Bowling...

The first half of the Tawas City bowling season ended with ties for first place in three leagues, Peoples State Bank and Old Home Bread in the Major league, Tawas City Recreation and East Tawas in the Women's Majors, and Mackinaw Bar of Au Gres and Whittemore in the Inter City league. On Thursday evening the Majors and Women's leagues bowled their play-off games with a three game total pin match, before a packed house of spectators to witness these games at the Tawas City Recreation hall.

The Whittemore-Mackinac Bar of Au Gres match was bowled on Tuesday evening. Whittemore winning the match by 46 pins. The final score was Whittemore 2931, Mackinac Bar 2885. The outcome of the match was not certain until the final balls were rolled in the last game. Bob Dahne had sore eyes from watching the score sheet, and Roy O'Neil, of the Mackinac Bar team, discovered that he had chewed up his cigar during the excitement of the match. High individual scores were: O'Neil 248; Fuerst of Whittemore, 236. All figures include the handicap.

The Peoples State Bank took the Old Home Bread team into camp by rolling the highest three game score ever bowled on the Tawas City alleys. Old Home Bread took the first game by thirty pins, but the Peoples State Bank came back and won the next two games by a comfortable margin.

Grant Shattuck was under a doctor's care all day Thursday trying to keep his nerves under control. He was a little jittery the first two games but settled down in the third game and spilled 226 actual pins. Harold Gould had his "hook ball" working perfectly and hit the 600 actual as he said he could do.

The pressure was on Doc LeClair and he almost broke his legs trying to keep from getting splits, and he made a good job of it by bowling an excellent score. Doc Austin's substitute, Jack McArdle held up his end and Eddie Siefeloff hit his usual heavy score.

C. T. Prescott, Jr., was the high bowler with a total score of 615, and just behind him was the old reliable, Guy Lickfelt, with 587. The total team score, including handicaps was Peoples State Bank 3197, Old Home Bread 3087.

The Ladies match was a very close finish with the Tawas City Recreation winning by a margin of 10 pins. June Gould of the East Tawas team rolled high game with a mark of 173. Her three game total was 455. Mrs. Austin, also of the East Tawas team was second with 419. Marjorie Lickfelt was high on the Recreation team with a three game score of 429. She was followed by Mrs. A. Fessenden with 425.

The Inter City League will start the second half of the season next Tuesday evening. The Ladies League will renew play on Wednesday evening and the Minors on Thursday evening. The Majors will begin the new series on Monday evening, January 8.

The first three games of the 12-game series between the Tawas City and East Tawas Recreation teams to determine the championship for Isosco county was won by Tawas City with a margin of 214 pins. The total scores were Tawas City 2779, East

CHARLES GRISE DIES SUDDENLY THURSDAY A.M.

Member of Well Known Pioneer Tawas City Family

Charles Grise, a member of one of Tawas City's pioneer families, died Thursday morning. It is thought that death resulted from the effects of injuries which Mr. Grise received in an automobile accident last September. The deceased was 69 years of age. Funeral services will be held at nine o'clock next Tuesday morning at St. Joseph church. Rev. Robert Neuman will officiate.

Charles Grise was born October 3, 1870, at Tawas City and had been a resident of this city all of his life. He was unmarried. For many years he had been engaged in the manufacture of cement blocks and the construction of concrete work. He was highly esteemed by the people of this city and the surrounding community, and the many friends deeply sympathize with the bereaved family.

The deceased is survived by a sister, Elizabeth Grise, of this city; three brothers, Adolph Grise of this city, Edward Grise, of East Tawas, and Eli Grise, of Chicago; and three nephews, Harold Grise, of Detroit, Gilbert Grise, of Chicago, and Walter Grise, of Crosswell.

Card of Thanks

We are deeply grateful to friends and neighbors for their numberless acts of kindness at the time of the death of our loved one. The beautiful flowers bespoke a sympathy which we appreciate. We wish to thank, also, those who loaned cars for the funeral, and helped in many ways to lighten our burden of sorrow.

Mrs. Gertie Ross and family.
Mrs. Gretie Ross and family.

Tawas 2565. Scott Schuman was the high scorer for East Tawas with a three game total of 545. Dutch Staudacher was the high kegger for the Tawas City five with a total of 625. Walt Laidlaw spilled the maples for 583. The second set of games will be bowled on the East Tawas alleys Friday evening (today). The winners of the series will be determined by the total pins for the 12 games.

Soil Conservation Meets Will Begin Next Week

The 21 Agricultural Conservation Community Committees, three County Committees, and the County Agricultural Agent attended a two day discussion meeting at the court house last week. County Chairman Victor J. Anderson of Alabaster was in charge of the meeting at which was discussed the 1940 Agricultural Conservation Program as it applies to agriculture within Isosco county. The program is very similar to the one now in operation which will be completed within the next few weeks.

Following the two day meeting committees are planning to return to their respective communities and hold small discussion meetings with their neighbors in which they hope to emphasize the fundamentals of the program, which are to improve soil fertility and preserve the natural resources of the county. At these meetings the committees hope to point out portions of the program which are most useful to Isosco county farmers and assist them in selecting practices which are of greater value in the preservation and maintaining of soil fertility and at the same time will yield the farmer the greatest monetary returns.

Discussion leaders will use a newly purchased film strip projector to assist them in pointing out and emphasizing important factors and to add interest to the program.

Community meetings which are scheduled for next week will be held Tuesday evening, January 2, at the Alabaster school. Emil Mackenin of that town will be in charge of the discussion. The Burleigh community meetings are scheduled for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, January 3, 4 and 5. The committees in charge of these meetings will be Earl Partlo, C. H. Beardslee and J. C. Monroe.

Community committees have now completed the task of setting individual farm allotments for 1940. They have been approved by County Committee Chairman Victor J. Anderson, Harry W. Cross and Victor W. Heriman. The next approval must be made by a representative of the State A. C. P. Committee. This will without a doubt be done by C. W. Wing, fieldman for this district and allotment notices will then be forwarded to farm operators.

County Chairman Anderson wishes to encourage all farm people and others interested in proper land use and avail themselves with the fundamentals of the 1940 AAA program.

Notice

Having purchased the business known as the Pioneer Dairy of East Tawas all bills outstanding against this company must be presented within 30 days.

Harold Werth, Manager.
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nelson and daughters of Big Rapids are spending a few days in the city with Mrs. Fred Rollin.

Dr. and Mrs. Harold Timreck of Beaverton and sister, Mrs. John Bunting, of Ann Arbor were Christmas guests of relatives here.

Miss Doris and John Brugger of Detroit spent Christmas at their home here.

Edward and Miss Elizabeth Martin of Detroit are spending the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Murray, son Gregory, and Allen Dillon of Flint spent Christmas at their home in this city.

SILVER VALLEY SPORTS AREA IMPROVED

Project In Accord With General Policy of Government

The development of the Silver Valley Winter Sports Area on the Silver Creek District of the Huron National Forest is in accordance with the general policy laid down for the Forest Service by the Secretary of Agriculture in his letter to the Forester dated February 1, 1905. This policy is as good today as it was thirty-five years ago and part of it is quoted to bring out the full understanding the Secretary of Agriculture had concerning the use of National Forest lands:

"In the administration of the forest reserves (called National Forest since March 4, 1907) it must be clearly born in mind that all land is to be devoted to its most productive use for the permanent good of the whole people, and not for the temporary benefit of individuals or companies. All the resources of the forest reserves are for use, and this use must be brought about in a thoroughly prompt and businesslike manner, under such restrictions only as will insure the permanence of these resources. In the management of each reserve local questions will be decided upon local grounds; the dominant industry will be considered first, but with as little restriction as possible; and where conflicting interests must be reconciled the question will be decided from the standpoint of the greatest good of the greatest number in the long run."

