloth, bring in the hot silver dishes?

As if Edith divined her thought, she said when the maids had left, "Lucy, will you let me advise?"

"Of course, Miss Towne."

"Don't try to be—like the rest of us. Like Del's own crowd, I mean. He fell in love with you because you were different. He will want you to stay—different."

"But I shall have so much to learn."

Edith was impatient. "What must you learn? External? Let them alone. Be yourself. You have dignity—and strength. It was the strength in you that won Del. You and he can have a life together that will mean a great deal, if you will make him go your way. But you must not go his—"

Lucy considered that. "You mean that the crowd he is with weakens him?"

"I mean just that. They're sophisticated beyond words. You're what they would call—provincial. Oh, be provincial, Lucy. Don't be afraid. But don't adopt their ways. You go to church, don't you? Say your prayers? Believe that God's in His world?"

Lucy's fair cheeks were flushed. "Why, of course I do."

"Well, we don't—not many of us," said Edith. "The thing you have got to do is to interest Del in something. Don't just go sailing away with him in his yacht. Buy a farm over in Virginia, and help him make a success of it."

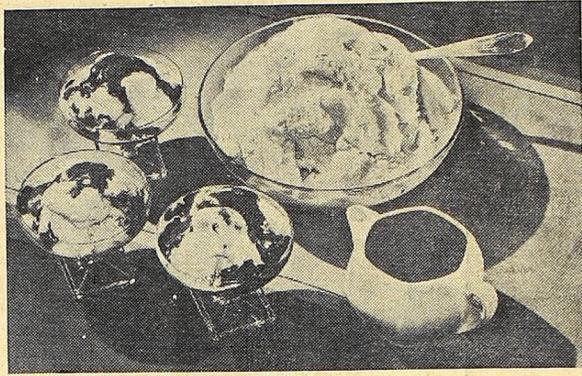

"But he lives in New York."

"Of course he does. But he can live anywhere. He's so rich that he doesn't have to earn anything, and his office is just a fiction. You must make him work. Go in for a farm; blooded horses, cows, black Berkshires."

DON'T THESE LOOK AWFUL GOOD?

My Favorite Recipes

Lucky, indeed, is the homemaker who has among her treasured recipes Aunt Martha's "receipt" for soft molasses cookies, Mother's rule for old-fashioned apple pan dowdy, or grandmother's instructions for making home-baked beans. Those old, favorite recipes are the mainstay of many a tempting meal.

Each one of us has our own prized collection of just such recipes—some old, some new, but all of them tried and approved by a critical family.

The recipes I'm giving you today are some of my own favorites—family "heirlooms" and contributions from friends and neighbors who are excellent cooks.

When you're a "seasoned" or experienced cook you may take liberties with a recipe or with directions, but if you're a beginner, or if you're trying a new dish for the first time, it's better to stick to a proven recipe and the accurate measurements it calls for.

Accuracy in cooking means level teaspoons and tablespoons and cups in the amounts the recipe specifies; it means sifting flour once before measuring; combining ingredients by the method given, and cooking or baking according to time and temperature recommended.

Oven Fried Chicken. (Serves 4)
1 2 to 3 pound chicken (cut for frying)
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 eggs
¼ cup water
1 cup fine cracker crumbs
Fat for frying
1 onion (chopped fine)
1 cup cream

Dip pieces of chicken in flour to which salt and pepper has been added; then dip in beaten egg to which water has been added and finally roll in cracker crumbs. Brown in hot fat (1 inch in depth).

Place in baking pan, sprinkle with onion, and top with cream. Cover and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees), until tender, approximately 1½ hours.

Surprise Muffins. (Makes 2 dozen small muffins)
1 egg (well beaten)
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter (melted)
2 cups cake flour
3 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons cherry preserves

Beat egg and add milk and melted butter. Mix and sift the flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Pour liquid ingredients into the dry ingredients. Pour into well-greased muffin tins and place ½ teaspoon of preserves on top of each muffin.

The preserves should be partially covered with muffin batter. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) for approximately 12 minutes.

Vanilla Ice Cream. (Automatic Refrigerator Method)
¾ cup sweetened condensed milk
½ cup water
1½ teaspoons vanilla
1 cup whipping cream

Blend sweetened condensed milk, water, and vanilla thoroughly. Chill. Whip cream to custard-like consistency and fold into chilled mixture. Pour into freezing pan. Place in freezing unit. After mixture is about half frozen remove from refrigerator. Scrape mixture from sides and bottom of pan. Beat until smooth but not until melted. Smooth out and replace in freezing unit until frozen for serving. Serves 6.

