Iosco County Has Many Fine Victory Gardens

PRELIMINARY INSPECTION IS COMPLETED

Judge Will Make Final Inspection in August

County Victory Garden Chairman, Mrs. J. N. Sloan, announced today that the preliminary scoring of Iosco county entries in the National Food Production program is now completed. Those who entered the Victory Garden Contest in Iosco county had their gardens inspected and scored by the judges during the past two weeks. Judging was based on the following points: Plan of Garden; Soil Condition; Cultural Practice; Number and Kinds of Vegetables; Succession Cropping; Quality of Crop Grown, and Production.

According to the score card used, the perfect garden might total 100 points. Of these possibilities, the leading local farm garden earned 94 points, the highest scoring urban garden 88 points, and the highest rating home grounds in connection with a vegetable garden earned a total of 87 points, according to local judges. There will be a second inspection and final judging of the gardens sometime during the month of August at which time, production, preservation and storage for winter use will be the major factors of consideration.

The preliminary scoring revealed the following results: The five highest scoring farm gardens in order of points earned are being titled by Henry Schatz of Tawas township, Mrs. Wm. Groulx of Renon township, Mrs. C. E. Huff of Burleigh township, Mrs. Otto Look of Tawas township, and Mrs. Edith Cataline of Burleigh township.

The leading urban gardens in order of scoring by the judges belong to Mrs. John Henry of East Tawas, Mrs. Martha Barnum of Whittemore, Mrs. J. N. Barrington of Whittemore, Mrs. Otto Kasischek of Tawas City, Mrs. Ernest Ross of Tawas City, Mrs. Sarah Chase of Whittemore, Fred Boulder of Tawas City, Leonard Gottleber of East Tawas, Mrs. Robert Toska of East Tawas, Elton Smith of Whittemore, and A. W. Colby of Tawas City.

The home grounds in conjunction with a vegetable garden were scored as follows: Mrs. Ernest Ross of Tawas City, Mrs. Otto Kasischek of Tawas City, Mrs. Robert Toska of East Tawas, A. W. Colby of Tawas City and Andrew Christeson of East Tawas.

The judges, Paul Newcomb, supervisor of the Huron, National Forest, F. O. Potter, district farm security secretary, and W. L. Finley, county agriculture agent, expressed great enthusiasm over the production possibilities which were observed in the gardens visited. They stated that if these gardens are a fair indication of the vegetable production that will come from the 1400 farm and urban gardens of Iosco county, we as a rural community may well be proud of our contribution to the food production program from which winter food supplies may well have many numerous ways may well have many tons of commercially packed foods for our armed brothers, sons and husbands in all corners of the world.

There are 74 4-H Club gardens enrolled in the Iosco County Victory Garden Contest which will be scored between now and September when the contest is brought to a close over the entire state. A few of these youth owned "food factories" have already been visited and, according to the judges, are upon the same high plane as the adult's gardens which have been scored in the preliminary portion of the contest.

Of the many stories of deeds performed by our Marines in the Guadalcanal campaign, none is more interesting than that about Richard Hill, grandson of Thomas Hill of this city. The story was told by Dick's buddy who is now at his home in Flint recovering from wounds received in the campaign. Dick with three other Marines, were in a fox-hole and out of ammunition. Discovering a Jap sniper behind a log in front of them, Dick said, "I'll get that Jap," crawled out of the hole, armed with his knife, inched himself along through the underbrush until he reached the log. Finding that he had dropped his knife, he grasped a rock. When the Jap raised his head, Dick crowned him so hard that he is permanently out of the war.

Fun for the Whole Family

Cautions for Home Canners

Housewives doing home canning with wartime jar caps are cautioned to follow implicitly the instructions of the cap manufacturers if they wish to avoid unhappy experiences and waste in their patriotic effort to conserve. Spoilage of food and breakage of jars is certain to result, if instructions are not followed to the letter.

Proper methods and careful canning will insure excellent results, more important in the present food situation than at any other time.

