THE STORY SO FAR: Anne Heywood, beautiful daughter of a wealthy New York newspaper publisher, goes to Puerto Rico on an assignment for her father's paper. Also on the island are Pete Wilcox, a reporter on her father's pa-per, now a U. S. Army intelligence offi-cer; Miguel Valera, a Puerto Rican edu-cated in the United States whose orders cated in the United States whose orders to report to an army camp were abruptly cancelled; Richard Taussig, an engineer whose identity as a German agent is sus-pected but not yet proved; and Russell Porter, a young American engineer, and his wife, Sue. When she finds him trailing Mr. Taussig to a rendezvous, Miguel Valera tells Anne he is a U. S. agent, then swears her to secrecy.

CHAPTER XII

Pete Wilcox came out of the Bachelor Officers' Quarters on the road to Morro, above San Juan's most astonishing slum ironically known as La Perla, and walked along toward Headquarters. The fact that by this time everybody on the Post knew he'd had the Provost Marshal and the Insular Police out looking for Anne Heywood when she was over at the Escambron dancing with Miguel Valera didn't particularly bother him. It was damned lucky Valera had run into her. There were too many stories going around, and while most of them weren't true, tropical streets at night were no place for girls.

He stopped at the bend in the wall to let a train of Army trucks go through the old military road along the rim of the hill above the ocean. A woman on the other side was watching him, and without warning of any kind made a dash across between a couple of oliveacross between a couple of olivedrab motors. Pete held his breath. The driver swore, jammed on his brakes, and went ahead again. "Senor Wilcox!"

Pete looked at her in surprise. She wasn't, as far as he knew, either a friend or an agent.

"You know Miss Heywood-American girl? Blonde?"

Pete nodded.

The girl's eyes darkened. He couldn't tell whether she was pleading or angry or both.

"Take her away," she said pas-sionately. "I don't know very good English. She must go back to America. Understand?'

Pete scratched the back of his head. "Yeah. I understand all right. Why?" The girl dropped her hands in despair. "I don't know how to say," she cried. "She have to go. Will get hurt." She broke into a torrential flow of Spanish. Pete stood listening blank-

"You understand?"

All he had got was that Anne was going around with Miguel Valera, that it was dangerous, that she was warning him so he could make her go back to America.

She turned and hurried across the street, and disappeared round the corner without looking back. Pete stood watching

"Captain Wilcox speaking," he | said curtly. "This is Miss Heywood speaking, captain-and wishing to apologize for last night." Pete caught his breath. Every-thing inside him melted. It was what her voice always did to him. "Won't you even speak to me, Pete? I'm horribly sorry," she was five hundred dollars a year. I must say the little I saw of Sue when you saying. "I just wanted to tell you so before I go out. I'm going to the Valera Sugar Central to see them grind the cane."

Anne had been sound asleep when the phone on the table rang noisily. She struggled through the entanglement of cheese-cloth, pulled the handpiece back under and said 'Hello.

Her heart gave a little leap. It was Miguel.

"Did I wake you?"

"Is Mr. Taussig in? she asked brightly. "Tell him Mrs. Russell "It's a good thing you did. I'm supposed to be going to your sugar Porter is downstairs." mill this morning. First of all, put down on your memorandum slip "classic suit." Having such, and a collection of sweaters and blouses and costume jewelry and gay fabric "dressmaker" gloves (a big talking feature for fall); hats, of course, in varied moods with bags of the same tempo, and you never need to be thrown into a panic when the "what to wear" subject is brought up.

If you "make your own" clothes, as so many young moderns are doing, you'll especially appreciate the suit fashion shown to the left above in the illustration. It cost less than $11. Her fabric choice was a nottoo-expensive all wool flannel, in pinkish beige. It's beige for suits and ensembles, also for daytime wool or crepe dresses that has gone "tops" on the fall color program.

The charm of this suit also rests in its chaste and classic lines, due to using a carefully selected pat-tern of simplicity. The felt hat with its dashing side-flare brim is in perderful, really, having such a mar- fect keeping with the suit. It's a suit that can claim style distinction ong three counts, that of color, de

By the same token, the college girl detained at class can add a few accessory touches in a jiffy and be off to the informal dance party at the USO center with due promptness. For high style you might make this suit in all black wool crepe or covert cloth, or a fashionable twill, for best dressed women will be wearing all black tailleurs this fall. Next, jot down on your fashion reminder a stunning slacks suit, beautifully tailored in fine spunrayon basket weave, as shown in the foreground to the left. You'll come to look on this costume as a "treasure" in which to lounge about in at home, or if your college does not censor slacks it will prove ideal for dormitory wear. This slacks outfit goes in for color unrestrainedly, which should make you like it all the more. The smoothly cut scarlet slacks are topped by a distinctive fitted jacket which uses sunny maize for the back and shoulder yoke effect, repeating the scarlet in the front, which fastens with maize colored buttons. If you are wary of color and like monotone, make it up in black or brown or fuchsia with a yoke of white or a light tone.

