CELEBRATE 60TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Timreck, Tawas City Residents, Are Honored

Last week Saturday marked the sixtieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Timreck, Sr., residents of this city.

For the purpose of paying honor to this couple, their immediate family and a few friends assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Kobs, Sr., in Tawas township Sunday afternoon for a social time and dinner.

Highlighting the celebration was a short service appropriate for the occasion conducted by Rev. J. J. Roekle, pastor of the Emanuel Lutheran church of which Mr. and Mrs. Timreck have been members since its organization.

Mr. and Mrs. Timreck were born in Germany 85 and 80 years ago, respectively. In that country they were joined in marriage on November 18, 1879. Two years later, in 1881, they came to the United States. After spending a year at Kankakee, Illinois, Mr. and Mrs. Timreck located in Isosco county, Michigan. During a majority of the 57 years they have thus far lived in this county they were principally engaged in farming, retiring twenty years ago to take up residence in Tawas City.

Nine children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Timreck, seven of whom are living. They are Mrs. Henry Lietz of Tawas township, Mrs. Otto Kobs, Sr., of Tawas township, Mrs. Emma Kasischek of Tawas City, Carl Timreck, Jr., of Baldwin township, Mrs. Wm. Schmalz of Tawas township, Albert Timreck of Tawas township and Herman Timreck of Tawas township. They also have 17 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren.

Both, Mr. and Mrs. Timreck, are in fine health and exceptionally active.

Hunting Notes

Ernest Dicaire is hunting out in Baldwin township. While in the barber shop Wednesday recounting his experiences, which so far had been unsuccessful, Deek said, "The other day a deer jumped up in front of me. While I was looking to see the horns, someone in the brush close by shot it. It was a dandy buck."

A deer, spotted with large white patches of white hair, was shot by Buell Crocker of Midland, son of N. J. Crocker of East Tawas. The freak spikehorn was brought down a few miles northeast of East Tawas. Mr. Crocker plans to have the skin tanned and made into a rug.

Tch! Tch! You shouldn't use such language Pete! From Oscoda comes the story that Pete Stone shot a nice buck last Wednesday near the six mile curve. The warm weather caused him to peel off his heavy coat and leave it in his car. When he reached for his tag he remembered that he had left it in his coat. He covered the deer over with brush to hide it and went to the car some distance away for the tag. On his return he found that the buck had disappeared. Someone had stolen it.

Tree branches didn't mislead Dr. John LeClair this season. He shot a fine nine point buck last week.

Tommy White, with a deer hunting party near Glennie, took his son, Wayne, out in the swamp to instruct the boy in the art of hunting bear. One thing Tommy neglected to inform his son, and that information became very necessary a short time after they hit the trail of a bear. Tommy said "Here comes the bear, son." Wayne said "What'll I do, daddy?" Tommy yelled "Follow me." Wayne tried to follow. A short time later he was found by other members of the party, but it was late in the afternoon before they located Tommy at the Russell fire tower six miles away. He didn't find his gun until the next day.

Jack Pierson has returned from a hunting party up near Newberry. He says, "There may be a lot of deer up there, but I didn't see them."

Free Christmas Trees Do Not Grow in State

Free Christmas trees do not grow in Michigan.

The cruising motorist who spies one he thinks would look well in his living room in season, and the trucker who wants to make some quick and easy money, alike are warned without the written consent of the owner of the land is theft, for which the penalty is $25 to $500 fine and up to three months imprisonment.

Any vehicle bearing a Christmas tree may be stopped by a conservation officer, an officer of the department of agriculture or a regular officer of the law, and inspection of the bill of sale or written consent of the owner demanded. Permission is quite as necessary in getting a tree growing on state-owned land as for one on private land. No Christmas trees are cut in state forests.

The law protecting Christmas trees is broad in its application and covers all wild trees or shrubs, including the well liked spruce and balsam.

Burleigh Farm Home Destroyed by Fire

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon King, on their farm about two and one-half miles south of Whittemore, was destroyed by fire Monday evening at about 5:30. Part of the contents were saved. Mrs. King, who is a teacher in the Whittemore high school, had just returned from school and was out to the barn when she discovered the house on fire. Mr. King was at a neighbor's shredding corn, and arrived after the house was in flames. Neighbors were soon on the scene and helped get some of the furniture out the burning building. About 100 bushels of potatoes and a large quantity of canned fruit burned in the basement. The house was partly covered by insurance. The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. King.

Commissioner Expresses His Opinion on School Problems

"Several times during the past few weeks we have been asked by teachers and parents questions concerning future policies of this office," said County School Commissioner Russell Rollin, yesterday. "There are questions about changes of text books, future eighth grade examinations, age at which children should begin school, are you planning to work toward consolidation, do you think we should adopt the activity program of teaching, and many others. We believe all the inquiries have been very sincere and just naturally do come when the personnel in any office changes so we are taking this opportunity to express some of our views and possibly relieve those who are really concerned as we all should be."

"It is our honest conviction that we should not dictate the policies of our county educational system but that they should be the outgrowth of the thinking of the whole group of teachers and parents. We hope that as the months and years pass by there may be developed the very finest type of educational program."

"It is rather difficult to tell teachers just what method of teaching they should use. It seems to us that what may work very nicely for one in a certain locality may be a failure in another part of the county by a different teacher so we would suggest that each teacher read and study many methods and techniques and use that which is best suited for the cultivation of a happy, industrious and progressive group."

"Textbook changes, we hope, will come only after a careful study by several teacher groups who make recommendations from time to time as the need arises. Perhaps there should be a continuous study group."

"Then there is the matter of sending 'four year olds' to school. We all realize that it is difficult to say just when a child is ready to attend school and begin the training provided there. It is a problem which should be discussed very frankly and understandingly with the parents of the district. Most of us agreed that a child should not be forced to read and do number work before he has had sufficient experience which will enable him to go on with the greatest pleasure and helpfulness. By means of informal chats, or home calls; through our community meetings and parent-teacher groups we have an opportunity to work out understanding relationships and provide the necessary information which will be a solution to the problem."

"We are primarily interested in the growth and development of the boys and girls and all changes which will be made or policies suggested should naturally have that group as the center of our thinking."

"So cast aside the worries and use the personality, the initiative, the ambition, the training and the enthusiasm as with which you have been endowed and do the best job of teaching you possibly can do with the equipment you have or haven't. We hope the boys and girls will give you the 'urge' to be really great in your field of endeavor."

