The Rural Women's Study Club met for their November meeting Wednesday last week at the American Legion Hall at East Tawas. An enjoyable and instructive meeting was held with nineteen members present. The president, Mrs. Minnie Nelem, presided. The song, "Michigan, My Michigan," was sung and the Club Collect read. Roll call was responded to by giving a helpful hint in nursing. After the business session, Mrs. Virgil Butler gave a splendid report of the Federation of Women's Clubs at Bay City to which she was a delegate. She brought back many helpful ideas for the club work.

Plans are being made for a bazaar and Christmas boxes to be distributed locally. Our next meeting shall take place at the Vine school. A delicious lunch was served at the close of the meeting.

4-H LEADERS HELD BANQUET, HOTEL IOSCO

Meeting Held to Discuss Coming Winter Program

As a means of establishing uniformity among the 4-H Club groups of the county to assist among new leaders in planning their work, a leader training meeting was held at the court house in Tawas City Tuesday evening, November 7, at which time handicraft, clothing and hot lunch projects were the chief topics of discussion.

According to District Club Leader L. H. Rhodes the 4-H Clubs of Iosco county are rapidly organizing and laying plans for their winter activities. Thirty club leaders attended the meeting at which Miss Beatrice Bode, assistant state club leader, helped those interested in clothing and hot lunch projects with the planning of their work and gave many helpful suggestions for adding interest to the basic principals that in time lead to healthy happy people who may be proud of their seamstress' abilities.

P. G. Lundin, also assistant state club leader, discussed the Do's and Do Not's with the handicraft leaders and gave a very interesting illustrated talk which not only emphasized the proper handling of wood working tools but also expressed upon those in attendance that both future cabinet makers and others were being guided in another direction that might well pave a way to their future vocation. Handicraft articles which Mr. Lundin exhibited exemplified a great deal of hard work for young cabinet makers between the ages of 10 and 20 years. Some showed splendid workmanship while others were not so fine but were all examples of tasks that were started and later finished, a (Turn to No. 4 Back Page)

New Club Holds Banquet Last Tuesday Evening

About 30 members of the newly organized Tawas City Club enjoyed a fine dinner served Tuesday evening at the club rooms in the Davidson building. This was the first elaborate activity of the new organization and its members were pleased with the result. A similar dinner will be served at the next meeting, December 5.

Silver Creek Physician Held in Lottery Shakeup

Dr. Frank Deacon, physician at Silver Creek CCC camp, was arraigned Friday before United States Commissioner Otto J. Manary, charged with leasing a hospital in Chicago to the lottery ring. Deacon and three other Michigan men had been indicted by the Federal Grand Jury in Boston in the recent lottery investigation.

Dr. Deacon pleaded not guilty, denying any knowledge of the lottery ring and said that he had leased his 200 bed hospital on Clark street for supposedly legitimate purposes. His bond was set at $5,000.00.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK. — This department flushes a swarm of rumors about drastic changes in our naval building plans, said to have been induced by new problems of defense against planes and subs as disclosed by British disasters.

Bring Check on Our Naval Plans
So far as we can learn, there are impending some possible changes in personnel, and a general check and overhauling of work on new ships to date, but nothing revolutionary. It is indicated that there will be intensive studies and training in co-ordination of ships, planes and submarines.

At the highest peak of American naval construction in peacetime history, Rear Admiral Alexander Hamilton Van Keuren is made chief of the bureau of construction and repair. That puts him right in the wheelhouse of the navy efficiency drive, as this is the acid-testing bureau for fighting ships, and it bears the responsibility for their being sound and fit, structurally and in design. Defects have been found, and are being remedied in several 10,000-ton cruisers.

Admiral Van Keuren, a navy technician for 36 years, is one of the most highly rated specialists in naval construction. He smokes a drop-stem pipe, carries on easily and informally, and marshals engineering data with a precise mastery of detail. His previous post has been that of industrial manager at the Philadelphia navy yard. He is a dependable safeguard against pitted or pithy armor plate, such as we heard of years ago. He is a native of Michigan, graduated from Annapolis in 1903. His predecessor in the bureau, Rear Admiral W. G. Du Bose, becomes commander of the new model basin at Carderock, Md.

MAJ. GEN. DANIEL VAN VOORHIS, assigned to the supreme command in the Panama Canal Zone, is an officer up from the ranks who has been entrusted with many critically important assignments in the past—among them the guardianship of the bulk of the nation's $17,000,000,000 gold reserve, at Fort Knox, Ky. The fact of his selection is evidence of the crucial importance of the canal defenses, in the eyes of the high command.

From Zanesville, Ohio, he enlisted in the Tenth Pennsylvania infantry in 1898 and won a commission as second lieutenant in the Philippine insurrection. He is the army specialist in mechanized defense and attack, and just now the canal is a concentration of swift mechanization. In the World war, he was chief-of-staff at Brest, and holds the Distinguished Service medal, the Navy Cross, the Silver Star and the Legion of Honor decorations.

IN HIS new book, "The Defense of Britain," Capt. Liddell Hart, the British military expert, says, "Our chief risk of losing a war lies in trying to win the war." His general finding is that modern war cannot be supported in the style to which it has been accustomed, and observes that "War will only be ended when the power-lusting nations recognize its futility. The growing power of modern defense is bringing that prospect in sight."

In his preceding book, "Europe in Arms," published in August, 1937, he thought there was hope of ending war in the limitations of the military mind. Fat-headed generals would cling to gaudy mass attack and make war so stupid and ridiculous that anybody surviving would just forget it. But the trouble with a war expert is that you can't bottle him up, and other nations in the past have used him as a military consultant.

In the World war, a strippling just out of Cambridge, a captain and a war correspondent, he gave the generals a lacing to the limit of the censorship, and, although they growled menacingly, they took him into their counsels. He invented a lot of new trick plans, including the "indirect approach" and the "expanding torrent" system, and his reputation was well on its way before the war ended.

He has scolded many of the main panjandrums of the big war, in the post-war years, apparently with public approval, judging from the sale of his books. He was a war buddy of Lawrence of Arabia and insisted that this human cryptogram knew more about war than all the generals put together.

EUROPE: Double Feature

All Hallow's eve found every European ear cocked to Moscow, awaiting history-making utterances from Premier Viacheslav Molotov. Adolf Hitler had 1,500,000 men poised at the front; so did the allies. But war hung in abeyance. For as Russia swung so would the war, because every other European state had declared its status, neutral with leanings either toward Germany (like Italy and Hungary) or toward the allies.

Stolen Thunder

A few short hours before Molotov's speech, Il Duce Benito Mussolini pulled a coup that must have stunned his erstwhile colleague in Germany. Ousted was Propaganda Minister Dino Alfieri, close friend of Nazidom's Propagandist Paul Joseph Goebbels. Ousted were Fascist Secretary Achille Starace, close friend of Deputy Fuehrer Rudolf Hess and the man who gave a signal for the Italian chamber's demonstration against His demotion . . .

