LIDLAW NOT GUILTY OF NEGLIGENCE

Jury Brings In Verdict After About 4 Hours Deliberation

"Not Guilty" was the verdict of the jury in the case of The People of the State vs. Walter J. Laidlaw. The verdict was brought in at 8:30 o'clock Thursday evening after the jury had deliberated about four hours. The defendant had been charged with negligent homicide as a result of an automobile accident last August in which the fifteen-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brisbin, of Toledo, received injuries that were fatal.

The case was brought before Circuit Judge Herman Dehnke Wednesday morning at the adjourned session of circuit court. A considerable portion of the morning was spent in selecting a jury, but by noon several of the state's witnesses had been placed on the stand.

Except the people in the two cars which were in the crash on the Hemlock road near the Summerville corners on August 26, there were no eyewitnesses to the accident. Mr. Brisbin, who was driving to Tawas City that afternoon with his wife, infant son, and sister-in-law, Miss Corinne Meister, saw an approaching car quickly swerve over on the wrong side of the road. Brisbin made a quick turn to his left side of the road to avoid a crash. Walter Laidlaw, who was driving the other car and was on his way to Hale, said that a dog ran in front of his car, and that he quickly swerved over to the left of the road to avoid hitting it. He said that he was about two or three hundred feet from the approaching car. He then swung back to his right side of the road. He said that he was already on his way to the north side of the road when the Brisbin car made the quick turn to the left and that he was unable to avoid hitting it. He said that he had thrown on his brakes. This was substantiated by photographs taken a short time later by Bert Stoll, a news photographer. These undoubtedly proved of assistance to the jury in finding a verdict. Both the state and the defendant rested their cases Thursday noon after the jury had viewed the scene of the accident.

Prosecuting Attorney John Stewart for the People of the State and Carl Smith, of Bay City, attorney for the defendant, presented their case to the jury Thursday afternoon. The case went to the jury at 3:45.

Siegel-Vance

At eleven-thirty o'clock, Saturday evening, October fourteenth, at the St. Joseph rectory, East Tawas, Miss Agnes Siegel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Siegel, and Robert Vance, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Vance, of Clifford, spoke their marriage vows. The Rev. Robert Neuman officiating.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of lustrous duchess satin princess styled with a wide full skirt extending into a long circular train edged with wide scalloped pointe de Venice lace. The gown was distinguished by a bodice of point de Venice lace which extended into the tops of the full sleeves puffed high at the shoulders tapering to points over the wrists. The bodice of the gown was fastened at the front with a row of tiny satin covered buttons. The bride's veil was of white tulle and the frothy folds fell from a halo tiara of tiny seed pearls. Clusters of small orange blossoms were caught at the sides of the tiara and an edging of rose point lace outlined the long veil. Her slippers were of white satin. She carried a bouquet of pale pink roses and small chrysanthemums tied with white brocaded satin bridal ribbons.

Miss Rita Flynn, maid of honor, wore a colonial bustle gown of aqua blue taffeta which was accented at the bottom of the wide full skirt by a flouncing ruffle which was caught at intervals by tiny velvet bows of a darker shade of blue. A halo wreath of matching satin flowers formed her head dress. She carried a bouquet of talisman roses and bronze chrysanthemums tied with a satin ribbon to match her dress.

Mary Ellen Misciscen, five-year old niece of the bride, acted as train bearer. She wore an aqua blue taffeta dress with a wide flowing skirt formed of three ruffles. Matching taffeta ribbon formed her head-dress.

Albert Siegel, brother of the bride, assisted the groom as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Siegel wore a satin faced crepe dress in turquoise blue shade. The dress was made in simple lines with a brooch decorating the high neckline of the frock.

A reception dinner was held at the home of the brides parents which was attended by about 85 relatives and friends. The home was beautifully decorated with tall baskets of asters, gladioli and chrysanthemums. The center of the bridal table was accented by a three tier wedding cake trimmed with pink sweet peas and roses. A miniature bride and groom formed a decoration on the top tier of the cake. The bridal bouquets were arranged on either side of the cake. Rev. Robert Neuman was among the honored guests at the bridal table.

The groom's sister, Miss Jennie Soronen, wore a dress of brown crepe. Her corsage was also of baby mums and roses.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mielock, where a reception was held for the family and a few friends, was beautifully decorated with fall flowers. The bride's table was covered with a cream lace cloth with a centerpiece of tea roses and ferns in a crystal bowl and lighted by candles in crystal candle holders.

The couple left on a motor trip to Chicago and Milwaukee. For traveling, the bride wore a light tan wool dress with brown accessories.

The marriage of Dora Kull, daughter of Mrs. Victoria Kull, and Hugh A. Soronen, took place on October 14, at three o'clock in the St. Francis DeSales rectory, Detroit, with Rev. Murray officiating.

The bride chose a street length dress of grapevine pan velvet chiffon which was fashioned with a flare skirt and tight bodice and shirred elbow length sleeves. Her pillbox hat was a shirred velvet in a royal blue tone. Her corsage was of baby mums and talisman roses.

Mrs. Ernest Mielock, sister of the bride, attended as bridesmaid. She wore a street length dress of stone blue crepe with grapevine accessories. Her corsage was of roses and baby's breath.

Ernest Mielock assisted the groom as best man.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Kull, wore a frock of blue figured crepe and a hat of blue velvet. Her corsage was of baby mums and roses.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the maritime commission, says the proposed safety belt around our shores is a "nice idea," but seems to concede nothing more. He wonders what will happen when "somebody sticks his nose inside the zone."

Admiral Land's opinion is that of a technician and expert on obtrusive noses, particularly those of submarines, and, to be more explicit, German submarines. He got the Navy cross for his work in designing and building submarines in the World war, in which he served as commander of the construction corps, and, in 1919, he turned in a searching technical study of what German submarines had done and what they might do in the next war.

The spirited little admiral, a cousin of Charles Lindbergh, has most important business on hand just now, with something like $400,000,000 staked out for building a merchant marine. This business of new ships, and how good a risk they may be on sub-infested seas, is decidedly in his department.

He is a native of Canon City, Colo., born in 1879. After his graduation from Annapolis, he did postgraduate work in naval architecture. Football has engrossed him almost as much as the navy. He was the garrison finish star of that famous "crap game" match between the Army and Navy in 1900, a gridiron hero, and thereafter a successful conciliator in the long-drawn-out army and navy athletics row.

His suavity and persuasiveness are always effective, as when he invited some C. I. O. pickets into his office and talked them into good humor. He succeeded Joseph P. Kennedy as chairman of the commission in February, 1938. He's in a critical goal-keeper's spot just now, and everybody is satisfied.

WORD comes from Paris of the demobilization of Lucien Le Long, the famous dressmaker. The government puts him back on the job designing gowns. "Grace, Back to 'Grace, Swirl, Freedom'" has been his rallying cry as a designer. This isn't that kind of war, and perhaps the French think they are wasting his talents as a soldier.