PROMINENT EAST TAWAS RESIDENT DIES

Robert C. McKay Succumbs After Long Illness

Robert C. McKay, prominent East Tawas resident, died Sunday afternoon, November 12, at St. Joseph's hospital, Pontiac. Death came after an illness of many weeks. The deceased was 64 years of age. For about 25 years he had been cashier of the Ogemaw Bank at West Branch. Since 1926 he has been associated in the automobile business at East Tawas with his brother, Lloyd G. McKay.

Robert McKay was born August 30, 1875, at Almont, Michigan. In his early youth his family moved to Caro where he graduated from the Caro high school. After attending the University of Michigan he served in various capacities with the Carson-Ealy company banks. In 1901 he became cashier of the Ogemaw bank at West Branch, a position he continued to fill until its closing in 1926. During the 25 years at West Branch, Mr. McKay took a very active part in public affairs, serving on the city council and board of supervisors. Of the latter he was chairman for several years. He also served as mayor of that city.

He was married in 1905 to Ethel Sargent of West Branch. Two children were born to them, Robert C. McKay, Jr., and Marjorie, now Mrs. Russell Koentzer. Both reside at Cleveland, Ohio.

The funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from the Trinity Episcopal church, West Branch. Rev. Walter Fry officiated. Burial was in the Brookside cemetery.

After the business meeting was completed, songs were sung by the children of the Key school. The Rhythm Band, conducted by Miss Shellenberger of the Key school, presented a few numbers.

It was decided that a formal December meeting was not to be held, and that instead the P.-T. A. would cooperate with the school in presenting their annual Christmas program.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

U. S. Ships May Be Registered Under European Neutral Flags In Effort to Circumvent Law

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

MARITIME: Neutrality

Having fought for and having won "cash and carry" neutrality, the United States promptly sought ways to circumvent it. While American vessels and seamen loafed along the waterfronts, crafty minds were thinking up at least two ways of maintaining maritime traffic despite neutrality: (1) chartering foreign ships, a perfectly legal method used by Black Diamond Lines, Inc.; (2) registering U. S. ships with other nations, also legal but carrying a few potentially unpleasant implications.

MINISTER BRENNAN

With its next meeting still a week away, the maritime commission was almost certain to refuse requests for transfer of some 90 U. S. vessels to Central or South American registry. When the idea was first broached, President Roosevelt supported it. Later, after getting a lecture from Secretary of State Cordell Hull, he told reporters that the more he thought about it, the more convinced he became that it wasn't right. Reason: It would place sister American republics in a neutrality position different from our own.

Loud as the complaints of American ship owners were those of lesser European neutrals whose thriving U. S. commerce was stopped by the neutrality law. Two loudest objectors were Eire and Belgium. The former sent its minister, Robert Brennan, to tell the state department that Eire should be excluded from the "combat zone" because she is neutral and will remain so; because Eire needs U. S. products; because Eire doesn't believe U. S. ships would be endangered visiting her ports. Belgium sent her Ambassador Count Robert Van Der Straten-Ponthoz to inquire about transferring U. S. ships to Belgian registry.

Certainly, commented the President, objections to Latin-American transfers wouldn't prevail in the case of European neutrals like Ireland. It was a pretty safe guess, therefore, that U. S. ships may soon sail under European flags.

EUROPE: The War

Gone like sudden sunshine on a cloudy day was the Belgian-Dutch effort to make peace between Hitler and the allies. And after the sun came threats of rain, for it ended the last hope of armistice. There was still much saber rattling, such as Winston Churchill's speech calling Der Fuehrer a "cornered maniac," but the foes were ready to start slaughtering.

Sea and air warfare went ahead precipitously. One day Berlin announced (by inference) that henceforth all British-French merchantmen would be torpedoed. Reason: They're all armed. Next day, after a successful but pointless air attack on the Shetland islands, Berlin warned it would "show the British what it means to be at war with

The week's most thought-provoking news dispatch came from John T. Whitaker of the Chicago Daily News, who cabled from Rome that Der Fuehrer's position looked desperate. Said Whitaker: Hitler had indecisively retreated after massing troops on the Belgian-Dutch frontier; he can pierce the Maginot line only by wasting a million men; he can't break the British blockade; Scandinavia opposes him, and a strike at the Balkans will bring down the wrath of Russia and Italy, each of which "has his measure." Conclusion: "He finds, for the first time . . . that the cards are not stacked against his immediate foe. And as he delays, confusion and defeatism are inevitable at home . . ."

Finlandia

Leaving Moscow without customary diplomatic formalities, Finnish conferees returned to Helsingfors where awaiting officials already knew they had refused to grant Russian demands. Immediately the Soviet press began a withering anti-Finnish campaign which could only be a prelude to armed action. First, Moscow's Pravda claimed Finland was on the brink of economic ruin, but Helsingfors quietly replied the Finns could get along. Next, the Soviet news agency, Tass, accused Finnish ruling circles of fostering anti-Russian policy. Helsingfors answered by announcing there would be no resumption of conversations.

CRIME: O'Hare-Capone

Who killed Cock Robin was never a greater mystery than who killed Edward J. O'Hare, Chicago race-track owner whose assassination in early November set off the biggest gangland witchhunt since Alphonse Capone went to prison in 1932. Reasons: The murder came just before Capone was released, and O'Hare was known to have associations with Capone. Two theories to date:

(1) That O'Hare, as interim manager of the Capone gambling syndicate, was "rubbed out" because he refused to turn back the reins when "Scarface Al" was to be released.

(2) That O'Hare was slain by dis-senting Capone mobsters who feared he would return the reins to Scarface Al.

The deeper federal and city investigators probed the mystery, the more complex it became. The more embarrassing, too, especially for one Judge Eugene J. Holland of Chicago municipal court, who was associated with O'Hare in a real estate enterprise. Officials wondered if there could be any connection between this and the fact that only 28 of the 12,624 Chicago gambling cases handled by Judge Holland in the past 15 months had resulted in convictions.

Two days before Capone's mysterious release in Philadelphia, a 21-year-old named Russell Stoddard was held by Los Angeles police after a mysterious stabbing. Not only did he claim to be a former O'Hare bodyguard, but officials found in his possessions a letter indicating that Stoddard knew who killed O'Hare.

