RED CROSS ROLL CALL STARTS NOV. 11

County and City Officers Endorse Drive for Members

In order that the Red Cross may be ready to meet whatever demands that may be made upon it at home or abroad, in keeping with its traditional policy of meeting needs without prejudice or favor, it must have the assistance of twenty thousand additional volunteers in Michigan who will serve the organization by offering those among whom they work an opportunity to join the Red Cross and share in its work.

Calls upon the Red Cross for service, both locally and nationally, have been steadily increasing in recent years. This year there are many calls at home growing out of disaster and expanded needs in the fields of health, safety education and welfare services to our people. We must not forget that the Red Cross has additional responsibilities as our agent to keep ready to meet obligations imposed upon it by our government as a signatory to the Treaty of Geneva of 1864.

I urge everyone who can devote several hours on a voluntary basis on November 11 or one or two days immediately following to offer his services to the local chapter of the Red Cross whose roll call chairman is endeavoring to develop an organization that will make possible the extension of a membership invitation to every man and woman of good will.

The American Red Cross, in facing its greatest peace plan test, this year appeals to the American public for more members to support its constant battle against human suffering.

During the past years we have drawn closer to the Red Cross through its far flung disaster relief, its aid to the innocent noncombatants of war, as well as through its early services to stamp out misery in the form of disease and the ever-present threat of accidental death.

Those of us who have seen the Red Cross grow up in recent years can understand the need for more members. The natural phenomena disaster and the danger of the mechanized age continue to be the source of suffering and accidental death. We must recognize that the ability of this great organization to serve is directly proportionate to the membership support of the public.

This year's appeal of the Red Cross for your support will be made November 11 to 30. Our county has never failed to respond to the Red Cross call for assistance, and for this reason, we feel confident that we shall be proud to enroll our share of members.

We therefore designate this period as the time all members will have an opportunity to renew their affiliation and to afford those who have not enrolled an opportunity to help the Red Cross help others.

William Hatton, Chairman of Supervisors.
John Coyle, Mayor of Tawas City.
E. A. Leaf, Mayor of East Tawas.
H. R. Powell, Mayor of Whittemore.

Home Furnishing Expert Will Be Here 4 Days

According to Alice Hertzler, home agent, Ruth Peck, Home Furnishings Specialist of Michigan State College, will spend four days next week in Isosco county helping the Home Economics Extension Leaders to recondition and reupholster chairs. The leaders from each group will spend two days with Miss Peck at the Legion Hall in Tawas City. On Tuesday and Thursday, November 7 and 9, the following groups will bring their chairs: Wilber, Tawas City I and II, Vine, Hemlock, Whittemore and Laidlawville. On Wednesday and Friday, November 8 and 10, the others, Hale Alabaster, Oscoda, Au Sable and East Tawas I and II will bring their chairs to be reupholstered. The meetings will begin at ten o'clock.

NEW WELFARE BODY TAKES OVER DUTIES

John Henry is Chairman of Board of Social Welfare

At a meeting of the newly appointed Board of Social Welfare held Monday afternoon, John Henry of East Tawas was named chairman. Edgar Louks of Whittemore was elected vice-chairman and Willis Kraus of Au Sable, secretary.

The board voted to retain temporarily the staff of the old welfare office. Kraus was named director and made the authorized agent with the other two members of the board acting in an advisory capacity.

The new welfare organization has taken over the work of the county poor commission and by December 1 all Federal State and county welfare work in the county will be handled through that office. This includes hospitalization and medical aid and the transfer of all relief duties of supervisors to the Board of Social Welfare.

The members of the County Board of Social Welfare, John Henry, Edgar Louks and Willis Kraus, are well and favorably known throughout the county and their recent appointment gave assurance that the new welfare organization would be in capable hands.

1940 License Plates Now on Sale

The 1940 license plates are now on sale at the Branch Office of the Secretary of State in the office of the Registrar of Deeds. Plates are available for all types of vehicles, new and old.

A new policy is being adopted this year, which that NO plates will be issued out of order to any one. It is against the regulations to leave money and title at the Branch Office expecting to receive a certain number. It will be greatly appreciated if the people will not ask to have this done because it puts the Branch Manager on the spot to have to refuse.

All plates this year have two letters and four numbers and there will be no special number to anyone. Mr. Kelly regrets that he cannot extend the favors of the past to those who possessed individual plates but he feels that everyone will appreciate the economics to be effected by these rulings.

Marjorie M. Lickfelt, Branch Manager.

Robert, Sr., 556; High individual single game, A. McGuire 216.

A special bowling match on Sunday, November 5, at 3:00 P. M., brings together Strohs of Saginaw and the East Tawas Recreation Five.

In the near future we will have the privilege of seeing the Ekhardt and Becker team of Detroit in action. This team is the Detroit Times All-Star Classic League champions. No definite date has as yet been set for this event.

Edward Alford

Edward Alford, retired Detroit & Mackinac railway employe and well known resident of East Tawas, died last week Wednesday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Katherine McMullen at Lansing. A heart attack was the cause of death.

Edward Alford was born March 10, 1864, at Angus, Canada. He came to East Tawas in 1901 where he entered the employ of the Detroit and Mackinac railway and remained in its employ until two years ago when he retired.

He is survived by the wife, who has been in ill health for a number of years; three sons, Leon Alfred and Rev. John Alford, of Detroit; La Roy Alford, of Colorado; two daughters, Mrs. Katherine McMullen and Mrs. Marion Schrobly, of Lansing, and one granddaughter.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon from Christ Episcopal church. Rev. James R. Colby officiated. Mr. Alford was a member of the Masonic and Oddfellow lodges.

Lewis Wheeler

Lewis A. Wheeler, sixteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Wheeler, Sr., passed away Sunday evening at 6:15 o'clock at General hospital in Bay City. He was taken to the hospital on Saturday for medical care of the eye. Death was caused by thrombosis of the cavernous sinus.

Lewis Arthur Wheeler was born March 31, 1923 at Flint and for the past three years has been a resident of East Tawas. He was a member of the Junior Class of the East Tawas Public schools, and was employed part time at the Family theatre. Lewis took part in school sports and had many friends during the past three years.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Wheeler, Sr.; two sisters, Mrs. Virginia Giffone, of Hale, and Constance at home; also two brothers at home, Owen and Jerry.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Methodist church with Rev. S. A. Carey officiating. Alfred Hewitt, William Hyatt, John A. Dillon, Harold Look and Paul Wheeler acted as pallbearers.

Mrs. Chauncey Brown

Funeral services will be held this afternoon (Friday) for Mrs. Chauncey Brown at the Memorial Presbyterian church, Bay City, and the remains brought to the Tawas City cemetery for interment in the family lot.

Mrs. Brown will be remembered to many Tawas friends as Georgia Holloway before her marriage to Chauncey Brown. They moved to Bay City in 1907, where they since have made their home. She was a member of the Memorial Presbyterian church and a prominent worker in the church.

She is survived by her husband, Chauncey Brown; two sons, Merlin and Howard, of Detroit; one daughter, Mrs. Mabel Finn, of Bay City; and her mother, Mrs. John Rollin, of Flint; seven brothers and four grandchildren.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our many friends for their kindness in enduring our bereavement. Also the D. & M. pensioners for their beautiful flowers.

Mrs. Edward Alford, and family.

HENNIGAR CO. COMPLETES IMPROVEMENTS

Completely Modernized Store Now Greets Customers

The work of remodeling the H. C. Hennigar Co., building is nearly completed. Extensive improvements have been made, including a modern brick and plate glass front and an addition which enlarges the building to 98 feet in length. Other improvements are a new heating system and a modern display system. Everything has been arranged for the convenience of the shopper. Mr. Hennigar and the company are to be congratulated for this fine improvement.

The building was originally built for Locke & Taylor in 1887, with F. Taylor as manager. After a number of years of operation the firm moved to Grand Marais, later returning to East Tawas. F. F. Taylor, now retired, subsequent to his activities at East Tawas, operated a large dry goods store at Tawas City under the firm name of F. F. Taylor & Co. He resides in this city at the present time.

In the years following, the building was occupied by F. F. French & Co., and H. N. Butler & Co. The H. C. Hennigar Co. entered it in 1927.

H. C. Hennigar & Co. feature many exclusive lines, including: Admiration hosiery, Cooner's Original Jockey underwear, International Custom suits and topcoats, Botany All Wool ties, robes and sportswear, Roblec shoes for men, Air-Step shoes for women, Arrow shirts, Woolrich sportswear, Goodrich rubbers and Portis hats.

