Memorial to Boys and Girls in Service Dedicated Saturday

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY IN BURLEIGH

Judge H. Read Smith Gives Dedication Address

At an impressive ceremony last Saturday afternoon, Burleigh Grange dedicated a "Double V" of pine trees planted on the grounds at the Burleigh township hall in honor of those in the service from Burleigh Township Unit School District.

Probate Judge H. Read Smith of Tawas City gave the dedication address. Other speakers were Supervisor Harold Black of Reno township and County Clerk Russell H. McKenzie. The program was completed with readings by Grange members, patriotic songs and music. Mrs. George Partlo acted as chairman.

Following the ceremony a delicious pot luck dinner was served to the large crowd in attendance. The ceremony Saturday at the Burleigh township hall is a part of a program in which every Grange in the state will dedicate memorials in honor of the men and women in the service of their country.

Iosco County Lags in United War Fund Drive

According to County Chairman Nathan Barkman, our county will fall for the first time in meeting the quota for this worthy cause, unless last minute contributors will help to fulfill our obligations.

Based on districts, Oscoda has gone way over the top with more than $550.00 paid on a quota of $425.00. East Tawas has gone over with over $1,000.00 on their quota of $925.00. AuSable has turned in $144.00 of its $165.00 quota, and expects to complete it.

Tawas City has given $465.00 out of $400.00. The townships' returns are much below their quotas.

You can still give to the United War Fund Drive by contacting your solicitors. Will you do your share?

Baptist Service Flag Dedicated

At the World Parish Day services held last week the Hemlock Road dedicated their Service Flag which contains the following names:

- Albert Birkenbach
- Steven Birkenbach
- Mike Budzinski
- Beryl Binder
- Glenn Biggs
- Lyle Biggs
- Bruce Burt
- John Burt
- Henry Burt
- James Berry
- Chelsea Chambers
- Eugene Coats
- Hazen Durant
- Rudy Denstedt
- Celair Denstedt
- Philip Giroux
- Willis Hayes
- Gerald Hayes
- Kenneth Herriman
- Lynn Herriman
- John Kendall
- Raymond Kendall
- Harold Kendall
- Lyle Long
- Herbert Miller
- Melvin McCormick
- Melvin McArdle
- Delois Rapp
- Glen Van Patten
- Lloyd Whitford
- Bob Whitford
- Jerry Whitney.

Three names were added to the Tawas City Baptist Service Flag. They are Myrton Leslie, Hugh Prescott, Robert Arn.

Grange Party

Greenwood Grange has voted to sponsor a party Wednesday evening, December 1, at the Grange township hall for the benefit of the Nurse Scholarship Committee in charge of tickets will be Mrs. Iva Earl, Mrs. Clara Smith and Mrs. Charles Brown. A good time is expected.

Card of Thanks

We wish to sincerely thank our kind friends and neighbors for the many beautiful letters and cards, we received following the news of the death of our son and brother, Pvt. Henry A. Thompson, who died in Sicily on October 9th. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thompson and family.

Card of Thanks

I would like to thank my friends for all their kindness and the lovely lovely cards and flowers during my illness. Herbert Biust.

With the Air WAC's

S. Sgt. Cyril J. Sieradski, U. S. Marine, visited his sister, Mrs. E. D. Jacques, and family of this city for three days last week. He had recently returned from overseas duty, having taken part in five major battles in the Guadalcanal area, and had been sent back to the United States for a rest. He has returned to California for duty after a 15-day furlough.

Jacob G. Weber, S 2-C, of Clinton, Oklahoma, arrived last Thursday on a nine day leave.

The address of Lieut. W. C. Roach is APO 729, 344th Fighter Sqn., Care of Postmaster, Seattle, Washington.

Cpl. Steven Birkenbach returned Tuesday to Fort Reno, Oklahoma, after a weeks furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Steven Birkenbach, Sr., on the Hemlock road.

Pvt. Henry Kane is now on duty at Fort George G. Mead, Maryland.

Kenneth Grinkey, A. S., is stationed at Camp War, Farragut, Idaho.

Pvt. Arnold Krumm of Camp Sibert, Alabama, spent a short furlough at his home here.

Sgt. and Mrs. Carlton Nash arrived Sunday to visit his mother, and other members of his family. They are here on a 15 day furlough from Camp Hood, Texas.

Phil Mark came home yesterday to spend a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Mark. He returns to Great Lakes Naval Training Station next Thursday for further training.

Owen Small, R. T. C-2, recently graduated from Radio Technicians School at Corpus Christi, Texas, standing 12th in a class of 350. He will take advanced training at Washington, D. C.

Cpl. Carl Libka, son of August Libka of this city, writes home from Italy, September 18, 1943.

Dear Folks: Here I am at another step of my travels. It has been a long time since I last heard from you, and also since I last wrote. Hope my mails finds me again soon.

Been real busy of late. Everything going fine, and just hoping the good (Turn to No. 2, Back Page)

The accompanying picture shows at the Mayor's Committee at Tawas Air WAC at one of the many jobs on an air base at which she may relieve a man for more active duty. Women between the ages of 20 and 50 enlisting with the Army Air Forces solve the vital manpower problem now.

To discuss the opportunities open for Air WAC's, the Special Recruiting Team, composed of Lieut. Margaret Hines, Lieut. Lavina Garrity, Sgt. Mildred Barrett and Cpl. Oscar Cassibry, will be at East Tawas Federal Building each Wednesday and Thursday.

Mrs. Augusta Ristow

Mrs. Augusta Ristow, widow of the late John Ristow, well known Tawas City resident, died Sunday morning at her home in this city at the age of 83 years.

Augusta Woyahn was born August 16, 1860, in Germany. She came here shortly before her marriage on November 12, 1880, to John Ristow. She has lived in this city all of these years, with the exception of 16 years in Bay City.

Mr. Ristow preceded her in death October 7, 1933. She is survived by eight children, Ray Ristow of Tawas City, Mrs. Ida Wuggazer of Mt. Clemens, Mrs. Emma Schwidder of Fort Dodge, Iowa, Mrs. Olga Kasischke of Tawas City, Mrs. Laura Reaman of Tawas City, Mrs. Frieda Liken of Sebawaing, and Mrs. Elsie Roach of Tawas City. 25 grandchildren; nine great grandchildren; two brothers, Gustave and Edward Woyahn of this place and Mrs. Michael Kendall of Grant township.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from Emanuel Lutheran church. Rev. J. J. Roekle officiated. Interment was in Emanuel cemetery.