COURTS: 5 to 4

Only two years have passed since Franklin Roosevelt sent the senate his first nominee to the Supreme court—Alabama's Sen. Hugo L. Black. Since then, one by one, have come Liberal Stanley Reed, Liberal Felix Frankfurter and Liberal Bill Douglas. With only four Roosevelt appointees, the nine-man court was still theoretically anti-New Deal.

This month died Justice Pierce Butler, 73-year-old conservative, a Catholic from Minnesota. When his successor is named, the New Deal will have an undisputed liberal majority which will last at least another generation. Among possible successors observers listed another midwest Catholic, Michigan's Frank Murphy.

CONGRESS: Annuities

Exempted from social security are some 10,000,000 self-employed persons, agricultural workers and domestics, who thus receive no retirement income at age 65. Also exempted are minor groups like seamen. At the next congressional session, announced New York's Sen. Robert Wagner, he will introduce a government-sponsored voluntary annuity plan whereby anyone making the necessary payments can buy an annuity paying $1,200 a year at age 60 or 65, i. e., $100 a month. The chief Wagner argument: That such annuities can be handled by the U. S. at a substantially lower cost than private insurance companies. A high insurance executive, he said, had raised no objection to the plan.

Nevertheless, critics got to work immediately. Though admitting private firms now make a substantial profit, it was asserted the U. S. must use the same mortality tables and can therefore save no more than an approximate 2.1 per cent agent's commission on its annuities.

Tax Fight

Tax revision may be No. 1 on the congressional agenda January 3. A hint that not even the administration knows what to do about it, appeared when Acting Secretary of the Treasury John W. Hanes criticized the proposal of Marriner S. Eccles, federal reserve chairman, to adopt higher taxes and thus pay for next year's fiscal deficit. Commented Mr. Hanes: "I don't think he spoke for the administration . . . I doubt if he spoke for congress . . ."

INDUSTRY: Man With Stick

When the justice department's Trust Buster Thurman Arnold shows his face, any well-trained industrialist rushes to get his books in order. Thus far Mr. Arnold's big stick has struck at the railroads, movies, building industry, aluminum, medicine and many a lesser trade or profession. This month he struck again:

At Los Angeles a federal grand jury indicted 41 major and secondary oil companies and two associations on charges of conspiring to raise artificially and maintain gasoline prices on the Pacific coast (Oregon, Washington, California, Arizona and Nevada). In this region, says the indictment, the defendants control 95 per cent of gasoline sales.

News Quiz Answers

1. (B) is correct. One of Lagunillas' major oil terminals exploded.
2. "Because of winds from Finland" was the Soviet explanation, which charged Finland with failure to inform Russia of meteorological conditions.
3. Sold for $14,400,000 to a lumber wholesalers' cooperative.
4. William Gibbs McCadoo.
5. (A) is correct. The report was later denied.

DOLLAR MAKERS

Clean Store Will Attract More Business

By GEORGE T. EAGER

WHEN the youngest son of a retail grocer went to work as a filling station attendant for a large oil company the father little thought that the event would increase the sales and profits of his grocery store. The boy had brought home a company sales manual to study in his spare time and the father in glancing through it found a money-making idea for his own business. "Keep the service station clean," said the sales manual. "Motorists avoid dirty, littered, unkempt stations. The one and only reason we ask you to keep your station clean is that it makes more sales."

The manual went on to point out that keeping a place of business clean is not an occasional back breaking job but more a matter of laying out a regular schedule of work to be done and doing a little each day with clock-like regularity.

"If customers are attracted by cleanliness when they just buy gasoline, oil and grease to go into an automobile," said the grocer, "it's a better idea for a store where they come to buy things to put in their mouths."

The next day the following schedule was posted in the back of the grocery store:

- Monday—Wash and trim display windows.
- Tuesday—Wash and polish candy and cake cases.
- Wednesday—Wash delivery trucks.
- Thursday—Clean and scrub refrigerators.
- Friday and Saturday—Busy days; no cleaning.
- First of month—Oil and rub down floors, inspect delivery trucks.

MAKE MONEY ON LAZINESS

"WHAT is the best way to make a lot of money in the manufacturing business?" said a young college graduate to one of the country's leading manufacturers.

"Build a monument to laziness," said the manufacturer, "and it will make you rich. See that big bakery over there," he continued, "it is a monument to women's laziness. Most women used to bake their bread at home. Along came the commercial baker. He told women not to bother about mixing dough, bending over hot ovens but to let George do it at 10 cents a loaf. They did, have more leisure to enjoy life and a great industry is made."

"Don't walk and don't bother to hitch up a horse and buggy," said the automobile manufacturer, and Detroit became dotted with monuments to laziness which make the pyramids look like ant hills. "Don't walk up the stairs," said the elevator manufacturer and built hundreds of monuments to laziness by making the modern skyscraper possible. "Don't spend so much time cooking breakfast foods when I can pre-cook your food for you at my factory." Today's cereals require only 2 1/2 minutes home cooking time, and another monument to laziness results.

"When I say laziness I mean the normal desire to avoid useless drudgery. The politicians tell about the more abundant life but look around you and judge for yourself how much of it comes from the monuments to laziness created by business men."

'Mad Anthony's' Home

Has Historic Interest
NEW YORK.—If walls had tongues instead of ears what stories they could tell! Particularly those of Waynesborough, Pa. "Mad Anthony" Wayne's birthplace, a beautiful stone house which casts its friendly gaze through old shade trees and shrubs across broad and fertile acres.

The left wing, built in 1722 by Anthony Wayne, the general's grandfather, was the farmhouse for the 530-acre estate that this astute gentleman purchased piecemeal as he could, writes Bernice Mueller Ball in American Collector. The remaining two wings were added in 1740 by Isaac Wayne, his father. There "Mad Anthony" was born in 1745, although his political and military activities kept him away from home a great deal of the time.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Rudolf Friml, maker of melodies for 25 years, finally gives credit to his collaborators. With the ouji board, he's always talking shop with great composers, and every once in a while they help him round out a score. He never knew why the "Song of the Vagabonds" just sang itself through in five minutes, faster than he could score it, until he learned that he had an ethereal spokesman, or spookman.

