Word was received Thursday morning the holidays with the Brack and the production. It looks at first like a huge task, but to say the least the increased production could be obtained by better management practices alone Recently a dairy expert stated that milk production could be increased from 10 to 25% if the number of milkings per day were increased from 2 to 3 times. With the price of butterfat at its present level it might be well to try this out, at least with the fresh cows. Iosco county is now keeping pace with the other counties of the state in meeting production requirements and it is only reasonable to assume that local farmers will do their best part again this year. #### Radio Brazzaville.. In Darkest Africa

By Gordon Gaskill

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with American Magazine)

I am writing this from the Free French radio station in Brazzaville, three hundred miles up the Congo in the African jungle. Here I found the "Voice of Fighting France," the world's strangest broadcasting sta-

Brazzaville is, first of all, the unlikeliest spot on earth for an important radio station which rivals in efficiency anything in London or New York. Brazzaville is real Africa, some 300 miles up the Congo river. It is steaming hot; the sun is a sledge hammer; fever and worse are always at hand.

Nobody in his wildest moments would have thought that Brazzaville would be one of the world's radio capitals. It became so by chance, by necessity, and by the efforts of three men: First, the brothers Desjardins-Captain Francois, the elder, Lieutenant Pierre, the younger—both experienced French newspaper men. When France fell they escaped to London, joined De Gaulle as soldiers, came with him on that famous naval excursion that was a flop at Dakar, a success in the Cameroons and French Equatorial Af-

Radio for Fighting France.

At Brazzaville, capital of the latter, De Gaulle asked the two brothers to set up a "Service of Information," a radio mouthpiece for Fighting France. The third man is a mild little radio engineer named Defroyenne, a sort of Gallic Thomas Edison, able to work all kinds of miracles with meager equipment. The Desjardins would tell him about some impossibly intricate piece of apparatus they needed. As they talked, Defroyenne would stare dreamily out the window, apparently not hearing a word. Then he'd wander off, still in a dream. Then 28—British 'chutists and Commandos raid in a couple of days he'd be back smiling shyly, with exactly what they asked for. Maybe it was made 1—Japs unload 50 they asked for. Maybe it was made of bits from an old tractor and a sewing machine.

Their First Big Problem.

With such a man, the Desjardins tackled their first big problem: to make Radio Brazzaville talk. There existed only a Morse Code station and a fleapower amateur station

March

1—Japs unload 50 transports on Java.
3—Wavell dropped as Allied chieftain.
7—Japs invade New Guinea at two sectors.
11—Japs unload 50 transports on Java.
3—Wavell dropped as Allied chieftain.
7—Japs invade New Guinea at two sectors.
117—MacArthur and aides escape from Philippines, land in Australia.
128—Jap invasion fleet heading for Australia smashed by Allies.
25—U. S. navy rips Makin island 1,000 miles off Jap capital.
276—Chinese smash Burma trap, relieve retreating British.
287—British Commandos wreck Nazi-held St. Nazire port. with a midget 50 watts.

The code station had to be "modulated"-that is, modified so that it would transmit voice instead of dots and dashes. The incomparable Defroyenne vanished into the gloom of his workshop, dug into old boxes, tore down other gadgets to find parts and within a few weeks Radio Brazzaville somehow became a voice station. Not perfect, but quite good enough. The small amateur station was boosted to 350 watts, seven times its original power. All this work was done on a night-and-day schedule with almost no letup-except once, when a 20-foot boa constrictor turned up in the radio station grounds and had to be shot.

Assembling a Staff on Congo River. Not the least of the Desjardins' tasks was to assemble a staff to prepare the programs. It might have been fairly easy in Paris or London or New York, but not 300 miles up the Congo river. Yet somehow, somewhere, they collected one of the strangest assortments of human beings anywhere on the globe. One used to teach English in French schools; another taught law in Singapore; another was a Parisian bank clerk; another a civil engineer. Still another was a gentle little man who used to sell antiques. An American girl reporter chucked a job in Washington and came. A French girl from South Africa, and anotherthe one who took down Hitler's speech-escaped from Alsace and found her way here.

