GOD'S GREAT LOVE AND HIS GIFT

LESSON TEXT—Maithew 2:1-12. GOLDEN TEXT—For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life.—John 3:16.

Christmas brings us all back to the Christ-child in Bethlehem, and we are reminded anew of our Lord's coming into the world to be the Redeemer. For the babe of Bethle-hem is the Christ of the cross, of the resurrection, and the coming King.

"God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son" in what was the world's greatest love gift. But the Word does not stop there. We must do something about God's gift. We read, "That whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have everlasting life" (John 3: 16).

The story of the coming of the Wise Men to seek the One who had been "born King of the Jews" reveals several attitudes toward Christ which find their counterpart in our day.

I. Expectancy (vv. 1, 2).

These men of another race were familiar with the Jewish Scriptures and knew that the Messiah was to come. Many others, including the religious leaders of the Jews, had the same information. But these men of the East differed in that they looked for His coming with keen desire and expectancy.

One wonders if we have not become so familiar with the story of Christmas that we, like the Jews, have a dead knowledge without expectant faith. We need to awaken and look to God for new grace and strength for these days.

II. Fear (vv. 3, 7, 8, 12).

Herod was a capable, ruthless, ungodly ruler who feared only that someone would take his power from him. He was so determined that this should not happen, that he killed many members of his own family for whom he otherwise had apparent affection.

When he heard that Jesus, who was the real King of the Jews, had been born, he feared, and laid crafty plans to destroy Him. God saw to it that his purpose was not carried out. There are those of our time who fear the coming of Jesus, because they will not have Him to rule over their lives. They love their selfish ways, and their sinful pleasures; and when they face the question of what they will do with Jesus (and face it they must!), they have only fear and hatred in their hearts. III. Indifference (vv. 4-6).

Fred H. Awalt, 33, likewise failed the foreign service exam, later was appointed as an auxiliary, and is serving as junior economic analyst at $3,800, which is $800 more than That was clearly foretold in Micah 5:2. The priests and scribes knew all about it, but their knowledge did not move them to action. They told -a four-day series of tests and the the Magi where to go, but they did not go themselves. How sad it is to see the indifference of our day to the claims of Christ. There are many who think that simply because they do not hate the church, or the Bible, or do not fight against it, they are guiltless. How wrong they are will appear to them if they will read Matthew 11:23, 24 and recall that the sin of Capernaum was only indifference.

When British naval officers recently visited a Jugoslavian village held by patriot partisan forces they were taken to meet the commander (top left). At his right is his interpreter. Bottom left: Using the partisan army's clenched fist communist salute, Jugoslavian children greet the British officers. They wear the starmarked caps of their organization. Right: She doesn't look it, but this young woman has the reputation of being an outstanding sniper and anti-Nazi saboteur. Women like her comprise 25 per cent of the partisan army. No names are given to shield friends and relatives from possible Nazi reprisals.

3 of '10 Outstanding Women in America'

A "jury" of well-known women recently gathered in New York to select the "10 outstanding women of America in as many fields of endeavor." Pictured above are three of their choices. Left: Dorothy Thompson, journalism; center, Dr. Katherine Blodgett, science; and right, Nancy Harkness Love, aviation. The other seven are: Mrs. Hortense Odlum, business; Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, labor; Marion Anderson, music; Vivian Kellems, industry; Rosalind Russell, motion pictures; Kate Smith, radio; and Pearl Buck, literature.

Xmas a Year Late

F HISTORY repeats itself on the athletic front after the war, we can anticipate the greatest sports boom in the history of this country. That prediction was made recently by Hugo Goldsmith, veteran manufacturer of athletic equipment. Goldsmith's conclusion was not based on wishful thinking, but rather on reference to his ledgers after the last war, which reflect the boom in sports during the early twenties.

The same thought has occurred to many others directly and indirectly concerned with the nation's physical fitness program. Sports writers, army and navy officials and farsighted civilians agree that the impetus given sports by the war will make itself felt in the years to come.