Two years ago a group of business men of Isosco county met with Forest Supervisor R. E. Crowell of the Huron National Forest to see what could be done to provide an area with minor developments suitable for winter sports. A start was made with a temporary toboggan slide and ski run. The development now consists of:

Goodrich-Nash

The Methodist church of East Tawas was the scene Wednesday afternoon of the wedding of Patience Adelaide Goodrich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Goodrich and Charles Leslie Nash, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Nash. The young people are both residents of East Tawas. The ceremony was performed at two o'clock with Rev. S. A. Carey officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore ivory cut-velvet over satin. The gown was fashioned with short puffed sleeves and a slight train. The shoulder length veil had a halo effect formed also of ivory velvet. She carried a cascade bouquet of white rosebuds and carnations entwined with ivory ribbon.

Miss Marie Nash, a sister of the groom, was maid of honor and only attendant of the bride. Her gown was of teal blue velvet fashioned similarly to that of the bride and she carried an arm bouquet of talisman roses. A turban of dubonnet and teal blue velvet formed her headpiece.

Carlton Nash served his brother as best man and the ushers were Albert Trestrail, Frederick Misner and Claud Nash, brother of the groom. Mrs. Goodrich chose dark blue velvet for her daughter's wedding and her corsage was of pink rosebuds. Mrs. Nash wore dubonnet velvet and her corsage was formed of talisman roses.

A reception attended by about 125 friends and relatives was held in the church parlor immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was centered with the tiered wedding cake and there were bouquets of pink and white flowers at either end.

Mrs. H. Boice played the wedding march.

For her going away outfit Mrs. Nash wore an ensemble in the latest even shade. The couple left for a short wedding trip after which they will make their home in East Tawas.

Out of town guests attended from Flint, Clio, Detroit, Evart, Bay City and Lansing.

Mrs. Lillian Briggs

Mrs. Lillian Briggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Schroeder of Sherman township, died Tuesday afternoon at her home at Pontiac after an illness of three months. The deceased was 24 years old and was a graduate of the Whittemore high school.

She is survived by the husband, Howard Briggs, two children, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Schroeder, three brother, George E. Schroeder, William Schroeder and Herbert Schroeder, of Pontiac, and two sisters, Mrs. Russell Gillespie, of West Branch, and Mrs. Delbert Schrader, of Delano.

The funeral services will be held from Emanuel Lutheran church, Tawas City, Friday afternoon (today). Rev. J. J. Roeckle officiating.

Harry S. Ross

Harry S. Ross, whose serious condition for a week or ten days, led his family to take him to a Bay City hospital last Friday, died Saturday quite suddenly. The young man had but recently recovered from an attack of typhoid fever, and in his weakened condition was unable to withstand an operation.

The deceased was the son of Mrs. Gertie Ross of Baldwin township. He was born March 31, 1914, in Tawas township. He attended school in Alabaster and in East Tawas, and about three years ago took up a residence with his mother in Baldwin township. He was married in June this year to Miss Myrtle Grabow of Baldwin.

Funeral services were held Tuesday from the Assembly of God church, where he worshipped, and where he had been entrusted with the office of trustee and treasurer. Burial was in the family lot in the Tawas City cemetery. Officiating at the funeral was Rev. Andrew Basell of Delevare, Ohio, who spoke feelingly of the young man's exemplary life, and paid him a well-deserved tribute.

Music for the service was furnished by Miss Maxine Haymond of Glennie, and Rev. Alfred J. Hamlin, the pastor of the church. Mrs. Hamlin served as accompanist. The selections were "Face To Face" and "Good Morning Up There."

The pall bearers were chosen from boyhood friends and neighbors of the deceased. They were William Gackstetter, Charles Nash, Jack Bullock, Everett Holmes, Anthony Lorenz and Edwin Zaharias.

Surviving are the widow, Myrtle, the mother, Mrs. Gertie Ross, and four brothers and three sisters, Ray Ross of Osoda, Harold (a twin), Richard and Glenn, Mrs. Mabel Roach of East Tawas, and Gladys and Mildred Ross, also the grandmother, Mrs. Jay Platte of East Tawas.

Attendants from out of town at the funeral included Mrs. Ben Tebo, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ross of Detroit. Mrs. Nina Bigelow of Roseville; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ross and daughter, Betsy, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Conlin, of Flint; Mrs. William Schack, of Birmingham; Mrs. Frank Weigel and Mrs. Neil Muir, of Valley Center; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Barr and Mrs. William Cranin, Jr., of Brown City; Mrs. Carl Liebertz and Mrs. Leland Dennis, of Pontiac; Mrs. Earl Brown and children, Mrs. Marlette; and Mrs. Seymour Schack and children, of Detroit.

EAST AND WEST

BY TALBOT MUNDY

TALBOT MUNDY—WNU SERVICE

THE STORY THUS FAR

Captain Carl Norwood has been sent from his native England to the Kadur River district in India, along with his indispensable manservant, Moses O'Leary, a valuable secret diamond mine belongs to the temple priests or to the ruler, the Maharajah of Kadur. Norwood calls on the British Residency to pay his initial respects. On his way he catches a glimpse of two women in a palace carriage, one of whom is young and beautiful. The other woman he knows to be the Maharane of Kadur. O'Leary later tells him that the young woman is an American girl named Lynn Harding, who with her aunt, Mrs. Deborah Harding, is a guest at the palace. On a sightseeing tour Mrs. Harding sprains an ankle, and sends to the palace for aid. Prince Rundhia, handsome, spoiled nephew of the rulers, comes to her rescue, and takes her back to the palace where he meets Lynn.

"We love you and we will all do our best to make you happy," said the Maharane. "But the astrologer says this is a time of great crisis for us. I believe you are a sending, as we call it. There are many sendings just now, and they are badly mixed. They are contradictory and in opposition to one another. His Highness my husband is so anxious to make a good impression on Captain Norwood. It is so important. Will you help us to make a good impression on him?"

"But I might do the wrong thing! I might say the wrong word. I might commit some indiscretion. Am I in on an intrigue?" asked Lynn.

"Yes, dear, a very serious intrigue." "Oh, what fun! Is it dangerous?" "The astrologer says that it might become dangerous."

"Maharane dear, this sounds wonderful! Is it a real dark oriental intrigue?"

The Maharane laughed amiably, after a second's hesitation and with noticeable effort:

"Yes, dear, it is certainly dark. It is secret, and it has to do with a diamond mine, but I hope you won't mention that to anyone." "I'm glad you warned me. Of course, I won't mention it."

CHAPTER IV

Captain Carl Norwood's tent faced the Kadur River. About a mile away, it resembled a moonlit irregular ribbon of silver streaming from the enormous temple; and the temple was a citadel of mystery that loomed against Indian night. There was a stillness that seemed like the womb of music, into which the clatter and voices from the camp kitchen fell naturally and the hoofbeats of a cantering horse thudded on dusty earth like calculated drumbeats.

A shadow that was a horse was reined in with unnecessary vigor. A palace messenger dismounted. Norwood's servant, careful for his master's dignity, accepted a silver tube with the air of conferring a favor.

Norwood opened the tube, after he had made sure that the servant had withdrawn to a sufficient distance. Then he went to the table and wrote, inserted his own letter into the tube and returned it to the messenger, who cantered away.

"Tell Moses I want him." Moses O'Leary came and stood in the door of the tent.

"I've been invited to the palace for supper."

"I haven't had time yet, sir, to find out much about what's doing at the palace."

"Has anyone from the palace been enquiring about me?" "Yes, sir. Prince Rundhia's servant came asking if you'd need to borrow a horse. He knew you didn't, because we were standing right under our horses' noses when he asked the question. Besides, I weren't the right person to ask. But he slipped me a box o' the Prince's cigars and asked a lot about you."