The Glass-Top Seal Fruit Jar Cap, a wartime product developed to conserve metal, requires careful use, according to the home service departments of fruit jar manufacturers. This cap consists of a metal band, glass lid and rubber ring. With these three widely varied materials making up its component parts, the cap must be used according to important but easily followed instructions. First of all, the cap is not recommended for, and must not be used in, open canning.

The food is processed (cooked in a jar) one inch of space must be left in the top of the jar when filled, in order to allow room for expansion. If an open kettle is used a half-inch of space must be left in the top of the jar.

The next step is to place the rubber around the projection on the bottom side of the lid, and the lid must then be placed so that the rubber fits between it and the top edge of the jar. All jars on which top-seal closures, either glass or metal, are used must have smooth-top edges.

The bands must be screwed tightly and immediately loosened slightly about one-quarter of a turn. Bands must fit loosely during the processing or cooking. If an open kettle is used, the bands are to be screwed tight as soon as the jar is filled. After the processing is completed the bands are screwed tight to complete the seal. The bands may be removed twelve hours after the canning operation. At no time should the filled jars be turned upside-down.

The housewife who takes no chances on variance from any one of these simple but important steps is assured of success and the enjoyment of the delicious flavor of home canned foods this winter.—Adv.

'Not Heat, but Humidity'—Here's What Can Be Done

Too much humidity is ruinous to people's dispositions in warm weather, and dampness takes an annual toll of home articles, damaged by mildew and mold in basements and closets.

Many householders have found an effective remedy by using common calcium chloride in simple home-made devices. Calcium chloride flakes attract 3 to 3½ times their weight in water from the air.

An efficient dehumidifier, which may be used in any part of the house, can be made with a simple painted wooden cabinet, with a wire or cloth-covered frame, or frames, containing the chemical flakes. The solution drips into a water-proofed hopper. By installing a fan in one end, the drying of the air can be speeded up.

Under conditions of lower humidity, the room becomes a cool and pleasant refuge against the hot and humid air outside.

The heart of the American nation was in France last Thursday night. It marched proudly with the boys who went over the top at Chateau Thierry and who have been smashing gallantly since toward the Vesle river.

Double Seater

A double seater makes anyone think of a runabout or a gent who has spent his life eating not wisely but too well. Instead, it's a particular kind of a job at a sewing machine, just as a trolley operator doesn't mean a street car motor-man but a lad who does the finishing and icing in a bakery.

Nationwide Molly Pitcher Tag Day

Washington, D. C.—On August 4th, Molly Pitcher is stepping out of the pages of American history to sell War Bonds and Stamps. The gal who carried water to thirsty soldiers during the blistering Revolutionary Battle of Monmouth and took over her husband's cannon when he was wounded, has long been a symbol of the heroism of American women.

In her honor, brigades of modern Molly Pitchers will take their stands on nation-wide Molly Pitcher Day at street corners, building entrances, and in public places to sell the bonds and stamps that back up our modern fighting men.

A red-white-and-blue Molly Pitcher Tag will be given to everyone who purchases a bond or stamp on that day. Members of the American Legion Auxiliary, and of the Independent Food Distributors Council unit of Molly Pitchers, will aid and augment local Women's War Savings Staffs to make up the volunteer sales force. They will use water pitchers to hold their supplies of tags and War Stamps. The slogan on the tags will read "Fill the Pitcher with Bonds and Stamps on Molly Pitcher Day," and the goal of the sales force will be to "tag" the total population.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Prevents the "Bends"

Before our fighting pilots take to the air for stratosphere flying they must be "suped-up." To do this the pilot just before he takes off pedals a stationary motor driven bicycle to reduce the amount of nitrogen in his blood. Otherwise gas bubbles would collect in his blood stream.

The stationary bicycle is an inexpensive piece of equipment, but the vast quantities of this and other materials of war make it imperative for all of us to keep our fighting men well supplied by greater and greater purchases of War Bonds.