Definite Upsurge

According to the older chroniclers of sports activities, history proves that there has been a definite upsurge in sports after every war. Sol-diers of the Civil war carried baseball back into every corner of the country. Following the Spanish-American war, baseball again enjoyed new and greater prestige. College football came into its own, basketball spread throughout the coun-try and other sports benefited in a similar manner.

It was after World War I that sports reached unprecedented heights. Golf, in particular, became every man's game, rather than the sport of a few wealthier people.

Perhaps the long-range guns of the last war had a postwar influence in the long-range hitting in baseball, to the accompaniment of faster clicking turnstiles.

Remember the twenties? College presidents, who in 1906 thought stadia built to seat 5,000 spectators would become "white elephants," ap-proved construction of athletic fields that would seat upwards of 100,000 fans.

Sports for All

It is obvious that sports are definitely a part of this war. Millions of young men in the armed forces are participating in some form of a well-rounded athletic program, not only for recreation, but for the physical fitness and competitive values of combat games. Football and boxing, for example, are both part of the curriculum of navy pre-flight students. The enthusiasm with which football is greeted is evidenced by the brand of ball played by the Iowa Seahawks.

It is just as certain that after the war these men will be sports conscious. For a while they will engage in the rough and tumble sports they played in the service. As they grow older they will choose a less strenuous sport, such as golf, bowling or volley ball. Meanwhile, most of them will want to see champions

Contrasts in the News:

The silver-lining tribe is whooping that everything is peaches and cream. They oppose an increase in manpower for the armed forces. in manpower for the armed forces. Although every fact debunks them they convey the impression that Americans should start ripping phone books—so they'll have enough confetti to flip at victory parades in a "few weeks" . . . Meanwhile, the Japs are being pushed around in the Pacific. But it's far from a push-lover. From Tarawa came a dose of over. From Tarawa camé a dose of grim news that froze the facial muscles: About 3,000 marines spearheaded the initial assault on that island, but only a few hundred es-caped death or injury.

A group of senators are giving our genuine Good Neighbors a coating of mud. We refer to the nations that declared war against America's enemies and have done everything in their power to aid us. Friendly relations between Uncle Sam and most of his neighbors have been a shining light in a darkened word . . . However, these senators have been mum when it comes to a neighbor that has been running errands for our enemies and aiding the Axis to kill American soldiers and sailors. They look the other way when it comes to doing some-thing about pro-Nazi Argentina.

Much space has been devoted to sob stories about the suffering of sob stories about the suffering of Berliners. They come from neutral sources. Indeed, the bombing of any city isn't a picnic. But the Nazis asked for it by starting the war and gloating about the cities they massacred. The Nazis gave others a taste of total war. Now they're getting it. All war is brutal . . . Buried in every report of raids on Berlin are figures about the planes lost by the Allies. Let's give our sympathy to the families of the brave fliers who are giving their lives to end a war they never wanted.

There has been an avalanche of postwar plans. All have one ideal in common: Fascism must be wiped out and never allowed to crawl again. They know that Fascists in Germany and elsewhere represent great dangers to America's security . . . At the same time many of those idealists can look you straight in the eye and insist that we must not deprive Fascists in America of their civil liberties. Although they know Fascists here only use free-dom to help them spout their poison.

The army, navy and marines are composed of different races, creeds, religions and political beliefs. The United Nations also have many of the same differences. But they are strongly united, fighting and dying together. Their unified strength is But political winning the war . . . But political differences in Washington are hinperform in baseball, football, boxing, basketball, track, hockey and other American cities people of different races and religions will not get along with each other. Although they are far from the battlefields and are forced to make fewer sacrifices than any fighting man of the United Nations-they can't match the patriotism or unity of men in uniform.

PROTECTING THE PRESIDENT The only people in the U.S.A. who are really made unhappy by the President's travels-especially overseas-are the Secret Service. They spend sleepless nights until he comes home again, worried that something may happen.

On last winter's overseas junket to Casablanca, an extraordinary measure of protection was taken. Nothing like it has ever been seen in the history of the world. A great armada of ships of all kinds, mostly fighting ships, was assembled near before they saw Him. "When they the bulge of Brazil, and also near saw the star," and knew that God the bulge of West Africa. The ships moved out along the path which the President was to follow and prac- rejoiced with exceeding great joy. tically covered every square mile of the Atlantic at this narrow crossing.