Jennings-Leslie

Miss Geraldine Jennings, daughter of Mrs. Grace Williamson, of East Tawas, and Leonard Otto Leslie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Leslie, were quietly married Thursday morning at ten o'clock at the home of Rev. Robert Neuman of St. Joseph church.

The bride wore a blackberry wine suit and had a corsage of lobe chrysanthemums and rose buds. They were attended by Miss Mary Reinke and Conrad Konetsky. The wedding breakfast was served to the bridal party at the Hotel Isosco. The young couple will make their home in East Tawas.

Mary Martha Class

About 25 members and friends of the Mary Martha class of the East Tawas Methodist church met in the church parlor on Friday evening for the regular business and social meeting. Mrs. Roy Grossmeyer conducted the business meeting, at which time it was announced a "Hunters' Supper" would be served by the class in the church dining room on November 16. Mrs. R. V. Boudler, chairman of the Christmas bazaar, reported much enthusiasm being shown by the ladies and work progressing nicely.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. John Meier played two piano solos in a pleasing manner. Miss Dorris Boone and Mrs. Boudler, accompanied by Mrs. C. J. Cresser at the piano, sang two vocal numbers, which were also greatly enjoyed. Dainty refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. Officers of the class include: President, Mrs. Leo Bowen; Secretary, Mrs. Leslie Fraser; Treasurer, Mrs. Earl Lonsberry; Attendance Secretary, Mrs. Matthew Kienholz; Chairman of Social Committee, Mrs. Basil Quick. The next meeting of the class will be held Friday evening, November 17, at the same place.

Stray Shot Shatters Ohio Man's Glasses

While trying to start his motor boat on Tawas Lake last Sunday Eugene S. Taylor, of Montpelier, Ohio, was struck in the face by stray pellets from a shot fired by Ernest Miller of Grand Blanc. One pellet shattered Taylor's lip and the other shattered his glasses. Miller was shooting at a passing duck.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK—In more than four decades, Louis M. Eilshemius made 5,000 paintings and drawings and never made a cent out of them. 'Ali Vanity' Cries Now, three big galleries give exhibitions of his work. One gallery is reported to have sold $150,000 worth of his paintings. All his canvases are in demand at high prices.

But Mr. Eilshemius, an irascible little man with a ragged beard and a testy way of speaking, is bedridden in his gloomy, gaslit old house in East Fifty-seventh street, and he asks, "What's the good of the whole damn thing?" He's 75 years old. He warned the world hell-for-leather down the skirts, and now he thinks it's on the last stretch of the greased chute, and nothing else matters—not even money and fame.

The late Ralph Blakelock lost his mind after years of failure to stir critical or popular interest in his work. He was hailed as a great painter, and his pictures were bought by great galleries when he no longer knew or cared about money or recognition. There is an interesting parallel between his career and that of Mr. Eilshemius, although the latter is still bright and smart as a chipmunk.

But he won't even look out of his narrow bedroom window. He wants no outlook on a world turning itself into a madhouse. Pictures on the floor, covered with dust and cobwebs, may be worth a fortune, pictures of moods, dreams and memories, but that doesn't interest him. He had renounced the "poms and vanities of this wicked world" long before it beat a path to his door.

The parallel between Blakelock and Eilshemius is also marked by the amazing diversity of their talents. Blakelock, the son of a physician, was trained in medicine, gifted in music and almost made a career of the piano and musical composition. Eilshemius has composed a small library of songs, operas and etudes and used to give piano concerts in his youth. He painted feverishly for 46 years, quitting in 1922 when none would buy his pictures and no galleries hang them. But, in his varied abilities, he far outshone Blakelock. Here are a few of his achievements:

When he was a student at Cornell university, he discovered a new species of ichneumon fly. Later he announced a new law governing the "ramification of trees."

He wrote somewhat more than 50 volumes of plays, novels, novelettes, essays and verse. The verse, Byronic in tone, was written in English, French, German, Italian and Spanish. He published them himself and, like his pictures, they gathered only cobwebs and dust.

He invented a new kind of "magic" indelible ink and several studio devices for artists.

He explored various diseases and offered methods of therapy.

He was born in Laurel Hill, N. J., near Newark, the son of a wealthy glove manufacturer. He attended Cornell two years and was a roommate of Robert W. Chambers in Paris when they were studying art under Bougereau.

His is a blue-book family of Dutch antecedents, and his name is there inscribed, but that interests him no more than the hanging of his pictures in the Metropolitan, the Luxembourg and the Whitney galleries.

IN HIS book, "Dynamite," Louis Adamic says the Los Angeles Times explosion of 1910 forever ended militancy in the American labor movement. In that year Samuel Gompers and Frank Morrison were sentenced to prison terms on charges growing out of the Buck stove case. This was lost in the shuffle, with the dynamiting excitement. The terms were never served. Thereafter neither Gompers nor Morrison was militant. Currently, Mr. Morrison, the highly esteemed secretary-treasurer and conservative elder statesman of the A. F. of L. retires from office, after 43 years in that post. He will be 80 years old next month.

A native of Frankton, Ont., he is a doctor of laws of Lake Forest university. He entered law practice, but turned to the printing trade and became a member of the Typographical union in 1873. He is a member of the executive council of the Churches of Christ in America. (Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Belligerents Fight for Favor Of European Neutral States; 'Flint' Incident Still Simmers

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

THE WAR IN BRIEF

Unorthodox warfare continued on the western front, original positions being assumed after Nazis forced the French to relinquish early gains. Though 1,500,000 German troops were massed at the Siegfried line, any offensive must come immediately or not until next spring. Three solid days of rainfall left trenches half-filled with water and stranded the highly touted mechanized artillery. Then came snow and sleet.

Diplomatic activity continued at top speed, far overshadowing the actual war. Turkey's new pact with Britain to guarantee the eastern Mediterranean was the source of all efforts, which resolved into a frantic scurrying among belligerents to line up neutrals. At Danzig, German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop furnished diversification by lashing at British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain for "breaking promises." He also tried to drive a wedge between the allies by wooing France. Two days later Chamberlain replied just as scornfully. In the Balkans, Britain encour-

MARINE: 'Flint' Saga

German seizure of the 5,000-ton U. S. S. City of Flint bid fair to affect world commerce far more than all the 100-odd vessels which bombs and torpedoes have sent to the bottom since November 1. Carrying contraband to Britain, the Flint was seized by Germany in mid-Atlantic, taken first to Norway and then to Murmansk, Russia, where her American crew was reported safe. But the Soviet indicated Germany would get the ship, thereby relieving Joseph Stalin of bickering with the U. S. Most observers agreed the Reich was justified in seizing

THE REICH BREAKS LOOSE

Nazi raiders have broken Britain's North sea blockade to raid Atlantic shipping, and Britain cannot hunt them down without weakening her home defenses. Evidence of raiding: British liner Stone Gate picked up torpedo victims (1), was then torpedoed herself (2), probably by the Deutschland, which proceeded north to capture the U. S. S. City of Flint (3) and sail her to Tromsø, Norway, (4) where Stonegate passengers were dumped. City of Flint was then taken to Murmansk, Russia (5). In the heavily protected North sea (6) a convoyed Greek steamer was sunk, while three British vessels went down 80 miles off Gibraltar (7). A French sub reported driving five Nazi raiders to an African port (8).

the Flint, but few expected his next bold move. Berlin ordered a prize court hearing to determine whether the boat, crew or cargo should be freed.

Britain began crowing prematurely about her "speedy" inspection of neutral vessels by contrast with German blundering. U. S. skippers thereupon complained to Washington that Britain's contraband control was actually pretty bad, often taking 18 days to clear a boat. Re-

COMING UP

NOVEMBER 15: Italy to inaugurate Rome-Rio de Janeiro-Buenos Aires airline. (In Washington, the U. S. bid for Latin-American business by combining a score of agencies. Pan-American airlines asked for an airline between Los Angeles and Mexico City. American Export lines asked to start a New York-to-France line.)

NOVEMBER 27: Communist Earl Browder, indicted on charge of obtaining a false passport, to go on trial. His comment: "... Even the reactionary Hoover regime ... decided there were no grounds for prosecution (in the case). Now it is warmed over ..."

DECEMBER 4: Unless member nations protest, the League of Nations, formed to keep Versailles' peace, will meet at Geneva while cannon are blasting.

aged Turkish formation of a neutral bloc, using what some observers called poor strategy by apparently neglecting to consult Italy.