ISRAEL MARCHES TOWARD CANAAN

LESSON TEXT-Numbers 10:11, 12, 29-36. GOLDEN TEXT-Come thou with us, and we will do thee good.-Numbers 10:29.

There is a time to wait before God, to be instructed and prepared for holy living. There is also a time for action. When God says, "Move forward," His people are to arise and be on their way.

Israel, who had now been more than a year on the way from Egypt to Canaan, had been resting for a time at Mt. Sinai, there receiving instruction and being organized into a nation. They had set up a place of worship in their midst, and now they were ready to go on. That is God's will for His people. They are to

I. Move Toward the Goal (vv. 11, 12).

God had a schedule. He wanted them to move forward on a certain day (v. 11). Since the Jewish religious year, referred to here, began with the spring equinox, this was about the middle of May. The dry season was ahead—a good time to travel.

Those who think the purposes of God for men are nebulous and uncertain, and that He has no real plan for us, are obviously mistaken. His plan is good and acceptable and perfect; let us find and follow it. We do not have a pillar of cloud and fire to move before us. We do not need it, for we, unlike the Is-raelites, have God's Word for our guide, and His Holy Spirit as the One who will tell every responsive soul when and where to go.

The important thing is to obey, promptly and willingly, and we shall have the blessing of God.

II. Bring Others With You (vy. 29-32). Those who go up to the promised land should not go alone, they should bring others with them. Moses, who had been in touch with the family of his father-in-law (known both as Jethro and Raguel or Reuel), now sees the value of having with him his brother-in-law, who was so acquainted with the great and terrible wilderness through which they were to pass that he could be invaluable as a guide and helper.

In giving him the invitation, however, Moses stressed the opposite thought-that it would be good for Hobab if he came with them. That was doubtless true, but it was not the right approach.

Men do not respond to the opportunity for advantage in spiritual things as readily as to the challenge

SLAVE TO PURGATIVES FINDS FREEDOM! Feels 20 Years Younger, He Says!

Everyone who has despaired of ever finding normal regularity should read this unsolicited letter:

"Six years ago, I was quite constipated. "I'd taken many so-called 'cures', but it was the same old story. It seemed that each dose had to be stronger than the last, Then, I tried KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. Soon I was 'regular' again, with none of the old griping pain. I'm 50, but feel younger than 20 years ago when I was a victim of common constipation." Mr. A. Bousield, 426 S. Villa Avenue, Villa Park, Ill.

What's the secret of such re-ports of ALL-BRAN's wonderful results? It's simply this: Lack of certain cellulosic elements in the diet is a common cause of constipation. Scientists say KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is a rich, natural source of these elements — which source of these elements — which help the colonic flora do their job — lightening and fluffing the ac-cumulated waste for easy, natural evacuation. ALL-BRAN is not a purgative! Not roughage that acts by "sweeping you out"! It's a gentle-acting, "regulating" food! Eat ALL-BRAN regularly. Drink plenty of water. See if you, too, don't find the relief you've dreamed of! Insist on the genuine ALL-BRAN! It is made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Prisoners of War

Of the some 6,500,000 prisoners of war now interned in 40-odd countries, about 5,000,000 are held by the Axis powers and only 1,500,-000 by the Allied Nations, approximately 65 per cent of the latter number being Germans captured in Russia.

"That," he said aloud, "is a big help.'

Pete hung up his sun helmet and went to his desk. There was something about the melodramatic business of shooting a rival that was ludicrous, on the whole. Nevertheless the girl had been in dead earnest. It worried him. At the same time it put him on a spot. If he asked for any kind of protection for her after last night they wouldn't even wait till he got out to laugh. And he couldn't very well warn her. Or could he?

He glanced up as a soldier came out of Colonel Fletcher's office with a sheaf of papers. "The Colonel said you'd check these, sir."

"Thank you."

He glanced through them. On the fourth from the top he saw Miguel Valera's name in the second line of translation.