The President himself was flying overhead in a Pan American clipper, and the purpose of the ships was to form what the navy called a "net" of protection. It was to serve the President as the net in the circus serves the trapeze artists. If the President's plane were forced down into the sea, no matter where, there would be at least one ship at that spot to rescue him.

No such plan was used on his latest trip, however. The mode of protection cannot now be revealed, but when the story is told, it will show an entirely different strategy. * * *

High schools and colleges have intensified their physical training programs, emphasizing competitive sports, which gives the youngsters a greater incentive than does the more formal calesthenics.

Next to Fighting

According to witnesses, among soldiers and sailors overseas, athletics come second only to fighting. They are eager for athletic equipment. One sporting goods distributor in Honolulu, who made a special trip to this country in an effort to increase his inventories to meet the demand of the armed forces, had this to say:

"The boys are hungry for athletic equipment. They buy footballs, basketballs, softballs and punching bags for play aboard ship. They pass the footballs on deck, toss basketballs through improvised hoops, play catch with the softballs and punch the bag in crowded quarters. Special service officers have combed every athletic goods store on the Islands for sports equipment for the men. Well over 90 per cent of what is available is bought by the armed forces.'

Congress is now orally juggling a laudable bill: To provide economic security for demobilized soldiers. That deserves every American's support . . . At the same time, Congress is dynamiting the dam of rationing and price control. It holds back the flood of inflation. If unleashed, it will blast every American's economic security, including the Americans who return from the battlefronts.

Berlin is being drenched with bombs. Headlines about it make thrilling reading. We hope it will force the German-vermin to throw in the brownshirt. But wars can't be won by wishful thinking as some of our editorialists seem to be doing . . . For contrast we offer a headline from Hitler's newspaper at a time when London was being blitzed by the Luftwaffe: "London Bombed Again, British Soon to Surrender."

The Magazines: Wendell Willkie is getting sick of that empty phrase, too--that "free enterprise" echo. In his Look piece, Mr. W. offered this squelcher: "Some of the talk we heat about 'free enterprise' or 'private enterprise' is just propaganda on the part of powerful groups who have not practiced real enterprise in a generation and have no intention of doing so"... Diplomats among the peace-loving countries have made a vital down-payment on a happy world . . . Only the isolationists are trying to wreck those plans. Only the jack-asstriches sneer at every attempt to form a family of nations. They insist it won't work. Yet they are the same people who said they loved peace and knew how to insure it.

Poultry Records Aid In Gost Control

Data on Expense, Income Assist Manager

Poultrymen will find that keeping records on the flock as to production and costs of feed and other supplies will give much valuable information to the grower, says C. J. Maupin, Extension poultry specialist at N. C. State college. He points out that this is particularly necessary at this time because of the high cost of feed.

Contrary to the prevailing opinion, demonstration flock records show that the highest average returns above feeding costs are secured on these flocks in the spring of the year when egg prices are often the lowest. Many growers ask about the feed cost of producing a dozen eggs. The records show that this was lowest in March, April and May, when egg production was highest. The highest cost of producing eggs came in October, November and December when the average production was low and egg prices were high. The average feed cost was 21 cents per dozen during the winter as compared with 12 cents in the spring.

According to Maupin, the records clearly show that good breeding and proper flock management pay excellent dividends. High production per bird means low cost of production per dozen eggs. Cull hens have no place in the laying flock, especially when feed costs are high. In managing the flock, many growers find it good practice to keep two-thirds pullets and one-third hens. Other poultrymen prefer all of the flock to consist of pullets.

Maupin suggests that every poul-tryman buy a note book and keep a record of the number of eggs he produces per month and the money he takes in, and compare this with the money he spends on his flock.

Graded Eggs Sell Higher.

Another smart practice to get the highest possible return from your flock is to grade your eggs. Under OPA ceilings, a poultry farmer can get about 15 cents a dozen more for graded eggs. This can easily be done on the farm.

