No doubt the parents of Iosco County children have been distrubed over the possibility of a local epidemic, and will be pleased to know that there is NOT an epidemic in this county. There have been seven cases reported and quarantined in Alcona county, with schools closed and contacts kept under quarantine. To date, no active case has been reported here, nor has any been found through school inspections and follow up on children home from school.

In view of the fact that an epidemic cannot be controlled without public cooperation, it seems advisable for the Health Department to ask all people to stay away from Lincoln, Mikado and Harrisville; keep children away from movies and other gatherings, where they may come in contact with people from out of town.

Perhaps the falling leaves give poignancy and sadness to the fate of this kindly old gentleman, driven from his country in the up-thrust of the new-or possibly the old-savagery of Europe.

One might write off Josef Beck and Marshal Edward Smigly-Rydz, political and military careerists, also exiled, as incidental casualties, caught in the backwash of their own ambitions. President Moscicki, although merely a symbol in feudal Poland, may find a place in the later balance brought forward. If there is to be a new dark age, it may be that laboratories will be the monasteries which will be the havens of the humane spirit and the aspiring intelligence, as were the monastic refuges of the Middle ages.

He was a college professor for many years, tall and thin with white hair and a spiked moustache, as convinced as was Woodrow Wilson that a "new freedom" could be gained by the mobilization of planetary intelligence and good will. Much in the manner of our own distinguished Dr. Robert Andrews Millikan, he acclaimed the ultimate triumph of science over hate and stupidity. Dr. Arosemena, a realistic veteran of Panamanian politics, has, in the past, accepted our "good neighbor" policy on grounds of enlightened self-interest. He has been keenly aware that the Canal Zone might be a major trouble spot, if war comes this way, and, re-cently, discussing its defense, he said, "If they start shooting up the canal, they'll be shooting at us, too, and that's why we want to help defend it."

He was foreign minister of Panama from 1929 to 1936, elected president in the latter year, and in years past has been sharply opposed to the United States on various issues. In the presidency, he has inclined much more in our direction. He is friendly and genial, rather in the cut of an enterprising business man. Two Balkan question marks were left. First, Finland wondered whethsails totalitarianism and religious like her Baltic neighbors. Second, er she would be called to Moscow, the Soviet made arrangements to rent Finnish, Danish, Norwegian and Swedish boats to haul timber from the White sea to Britain in defiance of the Nazi blockade.

Balkans. Having intended to stay in Moscow only three days, the Turkish delegation headed by Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu remained two weeks, apparently representing all Balkan states. Anybody could guess what was in the air, but many observers believed Russia sought to neutralize the Black sea, control the strategic Dardanelles and thus assure herself a free hand to move against Afghanistan and thence to India, both within Britain's sphere of influence.

THE WAR: No Peace

Consigned to the inside pages of U. S. newspapers were reports of actual knife-to-knife combat in Europe's war. Germany laughed over a British claim that bombers had the Brazilian delegation in accept- leaflets. German troops were beat-"raided" Berlin with propaganda en back a bit in the Saar, one engagement featuring point-blank shelling between tanks. The longmissing pocket cruiser Admiral Scheer popped up off Brazil to sink the eagerness of the Rev. Martin Niemoeller to fight for Nazi Ger-sank a Finnish boat; a British mine many. But this was merely one side of war. As customary in the war of democratic 1939, most news came from state council chambers or from the speakers' rostrum.

Armed with his "kiss of death" pact with Russia (see above), Adolf Hitler proposed to force peace upon the allies, proposed further that the mediation should come through his erstwhile friend to the south, Benito Mussolini.

To Berlin went Italy's Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano for what was reputed to be a stormy conference in which the Reich was charged with introducing the Soviet threat into Europe and thereby causing Italy to lose faith in the axis. Meanwhile, Der Fuehrer got the answer to his speech in advance. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the house of commons the war must go on until Hitlerism is

Oratory

CONGRESS:

Minus the strength of his convictions is the man who can be swayed by oratory. This purpose, however, stood as a ghost beside every man who shouted in the U. S. senate chamber, which, in the first days of October's bright blue weather, was over-run with oratory. The issue: Neutrality; whether to keep the arms embargo now enforced against Europe's belligerents, or to substiute "cash-and-carry," in which beligerents could buy what they leased, taking it away in their own

One by one the flower of the senate's far-famed oratory club rose and pleaded that the one sure way of getting the U.S. into war is to (1) repeal the arms embargo, (2) retain the arms embargo. Idaho's Borah, Nevada's Pittman, Michigan's Vandenberg, Texas' Connally, Washington's Schwellenbach, North Dakota's Nye and Louisiana's Overtan led the pende ton led the parade.

