Iosco Herefords Get Honors in 4-H Show

A recent article prepared by Bert Stoll, correspondent for the Bay City Times, appeared in many of the Northern Michigan papers and pointed out that Northeastern Michigan has developed greatly during the past few years as a center of Hereford cattle producing which will stand second to none for many years to come.

During these days of war time beef shortage herds of rugged Hereford cattle are continuing to develop in this Northeastern Michigan area where native grass lands provide some of the most nutritious grasses that are produced anywhere in the country.

New enthusiasm in beef cattle production in this area began some three years ago when less than a dozen interested cattle men assembled at the Holland Hotel in East Tawas for an evening dinner together and discussed the possibility of formulating a cattle breeders organization which is today known as the Northeastern Michigan Hereford Calf Association.

This association is comprised of a five county area, including Iosco, Arenac, Ogemaw, Alcona and Os. counties, and today boast of some five or six thousand head of Hereford cattle owned by members of the organization.

Approximately one year ago some sixty high quality Hereford calves from this area went into the hands of 4-H club boys in Huron, Tuscola, Bay and Calhoun counties and at the Annual Junior Livestock Show which was recently held in Detroit these Northeastern Michigan Hereford calves made history which will stand for many years to come. Jack Rogers of Bad Axe led his deep bodied, thick fleshed steer to second place in a class of one hundred seven well fitted Hereford calves. Jack's calf was closely followed by sixteen other Northeastern Michigan calves. This Bad Axe fitted calf which originated on the C. T. Prescott Ranch in Ogemaw county stood second to a pure bred Hereford calf that was fed by a 4-H club boy from Romeo in Macomb county. Standing next to this individual was a high quality commercial bred calf which originated on the James P. Mielock farm in Alabaster township, and was shown by its owner, Lee Wyman, of Athens in Calhoun county. Immediately below the Wyman calf stood a beautiful Hereford calf from Romeo in Macomb county.

WINS FROM EAST TAWAS, ST. BERNARD

Whittemore Plays Here Next Wednesday Evening

Tawas City High School teams won two games out of three at the East Tawas gymnasium Friday evening, January 7.

The undefeated Tawas City reserves kept up their winning ways by trouncing the East Tawas reserves 17 to 6. The game was a one-sided affair, and East Tawas made but one field goal. Clare Herriman set the scoring pace for the Tawas City quint by dropping five field goals through the hoop.

The Tawas City girls lost to the East Tawas girls to the East Tawas girls 14-21. Rhea Vaughn, East Tawas forward, collected a total of 13 points for her team. Donna Moore and Patricia Moore collected 10 and 10 points each as high point collectors for Tawas City.

The Tawas City girls are confident that they can defeat the East Tawas girls in their return game here January 21.

Tawas City Varsity won by the score of 17 to 11. This game was a nip-and-tuck affair until the last quarter when the Tawas City boys edged ahead to a fairly safe margin.

The game was rather rough, but this was partly excusable because of the small floor and the speed of the game. Tawas City committed a total of 11 fouls, one of them a technical, and East Tawas committed 14, three of them technical.

Willard Musolf led the Tawas City attack by pumping in 4 field goals and two free throws for a total of 10 points.

The Tawas City varsity players are to be complemented for their performance.

The following letter was received from Mrs. Annette Svoke and the East Tawas Girl Scouts from Lieut. Dorothea Arnold, somewhere in Italy:

December 26, 1943
Dear Annette and Girl Scouts:

Here I am in Italy, and I enjoyed the lovely gifts you and the Scouts sent me. We are very busy in our hospital. It is still in the process of repair and we are 300 per cent over capacity, so you see I have plenty to do.

I like Italy much better than Iran, North Africa, and it seemed good to celebrate Christmas in a Christian land, even though it was under the shadow of gun fire.

So far we have been very fortunate, safe crossing the Atlantic and the Mediterranean, and all safe from the air raid's. So we are grateful. Right now is the rainy season, so we have plenty of mud, but we are able to buy peanuts and oranges, and walnuts. Write when you can.

Dorothea Arnold.

Pfc. Richard E. Trainor graduated from the Special Service and Maintenance Course at the Bell Aircraft Corp., Niagara Falls, N. Y., and enroute to Fresno, California, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Trainor, for a few days.

20 Carloads of Pulpwood Cut In December

Paul Harvey Catches Big Cat

The biggest bob cat he ever saw, was the way Paul Harvey, trapper, of Sherman township, told of a recent catch. He had had it mounted, and said it looked more like a mountain lion than a Michigan bob cat. Harvey has trapped 168 skunks in the Tawas this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey had the misfortune of having their home entirely destroyed by fire around five o'clock last Sunday morning. The fire is thought to have been caused by an overheated stove. Mrs. Harvey and their youngest son, the only ones at home, escaped in their night clothing, but were unable to save anything. The home and contents were valued at $8,000 or $9,000. The home will be rebuilt in the spring if war conditions allow it.

NATION NEEDS WOOD PRODUCTS

Iosco Forest Lands Will Contribute in War Effort

Iosco county's contribution to an important war effort during December was 20 carloads of pulpwood, according to figures gathered by Frank J. Wilkusi, Iosco county farm forester. With the reduced activity on the farms, production of wood products will reach a maximum for the next three months.

Farm Forester Wilkusi reports that jackpine is worth $11.50 per cord, loaded in the cars; poplar, $10.00 per cord, 55 inch, loaded in cars; spruce $15.00 per cord; balsam $13.00 per cord.

