TAWAS CITY ELKS WIN FROM AUGRES

Varsity 49 to 14; Girls 38 to 9; Reserves 55 to 8

Last Friday night the Tawas City Elks gave the AuGres teams an all-around drubbing.

The varsity defeated AuGres varsity 49 to 14. High point man was W. Musolf, with 20 points. In the first quarter R. Landon made two field goals, Musolf made a field goal, and a foul shot, Hill made a field goal, D. Landon made a field goal, and a foul shot, Hill a field goal and a foul shot, R. Landon a foul shot. In the third, R. Landon made a field goal, Musolf made four field goals and a foul shot, Hill a field goal and a foul shot, Libka a field goal. In the last quarter R. Landon made two field goals, Ogden two field goals, Clark a field goal.

The girls' team followed up the attack by defeating the AuGres girls 38 to 9. Every forward on the Tawas Girls' team made at least two points or more. Donna Moore was high basketballer with 16 points, K. Westcott and A. Ogden each had 6 points, E. Ross and J. Montgomery 4 points apiece. Libka had 2 points.

The undefeated Reserves started the points going when they trampled over the AuGres team by the score of 55 to 8. Clare "Dog Shot" Herriman had the AuGres team guessing all time racking up 28 points. It was a one sided affair all through the game. The first quarter found Tawas leading AuGres 15 to 6, at the half Tawas City 34, AuGres 6, third quarter 48 to 6.

During the past 12 years she had spent much of her time at East Tawas. She had been ill for the past two weeks and cerebral hemorrhage was the cause of death.

Agnes Whitchurch was born February 16, 1857, at Tawas City, at that time an unincorporated settlement on Tawas Bay, established by Gideon O. Whittemore, three years previous. During that year, 1857, Isosco county was organized by an Act of the Legislature. When a small child her parents moved to Port Austin, where she resided until marriage to the late J. J. McKenzie, she moved to Alma where she resided for a number of years.

Surviving are two sons, D. A. McKenzie of Tampa, Florida, and M. D. McKenzie, of Detroit; two daughters, Mrs. Evans and Miss Ruby McKenzie, of Grand Rapids; a brother, Alvin Whitchurch, of Sebawaing; a sister, Mrs. Fred Shubel, of Grandstone City; five grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS FUND DRIVE

Half of Money Collected To Remain in County

H. E. Friedman, chairman of the Isosco county war finance committee, stated today that there was a false rumor circulating around to the effect that "the government would cancel old age assistance or pensions and soldiers allotments if the person receiving them purchased War Bonds." Mr. Friedman said "This is absolutely untrue. The government is encouraging such people to buy War Bonds. No old age assistance, pensions or soldiers allotments will be canceled."

After reviewing the work so far accomplished in the 4th War Bond campaign, Mr. Friedman said that the county would go over the top in the purchase of the $187,000.00 quota, if everyone did his part. Some substantial bond sales have already been made by the volunteer salesmen, stated Mr. Friedman.

Mr. Friedman indicated that the "Gallants' fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters of servicemen, were taking a very active part in this campaign."

False Rumor

Brown-Flynn

Miss Beulah Brown of Detroit, formerly of this city, and Asa Flynn of Ypsilanti, were united in marriage Saturday, January 15 by Rev. E. C. Stringer of Ann Arbor.

The young couple were attended by Miss June Bown, sister of the bride and James Martin, both of Detroit. The bride wore a pastel blue street length dress and her corsage was pink carnations. Her sister wore a similar dress in rose and her corsage consisted of white carnations.

After a short wedding trip to Tawas City and other points in Northern Michigan, the young couple will make their home at Willow Run, where the groom is employed.

The bride is a graduate of Tawas City Schools and Teachers College at Mount Pleasant.

Supervisors

The Board of Supervisors authorized the erecting of a Roll of Honor on the court house lawn. It will consist of an archway with a tablet on each side containing a list of Isosco men and women now in the service.

The board voted to discontinue the dog warden system which has been in use for the past few years, and return to the old way of listing the dogs by the supervisors.

The annual reports of clerk, treasurer, drain commissioner and welfare commission were accepted.

The following salary increases were authorized:

Deputy county treasurer from $100.00 to $135.00 per month.

Deputy county clerk from $80.00 to $100.00 per month.

Family Theatre Has Big Bond Sale Task

"It's going to be a huge task but we are going to make a mighty hard stab at it and I am sure that the patriotic moviegoers in our trade territory will give us their support so that we can assist in going 'over the top' again during this 4th War Loan."

That is the statement made today by J. M. "Jay" Thomsen, manager of the Family Theatre, in announcing the theatre's participation in the 4th War Loan.

The nation's motion picture theatres are campaigning to sell an "E" Bond, priced from $25 to $5,000, for every theatre seat in the United States.

Mr. Thomsen briefly outlined the local theatre campaign and mentioned that a huge diagram of the seating arrangement of the theatre will be located near the bond booth in the lobby within a few days, and each purchaser of a bond may affix one and three-fourths inch photo of their favorite man or woman in the service on any vacant seat on the diagram. Photographs can be cut to this size from any snapshot of the subject, either in uniform or civilian dress. Provisions are made for entering the name and rank of each.

In addition Mr. Thomsen said that during this gigantic bond drive, the theatre would give free passes for bonds purchased at the theatre as follows:

One free pass to each purchaser of a $25 or $50 bond.

Two passes to each purchaser of a $100 bond or any bond or bonds of higher denomination.

Limit—two free passes to any one bond purchaser, regardless of the amount of purchase.