France last winter; Gen. Alberto Pariani, friend of Hitler's Col. Gen. Walther von Brauchitsch and author of the Italian "blitzkrieg" plan for a German-Italian-Spanish drive against France; Gen. Giuseppe Valle, friend of Field Marshal Hermann Goering. Replacing them were middle-of-the-roads like Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, chief of staff. Retained were other favorites like Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano (Mussolini's son-in-law) and Count Dino Grandi, minister of justice.

In Paris there was a feeling the Rome-Berlin axis had broken down completely. London was also happy, for a few hours earlier Italy's Ambassador Giuseppe Bastianini had made a strong anti-Communist speech. In the Balkans it was thought Mussolini disapproved Russia's expansionist policy, especially since Il Duce did not even wait until Molotov spoke. But in Italy it was a simple indication that Mussolini had his ear to the ground; Italians wanted no pact with the allies, they merely wanted strict neutrality.

Ominous Talk

First allied reaction to Premier Molotov's speech was relief over his failure to declare a military alliance with the Reich, even though he did charge Britain and France

RUSSIAN DEMANDS

The Soviet would give Finland part of Karelia (1) in exchange for moving back Finnish frontier northwest of Leningrad (2); Russia wants (3) islands of Seiskari, Hogland, Lavansaari and Tytarsaari; would lease land (4) at mouth of Finnish gulf for naval bases; asks for Finnish part of Rybach peninsula (5).

were warring not to preserve democracy or restore Poland, but to safeguard their world empires. But sober reflection made the allies wroth about:

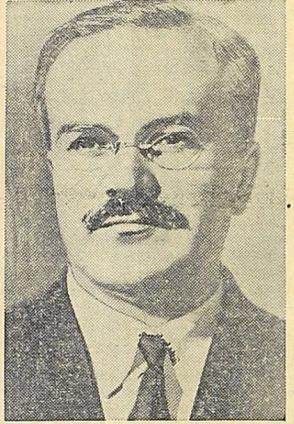

Finland. Molotov revealed, much to the Finns' chagrin, the stalemate proposals which have occupied these two countries for the past month. Besides a mutual assistance pact, Russia wanted territorial exchanges (see map) which Finland declared would "rob us of the chance of defending the independence . . . of our land."

Germany. He said Nazi-Russian friendship was getting thicker. Next day it was revealed trade discussions were going forward successfully. One report from Stockholm said Russian submarines would be given the Nazis in exchange for German merchant ships, providing a subtle way of staying "neutral."

Poland. He said there can be no question of restoring Poland and that it was absurd to continue the war for that cause. Two days earlier, Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain had acknowledged Russia's right of invasion to "protect" her Polish blood brothers from Germany.

Balkans. He gave no hint of expansion there, but shook a nasty finger at Turkey for signing mutual assistance pacts with the allies after shunning a treaty with the Soviet.

United States. He precipitated a heated argument which observers thought might end with severance of Soviet-U. S. diplomatic relations. Commenting on President Roosevelt's earlier note expressing hope for continued amicable Finnish-Russian relations, Molotov said: "One finds it hard to reconcile that with the American policy of neutrality . . . One might think that matters are in better shape between the United States and . . . the Philippines . . . than between the Soviet Union and Finland, which has long ago obtained both freedom and political independence . . ."

Next day, while Massachusetts' Rep. John McCormack demanded from the house floor that Ambassador Laurence Steinhardt be recalled from Moscow, the President dug from his files an exchange of notes with Soviet President Michael Kalinin last April, when Kalinin cabled an unsolicited "expression of profound sympathy" with the President's efforts to safeguard peace. This cable had come one day after Mr. Roosevelt sent peace pleas to Dictators Hitler and Mussolini. Thus the U. S. put Kalinin on record as supporting the President's peace efforts in contrast to Molotov's declaration. Suggested White House Secretary Steve Early: "It would seem that he (Molotov) had the embargo in mind rather than what he termed the President's moral support of Finland."

(Unspolighted, the neutrality bill wormed its way through the house which voted 237 to 177 for sending it to conference with the senate, conferees to have definite instructions. One instruction: To repeal the arms embargo, by a vote of 243 to 181. Thus congress expected to get out of town immediately. Britain hailed the repeal; Nazidom was enraged. One suddenly discovered danger of cash-and-carry is that the allies will indeed buy more arms but will cut other imports from the U. S. One Britisher thought imports of U. S. industrial products and foodstuffs may fall off $150,000,000 a year.)

Western Front

Abandoning purely defensive positions, German "shock troops" stormed the French frontier at scattered points as murky weather gave way to sunshine. Fears grew that Belgium and the Netherlands might be invaded. The Dutch proclaimed a state of siege in eight provinces, flooding frontier positions to check any Nazi advance.

At Sea

While the embattled U. S. S. City of Flint steamed carefully down the Norwegian coast to Germany under a Nazi prize crew, the U. S. asked both the Reich and Britain to protect her interned American crew. Washington also reported 27 U. S. ships have been detained by belligerents since the war began. The war at sea came too close to American shores when the British freighter Coulmore was reportedly torpedoed 450 miles off New England. Nazi planes and U-boats continued successful raiding of allied shipping, but Britain retaliated by naming Lord Nuffield (her "Henry Ford") to a key post in the air ministry. His instructions: To intensify the navy's North sea blockade against Germany.

By L. L. STEVENSON

Thousands of New Yorkers daily eat one or more meals standing up. Scattered about the city, especially midtown and downtown, are hundreds of places where there are no chairs or stools—just a counter around which the hungry line up. Luncheon brings the heaviest business. There is also a heavy breakfast trade, the emphasis on that meal being in midtown. At various subway stations, as well as along the streets, are little eateries where breakfast costs a dime—orange juice or some other fruit drink, a couple of doughnuts, or toast, and coffee. There are also 10-cent luncheons. They consisted of a frankfurter, or hamburger, and coffee. Then, too, there are the various soda fountains. Their trade, however, is largely feminine. And they usually have stools, though there are standing patrons.

2. What happened to Mrs. Homer Stout, Oklahoma farm wife who tried the "freezing" treatment for cancer?

3. True or false: The Mexican revolutionary party has asked for return of oil lands expropriated from American-owned companies.

4. Choice: Sen. James Mead of New York introduced a bill proposing that $139,000,000 be set aside by the treasury for small loans to: (a) business firms; (b) distraught farmers; (c) municipally owned power plants; (d) "little theater" groups.