Sample repeal talk (by Connally): "Unless the act is changed the Unit-ed States will be brought to the brink of war, perhaps plunged into its dark and cruel depths."

Sample anti-repeal talk (by Van-denberg): "I do not say that repeal precipitates us into the war . . . in the long view, I do not believe we can become an arsenal for one bel-ligerent without becoming a target for another."

After a week of this sort of thing some trends, amazingly, were apparent. Majority Leader Alben parent. Barkley claimed repealists had picked up "one or two votes."

More important, however, the once vague issue was sifting down and its rough spots were becoming apparent. Among them: Should 90 days' credit be allowed? Shouldn't credit restrictions be applied against residents of belligerent nations as well as the nations themselves? How were "belligerent waters" to be defined; would they include ports, of Canada, Australia, Hongkong and other Franco-British possessions?

The credit issue evoked most debate. Thoroughly disgusted with extending any credit after the way European nations have failed to repay war debts, Missouri's Sen. Bennett Champ Clark arid Minnesota's Sen. Ernest Lundeern dragged out a weather-beaten synggestion: That France and Britain surrender their western Atlantic insular possessions (Bahamas, Jamaica, Newfoundland, Trinidad, etc.), as the Heather their western at the surface of Trinidad, etc.) to the U. S.

WHITE HOUSE: Statecraft

In Paris, U. S. Ambassador to Poland Ant hony Drexel Biddle paid his first off icial call on the new president of Poland-on-wheels, Wladislaw Rackiev vicz. In Washington, Secretary tary of State Cordell Hull issued a state nent that the U. S. will continus to recognize Count Jerzy Potock i as Polish ambassador, and refu sing to recognize that nation's sei-Zi'are by Germany and Russia: "Poand is the victim of force used as an instrument of territory . . . Mere seizure of territory, however, does not extinguish the legal existence of a government."

By the same token, the U.S. said nothing about Poland's $179,000,000 war debt, which Germany and Russia wouldn't pay anyway. When Austria was seized by the Reich, the U.S. promptly blundered by handing Austria's war debt bill to Herr Hitler, not realizing this constituted tacit U. S. recognition of the seizure. When Czecho-Slovakia was captured, the U. S. said nothing. Poland, likewise.

Europe's Propaganda Pictures Reach American Shores Again

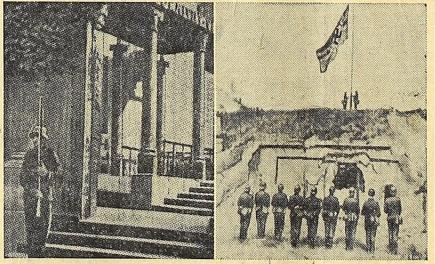

Both Germany and the allies are beginning to send U. S. news photo agencies propagandized war pictures to mold American sentiment. Above: This photo was passed by Nazi censors and purports to show minority German hostages murdered by Poles in Bromberg before Another German photo shows Nazi sympathizers greeting a unit of the German army as it moved into a Polish town. Did the Poles greet their captors so unanimously?

Chivalry stirs emotion, and is an effective weapon. Berlin made much of the "military funeral" given French aviators shot down behind the lines. Above: The Polish commander of a "suicide squad" who held the Westerplatte fortress eight days, is "leaning dejectedly on the sword that the Germans allowed him to keep as a noble expression of their admiration for his heroism."

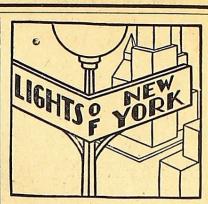

Two more chivalry pictures: A Nazi guard of honor stands before the tomb of Poland's hero, Marshal Pilsudski. At right: A German guard stands at attention as Poland's flag is lowered from Westerplatte and replaced by the swastika.