His career, from the start on down to his present fifty-ninth year, is a testimonial to occult guidance, in planting him always in the highway of Lady Luck. In Prague, his birthplace, his father worked in a bakery. One day, his mother gave his father money to buy wood. Fates or phantoms guided him instead to a pawn shop, where he made a down payment on a tiny piano. Rudolf's mother was so angry she wanted to chop it to pieces, but the boy persuaded her to let him keep it. One day the owner of the bakery passed by, heard the lad playing beautifully and helped groove him into his musical career.

At the age of 10, he had published a barcarolle. In the musical conservatory of Prague, where he studied under Antonin Dvorak, he teamed up with Jan Kubelik. They were playing at a concert which Daniel Frohman happened opportunistically to attend. He took them to the United States for a tour of 80 cities.

Whether or not Mr. Friml was just an amanuensis for spirits, his compositions streamed along rapidly—"Gloriana," "The Firefly," "Kalinka," "High Jinks," "Music Hath Charms," "The Vagabond King," and a whole volume of others, none of them seeming to be of ghostly inspiration. Hollywood still keeps him busy and successful.

H. GORDON SELFRIDGE, the Anglo-American merchant prince, visiting this country, makes it a tossup between communism and ruinous taxation. Queried about communism overrunning Europe after the war, he asks, "What of it? What is the difference between communism and a society where a tax takes half of the income and a surtax the other half?"

He says the day of initiative and enterprise is past. He is an authority on that subject. Sixty-two years ago, he swept out a store in Ripon, Wis. Two years later, he was an errand boy for Marshall Field & Co. in Chicago, and a partner when he quit, in 1904. Punch ribbed him mercilessly when he opened his store in London, and the smart salons were full of clever mots about the American invader. He made them like him. He hired as head of his dress department Lady Afflick, who had thought up the cleverest jokes about him.

Here in 1937, he was optimistic about Europe and the world in general. Now he says, "The opportunity to achieve and to show results has been eliminated all over the world."

ALBERT SARRAUT, French minister of interior, swings on the French Reds with a spiked club. He links them with the Germans and promises to sweep them from all "villages, municipalities, cities and towns." And he means to do just that.

M. Sarraut, as governor-general of French Indo-China, was regarded as a hard-fisted and implacable colonial administrator. Returning to his country villa in France, he read Tolstoy, and renounced all belief in force. When he became minister of interior, his enemies, catching him thus off guard, swarmed all over him. He resigned from the ministry and said:

"I find now that I have no desire to smite hip and thigh those who do not think as I do. You gentlemen take over the job and see what you can do with it."

He again became minister of the interior, but offered his resignation when King Alexander was assassinated in Marseilles. But, taking the premiership, he again swung his war club, hotly denouncing obstructionists and meddlers. Alternately tough and conciliatory, he is a veteran of the rough-and-tumble of French politics. A vacation, in his garden, where he is given to reading and meditating, is apt to bring on the Tolstoyan mood.

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

TEEN-AGE GIRLS ENJOY MAKING HOMEMADE BREADS (Recipes Below.)

Homemade Breads—Hot and Cold

Yes, even girls in the 'teen age or younger enjoy making homemade breads of various types and who in all the world does not enjoy eating them? Bread after all is still very much the staff of life and fortunately our modern up-to-date experimental food kitchens are constantly developing for all of us a large number of brand new—good-to-eat, hot or cold, bread recipes of the broadest possible variety.

The making of yeast breads the modern simplified way is certainly a far cry from some of the difficulties that our grandmothers or even our mothers may have experienced when they made it regularly—years ago.

In the first place, yeast is now readily obtainable both in moist or dry form. Furthermore we now know that we can help to regulate the rapidity with which the whole bread-making process can proceed by adding more or less yeast—more if we want to hurry the rising—less if there is no particular reason for speed.

Then too, we have learned to watch the temperature of the dough a little more carefully and we know that if kept at the just right temperature, neither too hot nor too cold, the bread can be trusted to rise as it should and to develop, while rising, the best possible homemade bread flavor.

Then we have learned some modern recipe adaptations of those never-to-be-forgotten butterscotch rolls, parker house rolls and coffee kuchen that our mothers used to make. All of which brings me to sharing with you now some of my favorite yeast and baking powder, hot and cold bread recipes. Here they are:

Yeast Bread.

- (Makes 3 medium loaves)
- 2 cups milk
 - 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
 - 1 1/2 tablespoons sugar
 - 2 tablespoons shortening
 - 2 cakes compressed yeast
 - 1/2 cup lukewarm water
 - 1/2 cup bread flour

Scald milk and to it add the salt, sugar, and shortening. Cool until lukewarm. Soften yeast in warm water and add to the scalded milk mixture. Add just enough flour to make a stiff batter and beat well. Then add enough more flour to make a firm but soft dough. Mix well, turn out on a floured board, and knead until the dough is smooth and elastic and until small blisters form on the dough itself. Place in a well-greased bowl and brush with melted fat. Cover and place in a warm (not hot) place to rise. When dough has a little more than doubled in bulk, knead it down lightly and let it rise again. When light again, shape into loaves and place in well-greased bread tins. Grease top of loaves with melted fat. Let rise until bread has again doubled in volume. Bake 40-45 minutes in a hot oven (425 degrees).

Miracle Rolls.

- 2 cups boiling water
- 1/2 cup and 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1/2 cup fat
- 2 cakes yeast
- 1/4 cup lukewarm water
- 2 eggs
- 8 cups bread flour

Mix together boiling water, 1/2 cup sugar, salt, and fat and stir until dissolved. Cool until mixture is lukewarm. Dissolve yeast and remaining 1 teaspoon sugar in the lukewarm water and add to first mixture. Add eggs and one-half of the flour; beat thoroughly. Then add remaining 4 cups of flour. Mix well.

Place in refrigerator. When ready to bake, make into rolls and allow to rise in a warm place about 1 hour or until doubled in size. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) approximately 20 minutes.

Bishop's Bread.

(Makes 1 loaf)

- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 2 1/2 cups bread flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 egg
- 3/4 cup sour milk

Cream shortening and slowly add the sugar, flour, and salt, mixing very thoroughly. Reserve 1/2 cup of this mixture for top crumbs to be used on bread while baking. To the remainder, add the soda, baking powder, egg and sour milk and beat until batter is smooth. Pour into well-greased loaf pan, sprinkle sugar and flour mixture on top and bake 25 minutes in a hot oven (400 degrees). Raisins and nuts may be added if desired.

Hot Cinnamon Rolls.