See Here, Private Hargrove!

by Marion Hargrove

THE STORY SO FAR: Private Marion Hargrove, a newspaper man before his induction into the army, has been receiving his basic training at Fort Bragg, N. C. He has gone through the "hardest" weeks of his army career and has been classified as a cook. In addition, he has spent a considerable share of his spare time on KP duty. He is familiar with the finer points of "goldbricking" and "shooting the breeze." He has mastered most of the army slang expressions and has rather completely adjusted himself to training camp routine. As we pick up the story Private Hargrove and some of his buddies are having supper and are about to hand the mess sergeant his share of the day's abuse.

CHAPTER XII

Orville D. Pope, Mess Sergeant of Headquarters Battery and master of all he surveys (so long as he stays in the kitchen), strolled past our table like a happy night-club owner inspecting his saloon.

Photographer Bushemi lifted a forkful of creamed potatoes to his mouth, made a sour face and inserted the potatoes as if they were seasoned with liniment. Don Bishop, the public relations reporter who sometimes shows a streak of sheer sanity, lifted his coffee, held his nose and drank it.

"Sergeant Pope," I said in a small voice, "earlier in the course of this supper I told you that I had never tasted anything harder or drier than the bread you served us tonight. I want to take that back, Pope. When I said that, I hadn't tasted your peanut butter."

"You're the only ones I ever hear griping about the chow in this battery," said Pope. "You're the only ones I ever have trouble with. You three and Mulvehill. If I'll pay for your food, won't you please take all your meals at the Service Club?"

"Let's leave Mulvehill's name out of this," I said. "Poor, poor, old Mulvehill. We knew him well. He was a good boy, was the Lieuthom-as."

"I noticed the place is so quiet tonight that you can even hear Bushemi eating his celery," said the sergeant. "Where is your dear friend Mulvehill, the bum?"

"You have run him over the hill," said Bishop. "Your food and your mess hall and your brutishly foul mouth have driven him away. He has deserted from the Army and his guilt is upon your hands."

"You know the one thing that's missing from this meal—the one thing that would make it perfect?" asked Bushemi.

"Ice cream?" asked the mess sergeant.

"Chloroform," said Bushemi.

Pope slapped his forehead mightily. "Why couldn't I have been a dud-picker, a horse valet, a suicide submarineman—anything but a mess sergeant? Where is Mulvehill?" He wrinkled his forehead.

"Say! He wasn't here at breakfast either."

"Nor lunch," said Bishop. "Nor supper, nor lunch, nor breakfast yesterday."

"He has gone over the hill," I said, gloomily. "He has deserted."

"Let's see," said the sergeant. "He wasn't here all day today and he didn't come in yesterday and he didn't show up for supper the night before last. Is he sick?"

"He would have been," said Bishop, "if he hadn't got a decent meal soon."

"I can remember Mulvehill just like he was right here with us even now," I said. "He was a fine, noble, sensitive lad. He had a beautiful career before him in the Army. Fate can ruin any of us by tossing in the tiniest little monkey wrench—or the toughest little biscuit. I hated to see Mulvehill go over the hill."

"Cut the clowning," the sergeant wailed, convinced at last that Mulvehill had flown. "You can't make me think that he left because of my food. Where is he?"

"That," sighed Bishop, "is what the War Department would like to know."

Pope began drumming unconsciously on the table. "I know my food is as good as any in the Center. That ain't it. Did he take offense at something I said to him and start eating at the Service Club?"

Acton Dennington Hawkins the Third, chief cook, passed by. "Where's your friend Mulvehill?" he asked us.

"Oh," said Bushemi, forgetting the play, "Mulvehill's on furlough."

The mess sergeant rose with a roar. "The day shall come!" he screamed. "You'll all be on KP one of these days! Oh, will you suffer and will I enjoy myself! Finish your supper and get out of my mess hall! Get out! GET OUT!"

"As if I didn't have enough trouble on my hands with payday," said Top Sergeant Tate, "now I have to be exposed to the sight of you. Be brief."

"Sergeant," I began, "when I hear people say a soldier can't live on the pay he makes, I'd like to show them myself as a living proof that he can."

"Quit beating your gums," he said, "and get to the point. You didn't come in here to compliment the Army on its pay. And take your cap off when you're in the orderly room."

"I didn't come to compliment nobody nor nothing," I said, laying my cap on the corner of his desk. "I just came in to see if the War Department is mad at me. They haven't given me a cent of salary since the first of October."

"What in the sweet name of heaven are you talking about?" the top kick hooted, handing me back the cap. "We've had two regular paydays, including the one today. And we've had two supplementary payrolls for people who missed the regular paydays."

"Mind you," I put in, "I'm not complaining. I eat regularly and I have a roof over my head. I can get haircuts and movie tickets and cigarettes and shoe polish on credit, but I certainly would like a little cash spending money from time to time."

"Well," he groaned, slapping his desk wearily, "here we go again, Hargrove, the boy who makes a top kick's life exciting! Hargrove the hopeless—the sloppy bunk on inspection day, the soap in the soup, the thorn in the side. Hargrove, the boy who can take the simplest problem and reduce it to its most confusing form. Now let's start at the beginning and take the whole thing slowly. You haven't been paid since October first. How come?"

"That was because when the November first payday came around, I had just got here. I signed the October payroll in my old battery."

"All right," he said patiently, counting off a finger. "That's one payday. That brings us up to November tenth, the day of the supplementary payroll, when you should have got the pay you missed on the first. Did you sign the supplementary payroll for that occasion?"

"Yes, sir," I insisted. "Then when the supplementary payday came around, something happened. Or to be more correct, nothing happened. I still didn't get paid."

"That's two paydays you missed," the sergeant sighed. "I will check into the second later. Now—what about today's pay?"

"I missed out on that one too. The battery commander couldn't find my signature on the payroll."

He patted me on both shoulders, a little heavily, and I covered. "Wait just a minute, Private Hargrove," he said sweetly. "Let sarge-wargie see what he can find out about the nasty old payroll."