The lumber and pulpwood shortage has reached a critical stage. The nations shelves are empty. All lumber and pulpwood used in 1944 must be produced in 1944.

When you stop to think that wood is now our most critical raw material, and that almost half of all wood produced in the country goes into crating, the vital importance of our job becomes very striking. The bomber and fighter pilots over Germany and Japan, the marines, sailors and soldiers on all fighting fronts are more dependent than we realize upon an adequate supply of forest products. Every fighting man needs 600 board feet of lumber to keep him in action.

This is the time of year when we can render the greatest service. The

Potratz-Wice

Miss Viola Potratz, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. E. O. Potratz of Kearney, Nebraska, and Clinton Wice of Whittemore were united in marriage on December 25 at the Zion Lutheran Church of Kearney, where the bride's father has been pastor for the past 14 years.

The bride was attired in a rose colored dress of spun rayon. The bridesmaid was attired in a blue rayon dress. Both wore corsages of variegated roses. The attendants were S-Sgt. Paul W. Potratz, brother of the bride, who was home on furlough, and Miss Elsie Mueller, a friend of the bride.

Rev. Potratz performed the ceremony. The pastor addressed the couple on the words, "Whatever He Saith Unto You, Do It." Miss Mueller then sang "Oh, Bless the Home, What'er Befall."

The young couple returned to Whittemore where they will make their home. The bride is quite well known here having taught in the high school last year. The groom, who is the son of Mrs. Hattie Wice, has lived at Whittemore the most of his life, and is a young man of sterling character and is held in high esteem by his many friends, has a large circle of friends who unite in wishing them a long and happy wedded life.

IMPLEMENT CARE SHOW AT HALE, JAN. 20

Fred Holzheuer Will Give Free Moving Pictures And Lunch

"Food Fights for Freedom" is the keynote of the John Deere Service Show to be presented at the Community Building at Hale at one o'clock Thursday afternoon, January 20, by Fred Holzheuer, John Deere dealer at Hale.

"Every farmer in the community will get worthwhile information from this talking picture program," says Mr. Holzheuer. "It is a wartime show with emphasis on greater food production through better operation, care and repair of farm equipment. Regardless of the make of equipment a farmer owns, he will get valuable pointers on how to get better service and longer life from his equipment."

Featured will be "Wartime Care of Your Tractor," "More Grain in the Grain Tank," "The Clean Cut" and a stirring new record "America at War."

Admission free. Lunch will be served after the show. Everyone invited.

FOR SALE—Late '36 Pontiac Sedan, Elmer Scholtz, 118 1/2 Bridge St., East Tawas. Fair tires.

Cream Subsidy Payments

A recent announcement from the State AAA Office states that the milk subsidy payment will be continued through the month of January. Farmers should save sales slips for whole milk and cream sold in January 1944.

Payments being made at the AAA office this month for milk and cream sold during November and December. Those who did not receive their October payment may also include their sales slips for payment at this time.

There will be member of the county committee at the Whittemore School on Wednesday, January 18, and at the Hale School on Thursday, January 19, to make payments to those who cannot come to the county AAA office at Tawas City.

Farmers may also mail sales slips to the office for payment. An application will be mailed for him to sign and when returned the check will be sent immediately.

The Knockout Blow

Ralph C. Clute

Ralph Guy Clute was born January 1, 1876, and passed away on January 9, 1944, at the age of 68 years and eight days. Born in Tawas, he lived there and in Wilber township until 1925. He worked as lumberman, farmer and thresherman.

In 1924 his wife, Bessie Wade Clute, preceded him in death, and in 1931 his son, Gerald.

In 1925 he moved the remaining family to Flint where he resided until his death. In 1942 illness overtook him, and he was taken to the Genesee County Hospital.

He leaves to mourn his loss, his children, Mrs. Arthur Allen of Tawas City, Mrs. Oscar Erickson of Lansing, Mrs. Ralph Warren, Mrs. Eugene Beane, Mrs. Frank Dugostino, and one son, Clifford, all of Flint; and two brothers and one sister, namely, Merton Clute of Flint, Walon Clute of Jackson and Mrs. John Syme of Detroit; 18 grandchildren, one great grandchild and a host of friends.

Funeral services were held at Tawas City from the home of his daughter, Mrs. Arthur Allen, on Tuesday afternoon. Rev. M. A. Sommerfield officiated. Burial was in the Tawas City cemetery.

20th Century Club

The Twentieth Century Club will hold their Winter Picnic next Wednesday evening at the Baptist church dining rooms. Pot luck supper will be served promptly at 6 o'clock and a short program has been prepared. Everyone is requested to bring their own table service.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all those who have shown their kindness and sympathy during our recent bereavement, for the beautiful floral offerings, for the cars, also M. A. Sommerfield for his comforting words, and likewise the singers, pall bearers and the pianist.

The Clute Family.

Ladies Literary Club

Mrs. C. A. Pinkerton was hostess to the Ladies Literary Club Wednesday afternoon. About 25 members were present to enjoy an interesting paper, "Islands of the Pacific," given by Mrs. R. G. Schreck. Individual maps were provided for each member which were followed with interest.

The club members plan to hold their anniversary meeting—a one'clock luncheon at the Barnes Hotel of Wednesday, January 26. Reservations may be made by calling R. H. McKenzie, Mrs. John or Mrs. W. A. DeGrow before Friday 24.

Coffee was served by the hostess.

Hale O. E. S.