Out of town relatives that attended the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wuggazer of Mt. Clemens, Rev. and Mrs. A. Schwidder of Fort Dodge, Iowa, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Liken of Sebawaing, Miss Irma Kasischke of Midland, also Mr. and Mrs. Herman Trion and Rev. and Mrs. Carl Henning of Sebawaing.

The Mayor's Committee at Tawas is headed by Judge H. Read Smith, with Mayor Carl Babcock, assisting in sponsoring the WAC Recruiting Drive.

In East Tawas the Mayor's Committee is headed by Mrs. William O'Laughlin. The above may be contacted for material and information.

Lieut. C. Harold Brand of the Army Air Forces, here Thursday, thanked the citizens of the Tawas for their co-operation in the current campaign.

VIRGIL HILL'S SON FROM PACIFIC AREA VISITS RELATIVES

Members of the family gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Hill here Tuesday evening to pay honor to Tom Hill's young grandson, Dick Hill, 20-year-old fighting Marine, home on furlough after a year and a half of action in the South Pacific war theatre.

Dick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil B. Hill, now of Detroit, and formerly of Harrisville, is a strapping six-footer who gave an excellent account of himself in action against the Japs on Guadalcanal and Tulagi in the Solomon Islands as a member of the First Marine "Raider" battalion—a specially picked and trained group of the First Marine division.

But beyond admitting that his Marine battalion was engaged in some "tough action" against the Japs, Dick modestly refuses to relate his battle experience. He is keenly proud of the Presidential citation given the Marines for wrestling Guadalcanal from the Japs.

The young Marine received a shrapnel wound in the shoulder during one battle on Guadalcanal but his wound healed quickly and he was soon back in action.

GREYHOUND BUYS BALGER BUS LINES

Deal Awaiting Approval Interstate Commerce Commission

Great Lakes Greyhound Lines has made contractual agreements to purchase from Balcer Motor Coach Company, their certificate of operation between Bay City and East Tawas, together with their temporarily suspended restricted extension to Alpena from East Tawas, it was announced today.

The agreements have been signed by officials of both bus companies, and permission to conclude the purchase has been asked of the Interstate Commerce Commission and Michigan Public Service Commission.

Until this approval has been received the Balcer Company will continue to operate the line, and it may be several months before Great Lakes buses run on U.S. 23, the Scenic Route along the Lake Huron shore.

Tawas O.E.S. Chapters Elect New Officers

West Branch People Buy Credit Bureau

In a transaction which took place last Friday, the Northern Credit Bureau, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth P. Dutton of West Branch, acquired the business and records of the Merchants Credit Bureau of East Tawas, operated the past seven years by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Berzhinski. With this transaction the office at East Tawas has been closed, and its business and records taken to West Branch. The Merchants Credit Bureau was established in 1936 by Vern W. Byrum, with an office in the Bank building. Later it was purchased by H. Read Smith and was operated by him until 1938 when it was purchased by Frank Berzhinski. Mr. and Mrs. Berzhinski have gone to Detroit where Mr. Berzhinski has a position with the Federal government.

LAST RUN

On Thursday, November 11, the last scheduled train was run over the Prescott Branch of the D. & M. Engine No. 135 made the run, with the following crew: Engineer Edd Moeller, Fireman Amos Galbraith, Conductor Harvey McMurray, and brakemen Frank LaBerge and Wilbur Miller.

This Branch is now being taken up from Prescott to National City.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

DREW PEARSON

Washington, D. C.

TALKING OF SPORTS

By Bob McShane
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

YOUTH was well served recently when Stan Musial, sophomore outfielder of the St. Louis Cardinals, was named the National league's most valuable player for 1943.

The 22-year-old sparkplug of the Cardinals won the league batting championship and played a major part in bringing the team to its second straight pennant. In his second full year in the big leagues, Musial batted .337 during the regular season, a figure which was the best in the majors. His average was 26 points higher than the next closest hitter in either major league.

The award amounted to a somewhat premature birthday present for Musial. He doesn't celebrate his 23rd birthday until November 21.

Lopsided Vote

Stan was voted the most valuable honors by a committee of the Baseball Writers' association, receiving 267 points of a possible 336, including 13 of 24 first place votes. His team mate, Catcher Walker Cooper, was second with 192 votes.

The committee, headed by Ken Smith of the New York Daily Mirror, announced that Stan's hitting was the deciding factor.

He led the league with the most hits, 220, the most doubles, 47, and the most triples, 20. It was the first time since 1939 that a National league player totaled more than 200 hits.

Granted that Musial's performance in the recent World series didn't equal his showing of 1942 when the Cards drubbed the Yankees. But the post-season play was not taken into consideration in the voting.

Stan's edge in the balloting was decisive. It is best revealed in the fact that he got 13 of the first place votes. Cooper got five as did Bill Nicholson, outfielder for the Cubs.

On All Ballots

Each of the 24 committee members listed 10 players in order of preference, and Musial was the only man to be included on all lists. Walker Cooper and Truett Sewell of Pittsburgh were on the ballots of 23 voters, Nicholson and Brooklyn's Billy Herman were listed by 22 and Mort Cooper of St. Louis was nominated by 21. In all, 34 players received one point or more.

The award to the Polish youngster from Donora, Pa., climaxed one of the fastest rises to big league stardom in the history of either circuit. In 1942, as a rookie, he was a .315 hitter. Two years ago he started with the Class C Springfield, Mo., club of the Western association and by midseason was elevated to the Cardinals' Class AA farm at Rochester. He batted .379 at Springfield and .326 at Rochester and in 12 games with the Cardinals at the end of the 1941 season had a .426 average.

Bears Disclose Schedule for Fines

It is an exceptional case when Gus Dorais, coach of the Detroit Lions professional football team, finds it necessary to fine one of his players. When told that this was unusual in the National Football league, Dorais inquired what types of fines the other teams assessed. Here is a list of fines which the Chicago Bears told Dorais were standard with their team:

Drinking—$400.
Missing Practice—$100.
Late for meeting—$25.
Sitting on ground in practice—$25.
Missing train—$100 plus fare.
Late individual game reports—$10.
Playing poker or dice—$100.
Men can play cards for the following stakes: Hearts, 1 cent, bridge one-tenth cent, rummy 1 cent.