He returned in a few minutes, frowning wearily. "Private Hargrove," he sighed, "dear Private Hargrove! You didn't draw your pay on the tenth of November because you weren't here on the tenth! You were on furlough! And you didn't sign the payroll for today because you were on furlough while it was being signed. Your modest pay for October has been in the battery safe for three weeks, just waiting for you to get around to picking it up."

"Wait just a minute, Private Hargrove," he said sweetly. "Let sarge-wargie see what he can find out about our nasty payroll."

He took a small envelope from behind his back. "Twenty-one dollars for services rendered through the month of October. Harrumph! Minus two-forty for theater tickets, minus a dollar for haircuts, minus seven dollars for canteen checks. Private Hargrove, I present to you your October wages—ten dollars and sixty cents!"

I took the money, looked at it tenderly, and crammed it into my pocket.

Winter, at last, is upon us, in the rear ranks, the surest indication is to be found in reveille.

All through the late summer and the fall, we hopped out of bed as soon as the whistle blew. Now we crawl grumblingly out when the sergeant puts the whistle to his lips for a "fall out!" blast. Since it is still dark when we stand reveille, and since we are aided occasionally by a heaven-sent fog, there are many saviors of democracy who slip on merely a pair of shoes (partially laced), a pair of trousers, and a field jacket. The field jacket, when buttoned all the way to the collar, hides the absence of shirt and tie—and the sergeant is none the wiser.

In Headquarters Battery, the process of getting up in the morning has sunk into a rut of repetition. It's the same procedure every morning.

Sergeant Roughton, platoon leader, toots his brass at six o'clock and a few energetic soldiers at the other end of the squadroom rise and begin the morning with sickeningly cheerful horseplay. They yank the covers off their neighbors. The neighbors yank the covers back on. Private First Class Bishop, unofficial guardian of the public relations staff, rises from his bunk which is next to mine. "Hargrove! Bushemi! Get up! Salute the morn!" Then he yells down the length of the squadroom to the bed of Private First Class Thomas ("Thoss") Mulvehill.

Mulvehill, every morning, has already been forcibly ejected from his bed by his wild neighbors. He is, by this time, sitting on the edge of his bunk, with his great head sunk between his knees and his fingers fumbling with his shoelaces. In a thick and fiery Irish brogue, he is berating whatever forces of destiny put him in this mad corner of the squadroom.

I stick a cautious toe out from under the covers. The outer air isn't cold but, then again, it isn't warm. I roll over and look at the next bunk, where Private Bushemi is snoring gently. I roll back, get comfortable, and pull the cover over my head.

"Git out of there or I'll dump you out."

"Hargrove!" roars Bishop. "Get your lazy bones out of bed! It's five after six!"

"Call me at ten after six," I mutter. "Better still just sing out when my name is called at reveille."

Private Bishop reaches over suddenly and rips the blankets from the bunk. Private Bushemi is still sleeping, with a sweet and childish smile on his face. I lift a foot and give him a firm shove in the posterior.

"Git out of there, you blankety blanked dash-dash, shiftless, good-for-nothing bum!" I shout, giving him two or three more shoves. "Git out of there or I'll dump you out!"

I reach over and grab the edge of Bushemi's bunk. I joggle it slightly to give the impression that I am just about to overturn the bunk. Bushemi bounces out of bed, swinging wildly. "You're going to get funny just one morning too often, and I'm going to beat the eternal perdition out of both of you. It's getting to the point where it ain't funny." Then he begins mumbling aimlessly under his breath as he steps into his trousers.

Somehow, we manage to get into the second shoe just as the whistle blows to call us outside. We shiver in the dark cold as section leaders call the roll, mostly from memory. The second section of the first platoon is always the last to finish roll call. We stand there listening. "P-o-g-g-i!" "Hyo!" "Pulver!" "Here!" and then the piece de resistance: "Peacock!" Always the answer comes in the same way—an unbelievably deep bass, low-drawn-out and rumbling: "Heeeeeeer!" The second platoon snickers and titters, just as it did the day before, and the top kick shouts, "Dismissed!"

Bushemi heads straight back for his bunk. "Call me at chowtime, will you?"

Bill, a friend of Bushemi's and mine in Charlotte, drives a street bus. Before he began his service as a driver, he served a hitch in the Army. Like all ex-service men, he's ready to drop everything and just shoot the breeze any time the conversation turns to the Army.

"There was a young first-class private got on my bus last week," he told me, "and he sat in the long seat behind me, so we got started talking. Well, I thought I'd snow him under, telling him about the time I was in the Army. So, just to start the ball rolling and get the talk turned to the Army, I asked him how long he'd been in."

"Oh, I've been in for well over eight months," he said, like he was just starting his thirtieth year of service. Then he started wiping his sleeves so I'd be sure to notice his private-first-class stripes.

"I thought I'd let him blow off about his stripes, so I asked him, 'Say, what does that stripe stand for?'"

"Oh, that," he said, as much as to say aw-shucks-that-ain't-nothing. "That just means I'm a sergeant."

"Is that right?" I asked him, looking sort of wide-mouthed at him.

"Yessir," he said, real casual, "in the Army only eight months and I've already been made sergeant."

"Well, tell me," I said, "what grade of sergeant are you? I've seen some sergeants have three stripes and then I've seen them have as many as six. How come that?"

Re-Glamorizing Your Old Clothes With Gay New Fashion Accents

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THESE are unique times in fashion history in that women are encouraged, yes, even urged, to conserve time, labor and material by prolonging the life of their dresses and blouses, coats and suits via make-over strategy that will "ring out the old and ring in the new."