Ambitious as these programs are. they're nothing to what's ahead, in the very near future. En route to Brazzaville is the most powerful short-wave transmitter ever built in America-a 50,000-watter which can thunder anywhere in the world. Radio Brazzaville will soon be broadcasting around the clock in some 20 Allied languages, plus counterpropaganda in enemy tongues, plus news in Morse Code to the Free French sailors.

A brand-new building will replace the old warehouse that Radio Brazzaville has used as emergency quarters. Not the least of its equipment are six pairs of fiber-wheeled roller skates, so that native messengers can zip around the 500 yards of outer passageways in short order.

All this has meant enormous human effort. Veteran colonials who have lived in Brazzaville for years predict that the Desjardins' staff will be dead within a year. This is steaming, fever-ridden country that richly deserves its nickname: "The White Man's Graveyard."

Washington, D. C. 'INSIDE' HERO STORY

Behind the award of the Congressional Medal of Honor to 31-year-old Lieut. Com. Bruce McCandless of the U. S. Cruiser San Francisco is a story almost without parallel in the annals of naval warfare.

Inside fact is that shortly before he was cited for heroism "above and beyond the call of duty," in the smashing November 13 Solomons naval victory, McCandless wasn't sure whether he would be decorated or hauled on the carpet for insubor-

His citation was one of glittering generalities, but here is the whole story of what happened:

McCandless was on the bridge of the San Francisco when it led a spectacular assault between two col-umns of Jap vessels, firing point-blank at both. In the roaring 35minute engagement, Rear Admiral Daniel J. Callaghan, commander of the task force, and Capt. Cassin Young, skipper of the San Francisco, were killed, as well as other officers outranking McCandless.

The young lieutenant commander did not notify superior officers on other vessels in the task force of Callaghan's death, but immediately took command and began giving orders to the other vessels in Callaghan's name. Ordinarily, this would constitute a rank breach of discipline. However, McCandless acted as he did for two reasons:

(1) He was thoroughly familiar with the plan of attack, having been present at strategy powwows of Callaghan and Young when it was mapped out, and he feared there might be a slipup in carrying out the daring task maneuver if the command passed to another ship after Callaghan's death.

(2) It was vital to keep the news of Callaghan's death from the Japs, and they undoubtedly would have intercepted the radio communica-

After the engagement, when a friend suggested that he might be decorated for his brilliant "incognito" leadership, McCandless is quoted as replying that he would be lucky to get off without a "court martial." However, the navy was only too glad to give praise where praise was due.

Maas got the money off dead Jap soldiers.

The other day he was displaying it to Representative Gordon Canfield of New Jersey and two British WRENS, comparable to our WAVES, who were having lunch with Canfield in the house restaurant. The WRENS, Third Officers Dorothy Taite and Elizabeth Gibson, were especially interested in the yen note, which was covered with brightcolored designs and pictures.

"Be sure to give that money back to me," said Maas. "I have big

"Yes, these notes will make a wonderful souvenir to show your grandchildren," commented one of the WRENS.

GUARDING THE WHITE HOUSE The White House called Speaker

Sam Rayburn the other day, asked him to come in to see the President, bringing with him a group of congressmen of his own choosing.

When Rayburn got inside the White House, he was as mad as that goodnatured Texan ever becomes. He found a senior officer of Secret Service and said: "Look here, when I am asked to bring members of congress to the White House, I want them to be admitted without any third degree examination. You ought to know I wouldn't bring any bomb throwers!" Note: The White House has been more closely guarded in this war than at any other time in history; including World War I. Streets on three sides are blocked off, and no one can get near without a pass, even a member of congress.

JESUS INSTRUCTS A GREAT TEACHER

LESSON TEXT—John 3:1-16.

GOLDEN TEXT—For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have everlasting life.—John 3:16.

Nicodemus came to our Lord when He was in Jerusalem for the Passover. Jesus had chosen six of His disciples, had performed His first miracle at Cana, and had made The OPA and the customs bureau a brief visit to Capernaum, after which He came to Jerusalem for a brief visit to Capernaum, after

In high and holy indignation He at a customs sale in Scattle, for $18. had driven the money changers out.

The OPA notified her there was of the temple. The Pharisees who some question whether she could looked for the coming of the Mestake delivery of the coffee due to siah as a secular conqueror wonrationing regulations against sale of dered at this new spiritual leader. green coffee. The customs office It was probably as much on their told her to take the coffee. But behalf as his own that Nicodemus Mrs. Ramm decided to leave it in came to inquire of Jesus. came to inquire of Jesus.