5. True or false: No food rationing will be needed in Britain during the winter.

POLITICS: Candidate-of-the-Week

Rooseveltian third-term talk, which took a back seat in early days of the war crisis, loomed again in San Francisco when Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace boomed the President for re-election. Next day Secretary Steve Early made it clear that Franklin Roosevelt wanted no boom, and Iowa's Sen. Guy Gillette left a White House conference where the President had reportedly asked that Iowa's delegation to next year's convention go unpledged. The deduction: That Mr. Roosevelt will not seek re-election, and certainly wants the matter hushed for the present.

But Henry Wallace had started the political pot boiling again. Into the Republican picture jumped Oregon's Sen. Charles McNary, who tentatively consented to run. Into the Democratic picture jumped a brand new name, Montana's Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, who tried to win the vice presidency with the elder LaFollette in 1924.

Writing California's Gov. Cuthbert Olson to protest a meeting of "progressive leaders" scheduled next month in Salt Lake City, C. I. O.'s John Lewis gave, among other reasons: "The slight to Senator Wheeler and other great liberals of the west, who have not been consulted . . ."

Plenty of friends.

Lewis apparently considered the meeting (some of whose participants may be violating the Hatch "no politics" act) as a third-term boom. Certainly it was made clear that Senator Wheeler should be consulted in any future "liberal" discussions about 1940. Washington observers, realizing that Lewis support may be a kiss of death to any political aspirations the senator may entertain, nevertheless admitted he has A. F. of L. backing, a big railroad following and plenty of friends in the senate.

Canada to Send Mobile Force

Unit Will Be Smaller With Heavier Arms Than In World War.

OTTAWA.—Details of Canada's proposed expeditionary force show it will be a smaller but more mobile and more heavily armored force than the last one.

It had already been announced that Canada's active service force would consist of two divisions with ancillary troops such as medical and survey regiments. (A Canadian division numbers about 16,000 men.)

The announcement indicates the earlier idea of one "mobile division" has been dropped and that instead there will be two infantry divisions. They will conform, however, to recent reforms instituted by the British war office in the number and composition of such units.

Battalion Strength Reduced.

Battalion strength, for instance, has been reduced from 1,000 to 680 men. Cavalry has been mechanized into a modern scouting or skirmishing force. An anti-tank regiment has been added. Fire powers of artillery and machine guns has been greatly increased. Enough transport will be provided to carry at least half the divisional personnel.

Every rifle battalion, it is understood, will possess 52 light Bren machine guns in addition to those of the three machine gun battalions proper. Ten of these will be mounted on armored carriers.

The artillery will fire the new 25-pounder gun-howitzer instead of the old 18-pounder. There will be no tank battalions.

The division thus will consist of a mechanized cavalry regiment; 12 batteries of field artillery; an anti-tank battalion; three field companies, and a field park company of engineers and three companies of signals.

Smaller Than in 1914.

The total manpower of the 1936 divisions—16,000 of all ranks—will be 4,000 less than of the 1914 one. It will offer a smaller target while being able to direct a far heavier fire on the enemy. The units which comprise it have been drawn from coast to coast. One of them, the Twenty-second Regiment of Montreal—the famous "Van Doos," who won such a reputation for daring and tenacity in the last war—is French-Canadian.

The dress of officers and men, also the new uniform, with its belted waist and turned down collar, are said to be more serviceable and more comfortable. The old puttees have given way to a small six-inch canvas gaiter; brass buttons with their need for polishing have disappeared. Breeches have been replaced by slacks which fit into gaiters like skipnets, and there is a new wedge-shaped cap.

Walnut Tree Dispute Is

Nut for Judge to Crack

MODESTO, CALIF.—Here is a tough nut for a judge to crack:

John Jacobs asked the court, in a suit against Joe Anderson, to determine his share of the crop from 21 walnut trees standing on or near the line dividing plots of land owned by Anderson and himself.

If the trunks are on the boundary, Jacobs argued, each owner is entitled to an equal share of the walnuts, regardless of what proportions of the trunk or trees may be on the other's land.

However, if it is found that the trunks are wholly on Anderson's land and he is entitled to all the nuts, Jacobs wanted the court to give him permission to cut off any branches overhanging his land and any roots protruding into his property.

Infantile Paralysis May Be

Acquired Through Eyes

WASHINGTON.—Infantile paralysis may be acquired through the eyes.

Two scientists of Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, reported in the Scientific Monthly, journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, that they had been able to infect monkeys with the virus which causes poliomyelitis by dropping it in the eyes.

The usual mode of infection has been proved to be through the mucous membranes of the nose. Thence it spreads to the nerves of the spinal cord and brain, Dr. Howard A. Howe and Dr. David Bodian said.

The monkey experiments showed, however, that virus could find its way into the nose from the eyes through a tiny canal.

ONE-TWO-THREE-FOUR CAKES

See Recipes Below.

Let's All Have Tea

There's something so social about serving tea! Friends and neighbors drop in for a bit of rest and relaxation, conversation flourishes, and the whole house is aglow with hospitality.

Serving tea is one of the simplest and most gracious ways of entertaining — whether you invite one guest or fifty. It may be a cozy, informal affair with only a few "hand-picked" friends invited, and simple bread and butter sandwiches, with a cup of perfectly brewed tea for refreshments. Or, you may plan a much larger, more elaborate tea as a means of entertaining the Parent-Teacher association, the Garden club, or perhaps the Women's auxiliary of your husband's lodge.

Formal or informal, large or small, you'll find that beforehand preparations and carefully laid plans help to make this kind of entertaining easy. Admit the limitations of your budget, your equipment, your time and strength, and don't plan more than you can carry out comfortably and sensibly. Remember that a cup of tea and a slice of bread and butter can make a party if the tea is perfectly made, the bread enticingly thin, and the service dainty and attractive.

Keep sandwiches, muffins, cakes and cookies small and dainty. If your invitation list numbers a large number of guests, bake your favorite cakes in jelly roll pans, frost, and cut into small, diagonal pieces.

Ginger Cream Cakes.

To make these clever little cakes, use the thin gingersnap or cookie ordinarily sold on the market. Allow from three to five to a serving. Put together with sweetened whipped cream in the same manner as in frosting a miniature layer cake. Cover the top and sides generously with the cream, and chill thoroughly. Ground candied ginger may be sprinkled sparingly over the tops. One cup of whipping cream will make six cakes.

Orange Ice Cream.

1 tablespoon granulated gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 1/2 cups boiling water
1 1/2 cups orange juice
3/4 cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons orange rind (grated)
2 cups coffee cream
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 eggs (beaten separately)

Soak the gelatin in the cold water for five minutes. Dissolve sugar in boiling water and add to the gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Add the orange juice, or a n g e rind, lemon juice, coffee cream, salt, and beaten egg yolks. Fold in egg whites and pour mixture into freezing container of ice cream freezer. Assemble and cover. Then pack mixture of crushed ice and rock salt (use three parts ice to one part salt, by volume) around the freezing container. Turn crank slowly but steadily. When mixture becomes too stiff to turn, remove cover carefully, take out dasher, and pack down evenly with a spoon. Cover ice cream with wax paper and replace cover. Repack. Cover and allow to harden at least one hour before serving.