In short the proposition brought up squarely to patriotic women is to re-glamorize their outmoded clothes with new fashion accents which they themselves can add. It gives impetus to the home-sewing project that merchants everywhere are in accord with the idea and are lending wholehearted support as noted especially in the fabric departments where leading houses are helping to solve the home-sewing problem in that they offer instruction in classes conducted by fashion experts whereby you learn not only to sew but you are guided as to fabric choices and color relation and are kept informed as to "what's what" in accessory trends. In most communities there are also local sewing centers where you are shown how to take advantage of the magic of modern sewing machine equipment. You'll learn also, in an hour or two, the short-cut way to achieve perfect fit with the aid of a molded-to-you dress form of plastic-like material that eliminates the need for tedious try-ons.

For instance, the usual casualties such as underarm and elbow holes in sleeves, outmoded necklines and bodice facades can be easily restored by trying the tonic of fresh new sleeves and shoulder yoke of bright and gay fabric that contrasts the black woolen dress to perfection. This is what happened to the dress shown to the left in the illustration. Its "has-been" appearance vanished under the magic of a few new dressmaker touches.

Another suggestion for a smart re-viver touch is the simulated weskit front applied to an old solid color dress, as you see to the right in the

Bespeaks 'Style'

Here is a dress that carries the style-mark of a patrician gown, perfect with the tall Russian hat that tops it for all-occasion about town and restaurant wear. The material for this dress is handsome black crepe. Its piece de resistance is the heavy link chain fastening which gives it a distinctive military look. Note the flatteringly fine of the bodice and picture. When you place your outmoded dress on your plastic dress form, you can visualize and determine the lines and shape-to-be of the new weskit you are about to make. Pencil in or chalk in the outline of it according to your idea. Then cut out the old portion of the bodice top accordingly. Use this as your pattern for the new weskit.

Any material you might fancy such as satin, rayon crepe or "what have you" will be usable. The popular idea is gay felt for the weskit or namenting it with bright yarn peasant embroidery and applique felt flower cutouts. If you want to be let in on the secret of scores and scores of "pretties" that add such zest to the appearance of costumes these days go to any fancywork department and make known your desire to know what's doing in way of felt peasant art in the realm of fashion today.

In the book of instructions you will most likely be shown you will find such intriguing patterns with working directions as a cunning little Alpine sleeveless bolero made of either white or colored felt, the same button-hole stitched all around the edge and the armholes with bright yarn. And in mood with true peasant tradition there will be a lavishment of applique felt cutouts.

You will find also suggestions for making suspenders that may be attached to the dirndl skirt. To add to the effect make two strips, say an inch or so wide, matched to the shoulder straps. Baste these, one each side of the front skirt section, to simulate slit pockets. Hats, bags, muffs and children's bonnets are made of the felt also. The big news is you can buy all the felt cutout designs you may want packaged in envelopes. You can design with these cutout leaves and flowers any patterns you may desire.

Ribbons Getting Big Play in New Vogue

A big ribbon vogue is under way in fashion's realm. The new style trend that highlights ribbons is especially apparent in the innumerable bows on combs that are worn as hair ornaments. Then, too, a wide-spread demand has come for belts made of grosgrain ribbon color matched to the dress, the buckle covered with self-ribbon. For real romance see the new ribbon necklets that tie high up around milady's slender throat. They're the latest! It's tres chic also to wear a narrow velvet ribbon in color or black tied around the wrist. As to ribbon bows they are here, there and everywhere on dressy frocks. Especially is this true in regard to pink ribbon bows on pretty-pretty black frocks. Here's a worthwhile ribbon idea; take a ribbon the length of your cardigan sweater, and work buttonholes in it to meet the buttons on the sweater. Then baste this over the original button-holed strip. In this way you can change the color of the sweater trim to match your sports beads and other accessories. Watch ribbons!

If you were to say the first bugle call of the day in the Army is "Reveille"—you'd be wrong. It's "First Call." But you probably know what cigarette gets first call with Army men—it's Camel. SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

The peak of tropical American rubber production, including guayule, was in 1912, when about 62,000 tons were produced in all countries. In 1940 the world's production of rubber was 1,389,695 tons, more than came out of the Amazon Valley in all the years from 1837 to 1939 inclusive.

By the use of bud-grafted trees, the yield of rubber on Far East plantations in some cases has been increased from 500 to 1,500 pounds per acre a year.

One type of four-motored bomber requires more than 2,000 pounds of rubber; pursuit planes require over 100 pounds each.

What's a Mammal
One of the commonest popular errors of zoology is the notion that the whale is some sort of fish. It is not; it is a mammal which went to sea. The whale is warm-blooded, has a well-developed brain, and in all other respects shows a far higher organization than any of the fishes. Its young are born alive, and are suckled and cared for by the mother as with land mammals.

WASHINGTON AND WAR'S END
Washington officials who watch the trend of the war admit now privately that "things will happen very fast" in the next few months. If pressed, they even make flat predictions that Germany will fold before summer.

Publicly, they stick to the line that it will be a long war. This is the only sound position to take, as an official line, since no war can be successfully waged if the people spend their time peeping around the corner for the approach of peace.

But the facts allow a hopeful expectation. Unquestionably the invasion of Europe will be a winter invasion. For many reasons, spring will be too late. February is the likeliest month. The exact time will be no secret to the Nazis, because we will be pounding the French coast well in advance.

The offensive will be a tremendous operation, combining a cross-channel invasion with heavy drives from Russia and Italy, plus all-out air attacks everywhere. (The Balkan invasion urged by Churchill is doubtful.)

Some experts go as far as to name the length of time—in days—which this big operation will require, before the end. One highly placed official says it will take three months and twenty days. Thus, if the invasion starts by mid-February, this would mean the end by early June.

But military experts won't say such things out loud, because they fear the U. S. public will overlook the fact that the days between February and June will be the bloodiest days in the history of all the world's wars.