Allies also do their share. The swastika on this Nazi ship shot down behind Polish lines was carefully retouched so that no reader would miss it.

Toll gates, reminiscent of the long past, have reappeared hereabouts. True they are booths and not gates but there is no passage without payment, just as in former times when there was a real barrier. Because of these modern toll gates motorists who travel from New York up into Connecticut by way of the Henry Hudson drive, the Hutchinson River parkway and the Merritt highway, have to make three stops. The first is on Spuyten Duyvil bridge where a policeman, employed by the city of New York, holds out his hand for a dime. The cash register having rung, the driver can go on his way until he reaches the Hutchinson River parkway. There he must make another stop and part with another dime. Nothing happens after that until he crosses the line over into Connecticut. Then an employee of that state, stationed on the Merritt highway, again takes

This toll business was started by the city of New York. When the Henry Hudson drive was opened, the dime charge for the use of the bridge went into effect. Westchester residents made considerable complaint on the ground that they had spent millions for a beautiful parkway system which was free to New York drivers despite the fact that they hadn't helped pay for it. The matter of toll on Westchester highways, as a retaliatory measure, was discussed freely but nothing happened, Westchester drivers continued to pay 20 cents each time they went to and returned from New York. They might have skipped the toll by taking another route. But the Henry Hudson drive is much quicker.

When the Merritt highway opened in Connecticut, followed by scandal because of graft charges, there was no toll. It wasn't long before the taxpayers of the nutmeg state realized that the highway, which had cost them many millions, enabled New Yorkers and others to whizz through their state on their way elsewhere. Tnat, of course, meant no return to those who had paid for the right-of-way, the concrete, the work and everything else that went into one of the finest drives in the country. So the necessary action was taken, toll booths erected and collections began.

It didn't take Westchester long to fall into line after that. With New York city collecting tolls and Connecticut doing the same thing, West-chester was right in the middle. So Westchester put up and manned toll booths. Motorists kicked of course and there were attempts to stop the collection through court action. But the motorists lost out with the result that now it costs 60 cents to go to and from Connecticut provided the toll routes are followed.

Though New Yorkers have com-plained about the present toll setup, they are accustomed to paying such charges. To drive through the Holland or Lincoln vehicular tunnels under the Hudson river costs 50 cents each way. There is the same charge for using the George Washington bridge over the Hudson. Eventually, however, there will be a reduction. The tunnels and bridge were built by the port authority of New York and charges have been set to pay all costs in a period of 20 years. Then the tunnels and bridge become the property of the states of New Jersey and New York and tolls will merely cover upkeep,

Tiny Estonia packed away her vest-pocket army when her foreign minister Karl Selter was forced to sign a treaty making the nation a virtual protectorate of Soviet Russia. The two islands off her Baltic sea coast are being made into Soviet air and naval bases. Later the Soviet demanded and won mutual assistance treaties with Latvia and Lithuania, to the south, placing them in substantially the same position as Estonia. THE TEMPTATION OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 4:1-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—For we have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin.—Hebrews 4:15.

Temptation is the common lot of all mankind (I Cor. 10:13). The strongest and most noble of men are subject to it; angels were tempted, and our scripture reveals that even Jesus was tempted. We recognize that Jesus was tempted as the Messiah (vv. 3, 6) and as one without sin (Heb. 4:15), but it is also true that He was tempted in all points as we are, apart from sin, and that we may learn from His temptation how we may meet and temptation how we may meet and be the victors over temptation.

"Temptation is seduction to evil, solicitation to wrong. It stands dis-tinguished from trial thus: trial tests, seeks to discover the man's moral qualities or character; but temptation persuades to evil, deludes, that it may ruin. God tries;

Satan tempts" (A. M. Fairbairn).

Temptation is not sin, but yielding to temptation is sin. Luther said, "We cannot keep the birds from flying over our heads, but we can keep them from building nests in our hair." Temptation comes from within, that is, from our own lusts

(James 1:13, 14). Satan also tempts us (Eph. 6:11). God may permit temptation as a means of proving

It is significant that the temptations of Jesus were along the threefold line of the temptations of Adam and Eve (Gen. 3:6) and the general threefold temptation of all men, namely, the lust of the flesh, the pride of life, and the lust of the eyes (I John 2:16). These three temptations really exhaust Satan's bag of tricks, but he can dress up these three fundamental temptations with almost endless variety.