(Makes 18 rolls)

- 1 cup milk (scalded)
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup fat
- 1 yeast cake
- 1/4 cup warm water
- 3 to 4 cups general purpose flour
- Melted butter
- Granulated sugar
- Cinnamon

Scald milk and add to it the sugar, salt, and fat. Cool until luke-warm and add yeast which has been softened in the warm water. Add a sufficient amount of flour to enable handling as a dough. Knead thoroughly, and allow dough to rise until it doubles in volume. Knead lightly, and allow the dough to double in bulk a second time. Then knead lightly and roll dough into a sheet—1/2-inch thick. Spread with melted butter and sprinkle with cinnamon and granulated sugar. Roll like a jelly roll and cut in slices one inch thick. Place on a well-greased baking sheet and allow to rise until light. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) approximately 20 minutes. This basic recipe may be used to make any kind of coffee cake or sweet roll.

Pecan Muffins.

- (Makes 12 medium-sized muffins)
- 1/2 cup light brown sugar
 - 1 cup graham flour
 - 1 cup general purpose flour
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 4 teaspoons baking powder
 - 1 cup milk
 - 2 eggs
 - 1/2 cup shortening (melted)
 - 1/2 cup pecan nut meats (chopped)

Place brown sugar and graham flour in a mixing bowl and mix thoroughly. Mix and sift general purpose flour, salt, and baking powder and add to the brown sugar mixture. Beat milk and eggs together and to them add the melted shortening. Pour this liquid mixture into the dry ingredients and mix as gently as possible with a fork. Do not stir or beat. Add nut meats. Place in well-greased muffin tins and bake in a very hot oven (475 degrees) for approximately 15 minutes.

Moved by Laidlaw, supported by Burgess that the report of Committee on Claims and Accounts Number Two be accepted and adopted as read. The motion prevailed unanimously upon a call of the Roll, all supervisors being present and voting, except those excused previously for Committee duty.

Supervisor MacGillivray read the following report of the Committee on Roads and Bridges:

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors, Iosco County.

Gentlemen: Your committee on roads and bridges respectfully reports its findings on inspection of the roads and bridges of Iosco County:

Improvements: Establishments of short access road to Tawas Bay—Point to Bay Road or Park.

1.4 mile, North Rodman Hill, at Wilber Cemetery.

New abutment and floor, Greene Bridge, Wilber—26 ft. span.

1.2 mile, gravel and stone, Anderson Road, Baldwin.

1 mile, Blacktop, Tawas Beach road.

1 mile gravel and stone, County farm road—Tawas Big Hill.

New 1-10 x 19 concrete bridge, Rempert Hill, Tawas Twp.

1.2 mile, gravel and stone, Carpenter Road, at East Branch, Grant.

2.3 mile grade Crosby Road, on 1-4 line, Sec. 33, Sherman.

1 mile, gravel and stone, No. 484, Section 31, Sherman.

1 mile, Blacktop, National City—Turner Road—Sherman.

New structure, Legget Bridge, Cresote pile structure, across East Branch—60 foot span, Sherman.

1 mile, of grade No. 508-5, West side Sec. 28, Burleigh.

1 mile of grade and partial stoning, No. 506-4-5, 1-4 line of Secs. 20 and 29, Burleigh.

1 mile of grade and partial stoning, Sec. line, West side of Secs. 19 and 20, Burleigh.

13 mile grade on Bionette Road, Oscoda.

Grade on the Loud Dam Road, Oscoda—About three miles.

1-2 mile grade and stoning, cemetery road, Reno.

1-2 mile grade partial stoning 1-4 line Sec. 24, Reno.

Restoration of Street levels and gutter work, Oscoda.

Stoning of 3-4 mile, Hain street, Au Sable.

RECOMMENDATIONS We recommend that work on the Sherman-Alabaster road be resumed as soon as the Commission's resources will allow such activity, and that the road be carried on its program for completion as a permanent, finished highway.

We recommend that the grading crew now working in Burleigh be transferred to Plainfield for miscellaneous work there, when its Burleigh assignments are completed, and form Plainfield to repair work on the Aitkens Road at Tawas Point. Also that while grading crew is in Plainfield, needed improvements be made on Graves Hill, including guard rails for the hill, on this school bus route.

We recommend that 1-2 mile east from Rodmans, Wilber, be graded and stoned at the earliest time possible.

We recommend continued stone improvement on the Bergeson front road, Baldwin.

We recommend that a mile stretch on the tower line road, where it crosses Hale Creek, be graded and stoned, and the hills be cut down, the dirt removal being approximately 5,000 yards.

We recommend the road between Five Channels and Loud Dams—approximately three miles in bad condition—be improved by grading.

We recommend clearing, grubbing and grading of two streets connecting US 23 with Lake Huron, distance of about 200 yards each, in Oscoda Beach Subdivision, Oscoda. This Plat has existed for a period of 21 years, with no public improvement.

We recommend removing a portion of the sand hills on both sides of the crossing on old US 23, where it crosses the D & M Railroad tracks to enter Au Sable. Several fatal accidents have occurred at this location by reason of the track being obscured, and the dangerous condition there still exists.

We recommend that any improvements or dust laying on the road traversing the East side of Lake Van Eitan, Oscoda be carried in the future past the Loud turn to cottages several hundred yards further north, who have not been receiving this service.

Special Explanations: Your committee desires to state that the reason for the improvements on the road which serves for transportation of the products of the National Gypsum Company, which happens to pass the home of a member of the Road Commission, is because of the necessity of such an improved road for such transportation. Further that registration of the trucks of the transportation contracting firm in Iosco County brings a financial return annually which more than compounds for the expenditure of the special road improvements.

Your committee has conferred with the Road Commission members on the proposal of moving the Crushing platform from its present location to its county line region quarry, and we earnestly endorse the proposal. We find that deposits on the present site have been reduced to a negligible quantity, hard to mine, and too heavily clayed, while the other site shows great quantities of the stone in readily handled layers varying from 4 to 18 inches in thickness, standing in places in exposed shelves and benches, and in most of the area so near the surface as to be almost exposed. Considering the high cost of stripping to reach the remnants of the present location deposits, we recommend as an economy move that the plant be set on the new location at the Commission's earliest convenience.