While the Reich wooed Rumania, Turkey and Hungary by threats, Britain was more subtle. Under consideration at London were trade pacts to assure the neutrality of Sweden, Netherlands, Finland, Latvia, Turkey and Russia. To soothe the latter nation, Chamberlain agreed that Dictator Josef Stalin's invasion of Poland had been necessary for protection against German aggression.

Russia continued negotiations with Finland, but their nature remained mysterious. Finnish Foreign Minister Eljas Erko called "just as unfounded as all others" the latest report that Russia had demanded concessions in the Gulf of Finland, a friendship policy between the sult: A "gentleman's agreement" to speed inspection.

Obviously the Flint incident put Russia on a spot. By releasing her to the American crew, Russia would snub an erstwhile ally, Germany. As it was, the Soviet incurred U. S. skepticism. If Russia again offers haven to a neutral vessel seized by Germany, the Kremlin might well be asked to tell how she stands in 1939's war.

There was a strong hint of her position in another Flint aftermath. At Moscow, British Ambassador Sir William Seeds was given a note rejecting Soviet recognition of Britain's war contraband list because it violates international law and impairs neutral rights. Incredulous at such effrontery, a London spokesman blurted: "Fantastic!"

CONGRESS: Victory, Then What?

If an isolationist filibuster was really delaying action on the neutrality bill, the City of Flint incident (See MARINE) was enough to end it. Next day the senate agreed to allow each speaker 45 minutes for the bill and an extra 45 minutes for each amendment. Lashed by acid-tongued John Nance Garner, who rebuked the senate for being a "horse-and-buggy outfit," battling solons called a truce to approve amendments (1) banning 90-day credits to either belligerent nations or their residents and (2) lifting shipping restrictions against American boats in the Pacific (except armament). Bermuda, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Tasmanian sea and Capetown. Rejected was an amendment to make President Roosevelt sole judge of the necessity for invoking neutrality. There was good chance another amendment would pass: To forbid any belligerent ship from flying the U. S. flag as defense against a foe.

As early as two days before the senate's final vote, Isolationists Borah and Nye conceded administration forces a two-thirds victory. But they were more hopeful about the house, where neutrality would run against pretty strong opposition. An attempt to invoke parliamentary rules (preventing amendments to the senate bill) was conceded little chance by argumentative representatives.

PEOPLE: Dies Coup

At Washington, Texas' Red-baiting Rep. Martin Dies achieved publicity with his list of 563 U. S. employees who are on a "membership and mailing list" of the pinkish American League for Peace and Democracy. In the house an argument brewed over the suggestion by Washington's Rep. John Coffee that Dies' un-Americanism committee be disowned for insinuating that all 563 federal employees were Communists.

At Phoenix, Ariz., the state insane hospital announced Winnie Ruth Judd, notorious trunk slayer of 1931, had escaped leaving a note: "I'm only going to see my father and my husband ..."

NEWS QUIZ

Know your news? Deduct 20 points for each of the following questions you miss. One hundred is perfect; anything below 40 shouldn't be bragged about ...

1. At Muncie, Ind., a young man said: "We wouldn't do it again for a million dollars. Our legs became too stiff to operate the plane properly." To what was he referring?
2. Choice: New head of the wage-hour administration is (a) Elmer Andrews, (b) Fiorella LaGuardia, (c) Clark Gable, (d) Col. Philip Fleming.
3. For what purpose is the U. S. building 41,000 huge steel bins in the midwest hog-raising states?
4. What European nation (the only one to pay its war debt) is trying to arrange a loan or credits from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to acquire agricultural commodities in the U. S.?
5. Why was President Roosevelt reprimanded for going to church?

(Answers at bottom of column.)

BUSINESS: Big Stick

At South Bend, Ind., the U. S. anti-trust suit against General Motors (for allegedly forcing dealers to use G. M. A. C. financing) went to the jury. In Washington three other prominent anti-trust actions were in the mill: (1) against the American Medical association, being appealed once more; (2) against Chicago area milk dealers, being weighed in the Supreme court; (3) against building trades, which may mushroom into a nation-wide probe. mission and the senate's temporary national economic committee. A fifth case, against certain motion picture interests, was blossoming in the West.

Against this background Trust Buster Thurman Arnold popped a new issue: In District of Columbia federal court the justice department filed complaints charging the Association of American Railroads and 236 individual roads with violating the Sherman act. The charge: That member roads refused to co-operate with motor carriers in hauling freight and passengers.

Cause for action was an A. A. R. resolution of June 25, 1937, which declared public interest would be served "if railroads refrained from establishing with motor carriers through routes or joint rates or fares which invade territory not served by such railroad and which is already served by one or more other railroads."

In Washington, A. A. R.'s President J. J. Pelley "welcomed the action in order that there may be one and for all ... determined to what extent the railroads are permitted ... to declare sound policies consistent with the public interest."

WHITE HOUSE: Boys Stay Home

Addressing the New York Herald-Tribune forum on current events, President Roosevelt added his thoughts on America's responsibility in Europe's war. He exhorted "orators, commentators and others beating their breasts and proclaiming against sending the boys of American mothers to fight."

Commented he: "Such statements constitute one of the worst fakes in current history. It is a deliberate setting up of an imaginary bogeyman. The simple truth is that no person in any responsible place ... has ever suggested ... the remotest possibility of sending the boys of American mothers to fight on the battlefields of Europe."

C'EST LA GUERRE! Uncle Sam Seeks New Blood For Enlarged Armed Forces

Until Europe's war began, the U. S. planned an average army of 179,000 men this fiscal year. President Roosevelt's "limited emergency" boosted it to 227,000. Thus, throughout the nation, recruiting officers are trying to raise their quotas, anxious for enrollees yet particular whom they take. These quotas show what a recruit may expect. Above: An officer, having cornered two prospects, takes them back to the office for further discussion. "Strong back" soldiers are no longer wanted; the army needs intelligent men in this day of mechanization.

Recruits are given forms to fill out. If over 21, parents' consent is not needed. Applicants between 18 and 21 must have their parents' consent. From all, the army demands character references. Physical examinations come next, and after enlistment medical officers are constantly looking after the soldier's health.

Our enrollees find at their first meal that the army hardly offers a "Hollywood reducing diet." U. S. soldiers are the best fed in the world. Also the best clothed, getting new clothes "from the skin out." Civilian clothes can be worn when on pass.

Neatness and orderliness is stressed. Even the trunk lockers are packed uniformly. This is one way of inculcating discipline, which army officers insist never hurt anyone.

Rifle drill and other recruit instruction, fundamentals of military service, are taught every enrollee no matter what branch he eventually enters. Even quartermaster corps men learn first to be soldiers before starting their special training. Within a few months these raw recruits will be seasoned soldiers, ready to choose their career in the army which Uncle Sam hopes will be one of peace.

Mental Cases Now Receive Physical Test

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

AN INMATE of a New Jersey state mental hospital, who had been in the institution for two years, had some infected teeth removed. Within two months she was considered normal and was able to return home. The superintendent was so much impressed that he had dentists, nose and throat and other specialists make a thorough examination of all the patients and by removal of infection and correction of physical defects, about 40 per cent of the inmates were allowed to go home.

Today, practically every large mental hospital has a staff of resident or visiting specialists who are able to remove or correct conditions that have or might have an effect upon the mind. Notwithstanding these brilliant results, it will be seen that in the majority of mental patients, infection or physical defect is not the cause of their mental symptoms. There is some other cause and it must be sought and, if possible, removed.

Fortunately, the general practitioner today has not the feeling of helplessness in handling mental cases as physicians of a few years ago, who, if a patient said foolish things or acted strangely, referred him at once to the mental specialist. Now the physician makes a thorough examination and calls in the dentist or other specialist if necessary. Having found no infection or defect that could possibly account for the foolish sayings or strange actions, he may, by patient questioning, be able to find how, when and where the "odd" behavior got its start.

Specialist Is Important. However, just as he recognizes the ability of the dentist, the throat specialist, the heart specialist and other specialists in each of their prospective fields, he recognizes also the ability of the mental specialist to search in a deeper or surer way for the hidden or long forgotten circumstances that are causing the patient to try to avoid responsibilities, necessary duties or even dangers.

The mental specialist being now reasonably sure that there is no infection or other physical cause for the behavior symptoms, begins his long, patient and thorough search that may enable him gradually to unwind the tangled skein. The search may go back to childhood, to teen age, and often to more recent circumstances which have taken the fight out of the patient and caused the development of a behavior that is unsuitable to our everyday life.