"Tonight at 8:10 o'clock I was in Padilla Street. Miguel Valera y Delgado got out of his car and went into Avenida Juan de Pinzon and waited there. I do not know why, but I saw an American lady come in the street alone. Miguel Valera y Delgado went down the street. I thought the American lady was lost, but when I spoke she was afraid and ran after Miguel Valera y Delgado and followed him in to the door of the stores of the sugar and coffee agents Albert Benoist. It was dark and they were there a long time and came out together. I report this not because I have personal antipathy to Miguel Valera y Delgado or because I wish to injure the good name of the American lady, but because I have been instructed to tell what I know about Miguel Valera y Delgado by people who believe he is of the anti-American party.'

Pete put the paper down. He could get sorer at Anne Heywood, he was thinking, than at anybody else in the world. At the moment, however, he wasn't exactly sore. It was something he couldn't define. She didn't know what she was letting herself in for, of course. Nobody but a Latin, maybe, would so instantly suspect the worst and say it, either directly or by implication. But she was in a Latin country, and it was time she was finding it out.

The phone rang as he was reach-

"That would be wonderful!" Anne said warmly. "Good. Then I'll see you tonight

About eight?" She put the phone back and sat with her feet crossed under her, whistling softly. About eight. That was twelve hours . . . which wasn't very long, really. She stretched her hands up and made little waves of thin convex ceiling of her cheesecloth box. Just being alive was marvelous! And she didn't have to be disturbed about going out with Diego Gongaro and Mr. Taussig. It was stupid to worry about things. They always worked out, somehow. She thought of Pete and glanced at the clock. It was too early to call him yet. She ordered break-again. "That's him now," she thought.

going over to the table. But it wasn't. It was Graciela Gongaro. Her voice over the phone was highpitched, so that it was difficult to understand her English, which was much less fluent than her father's or Don Alvaro's even. Finally Anne made it out. Don Alvaro and Miguel had found, before they left, that they wouldn't be able to get back, perhaps not for several days. Her father had asked her to call and tell Anne they'd decided to go ahead with the trip. They would call for her at eleven o'clock.

For an instant Anne hesitated. Something of the feeling of the dream slipped across her mind, as a frail wisp of mist sifts across a country road early in the morning. It was gone as quickly. "All right," she said.

ready." She put the phone down, picked it up again and asked for Headquarters at Fortress El Morro. Two hours later she stopped at the desk to get her mail. It wasn't eleven yet, and being Spanish they'd probably be late anyway. She crossed the lobby and sat down to read her mother's letter.

It seemed to Anne to have the most convincing spontaneity.

"I'm afraid Miss Heywood is too popular to waste much of her time on me," Mr. Taussig replied urbanely. "But I shall certainly come. With Miss Heywood, or without her, if I may. 'That would be lovely!" Sue cried.

Mr. Taussig turned to Anne. "And you, Miss Heywood-are you ready for an educational tour of the Island's chief industry?"

It was wonderful, Anne was thinking. Mr. Taussig was a perfect emulsion of paternal kindness and gentleman of all the world. He probably felt that way too, she thought . . . just as he could stop and pick up a cat and stroke it while he was doing business in a deserted store on an empty street . . . business that whatever it was was sufficiently nefarious to interest an under-cover agent from the War Department in Washington. On second thought she'd tell Miguel about him and Sue. Sue was hell-bent for call it collaboration, she thought. Like a butterfly collaborating with a boa constrictor.

Mr. Taussig could be charming, however, when he put his mind to it. She was aware of that as the big shiny black limousine, with Graciela between them and Diego Gongaro in the folding seat in the middle of the car, sped, it seemed perilously fast, through the narrow curving road, canopied with flamboyants and Indian almonds, toward Central Valera. He was not only charming, he was amazingly well informed. He knew the names of all the trees-the silk-cotton tree, the lignum vitae, the violet tree, the candle-tree, the Tabeuia. He knew all the flowers too, and when they stopped at the market for a moment in Rio Piedras he knew the Jobo and the sour sop, the star apple and the custard apple. He knew the guinea grass in the fields, the different kind of palms and the water hyacinths in the river under a narrow bridge. He knew all about the economic struggle of the Island, the value of cane crops, coffee, pineapple, grapefruit and tobacco. Graciela, restive under the flow of information that fascinated Anne, stared straight ahead of her, has hands folded in her lap. (TO BE CONTINUED)

You will be seeing imported all-wool challie shawls from England, Scotch Paisleys that defy drafts, colleen shawls from Ireland, and Chinese and Dutch types. Some will be hand-fringed, others will be hand-painted. You will see filmy zephyr-crochet shawls in ravishing colors-soft and gracious they are and ever so prettily feminine. Sequin shawls are the high novelty of the season. Be prepared to see the ubiquitous sequins stand out on your "little old red shawl" and fairly hit you in the eye. Don't over-look the shawl for fall-it's important!