Hale Chapter, O. E. S., held their meeting last Wednesday evening, and in spite of so much flu, it was well attended with only one new officer absent.

We celebrated our birthdays anniversaries for January with M and Mrs. Albert Humphrey, being only ones present with an anniversary. Our next meeting will special called for January next regular will be held on Wednesday in February.

WANTED BY February 1—Man and wife for Dairy Farm. Good opening for industrious people. Apply at Fifth Avenue farm, Tawas City. G. A. Prescott, Jr. and Son.

Local Sport Fans Have Very Satisfying Week

While the Tawas City High school varsity and reserve teams were dampening the spirits of the basketball fans of our sister city last Friday evening Orville Wescott and Dick Prescott were winning a doubles match from Scotty Schuman and Art Bartlett on the East Tawas Recreation alleys. There were no startling scores bowled, but the Tawas City pair managed to topple 1693 pins while the team representing the East Tawas Recreation were able to disturb 1659 in a five match game.

The previous Tuesday C. A. Archambeau had won from Dutch Staudacher in their last block of a twenty-game series bettering Dutch's mark by 91 pins and winning each of the four blocks by a few pins.

Altogether it was a very satisfying week for Tawas City sport fans.

Arthur Povish Buys Alfred Siems Farm

Arthur Povish, formerly of this place, now living in Detroit, has purchased the Alfred Siems farm on the Hemlock road. The sale was completed last week. This property is one of Iosco county's good farms, and has been owned by Mr. Siems since 1913. Mr. Siems will go to Illinois.

Fun for the Whole Family

BASEBALL'S honor and glory, belonged to the pitchers in 1943—it was their greatest season since the first World War days of 1918.

Official averages for the year proved that American league hurlers dominated the competitive picture. With dozens of heavy hitters in the armed services, the strong arm boys had a succession of field days.

Twenty-nine pitchers held opposing teams to fewer than three earned runs per game, and that hasn't happened since 1918 when 33 pitchers had that distinction. Last year the total was 20 and the year before only 7 pitchers were included in the list.

Not only was Spurgeon Chandler's 1.64 the lowest earned-run average in the American league since Walter Johnson's brilliant 1.49 performance in 1919, but the Yankee hurler also led in the won-and-lost division, posting 20 victories against 4 defeats.

Effective Staff

The staff of the Yankees was by far the most effective in the league, with Chandler and Ernie Bonham running one-two among the circuit's starting pitchers. The champions compiled a collective earned-run average of 2.93. Bonham averaged 2.27.

Chandler is the thirteenth pitcher to lead the league in both departments. The only 2 clubs that beat him were Cleveland and Washington and each team beat him twice. He had a winning streak of 7 games, was in 30 games, pitched 252 innings (a total topped by only 3 pitchers), pitched to 918 batters, allowed 197 hits and 62 runs, of which 46 were earned. He struck out 134 batters and made 3 wild pitches.

Detroit placed second to the Yankees with an average of three earned runs per game. Paul ("Dizzy") Trout, Tiger moundman, was the only other 20-game winner of the league. He rang up No. 20 on the last day of the campaign, losing only 12 games for a second division team. His earned-run rating was 2.48.

The Cleveland Indians' 3.15 gave them third place and their stingiest pitcher was Vern Kennedy, who allowed only 2.45 earned runs per game while winning 10 and losing 7.

'Pitcher's Year'

Although it was a "pitcher's year," only two American league pitchers, Chandler and Tex Hughson of Boston, pitched as many as 20 complete games during the season. Three other pitchers, Trout, Orval Grove of Chicago and Charlie Wensloff of New York, worked 18 complete games. Bonham pitched 17, Jim Bagby of Cleveland pitched 16 and Luman Harris of Philadelphia and Emil Leonard of Washington each pitched 15.

Two of the league's "mosts" were contributed by Cleveland Indians. Jim Bagby pitched the most innings, 273, and Allie Reynolds got the most strikeouts, 151. Reynolds' record was especially remarkable in that he pitched only 199 innings, as compared with 252 for Chandler, who was third in the knockout department.

Last in the earned-run records of pitchers who worked 45 innings or more was Al Milnar, former Indian who finished the season with the St. Louis Browns. He gave up 7.33 earned runs per 9 innings. Bobo Newsom allowed 5.87.

The longest winning streak was run up by Orval Grove of the White Sox, who won 9 in a row. The longest losing streak was that of Luman Harris of the A's, who dropped 13 straight. Harris lost the most games for the season, too, being beaten 21 times.

ON THE HOME FRONT

with RUTH WYETH SPEARS

WHEN you have made one rag rug you will find yourself a member of an enthusiastic clan; counting the days until you fall heir to a dress of a particular color that fits into the design that is developing under your fingers.

The sketch gives all the directions you will need to copy this fascinating braided rag rug with a flower medallion in the center. Or you may make two of the medallions, sew them together and add a braided handle for a knitting bag. Braid the fabric strips tightly and keep the work flat while you sew the circles for the roses and the loops for leaves; then sew them together. Use carpet thread double for this and for sewing the braided rows around the edge of the rug.

NOTE—This rug design is from BOOK 3 which contains 31 other things to make from scraps of fabric and other odds and ends. Price of book is 15 cents. Address:

mals that produce 15 pelts each minute of the day and night.
Origin of 'Vaudeville'
The word "vaudeville" is derived from the gay French songs called
"Voix-de-Ville"—voices of the city —which originated in Normandy, in the valley of the Vire (Vaux de Vire).