Money Divorce Cause

Money, or rather the lack of it, is the most common cause of marital troubles, according to Circuit Judge Paul D. Barnes of Miami, and he should know, for last year he handled 4,000 divorce cases. "Willingness to live within income is the most important thing I can say to young married couples," Judge Barnes said. "The tendency to exceed income seems to be a fashion of the times, but it's probably the most disastrous habit married couples can fall into."

Mosquito Deaths

Every year malaria-bearing mosquitoes are responsible for the deaths of between two and three million people.

'Color Blind'

An artist in Cleveland, Ohio, who had won several prizes for his paintings, was rejected by the marine corps because he was "color blind."

Heavy Gold Chains

The famous heavy gold chains usually worn by courtiers in Fifteenth century England cost from $3,000 to $7,000.

If every man, woman and child in the United States lays aside $100 the aggregate will be about $13,000,000,000 or the amount the Treasury must raise in its Second War Loan.

Dragon Flag
The "Dragon Flag" of England was flown in the famous battles at Lewes in 1216, and at Crecy in 1346 and at Bosworth Field in 1485. After that its use was discontinued.

"IN 2 HOURS YOUR FACTORY WILL BE FLOODED!"
 It had been raining for a week, back in the hills. A farmer, hunting for a strayed cow along the creek, looked up and saw water pouring through a widening crack in the reservoir dam. He ran half a mile to the nearest telephone and made a long distance call to the munitions plant down the valley where his son worked.
 "You've got about two hours before your factory is flooded," he told them. Because that call got through in time, scores of workers and tons of vital war material were moved to safety before the crest of roaring water could reach the plant.
 Long Distance lines are crowded with calls as never before. Many are war calls which must go through promptly. Others are civilian calls, some vitally urgent, some less urgent. You and you alone can judge whether your call is really necessary.
 Please make only the most essential long distance calls.
 If you must call by long distance, do all you can to be brief.

GAS-LESS AUTO RACE

An automobile race was staged in Brazil recently which should interest gas-less Americans. Thirty-two cars took part, and not one of them used a drop of gasoline.

Each car was equipped with a charcoal burning apparatus known as "gasogene," producing a charcoal gas whose combustion takes the place of the combustion of gasoline in the ordinary automobile engine.

These devices have been so successful in Brazil that they are being produced at the rate of 40 a day, selling for about $200 each. Some of the units are capable of generating a thousand horsepower, and are used even on the inter-city buses between Santos and Sao Paulo.

Brazil has practically no petroleum resources of her own.

TANKERS DELIVER PLANES

Everybody knows that bombers have long been delivered to England under their own power. But the big problem has been to deliver fighter planes, which have had to be taken apart, crated, then reassembled on the other side.

Now, however, a new system has been devised whereby U. S. tankers are carrying fighters on deck—20 to each tanker—and setting them down a few days later in England.

The War Shipping Administration is keeping the army "cleaned out of fighters" by this method of delivery, and is rapidly building up the strength of the Eighth Air Forces command which is battering Germany.

Note: PT boats are also being delivered to England on the decks of tankers.

NO GERMAN SAUSAGE

The diplomats' grapevine reports that the German food supply is running low. A new cut has been made in the meat ration. This, coming at a time when the greatest muscle must be exerted in defense of the Vaterland, is expected to be a severe blow to German morale.

The basic ration of meat for normal uses was 400 grams at this time last year. But now the ration has been cut to 250 grams—which is about half a pound per week, including fat and bone.

An effort is being made to compensate this reduction by the substitution of cheese and groats (hulled and crushed oats and wheat). During the winter, however, it was reduced to 300 grams. In the spring the cut was partially restored, when the ration was moved up to 350 grams, recognizing the necessity of more nourishment with the coming of the season of greater military activity.