One-Two-Three-Four Cakes.

(Makes four dozen small cup cakes)
1 cup margarine
2 cups sugar
4 eggs (separated)
3 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
2 teaspoons flavoring
1 cup margarine
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup cream
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup cream
1/2 cup milk

egg yolks, and beat well. Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add flavoring. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in small, well greased muffin pans in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees) for about 20 minutes. Frost as desired.

Brown Bread Peanut Sandwiches

Slice Boston Brown bread very thin, spread with creamed butter, sprinkle generously with finely chopped salted peanuts.

Parsley Sandwiches.

Slice day-old bread 1/4-inch thick. Cut into rounds with a doughnut cutter, toast one side, and spread with parsley butter. To make parsley butter, cream butter, add lemon juice to taste, and finely minced parsley.

Banana Nut Bread.

1/4 cup butter
1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs
2 cups general purpose flour
1/4 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 cup chopped nut meats
1/2 cup wheat bran
1 1/2 cups mashed bananas
2 tablespoons sour milk

Cream butter and add sugar slowly, beating constantly. Add eggs—one at a time—beating thoroughly. Mix and sift the flour, soda, salt, and baking powder. Add nut meats and wheat bran to this mixture. Combine bananas and sour cream. Add flour mixture alternately with banana mixture—beating thoroughly after each addition. Bake in well-greased loaf pan in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about 1 1/4 hours.

Note: This bread is really better if sliced the second day. Delicious for sandwiches with butter or with unflavored cream cheese for filling.

Reception Cakes.

(Makes 90 two-inch cakes)
2 cups shortening (part butter for flavor)
4 cups sugar
16 egg yolks
9 cups cake flour
8 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
1 1/2 tablespoons orange or lemon extract

1. Cream the shortening; add sugar very slowly, beating well after each addition.
2. Beat the egg yolks until very thick, and add gradually to the creamed mixture.
3. Sift dry ingredients together, and add alternately with the milk and extract.
4. Pour the batter into large jelly roll pans, which have been greased and lined with wax paper.
5. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 minutes. Cool, and cut into diamonds.

Meaning of "California"
The name of the United States is reduced to its Spanish interpretation, it is very probable that the aggressive advertising of its climate would be largely nullified, for literally "California" is a combination of two Spanish words meaning "hot furnace," writes G. R. Turner in the Kansas City Times. "The Spaniards, who were the first white men to explore the state, gave to it this name because their interest was not in the cool verdant lands of the southwest, but in the hot arid sections of the interior where it was believed gold was to be found."

Great Dane, Boarhound
The fact that the Great Dane was called the boarhound gives a clue to its early use in Europe. It is generally conceded that this big dog was at one time employed to hunt wild boars, wolves, and bears. The breed survived the longest in Germany because there wild game was preserved after it had disappeared from the forests of England. And after the Danes were no longer used for hunting purposes German royalty kept Danes as companion dogs.

Giraffe Is a Browser

The giraffe wasn't made for grazing on ground forage; rather he is a browser, feeding on the foliage and tender shoots of trees.

Stew in Own Shade

There are few spots on earth where trees, and people and things like that have to stew in their own shade. But Tahiti is one of them when the noon hour rolls around. The sun is exactly at its zenith, and shadows fall so perpendicularly that the outline of each coconut palm is traced evenly around the base of its own trunk.—Detroit News.

Ancients Believed in Magic

Ancient man believed in magic. The primitive mind conceived that a cord tied about a woman's waist formed an exit through which her spirit could pass into the body of a man. From waist cord to ring was a simple step.

Old Superstition

In olden times it was a general belief that any child born in the last seven days of April would "die a wicked death." Among the superstitious the sixteenth and twenty-first were believed to be the unlucky days of April.

Large Colonial Plantations
There were many plantations in Virginia in the early days of 5,000 or more acres. Nicholas Hayward had a unit of 30,000 acres, and William Fitzhugh at one time owned a total of 45,000 acres.

A Billion
The United States and France call 1,000,000,000 a billion. In most other countries that is a milliard, while they give the name billion to what we call a trillion—1,000,000,000,000.

Stowing Ship's Canvas
Seventeenth century captain's orders to stow some of the ship's canvas: "Haul down the foretopgallant sail and maintopgallant sail! In with the spritsail! Let go the spritsail topsail sheets! Haul down the clew lines! In with the mizentopgallant! Cast off the foregallant bow lines!"

Books Painted in Colors
Books of the prehistoric Maya empire of Central America were written in hieroglyphics, painted in colors on parchment made from the leaves of the century plant.

Let's Not Fight

So they are fighting overseas again.
You can hear that battle cry.
Are we going to send our boys across
To be crippled and to die?

Mothers! Did you raise your boys to manhood
To be soldiers, and for wars
Or be free and independent
As the Great Maker intended them for?

Why should we fight Europe's troubles
Haven't we plenty of it near?
If we have to send our boys to fight
They can fight the Depression here.

And they wont need guns and bullets
And the boys can be shoveling dirt
Believe me it wont be for trenches
Thank God! It's W. P. A. work.

Mr. President, Senators and Statesmen
I helped put you on your job
Are you doing all you promised?
Keep on trying very hard.

We don't have to cross the ocean
To find plenty work to be done
And I am sure you'll understand it,
For it is not just play and fun.

Sure we all are craving action
And there is plenty here to do
Hold a special term of Congress
There is lots of home work for to do.

Let Europe have its war Boys.
If it's all the same to you
For I'm not interested in any flag
that waves,
Just our own Red, White, and Blue.

And if you can keep us out of trouble
Till this war is finally through
Mr. Roosevelt in the year of 1940
I will give my vote to you.
—Mrs. Chas. Rouillier.

Life of Buildings

The single-family dwelling has an expected useful life of approximately 50 years. The skyscraper of steel frame and fire-resister construction has an expected usefulness of only 40 years, and office buildings of ordinary construction are generally outmoded at 30 years.

of England has created a good deal of interest in the picture just being released in which Bette Davis plays the role of Queen Elizabeth. Our history class wonders how close it will stick to history. This period and the rule of the Stuarts gives a good background for the Bill of Rights included in our own constitution.

Telegrams, cablegrams, invoices, radiograms and statements are keeping the typing II class busy. They have actual forms to fill in such as they would have if they were typists in a small company. In a large company some of this work would be done with billing machines.

The English II class is writing a short story to climax their study of well known short story writers.