"What did you tell him?" "Me? I told him you're the mildest man on earth, and how nothing interests you so much as running surveys."

"What did you find out?" "Same as I told you—not much. He had his orders, and he hadn't had time to forget 'em, and he's scared o' the Prince. I got a line on the Prince all right. His brains are made o' curry powder and red pepper. He's about as safe to tackle as a she-cobra that has just laid her eggs. He's what they call a steamer."

"What do you mean?" "Nothing for nothing. Lavish—at cent per cent. He'd give you anybody's money, if he knew what he was getting for it."

"If I should hear of your taking his money, you'll find yourself in serious trouble."

"Me?" "Yes. You."

"I'm incorruptible."

"What else did you find out?" "Nothing, except what I've already told you. There's a Mrs. Harding and a Miss Harding at the guesthouse. Mrs. Harding has a hurt foot and has been attended by Prince Rundhia's doctor. Miss Harding has already met Rundhia, and they've talked."

"What about the doctor?" "He's no good."

"No good in what way?"

"No self-respect. Scared. He lets the Prince brow-beat him—takes a tongue lashing without answering back—lets himself be treated like a dog—no dignity except when the Prince isn't looking."

"Nothing new about Noor Mahlam?" "No. I reckon they'll call him off. He was just a try-out, that's all he was—sort o' skirmisher to feel out the lay of the land."

"Find out all you can about Prince Rundhia."

"That ought to be easy. I'll go to the bazaar tonight."

Nothing was ever quite like it in Kadur's history. Plumbing, electric light, modern furniture, and even the will to do it can't make an Indian palace, dusty with tradition, lend itself to what the Maharane kept insisting was a picnic. She wanted to be so modern and unconventional that even Rundhia would approve. Sullenly defied by the outraged head-steward, whose turban almost rose from his hair with horror, she dismissed him and took charge.

The eventual compromise was something between a bean-feast and a banquet, in the glass-roofed patio, amid a forest of potted palms and canaries in silver cages. There were Chinese lanterns and an utter drunkenness of flowers. The long table was loaded with silver and gold.

Norwood found himself between the Maharane and Auntie.

But there were paper napkins (those were Lynn's suggestion).

The Maharane summoned the Keeper of the Jewels, selected a cluster of the most famous diamonds from the Kadur collection, and pinned it artfully on Lynn's black silk. Lynn looked stunning in embroidered black silk. It showed off her eyes and her golden hair. Excitement made her parted lips so kissable that the Maharane had qualms of conscience.

"Darling, my nephew Rundhia is a bad boy! Be careful!"

Lynn laughed. The prospect of annoying Auntie was delicious. Auntie would be scandalized by high jinks in a palace. Auntie was one of those people who think that palace life should be like one endless coronation ceremony in Westminster Abbey. She could count on Auntie to keep Rundhia within bounds.

The first arrival was Rundhia, in dinner jacket and turban of cloth of silver, critical of the cocktails; he introduced ingredients learned in Europe. He watched Lynn. He made apparently random remarks to discover her system, in case she had one.

"Miss Harding, you look innocent, gay and very beautiful. But I mistrust you. Your emotions seem to me to be too honest. You will go home and laugh at us all."

"Going home soon?" Lynn answered. "Auntie didn't laugh when she said that. She meant it."

"Is that what amuses you?" "No. I'd rather stay here. Love it."

"I wonder what you mean by love it. Do you love us?"

"I love the Maharane. And I love these pussy-footed eastern nights. I'm wild about it all. I can't bear the thought of going home yet."

Rundhia smiled. The sheep-faced Maharajah entered, toadied by attendants, who arranged the cushion for him in a chromium-plated armchair at the end of the long room. Too polite to speak any other language than English in Lynn's presence, he frowned sullenly at Rundhia and refused a cocktail:

"Your Bengali didn't bring my tonic."

"Sorry," said Rundhia. "He was attending to Mrs. Harding. He hasn't forgotten it."

Then came Norwood. Hot night though it was, he was in full mess uniform, not whites. Shorter than Rundhia; but five feet eleven inches is, after all, plenty, if it's built right and properly carried. Rundhia's six feet one, and almost perfect features, somehow weren't so noticeable after Norwood came into the room. Norwood had red hair and one of those bits of moustaches that draw attention to the line of his lips. His red shell jacket gloved a vigorous torso. There was nothing meek about him; nothing arrogant. He was a British gentleman in uniform, as unselfconscious as a visitor at the zoo.

He recognized Lynn instantly. His expression changed to let her know he recognized her. But he was imperturbable. Nothing surprised him. The palace chamberlain presented him to the Maharajah and the Maharane. He was gracious to them. The Maharane introduced him to Lynn. He studied her. He smiled. He said:

"How do you do. We have met, I believe. I am very curious. Don't tell me. It might spoil the fun of finding out. Am I right to sit next to you at dinner? I was always lucky."

Then he walked up and shook hands with Rundhia: "Pleased."

"Yes. Nice to meet you."

It suggested the well-oiled motion of machine-guns getting ready. They were enemies, at sight, as charmed to meet each other as match and powder barrel. Lynn knew it instantly.

Then Auntie arrived. After that, there was nothing to do but to listen to Auntie's distant condescensions. She was wonderful. Even Rundhia admired her spunk. Dressed in a formal evening gown on purpose to make Lynn feel ashamed of herself, taped and strapped by the doctor until she could hardly move, in torture from the twisted ankle, she proposed to dominate that company. She did, until Norwood subdued her. She wasn't used to being snubbed by mere captains.

"What do Engineer officers do?" she demanded.

"Nothing," he said, "except answer questions. Why? I might lend you a man who can do things."

The Maharajah was interrupted by the arrival of the Bengali doctor, followed by a servant with a big blue goblet on a tray. The Maharajah swallowed the contents of the goblet in one long draught and Norwood noticed that he became immediately more at ease. But Norwood was also watching Rundhia, who left off dancing with Lynn and accompanied the Bengali to the door, talking to him low-voiced.

Norwood promptly commandeered Lynn.

"If I were you," he said, "I'd stick to champagne. The cocktails taste phoney."

Lynn wasn't sure she liked him. On the other hand, she wasn't sure she didn't.

"Why were you rude to Auntie?" "She was rude to me," he answered.

"She had an accident today, so she isn't herself."

"Who is? You, for instance? Princess? Cinderella on her night out? Or rebel? You know what happens to rebels, don't you, unless their friends are reliable?"

A great gong boomed. It was as ancient as the palace. It was the bronze voice of memory.

"Picnic!" exclaimed the Maharane. "No formality. Lynn, dear, lead the way. We will all follow."

So the Maharajah came last, to the servants' horror, and it was Lynn who contrived the seating. Norwood's luck suffered a flat tire. He found himself between the Maharane and Auntie. Rundhia and Lynn sat opposite; the Maharajah at one end of the table, the Maharane at the other.

The Maharajah only pretended to eat. In theory, he had abandoned caste restrictions, but in practice, he lacked the Maharane's courage. He wailed under Auntie Harding's barrage of remarks. Her vigor depressed him. Auntie had no patience with weaklings:

"You're a hypochondriac," she told him.

The Maharajah sighed. "I am a victim of public duty. Affairs of state impose a sedentary life that has ruined my health." But I have found that Rundhia's physician understands my ailment."

The physician reappeared in the doorway, nervous, unself-assertive. He came behind Auntie's chair and whispered to her. Norwood couldn't hear what he said, but he saw him lay two pellets on a plate at Auntie's right hand.

"Drugs! No thank you!"

"What are they?" asked the Maharajah.

"Exactly the same that your Highness has been taking for your nerves," said the physician.

"I have iron nerves," said Auntie. The physician smiled. He separated the two pellets with a fork and held the plate toward the Maharajah.