ARMY AND GOLD MINING

American soldiers who spent dreary winters tracking through the Arctic forest to build the Alcan highway to Alaska frequently saw the sparkle of gold in the stream beds, and wanted to stake out claims for peacetime development. They were not allowed to do so.

Now, however, civilian construction crews are coming along the same trail, and are staking out claims for the gold which U. S. soldiers could not touch.

Boys from almost every state were sent to Alaska on that pioneering job—cutting a road through tall timber where none but Indians had passed before. They worked from Dawson Creek, in Alberta, to Fairbanks, Alaska, but the place where they saw the gleaming gold was in the Yukon, near Whitehorse.

At first, there was little time to think about private projects, for one battalion was racing against another to complete its 20-mile stretch of highway. But when a lull came in the work, the men asked permission to try their luck at panning gold. The officers, however, ruled this out.

Another season has rolled around, and things have changed. The pioneer road is being replaced by a permanent highway, built by big construction companies—Elliott Construction Co., and Becketel, Price and Callahan.

These companies have mining engineers attached to the construction gangs, and they are not bound by military discipline.

Note: Finally the army has modified its regulations to permit a little amateur gold panning by soldiers in Alaska, for recreational purposes. This activity will be in the same class with fishing, to give the soldiers sport in their spare time.

Margaret Bourke-White, just back from taking pictures of world famous statesmen, was showing her long line of short-snorters. . . . Several were autographed by Eisenhower, Marshall, Churchill and others, but the one that held the eye was a bill inscribed, she said, by people with whom she had been torpedoed. . . . "Huh?" you huh.

"Oh," says Margaret, "you'd be surprised at the people you meet nowadays, who have been torpedoed!"

The 200 women salvaged nothing but their lipsticks!

Joey Adams forwards the one about the French peasant in occupied territory, whose home had been ransacked by the Nazis. . . . It is not humor. It is grim stuff brought here by escaped refugees. . . . The famished man caught a tiny fish and raced home with it. . . . "Here!" he said to his wife, "at last we can eat!" . . . "But how will we cook it?" she asked. "They took our coal and wood, our matches and even the stove!" . . . The peasant took the fish to the lake, tossed it back and stood watching it wiggle back to life. . . . Suddenly the fish gave the Nazi-Vichy salute and yelled: "Viva Laval!"

Training Cooks for the World's Best Fed Army

America prides itself on producing the best fed, best clothed, best equipped army in the world. Helping to maintain this standard are the schools for bakers and cooks. Left: At the Fort Sam Houston school students are learning to prepare coffee with a tripod and a Dixie Boiler. The men kneeling are heating dehydrated foods in their mess kits over the fire. Center: A student baker is adding shortening to other ingredients in the dough mixer. Bakers learn to operate movable and immovable equipment. Right: A typical doughboy samples the result of the school's training. Ninety per cent of the students who become expert cooks and bakers were not able to fry potatoes properly before entering training school.

BIBLE TEACHINGS ON THE COST OF DRINKING

LESSON TEXT—Deuteronomy 21:18-21; Proverbs 23:29-35; 1 Corinthians 6:9-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God?—1 Corinthians 6:9.

Billions of dollars—how many we cannot say—make up the annual cost of liquor to America in dollars and cents. Terrifying as it is, that stupendous waste is but a drop in the bucket compared with the moral and spiritual degradation, the sorrow and suffering, the poverty and distress, which must be added into our liquor bill.

For it is not only a matter of dollars, but of blood and tears, or destroyed usefulness, lost virtue, wrecked homes, and so on and on and on. We go right on paying the bill, allowing ourselves to be misled by clever propaganda, and skillfully manipulated statistics—or it may be our sheer indifference. When will America awaken!

Our lesson faces us with the cost of this despicable traffic in the life of the individual to the social order, and in the light of eternity.

I. The Personal Cost (Deut. 21: 18-21).

Liquor destroys individuals relentlessly, rapidly, and effectively. Have we forgotten that fact?