However, soldiering is one of the best things that M. Le Long does. In the last war, a shell blew him out of a trench into the dressmaking business. Severely wounded, his hearing impaired, he borrowed $2,500, employed 50 midinettes and seamstresses, married the cousin of the late Czar Nicholas of Russia, and ran his business up to a daily gross intake of 1,000,000 francs, employing more than 1,000 women. He took with him into the business a Croix de Guerre and two citations. He had been a liaison officer with Allenby in Palestine.

Brisk and businesslike, although still boyish-looking, he says the happiest day of his life was when he freed women from tubular gowns. He has visited this country frequently and is widely known and popular here. His is one of the most interesting of all "between war" careers.

THIS department gets word from a Washington ringer that Dr. William M. Leiserson, summoned by the President several months ago to unscramble the National Labor Relations board, has been making swift progress and that, just as a matter of war preparedness, the outlook for labor-employer peace is much better. Previously a member of the national mediation board, he was appointed to the labor board to succeed Donald Wakefield Smith, center of bitter controversy. He is said to have greatly clarified and expedited procedure under the Wagner act.

He is one of millions of American citizens who in late years have seen their native countries taken prisoner. Born in Estonia, he was brought to this country when he was a small child. At the University of Wisconsin, he obtained his doctorate at Columbia in 1911 and made his career in Wisconsin in various state industrial, employment, labor and workmen's compensation posts.

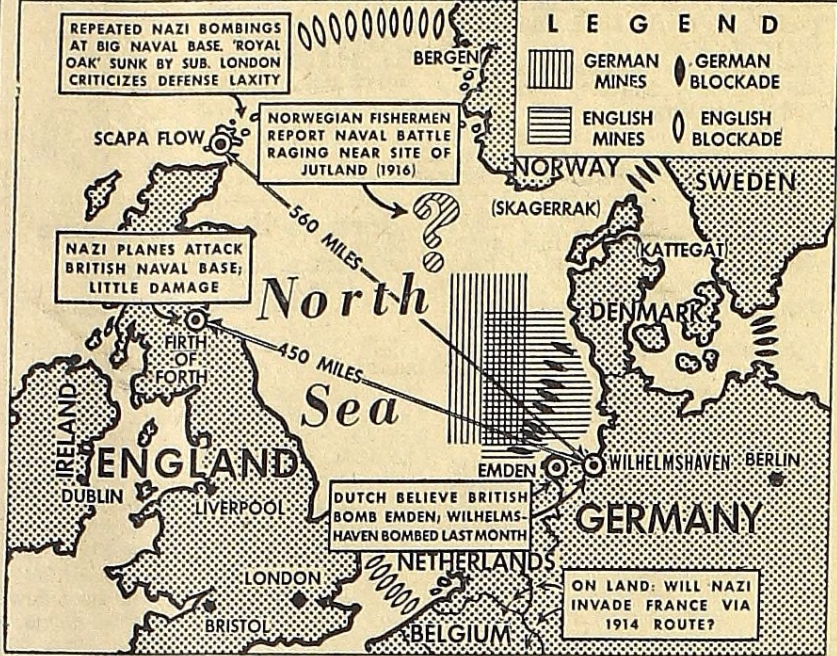

He personalizes and particularizes each case and sees no hope in "legalistic" solutions of labor problems.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Allies Counter Nazi Air Might With Turkish Diplomatic Coup; Italy Seeks Balkan Supremacy

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

THE WAR AT SEA
Will Nazi air might outpoint Britain's battlewagons?

THE WAR: Diplomacy

In early 1938 Germany's conservative Field Marshal Werner von Blomberg married blonde Erika Gruhn, a carpenter's daughter whom other Nazi officers termed "socially impossible." This month Erika Gruhn felt the news spotlight again in a British "white paper" by Sir Neville Henderson, pre-war ambassador to Germany. Wrote he to Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax:

VON BLOMBERG
His wife's war?

"I drew your lordship's attention (in 1938) to the far-reaching and unfortunate results of the Blomberg marriage. I am more than ever convinced of the major disaster which that in itself—minor incident involved, owing to the consequent elimination from Herr Hitler's entourage of the more moderate of his advisers, such as von Blomberg."

Recalled by diplomats was the general army shakeup that followed, in which Baron Konstantin von Neurath lost control of German foreign policy, and pro-war advisors fastened themselves to Hitler. It made a pretty news story: Is a woman the cause of Europe's war?

At Sea

In 1919 the proud but beaten German navy scuttled 72 warships in Scapa Flow (see map) rather than lose them to the allies. In the war of 1939, Germany remembered Scapa Flow. Day after Nazi raiders had bombed the Firth of Forth naval yard at Edinburgh, long-range airships again set out (probably from Wilhelmshaven) and unleashed the full fury of Herr Hitler's air might against Scapa Flow. Five times in four hours they struck, damaging the old Iron Duke and giving Britishers a bad case of jitters. Next day press and parliament railed at Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain for sloppy defense work. The cries grew stronger when Chamberlain revealed the Royal Oak had also been sunk at Scapa Flow by a daring U-boat.

But Britain was not idle in this battle of airship vs. warship; she was merely less communicative than the Nazis, who boasted of their conquests. Next day Hollanders reported the Emden naval base had been bombed, and possibly Wilhelmshaven. Both Danish and Norwegian fishermen scurried for cover when the foes clashed somewhere west of Skagerrak. But the sum total of war at sea, which far overshadows the western front, is that Nazi air might is humbling the supposedly invincible British navy.

(U. S. ships got tangled in the war zone. The liner President Harding was buffeted by stormy weather off the Irish coast and had to seek help from home. The freighter Independence Hall picked up 300 torpedo victims from the City of Mandalay.)

Western Front

Whether by choice or convenience, French-British troops began fighting a defensive war whose principal feature was "strategic retreat." On the 100-mile northern flank of the western front, Nazidom's fighting men opened a vicious offensive which drove allied troops back to their main line. Paris reported one part of this drive, on the Moselle and before Saarbrueken, had cost the Germans 5,000 casualties in two days. The French were apparently content to dig in, letting Germany pay the cost of offensive warfare. But they were also waiting for a clearer definition of Russia's intentions (see THE NEUTRALS). Meanwhile reports persisted that the 20 German divisions massed on the Belgian-Netherlands frontier were not there to enjoy the scenery. The burning question: Will 1914's route of invasion be used again?

THE NEUTRALS: Search for Security

From Scandinavia down through the Balkans to Turkey, diplomats scurried madly after an elusive quantity called security. The reason was Russia, whose grisly head had been shoved into eastern Europe the moment Adolf Hitler opened the door. Although Moscow shipped 17½ tons of gold to Berlin (presumably Polish gold), and although German engineers were busy supervising the Soviet's new five-year plan, the happy wedding of Communism and Nazism seemed to have cost both principals a lot of friends.