In answering his questions Jesus reveals the necessity, the nature, and the method of regeneration. The only entrance into the Christian life is by the door of the new birth. Regeneration is the act of God whereby the divine nature is imparted to the believing sinner and he becomes the believing sinner and he becomes the child of God. He who has not entered by this way has not entered at all. He is still dead in trespasses and sins, without God and without hope (Eph. 2:1, 12).

Men seek to enter the household of God by almost any other means—culture reform character building culture, reform, character building -and neglect or reject God's way I. The Necessity of Regeneration (vv. 1-7).

Jesus was not unduly impressed by the dignity and high station of by the dignity and high station of his visitor, nor by the visitor's courteous acknowledgment of His own position as a great teacher. With incisive boldness Jesus declared that this man, a cultured and distinguished ruler of the Jews, must be born again if he is to see the kingdom of God kingdom of God.

God is no respecter of persons. This "doctor of divinity" must be born again, just as was the illiterate fisherman. The requirements are the same for all, and the necessity as great in one level of society as in another.

The surprising thing is that this teacher of theology could be so ignorant of the one essential element of a real spiritual experience. He evidently thought he could bring his soul to eternal life by his own works, when in fact he was not able to give himself physical-let alone spiritual

Two reasons are given by our Lord for the "must" of verse 7: (1) The kingdom of God is a spiritual kingdom, and cannot be entered by way of our human nature; and (2) "that which is born of the flesh is flesh" and is radically and essentially bad. To learn why the flesh is bad read Jeremiah 13:23 and Galatians 5:19-21. Scripture on this point is diametrically opposed to the teaching of unbelieving men. When such a difference arises be sure of this-God's Word is right. Follow it!

II. The Nature of Regeneration The new birth is a divine mystery, not fathomable by human reason. Those who insist that all spiritual truth be put through the little norm of their intelligence will never understand it or receive its blessing.

The striking illustration of the lifegiving and energizing wind used by our Lord is most illuminating. Wind is unseen, but the results of its movement are evident. Even so the spiritual rebirth of men is an enigma to the worldly man, but even he can see its results in godly living.

Observe the clarity and simplicity of our Lord's teaching on what is undoubtedly the most profound subject in all the world. Let us follow His example and always "make the message clear and plain, Christ receiveth sinful men!"

III. The Method of Regeneration

Many there are who ask Nicodemus' question, "How can these things be?" (v. 9). The answer is clear-"Only by faith in the Son of God, our Saviour."

Just as there was healing and life in a look at the uplifted serpent (Num. 21:8), so there is life for a look at the Crucified One. Faith re-ceives God's perfect provision for

John 3:16 may well be regarded as the greatest sentence in the greatest Book in the world. It presents the whole plan of salvation its source, its ground, its recipients, its condition, and its result. It also reveals God's love—its "object, character, manifestation, purpose, and the result" (John W. Bradbury). This glorious salvation is for all men-"whosoever"-but some reject it. Notice that God does not condemn them. Their own evil works and desires condemn them (vv. 17-20). God in His grace is ready and willing to save, but men love "darkness rather than light," for their works are evil. Nicodemus came to Jesus by night — but he came, Have you come? Will you come now?

LAUL VON HINDENBURG Was a professional soldier with little taste for polities—and little love for the upstart paper-hanger, Hitler, whom he had to accept as Chancellor,

After the last war, the shrewd old Prussian put his finger on one prime reason for Germany's defeat: "America's brilliant war industry had entered the sewice of pathicians." the service of patriotism. . . . They understood war."

Now history is repeating itself for Hindenburg's successor!

America's war industry again is pouring out planes, tanks and guns—meeting production goals that seemed fantastic at first.

Back of this fast-growing military power is electric power—far more power than Hitler and all his henchmen have—turning the machines that turn out everything from bullets to battleships,

Behind the great bulk of this power are the electric com-panies under experienced bus-iness management—doing their job and delivering electric power in ever-increasing quantities!