Eggs which are well handled will almost always measure up to the Grade A standard for interior quality. You can grade and sell your own eggs as Grade A without a permit, provided you will gather them from your nests twice a day and keep them in a cool place. The eggs must be candled so that the poor quality ones can be removed.

In candling, the large ends of the eggs should be placed against the hole in the box with the small end tilted down. Twirl the egg before the light and then quickly shift it so as to bring the small end before the light. Any blood spots will usually show up plainly as the inside arate top for evening, provides a lovely way to stretch your dress-up wardrobe so that it will sparkle your way brightly through the holi-day festivities. Charming little dressy jackets and blouses are designed this year in a wide variety of handsome formal rayon fabrics to give you plenty of mix-and-match changes to team with your simple long or short skirts. Eye-crashing glitter touches and flattering color combinations add dramatically to the gala effect.

Because these dazzling "tops" are smart for so many occasions, de-signers have produced a large col-lection made up of diversified types. Flattering tuck-in blouses are done on both semi-tailored and frankly dressy lines, in such flashing novelty weaves as striped rayon-and-metal lames, metal-patterned rayon chif-fons, and metal-shot rayon taffetas. They are also made of lovely soft draping classic rayon glamour fabrics, such as fine rich dull crepes, jersies, satins (so smart this season) and laces, the latter especially lovely in chantilly or point d'esprit types. These styles may have very short sleeves or wristlength and they show many varied necklines from the new deep U-line or square contour to high round collarless buttoning in back or the flattering brilliant-buttoned shirtwaist necks

The gay dress-up blouse at the top in the picture sponsors the new high round neckline fastened at the back. Jet nailheads, starred in a scattered patterning against vivid cerise rayon crepe, achieve a brilliant and entrancing effect.

The Christmas Crib is as traditionally a part of Christmas in southern Europe as is the Christmas tree in the northern countries. In France, it is the Creche-or Cradle; in Italy, the Praesepe-or Manger; in Germany, Krippe or Crib; in Czechoslovakia, Jeslicky, and in Spain, the Nacimiento-or Nativity Scene.

From the earliest years of Christianity priests and religious leaders interpreted the Bible by literal representation of plays, tableaux, etc., because of the lack of books and widespread inability to read. However, the first Crib was set up in 1223 by St. Francis Assisi.

paper of the room in which the If you've ever noticed the top of Marine Officer's visor cap, you've seen on it something you won't find on any other cap worn in Uncle Sam's service-a neat 'X'' of looped braid.

There's a story back of that braided "X", and it goes back more than 150 years, to a time shortly after the U.S. Marines were first organized.

In those days of sailing ships, naval battles often ended in close hand-to-hand fighting, as the crew of one ship tried to board the oth-1790 by mutineers from the British er-and Marines, of course, were in the thick of the fight. Some were 3. A Hibernian is a native of in the boarding party, and some were posted in the rigging to fire down on the enemy. It was be-cause of those men firing from high on the masts that Marine officers-whose uniforms from above resembled the enemy's - fixed X'S" on their hats.

In other words, that braid meant to the Marines in the rigging, "X marks the spot—not to shoot at!" Since those days, the "X" on the cap has become a standard part of the Marines' uniform. Another piece of "standard equipment" you'll notice among Marines these days-whether they're wearing dress uniform or combat dungarees-is the American cigarettes they carry with them wherever they go. In all those news pictures you've seen of Uncle Sam's fighting men, snapped as they are re-laxing while "off duty," you'll find that in most cases they will be smoking a cigarette. And what brand do they prefer? Well, actual sales records show that the favorite with men in the Marines-as in the Navy-is Camel. Likewise, according to the sales records, Camels are first choice with men in the Army.

Fighting men who have come back from jungles, deserts, and mountains-wherever Uncle Sam's forces are stationed - give one pretty good reason for this choice. They say that Camels stay fresh that out in the jungles of Guadalcanal, for instance, the Camels they get are actually just as freshtasting and full-flavored as the ones they used to get back home. Of course, the millions of men they should then be divided into sizes. A pair of small egg scales will be helpful in doing this job.