Aid to Enemy
"Any American who willfully neglects to pay his taxes on time or to invest every cent he can in War Bonds is surely giving aid and comfort to the enemy. . . . We have a job to do and we are all called for service to our country. Our dollars are called to service too. Let us all ask ourselves,
'Shall we be more tender with our dollars than with the lives of our sons?'" — Secretary Morgenthau.

To the People of this Community
THINK IT OVER
How about doing a little cold turkey thinking about you lay aside this newspaper tonight?
You've got a good job. The chances are there is someone else in your family, perhaps two or three, working. Your son or your brother—may be away at war. This war must end sometime. Your whole family, your neighbors, are praying it ends soon and the fighting boys of yours will come home safely.
But will you be ready for whatever happens when peace comes?
Will you have something laid away?
We're all hoping there'll be jobs aplenty, jobs which mean making something for somebody's happiness and not for somebody's sorrow. That's where your War Bonds come into the picture. Sure, Americans own billions of dollars of War
Bonds now; and before the 4th War Loan ends they will have put away billions more. But how about you?
You're the one that counts. The bigger the pile of War Bonds you have when peace comes, the bigger chance you'll have to slip right into the post-war world you're dreaming about tonight.
So "Let's All Back the Attack."

Word Panorama Of 5th Army's Drive on Naples

Washington, D. C.
LITTLE PIGS GO TO MARKET
Agriculture officials are staring with bulging eyes at the telegrams received from the livestock markets. The number of hogs killed in a single day has passed the figure of 300,000, and is still going up. November has already set an all-time record in hog slaughter of 6,900,000 (federally inspected). December will go still higher. Cattle slaughter also set a record in November, but is now tapering off. Not so with hogs.

Nothing like this has ever happened in the history of the world. Nature, plus a low ceiling price on corn and the delay in putting a ceiling price on hogs, is now scattering pork all over the landscape. This will continue through January, February, and into the month of March. In spite of the pork flood, however, there is no surplus, and officials insist that there must be no "holiday" from rationing. OPA and War Food administration agree on this. They have had many differences in the past, but they stand together on the matter of red points.

Fact is, they have debated removing pork from rationing, but ran into so much prospective grief that they gave it up. For if housewives could buy pork without stamps, they would use their stamps for beef and butter, which are still short. Or if OPA tied the points to the product, making separate stamps for pork, others for beef, and others for butter, etc., there would be outbreaks from different groups, such as Jewish people, who ban pork.

Conclusion is that the ration books must be left alone, and the only way to solve the bounty problem is to make federal purchases heavier and move them more rapidly. Army purchases of beef were extremely heavy in the beef months of September through November. Today, Lend Lease purchases of pork are growing heavy and will hold up through the "hog run" now flooding the market.

But this does not always take the meat out of storage. Lend Lease shipments to Russia can be made only when Russia is ready to eat the pork, since they have no storage space. Britain, on the other hand, can store pork, and is taking shipments faster than the rate of use.

With livestock production high, and submarine sinkings low, more beef and pork are getting to Allied fighting forces overseas than ever before. MORE STRIKES AHEAD
There are a lot more strikes in the country than the public is aware of. The government has abandoned the policy of regular announcements of the number of strikes and the number of man-hours lost. Thus the strikes do not get into the newspapers.

But here are some figures which reveal that the no-strike pledge of labor organizations is not very effective. In November alone, there were 120 strikes. The December figure will be only slightly lower. In the week before Christmas, 91,000 man-days were lost in plants engaged in war production. Two days before Christmas, 21,000 people were out on strike, and a number of critical items were behind schedule.

Some of the strikes have no relation to wages. Take for example the strike which Washington officials refer to as "the Baltimore backhouse strike." The Western Electric plants at Baltimore are producing such highly important items as marine cables and radar wire. But white workers went on strike because white and colored workers did not have separate toilet facilities. The war department was obliged to step in last week and take over the plants—solely because of toilet trouble. Workers began coming back slowly, but four days after the plants were taken over, over half the workers were still out.

Unfortunately, there is every probability that strikes will increase, rather than decrease in the future. Next in line demanding wage increases will be aircraft, steel and shipyard workers. John L. Lewis' victory over the mine line, has stimulated demands for increases in many industries.

After the President yielded to Lewis, George Harrison, railroad brotherhoods chief, visited the White House and said: "For Gawd's sake, you give it to your enemies, why not to your friends?"
MERRY-GO-ROUND
President Rios of Chile recently told newsmen he expected to visit the United States. This plan is now set aside, due to the grave situation in Argentina and Bolivia.
The Germans now make mines of plastic, which cannot be located by magnetic detectors. They are reported to have sowed a dense minefield along the coast of France to head off the second front.

WITH U. S. FIFTH ARMY IN ITALY.—If you could have seen the road to Naples, you could have had striking, visible evidence of the insatiable appetite of war.

Here, on one tiny segment of the world battle fronts, the army service forces were moving up equipment and supplies in such breath-taking quantity as must have eaten up the entire war production capacity of the nation for weeks.

The road for 50 miles was jammed with the vehicles and supplies needed to keep the Nazis on the run. The procession had been moving like this for two days and nights, and yet it represented only a part of the material needed for this one military operation. There were trucks, bulldozers, cranes, troop carriers, concrete mixers, rations and drinking water for the soldiers, timber and steel for the engineers.