Religion is the topic on which the citizenship class has been reporting.
Foreign countries form the basis for the themes written in the English III class.

The botany class observed samples
Tuesday of alfalfa and red clover seed which have been shipped into this country. These samples had a certain percentage of the seeds stained to comply with an act of congress regulating the importation of certain seeds into the United States.

The seed from Canada is stained one percent violet, that from other northern climates is stained one percent green and the seed from southern climates is stained ten percent red.

SEVENTH and EIGHTH GRADES

The seventh and eighth grades were given the Monroe Standardized Reading test Thursday. In the seventh grade the three highest were, comprehension: Ardith Lake, Marion Bing and Wayne Hughes. Rate, Ardith Lake, Wayne Hughes and Katherine Westcott. In the eighth grade the highest were, comprehension, Hazel Galliker, Maxine DePotty and Neil Libka. Rate, Elmer Ogden, Hazel Galliker and Maxine DePotty.

The seventh grade made graphs
this week showing production of wool in the different countries of the world.

Evelyn Latham visited our room
Tuesday.

The seventh grade were weighed and measured Tuesday. They are going to make graphs to tabulate their findings.

The eighth grade had a test in civics Tuesday, Roy Landon, Maxine DePotty and Evelyn Colby had the highest score.

FIFTH and SIXTH GRADES

The fifth grade arithmetic class has begun the study of long division.
Jack Smith of Flint visited our room Monday.

We made pilgrim decorations for the windows Tuesday.

Neil Thornton, Beverly Bigelow
and Peter Cuniff had perfect scores in a sixth grade history test on the Egyptians.

Ears of Corn on Stalk

The number of ears of corn may be anywhere from one to one-half dozen or more on the same plant, while the number of kernels to the ear may vary between 500 and 1,000 or more. The golden bantam types of sweet corn, for example, have smaller ears with fewer kernels than most other types and 500 would be an average for this type.

IT'S POP CORN TIME

THERE is no confection so widely used and universally liked as pop corn. It is a perennial ice-breaker at almost any social function. Here is a recipe that is sure to be enjoyed:

Honey Pop Corn Balls
 1 cup honey
 1 cup sugar
 1/2 cup water
 1/2 teaspoonful cream
 1 tablespoonful tartar
 4 quarts pop corn

Boil honey, sugar, and water with cream of tartar until it turns brittle when tested in cold water. Add butter. Mix with warm pop corn and shape into balls. Green or red vegetable coloring can be added to the syrup.

CHAPTER XIV—Continued

Jane had been afraid that Frederick would say something about an immediate marriage, and now he was saying it.

"Oh," she told him, earnestly, "you promised I might wait until Judy could come on. In June."

"I know. But it will be very hot, and you'll have a whole lifetime in which to see Judy."
 "But not at my wedding. She's my only sister."

"I see," but his voice showed his annoyance; "but it seems as if your family have demanded enough of you. Can't you think a bit about yourself—and me?"

She pressed her point. "Judy is like my mother. I can't be married without her and the babies."

"If the babies come, you'll be looking after them until the last moment, and it will be a great strain on you, sweetheart."

"Oh, it won't be. I adore babies." His quick jealousy flared. "I don't," he said, with a touch of sulkiness. "I'm not fond of children."

She ate in silence. And presently he said repentantly, "You must think me a great boor, Jane. But you don't know how much I want you."

He was like a repentant boy. She made herself smile at him. "I think you are very patient, Mr. Towne."

"I am not patient. I am most impatient. And when are you going to stop calling me Mr. Towne?"

"When I can call you—husband."

"But I don't want to wait until then, dearest."

"But 'Frederick' is so long, and 'Fred' is so short, and 'Ricky' sounds like a highball." She had thrown off her depression and was sparkling.

"Nobody calls me 'Ricky' but Adelaide. I always hated it."

"Did you?" She was demure. "I might say 'my love,' like the ladies in the old-fashioned novels."

He laughed delightedly. "Say it." She acquiesced unexpectedly. "My love, we are invited to a week-end with the Delafeld Simms, at their new country place, Grass Hills."

"Are we?" Then in a sudden ardent rush of words, "Jane, I'd kiss you if the world wasn't looking on."

"The reporters would be ecstatic. Headlines."

"I am tired of headlines. And what do you mean about going to Delafeld Simms?"

"They are asking a lot of his friends. It is his wife's introduction to his old crowd. Much will depend on whether you and Edith will accept. And it was Edith who asked me to—make you come."

He leaned towards her across the table. "Ask me, prettily, and I'll do it."

"Really?" She laughed, blushed and did it. "Will you go—my love?"

"Could I say 'no' to that?" He radiated satisfaction. "Do you know how charming you are, Jane?"

"Am I? But it is nice of you to go. I know how you'll hate it."

"Not if you are there. And now, who else are asked?"

"Oh, Mrs. Laramore and Eloise Harper and a lot of others. Lucy says she'll be like a fish out of water, but Delafeld has made up his mind that his friends shan't think that he's ashamed of her."

When their ices came and their coffee, Frederick said, "I've got to spend a half-hour in a committee room. Shall I take you up to the Senate Gallery?"

"No—there's nothing interesting, is there? I'll wait in Statuary Hall."

Jane loved the marble figures that circled the Hall. Years ago there had not been so many. They had been, then, perhaps, more distinctive. As a child, she had chosen as her favorites the picturesque Colonials, the frontiersmen in leather tunics and coonskin caps. She had never liked the statesmen in stiff shirts and frock coats, although she had admitted their virtues. Even the inconspicuous classic draperies were more in keeping with the glamour which the past flung over the men who had given their best to America.

But it was Fulton who had captured her imagination, with his little ship, and Pere Marquette with his cross, the peace-loving Quaker who had conquered; adventurer, pioneer, priest and prophet—builders all of the structure of the new world.

She wondered what future generations would add to this glorious company. Would the Anglo-Saxon give way to the Semite? Would the Huguenot yield to the Slav? And would these newcomers hold high the banner of national idealism? What would they give? And what would they take away?

There were groups of sightseers gathered about the great room—a guide placing them here and there on the marble blocks. The trick was to put someone behind a mottled pillar far away, and let him speak. Owing to some strange acoustical quality the sound would be telephoned to the person who stood on the whispering stone.

Years ago Jane had listened while a voice had come echoing across the hollow spaces of the great Hall, "My country—right or wrong—my country—"

Another ghost! The ghost of a boy, patriotic, passionately devoted to the great old gods. "Of course they were only men, Jane. Human. Faulty. But they blazed a path of freedom for those who followed."

When Frederick came, he found her standing before the prim statue of Frances Willard.

"Tired, sweetheart?"

"No."
 "I stayed longer than I expected."
 "It didn't seem long. I have had plenty of company." "What do you mean?"