Mark Pigeons That Can Reproduce in Winter

Pigeons which produce squabs during the winter months are valuable and should be marked in some way at this season so that young stock from them can be saved in the future for breeding purposes.

The season of normal squab production is in the spring and early summer when all pairs in the loft are producing regularly, usually at the rate of a pair of squabs each month. During the season of heavy squab production when prices are low, young stock is usually saved for later breeding purposes to replace older pairs that must be removed from the pen from time to time.

Poor pairs of pigeons producing only for four or five months may not have more than eight or ten squabs in a year for market purposes, these being produced when squabs are low-er in price. The better pairs will produce from 16 to 18 squabs a year, and it is from these that breeding stock should be saved.

Agricultural Notes

In spite of wartime difficulties the poultry industry must produce approximately 60 billion eggs, four billion pounds of chicken meat, and 560 million pounds of turkey meat this year.

Chic Black Gowns With Sheer Yokes

A perfect way to escape the "noth-ing-to-wear" lament when the unexpected happens in way of an invitation to a formal or perhaps not so formal affair, is to have in reserve at least one dressy black gown. The type smartly in fashion this season is the simple sheathnarrow street-length black dress that has a transparent yoke or bodice top. The best dressed women are going all-out for black, through and through. They like the yokes and transparent shoulder insets that are made of sheerest of sheer black marquisette that has a dazzle-dust of jet all over it. Throughout the yoke part itself the sequins are often sprinkled sparingly in contrast to a bordering of intricately worked jet passementerie. Even young girls are wearing these jet sparkling sheer-yoked blacks, topping them off with adorable caps or bonnets of jet. Contrasting pastel marquisette tops are a'so in favor, worked with delicate self-color beads.

These are all sparkly, all-over starred with wee pinpricks of glit-ter. Then there's the gala-type dickey made of metal brocade. Exclusive looking is the black alencontype lace dickey sprinkled with jet beads, also the black chantilly lace dickey with a frilly lace jabot. Fur dickeys are newest of all, though this humble man had very little, whether for himself or to share with others, his goodness of heart was such that each evening he placed in his window a lighted candle as a sign of welcome to weary travelers who might be asking shelter.

War came to the village and famine, yet the little light never wavered. Each night it took its place to send forth its beam as a message of cheer to forlorn wayfarers.

It was wintertime and the suffering was acute. Great hardships came. Sons died in battle. Animals starved for want of grain. Yet always, somehow the old shoemaker suffered less than others. It was almost as though there were a splendid charm upon him. At last the peasants gathered together and said: "Surely there is something different about him that he is spared. What does he do that we do not do? Perhaps it is his little candle. Let us, too, place lights in our windows."

And the day the peasants took counsel was the day before Christmas, and the first night the candles were set to burn in all the windows was Christmas Eve.

When morning came it was as though a miracle had happened. A soft mantle of snow covered the village like a gentle blessing, but there was something more-a new air of peace and hope. And before the sun had cast its first bright gleam on the spire of the village church there came a messenger riding to bring the great, glad news of peace. The church bells chimed and the people knelt in prayer and there was a feeling of Christmas glory such as there had not been in many years.

The peasants were awed. "It was the candles," they whispered. 'They have guided the Christ Child to our doorsteps. We must never again fail to light candles on His Birthday."

From such a long ago beginning this beautiful custom has become very dear to our hearts. So dear in fact that year after year we light our candles on Christmas Eve, and year after year, the holiday greeting cards we exchange with our friends and loved ones carry the proud motif of the Christmas candle. And this year the candles will still burn bright, their light sending forth hope and cheer for the peaceful world that soon must come.

There are scores of other legends surrounding the widespread use of candles at Christmas time-and all of them have a simple beauty which appeals to children and adults alike. The stories are told in every lan-

Try this some time in ginger ale. Put one tablespoon maraschino cherry juice and several of the cherries in each glass. The result will delight.

To lengthen the life of your feather pillows, put them in a current of cool dry air frequently to keep them dry, fresh and sweet.