ARMY POSTAL SERVICE

On a recent visit to the front lines, Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark found a soldier busy scribbling a V-mail letter on his mess-kit. The soldier looked as though he had lost his last friend, so General Clark asked him what was wrong.

"Oh, I'm getting a little weary of this life, sir," replied the soldier.

"What's your trouble?" asked General Clark.

"Why, I haven't received a letter in five days, General," replied the soldier. "What does the post office department think we are over here—a bunch of archeologists?"

"Personally, I think five days is pretty good service from the United States to the front lines, son," replied Clark. "But I'll talk to the postal service officials and see if you can't get your love letters quicker. I see your point, soldier."

VETERANS EXPAND

The Ramspeck committee investigating civil service has spent most of its time trimming the numbers of government workers. But it has now stumbled into a situation requiring a complete change of policy.

The Veterans administration, instead of submitting to a reduction of personnel, is asking for more—thousands more. Men are being discharged from military service so fast that the task of Veterans administration is going up like a skyrocket. Now employing 45,000 workers all over the country, V. A. will soon have to double its staff.

BACK TO PEACETIME INDUSTRY

Donald Nelson is engaged in a behind-the-scenes race with Elder Statesman Bernie Baruch to work out plans for the reconversion of American industry and see who can get it done first. This was behind the war production board meeting last week when Nelson called in his top aides and outlined a big post-war program of civilian production.

Nelson wants plans for the change-over of industry to begin at once. This does not mean the actual reconversion of factories, since a lot of them may be busy on war orders for some time. But it does mean full speed ahead on plans for reconversion.

This may provide one clue on how soon the administration expects the "to be over in Europe."

However, insiders who know something about personal rivalries of Washington, see in it also the desire of Donald Nelson to grab the ball away from Baruch and "Assistant President" Jimmie Byrnes. These two long have wanted to get Nelson out, and at one time FDR actually signed a letter appointing Baruch chairman of a special committee to take over all war production.

Note: Before Nelson got busy on reconversion, Baruch had been asked by the White House to study plans for converting industry back to a peace basis.

CAPITAL CHAFF

The war department is keeping a watchful eye on the labor policies of hard-working Lieut. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, commanding officer in Hawaii. He is suspected of playing in too close with the big sugar barons.

The Russians plan to relieve Leningrad without firing a shot—chiefly by a drive through Latvia and Lithuania to the Baltic sea. This would cut off the Germans around Leningrad unless they could execute Dunkirk.

PEAKING OF SPORTS

By Bob Miselkame
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

HOW many people can name the champions of three of the eight boxing divisions recognized by the National Boxing association?

It probably wouldn't be an exaggeration to say that a maximum of one in ten persons could name more than one champion—Joe Louis, heavyweight titlist for the duration.

More than 4,000 professional boxers are in the services, suggesting that there was more real fighting out of the ring than in it during 1943. The Boxing Writers association emphasized this fact in awarding its boxer-of-the-year prize, the Eddie Neil Memorial trophy, to all the fist fighters in the services en masse.

Four champions were in the service throughout the year—Joe Louis, heavyweight; Gus Lesnevich, light heavy; Tony Zale, middleweight; and Red Cochrane, welterweight. A fifth, Willie Pep, went in after defending his featherweight title successfully.

JOE LOUIS

Boxing Not Dormant

Despite the lack of manpower, boxing wasn't dormant during the year. With most of the titles frozen for the duration, there still was championship activity in two divisions—lightweight and bantamweight—after Pep joined the navy. Beau Jack, recognized as lightweight kingly by New York and New Jersey at the beginning of the year, lost the crown in May to Bob Montgomery of Philadelphia. At that time Pennsylvania granted similar recognition to its home talent. Jack regained the title from Montgomery in November. As yet Pennsylvania has not withdrawn recognition despite the unquestioned heart-break.

The lightweight title, however, was disputed by Sammy Angott, who had given it up in 1942 but came back in March and later was recognized as champion by the National Boxing association after beating Luther White in Los Angeles.

Diminutive Manuel Ortiz, California-born Mexican, was the busiest champion of the year, defending his bantamweight crown eight times, chiefly in his home state. The flyweight title, only one not held by an American, was defended successfully by Jackie Patterson in England.

Upsets were far from infrequent during the past year—as the form players will testify. Willie Pep's 62-bout winning streak was halted abruptly by Angott in a non-title bout. Ray Robinson, welterweight chief, won 41 straight and then was floored and outpointed by Jake LaMotta in Detroit. He reversed this setback before going into the army.

Surprise Factor

The LaMotta incident shared the surprise factor with Heavyweight Lee Savold's defeat by Eddie Blunt, reversed in two weeks with a one-round knockout. Then, too, there was Bobby Ruffin's victory over Jack before the Beau regained his title.

Jimmy Bivins, Cleveland Negro, was one of the toughest heavyweights in action, beating everything in sight. Yet he was considered lucky to win a hotly disputed decision over Lee Murray of South Norwalk, Conn. Murray was one of the year's best newcomers.

Hammerin' Henry Armstrong, former three-way champion, completed a successful financial comeback program and had the good grace to retire after a rather deplorable showing against Ray Robinson. But even now there's a rumor that Henry will try it again.

There have been far too many short-sighted "comebacks"—in past years. Most has-beens should be content to remain in that state—for their own good, if not for the public's.

Heavy Profits

That there was a lot of fight left in the industry was proved by the fact that more fight clubs operated at a profit than ever before. Boxing thrived financially in many large and small cities throughout the country. Of 29 shows promoted by Mike Jacobs in Madison Square Garden, 13 drew $45,000 and up, 6 drew $70,000. The top gate was $104,976 for Jack vs. Armstrong. The Garden shows averaged $12,000 better than in 1942.