Massage Helps Rheumatic Headache

When physicians have already found over 100 causes for headache, it can readily be seen that unless the patient can describe the nature of the pain—stabbing, throbbing, dull, sharp, exact place on or in his head—it may require considerable time to discover the cause. Even when the pain is only in the forehead, it may be due to eye strain, sinus infection, gas pressure or other conditions.

There is one type of headache that appears to be more common than formerly and that is pain in the muscles covering the head, extending down into muscle at back of neck. This is frequently a symptom of influenza and when the individual has been exposed to a draft at home, office, theater or motorcar. However, this pain in muscles of the scalp and back of neck may be due to rheumatism as described by Dr. James Cyriax in the British Medical Journal.

"The patient has often had previous attacks of rheumatism and an attack of influenza or a cold occurs before the onset of the headache. As a rule, the headache is present on waking and moving the head, keeping neck rigid, does not aggravate or increase the pain in the head as in other kinds of headache.

Two Main Groups. These rheumatic headaches may be separated into two groups: Pain in the head from the neck muscles, and pain in the head due to the thin layer of muscle called the scalp. Rheumatic headache does not appear to start in the forehead. The treatment for rheumatic headache as suggested by Dr. Cyriax is massage. Massage must be given daily until the symptoms have gone. Sometimes little nodules or lumps are present and massage in most cases breaks these down. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

What's in a Name?

IN CHINA, the more distinguished a man is, the shorter is his title. One might wonder how Mr. Burionagonator-ecagageazcoecha (it's his real surname, believe it or not) would rate in that far-off land. But then Mr. Burionagonator-ecagageazcoecha, etc., is not a Chinaman, but a Spaniard of Madrid. Wonder what he was called for short at school.

Mr. Konstantinow Georgin Kalochristianakis, a Greek immigrant of Spokane, Wash., found the burden unbearable, so he recently obtained permission to change his name to Gus Elf. Well, that lightens the load considerably.

Honored by Gems

Several kinds of gem stones have been named after persons, among them being the alexandrite, which bears the name of the Russian emperor, Alexander II (1818-1881); the kunzite, which was named after the American gem expert, Dr. George F. Kunz (1856-1932); and the morganite, which was named in honor of the American financier, J. P. Morgan Sr. (1837-1913).—Collier's.

Bureau of Standards

A BUSINESS organization which wants to get the most for the money sets up standards by which to judge what is offered to it, just as in Washington the government maintains a Bureau of Standards. You can have your own Bureau of Standards, too. Just consult the advertising columns of your newspaper. They safeguard your purchasing power every day of every year.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

New York's latest big free show is rapidly reaching its last act. It won't be long before the old Hippodrome, a Sixth avenue landmark, like so many of New York's buildings that formed links with the past, will be merely a memory. It is to be replaced by a structure, part of which is to be a garage. Thus a throwback to former times since, away back in the old days when New York was much newer, there was a street-car barn on the site of the Hippodrome. But what's on my mind at the moment is not history but the present. Next to watching a building going up, New Yorkers like to watch a building coming down. No matter how fast the tempo of the city presumably is, there are always those who can take enough time out from their regular business to inspect construction or demolition. So from the start, the wrecking of the old Hip has had its audience.

Among those who have seen the time-stained walls come down have been many who knew the Hip not as customers of the box office or mere passersby but as performers. Among them was an ancient clown who drew $200 a week for his appearances there but who is now living on charity. There were those who took part in the great spectacles and who know why girls who apparently marched into the great pool did not get wet. They simply went down a stairway. There have been also those who took part in more recent productions, the great "Passion Play" presented by Morris Gest, and the still more recent "Jumbo." And pugs and wrestlers from the last days of the Hip still hang around.

In their eagerness to see construction or demolition, New Yorkers, wise though they are supposed to be, forget the safety factor altogether. That's why when a building is going up or coming down there is a roof over the adjacent sidewalks. Safety is also the reason why there is usually a tight board fence around the job. If it weren't for that fence, a lot of New Yorkers would be buried under bricks or find themselves in a hole.

The ever-present curiosity of New Yorkers concerning building wrecking was well illustrated when the old post office building, next to City Hall park, reached the end of its days. Daily hundreds stopped on Broadway or Park Row to see what was going on. That was one of the better big shows. The old post office building was built of granite and was so tough ordinary methods made no impression. So a big steel ball was used to break down the walls.

Long after the steel ball had ceased swinging, New Yorkers were still interested in what was going on. One afternoon I noticed a long line waiting to peek through a hole in the high green fence. All that could be seen was a hole in the ground. I know that is true because it took me a full half hour to get up to the opening.

An incident observed the other afternoon on the way to Grand Central bears out an assumption that New York's alleged hurry is more or less bunk. A man who looked to be a typical, time-harassed New Yorker, instead of waiting for the light at Sixth avenue, dodged into the street and, after narrowly escaping being mowed down by taxis and trucks, reached the library side in safety. Then, instead of hurrying on his way, he sauntered into Bryant park, sat down on a bench, lighted a cigar leisurely and started to read a newspaper.

A midtown school employs as instructors three Russian princes who, because of the changed conditions in their country, have been forced to turn their knowledge of ballroom dancing into a means of livelihood. Employed in the same building is a Russian grand duke. He made the mistake, however, of not learning to dance so he is only a porter. Yet when nobody happens to be about, the three princes still salute their former superior.

Jackrabbit Lands High

ALTURAS, CALIF.—The three best theories of how a jack rabbit got stretched across the telephone wires here and short circuited them were as follows: First and least probable that it jumped there; second, that an automobile struck the rabbit and hoisted it there; third that a hawk carried it off and dropped it there.

Housewives Lose Out To Male Cake Baker

SACRAMENTO, CALIF.—California housewives were humbled in their own domain, the kitchen, when a mere male took more first places than any woman in amateur baking competition held at the California State fair.

Harry S. Franks, of Manteca, won first places with his chocolate cake, pound cake and nut bread; second with panocha, and third with filled cookies, gingerbread, and prune pie.

'Zoned' Sidewalks Encourage Friendly Loafing

Energetic pedestrians of Louisburg, N. C., may claim the sidewalk's center lane, but space at right and left is reserved for those who like a bit of friendly loafing. A tobacco auction town, in some seasons it is crowded by farmers who like to visit for a spell. Pictures at left and upper right show the more ambitious citizens in the center lane, while lower right shows a young couple occupying the corner drug store sidewalk space thoughtfully provided by the "zoning" ordinance.

A vicious plant is this meat-eating Venus fly-trap, found only in North Carolina bogs. Here an innocent bee unknowingly approaches his doom. Six tiny hairs inside the doubled leaf act as triggers when disturbed, causing the leaves to come together, thus trapping its prey.

Here is poor Bernard Bee after lighting inside the fly-trap and disturbing its "triggers." The leaves fold swiftly together, imprisoning the victim with stiff bristles.

This action causes digestive juices to flow, and the hapless bee will be nothing more than a skeleton in a few hours. He will have been devoured by the plant. An enigma, the Venus fly trap shows the transition between plant and animal life. Gardeners have had very little success growing the plant in other environments.

Tippling Melons May Provide New Alibi

Alibis for an alcoholic breath may take a new twist if melon growers adopt the technique developed by Samuel Untermyer of New York. He gives his melons any desired alcoholic flavor by binding a small bottle of liquor to the stem of the growing plant. The plant absorbs the liquor through a tiny tube in its stalk.

'Dog Show' Behind France's Front Line

An army may march on its stomach, as Napoleon once observed, but its feet have quite a bit to do with the ground covered. Here British troops line up for foot inspection behind the front lines in France, and the grinning Tommies exhibit their "dogs" to the commanding officer, who, like all British army officers, watches carefully his men's feet.

U-Boat Raid on U. S. Recalled

Lone Successful Attack on American Shipping by German Submarine.

ORLEANS, MASS.—Renewal of German submarine attacks on merchant shipping in the present war recalls the lone successful raid on United States coastwise shipping in the World war.

The raid occurred July 21, 1918, two miles off this Cape Cod town and resulted in a loss of $945,000.

It was Sunday morning and bathers were enjoying the calm, warm waters. Others lolled on the beach, some watching a tug steadily towing three barges southward.

A cry from a sharp-eyed bather suddenly drew the attention of all on the beach to the tug.

A black object had risen above the surface and the booming of a cannon was heard. Binoculars were trained on the strange sight off shore and spectators quickly identified the object as a German submarine.

Attacking with determination but without accuracy, the U-boat fired three torpedoes—none reaching its mark. Its deck gun made an occasional hit, but one shot was so wide that it landed close to the spectators on shore.