1. By appealing to the flesh (vv.

2, 3). He observes the normal appetites and desires of a man's body, excites them to a high degree, and then suggests an improper method of satisfying them. Hunger is normal and a sign of good health.

Jesus had fasted forty days and Satan took advantage of that fact to suggest the use of His divine power to satisfy His hunger. This would involve a denial of His entire mission on earth, namely, the redemption of man by a divine person who

2. By appealing to pride (vv. 5, faith. God had promised to keep Him "in all his ways" (Ps. 91:11).

To cast himself down from the temple was not one of the ways in which Christ was called to walk.

Satan comes to us with the same kind of temptation. If He cannot get us to forsake faith, he tempts us to become fanatic and to proudly

3. By appealing to the eyes (vv.

8, 9). By showing Christ the kingdoms of the world and offering them to Him by the short-cut of a brief act of worship rather than by the way of the cross, Satan tempted

Him again. Here the devil showed his true desire that man should wor-

III. How to Meet Temptation (vv.

1. By the right use of Scripture.

If Jesus needed that weapon, how can we do without it? How can we use Scripture if we do not study it

2. By dependence on God. Every Scripture used by Jesus honored God. We cannot fight Satan in our own strength. To attempt to do so is to fail utterly. The real victory for the Christian is to bring Satan back to the cross where Christ won

3. By denouncing Satan. Jesus sent him on his way. We may do the same in Jesus' name. It is always a serious error to try to argue with Satan or to engage in any discussion with him. Let us meet him with Scripture and with a "Get thee

ing of temptation results in peace,

Living by Spurts

THERE are people who do their work in the world evenly, steadily, quietly. They get up in the morning knowing that the day has its appointed task, which must be done. They dispose of the task with serene exactitude.

The next day brings another, and the next another; each is performed in the same spirit. There is competence, accuracy, but no excitement, no enthusiasm, and likewise there is no discouragement or despondency. Such persons take work and play, as they take sleeping and eating, as part of the routine of life.

Other people live and move by spurts. Everything with them is a matter of zeal and passion. There are days when their daily labor takes on a glory. They see rich possibilities in it of achievement and distinction. They throw themselves into it entirely; they see new openings for effort, and take advantage of them, build large and splendid edifices of hope and confidence and call upon every resource of their spirits to 6). Satan misapplied Scripture to realize them. tempt Jesus to presumption on the assumption that He was exercising

Then come days of reaction. Perhaps there is a physical element to consider. At any rate, the spurt collapses. If there is character behind it, the man goes on working somehow, gets his daily task done; but there is no passion in it, and very little hope. Such lives are made up of alternations of enthusiasm and despair.

We have had no tardy marks. Let us try to keep this up all year.
Mrs. Moore treated us all to cantaloupe.

Those to celebrate their birthday on September 25 were: Melvn McCor-mick, Ronald Herrimai, Jack Mc-Ardle, Gerald Mason and Mrs. Moore. We had a pot luck dinner, and games in the afternoon. Henry McArdle won the prize in the music contest, and Mrs. Mason in the berry and jum-bled words contest. We had as our guests Mrs. Scarlett and daughter, Lola, and son, Bobby, Mrs. Mason, Mrs. Woods and children. We all had a good time and each expressed thanks or the pretty gifts they received.

We are woking out a unit on United States in all geography grades.
In hygene we have new books, and mjoy them much better.
We wish to thank our school board

"But, Janey, there's no reason why you shouldn't keep your engagement."

She had turned on him with a touch of indignation. "Do you think I could have one happy moment with my mind on Judy?"

Bob had looked at her, and then looked away. "Have you thought that you might get the money from Towne?'

Her startled gaze had questioned him. 'Towne?" "Get money from Mr.

"Yes. Oh, why not, Janey? He'll do anything for you."
"But how could I pay him?"

There had been dead silence, then Bob said, "Well, he's in love with you, isn't he?"