Workers Make Parachutes to Rhythm of Waltzes

One of the nation's largest parachute factories is located in downtown Oakland, Calif. It employs 50 women for every man and all workers produce 'chutes to waltzes and other soothing music. Imprisoned Hero Consoles His Son

Carter Glass, Democrat from Virginia and oldest member of the United States senate, is shown as he read many letters sent by friends on the occasion of his 86th birthday. Pure-Bred Sires Help Conserve Feed

Better Grade Animals Give Higher Return

Marketing inferior animals and the use of improved sires will help in partially solving the feed shortage and at the same time bring great improvement in livestock development, says E. H. Hostetler, in charge of animal industry research for the North Carolina state college experiment station.

A recent test shows that when nondescript cows were bred to a purebred bull, their calves averaged 53 pounds heavier at weaning time. In the feed lot, these calves required less feed per unit of gain and made cheaper gains than those calves produced from bulls and cows of inferior breeding.

Furthermore, the carcasses of the cattle sired by the purebred bull were fatter and contained a higher percentage of tender meat.

Hostetler suggests that the sow of poor conformation and those consistently producing small litters be sent to market. The beef animal that is a "shy breeder" or below the average quality of the herd can be sent to the butcher.

Good sires cost money and there is often a question in the mind of many cattle growers as to how much they are really worth. In the test referred to above the purebred bull added about $10 more per head to the value of the calves and with a herd of 25 cows the annual return on the bull would be about $250 as compared with an inferior bull.

In poultry farming, too, superior sires are worth the cost. The importance of good cockerels can be shown by citing the performance of two birds when mated with two separate hens. Male No. 40 had 86 daughters whose average annual production was 186 eggs. Male No. 4815 had 146 daughters who averaged 249 eggs per year. Each daughter of Male No. 4815 laid, on average, 63 more eggs than the daughters of Male No. 40. At 45 cents per dozen for ungraded eggs, each daughter of Male No. 4815 produced $2.26 more income than the daughters of Male No. 40.

Neither of these two males was rated above the other in appearance and handling qualities, and their dams had laid about the same number of eggs. Actually, No. 40's dam laid 282 eggs and No. 4815's dam laid 246 eggs. The difference was that No. 4815 was from a family which had been tested for several years by the performance of entire groups of sisters without culling.

Many other instances could be cited, offering further proof that superior males will pay in any kind of animal husbandry.

Walter Winchell

Brenda Frazier Kelly was a recent guest of Wm. K. Vanderbilt in Florida. . . . While fishing she dropped a $25,000 sapphire ring. . . . It fell into fairly shallow water and could be seen glimmering. . . . However, the current was so rapid it was impossible to retrieve the ring and for four days it lay on the bottom. . . . A diver was finally hired to recover it. . . . The Big Burg is forfeiting its claim as World's Fashion Center. Chicagoans have shown keen interest to the tune of $200,000. San Fran is another. . . . New Yorkers think they can't lose out as New York "is so logical". . . . But the Fashion Bureau got only a few hundred in its campaign to keep N. Y. "the fashion hub."

Billy Rose, who just shelled out $630,000 for the Ziegfeld Theatre, showed good sense when he decided to let the old name stick. Ziggy did enough for show business to earn a little remembrance. Rose's decision reminds you of Martin Beck's acquisition of his own theatre—it was so different. Beck had a prize contest for the best name for his house—and chose "Martin Beck." How did the winner ever hit upon that name?

Eye-brow Raiser: The American Legion of Richmond, Va., forwards a column published in its newspaper. It is conducted by Past Dep't Comdr. John J. Wicker Jr., who concludes his letter: "It will also interest you to know that at our meeting we agreed that you are rendering exceedingly valuable service to our nation." Thanks, Commander. . . . His col'm offers this starter: "At the Battle of Long Island, General George Washington became so enraged over what appeared to be cowardly malingering, that he cuffed a lot of American soldiers over the head, not with his hand, but with his sword—the sharp edge, too. Consequently some 'Continental's' had the dubious distinction of meeting death at the hands of their own Commander!"

Ace reporter Cecil Brown in a recent Collier's revealed that too many Americans do not know the meaning of Fascism. His definition is worth adopting: "A Fascist is a person anywhere in the world who wants special privileges for himself and denies to others the simple rights of a human being."

Robert Benchley's Christmas greetings were not acceptable. His announcement that he is through writing, considering himself no longer funny, is the only thing he ever wrote that failed to amuse his fans. If Mr. Benchley will only read the humorists who think they still ARE funny, he will repudiate his abdication and get back to his typewriter.

We've never lacked admiration for Gen'l Eisenhower, but it grew a lot when we read his answer to the arm-chair strategists who've been flapping their jaws on what's wrong with the campaign in Italy. The General said the only method he had was to kill German troops, which he is doing the best he can. The implication was he'd be glad to know if the smart stay-at-homes had any better ideas.

Congresswoman Luce's triumph as America's best dressed gal takes a load off your correspondent's mind. He was afraid the year would close before he had a chance to call anything in Congress best. He salutes Mrs. Luce's chic, and thinks her colleagues in Congress ought to copy her style—dresses—especially Mother Hubbards—being highly suitable to other members.

A legislator requests (in the name of fair play) our radio time to answer some of our statements about him. . . . In the same spirit of fair play I offer him this bargain: As far as I am concerned, I will yield my entire 15 minutes to him when he yields his full hour (and his Congressional immunity) on the floor of Congress to me.

Sounds in the Night: In the Zanzibar: "They met quite accidentally. He opened his wallet and there she was!" . . . At the Hurricane: "A hair-do? It looks more like a hair-dale!" . . . In the 51: "She has more circulation than Winchell!" . . . At the Latin Quarter: "Fifth columnists don't use by-lines!" . . . In the Little Palm: "Sure he's thinner. You can't get a swelled head in the army!" . . . At the Tavern-On-The-Green: "A fool and his money are soon parted!" . . . At No. One Bar: "Is my apartment cold? The Esquire Varga girls are wearing long underwear!"