"Set her the example," he suggested.

"My monotonous life consists of nothing else than setting good examples," said the Maharajah. "If it won't hurt me, it won't hurt you." He reached for a pellet.

Norwood noticed that the doctor moved the plate so that the Maharajah's fingers closed on the one that had been nearer Auntie. If it was a trick it was smooth. Rundhia was paying rather witty attention to Lynn; he was making her laugh.

"As a compliment, but against my better judgment," said Auntie. She swallowed the other pellet.

"Thank you," said the Bengali. "Thank you, madam. That relieves my anxiety. You should not be here. You should be in bed. There is no knowing what people's nerves may do to them when they have suffered a bodily shock such as you received this afternoon."

He bowed himself out.

Auntie used her napkin suddenly. Norwood watched her. He was just in time to prevent her falling from the chair. Everyone, including the Maharajah, jumped up. Lynn ran to her. The servants formed a scrimmage around Lynn and Auntie. The Maharajah scolded the Maharane sotto voce.

Rundhia sent a servant running for the doctor. The other servants picked up Auntie and carried her into the next room, where she groaned on a couch and nearly fainted from humiliation. Rundhia met the doctor at the door. Norwood, watching them, pretended not to, wasn't certain whether they spoke.

The doctor nodded, put on his most judicial professional air, felt Auntie's pulse and shrugged his shoulders.

"She has a temperature. It is impossible to say, but I think she is only suffering from nervous exhaustion and perhaps, too, from mental disturbance." He turned again to the Maharane: "I advise that Miss Lynn Harding should be moved into the palace, so that Mrs. Harding may be quiet."

Old Experiment Measures Weight of Earth

The measuring of the mass or weight of the earth is a familiar astronomical problem. Other bodies are weighed by measuring the attraction of the earth upon them; the same end is accomplished in the case of the earth, by comparing the attraction which this globe exerts upon some body on its surface with the attraction exerted upon the same body by a known mass at a known distance.

There have been several methods tried to accomplish this, the simplest of which is that of observing the deviation from the vertical of a plumb-line near an isolated mountain. The volume of the mountain must first be found, of course, by accurate survey, and its density calculated from the geological structure and density of its component rocks. But this plan, though simple, is not nearly as accurate in result as that of computation by means of the torsion balance. This method is known to astronomers as the "Cavendish experiment," from the scientist who first applied it in 1789.

Cavendish's methods consists of measuring very accurately the attraction exerted by two large spheres of metal, on two much smaller metal balls. Two globes of lead are attached to the extremities of a large horizontal bar, movable, horizontally, upon a center. Above this center, a light horizontal rod, having on its ends two very small balls of lead, is supported by a fine wire. When the rod bearing the small balls is in equilibrium, the ball having the globes of lead is moved until these globes are brought nearly in contact with the small balls. The force of their attraction then tends to draw the small rod from its position of equilibrium, and the amount of torsion thus produced is measured carefully.

This experiment is repeated several times, and the average of its results taken, so as to be as nearly accurate as possible. It is plain that the attraction of the large globes on the small ball is to the attraction of the earth upon the small balls—i. e., their weight—as the mass of the large balls is to the mass of the earth.

The result of these experiments has given the weight of the earth approximately as 6,000,000,000,000,000,000 tons.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for December 31

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

FRIENDS AND FOES OF THE KINGDOM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 13:54-14:4; 15:22-31. GOLDEN TEXT—Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you.—John 15:14.

Inventory time has come, and it seems that our lesson for today, although it does come in the middle of our study of the Gospel of Matthew, comes too to sort of a pause to consider what has been the result of that which Jesus had said and done thus far in our study.

The answer we find is that He had both friends and foes, both love and hatred. His foes apparently outnumbered His friends, and the hatred was evidently fierce and the love none too warm. So Jesus was defeated? No, far from it. As we know, He won the victory over His enemies.

The situation is not different today. Those who follow Jesus and love Him truly are quite evidently in the minority and all too often it seems that hatred for the cause of Christ has the upper hand. Are we defeated? No, Jesus will ultimately win the victory again. We are on the winning side.

I. Dishonored Because of Jealousy (13:54-58)

One would have supposed that the people of the little, almost unknown town of Nazareth would have been thrilled at the return of its native son whose fame had also spread its name abroad and whose name was on the lips of thousands because He went about doing good.

They were astonished, but they were not ready to accept Him. They could not deny the fact either of His person or His power, but they could not permit their personal pride and jealousy to lead them to deny Him.

"This story teaches us the unutterable folly of refusing to accept fact because it is astonishing, yet there are thousands of people standing in that position today concerning Jesus Christ. It is utterly unscientific, not to say irreligious. Here is an astonishing thing. They say we cannot understand how this man hath this wisdom. Has He the wisdom? Why, yes, we cannot escape it. Then in the name of God and common honesty obey the injunction and postpone the investigation" (G. Campbell Morgan).

II. Hated Because of Sin (14:1-4)

The pride of heart which causes many to hold themselves too good to follow the lowly Nazarene is sin. There is also that which even the world recognizes as sin which separates men from Christ. D. L. Moody is said to have written on the fly leaf of his Bible, "This book will keep you from sin, or sin will keep you from this book." That is true, and it is also true that sin will keep a man from Christ.

Herod, living in sin, had been rebuked by John and had silenced his accuser by the simple expedient of imprisonment and ultimately by beheading him. But one does not thus put away sin, and when this man heard of Jesus, he at once assumed that John had risen from the dead to plague him still. So Herod also took his place with the enemies of our Lord.

If a man shows his opposition to Christ, whether it be by indifference, or by jealousy, or in outright hatred, be sure there is sin in that man's life. Those who love righteousness love the righteous Lord.

III. Accepted Because of Service (15:22-31)

"The Son of man came not to be ministered unto but to minister," even to the giving of "his life a ransom for many" (Matt. 20:28). We have so overemphasized and misused the word service that one almost hesitates to speak it in connection with the name of the Lord Jesus. Yet it does summarize His earthly life and ministry. He served the needy with His teaching and preaching, with His provision for their daily needs, with His healing touch, and we read that they wondered and glorified God (v. 31).

We said above that the majority of men appear to reject Christ, but that does not mean that He has no friends. "The communion of saints" is made up of a great and almost numberless host, including in its ranks the finest and most distinguished men and women of all ages who gladly stand side by side with the humblest of believers to be counted for the Lord Jesus.

As a means of encouraging men and women everywhere to follow Christ as they find Him in His Word, the writer of these notes will send without charge a folder, "The Why and How of Bible Reading," including a Bible-reading calendar for the entire year. Use the name and address at the head of this column and if possible enclose a stamped addressed envelope or a three-cent stamp.

Patterns SEWING CIRCLE

MAKE yourself this pretty princess (8576) for town wear, business and general runabout, in a dark shade or your favorite bright color. The double collar and cuffs give you a chance to work out daring and delightful contrasts, in a season when adventurous color combinations are so extremely smart. And you can trust this dress to make your figure look slim and youthful, small and supple at the waist. Materials like faille, moire, flat crepe and velveteen are excellent choices for this.

If you've done scarcely any sewing, this design is heartily recommended as a good one to begin on, because it's so easy. A step-by-step sew chart is included to help you.

Pattern No. 8576 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, and 40. Size 14 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material without nap; 3/4 yard contrasting for each collar and cuffs. 3/4 yard ribbon.

For a pattern of this attractive model send 15 cents in coins, your name, address, style, number and size to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1324, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill.

A gay winged chair for the youngster

A GOOD deal has been said in a giant's world where all the furniture is made for grown-ups. Furniture stores are now selling chairs; tables; beds and dressers made for children. Here are all the dimensions needed for making a child's chair at home. It is of 1-inch material and the sketch shows clearly how it is screwed together after the pieces have been sawed according to the measurements given. The chair is painted deep blue; the back, seat cushions and full skirt are of red and blue cotton print with blue bindings. All dimensions for the cushions and skirt are also given in the sketch.