Monument River Road: Your Committee has information that leads us to believe that the time is opportune to petition the State Highway Department to take over the river road as a Michigan Highway. It was suggested by Murry D. Van Wagoner to the County Road Commission some years ago that when the road was developed to a certain standard he believed his department would be in a receptive mood for such a petition. We understand the requirements have been complied with. We recommend that this Board pass a resolution carrying with it a petition form for the taking over of this much travelled thoroughfare, by the State of Michigan, and that your committee and Executive Engineer, J. N. Soan of the Road Commission, be empowered and instructed to present the petition to the State Highway Commission at Lansing.

Respectfully submitted, H. Brayman, Ferdinand Schmalz, James MacGillivray, Chairman.

Moved by MacGillivray, supported by Schmalz, that the report of the Committee on Roads and Bridges be accepted and adopted. The motion prevailed unanimously upon a call of the roll, all Supervisors being present and voting, excepting those previously excused for committee duty.

The Chairman at this time appointed Anderson Seifert, and Black as the Insurance Committee of the Board of Supervisors, in conformity with the motion of this morning's session.

Gay Scottie Pattern For Pillow or Toy

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

BY FAR the most admired toy in a gay and modern nursery was a red and black striped Scottie with a gleam in his button eye. This pattern was used for an applique for Sonny's pillow which met with enthusiastic approval.

By this time it seemed obvious that a Scottie might solve the Christmas gift problem for any number of people. So here he is.

You can make a pattern for him yourself by following the diagram. By ruling the paper in either larger or smaller squares, you may make a dog any size desired. A tiny applique is amusing for a bathrobe or jacket pocket.

Then Eloise and Edith came in, and presently the men, and Lucy and Del from a trip to the small porkers, and Adelaide going out with Del to dinner was uncomfortably aware that Jane had either artlessly or artfully refused to discuss with her the women who had been loved by Frederick Towne!

The dinner was delicious. "Our farm products," Delafield boasted. Even the fish, it seemed, he had caught that morning, motoring over to the river and bringing them back to be split and broiled and served with little new potatoes. There was chicken and asparagus, small cream cheeses with the salad, heaped-up berries in a Royal Worcester bowl, roses from the garden. "All home-grown," said the proud new husband.

Jane ate with little appetite. She had refused to discuss with Adelaide the former heart affairs of her betrothed, but the words rang in her ears, "The women that Ricky has loved."

Jane was young. And to youth, love is for the eternities. The thought of herself as one of a succession of Dulcineas was degrading. She was restless and unhappy. It was useless to assure herself that Towne had chosen her above all the rest. She was not sophisticated enough to assume that it is, perhaps, better to be a man's last love than his first. That Towne had made it possible for any woman to speak of him as Adelaide spoke, seemed to Jane to drag her own relation to him in the dust.

The strength of the wind increased. The table was sheltered by the house, but at last Delafield decided, "We'd better go in. The rain is coming. We can have our coffee in the hall."

Their leaving had the effect of a stampede. Big drops splashed into the plates. The men servants and maids scurried to the rescue of china and linen.

The draperies of the women streamed in the wind. Adelaide's tulle was a banner of green and blue. The peacock came swiftly on the walk, crying raucously, and found a sheltered spot beneath the steps.

From the wide hall, they saw the rain in silver sheets. Then the doors were shut against the beating wind.

They drank their coffee, and bridge tables were brought in. There were enough without Jane to form two tables. And she was glad. She wandered into the living-room and curled herself up in a window-seat. The window opened on the porch. Beyond the white pillars she could see the road, and the rain-drenched garden.

After a time the rain stopped, and the world showed clear as crystal against the opal brightness of the western sky. The peacock came out of his hiding-place, and dragged a long, heavy tail over the sodden lawn.

It was cool and the air was sweet. Jane lay with her head against a cushion, looking out. She was lonely and wished that Towne would come. Perhaps in his presence her doubts would vanish. It grew dark and darker. Jane shut her eyes and at last she fell asleep.

She was waked by Towne's voice. He was on the porch. "Where is everybody?"

It was Adelaide who answered him. "They have motored into Alexandria to the movies. Eloise would have it. But I stayed—waiting for you, Ricky."

"Where's Jane?"

"She went up-stairs early. Like a sleepy child."

Jane heard his laugh. "She is a child—a darling child."

Then in the darkness Adelaide said, "Don't, Ricky."

"Why not?"

"Do you remember that once upon a time you called me—a darling child?"

"Did I? Well, perhaps you were. You are certainly a very charming woman."

Jane, listening breathlessly, assured herself that of course he was polite. He had to be.

Adelaide was speaking. "So you are going to make the announcement tomorrow?"

"Who told you?"

"Edith."

"Well, it seemed best, Adelaide. The wedding day isn't far off—and the world will have to know it."

A hushed moment, then, "Oh, Ricky, Ricky!"

"Adelaide! Don't take it like that."

"I can't help it. You are going out of my life. And you've always been so strong, and big, and brave. No other man will ever match you."

When he spoke, his voice had a new and softer note. "I didn't dream it would hurt you."

CHAPTER XVI

Young Baldwin Barnes, on Saturday morning, ate breakfast alone in the little house. He read his paper and drank his coffee. But the savor of things was gone. He missed Jane. Her engaging chatter, the spirited challenge, even the small irritations. "She is such a darling-dear," was his homesick meditation.

Oh, a man needed a woman on the other side of the table. And when Jane was married, what then? Edith!

Oh, if he might! If Philomel might sing for her! Toast and poached eggs! Nectar and ambrosia! His little house a castle!

"But it isn't mine own," the young poet reminded himself; "there is still the mortgage." He came down to earth, cleared the table, fed the pussy-cats. Then he went down to the post-box to get the mail.

The Barnes' mail was rarely voluminous, rarely interesting. A bill or two, a letter from Judy—some futile advertising stuff.

This morning, however, there was a long envelope. In one corner was the name of the magazine to which, nearly six months before, Baldy had sent his prize cover design. The thing had almost gone out of his thoughts. He had long ceased to hope. Money did not miraculously fall into one's lap.

Towne, riding like mad along the Virginia roads.

He tore open the envelope. Within was a closely typed letter and a pale pink check.

The check was for two thousand dollars. He had won the prize!

Breathless with the thought of it, deprived of strength, he sat down on the terrace steps. Merrymaid and the kitten came down and angled for attention, but Baldy overlooked them utterly. The letter was astounding. The magazine had not only given him the prize but they wanted more of his work. They would pay well for it—and if he would come to New York at their expense, the art editor would like to talk it over!