There wasn't a single heavy weapon, tank or truck load of ammunition. These were going forward in another unending line to the east because one broad highway couldn't carry it all.

Developed by Army Service Forces.
The moving up of such vast stores for an initial invasion, and for keeping an invading army on the march, has been developed by the army service forces to a point where it has changed the face of modern warfare.

The invasion of Italy, in which every soldier and every machine had to be landed on beaches without benefit of a single dock or pier, was in itself made possible by the invention of amphibious devices that made a single highway out of land and sea. The tanks and guns roll ashore across ramps of shallow-draft vessels that run up on the beach, discharge the cargoes of scores of fully loaded combat and supply vehicles within the space of less than an hour, pull themselves back into the water without assistance, and put out to sea so that another waiting cargo vessel can follow immediately and discharge its cargo.

Similar craft drive up to the beaches to let fully equipped combat soldiers walk ashore.

Wonder-Craft Ducks.
Then there are the Ducks (Dukvs), the wonder-craft of this war, which are boats in the water and trucks on land. They drive off the landing ramps of the ships at sea, navigate into shore and, without so much as a pause, come rolling up out of the water on their huge truck wheels and drive off to take their cargoes to the combat units at the front, or to discharge them into the storage dumps for later use.

These great amphibians, in teams of two, bring 105-mm. guns ashore with abundant spare ammunition, and land them in firing position within minutes after coming out of the water. Their ability to do this is credited by many troop commanders in the Italian invasion with incalculable savings of lives of our men. They put enemy machine gun nests out of action before the enemy knew what was happening.

Let Soldiers Help Plan Peace,' Says Vet Chief

PITTSBURGH, PA.—Those who are doing the fighting in this war should be given the chance to help formulate the peace terms, according to Carl J. Schoeninger, Detroit, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

"As veterans, and as fathers of boys who are serving with the armed forces today, we say that those who are doing the fighting in this war should have a voice at the peace tables," declared Schoeninger recently. "In our opinion, any group which represents the United States at the peace conferences should include at least one commissioned officer and one enlisted man—men who have survived actual combat service—men who have seen their comrades give their lives so that Americans might be able to live in peace and security."

"We also think it is perfectly logical that this peace delegation should include representatives of veteran organizations like our own. Who has made a greater investment in the future of America than the man who served in the AEF in 1917-18—and who today is giving his sons to our country's cause?"

The FVW leader also challenged the popular assertion that the first World war was fought in vain and that the sacrifices of the nation's honored dead were without purpose. "We veterans recognize the value of those sacrifices in the wonderful loyalty of the young men who are defending our country in this war," Schoeninger announced.

AMERICA IN ACTION

THE M-1937 ARMY FIELD RANGE

The army's mobile kitchen, the M-1937 field range, is the best mechanism of its type in the world. Our Allies have clearly indicated a marked preference for it, and it is the envy of our enemies.

Years of careful research, experimentation and development at the Jeffersonville Quartermaster depot preceded the acceptance by the army of the M-1937 as the "rolling kitchen" to be used by our forces. It has accompanied our troops to the theaters of operations.

The problem of preparing tasty, edible and well-balanced menus when an army becomes mobile, when it is on the move, when it is distant from its headquarters has been the bane of the existence of quartermasters in the past. It may be comparatively simple to cook, roast, fry and bake basic foods into savory dishes in the permanent quarters of a unit at its post, but serious difficulties present themselves when a force is being transported and when it is in the field of action. The subject was of serious concern during the last war.

There were two glaring defects in the mobile ranges used during World War I: their mobility and the fuel they consumed. The rolling kitchens of that period were wood burning units, heavy, clumsy and mounted on their own wheels. They functioned with a comparative degree of efficiency on short marches, but when considerable distance was covered, there was always the possibility of the wheels coming off, or being damaged, and the mobility disappearing.

Under the supervision of Mr. Styles T. Howard, senior mechanical engineer of the Jeffersonville depot, with a background of 31 years of experience, a model gasoline burning field range was constructed in 1935. This range, constructed by hand in the Jeffersonville experimental shop, though too heavy and cumbersome, was a great advancement, and proved to be the predecessor of the present stove. Further experimentation continued, and the present model emerged in the latter part of 1936. It was perfected in 1937, and officially christened the Gasoline Field Range, Model of 1937. Choosing Right Breed Of Rabbits Important Market Demand Should Govern Selection

Every farmer who wishes to raise rabbits should become familiar with market demands in order to select a breed that will find a ready sale, says a U. of California publication, "Rabbit Raising," by H. M. Butterfield and W. E. Lloyd. Some rabbits will satisfy the market demands better than others. For example, a market that prefers a small fryer rabbit weighing from 1 1/2 to 2 pounds dressed or 3 to 4 1/2 pounds live weight will justify the producer in considering a breed that develops early and soon reaches a marketable condition with a low feed cost. Breeds that are slow to develop or that do not fill out well when young are better suited for markets using large meat rabbits weighing five pounds or more.

Only a few breeders cater to a fur market and sell the meat from rabbits producing the fur for whatever it will bring. The meat from a six-month-old fur rabbit will usually weigh four or five pounds or more; it is important to find a market that is willing to take dressed rabbits of this size. Such meat is usually low in price, five to nine cents a pound live weight being a fair range in list price.

The production of breeding stock calls for a wise choice from the many breeds now available. The newer breeds usually sell for more than the old established breeds, and the beginner should anticipate a drop in prices for some of the present high-priced new breeds. Nearly always the final choice will rest on the value of the animals for meat and fur. A new breed may possess excellent fur qualities and yet have no value on the fur market because the pelts are not available in sufficient numbers for matching.