At the same time it was reported that infractions of the rules by the Bears are comparatively infrequent. Most professional athletes recognize the value of a hard-earned dollar.

SPORTS SHORTS

Frank Stranahan, Toledo golfer who was rated a contender for the National Amateur title, is a naval cadet stationed at Kutztown, Pa.
Mickey Owen will bet that Walker Cooper, Card catcher, can beat any man in the National league at 100 yards.

Illinois played its first intercollegiate football game against Purdue in 1890, when Coach Scott Williams took a band of green youngsters to the Lafayette campus and absorbed a 62-0 defeat.

Fights in which Henry Armstrong appeared during his recent 15-month comeback are reported to have drawn $550,000 at the gate.

Only 11 major league players appeared in all their clubs' games this year.

One of Joe McCarthy's strictest rules forbids either Yankee pitcher or catcher to argue with umpires.

Babe Herman hit home runs in three consecutive appearances as a pinch hitter for Hollywood this year.

Johnny Loftus and Johnny Bejsak, former jockeys, are working in a Baltimore shipbuilding plant.

Wounded, Captured Yanks Come Home

Wounded American soldiers, who were among the first to be exchanged under an agreement arranged with Germany, are shown as they arrived in the United States. Left to right: Staff Sergt. Lester E. 16 Italians Die for Shooting of Nazi Mourning relatives gather around the fresh graves of 16 Italians who were killed by the Nazis in retaliation for the shooting of a German soldier. The soldier had stolen a chicken from a local family. Inscription on the cross reads: "They died for the forces of Nazism and Fascism." According to reports from Italy, this scene is common in many towns through which the Nazis are retreating before the might of Allied armies which were steadily rolling toward Rome and Berlin.

Soldiers Dine on Reverse Lend-Lease Food

Pfc. Paul T. Cannon, Worcester, Mass., and Donald W. Stanton of Indian Lake, N. Y., who are stationed in England, dine on food obtained from the British via reverse lend-lease. Rarest item on their menu is the egg. Combat crews of the air corps are the only ones to rate this protein. Lend-lease credits pay for this food.

Claims Extortion

Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's Inc., as he left federal court in New York, after testifying that he was forced to pay extortion money to a ring of racketeers. Eight men were on trial for the extortion of more than $1,000,000.

Fertilizing Soybeans In Rotation Studied

When, How Is Question Before Agronomists

How and when to fertilize soybeans in the rotation is a question that faces hundreds of thousands of American farmers, since the war's demands have so greatly increased the production of this crop.

Agronomists at the Purdue university agricultural experiment station are seeking the answer to this question in a series of experiments that are expected to produce some interesting results.

One of these tests, conducted by R. R. Mulvey, designed to reveal the best place in the rotation to supply supplemental fertilizer to meet requirements for higher crop production, is being conducted on three blocks of land comprising 10 plots each on the university's soils and crops farm.

The present rotation is corn, soybeans and wheat, with sweet clover seeded in the wheat as an intercrop.

Before the present experiment was laid out, the land had been in a rotation of corn, wheat and clover for 25 years. All crops had been removed yearly from all plots. On six of the plots to which six tons of manure had been added annually, the corn yield had averaged 56.5 bushels per acre. On four of the plots which had received no treatment, the corn crop averaged 43.5 bushels. Thus the contrasting plots represent two levels of productivity—one of medium and the other of low productivity.

In the current tests, corn on all plots received 100 pounds per acre of 0-12-12 fertilizer near the hill at planting time. Wheat is fertilized with 300 pounds of 3-12-12 at seeding time and is top-dressed with 20 pounds of nitrogen the latter part of March. Because of adequate fertilization of both corn and wheat the intercrop of sweet clover is to be relied on for nitrogen. But whenever the clover fails, 80 pounds of nitrogen will be plowed under on all plots.

In addition to the foregoing basic tests, variations of treatment are being tried on particular plots. For instance, 400 pounds of 0-10-20 is applied via the plow sole for corn, on two plots where the soil is of a medium productivity level. Similar treatments are applied for soybeans on three additional plots—four hundred pounds of 0-10-20 is top-dressed on wheat in March on two plots—one on low level productivity soil and the other on medium level.

When harvests are completed yearly on the various plots and yield results under the different fertilizer treatments are compared, it is expected that some interesting information will be forthcoming on the most effective means of applying supplemental fertilizer in the rotation.

Electricity on Farms

Hormone Sprays Help

Apples Mature on Tree

Not only do hormone sprays cause apples to remain on the tree until they mature to a higher color and greater size, but they also cut labor needs because the picking period can be extended and fewer helpers will be required.

V. W. Kelley, extension horticulturist, University of Illinois college of agriculture, states that recent tests with harvest or hormone sprays have proved effective on Delicious, Golden Delicious, Jonathan, Stayman, Winesap and Duchess apples. Growers have reported good results with several other varieties.

Sprays usually become effective two or three days after application and remain for two weeks or more, he says. If possible, application should not be made too early—preferably when the apples start to drop. Concentrations recommended by the manufacturer of the particular spray should be used and a thorough application is necessary, since the spray must wet the stems of the fruit in order to be effective.

"However, harvest of Delicious apples should not be delayed too long, because the fruit will become mealy," he warns.

Rural Briefs

Save and store every ounce of feed possible this year in the form of hay, silage, root crops, grain, and meals, suggest livestock specialists.

For safe storing of a large part of the foods dehydrated commercially or in the home, the container must resist passage of moisture vapor. Moisture-proof cellophane is excellent.

New Guinea Is Nice—to Visit

By Charles Pearson

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Collier's Weekly.)

New Guinea isn't exactly a resort but it is far more habitable now than it was before the Uncle Sam Improvement company went to work on it. The air corps' flying boxcars have hauled in everything from tractors to hairpins and continue to haul in more all the time. Air strips have made it possible for planes to get to a lot of formerly inaccessible places. One run that used to take 35 days, now takes 35 minutes. Back home when something like a road had to be built you'd see surveyors, inspectors and blueprints in a huddle for days. Here they just go out and build the road.

All civilians have been evacuated and traffic is strictly military. There's one exception: an old, faded blue sedan with the top gone and fenders rusted away. A Port Moresby resident gave it to one of the soldiers after it had been hit by bomb fragments, and the soldier fixed it up. His biggest problem was fitting it with a salvaged truck radiator. Since there is no place to go on the island he uses it in an official capacity during the day. At night he carries buddies to motion pictures at other camps.