And back of it all, of course, is the American way of life at work—where free men are encouraged to invent, invest, produce, and everybody benefits.

his wife, Lee, are already on their way to Tierra Libre when he receives a note from Zora Mitchell warning them not to come. When they arrive in Tierra Libre they find both Zora and her husband dead. It is Mitchell's job as chief engineer for a fruit company that Jeff has been called to fill. Later Jeff's friend Bill Henderson is also killed, and Jeff suspects his employer, Senor Montaya, of murdering him and the Mitchells because they had found a clue to the strange things going on at the planta-tion. Other sinister figures are the company chemist, Dr. Toenjes, and the flyers, Ryden and Lannestock. A U. S. Army plane is forced down, but Senor Montaya does not appear alarmed by the presence of the army men. Jeff and Lee discover that their housemaid is spying on them. Now Jeff is talking to a man named Collins.

CHAPTER XIII

The man's eyes veiled suddenly. Curt flared.

"Well, make up your mind whether to trust me or not. I can't man-9. What was the most popular age a tete-a-tete very often. You're ballad ever composed in the United States?

10. Can you define can bari eral appearance needs to be explained." Curt dared a little guesswork. "You came in through Soledad on the destroyer that called there a week ago Monday!" A rigidity in the other convinced Curt he was right. He went on.

"You've built yourself into a tramp by sleeping in old clothes and not shaving for ten days. Your skin isn't used to a beard, it itches. You keep scratching your face. But you couldn't resist the comforts of a clean body. You got those bleary eyes from going without sleep, and that hungry look from doing without food. For about two days, huh? Three days? The whole thing's a build-up. Why?"

Collins gave in. "I needed a good background. Mc-Innis says I can trust you. I think so, too, first judgment. It's a long story, and I can't even give it to you. All of it, anyway. I'm asking you, as a fellow American," he emphasized the words, "to give me a job. I want to get established here."

Steps mounted hurriedly to the door in the outer room. The door snapped open. Curt picked up the application blank Collins had been working on, and was studying it as Emilio entered, black-browed.

"Everything is ready," the native announced hardily.

Curt looked up. "Okay. We'll have to hold it a few minutes. All right, Collins," he snapped at the ragged man, "it so happens I do need men. I'll give you a try-out, but you better be as good as you say you are. You can go up to camp with me now."

He looked the man over with distaste. "First, go to the next room and take off those rags. Get under the shower and I'll find you some clean clothes. There's a razor in the bathroom. Get those whiskers off. And hustle it up.'

Scarcely a word passed on the chugging trip to the levee camp Esteban, the Carib launch boy, sat at his controls and stared straight ahead. Emilio sulked.

As for Collins, after a few minutes of that stare he simply turned his back on Emilio and gazed at the river's edge slipping by. Collins was a far stretch from the tramp of an hour ago. In spare shirt and breeches Curt kept on hand in his Tempujo quarters, Collins showed up a tall, rangy, athletic person.

Curt had plenty to occupy his mind. His guess, confirmed by the other's silence, that Collins had come to Soledad on the destroyer, was proof enough that something was brewing. But what?

The man had said he came "to see Mitchell," but Mitch had been dead for days before Collins hadpresumably-left the Canal Zone. Did he come to investigate Mitch's death? If so, then he had plenty more to investigate.

True, violent deaths of three Americans would assume an importance that Mitchell's alone didn't have, but these other deaths hadn't occurred until Collins was already on his way. So that couldn't be the answer. Besides, he wouldn't have needed a disguise for this.

Now, it was to the United States' interest, Curt reasoned, so far as it could to see that peace was preserved throughout these countries. Did it mean that Montaya, innocent as he appeared to be of such aspirations, actually had political yearnings?

But here again were objections. Dr. Areca, the "provisional" Presidente of Tierra Libre, was a good executive, the people not abused, their economy prospering reasonably well. You can't have a revolution among satisfied people.

Monahan's shift was coming off duty as the launch made the levee camp's landing. Curt took Collins ashore—under Emilio's watchful eye -and while the camp cook was replenishing the lunch basket, he turned the man over to Monahan.

"Put him on a drag this afternoon, Slats. You can tell one way or another about him by the time I get back this evening. Luck, Col-

He appeared to deliberate. "Very well, Emilio," he said at last, "here's our program. I want you to pace off the shore line and plant these flags every forty steps. Be sure they can be easily seen from across the river. This won't be hard to do, with the river now at a low mark, though you may have to use your machete on small brush. When you reach that bend up ahead, wait for us there.