The passage in Deuteronomy presents a drastic remedy for a dreadful situation. Drink and gluttony were recognized as the deadly instrument which would bring a boy to the place where he was incorrigible. Stubborn, rebellious, and disobedient, his parents were to bring him to the elders for a final judgment.

If one thinks the penalty too harsh, he must remember that it was established in the early days of Israel when it was necessary for God to use such drastic remedies to stamp out incipient evil.

It must be remembered that in ancient Greece weak children were left out to die, and in Rome a father could at will put to death even a grown up son.

The point of this scripture for us is that a life of debauchery (and it can start with just a glass of wine) leads to the ultimate destruction of life. It is far too high a cost to pay for a sinful indulgence.

II. The Social Cost (Prov. 23: 20, 21).

Drunkenness and gluttony lead to poverty and rags. The intemperate man cannot keep up with the high cost of supplying his growing appetite. Even as he tries to satisfy his insatiable demand, it also renders him unfit to earn a living.

So the vicious circle works its way around, and stops not until the drunkard totters off in his rags, unless perchance some loved one or friend takes care of him.

Do we not all recall how families in our own communities have been ruined and become charges upon the county or charitable organizations because of the destruction wrought by a father who was a winebibber.

Not only does it bring poverty upon families, but it reduces able and gifted men to shambaling wrecks and thus deprives society of the benefit of their lives and service.

A present-day illustration is the unsolved problem of absenteeism for days after pay day in our essential industries. Again we say the cost is altogether too high; let us get rid of this monster before it destroys us!

III. The Eternal Cost (I Cor. 6: 9-11).

Money lost is serious. Life lost is far more serious. But the saddest cost of all is the eternal damnation of the drinker's soul.

We quote from Dr. Horace Martin these stirring and meaningful words: "It is my calm judgment that any man who names the name of Christ should take an attitude of horror and disgust at the liquor traffic and the use of liquor as a beverage. There are at least three places in the New Testament where the Bible says that no drunkard shall inherit the kingdom of God."

"If any man takes that statement seriously he must think twice before he refers to the use of liquor in a joking manner, or in any way condones the use of alcohol as a beverage" (Lesson Commentary).

Drunkenness is a foul and sinful thing, classed by the apostle Paul with the lowest of human vices. Review the list as it is given in verses 9 and 10 (and by the way notice the other sins mentioned there), and place drunkenness in its proper

Non-Violence Can Conquer
By Mahatma Gandhi

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Collier's Weekly)

My principle of non-violence means, in general terms, that men will deliberately shun all weapons of slaughter and the use of force of any kind whatsoever.

The most familiar comment on this principle is that we who believe in it are naive fools without realistic knowledge of the world. The criticism is leveled particularly against me, since it is my name that is most commonly associated with non-violence.

It is said that if I were not such a simpleton, deliberately closing my eyes to conditions as they really are, I would know that non-violence can never hope to prevail over such powerful and brutal forces as those represented by Nazi Germany and Japan, which are the essence of unscrupulous armed might. Non-violence, it is said, may be all very well in theory, but in practice, it is too hopelessly idealistic to have any chance of success in this modern world of armored divisions, parachute troops, dive bombers.

Are we naive fools? Is non-violence a sort of dreamy wishful thinking that has never had and can never have any real success against the heavy odds of modern armies and the unlimited application of force and frightfulness? India's recent history gives the answer to this. We have won considerable victories. We have faced powerful armed forces and we have not been swept out of the way. We still exist; belief in non-violence still exists. Does not the fact that only a single victory has been won prove that non-violence, developed to greater perfection, could win greater victories against greater armed forces?

But let me describe the true follower of non-violence—the true non-violent soldier as I see him.

Ability to Die.

The chief requisite for a soldier in a violent army is physical fitness. But in the non-violent army, the chief requisite is the ability to die for your belief. This depends not on physical but on mental fitness. Therefore, this army can welcome to its ranks old men, women, youths, the blind, the sick and the lame. Thus it follows that the non-violent army has a much greater mass base; it consists not merely of a certain section of the population but of all sections.