Balkans. Russian-Turkish talks in Moscow broke down and Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu left for Istanbul, presumably refusing (1) to close the strategic Dardanelles to all but Russian warships and thus imperil the allies' chances to aid Rumania; (2) to permit Russo-German domination of a Balkan neutral bloc; (3) to recognize the Polish partition, and (4) to permit expansion of Bulgaria and Russia at Rumania's expense. Next day Turkish friendship with the allies was cemented by mutual assistance pacts whereby France, Britain and Turkey agreed to protect the eastern Mediterranean. Meanwhile Turkish troops rushed to northern frontiers.

Commented irked Germany, which promptly snuggled closer to Russia: "It can be taken for certain that other states of the Balkan entente will see in Turkey's attitude a renunciation of the preservation of neutrality which is one of the most important aims of the Balkan states."

SUKRU SARACOGLU
Italy also watched his work.

But Berlin could not be sure. There was every indication that Italy, which fears a Russian-inspired pan-Slavic movement in the Balkans, would start collaborating with Turkey to preserve the Balkan status quo. Moreover the Italians knew their valued Dodecanese islands off Turkey's coast would be gone the instant Il Duce teamed up with Hitler against the allies.

More than ever, little Turkey held the balance of European power. Baltic. Fearing that Finland might meet the fate of Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia, all victims of Russia's westward drive, the four Scandinavian powers (Finland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden) met at Stockholm to declare their solidarity. President Roosevelt sent his best wishes, having received the day before an answer to his note to Soviet President Michael Kalinin. Said the answer: "The sole aim (of Finnish-Russian negotiations) is the consolidation of reciprocal relations between the Soviet Union and Finland." There was still no official announcement of Russian "demands," but everyone knew Russia wanted naval and air bases on Finnish Baltic islands.

CONGRESS: Budding Friendship

Three weeks of neutrality debate had passed before the word "fillibuster" was mentioned on the senate floor. Yet isolationists were making a fillibuster in everything but name. West Virginia's Rush D. Holt began vying with North Dakota's Gerald Nye as No. 1 speechmaker. Idaho's D. Worth Clark offered the best oratory: "If Germany is destroyed, her people will be driven into the arms of Stalin . . . This holier-than-thou attitude of England is a pretext . . . It ill-behooves England and France, with their records of persecution within their own borders, to refuse to at least treat for peace. The trail of the British empire is built on two things—blood and treachery."

McADOO
A good lobbyist.

But behind scenes there was compromise on the two most debatable points. Repeal of the arms embargo was certain, but isolationists demanded "cash-on-the-barrelhead" instead of 90-day credits to belligerents. Shippers and seaboard states demanded that proposed restrictions on U. S. shipping be relaxed. One of the latter lobbyists whose word carried weight was former Sen. William Gibbs McAdoo, now a west coast shipping executive, whose call at the White House was followed quickly by modification proposals.

Key Pittman, administration leader, called his foreign affairs henchmen into council and observers were pretty sure they'd win most isolationists with these concessions:

1. Designating areas where U. S. ships could carry all materials except arms, ammunition, etc., lands like Australia and New Zealand.
2. If a U. S. vessel is destroyed with loss of life, the President would automatically stop trade in that vicinity.
3. The U. S. would not support a shipper's claim against a foreign government if a cargo is destroyed.
4. Vessel masters would be required to give the U. S. a statement of their cargo, detailing consignees and scheduled ports-of-call.
5. The entire western hemisphere would be opened to commercial aircraft.
6. "Cash-on-the-barrelhead" would be imposed not only against foreign governments, but upon residents of those countries.

From such compromise, Democratic wheelhorses saw hope for 1940. If the President disowns third-term ambitions before congress opens next January, and if he avoids any new reform or spending program, observers were pretty certain the once-disheveled Democratic party would hang together until election time.

MISCELLANY: Jews

Meeting at Washington, the international executive committee on refugees received an appeal from U. S. Jews to consider the plight of 5,000,000 Jews in eastern and central Europe, including those made homeless by the Polish partition. Meanwhile, President Roosevelt was handed a petition bearing 238,000 names, urging steps to make Palestine a Jewish haven. Next day the committee recessed for two weeks to query member governments.

Heart Trouble May Be Result Of Infections

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

A PROFESSOR of medicine was examining the blood pressure of two sisters, one aged 70 and the other aged 64, and after feeling the blood vessels in the wrist, stated that the sister aged 64 was really older than the one aged 70, because her blood vessels were harder and her blood pressure was therefore higher. The one aged 70 had had a family of nine, whereas the one aged 64 had had but one child. The older sister had also had a more difficult time financially.

TODAY'S HEALTH COLUMN

The physician pointed out that, despite her large family and her more difficult time financially, there were two reasons why she was really younger physically than her younger sister. First, she had had to meet so many more difficulties she had thus learned how to meet and overcome them. There would be, therefore, less tenseness or tightening of the blood vessels from emotional disturbances. Second, she had had all her teeth removed and dental plates fitted at a much earlier age than had her sister.

"As psychic (mental or emotional) influences have a great effect in raising blood pressure, mental hygiene is very important in the treatment of high blood pressure. Cultivation of calmness, moderation, avoidance of haste, ambition, anger, anxiety and excitement—there should be seeking of the quiet easy life. The 'blood pressure' should never be discussed and blood pressure examinations should be few and far apart."

Exercise Is Important.
Rest and exercise must be prescribed as needed. Regular after-dinner naps, a rest cure, a vacation for the nervous overworked is just as important as is exercise to the easy-going, overweight individual. Fresh air and sunshine are good for both. Most individuals with high blood pressure eat too much and exercise too little.

The second cause of high blood pressure to be prevented or corrected is infection. The infection may come from tonsils, teeth, gall bladder, intestine or other parts of the body. With each infection may come just a slight inflammation of the lining of the blood vessels, with the result that the muscular or elastic coat of the blood vessels is replaced by a hard tissue.

Liver Acts As Natural Filter

A few years ago I found that I was writing about the liver so often that I practically stopped writing about it. To me it is still king of the organs, and the old saying "life depends upon the liver" is replaced by "health depends upon the liver."

We are not apt to think of the liver as the organ most important to life, because stopping the heart beat means immediate death, whereas stopping or sluggishness of the liver still allows life to go on for a considerable time. But from the health standpoint, the liver is your most important organ.

Why? Poisons entering the body by way of the mouth or directly into the blood are immediately seized by the liver cells, and the great majority of them are held by the liver and thus prevented from doing damage. Harmful substances are broken down by the liver, are rendered harmless and pass out of the system in the urine. The liver is nature's great filter.

Dye Test Often Used.
Thus, in testing the "health" of the liver and its ability to remove poisons from the blood, what is known as the dye test is made whereby a dye is taken by mouth or into a vein and the blood is examined at intervals to see how long it takes the liver to remove these poisons. A definite amount of the dye should be removed within a definite time.

What can you and I do in the way of keeping the liver in good condition to do all its jobs, including filtering out poisons from the blood?