If you use electric extension cords, check them frequently for frayed places. Never handle a cord with wet hands and handle a wet cord only with a thick pad or dry cloth. . . .

When the sweetness of cream is doubtful, stir in a pinch of soda. This will prevent curdling even in hot coffee. . . .

It is a simple matter to spread french dressing uniformly over a salad by using a clothes sprinkler of the cock-necked, bottle-top va-riety. When finished, the sprinkler can be inserted in a hot-water faucet and quickly cleaned.

To remove hard water scale or stains from porcelain enameled ware, boil a mild solution of soda in it periodically. A mixture of salt and lemon juice, rubbed on the utensil and wiped off with a wet rag will also do the trick.

To wash cotton blankets, wash one at a time in lukewarm water and enough mild soap to make a two-inch standing suds. Rinse in several lukewarm waters. Dry in the shade. Press binding with a warm iron. . . .

To protect yarn or small woolen articles from moths, put them in a tightly covered glass jar or tin can. The jar is preferable as it enables one to see immediately what it contains.

Most rayon fabrics should be pressed when slightly damp, but spun rayons look best if ironed when almost dry.

Look over clothes and household textiles regularly, reinforce weak places and mend small holes before they grow large, and fabrics will last longer.

We attend class for two hours and there's no foolishness there. After lunch, we report to our kitchens, where we work until seven o'clock, taking our trade practically, taking part in the preparation of food for over two hundred hungry and fastidious soldiers. The next morning finds us in our kitchen at three or four o'clock and we stay there until one. We're supposed to have the afternoon off — unless there's something that has to be done in the line of battery duty.

When we leave those kitchens for the afternoon, we go back to our barracks for rest and sleep, which we need badly after the twenty-fourhour shift at huge coal-burning stoves. Reading is a popular diversion during the time, unless you pick up a magazine which tells you what slackers you are because you aren't like the author was in the Real war. There's a different type of article that is equally nauseating. It tells Taces. Then he made the rounds, of the poor little soldier boys, who give up everything to go into training thousands of miles from mother's lap and who will have to spend their time leaning against urban lampposts-because nothing is be-

Morale is the spirit that gets you when you're out on the regimental parade ground with the whole battalion for retreat parade. Every mother's son there wants to look as much the soldier as the Old Man does. Not another sound can be heard before or after the one-gun salute to the colors or when the band crosses the field to a stirring march in the Display of the Colors. And when your battery passes in review before the colonel, you're firmly convinced that there isn't another battery on the field that makes as good a showing as your battery. It's the enormous feeling you know when you sit in pitch dark before a pup tent in the field and terly cursed man's best friend, the horse. Two soldiers who shared a single pitchfork at the next truck spent all their time discussing the comparative beauties of the music of Liszt and Tchaikovsky, proving that art endureth forever even in an alien atmosphere.

As for myself, I gloried in the honor of the tradition I was helping to carry out. My mind drew pictures of the philosopher Ward Beecher Threatt, who boasts that he carried a pitchfork through the heat of the fiercest battles throughout the last war.

We made three trips to the cavalry barnyard before we had finished enriching the earth about the orderly room, the mess hall, and the four barracks of Battery A. We bathed vigorously and dressed for early dinner.

The mess sergeant met us at the door. He sniffed the air delicately closing the windows nearest us. "Git!" he said.

We went back to the barracks, where we found our comrades returned from the classroom. We sat down on our foot lockers and strove to remain as inconspicuous as possible. Private Sher was the first to speak. "Do you smell something?" Private Sher asked with unaccustomed rudeness. Everyone, it seemed, smelled something. It was not, they decided, Chanel Number Five. It was not My Sin or Evening in Paris. One of the citizen-soldiers, who had once worked in the stockyards, knew what it was.