The non-violent army has no use for weapons. It beats its swords into plowshares and its spears into pruning hooks. Whereas, the soldier of the violent army is trained in the use of violence by being taught how to shoot, the non-violent soldier comes through nursing the sick, saving those in danger at risk of his own life, and cultivating the capacity for sacrifice of the highest type.

He must have the resourcefulness and capacity to plunge into seemingly impenetrable scenes of rioting, the will and the desire to go to the rescue of men trapped in burning houses, and the fearlessness to plunge into a flood to save people drowning there.

There have been those in India who had weapons but who threw them away after embracing non-violence and offered themselves freely and unafraid to bullets and raw steel.

This is the true non-violent soldier.

I have heard it said that the non-violent movement has had some acceptance in India only because the Indian people are cowards who have no weapons and therefore are incapable of defending themselves; that non-violence, therefore, suits them very well indeed.

On the evidence I have given, are the Indian people cowards? Would a coward have the courage to bare his breast to a rifle? Is there any army in the world that could prevail over such soldiers? Having no fear themselves, could Hitler, could Japan conquer them? Judge if we are naive fools; if there is no courage in our hearts! Judge if we who believe in non-violence have no practical conception of how to overcome the evils that exist in today's world!

The non-violent soldier recognizes no such thing as an external enemy. He has nothing but compassion for those who consider themselves to be his enemies. He believes that no man is intentionally wicked, that there is no man who does not have the faculty to discriminate between right and wrong, and that if that faculty were to be fully developed, it would mature into non-violence. No man can remain enemies in the face of such a treatment and such a spirit. They must ultimately be absorbed by this great movement and become part of it.

New Kitchen to Be Two Rooms in One

Pots and Pans Banished; The Heating Unit Does All but the Marketing

The kitchen of tomorrow will lead a double life.

Previewed recently as a sample of what the future holds in store for the American housewife, it converts instantly from a strictly utilitarian, high-efficiency workroom into welcome extra living space that accommodates baby's playpen or a few tables of bridge with equal aplomb.

More than that, it banishes pots and pans, eliminates bending and stooping. H. Creston Doner, director of Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company's design department in Toledo, Ohio, conceived the kitchen and built a full-scale model. He estimates that it will enable Mrs. America to do 75 per cent of her work while seated.

Engineered as carefully as a bomber, the kitchen gains space and efficiency by building-in such usually unwieldy and inconvenient kitchen aids as the waffle iron, toaster, sandwich grill and food mixer. Infinite attention to detail has resulted in the incorporation of numerous features that, minor indi-

At left is the oven with its glass hood raised, next is a cooking unit with built-in waffle iron, cooking vessels and food mixer. vidually, amount in the aggregate to hours of time, effort and energy saved each day.

For instance, sink faucets operate by foot pedals, so both hands can work freely; cutlery and other small utensils are fastened neatly to a wall panel which swings out of sight when not needed, reducing cut fingers and lost tempers to a minimum; the refrigerator and china cabinet are accessible from both kitchen and dining alcove; the heat of the refrigerator motor dries the dish towels.

Kitchen to Blend With Other Rooms.

"Of course 'tomorrow's kitchen' is a radical departure from convention," Doner said. In the past "it has been impossible or undesirable to use the kitchen for anything but food preparation because there was no way to conceal the obvious fact that it was a kitchen. Thus the room was used only a few hours a day—an uneconomic waste of space. By building major appliances in permanently we could use them as integral parts of the architectural design. The result is that we have been able to disguise or conceal them so that the kitchen, when not in use, blends harmoniously with other living rooms.

Most startling innovation is the cooking unit. Abandoning the old-style stove with stoop-over oven and fuel-wasting open burners, there has been developed a compact, comprehensive unit that does everything but the shopping. Its glass-covered recessed vessels perform every cooking operation. They can even be used as individual ovens. Closing the sliding, self-illuminated cover converts the unit into a fireless cooker.