The two ways to keep liver healthy and active are (a) by bending exercises (knees straight) and breathing exercises, both of which "squeeze" this large, soft organ, and (b) by eating small meals (even if four a day are eaten), thus not overworking the liver. A little fat—cream, butter, bacon—eaten at breakfast time is a good stimulant of the liver processes and helps empty the gall bladder, thus preventing stone formation and gas pressure.

Threat of Soviet Expansion Rushes Preparedness

Fear of direct aggression on the part of Soviet Russia has led three nations—Turkey, Finland and Rumania—to speed up military preparations to an all-time high. Bottom picture shows a battery of Turkish artillery entering the zone of the Dardanelles, only water passage from the Mediterranean to the Black sea and the back door to Rumania. Upper left: Rumanian troops on the march, ready to defend their border against any possible Russian threat. Upper right: Ready for action is this machine gun crew of Finland's small but efficient army. Finland's position is most precarious because of Russia's westward movements and reported demands for Finnish islands.

The cannon goes boom!—and Anthony Antonetti, eight-year-old Roxbury, Mass., boy, hurles 35 feet from the cannon's mouth into a net. His cannonball exhibition was made during a national recreation congress program at Boston. Photo at left shows Anthony waving from the cannon's mouth before the stunt.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

This & That: Millions have been made and lost on tablecloths in New York hotels and restaurants . . . A pencil is the only equipment necessary . . . Never mind the laundry bills and ruined tablecloths . . . Instead of paper profits, linen profits . . . Now come the amateur strategists who win battles on night-club tablecloths . . . Draw war maps and write out plans . . . They have never smelled gunpowder, heard big guns or worked out a war college problem . . . Yet they feel entirely qualified to criticize the British and French general staffs . . . It might be a lot better for all concerned if they would concentrate not on war plans but on plans to keep America out of Europe . . . Am reminded of the Times elevator operator who was asked what service he would choose if called to the colors . . . "The B army," was his reply "B here when you go and B here if you come back"

Subway entrance cloggers are one of my pet peevs . . . Many New Yorkers have the habit of stopping to converse right in the paths of those who would go downstairs . . . Buffeting doesn't seem to make any impression at all . . . Dark looks have still less effect . . . Apparently that which is being discussed is of such importance that inconvenience to others is of no consequence . . . Yet portions of such conversations as have reached my ears have been merely trivial . . . Another quaint New York habit I've noted is that of "swelling out" . . . A New Yorker finding space enough for two on a subway seat immediately tries to absorb it all . . . Some women place packages on the seat beside them . . . and look insulted if asked to take them on their laps so that some one else may rest his or her feet . . . Great town, New York

The talk was about a well-known writer of hit songs . . . "He owes a great deal of his success to his wife," asserted some one . . . "Yeah," added Louis Prima, "and he owes even more to Tschaiakowsky" . . . Al Smith is to be a candidate for the city council in the November election . . . The son, not the father . . . Though once upon a time, Al Smith Sr was a member of the board of aldermen . . . "Let's all hope," says Phil Baker, "that America remains the place where the only precaution necessary against a gas attack is a can of bicarbonate" . . . And night when I hear a plane droning overhead, I'm thankful that instead of a bomber, it is merely the Albany mail.

Like Bea Wain's description of a "typical" New Yorker: "He is a man who dawdles for an hour at an excavation job but wails if he has to wait three minutes for a subway train; who runs up escalator steps; who insists on getting the morning paper the night before; who wouldn't accept a $20 bill for a dime for fear something was being put over on him; who knows all the rackets because he's always falling for them, and finally, he's the man who professes scorn for 'hick' towns but if there's one thing he dreams of settling down to when he has enough money, is a 'quiet place in the country.'"

For at least two years, there have been "danger" signs in front of a Forty-second street restaurant . . . The signs are so spaced that they afford just enough parking space for the trucks of the company operating the place, which is one of a chain . . . Yet New Yorkers, including those who pass day after day, give those signs as much room as they can . . . Elevators which rise from basements up to the sidewalk level must be equipped with warning bells so that pedestrians may get out of the way . . . A number of out-of-towners have taken free rides because they stopped to try to learn why the bell was ringing.

Advertisements begging owners to come and get their money may seem strange . . . Yet they have been appearing again in New York newspapers . . . Banks with unclaimed deposits want to get rid of them . . . Those "inactive accounts" cost them money . . . If not claimed, they eventually pass to the state . . . and now, THE END.

Cycles Daily for 61 Years
SEAFORD, DEL.—P. Frank Atkins observed his seventy-eighth birthday anniversary by taking his daily bicycle ride. He attributes his good health to 61 years of "cycling," during which time he never has failed to take his daily ride.

PUMPKIN PIES FOR HALLOWEEN

See Recipes Below.

When Witches and Goblins Roam

What night is better suited to informal entertaining than all Hallow's Eve? Candelight, leering Jack-o-lanterns, and crepe paper decorations in orange and black create an eerie atmosphere for an evening of hilarious fun.

No one "dresses"—or, if they do, they dress in grotesque costumes which only add to the festivity.

Entertainment is simple, and easy to provide. Old fortune telling games and bobbing for apples are always fun, and a trip through a "chamber of horrors" is as much a part of Halloween as are good things to eat.

For variety, and a lull in the excitement of wilder entertainment, you might try a "paper and pencil game"—a prize to be given to the guest who can list the greatest number of superstitions, or answer the greatest number of questions in a "Cat Questionnaire" (for example), "What cat is an ancient burying place?" (catacomb) and "What cat is a plant of the mint family?" (catnip).

Food for a Halloween gathering is simple and substantial—baked beans with brown bread, cabbage slaw, and coffee; doughnuts with mulled cider, or pumpkin pies a la mode. You'll find among the following suggestions some that are old and some that are new.

Caramel Pecan Tarts.

(Makes 6 tarts)
1 can sweetened condensed milk
2 tablespoons hot water
6 small tart shells
½ cup nut meats (cut fine)
Place the unopened can of sweetened condensed milk in a kettle of boiling water, and keep at boiling point for three hours. (Be sure to keep can covered with water.) Remove the caramelized milk from the can and blend with two tablespoons hot water, beating until smooth. Cool. Pour into baked tart shells, and sprinkle with chopped nuts. Cut pattern of cat from stiff white paper. With a sharp knife, carefully cut cats from pastry, using the paper pattern as a guide. Place on cookie sheet and bake in hot oven (450 degrees). Cool and place one on each tart before serving.

Chocolate Indians.

½ cup butter
1 cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
2 ozs. chocolate (melted)
½ cup bread flour
Dash salt
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
½ cup nuts (broken)
Cream the butter and add sugar slowly. Add the eggs and beat well. Add the melted chocolate, flour, salt, vanilla extract and nuts, blending lightly. Bake in a shallow layer in a well greased pan in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 to 35 minutes. Remove from pan and cut in bars while hot.

Harvest Moon Doughnuts.