When the hunt came nearer, Privates McGlauflin, Roff, and I arose and quietly left the squadroom and quietly sat by the newly invigorated.

denied the sissiness charges by magazine writers. It must be admitted, after yesterday's horrible disclosure, that some termite is boring from within us. too far. Our leniency and intolerance in letting him buy ice cream had gone to his head. Now he was making it at home-in the respectable kitchen of Battery A! Home-thought that perhaps he was merely going through his second childhood, and second childhood is something that every mess sergeant must be permitted to go through once. Realizing this, we boys hadn't said anything when our mess sergeant had air-conditioning fans put in the kitchen windows to make nambypambies of the cooks and kaypees. We hadn't said anything when he started keeping jam on the table at all meals. We're going to have to say some-thing now. The man is going absolutely mad. Not content with springing homemade ice cream on us, he had to heap more coals or the fire of our impatience at the same meal. There on each table in our mess hall, brazenly placed in the very cen-

Water used in a rubber water bottle should never have a temperature higher than 140 degrees Fahrenheit. Boiling water ages rubber prematurely. There should be no air in the bottle when in use if long service is to be expected.

The Amazon Valley, once the world's chief source of rubber, is expected to produce about 35,000 tons of crude in 1943, during which year 50,000 laborers will have been established in the rubber forests. Their contribution will be but a small but important part of our nation's rubber requirements.

Our big loss in Battery A came Tuesday when Joe Gantt went back to Liberty, South Carolina, after five months in the citizen army. Joe is the nice corporal who looked like the soldier pictures in the magazines, used an instinctive psychology in handling his men, and knew every man in the battery as a friend. He was on furlough last week when he was ordered to return at once to the battery. He came back, started through the discharge routine and went about hugging everybody with what looked like unbounded joy.

Then he started getting quieter and less demonstrative. He had been relieved from active duty for the remainder of his stay here-a matter of four or five days-and when' the men fell out for calisthenics or drill, Corporal Gantt didn't have to go out with them. Every time the whistle blew, you could see a lonesome look creeping into his eyes. The last time I saw him was Monday at noon, when we fell out for chow. Military procedure was over -thrown in a spontaneous revolution and Joe was drafted to march us to the mess hall. It was his last detail. Halfway to the mess hall, he gave us "To the rear-march! To the right flank—march! To the right flank—march!" and all of the marching commands he had taught

He's returning to Liberty now, where he'll fall back easily into the life he left five months ago. But you could have seen from a casual glance that he was going to miss the Army. --

I'm a student cook in the Army. Cooks are supposed to have the easiest work and the most comfortable positions the Army affords. Compared to the boys in the gun batteries, the signal corps, the antitank units, we're almost white-collar men.

We student cooks - the future "happiness" boys of the Armyhave to get up for reveille at the usual hour, beating the sun to the rise every morning. We get an hour of calisthenics, directed by a noncom who's in good physical shape and expects us to be the same way. Then we drill for an hour, and hell hath no fury like

The good earth on which Fort Bragg is situated is laden with tradition, ghosts of the glorious past, the old culture - and little else. Beautiful as it may be for purposes of military training, it has little interest in helping the little green things to grow. Grass and flowers, planted with loving care in the Sandhills dust, fade but too soon if left to shift for themselves. To nourish such vegetation, the cavalry units furnish the more aesthetic batteries with certain surplus commodities. Private McGlauflin, Roff, and I had spent the better part of the morning with Corporal Cleveland James Farmer, heaving and hauling coal in preparation for the long hard winter, when the top sergeant decided that the borders around the barracks should be given their autumn tonic. We piled back into our truck and sped away to the haunts We knew, after a few miles of riding, that we were nearing the cavalry territory. There was a certain unmistakable quality about the atmosphere. Something New Had Been Added.

The hoss cavalry, it must be said. takes great pains with the care and distribution of its vitamin deposits. As far as the eye can see the eye can see orderly, cubical mounds covered with straw and earth. None but the most deserving criminal offenders-men who have earned their letter ("P" for "prisoner") are permitted to serve in the maintenance division of this essential agricultural enterprise.

We three-McGlauflin, Roff, and I -stood high on the crest of a hill, loading the truck with its precious cargo, commenting on the invigorating quality of the air, and pausing ever and anon to lean on our pitchforks and listen to the conversation of other workers about us.

ter, was a shiny container filled with paper napkins!