"You mean that I can—marry

"Yes. Why not? Judy says he's crazy about you. And, Jane, it's foolish to throw away such a chance. Not every girl has it." "But, Bob, I'm not-in love with

"You'll learn to care-He's a delightful chap, I'd say." Bob was eager. "Now look here, Janey, I'm talking to you like a Dutch uncle. It isn't as if I were advising you to do it for our sakes. It is for your own sake, too. Why, it would be great, old girl. Never another worry. Somebody always to look

The wind outside was singing a wild song, a roaring, cynical song, it seemed to Jane. She wanted to say to Bob, "But I've always been happy in my little house with Baldy and Philomel, and the chickens and the cats." But of course Bob could say, "You're not happy now, and anyhow what are you going to do about Judy?"

She shook her head. She could hardly speak. "I thought if you wouldn't mind, we'd go for a ride. And we can talk."

"Good. Get your wraps." He released her hands, and she went into the other room. As she looked into the mirror she saw that her cheeks were crimson.

She brought out her coat and he held it for her. "Is this warm enough? You ought to have a fur

"Oh, I shall be warm," she said. As he preceded her down the stairs, Towne turned and looked up at her. "You are wearing my rose," he told her, ardently; "you are like a rose yourself."

She would not have been a woman if she had not liked his admiration. And he was strong and adoring and distinguished. She had a sense of almost happy excitement as he lifted her into the car.

"Where shall we drive?" he asked. "Along the lake. I love it on a night like this."

The moon was sailing high in a rack of clouds. As they came to the lake the waves writhed like mad sea-monsters in gold and white and tion. He drew her to him, gently.

Coming in with Frederick from that wild moonlighted world, flushed with excitement, hardly knowing this new Jane, she saw Bob transformed in a moment from haggard hopelessness to wild elation.

Frederick Towne had made a simple statement. "Jane has told me how serious things are, Heming. I want to help." Then he had asked for the surgeon's name; spoken at once of a change of rooms for Judy; increased attendance. There was much telephoning and telegraphing. An atmosphere of efficiency. Jane, looking on, was filled with admiration. How well he did things. And some day he would be her husband!

CHAPTER XII

It was two days after Jane promised to marry Frederick Towne that Evans bought a Valentine for her.

The shops were full of valentines -many of them of paper lace-the fragile old-fashioned things that had become a new fashion. They had forget-me-nots on them and hearts with golden arrows, and fat pink cupids.

Evans found it hard to choose. He stood before them, smiling. And he could see Jane smile as she read the enchanting verse of the one he finally selected:

> "Roses red, my dear, And violets blue-Honey's sweet, my dear, And so are you."

As he walked up F Street to his office, his heart was light. It was one of the lovely days that hint of spring. Old Washingtonians know that such weather does not lastthat March winds must blow, and storms must come. But they grasp the joy of the moment-masquerade in carnival spirit-buy flowers from the men at the street cornerssweep into their favorite confectioner's to order cool drinks, the women seek their milliner's and come avowal. She liked him more than men drive to the links-and look things over.

And clients came. Not many, but enough to point the way to success. He had sold more of the old books. His mother's milk farm was becoming a fashionable fad. Edith Towne had helped to bring Mrs. Follette's wares before her friends. At all hours of the day they drove out, Edith with them. "It is such an adorable place," she told Evans, "and your - mother! Isn't she absolutely herself? Selling milk with that empress air of hers. I simply love her."

Edith had planned to have dinner with them tonight. Evans took an early train to Sherwood. When he reached home Edith and his mother were on the porch and the Towne car stood before the gate.

"I've got to go back," Edith explained. "Uncle Fred came in from Chicago an hour or two ago and telephoned that he must see me." "Baldy will be broken-hearted," Evans told her, smiling.

"I couldn't get him up. 1 tried, but they said he had left the office. I thought I'd bring him out with me." She kissed Mrs. Follette. "I'll come again soon, dear lady. And you must tell me when you are tired of me."

Evans went to the car with her, and came back to find his mother in an exalted mood. "Now if you could marry a girl like Edith Towne."
"Edith," he laughed lightly.

"Mother, are you blind? She and Baldy are mad about each other." "Of course she isn't serious. A boy like that."