When Moses changed his plea and revealed his need of Hobab, the response was immediate. He had thus won a friend and a helper. III. Follow God's Guidance (vv.

God gave special guidance on this occasion. The ark which commonly was found in the midst of the people, now moved out before them. It was the symbol of God's presence. As they went out into the wilderness (which Deut. 1:19 calls "great and terrible") it was as though God Himself went before them. Is not this always true? The "Captain of Our Salvation," Jesus Christ, is not One who tarries in safety at the rear and sends up orders for us to attack life's problems. He goes before us!

The pillar of cloud hovered over the people as though to give them shelter from the beating sun of the desert. God is mindful of the road His people must travel, and in His loving-kindness provides for their protection and care.

In our day there are many who are tempted to question whether God knows of their trials and afflictions. He does, and He will not permit them to be tried beyond their ability to bear it.

When the ark went forward, their leader, Moses, addressed God in the stirring words of verse 35. The people whose God is the Lord may count on Him to scatter their enemies

All of human life is either a journey or a battle, and often it is both. We must arise and make valiant war against the forces of evil if we are to move forward for God. But we must recall that our foes, as Christians, are also God's foes.

The battle is not ours, but God's, and we do well to call on Him to rise up and smite the enemy. Note that after the forward march came a time of rest. God always gives His people an opportunity for needed rest.

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infec-tion—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood. You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg paina, swelling-feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are some-times burning, scanty or too frequent urination. Try Dcan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass of harmful excess body waste. Washington, D. C. FURY IN THE AIR

U. S. air operations out of England are now by far the most extensive and toughest operations of the U. S. air forces. Fliers who have seen action in four theaters-China, the Pacific, North Africa, and Europe-say the first three are child's play compared with the current flakand-fighter opposition of Germans.

The first flight a year ago was made without the loss of a single U. S. plane. The Germans were caught off guard by the daylight raid. But such things don't happen any more. It is no secret that U.S. losses on each raid over the continent are high enough to hurt badly, though not high enough to stop the operations.

War correspondents in Britain declare that U.S. airmen who fly these missions are the greatest heroes of the war. They have to face more fighting fury, and face it with more immediately after the water had skill, than any other men in this war-whether fighting on land, sea or in the air.

PARATROOP MIRACLE There was one thrilling bit of un-told history regarding the Allied landing in Sicily which only now can be revealed. A division of U. S. parachute troops actually stopped about two Nazi divisions which were dashing to the seacoast to await Allied landing barges.

This occurred the night before the landing barges arrived. Had the paratroopers not succeeded in hold-ing up the Nazis, U. S. troops might have landed literally in blood.

What happened was that the paratroopers, coming down mysteriously at night, not far from the Nazi divisions, fooled the enemy into thinking he was outnumbered. Actually, a paratroop division is far inferior in numbers to a division of ground troops. But the Nazis could has been granted priority ratings for not tell in the dark how many Amerof critical materials. Fertilizer Boosts Sugar Beet Yield

Test Shows Increase Of 3.7 Tons Per Acre

Farmers growing sugar beets to help fill America's war-time needs have found that by following a few simple soil improving practices, they can increase the tonnage of beets harvested per acre.

The value of such a procedure was illustrated by a series of practical farm tests conducted over a nineyear period by members of the soil science department of Michigan State college.

Based on average results obtained from 18 different experiments on various farms throughout the state's sugar beet area in the nine years span, it was found that sugar beet yields were increased 3.7 tons per acre by the use of 300 pounds of 2-16-8 fertilizer. The results of the tests were described by J. F. Davis, assistant in soils at Michigan State college.

"Calculated at the estimated price farmers will receive for their 1943 crop of beets," said Mr. Davis, "this average increase would mean $42.33 more per acre for every grower following such practices. The cost of the fertilizer is reckoned at $5:20 per acre. Thus a return of $8.14 would be realized for every dollar spent for fertilizer.

"With the limited acreage of sugar beets each individual farmer can handle in view of the present labor situation, the use of as much fertilizer as possible to secure maximum production per acre should be of special significance during the present war emergency. Growers often ask: 'How much fertilizer can be applied that will still result in a profitably increased yield?' The answer is that while the return per dollar spent for plant food may diminish as the rate of application per acre increase, fertilizer can still be a good investment as long as the profits per acre increase.