(Makes 24 doughnuts)
¼ cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
4 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
Fat for deep fat frying
Cream butter and sugar. Beat in eggs. Sift together dry ingredients and add alternately with milk. Add vanilla. Roll dough ¼-inch thick and cut with doughnut cutter. Fry in deep fat at 385 degrees until doughnuts are brown.

Sausage Roll-Em-Ups.

4 small pork sausages
4 long slices bread
Prepared mustard
Melted butter
Cook pork sausages until lightly browned. Spread bread with prepared mustard. Wrap the sausages in the bread and fasten with a toothpick. Brush with melted butter—covering outside entirely. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) until brown. Garnish with crisp bacon and parsley.

Taffy Apples.

2 cups granulated sugar
½ cup light corn syrup
¾ cup water
Red liquid coloring (few drops)
12 red apples
12 skewers
Few drops oil of peppermint, cinnamon or cloves
Wash apples thoroughly and dry them. Insert skewer in blossom end. Put sugar, corn syrup and water into a saucepan and cook, stirring until the sugar is dissolved. Continue cooking without stirring until the temperature 300 degrees F. is reached—crack stage.

Wash crystals away from side of saucepan as mixture cooks. Cook slowly during latter part of period so that syrup will not darken. Remove from flame and set saucepan into boiling water. Note: A double boiler may be used for this. Add coloring and flavoring and stir just enough to mix well.

Holding apple by skewer, plunge it into hot syrup. Draw it out quickly and twirl it until the syrup runs down to the stick and spreads smoothly over the apple. Stand skewer in a small glass or cake rack so that apple will not touch anything while cooling.

Apples should be made the day they are to be used because moisture from apple will soften candy and make it sticky. Dipping must be done rapidly or syrup will become too stiff for coating.

The football season is in full swing! One of these chilly Saturdays it would be a grand treat to let the youngsters bring "the gang" home from the game for a football supper.

Few houses are built today without two bathrooms, or at least a bathroom and extra lavatory. In the modernization of an old house, consideration should be given to this feature.

Plumbing authorities have found that the essential fixtures of a bathroom which measures five feet one way and six feet the other. ## Buckram and Tacks To Stiffen Valance

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: A friend gave me a copy of your Book 3 and I can't tell you what a transformation is taking place in my home because of it. For a long time I have wanted living room curtains with smoothly fitted valances stiffened with buckram. Could you give me step-by-step directions for making them?"

A four-inch valance shelf; buckram and thumbtacks are the only "extras" needed. 1: Cut the buckram the exact size of the finished valance—no seam allowances. The chintz for the valance and the facing material are cut larger as indicated. 2: Outline the scallops by drawing around the buckram. 3: Stitch the chintz and facing with right sides together. Steps 4, 5, and 6: Trim the scallops; clip between them; then turn and press. 7: Insert the buckram; fitting it smoothly into the scallops. Turn in and stitch the top; allowing ½ inch to extend above the buckram. 8: Tack this soft edge to the shelf.

NOTE: If you have had Mrs. Spears' books 1 and 2, you will want No. 3. It is full of new ideas for homemakers, and step by step directions for making important pieces of furniture. Also newest styles and methods of making slip covers and curtains. Original designs for rag rugs; gifts and bazaar items. Send 10 cents in coin with name and address to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.

Early Superstitions

Elizabethan England believed in omens, generally bad ones. One's own body gave many a warning: "By the pricking of my thumbs, something wicked this way comes." Dreams were warnings sent by God. A nose-bleed meant something or other. The howl of a dog, the hoot of an owl, the dismal note of a raven, all presaged ill.

"I know. But—Oh, I can't analyze it, Edith. I love you—no end. More than—anything. But I won't ask you to marry me."
"Do you know how selfish you are, Baldy?"
"I know how wise I am."
She made an impatient gesture. "You're not thinking of me in the least. You are thinking of your pride."
He caught her hand in his. "I am thinking of my pride. Do you suppose it is easy for me to let Jane—take money from him? To feel that there is no man in our family who can pay the bills? I am proud. And I'm glad of it. Edith—I want you to be glad that I won't take—alms."

Her wise eyes studied him for a moment. "You blessed boy. You blessed poet," she sighed. "I am proud of you, but my heart aches—for myself."

He caught her almost roughly in his arms and in a moment released her. "I'm right, dearest?"

"No, you're not right. If we married, we'd sail to Italy and have a villa by the sea. And you would paint masterpieces. Do you think my money counts beside your talent? Well, I don't."

"My dear, let me prove my talent first. As things are now, I couldn't pay our passage to the other side."
"You could. My money would be yours—your talent mine. A fair exchange."

He stuck obstinately to his point of view. "I won't tie you to any promise until I've proved myself."
"And we'll lose all these shining years."

"We won't lose a moment. I'm going to work for you."

He was, she perceived, on the heights. But she knew the weariness of the climb.

Coming out of the garden in the late afternoon, they were aware of other arrivals at the Inn.

"Adelaide and Uncle Fred, by all the gods," said Edith, as they peered into the dining-room from the dimness of the hall. "Oh, don't let them see us. Adelaide's such a brute."

They crept out, found Baldy's car and sped towards the city. "I should say," Baldy proclaimed sternly, "that for a man who is engaged, a thing like that is unspeakable."

"Oh, Uncle Fred and Adelaide," said Edith, easily; "she probably asked him. And she was plaintive. A plaintive woman always gets her way."

Adelaide had been plaintive. And she had hinted for the ride. "Why not an afternoon ride, Ricky? It would rest you."

"Sorry. But I'm tied up."
"I haven't seen you for ages, Ricky."

"I know, old girl. I've had a thousand things."
"I've—missed you."

It wasn't easy for Frederick to ignore that Adelaide was an attractive woman.

"Oh, well, I can get away at four. We'll have tea at the old Inn."
"Heavenly, Ricky, I have a new blue hat."

"You could always wear blue." He decided that he might as well make things pleasant. There was a shock in store for her. Of course he'd have to tell her about Jane.

So Adelaide in the new blue hat—with a wrap that matched—with that porcelain white and pink of her complexion—with her soft voice, and appealing manner, had Frederick for three whole hours to herself.

She told him all the spicy gossip. Frederick, like most men, ostensibly scorned scandal, but lent a willing ear. What Eloise had said, what Benny had said, what all the world was saying about Del's marriage.

"And they were married here today. I didn't dream it until Eloise called me up just before lunch. Edith had told her."
"Edith was here?"
"Yes, and young Barnes."
She stopped there and poured the tea. She did it gracefully, but Frederick's thoughts swept back to Jane behind her battlements of silver.

"Four lumps, Ricky?"
"Um—yes."
"A penny for your thoughts."
"They're not worth a penny, Adelaide. Lots of lemon, please. And no cakes. I am trying to keep my lovely figure."

"Oh, why worry? I like big men."
"That's nice of you."
Martha's little sponge cakes were light as a feather. Adelaide broke one and ate daintily. Then she said, "How's little Jane Barnes?"