Escaped in Boats.

Three women and five children were among the 41 persons aboard the tug and barges, but they escaped harm. During a lull in the attack, they escaped to small boats.

For nearly two hours the submarine's deck gun rained shells on the tug and barges before the craft started to founder. Shrapnel seriously wounded Captain Ainslie and two crew members, John Botovick and John Vitz.

Vitz's hand was severed by a flying piece of steel, while part of Botovick's arm was blown away.

Word of the attack meantime had been sent to the Chatham air station and three seaplanes appeared on the scene. What followed was ineffective but amusing.

Instead of dropping bombs on the U-boat, the pilots flung out hammers, screwdrivers and other tools available from their kits. They hoped to damage the periscope of the submersible, but not a hit was called.

Hours later more hydroplanes and patrol boats had reached the scene, but the submarine was not to be found.

Care for Wounded.

The wounded were removed to the coast guard station and Dr. James P. McCue was summoned from Orleans. He walked a mile and a half over sand dunes to reach the station and there found complete confusion.

The casualties had been given first aid but they needed further attention. They were placed on mattresses and carried over the dunes to a boat, rowed across the river, and placed in the doctor's car which carted them to the McCue home.

Their wounds were dressed and an ambulance moved them to the Massachusetts General hospital in Boston.

The summer visitors to the Cape gathered in small groups, talked excitedly for a while of the unusual sight they had seen, and then resumed their restful routine.

Experts Report Progress On Plans for Space-Ship

LONDON.—Designs for the construction of a "space ship" in which scientists hope one day to be able to travel to the moon, are published in the current issue of the Journal of the British Interplanetary society.

That a lunar voyage will be possible in the not too distant future is the belief of a group of men who are working steadily and unobtrusively toward their goal, states an accompanying article which gives some idea of their progress.

The pioneers point out the necessity for extensive ground experiments before the construction of a space ship could be undertaken.

Books Still Stained With Blood of Jean Paul Marat

BATON ROUGE, LA.—It may not be the most expensive autograph in the world, but it possibly is the most unusual—that which is composed of the blood of Jean Paul Marat, French physician and scientist of the Eighteenth century.

The autograph, as it is called, is the blood of Marat which fell on a copy of Pere Labat's "Voyages de l'Amerique" when he was stabbed by Charlotte Corday in 1793. The book is part of the collection of Louisiana State university.

Bogus Money Is Found In British Prison Cell

LONDON.—Changing of a counterfeit bill in a Newport, Isle of Wight, club led to the discovery of 12 more imitation notes in a cell in Parkhurst prison. The bills were found when a convict serving a sentence for forgery was removed to the hospital. Further search revealed that camera lens, plates and a quantity of sensitized paper had been stolen from the photographic department.

Prison officials are trying to learn how the bill got out of the prison and into circulation.

Patterns Practical As Well as Smart

NO. 1840. Do you take a large size? Then the beautifully long-line dress (1840) is one that you should make up right away. With slenderizing panels, it has the high-bosomed, narrow-hipped effect most becoming to you. It's smart for afternoon wear and every day, too. Make it of wool broadcloth, wool crepe or faille, with the vestee in contrast, or choose crepe-satin, using the crepe side for the dress and the satin for the vestee—a new and smart combination.

With Slight Military Air. No. 1839. For juniors, the basque-waisted frock with flaring skirt (1839) is ideal to wear to school and to business. The little-boy collar enables you to keep it always fresh and new-looking, and it's such an easy style to make. This tailors beautifully in wool plaid, challis, velveteen or wool crepe.

The Patterns. No. 1840 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4 3/4 yards of 39-inch material with long sleeves; 4 1/2 yards with short; 3/4 yard for vestee.

No. 1839 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19. Size 13 requires 2 1/2 yards of 54-inch material with long sleeves; 2 3/4 yards with short; 1/2 yard for collar in contrast.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strains on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body wastes. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

We made decorations for our Halloween party.

Grammar Room—Leola Lake and Evelyn Cross.

Friday, October 6, we journeyed out to Londo school and played softball, the score being 7 to 5 in favor of Londo school. The batteries were: Londo—Clyde Ranger and Percy Wormer and Elden Bannister.

Thursday, October 5, we had a "weiner" roast and initiated the newcomers.

Monday, October 30, we had our Halloween party, we wore masks.

For art we have been making things for Halloween, and also are drawing maps and beef cattle.

Our honor students for this month are Dorothy Putnam, Bruce Greve, Betty Davis, Margaret Johnson and Byron Love.

High Room—Dorothy Johnson
The baseball team won their last game of the season by a nice margin, 16 to 7, defeating Rose City on the latter's diamond.

We had a short vacation October 12 and 13 because of the Teachers' Institute at Flint.

On the honor roll for the first six weeks are: Tenth Grade—Olive Thompson, Veta Huzinski, Velvoo Thompson, Norma Greve, Thomas McCellan and Betty Brandal. Ninth Grade—Shirley Streeter, Robert Goodrow, Ellsworth Bernard, Elmer Kruse, Eva Glendon and Helen Reimer.

We had a Halloween party. Almost everyone has joined the 4-H Clubs. We intend to begin our work soon.

The first month of school the ninth grade had the highest per cent of attendance with 97.6%.

HALE P-T. A.

The regular meeting of the P-T. A. was held Thursday evening, October 19, in the high school room.

This meeting was presided over by Mrs. Florence Dooley, newly appointed President. Mrs. Wilbur J. Taylor was appointed Secretary to fill the office formerly held by Mrs. Aldrich. John Webb and Mrs. Olive Pearsal have retained their offices of Vice President and Treasurer respectively.

Moving pictures, showing conservation work and ways in which the American citizen may help to prevent forest fires, were shown by the National Forest Service of Silver Creek. Readings were given by Mrs. Dorsey and Mrs. Addie Schofield. A quartette was sung by Dorothy Johnson, Norman Greve, Bruce Greve and Norman Van Wormer, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Clarence Van Wormer. Refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be held November 16.

Legion Dance Armistice Night.
Always the best party of the year
at the Edgewater Inn, Saturday November 11.
Victor Herriman had what might have been a serious accident on Wednesday last week. While driving to Tawas City the steering gear
gave way and he crashed into a comment abutment near the Nelkie farm.
He was badly shaken up and received a cut on his face which required two
stitches.
The party given by the club women on Friday evening was well attended and a good time was had.
The Ladies Aid met with Mrs. N.
C. Miller on Thursday. The next meeting will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Frank Long. Each member holding coin cards is asked
to turn them in at the next meeting.
The many friends of Mr. and Mrs.
Lester Briggs are glad to learn that they are moving back to their home
on the East Branch.
Art Rogers spent a few days with his niece, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Martin,
at Cooks Dam.
The dance given by the County

Watts home.
Mr. and Mrs. Jay Thomas spent
three days at Midland last week
with their children, Mr. and Mrs.
Harry Anderson and Mr. and Mrs.
John Overly.
Greenwood Grange met on Wednesday evening at week with a seven o'clock supper. A real feed was served after which the meeting was called to order by James Chambers. Robert Cox was elected secretary for the only change in the officers for the coming year. The next meeting will be held November 8 with fun night.
Hale, Reno, Whittemore and Wilber
Granges are invited. Each Grange is expected to have a program and
to bring their own plate, cup and spoon.