When not in use all equipment

This sliding glass panel closes off the service counter and confines cooking odors to the kitchen. Counter actually is the top of the refrigerator, other end of which supports a glass china cabinet. is concealed beneath sliding covers, forming a long, handsome buffet finished in a wood-grain pattern that harmonizes with other furniture and woodwork. Huge picture windows bring the outdoors into both kitchen and dining alcove and richly colored, easily cleaned vitrolite walls blend with the decor of other living rooms. In the dining alcove the glass-topped table folds against the wall to form a striking mural, ingeniously framed by its folding legs. In a flash both rooms are available for games, study or other activities.

FUN FOR YOUR FAMILY

By MISS ABBIE CONDIT
National Recreation Association.

More than one fretful youngster refuses to go to sleep these summer evenings because it's still light outside.

Actually the quiet period of twilight can be turned into one of the most relaxing interludes of the day. This is the time when children can play a quiet card game like Casino in which two, three, or four can participate.

Casino is a particularly good children's card game. The full pack is used and cards rank in the usual order, with ace low. The ten of diamonds is called Big Casino and the two of spades, Little Casino.

The object of the game is to win the highest number of points by winning all the cards you can, all the spades and aces you can, and Big and Little Casino. Four cards are dealt to each player, two at a time, and four are placed face-up in the center of the table or board if the children are playing on a bed. After each has played his four cards, the dealer gives out another four cards to each player, and this procedure is followed until the pack is exhausted. Cards taken in are not dealt out again in the same hand.

The first player plays the first card from his hand. He may do one of the following:

1. Match one or more of the face-up cards. Thus if there is a six showing and he has a six in his hand, he may take in both cards for his pile. If there are two sixes on the table he may take both, giving him three cards to be counted in his pile. The picture cards are used only for matching—not for addition.
2. He can combine two or more cards on the table if they add up to the value of a card in his hand. For example, if there are a two and a four on the table and John holds a six, he may take all three cards in. If John has a four and a six in his hand and there is a two on the table, he may put the four on the two, announcing that he intends to build sixes, and the next time around he takes in the pile with his six. But if the other player has a six, he may capture the pile started by John.
3. Build up the face values of cards showing. John, if he has two sixes, may put one six on the two and four, and then on his next turn play the other six and gather in a real haul.
4. Discard one card from his hand, placing it face-up on the table, for other players to use as they wish.

After the pack is dealt out, the player who last takes in cards also takes any extra cards left on the table. When all the cards have been played, the person with the greatest number of cards gets three points and the one with the most spades gets 1 point. Each player scores 1 for each ace taken in; Big Casino brings the holder 2 points and Little Casino, 1 point. There are 11 points in each hand, and succeeding hands are dealt out until someone gets 21 points and wins.

What to Do

By PHYLLIS BELMONT

Will you please tell me what mourning a young matron should wear for her mother (1) at the funeral, (2) afterwards and (3) for how long?

Answer—Mourning, in this modern age, has become strictly a matter of personal choice. There are many people who don't wish to wear black and because they wear colors their grief is no less genuine.

Of course they would wear more subdued colors than usual, and would by their conduct rather than their clothes display their feelings.

If you wish to wear mourning for your mother, a period of three months would be long enough.

Gallant Was the Word of Englishman to His Queen

A pendant to the historic cloak incident of Queen Elizabeth and Sir Walter Raleigh is surely supplied in this story, told by Arthur Croxton, many years manager of the London Coliseum music hall (in his reminiscences):

The courtly mayor of a small town in the Midlands of England had the honor of dancing, at some public ceremonial, with Queen Alexandra—the princess of Wales. She smilingly warned him that she had just had measles in her household, and that she hoped that she would not give him the disease. Bowing low, the mayor answered, "Your royal highness, I should be happy to take anything from so charming a source."