"One important factor revealed by the studies is the necessity of having experiments continued for a long period of time in order to provide reliable information. For example, if the nine-year average is taken, 300 pounds of fertilizer increased the yield of sugar beets on the average, 3.7 tons per acre. On the other hand, if the results are based on a four-year period only, the fertilizer response was considerably less. It is logical to assume that the reliability of results increases with the length of time the experiments are conducted, and therefore, actually larger returns than shown by the data presented for the four-year period could be

The engineer, sneezing, and with all other hay fever manifestations, stopped at a hotel where he was served a dish of mush which he considered sending back as it was much too salty. Today Dr. Selleck declares he has found a certain means of relief for hay fever and is supported in his con-tention by other medical experts, and a nationally known chemical manufacturing concern, the Hol-lings-Smith Company, at Orange-burg, New York, has taken over

Ludwig pointed out that German militarism always had come from Prussia, while Germany's culture had come from the south and west. Therefore he proposed splitting Germany up into two states: (1) Prussia, small and isolated; and (2) Bavaria, Saxony, and the smaller Catholic German states which are not militaristic and which would be joined with Austria. This would put the Catholics in one country and the Lutheran Prussians in another.

No 'Poor Misguided' Germans.

"Leave to the Germans all that other nations have," Ludwig recom-mended, "but take away their weapons, supervise their education, and give them political guardianship. If you do not, and if you speak of the 'poor misguided German people,' then 20 years from now your sons will be fighting another war against them.

"What I fear," continued Ludwig, "is that on the day after the death of Hitler, the Junkers, the generals will kowtow to you and say, 'We love Americans. Come, let us be brothers again.' I fear that some of you will say, 'Now let us make peace. They are good people, these generals.'

"But they are not. They are not one whit better than the Hitlers. They merely have better manners,' Ludwig declared.

Note: Ludwig paid tribute privately to the excellent job the army was doing at its school for military government. He said he had seldom met such an intelligent, progressive group of men, with such a grasp on the world's future problems.

What to Do

Old chests, beds, bureaus and the like can be made so attractive and fresh looking with a little paint, and then decorated with cut-out wallpaper designs.

These designs are pasted on the newly painted chest and then shellacked with clear shellac over the top.

The popular decals are used similarly, but are a little hard to find in exactly the design you want. Old-fashioned valentines make attractive decorations for chests, as do pretty prints of flowers.

If you would rather not decorate your furniture, then make thin wooden frames and frame the valentines, prints or wallpaper clusters. Use about 12 of these over the chest, or bed in rows of three. Ledger Syndicate.—WNU Features.

S PINE-TINGLING sports events of past years were recalled recently in a poll conducted by Esquire magazine. Voters were asked to nominate the six greatest sporting events of the century. The results are, in some instances, surprising. Here they are:

1-The Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney fight in Chicago September 22, 1927. (This was the long count fight.) 2-Bobby Jones' Grand Slam of the four major golf titles in 1930. 3-Jesse Owens' three firsts in the 1936 Olympic Games.

4-The deciding game of the 1926 World Series in New York when Grover Alexander struck out Tony Lazerri with the bases full as the Cardinals won the championship. 5-Babe Ruth's "called" home run against the Cubs in the 1932 World Series in Chicago.

6-Red Grange's five long runs for touchdowns for Illinois against Michigan at Urbana, Ill., October 18, 1924.

The surprising factor of the vote is the first place position. There have been many more important sports events than the Dempsey-Tun-ney fight. But it did get a terrific amount of newspaper space because of the controversy. Then, too, it is likely that more people understand boxing than any other sport. People who don't under-Jack Dempsey stand the rules of football, baseball or golf do possess a fundamental knowledge of fighting. The details of that fight are still fresh in the memory of a good share of adult sports fans. Dempsey dropped Gene in the seventh round of the fight. But Jack refused to go to a neutral corner when first ordered to do so by the referee. When he finally did heed the warnings, sufficient time had passed for Tunney to regain his senses. Gene did so well in later rounds that he won the decision.

By an odd quirk of fate, it was a rule Dempsey had helped put on the books that gave Tunney his extra five-second reprieve. Welcome to Teachers and Students

Another new school year is with us and we wish to extend our welcome to the teachers and students of the Iosco County Schools.

The war has created many new problems for school officers, teachers and students. Many new tasks have been added to the school program. Many adjustments will have to be made.

The School Commissioner's Office offers facilities, services and co-operation to the school officers, teachers and students in meeting these problems.

This school year may have its difficult problems. but let us make it a year of real accomplishments.