Frederick was immediately self-conscious. "She's still in Chicago."
"Sister better?"
"Much."
"When is she coming back?"
"Jane? As soon as Mrs. Heming can be brought home. In a few weeks, I hope."

Adelaide drank a cup of tea almost at a draught. She was aware of an impending disclosure. When the blow came, she took it without the flicker of an eyelash.

"I am going to marry Jane Barnes, Adelaide. The engagement isn't to be announced until she returns to Washington. But I want my friends to know."
She put her elbows on the table, clasped her hands and rested her chin on them looking at him with steady eyes. "So that's the end of it, Ricky?"
"The end of what?"
"Our friendship."
"Why should it be?"
"Oh, do you think that your little Jane is going to let you philander?"
"I shan't want to philander. If that's the way you put it."
"So you think you're in—love with her."
"I know I am," he red came up in his cheeks, but he stuck to it manfully. "It's different from anything—ever that I've felt before."
"They all say that, don't they, every time?"
"Don't be so—cynical."
She shrugged her shoulders. "I'm the subject up; she drew another cup of coffee for herself, and asked finally, "When is Evans coming back?"

"Not for several days. He will go to Boston when he finishes with New York."
"I see. And he's much better?"
"I should say. You wouldn't know him."
He rose. "I must run on. We're to dine at Towne's then?"
"Yes. Just the five of us. It seems funny that I haven't met Cousin Annabel. But she's able to take her place at the head of the table, Mr. Towne tells me. He told me, too, that she wants to meet me. But I have a feeling that she won't approve of me, Baldy. I'm not fashionable enough."
"Why should you be fashionable? You are all right as you are."
"Am I? Baldy, I believe my stock has gone up with you."
"It hasn't, Janey. You were always a darling. But I didn't want to spoil you."
"As if you could," she smiled wistfully. "Sometimes I have a feeling, Baldy, that I should like life to go on just as it is. Just you and me, Baldy. But of course it can't."
"Of course it can, if you wish it. You mustn't marry Towne if you have the least doubt."
"I haven't any doubts. So don't worry." She stood up and kissed him. "Briggs will come out for me—and we are all to see a play together afterward."
"Edith told me."
"Baldy," she had held of the lapel of his coat, "how are things going with—Edith?"
"Do you mean, am I in love with her? I am."
"Are you going to marry her?"
"God knows."
She looked up at him in surprise. "What makes you say it that way? Has she told you she didn't care?"
"She has told me that she does care. But do you think, Janey, that I'm going to take her money?"
He patted her on the cheek and was off.

Jane picked a spray of princess-pine and stuck it in her blouse. Oh, what an adorable world! Her world. Could there be anything better than Frederick Towne could give her?

Baldy's words rang in her ears—"Do you think I am going to take her money?"
Yet she was taking Frederick Towne's money. She wished it had not been necessary. Each day it seemed to her that the thought burned deeper: she was under obligations to her lover that could be repaid only by marriage. And they were to be married in June.

Yet why should the thought burn? She loved him. Not, perhaps, as Baldy loved Edith. But there were respect and admiration, yes, and when she was with him, she felt his charm, she was carried along on the whirling stream of his own adoration and tenderness.

She went back to her own little house, and found a great box of roses waiting. She spent an hour filling vases and bowls with them. Old Sophy coming in from the kitchen said, "Looks lak dat Mistuh Towne's jes' fascinated with you, Miss Janey."
"Aren't the roses lovely, Sophy?"
Jane wanted to tell Sophy that Mr. Towne would some day be her husband. But she still deferred the announcement of her engagement.

"I've told one or two people," Frederick had said.
"Whom?"
"Well, Adelaide. She's such an old friend. And I told Annabel, of course. I don't see why you should care, Jane."
"I think I'm afraid that when I go into a shop someone will say, not. Well, I shall miss you, Ricky, dear."

That was all, just that plaintive note. But Adelaide's plaintiveness was always effective.

Jane was home again. Judy was better. Philomel sang. The world was a lovely place.

"Oh, but it's good to be back," Jane was telling Baldy at breakfast. The windows were wide open, the fragrance of lilacs streamed in, there were pink hyacinths on the table.

"It's heavenly."
Baldy smiled at her. "The same old Jane."
She shook her head, and the light in her eyes wavered as if some breath of doubt fanned it. "Not quite. The winter hasn't been easy. I'm a thousand years older."
"And with a wedding day ahead of you."
"Yes. Do you like it, Baldy?"
He leaned back in his chair and surveyed her. "Not a bit—if you want the truth—I shall be jealous of Mr. Frederick Towne."
"Silly. You know I shall never love anybody more than you, Baldy."
She was perfectly unconscious of the revelation she was making, but he knew—and was constrained to say, "Then you don't really love him."
"Oh, I do. He's much nicer than I imagined he might be."
"Oh, well, if you think you are going to be happy."
"I know I am—dearest," she blew a kiss from the tips of her fingers. "Baldy, I'm going to have a great house with a great garden—and invite Judy and the babies—every summer."
"Towne's not marrying Judy and the babies. He's marrying you. He won't want all of your poor relations hanging around."
"Oh, he will. He has been simply dear. I feel as if I can never do enough for him."
She was very much in earnest. Baldy refrained from further criticism lest he cloud the happiness of her home-coming. The thing was done. They might as well make the best of it. So he said, "Do you always call him 'Mr. Towne'?"
"Yes. He scolds, but I can't say Frederick—or Fred. He begs me to do it—but I tell him to wait till we're married and then I'll say 'dear.' Most wives do that, don't they?"
"I hope mine won't."
"Why not?"
"I shall want my wife to invent names for me, and if she can't, I'll do it for her."
Jane opened her eyes wide. "Romance with a big R, Baldy?"
"Yes, of course. I should want to be king, lover, master—friend to the woman who cared for me. That's the real thing, Janey."
"Is it?" But she did not follow

"Oh, she's going to marry Frederick Towne, and see how shabby she is."
"You are never shabby."
"That's because I made myself two new dresses while I was at Judy's. And this is one of them."
"You have the great art of looking lovely in the simplest things. But some day you are going to wear a frock that I have for you." He told her about the silver and blue creation he had bought in Chicago. "Now and then I take it out and look at it. I've put it in your room, Jane, and it is waiting for you."
She thought now of the blue and silver gown, as Sophy said, "Miss Jane, I done pressed that wite chiffon of yours twel it hardly hangs together."
"I'll wear it one more, Sophy. I'm having a sewing woman next week."
With the old white chiffon she wore a golden rose or two—and sat at Frederick's right, while on the other end of the great table, Cousin Annabel weighed her in the balance.

Jane knew she was being weighed. Cousin Annabel was so blue-blooded that it showed in the veins of her hands and nose—and her hair was dressed with a gray transformation which quite overpowered her thin little face with its thin little nose.