Hemlock
Legion Dance Armistice Night.
Always the best party of the year
at the Edgewater Inn, Saturday November 11.
Victor Herriman had what might have been a serious accident on Wednesday last week. While driving
to Tawas City the steering gear
gave way and he crashed into a comment abutment near the Nelkie farm.
He was badly shaken up and received
a cut on his face which required two
stitches.
The party given by the club women on Friday evening was well attended and a good time was had.
The Ladies Aid met with Mrs. N.
C. Miller on Thursday. The next meeting will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Frank Long. Each member holding coin cards is asked
to turn them in at the next meeting.
The many friends of Mr. and Mrs.
Lester Briggs are glad to learn that
they are moving back to their home
on the East Branch.
Art Rogers spent a few days with
his niece, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Martin,
at Cooks Dam.
The dance given by the County
Road men was well attended Saturday night.
Mr. and Mrs. Roy Coats were Sunday dinner guests at the Robert
Watts home.
Mr. and Mrs. Jay Thomas spent
three days at Midland last week
with their children, Mr. and Mrs.
Harry Anderson and Mr. and Mrs.
John Overly.
Greenwood Grange met on Wednesday evening at week with a seven o'clock supper. A real feed was served after which the meeting was called to order by James Chambers. Robert Cox was elected secretary for the only change in the officers for the coming year. The next meeting will be held November 8 with fun night.
Hale, Reno, Whittemore and Wilber
Granges are invited. Each Grange
is expected to have a program and
to bring their own plate, cup and
spoon.
Everything for the home on display at Barkmans. adv.
Ted Durant returned Friday from New Jersey where he was employed for the summer. He left for Flint where he expects employment.
Mrs. L. D. Watts returned Saturday from a two weeks' visit in Flint.
Pete Stone, of Oscoda, called at the Chas. Brown home Monday.
Mr. and Mrs. Lester Perkins spent
Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs.
Chas. Brown.
A number of the ladies attended

Apologue, a Story
An apologue is a story or relation of fictitious events intended to convey some useful truth. It differs from a parable in that the latter is drawn from events that pass among mankind, whereas the apologue may be founded on supposed actions of brutes or inanimate things. Aesop's Fables furnish excellent examples of apologues.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Fitting Candles.—A candle may be made to fit any candlestick if dipped for a moment into very hot water. This will soften the wax and it can then be easily pushed in.

Care of Lamp Shades.—Silk and parchment lamp shades should be dusted frequently with a soft brush or the vacuum cleaner.

When Baking Apple Pies.—To prevent the juice in apple pies from boiling over during baking, mix the apples and sugar and let them stand covered for five minutes, then drain off the juice from the apple slices.

Improving Veal Roast.—Veal roasts are improved by rubbing them with powdered ginger, black pepper and onion salt before cooking.

Cleaning the Coffee Pot.—To keep a coffee pot sweet and clean, put a tablespoon of bicarbonate of soda into it, fill it nearly full of water and let it boil for a little while. Then rinse very thoroughly with warm water several times. This should be done once a week.

Shoes That Pinch.—If a patent shoe pinches any part of the foot, a rag well soaked in boiling water should be placed over the part. If this is done while the foot is in the shoe, the leather will soften to the shape of the foot.

Lengthening Short Blankets.—If blankets have become too short by shrinkage or mending they can be lengthened by sewing at one end a strip of muslin 12 to 18 inches wide. This extra length will tuck in under the mattress at the foot and leave the woolen part on top of the bed.

Blending Fruit Juices.—Grapefruit juice blends well with pineapple and raspberries. This combination is good served as a cocktail or partially frozen for dessert.

How To Relieve Bronchitis

Bronchitis, acute or chronic, is an inflammatory condition of the mucous membranes lining the bronchial tubes. Creomulsion goes right to the seat of the trouble to loosen germ laden phlegm, increase secretion and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding that you are to like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued

Jane sat huddled in her chair, panting a little, her eyes wide. "Silly," she said with a sob. The sound of her voice echoed and re-echoed, "Silly, silly, silly." The noise without was deafening—the wind shook the walls. She stood up, her hands clenched, then ran swiftly into the hall.

A thundering crash and the lights went out. She heard Frederick calling, "Jane, Jane!"

She called back, "I'm here," and saw the quick spurt of a match as he lighted it, holding it up and peering into the dark.

"There you are, my dearest." He lighted another match and came towards her, as Waldron, with a brace of candles, appeared in one door and Baldy and Edith in another.

Frederick lifted Jane in his strong arms. "Why, you're crying," he said; "don't, my darling, don't."

Then Baldy came up and demanded, "What's the matter, Kitten? You've never been afraid of storms."

She tried to smile at him. "Well, I've gone through such a lot lately." But Baldy wasn't satisfied. A Jane who dissolved into tears was a disturbing and desolating object. He glowered at Frederick, holding him responsible.

At this moment Waldron re-appeared to say that Briggs had pronounced the streets impassable. Branches had been blown down—and there was another wreckage.

"That settles it," Frederick said. "You two young things may as well stay here for the night. Jane's not fit to go out anyhow."

"Oh, I'm all right," she protested. Edith suggested bridge, so they played for a while. The big room was still lighted by the candles, so that the shadows pressed close. Jane was very pale, and now and then Frederick looked at her anxiously.

"You and Edith had better go up," he said at last. "And you must have Alice get you some hot milk—I'll send Waldron with a bit of cordial to set you up."

She shook her head. "I don't want it."

"But I want you to have it." There was a note of authority which almost brought her again to tears. She hated to have anyone tell her what she should do. She liked to do as she pleased. But later, when the glass of cordial came up to her, she drank it.

She did not go to sleep for a long time. Edith sat by the bed and talked to her. "I shouldn't," she apologized; "Uncle Fred told you to rest."

Jane curled up among her pillows, and said rebelliously, "Well, I don't have to obey yet, do I?"

"Don't ever obey," Edith, in her winged chair with her Viking braids and the classic draperies of her white dressing-gown, looked like a Norse goddess. "Don't ever obey, or you'll make a tyrant out of him."

"But I hate—fighting." "You won't have to fight. I do it because it's my temperament. But you can manage him—by letting things go a bit—and coaxing will do the rest."

"I don't want to manage—my husband," said Jane.

"All women do—"

"Would you want to manage—Baldy?"

Edith flushed. "That's different," she evaded.

"Not different. You know you wouldn't go through life with him, pulling wires, making a puppet of him—of yourself—you want comradeship—understanding. You'll flare up now and then. Baldy and I do. But—oh, we love each other." Jane's voice shook.

Edith looked at her thoughtfully. "Jane, are you happy?"

"I ought to be—"

"But are you?"

"I'm tired I think. I don't know. Ever since I came home I've been nervous. Perhaps it is the reaction."

"Jane, I'm going to say something. Don't marry Uncle Fred unless you're—sure. I went through all that with Del. And you see how little I knew of what I had in my heart to give—" She stopped, her lovely face suffused with blushes. "I've learned—since then. And you mustn't make my—mistake. And, Jane dear," she leaned over the younger girl like some splendid angel, "don't worry about material things. Baldy and I will want you always with us—"

Jane sat up. "Are you going to marry Baldy?"

"I am," sighing a little, "some day, when his ship comes in. He isn't willing to share my cargo—yet."

"He loves you," said Jane, "dearly."

Edith bent down and kissed her. "I know," she said, "and my heart sings it."

When Edith went away, they had not touched again on the question of Jane's marriage. Jane, lying awake in the dark, reflected that of course Edith could not know of her debt to Frederick. No one knew except Baldy.

In the morning Towne had gone when Jane came down. She and Edith had had breakfast in their rooms—and there had been a great rose on Jane's tray, with a note twisted about the stem—"To my golden girl." Her lover had called her up by the house telephone, and had told her he was leaving for New York at noon. "A telegram has just come. I'll see you the moment I get back."

Jane had a sense of relief. She would have three days to herself. Three days at Sherwood—with the blossoming trees, and the mating birds, and Merrymaid and the kitten, and old Sophy with her wise philosophy—and Baldy on the other side of the little table—and Philomel singing . . .

Briggs took her out at noon, and Sophy came in to say, "Mr. Evans called you all up. He's back from New York. He says he'll come over tonight."

"The day was so perfect."

That was news indeed! Old Evad's little Jane got into the frock of faded lilac gingham and went about the house singing. Three days! Of freedom!

It was after lunch that she told the old woman, "I'm going down in the Glen—there should be wild honeysuckle—Sophy."

There were bees in the Glen and butterflies, and a cool silence. On the other side of the creek were pasture, and cattle grazing. But no human creature was in sight. Jane, walking along the narrow path, had a sense of utter peace. Here was familiar ground. She felt the welcome of inanimate things—the old willows, the singing stream, the great gray rocks that stuck their heads above the edges of the bank.

On the slope of the bank she saw the rosiness of the fowers she sought. She climbed up, picked the fragrant sprays and sat down under a hickory tree to make a bouquet. From where she sat she could view the broad stream and a rustic bridge just at a turn of the path.

And now, around the turn of the path, came suddenly a man and two boys. They carried fishing-rods and stopped at a jutting rock to bait their hooks. One of the boys went out on the bridge and cast his line. His voice came to Jane clearly.

"Mr. Follette, there's a thing I hate to do, and that's to bait my hook with a worm. I'd much rather put on something that wasn't alive. Why is it that everything eats up something else?"

Jane peered down at the man poised on the rock. It was Evans! He was winding his reel against a taut line. "I've caught a snag," he said; "look out, Sandy, there's something on your hook."