NOTE: If you enjoy making what you want from next to nothing, don't miss Mrs. Spears' new Sewing Book (No. 4). It is full of information for making useful things. Books No. 1, 2 and 3 contain a fascinating array of things to make for the home. Mrs. Spears has made three patterns which she will send FREE with your order for four books at 10 cents each. Quilt block patterns only—10 cents for set of three. Send order to Mrs. Spears, Drawer 10, Bedford Hills, New York.

Would YOU Like To Lose 15 Lbs. OF FAT?

Then Read This and Get Busy!

How would you like to safely and harmlessly lose some of that ugly fat in a few weeks? How would you like to lose your double chin and your bulging hips and stomach and along with it get the increase in energy and improvement in health which so often accompanies excess fat reduction?

Get on the scales today and see how much you weigh. Take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water first thing every morning to gently activate liver, bowels and kidneys. Cut down your calorie intake. Eat wisely and satisfyingly. Then after 30 days, weigh yourself again and just see if you haven't lost pounds of ugly fat. Money back if not joyfully satisfied.

Refuse imitations. Demand and get the genuine Kruschen made right here in the U. S. A. A jar lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle.

Let's go to town - at home!

NO TELLING what tomorrow's weather may be. It fools the best fore-caster. But we do want chintz for the windows. We do need a carpet sweeper, a new percolator, and a new end-table in the living-room. And we don't want to slosh around rainy streets to hunt them. Problem: How to thwart the weather man. Simple enough! Let's sit down by the fireplace and read the advertisements. Here it's comfortable and snug. We'll take the newspaper page by page, compare prices, qualities, brand-names. Tomorrow, rain or shine, we'll head for the store that has what we want, and be home again in a jiffy.

Buying at home—through the advertising columns—gives you wide selection, more time to decide, and satisfaction when you decide.

Mortgage Sale

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage made by Jane Ferns of Reno township, Iosco County, Michigan to Stella Van Camp, dated the 15th day of March, A. D. 1918, and recorded in the Register of Deeds' office in Liber 21 of Mortgages on page 254, said mortgage being assigned to Allan C. Van Camp on the 26th day of July 1918, said assignment being recorded in Liber 20 of Mortgages, page 433, and again assigned by Allan C. Van Camp to Stella Van Camp on the 14th day of July, 1926, said assignment being recorded in Liber 26 of Mortgages, on page 305 in the Register of Deeds' Office, Iosco County, Michigan on which mortgage there is now claimed to be due for principal and interest the sum of Five Hundred Forty-two and 35/100 ($542.35) Dollars and an Attorney's fee of Fifteen ($15.00) Dollars as provided by law, and no suit or proceedings at law having been instituted to recover the moneys secured by said mortgage or any part thereof;

Notice is hereby Given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, on Saturday the 30th day of March, A. D. 1940 at ten o'clock in the forenoon, the undersigned will at the front door of the court house in the city of Tawas City, that being the place where the Circuit Court for the County of Iosco is held, sell at public auction to the highest bidder, the premises described in said mortgage, for so much thereof as may be necessary to pay the amount as aforesaid due on said mortgage, with seven (7%) per cent interest and all legal costs, together with said Attorney's fee to-wit: All that certain piece of land situated in the Township of Reno, Iosco County, Michigan, described as follows, to-wit: The west half (1/2) of the northwest quarter (1/4) of the northwest quarter (1/4) of section twenty-four (24) in township twenty-two (22) north, range five (5) east excepting a parcel of land containing one hundred twenty (120) square rods, lying in the northwest corner of above description and heretofore deeded to the Reno Baptist church by the said Jane Ferns.

Dorothy Kelchner is visiting this week with relatives at Pontiac.
Mr. and Mrs. Silas Thornton had a little or rather large reunion at their home the week end and Christmas. About thirty of their relatives gathered at their home from Pontiac, Flint, Onaway and Whittemore.
Clyde Todd died of typhoid fever at his home here last week. When the undertaker, E. D. Jacques, was called and had to have a burial permit, he called Dr. Hasty of Whittemore to give the cause of death. Dr. Hasty found that death was due to typhoid fever. He found three more of the children sick and in a serious condition with the same disease. Without delay he got in contact with the health officer, Robert Binegar, and Supervisor Frank Schneider. An ambulance was ordered and the children were taken to the hospital. The family recently moved here from from Indiana and are in poor circumstances, but as soon as their case was made known every one offered help—giving clothes, food stuff and money. The children were going to District No. 5 school here before becoming sick. So far no other cases of the fever have been reported.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Opening of Garner's Campaign Fails to Stir Political Circles; New Nazi-Italian Plot Hinted

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

POLITICS: Announcement

"I will accept the nomination for President. I will make no effort to control any delegates. The people should decide. The candidate should be selected at primaries and conventions as provided by law, and I sincerely trust that all Democrats will participate in them."

GARNER AND CHICKENS Hatched at Uvalde.

the White House, went into his house and changed clothes. A few minutes later he had gone hunting. Nobody in Washington was surprised by the announcement at first, but over the week-end those 44 words received considerable study.

THE WARS: Plot?

Her disrepute sharply heightened when the League of Nations expelled Russia, the German Reich got some solace when Italian Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano made an unusual announcement of his nation's foreign policy.

But Ciano's speech indicated the picture may soon clear. Only point of difference between Rome and Berlin was Germany's method of "settling" the Danzig-Polish dispute, in the course of which Herr Hitler agreed that Italy should remain out of the European war.

Italy is still loyal to Berlin in every way, and still maintains that Poland, Czechoslovakia and Austria cannot be restored if there is to be peace.

CIANO Is Russia the price?

used as a tool to bring pressure on France and Britain. Can it be that the axis may now force peace on the allies as the price for keeping Russia out of Europe?

Western War

Almost as a repercussion to the Graf Spee incident (see below) the western front saw its first direct artillery duel over the Rhine. This was purposeless, because the Rhine was so flooded that troops could not cross.

Biggest news developed from Britain's new aerial patrol, developed to combat the Nazi mine-laying campaign. On three successive nights royal air force planes raided German seaplane bases, after which the air ministry said it "tentatively believed" the mine menace was conquered. Next day, however, the war's biggest air battle took place over Helgoland Bight, the Nazis claiming 34 British ships were downed. London admitted seven losses and claimed Germany had lost 12.

British boast-of-the-week: How her tiny submarine Ursula had penetrated the mine-infested mouth of the Elbe to sink a Koln class cruiser at her anchorage.

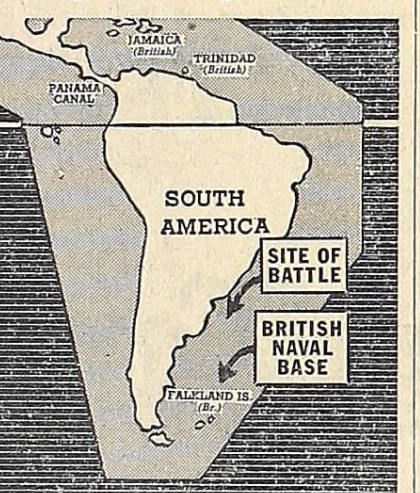

Northern War

Still playing to a full house was the Finnish-Russian war, in which the Soviet was taking a terrific licking both in manpower and prestige. For the first time, U. S. newsmen like United Press' Webb Miller and Chicago Daily News' Leland Stowe visited the Karelian front and saw Finnish troops resting snugly in their warm trenches while the Russians stormed away like madmen across the river, wasting ammunition and getting nowhere.