Household Hints

Put all vegetable and flower seeds away in a box or drawer kept for that purpose only so they can be found quickly when wanted.

Peanut butter blended with cream makes a delectable dressing for dry cake, bread pudding, or day-old doughnuts.

Handles of garden tools should be sandpapered and waxed to save splinters in fingers and hands.

Minute Make-Ups

How many times a day do you apply your lipstick? The average girl just dabs it on at least five or six times a day. But there is an important point which they are apt to forget. When the lipstick wears off it leaves a line of red around the edges of the lips. To apply lipstick correctly, (and the mouth is an important feature) you should always cleanse the lips thoroughly so that the new application has a clear, sharp line.

America in Action

FEEDING FIGHTERS

It takes a lot of careful planning to make certain that Pvt. Joe Smith of the armored troops gets the food he needs tomorrow noon when the tank in which he is a gunner blazes its way through enemy lines.

He'll eat mostly out of tin cans, but the food he'll get will be good; it will taste well, and it will be nutritionally adequate to give him the strength and energy to fight.

The can of meat which is his main course was packed in Chicago, Omaha or some other great meat-packing center. He'll have two packages of special biscuits, a package of malted milk dextrose tablets, some soluble coffee, cubes of sugar, four cigarettes and a stick of chewing gum.

To make all these food items converge in Africa at the right time and the right place so that Private Smith won't go hungry required that it be started on its way months ahead of time; that it be sent in sufficient reserve quantity so that the enemy's submarines couldn't interfere with its arrival. And it was prepared in the first place under close government inspection and according to carefully worked out formulas to assure proper nutritional value.

Specifically, the army must always have on hand 272 days' supply of food for every soldier on overseas duty. Without it, there could not be the uninterrupted flow of food to him—three meals a day no matter what happens.

The supply lines, of course, are long ones—6,000 miles and more in some cases through submarine-infested waters, areas under bombing attack and other perilous places.

First, the army must have a 15-day supply of food in this country in transit from the producing centers to the great supply depots at or near the ports where it is assembled for overseas shipment.

Next, a 65-day supply must always be kept on hand at these supply depots to meet any and all requirements, including the sudden order to load supplies for some new task force ordered to sail overnight.

A 30-day supply must always be afloat—en route on the high seas to the men in the theaters of war.

Then there must be a minimum of 92-days' supplies in the great overseas supply depots in the theaters of operations, with still another 45-day supply as operating stocks from which the daily withdrawals are made. A 25-day supply allowance must be made for losses of all kinds, ship sinkings, bombings and the like.

The attack dog, for example, is trained and used to supplement the sentry dog. He attacks off leash on command, or on provocation, and ceases his attack only when the resistance ends or when he is commanded to stop. Unlike the sentry dog he may be sent to chase and seize a fleeing malefactor at a distance from the soldier sentry. In a crowded, congested area where it would be dangerous to fire a rifle or pistol he is invaluable in capturing a fleeing marauder, escaping prisoner, or saboteur.

The scout dog is trained to work silently and to detect and give warning of the presence of enemy groups or individuals. Among other things, he is especially adept at discovering enemy ambushes or attempts at infiltration. He is trained to work with one man, his master, in daylight or darkness regardless of the weather and in open country or the jungle. Because of his keen sense of smell, sight and hearing he can detect the enemy long before his presence can be discovered by a human.

SCHOOL TRAINING OF OUR SOLDIERS

Dogs Are Aiding American Soldiers In Many Ways on World Battlefronts

Dogs who can ferret out a Japanese sniper, carry aid to a wounded soldier or seize marauding enemy are being trained for tactical use overseas in ever increasing numbers, according to the war department.

Under the direction of the quartermaster general these four-footed soldiers are being schooled at war dog reception and training centers in the difficult tasks of sentry duty, attack operations, messenger service, silent scouts, casualty relief, and pack and sledge work.

The army sentry dog is now a familiar figure in continental United States. He and his brethren are guarding military installations and public property from coast to coast.