Breeds for the Beginner.
Most rabbit raisers find it best to start with but one breed. The characteristics and requirements of one breed are far easier to learn than those of several. As skill is acquired and markets are developed, the producer may then find it profitable to cater to several kinds of demand.

Certain breeds have become popular because they have returned a profit and have had the approval of buyers. For example, the New Zealand Red or New Zealand White and the Flemish Giants are very popular for supplying the market demand for high-quality meat. Among the fur rabbits the Chinchilla, the American White, the New Zealand White, the White Flemish Giant, the Havana, the Lilac, the Castor Rex and its crosses, and certain blue and silver breeds have been very popular for fur and have considerable meat value. All these breeds are produced in quantity so that stock is easily purchased and the market demand is kept up by a regular supply. Some of the newer breeds might be more popular if they could be secured in larger quantities and at smaller expense. The introduction of a little-known breed is not always a paying undertaking.

Selection of Individuals.

- Some general characteristics which should affect the choice of breeding rabbits, regardless of the breed or variety are:
1. Ability to maintain health and vigor under commercial conditions; not unduly susceptible to disease.
 2. Meat white, fine-grained, firm, and delicately flavored, in the case of meat rabbits.
 3. Dressing percentage high, with a large percentage of the best meat cuts (saddle); body compact, meaty, with fine bone for the meat trade.
 4. Ability to thrive on inexpensive feed.
 5. Market weights and desirable plumpness reached at an early age.
 6. Value sufficient to leave a profit for the producer under existing conditions.
 7. Ability to reproduce true to color and type.
 8. A good breeder the year around.
 9. Females good mothers, able to bear and rear large litters.
- Utility vs. Fancy Stock.
The first concern of the breeder should be with utility rather than with fancy stock. Rabbit breeders have too frequently wasted much time on unimportant characteristics. Leg bars, black toenails, and nose or ear markings have little effect on the utility value of any rabbit, though such markings may sometimes be correlated with certain desirable colors in the pelt. Ultimately the popularity of a breed will largely depend on its utility value.

Japan's Resources

By Max Hill
(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with The American Magazine.)

We hear a lot about Hitler's Fortress of Europe, but seldom about Japan's larger, and vastly richer, Fortress of Asia. Yet, if you could shuffle the lands of the earth around as you do pieces of a jigsaw puzzle, you would find that Hitler's empire could be tucked away in far less than half of the area that Japan now rules.

Emperor Hirohito's domain is larger than continental United States, and he has more than he can use of many vital war materials which are so scarce here that our scientists are on day and night shifts trying to find practical substitutes. It is the richest natural area in the world, and its resources transformed Japan overnight from a poor relation among the world powers into an empire that spreads from the cold of the northern Pacific to the tropical heat of the Indian ocean below the equator. And a determined enemy is welding this conquered region into a war machine that, given time, will dwarf the military might of the other end of the Axis has at its command.

The areas which Japan either captured or just walked into and took over, amount to some 3,100,000 square miles and contain fabulous quantities of war materials. All of it was taken in the first few months of the war, and since that time we have been able to recapture not much more than 20,000 square miles.

Germany does have one important advantage over her Pacific ally: She is looting a continent which already was industrial; Japan's conquests, for the most part, were in an area predominantly agricultural and primitive. Japan must fight a war steadily growing more serious for her, and at the same time build the war plants to handle the plenty that is there for the taking. She is somewhat like the burglar trying to tote off more than he can carry.

Plenty of Oil.
As to resources, let's take oil first, as one of Japan's most necessary raw materials. Before the war, Japan stored up millions of gallons of the oil she bought from us and from the Netherlands East Indies. Then she struck, and you may be sure she didn't start out empty-handed. Tokyo's radio boasts that she now has approximately 70 per cent of the Indies oil wells back in production.

The Indies produce less than one twenty-fifth of the oil flowing from American wells, about 2,500,000 gallons each year. But Burma has oil wells, too, and I am told by sources I know are reliable that the Japanese program for this year is to store 42,000,000 gallons of oil, just put it away for the future. Even so, they are at work at home, taking 3,500,000 barrels of oil each year from the Manchukuo shale fields, extracting oil from coal, experimenting with oil from sardines for glycerine, and with oil from soy beans, boiling pine-tree stumps for another type of oil, and—most important of all—building synthetic oil plants.

The synthetic plants, which are scattered throughout the empire, are the big question mark in Japan's oil production. Some of them use German patents; others a process invented by the Japanese themselves. We have never been able to locate all of them or find out how much they are producing.
Rubber, Tin and Quinine.
Oil is only the beginning of the riches of the Indies. This great region also produces one-third of the world's natural rubber; one-fifth of the tin; 90 per cent of the quinine, so valuable in tropical fighting; and extensive deposits of nickel, bauxite (from which aluminum is made), manganese, gold, and silver.

But Japan can put all of these riches in a side pocket and forget them, with the exception of the nickel on the island of Celebes, and look with greedy eyes on the rest of the conquered area. Including the Indies, this empire produces 98.8 per cent of the world's natural rubber and 80 per cent of the world's tin. Two million tons of ore high in iron content are dug out of the Malaya mines each year, and the Japanese are now supposed to be busy on a plant to smelt this ore near Singapore.