The National Board of Review of Motion Pictures gave itself a Christmas present of self-respect by its choice of the best flicker of the year. It made a monkey of all the other "bests" by naming "The Ox Bow Incident" as the topper. This is a powerful drama, but (more important) it pictured lynching as a criminal, senseless business. It's always been. At a time when many lunatic fringers of them in the government—as a swell lynchers in spirit—pick.

Midget Bull

"Mr. Pee Wee," believed to be the smallest bull in the world, weighs 260 pounds, and stands only 34 inches high. He is a cross bred Jersey and Holstein, and is four years old. Stockmen say he is perfectly proportioned and normal.

'Off-Flavor' in Pork

Properly processed tankage, when fed to hogs, will in no way cause an off flavor of the meat. The same is true for properly processed fish meal. In the case of feeding fish, however, where there is a high oil content, this will cause the development of an off, or rancid, flavor in the meat.

Farm Notes

WFA points out that farmers can save money and at the same time make a substantial contribution to the war effort by buying higher analysis fertilizers.

Formaldehyde is now available for agricultural uses, according to the AIF News, publication of the Agricultural Insecticide and Fungicide association.

Their Heads, Hearts, Hands and Health Are Pledged to Victory

"I pledge—my head to clearer thinking, my heart to greater loyalty, my hands to larger service, my health to better living, for my club, my community, and my country."

This is the pledge of the 1,500,000 members of the 4-H clubs. Accomplishments revealed at their 22nd congress and contests in Chicago indicate this pledge has been kept—$14,000,000 worth of war bonds and stamps sold, 300,000,000 pounds of scrap collected and 5,000,000 bushels of victory garden products grown. Figures, however, cannot show the democratic power generated by 4-H discussion groups and educational programs.

DRESS MAKING—Verda Patterson, 17, Marathon, Iowa, received a $200 scholarship for her clothing achievements. These garments were made from clothing previously discarded.

LEADERSHIP awards and trophies for outstanding 4-H records for 1943 were won by Robert R. Mayer, Marysville, Kan., and Emily E. McHattie, Newport, Minn.

JESUS TEACHES IN PARABLES

LESSON TEXT—Mark 4:1-9, 26-32. GOLDEN TEXT—If any man hath ears to hear, let him hear.—Mark 4:23.

Parables were often used by our Lord, particularly when He had truth to reveal which was not for unbelieving hearts that had hardened themselves against it (see Matt. 13:10-16).

The method is that of telling an earthly story, true to life (hence, not a fable), which is placed alongside of the spiritual truth it is designed to teach. It thus differs from an allegory, which gives the meaning with the story (see John 15:1-6).

Jesus used parables in our lesson to teach the truth that the good seed of the Word of God will be received in various ways and will bring forth widely differing results. He—the Lord—was the Sower, and the field was the world (Matt. 13:37, 38).

We note first that in that field there were and are—

I. Four Kinds of Soil (Mark 4:1-9).

The reception of the seed is determined by the condition of the soil. The great field was essentially of one kind of soil, but it had become widely different in its ability to take in the seed and bear fruit.

The interpretation of this parable is given by our Lord in the verses immediately following (vv. 3-20). It has striking application to our day.

A road, or beaten pathway, was a common thing in the fields of Palestine. On such hard soil a seed found no place to grow, and the birds carried it away. Such is the condition of a man who permits the heavy and sinful traffic of this world to harden his heart against spiritual truth. If our heart has reached that stage we should ask God to break it up. The birds (always a symbol of evil in the Bible) are Satan and his emissaries. They are always busy about carrying away the Word of God when it is truly preached.

The rocky soil was a thin layer of good soil on a rocky ledge. At first this caused rapid growth, but without deep roots it could not survive the heat of summer. This is the one who enthusiastically responds to the gospel appeal, but being without real conviction and repentance, he has no stability when persecution comes.

The thorny ground—where the growing grain was choked by weeds—typifies the professed believer who lives in worldliness. The friend of the world is God's enemy (James 4:4). Note the things which destroy spiritual life (v. 19), and shun them. In the good ground—open to receive and ready to yield itself for the growth of the seed—there is abundant harvest. Even here there is a difference in the amount of fruit. Why not be a "hundredfold" believer?

Changing the picture a little our Lord now speaks of—

II. Normal Growth and a Good Harvest (4:26-29).

This parable, found only in Mark, has a lesson for the sower. He is not to expect the harvest immediately after the time of sowing. There is a period of patient waiting while God is producing the growth (and only He can do it!)—then the joy of harvest.

There are many lessons to learn here. We who serve the Lord in teaching or preaching the Word are too impatient, too eager to be able to announce results. God is always willing that things should mature naturally and in due season. Let us wait for Him and be at rest in our spirits (v. 27).

Then let us be glad as the seed begins to show signs of maturing, but let us not be slow to gather the harvest when it is ready. Some forget to gather the spiritual fruit of their labors, possibly having long since lost patience and interest.

We should also be encouraged by this parable to continue sowing the seed, knowing that it will find place in the hearts of some and bring forth fruit unto eternal life.

Next we are warned to be on our guard against accepting or approving—

III. Abnormal Growth and an Evil Harvest (4:30-32).

The mustard is an herb, not a tree; hence this parable gave warning that there would be an overgrown religious system calling itself Christian. The birds are (as in the parable of the kinds of soil) evil men, or "isms," or organizations eager to take shelter in a religious system without spiritual power.

The church had such an abnormal growth when Constantine espoused Christianity as a political move, mixed it with paganism, and elevated it to a position of worldly power.