A Chocolate Sauce for Ice Cream.
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
2 tablespoons butter
¾ cup boiling water
5 tablespoons white corn syrup
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon salt

Melt chocolate and butter and add hot water gradually. Bring to a boil, add corn syrup and sugar, and cook over low flame for 5 minutes. Cool slightly, add vanilla and salt.

Gingerbread Waffles.

(Serves 6)

1 cup molasses
¾ cup butter
1 teaspoon soda
½ cup sour milk
1 egg (beaten)
2 cups cake flour
2 teaspoons ginger
½ teaspoon salt

Heat molasses and butter to boiling point. Remove from fire and beat in the soda. Add sour milk, beaten egg, and the flour which has been sifted with the ginger and salt. Mix well. Bake in hot waffle iron. Serve with whipped cream and a dash of nutmeg.

Honey Spice Cake.

¾ cup shortening
¾ cup granulated sugar
¾ cup strained honey
2 eggs
3 cups cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup nut meats (broken)
1 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Cream shortening. Add sugar and beat thoroughly. Add honey. Separate eggs, beat yolks and add to mixture. Mix and sift all dry ingredients. Add ¼ cup of dry ingredients to nuts and add to cake mixture. Add remaining dry ingredients alternately with buttermilk and vanilla, beating between each addition. Beat egg whites until stiff. Fold into mixture. Place in well-greased loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) for 45-50 minutes.

Clam Chowder.

½ cup carrot (chopped)
2 tablespoons onions (chopped)
¼ cups potato (chopped)
¼ cup celery (chopped fine)
1 pint clams
2 cups water and clam liquor
Salt and pepper to taste
1 pint milk
3 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons butter
1½ tablespoons parsley
½ teaspoon paprika

Chop the vegetables in small pieces and place in large kettle. Chop the clams and add together with the clam liquor, water, salt, and pepper. Cover and cook about ½ hour, or until vegetables are tender. Scald milk. Make a smooth paste of the flour and water. Add half of this flour paste to the clam mixture and half to the scalded milk. Cook each, stirring constantly, until the mixtures thicken. Combine and add butter, parsley, and paprika. Serve very hot.

Whipped Cream Fluff.

(Serves 5)

1 cup rice (cooked)
1 cup shredded pineapple
½ cup canned red cherries
1 dozen marshmallows (cut in pieces)
¼ cup sugar
½ cup whipping cream

Chill rice thoroughly. Then add fruit and marshmallows, and sprinkle lightly with sugar. Just before serving, fold in whipped cream. Serve in sherbet glasses.

Creating New Life In an Old Rocker

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

THERE were rocking chairs hanging from the ceiling of a certain second-hand furniture store. "Nobody wants them any more," mourned the dealer. "I'd sell any one you see for 50 cents." The little bride with me promptly chose one. Perhaps she would paint it for the porch.

What she actually did is shown here in the sketch. The result was the small but comfortable, modern looking chair at the upper left. The bride raided mother's attic for two things that went into the making of this chair. One was an old quilt that she used to pad the back. The other was feathers from an old bolster which were used to stuff a seat cushion tightly so that it would raise the seat which had been lowered by removing the rockers. Cotton basted to muslin could have been used for the back padding and a cotton substitute for the cushion filling.

The new sewing book by Mrs. Spears contains 32 other useful homemaking ideas, with all directions clearly illustrated. You will be delighted with it. The price is only 10 cents postpaid. Enclose coin, with name and address, to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplains St., Chicago, Ill., and book will come to you by return mail.

Powerful Song

Few songs have ever affected their listeners as much as "Amour sacre de la patrie" as it was sung during the presentation of the opera "La Muette de Portici" at the Theater Royal de la Monnaie in Brussels on the night of August 25, 1830. Inspired by it, the audience stopped the performance, broke the chairs, rushed into the street and started the famous revolution through which Belgium won its administrative freedom from Holland.—Collier's.

Strange Facts

Beggars' Paradise Too Lazy to Breathe Judas Left Out

Among the Arabs of Africa and Near Eastern countries, the gratuity or tip, called "baksheesh," goes to the poorer man whether he renders a service to you or you render a service to him. Even if you save a man from drowning, he will demand his "baksheesh" if you appear to be in better circumstances.

One of the most lethargic animals in existence is the tuatara, Sphenodon punctatum, a two-foot, lizardlike reptile of New Zealand. Not only does it rarely move, but it breathes so slowly that, usually, the creature appears to be lifeless. Those in captivity have been known to stop breathing for more than an hour at a time.