"All these." Her hand indicated the marble men and women.

He laughed. "Great old freaks, aren't they?"

Freaks! Gods! Well, of course, it all depended absolutely on the point of view.

"I like them all," she said, sturdily, "even the ones in the hideous frock coats."

"Surely not, my dear."
 "Yes, I do. They may be bad art, but they're good Americans."

That was the kind of thing to live for.

His laugh was indulgent. "After you've been abroad a few times, you won't be so provincial."

"If being provincial means loving my own, I'll stay provincial."

"Travel broadens the mind, changes the point of view."

"But why should I love my country less? I know her faults. And I know Baldy's. But I love him just the same."

As they walked on, he fell into step with her. "We won't argue. You are probably right, and if not, you're too pretty for me to contradict."

His gallantry was faultless, but she wanted more than gallantry. There had been the vivid give and take of her arguments with Evans. They had had royal battles, youth had crossed swords with youth. And from their disagreements had come convictions.

She had once more the illusion of Frederick as a feather cushion! He would perhaps agree with her always! And her soul would be—smothered!

It was the morning of the day that she was going to the Delafeld Simms, and Jane was packing her bag. She felt unaccountably depressed. During this week-end her engagement would be announced. And when Judy came they would be married in the Sherwood church.

And that would be the end of it! Her lover had planned the honeymoon with enthusiasm, "Dieppe, Jane, Avignon—the North Sea. Such sunsets."

Jane felt that she didn't care in the least for sunsets or trips abroad. She was almost frightened at her indifference to the wonders of a world which Frederick talked continually. Oh, what were mountains and sea at a time like this? Her heart should beat high—the dawns should be rosy, the nights full of stars. But they were not. Her heart was like a stone in her breast. The mornings broke gray and blank. The nights were dark. Her dreams were troubled.

She knew now what had happened to her. She had let herself be blinded by a light which she had thought was the sun. And it was not even the moon! It was a big round artificial brilliance which warmed no one!

Life with Frederick Towne would be just going up and down great stairs, eating under the eye of a stately butler, riding on puffy cushions behind a stately chauffeur, sitting beside a man who was everlastingly and punctiliously polite.

Oh, half the fun in the world was in the tussle with hard things. She knew that now. Life in the little house had been at times desperately difficult. But it had been like facing a stiff breeze, and coming out of it thrilled with the battle against the elements.

Yet how could she tell these things to Frederick? He was complacent, comfortable. She was young and he liked that. He never dreamed that he might seem to her somewhat staid and stodgy. For a moment, in Chicago, he had been lighted by almost youthful fires. But in these days of daily meetings, she had become aware of his fixed habits, his fixed opinions, the fixed programs which must be carried out at any cost.

She had found, indeed, that she had little voice in any plans that Frederick made for her. When he consulted her on matters of redecorating the big house he brought to the subject a wealth of technical knowledge that appalled her. Jane knew what she liked, but she did not know why she liked it. But Frederick knew. He had the lore of period furniture at his fingers' ends. Rugs and tapestries—paintings and porcelains! He had drawings made and water-color sketches, and brought them out to Jane. She had a feeling that when the house was finished it would be like some exquisitely ordered mausoleum. There would be no chintzes, no pussy-cats purring, no Philomel singing!

As for clothes! Frederick's mind dwelt much on the subject. Jane was told that she must have an ermine wrap, and one of Persian lamb. Most of her things would be made in Paris—there was a man over there who did things in just the right style for her—picturesque but not sophisticated. Frederick was already having certain jewels set appropriately. Gray pearls and emeralds—he had even gone to the point of getting samples of silk and chiffon that she might see the smoke-gray and jade color-scheme he had in mind for her.

Samples! A man's mind shouldn't be on clothes. He should have other things to think of.

There was Evans, for example. He had described the other night the boys' club he was starting in Sherwood. "In the old pavilion, Jane. It will do as it is in summer, and in winter we'll enclose it. And we are to have a baseball team, and play against the surrounding towns. You should see my little lads."

She and Baldy had been much interested. The three of them had put their heads together as they sat on the porch of the little house, with the moon whitening the world, and the whippoorwill mourning far away in the swamp.

They had planned excitedly, and every word they had said had been warm with enthusiasm. They had been flushed, exultant. It would be a great thing for Sherwood.

That was the kind of thing to live for, to live with. Ideas. Effort. She had always known it. Yet for a moment, she had forgotten. Had thought of herself as—Curlylocks.

She flung up her hands in a sort of despair. There was no way out of it. She was bound to Frederick Towne by the favors she had accepted from him. And that settled it.

She went on feverishly with the packing of her shabby suitcase. She rather gloried in its shabbiness. At least it is mine own, was her attitude of mind.

As she leaned over it, the great ring that Frederick had given her swung back and forth on its ribbon. She tucked it into the neck of her frock but it would not stay. At last she took it off and was aware of a sense of freedom as if she had shed her shackles. It winked and blinked at her on the dresser, so she shut it in a drawer and was still aware of it shining in the darkness, balefully!

Briggs was not to come for her until four in the afternoon. She decided to go over to Castle Manor and talk to Mrs. Follette. She would take some strawberries as an excuse. The strawberries in the Castle Manor garden were never as perfect as those which Jane had planted. Evans said it was because Jane coaxed things into rosiness and roundness. But Jane had worked hard over the beds, and she had her reward.

Carrying a basket, therefore, of red and luscious fruit, Jane went through the pine grove along the path that led to the Castle Manor. Under the trees was a green light which she breathed as one breathes the cool waters of the sea. Her breath came quickly. In a few short weeks she would be far away from this sweet and silent spot, with its sacred memories.

Leaving the grove, she passed the field where the scarecrow reigned. She leaned on the fence, the scarecrow had been decked in gay attire. He wore a pink shirt of Evans' and a pair of white trousers. His hat was of straw, and as he danced in the warm south breeze he had an air of care-free jauntness.

Jane found herself resenting his jaunty air. She felt that she had liked him better in his days of appealing loneliness. She had resented, in like manner, the change in Evans. He, too, had an air of making a world for himself. She had no part in it, apparently. She was, in effect, the Peri at the gate!

And she wanted to be in his world. Evans' world. She didn't want to be left out. Yet she had chosen. And Evans had accepted her decision. She had not thought it would be so hard to have him—accept.

His interests seemed now to include everything but Jane. He was doing many things for the boys of Sherwood, there was his work in town, the added responsibility he had assumed in the affairs of the farm.

"She's such an old darling, Jane. Doing it with her duchess air. But she's not strong. I'm trying to make her let things go a bit. But she's so proud of her success. I wish you could see her showing Edith Towne and her fashionable friends about the dairy." With tea on the lawn afterward. You must come over and join in the fun, Jane."