Spee

Pan America awoke suddenly to discover its "neutrality zone" (see map) was ineffectual. Before she dashed for the safety of Montevideo harbor in Uruguay, the Nazi pocket battleship Graf Spee had almost been blasted to pieces by three British cruisers. One of them, Exeter, was so badly damaged she headed for Britain's Falkland base in the south Atlantic, also within the neutrality zone.

Back at Montevideo a storm was brewing, but Foreign Minister Alberto Guani stuck to his post. The German minister charged him with a "flagrant violation of international law" for not giving Graf Spee enough time to repair her damage. The Nazis even planned to demand reparations for the ship. Taking no chances, Uruguay promptly arrested four of the crewmen and charged them with blowing up the ship. A few hours later 1,000 other crewmen, having launched to nearby Buenos Aires, were interned by Argentina for the rest of the war.

As for Germany, the Spee incident reduced her complement of capital ships to four. Next day, Britain reported sinking a 6,000-ton Nazi cruiser.

INDIA: Zetland's Worry

Rapidly approaching, perhaps, is a crisis in which British domination of India may pass away. A good start at satisfying Indian nationalist ambitions was made several years ago when a quasi-home rule plan was instituted. But in November, faced with racial differences between the all-India congress and the Moslem league, Viceroy Marquess of Lithingow invoked emergency powers vesting authority in provincial governments. Native congress ministries in seven provinces promptly resigned as part of Mahatma Gandhi's "passive resistance" program.

Up in the house of lords to comment on this situation rose the Marquess of Zetland, secretary of state for India. The result of this wholesale resignation, he said, has been to "set back the hands of the clock more than 30 years." Meanwhile German propagandizers are trying to make the Indians "look to Nazi Germany for their freedom." Only hope for peaceful settlement, he thought, was division of legislatures on communal instead of political lines. The ambition: "What we have to aim at is that a legislator will think of himself as an Indian first and only as a Hindu or Moslem . . . afterward."

How New Year Speeds Around the World

When 1940 reaches New York City in a blare of noise at 12:01 a. m. Monday, it will already be early Monday evening just east of Australia in the Chatham islands. Meanwhile, at Honolulu the clock will register 6:30 p. m. Sunday. The new year is born on the lonely Chatham islands, 414 miles southeast of New Zealand and races westward at 1,000 miles an hour.

1 Who is this handsome youngster and who divorced her—to marry what swimmer, who was recently divorced?

2 These feet belong to a baseball player who had to quit in 1939 after playing about 2,300 consecutive games. Who is he?

3 Whose nose is this? When and why did it make news most of last summer, and where did all this take place?

4 This horse won a big race last May and his name isn't Man O' War, Lawrin, El Chico, or War Admiral. Who is he? What race?

5 This Italian gentleman's name was Filippo Pacelli. What happened on his son's 63rd birthday, March 2, 1939?

6 This demonstration ended when someone said, "You cannot strike against the government." Who said it? To whom?

7 Something quite astonishing happened to the piece of land shown in black. What's its name and who owns it now?

8 This young gentleman went traveling abroad last summer. What is his name and where did he go? What's wrong with him?

9 This man left on a long, cold trip, and he won't be home until late in 1940. Who is he? Why did he go where?

HERE'S THE ANSWERS—DON'T PEEK! 1. Fanny Brice, divorced by Billy Rose to marry Eleanor Holm. 2. Lou Gehrig. 3. Submarine Squallus, sunk off Portsmouth, N. H. Picture taken during unsuccessful attempt to raise her. 4. Johnstown, Won Kentucky derby. 5. Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli became Pope Pius XII. 6. President Roosevelt said it. WPA workers were striking against new wage provisions. 7. Albania, seized by Italy. Formerly ruled by King Zog. 8. Fred Snite Jr., infantile paralysis victim, went to shrine at Lourdes, France. 9. Admiral Richard E. Byrd. He went to Antarctic to stake out land claims for the U. S.

Families Turn To Apartments

Builders Note Increasing Trend in the Larger Cities of Country.

WASHINGTON.—An increasing trend toward apartment house dwelling was revealed in the larger cities of the United States, at a conference of leaders of the building construction industry in Washington.

"In the past 18 years, for every 100 one-family dwellings erected in the larger cities of the United States, 87 families have been provided for in apartments," says the National Geographic society. "The official figures cover 257 largest cities of the country, containing more than a third of the total population."

Apartment Not New Idea. "The 1930 census showed less than 3 per cent of the population of the country in apartment houses, and of the urban population alone, less than 5 per cent were apartment dwellers. In this respect the United States is behind some European centers. In Copenhagen, Denmark, 90 per cent of its 666,000 population live in apartments."

Babylon has been suggested as the home of the first apartment house or tenement. Rome, in the time of Augustus, is reported as having had but 1,780 one-family dwellings as against 44,000 apartments. Apartment houses had gradually risen to such heights that Augustus limited their height to 70 feet. Later, under Trajan, the limit was reduced to 60 feet.

In ancient Athens many apartment houses were tenanted by the poor, and by those who, possessing no civic rights, could not acquire land. Alexandria, cosmopolitan and cultural center of Egypt, had many of its 500,000 residents in apartments in the Second century A. D., and apartment houses were probably of much earlier date there. The ancient apartments in Medenine, Tunisia, were windowless rooms accessible only by rude outside stairs reaching four and five stories.

Early American Apartments. "Seventy-five years ago Berlin led in apartment homes, followed by Vienna, Budapest, Prague, Hamburg, Paris, Stockholm and Oslo, then Kristiania. In England, 'flats' were not as popular. Today, London's ultra-modern apartment houses are replacing many old five and six-story town houses of the nobility, especially in the vicinity of Kensington Gardens. Tokyo built its first American apartment house less than 15 years ago, while crowded China for the most part has clung to individual dwellings."

In America, the cliff dwellings of the Southwest were the first apartment buildings; the pueblos, still occupied today, belong to a second period of American 'apartment houses.' More closely approaching the modern apartment house were the great masonry structures such as were found at Pueblo Bonito in Chaco canyon, New Mexico. Centuries ago 1,200 persons lived in the Pueblo Bonito structures.

About 90 years ago the Pontalba Mansions became the first apartments occupied by the aristocracy of New Orleans, and in New York city the famous Spanish Flats were erected in 1882 at Fifty-ninth street and Seventh avenue where they remained until about 12 years ago."

'Bathtub' Crop Specialty Is Aim of Florida Farmer

PALMETTO, FLA.—Henry Glair, Manatee county farmer, is taking up hydroponic—water culture—farming on a big scale.

He has built 12 huge wooden tanks in which he hopes to produce a diversified vegetable crop ordinarily grown in the field. The tanks are covered with a small wire mesh that holds moss and similar substances as supports for plants, which will grow in a nutrient solution. Roots of the plants will reach down into the tanks. The solution will be allowed to drain slowly but will be replenished for additional planting. The bottoms of the tanks are covered with cinders as an added support for the plants.

Glair expects to produce this winter a crop that will include flowers as well as vegetables. Glair, successful in ordinary farming, sees in the tank scheme a tremendous advantage—control of growth conditions. Rain is no problem in producing a "bathtub" crop.

U. S. Curbs German Entry From Canada on Request

MONTREAL.—German nationals residing in Canada are being prevented by United States authorities from entering that country unless they have first obtained a permit from Royal Canadian mounted police.

The ban was put into effect at the request of the Canadian government to prevent Germans, who may be wanted here for questioning, from fleeing the country.

Dog Catches Codfish

SANTA CRUZ, CALIF.—Ray Minahan, San Francisco newspaper artist, owns a piscatorial pup. He playfully tied a fish line to the leg of his pet terrier, Cupcake, out on one of the fishing barges. In less than a minute he had hooked a codfish, so big that his master had to haul it in.