"Meanwhile, Esteban will set me down at that hill opposite. I'll climb to the highest point, get some pictures for further study, and come down the other side. The launch will pick me up, then we'll cross and get you. Is that clear?"

Emilio fumbled with the flags. 'Could not Esteban plant the flags? Then I could stay with you-"

"We need him on the launch. Neither of us could handle it in these rough waters." For some distance they'd been fighting the increased current of the lower rapids. "But Senor Montaya gave me camp by dark." He hustled Emilio, still protesting and blackly reluctant, off along the shore line, jumped back into the launch, and was set down on the other shore. As the launch boy headed upstream for the rendezvous, Curt took one look behind him. He could see Emilio was watching him. Curt was now in somewhat familiar territory. On this bank rose a considerable hill thickly covered with a jungle of trees, lianas, undergrowth. Because of the hill, Finca Urana, the Associated's farm, didn't touch the river at this spot.

Curt plunged into a path used by the women of the farm laborers when they came to the river to wash clothes. He picked up a mule trail at the edge of the banana plantation, broke into a trot.

Banana farms are laid out evenly, the "bits" planted twenty feet or so apart. The plants grow rapidly, shooting up suckers, of which the strongest are allowed to remain, and each single plant eventually becomes a ring of plants, like a bed of gigantic cannas. Their long broad leaves meet twenty to thirty feet overhead, allowing only scattered rays of sunshine to reach the earth.

A banana plantation is a lovely, peaceful spot-if one has the time to enjoy it. Through these sunbeams brilliant birds and butterflies dart; there are rustlings underfoot of field rats or iguanas-or snakes; and all is hushed as a green-windowed ca-

It was along such a lane, hot, the air still, that Curt trotted. If all went well he could get to the farmhouse of Urana and back to the river in thirty to forty minutes. He would have to explain this lapse of time, but he'd worry about that

There was only a native timekeeper in the farm office, which was the ground floor of the two-story house, while another mozo was raking the corral. He looked up, amazed, at the stranger who appeared out of nowhere, but Curt gave him no chance to put his curiosity into words. He took the initie | Nothing more.

"Creo que fue al Tigre, Senor." Curt went to the old wall phone and turned the handle sharply. The bell in the box tinkled. The thick soft voice of the exchange operator answered.

"Ring Finca Tigre." He waited.
"Senor McInnis there? How long would it take to bring him to the phone? Oh?" He thought a moment. "All right, thanks, won't wait." He hung up. He couldn't risk half an

His eye fell on a typewriter. Seizing a piece of paper, he rolled it into the machine and began to punch out a note:

"Jerry. You've heard of Zora Mitchell and Bill Henderson without a doubt. Convinced of danger here, but don't know what it is. Old Man Moore has confidential file on everyone of consequence in Tierra Libre. Hates to give out but I must know all I can about Montaya. Make him spill to you, and meet me at River. bend about nine Saturday night. Hir. ing Collins, no chance to talk to him yet. C."

He cast about for an envelope, found one, sealed and addressed his message.

The native timekeeper had been staring at him throughout all this, half in amazement, half in resentment. Curt asked his name. "Rafael Diaz, Senor."

"Bueno, Rafael," said Curt. "Tell no one about this. See that Senor McInnis gets this as soon as possible. Phone him to come here. Put it in his hands yourself. Understand?" As Curt made off at a trot across the clearing, to disappear under the banana plants, the timekeeper, note in one hand, money in the other, shrugged his shoulders, muttering, "Locos - todos locos, Americanos. Siempre tienen prisa . . ." (These crazy Americans, always in a hur-On his way back to the river Curt thought of his sweat-sodden shirt. He ripped it off as he trotted and let the breeze he created nearly dry it by the time he reached the hill, when he put it on again. It would still show wet but that could be accounted for by his exertions along the river. He saw a brilliant orchid in bloom, an epiphyte fastened to a slender dead tree limb within reach. It was one of the "butterfly" orchids Lee wanted, and had two three-foot candelabra branches covered with dozens of small bright yellow blooms, like butterflies alighted. Here was his excuse for lost time! Curt put on the rest of his act with deliberation. He studied the opposite shore, the rising hills behind, put away his field glasses, took his pictures, then fought his way through the undergrowth down the hill to meet the launch. "It was some time you were gone from view," said Emilio, when at last picked up. The man was jit-"I worried. You had diffithis is what lost me many minutes.