We read frequently of the difficulties Japan has with her shipping, but you never hear any mention of the American tonnage it takes to bring tin from Bolivia, halfway down the west coast of South America, and inland, a much longer haul than the Japanese have.
The enemy has 80 per cent of the world's tin; we have about 15 per cent, which is what Bolivia produces, and by agreement we have to split most of that with England. Do you wonder, now, at the almost desperate pleas of the government that we save our used tin cans?

Here Are Measurements Of Average Inductees

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—According to Philadelphia Quartermaster depot, largest organization of its kind in the world, the average American doughboy is 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighs 144 pounds, has a chest measurement of 33 1/2 inches, a 31-inch waistline, wears a 9 1/2 shoe, and a size 7 hat. However, after a few months of army chow, all measurements except the waist and hat expand.

Eisenhower, supreme commander of Allied invasion armies; Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, deputy to Eisenhower; Lieut. Gen. Carl Spaatz, chief of all the American strategic air forces that will hit Germany from west and south; and Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, chief of the British land armies. Appointment of Tedder as Eisenhower's deputy indicated that air power was to be a major weapon in the battle to crush the fortress of Europe. Eisenhower, who had never before made a prediction in 13 months of warfare, announced as he left Algiers to assume his new post that "we will win the European war in 1944."

BREAKING DOWN OUR NATIONAL DEBT

IN WASHINGTON we are given astronomical figures which, we are told, represent the government debt. That is what you and I, and all the men, women and children in America collectively, owe. No one, not excluding the secretary of the treasury, has any conception of the meaning of such a figure as $165,-046,629,657. It represents the government debt as of October 31, 1943.

While that is the story of what we, collectively, owe on that date, it is not until we break it down to what each individual or each family owes, and must pay, that we begin to realize what it means. What portion of that sum is charged against Dad, Mother, Johnny, Mary and the baby tells us the real, the individual, story. On that basis, and going back a few years for comparisons, gives us some interesting and startling facts.

On March 31, 1917, each one of us, as citizens, owed only $12.36. That was a mere nothing. For the whole family it amounted to only $61.00. No need to worry about it. Dad could pay out for Mother, Johnny, Mary, the baby and himself any time he was asked for the cash.

Then, a week later, we stepped into World War I and immediately began spending real folding money. By the time we were through with that war and the peace terms were decided upon, August 31, 1919, each of us owed, as our share of the government debt, $250.18, a total of $1,250.90 for the family. That was something to worry about and we began saving our pennies, nickels and dimes so it might be paid and not kept hanging over our heads. We reduced it gradually up to December 31, 1930. At that date we had it down to $129.66 for each individual, with a total of $648.30 for each family of five.

WE REALLY START SPENDING

It was at that time we began spending money like drunken sailors. We paid out vast sums for raking leaves, for building Chic Sales specialties, for teaching girls to tap dance, the girls and boys to write poetry and plays or paint pictures, to pay men for leaning on shovels, to produce movie shows and hundreds of other things that had never before been considered necessary. From that December 31, 1930, to November 30, 1941, we had again run ourselves into debt to the amount of $412.32 for each individual, $2,061.60 for the family. That was very, very serious. For many of us it was as much as the home was worth at a forced sale.

Then the Japs struck at Pearl Harbor and we could not save fast enough to meet the cost of war, with no possibility of reducing the debt we had incurred by our wild spending. By October 31, 1942, that indebtedness for each individual had jumped to $686.36, a total of $3,431.80 for the family.

The figures continued to climb and by October 31, 1943, each individual share of that national debt amounted to $1,203.71, and for the family the staggering sum of $6,018.55.

It is still increasing at a rate of about $50 a month for each of us, $250 for the family. By the time the Christmas bills must be paid it will be not less than $1,353.31 for the individual and $6,766.55 for the family.

In time it must, and will, be paid and each of us and each family will pay our share, directly or indirectly. You hold collateral covering some of that debt in the war bonds you bought. You expect them to be paid and they will be. The payments of the debt will extend over a long period of years. It is not only we grownups and Johnny, Mary and the baby who must pay but their children and grandchildren will fall heir to a part in that payment.

There will be no pennies, nickels, dimes or quarters for the piggy banks. They must, for many years to come, go toward paying the individual and the family share of that government debt.

IN THESE YEARS of high speed war production our national income is around 135 billions of dollars per year as against 90 billions as a maximum peacetime figure. If, when the war is over, we are to pay as we go we must pay more than 45 billion a year as taxes. Today such a figure represents about one-third of our income. Should that income drop again to peacetime proportions it would mean that one-half or more of all we take in would be paid out in taxes. Certainly it is time to economize.

"YOU CANNOT FOOL all of the people all of the time" but the imported phony lecturers, with a deep voice and an air of knowing it all, can do a considerable job in that direction, while honest home talent would not have an audience.

AT THE LAST PEACE CONFERENCE Russia sat on the side lines and her interests were not considered. At the next peace table Stalin will be the Clemenceau of 1919, and like Clemenceau Stalin is very much a realist.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for January 16

JESUS ANSWERS HIS CRITICS

LESSON TEXT—Mark 2:23-3:6. GOLDEN TEXT—Blessed are ye, when men shall revile you, and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake.—Matthew 5:11.

Criticism and opposition was the constant lot of our Lord as He gave Himself in His labor of love for mankind. It follows His disciples to this day, for men seem to have not only ingratitude, but an evil spirit which rewards kindness with hard words and unjust accusation.