"I am coming," Jane had told him, "but my days have been so filled."

He had known who had filled them. But he had ignored that, and had gone on with his subject. "The idea I have now is to keep bees and sell honey. The boys and I have some books on bee culture. They are quite crazy about it."

It was always now the boys and himself. His mother and himself. And once it had been himself and Jane!

Leaning on the fence, Jane spoke to the scarecrow. "I ought to be glad but I am not."

The scarecrow bowed and danced in the breeze. He had no heart, of course. He was made of two crossed sticks.

Jane found Mrs. Follette on the wide porch. She was snowy and crisp in white linen. She wore a black enamel brooch, and a flat black hat which was so old-fashioned that it took on a mid-Victorian stateliness.

Racial Purity? No Such Thing, Scientist Claims

Although European nations may go to war for the sake of racial purity, there is no such thing in Europe, Wilton M. Krogman, associate professor of physical anthropology at the University of Chicago, said recently.

"The Europeans are a people so hopelessly inter-mixed, so mongrelized that claims of uniqueness, of purity, of superiority are as 'sounding brass and tinkling cymbal,'" he declared.

Study of more than 1,100 skulls in Asia Minor, covering the last 6,000 years, has shown that Europe has been a network of paths of migration of many racial types so long that only in remote corners, such as northern Scandinavia, can any semblance of racial purity be found. Professor Krogman's study has summarized 10 years' work by the University of Chicago, the Oriental Institute of the university, and the University of Pennsylvania.

"The squareness of a head, the convexity of a nose, the color and texture of hair, the color of eyes and skin are factors of little moment to natural human economy," he said. "But seen beneath the fierce glare of nationalistic fervor and political ambition they become veritable earth-shaking differences."

Racially, Europe may be divided into five types, he continued. Western Europe includes long-headed Mediterraneans and Nordics and round-headed Alpines. Eastern Europe contains round-headed Baltics and Dinarics.

"There are many anthropologists who would split further this five-fold division, but they would split hairs, too," said Professor Krogman.

Ancestors of all present Europeans entered Europe by way of Asia Minor, the speaker asserted. "Modern cranial types were probably definitely established by the time the earliest tribes entered Europe."

Acre Measurements

One acre contains 160 square rods, 4,840 square yards, or 43,560 square feet. If the length and width of any field be known, the required width and length to enclose an acre may be found by dividing the known distance in feet into the number of square feet in an acre. The length of a side of a square acre is 208.71 feet.

PUTTING GOD'S KINGDOM FIRST

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 6:19-34. GOLDEN TEXT—But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness.—Matthew 6:33.

Said the Robin to the Sparrow: "I should really like to know Why these anxious human beings Rush about and worry so."

Said the Sparrow to the Robin: "Friend, I think that it must be That they have no Heavenly Father Such as cares for you and me." —Elizabeth Cheney

Most men are rushing about madly. Worry presses them down. They wonder whether life is worthwhile, whether somewhere there is not relief from this nervous tension that is destroying mind and body. Well, there is relief and it consists of but one ingredient. Give God His proper place, the first place in your life, and "all these things" (Matt. 6:33) will take their rightful places. Seeking first the kingdom of God will settle every problem about money, about food and clothing, and about the future.

I. Money (vv. 19-24). The word in our text is "treasures," and we know that it has a broader meaning than money, but since in our day men seem to translate all values into dollars, we feel free to use that word "money" to express our thoughts.

The treasure is something that one has placed somewhere in order to keep it for himself. It is not a thing gathered for the purpose of using it to serve others or to serve God, but something put away on the shelf to be kept for one's own enjoyment.

There are two places in which a man can lay up treasure, on earth or in heaven; but it is only as he hoards treasure on earth that he becomes selfish. That which he sends on to heaven by his devotion of life and in service to Christ, by his sacrificial giving to the cause of Christ, by his encouragement of those who are witnessing for Christ, all this is done for the glory of God and without hope of reward. How great will be the surprise of some when they come to heaven and find what they have thus laid up for eternity.

Laying up treasures on this earth, on the other hand, leads to covetousness, to enslavement to one's possessions (be they great or small), and to the evils that follow like a train in the wake of a love of money.

II. Food and Clothing (vv. 25-32). Some who have no great desire to amass riches are nevertheless in constant anxiety about food and raiment for the morrow; in fact, it is true of some who have great riches that they live in fear lest next month or next year or ten years from now they may be in need.

What is the answer of the Lord Jesus? Consider the birds. They are not able to work nor are they able to pray, but God feeds them. Consider the glory of the flowers of the fields, for not even a king can dress himself in such beauty. "Are ye not much better than they?" (v. 26).

"As far as known, no bird ever tried to build more nests than its neighbors; no fox ever fretted because it had only one hole in which to hide; no squirrel ever died of anxiety lest he should not lay up enough nuts for two winters instead of one; and no dog ever lost any sleep over the fact that he did not have enough bones laid aside for his declining years" (Public Health Service).

Proper forethought is good and right for we are intelligent beings, but anxiety about our daily needs is always dishonoring to God.

III. The Future (vv. 33, 34). Why will we fret ourselves about the future? It is in God's hands, and even if it were in our hands, what could we do about it? Even tomorrow, with its needs and its blessings, with its joy and its sorrows, is not yet here, and when it does come, there will be God's gracious provision for each passing hour.

Unsaved friend, will you not take the Lord Jesus Christ just now as your personal Saviour and let Him solve the problems of your life as you put the kingdom of God first? Christian friend, if you too have been bearing burdens which are not honoring to God, will you not tell Him just now, and put them down at the feet of the Lord Jesus? "Casting all your care upon him; for he careth for you" (I Pet. 5:7), which might properly be translated, "Casting all your worries (or distractions) on Him, for He worrieth about you."

Be Still Then and Know Only in the sacredness of inward silence does the soul truly meet the secret, hiding God. The strength of resolve, which afterwards shapes life and mixes itself with action, is the fruit of those sacred, solitary moments when we meet God alone. —F. W. Robertson,

HIS PROBLEM

Little Johnny should have been hard at his homework. As it was, his father found him listening to the wireless and sucking his pencil. "Well," asked father, "why don't you get on with your work?" "I can't, Dad," came Johnny's reply, "until I've heard the latest news bulletin. You see, I've got to draw a map of Europe."

Ham And Eggs

When the well-known actor and producer retired, the son carried on with some of his father's honors. One evening in front of the father's theater an old friend of the family affectionately patted the son on the back and remarked: "A chip off the old block, eh?" To which the critic groaned: "You mean a slice of the old ham!"

Peeling Squash. - Squash may be easily peeled if it is first put into the oven and thoroughly warmed.