As a matter of fact, Cousin Annabel felt that Frederick had taken leave of his senses. What could he see in this short-haired girl—who hadn't a jewel, except the one he had given her?

Jane wore Towne's ring, hidden, on a ribbon around her neck. "Some day I'll let everybody see it," she had said, "but not now."
"You act as if you were ashamed of it."
"I'm not. But Cinderella must wait until the night of the ball."

It was while they were drinking their coffee in the drawing-room that the storm came up. It was one of those cyclonic winds that whip off the tops of the trees and blow the roofs from unsubstantial edifices. The thunder was a ceaseless reverberation—the lightning was pink and made the sky seem like a glistening inverted shell.

Cousin Annabel hated thunderstorms and said so. "I think I shall go to my room, Frederick."
"You are not a bit safer up there than here," Towne told her.
"But I feel safer, Frederick." She was very decided about it.

So she went up and Baldy and Edith wandered across the hall to the library, where Edith insisted they could observe other aspects of the storm.

Jane and her lover were left alone, and presently Frederick was called to the telephone.

"I'm not sure that it's safe, sir, in this storm," Waldron warned.
"Nonsense, Waldron," Towne said, and stepped quickly across the polished floor.

Thus it happened that Jane sat by herself in the great drawing-room of the Ice Palace, while the wind howled, and the rain streamed down the window glass, and all the evil things in the world seemed let loose.

And she was afraid!
Not of the storm, but of the great house. She was so small and it was so big. Her own little cottage clasped her in its warm embrace. This great mansion stood away from her—as the sky stands away from the desert. All the rest of her life she would be going up and down those great stairs, sitting in front of this great fireplace, presiding at the far end of Frederick's great table—dwarfed by it all, losing personality, individuality, bidding good-bye forever to little Jane Barnes, becoming until death parted them the wife of Frederick Towne.

United States Marine Band Is 140 Years Old

From an organization composed of a handful of "fife and drummers," the United States Marine band has grown to one of the most famous military musical groups in the world.

The smartly clad bandsmen, arrayed in scarlet coats, scarlet or white caps, and elaborate ornamentation across the uniform are in constant demand for affairs of state and patriotic gatherings. They appear frequently at White House receptions and concerts of the Pan-American Union.

The Marines' fife and drum corps, organized shortly after the Marine corps was established just prior to the Revolutionary war, usually consisted of "bands" of 10 or more musicians.

When the war ended, military activity virtually came to an end and the Marines' musical unit ceased to function. In 1798, however, the Marine corps was brought to life again and provision was made for a band.

When the national capital was moved from Philadelphia to Washington in 1800 the Marines also were transferred.

Washington at that time was a desolate spot and, according to the United States Marine Band, "The Marine Corps in its publication, 'The United States Marine Band,' did much to dispel the gloom."

The band often held its concerts on a hill where the Marines pitched camp, and the music supplied much-needed entertainment for the populace.

In those days the band consisted of two oboes, two clarinets, two French horns, a bassoon and a drum. The band did not possess a bass drum and efforts to obtain one "were not successful for several months."

The band made its official debut at President Adams' New Year's Day reception at the White House in 1801. Ever since that day the band has been called by succeeding Presidents to play on this occasion.

The band's most notable appearance was his immortal Gettysburg address.

Lesson for October 29

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

BEVERAGE ALCOHOL AND SOCIAL PROGRESS

LESSON TEXT—Micah 2:9-11; Luke 21:29-31, 34-36; I Corinthians 6:9-11. GOLDEN TEXT—Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God?—I Corinthians 6:9.

"International Temperance Sunday—October 29, 1939." Let us join with people the world over in making our protest against the sale and use of intoxicating liquors. If every Christian would declare himself on this matter now, there would be a tremendous impact made on this universal problem and notice would be served on the liquor industry, on politicians, and on unbelieving mankind that Christianity intends to do something about it. We are far too docile and quiet on such matters, when we ought to speak up for God and for our country.

The lesson portions may seem a little unrelated, but study of them yields three important truths regarding the use of wine and strong drink.

I. Lovers of Wine and Strong Drink Destroy Their Nation (Mic. 2:9-11).

That statement may surprise some of our self-styled patriots who like to wave the flag and speak swelling words of devotion to our country and who at the same time love their intoxicating drinks. Micah rightly points out that his people had come to the place where they chose men to be prophets because they encouraged the people in the use of wine and strong drinks (v. 11). They must therefore expect the result which follows, namely, the destruction of the home and of the nation (vv. 9, 10).

We are all familiar with the claim that prohibition retarded the advancement of our nation and that its repeal would bring a return to higher moral standards, reduce crime, bring in prosperity, etc. The facts reveal that none of these have come true. Crime has increased by leaps and bounds under repeal, a situation so well known as to call for no proof. Moral standards have gone rapidly downward with the free use of liquor. If you don't believe that, ask a policeman what goes on in our taverns, or just keep your eyes half open and you can see for yourself.

Just now much is being made of the many jobs which are supposed to have been created by the liquor industry. What are the facts? The Christian Herald tells us, "A million dollars spent for furniture would employ 339 persons, spent for boots and shoes 336 persons, for home furnishings 191 persons, for booze just 95 persons." And remember that jobs making the stuff that destroys other jobs, are not worth having. The man who drinks is helping to destroy his nation.

II. Christians Do Not Drink, Because They Look for Christ's Return (Luke 21:29-31, 34-36).

If we are not "looking for that blessed hope and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ" (Titus 2:13), we should consider whether any of the things mentioned in these verses have gained control in our lives: the cares of this life, surfeiting, or drunkenness. But why speak to Christians about that? Surely they do not use intoxicants. Sadly enough, some do. Taking advantage of the fact that the Bible speaks of temperance rather than of abstinence, they seek to justify an indulgence in these things which they (and their neighbors) know is dishonoring to God and destructive of their testimony and usefulness in the community.

Christian, Jesus is coming again! He may come today! In fact, the fig tree (vv. 29, 30), which is the nation Israel, has long been shooting forth new branches and bearing green leaves. The indications are that Christ is coming soon. Are you ready to meet Him?

III. Drunkards and Other Sinners Need to Be Saved (I Cor. 6:9-11)

Being drunk is not a joke, even though thoughtless people laugh and cartoonists and writers of jokes use such unfortunate as their stock in trade. Drunkenness is a foul and sinful thing, classed by the apostle Paul with the lowest of human vices. Review the list as it is given in verses 9 and 10 (and by the way, notice that covetousness is mentioned there too) and place drunkenness in its proper classification. Call it what it really is—sin, and then call on the One who can save from sin and then you will be washed from your sin, sanctified, and justified in the name of the Lord Jesus (v. 11). In Christ there is hope for the drunkard. A spiritual revival is the real answer to the liquor problem. Let us seek to promote it even as we at the same time give ourselves to an intelligent and constructive battle against this destructive force in the life of our nation.