Baldy, looking up from the pregnant phrases and catching Merrymaid's eye upon him, demanded, "Now, what do you think of that? Shall I resign from the office? I'll tell the world, I will!"

Oh, the thing might even make it possible for him to marry Edith. He could at least pay for the honeymoon—preserve some sense of personal independence while he worked towards fame. If she would only see it. That he must ask her to live for a time—in the little house. He'd make things easy for her—oh, well, the thing could be done—it could be done.

He flew up the steps on the wings of his delight. He would ride like the wind to Virginia—find Edith in a rose-garden, fling himself at her feet. Declare his good fortune! And he would see her eyes!

Packing his bag, he decided to stop in Washington, and perpetrate a few extravagances. Something for Edith. Something for Jane. Something for himself. There would be no harm in looking his best.

He arrived at Grass Hills in time for lunch. His little flivver came up the drive as proudly as a limousine. And Baldy descending was a gay and gallant figure. There was no one in sight but the servants who took his bag, and drove his car around to the garage. A maid in rose linen said that Mr. and Mrs. Simms were at the stables. Miss Towne was on the links with the other guests, and would return from the Country Club in time for lunch at two o'clock. Miss Barnes was up-stairs. Her head had ached, and she had had her breakfast in bed.

"Will you let her know that I am here?"

The maid went up and came down to say that Miss Barnes was in the second gallery—and would he go right up.

The second gallery looked out over the river. Jane lay in a long chair. She was pale, and there were shadows under her eyes.

"Oh, look here, Jane," Baldy blurted out, "is it as bad as this?"

"I'm just—lazy." She sat up and kissed him. Then buried her face in his coat and wept silently.

"For heaven's sake, Jane," he patted her shoulder, "what's the matter?"

"I want to go home."

He looked blank. "Home?"

"Yes." She stopped crying. "Baldy, something has happened—and I've got to tell you." Tensely, with her hands clasped about her knees, she rehearsed for him the scene between Adelaide and Frederick Towne. And when she finished she said, "I can't marry him."

"Of course not. A girl like you. You'd be miserable. And that's the end of it."

"Utterly miserable." She stared before her. Then presently she went on, "I stayed up-stairs all the morning. Lucy and Edith have been perfect dears. I think Edith lays it to the announcement of my engagement tonight. That I was dreading it. Of course it mustn't be announced, Baldy."

He stood up, sternly renouncing his dreams. "Get your things on, Jane, and I'll take you home. You can't stay here, of course. We can decide later what it is best to do."

"I don't see how I can break it off. He's done so much for us. I can't ever—pay him—"

In Baldy's pocket was the pink slip. He took it out and handed it to his sister. "Jane, I got the prize. Two thousand dollars."

"Baldy!" Her tone was incredulous.

He had no joy in the announcement. The thing had ceased to mean freedom—it had ceased to mean—Edith. It meant only one thing at the moment, to free Jane from bondage.

He gave Jane the letter and she read it. "It is your great opportunity."

"Yes." He refused to discuss that aspect of it. "And it comes in the nick of time for you, old dear."

Their flight was a hurried one. A note for Lucy and one for Towne. A note for Edith!

Jane was not well was the reason given their hostess. The note to Towne said more than that. And the note left for Edith was—renunciation.

Edith coming home to luncheon found the note in her room. All the morning she had been filled with glorious anticipation. Baldy would arrive in a few hours. Together they would walk down that trellised path to the fountain, they would sit on the marble coping. She would trail her hand through the water. Further than that she would not let her imagination carry her. It was enough that she would see him in that magic place with his air of golden youth.

But she was not to see him, for the note said:

"Beloved—I make no excuse for calling you that because I say it always in my heart—Jane has made up her mind that she cannot marry your uncle. So we are leaving at once."

"I can't tell you what the thought of these two days with you meant to me. And now I must give them up. Perhaps I must give you up, I don't know. I came with high hopes. I go away without any hope at all. But I love you."

Edith read the note twice, then put it to her lips. She hardly dared admit to herself the keenness of her disappointment.

She stood for a long time at the window looking out. Why had Jane decided not to marry Uncle Frederick? What had happened since yesterday afternoon?

From Edith's window she could see the south lawn. The servants were arranging a buffet luncheon. Little tables were set around—and wicker chairs. Adelaide, tall and fair, in her favorite blue and a broad black hat stood by one of the little tables. She was feeding the peacock with bits of bread. She made a picture, and Towne's window faced that way.

"I wonder—" Edith said, and stopped. She remembered coming in from the movies the night before and finding Adelaide and Towne out on the porch. And where was Jane?

Edith did not eat lunch. He pleaded important business, and had his car brought around. But every-body knew that he was following Jane. Mystery was in the air. Adelaide was restless. Only Edith knew the truth.

After lunch, she told Lucy. "Jane isn't going to marry Uncle Fred. I don't know why. But I am afraid that it is breaking up your house party."

"I hope it is," said Lucy, calmly. "Delafield is bored to death. He wants to get back to his pigs and roses. I am speaking frankly to you because I know you understand. I want our lives to be bigger and broader than they would have been if we hadn't met. And as for you"—her voice shook a little—"you'll always be a sort of goddess blessing our hearth."

Edith bent and kissed her, emotion gripping her. "Your hearth is blessed without me," she said, "but I'll always be glad to come."

Towne, riding like mad along the Virginia roads, behind the competent Briggs, pondered over Jane's letter.

"I was not up-stairs last night when you came. I was asleep in the window-seat of the living-room, just off the porch. And your voice waked me, and I heard what you said, and Mrs. Laramore. And I can't marry you. I know how much you've done for me—and I shall never forget your goodness. Baldy will take me home."

Enclosed was a pink check. Towne blamed Adelaide furiously. Of course it was her fault. Such foolishness. And sentimentality. And he had been weak enough to fall for it.

Yet, as he cooled a bit, he was glad that Jane had showed her resentment. It was in keeping with his conception of her. Her innocence had flamed against such sophistication. There might, too, be a hint of jealousy. Women were like that.

As they whirled through Washington, Briggs voiced his fears. "If we meet a cop it will be all up with us, Mr. Towne."

"Take a chance, Briggs. Give her more gas. We've got to get there."

With all their speed, however, it was four o'clock when they reached Sherwood. Towne was still in the clothes he had worn on the links. He had not eaten since breakfast. He felt the strain.