Always Wet.

The dampness is perpetual. After all sorts of experiments to combat it the army finally is moving up on stilts and into trees. Platforms are built of hard wood and floored with split bamboo. Pyramidal tents are erected on the platforms. You reach the front door by climbing up a ladder. The ever-necessary air-raid trench is built somewhere underneath, which makes the trench reasonably dry. In the past, G.I.'s who couldn't swim came close to drowning while sweating out Jap night raids. This way you have only lizards and centipedes to worry about.

Except for those who live in Port Moresby, the natives parade around lightly clad. Gals generally wear what amounts to the equivalent of an old pen wiper. Children get by with strings of beads. These natives are generally always without bracelets, trinkets or charms of any sort because souvenir-happy Yanks have bought them all. Until the department of agriculture banned grass skirts from import into the United States an acre or so of grass went down every day to build hay dresses for the little girls back home.

One unanswered question is whether the natives are more curious about the strange ways and belongings of the newcomers or whether it's vice versa.

Native Cooking.

If you're not around at chow time you're just not going to be fed because there is no place where you could possibly eat. A couple of air force boys, on one of those rare things, a day off, went fishing and forgot about chow time. One of them figured it might not be a bad idea to go back through the near-by native village and try to mooch a meal. It was easier than they had figured. The boss man said: "You have kaikai," which is one way of saying, "Will you hang around and put the nosebag on with us?" The meal turned out to be a four-course dinner, starting out with some stalks of sweet cane, followed by coconut meat and bananas, which had been wrapped in leaves and roasted. For no good reason at all the latter tasted like potatoes. The last course could not be identified. It came out of the community pot, but it was reported to be good.

These natives eat only one meal a day, but it's so big they spend the evenings sitting around groaning and massaging swollen bellies with coconut oil. Incidentally, natives remove the outside husk of a coconut with a sharpened stick in some few seconds. It takes a soldier 25 minutes if he has an ax, a screwdriver and a jungle knife.

Japanese wreckage has been put to some local use. Bayonets have been cut down to throwing knives for the popular pastime of tossing at cardboard targets on which is plastered Tojo's puss. Shell cases have been cut down to ash trays. Natives use Jap ammo pouches for handbags.

Husband Is Boss.

Many a sergeant who gives orders now, but knows that when the war is over his wife will give them, looks with admiration upon the native men who sit around while the gals do more work per capita than army mules. Everybody works but father.

New Guinea has been made habitable and it probably is as good a place to fight a war from as any. But, in the average dogface's opinion, if Manhatton was only worth $74, New Guinea isn't worth two cents. It's a nice place to visit but no place to live.

Bows With Buckles or Slides Make Charming Little Gifts

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

BUCKLES and slides (you buy 'em at the button counters) are making lively conversation pieces in the fashion world this season. To add to the excitement they are stepping out of their accepted role of trimming shoes and belts to become glamour accents for frocks and blouses, or wherever they can be decorative in costume makeup.

When it comes to little inexpensive gifts that look choice, and are indeed just that, try the buckle-slide-plus-bit-of-ribbon way and you'll find it gives the perfect answer. The bows illustrated should prove welcome news now that the approach of Christmas brings the "What to give" problem up full force, and more so this year what with the war strain causing complications that turns the situation into a real challenge.

The grand thing about these ribbon fantasies is that you can make them up in a jiffy at almost trifling expense and they are really choice looking. Added to this, they are something one "can use" and they work like magic when it comes to prettifying one's costume. To women in the midst of a last minute rush for gifts that will take care of an overflow list of friends, these little bow-and-buckle (or slide) whimsies are nothing less than "blessings in disguise."

The pretty Miss in the picture knows her buttons and her slides in that she buys them to match, which is a very chic gesture on her part. The slide through which she pulls a tri-fold of grosgrain ribbon matches the scalloped button originals on her suit. This she wears bow-tie fashion on her tailored blouse. She bought the slide at the button counter and made it into a brooch by simply sewing a safety pin to the center bar. Bright and gay is the roman-striped ribbon bow shown above to the left in the group illustrated (1). The ribbon in this instance is slipped through a tailored wooden slide studded with gold nailheads. Worn on the pocket of a shirtwaist frock, it adds a nice color accent. Your schoolgirl friends will welcome this gift for it's a clever way to wear their football colors to football games.

At center left (2), a luscious blue velvet bow is sleekly folded through an oblong mirror slide to serve as a brooch trim on a square-necked dinner or party gown. A companion bow might be worn in the hair or chevron fashion on the sleeve of an evening coat.

Below to the left (3), a black satin bow pulled through a dull, gold-finished buckle presents a dressy version. Three of these dotted down the front of an afternoon dress make a dramatic trim. This is especially good as a make-over idea, in that it effectively brings the important satin accent to last year's wool frock.

To the right above (4), a velvet bow drawn through a fancy mirror buckle makes a dramatic trim as it anchors skirt drapery so that it will "stay put." A companion buckle and bow dresses up the neckline, too.

Two colors of grosgrain ribbon pulled through a slide achieves a charming version of the bow-tie fad (5). A fashion-alert dresser will match the slide to the button originals that march down the front of her suit. Good idea is to select ribbons in different college accents to give to your co-ed friends. A gay plaid ribbon slipped through a tailored slide speaks for itself below to the right (6) as a gay hair ornament. Repeat the same bow on the pocket for a double dose of chic.

Slim Silhouette

It is the slim lines of this simple black costume that gives high rank style prestige. Also the fact that the edges of the jacket are bound with wide braid is style significant. Black crochet buttons add finesse. More and more the slim lines are coming to be the sought-for silhouette among women of fashion. The black Persian lamb cossack turban interprets the latest in hat fashions. Gloves of black kid complete a graceful picture. A muff of the same fur as the turban is another possibility.

Tailor-Knit Jacket With Separate Skirt

Never have the knits fitted into our pattern of comfortable living as they do now. The smart practical thing to wear these days is the new tailor-knit wool jacket, designed especially to wear with separate skirts or over one-piece dresses. There is no priority to these jackets and they may be machine-knitted copies or the original handknits. The popular cardigan jacket is shorter than before with one set of pockets and a bright detail of color. They are warm, wear forever, hold their shape and can be worn equally well with slacks. There are also very fine knitted suits with coats that match, but may be worn just as well as separate coats. Knitted one-piece dresses come in smartly tailored blues, browns, sage green, solid colors, plaids, checks and novelty mixtures.