My wife wants an orchid collection. She had one when we lived here before. Curt exhibited the plant with such real pride that it appeared to satisfy Emilio, and the man fell into narrow-eyed sullenness.

"Well, I'm through here," said Curt, tapping the camera. "Let's go." They picked up the flags Emilio had planted—in his pictures they would mark 100-foot intervals, though this was no more essential to Curt than the pictures. But the ruse had worked. During this process Curt also hunted a couple more orchids to bolster his excuse for the delay across the river.

Then they proceeded to eat lunch in the boat, in the lengthening afternoon shade of a stand of mangroves. Roots of these trees, sprouting from branches in midair, had taken hold in the river bottom, making a natural awning against the sun.

Perched on a branch not far from the launch, a noisy kiskadee jawed incessantly. Esteban, the Carib, called it a "heet-gee-gee." At first it was merely annoying, but before the meal was finished the bird had become a definite nuisance.

Curt pulled his pistol, took aim, fired. His brows shot up in astonishment!

There had been no kick when he squeezed the trigger, and the bullet, expelled without force, made a curious arc and plopped harmlessly into the water.

He tried another shot, but with the same result. Then he removed the clip and examined the remaining bullets. They seemed to be all right. The brass shell case from the first shot had ejected over the side, but the second had fallen into the boat. Curt picked it up and examined it. Undoubtedly, it was from the same lot as the rest of the clip. Suddenly he noted that Emilio's sullenness had disappeared, that the ily, he reached the farmhouse. His native was eyeing the proceedings with a dead-pan countenance and completely indifferent eyes. The bird meanwhile had merely hopped a couple of steps at each shot and was still jabbering its raucous notes. Curt snapped home the clip, tried a third shot. Another dull thud. So he shrugged, reholstered the automatic, and said "Huh. Bad lot of ammunition."

Lounging Apparel Has One Aim— To Keep You as Warm as Ever!

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

ET north winds blow and let it snow and snow! Nor can drastic fuel rationing frighten us at all this season now that Dame Fashion has taken the matter in hand, popping right up impromptu with a very fine priorities "keep warm" plan all her own. Her magic prescription for keeping warm, happy and serene during chilly days and nights? It's warm, cuddly lounging robes and nightwear as lovely as can be and every whit as practical and "comfy" as lovely. So "cheerio" is the word, for though the thermometer reads in terms of patriotic degrees, you may relax in comfort in enchanting well-padded and cold-defying housecoats, lounging pajamas, dressing gowns and nighties that will laugh at draughts and banish the shivers.

The use of glamorous fabrics for these new leisure styles has made them as elegant as they are luxuriously comfortable. This "stay-athome" program, enforced now that unnecessary travel is taboo, isn't going to be so bad after all if we are going to be privileged to wear beguiling indoor apparel fashioned of such luscious rayon fabrics as jewel-toned, crush-resistant velvets, supple crepes, sleek satins and crisp taffetas sharing honors with deeppiled rayon fleeces and oh-so-comfy, "Some," admitted Curt. "But kitten-soft spun rayon flannels for eye-fetching long-sleeved lounging styles of unusual grace and charm. For coolish evenings at home when the thermometer is low, fashion gives us strikingly styled coverup hostess pajamas and housecoats in warm crush-resistant velvet or soft draping crepes or satins designed to grace the drawing room as well as the boudoir. Warm and lovely is the gracious housecoat centered in the above illustration. There's a delectable color harmony achieved in combining soft orchid holds the fashionable surplice closing snugly in place.