Lights of New York

Thoughts while riding downtown on the Ninth avenue elevated: That section of Ninth avenue between Fortieth and Thirty-Fourth streets, known for many years as "Paddy's Market," is still an outdoor mart.

The pushcarts were chased away for causing traffic congestion after the Lincoln vehicular tunnel under the Hudson had been opened. But much business is still done on the sidewalks. In fact, just about everything from shirts to caps and from string beans to artichokes may be bought outside stores. With the going of the pushcarts, various merchants took over sidewalk space in front of their places of business for display purposes. Looking down, it seems as if many have spread their entire stocks outside. Wheeled traffic speeds right along. But pedestrians do not do so well.

What intimate glimpses of tenement family life may be gained from the windows of these old wooden cars. For instance, in the Twenties, the mother bathing one youngster in a bathtub while another waiting its turn to be tubbed, stands by naked and unashamed. And that grizzled old, shirtless codger frying steak—the window is open and the odor unmistakable—with a corn cob pipe clutched tightly in his teeth. Then, near Christopher street, a beautiful young girl kneeling devoutly before a crucifix. Can't forget that woman, so pale her face seemed made of wax, who stared from a window near Houston street, her deep-set eyes seemingly reflecting utter despair.

Workers, too. Girls busy at machines in lofts. Women toiling in laundries. A sign, "The Home of Hotel Bar Butter." Down here somewhere there used to be a little upstairs shop with the sign, "Dolls Heads and Hands." But it has disappeared. The telltale odor of a printshop. Pretty young girls making paper flowers. Some look up and smile as the train passes. Others keep their eyes fixed on materials spread out before them. In store windows, articles connected with the worship of God. Deserted old buildings with boarded-up windows which make me think of ancient blind men.

Fellow passengers: A man with a clumsy wooden leg decorated with tin tags from plug chewing tobacco. A young mother constantly occupied in keeping two lively little children from climbing up to the windows. A huge colored woman with a bundle almost as big as herself. A bespectacled, middle-aged woman peering over the shoulder of a bearded man who is reading a newspaper printed in what looks like Greek. A ruddy-faced young fellow with an anchor tattooed on each wrist. School children freighted with books. A chirpy little woman who gets up at every stop, starts for the door and then returns to her seat.

Away down town: Brick buildings, which seem to be returning to their original dust. Many go away back to the early days of New York. They were fine homes once. Now they are the abodes of poverty. Second-floor windows looking right out onto the tracks. All through the night, the pounding of trains. Pallid youngsters on fire escapes. A little girl playing with a doll made from rags and with shoe buttons for eyes. Mothers washing. Mothers always washing. And always washings flapping on roofs.

South Ferry at last. Why South Ferry? I don't know and haven't been able to find out. But it's South Ferry on the elevated and it's South Ferry on the subway and thus South Ferry up and down. Staten Island Ferry would be better. Or The Battery. That would mean something. Everyone knows about The Battery. But if I am to catch the St. George ferry at South Ferry I'll have to get up and join the hurrying throng. And anyway, it's the end of the line. (Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

War Still Utilizes Canine Combatants

BERLIN.—Dogs still fill important army assignments in wartime—even in Germany's mechanized, motorized army.

Doberman pinschers, shepherd dogs, airedales and others were recruited—as were many of their masters—for service in the German army when war broke out. They were given eight weeks' training and are now used to deliver dispatches and orders, especially through heavy fire; to stand guard over munition and food depots in the field, and to aid the medical corps by searching through forests, underbrush and cornfields for wounded.

Vanquished Poland Still a Factor in European War

Though Poland is a vanquished nation, it is still a factor in the European war. Two Polish destroyers, the Blyskawica and the Grom, managed to reach British waters after the downfall of Poland and have been active in fighting against Germany. Left: Gunners aboard the Grom are shown loading her 4.7 guns, making her ready for action. Right: A Polish gunner, aboard the Blyskawica, man an anti-aircraft gun at anchor in a British naval base.

He Works Next Door to Eternity

Huge gains in manufacture of munitions for domestic use is evidenced in busy munitions plants in the United States. Here a worker in a Dover, N. J., arsenal rivets the timing head on the end of a 75mm shell, one of the plant's most dangerous jobs. Workers are so busy they have little time to worry about the shadow of danger which hangs over the factory where death is packed into steel cylinders.

Crowned Nation's Healthiest Sextette

Healthiest juvenile sextette in the nation is this group of club workers who were selected at the national 4-H club congress contest in Chicago recently. Left to right: Richard Crane, 17, Rushville, Ind.; Warren Cales, 18, Sandstone, W. Va.; Ruth Fitzenreiter, 16, Bel, La.; Joan N. Parks, 15, Liberty, Ind.; Carlisle Klein, 18, Black River Falls, Wis., and Leslie G. Warrant, 16, Kasota, Minn. Thousands of farm girls and boys took part in the contest.

Leisure Begins at 40

Off to a life of leisure is Harry, world's oldest horse. At 40 years of age, Harry is being retired to a Dedham, Mass., farm to spend his remaining years. Barbara Alger, granddaughter of Harry's owner, gives him a farewell ride. Harry, it may be added, is thoroughly dependable.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—Old Senator Joseph Caillaux of France, who knows a lot about money and trade, says Germany will be licked by her poverty in natural resources, chiefly oil. At 76, bearing the scars of long and bitter conflict, more bitterly assailed in the past than perhaps any other man in France, he commands respect as he keeps on croaking, "Victory in war is often destroyed by finance," and he is still a powerful guiding force in French monetary policy.

He has known glory, riches, jail, exile, calumny, foolish adulation, scandal, exultation, bitterness and disillusionment, and with bloodshot eyes and out-thrust jaw, he's still on his feet when the gong ends the round. His fortune was sunk in the defense of his wife for killing Gaston Calmette in 1914. He returned from banishment to full vindication in the espionage case against him, to become premier and later finance minister of France.

He has shaded down his green trousers and yellow shoes and green vest to more somber hues, but his is still the toughest political hide anywhere extant.

WHEN this writer began newspaper work in Chicago, people in Halsted and West Madison streets seemed to be about as badly off as European war victims of today. I knew Hobart Chatfield Taylor and was interested in his work with Jane Addams at Hull House, the pioneer social settlement. They were devoted and unselfish, but when I looked around the Hull House neighborhood several years ago, nothing seemed to have changed much.

Mr. Taylor's son, Wayne C. Taylor, grew up in this shadow of misery, and now moves into a sort of pantograph enlargement of the same. He is en route to Finland, to study and organize relief there. The social settlement theory, as bravely expounded and lived by the elder Mr. Taylor and Jane Addams, was that "all men are brothers," and, if fortunate citizens will live in neighborly intercourse with the unfortunate, "a little leaven will leaven the whole lump."

The younger Mr. Taylor, catching step with his times, was a realist who believed that the way ahead lay in understanding of basic economic forces and in the application of progressive and enlightened techniques of government. He became special adviser to President Roosevelt on foreign trade; assistant administrator of the AAA; vice president of the Export-Import bank of Washington; assistant secretary of the treasury. He withdrew from the last-named office last February, dissenting from what he considered the treasury department's policy of shaping money procedure for foreign policy.

Like the Hull House meliorists, it would seem that the economist innovators and renovators have not yet found the golden key. A comparison of notes by father and son as to what's wrong with West Madison street, Europe and in-between points, and what to do about it, would, I am sure, be interesting.

Mr. Taylor was graduated from Yale in 1916, served in the World War, and was engaged in the banking and brokerage business in Chicago before going to Washington in 1933.

IT WOULD be hard to say whether big, swart, dead-pan Col. Fulgencio Batista, Cuba's power man, headed in from right or left. Possibly power is the main idea with all such current innovators, and their political orientation is merely academic. A year ago, the news scouts were reporting that Batista was swinging right. The news today is that the Cuban Communist party is backing him for election to the presidency.