White Hats for Winter Is Fascinating Vogue

A fascinating vogue is being launched in a variety of small hats made either of white plush or white satin. The styles include cunning youthful Dutch caps, some with sequins, the new back beret, bumper pill box, and the little calot with rosettes of self-plush. White satin, made in a very much highly stylized little bicorne, is also included in the group. These are all selling successfully for midwinter to wear with fur coats or with the new black coats that are lined with white rabbit, lamb or ermine.

ON THE HOME FRONT

With RUTH WYETH SPEARS

This sketch shows a set of these quaint wall brackets in a living room of today. They will delight the host of modern amateur woodworkers who are rigging up work benches and wondering what they can make. This 14-inch shelf with matching side brackets fills a large wall space in a most attractive way, making a perfect setting for many small treasures.

NOTE—Mrs. Spears has prepared a full size pattern for all the pieces of this shelf and the two side brackets with a complete list of materials and directions for making. Patterns are 15 cents. Ask for Pattern No. 263.

Due to an unusually large demand and current war conditions, slightly more time is required in filling orders for a few of the most popular pattern numbers.

GREAT-GRANDMOTHER loved to collect bric-a-brac and so do we. She also liked the graceful green of a trailing vine. Because of this there was a vogue in her day for what-nots and wall brackets. Each sea shell, each figurine, each tiny animal of porcelain or pottery had its bit of sentiment. Woodworkers, both amateur and professional, leaned towards the sentimental, and hearts were a favorite theme for their cut-out designs.

Hothouse Lambs Hard to Raise; Expensive Delicacy

Sheep born in the fall and early winter, when sold in the suckling stage between two and four months of age, are known as hothouse lambs, says Pathfinder. The animals not only have to be raised with special care, but they constitute only one in about every 25,000 sheep slaughtered here annually. Consequently, their meat is a rare and expensive delicacy and most of it is purchased by fine restaurants and other luxury trade.

The Rubber Shortage is behind us but the Tire Shortage is still here!

Less than two years ago America faced as frightening a situation as any country at war ever faced. Unless something was done, and done quickly, we would soon be without rubber.

And without rubber, no plane could fly, no tank could move, no ship could sail, no truck could roll, people could not get to work, materials could not move to and from plants.

That was the situation the Government and the rubber companies had to lick inside of two years if America was to stay in the war.

Did the "impossible" really happen?

Let's see what you think. Right now, there is nearly enough rubber to meet our essential needs.

Today, this threat to American victory is merely an unpleasant memory, because Government, the Rubber Director, and a group of industries—rubber, petroleum, chemical, alcohol—working together, compressed into less than two years a job that would normally have taken a dozen years. But...

Because the public saw huge synthetic rubber plants shoot up almost over night, and heard that synthetic rubber was in large-scale production, they figured the tire headache was almost over.

Now—a warning!

This is the situation today—the rubber supply crisis is past, but the long predicted and anticipated tire shortage is with us.

Why is this so, when thousands of tons of Government synthetic rubber are now being made?

Why is this so, when the rubber industry is producing a tremendous tonnage of rubber products and more airplane and truck tires than ever before?

Because, as the Baruch Committee foresaw—the fact that few tires could be made until we had our synthetic rubber supply well on the way, resulted in millions of tires going out of service without replacement—and those remaining have less mileage in them. Inventories of prewar tires are gone.

Because our military needs are way beyond anyone's anticipations.

Because the rubber companies must use a lot of their manpower and machines to make bullet-sealing gas tanks and hundreds of other rubber products for war, in addition to tires.

Because half of today's requirements are for heavy-duty, large-size truck, bus, combat, artillery, and airplane tires, requiring many, many times the labor and materials of peacetime needs... and finally...

Because the manpower shortage hangs over the tire industry as it does over all industry, and there are just too few hands for the job.

Straight from the shoulder

These problems will be licked when our enemies are licked. Meanwhile, we want to tell you frankly that unless you, and all tire-owners continue to make the preservation of tires a vital personal problem... our home-front transportation will break down and slow up the war production of America.

The way out is for you to conserve the tires you've got—stretch their life in every way you can.

How to make tires last longer

Do no unnecessary driving. Live up to the government regulation—don't exceed 35 miles an hour.

Keep your tires inflated up to recommended pressure, and check them every week.

Avoid hitting holes in the road, or bruising your tires on curbs or stones. Don't start or stop suddenly. Slow down for sharp corners.

See that your wheels and axles are in line.

Switch your tires from wheel to wheel every five thousand miles, and have them inspected regularly for removal of foreign objects and repair of cuts.

And—most important of all—recap your tires as soon as they become smooth.

Though not all civilians will be able to get synthetic rubber tires in the near future, you may be one of those who will. Therefore, you should know... and remember... these facts:

FACTS ABOUT PASSENGER CAR TIRES

The synthetic rubber tire is not yet an improvement but it will keep your car rolling through the emergency.

In many respects, the new synthetic rubber tires are an unknown quantity.

How they would behave at the phenomenally high speeds of prewar days is purely academic. The patriotic citizen knows that high speeds wear out his treads far faster than the recommended speed of 35 miles per hour, and drives accordingly.

Under-inflation, driving over rough roads, and other abuses are bad for all tires—but today's evidence is that synthetic tires will stand less of these abuses than the tires you have been used to.

But, since these tires will be rationed to you in trust for the nation, it will be your duty to take every possible care of them, and to prevent misuse and abuse.

As we gain more experience with synthetic rubber tires, more and more things will become known about them, and the public will be kept informed.

If you use synthetic rubber tubes, be sure they are properly installed. They should be put into the tire, then inflated, deflated, and inflated again, and they should never be mounted on rusty rims.

FACTS ABOUT TRUCK AND BUS TIRES

On truck and bus tires, particularly in over-the-road, inter-city service, the situation is less satisfactory.

Truck and bus tires are operated under more severe conditions than passenger car tires. They are heavier, thicker—generate more heat. They are all too frequently overloaded, must travel on any kind of highway their work requires.

Again we'll be perfectly frank about it: synthetic truck and bus tires now built will not stand all the abuse that the prewar tire would take, especially overloading. Progress is being made every day—but overloading which damaged a prewar tire can ruin today's synthetic rubber tire.