As they landed the small catch with much excitement, Jane was aware of the strong swing of Evans' figure, the brown of his cheeks, the brightness of his glance as he spoke to the boys.

He gave the death stroke to the silver flapping fish with a jab of his knife-blade, and the boy on the bridge complained, "There you are, killing things. I don't like it, do you? Everything we eat? The woods are full of killing. It is dreadful when we think of it."

"It is dreadful," Evans sat down on the rock and looked across at the boy on the bridge. "But there are more dreadful things than death— injustice, and cruelty, and hate. And more than all—fear. And you must think of this, Arthur, that what we call a violent death is sometimes the easiest. An old animal with teeth gone, trying to exist. That's dreadful. Or an old person racked by pains. Much better if both could have been dead in the glory of youth."

He had always had that quick and vivid voice, but this certainty of phrase was a resurrection. He spoke without hesitation. Sure of himself. Sure of the things he was about to say.

"You boys needn't think that I don't know what I am talking about. I do. When I came back from France there was something wrong. I was afraid of everything. I lived for months in dread of my shadow. It was awful. Nothing can be worse. Then, one night I came to see that God's greatest gift to man is— strength to endure."

He flung it at them—and their wide eyes answered him. After a moment Arthur said, huskily, "Gee, that's great."

Sandy sighed heavily. "I saw a picture the other day of a boy who wanted to play baseball, and he had to hold the baby. I reckon that's what you mean. Most of us have to hold the baby when we want to play baseball."

The others laughed, then young Arthur said, "It looks to me as if life is just one darned thing after another."

"Not quite that," Evans stood up. "I'm afraid I'm an awful preacher," he apologized, "but you will ask questions."

"Most grown-ups don't answer them," said Arthur, earnestly; "they just say, 'Be good and let who will be clever.'"

"They'd better say 'Be strong,'" Evans was reeling in his line. "We must be getting towards home. Do you see those shadows? We'll be late—"

He stopped suddenly. There had been the crack of a twig and he had turned his eyes towards the sound. And there, poised above him, her hat off, the warm wind blowing her bobbed black hair, blowing, too, the folds of the lilac frock back from her slender figure, stood Jane . . .

He went charging up the bank towards her.

"My dear," he said, "my dear." That was all. But he was there, holding her hands, devouring her with his eyes.

Then he dropped her hands. "I thought you were a ghost," he said, a little awkwardly. "I called you up this morning and Sophy said you were in town."

"I came out at noon. The day was so perfect. I had to see the Glen."

"It is perfect. When I found you were out, I got the boys. I am taking a half-holiday after my trip."

He was talking naturally now, smiling at her as she stood beside him. She found herself trembling, almost afraid to speak again lest her voice betray her. She had been more shaken than he by the encounter. She wondered at his ease.

And so it happened that, woman-like, as they walked alone at last after the boys had left them in the little pine grove back of the house, that Jane said, "Evans, you haven't wished me happiness."

"No," he said, and his eyes met hers squarely. "I think you might spare me that, Jane."

She flushed. "Oh," she said, "I'm sorry."

He laid his hand for a moment on her shoulder. "Don't be sorry, little Jane. But we won't talk about it. That's the best way for both of us—not to talk."

He stayed to dinner, stayed for an hour or two afterwards—fitting himself in pleasantly to former niches. Jane could hardly credit the change in him. It was, she decided, not so much a resurrection of the body as of the spirit. His hair was gray, and now and then his eyes showed tired, his shoulders sagged. But there was no trace of the old timidity, the old withdrawals. He was interested, responsive, at times buoyant. The things she had loved in him years ago were again there. This man did not think dark thoughts!

When he went away, she and Baldy stood together on the terrace in the warm darkness and watched him.

"He still limps a little," Jane said.

"Yes. Shall we go in now, Jane?"

"No. Let's sit on the steps and see the moon rise."

They sat side by side. "When is Towne coming back?" Baldy asked.

"In three days."

Tree-toads were shrilling in monotonous cadence—from far away came the plaintive note of a whip-poorwill. But there was another plaintive note close at hand.

"Jane, you're crying," Baldy said, sharply. "What's the matter, dear?"

He put his arm about her. "What's the matter?"

"Baldy, I don't want to get—married. I want to stay with you—forever—"

"You shall stay with me."

She sobbed and sobbed, and he soothed her. "Little sister, little sister," he said, "you are crying too much in these days."

At last Jane spoke. "Dearest, I must marry him. There's no way out. He's done so much for me—and some day, perhaps, I'll love him."

CHAPTER XIV

It was after the day when she had met Evans in the Glen that Jane began to be haunted by ghosts.

There was a ghost who wandered through Sherwood on moonlights, a limping, hesitating ghost who said, "You're wine, Jane. I must have my daily sip of you."

And there was a ghost who came in a fog and said, "You are a lantern, Jane—held high."

And that ghost in the glow of the hearth-fire—"You are food and drink to me, Jane. Do you know it?"

Ghosts, ghosts, ghosts; holding out appealing hands to her. And always she had turned away. But now she did not turn. Over and over again she lent her ears to those whispering words, "Jane, you are wine . . . Jane, you are a lantern. . . . You are food and drink, Jane . . ."

Well, she was having her punishment. She had not loved him when he needed her. And now that she needed him, she must not love him.

She hardly knew herself. All the years of her life she had seen things straight, and she had tried to live up to that vision. She saw them straight now. She did not love Frederick Towne. She had no right to marry him. Yet she must. There was no way out.

Towne was aware of a difference in her when he returned from New York. She was more remote. A little less responsive. Yet these things caused him no disquiet. Her crisp coolness had always constituted one of her great charms. "You are tired, dearest," he told her. "I wish you would marry me right away, and let me make you happy."

They were lunching at the Capitol in the Senate restaurant. Frederick was an imposing figure and Jane was aware of his importance. People glanced at him and glanced again, and then told others who he was. Some day she would be his wife, and everybody else would be telling everybody else that she was the wife of the great Frederick Towne.

The attentive waiter at her elbow laid toast on her plate, and served Maryland crab from a silver chafing-dish. Frederick knew what she liked and had ordered without asking her. But the delicious food was tasteless.

Pure Bicarbonate of Soda Found in Lake Bed

Thick reefs of sodium, perhaps the first ever found in nature, have been identified by Dr. William F. Foshaq, Smithsonian Institution curator of mineralogy, from cores brought to the surface from depths of about 300 feet under an ancient California lake bed.

Used by housewives and dyspeptics for generations, sodium bicarbonate has always been a manufactured product, made from a base of ordinary table salt by a complex chemical process. A few years ago came the first reported discovery of any of the natural mineral.

It was detected by a British geologist by chemical analysis of material obtained in encrustations scraped from the wall of an ancient Roman aqueduct near Naples. It was declared a new mineral and given a name. Further tests have placed the discovery in some doubt, however, and the material identified by Doctor Foshaq may be rated as an original discovery.

It was found under the dried bed of Searles Lake, Calif., a treasure place for rare mineral combinations. There are about 150 feet of brine-bearing salt beds, deposited from the waters of an ancient salt lake. From these beds, by means of shallow wells, potash and borax are being recovered on a commercial scale. In the drilling of these wells a complex of minerals is obtained. Some time ago Doctor Foshaq suggested that drillings be made below the brine layers. When holes were driven to the 300-foot level it was found that layers of almost pure sodium bicarbonate and clay alternated. This time, Doctor Foshaq says, there is no question at all about the identification.

From samples obtained from the lower levels of the brine deposit Doctor Foshaq has also obtained another new mineral, hitherto known as an artificial chemical compound, which has been named "burkeite." It is a double sulfate and carbonate of sodium, occurring in small quantities.

Preparing Wood Pulp

Wood pulp is prepared in two different ways, mechanical and chemical. In the mechanical method, wood is simply fed to a wet grindstone, and the fibers are torn loose and floated away as pulp. The chemical process employs acid or alkali, in which the wood chips are cooked until they reach the desired consistency.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for November 5

RIGHTEOUSNESS IN THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 5:17-20, 38-45; 6:1-4. GOLDEN TEXT—Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect.—Matthew 5:48.

"Righteousness in the kingdom," the title of our lesson, properly relates its teaching to the kingdom of the Messiah which is to come on the earth, and to the condition which shall then prevail. At the same time we agree with Dr. James M. Gray that "it would be wrong to press this too far and to say that the Sermon on the Mount has no application whatever to the Christian church or the time in which we live, for God is the same through all dispensations and the underlying principles of His government never change."