A number of Christian altars in various parts of the world do not include the figure of Judas in the statuary of Christ and His disciples.—Collier's.

In Cause of Peace

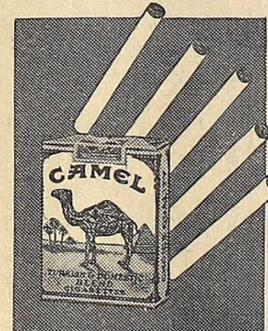

For the maintenance of peace, nations should avoid the pinpricks which forerun cannonshots.—Napoleon to the Czar Alexander.

Peaceful War

Ever hear of a peaceful war? There's one in West Virginia now. For "War" is the name of a community of 1,500 people in the state. Until quite recently War also had the distinction of being the largest town in the country without telephone service. But that distinction exists no more. Now you can "go to War" by telephone from any of the other 70,000 communities in the United States which have phones.

School Notes

HIGH SCHOOL

The members of the guidance class have been studying this week in regard to the importance of the kind of work which is suitable for the individual concerned. The author of the text used in the course points out that more than one-half of the people of the United States who reach the age of 60 are dependent on some form of charity. It is his contention that one reason for this condition is that many of the dependents never make any attempt to determine the kind of a job they should seek.

The botany class has been studying that very important plant family, the grass. Among the members of this family is the corn which is a native of America, and so unknown to the white man previous to 1492. This is true even though corn is mentioned in the Old Testament, the students have learned.

Report Cards will be given out Wednesday of next week.

Last Friday, the English II class wrote descriptions of various people with whom they were acquainted.

The English III classes are to write on their "pet peeve." Perhaps the students will overcome some of their bad habits when they hear what others think of these habits.

The citizenship class made some very clever cartoons depicting different immigration laws.

Rome today and yesterday is being revealed to the Latin students in their daily translation of Roman stories.

In European history class on Monday, time was spent in giving current events. One student reported on the new bicycle laws. The question was asked, "Do you suppose these laws will be enforced?" Then it was suggested in the class that perhaps if each citizen would take it upon himself to obey our laws instead of wondering if he was going to be forced to, that we would have a better country in which to live.

The bookkeeping students are learning this week that one of the chief reasons for keeping books is to figure profit. They are learning how to do this.

A prize saying by a student not giving thought to his answers was given this week in bookkeeping. It goes like this:

Teacher: "If you were a merchant in business where would you get your merchandise inventory?"

Student: "Borrow it."

The high school baseball team defeated the East Tawas high school baseball team Friday on the local diamond by the score of 15 to 4. Richard Prescott pitched the entire game for Tawas City.

Mrs. Clyde Evril has been substituting in the primary room this week due to the illness of Miss Worden.

The annual conference of the second region of the Michigan Education Association will be held at Flint, Thursday and Friday, October 12 and 13. The local schools will be closed on the above dates to permit the teachers to attend.

SEVENTH and EIGHTH GRADES
The seventh grade grammar class is studying the different parts of speech.

We will soon be having our monthly tests. Probably we will have them sometime this week.

The eighth grade had a civic test. The pupils with the highest score are Evelyn Colby, Maxine DePotty and Elmer Ogden. The pupils with an A minus are Hazel Galliker and Hugo Wegner.

We were invited upstairs Monday morning to hear a lecture given by Mr. Leonard. Mr. Leonard gave a very fine talk and put across several fine points.

Katterman who made a fine fielding play of the ball but was out of position to make a play at first base, Templin being credited with a hit. Wilson lifted a fly to Quick in left-center for the third out. Sterling went out in order in the sixth.

In the seventh Hasty opened with a single. Daniels was safe on M. Mallon's fumble of a double play ball. Swartz singled to left and Hasty was thrown out trying to score on the hit. Quick to W. Mallon. H. Koelsch sacrificed, Kussro unassisted. Templin as fifted, Kussro unassisted. filling the bases and Wilson struck out ending the inning. K. Koelsch opened the eighth being safe when M. Mallon fumbled his grounder. Walker hit to the box and was out pitcher to first. Beck grounded out M. Mallon to Kussro and Hasty fanned to end the inning.

W. Mallon allowed eight hits, walked two, one intentionally, and struck out eight of the opposing batters. His teammates were charged with five errors which helped in the scoring of the first two Sterling runs.

Next Sunday the series will be resumed with the game being played at the Tawas City Athletic Field. The Tawas City team will be in their fighting to win this game and get back on even terms with Sterling. Let's all plan on being there and show the boys that we are with them and cheer them on. The game is scheduled to start at 2:00 p. m. with the admission at the usual 25 cents.