The Tire Industry is bending every effort to solve the serious problems of furnishing satisfactory and sufficient tires to the truck and bus field.

But a serious threat still exists to our most vital transportation.

So remember this—while the treads of present truck and bus tires are vitally important, the carcasses of these tires have a value to our truck operators, and to the nation, that is beyond price. Unless these tires are made to last and last, there is almost certain to be a breakdown of truck service.

Every one of these tires must be recapped the very minute it needs it—before any damage is done to the carcass. Speeds must be cut down, especially on hot roads. Overloads must be eliminated. Proper inflation is a necessity.

Operators, garage men, drivers, all have a heavy responsibility that they cannot now avoid. These are straightforward statements. The warning must not go unheeded. A new tire warranty recognizes these conditions, but the real job is conservation!

A new warranty—

With conditions as they are, and synthetic rubber in its present stage of development, a new tire warranty has become necessary and has been adopted. It applies to all tires. Under its terms, injuries such as bruises, body breaks, cuts, snags, and heat failures, as well as tread wear are not subject to adjustment consideration.

Nor are injuries or failures which result from improper tire care or misuse or abuse. This includes failure as a result of overload, excess speed, improper inflation, or other non-defective conditions. Or when tires are used on rims not conforming to Tire and Rim Association Standards.

Remember—the tire industry, the Rubber Director, everyone is working together with all their energy, as they have from the outset, to keep America's wheels turning.

Do your part—take care of the tires you've got now!

WAR BONDS
4 for 1

U. S. destroyers and other anti-submarine vessels of the Navy are equipped with quadruple tubes, meaning they are capable of firing four torpedoes simultaneously, making it more difficult for the target to escape.

Modern warfare is the most expensive destruction the world has ever experienced both for the destroyer and the destroyer. There is no point where we can stop in this war this side of peace so all of us will be required to buy an extra $100 Bond.

Navy Has Foot Trouble
Even the navy has its foot trouble. The United States Naval Reserve corps has decided that among the specialists eligible for appointment are chiropodists, or podiatrists. Action of the navy in appointing chiropodists follows the report of the Council of the American Medical Association that "chiropody is a department of the healing service and it has its basis in scientific and demonstrated knowledge and satisfies a gap that general medicine has failed to fill."

TODAY

TWENTY-FIVE years ago this world went wild with joy. The world tried "Peace". But there was no peace. There was only a truce.

This time there must be no truce. This time we are grimly determined to see the job through. We will make whatever sacrifice is necessary. We won't let it happen again.

Armistice Day this year marks the beginning of a new call upon our patriotism. A call directed especially to the people of this community.

One of the gravest threats to our all-out war effort is a shortage of pulpwood. We who live in the pulpwood-cutting areas are asked to make good that shortage. We will be paid for our wood, of course. But we are asked to do it as our special part in the war—backing up our own boys in the service.

In whose honor will you cut your cord? A son? A brother? A friend? Give us his name, and yours, so that both may be entered on the roll of honor. No boy shall die because we failed.

See Here, Private Hargrove!

by Marion Hargrove

THE STORY SO FAR: Private Marion Hargrove, former feature editor of the Charlotte (N. C.) News, has been inducted into the army and has completed the first few days of his training at camp. He has given prospective inductees advice to "paint the town red" before getting into the army and once in he tells them that "the first three weeks are the hardest." He has gone through the experience of the army physical exam, has been fitted with a uniform, been classified as a cook and has had a good taste of KP duty. In fact, he has had so much of the latter that his sergeant is beginning to despair. So is Private Hargrove. He has completed a KP session and returns to his quarters.

CHAPTER III

I tiptoed into the squadroom so that the sergeant wouldn't notice that I was wearing fatigue clothes. His voice rang out to me as I passed his door, and I slunk in guiltily.

The sergeant's face showed that he was hurt. "You were on KP again today, weren't you, Hargrove?"

I lowered my eyes and scuffed my toe against the floor. "Yes, sir."

"Oh, I get so discouraged sometimes," the sergeant said. "I try so hard to make something of you and what good does it do? Every time I go through the kitchen I see you in there scrubbing the sink! How many times have you been on KP this week?"

"Only three times, sir," I said, avoiding his eyes.

"It was all the corporal's fault, sir," I said, looking around to make sure that the corporal wasn't there to defend himself. "Just because I right-faced a few times when I was supposed to left-face, and I zigged when I should have zagged, and because I forgot and smoked in ranks—and a few other things like that."

"And," said the sergeant shaking his head sadly, "you just turned around casually every time he ordered 'about-face.' And you kept watching your feet all through drill. And you stayed out of step all mornin worse shape than I am. If I can do it, you can do it—or else!"

He outlines the exercise and you begin wondering how a contortionist happened to wind up at Fort Bragg. This self-styled "fat and flabby" calisthenics master doesn't have any knees or elbows. You stand there waiting to hear his spine fall apart under the strain, but he comes up all in one piece.

"That's the way I want you boys to do it," he says, beaming cheerfully. You begin to feel your face getting gray and you wonder why a bolt of lightning doesn't come to deliver you from the prospective torture.

"One. Two. Three. Four. Five. Six. Seven. Eight. One. Two—"

The first three or four times are the hardest. After that, you get the swing of it. It's really tame stuff, you decide.

"The next exercise," says the sergeant, "is what we call the quarter, half and full knee bend. It goes like this." He shows you. When you see it, the corners of your mouth go up in a sneer of derision (unless the corporal is looking). Ho Hum, you say to yourself. Why do they take up time with this play?

"Exercise—one, two, three, four—"

"Quarter, half, full recover. Your knees get That Tired Feeling after the third time. After the sixth time, you feel your eyes getting glassy. After the ninth, you're floating in space. By the time the exercise is over, nothing matters any more.

Before you have marched off the drill field you notice that you still haven't collapsed. In fact, you find to your disappointment that you're beginning to feel good. All limbered up.

Quarantine has been lifted for us of the July 17 contingency. If the sergeant wasn't looking over my shoulder, I'd say it's about time. Before our release from isolation, Army style, I was able to get around and swap lies and gripes with every one of the boys in our group.