All this was and still is contrary to God's plan for the church. He wanted a spiritual body distinguished by lowliness, meekness and service. These are the things that mark the true Christian spirit. The marks of true Christianity are always those of likeness to Him who said: "I am meek and lowly in heart," who came "not to be ministered unto but to minister."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Rubber-coated cloths, such as rubber sheets, aprons, and raincoats, that are to be folded for storage, should be lightly dusted with talcum powder or cornstarch to prevent sticking.

When sewing, a medicine dropper filled with water and run along a seam which is to be pressed, is the simplest method of dampening the material.

If soup looks a little on the greasy side, home economists suggest tossing a lettuce leaf into the pot. It will absorb the grease and may be removed as soon as it has done its job.

Wind your tape measure on a spool before putting it into the sewing basket. Sew on it a snap fastener. This keeps the work basket in better order.

Grease your glass baking dishes before putting in the food to cook and they will be much easier to wash.

Two Quick Thinkers Were Too Much for the Cop

Two men in a car sped past a traffic light when it was red. A policeman stationed there gave chase and stopped them.

"Well, where's the fire?" he bawled out.

"I'm sorry, officer," said the driver, thinking quickly, "but I happen to be a doctor and I'm rushing a patient to the asylum."

The policeman was suspicious—but the passenger also was capable of quick thinking. Looking up at the officer with a seraphic smile, he whispered: "Kiss me, you great, big, handsome man."

The cop, flustered, blurted out, "Get a-going, doc, and I think you'd better hurry!"

WITH food production one of our most important war production programs, you need the tractor tire which gives—Extra Pulling Power In All Soil Conditions.

That tire is the Firestone Ground Grip. Here's why:
The Firestone Ground Grip is the only tractor tire that has a patented tread design which provides up to 215 extra inches of traction bar length per tractor, providing a full traction bite, greater drawbar pull—and less fuel is used.

The Firestone Ground Grip is the only tractor tire that has the triple-braced tread design. There are no broken bars in the tread to cause traction leaks which make the tire slip and spin.

The Firestone Ground Grip is the only tractor tire that has a scientifically designed tread with tapered bars at just the right angle for the tread to clean automatically as it pulls. And Vitamic Rubber provides longer life by resisting the action of the sun and the weather.

No wonder Firestone Ground Grip tires are first choice of farmers everywhere! No other tire has these exclusive extra values—and they cost no more than ordinary tires. See your nearby Firestone Dealer or Firestone Store today and get the tires that give you most for your money.

SCHOOL NOTES

Saturday Night Dance
 Tawas City's beautiful auditorium was the scene of another dance Saturday night 15th. Tawas was well represented as was also East Tawas and Alabaster and other nearby communities.

These dances, given for the benefit of the Tawas City High School Band, are well patronized by folks who enjoy good clean fun. They are personally supervised by Superintendent W. A. Wilkinson. Neil Libka is manager, Jeanette Montgomery is treasurer, and Jean Lansky is secretary.

Card playing is proving more popular lately, affording a rest for tired dancers and entertainment for folks who do not dance. Many new friends are made and old friendships renewed by these weekly social gatherings.

Records were played for round dancing using the school's phonograph and John Moffatt's amplifier. The orchestra played for the square dances and was composed of Joe Pfeiffer, fiddle; Charles Timreck, guitar, and Ray Beaubien caller. This orchestra played for at least five sets of square dances at various intervals.

There is no set rule for dress, so the girls present a varied and pretty scene dancing, an occasional "dress-up dress", an upswept hairdo, and many gay sweaters and skirts. Even slacks are permissible.

These dances are held every Saturday night at the Tawas High School Auditorium, from 8:00 to 12 P. M. Admission 15c for students and 25c for adults.

The Seniors went on a skating party out to Tawas Point on Monday night. After a lot of skating and a few tumbles, the party went to the Wilkinson home, where a delicious lunch was served.

Basketball Postponed
 The basketball game with Whittemore which was to have been played this Wednesday has been postponed, because of examinations in both schools, until January 26.

Library
 Ruth Ulman reports that the Reader's Digest for the years of 1941 and 1942 has been added to the library, but at present had not been out for use.

Sophomores
 It seems that Monday is always blue, but it makes no difference to the teachers, they come to class with a nice long test list.

In history this morning we had a test, and as far as we know everyone had quite a good paper. In English Monday morning we wrote some spelling words, and quite a few of the people had good papers. Gloria Farley had a perfect paper. It was the only perfect paper in the class. Norma Jean Hill and Ruth Ulman are the only tenth grade girls taking Home Fr. this year. Norma is weaving a belt and Ruth is helping her. The girls who are taking typing have some good reports.

Some of the boys and girls of this class are taking up Junior band, so maybe after a while they can make their way into the Senior Band. We are wishing them luck.

The Latin class are reviewing for the stiff semester test which is coming soon.

The tenth grade shop boys are finishing their mechanic's hammers in the rough. The hammers are to be hardened and tempered before polishing.

High School Has New Band Group
 Mr. Wilkinson, our band leader, has organized a band group. This group is divided into two bands. These two bands will each contain the same number of pieces, but will have different members, except the alto saxophone. Due to having only one alto saxophone player in the school, she will play in both bands. The bands will be worked in shifts.

The players are as follows: Beverly Bigelow, piano; Elsie Rollin, clarinet; Evelyn Colby, drums; Donna Moore, saxophone; Dwayne Leslie, trumpet. The relief band includes: Marion Bing, piano; Ardith Lake, clarinet; Jean Lansky, drums; Donna Moore, saxophone, Betty Brown, trumpet.

The two bands hope to be playing soon for the Saturday night dances. If the players will come out to practice, the bands should be able to play fairly well in about three weeks. For the time being the bands will be used for home school activities, but in the near future they may be used for other activities.