"Isn't she? I'll say she is." Evans went charging up the stairs to dress for dinner. "I'll be down presently." "Baldy may be late; we won't wait for him," his mother called after him.

The dining-room at Castle Manor had a bare waxed floor, an old drop-leaf table of dark mahogany, deer's antlers over the mantel, and some candles in sconces.

Old Mary did her best to follow the rather formal service on which Mrs. Follette insisted. The food was simple, but well-cooked, and there was always a soup and a salad.

It was not until they reached the salad course that they heard the sound of Baldy's car. He burst in at the front door, as if he battered it down, stormed through the hall, and entered the dining-room like a whirlwind.

"Jane's going to be married," he cried, "and she's going to marry Frederick Towne!"

Evans half-rose from his chair. down. There was a loud roaring in his ears. It was like taking ether— sympathy he sought. "It's a rotten with the darkness and the roaring.

When things cleared he found that neither his mother nor Baldy had noticed his agitation. His mother was asking quick questions. "Who told you? Does Edith know?"

Baldy threw himself in a chair. "Mr. Towne got back from Chicago once to his office. I went, and he gave me a letter from Jane. Said he thought it was better for him to bring it, and then he could explain.'

He threw the note across the ta-ble to Mrs. Follette. "Will you read it? I'm all in. Drove like the dickens coming out. Towne wanted me to go home with him to dinner. Wanted to begin the brother-in-law business right away before I got my breath. But I left. Oh, the darned peacock!" Jane would have known Baldy's mood. The tempestgray eyes, the chalk-white face.
"But don't you like it, Baldy?"

It did not sound in the least like Jane. Not the Jane that Evans and Baldy knew.

"Baldy, dear. Mr. Towne will tell you all about it. I am going to marry him as soon as Judy is better. I know you will be surprised, but Mr. Towne is just wonderful, and it will be such a good thing for all of us. Mr. Towne will tell you how dreadfully ill Judy is. He wants to do everything for her, and that will be such a help to Bob.

"And so we will live happy ever after. Oh, you blessed boy, you know how I love you. Send a wire, and say that it is all right. Tell Evans and Mrs. Follette. They are my dearest friends and will always

She signed herself: "Loving you more than ever,
"Jane."

Mrs. Follette looked up from the letter, took off her reading glasses, and said complacently, "I think it is very nice for her." The dear lady quite basked in the thought of her intimate friendship with the fiances of Frederick Towne.

But the two men did not bask. "Nice, for Jane?" they threw the sentences at her.

"Oh, can't you see why she has done it?" Baldy demanded. He caught up the note, pointing an accusing finger as he read certain phrases. "It will be such a good thing for all of us . . . he wants to do everything for her . . . it will be such a help to Bob . . ."
"Doesn't that show," Baldy demanded furiously, "she's doing it because Judy and Bob are hard up and Towne can help-I know Jane.' "I don't see why you should object," Mrs. Follette was saying; "it will be a fine thing for her. She will be Mrs. Frederick Towne!"

"I'd rather have her Jane Barnes for the rest of her life. Do you know Towne's reputation? Any woman can flatter him into a love affair. A fat Lothario." Baldy did not mince the words.

"But he hasn't married any of them," said Mrs. Follette triumphantly. She held to the ancient and honorable theory that the woman a man marries need not wordough into something delightfully ry about past love affairs since she had been paid the compliment of at least legal permanency.

Evans' lips were dry. "What did you say to Towne?"

"Oh, what could I say? That I was surprised, and all that. Something about hoping they'd be happy.
Then I beat it and got here as fast as I could. I had to talk it over Everything turned black and he sat | with you people or-burst." His eyes trick.

Yet, it might, this afternoon. Called me up and said he wanted me to come over at disguise. There were other womdisguise. There were other women, richer-who would help him in his career. And in time he would

Three Styles in Aprons.

This practical pattern, 1829, really gives you three apron styles, because the pinafore part is perforated so that you can make it two ways, and both ways are thoroughly protective and useful, with buttoned straps, crossed in the back, that won't slip off. Both pinafores and the little tie-around have a pretty flare. Make these of linen, gingham, lawn or batiste, and tuck two or three sets away for gifts, too.