Certainly it is true that if all of the men and all of the nations of the earth were on this Armistice Sunday true followers of Christ and ready to carry out the teachings of this lesson, there would no longer be any possibility of war. This means that the best peace propaganda is the sending of missionaries and teachers to all the earth to win men to Christ.

Our lesson should be studied and taught with great care lest we confuse morality with Christianity and make it appear that men are justified before God by their good works rather than by their faith in Christ.

I. Christ Fulfills the Law (5:17-20).

The law of God is eternal, never to be abrogated, never set aside. Christ Himself, although we might properly say that He was in reality the Law-giver and thus had power and authority over the law, indicated His purpose in coming to be that of giving the law its full meaning, not of destroying it. One could wish that those who profess to be His servants might have the same measure of regard for God's law. If they did, they obviously would not be so ready to ignore it, so quick to change it or explain it away, and far more ready to accept with their Master every "jot and tittle" that is, even the minutest detail of His Word.

Recognizing Christ as the fulfillment of the law should prepare one to manifest obedience to every moral precept through His grace and by His strength. Certainly it should not lead anyone to lawlessness or carelessness regarding details of the daily walk. Fellowship with the Saviour should be revealed in consistent living (v. 20).

II. Christ Explains the Law (5:38-45).

Look at verses 21 to 37. The spirit of murder is anger (vv. 21, 22). A lustful look is adultery (vv. 27-30), and it is better to be blind than to be guilty of it. Divorce is linked very plainly with adultery (vv. 31, 32). Swearing is forbidden (vv. 33-37). Thus Christ strips outward conformity to the law of its apparent virtue and reveals that with God it is the spirit that gives meaning to the act.

He goes on to make plain that God alone is wise enough to take vengeance, that we ought never to retaliate with evil for evil. Note that verse 39 probably refers to an insult rather than to physical violence; that in verse 40 it is a question of a difference of opinion in which the other man feels that he has a legal right to your coat; and that here, as in verses 41 and 42, it is not a matter of letting a wicked or scheming person defraud you of your rights or property, but rather of doing what is required of you in an ungrudging spirit and of being generous with others who are in need. In Christ we are to be like our heavenly Father and love our enemies (vv. 43-45).

III. Christ Illustrates the Law (6:1-4).

Possibly it would be more appropriate for us to say that Christ here illustrates the right and the wrong way of fulfilling the law. How very clear He makes it that the one who, while ostensibly doing the will of God, actually is seeking the recognition and glory of men has received his full reward, for men have applauded his act of generosity. The transaction is complete and God has nothing to do with it at all. On the other hand, the one who gives in the spirit of Christ, not wanting men to know of his faithful stewardship (v. 4), and in fact making no reckoning of it himself (v. 3), may be certain that he has a heavenly Father who takes careful account of the loving deeds of His children and who will reward him, both in this world and in the world to come.

Memories of Happy Days

Why is it that the memory of some days in the past, unmarked by any striking event, always come to us like the breath of spring? It may be that on those days, in reward for some forgotten act, God drew us close to Him, and that we absorbed something of His eternal peace and happiness.

Strange Facts

Bath Trains Mouth Cries
Wound Prints

As most of the private houses in the towns of Transylvania have no baths, the Rumanian government now runs "bath trains" through this section. Equipped with tubs, hot water, soap and towels, they offer free bathing facilities.

The Chinese army awards a cash bonus, instead of stripes, to its soldiers when they are injured, privates getting $10, officers $40 and generals $100 for every wound.

Doc's Note Came Easy To Chemist—With Cash

An invitation to dinner had been sent to the new doctor. In reply the hostess received an absolutely illegible letter.

"I must know if he accepts or declines," she declared. "If I were you," suggested her husband, "I should take it to the druggist. They can always read doctors' letters."

The druggist looked at the sheet of notepaper which she had handed him, and without waiting for her explanation went into his dispensary and returned a few minutes later with a bottle which he handed over the counter.

"There you are, madam," he said. "That will be $1.50, please."

Correct Constipation Before—Not After!

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of emergency relief. Why let yourself suffer those dull lifeless days because of constipation, why bring on the need for emergency medicines, when there may be a far better way? That way is to KEEP regular by getting at the cause of the trouble.

HIGH SCHOOL

The European history class has just finished the study of the religious reformation of the sixteenth century. The objective of this study is to compare religions and to acquire greater religious toleration. Julius Musolf's name has been added to the perfect speed test honor roll. His speed was 35 word per minute.

The typing II classes are making a study of telegrams, cablegrams and radiograms.

Maps were made to show the dominating religions of the principle countries of Europe after 1648. The two best ones were made by Virginia Rapp and Ruth Herriman.

The lectures we had on Monday and Wednesday proved very valuable to the citizenship class. They are preparing special reports on the different kinds of religions existing today.

Our Juniors and Seniors are trying their skill at public speaking. Tuesday they gave extemporaneous speeches. They were given five minutes to outline their speeches.

Miss Melita Hutzell, Bureau of Education, Michigan Department of Health, Lansing, lectured to the high school Monday afternoon. She held separate conferences for the boys and girls Wednesday.

The Freshman class give book reports this week. This is a new experience for them.

Report cards were given out Wednesday of this week.

The American history class is reading a portion of James Madison's "The Constitutional Convention." Madison took notes of this convention during the day and then carefully wrote them up at night. He was the last member of the great convention of 1787 to die. After his death, his widow sold the notes he had taken to the U. S. Government and the government published them. A volume of this publication is in the high school library.

There will be a Junior-Senior bake sale at Moeller's store Saturday afternoon, November 4, at 2:00 p. m.

MUSIC

We tried sight reading in the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades this week, and the results were very satisfactory. It has taken loads of drilling and preparation all last year to train the people to sight read, and actually read music.

The fifth and sixth grades are now doing some good work in two-part songs.

Last Tuesday we had an assembly sing as part of a Hallowe'en celebration and we never realized that so many people could really carry a tune. It will be a good idea to have more of these assembly sings.

New music has arrived for instrumental duets, trios and quartets, and we plan to select groups for rehearsals very shortly.

The band has completed studies of Pantomime from "Alceste" by Gluck, "In Church" by Tschalkovsky, and a German Choral written in 1583.

SEVENTH and EIGHTH GRADES

The percentage of attendance this month in the eighth grade was 94.7%, in the seventh grade 92.3%.

Those on the honor roll this month Elmer Ogden, Neil Libka, Roy Landon, Hazel Galliker, Evelyn Colby and Maxine DePotty. Seventh grade—Donna Moore, Ardith Lake, Harold Bublitz and Marion Bing.

Lee Gregg has returned to school. He spent the summer and the first two months of school at Gains Michigan.

Ruth Westcott, Barbara Geodecke, Herbert Lincoln and Leroy Climes visited our room last week.

Our Hallowe'en party was a success. Those receiving prizes are Harry Rollin and Marion Bing for best costumes; Matilda Scholtz, Hazel Galliker and Agnes Toms for guessing correct number of candies in the jars; Hugo Wegner, George Westcott and Vernon Beaubin for pumpkin hunt, and march. Other games played were Happy as the Miller, Pig, and Virginia Reel. At the close of the party Mrs. Allen treated with candy bars.

FIFTH and SIXTH GRADES

Lewis Herrod entered the fifth grade Monday.

Everyone enjoyed the Hallowe'en party Tuesday afternoon. Prizes were won by Ines Ulman, Phyllis La Rue, Jack Rollin, Dwayne Leslie, Betty Brown and Betty La Rue.

Ruth Ulman had high score in a sixth grade arithmetic time test. Beverly Bigelow won at a spelling contest we had last Friday.

THIRD and FOURTH GRADES

Last Friday the fourth grade was given language tests. Highest marks were received by Corrie Lee Rutterbush and Donald Britting.

All pupils made Hallowe'en health charts on which a pumpkin was colored each day that both hands and fingernails were clean. All but four pupils were able to complete their charts within a week.

Nearly everyone in the room bought some candy at the last sale. We wish to complement the seniors. Their candy was delicious.

Our Hallowe'en party was a huge success. Donald Britting won the prize for having the nicest looking costume, and Marie Luce the funniest. Other prizes were won by Elizabeth Westcott, Donald Ginge- rich, Donald Britting, Paul Rutterbush, Milla Oisten and Gloria Wright.

PRIMARY

Mr. Giddings brought us a new ball and bat. We enjoy playing with them a great deal and thank Mr. Giddings for bringing them.

Hallowe'en is over and our party was lots of fun. Only two or three boys and girls were frightened at the witches and other funny people who came to spend the afternoon with us.