Until something is done about the thing, this mess sergeant will go hog-wild. At his present rate, we'll find toothpicks on the table next week, salad forks the week after that, finger bowls before November.

This will go on indefinitely until his brain is completely destroyed by this madness. Then he'll start planning to surprise us with waitresses dressed in field-artillery red.

When this happens, I shall try to volunteer for the parachute troops. No matter how homey they make the Service Clubs, no matter how carefully they plan the movie programs, no matter how hard they work on athletic schedules, they'll never be able to compete with a soldier's favorite evening recreationsitting on the back steps, shooting the breeze.

Listening Posts

By Jerome Beattie

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with The American Magazine.)

Uncle Sam, the smart old snooper, notebook in hand, listens today at keyholes all over the world, and what he hears is amusing, gratifying, infuriating-and likewise very helpful in outguessing the enemy. He picks up the gossip in more than 25 languages, from Arabic to Urdu, but mostly in English, German, and Japanese. It's all done through radio listening posts that pick up what the wild waves are saying.

Uncle Sam hears more than 1,500,-000 words a day-what our enemies are saying to Americans in the United States, in the South Pacific, India, China, and the Mediterranean countries.

He picks up the lies they tell to South Americans, Hindus, Arabs, Russians, French, South African natives-to everybody, everywhere.

He hears their official communiques, and, from his own military knowledge, separates the truth from the falsehoods. He listens in, too, on neutrals and semi-neutrals-and even on his friends, for he wants to keep up with what the British, Russian, Chinese and Latin Americans are talking about.

Sixty Enemy Stations.

In the Bible Job cries: "My desire is that mine adversary had written a book." A radio station operated by somebody you'd like to destroy is even more to be desired than a book, and our adversaries, spouting almost constantly over about 60 of them, are unwittingly exposing to our expert analysts facts that help us block the enemy's punches and hit him where it hurts the most.

When you enter the offices of the Foreign Broadcast Intelligence service of the Federal Communications commission, in an old apartment house on K street in Washington, it's as if you were in the headquarters of a great news service. In booths sit the translators, wearing earphones, typing summaries of radio programs. Beside them, recording machines absorb every word.

This mass of material may include a speech by Goebbels, German claims of submarine sinkings, attacks on American Jews, a Japanese program to Americans in the South Pacific playing recordings of Old Black Joe and My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean (supposed to make the marines so homesick they won't fight any more), or German military orders regarding the distribution of Thirty editors select about 50,000 words a day and wire them to the offices of President Roosevelt, to the top generals and admirals, to the Office of War Information, which relays items to newspapers, and to other departments.

Chart Trends in Lies.

An expert staff charts Axis propaganda as a Wall Street chart maker handles corporation reports. Experience shows that when Germans and Japanese tell certain lies, certain things are happening, and when a line of argument suddenly changes, that's a clue for pretty sound deductions.

When the Germans brag about what they are going to do, if they really believe they'll be successful they'll make the announcement officially in a government statement. If they doubt that they can make good, the statement is more apt to be attributed to some outside source.

One analyst told me: "When Frederick the Great shows up in a German broadcast, we suspect things are going badly. The Nazis frequently of late have reminded their people of Frederick, who fought against almost the entire continent of Europe for seven years, who at times appeared to be hopelessly beaten, but who emerged victorious.

"From the careful language of some German communiques we can tell that they are losing the battles that, according to these communiques, are glorious victories. As long as they mention fighting in specific cities, we can assume that they feel confident in their strength. When they're losing they are 'shortening the front,' 'retreating to inner lines,' 'using an elastic defense,' and instead of mentioning cities they say the fighting is 'in the vicinity of so-and-so' or 'in the so-and-so sector.' "

When the Japanese lose, they often keep quiet for days, and then burst out with a lie that is so monstrous it is comic.

Early in the war they announced that New York had been bombed twice, and boasted that "The American navy is resting on the bottom of the Pacific and the Allied forces are irrevocably split, so that co-ordination among them is impossible."

Lately Admiral Koga claims to have sunk 96 American warships. Our naval headquarters says there have been no important engagements for months.