HANDY PRESCRIPTION

The report that the judges were unable to read the signature of the successful architect for the new Dundee art college recalls the classic story relating to a medical man's prescription:

After receiving the medicine, the patient used the prescription for years as a railway pass, twice as an invitation to a dance, once as an invitation to a society wedding, and later as a letter from his employer instructing the cashier to raise his salary. And in the evenings his daughter played it over on the piano!-Edinburgh Dispatch.

Appendix Pain Warns Victim Of Condition

Other conditions which may be taken for appendicitis are typhoid, tuberculosis abscess of the loin, the groin or right hip, perforation or breaking through of a stomach ulcer, lead colic, acute inflammation of the pancreatic gland, hysteria and just the fear of appendicitis."

I am quoting Dr. Louis M. Leibow, New York, in Hygeia. Despite the large number of conditions which can cause pain on the right lower side of the abdomen and thus be mistaken for appendicitis, it is only good sense to consider the condition as appendicitis until an examination by a physician shows it to be one of these other conditions.

Warning Symptoms.

Symptoms which should serve as a warning include nausea, indigestion, vomiting, loss of appetite, flatulence (gas pressure), a sense of heaviness and soreness and tenderness over the lower right side. In a great many cases the dull heavy pain is right in the pit of the stomach, remains there sometimes for hours and then gradually shifts down to the lower right side of the abdomen.

In many ailments—gall bladder colic, ulcer of stomach or intestine, kidney colic-there is both the medical and surgical treatment, but Dr. Leibow points out once more that "there is no medical treatment for appendicitis. The use of any physic, no matter how mild, may tend to rupture the acutely inflamed appendix and lead to dangerous complications."

Sometimes when a physic has been taken there is relief from pain for a while because the appendix has been ruptured and the patient believes he has cleared up the cause of the pain, whereas he has only started dangerous complicationsperitonitis. Peritonitis requires immediate surgery and this may be too late to save his life.

Diet for Gall Bladder Patients

Physicians going over the records of their patients find that from 5 to 10 per cent have gall bladder trouble, and yet it is known that in examination after death about two in every three show that there has been trouble with the gall bladder. Of course, these patients did not die because of their gall bladder trouble but the fact that the bile was not flowing freely from the gall bladder may have been partly to blame for their final illness.

The gall bladder may give trouble in one of two ways. First, there may be a spasm (preventing flow of bile from gall bladder to intestine) which distends the gall bladder. Second, the gall bladder may be too weak or lazy to push bile out, and so again the gall bladder is distended.

It is believed that before severe symptoms of gall bladder trouble appear, the patient has been suffering with such symptoms as belching, gas pressure, occasional nausea, for as long as 10 years.

Diet Suggested.

A diet for the gall bladder patient who is overweight is suggested by Drs. J. M. Blackford, R. I. King and K. R. Sherwood in the Journal of the American Medical Association. Breakfast: Strained orange juice, ripe banana, or baked apple; one poached egg on alternate days: small cup of coffee, one lump sugar, small amount of cream.

Midmorning lunch: One-half slice toast, small amount of butter. Luncheon: Consomme; lean meat broiled; white potatoes; puree of peas; gelatin containing fruit; weak

Dinner: Same as lunch. Bedtime lunch: Glass of milk. Midnight lunch: Crackers or rolls. The suggestion for underweights is to add bland cereals and some fruit to the above diet. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Gay Aprons From Unbleached Muslin

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

Every one who has ever lived in the country knows the possi-bilities of unbleached muslin. The source of supply there is flour and food sacks but even purchased by the yard it is an inexpensive, sturdy material for aprons and many other things.

If you have friends who share your enthusiasm for interesting aprons, plan and cut them in a group; then trimmings may be exchanged and every piece-bag will produce something.

The diagram shown here gives you cutting dimensions for the skirt part of a plain little apron and shows how to shape the waistline. Belts for the bibless type are rather wide now-two or two and a half inches finished. Ties are generally 4-inches wide and as long as you like. Now, do be daring when you come to pockets or adding a bib. Try an idea of your own. These gay unbleached muslin aprons are just suggestions to get you started.

of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