A little under 100 per cent of them came up with the same account, which reads as follows: "Our battery has the worst food in the Army. We've got the worst sergeant in the battery. No kidding, though, our platoon makes all the others look crummy. Here two weeks already and I haven't pulled KP or had the sergeant jump me a time yet. Don't tell a soul, but I think they're going to make me a corporal." All of which is a lot of hot air.

Actually, they're fighting to get into the mess hall first at every meal. They're gaining weight and tanning where they used to blister. They're sassing their sergeants, who deplore them as the sorriest bunch of rookies they ever sweated over. Every one of them has been on KP at least once.

By the time Congress says I may go home and be a mere civilian again, I suppose I'll be the best soldier at Fort Bragg. At least I seem to get more individual attention than anyone else. Private tutoring, I always tell the boys.

We were at work the other morning learning how to handle a rifle. The sergeant was putting us through our paces.

"Hargrove," he said with infinite sweetness, "where is the balance of your rifle?"

"This is all the supply sergeant gave me, sir," I said. "I thought it was all here."

The sergeant slapped his forehead and mumbled something furiously under his breath. "Wonder-child," he said, "this (pointing) is the balance of your rifle. I can't imagine why they call it that, unless it's because when you hold the rifle there with one hand, it's balanced." He then went on for a few minutes, explaining a few of the things I had still failed to master.

"Now do you understand it?" he asked, beaming at me with a look made of all sweet accord.

"No, sir," I said.

The sergeant sighed wearily. "Private Hargrove," he said, "right down by the next barracks there's a group of young people who are practicing with rifles for the first time. They haven't had theirs for three days like you have. Run along down there and see if you can keep up with them."

I tried. There was some confusion about the orders, however. At the end of a movement where I wound up with my rifle on my left shoulder, the rest of the detail had theirs on the right. I noticed also that I usually finished a command long before the others.

The sergeant in charge of the detail commented on this. "You know, Shorty," he said, "you have all of these routines worked out much better than the War Department was able to do them. Where it took them sixteen counts to complete the sixteen-count manual, you always manage somehow to complete it in twelve."

I was still blushing modestly when he called the corporal over. He said something to the corporal, who took me by the elbow and guided me gently around the building at a spot where, he said, the battery officers wouldn't see me drilling and thereby be discouraged.

"This," he said, pronouncing each syllable slowly and distinctly, "is what we have come to call a rifle."

R-i-f-l-e. It is used for the purpose of shooting. Primitive man, we are told, did not have a rifle. Primitive man was forced to bring down his supper with a knife, a spear, a stone, a bow and arrows or his own little primitive hands."

I nodded automatically and paid scant attention to all this. I already knew it.

"Today," he continued, "civilization has been improved upon to the extent that— and he went on and on. After that we began at the beginning of the manual of arms and took each command slowly. The corporal sweated for forty-five minutes.

"In the first place you can peel potatoes with a bayonet."

"Are there any questions now, Private Hargrove?"

"I thought for a while. 'Yes, sir,' I said. 'That is, 'yes, corporal.' What use will I have for a rifle? I'm going to be a cook."

The corporal mopped his brow. "Well, Private Hargrove," he said, patting me lovingly on the shoulder, "you'll find use for it. Ha! ha! In the first place, you can peel potatoes with a bayonet. And in the second place—if you're as good a cook as you are a soldier—you'll need it every day. After breakfast, lunch, and supper you'll need it to protect yourself from murder at the hands of your comrades in arms."

"See here, Private Hargrove," the sergeant sighed. "Can't you try just once to do something right? Don't you want to be a credit to the platoon? You don't want us to be the worst bunch in the battery after we've been the best for so long, do you?"

"Please, sergeant," I begged him, "couldn't I just stay inside for this once? They'd never miss me at rifle inspection. I'd be very quiet and nobody would ever know."

He ignored the request. "Try hard to remember, private, these few simple things. When the officer reaches the man next to you, open the rifle. When he grabs your gun, don't hang onto it or you'll have a bellyache for two weeks. When he throws it back to you, don't catch it with your chin. And when you get it back, snap the trigger. And heaven help you if you ball this thing up!"

The forces of Destiny placed me second in the front rank at inspection. We stood at attention for three minutes before the inspecting officer approached. For seconds after we brought our rifles up for inspection, a fly which seemed to be a little larger than a June bug landed on my forehead. The sergeant shot a warning glance across my bow and I decided to humor the fly. It would go away soon, I told myself, although I knew it wouldn't.

The inspecting officer still had not begun his rounds. He was waiting for us to get off our guard. The fly demonstrated its impatience by stepping up to double-quick in its pacing. "Oh, if I only had you alone!" I thought. The itching nose became more insistent. A gnat made a three-point landing on it and began playing about the left nostril.

I gave the sergeant a glance which said distinctly, "This can't go on much longer. Something's going to pop!" His return glance said, in italicized words, "But just one eyelash and I'll break your neck!"

Suddenly the inspecting officer grabbed the rifle from the hand of Grafenstein, who stood beside me. His lightning sloop with the gun, coupled with the speed with which Grafenstein relinquished it, completely paralyzed me. An almost inaudible groan made me look at the sergeant. He was making furious grimaces at me and his face looked as if he was going to burst a blood vessel. He kept wagging his eyes down to the bolt of my rifle. A split second before the officer reached me, I managed to pull the bolt.

I could see the sergeant unloading freight carloads of potatoes for me to peel. I could see the next weekend, with me restricted to quarters while the rest of the platoon enjoyed themselves in town.

The officer reached me several lifetimes later. He looked at my face and sighed wearily. Then, with infinite tenderness, he gently lifted the rifle from my grasp. He inspected it and handed it back to me as though he was laying a brick on an orchid or giving a hundred-pound weight to his aged grandmother. He sighed again and passed on to the next man, whose rifle he grabbed with the confidence that the man wouldn't fall apart when he snatched it.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for November 21

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

HONESTY IN ALL THINGS

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:15; Leviticus 19:11, 13; Luke 19:1-10, 45, 47; GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt not steal.—Exodus 20:15.

Honesty seems to be so obviously right that one might expect it always and everywhere—if bitter experience had not indicated the opposite to be true.

As a matter of fact, dishonesty has become so common that a person who is strictly honest is a bit of a novelty. Some even think he is peculiar.

Under such circumstances the Christian needs to be vigilant lest he also accommodate his own ideas of honesty and begin to justify little evasions rather than being absolutely upright.

The teaching of Scripture on this matter is very plain.