For Ink Stains. - Immerse an ink-stained handkerchief in milk immediately after it has been stained, allow it to soak and the ink will disappear.

Tightly Cover Baking Powder. - Baking powder should be tightly covered and stored in a cool, dry place to preserve leavening power.

Removing Scorch. - To remove scorch from linen place between two dampened Turkish towels and press with a hot iron. The scorch stains will go into the towel and can be easily washed out.

Variety in Fruits. - If your family likes variety, serve stewed prunes, apricots, fresh berries, applesauce, fruit juices and fresh fruits. A whole week can be covered without repetition.

Removing Mildew. - Mildew may be successfully removed by using kerosene. Saturate the garment with it thoroughly, roll it up and put it away for 24 hours. Wash in warm suds and all trace of mildew will be gone.

To Thicken Frosting. - If in making frosting you add too much water to the confectioner's sugar, instead of adding more sugar add flour to thicken the frosting. It will be impossible to detect the taste of flour.

had been taken that the auditor general determining such fact, conveyed the lands to the state.

Such conveyance was made only after every effort to collect delinquent taxes had been exerted, every opportunity to redeem such lands had been given. The bulk of the lands so transferred had been virtually abandoned, the better quality lands had been redeemed or bought up, before the transfer was made. Only the poorest lands reverted to the state.

Many parcels of land involved in the wholesale transfer had reverted to the state in the four decades following 1893 when cut-over lands which were then delinquent were made available to homesteaders by legislative enactment. The years which followed hold the sorry record of unsuccessful efforts to convert the bulk of the lands to agricultural or other private purposes.

By 1903 the uselessness of such efforts had become apparent and the first state forest was established on strictly non-agricultural land. Since then, public uses of such lands have been expanded to include game refuges, public hunting grounds and parks, the lands having been dedicated to public use only when it had been demonstrated they could not "pay their way" in private ownership.

In 1933 the legislature suspended further conveyances of tax delinquent lands to the state and set up a tax moratorium, permitting land owners to pay 1932 and prior taxes on a 10-year plan of deferred installments with no penalty nor interest assessed. In 1937 the legislature further eased the tax burden by incorporating 1933-35 taxes in the 10-year plan of payment if owners showed good faith in payment of 1936 taxes.

Lands which came back to the state November 3 were tax delinquent for 1935 or prior years in spite of the fact that owners, up to September 30, had been given opportunity to pay these taxes without interest or penalty charges, except for a collection fee of six percent. Owners of record on May 3, 1938 still may apply to the conservation they desire to repurchase such reverted properties, whereupon the lands will be offered at public auction. If such former owners are successful bidders at these auctions, they will be given the privilege of obtaining lands previously held by them on an extended-payment plan, paying 20 percent down, the balance over a ten-year period.

Lands transferred to the state November 3 will be made available to the public even though former owners have failed to avail themselves of the opportunity to purchase, provided such lands because of location or other reason are not suitable for incorporating in established units.

The conservation department, carrying out legislative mandate in the administering of tax reverted lands north of and including Oceana, Newaygo, Mecosta, Isabella, Midland and Arenac counties, also is working closely with municipalities which may wish to take over for public purposes tax delinquent lands lying within their confines.

The department's policy, according to P. J. Hoffmaster, director of the department of conservation, will be to return to private ownership all lands not dedicated to public use, which it appears, will be able to pay their way in private ownership and will yield tax revenues for the support of local units of government.

Tawas City Recreation defeated Hoxie Gas Saturday evening at the Broadway Alleys, Bay City, by 42 pins.

In last Sunday's match at the Tawas City Recreation the Goebel Girls of Saginaw out-bowled and out-talked the Vee Gee Bread team (men's team) of this city. The total pins were Goebel, 2592, including a 105 handicap; Vee Gee Bread, 2390. The Vee Gee boys appeared to have been stricken with a sudden attack of "stage fright" bashfulness or a case of the girls getting their ruminating horned quadruped. But give the boys time and they will get over their blushing ways and the members of the fair sex will cease to bother them.

As a result of that hard fought battle between Hattons Barbers and the Berdan Bread team there is a frigid atmosphere between our two barbers. Howard's barber team won, but, Bill, a member of the bread team, insists that there was some skullduggery in the winning.

point which ever, adults are liable to overlook in their teaching. "It is far more important to complete a task than to faultlessly begin a task that is never completed," according to Mr. Lunden.

The meeting at the court house followed a 6:30 banquet at the Iosco Hotel at which local club leaders were guests of the Iosco County 4-H Club Department. At the banquet Mr. Rhodes paid tribute to the local club leaders for their fine work and their careful guiding of the club people in their home communities. County School Commissioner Russell Rollin discussed club work in connection with regular academic school requirements, giving club work credit for assisting in keeping interest in other school work in many instances.

At the meeting it was decided to hold another similar get-together early in February at which time plans for the annual spring achievement day to be held April 17, will be discussed and completed in many details.

According to club leaders most of the hot lunch, clothing and handicraft clubs have already been organized, however the popular conservation project of a year ago, deer herd study, has not as yet been started but will within the next few weeks.

Clubs now organized consist of hot lunch at the Cottage school, led by Mrs. Helen Sturtevant, and at the Vene school led by N. C. Schuster. Clothing clubs are found at Hale led by Mrs. W. I. Indeterminate Sentences
In criminal law an indeterminate sentence is a sentence which fixes the period or amount of punishment only within certain limits, leaving the exact term or amount of punishment to be determined by the executive authorities, usually a board of managers. The term is applied to such sentences where the release before service of the maximum period is upon parole or well as where it is by absolute discharge.

Want to Feel like a Big Shot?

WHAT we mean is, how'd you like to feel like you used to think a big shot must feel, cruising along in his big brawny Buick, envy of every youngster in town?

Fact is, a big brawny Buick — this year's beauty of a Buick — is within your reach right now.

A husky headlong 107-horsepowered giant valve-in-head straight-eight can be yours to command—you can roll around town in the staunch and steady carriage that's sure big, beautiful and a bearcat in action when its boss gives the word!

Yes, you can ride in the gentle lap of Foamtex-cushioned luxury—shift gears with a finger-flick, take bumps in BuicCoil Springing's "full float" comfort, even signal your turns by a touch on a lever.

And what do you pay for all this — budget-bursting prices?

Ix-nay! On the contrary, you can buy a Buick for less than some sixes! And you'll find when you look into what's included in these prices that they cover many an item that you will be asked to pay extra for elsewhere.

So lift your sights. This year, go after the car you really want—which means talking with your nearest Buick dealer—right now!

The model illustrated is the BUICK SUPER model 51 four-door touring sedan $1109 delivered at Flint, Mich. White sidewall tires additional. No extra charge for the two-tone finish shown.*

Not a six but an EIGHT for $895 and up