He stormed up the terrace, where once he had climbed in the snow. He rang the bell. It whirred and whirred again in the silence. The house was empty.

THE WORKS OF THE MESSIAH

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 8:14-27. GOLDEN TEXT—Jesus of Nazareth went about doing good.—Acts 10:38.

"Does it work?" Modern man is not impressed by a thing simply because great claims are made for it or it is intricately organized. After all, the important thing is, does it really work? Such a test can be carried to an extreme and the finest and richest things of life be thrown aside because they have no utilitarian value. But in general, the question is a good one, and especially is that true as it is applied to religious systems and philosophies of life. These claim to have power to deliver man from his sin and give him peace and rest. What we want to know is, do they actually do it, not only in the day of health and prosperity, but in the hour of death and devastation? The answer is that every one of them has failed and does fail, with the exception of Christianity, which comes "not in word but in power" (I Cor. 4:20). In Christianity is found the only real dynamic for daily living.

I. Personal Needs Satisfied (vv. 14-17).

This entire section of the Gospel of Matthew is concerned with miracles. It is interesting to note how many of these events concern personal needs. There is scant comfort to the needy one to speak to him in generalities about a great God who is ready to help people. When I am in need I want to know whether there is any help for me. Jesus healed Peter's mother in the home, and then He went out and healed multitudes in the throng, but in each case it was a personal interest which He took and a personal healing that was received.

Observe also that He met the need of all whether they were sick in body, mind or spirit. Someone may say, "That is all very well, but that took place when He was here on earth." Well, He is here now, working in and through the power of the Holy Spirit and in and through His children. The Lord Jesus Christ daily satisfies every need of His disciples, and often does so in ways which are miraculous in their sight.

II. Sacrificial Service Exemplified (vv. 18-22).

Following Jesus in discipleship is more than speaking sweet words of devotion or of taking part in the carrying out of some public worship ministry. To really follow Him is to "follow one whose vocation is such that there are incessant demands compelling the renunciation of home and the comforts of a settled life. Only the call of God can make one equal to the demands of such a hazardous life" (Edward E. Anderson).

Observe that even the demands which love may present on behalf of an aged father must not be permitted to stand between the disciple and his Lord. There is no thought of unkindness or lack of consideration here, for as our Lord points out, those who are spiritually dead, although still physically alive, may well be called on to care for the physical needs of an aged parent, even in the hour of death, if the Lord Jesus has worked for His disciple to do elsewhere.

There is no thought of neglect of the duties of life, but rather of a placing of the Lord first, whatever else may take the second place. The blight upon many a Christian experience is that almost anything else which is of interest is allowed to take first place and the Lord must take second place if He is given any place at all.

III. Divine Power Demonstrated (vv. 23-27).

There are those in the world who are unable to see the workings of God's power in the spiritual realm because they themselves have not been spiritually born again (I Cor. 2:14). For these the Lord here presented the working of His mighty power in the realm of nature.

Satan, who is "the prince of this world" (John 14:30) had evidently whipped the waves of the sea into a mighty storm, possibly thus hoping to drown Jesus and get rid of his divine adversary, but the Lord Himself speaks in the majesty of His eternal power and we read that "there was a great calm" (v. 26). Even His disciples were strangely astonished that the very "winds and the sea obey Him." Yes, the forces of nature respond to His slightest word. The winds and the sea obey Him. But what is even more wonderful is that the turmoil of a man's soul becomes a great and blessed calm when this holy Lord Jesus speaks the word of peace.

Confused and troubled man or woman who reads these words, will you not now by faith submit yourself to the One who can speak to you, who can meet and satisfy every one of your needs, and who can give you the blessed privilege of sacrificial service on His behalf in a needy world?

The actress was appearing in a breakfast scene where eggs were being served, and a child sitting in a box made manifest his interest in the food. Stepping down to the footlights the actress tendered the youngster an egg; but his mother drew back her child with a sign of annoyance.

"You should let the young man take it," said the actress quietly. "It is quite extraordinary for eggs to be passed from this side of the footlights."

School Notes

We note that a recent publication of the Michigan Department of Public Instruction points out that the minimum length of a school year is determined by statute. The legal length of the year depends on the valuation of the school district and the number of children on the census. The publication also points out that the penalty for maintaining a school year shorter than the legal minimum is the forfeiture of state aid, and that it is the duty of the district to furnish the money to maintain the necessary length of school year after using the money furnished by the state. We desire to take this opportunity to point out that the amount of money which a district is permitted to furnish for the support of its school is now quite definitely limited by the state constitution, and that as a consequence the matter has practically been taken from the hands of the school officials of the district. As a result, we cannot but wonder somewhat just what a district should do to maintain the legal length of school year when it has exhausted the state aid money and also all of the money which the district can legally raise. We realize only too well that this could be done this year in the local district, and yet spend considerably less than was once spent for the current expenses of the school.

HIGH SCHOOL

The members of the high school were recently given the Otis Intelligence test. This should be of special interest to those in the guidance class. It once was thought that students should not be told the results of tests of this nature, but it now is thought that students should know as much as possible in regard to themselves.

Not a quiver in a Hoodful

LIFT the bonnet of a 1940 Buick and you'll see a hoodful of power plant whose very dimensions reveal the vast reserve of energy it puts at your command.

But just start this over-size giant—stir this sleeping brute into action, and you find that only the blur of the fan blades betrays its readiness to get up and go!

For you're looking at an engine balanced within limits eight to sixteen times closer than ordinary practice permits.

So precise is Buick's exclusive method of micropoise-balancing after assembly that a misplaced dime's weight on the flywheel rim is enough to reject any engine until that condition has been corrected.

On that score alone this hundred-plus horsepower straight-eight qualifies as the world's one-and-only of its kind.

But in addition to that it's a valve-in-head engine, 10% more efficient, size for size—and it's a Dynaflex valve-in-head, which means it gets more good out of every drop of gas!

The car this great eight powers has plenty to lay claim to your attention—smart new styling, BuCoil Springing's "full float" comfort, "finger flick" Handishift transmission, seats in some models that are next thing to five feet wide.

But even if you overlook them and all the rest of its 72 new features—your best buy's still Buick on its power plant alone.

There's not a quiver in a hoodful of ready-to-ramble energy—and nobody will be more pleased to prove it than your nearest Buick dealer!

*Transportation based on rail rates, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories—extra. Prices subject to change without notice.

"Best buy's Buick!"