Also news is the mere fact that they are having a presidential election in Cuba. Batista was cane-rustler, barber, ditch-digger, brakeman, soldier and stenographer, before he seized Cuba with the flight of President Machado. He is of Cuban, Indian, Chilean origin, with Mongoloid features and big muscles.

VEGETABLE SALAD BOWL
(See Recipes Below)

'V' Stands for Vegetables

Vegetables are not apt to be prime favorites with men; practically every man has a little black list of his own—vegetables he just will not accept graciously. Father is apt to be as chary of spinach and other vegetables as his own eight-year-old, and to look upon salads as mere woman's nonsense! It isn't strange, if Junior, who adores his Dad, begins to proclaim his likes and dislikes in no uncertain terms. Like father, like son! So coax father to keep his, "I-don't-likes" to himself—at meal time.

But there are salads and vegetables that father really enjoys. You'll find suggestions in my booklet, "Feeding Father," for preparing them, and recipes, too, for his favorite meat dishes and desserts. But to get back to vegetables, have you ever wondered why the very people who love to nibble on a raw carrot, fresh from the garden, are the ones who need to be coaxed to eat them once they're cooked? You'll find one solution to the problem of getting Dad and Junior to eat their carrots, right there. Why not serve them crisp, raw carrot sticks for a vegetable? Or make a crisp, colorful salad by combining shredded raw carrots and shredded raw beets with the tender young leaves of raw spinach? Mix lightly with sour cream salad dressing or french dressing, and serve from a salad bowl so that the boys may help themselves.

Perhaps just changing the methods of preparing and serving them is all you need to do to arouse family interest in vegetables. Here are some recipes that are just a bit out-of-the-ordinary—recipes I think your family will enjoy.

Onions Baked in Tomatoes.

(Serves 4 or 5)
2½ cups canned tomatoes
½ bay leaf
¾ teaspoon salt
2 cloves
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon flour
6 onions (small)

Combine tomatoes and seasonings and cook for 10 minutes. Then remove bay leaf and cloves. Melt butter, blend in the flour, and add to tomato mixture. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Peel onions, place in a casserole and add tomato mixture. Cover and bake in a moderately hot oven (370 degrees) for 1 hour.

Golden Potatoes.

Pare potatoes and cut into cubes. Add sliced raw carrots, using about equal amounts of potatoes and carrots. Cook in boiling, salted water. Drain and set over a low flame for a few minutes to dry out. Force through a potato ricer or mash thoroughly. Add hot milk and beat until the potatoes are light and fluffy. Add a tablespoon or two of butter and season to taste.

Pennsylvania Dutch Spinach.

(Serves 4-5)
4 slices bacon (diced)
3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups water
2 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons vinegar
1 egg yolk (beaten)
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
4 cups raw spinach (chopped)
2 hard cooked eggs

Cook bacon until crisp. Remove from the pan. Add flour to bacon fat and stir until smooth. Mix water, sugar and vinegar and add to the flour mixture; cook until thick. Combine beaten egg yolk and seasoning and stir into the first mixture. Cook for about 2 minutes over a very low flame, stirring constantly. Combine hot sauce, cooked bacon and chopped raw spinach. Serve warm, garnished with slices of hard cooked egg.

Lima Beans en Casserole.

1 pound lima beans, dry
½ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons onion (minced)
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 tablespoon vinegar
2 cups water
1 pound pork sausage

Cook beans in boiling water approximately 1 hour—or until nearly tender. Pour in baking casserole. Meantime, place sugar, salt, onion, prepared mustard, vinegar and water in saucepan and bring to boiling point. Pour this heated mixture over the beans. Make sausage up into small cakes and place on the beans. Bake approximately 45 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees).

French Fried Asparagus Tips.

Cooked asparagus tips (short and thick variety)
1 egg
1 tablespoon water
¾ cup soft bread crumbs (very fine)
½ teaspoon salt
Fat for deep fat frying

Drain asparagus. Beat egg and add water to it. Dip the drained asparagus in beaten egg. Roll asparagus tips in bread crumbs—patting them on so as to cover asparagus tips thoroughly. Place carefully in a deep fat frying basket and fry in fat heated to 370 degrees. Fry until tips are golden brown; drain on unglazed paper. Serve very hot.

Busy Day Salad.

(Serves 5)
1 cup cooked beets (diced)
1 cup cooked carrots (diced)
½ cup green peas (cooked)
1 cup cauliflower flowerets (cooked or raw)
3 tablespoons sweet pickle (minced)
1 teaspoon onion (minced)
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
Mayonnaise dressing.

Drain the vegetables thoroughly and mix lightly. Add pickles, onion and seasoning. Serve from lettuce lined bowl with mayonnaise dressing.

Send for Copy of 'Feeding Father.'

For just 10 cents in coin you can add to your kitchen library, this very practical and clever book. You'll find in it recipes for quivery custard pie, for spare ribs with apple stuffing, for oyster stew, and recipes for all the other good "home-style" dishes that men like. To get your copy of this cook book now, send 10 cents in coin to "Feeding Father," care of Eleanor Howe, 919 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

About this time of year the family supply of jams and jellies runs very low and we begin to hoard the few remaining jars. Next week Eleanor Howe will give you some of her favorite recipes for mid-winter jams and marmalades, which can be prepared right now, to supplement your stock. She'll give you, too, a recipe or two for delicious hot breads to serve with them.

Prosecutor Had Grounds For Objection, It Appears

Counsel for the defense was cross-examining the witness, a lovely blonde with big blue eyes.

"Where were you," he thundered, "on Monday night!"
The blonde smiled sweetly.
"Out for a run in a car."
"And where were you," he belted, "on Tuesday night?"
"Out for a run in a car."
Counsel leaned closer.
"And what," he said, "are you doing tomorrow night?"
Prosecuting counsel leaped to his feet.
"Your Honor," he protested, "I object to that question."
"And why do you object?"
"Because I asked her first!"

Pop Corn Fudge

2 cupfuls popcorn
2 cupfuls brown sugar
1 cupful thin cream or whole milk
1 tablespoonful butter
1 teaspoonful vanilla

Combine the sugar and cream and stir over a low heat until the sugar is dissolved. Continue cooking to 238 degrees F. or until it forms a soft ball when tried in cold water. Remove from the heat and let stand in cold water until the mixture is cool. Then add the butter, popped corn and vanilla. Beat until creamy. Shape on a buttered plate and cut into squares. Peanuts may be added to mixture, also.

These developments were made possible by the presence of the Silver Creek CCC Camp and the efforts of Ranger John Franson, whose enthusiasm for recreational developments led to full development, Clyde Soper who did the work of laying out the area and to Frank Wilkusi, Project Superintendent of the camp and his able foremen, Collins, London, Rosebush, Rauch and Westlund, who worked patiently with the enrollees to teach them how to cut a board straight, jet pile for the bridges, and to do the many things necessary to construct a project of this nature.

It is not planned to develop the area further unless the use made of the area creates a demand for expansion.

This development carries out the principals of the secretary's policy in putting into use an area that is very suitable for this type of development and considers the dominant industry of this section of the state recreation, and is designed primarily for the enjoyment of those who participate in winter sports rather than for the spectacular exhibits of skill, carrying out the principal of the greatest good "to the greatest number."

The use of the area is open to the general public without charge and will continue to be as long as it will be possible to maintain the area with the CCC organization.

The East Tawas Chamber of Commerce, have provided toboggans, hand and bob sleds, that can be rented for a nominal charge but those who have their own equipment may use the facilities without charge. This cooperation makes it possible for many to use the area who otherwise could not due to the lack of equipment.