Warm as toast and pretty as a picture is the fitted and flared robe to the left in the group. It uses lavishly quilted rayon satin in glamorous "icing" pink. Wide collar points add flattery at the neck and a matching sash ties softly at the trim waistline. And while we are dealing with the quilted theme, here's a fascinating bit of fashion newsit's the new-this-season use of myriads of lace ruffles on quilted coats of gaily printed taffeta or crepe. Gives the prettily feminine touch! Perhaps the most exciting event that is taking place in the realm of boudoir fashions is the revival of the long-sleeved nightgown. At last we've had to admit that grandma had the right idea when she slumbered peacefully in long sleeved "nighties." And now that we are proving for ourselves the comfort and satisfaction of long sleeves, the lingerie departments all report just one request after another for "a nightgown with long sleeves, please." What's more, the nightgowns with long sleeves are being so prettily styled you feel the urge to buy at first sight. Then, too, they are made of soft, warmish fabrics the very feel of which glows with warmth. ever on record a "rush" for flannelette long-sleeved gowns. And if you are quite discriminating in your taste you'll be charmed with the idea of dainty spun rayon challis for your nightrobe. The quaint and lovely "covered-up" nightgown shown to the right in the above picture is both warm and flattering in fine roseprinted challis. Note how winsomely it is trimmed with wide lace ruffles at neck and sleeve.

Huge Muffs

If you want to make a stunning appearance wherever you go this winter, choose a suit of bright red wool like that pictured above. See to it that the collarless jacket fastens at the waist with a large jet button, for a touch of jet on your costume is a stroke of genius when it comes to interpreting smart fashion these days. To carry out your costume theme to perfection, complement your bright red suit with a blouse of black sheer wool, wear a tall-crowned hat that glories in a wealth of fur matched to the huge silver fox muff you carry. Fashion especially emphasizes the importance of enormous muffs.

Floral Buttons Enhance Flower-Toned Ensembles

The mad rush for buttons will continue right on into spring according to latest reports from fashion headquarters. All the style previews give evidence of a renewed enthusiasm for decorative buttons. The new plastic buttons in the same color of the suit or dress fabric seen on so many of the spring costumes are really beautiful.

Suits featured in flower colors take on buttons that work out such fascinating schemes as purple suits and dresses with pansy buttons, or violets if you prefer, Lily-of-the-valley button motifs done in plastic enhance suits that accent green tones. The continuation of jeweled buttons on the spring fashions, especially rhinestones, is welcome news.

Snow Togs Have Bright Linings and Gay Colors

In skating suits wool of shetland type is best liked with warm interlining for the jacket and velveteen for the collar. Norwegian blue, black, red and dark green are favorite colors.

The princess style dress in red corduroy is a leader. It is also popular in velveteen. Skirts in bright shetland wool or velveteen, made circular and lined with bizarre patchwork print cotton are also favorites.

Good Tweeds

There is a decided trend toward sane, careful buying this fall, seen in the tendency to seek the best quality materials and reliable workmanship. This is reflected in the fact that there is an increased demand for quality tweeds in both suits and coats.

to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.

It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy It. It gives us the most priceless feeling In the world: the feeling of being adequately prepared.

• When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. BRIGHT blue is the color keynote in this bathroom. Blue is used for towels and bath mat stripes and for a painted box cornice. The curtains are of coarse white muslin tufted with old-fashioned candlewicking in bright blue. It is difficult to find appropriate curtains that will stand steam and moisture so you may want to copy these in your favorite color.

Cut the curtains the length and width desired with ample allowance for shrinkage and baste the hems in. Next place the material flat on a table and mark diagonal lines on the goods with a yardstick and pencil, spacing the lines four inches apart to form the plaid pattern. Now, thread a tufting needle with four strands of candlewick yarn, and work along these ruled lines using the thread double, as at the upper right. Also, sew the hem in this manner; then clip the stitches, as shown at lower right and dip in water. Spread out smooth to dry but do not iron. Finish the tops with a rod casing.

NOTE: It is easy to give all your windows a professional finish with box cornices; and they prevent light from showing at the top, in a blackout. Pattern 207 which gives directions for making cornices will be mailed for 10 cents. Address:

Collects 286 Rare Odors

Collecting rare odors is the hubby of Dr. Ralph Bienfang of the University of Oklahoma school of pharmacy. He has 286 of them from far corners of the earth, such as oil of rose from Baghdad; hyssop from central Asia and zdravetze from Bulgaria. Dr. Bienfang preserves the odor in oil and transfers it to a card. The card holds the odor for as long as two years and is filed in a card index.

Wells of Iraq

The pipeline running from the wells of Iraq to the Palestine shore of the Mediterranean carries an estimated 4,000,000 tons of crude oil each year.

Caterpillars

Caterpillars have six legs. The conspicuous fleshy claspers which often are mistaken for its legs are not true legs but are called "pro-