The scribes and Pharisees had already found ground for their complaint, for He had eaten "with publicans and sinners" (2:16). The fact that He went there to win Matthew and to heal the sick (2:17) made no difference. Then they wanted to know why His disciples did not observe a fast (2:18) in the solemn way they should. How could they, when the Lord was in their midst? They were joyful.

In our lesson we find these hating, watching enemies of our Lord's showing their bitterness in two ways.

I. Open Accusation (2:23-28). They got at Him this time through His beloved disciples. It was the indirect approach so often used by cowardly people who want to hurt someone, but who dare not face him squarely. They spread evil reports or unkind criticism about a loved one, and thus wound the one they hate.

Their accusation was, however, in a sense a direct one. They claimed that He was the one who had permitted His disciples to violate the Sabbath law by plucking and rubbing the ears of corn to prepare them to be eaten. In other words, He had allowed them to do a secular thing on a sacred day and thus to violate the holiness of the Sabbath. What they did was not wrong, but they did it on the wrong day, said these critics.

Jesus met the charge by reaffirming the high viewpoint of God concerning man. We have lowered our conception of man's position, while at the same time exalting his undependable judgment.

Everything that concerns man is sacred in the sight of God. Hunger is natural, God made man that way. He gets hungry on the Sabbath day, so he must have food on that day. The Sabbath was made to serve him, and he must not be harmed or hindered by his servant.

Now, someone will say: "That means I can do what I like on the Sabbath—or the Lord's Day." No, it does not. What you need is right. What you desire may not be. You are more than an animal, so you must have more than physical rest and recreation on Sunday. You are more than a mental being, hence you need more than culture—reading, music or friendship on that day. You are a spiritual being and must have fellowship with God.

See how nicely it all balances up when we go God's way. Then nothing that concerns us is common or secular. It is all sacred.

II. Silent Hatred (3:1-6). Open criticism is bad, but it becomes worse when it is hidden in the heart of a watching man (v. 2), one who looks for his opportunity to strike.

The scene is a most dramatic one. Jesus came into the synagogue on the Sabbath day as was His custom. (By the way, is it your custom to go to church on Sunday?) "In that synagogue was a man with a withered hand. Here occurs one of those incidental things, which are so full of beauty in these narratives. Seeking to find accusation against Him, His enemies nevertheless all unconsciously paid Him a supreme compliment. They associated Him immediately, not with the chief seat of the synagogue, but with the most needy man in the crowd."

"They watched Him" (v. 2). The air was full of silent, malicious, cunning hatred. Jesus faced them with an alternative so high, so holy and exacting that they dared not speak. He pointed out that we either do good or harm, heal or kill, by our response to a human need. It cannot be ignored. What would they do with it? Keep their strict man-made regulations, or honor God by helping a needy one on the Sabbath? They dared not answer.

Then He healed the man. He did not touch him. He did not do any work, except a miraculous healing. But it was enough. The Herodians and the Pharisees, who hated each other, now became friends because they both hated Jesus.

What an awful picture of what may be in the human heart, even in the Lord's house on the day of worship. What was in your heart when you last went into the church? Love and a desire for the good of your neighbor, or hatred and malice?

Here again our Lord declared the dignity of man in the plan of God, and placed his need above the keeping of a day. We are too little interested in the help we can give, and too fearful of the criticism of others.

Even a Friend Might Not Appreciate Such Greeting

Several years ago George Ade was visiting London and, feeling lonesome, suddenly spotted a man he thought he knew back home. He rushed up eagerly and gave the fellow a resounding whack on the back, causing his glasses to fly off, his hat to sail into the air and his armload of bundles to fall into the street.

Then he discovered his mistake and apologized profusely to the stranger, explaining that he thought the man to be an old friend.

"Oh, that's quite all right, old chap," said the Englishman, "but—er—tell me, does your friend care for this sort of thing?"

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Low costs prevailing, post-war world consumption of natural and synthetic rubber may total 2,000,000 tons a year, is the prediction made recently by John L. Collyer, president of the B. F. Goodrich Co. This would be nearly twice as much as ever consumed in a record year to date.

Some 32 million pounds of rubber will be needed by the Army Signal Corps this year for insulating W-110-B wire used in maintaining direct communications. An additional 4 million pounds will be required for friction and splicing tape. Just two of the many rubber-using items of this Army branch.

ful dark red Hereford steer which originated a year ago on the Elmer J. Britt farm in Burleigh township, and was fed by Keith Woods of Mar, shall. Thirteen other calves which originated in herds owned by members of the Northeastern Michigan Hereford Calf association stood in the top half of the strongly contested 4-H club show.

Glenn Wakefield, pioneer worker and promoter of 4-H club work in Huron county is deserving of credit for supervising the feeding of the local grown calf which headed the group that originated in Northeastern Michigan. B. E. Henry, 4-H club agent in Calhoun county, supervised the feeding of the calves which 4-H club boys handled in that county.

The Northeastern Michigan Hereford Calf association is to be complimented upon the placing of these calves in good hands and for the selection of individuals which have written history for this natural pasture producing area of our state.

The above mentioned local individuals who produced these outstanding calves and other local cattlemen have contributed to the earmarking of this area as a prominent livestock producing section, not only through the sale of outstanding individuals, but for their foresight in selecting high quality purebred sires and female foundation stock which fit well into this roughage producing area of Michigan. It is hoped that the above mentioned organization may continue to prosper and that for years to come, outstanding feeder calves will be distributed throughout all sections of Michigan and portions of neighboring states.