I. Honesty and Fair Dealing (Exod. 20:15; Lev. 19:11, 13).

The very commandment against stealing implies that men have a right to that which they have made, earned, or saved. If no one had property rights there could be no stealing. Some of our modernisms deny such rights, but their reasoning is clearly not biblical or Christian.

"Thou shalt not steal" forbids every kind of theft, and the passages from Leviticus indicate that this includes more than robbery or ordinary stealing.

It relates to every kind of false dealing with another, such as oppression of the withholding of just wages. That, too, is stealing in God's sight.

Perhaps we ought to be more specific and apply the truth to our own day. Stealing includes such things as loafing on one's job, "borrowing" money from the cash drawer, taking goods from the stock with which one is working, stealing another man's sermon and preaching it as one's own, "lifting" material out of another man's book without credit, contracting debts which one can never pay, using false weights and measures, adulterating food or other material, "watering" milk for sale, selling worthless stock, dodging taxes or lying to the tax assessor, or using a slug instead of a nickel in the telephone to escape proper payment.

One might add gambling (which is taking another man's property by skill or by chance), making an unduly large profit on the labor of another, making money out of the sorrows and failures of others, etc. To be honest means to be fair—and that has broad implications.

II. Honesty and Restoration (Luke 19:1-10).

The reality and thoroughness of Zacchaeus' conversion was indicated by his willingness to restore all the money he had unjustly (but legally, note that!) taken from his fellow citizens—and that in fourfold measure.

Insofar as it is possible to do so, the honest person will make right any known injustice. To be right with God must mean that we are to be right with men. The testimony of many Christians could be presented to show that they have only entered upon real peace and usefulness as they have made consistent effort to right every wrong, to pay every debt.

Often such actions open opportunities for Christian testimony and point others to the redemption in Christ, which makes a man live right as well as talk right.

III. Honesty and Religion (Luke 19:45, 46).

One might think it unnecessary to urge honesty upon religious folk. They ought to be honest. But here we see in sharp contrast to the quick honesty and restitution of Zacchaeus, the stubborn disobedience and dishonesty of the priests in the temple. Jesus had already cleansed the temple of the traffic in money-changing and the sale of animals for sacrifice practiced there (see John 2:13-17). On that occasion He rebuked them because they made His Father's house "a house of merchandise."

Had they known the change of heart of a converted Zacchaeus they would have heeded His admonition. But they did not believe in Christ and went on with their ungodly desecration of the temple area until it became "a den of thieves" (v. 46).

What happened so long ago needs application to our present day. So apt is the quotation from the "Lesson Commentary" which we have used before that we repeat it now.

Speaking of "the goings on in our own churches" the writer says, "Is a church honest when it assumes obligations that it cannot meet, and is then forced to use all sorts of questionable means to raise money for the benefit of the church? Is a church honest when it turns a building consecrated to the worship of God into a restaurant or a theater, is a church honest that turns its pulpit into a lecture platform for the discussion of current events or the review of popular books or plays?"

ST. CHOICE OF MILLIONS St. Joseph ASPIRIN

The gaily enameled unit insignia you see on a soldier's lapels and overseas cap are reproductions of his regimental shield displayed in the center of the eagle on his regimental flag. It's a part of U. S. Army tradition. Traditional, too, is the Army man's preference for Camel cigarettes. (Based on actual sales records from service men's own stores.) It's a gift from the folks back home, that always rates cheers. And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. S., and to men in the Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard wherever they are.—Advt.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Of the 125,000 communities in the United States, 54,000 have no rail connection. They depend on rubber tires for their existence and their contacts with other communities. They rely solely on buses, trucks and passenger cars.

Reduction of the national average mileage of passenger cars to 5,400 miles a year through rationing has proved an important factor in rubber conservation. An idea of how this mileage is regulated will be understood when it is known that 55 per cent of the country's cars are operated on "A" gas ration books alone, about 25 per cent have "B," and 20 per cent have "C" books for supplementary supplies.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

SCHOOL NOTES

Our library consists of 1,720 books, of which 786 are reference books, 444 are books of fiction and 490 are miscellaneous books.

The library has been moved this year from what is now the typing room to the book room. These quarters are small, but we have been managing all right with them. However, because of space and library hours, the reference books are found in the typing room and on shelves in the study hall, which makes them conveniently available at all times for reference work.

This year Miss Murphy is in charge of the library, with Ruth Ulman as librarian, and Betty Roach as assistant. These students have the library open before school, as well as two periods during the school day, so that all pupils have an opportunity to take out books. These books may be taken out for two weeks and then renewed for two weeks, unless they are books that other members of the class will need before that time. A fine of two cents a day is charged against the student who neglects to return his book at the time it is due. Carelessness in paying fines and in returning books results in the student losing the privilege of taking books from our school library.

Our reference material is quite complete, as we have two sets of encyclopedia bought two years ago. The Encyclopedia Americana was copyrighted in 1941, and the World Book in 1938, so both are very up-to-date. We now also receive maps show pictorially the World News of the Week, which enables us to follow the world's events that are happening so quickly each day.

Several new magazines are also available in our library. They are as follows: Popular Mechanics, Readers Digest, and the Etude. Others that have been ordered are the Gregg Writer, Grade Teacher, American Childhood, The Instructor, Popular Science, What's New in Home Economics, and Children's Activities.

This is Book Week. We are wondering if any of our school library books (marked Tawas City School) have by chance been left in some home in Tawas City and not returned. If so, we will appreciate it very much if anyone finding any of our books will kindly send them to our school with some student. Books are expensive and therefore we do not wish to lose any of them.

Gloria Farley.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Thornton:
 Well I am finally situated again at a permanent address so I thought I'd let you know, sure will appreciate receiving my Herald again.

This place I am at now is a U.S. Naval Air Station for blimps that patrol the Atlantic coastline.

I'm 80 miles north of Jacksonville, Florida and the same distance south of Savannah, Georgia. While our train was stopped in Savannah, Ga. I called Ronald Curry on the phone and I expect to visit them on some of my time off.

Its very warm down here and so far I like it quite well, but I am sure looking forward to the day when we can all be back in Tawas again. My address is

Kenny Smith Sp. (D)

 Glynco, Georgia.

I sure would like to hear from Tawas folks again.

Hope you are all fine and that you hear from Nels regularly and that he is fine too.

As ever,
 Kenny Smith