Strange Facts

Sold To Low Bidder Dog Trouble Shooter Many-Part Thespian

American courts have held that an auctioneer is not compelled to accept the highest bid. In a Minnesota case, a house was sold to the first bidder for $675 after the second and only other bidder had offered $680. The auctioneer refused to consider such a trifling increase. So the second bidder sued but lost his case on the ground that no contract exists until the offer to purchase is accepted by the auctioneer.

Recently, after 16 miles of coaxial cable had been installed three feet underground between two radio stations in England, it was discovered that the outer tube was losing the nitrogen pumped through it to insulate the inner conductor. So amyl mercaptan, a gas having an odor similar to that of cats, was introduced and a dog taken over the route. He dug in 14 spots and found the leaks.

In most European countries, a civil marriage, or one performed by a magistrate, is not only obligatory but is the only ceremony of its kind that is recognized by the law of the state.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Mending Pillow Slips.—Hem-stitched pillow slips that are too badly torn to mend neatly can have the hem cut away and a picot edge crocheted on.

Electric Bulbs.—Clean electric bulbs by covering with a paste made from cold water and carbonate of soda. Leave on for a time, then sponge with soapy water, rinse, and dry carefully.

Save the floors.—Wax the bottom of glass or wooden cups placed under furniture. Furniture may then be moved more easily and in moving it will not scratch the floors.

Care of Crockery.—To double the life of your crockery put every piece, as you buy it, in a pan of cold water and bring slowly to the boil. Leave until the water cools. It will not be nearly so liable to crack and will withstand far more rough usage.

Laying Linoleum.—Never try to lay linoleum when it is cold. It should be left for at least 24 hours in a warm room, so that the heat may penetrate to the center of the roll, otherwise it will crack and peel off when unrolled.

Canape Hint.—Spread thin slices of bologna with cream cheese mixed with chopped pickles, olives and onions. Roll the slices up and stick a wooden pick through each. Quickly dip the rolls into salad dressing mixed with catsup and broil them four minutes on toast squares. Serve them.

Gum on Carpet.—To remove chewing gum from carpets, rub with an ice cube until the gum becomes brittle and cracks off. Carbon tetrachloride removes any residue.

Browned Potatoes.—Before frying cold potatoes slice them and well dredge with flour. This not only causes the potatoes to brown more quickly but improves flavor.

Biscuit Pans.—A shallow pan about one inch deep is the best to use in baking biscuits; otherwise the biscuits will not brown evenly on all sides.

Gravy Hint.—If stock or gravy is required in a hurry, melt a teaspoonful of some meat extract in half a pint of hot water, bring to the boil, season and use. If time permits, a piece of onion, a spray of parsley, or a tomato added to the water gives flavor.

Hasty Regrets Follow Hasty Conclusions

Jimmy, who had been climbing trees, came in for the second time within the week with his trousers torn.

"This time you can go upstairs and mend them yourself," ordered the harassed mother.

Some time later she went upstairs to see how he was getting along. She found the trousers there, but no Jimmy.

Puzzled, she came downstairs, still looking for Jimmy. She noticed, as she passed, that the cellar door, usually shut, was open. She went to the door and called down loudly and angrily, "Are you running around down there without your trousers on?"

The reply came in a stern and heavy masculine voice: "No, madam, I'm reading the gas meter."

School Notes

HIGH SCHOOL

Two tests were given last week in bookkeeping covering the theory and practice of journalizing, posting to the ledger and making a trial balance. There were five perfect papers on theory written by Nona Rapp, Corrine Fahselt, Irene Toms, Leona Ziehl and Norma Malcolm. The medium for the class was 37 1/2. Last year the class took the same test and the class medium was 26 1/2. In the other test Norma Malcolm and Corrine Fahselt received the highest marks, each girl making only one minor error.

Names added to the perfect speed honor roll are Norma Malcolm, typing 11, John King, Russell Rollin, Marjorie Musolf and Mabel Ulman, typing 1.

Posters, depicting different types of Safety First, were made by the citizenship class.

To write a theme from an outline is the assignment the English III class is working on. They are using topics from all phases of life. This is being done to make them better prepared for writing orations.

The Freshmen have left the Grammar Road to wander along the paths of Literature for a few weeks.

The guidance class took the Stephenson-Millet Social Usage test Tuesday. This test consists of 16 pages and covers the material in the etiquette book written by the same author. A "Right Conduct Test" was administered to this same group Wednesday. This test was written by Harlow A. Wood, Superintendent of schools at Munising, Michigan, and is particularly suitable for school students.

The economics class is now studying money. Among the interesting facts connected with this topic is that there are eleven denominations of paper notes—one dollar the smallest and ten thousand the largest. All notes of the same denomination carry the same portrait. All one dollar notes carry the portrait of Washington and all ten thousand dollar notes carry the portrait of Lincoln's secretary of the treasury, Chase.

In the first and second grades we have been listening to some new recordings from Mr. Nordman's collection. Last Friday we heard the story of "Jack and the Beanstalk," and "Tom Thumb." The beginners are showing much more singing ability. Last Friday the more advanced grades studied charts of stringed instruments and listened to recordings of these instruments. The seventh and eighth grades have been studying the placement of tones on the piano keyboard. Some of the people can already play simple melodies. Very soon we shall learn more of the history of the piano and its mechanism.

In the third and fourth grades we made pumpkin faces out of orange paper and placed them on the music staff to represent notes.

The band has been playing strictly classical music, and we appreciate this higher standard of music more and more as we learn to understand it. The clarinet section is showing the most progress. We would like to see more parents encourage their children to practice at home. If they cannot play well individually it stands to reason that we cannot do well as a band. The band is as good as the worst player in it.

We are finding new leaders and more help from newcomers in the Glee Club. We plan to start a boys chorus before long if we can find a convenient time to practice. If that auditorium was only ready for use! SEVENTH and EIGHTH GRADES Every one is anxiously waiting for the Halloween party. The committees are busy planning entertainment for the affair.

We are having tests this week. Marion Bing, Lucille Malcolm and Linda Lou Libka were the members of the decorating committee and decorated the room for Halloween, Tuesday after school.

Willard Musolf is back to school this week after a few days vacation. He was hunting pheasants in the Thumb district. He reports a very pleasant and profitable time.

FIFTH and SIXTH GRADES Jack Rollin and Beverly Bigelow had perfect scores in a recent test of Norse Mythology. Larry Clemens visited our room recently. The fifth grade class made Hal-low'en decorations for our room re-lowe'en decorations for our room. We are planning a Halloween party for next Tuesday afternoon. The following people are on the entertainment committee: Neil Thornton, Jack Rollin, Isabelle Toms and Inez Ulman.

Henry Brown has been absent for th last week.

We were weighed this month. Every one in the room gained except a few. They remained the same. Norman Koepke gained six pounds which was the greatest number of pounds gained by any pupil.

PRIMARY The second graders are doing good work in their work books for arithmetic and spelling.

The first grade has the best attendance record this month.

The beginners are doing much better work in coloring now.
